A Clear, Beautiful Skin

There are millions of tiny openings or pores in the skin and these must be kept open and clean if the beauty of the skin is to be maintained.

Because it cleanses these pores and encourages the healthful action of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment is most effective as a skin beautifier. Roughness, redness, pimples and all sorts of skin blemishes disappear by its use, and the skin is left clear, smooth and velvety.

The Heir of Bayneham

—AND—
Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER XI.

"My dear aunt," interrupted Barbara, fearing the coming allusion, "have you seen this beautiful sketch?"

While the ladies examined a wondrously executed sketch of a contemplated picture Claude drew near to Hilda. Before he spoke to her he noted the flush that rose to her fair young face.

"Shall you have patience to sit still?" he asked with a smile; "Mr. Seaton is very particular, I hear."

"I have plenty of patience," said Hilda. "If it pleases Lady Hutton to have my picture I shall have a motive for my patience. One can do anything with a motive, you know."

She spoke hastily, as though anxious to say something, yet not feeling sure that she was on safe ground.

"I heard an amusing story of Miss Deverney, the Welsh heiress," continued Claude. "She declared she had never learned the multiplication-table at school, so she studied it while sitting to Mr. Seaton."

"I should not like that," said Hilda. "When I have nothing to do I dream of Brynmar, and you," she might have added, for he read it in her face.

"So do I," he replied, and the new ring of music in his voice made her look up quickly at him.

"Hilda," he said gently, "may I call and see you now?" Then he lowered his voice, and in a passionate whisper added, "Say yes, my darling, for I am not to marry Barbara Earle."

With a heart beating high with triumph he noted the sudden and beautiful flash that lighted the young, tender face, the light that shone in the clear, pure eyes, the trembling lip that could find no answer for him. He could say no more. Hilda understood all those few words implied.

"May I call this evening?" he asked gently; but the "red, ripe lips" never moved in reply. Mr. Seaton gazed at the changed face in wonder. The half sad look, the pallor, and the dim eyes had disappeared as if by magic. It was a beautiful, radiant girl upon whom he gazed, whose features glowed with happiness. The artist knew something of the world and its ways, and he gave a shrewd, quick glance at Lord Bayneham; then, for him, the mystery was solved.

When all details of time, costume, etc., were arranged, Lady Hutton and Hilda drove away. Lord Bayneham would not accept his mother's invitation to drive with her, he wanted to be alone with his newly-found happiness.

Barbara Earle took her seat by Lady Bayneham's side, knowing the time for the real struggle had come at last.

"We will go at once to 'Stoor & Mortimer's,'" said the countess to her niece; "it will take some time to choose the settings."

"Aunt," said Barbara, "do not go there. I might say I was too tired, or give other excuses—all would be equally false. Do not go there to-day, and promise not to ask me the reason until we reach home."

"What can you mean, Barbara?" asked her aunt haughtily. "Have you some plan, some design of your own for the diamonds? You should have mentioned it before, my dear."

"I have no plan of my own," she replied wearily. "I will explain when he reaches home."

Although Lady Bayneham longed for an explanation, she was too well bred to repeat her question. Barbara's face had grown strangely pale, and the countess gazed at her with surprise. They were not long in reaching Grosvenor Square.

"Come with me to my room, Barbara," said her aunt. "Let me hear what this mystery means."

Miss Earle followed Lady Bayneham quietly enough to her room. She closed the door with her own hands and stood before it.

"Few words are always best, aunt," she said, with a feeble attempt at smiling. "I did not go to choose a setting for the Bayneham diamonds because I am not going to marry Claude."

"Not marry Claude!" gasped the countess. "Have you lost your senses, Barbara?"

"No—I have merely found them," said the young girl sadly. "Do not be angry, aunt. If Claude knelt here asking me for a year and a day, I should still refuse."

"May I ask," said Lady Bayneham haughtily, "why Miss Earle declines an alliance with my son?"

"No, aunt," replied Barbara proudly. "That is one question you may not ask. I decline to answer it."

"Have you seen some one you like better?" interrupted Lady Bayneham. "Yet I need not ask. You are not a weak, vain girl, who thinks little of her plighted word."

Then Lady Bayneham's voice softened, and she threw one arm caressingly round her niece.

"Do you fear Claude does not love you?" she asked. "Believe me, Barbara—"

"Aunt," interrupted her niece, "do not seek to know my motives; our engagement was a great mistake. Let us be thankful for having discovered it in time. Believe me, dear aunt," she continued earnestly, "if I married your son now, we should be wretched for life."

"But, Barbara," cried Lady Bayneham, "why did you not discover this before?"

"I am perhaps to blame for that," she replied gently, a sharp quiver of pain passing over her face. "I have found it out now."

"What will the world say?" cried the countess. "Every arrangement made, even to the ordering of your jewels!"

"They may even yet be worn," said Barbara with a smile.

"Barbara," said Lady Bayneham, "are you jealous?"

"No," was the reply. "Try to believe me, dear aunt. I am thoroughly in earnest. Our engagement was a terrible mistake. I have found it out, and refuse to fulfil it. Your son is free. I have told him so, and nothing can change or alter my decision; it is made for life. My greatest grief is the sorrow I know it will cause you."

For once, Lady Bayneham had nothing to say; she was too angry for speech, too bewildered for remonstrance, too much annoyed to care for further conversation.

"You can leave me now, Barbara," said the countess haughtily. "I can have no respect for any one who deliberately breaks a promise and draws down ridicule upon those who love her best. Have you considered in what a cruel position your conduct places Claude?"

"He will be strong enough to bear it," replied Barbara dryly. "I have not remarked any change in his looks or his spirits; have you, aunt?"

Considering that Lady Bayneham had said that morning, in Barbara's presence, that her son had never looked better, she could make no reply.

"Let us be friends, aunt," said Barbara gently, and there was a wistful tone in her voice. "Let us be friends, dear aunt. I have no one in the world but you."

Lady Bayneham was however too angry for any reply. "I can but hope and pray, Miss Earle, that you will soon return to your senses," she said. "Will you be kind enough to leave me now; the dressing-bell has rung. I presume you did not hear it."

That was all the consolation Barbara Earle received in the greatest trouble of her life.

CHAPTER XII.

That evening fate was kind to Hilda Hutton. The agent from Brynmar came over purposely to consult with Lady Hutton as to some alterations making at the Hall. So it happened that when Lord Bayneham called in Park Gardens, he was told that Lady Hutton was engaged, but that Miss Hutton was in the drawing-room.

"I will see her," he said, trying to look as though she were a substitute for Lady Hutton, and signally failing in the attempt.

When the drawing-room doors were opened there was no one to be seen, but Claude's quick eye discerned the floating of a white dress in the dim light of the conservatory, and instinct told him to seek his love there. He walked so quietly that she did not hear him, and he stood for a moment lost, as an artist might have been, in delighted admiration at so fair a picture. The golden head and fair young face shone brightly in the dim, mellow light. There was a dreamy smile on the sweet lips, as though pleasant dreams were with her. She was bending over some choice white lilies, and they were not so fair and pure as she, thought Claude. She did not look surprised when he uttered her name, and the smile deepened as though the pleasant dream had come true.

"Mamma is engaged," she said, in reply to Lord Bayneham's few words. "The agent is here from Brynmar. See, Lord Bayneham, he brought me these lilies himself—all the way."

"It was very kind of him," said Claude; "I am not sorry Lady Hutton is engaged, for I came purposely to see you."

In some vague, indistinct way, Hilda knew what was coming. Her simple, loving heart fluttered and beat so quickly that she could hardly breathe. She did not even follow every word he said, but when he ceased speaking, it was as though some exquisite strain of music ceased. Yet she would have deferred it if she could, the speaking of those words that were to open a new life to her. She longed to hear them, yet felt frightened at them.

