The Order to America for Ammunition The Mahdi's Troops Getting Tired of Their Allegiance—Graham's Program. London, March 9, -In the house of commons this evening Lord Edmond Fitzmaurice read a letter from Earl Granville concerning the recent colonial controversy with Germany, in which Earl Granville says he has good reason to hope that the friction is past. The reading of the letter was received with cheers.

The marquis of Hartington said the cost of the Nile expedition would probably be covered by the money already voted. The increase in the army would be 15,000 men.

Lord Fitzmaurice stated that the government does not regard North Borneo as under British sovereignty. Lord Hartington in moving a vote of 3000 al men for the army said Gen. Graham's force would disperse the rebels, occupy 0eman Digna's rositions, and prevent the rebels from again concentrating. Chen, Graf an would then open the route to Berber as far as possible. If he reached Berber in time he would co-operate with Lord Wolseley in his advance on Khartoum. The Suakim railway will be purely a mili-tary structure, but would doubtless even-tually lead to the establishment of a per-manent line. The motion was adopted.

LONDON. March 9 .- In the house of commons to-morrow the government will be asked whether it is true that they have given large orders for ammunition to an American firm. It is stated the health of the employes at the Woolwich arsenal is failing on account of the severe strain required to fill orders for ammunition.

IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

The English baptist missionary society purchased Victoria from the natives, but destring to be relieved of the tack of governing it handed the territory over to England. Mr. Hewett, British consul, acting under orders from Earl Granville, annexed Victoria to the British empire

COLLEGE POINT, L. I., March 9 .- Carrie Bauer, a pretty factory girl, who has recently been receiving a number of amorous letters from an unknown admirer, appointed a meeting on Saturday night with the writer in a secluded spot whither she went accompanied by her brother-in-law and met the man who proved to be Herman Hornberger, a prominent citizen. Miss Bauer's brother-in-law and a constable gave Hornberger a severe dyubbing and a gave Hornberger a severe drubbing and a score of the lady's woman friends thrashed him with brooms. Hornberger is married, his wife being the daughter of a wealthy retired merchant.

THE DRY BONES OF '37-38

THE ASSEMBLY DECLINES TO RE-WARD THE VOLUNTEERS.

But Mr. Mowat and a Majority of Four Cold Thanks. The legislature sat till 11,20 last night and spent nearly the, whole session in discussing "the dry bones of the rebellion of 1837-38," to use one of the member's own words. The opposition was quite jubilant over the principal division of the evening and chuckled to themselves that they had given the government the tightest squeeze of the session. There was a great dea have hauled down the British flag and of talk about loyalty and super-hoisted the German at Victoria, an English loyalty, and all the herois deeds nacted in the stirring times of '37 38 were nade familiar to the well-filled gallerics. The discussion was based on the following notion by Mr. Broder: "That in the opinion of this house it is expedient that government should make some suitable recognition to the volunteers of 1837-38 residing in the province of Ontario for the valuable services they rendered in defence of their country at that time." With such a groundwork before him of course the member for Dundas did. not fail to do honor to the gallantry of the volunteers of those days, and he made out a good case in their force.

those days, and he made out a good case in their favor.

However he was badly handicapped by several amendments, the first and most important of which came from the attorney general, who moved: "That all the words in the motion after the first word 'that' be omitted, and instead thereof there be added: 'This house cordially recognizes the lovalty of the services of the volunteers of 1837.38 who responded to the call then made upon them by the lawfully constituted authorities, and recognizes also the services rendered to the province through the efforts of the reformers of the same an amendment to the amendment: 'That this house would be remiss in its duty if it failed to record its appreciation of the services of those other volunteers who in 1866 repelled the invaders of Canada."

Mr. Meredith was not satisfied and moved another amendment. Mr. Fraser choked off this amendment by moving that the debate be adjourned, which being put the debate be adjourned, which being put to a vote was carried by 38 to 30.

Mr. Meredith spoke to a motion he had on the paper providing for the appointment of the provincial auditor pending good behaviour. The bill was not half as liberal in its provisions as the present one under discussion in the local legislature. Quite a spirited discussion took place. Unfortunately for the government the opposition, led by W. D. Gregory, outnumbered them and carried a vote of want of confidence, and the government, led by its noble leader Bernard Lynch, sustained a deteat. At the next meeting of the house Mr. Gregory will form a conservative government.

