A Terrible Disclosure ; OR, What Fools Men Are!

CHAPTER XI.
Lord Edgar and Edith Drayton were silent for a moment, then he said: "You will understand why our marriage is kept secret for a time, Miss Drayton?" "Your father?" "Yes," he assented, with a short sigh. "I hate and detest concealment, but I am helpless. I can only trust that his sanity to it will not exist long. You will keep our secret, will you not?" "Ah, yes," she said. "I wonder," he said, thoughtfully, "that Clifford Revel did not drop a word, did not tell you outright, in fact." A gleam of fire came into her eyes. Why had he hidden it from her? she asked herself. What dark game was he playing? "He said nothing," she answered, simply. "And I will bring Lela when we come to town," he said, hurriedly, for Lord Claxtone had recognised him and approached them. "Do," she said, quietly. "Hello, Clax!" he said, as the lad seized his hand and wrung it. "Why, Fane, who would have thought of seeing you! Did you follow us down from town?" Lord Edgar looked him full in the eyes. "No, Claxstone, I am staying here, but quite in seclusion, you understand!" "Quite!" assented the lad, coloring. "And you won't come back. Try and persuade him, Miss Drayton." Edith shook her head, and Lord Edgar laughed softly. "No, I can't come back. Take Miss Drayton back, Clax, and don't mention that you found me rusticated like a savage in the woods." He took Edith's outstretched hand and bowed over it, and, as he pressed it, said, in a low voice: "Good-by, my true friend!" and then turned and went back to Lela. Edith Drayton stood for a moment, not looking after him, but with her eyes fixed on the ground, which seemed to rock beneath her feet. She had grown white to the lips. "Miss Drayton!" exclaimed Lord Claxstone, with alarm. "Hush!" she said, hoarsely. "Don't speak to me. It—it is the sun. Take my handkerchief and dip it in the water. Quick!" He ran down to the river and brought the handkerchief cool and wet, and she took it and pressed it against her forehead for a moment. The she dropped it on the grass, and turned to him with a smile. "I'm all right now, Lord Claxstone. Do not look so alarmed. It was not your fault, but mine for straying still further without my sunshade. Will you give me your arm? Thanks!"

And the Worst is Yet to Come

SICK WOMAN NOW WELL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Read Her Letter.

Pottsville, Pa.—"For a long time I was bothered with pains in my side, and was so weak from my trouble that I could not do any lifting or hard work of any kind. If I tried to straighten out when lying down it seemed as though something would tear loose. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and I am quite myself once more."—Miss HARRIET CHUBBUCK, Pottsville, Pa.

Thousands of women drag along from day to day in just such a miserable condition as was Mrs. Chubuck, or suffering from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, headache, nervousness, or "the blues."

Such women should profit by Mrs. Chubuck's experience and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and find relief from their sufferings as she did.

For special suggestions in regard to your ailment write Lydia E. Pinkham, Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

and in a tone of constraint that should have warned him of the storm that was raging within her, and which, if he had but guessed it, threatened to overwhelm him. "Good to sit up," he explained. "I know where you have been. I met that boy Claxstone, and he told me. I hope you have had a pleasant day?" "Very pleasant!" she answered; and this time his acute ear caught the bitterness in her tone. "Not pleasant? Too long a journey, and too hot a day? I am sorry! It makes your goodness in sitting up to see me all the greater. While I think of it, let me offer you these flowers—they are the orchid blossoms from Nice of which I spoke.

"Yes," he repeated, as calmly as before.

She smiled with fierce scorn. "And I know what you have hidden from me, what, like a coward and a cheat, you have kept secret."

"What is this you know?" he asked, his eyes fixed on hers. "I know that they are married!" she hissed.

He looked at her in silence, a strange light in his eyes. She waited a second, then she laughed with a scorn that should have cut him to the quick. "They are married, and you knew it. You betrayed me—and yourself! Into the air go all your hysteric boasts and vanities. You have no chance of becoming the marquis, or the heir to the marquis, so I cast you off!"

She went on, fiercely, torturing herself while she thought she was torturing him—"you, who made so sure of reaching your ambition; you, who thought it so easy to make a fool and dupe of the man who stood between you and all you desire, all you would have purchased me with! You are the fool and dupe; you have been beaten by the man you sought to cheat; I will have no tool or dupe for a husband! I recall—no, I abide by my promise—and I cast you off now and forever!" and, with a gesture of infinite scorn, she threw her splendid arms as if she were discarding some worthless, hateful object.

He stood pale, white to the lips. Her scorn cut him to the heart. With all his baseness, he loved her, as passionately, as truly, as a better man might have done, and her words cut into his soul. (To be continued.)

Too Nervous to Sleep.

Nerves Wrecked by Accident—Was Afraid to Go to a Crowd or to Stay Alone—His Cure.

Much sympathy was felt in this city for Mr. Dorsey, who met with a distressing accident when his foot was smashed in an elevator. The shock to the nervous system was so great that Mr. Dorsey was in a pitiable condition for a long time. He was like a child in that he required his mother's care nearly all the time. He feared a crowd, could not stay alone and could not sleep because of the weakened and excited condition of his nerves.

Detroit doctors did what they could for him, but he could not get back his strength and vigor until he fortunately heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is no mere accident that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves to be exactly what is needed in so many cases of exhausted nerves. It is composed of the ingredients which nature requires to form new blood, and create new nerve force. For this reason it cannot fail and for this reason it succeeds when ordinary medicines fail.

Mr. Laurence E. Dorsey, 39 Stanley street, London, Ont., writes: "About three years ago I got my foot smashed in an elevator in Detroit, which completely wrecked my nerves. I doctored with the doctors there, but they did not seem to be able to help me. My nerves were in such a state that I could not go down town alone, or go any place where there was a crowd. Sometimes my mother would have to sit and watch over me at night, and sometimes I could not get any sleep at all. But one day last winter I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before I had completely used the first box I could see a difference in my condition. I continued using these pills for some time. The result was splendid. I feel so much better, can sleep well at night, can go out on the street and attend gatherings like the rest of people. I am so pleased to be able to tell you what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for me, and to recommend it to other people."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co. Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Knock Down Motor Engines.

4 H.P., $110.00; 8 H.P., 2 CYLINDER, A new idea in Motors.

We have secured the agency for the celebrated "Knock Down Motor Engines." Each part of these engines is made so perfect that it is not necessary to assemble and test the engine before shipment. You save the cost of all that work by doing the work yourself.

All parts of the engine are carefully packed and shipped just as they come from the automatic machines at the factory—not even painted—full directions for assembling, including a picture with number and name of each part, are sent you. The Company guarantees that every part will fit perfectly, and that any man who can read English and use a wrench can set them up.

These engines are guaranteed exactly the same as common engines that have been fitted and tested at the factory and sold at double the price. Why not save a month's wages by setting up your own engine.

These engines are 2 cycle. Price guaranteed to May 15. Terms: half cash with order, balance on arrival. On rush orders, can wire order and have engine sent by express. Purchaser to pay difference in charges.

I'M FOR THIS HOSE

GOODRICH GARDEN HOSE

It's worth just the difference between a dry, colorless garden and a fresh, green one—a water-spouted hose and a dry comfortable one—the annual purchase of hose and a perennial one that does not need watching with every bend and twist.

You don't have to buy garden hose annually—if you use "Goodrich." It costs less to pay a little more and get hose that lasts for many seasons.

Try GOODRICH! Even the feel of it is different.

Other Special Garden Supplies: Lawnmowers, Rakes, Hoes, Spading Forks, Spades, Trowels, Hoe Roods, Sprinklers, Pruning Knives, Trimming Shears.

FRENCH IMPROVE POSITIONS. LONDON, May 12.—French troops on the Flanders front improved their positions north of Kemmel Village yesterday and took more than 100 prisoners. The War Office announces the German artillery is active in the Ancre River sector, east of Loos, and in Flanders, south of Voormezeele.

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT. ROME, May 12.—Italian troops yesterday stormed an Austrian post at Col Dell Orso on the northern mountain front, destroying its garrison, and the War Office announces. Sharp local fighting occurred at other points.