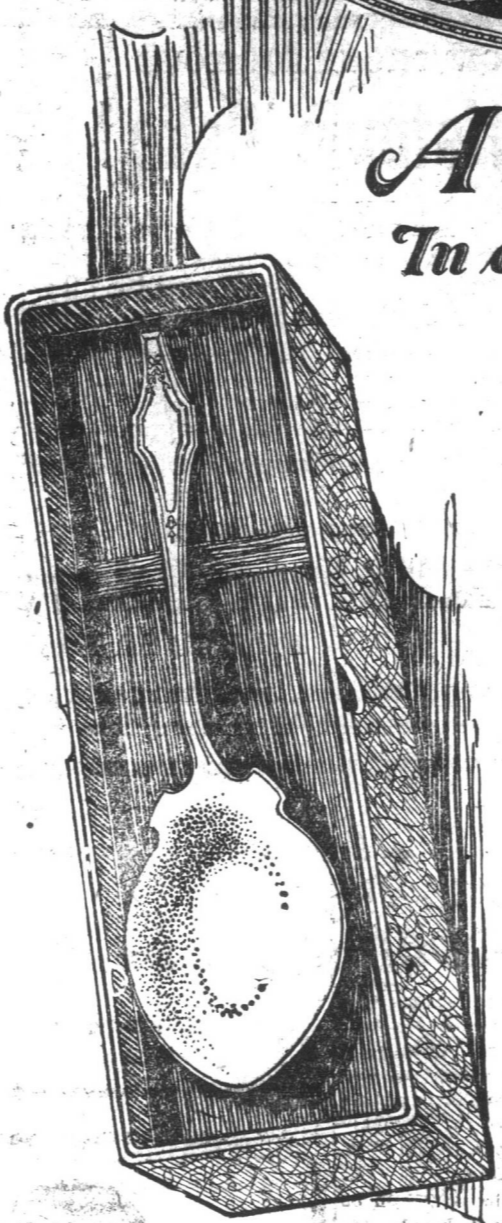

"Hilda," whispered the low voice at her side, "do forget those lilies for one moment, and look at me. Can you guess what I have to say?"

The shy, sweet eyes did not meet his own; the little hands still trembled amid the white blossoms.

French Determination May Block Agreement.

Reparations Conference Hangs on Slender Thread - British Prime Minister Makes Sensational Announcement--Soviet Foreign Minister Warns Turks Against Allies - Another Newfoundland Meets Death in Cape Breton.

HANGING BY A THREAD.

LONDON, Dec. 10. The possibility of reaching an agreement which will enable the Reparations Conference to assemble with any prospect of success, seems tonight to hang on an extremely tenuous thread.

ment of the German reparations. The British Government was considered more favorable towards France than the previous government, but Mr. Bonar Law has shown himself as warmly opposed to any occupation of Ruhr as was his predecessor. Premier Poincaré asserted to-day France would demand the occupation of Ruhr as a fundamental guarantee for any moratorium, and the stiffening of the French Premier's attitude in London

Inter-Provincial Conference.

UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES OF MARITIME PROVINCES AND NEWFOUNDLAND.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 11.—(By Canadian Press)—The third conference of the Universities, Colleges and Governments of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland will open in the Province Building here to-morrow for the purpose of passing on a scheme of University Federation which is the personal judgment of representatives of all the interests involved, and formally chosen as such, is a workable plan. Out of the conference and with this plan as a basis, it is hoped will grow a final scheme for submission to the constituencies of the universities involved. The publication last spring of the report of the Carnegie Foundation Commissioners, Dr. W. M. S. Learned and Dr. Kenneth C. M. Sills, following their investigation of the situation as regards higher education in the Maritime Provinces, excited widespread interest among educationists other than those immediately concerned with the problem presenting itself in Eastern Canada. This for the reason that the solution recommended aimed at a new treatment of the problem presented in all large universities in the United States of the proper assimilation and direction of huge bodies of students. In effect the report proposed that the various universities at present operating, under tremendous financial handicaps, in the Maritime Provinces should move to Halifax, set up a central university qualified to receive Government aid, preserve their own names and identities by functioning as constituent colleges, and with their endowments unimpaired, be further relieved of the burden of teaching the more expensive courses. As regards Dalhousie University, Halifax, which with its present $5,000,000, plant and endowment, would form the nucleus of any scheme of federation, it was suggested that it should hand over its professional schools of medicine, law and dentistry, already established, to the central university, and function as a non-denominational constituent college, or should give up everything it possessed, save only its name which should designate the new Central University.

CHITCHERIN WARNS TURKEY.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 10. Proof that Bolshevik Russia is highly dissatisfied with Turkey because Ismet Pasha has abandoned the Russians on the question of the Dardanelles was found yesterday when M. Tchitcherin, Soviet Foreign Minister, issued an urgent invitation to the Turkish journalists and in the course of a long speech warned them of the danger of placing their trust in the Allied nations. M. Tchitcherin did not want to say anything in the way of criticism of the Turkish Plenipotentiaries, but thought the Turkish people at home should know the trend of things at Lausanne. He had a distinct impression, he said, that war between Turkey and the Powers was still going on. Usually the wars were fought on the battlefield but at Lausanne the war was being waged around a green table and the goal was to separate Turkey from Russia. Afterwards the Great Powers would defeat Turkey and Russia separately. M. Tchitcherin charged that France had abandoned Turkey in favor of England and the consideration was probably some concessions on the Reparations problem, but it remains to be seen, he continued, how far France and England will agree when the Brussels Conference is held.

discuss of Halifax was held here on July 7, at the call of King's College. The conference elected the Chief Justice of Nova Scotia as Chairman and Mr. G. Fred Pearson as Secretary and as provided for the appointment of two committees, finance and constitution, representative of all the institutions involved, and charged with the task of ascertaining the cost of a workable scheme of federation and a consideration of the main constitutional questions involved.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

A second conference was held in Halifax October 24. The Committee on Finance reported that a new University, mothering the existing Maritime Colleges removed to Halifax would involve a capital expenditure of $1,000,000 and an annual outlay of $450,000. The Committee on Constitution reported, endorsing the principle of federation, recommended the removal to Halifax of the existing institutions while retaining each its own character and governing body and holding in abeyance its degree conferring powers, except in divinity. Growing out of the discussion of the above reports it was resolved "That each of the bodies represented at this conference be asked to nominate two representatives on a committee to consider and report further on the constitutional, academic, and financial aspects of the problems before the conference and to submit their report to each member of the conference at least two weeks before the next meeting of the conference." This Committee subsequently met and decided to invite the representatives of each of the various institutions involved to submit a plan of federation which in its judgment would be workable. This having been done an endeavor was made to consolidate the various plans and the resultant scheme is the one which the conference will be called upon to consider to-morrow. While its provisions have yet to be made public, it is believed they will follow closely the plan contained in the original Carnegie report. In the case of any one of the constituent colleges this would mean that it would come to Halifax and be provided with ample residential and class room accommodation. It would teach roughly the first two years in arts and a full course in divinity, leaving the more expensive courses to the Central University. It would retain its endowments and equipment other than scientific equipment, but all tuition fees would be paid into the Central University, which would confer all degrees, other than those in divinity. It would share its library with the other colleges.

Bennett & Co., Bowring Bros., Geo. J. Carter, A. E. Hickman, & Co., Job Bros., Monroe Export Co., A. H. Murray, Nfld. Labrador Export Co., P. Templeman, Tor's Cove Trading Co., and Geo. M. Barr; by S.S. Silvia to New York for West Indies 4,077 qtls. from A. H. Murray, the Kennedy Co., Job Bros., Ltd., A. E. Hickman Co., Harvey & Co., the Goodridge Export Co., Bowring Bros., Ltd., James Baird, Ltd., and Geo. M. Barr, and by S.S. Sachem 290 qtls. from Messrs. James Baird, Ltd. for Boston and Demerara.

