TOPICS OF THE DAY.

The Montreal Street railway company have decided to set aside a monthly sinking fund to be known as the insurance fund. Out of this all damages for accident will be paid, and at the end of the year any surplus remaining will be divided among the motor men and the street car drivers who have run the greatest number of miles without accident or damage to passengers or cars.

Ottawa advises that Parliament will be asked to sanction the creation of the office of commissioner and inspector of fisheries for Canada. The duties of the commissioner will be to supervise everything in connection with the fisheries. Professor Prince of St. Mungo college, Glasgow, Scotland, has been offered and accepted the appointment, and will arrive in Canada shortly, with a view to entering upon his duties. Prof. Prince has done valuable work in Great Britain in connection with the Scotch and Irish fishery boards.

On Monday last, an election for the House of Commons was held in East Assiniboia, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. Mr. Dewdney. Mr. McDonald, Conservative was declared elected by acclamation. This makes the second election west of Lake Superior within the past few weeks, and not a Grit has been found with sufficient temerity to face the music. An election took place yesterday in St. John, N. B., where both candidates were Conservatives. What has become of the "wave of Liberalism" of which we have heard so much?

A marble bust of Sir John McDonald was unveiled in St. Paul's Church, London, on Wednesday last, the 16th inst. The ceremony was performed by Lord Rosebery, Foreign Minister, in presence of a large concourse of people, among them, Lord Brassey, the Marquis of Ripon, and the Premier Abbot of Canada. Lord Rosebery said the ceremony had nothing to do with party politics. It was rather a recognition of the fact that Sir John McDonald grasped the idea of the greatness of the British Empire, and had striven that Canada should live under the influence of that idea.

Advices from Truro, N. S., state that great excitement prevails there just now, in consequence of a big discovery of gold at Carribou mines, about thirty miles distant. The discovery is reported to surpass anything yet found in Nova Scotia and is expected to turn out the biggest and richest gold mine in Canada. The first crushing was twenty-eight tons and yielded over one hundred and five ounces of gold. At a greater depth the next lot showed a decided increase, the yield being 272 ounces from 22 tons of quartz, which showed a value of $5,091, the total expense of mining and milling not exceeding $700 or worth upwards of $1,000 per ton coming out and more is uncovered.

The consul general of France at Ottawa has informed the customs department that it has come to the knowledge of the French government that salted pork is being exported to Europe as Canadian produce, when it has only passed in transit through Canada. As the process of curing and packing pork is the same in Canada as in the United States, the appraisers in the service of the French customs find it impossible to determine exactly the origin of this kind of meat. In view of these facts the French government will hereafter require that every shipment of Canadian meat to France must be accompanied by a certificate of the origin, issued by the French consular authorities. Collectors of customs are to advise exporters of Canadian meats to France of the requirements of the French authorities.

The Toronto Empire of the 17th inst., contains the following: "The Protestant residents of Gloucester and Metcalfe who presented an address to Rev. Father Dussere on his removal to another parish, said: 'During your sojourn amongst us we have learned to respect you for your gentlemanly courtesy, and your personal worth as a gentleman and a citizen. You have ever shown a liberal spirit to all irrespective of creed. Realizing these facts we feel that your departure will be a loss to the community generally as well as to the parish in which you have labored so faithfully.' These good people set a noble example wherever their words may penetrate, in teaching the poor ardent in denominational professions not to be too zealous in looking for grey shades in the cloaks of their neighbors. It is more to the purpose to look for traits of good citizenship when we cannot agree in religion."

The conference of Newfoundland and Canadian Ministers, held at Halifax, terminated on Thursday evening last, the Canadian delegates departing immediately for Ottawa. They issued the following official announcement: "The proceedings throughout were of a harmonious character and it is hoped and expected by the delegates that good results will follow the interchange of views and the friendly discussions which have taken place. It has been deemed best that the proceedings shall not be given to the public until they have been laid before the governments of the countries, and until the governments approve of their being made known. Officially it was learned that the question of Confederation was discussed and that a basis of terms was agreed upon, which the Newfoundlanders will submit to their Government, and, if accepted by them, that the question will be submitted to a plebiscite of the people.

The present Local Government during the short time it has been in power, has fully manifested its incapacity to administer the affairs of the Province, and shows itself utterly incapable of the wishes of the people. During the summer a road making machine was procured by the Government and operated in several localities. The consequence of throwing loose earth on the roads by this machine was that wherever operated the highway became a mass of mortar with the very first rain. As a result of the recent continuance of wet weather there are many places in the country where it is next to impossible to travel on the roads. At this season of the year the roads, with the best of work that can be performed on them, are usually none too good. An Administration with capacity for business or with a desire to serve the people would take this into account and provide the best remedies. Not so our present rulers; but they may depend all this will be remembered when the day of reckoning comes.