PLUCKY FIGHT OF AIRMEN. WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 11.—In addition to destroying eight of the German aeroplanes which were engaged so successfully on Tuesday by two British machines, the British aviators sent down five others damaged. The battle began when the British aviators attacked seven German planes. Two enemy formations came up raising the total of German machines to twenty, but instead of retiring the British fighters pressed the attack. In and out among the large enemy force these two planes with their gallant little crews surprised and charged. Little crews worked their rapid fire guns like mad. One of the Britishers got on the tail of a big German machine and riddled it with bullets. The enemy airplane hung quivering in the air for a moment and then turning its nose toward the earth, came crashing down with shots of flame bursting from it. The seven other German machines were shot to pieces in rapid succession and took the final plunge, three of them leaving a wake of fire and black smoke to tell the story of the terrible fate suffered by the men strapped in their seats. The five others dived away in the hope of reaching the ground safely. Thirty minutes had sufficed for the British machines to accomplish all this. The British had used up all their ammunition in the furious melee, however, and there was nothing left to do but to withdraw, which they did in safety.

A GLORIOUS END. LONDON, May 11.—(Via Reuters.)—The Vindictive's noble end is acclaimed by the newspapers as securing her a place in history for association with two of the most heroic deeds in naval annals. It is declared that Nelson never did anything finer, and that if his ship, the Victory, is the cathedral of the Navy, the Vindictive is the twentieth century witness of its fighting spirit. Occasion is taken to pay tribute to the skill and devotion with which the Navy secured a triumph of sea-power in a manner unprecedented in the history of warfare. Deeds as intrepid and skilful as those now applauded are done daily and nightly, but the well concealing the navy's work is rarely lifted. Jellicoe's prediction that the submarine menace would be ended by August is now being recalled in connection not only with the Zebrugges-Ostend exploits, but the closing of the North Sea from the Orkneys to Norway by the greatest mine field ever laid. Millions in mines and money have been devoted to this North Sea barrage, which the Germans will be able to evade only if they use Norwegian waters. The completion of the mine field and the Belgian coast operations are regarded as the most important naval undertakings of the war, and confidence is expressed that this aggressive policy will be further extended.

THE RAID ON OSTEND. LONDON, May 11.—A large number of the officers and men who took part in the campaign against Zebrugges Mole on April 23rd, claimed the right to participate in the Ostend operations, says the Central News story of the raid, and their wish was gratified. All the men on the Vindictive were volunteers from the Dover patrol. At 3.15 o'clock the Warwick, flagship of Admiral Keyes, shipped a motor boat which had on board two officers and 38 men of the Vindictive. An officer who was on the destroyer described the operations. Up to 1.45 o'clock, we heard nothing of the enemy, he said, then he sent up star shells and flashed his searchlights. A heavy bombardment followed when we were about two and a half miles from the shore. By the light of the star shells and searchlights the entrance was located, then a fog came on, and the attack was prevented from continuing their work. For an hour this state of things continued, but then the weather cleared sufficiently to permit our armmen to commence operations. Heavy fire was carried on the Vindictive. When at two o'clock she found the entrance to the harbor she ran her stern into the pier and was abandoned. The crews of the motor launches behaved in the most gallant manner rushing into the water utterly regardless of their safety to those that no one was left behind. The launch brought off two officers and five men from the Vindictive. An-

EARLY MESSAGES

FRENCH IMPROVE POSITIONS.

LONDON, May 12. French troops on the Flanders front improved their positions north of Kemmel yesterday and took more than 100 prisoners. The War Office announces the German artillery is active in the Ancre River sector, east of Loos, and in Flanders, south of Voormezel.

ON THE ITALIAN FRONT.

ROME, May 12. Italian troops yesterday stormed an Austrian post at Col Dell Orso on the northern mountain front, destroying the garrison. The War Office announces sharp local fighting occurred at other points.

PLUCKY FIGHT OF AIRMEN.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 11.—In addition to destroying eight of the German aircraft yesterday by two British fighters, the British aviators sent down five others damaged. The battle began when the British aviators attacked seven German planes. Two other enemy formations came up raising the total of German machines to twenty. Instead of retiring the British fighters pressed the attack. In all out of the large enemy force about two planes with their gallant crews swirled and charged, working their rapid fire guns like mad. One of the Britishers got on the tail of a big German machine and riddled it with bullets. The enemy airplane hung quivering in the air for a moment and then turning its nose toward the earth, came crashing down with shots of flame bursting from it. The seven other German machines were shot to pieces in rapid succession and took the final plunge, three of them leaving a wake of fire and black smoke to tell the story of the struggle suffered by the men strapped in their seats. The five others dived away in the hope of reaching the ground safely. Thirty minutes had sufficed for the British machines to accomplish all this. The British had used up all their ammunition in the furious melee, however, and there was nothing left to do but withdraw, which they did in safety.

A GLORIOUS END.

LONDON, May 11. The Vindictive's noble end is acclaimed by the newspapers as securing her a place in history for association with two of the most heroic deeds in naval annals. It is declared that Nelson never did anything finer, and that if his ship, the Victory, is the cathedral of the Navy, the Vindictive is the twentieth century witness of its fighting spirit. Occasion is taken to pay tribute to the skill and devotion with which the Vindictive secured a triumph of sea-power in a manner unprecedented in the history of warfare. Deeds as intrepid as those which she accomplished are done daily and nightly, but the well concealing the navy's work is rarely lifted. Jillicoe's prediction that the submarine menace would be ended by August is now being recalled in connection not only with the Zebrugges-Ostend exploits, but the closing of the North Sea from the Helgoland to Norway by the greatest force ever laid. Millions in money and time have been devoted to this North Sea barrage, which the Germans will be able to evade only if they use Norwegian waters. The completion of the mine field and the big coastal operations are regarded as the most important naval undertakings of the war, and confidence is expressed that this aggressive policy will be further extended.

THE RAID ON OSTEND.

LONDON, May 11. A large number of the officers and men who took part in the campaign against Zebrugges Mole on April 23rd, had the right to participate in the Ostend operations, says the Central News story of the raid, and their wish was gratified. All the men on the Vindictive were volunteers from the Dover patrol. At 3.15 o'clock the Vindictive, flagship of Admiral Keyes, towed a motor boat which had on board two officers and 38 men of the Vindictive. An officer who was on a destroyer described the operations. By 1.45 o'clock, we heard nothing of the enemy, he said, then he sent up search shells and flashed his searchlight. A heavy bombardment followed when we were about two and a half miles from the shore. By the light of the star shells and searchlight the entrance was located, then a long came on, and the airmen were prevented from continuing their work. For an hour this state of things continued, but then the weather cleared sufficiently to permit our airmen to resume operations. Heavy fire was poured on the Vindictive. We at last saw the entrance to the pier where she ran her stem into the pier and was abandoned. The crews of the motor launches behaved in the most gallant manner rushing into the mine battery regardless of their safety. It is to be seen that no one was left behind. The launch brought off two officers and 38 men from the Vindictive. Another, which subsequently went along, took off a lieutenant and two ratings, who were wounded, while two other motor launches, also detailed for rescue work, kept close by the shore, their crews displaying the greatest pluck and determination. Our vessels effectively bombarded the shore battery; the work of the monitors in this respect were particularly fine. Altogether two hundred shells fell within a few yards of two or three monitors, but neither was hit, nor was a casualty caused. During the whole operations not one enemy craft was seen. At 2.40 o'clock, according to the programme, the retirement was begun. Commander Lyons, who conducted the blockading operation at Zebrugges, was in command on the present occasion. He tells the following story: Weather conditions at the start were in every way suitable. There was a light northwest wind. The sea was favorable to small craft, there was a clear sky, and the visibility was good. The outward passage was made without interference on the part of the enemy. The small craft were all despatched to their stations with destroyers in support, and two coastal motor boats were told off to torpedo the piers before the arrival of the Vindictive. Until 1.45 o'clock the enemy was remarkably quiet, but just at this time the Germans began to open fire. Star shells showed that the smoke screens were progressing excellently. At about this time the sky, which hitherto had been almost unclouded, began to be partially obscured by low drifting clouds. In about ten minutes before the Vindictive was due at her destination, a sea fog set in. This stopped our air attacks; indeed for a time even the searchlights could not be seen. This state of things continued for almost an hour, when it cleared sufficiently for the aerial attacks to be recommenced. It was a lurid scene when the Vindictive arrived at 2 o'clock, practically programme time. There was a thundering of guns from sea and land, and the exploding of bombs from airplanes added to the din, and there was an occasional cry of agony from someone mortally wounded. Searchlights criss-crossed above, and the whole scene was illuminated with flashes and star shells. The Vindictive cruised about for twenty minutes in the fog looking for the entrance to the harbor, which she eventually found. According to the Press Association, the Vindictive had a complement of 83 officers and men. The effect of the operation was to restrict greatly the use of the harbor, making it impossible for cruisers to go in and out. Experts do not go so far as to say that the same disability applies to submarines and destroyers. An interesting disclosure may now be made regarding the previous attempt to block Ostend. It was unsuccessful because the enemy had just moved about a mile from his former position. It is believed that if he had not made this change both blockships would have got in.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

LONDON, May 12. Field Marshal Haig's report from the retirement of General Maurice, night says a raid attempted by the enemy in the neighborhood of Neuville-Vitasse was repulsed. There is nothing further of special interest to report.