Cod Oil—The exports of cod oil this week were again large and totalled 46,523 galls. viz: 31,259 by the S.S. Silvia to New York from Messrs. Job Bros., Franklin Agencies, F.P.U. Trading Co., and A. Ebsary; 15,264 by the S.S. Sachem from Messrs. W. A. Munn, Bowring Bros., Ltd. and Job Bros., Ltd. The U.S. demand is holding good and warranted the payment of $115 for lots per ton in the local market this month. Nearly all the export stocks have come in to St. John's and the holdings in these are smaller at this date than for many years.

Cod Liver Oil—The market is dead both in Great Britain and the United States and there are no enquiries. The total shipments since July 1st this year are as follows:—

July	16,025 galls.
August	10,527 galls.
September	6,413 galls.
October	3,875 galls.
November	3,634 galls.

Total 40,474 galls.

Flour—The local supplies have been augmented this week by 20,799 barrels and 1,200 sacks as follows:—By S.S. Manoa from Montreal 8,760 barrels; by S.S. Sable I. 1,800 barrels and 500 sacks; by S.S. Canadian Gunner 7,050 barrels and 150 sacks; by S.S. Belvernon 1,690 barrels, and by S.S. Silvia 1,500 barrels and 550 sacks. The shortage is still about 20,000 barrels. The markets are quiet. Chicago wheat is around 118 3-8 and Winnipeg 103 3-8. European demand keeps up and many million bushels of the 375 million crop have been marketed by Canada. The local price is now $9 a barrel wholesale for best brands.

Pork—The S.S. Silvia brought in 100 barrels this week from New York, the S.S. Belvernon 300 barrels from Boston, and the S.S. Canadian Gunner 255 barrels from Montreal; total 655 barrels. The shipment by the S.S. Canadian Gunner was not injured by fire or water and is being taken delivery of by the consignees. There is a firmer feeling in the United States markets and in Canada on fresh pork as the Xmas season approaches, but barrelled pork holds about the same. The local quotations are: $28.50 per barrel Fat Back and Clear; $33 Ham Butt, $38 Grocers Family Mess, and $26.50 Spare Ribs. The imports are on a level with last year, viz., 20,000 barrels.

Beef—There is a marked scarcity in boneless beef and packers have informed the trade that they will have none in quantity to offer until January. The local quotation for this quality is now $19 per barrel wholesale. Owing to the price being so low all the fall, the consumption has been heavy resulting in the scarcity alluded to. Bos. Flank is $21.50 wholesale in the local market. Extra Family $21, and Family Special $19. The week's imports were 1014 barrels viz., 405 by S.S. Belvernon from Boston and 609 by S.S. Silvia from New York. The total imports to date for 1922 are 37,055, as against 25,000 this date last year.

Molasses—There was an addition of 200 puncheons of molasses to the St. John's stocks this week made by the arrival of the schooner Cecil Jr. from Halifax, a consignment to Harvey & Co. Local stocks are very short especially Choice brand, and as the Barbados trade in old molasses is ended with Newfoundland until next spring, we shall have to depend on Halifax for any further requirements. The quotations are 80 cents per gallon for Fancy in puncheons and 80 cents for Choice in barrels.

Sugar—The strong tendency upward in both raws and refined indicated by The Trade Review last week continues. Cuban raws are quoted at 7 and 7-8 to 4 cents per pound in New York and transacted at 7 1/2 cents. Price of the latter is expected to go to eight cents by Xmas and a cent and a half in January crop. The local price is firm at per 100 pounds. The S.S. Manoa brought in 8,760 barrels this the Sable I. 1,800 barrels.

Potatoes—The markets of Canada and the United States are now plentiful and prices are low. The S.S. Manoa brought in 8,760 consignments of P.E.I. potatoes from Charlottetown this week, and S. Canadian Pepper is also a large quantity from the same. These will give a supply ample most of the winter. Local potatoes not offering to any extent on the frosty weather. Quotations are to $8.50 for home grown and $4 for P.E.I.s.

Hay—The market continues to grow of dried hay in New York and Montreal. The demand is confined to the local trade in the city since the close of export on the St. Lawrence. The import of the S.S. Canadian Gunner was 3,760 bales, nearly all of which was ruined by the fire which broke out on the hold of that ship. The last lot brought in 325 bales and the quality is 345 bales from Halifax. Local price is $39 to $40 a ton sale.

Oats—The S.S. Canadian Gunner brought along 3,764 bales this week which were practically ruined by chemicals and water that were piled in No. 2 hold where they were piled. Oats are now scarce. Large consignments arrived this week by the S.S. Manoa and S.S. Manoa. The demand is getting for winter supply. The price in this market are $2.90 for White $3.70 for White per sack of 60 lbs.

Chas. Algernon Swinburne's

IMMORTAL POEM "FAUSTINE" FORMS BASIS OF LAVISH PHOTODRAMA.

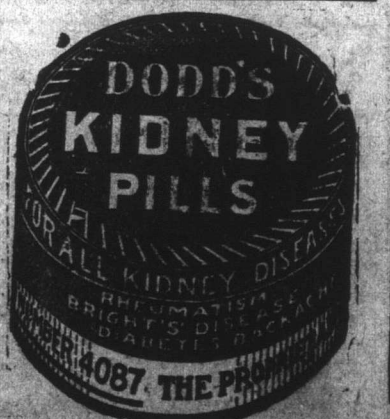

Charles Algernon Swinburne's immortal poem, "Faustine," forms the basis of one of the most lavish photo-plays presented in many seasons, "The Black Panther's Cub," produced by W. K. Ziegfeld and starring Florence Reed, which is shown at the Majestic theatre to-day.

As "The Black Panther's Cub," Miss Reed returns to the screen, after a prolonged absence, in one of the most entertaining and spectacular roles she has ever essayed. Scarcely less important is the supporting cast with which Mr. Ziegfeld has surrounded the leading figure in the play. Such names as Norman Trevor, Earle Foxe, Tyrone Power and Henry Stephenson are sufficiently important in the amusement world to individually insure the success of any production, whether on the stage or screen.

Still others of hardly less equal prominence in the cast are William Rosello, Mile. Dastie and Paula Shay. The production in itself is one of the fastest-moving pieces of photography work ever seen on the screen. Emile Chantard, who directed the production, is himself a Frenchman, and the scenes that are laid in the French capital are particularly true to life and atmosphere.

SOME JOB.

"John, your face looks terribly battered up," said the teacher to John, aged seven.
"You haven't been fighting on the way to school, have you?" she inquired.
"No," said John, "We moved yesterday and I had to carry the cat."

Wedding Bells.

BUCKLE-McCARTHY.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Church of the Sacred Heart, Curling, Bay of Islands, on Wednesday, November 15th, when Miss Julia Buckle, daughter of Mr. J. L. Buckle of Corner Brook, Bay of Islands, was united in matrimony to Mr. Vincent J. McCarthy, son of Mr. William McCarthy, Tailor, of Carbonear. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Kerwan. There were a large number of friends present. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Buckle. The groom was supported by Mr. Frank Foley, of Whitbourne. The bride wore a navy velour costume and fox fur, with hat to match. During the evening a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, when over 100 guests were entertained. This was followed by a dance in the R. C. School at Corner Brook, which was continued until the small hours of the morning. The groom's gift to the bride was a cheque, the bridesmaid a gold brooch, and a gold piece, and to the best man, a pair of gold cuff links. The presents were numerous and valuable, including a number of gold pieces. The popularity of both the bride and groom was very evident to all who were present.—COM.

The Functions of a Newspaper.

