Plot That Failed;

Love That Would Not Be Denied.

CHAPTER XIX.

"I speak harshly," he said. "But I pray you pardon me if for to-night, the last night I shall have the happiness of seeing you, I cast off the fallacies of conventionality and speak as a man wronged and injured to the woman who has wronged and injured him. That I cannot heal the wound you have inflicted on me I am assured; but I may prevent you wounding others. You are young, Miss Mildmay, and there is a life before you in which you will have it in your power to save hearts or break them. I ask you to-night, here and now, to decide. I implore you to cast off the coquette and to be, what you are at heart, a woman true and noble! Be contented with the harm you have done, and lay aside the power of which my wasted life is the dire evidence."

He paused, more for lack of breath than words and passion to speak them, and then Violet found her tongue.

"Sir!" she said, in that suppressed voice which tells of the heart's conflict. "Are you mad?"

"No!" he said, hoarsely, "but I have been. I am sane now, Miss Mildmay, sane and sorrowful. The glamour which you had cast over me I have driven off. I see you in your true light, and I rise from the trance which your beauty has wooed me to. Violet—for I will call you by that name once and for the last time—you taught me to love you but to scorn the slave who knelt at your feet. You made me a toy to be cast aside when the new one should come. It came, and your slave, your toy, was forgotten, or remembered only in your contempt. You the fair, and I—well, being a man with a heart, I was foolish. But, oh, shame, that one so fair should be so false."

"False!" breathed Violet, her eyes flashing, her lips trembling with indignation and passionate agony.

"Ay, false!" he retorted, sternly. "False to the pure promptings of your own nature, false to your own heart, and false to mine. Enough; forgive me if you can, I do not doubt you will forget me, but forgive me, if you can, for speaking as I have done. Do not dread another reproach or accusation. You will never again hear either from these lips. They should have uttered none now, but the heart will assert itself sometimes, do what we will to keep it silent. Mine has spoken for the last time."

He stopped and waited motionless and stern as a statue, or some pagan at the altar on which his dearest lay sacrificed.

Violet would have spoken, but she had no words. His words weighed all hers back—choked them on her lips.

He waited for the reply. None came. He took her silence as a confession of guilt.

So he turned, and, with drooped head, left her, mistaken and blind to the last.

Not a very great distance from the spot where the lovers were going through their stormy interview and farewell, the captain was waiting for Job to explain to him the danger of which he had given due notice.

Another minute and Job emerged cautiously from behind the laurels.

"Come," said the captain, glancing at the horizon, "you are late."

"Can't help it, cap'n," said Job, with a shake of the head. "I been hanging about here waitin' for an opportunity for the last hour; somebody's been about, too close for me to get near you."

"Who?" asked the captain.

"Master Leicester," replied Job.

"I thought so," said the captain, beckoning Job to come farther under the shadow of the ruined arches. "I thought so, Job; it was to speak of him I wanted you here."

He then recounted his adventures of the preceding night after parting from Job and Willie, concluding, emphatically:

"So, if Leicester Dodson has not already discovered the secret, he will

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup Easily and Cheaply Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cold that has been hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex and make it into 16 ounces of cough syrup, and watch that cough vanish.

Pour the 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a severe cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste. Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, which is so penetrating to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

do so before many hours are past, to be sure."

Job looked as grave as the captain could desire.

"It's an orkard thing," he muttered. "Who'd 'a' thought as Master Leicester would 'a' taken the trouble to go looking about after anything? Nobody must interfere, whether it be Master Leicester or any one else."

"But, bein' him, what then?" asked the captain.

"Why, we'll have to—"

Job paused.

"What's that?" he asked a quick, firm step was heard near them.

"It is he, Leicester Dodson," said the captain, as Leicester's stalwart figure moved past the lane. "He is always hanging about on the watch. Rest assured that very few nights will pass before he has unlearned the secret. Remember his own words to me."

Job looked seaward, and a determined light came into his eyes.

"He is going up the cliffs at a good pace," he said. "Perhaps he's going up to the coastguard now."

"Not unlikely," said the captain.

Job nodded, grimly.

"He must be got rid of."

The captain's heart beat fast.

"What!" he said. "You think it would be easy to tip Mr. Leicester over these cliffs?"

Job's face paled a little.

"Easy enough," he muttered; "but is there any occasion for such out and out work as that, cap'n? Look 'ee here," and, drawing the captain closer, he whispered something in his ear.

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Baltimore, Md.—"I am more than glad to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I suffered dreadful pains and was very irregular. I became alarmed and sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until I was without a cramp or pain and felt like another person, and it has now been six months since I took any medicine at all. I hope my little note will assist you in helping other women. I now feel perfectly well and in the best of health."—Mrs. AUGUST W. KONDNER, 1632 Hollins Street, Baltimore, Md.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Captain Howard Murpoint nodded. "I see," he said, musingly, his eyes fixed upon the figure of Leicester, which had dropped down upon the hot grass, with his face turned seaward. "I see. It is a good idea, and easily carried out."

"Well, let it go at that, cap'n," said Job, as if he had been striking a bargain. "Let it go at that. We meet here to-night, say at twelve. You'll work that part of the game, and leave the rest to me."

"Agreed," assented the captain, consulting his watch. And, after a few more words, the conspirators parted—Job stealing away down toward the beach, the captain carelessly passing through the wilderness of the ruined chapel to the trim kept lawns of the Park.

As he entered the hall, the servant brought him a note.

It was from the solicitor, Mr. Thaxton, and indicated that the writer would be at the Park on the morrow.

"To-morrow," he muttered; "there is no time to lose."

With an air of careless serenity, he entered the drawing-room, with the open letter in his hand.

"For the moment, seeing no one, he thought that the room was empty, but, as he was about to leave it, he caught a glimpse of a maid in dress in a corner, and, going nearer, found that it was Violet, and that Violet herself was lying crouched in the semi-darkness as if asleep.