MAURICE RETIRED.

LONDON, May 12. The Army Council has decided that General Frederick Maurice shall be placed forthwith upon retired pay. The retirement of General Maurice was made known to-night by a brief statement from the War Office. It reads as follows: The Army Council having considered the explanations tendered by Major General Maurice of a breach of regulations committed by him in writing and causing to be published a letter which appeared in the press of the 7th inst., has decided that he be placed forthwith on retired pay.

Seaplanes Putting U-Boats Out of Action

THRILLING TALES OF SEA WARFARE.

When Mr. Balfour was First Lord he explained to the house of Commons the philosophic doubt with which the sinking of German submarines had to be accepted. Fortunately there are clear, indisputable cases of these pests being sent under, and none can be better authenticated than those described in some recent Admiralty reports. Our ways of dealing with the German undersea pirates are varied, but none will strike the imagination more vividly than several duels between submarines that are now on record. Until an Italian submarine tackled single-handed and sank an Austrian in the Adriatic, it was thought that such combats were in the region of romance, but here is a good story which shows that they do happen. One morning a British submarine sighted a German, and at once gave chase. It was no good to do so on the surface, so she took the enemy's bearings, dived, and a quarter of an hour later peeped from her periscope and ascertained that she was in a favorable position to attack. A few minutes later the British submarine let fly a torpedo, and at the end of sixty seconds the sound of a sharp explosion indicated that it had reached its billet. The British boat then came up to look for results, and sighted a patch of oil right ahead and three men swimming in it. Two of the Germans were rescued, but the third sank before help reached him.

The Laconic Log Book.

The Navy does not waste words. Here are two entries in a log which describe as briefly and pitifully a naval success as can well be imagined. The captain of the British submarine's report says: 10 a.m.—Sighted hostile submarine. Attacked same. 10.30 a.m.—Torpedoed submarine. Hit with one torpedo amidships. Submarine seen to blow up and disappear. Surface to look for survivors. Put down immediately by destroyers, who fired at me.

The story might stand there, but the captain adds that during his attack there was just enough sea to make depth-keeping difficult. He fired two torpedoes, and one hit at the forward end of the conning tower. A large column of yellow smoke, about one and a half times as high as the mast, was observed, and the submarine disappeared. The explosion was heard and felt in our own submarine. In a Hot Corner.

The British submarine was in a very hot corner when the U-boat was bagged. How it escaped the hue and cry is best told in the captain's own words: "After torpedoing the submarine I proceeded four miles away and lay on the bottom. Many vessels throughout the day were heard in close proximity. Several explosions were heard, especially one very heavy one. It must have been close, as the noise was considerably louder than that of the torpedo."

Here is another narrative of the sinking of an enemy submarine after a two hours' chase. While manoeuvring to attack our submarine had to pass through shallow water, and as the sea was rough at the time, she frequently bumped the bottom heavily, but, fortunately, did not damage her hull. At a range of 550 yards both tubes discharged torpedoes.

Fifteen or twenty seconds after firing a shell report was heard. When the periscope was raised after a short interval nothing was seen of the enemy submarine, but there was a great disturbance in the water where she had been, and it was observed that the water was covered with an oily substance.

Attacks by Seaplanes.

While on patrol in the Channel a Royal Naval seaplane X sighted a submarine eight miles away, in the line of a convoy which was about 10 miles off. When the seaplane reached bombing position, the top of the conning tower was just awash, and both periscopes were out of the water. Two large bombs were released the first of which exploded on the conning tower, and the periscope was seen to collapse. The second bomb hit the water 30 feet ahead of the conning tower, in a direct line with the bow of the submarine. The seaplane then turned, and a considerable disturbance was seen on the surface. An upheaval of water with quantities of air rusher up. Two other bombs were dropped from a height of 1,000 feet, one of which exploded in the midst of the disturbance.

A Shoal of U-Boats.

One of our large seaplanes the other morning sighted an enemy submarine, painted light grey, with a mast and a gun on what appeared to be a raised deck. By the gun was one of the crew. Flying over the submarine, a bomb was dropped by the seaplane, and a hit was made on the left of the vessel. Turning to repeat the attack, our airman saw that the explosion had made a large rent in the deck, and this was photographed. At this moment gun flashes were seen some distance in front of the submarine, and through the mist came three more enemy submarines heading for the attacked vessel, escorted by three destroyers. All six vessels opened fire on our machine, but none of their shells were effective. Our seaplane again passed over the U-boat which was sinking by the stern, with the bow fully out of the water. A second bomb was released and exploded about 15 feet ahead of the bow of the submarine, causing her to sink immediately, leaving a quantity of blackish oil, air bubbles, and foreign matter on the surface. Our seaplane, having no further bombs, sent a wireless message explaining the position of the destroyers, and returned home in safety.

Two large seaplanes sighted an enemy submarine travelling about 14 knots. The first machine to reach her dropped a bomb, which exploded, and the submarine began to sink stern first, the bow rising high in the water. The second machine dropped a bomb which exploded immediately in front of the conning tower. Another explosion occurred under water, followed by several smaller explosions. Two men were on the conning tower as the vessel sank, but nothing more was seen of them.

Turned Turtle.

Again a seaplane and two aeroplanes on patrol saw a U-boat of very large type, with two periscopes. The submarine dived on hearing the aircraft's engines, but not before the seaplane had dropped two bombs, which fell just about the conning tower, one seeming to be a direct hit. The submarine turned upside down, and a large bubble, with wreckage, and large quantities of oil, subsequently appeared.

A patrolling alrship noticed an attack by a submarine on a steamer, and flew down on the spot. By this time the submarine had submerged. Two bombs were dropped from the alrship on the submerged vessel, and several bubbles, one of huge size, came to the surface. Two trawlers dropped depth charges, three of which exploded right over the target, and much oil came up.

A seaplane met a merchant ship and saw a large disturbance on the water 200 yards from the vessel. Then the wake of a torpedo was seen, but the torpedo missed the ship by a few yards. The seaplane, in less than a minute after sighting the U-boat's movements, dropped two bombs, which exploded within eight yards of each other. Large quantities of oil and bubbles rose to the surface; the merchantman proceeded on her course in safety.

An enemy submarine was sighted by two large seaplanes while on patrol. A bomb dropped by one of the seaplanes exploded just about the centre of the submarine, which listed heavily to port, and went down by the stern within a minute.—Montreal Daily Star.

This War's Most Powerful Gun.

The recent publicity given the long range German gun has quite overshadowed the French 620-millimeter gun, which after all remains the most powerful gun now in use. Whereas the German piece throws its shell some 75 miles, the French gun is relatively a howitzer hurling a huge shell a comparatively short distance. Practically speaking, it is a fort wrecker of proved powers. For some time there had been rumors of a 620-millimeter gun employed by the French artilleryists, but the difficulties in the way of producing such a powerful piece of mobile artillery did not place much credence in the unofficial descriptions; they preferred to wait for some definite evidence.

It was not until the French official films presented the 620-millimeter gun to American audiences that ordnance experts and others were convinced that the huge mobile howitzer was a fait accompli. The photographs which have recently reached this country show one of these huge guns receiving the final touches at the Crenot works in France, and another similar gun in action. It appears that the gun is a howitzer mounted on a railroad carriage, and fires a shell measuring 20.47 inches in diameter. As a fort wrecker, this gun is undoubtedly without peer, the German 420-millimeter and the Austrian 300-millimeter howitzers having been outdone by a good margin. During the French attack on Fort Malmson it is reported that a single 620-millimeter shell crumbled this permanent fortification upon which the Germans had spent so much time and labor.—Scientific American.

Public Notice

I am directed by His Excellency the Governor in Council to issue the following notice under Authority of Minute in Council passed 28th February, 1918.

Augmentation of the Pay of Royal Naval Reservists Newfoundland.

The Government of Newfoundland have decided to augment the pay of Newfoundland Royal Naval Reservists so as to place them on the same footing as men of the Newfoundland Regiment.

Under the provision of the War Measure Act, authority is given to the Minister of Militia to deal with the matter of augmentation of pay of the Royal Naval Reservists, Nfld., in consultation with the Senior Naval Officer, St. John's.

It is ordered that a sum of 33c. per day be placed to the credit of each Naval Reservist from the time of commencement of the war, in cases where men were then serving, or otherwise, from the time when their services began up to the time of discharge, or of death, or to the 30th of September, 1917, inclusive.