A newspaper is not a philanthropic institution, though a great many people are under the impression that it is established for no other purpose than to give space to all their little grievances and sympathise with them when the world hits them a cold crack. Primarily a newspaper is a source of revenue to its management. If not its usefulness would cease with the first issue. Contrary to the ideas of a good many people, it costs money to publish, therefore it needs must seek some returns. These returns are made up in the sale of the paper—the circulation—and by advertising. These are the two chief sources of revenue. If the circulation fails, the advertising follows suit, for the first question a prospective advertising patron puts to a newspaper is, what is your circulation? Upon that depends the volume of commercial patronage. In order to create the circulation, it is necessary that a newspaper should publish everything, in the shape of news, that is fit to print. For this purpose it employs men to go abroad in the community as news gatherers, and day after day the copy procured by these scribes, known as reporters, is assembled and printed, and thus the diurnal happenings are presented to readers. News is the first and most essential consideration. Religious, Political, Social, Marine, General, Personal, Foreign, Local, all phases must and have to be covered. The newspaper also reflects and in many cases directs, public opinion. It is the exponent thereof. It reflects the opinion of the masses in its leading articles. It directs the expression of popular sentiment by opening its columns to all those who wish to offer an opinion upon public matters, and from the consensus thus expressed it endeavours to guide and direct the way toward improvement. No newspaper, which has any respect for its reputation, or is zealous for its future, ever permits itself to be run by any particular class, coterie or clique. Public matters engage its attention, and people who step into the lime light of public affairs must stand to be criticised honestly, or praised without flattery, as the case may be. It is about as easy to dam the flow of Niagara as it is to choke off fair and just newspaper comment, though there are, unfortunately, a few nouveaux riches in the city of St. John's who think that they should be immune from criticism, and that a newspaper should be conducted upon such lines as they approve. Nothing could be farther from the purpose of any newspaper. People who step in front of the floodlights to air their eloquence or abstruse subjects, or to dictate as to how this and that must be done, are open to fair criticism, and their actions to press comment. In its own domain the newspaper is absolute. Whether to redress evils or right wrongs, any newspaper, worthy its salt, must be fearless in the discharge of its duty to the people and the country. The Telegram has borne the brunt of numerous storms during its forty odd years' issue, and it is not going to be frightened into submission to any particular faction to-day because it chooses to discuss public matters in the proper spirit. The welfare of the people is the supreme law, and the Telegram stands four square to all the miniature crusades that might be directed against it from certain sections. The title "People's Paper" is no empty one, and we intend to still deserve it.

Express Derailed.

GOOD WORK OF WRECKING CREW. The express which left Fort aux Basques at the arrival of S. S. Kyle on Friday morning was delayed some 12 hours through a derailment near Benton, and did not reach the city until 7 a.m. yesterday. Through some unknown cause four coaches left the rails when about three miles east of Benton, but fortunately they did not topple over. The accident happened at 6 a.m. Saturday, but due to the excellent work of the wrecking crews the cars were replaced on the rails by five o'clock in the afternoon. The work included laying new sleepers over a long length of track, straightening the splayed out rails and jacking up the cars, which had run off on the roadbed. Although the passengers received a good scare none were in the slightest way injured.

Police Court.

A resident of Random, T.B., for assaulting his wife was sent to the penitentiary to serve six months hard labor. The wife who appeared against the accused told a story of ten years cruelty, which she suffered since she married the defendant. They had four children. The father is a ne'er do well, who for some time lived at Sydney. He served two terms there for assault on his wife, and he was subsequently deported as an undesirable citizen. Coming back to Newfoundland he settled at Bishop Falls, but here, too, he was found undesirable and he moved to Random. According to his wife's story he never works but plays on the sympathy of the public by representing that he is an invalid that only an expensive operation could cure. In court to-day the wife exhibited marks on her arm where the defendant had bitten her. Her legs too were also marked in the same manner.

Governor at St. Thomas's.

His Excellency the Governor, with Lady Allardyce and Miss Vili Allardyce, and attended by Canon Wilberforce-Bell, M.C., Military Secretary and A.D.C., were present yesterday morning at the old garrison Church of St. Thomas's. On arrival His Excellency was received by the Rector and Churchwardens and conducted to the Governor's pew. The service was taken by the Rector, the Rev. E. C. Earp, B.A., who also preached, the lessons being read by Rev. Canon Bell, D.C.L., Registrar of the Diocese and Episcopal Commissary.

Memorial Service.

Last night at George Street Church a memorial service for the late John W. Taylor, who for over forty years had been a member and officer of that Church, was held. Rev. R. E. Fairbairn officiated, preaching from a text taken from Hebrews IX, 27. The choir rendered as an anthem, Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." At the close of the service, Mr. Christian, organist, played the Dead March in "Saul."

This is a claim for repayment of part portion advanced on the cargo of the schooners Mildred and Jennie Jones. The defence is that the cargoes were sold outright and any losses incurred are the plaintiffs own. The amount involved is about $10,415, and the plaintiff claims that he was an agent and the losses must be sustained by Messrs. Barr and Monroe. The fish was shipped in 1917, during the war period, to Gibraltar and thence to Genoa. The passages were long and it is claimed that about 1100 stls. of the fish were bad on arrival. The evidence taken is very lengthy and no decision was given at to-day's hearing.

Oporto Market Report.

CONDITIONS NOT CONSIDERED GOOD.

In their circular letter to the Board of Trade under date of Nov. 15 Messrs. Faria, Pimenta, Coimbra & Co. make the following reference to the Portuguese market:—"After a month of complete paralysis, our market has now begun to show signs of animation. The greater part of the fish in stock here, however, has suffered from long unavoidable delay in the warehouses, and low quality fish is appearing in the market. The exchange is still unstable and with the arrival of the Portuguese fresh fish and the comparatively large stock of English fish, the market, in our opinion, cannot be considered as good."

GOURMAND EATS TOO MUCH SOUP.

Saturday night a seaman of one of the foreign ships in port created quite a sensation at the King Cafe. As far as can be learned the sailor ordered a feast for himself, the first item being soup. After partaking of a number of platefuls he found he had no room for the other courses whereupon he started in to break up the dishes. The proprietors of the Cafe became frightened and ran to the police lock up for assistance. Two police constables paid a hurried visit to the shop, and after a few minutes settled matters up. The gourmand paid for the broken dishes.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. Owing to constant prevalence of icebergs in the North Atlantic steamship lines double track routes, lines have been shifted to southern tracks, formerly followed after February 1st. DISAPPROVE XMAS VACATION.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 11. The question of control of Straits, whether by a body under the League of Nations, or by some International unit, wholly separate from the League, is being generally asked by members of Near East conference, delegations, which have no representation among the military and naval experts now sitting with the Turks. Inasmuch as Turkey and United States are not members of the League of Nations, doubtless strong objections to any plan may make control of Straits a league affair. There is a strong agitation to declare a Christmas holiday for the conference, but Curzon in view of the uncertain state of the most important question, and many other delegates, consider any vacation undesirable.

NEGRO LYNCHED.

Bible Society Meeting.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT COLLEGE HALL. SIR W. S. ALLARDYCE MAKES FIRST PUBLIC PLATFORM APPEARANCE.

The special meeting of the friends and supporters of the Bible Society, held last night in the Methodist College Hall, was attended by a very large audience. The meeting was the public appearance of Sir W. S. Allardyce, Miss Allardyce, and Canon Bolt, D.C.L., President of the Newfoundland Auxiliary, presiding and the meeting opened with the singing of "From All That Dwell Under the Skies." A portion of scripture was read by Rev. T. E. Darby, after which came a solo by Mrs. The Lord's pleasant remarks by Mr. Stansfield.

After explaining that the meeting was for the purpose of creating greater interest in the work of the Society, the chairman stated that he did not expect the present annual contribution to be from $1,500 to $2,000 as adequate for this Colony. Announcing a new system of collecting he appealed to the audience, Canon Bolt, extended a wholehearted welcome to Sir W. S. Allardyce, and expressed his admiration for his Excellency's work among the people second to none in their loyalty to the throne.

In the presence of our Gracious King—who came from the purest of stock and would always be glad to support him in these noble enterprises for which the Emperor stands. His Excellency was warmly applauded as he rose and expressed his sympathy for the greeting extended to him by the audience and himself. He declared to take advantage of his first public appearance to thank the people of Newfoundland for the extreme warmth and enthusiastic welcome he had been accorded there on his arrival here on December 1st.