He laid his hand upon her shoulder lightly, and called her.

But the limp figure did not move, and, bending down, he saw that she was not asleep, but in a swoon.

Stepping back to the door, he closed it softly, and sprinkled some water from a caraffe upon her forehead.

It was some moments before Violet's eyes opened, and when they did, it was as if reluctant to return to the consciousness of her position.

Her lips parted slightly, and murmured:

"Leicester! You will not leave me!"

"So," thought the captain, "there has been a scene, and my loving lass has given way. That accounted for the pace which my Lord Leicester was striding up the cliffs."

Then, aloud, he added:

"My dear Violet, the heat has been too much for you. Do you feel better now? Give me your hand," and, with the greatest gentleness, he raised her to a chair.

Violet struggled against the deadly confusion of mind and soul, and smiled faintly, as she said, wearily:

"Yes, it was the heat."

"Let me call Mrs. Mildmay," said the captain.

Violet rose, with difficulty, and stopped him in his assumed eagerness.

"Captain Murpoint," she said, looking at him from the depths of her great, sad eyes, "do not call any one. Then, with a louder tone and a closer scrutiny, she added: "How long have you been here in the room?"

"Some little time," said the captain. "But, pray, let me summon Mrs. Mildmay."

"No," said Violet. "Some little time. Tell me, truthfully, please, I implore you—have you heard me—have I said anything on any point that I would not have said had I been conscious?"

"I gathered from what you let slip—a few words, merely—that you had seen and been talking to Mr. Leicester Dodson."

Violet flushed for a moment, then turned dead pale.

"Yes," she said. "Is that all?"

"My dear young lady," said the captain, "why distress yourself needlessly? Can you deem me so base, so dishonorable, as to be capable of repeating anything I may have heard? No," and he laid his hand upon his breast, and turned his face, with a hurt expression on it. "No, I am incapable of such measures toward any one, least of all to the daughter of my old friend, John Mildmay."

Violet's eyes moistened, and the captain, taking advantage of her weakness, instantly added:

"But, my dear Violet—if you will permit me to call you so—who distress yourself at all? Nothing is so bad but it can be mended. Lovers' quarrels are proverbially bitter only to turn sweet."

"Lovers' quarrels?" interrupted Violet, bitterly. "Do you think it was only that? Oh," she continued, eagerly, "if I could but believe that he did not mean or think all he said! If I could persuade myself that he did not scorn and despise me!"

"Tush! tush!" said the captain, with a gentle smile. "Leicester scorn, despise you? My dear young lady, he loves the very ground upon which you tread! 'Despise? He worships you!'"

"No, no! He hates me!" said Violet, hiding her face. "He has started for—Africa!" here she broke down, and sobbed aloud. "Gone—gone, thinking me all that he called me—heartless, vain, wicked—oh, so wicked!"

"Hush! hush!" said the captain, dreading that the girl's unusual excitement would result in a fit of hysterics, which would prove eminently inconvenient to him. "Hush, my dear girl; he has not gone. I saw him climbing the cliffs just now, looking as miserable as a starved jackal. There, let me go and fetch him back—you will thank me afterward; but you will hate yourself—and me, also—if you allow him to go. Africa is a fearful place."

Violet looked up suddenly.

"Yes, yes," she said, "I am a weak, foolish girl, but at least I would not have him go without hearing what I have to say. He—he may, perhaps, think less cruelly of me."

"I will go at once," said the captain, with eagerness. "I will tell him that, and—he looked at her dress—'can I take something in the shape of credentials? Ah, give that rose at your bosom—you wore it when he saw you!'"

Violet nodded, and commenced to unfasten it.

"Ah, he will remember it, without doubt," said the captain.

"Give him this," said Violet, in a low voice, taking out a lily from her little bouquet. "It will mean no more than I would have it mean—peace."

"I will," said the captain, snatching up his hat; "and rely upon my haste."

Then, with an affectionate nod, full of refined sympathy, he departed on his mission of peace-making.

The lily he stuck into his button-hole, ready for use at the proper moment.

As he left the house, the stable clock struck ten.

HARRISON AINSWORTH born 1825. Well-known writer of historical fiction who produced forty books in less than fifty years, many of which are being constantly reprinted.

The most popular of his tales are "The Tower of London," "The Tower of London," and "Windsor Castle."

What is public history but a register of the successes and disappointments, the vicissitudes, the follies, and the misadventures of those who engage in competition for power.

THE NEW BIRTH OF RUSSIA. It is an accomplished fact. The average Briton will find difficulty in comprehending it. He has always conceived of Russia as a vast and barbaric Empire, ambitious to extend her frontiers, especially at the cost of Great Britain. Russophobia has been a national disease. One of the weightiest reasons for the widespread distrust of the late W. T. Stead was that he championed Russia, that he was its apologist, and the advocate of its cordial relations with what he regarded as the empire in Europe with which we ought to be on the friendliest possible terms. He would have rejoiced to see this day. He had a profound faith in its national and political destiny.—W. L. Williams, in the Sunday at Home.

Price of Butterine.

Harvey & Co. Reply to "Theobald."

Dear Sir,—Referring to statements regarding butterine, made in your issue of last evening, we feel that we ought to say that said statements are entirely incorrect.

Speaking for ourselves, we have been most anxious to avoid advancing prices of Butterine. When a year ago the duty was increased, no increase was made in local prices. We were able to avoid an advance then only by a temporary decline in foreign quotations of materials and we were fortunate in being able to cover requirements for some months ahead. The decline proved to be temporary and quotations have been advancing steadily ever since.

We held off the inevitable advance as long as we could in the hope that another decline might enable us to change. Through the grace of our fall every pound of butterine delivered by us, left a serious loss. We determined that if at all possible we would not be forced into putting up prices at least until the fall trade was over, but it then became imperative the only alternative was to close down.

Yours truly, HARVEY & CO., LTD. St. John's, Feb. 4th, 1915.