Alf. Miace as Humpty Bumpty.

The large audience that gathered at Montford's museum last night did not see George Fox, of happy memory, but they saw a legitimate successor of the great pantomime clown in Alfred Misco. The ever-welcome Humpty Dumpty was the attraction, and it proved a rare one at that. Apart from the fun and frolic of the pantomime there was an olfo, in which was introdfred several pleasing specialties, all of them by clever people. You can see Humpty Dumpty for the rest of the week every afternoon and evening. It will prove a treat for the ladies and children.

A governor-general, relegated from the active duties of an under-secretary of state in London to the humdrum routine of Ottawa, is for five years on a shelf. But we must have a good man because nobody can tell when his usefulness will be invoked. As a matter of fact, occasions have for many years past been scarce when the exigencies of state-craft at Rideau ball have transcended the difficulties of arranging seats at the dinner-table and organizing the crowd which gathers round the toboggan slide. The perfunctory acts of so simple an act. When Senator Alexanmechanical. If we do not gravely misudge Lord Lansdowne he must chafe not little under a life of aching emptiness. Without having taken time to work out a practical development of the scheme, we have come to the conclusion that the lands in the Northwest might be utilized for the purposes of bounty. To a mere money bounty there are objections which it is needless here to enumerate: but they are known and felt at the war office, in which Lord Lansdowne once occupied the seat of under secretary. WE SUBMITTHAT IF ENGLAND WERE TO BECOME THE OWNER OF A GREAT TRACT OF LAND ALONGSIDE THE PACIFIC RAILWAY she would be able to offer her soldiers just the consideration likely to prevail with a better class of men than she is now getting. losses which the proposed program will inflict on agriculturists. Nine tenths of all the barley grown is used for malt, and no other purposes, either in Canada or the United States. There is no disputing the United States. There is no disputing the fact that farmers must stop growing barley when the market for it is prohibited by law on both sides of the line. The farmers are already producing more wheat and breadstuffs than the world can diers who have carried a discharge come out to take up their land, a vast encouragement would be given to the settlement of the territories. Presumably the actual settlers would have some decided preference: but the holder of scrip, be he what he may, would become an agent interested in the settlement of the lands.

Such crapts would have this adversaria. This is so self-evident that it needs no demonstration, and I challenge any and all prohibition advocates to prove the contrary. Now let us look at the fermer's loss under Canadian Pacific company so far as to cavil at what might be a first step in England's public recognition of her interest in the transcontinental highway, which will yet be hailed as an important factor in the mahilication. Prof. Foster, M.P., in a prohibition. Prof. Foster, M.P., in a prohibition article in to-day's Mail says that the official returns show that Ontario grows 20,000,000 bushels of barley annually. This is worth on an average about $15,000,000 a year to the farmers, and will be lost annually. But this is not about $15,000,000 a year to the farmers, and will be lost annually. But this is not the only loss which our farmers will suffer. The eorn and rye markets in the United States will be partially destroyed by prohibition there. The grain from which eight or nine hundred millions of dollars that the filters (by temperance figures) is will surely come when this railway in the west is but the complement of the canal in the east, to the construction of which Disraeli's genius made England a chief contributor. If His Excellency "catches on" at all to the project, it can be successfully put in operation. We accordingly invite his attention, believing that his past record and present position emphatically point to alm as the fittest instrument for its accomplishment.

Catarrh-A New Treatment. Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern science has been has been achieved in modern science has been attained by the Dixon treatment for catarrh. Out of 2000 patients treated during the past six months, fully ninety per cent, have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent, of the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefitted, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally helieved by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissues, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination; this accomplished, the cetarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago are cures still. the remedy is simple and can be done at home, and the presentseasen of the year is the most favorable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sufferers should correspond with Messrs. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King street west. Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for their treatise on catarrh.—Montreal Star. 26

THE CENUINE PIANO. Manufactured by Rainer & Co., Guelph, Ont.

Manufactured by Rainer & Co., Guelph, Ont.

The undersigned respectfully announce that on the 9th day of April, 1884, Joseph F. Rainer dissolved partnership with Frank Sweetnam and John Hazelton, as piano manufacturers, and that said Joseph F. Rainer, with his son, will continue to manu-acture the original cross-scale Pianos, of which the said Joseph F. Rainer is the sole inventor.