He said that he was glad to see the people of Newfoundland and to be permitted to extend his sympathy to you in your personal and your troubles. In his address on the work of the Bible Society, His Excellency began by referring to a boy at school he had met and said that an old story, it good, and never die of age. He claimed that the Bible Society, that its story—telling one—fulfilled those two promises. It dates back for over 2,000 years and if we put our faith in it, it is a good one. The Bible was a far far older and "much more marvelous tale. From primitive times there was a hankering for the control of human society, and the Bible was formed. Out of this came a new faith was born to enter the universe—the wonderful reception of God. Slowly it spread through the ages, the ecclesiastical hand was removed, and the Bible itself remained revealed to man that proved our main support during the terrible years of the Dark Ages.

His Excellency then referred to the many tongues in which the Bible is written, and the fact that it is printed and the illustrated version from his own experience, a tremendous task that must have been involved in the work of translating the services of the devoted missionaries, some of whose work had been under his personal notice during his twenty-five years. As to the Bible, His Excellency noted that in the years 1821-22, eight and a half million copies of the Scriptures had been distributed, and considering the state of the world, this was a phenomenal and extraordinary work.

He then referred to the receipts during the same period of $134,000 and the disbursements of $120,000, leaving a credit balance of $14,000. This favorable result was made possible by economy, gifts and favorable foreign exchange. The Scriptures are now printed in 550 languages, and of these 100 were added in the past nine years, besides the stress of the war.

His Excellency then referred to the Bishop of Newfoundland in a brief address, in which he expressed his pleasure at being able to be present and say a few words of encouragement. As a man who finds more and more to do and he has to subject it to a process of elimination until he knows what he can do and that he must do. One thing he must do is to give his support to the Bible Society. The Bible Society was founded in the year 1804, and the proof was to be seen in the large audience, representatives of the many Christian churches, which were there gathered, and worth while because of its work. It was said that the Bible was as much as it used to be, and that the people were content to let it be. But the Bible Society held the Bible and were giving the people the Bible and were suggesting to them that it was a good book for all people. The Bible was a divine revelation written by different men in different ages. Through it holy men unfolded the divine purposes—what God revealed himself to man. It had a suggestive value, an original value, a constructive value.

THE STORE OF THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

The Gospel of Christ is its express message to the world. All have felt in all ages what Jesus was, Man was meant to be. Man is seeking after God and that is why we have the Gospel.

Following His Lordship's address, the Presbyterian Choir which led the singing during the meeting, rendered the Anthem "Hear My Prayer," the solo part being effectively taken by Mrs. Harvey Small.

The concluding address was delivered by the Rev. R. J. Power, M.A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. In a very excellent address, Mr. Power spoke of the practical value of the Bible. What can you do? Was the question of the age. The Bible, he said, did not shrink the test. All it asked was British fair play, and to be tested experimentally earnestly and honestly. The Bible as a profitable book was the speaker's theme, and he urged that it was profitable for teaching, profitable for improvements, profitable for erection, and in the instruction of righteousness. It left a man thoroughly equipped and fitted him to meet all the demands of life. Before the conclusion of the meeting, the Choir rendered the "Hallelujah Chorus" and Canon Bolt thanked the audience for their attendance. The Doxology was then sung and the Lord Bishop pronounced the Benediction.

The American Revolution.

The protracted struggle between the American Colonies and the Mother Country, caused by ministerial incapacity, and conducted with a plentiful and continuous amount of blundering, came to an end formally on November 30, 1784, on which day articles were signed by the representatives of the British Government, of which the Earl of Selbourne was the head, and the American commissioners in Paris, who included Benjamin Franklin. The main points of the treaty were, in the first place, of course, the recognition of the independence of the United States; secondly, an advantageous arrangement of their boundaries, and thirdly the concession of the right of fishing on the banks of Newfoundland. Further, Great Britain recognized and satisfied the claims of the American loyalists to the extent of nearly ten million sterling for losses of real or personal property, and of £120,000 per annum in life annuities as compensation for the loss of income in trades or professions. The treaty was received in England with very various feeling, but upon the whole the predominant sentiment was relief at the termination of a trying and even perilous adventure. In June, 1785, George III. had an interview with Mr. Adams, the first accredited minister from the United States, a meeting that naturally occasioned not a little emotion on both sides. But the king received the minister with entire frankness and affability. It was his wish, he remarked, that it should be understood in America, that, although he had been the last to consent to a separation, yet he would be the first to welcome the friendship of the United States as an independent power. However, before his death, England and the States again were at war in 1812.

GIVING.

If any man is in a pickle, and comes to me for aid, I'll gladly hand him out a nickel, and feed him marmalade. I look around each day for chances to give away a buck; I would improve the circumstances of all men out of luck. Is there a widow sorely weeping beneath a sullen sky? I call on her and in her keeping I leave a wholesome pie. Is there a crippled man bewailing his long lost golden prime? To his cheap door you see me salting, and stake him with a dime. I like to look for the afflicted and then relieve their woe, and feel, as moralists predict, my moral stature grow. But when I say to me, "Oh, brother, be wise and circumspect! You ought to give to which and to whom, just as we shall direct," I straightaway draw my purse strings closer, and say, "Ods whiskers! I need my coin to pay the grocer for rice and stringless beans." Let me alone, and I beswear me, will help folks while I live, but when you bring blue prints to me, and tell me where to give, I look p strong box purse and lard; my face grows long and glum, I lose at once all zeal and ardor, a tightwad I become.

A Hidden Book Romance.

For over 200 years a very rare pamphlet, "A Brief History of the Pequot War" which occurred in 1637 in Connecticut, U.S.A., lay untouched on the library shelves of an old house near Colchester. It was sent to London hidden among a number of other books of small value, and was discovered accidentally. It was sold at Messrs. Hodgson's rooms recently to an American collector for £325. Written by Major John Mason, who served in the Netherlands with Capt. Miles Standish under General Fairfax, the pamphlet was published in 1637.

Just Folks.
 By EDGAR A. GUEST.
THE STORY OF THE BUTTERFLY.
 As I was reading a book one day in an indolent, dreamy and drowsy way, I discovered a Grecian tale of a maiden fair who was standing by a well, Entranced by a beautiful butterfly which had broken its winter jail. Now this very remarkable Grecian miss Had noticed the sun-daring chrysalis And the butterfly appear, And she saw that this wonderful living thing, With the slender body and golden wing, Was chained to the earth by fear. He was fashioned, as butterflies always are, With wings to carry him near and far.

But he trembled and feared a fly. And when it appeared to this lively miss He was crawling back in his chrysalis She uttered a startled cry. "Get up! Get up in the summer sky! God gave you those wings so you could fly." The beautiful maiden said: But the butterfly to the earth remained, And the wings God had given him he disdain'd, So runneth the tale, I read.

How like the life of a youth I try. And chained to the earth by the mains And ever the maiden, sweet, But never he seems to beat. One 20c. bottle of FORD'S Ginger Wine makes nearly a gallon of ginger wine.—declit

WOMEN VERSUS WOMEN.

"Women won't vote for women. Women won't patronize women doctors. Women won't take their cases to women lawyers. And this in the year 1922!"

"This disgraceful situation in which women find themselves to-day is their own fault."

"They will never advance until they refuse longer to be a subject class and combine in a solid women's party."

So says the leader of the National Women's Party, in high indignation over the defeat of women at the polls, in the recent elections to the United States congress.

One can understand her indignation both over the defeat and over the fact that the women voters would not vote for women.

Saw Betrayal.

And I also agree with her in her exasperation at the fact that women hesitate to patronize women doctors because they are women, or go to women lawyers because they are women. Nothing makes me crosser than to hear (as I did recently) a "hang-back" woman say to another woman: "You don't mean to say you are going to have Dr. M. (for her accouchement); I don't see how you dare trust a woman, when you know you are liable to have trouble."