Kaiser Sees Germans Defeated.

Paris, Jan. 28.—Mounted on horse-
... back, the Kaiser was all ready to make
... a triumphal entry into the ruined city
... of Arras on January 29 when the ... French hurled the enemy from the ... suburb of Biangy, once more destroy-
... ing the Imperial hopes," writes the
... war correspondent of the Mail from
... the battlefield.
... "The Kaiser had originally decreed
... January 16 as the date for the capture
... of Arras, but the French staff learned
... this, and the attack was delayed four ... days. The assault was delivered with
... vigor, long columns of Germans ad-
... vancing from Biangy eight abreast,
... when the vanguard was attacked and
... annihilated by an ambuscade.
... "A small force of French had con-
... cealed themselves in an iron works
... under the first shock of surprise, the ... Germans fell in heaps. Although they ... fought bravely, the enemy were driven
... back and meanwhile strong French re-
... inforcements were rushed to the front.
... "After a battle of five hours the ... Germans retreated to their original
... entrenched positions. The battle was ... waged half a mile from the centre of
... Arras, whose population of 3,000 lay
... huddled in cellars while the trench
... howitzers hurled melinite shells,
... weighing 150 pounds, into the town."

... A year of fog, but as the days that

... Before the sun runs its third course
... in 1915 blood will cease to flow (appari-
... ently meaning before autumn). The ... result will be entirely different to ... what France expects. A scourge will ... menace.
... The Kaiser will soon die or else dis-
... appear.
... Germany will cease to exist in pres-
... ent form; the country will be torn by
... revolution.
... The hour will soon strike when Italy
... will be compelled to draw the sword.
... The dismemberment of Austria is ... imminent.
... There is a brilliant future for Bel... gium.
... England is on the abyss of frightful
... religious wars. She will be cured by ... fire.
... For Russia I see only good.
... Servia has not yet finished her wars.
... Bulgaria will be rent by men now
... in retirement.
... The hour of an American woman,
... prodigiously gifted with money and en... ergy, is near. She will meet an end
... she little expects.
... The United States will be troubled
... by financial crises, though it will be
... a fine industrial and a fair agricul... tural year.
... Forecast for the year: Generally
... dry, volcanoes active, furious waves
... in the burning seas, lives snuffed out

Off Horses and the Sword.

You have noted that unless the larg... er horse of a team were driven on the
... off side you are annoyed or even dis... tressed? The is, of course, because ... your heart is on your left side. You
... may say that it is because you are
... used to that particular arrangement
... of horses; but did you ever ask your... self why the large horse is harnessed
... up the right side? Let us follow it
... up; it is really very interesting.
... It is because, not so very long ... since, we had a postilion to drive
... for us, who rode one of the horses. It
... was his habit to hitch the smaller
... horses on the left hand side, because
... it is easier to get on a smaller horse
... than on a larger one—and because it
... was the habit to mount a horse from
... the left side.
... The habit of getting on a horse from
... the left side was formed because men
... had the habit of wearing the sword
... upon the left side; therefore to get
... upon a horse from the right side while
... wearing the sword, was not practical;
... one's sword would get tangled be... tween one's legs. The habit of wear-
... ing the sword on the left side rather
... than on the right was formed because
... most men were right-handed habitua-
... lly; and so could draw easier and
... quicker from a scabbard on the left
... The habit of being right-handed was ... formed so that the heart might not
... be so easily reached by the opening
... sword.—Eugene M. Rhodes, in Har-
... per's Weekly.

The Pantomime.

Yesterday afternoon and night
... Rossleys was crowded. The pantom-
... ime "Aladdin and His Wonderful
... Lamp" is the most beautiful of all.
... The songs are certainly a splendid
... collection and well sung; the dances
... very dainty. When it comes to a real
... show Rossleys are always on top.
... There will be a matinee Saturday for ... the children. Send them to see the ... best of all the pantomimes. The pic... tures newly arrived are acknowl-
... edged very superior to any seen here,
... while the music supplied by the or... chestra, with Mr. A. Crocker as lead-
... er, is the finest heard in the city in
... years.

For King and Country.

The three act military play "For ... King and Country," produced at the ... Casino Theatre last night attracted a ... large audience. The play was under
... the distinguished patronage of His ... Excellency the Governor and Lady
... Davidson. The cast was a strong one,
... and the different roles were cleverly
... portrayed. During the intervals songs
... were given including a soldiers' song
... by our volunteers.

A Generous Action.

The Rossleys, with their usual
... generosity invited the children of the ... different city orphanages yester-
... day to see the beautiful Aladdin and
... His Wonderful Lamp, and it is need... less to state that the children enjoy... ed the treat. Mr. Rossley has had the ... children to each change of pantomime
... which we consider very kind of both
... himself and his talented wife.

... he was an employee, came up for sen... tence. His Honor Judge Knight, took ... into account some mitigating cir... cumstances, and he was sentenced to
... four months imprisonment without the ... option of a fine.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END

Such crowds as attend the Rossley
... West End Theatre is wonderful, and
... yesterday was a record day. There
... are three changes of pictures every ... week and songs also by Aneta, the
... child vocalist, who has made a won... derful hit; a nice voice and every ... word distinct and clear, and what
... more quite unaffected and natural
... something new in picture house sing-
... ers. The West End Theatre is recog... nized the classy picture theatre of St.
... John's, and Mr. Rossley intends to ... keep it well up to his idea of what a
... picture theatre should be.