As the rate of pay of Naval Reservists was increased from October 1st, 1917, and as the difference between the amount they receive and that allowed the members of The Royal Newfoundland Regiment is 17c. per day, this difference will also be credited them from that date.

The foregoing amounts will not in any case be made a payment from Admiralty sources. The Minister of Militia, St. John's, Nfld., is solely responsible for the issue of any sums due.

Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve men serving in any of H. M. Ships, including all members of the Trawler Reserve and those in Defensively Armed Merchant Ships etc., are eligible for the pay as set forth, and should be informed of the following alternatives as regards the method of payment:—

- (a) Payment will be made on personal application to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.
- (b) Payment will be made to the nominee of any Reserve man, on written application duly witnessed, to the Minister of Militia, St. John's.
- (c) Sums due will be placed to the credit of Reserve men who do not desire to avail themselves of the foregoing and can be drawn by them at the expiration of their service.

The following form is to be compiled and forwarded direct to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, Newfoundland, at the earliest possible date:—

NAME AND OFFICIAL NO.	WHAT IS DESIRED DISPOSAL OF AMOUNT DUE UNDER ORDER 1, 2, or 3. (IN CASE OF 2, FULL NAME AND ADDRESS MUST BE GIVEN.)	SIGNATURE AUTHORIZING DISPOSAL.

All communications of any description with regard to these payments are to be made to the Minister of Militia, St. John's, direct.

Payment will commence on 1st May, 1918.

In cases where members of the Royal Naval Reserve (Newfoundland) have been killed in action or died of wounds or sickness, or through any other cause, the amount due as Augmentation Pay will go to the Estate of the deceased. The authority to obtain the Estate of the deceased is, in case of a Will, Letters of Probate; and in case there is not a Will, Letters of Administration. Such letters are issued by the Supreme Court of Newfoundland on the Petition and Proofs of Executor of the Will, or the next of kin. If the Estate does not exceed $500.00, after the proof of the facts has been obtained the petition can be applied for by the Minister of Justice.

With reference to the foregoing, it is suggested that the next of kin of Reservists who are now serving should communicate with them and request them to send their instructions to the Militia Department. No action can be taken until such instructions are received.

Next of kin of deceased Reservists will be communicated with in due course when their claims have been proved.

J. R. BENNETT, Minister of Militia.

"IN FREEDOM'S CAUSE." Evening Telegram W. J. HERDER, - - - Proprietor C. T. JAMES, - - - Editor MONDAY, May 13, 1918.

In His True Colours.

"Any person who by means of any written or printed communication, publication or article... advises or urges that men contravene this Act... or impedes or persuades, or induces or attempts to induce, persuade or induce any person or class of persons to resist or impede this Act, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable upon indictment or upon summary conviction to imprisonment for a term of not less than one year, nor more than five years."

The foregoing is an extract from the Military Service Act of Newfoundland, and is quoted in the penal section. On the 27th of April this Act was passed unanimously in the Legislature.

Conscription Becomes Law. A Proclamation putting the Conscription Bill into immediate operation has been issued by the Governor.

The Newest Recruit. Mr. R. Moulton, M.H.A. for the District of Burgeo and LaPoile, came in by express from Halifax (where he is permanently residing) via Port aux Basques on Friday evening, and Saturday afternoon appeared in the Assembly Chamber taking his seat on the Government benches.

Prisoner of War Writes. Mrs. Matthew Kneib is in receipt of a post card from her son, Matthew, who is a prisoner of war at Kriegsmarine, Limburg, February 1918, and is herewith published by request.

A Case of Milk. The case of the Health Authorities vs. a milk vendor of Mount Pearl, comes up in the Magistrate's Court on Wednesday morning.

The People's Rights Ignored. Editor Evening Telegram. Sir.—The House of Assembly was formerly, and always ought to be, the voice of the People.

Pertinent Questions. SUGGESTED AND OTHERWISE. It is true that the B. T. Tax Assessor who was formerly employed by the Revenue Protection Service, is being paid a salary of $2,000 per annum?

Whether it is not unfair to the elderly men in the Civil Service, some of whom have given their services to the cause of freedom, that juveniles are promoted, over their heads, whenever there are new appointments made?

Whether in the interests of the Army Drill, Bill Coaker costs of the right about turn, as he can accomplish a vote-face any time with the utmost celerity? Whether some of the Telegram's correspondents will give the inner history of the Coaker-Morris vote-face.

Whether it is true that "the Barren" is stated to have said that he "drug" John Bennett through in the West End? Whether John Bennett finds it strenuous to draw $4,000 a year? Whether that is all he draws, or will draw?

Whether these kind of amounts are not put in the estimates? Will somebody with backbone in the Upper House or Lower House, distinguish themselves by acting on behalf of an interested public, what about the "Barren's" suggested language which is so insulting, if not more so, an impediment to the operation of the Military Service Act than any which appears in the newspaper stored in the Legislative Council Chamber, but has been published in three city dailies?

Whether it is not a pity that in this remote corner of it we should furnish the exception. However, it is exceedingly satisfactory that the public have now been made aware of what is to be expected from the Legislature, as at present constituted, and it is for them to consider what proper course they should adopt to re-establish their rights under the constitution. I am not quite sure that they have been rendered powerless by the action of the Legislature, and the Supreme Court may, upon proper action, redress their grievance.

Legislative Council. The Council met at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, the 11th inst. The Extension Bill passed with some amendments, the principal one being that any members receiving positions of emolument, except ministerial positions, after the passing of the Bill, would have to vacate their seats. The amendment also applies to the President and members of the order offices, and consequently the seats held by Hon. F. J. Morris, K.C., and Mr. Devereaux, for Placentia and St. Mary's, become vacant.

When adjournment was moved by Hon. Mr. Ellis, Hon. Mr. Squires rose from his seat and called the attention of the President and members of the House to a false report of the proceedings of the House on the previous day, which appeared in the editorial columns and on the editorial page of the Mail and Advocate under the caption of "Mr. Coaker's Circular" and Mr. R. A. Squires makes unwarranted attacks on the F. P. U. What he read he stated was an expression of opinion by Mr. Coaker given in a circular in support of the opinion expressed by Dr. L. O. O'Brien, namely, that the Military Service Act might not be required at all.

Mr. Squires called attention of Hon. Mr. Morris, and he did not read it in his editorial that he (Mr. S.) had failed to read from the circular the part favourable to Mr. Coaker. Hon. Mr. Squires said he had read garbled extracts, and had made an attack on the F.P.U. What he read he stated was an expression of opinion by Mr. Coaker given in a circular in support of the opinion expressed by Dr. L. O. O'Brien, namely, that the Military Service Act might not be required at all.

Mr. Squires replied by saying he was not responsible for the news items that had appeared on the editorial page of the Mail and Advocate, and he was responsible for the article which stated Hon. Mr. Squires had read garbled extracts from the Coaker's circular. It was evidently the work of the reporter who was probably expressing his own views in the matter.

Mr. Squires, with the courtesy of the President, continued and said the sending out of the circular was not a private act of a private individual, and he did not read it. 250 copies had been sent out to 250 councils, and many of these councils represented a large number of towns and villages.

The BULLET
Finance Minister Reviews Colony's Finances. Additional Taxation Introduced, Including Income, Stamp, Excise and Export Duties on Fishery Products

Mr. CASHIN. — Mr. Chairman, it is my good fortune to-day to be able to present my tenth annual report to this House, and to be more able to congratulate the House on having a generous surplus of credit as a result of the operations of the fiscal year which ended on the 31st of June last, a surplus of $651,756.93, and is thus the largest on record,
exceeding the largest on record,
namely $489,358.25.

Revenue from all sources for the coming fiscal year would reach a round figure of six million dollars. I am largely influenced to this belief by the fact that last year my estimate was a quarter million dollars whereas we will have about $500,000 additional when the current fiscal year's accounts are closed, and will prosperity as widespread and assured as it apparently is at present, and with the new income tax, there ought to be a goodly addition.

However, as in these days one never knows what conditions may develop from month to month, we feel that it is well to be on the safe side and we are proposing some new taxes, the nature of which I will indicate later. We are doing this because our expenditures may be swollen considerably by large outlays arising from the increased participation in the war which are now proposed, and for which it is hardly fair to burden the Dominion unduly. We have voted main Estimates already this session of $5,367,000, and additional estimates voted yesterday amount to $24, 500, or a grand total of $5,400,000.

which will be published later.
This amount has been met so far in the following ways:
War Loan of $2,000,000 realising for military purposes.
Vote from Surplus Trust.
1915-16 . . . . . $429,000
Vote from Surplus Trust.
1916-17 . . . . . 470,000
Vote for Pensions, 1917-18 . . . . . 60,000
Making a total of, roundly, 2,539,000
the additional amounts being obtained by advances from the Imperial Treasury.