Since the above dissolution, Mr. Rainer, sr., has greatly improved the small Cross-scale Piano by adding one string more to each note throughout the middle, making three strings to each note instead of two, thus giving the Piano a third more power of tone throughout the middle. There will be fifty-three notes throughout the middle, making three strings to each note instead of twenty-four notes from the reble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down that will have three strings instead of twenty-four notes from the treble down as formerly. The undersigned will give to wholesale, and retail customers the benefit of this improvement by letting them have these Pianos for the same price as the ones formerly name with twestrings.

These Pianos have now been before the public of 23 years, and have alwaysranked among the very best, and are celebrated for quality of action, prompt elastic touch, fine finish and elegant style of case, combined with every known improvement. Themost complete and unbroken list on record, embracing a period of 39 years, and made up of 28 first prizes, medals and diplomas, received at the principal exhibitions in Canada-Montreal, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton and London. At the Centennial Exhibition in Philiadelphis, in 1876, we secured a medal and diploma for our piano. The great favor with which the cross-scale pianos have been received fo

Tilly jumped up aghast.

"You aren't well, mother! I won't go if you're going to be sick!"

"Sit down, child, and finish your breakfast! I'm not sick, "She laughed to make all right, but in a dry, mirthless way. "I'm wouldn't let you stop at home on any account. To tell the truth, I was thinking, maybe, I'd go myself."

Those puritan forefathers of ours, with whom repression of natural emotion stood for mortification of carnal instinct, who confounded softness with sin, austerity with righteousness, sowed a crop of dragons teeth, she harvest of which confronts their descendants in vengeful hosts. The absolute inability to speak when free utterance would be the salvation of temporal, if not eternal, happiness; the shamefacedness that deprecates the cracking of the crust hiding from the nearest of kin and dearest of soul the pulsing of heart tides—these are but a few forms of the heritage we deplore, yet do not put away.

This woman deared, with longing that forming every task with mechanical diligence she had grown taciturn and gloomy, self from the family circle to her own room, aloof in listless quiet. She was quite well, she declared. She wished people wouldn't take notions about her. Once she had told Tilly, her favorite daughter to "mind

There was a great deal of business to be minded. Like all farmers, Luke Burney was a chronic grumbler, but this season he found less fault with providence and applauded his own management more often than he had occasion to do within the memory of his eldest born. Dairy, poultry-yard, garden and field had yielded bounteous increase of prospective stock to his bank store, and of positive labor to his wife's hands. Up at 4 in the morning to look after milk, baking and the breakfast for the "men-folks," she filled every minute with tasks stated and incidental until, hours after the rest had retired, she sought the pillow that often brought another form and recreation, she could have perished more easily than she could have put one-hundredth part of what she felt into hundredth part of what she felt into words.

A stunned silence followed her remark. James broke it.

"I wish you had spoken of it before !" he said, regretfully.

Mary was more explicit. "Why, mother, it never came into my mind that you cared for such things! And now the arrangement is made with Sally, I don't see how we can fix it different, without any of us stays at home."

Mrs. Burney caught the meaning of the amazed pause and her daughter's tartness. "It makes ne difference," she said, hastily. "Not the least in the world!"

Before Luke finished his corroborative speech she was on her feet, gathering up the pillow that often brought another form of solicitude instead of surcease of care. When there was so much to be done it was natural that she should lie awake to plan the morrow's operations; as natural, she deemed it, that such planning should bring doubts and dreads as to the success of her an enemy of half a cent; rendered to cus-tomers fair measure and weight; asked of the Lord only that which he honestly earned. His view of desert was not perhaps invariably coincident with the Lord's? It is certain that he wanted more than he had ever yet received. The gnawing greed of men in his craft and station, speech she was on her feet, gathering up cups and plates for the dish-pan.

"Do you think she really had a notion of going?" Tilly questioned, as the wagons rolled from the door. "She acted sort of queer after father said what he did."

"Pahase!" Mary was her own sire? eryfresing itself in the slow accretion of cent upon cent, the adding of dollar to dollar, and the dogged grip of mind and flat upon the tardy heard, is inconceivable by those who have not studied the action queer after father said what he did."

"Pshaw!" Mary was her own sire's daughter. "She would wish herself home fifty times before we get up the mountain."

The day was warm, and Mrs. Burney was possessed by a frenzy of work.

"In fur a reg'lar bout o' cleanin, be you!" observed her lord, when he came in avarice on narrowed minds.