Her Own Fault.

The Dr. M. in question is a very brilliant doctor, with just as many cases and as much success to her credit as the man doctor the other woman favors. The only fault to be found with her was that she was a woman. And for another woman to turn from her on that account, alone, is surely maddening to women who have faith in their sex.

But, on the other hand, I don't agree that women should go to women doctors because they are women, or to women lawyers because they are women, or deal with a firm because its members are women.

I dislike to see any alignment of women against men. Both men and women ought to stand or fall by their abilities as individuals, not by their status as the member of one or the other sex.

Just At Present.

Of course, in these days when women are trying so hard to get a foothold in business, and the professions, and governments, if other things were equal, one would be apt to give an individual a hand up because she was a woman and had been the underdog in these things so long.

It doesn't seem possible to me, for purely biological reasons, that women ever will, as a whole, have the same footing in the world of affairs as men. They have got to bear and bring up the children, if the race is to continue, and this will always absorb a large share of the best energy of the majority of the feminine sex. But I think as the years go by there will be a great many individual women who, for one reason or another, are not the child bearers, and who will rank with men in business and the professions. And I would like to see these women placed by men and women alike on a perfectly equal footing with men, and judged only by capacity and not by sex.

Origin of London a Mystery.

HISTORIANS CANNOT PENETRATE IT.

LONDON. (By Canadian Press)—The origin of the city of London has not been penetrated by the historians. One of the oldest, Geoffrey of Monmouth, ascribed the founding of the city to Brutus, who called it New Troy, but the earliest authentic record is that of Tacitus, who, writing in A.D. 61, described London as a place "copula negotiorum at conuentum maxime celebris"—rendered, literally, "much frequented by a number of merchants and trading vessels." London's position, sixty miles inland, at the head of navigation of a deep tidal river, gave it commanding advantages as a centre of distribution. To the end of the eighteenth century its trade was carried on either at moorings in the stream, by the aid of barges and lighters, or at wharves constructed on the river side. There were no enclosed docks in that period, with warehouses where valuable cargoes might be stored in security. Losses by theft and damage became so serious that public opinion was aroused in the City of London, and a scheme was promoted and the money guaranteed by the leading merchants for constructing enclosed docks. As a result a bill was passed by Parliament in 1799 authorizing the construction of the West India Docks, the beginning of the modern dock system as it is to-day. The foundation stone was laid with great ceremony in the presence of Premier Pitt and his Cabinet in 1800, and the docks were completed and opened to shipping in 1802.

THE PORT OF LONDON.

So successful was this first venture that what would be called to-day a "boom" in dock-creating enterprise ensued, and further schemes in the Port of London were promoted and sanctioned by Parliament at short intervals. Prior to 1909, when the Port Authority was created, the provision of facilities and accommodation was in the hands of private undertakings, which had become impoverished by unwise competition one against the other, and consequently lacked the means to carry out the requirements necessary to keep the port abreast of the times. A state of inaction had existed for nearly thirty years, and this was becoming a menace to London's position as the world's centre of commerce. Then a Royal Commission was appointed to administer all the various dock undertakings on the River Thames. Lloyd George was then President of the Board of Trade and put through Parliament a Government Bill creating the Port of London Authority, 1908, and this came into effect in 1909. The beautiful Port of London Authority Administration Building, which was formally opened a short time before Lloyd George resigned the Premiership, is a monument of which the Port Authority and the citizens of London generally, have reason to be proud. It cost 10,000,000 pounds, and is considered to be one of the most beautiful buildings in London.

EGZEMA

The Last Native Prince of Wales.

The title of the Prince of Wales today conveys to us a widely different meaning to that which the same title conveyed to the English of the thirteenth century. Now, it is borne by the eldest son of our Sovereign, who will one day reign over an immense empire. In those stormy days it was borne by a sturdy Welshman whose only wish was to hold the title principally for his people without undergoing the humiliation of rendering homage to the King of England, whom he despised and hated. The last Prince who was a native and an independent ruler, was Llewellyn, who waged a lengthy and fierce war with Edward I, a war which only terminated with his death, which was brought about by treachery on December 11, 1282. Ever since that time Wales has been closely allied with England, the bond of mutual interest at first serving to hold the two countries together while now Wales feels that she is bound to it by the closest of ties. Ever since the birth of Edward's son at Carnarvon, it has been the custom, only departed from in a few instances, to give the title of the Prince of Wales to the eldest son of the ruling Prince. David has once more returned from a tour of the Empire—this time to our vast possessions in the East, from which we hope will spring a greater union.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram

Supreme Court.

(Before Mr. Justice Kent.)

Mendez Lima & Co vs The Union Trading Co.

The argument of counsel in this matter occupied the attention of the Court the greater part of Saturday. Mr. F. A. Mews for the defendant re-suming his argument after recess said in part that plaintiff's claim was for damages for breach of contract for the sale of a cargo of fish to them by the defendant Company upon a contract made by G. M. Barr in his own name and the plaintiff's say that G. M. Barr was agent only for defendant Company, and that the defendants are liable as the principals. That might be so if it is proven that Barr was really agent. G. M. Barr gave evidence that he was agent for defendants in respect of the cargo. On the other hand, Mr. Coaker denied this and said that Mr. Barr had bought the fish, and resold it to the plaintiffs in Brazil. That in proof of this it was shown that G. M. Barr had sold the cargo to the Brazil firm in his own name, and agreeing to sell fish of his own brand, had chartered the schooner Freedom in his own name, and sent her to Port Union to be loaded, and had reserved the right to send his own cutters there, and had recommended an inspection of his own choosing and had the fish branded with his own brand. These and a number of other things he had done, all in his own name. The Bill of Lading was also in his own name. Mr. Mews argued that all these things were acts which a buyer of fish would do. That when Mr. Barr claimed he was paid $1.00 per drum, it was shown that the ordinary commission on a sale of fish is one per cent, whereas $1.00 per drum is equal to five per cent, which is a most extraordinary commission. Furthermore the defendants say that the fish was sold to G. M. Barr, and this $1.00 per drum was profits he made on the sale, and furthermore that when Mr. Barr had the fish packed under his own brand, the presumption of law is that he had it packed and branded for his own account and the onus is on him to prove otherwise, and that he has failed to rebut this presumption. Further, that the question of agency was not merely incidental, or collateral to this, but was the main issue, and that the plaintiffs and Mr. Barr had failed to prove it, and therefore the plaintiff's case must also fail. Counsel also wished to point out, that as Mr. Barr in his own evidence, had said he had no complaint to make as to the quality of the fish that was loaded on board the vessel, or on account of the inspection of the fish, the attempt which was made at the end of the case after all other witnesses had been called by calling Mr. Snelgrove, the fish inspector to prove that 600 or 700 drums had been packed without inspection before he went to Port Union, had failed miserably. Counsel submitted that Snelgrove's evidence was utterly worthless for many reasons. Snelgrove had said that the packed drums were piled in the store when he got there and when he was asked how they were piled, he said they were piled 7 tiers high, and each tier consisted of 15 drums on one side of a square and 40 drums on the other side, but that Snelgrove seemed to have no idea that this would make 4200 drums in the pile. Against this Mr. White proved that no drums had been packed or piled up at all, when Snelgrove got there. Mr. Mews also submitted that the defendants were not concerned with the damages claim unless they were liable as principals, but that in any case the proof of damages was also overdone. That claims had to be put in within a limited time, and that the first claim put in so described the fish as to make it valueless, yet only 146 was claimed per drum. Later a second claim of 20 shillings per drum was made, but it was not shown why the damages were doubled in a few days without any apparent reason. Further that the evidence as to damages was very vague and uncertain. No dates were given and the fish after it was landed, had been moved about from one town to another, and the damage might have happened in Brazil. Further that the market price fell considerably at that time. Counsel said plaintiffs had set out to prove agency, and that the defendants were principals. In this they had failed therefore the present action must fail.