Further proof of the same kind is afforded by the outcome of the operations of her various banks. The four Canadian Banks, doing business in Newfoundland through their Savings branches and interest bearing deposits, had on December 31st, 1917, on the books $13,533,607.37, representing,
in the main, the savings of our people.
This is an increase of $2,406,718 over the amount shown the previous year, namely, $11,126,889, or in other words that our people deposited in these banks last year nearly 2 1/2 million dollars, or twice what they did the year before, a sum far and away
the largest in our history, and representing, as a matter of fact, an addition in one year of nearly a total Savings of about sixteen million dollars.
It is scarcely necessary to dwell on these figures. They tell their own story.

The Annual Report of the Postmaster-General for the last financial year indicates the same favourable conditions. He shows, for instance, that in ten years the turn over of the Money Order Branch of his Department increased 85 per cent. to 1,947,401 to $98,822, and that the Money Orders received and paid grew from one million to two and a half millions in the same period, also that in the last five years the sales of stamps have grown from $11,000 to $155,000, an increase of 39 per cent. in that period;
that the gross revenue of the Money Order business for the past two years is nearly forty-three per cent. that the total volume of financial business done by the general Post Office was $890, 000, an increase of nearly $100,000 or almost fourteen per cent. over the previous year, and that in the last twelve months the number of parcels handled by his Department increased from 157,442 to 238,445, an increase of per cent. of which over 10 per cent.
occurred the past year, while in the Telegraph branch the increase in two years has been from $95,000 to $300, 000, a growth of nearly 36 per cent.
in two years, of which 18 per cent. occurred the past twelve months.

It is gratifying to observe that the annual Report of the Board of Trade presented in January, in reviewing the events for the calendar year 1917,
"congratulates the members of the satisfactory condition the Colony occupies to-day"; and then goes on to say:
"The year that has just closed has been one of the most momentous in the history of the Trade of the Colony. The difficulties created by war conditions during the past few years very much increased last year, and in addition thereto we have been faced with the trouble of handling and marketing one of the largest catches of fish the country has experienced for some years. It is with satisfaction that the Council is able to report that, in spite of the immense difficulties under which the business of the Colony has been operating during the past year, the trade of the Colony with but few exceptions, is in a prosperous condition, and although there are many serious obstacles in the way of our staple industries, the business of the year, the situation is such that most classes of the community have reason to be thankful."
In the face of all these facts, it is evident that the conditions which prevail throughout Newfoundland are of a highly encouraging character, and we are, therefore, emboldened to endurate the imposition of an income tax following the precedent already created in Great Britain and the other United States. The details of this matter I will deal with more fully on the introduction of that Bill itself, but I may say here that there is an obligation on every person in the Colony with an annual income, if unmarried, of over $1,000.00 per year, that he should pay a certain amount of tax on the excess income graded according to the amount. In these days, when we are asking some of our people to sacrifice their lives in the name of freedom, it is a very small demand to make upon those who remain at home enjoying the comforts of the riches they enjoy, to contribute their share to the maintenance of the State, and the payment of the obligations of the war has imposed upon us, and which the pensions for our brave soldiers and sailors, and their dependents, will require in the future.
I am confident that this measure will meet the unanimous acceptance of the Legislature.

An increase of $1.25 a pound on cigarettes.
An export duty of 20 cents a quintal
on fish.
An export duty of two cents a gallon on fish oils of all kinds.
An export duty of twenty cents a barrel on herring.
An export duty of fifty cents a case on lobsters, and fifty cents a case on salmon, and an export duty at the rate of 30c. a tierce on salmon.
An export duty of twenty cents each on seal skins.
From these various duties we expect to obtain a Revenue of about $500,000 in round figures.
Therefore, our exhibit, for the next fiscal year will be as follows:
Main Estimates voted last week . . . . . $5,367,000 Additional Estimate voted last week . . . . . 24,500
Total Estimated Expenditure . . . . . 5,391,500
Or, then say roundly . . . . . 5,400,000
And on the other hand:
Revenue from ordinary services (including new income tax), say . . . . . 6,000,000
Proposed new War taxes . . . . . 500,000
Total estimated value . . . . . $6,500,000
I, therefore, estimate a substantial surplus allowing for the inevitable Supplementary Estimates of next session and unforeseen contingencies which may arise meanwhile.
I have attached to this review extracts from the Auditor-General's report containing various financial statements of interest, which will be printed with this speech to-morrow, and will thus be available for hon. members if they desire to consult them, and as I feel that the sentiment of the House would probably be that it desires an opportunity to consider the general features of this review more fully before entering into a discussion of its salient points, I move that the Committee rise, report progress, and ask leave to sit again on Monday next.

Household Notes.

Always cook macaroni in salted water that is boiling when you put the macaroni in.
Plaster of Paris, if mixed with vinegar instead of water, can be worked like putty.
Vegetarianism ought to become more easy to practise as the hot weather approaches.
The few things in the shape of china and silver on exhibition in a dining room the better.
Use skim milk instead of water in cooking cereals if you would add to their nutritive value.
If you wish to be very economical with olive oil, mix it—equal parts—with pure cottonseed oil.
Figs are delicious baked several hours, with lemon juice and lemon rind to give added flavor.
The tomato sauce to be used in smothering fresh fish should be made savory with a little onion.
Potatoes of medium size are more satisfactory all round; they should be yellowish-white in color.
Ten cents' worth of skim milk has more nourishment in it than the same money's worth of steak.
Don't expect to have a cake turn out well if you have to use fewer than the called for number of eggs in it.
The white-fleshed fish, such as flounder, cod and halibut, is more easily digested than other varieties.
Even at this season various kinds of left-over fruits can be combined in a fruit gelatine for dessert.
Three of the cheapest foods we have are hominy, corn meal and rice, and there are many ways of using them.
Allow one level teaspoonful of salt to favour a quart of soup, sauce or water in which vegetables are to be cooked.

Two Many Stents.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

We live and learn. Sometime ago I remember that I wrote about making one's work less tedious by setting oneself stents and seeing how swiftly one could get them done, or by trying to surpass one's former record. I still think there are times and conditions when this is a good thing to do. But I have also come to see that there are times and conditions when this is a very bad thing to do. I made it a plan to knit a certain time every evening. I found I was doing a certain amount in that time. Then I tried to see if I could not do a little more. I could. Then I set myself a new stent. Queer Sensations. Presently I found that I was looking at the clock as I finished each rib. And then I began to have queer sensations; my hand felt cramped, the needle that rested against my finger hurt, my muscles began to twitch. And all at once I realized what the trouble was. In setting myself stents, in knitting by the clock, I was putting a pressure on myself that inevitably affected my nerves. By this time the sight of the knitting needles gave me a queer feeling in my stomach. I had to give up knitting altogether for a few days. When I took it up again, I resolutely turned my back on the clock and refused to notice how many ribs I was knitting in any given time. And They Never Set Stents. There are temperaments for which stents may be a good thing—phlegmatic, easy going temperaments. Ironically, these are the people who have no inclination to set themselves stents. For other types of temperament, a stent is wicked. I once knew a young lawyer who brought himself to the verge of nervous prostration by promising himself

Our Daily Story.

THE CHAMPION.

The Stingy Man's Club was about to elect a president, and the candidates, before the voting, were stating their qualifications for the office.

Silas Tizzet cleared his throat sprang, and said, "Gentlemen, I'm so stung that the stamps come off all the letters I mail because I can't bring myself to give them a good lick."

Rudolph Hammerstein rose to one foot. "Gentlemen," he said, "I'm so stung that, whenever possible, I keep one foot off the ground to avoid wadding of shoe leather."

Pinion Cravat took the floor, carefully dropping a burned matchstick into his pocket to sharpen later into a toothpick.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I'm so stung that I smoke right through my cigar bands instead of taking them off and throwing them away."

Glancing at his watch and then replacing it carefully, so as not to fray the top of his pockets by any unnecessary friction, Plato Tizzet took the floor.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I'm so stung that I don't even hate the Germans for fear of the wear and tear on my temper."

A great shout of admiration and envy went up, the other candidates admitted that they had met their master and withdrew their candidacy, and Plato Tizzet was elected unanimously.

Everyday Etiquette. "Should I invite a young man to call on me or should I wait for him to ask if he may call?" queried May.

