DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.—A distressing occurrence has recently transpired here. A young man, a reaman named Henry Huges, who had belonged to the brigantine. Malvina, that arrived here the last foll from St. John's, Newtoundhand, (and at present forcen in.) left a camp of Lumberers on the Chockfish River (where he had been employed for a short time) on one of the severe cold nights in December last, with the intention of coming out to a settlement between this and Richilaucto, but unfortunately missing his way, was, during his wandering throughout the night, frozen in such a severe manner as to render the amputation of bath his feet and hands necessary, and the operation was performed ten days since; thus leaving him a helpless object of pity to a commiserating public. He is under Dr. Theal's (Shelian') attendance, 's doing w.ll, and in a fair way of recovery. Necessary measures will, no doubt, he resorted to to provide for his future wants, as his is indeed an afflicting case of utter helplessness.