Two Million Men, Self-Organized, Now
Ask Government to Give Them Arms and Ammunition and Allow Their Officers to Take Real Titles.
London, Jan. 28.—England's army of two million "volunteers for defence," frowned upon by Earl Kitchener for many weeks and at first derided by "Tommy Atkins," is now clamoring for something more than mere official recognition.
The volunteer army wants the Government to provide it with arms and ammunition and permit its officers to assume real titles.
The volunteers have had a hard row to hoe. When they first asked Earl Kitchener for official sanction of their training corps, they were bluntly told that if they wanted to drill the recruiting offices were open.
Despite this the organizers plugged away. They bought their own uniforms of grey-green and some of their own arms and ammunition. They devoted their spare hours to long marches, rifle practice and drills.
Gradually they worked themselves into a compact organization.
The "official recognition," now granted by the War Office carries only a slight solace to the volunteers. It would, however, save them from being shot down as "Franc-Tireurs" in case Germany invaded England, as they would be considered organized soldiers.

Teutonic Losses Are Enormous.

Amsterdam, Jan. 29.—Prussian cas-

... had reached the enormous total of
... 988,960, according to figures published
... by the Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant.
... It says that these figures are taken

... "This total comprises killed, wound-
... ed and missing, the wounded number-
... ing 615,659. Of these about forty per ... cent. have already returned to the ... front.
... "To the total of 988,960 will have to
... be added 140 Bavarian, 96 Saxon, 99

Australia's "Bit."

The arrival of the second contingent of Australians in Egypt and the baptism of fire sustained by a detachment of the first contingent serve to draw attention to the forces provided and being provided for active service by this Dominion of the Southern Cross, with a population less than five million souls. In the first place she sent an Expeditionary Force of 20,000 men who were landed in Egypt, not very long after the war broke out. This force has now been supplemented by a second expeditionary force of 10,000 men, who were announced yesterday to have been disembarked in Egypt, and a third expeditionary force is being got ready for the front. In addition to this she sent a joint naval and military force and captured German New Guinea and other Pacific islands held by the Germans. She has also in active operation a small fleet of mainly modern warships. These consist of the battle cruiser Australia, of 18,800 tons, completed in 1913, carrying eight 12 in. guns. Three fast 2nd class cruisers of 5,440 tons each carrying eight six inch guns, one of which, the Sydney, distinguished itself by destroying the Emden, a fourth completed in 1906 of 5,880 tons, carrying eleven 6 inch guns and a light cruiser of 2,200 tons with eight 4 inch guns. In addition to these, Australia had at the opening of the war a submarine, since lost, three destroyers built and three building. The Australian Navy did great service in co-operating with the Japanese Navy in clearing the Pacific of German commerce raiders. Since writing the above, the 'Australia' is reported to have sunk a German auxiliary cruiser off Patagonia on January 7th.

MINISTERIAL CHANGES.
LONDON, To-day.
Edward Montague, member of Parliament for Cambridge West, has been appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in succession to Charles Frederick Masterman, who has been unable to win a seat in the Lower House, resigned his Portfolio a few days ago. Cecil Harmsworth, son of the late Alfred Harmsworth, member for Bedfordshire South, has been made Under Secretary to the Home Office. Walter R. Rea and Arthur C. Beck, have been made junior Lords of the Treasury. These appointments will involve by-elections in the cases of Montague, Rea and Beck, but in view of the party truce they are not likely to be contested. Francis Dyke Akland, Parliamentary Under Secretary to the Foreign Office, has been appointed to succeed Montague as Financial Secretary of the Treasury.

HINDENBURG STRATEGY FAILING.
LONDON, To-day.
Frederick Rennet, in a despatch from Petrograd to the Daily News, says that General Von Hindenburg seems to realize that the campaign of 1915 is beginning very badly for his strategy. His position is becoming insecure through the determined Russian advance North of the Vistula. The Germans are now pressed further back in that region than they have been at any time since the commencement of the present invasion from Thorn at the beginning of December.

They have kept an unsteady hold upon Ripne, twenty miles from the Russian frontier, and their four corps which were recently introduced between the Vistula and the Mawa are all drawing North as a consequence of continued Westward pressure from the Russian army moving north of the Masurian Lakes. As Von Hindenburg abhors inaction he is driven to repeat disastrous frontal attacks on the line of the Russian entrenched position to the Westward of Rawka. General Mackensen has again turned the full blast of his artillery and his best Infantry upon Bolimow with even less success than before. The Russians in Central Poland are withstanding these monotonous positional onslaughts with unflinching steadiness in the knowledge that their armies in the North and South have definitely grasped the initiative from the enemy, and are forcing the campaigns in East Prussia and Hungary into a situation which must mean the final ruin of the second invasion of Poland.

The Soldier's Test.
Most Terrifying Position is Silence Under Fire.

Every one of us must have wondered how he would feel in battle for the first time. We may get some idea of how the average man feels in such circumstances from a study of the psychology of battle, just published in Italy. Lieut.-Col. Mangiarotti, of the 77th Infantry, carefully examined more than 2,000 soldiers who first faced fire in the recent war between Italy and Turkey, and he summarizes their statements in the Rivista Militare. He questions them one by one. Out of 2,000 men 1,700 confessed that their most trying moment in the whole campaign was when they first heard hostile bullets whistle about their ears. But almost all of them said they were much less frightened than they had expected to be, and that the scare diminished with each battle.

Turk Officer Executed for Failure
Petrograd, Jan. 28.—Rissan Pasha, commander of the Turkish 11th Army Corps, which was defeated at Kara Urgan, has been put to death, by order of Enver Pasha, commander of all the Turkish forces in the Caucasus. Rissan Pasha was charged with responsibility for the failure of the 11th Army Corps to move to the support of the 10th Army Corps, thereby causing the defeat of both.

St. Pierre Honors Contingent.
Special to Evening Telegram.
ST. PIERRE, To-day.

St. Pierre is holding celebrations this morning over the contingent for France, which is to join a French force. There was great popular rejoicing. Patriotic speeches were delivered by the Administrator, Mayor and Parish Priest. National Anthems were played by the town band. The public and commercial buildings and craft in the harbor were decorated with tri-color and Allies' colors.