"Sometimes circumstances make it proper for a young lady to invite a young man to call on her, but usually she will wait for him to ask if he may," said her mother.

BEAUTY OF MIDDLE AGE.

As long as the middle aged woman feels young she will seem young and she will feel young only as long as she can live in the present and future and not in the past. In dress she must not repeat the mistakes of former days and compete for the adornment triumphs in which the young have the advantage.

Friendship, intellectuality and social triumphs, useful work and absorbent hobbies, are the opportunities for the middle aged woman. She should determine to be self sufficient, for the nearer she approaches a serene independence of the favors of others the happier she will be and the pleasanter companion she will make. She should be ready to give but not eager to receive, since no tragedy is sadder than that of a mother whose desire for the children who have gone away, cuts like a sword into her soul, or of the single woman because love has passed her by.

The woman of old times who lived by her affections often suffered cruelly, but what broke her heart generally causes the modern woman to have interests of her own which do not wholly forsake her even in circumstances of distressing loneliness and disappointment. She finds so much to do and to see, for there never has been an era like the present, so rich in opportunities for useful work, for culture, with a thousand doors open to the women with brains.

KEEPING COOL.

I still am calmly speaking of war and swords and flags, while my friends of mine are shrieking and rending of their rage. I never saw much profit in people running wild, and borrowing from Topical language that's defiled; I see no good in the language of the gutter. I do not call them yellow because they make less noise. Oh, I get sick as blazes of that abnormal bore who roasts, in rhotic phrases, the gent who lives next door; because said gent is quiet, and doth all fust abhor, and can't believe that riot will help to win the war. Our President serenely a good example sets to every

By His Excellency Sir Charles Alexander Harris, Knight, Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Governor and Commander in Chief of the Colony of Newfoundland, and over the Dominion of Newfoundland.

WHEREAS under the provisions of the Volunteer Act, 1914-1917, the Governor in Council was empowered to raise certain military forces in the said Acts described as Volunteer Forces, and to place such of the said Volunteers as might enlist for service abroad under the command of such Officers of His Majesty's Army as His Majesty might appoint or designate, and in the event of such powers the Royal Newfoundland Regiment has been raised and placed at the disposal of His Majesty as an expeditionary force for service in the present war.

And whereas the said Regiment is now engaged in active service overseas for the defence and security of the Empire and of human liberty, and it is necessary owing to the exigencies of the war to provide reinforcements for the said Regiment in addition to those whose inclination or circumstances have permitted them to volunteer.

And whereas it was accordingly enacted in and by the provisions of an Act of the Legislature, holden in the 24th and 25th years of the reign of His Majesty and known as the "Military Service Act, 1918," that every unmarried male British subject who comes within one of the classes described and intended by said Act shall be liable to be called out on active service in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, either within or beyond Newfoundland, and that his service shall be for the duration of the present war and demobilization after the conclusion of the war.

And whereas the men who, under the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act, are liable to be called out are comprised in four classes of which Class 1 is, by the provisions of the said Act, defined to consist of male British subjects ordinarily, or at any time since the 4th day of August, 1914, resident in Newfoundland, who have attained the age of nineteen years, who were born not earlier than the year 1893, and who on the 10th day of April unmarriage and who are not within any of the following enumerated exemptions:

1. Men who hold a certificate granted under the provisions of the said Military Service Act, 1918, and in force.

2. Members of His Majesty's Regular or Reserve, or auxiliary forces, as defined by the Army Act.

3. Members of the Military forces raised by the Governments of any of His Majesty's other Dominions, or by the Government of India.

4. Men serving in the Royal Navy, or in the Royal Marines, or in the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve, and members of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment.

5. Men who have since August 4th, 1914, served in the Military or Naval forces of Great Britain or any other ally in any theatre of actual war and have been honourably discharged therefrom.

6. Clergy, including members of any recognized order of an exclusively religious character, and ministers of all religious denominations existing in Newfoundland at the date of the passing of the said Military Service Act, and ecclesiastical students who are undergoing or have completed their course of study for the ministry at some college recognized by the head in Newfoundland of their religious denomination.

And whereas it is moreover provided by the said Military Service Act, that time to time, by Proclamation, may be set out in such Proclamation, and that all men within the class so called out shall, from the date of such proclamation, be deemed to be soldiers enlisted in the Military Service of Newfoundland and to be subject to Military Law, save as in the Act otherwise provided; and that men so called out shall report and be placed on active service in accordance with the Regulations but that they shall, so placed on active service, be deemed to be on leave of absence without pay.

And whereas it is also provided by the said Act that all men comprised in Class 1 shall be required to report not later than the Twenty-fourth day of May, One thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and that the date when such men shall be placed on active service shall be fixed by the Military Service Act and appointed under the provisions of the said Act.

And whereas it is also provided by the said Act that, at any time before the date fixed by Proclamation, or at any further time, if any, as may be permitted by the Tribunal established in manner provided by the application may be made, by or on behalf of any man in the class so called out to the said Tribunal, for a certificate of exemption from the provisions of the said Act.

And whereas it is also provided by the said Act that, at any time before the date fixed by Proclamation, or at any further time, if any, as may be permitted by the Tribunal established in manner provided by the application may be made, by or on behalf of any man in the class so called out to the said Tribunal, for a certificate of exemption from the provisions of the said Act.

And whereas it is also provided by the said Act that, at any time before the date fixed by Proclamation, or at any further time, if any, as may be permitted by the Tribunal established in manner provided by the application may be made, by or on behalf of any man in the class so called out to the said Tribunal, for a certificate of exemption from the provisions of the said Act.

- 7. Ecclesiastical students who are unmarried or have completed their course of study for the ministry at some college recognized by the head in Newfoundland of their religious denomination.

And whereas it is moreover provided by the said Military Service Act that the Governor in Council may, at any time, by Proclamation, call out on active service, as defined in any class of men in the said Act, and that all men within the class so called out shall, from the date of such proclamation be deemed to be soldiers enlisted in the Militia of Newfoundland, and as such subject to Military Law, save as in the said Act otherwise provided; and that the Governor may call out and place on active service in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment as defined in the said Act, any men so called out on active service in the said Act.

And whereas it is also provided by the said Act that, at any time before the date of such proclamation, or at any such further time, if any, as may be permitted by the Tribunal established in the manner provided by the said Act, an application may be made, by or on behalf of any man in the class so called out to the said Tribunal, for a certificate of exemption from the provisions of any of the following provisions of Exemption.

service as aforesaid until a day which will be the Registrar, he notified to them in writing by registered post at their respective addresses as given in their reports for service, or applications for exemption from service, or at such substituted addresses as they may have respectively signified to the said Registrar; and I do hereby inform, forewarn and admonish, the men belonging to the Class hereby called out that if any of them shall, without just and sufficient excuse, neglect or refuse to appear at the place required by notice in writing so posted, or shall fail to report for duty on the 24th day of May, 1918, he shall be subject to the procedure, pains and penalties by Law prescribed as against Military deserters.

Of all of which all persons whom these presents may concern, are hereby required to take notice, rendering strict obedience to and compliance with all these commands, and governing themselves accordingly.

The Inhumanity AND UNFAIRNESS OF VOLUNTARY SERVICE.

To the men of the North, South, East and West. Conscription has now come into force. We are now all equal before the law. We are now all one object, one goal. You are soldiers, we are soldiers, we therefore extend to you our hand of brotherhood. We will begin all over again. A new army, a new life, a new liberty that will crush the old. It is not the gun or the man behind the gun, but the soul behind the man that is going to win this war. There are no more heroes, no more self-sacrificing spirit instilled in you that you are prepared to die, to stand by your comrades in time of danger, to stand by your country now that she needs you. Your country has asked little of you in the past but now for the final crushing of the Hun she needs you. Be of strong heart, courage, fear God, and trust in those in authority.

The hearing of this letter is the inhumanity and unfairness of Voluntary Service. I say inhumanity and unfairness because the mother of a family who has sent her sons is going through torture, while her door is being knocked by her son's work. I say unfair because you stay at home? Why should you go and I stay at home? This is not my war, this is not your war, this is our war; this is our country's war and described. NOW THEREFORE KNOW YE that I do hereby call out the said Class I, comprising the men in the said Military Service Act, 1918, and hereinafter defined or described as to the said class belonging, on active service in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, either within or beyond Newfoundland, as I may, in the command or direction of His Majesty's Military Forces, hereafter order or direct.

After this war is over you will be proud that your country gave you the chance. Yes you will be proud of the man who put everything aside and did what was right. There is only one right way and right and right will win the war. It is at times harder to do what is right, but in the long run it pays. The Soldiers and Rejected Volunteers' Association.