Mrs. Burney did not care for money for money's sake. Her husband did; and her part in the earthly life was to serve him.

part in the earthly life was to serve him. She was an orphan and a schoolmistress when Luke Burney offered her the only real home she had ever known. Her contribution to the plenishing of the farmstead was a melodeon and a book case tolerably well stocked with standard works. She "led the singing" in church until, babies at first, then the woes of them who make haste, however slowly, to get rich, made her attendance upon public worship irregular. By the time the children were grown her voice was cracked by the steam Beds were on roof and grass ; the smell of soap-sude floated, visibly vaporous, in the passages. The wife waited on him during the meal, eating nothing herself, but drinking three cups of bitter herb tea, stewed on the stove. That she was indisposed to talk did not seem strange to her companion. He fed mutely and in abundance, smoked the pipe of full stomached content, and took his "forty-winks" in the cool, dark, best room, all others being in disorder. grown her voice was cracked by the steam of suds and the dry heat of cooking stove; her fingers were too stiff for the melodeon keys, and her mind too stiff for the books sine used to enjoy.

"If Luke cared for such things it would be different;" she would say to herself.
"Or, if I had been intellectual. Being enjy intelligent, I wasn't likely to keep up by myself."

Mind has some of the properties of marter. Compressibility is one the two hold in common.

"Matter" had worked hard, even for her, all this year. The dark of "must-be dones" had bound her soul as to a body of death, over which her watch was like that of Rizpah, the daughter of Alah, from the legimning of harvest until now that the "slack season" in mid September gave most people a breathing spell.

The first full breath was drawn in a combined Sunday school picnic, the churches of fiffield and Exfield putting forth their strength to accomplish a creditable affair. The Burney girls, Mary and Tilly; the Burney boys, Sam, Joe and James, were early enlisted in the enterprise, of whioha most from town. Still no aware. But that the sunken eyes flashed out a red spark, and the thin jaws were more closely clenched, he might nave thought she had not heard him. "Mother'll make a pound of butter go as fur as the next woman, I don't care who she be," Luke had been heard to chuckle, out of her hearing; "an' a dollar's likely to do the work of a dollar'n' a half when she turns it over."

She grudged neither butter nor dollar in making ready for the gala day, the 17th of September. Three great hampers were packed over night with such baked and boiled cold meats, such rolls, butter, cakes and pies as no other hampers would disgorge. Table-linen, silver, glass and crockery went into another. All were stowed away in a spring wagon, with bags of feed for the horses, a tea-kettle and two ev three water-pails, before an early breakfast, on the cloudless morning of the great day. "Mother' forgot nothing. She was astir before the boys appeared below stairs; bustled back and forth from the house to the big cherry tree, in the shade of which the wagon was packed, directing and superintending all.

"The farmsteed was all gloom but for splinters of light falling between the slats of the parlor binds.
"You will be parlor binds.
"How she docz love work!"

Had he opened the bedroom door, instead of going directly up-stairs, even his bovine imagination would have been excited. An ironing table stood in the middle of the floor, spread with a dark cover. On this Mrs. Burney was arranging a long, white gown, smooth and straight. She drew the skirt to its utmost length, folded the sleeves across the bosom in awful likeness to the sheeted dead. Last of all, she laid on the bosom of the shroud the great family bible open. These passages were bracketed heavily in ink:

When I lie down I say: When shall I arise, and the night be gone? and I full of tossings to and fro unto the dawning of the day.

Tilly's merry eyes, following the cup, truck on the mother's face. The change here startled her. It was grave and drawn—the visage of an old woman. Tilly had never thought of her mother as aged until that instant. The hand that graspes the handle of the coffee-pot shook violenty; the milk splashed over the aide of the cup.

Tilly jumped up aghast.

"You aren't well, mother! I won't go if you're going to be sick!"

"Sit down, child, and finish your breakfast! I'm not sick. "She laughed to make all right, but in a dry, mirthless way. "I wouldn't let you stop at home on any account. To tell the truth, I was thinking, maybe, I'd go myself."