COUNSEL FOR PLAINTIFF.

Mr. Winter, counsel for Mendez Lima & Company, then submitted his arguments stating there were three distinct points in connection with the proceedings, first the matter of agency; second, when the claim was made; and thirdly as to the measure of damages. Regarding the first point he could not see how a business man of Mr. Barr's knowledge and experience could negotiate for this cargo other than as the agent, as all his actions conclusively proved that he had acted through the proceedings in no other capacity. True the transaction was an extraordinary one from many points, but while Mr. Barr had been frank and open all through the transaction Mr. Coaker had been very careful not to put pen or paper anywhere. Actual facts are fundamental in this case, and the plaintiff has amply proven them. While it may be said that the commission was high, we were at that time taking our customers as it were by the throat, and demanding the highest prices for our fish. Mr. Coaker was obtaining the services of a Brazil exporter, one who knew the market inside out. He was getting the benefit of his services, and of his brand, and it is quite conceivable that $1.00 per drum was not too much. Again Mr. Barr had expenses in connection with the cargo, and the transaction did not net him that amount. Mr. Winter dealt at some length upon the manner in which the sale was made. Defendant says that it was a sale to Mr. Barr, yet the Freedom's cargo as well as two other cargoes were sold in the same manner, and there is nothing to show that a sale had been made. It had all been done verbally. There was nothing in writing. The fish was to be delivered to Mr. Barr at Port Union and according to Mr. Coaker's story, he had no interest in it after that. Mr. Barr however, does not live at Port Union. It was only reasonable, as he was making the sale for defendants, that he should have the right to cull the fish, and to make sure that it was good fish that was being put on board the vessel. This was only natural seeing that he was managing the sale, and was using his brand, and that is the reason Mr. Snelgrove was sent there. Again if Mr. Barr owned the fish why did he not receive an invoice of some sort, and he did not. Again, after the fish had arrived and been taken delivery of, Mr. Barr immediately on receipt of the account sales, sent them to Mr. Coaker or the Company. Is it conceivable that if Barr owned the fish, he would send these account sales to Mr. Coaker. All Mr. Coaker wanted was his money. Immediately the cargo was shipped and the documents presented, he would have been paid and then he need not have troubled his head about anything else. It is absurd to suggest that no contract or agreement existed. Mr. Coaker had the fish, and Barr was to take the fish and handle it. Regarding the matter of the brand, Mr. Winter said he had nothing to say as to the mor-also of leading brands and further it does not effect the question of agency. It was to their common interest to get the best possible price for the fish and Mr. Barr's brand was used, and he is paid for it at $1.00 per drum. This is the strongest argument in favour of Mr. Barr's agency, as he was not paid the ordinary brokerage. Referring to the matter of claims, Mr. Winter said that here, too, Mr. Barr's actions were quite open. Immediately Mr. Coaker returns from abroad Mr. Barr consulted with him about the claims. If he had finished with the cargo, all he need have said was: "well, Mr. Barr, that's your fish." It is quite true that Mr. Coaker has not committed himself in writing, but under such circumstances why did he not go to Mr. Monroe, Mendez Lima's agent here, and inform him of his position and tell him that his was no concern of his. As to Mr. Barr, his correspondence with Mr. Monroe and his telegrams, etc., are all plain to be seen, they are in cold print. In these letters Mr. Barr says that Mr. Coaker admitted liability to the extent of 50 shillings per quintal and was willing to pay it out of returns from the Novelly's cargo which was then also being negotiated for by Mr. Barr under similar terms as the Freedom's. Mr. Coaker certainly did not repudiate the claims. The Novelly was to be treated on the same basis, yet when this sale did not materialize, Mr. Coaker took the fish and sold it, he says, at a ruinous price in Italy. He took it and dealt with it without asking Mr. Barr's permission. Mr. Winter also submitted that according to Mr. Coaker's evidence he had not looked for the 10 shillings per drum that is still owed by Mr. Barr. Why is this? It is hard to imagine that the F.P.C. Trading Company is in such a flourishing condition in these hard times that it can afford to forego such a large sum of money. The general language of Mr. Coaker when he said he sold in order to introduce the Trading Company's fish to Brazil raises the question of why does he sell it to another man. Mr. Winter submitted that the real fact was that Mr. Coaker had a lot of fish. He was on good terms with Mr. Barr, who was a friend of Mr. Monroe, the Brazilian agent here, and Barr was employed by Coaker to sell his fish and get a footing for him in Brazil. The absence of the invoice, no demand for payment of balance, etc., Mr. Coaker's silence, all go to prove that it was plainly a matter of Barr being the agent. Therefore the plaintiff must look for the money from the party who has it, and in this case it is the F.P.C. Trading Company. Mr. Winter spoke at some length on the matter of the claims, and the law in such cases. The firm had forwarded their claim on the 14th of March and the vessel had arrived between the 5th and 8th. The first claim had been for 14 1/2 but when the fish had all been examined the claim was increased to 30. The fish was sold to be delivered at Brazil in good condition and the risk was the seller's. The fish, however, did not turn out as it was contracted for the seller is responsible for the claims if any. In connection with the Government Fishery Regulations at that time, one of the outstanding rules was that there must be Government inspection of fish. The law was brought into force by the Minister of Marine & Fisheries, yet there is not one atom of evidence submitted to show that he obeyed this law of his own making. Not a cutter had been called who handled the fish. The Regulations called for certificates. Some sort must have been given, but it was not produced. Two certificates should have been furnished, one by the Department, the other by the Government Inspector. The Inspector had been a little too strict, and the fish was being inspected too well. He was quietly removed from the scene of his activities. The wharfinger said he saw half of the cargo. There was some bad fish but he rejected to considerable quantity of it. How can it be known that some of this fish did not eventually find its way back again? It appears quite plain that it was never inspected at this end and it has been abundantly proven by Mendez Lima that it was bad when it reached them. The defendants have not produced evidence to rebut it and it is quite apparent that Mr. Snidergrove's story of the sunburnt and damp fish is 50 p.c. correct. Mr. Winter said it was strong language to use, but if the Regulations were carried out all over the country as they were with the Freedom's cargo, then there is every reason why they were not a success, and why this country suffered from them. In conclusion Mr. Winter said that they had clearly proven their

Deprecates Criticism.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—As a member of the committee of the Junior S. P. C. A. of Newfoundland, I deprecate strongly the adverse criticism to which we have been subjected. The young people of our schools were called together on Wednesday last and addressed by recognized leaders in education and thought in this city, the main idea being to implant seeds of kindness, thoughtfulness and mercy in their young hearts. There was no thought of notoriety, and had you and other writers not drawn the attention of the public to it, our humble effort would have passed almost unnoticed. If you will look over the list of names of the Child Welfare Association you will find, I think, that the members of the S. P. C. A. are among the most indefatigable workers and organizers of Child Welfare, and where one dollar is raised for the protection of animals, a thousand is raised for Child Welfare by these very same people.
Hoping you will kindly publish this letter.
Faithfully yours,
ANNA M. MITCHELL
Dec. 11, 1922.

[The above objection seems to be beside the point. It is not to be examined closely, such comment as was made on this vexed subject they will find that there was not a line of hostile criticism directed either toward the Junior S. P. C. A. or the Child Welfare movement. Anyway the public can constitute itself the judge.—Editor.]

Old Country Gossip.

(Tailor in Glasgow Weekly Herald.)