Drowning Accident at the Southside.
Frederick Cook, aged 33 years, was the victim of a sad drowning accident which occurred at the Southside this morning. The deceased young man who worked at Jas. Baird, Ltd., as packer, left home at 8 o'clock this morning presumably to go to work as usual. Nothing further was heard of him until 11 a.m., when four men on Mudge's wharf, saw him in the water, a few feet from his own wharf, struggling. They ran to his assistance, but before they reached him he had gone down. When taken from the water about 11.10 a.m. he was dead. The deceased man, who is unmarried, is a son of Mr. Geo. Cook, cooper, Southside, to whom much sympathy will be expressed and in which the Telegram joins.

K. of C. Lecture.
Rev. W. H. Kitchen, Ph. D., lectured to a large gathering of Knights of Columbus and their friends at Columbus Hall, last night. The subject of the discourse was "Louvain, in History and Remembrance," which was handled in the usual pleasing style for which that brilliant orator is noted. The recounting of reminiscences of his student days at the University of Louvain, which has been so wantonly destroyed by the Germans, moved the audience deeply.

Design on Notes Annoys Germany.
Amsterdam, Jan. 28.—A despatch from Brussels states that the Germans are annoyed at the design on the new issues of notes by the Societe Generale Belgique because they bear a portrait of the first Queen of the Belgians, Louise Marie.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please publish the following in your esteemed paper:—

Gross receipts of the concert of the 25th of last month, under the auspices of the United Methodist Bible Class, of this city, came up to the sum of $21.00. Our net proceeds, we are glad to state, came up to $248.00, which is to be given to the Patriotic Fund. We are indebted to a gentleman of the city, who has donated the sum of $50 to help us in our cause and which is included in the above amount. We also wish to thank the following parties:—Dicks & Co, for keeping the plan for us free of charge; Reduction of price of College Hall by the College Board; to Miss Bradbury and her able assistants who so willingly helped us in our work, and supplied candy, realizing the sum of $45; to the performing artists who so ably acquitted themselves, and lastly to you, Mr. Editor, for your kind comments.

School Girls Indecently Assaulted
Four lads, aged 14, 13, 12 and 14 respectively, who were rounded up a few days ago by Constable O'Neil, were tried before Judge Knight for indecently assaulting four young school girls, whose ages range from 8 to 16 years old. The assault occurred on Carpasian Road in December last when the children were returning home from school in the afternoon. The defendants pleaded guilty to the charge. The oldest of the gang was also charged with indecent exposure. To this he pleaded not guilty, but was proved guilty. They will be sentenced this afternoon.

There is no doubt of the quality of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil, as a cough mixture, as it rarely indeed fails to cure a cold, and the cough which accompanies it. One reason of this is because it is an efficient tonic. It gives definite and very agreeable results in Chronic and Winter cough. Price 50c. a bottle.

More Wholesale Theft.
Another wholesale theft has been discovered and a teamster of the Southside was arrested last night on suspicion of stealing. Within the past month or so 66 bottles of whiskey, 15 bottles of lager beer, 13 bottles of brandy, a large amount of cigarettes and other articles were stolen from the premises of the Reid Mfd. Co. He was taken into custody last night by Const. Tobin, who served the accused with the document that was issued for his arrest. Pending enquiry the defendant is on remand.

A writer in the London Outlook says: "I spent a night on straw in a water-surrounded post looking across to Dixmude, which our own soldiers aptly speak of as 'Thick-mud.' It is true that our men are rather strange this way. They have their hands full over at Ypres, which they call, as a matter of course, 'Wipers.' The British Tommy does not commonly carry maps and consequently the peculiar, half-humorous twist he puts to place-names have a tendency to become permanent. There is, for example, a place near Poperinghe called Watou, which has quite easily become 'What-O!' just as Wyszehate has changed with celerity to 'Wipers' and Bleurbax to 'Flowers' while Crotx-au-Bols—impossible for a British tongue to pronounce—has become 'Crossboys.'"

Does This Fit You?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Did you ever happen to think how many virtues it takes to make a good card player? You know good card players who don't appear to have a surplus of virtues? Well, probably you and I aren't using "good" in the same sense. You see, I don't mean the player who always wins. I mean the man who plays games—I used cards only because they are a typical and common game—as they should be played.

Such a man does not grow slovenly in his playing merely because he has a miserable hand. He plays every hand he gets, good or bad, for all it's worth. He is far more annoyed to have played below what it was worth than to have had a miserable hand, if he played that to its full value.

Doesn't Blame His Defeat on "Luck."

He does not exult unduly over good cards or fret about poor ones. He takes them all philosophically. He never tries to blame a defeat on bad cards. If that is the reason for his defeat he lets his opponents admit it or he buries the fact in his own consciousness. He is never "tacky" enough to make that claim for himself. On the other hand he is always careful to mention his opponents' "bad luck" if they have been thus handicapped.

The good card player always pays attention to what he is doing. He does not insult his companions by letting his attention wander. While he plays cards he plays them. He does not pretend to be indifferent as to whether he wins or loses. In the words of Mrs. Battle, he is "none of your lukewarm gamblers," your half-and-half players who have no objection to take a hand if you want one to make up a rubber; who affirm they have no pleasure in winning; that they like to win one game and lose another; that they can while away an hour very agreeably at a card table, but are indifferent whether they play or not."

A Good Loser.

But though he is a keen adversary he is above all things a good loser. He does not like to lose, but he can take his losses without growing surly or ill-tempered. He does not blame his partner or his cards; he keeps pleasant in spite of mistakes and disappointments, and not because he thinks it is only a game and so does not matter after all, but because he knows that is the manly way to take losses of any kind.

Finally he never forgets one thing—that nothing counts, neither winning nor losing, nor playing well or ill, half so much as being square. If a doubtful point comes up he is always willing to give his adversary the benefit of the doubt, and he would rather lose a deciding game than take the least unfair advantage.

Surely the man who can fill all these qualifications of a "good" player will also be a good player in the game of life—the kind of partner one needs not be afraid to accept.

Says Germany Faces Hunger.