HAROLD MITCHELL, President. May 13th, 1918.

Taxation.

The following items were inadvertently omitted from the Budget Speech, covering the extra taxation list:

- An increase of 2 cents per pound on all Tobacco's imported.
- An increase of 50 cents per pound on imported cigars and an increase of $1.25 per pound on imported cigars.

Casualty List.

RECEIVED MAY 12th, 1918. At 16th Northumberland Hospital, Washington, April 26th. Result of Flying Accident, Falling into the Sea—Expected to be Discharged from Hospital Next Week.

2nd Lieut. J. M. LeMee, Grand Falls. J. R. BENNETT, Acting Minister of Militia.

Robar Gets one Year.

Thomas Robar, the escaped convict, who made himself famous for a brief period last month, appeared in court this morning, and after pleading guilty to the larceny of a considerable quantity of wearing apparel and other household articles, from the summer residence of Mr. W. P. Shortall, valued at $154, as previously detailed in the Telegram, was sentenced to one year imprisonment.

Here and There.

AWAITING THEIR TURN.—At present 100 men including 20 soldiers, and 80 women are waiting admission to the General Hospital, some of whom are urgent cases. Every available cot is filled and some on the list will have to wait three or four weeks before their turn comes around.

House of Assembly

At Saturday's sitting in addition to an increase of business, the Finance Minister delivered his Budget Speech. Debate on it was deferred until to-day, in order to give members an opportunity to study its details.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Hon. Minister of Customs—(1) To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions relating to a war tax on certain incomes; (2) To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions to amend the Act relating to the Bounty for the building of ships.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

Second readings of an "Act to amend the Municipal Act," and "An Act respecting the Military Service of Newfoundland" were ordered to remain over until next sitting. "An Act to amend the War Pensions Act, 1917," was read a second time by the Minister of Finance, the others being out of the country, or otherwise unable to attend to their duties. The new Board will be non-political (hope so) in every sense of the word (wait and see). In the matter of War Pensions the Minister pointed out that this Board was separate and distinct from the Militia Department.

"An Act to amend Chapter 38, of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland (second series), entitled 'Of Nuisances and Municipal Regulations' was read a second time. It is not the gun or the man behind the gun, but the soul behind the man that is going to win this war. There are no more heroes, no more self-sacrificing spirit instilled in you that you are prepared to die, to stand by your comrades in time of danger, to stand by your country now that she needs you. ## Supreme Court.

WILLIAM F. COAKER VS. WILLIAM J. HERBER. This is an application on the part of the Plaintiff for an order that the Defendant do deliver to the Plaintiff particulars of the facts upon which he intends to rely in support of the plea of justification set forth in paragraph 4 of the amended defence herein, and in default of compliance therewith, that the said paragraph 4 be stricken out.

CAPE RACE, To-day. Light variable winds, weather foggy; a steamer was heard at 10:30 this morning. Bar, 30.02; ther, 50.

Wanted

Wanted: A three-reel film of life in a military hospital depicting scenes at Wandsworth and showing several of "Our Boys" exhibited at the Grand Theatre this morning before a select gathering comprising His Excellency the Governor and suite, Sir W. H. Herwood, Chief Justice, Hon. Justice Johnson, Hon. Justice Kent, Members of the Executive Government, the Speaker and several members of the House of Assembly. The Minister of Militia and staff, and a few others prominent in Government circles.

To-Day's Messages.

10.00 A.M. TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE.

LONDON, To-Day. All German prisoners captured in France say that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is dead. Letters from British officers on the western front report. According to the Daily Express, at the same time, the name of General Von Mackensen is brought into prominence as that of a great man who is to bring the German victory. The Express assumes that the Hindenburg story is circulated to explain the failure of the great offensive.

LOOKING 'EM OVER.

HALIFAX, N.S., To-Day. Jas. Howard Mills of Thoroughfare (Trinity Bay), Nfld., was arrested here Thursday by the Dominion police as a defaulter under the Military Service Act. On Friday he applied for his discharge, on the ground that he was not a resident of Canada within the meaning of the act. It developed that he had come to Nova Scotia four months ago in search of work. Judgment was given yesterday. Mr. Justice Ritchie refused the application of discharge, because the Military Service Act provided that any British subject, resident in Canada since August 1914, was liable for service. Mills will now be compelled to serve. The decision affects many Newfoundlanders and others in Nova Scotia who have not yet registered.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

LONDON, To-Day. With the exception of artillery activity on both sides there is nothing to report, says to-night's official bulletin.

MINE SWEEPER TORPEDOED.

LONDON, To-Day. The Admiralty announces that a British mine sweeper was destroyed and sunk by a German submarine on May 6th. Two officers and thirteen men are missing and are presumed to have been drowned.

HEADS I WIN; TAILS, YOU LOSE.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. Under a supplementary legal political treaty between Rumania and Germany, the former country must indemnify German Consular officials, for all damage suffered by them, during the war, or done to Consular buildings. Rumania renounces indemnification for damage caused by them, as a result of German Military Measures, including all requisitions and contributions.

BLOOD AND IRON.

LONDON, To-day. Wireless messages from the Russian Government to Berlin, make disclosures regarding German methods in Russia. One complaint deals with a message received by the Ukrainian Colony, in Petrograd, from Ukraine, in which it is stated that the Frontier has been closed by the Germans to all Ukrainians. The evacuation by the Ukrainians of Russia, is being carried out by means of wagons under terrible conditions, particularly for the sick and children. It could be effected easily by the River Danube, the message says, but this route has been closed to the Ukrainians by the Germans.

Interesting Case.

A case which may be described as "shady" dealing in second hand goods, was heard in the Magistrate's Court this morning. The defendant, a man, who claims he was the servant of a woman who keeps a second hand clothing store on New Gower Street, was asked to explain his position in relation to the purchasing of stolen goods from Thomas Robar, valued at $32.50, for which the latter was paid $3.50. The defendant disclaimed any knowledge of the transaction and "sharply" remonstrated with Detective Whalen who gave evidence contrary to the wishes of the defendant. The woman in question who is in a delicate state of health was unable to be present and permission for the postponement of the case was granted her counsel.

THE GAP.—(By D.C.)
There's a gap by the side of the 29th Where the Newfoundlanders stood And met the might of the charging Hun.
When the trench ran deep in blood, Firm as the cliffs of their native late Breathe the Atlantic's flood.
But the need is NOW of the strong man's heart, Sturdy of soul and they;
Triumphant blood of the young man's veins
To his sire's traditions true;
And the spirit that courts the task that none

This is How the Money Goes!

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—As a constant reader of your industrial paper, my eye caught the following paragraph: "The 'Workman' to copy debates of the House of Assembly."
Of course there were several other papers named to do the same printing. I have no objection to the 'Workman' or any other paper getting all the printing they can handle. This is now it's done in the case to which I refer: The 'Herald' gets the final report and puts it in type by the time-mongers, and a paid for their work from the Government. They then pass the metal over to the printer and charge the proprietor with the composition while they get full price for. So you see the Hon. Knight of the 'Herald' gets paid twice for the same goods. The question is what price do the publisher of the 'Workman' receive?
Yours truly,
A LIBERAL LABORER.

RIGHT TIME WITH BLOOD
Correspondents' Headquarters, Monday, May 1.—The Germans are quiet in their lines since they repulsed so utterly in their attack against Scherpenberg and our round Ypres. Even their guns are not very active last night and they are burying their dead, back their wounded and taking broken divisions out of line to send them with fresh troops for the battle.
During the news there was a few fatalities during the morning. The wounded were buried. The news that the British army in this war...
The French are with us to strengthen our defensive power, which sustained such furious onslaughts over 100 German divisions since weeks ago, the next battle in Flanders than the day before yesterday, which was nothing at all, and certain, anyhow, that not a yard will be yielded until the next day. The German soldiers have paid the last battle two additional divisions have now been identified as being put in against the British in Flanders, one being the 117th "Vormesele, and the other the Guards Division including the "Cockshotters" whom the Welsh regiments shattered at the last year and who have fought us in the Cambrai salient.

British Grenadiers, Irish and Cold-Stream Guards.

THEY WERE WITH BLOOD
Correspondents' Headquarters, London, May 1.—The Germans are fighting in their lines since they were repulsed so utterly in their attack on Scherpenberg and our position at Ypres. Even their own reports show that they were very active last night and that they are burying their dead. They are burying their dead and taking back their wounded and taking back their divisions out of line to fight.

Last night when no doubt the German reliefs were in progress, our guns turned loose with shrapnel and high explosives upon their transport and troops crowding the track from Vierstraat to Wytchaele, and this morning the enemy had more dead to bury. So the slaughter goes on.