ANOTHER DOPE WAVE.
Another rolling wave of dope revelations are due very shortly. The conviction of a man described as agent "to the biggest man in the business," and the fact that four Chinks were swept into jail for being in "unlawful possession of drugs," is an indication that the detective squad specially engaged on drug-hunting have justified their appointment by Sir William Horwood. I understand that very shortly the public will be shocked by revelations of doping among highly-placed people—facts that will show how widespread is the plague and how easy it has been to obtain large supplies without trouble where cash was no consideration. Only a few days ago the daughter of a public man was discovered to be suffering from poisoning, and investigation showed that she had been heavily doped with drugged cigarettes given her by a girl friend at a tea-party. This sort of thing is getting very common. In fact, not to have had some experience of dope is now to be labelled "slow" among the very "fast." A sad state of affairs.

EMIR'S PRESENT TO KING.

The King has been delighted by a noble gift from the Emir Abdullah, who, on the eve of his departure from London, presented his Majesty with a pair of beautiful Arab horses. The father of the Emir presented the King with "Abdullah," another Arab steed, and his Majesty frequently rides this animal when he is at Windsor. The Prince of Wales also received one, and this is stabled at Dartmoor. Gifts of horses are not so popular among royalty as they once were, and this recalls the anecdote of the Prince of Wales's first motor. When quite a boy his royal father told him that he was to have a horse on his birthday, to be his very own. The Prince seemed rather luke-warm in his gratitude, and on inquiring the reason his Majesty was met with a reply—"Everybody who is anybody has a motor of his own." The Queen was opposed to the gift, fearing that the Prince might go in for "speeding." But, on a promise being given that he would not exceed the speed limit a motor was given him. He devoted himself to mastering its mechanism, as well as learning to drive, and it is said in Royal circles that the Prince is the best driver of the Family. This past week he purchased a new car at the motor show.

KLU KLUX KLAN.

I hear on the best authority that a British branch of the Klu Klux Klan is now merrily at work in this country. The object of the Klan will not be quite so bloodthirsty as in America, but will aim at warning off coloured men from the society of white girls. Where peaceful persuasion fails to accomplish this end, more drastic measures will be tried, and this will mean some reversion to the unpleasant tar and feather punishment. It is a fact that the association of white women with negroes is much on the increase, and this is especially so in certain large ports. Scotland Yard are fully agreed that such intimacies are objectionable, and there is a certain sensational case on the eye of being made public which will shed a lurid light on the sinister power that some niggers have to captivate white girls. The case in question concerns a rich girl whose parents were horrified to discover that she had secretly married a negro. He has been black-mailing them since the marriage came to light, and they have resorted to the police. I fancy this is not the only case of black and white.

Would Have Eaten Him.

Lecturing recently on the subject of missionaries and their work, Dr. John McNeill, the Scottish evangelist, told this story.

A chief in the New Hebrides Islands, who, before his conversion had been a cannibal, was reading his Bible one day when a trader came up to him and exclaimed: "What is that you are reading?"

"The Bible,"

"Oh, that's played out," said the trader. "I don't believe it ever did anyone any good."

"Don't you?" replied the chief.

"Then let me tell you, sir, if it was not for the Bible you would be in my cooking-pot!"

Not At All.

Said the guest, upon approaching his host's home in the country: "Ah, there are some of your family on the balcony."

"I suppose that girl in the short dress is your daughter, the young man in riding breeches is your son, and the woman in the tea-gown is your wife?"

Said his Host: "No, you are wrong. The girl in the short dress is my grandmother, the young fellow in riding breeches is my wife, and the woman in the tea-gown is my twelve-year-old daughter, who likes to dress up in her great-grandmother's dresses."

A SIMPLE FROCK FOR A SMALL MISS.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 5 year size will require 3 yards of 32 inch material. Collar and cuffs of contrasting material require 1/2 yard.

A UNIQUE AND STYLISH COSTUME.

3899. Surplice effects are ever becoming, to the stout as well as to the slender woman. A very smart style is here shown, and one that offers several new features, and a choice in the matter of its lines.

The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 5 1/2 yards of 42 inch material. Canton crepe, or fine serge could be used for this model, or it could be developed in a combination of a silk fabric and cloth as well. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A BEAUTIFUL AFTERNOON OR DINNER GOWN.

4127-4146 Fashion has put her newest features into the making of this model. It is a style that will be becoming to slender and to mature figures. Lace and Canton crepe are portrayed here. For less elaborate development, one could choose crepe de chene combined with georgette. It is also attractive in one material, with bead embroidery, or a binding, piping or banding of contrasting material.

The Waist Pattern 4137, is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The Skirt Pattern, 4146, is cut in 6 Sizes: 25, 27, 29, 31, 33 and 35 inches waist measure.

"What do you mean?" asked the astonished medical man.

Christmas Decorations.

ATTRACTIVE WINDOW AT DULEY & COMPANY.

Pedestrians on Water Street on Saturday night were attracted in large numbers by the window display of Messrs. T. J. Duley & Co., Ltd. At this season something special in the way of decoration is looked for, and this firm is to be congratulated on the original method of displaying their wares. The western window, which is used for the exhibition of jewellery, is displayed in the form of a lighted peaked canopy and the colour scheme is gold and blue. The framework is of gold covered with plated blue silk, tastefully arranged, and draped with curtains held to the sides with gold ribbon bands. The background and bottom is of the same material, and the central figure of the window is provided by a novelty electric lady standing between two bouquets of roses, and around whose feet is displayed a very choice array of fine jewellery. A striking contrast to this window is the eastern one, where bright colors predominate. An arch is the main scheme here, carried out in black wood with orange coloured silk decorations, having a circular opening in the front, around which is arranged the covering in pleated effects, running in odd ways. The top is covered with the same material and curtains are held in place with black bows. The display of silverware and fine leather goods and novelties in the window is interspersed with carnations in silver vases, the whole giving a very harmonizing effect. We congratulate Messrs. Duley on the taste they have shown in their Xmas decoration, and the favorable comments they are receiving on their display is well merited. We understand the designs are original, and were the creation of one of the members of this progressive firm.

Newfoundlander Dies at Brooklyn.

On Nov. 7th, there passed away at Brooklyn, N.Y., William Augustus Vett, in his fifty-fifth year. Deceased was the eldest surviving son of Capt. Wm. J. H. P. Vett, for many years sailing out of St. John's. He served his apprenticeship with the firm of J. B. & G. Ayre, Bakers, and left St. John's in 1875, going to Boston, where he entered the employ of B. S. & J. G. Ferguson, holding a responsible position there up to the time of his death. He was a member of the British Society, also Leeming Lodge, L.O.A., St. John's. He leaves a widow, Margaret, youngest daughter of the late Samuel Congdon; also a sister Jane, wife of Wm. Squires, formerly of St. John's, now residing in Brooklyn, N.Y., and a younger sister Leah, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.

Smallpox at Poplar.

LONDON, (Canadian Press).—Poplar is seldom without troubles of its own. It is not taxes or unemployment it is something else, and the latest something else is smallpox. This disease has been epidemic in the borough for some time, but at latest reports it had pretty nearly run its course and the health authorities thought they had it well in hand. The smallpox outbreak has been of a virulent character. The Poplar workhouse has been visited by the scourge and a large number of inmates have been removed from the workhouse to the isolation hospital at Long Beach, near Dartford. Even the Public Vaccinator of Poplar, Dr. Halliwell, is down with smallpox. Dr. Halliwell contracted the disease through treating patients, and he has been in isolation as a result of this. Whether the Public Vaccinator himself has been vaccinated within the last ten years, has not been made public, and naturally there is a good deal of conjecture in the matter. Any person in Poplar who has been vaccinated within ten years need not undergo the operation in connection with the present outbreak.

A Good "Peeler."

Mistress: "Bridget, how many times have I told you that I didn't want you to have callers during the day, and there was that red-haired policeman in the kitchen again this morning."

Bridget: "Yes, mum, he is a great help."

Mistress: "A great help? What do you mean?"

Bridget: "Yes, mum, about the potatoes, and tomatoes, and such like."

Mistress: "How can he help you with the potatoes and tomatoes?"

Bridget: "Faith, an' he's such a fine peeler."