There was an unusually large attendance, probably seventy of the 250 members being on hand. In opening the proceedings Mr. Boswell referred to the standing of this, the oldest rowing club in Toronto, and expressed his delight at the satisfactory showing the various reports made and at the successes won during the past year, the club including in its membership the champion four of Canada and the champion double scullers of America. Relative to the latter, Messrs. O'Connor and Enright, ne prefaced his remarks by saying that posin perfaced his remains any saying that year in the was going a little out of the way in mentioning it, but he was happy to state that, after hearing all the evidence regarding the charges made against them under oath, he was persuaded that no more thorough amateurs ever sat in a boat than they were. In that opinion he and his companion in the investigation, Mr. Morthy of the Argonauts, were thoroughly greed. It should be mentioned that Mr. Soewell is president of the Canadian association of amateur oarsmen, and it was as member of the executive committee of at association that he conducted the in quiry. Mr. Boswell's remarks were greeted quiry. Mr. Boswell's remarks were greeted with thunders of applause. At a previous meeting the following officers were relected unanimously: President, A. R. I disposed of 500 gallons of high-wines since New Year's, said a returned whisky pedlar from Sudbury to The World yesterday, and I never sold a drop of it for less than $12 a gallon. He further said he was a wholessier and would not descend to peddling it out by the glass. The retailers to whom he sold doctored the stuff up and to whom he sold doctored the stuff up and then resold it as rye or malt whisky. The way they fix the highwines up to make whisky of it is a caution. Three gallons of high-wines are put into a ten-gallon keg, which is then filled up with hot water. The keg is then rolled around till the contents get mixed up. Then a little coloring is added to make it look like rye, while the white stuff is sold for malt. Considering that high wines can be purchased while the white stuff is sold for mait. Considering that high-wines can be purchased here for $1.50 per gallon, the man who disposed of 500 gallons at $12 a gallon must have had a very healthy looking pocketbook when he reached the city.

RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS. The Toronto ministerial association met yesterday, Rev. Dr. Thomas, president, in the chair. Rev. Mr. Burton reported s to progress of negotiations with the domin ion government to secure proper enforce ment of the laws relating to Sabbath observance. Rev. W. Frizzell reported on behalf of rhe committee appointed to draft a place of pulpit exchange for the second Sabbath in April next; the report was alopted. A paper was read by Rev. S. P. Rose, on the question: "Are denominations doomed?" This he said ought not to be domed?" This he said dugit to regarded as a question of present or practical importance, yet it was impossible to say when it would become so. Reference was made to the demand of the christian public for a closer union of the member of Christ's body. Yet is must be conceded. of Christ's body. Yet is must be conceded that many warm advocates of christian union were firm believers in the utility and union were firm believers in the utility and probable perpetuity of denominational lines. Others regarded denominations in the light of a positive evil. The paper, however, treated them as a necessity of evil times, neither good nor evil in themselves, but the product of a condition of affairs, which would disappear; and, with the advent of happier days, the barriers which now divide the flock of the redeemer into folds would be removed. While not looking for this desireable consummation in the near future. Mr. Rose expressed his in the near future, Mr. Rose expressed his conviction that the good day would dawn ultimately upon the world when we could sing truthfully, "we are not divided, all one body we, one in faith and doctrine, one in charity."

A Coincidence. A coincidence occurred at the funeral o he late Mrs. Gooderham yesterday afternoon. Just as the coffin was being borne noon. Just as the coffin was being borne to the hearse by deceased's six sons, an alarm sounded from box 58, at Geoderham & Worts' distillery. Customers residing at a remote part of the city can have their orders called for if necessary.

The plan for this performance at the Grand Thursday night opened yesterday at Nordheimer's, and sufficient seats were marked off to secure a splendid house. There are still good seats to be had.

Minnie Palmer's Stockings. From the Denner Tribune-Republican If there is one thing in the world that a roman likes better than another, it's silk yet?" stockings. Minnie Palmer has 'em. She has 240 pairs, and they are so eleverly con-trived as to look little at the bettom and big at the top. That is, the feet are all in dark colors, which gradually develop breadth from the instep up, and spread away into designs of lacings and embroid-

One of the loveliest pairs she wore was One of the loveliest pairs she wore was of cream and garnet, so exquisitely combined that they might well be termed a symphony in stockings. Queen Elizabeth, in whose time silk stockings were invented, would give poor little Minnie an awful shaking up, should she suddenly be resurrected into court life again.

The standard of fine ladyism nowadays is silk stockings, and the little song and dance actress has struck fashion at high tide.