During a rare day without great news there is opportunity of writing a few words about some of our battalions who, in the earlier fighting during these recent battles, were wonderful in courage and endurance and self-sacrifice, but have not yet appeared in our narratives, because for a time it was inadvisable to mention their presence in our battle line.

Heroism of the Guards.
They are the battalions of the Guards. There is no need for secrecy now, because the enemy has met them at close quarters, and knows how these men fought, sometimes in small bodies almost to the last man. The recent history of the Guards begins with the battle of Arras on March 28, when the 5th London Division, and the 15th Scottish, and the grand old 3rd Division made a wonderful stand against one of the biggest efforts of the enemy.

On the 28th and 30th the Guards were heavily attacked, and beat off the enemy's storm troops, with exceedingly great losses to them, the Grenadiers making a counter attack near Bollaux Et Marc with fixed bayonets, flinging the enemy back from the ground they had gained, but later than that the battalions of the Guards have been fighting in the north, around the Forest of Niepe, and between Lepinette and Vieux Berquin. That was from April 11 to 14, after the Germans had broken through the Portuguese line, and with the full weight of their forces endeavored to widen the gap and did, indeed, widen the gap, pushing up between Armentieres and Merville by gaining the crossings of the Lys.

Told to Hold at All Costs.
The Grenadiers, Irish and Cold-Stream Guards, were sent forward along the Hamlebrouck-Metres road when the situation was at its worst, when the men of our 15th Division were being put in against the British in continual rear-guard and holding actions so that some of those still in the line could hardly walk or stand, and when it was utterly necessary to keep the Germans in check until a body of Australian troops had time to arrive.

The Guards were asked to hold back the enemy until these Australians came, and to fight at all costs for forty-eight hours against the German tide of men and guns, which was attempting to flow around our other hard pressed men, and that is what the Guards did, fighting in separate bodies with the enemy pressing in on both the flanks and greatly outnumbering them.

They beat back attack after attack and gained precious hours, vital hours by the most noble self-sacrifice. A party of the Grenadiers were so closely surrounded that their officer sent back a message saying: "My men are standing back to back, shooting on all sides."

But the Eighteen Fought On.
The Germans swung around them, circling them with machine guns and rifles and pouring a fire into them until only eighteen men were left. Those eighteen, standing among their wounded and their dead, did not surrender. The army wanted forty-eight hours. They fixed bayonets and went out against the enemy, and drove through him. A wounded corporal of the Grenadiers, who afterwards got back to our lines, lay in a ditch, and the last he saw of his comrades was when fourteen men of them were still fighting in a swarm of Germans. The Coldstream Guards were sur-

In Memoriam.

Private Gordon Tizard, Late of Battery Road, St. John's, Killed in Action "Somewhere in France," April 12th, 1918.

When the mighty blast was sounded, Given by command of Thor, Freedom to her feet she bounded, Ready to contend in war. For that dear hand over the ocean, Gordon with "our boys" he called, For he loved her with devotion, In that love he never failed.

He was young but he was willing When the call had come to go With the rest, gaps to be filling Made in "Ours" who fought the foe. He was young—he did his duty, As all brave men never shun, Helping England, home and beauty, To maintain the place she won.

We are told the Spartan mothers Of the classic days of old That they sent their sons and brothers With a courage staunch and bold; And unlike dumb driven cattle They went willing one and all, Foremost in the brunt of battle For fair Greece to stand or fall.

Those were brave but not more brave Than our Gordon proved to be, In the fight he did not waver, True and staunch and brave was he, And that mother, noble woman, Who had borne so brave a son, She is heroism's part to do, men, In this fight against the Hun.

Willingly she sent her Gordon In the thick of war's advance; Now his soul has crossed the Jordan While his body lies in France. But his heart is at home ere heating, Though on earth they'll meet no more, Yet some day they will be greeting Gordon on the golden shore. JAMES MURPHY, May 11th, 1918.

Wedding Bells.

The appended item from the Brooklyn Daily Times will prove interesting to friends of the happy couple.

TAIT-TAGGARD.
Miss Bertha Taggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Taggard, of Woodhaven, L. I., was married last night, April 26th, to Captain H. Sinclair Tait, of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. A. J. Lovelace officiated.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss May Betts. The bride's brother, Sergeant George K. Taggard, who is stationed at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., was best man. The marriage crowns a romance of the Flushing Hospital, where the bride was a nurse and Captain Tait an interne.

Captain Tait is a native of St. John's, N.F., and was graduated from Oxford University. After the reception Captain Tait and his bride started on their honeymoon and later will go to Canada, where he will await orders.

Lichnowsky's Accusations.

"As appears from all official publications, without the facts being controverted by our White Book, which, owing to its poverty and gaps, constitutes a grave self-accusation: "1. We encouraged Count Berchtold to attack Serbia although no German interest was involved, and the danger of a world war must have been known to us—whether we knew the text of the ultimatum is a question of complete indifference. "2. In the days between July 23 and July 30, 1914, when M. Sazonoff emphatically declared that Russia could not tolerate an attack upon Serbia, we rejected the British proposals of mediation, although Serbia, under Russian and British pressure, had accepted almost the whole ultimatum, and although an agreement about the two points in question could easily have been reached, and Count Berchtold was even ready to satisfy himself with the Serbian reply. "3. On July 30, when Count Berchtold wanted to give way, we, without Austria having been attacked, replied to Russia's mere mobilization by sending an ultimatum to St. Petersburg, and on July 31 we declared war on the Russians, although the Czar had pledged his word that as long as

The Right Hand.

The right hand has in all ages been deemed an important symbol to represent the virtue of fidelity. Among the ancients, the right hand and fidelity to an obligation were almost deemed synonymous terms. Thus, amongst the Romans, the expression "allere dextram," to betray the right hand, also signified to violate faith; and "jungere dextram," to join right hands, meant to give a mutual pledge. Among the Hebrews, "lamin," the right hand, was derived from a man, i. e., to be faithful. Among the Hebrews, as well as the Greeks and Romans, the right hand was considered superior to the left; and as the right hand was the side of good, so was the left of bad omen. Dexter (right) signified also, propitious, and sinister (left) unlucky. In the Scriptures we find frequent allusions to this superiority of the right. Jacob, for instance, called his youngest and favorite son, Benjamin, "the son of his right hand," and Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon, was always placed at the King's right hand. The Psalmist also refers to this point of honour, when he puts into verse the Almighty's command, "Sit thou on my right hand until I make thy enemies thy footstool." Therefore the use of the right hand as a token of sincerity and a pledge of fidelity is as ancient as it is universal.

WATER PROOF FOUR CYCLE ENGINES

Here is what you have been looking for, a special Four Cycle Engine, specially fitted with a waterproof ignition system, at a price to meet all competitions.

- 1 CYLINDER 2 HORSE POWER . . . $ 70.00
- 2 CYLINDER 4 HORSE POWER . . . 130.00
- 2 CYLINDER 8 HORSE POWER . . . 190.00
- 3 CYLINDER 6 HORSE POWER . . . 175.00
- 3 CYLINDER 12 HORSE POWER . . . 240.00
- 4 CYLINDER 16 HORSE POWER . . . 295.00

Everyone knows that a Four Cycle Engine will produce the same power on much less fuel than any two Cycle Engine made; it will also be much cleaner.

The only objection to Four Cycle Engines has been the difficulty of keeping the ignition dry in wet weather; this objection is overcome in our "WATERPROOF" Engines. A big advantage in having two or more Cylinders is to reduce vibration and give steady power; a smooth running Engine will last much longer than any other.

Write or wire if interested.

Knock Down Motor Engines.

4 H.P., $110.00; 8 H.P., 2 CYLINDER, $175.00.

A new idea in Motors.

We have secured the agency for the celebrated "Knock Down Motor Engines." Each part of these engines is made so perfect that it is not necessary to assemble and test the engine before shipment. You save the cost of all that work by doing the work yourself.
All parts of the engine are carefully packed and shipped just as they come from the automatic machines at the factory—not even painted—full directions for assembling, including a picture with number and name of each part, are sent you. The Company guarantees that every part will fit perfectly, and that any man who can read English and use a wrench can set them up.

Those engines are guaranteed exactly the same as common engines that have been fitted and tested at the factory and sold at double the price. Why not save a month's wages by setting up your own engine?

These engines are 2 cycle. Price guaranteed to May 15. Terms: half cash with order, balance on arrival. On rush orders, cash wire order and have engine sent by express. Purchaser to pay difference in charges.