According to previous announcements, the mission of the Fathers, commenced in the Cathedral on Sunday last. It is to continue for two weeks, the first week for the women and the second for the men. The daily exercises commence at half past five in the morning, when Mass is said. This Mass is followed by a short instruction. The last Mass, which is attended by an instruction, is said each day at nine o'clock. At five o'clock in the afternoon, the devotion of the 'way of the cross' takes place, which is followed by an instruction. At seven o'clock in the evening, the principal sermon of the day is preached. This is preceded by the recitation of the rosary and followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Fathers who conduct the mission are Rev. W. J. Doherty, S. J. and Rev. G. O'Byrne, S. J. They are assisted by Fathers Doherty, Doherty, a native of St. John, and Father O'Byrne of Halifax. Father Doherty has served both on the English and American mission, and has traveled extensively in both countries. He has lately been Rector of their church at Guelph, Ont. Father O'Byrne has also been considerable missionary life. He spent one year in the Northwest, during the troubles there, and was for a couple of years in Ireland, where he preached in various parishes on the island. Father Doherty wears a flowing beard, and Father O'Byrne is six feet high. Both are fervent followers of the missionary. Montreal is their headquarters.

The value of the exports of the Dominion for the fiscal year 1921-22 amounted to $110,800,000, an increase of $15,300,000, or an average increase of 16 per cent over the previous year. With this increase before him Mr. George Hays, general manager of the Merchant's Bank of Toronto, had no difficulty in refuting Sir John Lubbock's reference to Canada's alleged commercial paralysis. In a letter to the London Standard Mr. Hays says: "At the very moment when he (Sir John Lubbock) is speaking about our export trade being paralyzed, we are, ourselves, handling a far larger amount of foreign bills, based on Canadian exports, than we did last year, and from all I hear the other banks are doing so likewise. The circulation returns of our banks show an extraordinary activity in the matter of purchases of exportable articles, all of which tends to confirm the accuracy of the custom house returns of exports as given in official statements. Sir John Lubbock probably fancied that the McKinley bill has paralyzed us. He evidently does not know, though he should if he speaks at all on the subject, that the only effect the bill has had is to divert many of our former exports to the United States in the direction of Europe. This bank has for some time past been cashing bills on England, drawn against exports thither of articles for which we formerly cashed bills on the States.

Recent advices from the English Metropolis announce that the Dominion Government has decided to transfer their London account, in whole or in part to the Bank of Montreal in that city. It is understood the bank has the option of taking the whole account or the half, the other half going to Glynn, Mills & Co., important London Bankers. General manager Clouston has left London for Canada, and on his arrival in Montreal, a ratification meeting will be held by the directors of the bank. This transfer is no doubt a consequence of the visit to London of Premier Abbott and Finance Minister Foster. Canadians in London as well as at home, have just cause to feel proud that the Dominion has a bank capable of handling such an important account. It is worthy to note in this matter the Montreal Gazette of the 19th inst. says: "It is with pleasure we learn that the agency of the Dominion Government will after the close of the present year be taken over by the Bank of Montreal. Explaining the nature of the contract into which the bank has entered, the paper says: 'Agents may the interest on the public debt held in Great Britain, which amounts to over seven million dollars annually; purchase of bonds annually for a sinking fund to redeem debt as it falls due; make temporary advances to the government when required, and issue permanent loans from time to time.

The Newfoundland delegates to the Halifax Conference, being interviewed, are alleged to have expressed themselves, on the question of Confederation, somewhat to the following effect: Sir William Whitehead said the question had received no official or political consideration, in Newfoundland, since 1869. No party had adopted it as a platform, and no candidate had run an election on it. During the past year, however, the people had given the matter most attention and the advocates were more numerous. So far as he could judge, he considered public opinion on the Island was pretty well divided on the question. Confederation had its exponents and opponents. The fishermen, were they allowed to study their own devices, would all be in favor of it. There is a class engaged in mercantile pursuits who oppose Confederation. The business of these people is mainly in the Mother country. Their establishments in Newfoundland are branch houses of large firms on the other side, and they appear to look upon Confederation as a sort of 'cut away' from the Motherland. The manufacturers were also opposed to the union. A few industries had, of late years, been built up which, in addition to being protected were subsidized. The manufacturers have great weight in the colony, but they advance the argument that Confederation would not only deprive them of protection, but also of the bonuses which they now receive. While our fishermen would be greatly benefited they could not expect to receive the bounty which Canadian fishermen already have had their share of the fishery award, out of which the bounty grows. He considered Confederation was coming, but not in a hurry. The people were slow to act and must be educated in the matter. Hon. Robert Bond is in favor of Confederation, but does not consider the question will be made a living one for sometime to come. Referring to the change of feeling towards the Dominion by the people of St. John's over Canada's action at the time of the great fire, he said: "While we are deeply grateful to Canada for her noble and prompt assistance in our time of disaster, still sympathy is not a question, on which to settle the destinies of a country." Hon. A. W. Harvey, who is largely interested in manufacturing on the Island, is strongly opposed to the Union.