From the New York Times. There is an evident tendency on the part of doctors to discard puritanical theories of the stomach. The puritans held that anything that was pleasant was sinful; and dietetic puritans believe that whatever is pleasant to the taste must be whatever is pleasant to the taste must be unwholesome. Most of us have inherited the traditions of dietetic puritanism, and have a vague conviction that nothing is wholesome with the exception of oatmeal and one or two equally loathsome substitues for food. Then, too, there has latterly prevailed among medical and pseudomedical men a belief that only those articles of food which can be easily digested should be eaten. Thus pork, which digests very slowly, is said to be unfit for human consumption, and we are unfit for human consumption, and we are urged to eat raw cysters because they are object of affection to Staten Islanders for By kind permission of the Colonels and Officers of the Regiments the bands of the Queen's Own, under the direction of Prof. Jno. Bayley and Royal Greadiers, under the direction of Prof. F. Toulmin will give many years, died early yesterday morning. He had lived for many years on the Richmond county poor farm. He first became known on Staten Island about the year 1842, when he appeared on the old trotting course in New Dorp Lane and trotted $300 in Handsome and Costly Prizes. against a field of horses, among which were entries by the late Commodore Vanderbilt and Capt. Jacob H. Vanderbilt. The and Capt. Jacob H. Vanderbit. The horse was then called Gyasticutis. He won the trot and he soon had the reputation of being the fastest horse on Staten Island. He had a record, during the forties, of 2 50, a good speed in those days. He was first owned in Richmend county by Daniel Seabright, a rich man, who died long ago. Gyasticutis also captured some valuable purses on the old Fashion course, on Long Island. He was known, it is said, to Hiram Woodruff. Charley Foster and to Hiram Woodruff, Charley Foster and Capt. Rynders. After his retirement from the turf he served at the stud for a few years. He is next heard of at the poor farm, having been sold to the county to plough and haul provender for the paupers. He was always obstinate, and at times he could not be covered or heaten into work.

He would stand under a lash and not move. That gave him the name of Turk. When he became very old he was called Old Turk. At the time of his death the horse was At the time of his death the horse was believed, from the records that were kept of his age, and the date of his purchase agahown by the books of the superintendents of the poor to be almost 50 years old. A proposition was made by one of the superintendents of the poor a few years ago to sell the old horse and buy one more useful. The proposition brought about a protest. The proposition brought about a protest from many persons, among whom was ex-County Treasurer James R. Robinson. The latter, who is now a white-haired but vigorous man, nearly 75 years old, went before the superintendents and offered to board and care for the old horse at his own expense. It was then resolved to keep old Turk there all his days. Mr. Robinson, at his own expense, built a fine stall for him.

When the ferryboat Westfield blew up when the ferryboat Westfield blew up in her slip in this city, almost twelve years ago, Old Turk was standing on the bow of the boat, not very far from where the end of the boiler came ploughing through the deck. He was knocked forty feet into the air, and fell with the forward pilot house into the water. Hair was scalded off his back. He swam around to the battery back. He swam around to the battery which then had no sea wall, but sloped lown to the water, and walked up on dry land.

During the war of the rebellion Old

Turk was pressed into service while a large detachment of regiments were in camp on the New? Dorp meadows, and hauled food for hundreds of men. He was then a vigorous and very strong animal.

He was taken out of the stable one night and driven off by a deserter, who got past and driven off by a deserter, who got past the lines because the sentries thought the rider was the sutler. During the last few years Old Turk falled rapidly. He lost all his teeth but two. He has lived on boiled food. His hair, tail and mane turned from a rich bay to silken white. PAUSING FOR A REPLY

NOTHING DEFINITE RECEIVED FROM ST. PETERSBURG.

A Movement That Further Increases the Prospects of a Collision—Russia De-clares that She will not Budge a Hairs-

LONDON, March 10 .- The government has not yet received a definite reply from Russia to its latest overtures for an ami cable adjustment of the Afghan dispute.
Sir Peter Lumsden telegraphs that a detachment of Russians advanced to Nihalshent, the furthest southwest point on the Heri road claimed for the Russian frontier. The advance does not complicate the work of delimitation, but endangers a col-

sion with the Afghans.
The Times states that the Russians have The Times states that the Russians have advanced further into Afghan territo y, and that a collision is imminent. The Afghans are prepared to withstand the attack, and the British government has ordered Sir Peter Lumsden to organize a system of defence. The ameer has requested England to fortify Herat, so that it can be defended by the Afghans.