Paris, January 27.—In connection with the discussion as to what there is left in Germany to eat L'Information published from its Amsterdam correspondent, a letter alleged to have been written by a young German to his parents which threw some light on the matter. Since then the paper has received a second letter signed by "A German," stating that the first letter was a fake. However, since it is a characteristic "German" letter fake or no, a taste of it is light and liberty.

In this dark hour we look to Thee, Our fathers' God, we ask Thee aid; Thy smile is light and liberty; By Thy strong word the earth was made; No foe shall daunt, no fear shall chill, If Thou art nigh to bless us still.

Oh, bless us—not that we are good. Or that we more than others are; Our waywardness is like a flood Which bears us off from Thee afar; Lord, let not this affect us ill, But in Thy mercy, bless us still.

It All Started From a Bad Cold.

WATFORD MAN FOUND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mr. Robt. Taylor, Sr., After Suffering for Two Years, Tells of the Benefits He got from Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Watford, Ont., Feb. 3rd. (Special)—Mr. Robert Taylor, Sr., a very estimable man living here, is telling his friends that the pain in his back, from which he suffered for some time, has disappeared, and that he gives all the credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started with a cold," Mr. Taylor states, "and though I was treated by a doctor I got no permanent relief. I had cramps in my muscles and stiffness in my joints, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I perspired freely with the least exertion. I had attacks of rheumatism and sciatica, and though I tried many medicines I found no relief till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I must say they were a great benefit to me."

Mr. Taylor's troubles came from his kidneys. The diseased kidneys failed to strain the uric acid out of the blood, and the results were as he has stated. Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in working order, the uric acid was strained out of the blood, and the troubles went with it.

All of the innocent amusements have been torn from us by war. Grand opera this year will be only a sound and not a sight. One might as well hear it. A gramophone at $1,000 the price.

A NATION'S PRAYER.

Great God, supreme, Whose sovereign power And guiding hand our lives confess, On whom we call in danger's hour, In every season of distress; Help us, though weak in heart and will, Thee to adore, and bless us still.

Our selfish thoughts, our foolish pride Our want of truth and inward grace From Thy pure eyes we may not hide;

Lord, set them not before Thy face, Nor let Thine arm in wrath fulfil Some hurtful aim, but bless us still.

In this dark hour we look to Thee, Our fathers' God, we ask Thee aid; Thy smile is light and liberty; By Thy strong word the earth was made;

No foe shall daunt, no fear shall chill, If Thou art nigh to bless us still.

Oh, bless us—not that we are good. Or that we more than others are; Our waywardness is like a flood Which bears us off from Thee afar; Lord, let not this affect us ill, But in Thy mercy, bless us still.

VIEWING GRAND OPERA. By GEORGE FITCH.

War knows no boundaries and respects no man. It is supposed to occupy itself with the job of grinding up belligerents into honored remains, but it is as likely as not to step aside at any moment and take a dastardly swing at a peaceful nation perched in supposed safety on the side lines.

Because of this fact the United States, a peaceful nation with no ill will to anyone except reformers, will be unable to view grand opera this winter except in a sketchy and unsatisfactory manner.

War has not only swept the highest priced song-birds of the world into the trenches, but it has left the box holders of the American opera companies in a financially listless condition. There will be a good deal of fine music in this country this winter, most of it homemade, but the scenery surrounding it is not going to be exciting enough to cause a single thrill.

Viewing grand opera has been an American pastime for many ears. It has enabled many to enjoy this noble form of art without having to strain their musical education to detect the difference between an intermezzo and a treble clef. Grand opera has flourished in this country because it has not only stuffed the soul of the music lover full of inspired shivers, but it has also appealed to the tired business man who has been able to smuggle down into a $6.50 seat and enjoy a hearty laugh watching a 250-pound Romeo balancing on an infirm ladder and attempting to embrace a yard wide Juliet who is bending the balcony considerably out of plumb.

Viewing grand opera has also been one of the most interesting social games ever invented. The rules of this game are simple. The contestants turn their backs on the singers and examine the occupants of the boxes carefully through opera glasses, field glasses, binoculars and telescopes. Recognizing a social leader without referring to the list of exhibits counts one. Recounting a pleasant little story about her counts five. Calling her by her first name in an affectionate manner wins the game and causes the other contestant to be removed by tender hands in a state of collapse.

From the Heart of the Wheat

Comes the delicate flour.

There's only a little.

And around it lies gluten that's hard and tough—bothersome in baking.

To pick this cream of the flour from the ordinary, we sift it ten times—

Ten times through fine silk.

And only the daintiest particles, sifting through, go out as Gold Medal Flour.

The rest we deem unfit.

Do you want all of the flour, or just the best of the flour?

Will you have milk and cream, or just the cream, when both cost an equal price?

There can't be any question.

Then in ordering, Madam, don't merely say, "flour." That means any flour.

Say the flour you want—say—

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, Feb. 2.
On the first in the vicinity of Ypres by a brilliant British charge, several German trenches were captured.

On the Behme road our Infantry captured a counter attack with the heaviest, taking several trenches and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. Our heavy artillery bombarded very efficiently the Noyon railroad station. A Russian communique reports a Russian advance in Eastern Prussia, also that the Germans lost six thousand men in a series of engagements around Portzlimow.

In the Caucasus, the Turks are defeated everywhere, and large quantities of war stuffs have been taken. In Persia the Turks were completely routed at the battle of Sufian, and cut off from Tabriz. The latter town is now recaptured by Russians. The Turkish losses were heavy.

In the Black Sea a Russian destroyer raid was made on Tchizondie, in which several Turkish vessels were sunk. There is nothing to report north of La Lya. An artillery contest to our advantage is reported north of Albert and in the Aisne Valley. A German counter attack west of Heigt 200, near Perthes, failed. Elsewhere, nothing important.

THEIR EYES ARE OPENING.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 3.
The Berliner Tageblatt, in its leading article, says: "Contrary to official predictions, it is uncertain whether Germany's hopes will be fulfilled and she will be victorious. We know the Allies strength at present, but not their strength in the future."