Recent revelations, by no means creditable to United States officials, have awakened fresh interest in the Behring Sea question, to be submitted to arbitration, in the city of Paris during the month of February next. The present attitude of the United States towards Canada's case has developed upon Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine. The claims of the Dominion in this matter are based on the reports of such men as the Minister of Marine, Dr. Dawson, Sir George Baden-Powell and others, who made personal observations of the fishery conditions of the Behring Sea. We may rest assured that Canada's case will be carefully prepared and ably presented. On the other hand, from what has lately come to light, it is difficult to understand how the claims of the United States can be maintained with any weight in judicial arbitrators. It appears the preparation of the data in this case was entrusted to an official of the State department, named Ivan Petroff, a Russian, said to have lived for forty years in Alaska. After his report had been submitted and embodied in the state department's final report to the United States Government, to London, it was discovered to be full of errors and investigation left no doubt that the falsification was with wilful intent to deceive. The humiliated authorities at Washington were obliged to inform the British Government that the British Government had been forwarded to London, and that a correction would be made. This is certainly a most creditable occurrence and places the United States in a very unenviable position. But, bad as this is, the conduct of Major Williams, special officer of the United States Treasury department, is even more creditable, and bears stronger suspicions of having been winked at by the authorities. There is now indisputable evidence that this gentleman visited the Indians on the coast of British Columbia, usually employed in the Victoria sealing service, and supplying them with whiskey, and introduced, indeed them to sign affidavits made to order, and directly damaging to the Canadian case. Major Sherwood of the Dominion Police has returned to Ottawa, from an investigation of the matter, and is said to be in possession of abundant and conclusive proof that the Indians were induced by the tricky methods described of supplying in incorrect statements damaging to the Canadian case. This, much has been discovered, but what other tricks and devices have been used one is to bolster up the Yankee contention have not yet come to light. As a matter of fact the United States authorities know they have no case that will stand the test of legal investigation, and, by the way, kind of a showing they have had recently to the most contemptible degree. What a position for a great nation to occupy before the world! The press of the United States now admits the absurdity of the position assumed by the country and the fatality of the methods employed, as will be seen by the following extracts from New York World: "The case of the United States in the Behring Sea difficulty starts off in a bad way. In the first place, many of the original claims made by the State Department were fictitious and for purposes of controversy and have been abandoned. Now some statements of fact made in defiance of the country are found to be false, after the arrival of the papers in London. The truth is that we have no case that has a standing in law. The only debatable question is, shall the United States and Great Britain unite to save the seals from extermination. That is a question which cannot be settled by a tribunal, but must be left to diplomatic negotiation."

Calculating Chances. It is charged against the supporters of protection in Canada that they refuse to follow any approach to free trade will believe the Cleveland victory in the States, and the hope is father to the thought. That may be. The Canadian protectionists do doubt have a share of the error that led to human nature, and they may be inclined to believe half the prediction of the smaller group. Results of protectionist policy are not to be judged by the average Canadian exceedingly wary about trusting them now.

Time alone will tell, but the repudiation of the free trade theory now emanating from so many Democratic authorities is surely of some significance. The topic of industry in the States is whether an extension of Congress should be called next March to pass a tariff bill. The Republicans warmly oppose it. They want to hurry the Democrats face to face with their difficulties. Advice from the States is actually needed, but does not seem to be forthcoming. A majority of the Democratic organs oppose it. The leaders are mute. If they refuse to accept the suggestion the McKinley tariff will probably stand for many months. This will look like a defeat to the protectionists. It will also be a victory for the free traders. The McKinley tariff will probably stand for many months. This will look like a defeat to the protectionists. It will also be a victory for the free traders.

Seven members of the Gloucester fishing schooner Elops, which were on Friday found guilty of mutiny on the high seas by a jury in the United States circuit court at New York, were sentenced to prison.