A Meshed despatch says it is believed that Russian troops from the Caucass are massing at Askabad.

The Nova Vremya of St. Petersburg expresses the opinion that the dispute on the Afghan question arises from an erroneous impression on the part of England as to the true position of Russia in Central Asia. England now recognizes her mistake and the true position of Russia in Central Asia. England now recognizes her mistake and wishes a modus vivendi in order to avoid occupying Herat. Russia would be compelled to interfere for the sake of her presentige. Russia will not surrender a hairsbreadth of her present positions, nor will she abate her moderate demands. Other Russian papers have similar comments.

A Persian paper says a cabinet council at Cabul, the ameer and several generals being present, decided to ask the English government to treat with Russia for the restoration of Pul I'Khatum and Penjdeh, but not to make the Russian occupation a essus belli, the places not being of strategic importance. It was decided that the Zulfikar pass must be recovered by force of arms if necessary. Another Persian paper says several Herat notables have arrived at Sarakhs to petition the Russians to annex.

HAUL DOWN THAT PLAG

tari Granville on the Victoria Episode-The Act Due to Ignorance. LONDON, March 10 .- In the house of lords this afternoon Earl Granville said in the face of Bismarck's assurance of friendliness he did not believe the haulliness he did not believe the hauling down of the British colors at Victoria, West Africa, was intended as an insult to England, but was probably due to ignorance on the part of the German commander. England will not ask an explanation from Germany until receipt of the official report. Earl Granville was convinced that the affairs would lead to no general complications. The most friendly negotiations were in progress between Germany and England in regard to their respective colonial interests.

Germany Will Make Reparation. London, March 10 .- Count Von Munster to-day officially informed Earl Cranville that Germany recognizes Victoria, West Africa, as British territory. The German government had received no confirmation of the reported hauling down of the British flag there. If the report be confirmed Germany would make the necessary reparation.

BY ORDER OF THE QUEEN. Her Majesty Said to Have Insisted That Granville Should Explain Himself. London, March 10.—It is definitely stated in court circles that the apologetic speech in the house of tords last week by Earl Granville was made at the express command of the queen, who insisted that sothing should be left undone to propitiate Germany. Bismarck has formally expressed satisfaction at Earl Granville's explanations.

HAD TO DEFEND HIMSELE. The Lendon Dynamiters' Counsel Arrested on Suspicion.

LONDON, March 10.—While Quilliam, counsel for Cunningham and Burton, was about to board the train last evening with a friend who was carrying a black travel-ing bag similar to those which have so fre-quently figured in the dynamite trials, the detectives arrested both men. Quilliam detectives arrested both men. Quilliam protested, but the constables took the prisoners to the station house. After several hours' detention Quilliam succeeded in establishing his identity and innocence, and his companion proved that the bag contained nothing unlawful. The prisoners were then released with profuse apologies on the part of the police.

INSURRECTION IN ALBANIA. A Turkish Force Defeated and a Garrison Beleaguered.
SALONICA, March 10.—An insurrection has broken out in Albania. All available has broken out in Albania. All available Turkish troops are being hurried to the scene. A force of Turkish regulars has been defeated by the insurgents near Lyoumet. At Prisrend the garrison has been driven into the oftadel by the insurgents and is now besieged. The Austrian consul and orthodox priests have taken refuge in the citadel. The insurgents have telegraph lines communicating with the districts in rebellion.

CABLE NOTES.

Austria and Hungary have decided to Sixty volunteer engineers have been accepted for active service from Newcastle-on-Tyne and Jarraw. The coming universal exhibition to be held in the Champ de Mars building, Paris, will cost $10,000,000. It is rumored at Paris that an outbreak against the French authorities is im in Lower Cochin China. It is said the mahdi left Khartoum for Abbas island because he feared that jealous rivals might assassinate him. The report that a large order for ammunition has been given to an American firm by the English government is officially denied.

The imperial house of commons last night rejected an amendment to the redis-tribution bill favoring disfranchisement of Count Von Munster, the German am-assador at London, will soon be recalled. Count Herbert Bismarck is mentioned as its possible successor.

Thirty-five hundred and not thirty-five thousand troops, as formerly reported, are to be sent by Russia to the Afghan boundary, so says a St. Petersburg despatch. London and Paris are to be connected by pneumatic tubes. A letter could thus be conveyed between the two capitals in one hour. The cost of construction would be $7 000,000 The to distance is a skriv