RUSSIAN VICTORY.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 3.
Successes for Russian arms in the region of Warsaw and in the Carpathians are recounted in the official Russian statement issued here to-day. Confirmation is given also to the report that German troops have been sent to the Carpathians to assist the Austrians.

THE HARSH CUSTOM OF WAR.

GENEVA, Feb. 3.
A Vienna despatch says the Austrian Government has notified all neutral States that commanders of troops operating against the Russians, have been instructed to shoot as rebels and traitors all Roumanian inhabitants of Transylvania or Bukovina, who are captured, while serving as volunteers with the Russians.

GERMAN DESTROYER SUNK.

PARIS, Feb. 3.
An official statement from Petrograd says that a German torpedo boat destroyer was sunk by a Russian submarine in the Baltic on January 29th, when a submarine attack was made off the Danish island of Moen.

AUSTRALIANS IN ACTION.

CAIRO, Feb. 3.
The Australian troops were victorious over a detachment of Turkish soldiers in a skirmish near Nachl, on the caravan route between Suez and El Akaba on Monday night, according to advices received here to-day. The Turks are said to have retreated, leaving thirty dead and wounded on the field. This was the Australians' baptism of fire, and they acquitted themselves with great credit.

UNITED STATES WARNED.

LONDON, Feb. 3.
The Pall Mall Gazette warns the United States that the dynamiting of Vanceboro Bridge may be followed by an outbreak of German ferocity on American soil. It says it is exceedingly likely that the insane ferocity which has displayed itself on Canadian territory may yet manifest itself in the United States also. Altogether the propaganda of which Van Horne's crime is the result seems likely to need all the watching the American police can give it.

FRESH SUPPLIES OBTAINED FROM ENGLISH PORT.

LONDON, Feb. 3.
It was suggested in the Commons to-day that the German submarines which have been playing havoc with British shipping, recently, have obtained fresh supplies of fuel from a ship direct from an English port. Gershon Stewart, a member of the House, put before the Admiralty, for reply to-morrow, a question as to whether a neutral oil steamer, outward bound from Manchester, was seen alongside two German submarines within the past week. Mr. Stewart calls on the Admiralty for the name of this steamer, the shipper of the oil, and the consignees. He asks whether exportation of oil on neutral vessels will be permitted hereafter.

THE EMPEROR'S VISIT.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.
The Emperor will leave to-day for Wilhelmshaven to inspect the warships stationed there, and will complete his inspection of the Empire's armed forces by visiting the units of the newly-organized armies still garrisoned in Germany.

League Hockey.

Popular Hockeyists are Soldiers.

As there was with the First Newfoundland Contingent, so there is a team of noted hockeyists with the Second Contingent, amongst whom are Nix Hunt, of the Feldians, Ralph Burnham, of the Terra Novas, and Munn and Sinnott of the Victorias. The quartette will be sorely missed by their respective teams for the balance of the season's fixtures.

The Feldians and Terra Novas will contest this evening. The probable line up will be:—

Should the Feldians come off victorious they will have won every game they played for the season and will be highliners in the first round. If on the contrary the Terra Novas win all three teams, the Victorias, Feldians and Terra Novas will be on equal footing. The St. Bon's lost every game they played so far.

The publisher of the best Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces in writing to us states:

"I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an unerring remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitators."

Personal.

Mr. George French, wheelwright of Harbor Grace, who had been enjoying a holiday in the city, returned home this morning.

The many friends of Miss Louise S. Keats, formerly of Placentia, Nfld., will be pleased to learn that her suit against the Elevated Railway Co. of Boston, U.S.A., pending for some time, has reached a successful issue. Miss Keats is now residing in the land of "Uncle Sam." The writer who had the pleasure of knowing the family in younger days, joins with her many friends in extending well-merited and warm congratulations.—Com.

Rev. Anderson Wells

NOW DOING SERVICE AT NO. 2 CANADIAN HOSPITAL IN FRANCE.

We have been permitted to see a letter received by his mother from the Rev. Anderson Wells who went from Canada to England as chaplain with one of the Western regiments. After remarking that he had received many remembrances for Christmas season, he states:

"Since I last wrote to you I have been away up to Shrewsbury. I took up a firing party for a funeral. One of our boys went home for the Christmas holidays and died. We spent three days up there and enjoyed it very much. Life here on the plain is going on as usual. We find the rain very trying. Rain and mud all the time, and our boys are getting bad colds. I have received the highest honor that can be paid a Canadian Chaplain. Our Canadian hospital at Boulogne, France, cabled for a chaplain, and I have been appointed to go. I am waiting now for my passports. I am the only one to go, and the first of our men for France. I am sorry to go, and I have my regiment; but must obey orders. You must be pleased that I have been appointed, and you know that I shall do my best to uphold the honor of our church and help those who suffer."

In a later letter he says: "Just a line. I am now on my way to France. Am going alone, but shall get along all right. I shall be very busy, but I shall always find time to send you a line. The officers of my regiment presented me with a gold watch the night before I left, which was very kind. My address will be No. 2 Canadian Hospital, Boulogne, France."

The Rev. Anderson Wells is a native of Port de Grave District, and saw service during the South African War. His mother is at present staying with Mr. William Horwood, at his home, on Power Street.

Pleasing Presentation.

The C. L. B. Armoury was the scene of a pleasing event last evening when Instructor Sidney Game was presented with a safety razor, accompanied by an address, by the Signalling Corps of the Regiment. The presentation was made by signal-man Gordon Ivany, and signal-man Charles Parsons read the address, which was as follows:—

Dear Mr. Game:— As we, the Signallers of the First Newfoundland Regiment, Reserve Force, are about to sail for the Old Country, we would like to show our appreciation of your sterling worth and good fellowship in some small way.

We deeply regret you are not accompanying us, but will never forget the many pleasant hours spent under your able guidance.

We are conscious of the many difficulties we have to face and the responsibility to assume, but were you our commander, we would feel possessed with a greater confidence. When we reach the scene of battle our desire will be your presence with us, as we feel you are capable of mastering any situation.

Will you, therefore, accept this Safety Razor, as a token of our kind regards.

Sincerely yours, Roy S. Grandy, J. W. Macdock, C. V. Leslie, Clarence A. Wells, Gordon Ivany, Charles Parsons, A. Watts, Ira J. Gosse.

ANOTHER PRESENTATION.

A deputation from the Albert Edward Branch of the British Society met at the house of Mr. Wm. Hill, caretaker of the C. of E. Cemetery, last night, and presented his son, Arthur, with an address and a piece of gold as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held as a member of that body, on the eve of his departure for the front with the Second Contingent of Volunteers. The presentation was made by Mr. James Lawrence, who acted as chairman, in the absence of Mr. Henry Maund, made a very appropriate speech, which was responded to by the recipient and the Secretary, Mr. Henry Hammond read the address after which a pleasant time was spent. Mr. Hill has two sons in the second contingent.

Last Night's Dance.

The dance held at the British Hall last night in aid of the Sick and Wounded Soldiers' Fund, was largely attended and proved highly successful. An excellent programme of music was furnished by the Royle Orchestra, and during the interval supper was served by the promoters, Misses Brown, Ewing, West and Taylor and their lady friends.

The ladies in charge are grateful to His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson for a substantial cheque, to the Reid N. Co. for the decorations, to S. O. Steele, Esq., for the use of crockeryware, and to the British Society for favors received in connection with the use of their hall.

British Light Squadron

BACK AT BASE INTACT.

London, Jan. 29.—The Daily Telegraph to-day prints an interesting story of the last moments of the German armoured cruiser Blucher, which was sunk in last Sunday's engagement between the British and German squadrons in the North Sea.

The story is prefaced by a record of the return of the British light cruiser Arethusa and the entire mosquito squadron to its base. Except in the case of the torpedo boat destroyer Meteor, the correspondent says, there was not a single casualty of any kind in the line of the small boats, and every vessel of this squadron is as fit again to fight as it was the day it left port.

The correspondent adds that when the Arethusa fired two torpedoes at the Blucher, that cruiser had no way on, and easily was a target. The second torpedo hit her fair amidships and tore such a tremendous hole in her that she sank forthwith.

The last scene on the Blucher gave a touch of the heroism of the German sailors, who were lined up along her side, aware that the ship could endure no longer. The correspondent says that the men doffed their hats and joined in a chorus of "Hoops" as she began to disappear beneath the waves.

The cry of "Jump" went up from the decks of the Arethusa, and the sea was quickly dotted with life-belt men, many of whom had been badly wounded by shell splinters. All their faces had been blackened by smoke. In some cases the nerves of the men had entirely broken down under the terrible ordeal they had endured.

The joy of the officers at being rescued found expression in gifts of rings, watches, and money to the rescuers. The British sailors wanted to refuse these, but the German officers pressed the gifts on them, saying "You have saved our lives. Take these as little mementoes."

The German sailors naturally had nothing to offer, but they were profuse in their expressions of gratitude. They made persistent requests of their British foes for cigarettes.

The British light cruiser Aurora, according to the correspondent, was in action with the light cruiser Kolberg. The Aurora's first shot, he says, carried away the Kolberg's midship funnel, while her guns raked the German boat. When last seen by the Arethusa, the correspondent declares, the Kolberg was in a sinking condition.

Bill on Beam Trawling

IS INTRODUCED INTO THE U. S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

U. S. Congressman Gardiner's bill for an investigation of beam trawling was submitted to the Bureau of Fisheries on Monday of this week. A summary of the text reads:

"In a report on the investigation of trawl fishing in the Atlantic, submitted to the House to-day, Commissioner Smith of the Bureau of Fisheries urged that the United States with the co-operation of Canada, Newfoundland and France safeguard the future supply of fish by restricting to certain definite banks and grounds the use of any kind of trawl drawn by vessel except shellfish, by means of the otter trawl or beam trawl, or by any other apparatus drawn over the ocean bottom by a vessel in motion, be prohibited on all bottoms in the Atlantic north of the 40th degree of north latitude, except George's Banks, South Channel and Nantucket Shoals east of the meridian of Sankey Head on Nantucket Island.

"Such a plan, the report said, would return to the otter trawlers sufficient ground for their work, but would not exclude the line fisheries, and would reserve to them exclusively the banks to which they make more than two-thirds of their trips.

"It would give, the report adds, a large measure of protection to the important line fisheries of New England, and would permit the development of an otter trawl fishing for flounders and other fish from New Jersey southward where they cannot probably be taken in large quantities.

"The investigators reported that while the facts which they found show no proof of depletion of the fisheries on the banks frequented by American otter trawlers, it is possible that the seeds of damage already have been sown and that their fruits may appear in the future."

"One day in 1907 he branded me with a red hot poker," said Mrs. May Florence Boyd, who obtained a divorce from George Walter Boyd, former traffic manager for a Chicago lumber company. "If you don't hurry I'll brand you like they do the Texas ponies," he said, "and thrust the poker against my leg." They were married in 1906, she said, and three years later separated after a fight over a nickel which ended with his tying her in a bed.

Is soft, warm and pure, best for soldier's socks.

Robert Templeton.

MR. CUSTOMER,—

Probably you've economised by doing without your usual suit and overcoat during Fall of 1914. Are you going to have that down-and-out look in Spring 1915? The Allies have millions of men on the firing line, each requiring thirteen pounds of wool every six or eight weeks. The British Government are keeping British Mills turning out army contracts.

Spring quotations for woollens are sky high. We have on hand a particularly fine range of Serges, Tweed Suitings and Overcoatings. Order now as you will have to pay considerably higher in the Spring.
