MANAGER O'CONNELL'S TRIBUTE. Royal Hotel, City, Sat. Nov. 24th. To the Editor of The Times:—Before I return to Halifax, let me tell the people of St. John that in "Out There," the British war-play to be seen here next week, they are going to experience the most inspiring and genuinely patriotic surprise of the city's theatrical history. I say this because that Halifax and St. John are twin sisters in matters of entertainment. The play came to Halifax unknown—although I saw it in New York—and the first performance was attended with much the same curiosity and deliberate theatre-going that any play would produce. However, after the opening performance patriotic old Halifax broke loose and the succeeding performances were sold out solid in a short time. The play is splendid, it is British through and through, it is timely to the minute and will create a furor here as it did in our city. I make this statement as manager of the Academy of Music in fairness to the excellent New York company, as first-hand information for St. John people and also to support the Imperial here in its good endeavor to bring a notable production to this city. JOHN F. O'CONNELL.

COMING TO THE GRAND BAZAAR, DEC. 5 AND 6. Where do the proceeds of the grand bazaar go, you ask? To the hungry and naked children of the hero who is shedding his blood at every war front at the same time. Who is he? The wandering Jew. We are scattered all over the world. Fathers and sons are being killed! We cannot help that. They are helping the accomplishment of the great aim—to crush German militarism. But why have the children to die in their earliest stages for want of a bit of bread and shelter? We appeal again to the hearts of the St. John people whom we did not reach or who doubted the committee, to be kind as to send their donations to His Worship Mayor Hayes.

A CRITIC OF HIGH HEELS. (Winnipeg Evening Tribune). Individual tastes and fancies may seem of small public interest. Most women would declare the height of their shoe heels is their own business. But it isn't. Last week the mighty organization of the Red Cross gave a public parade through New York streets. Fifteen thousand women were in line. Each felt a fine stir of devotion and a sense of efficiency—but also a feminine desire to have her feet look pretty. So many women put on high heeled slippers that clogged dimly for the first six blocks and limped the rest of the way. A drafted man who stood on the sidewalk as part of the admiring throng didn't do much admiring. He discovered 80 per cent of the marching women were wearing high heels. It cooled his enthusiasm for their "efficiency." The actual Red Cross nurses, trim and businesslike in their traveling uniforms, wore the low heels of serious service, but the great majority of marchers clung to the supposed charm of the French heel. The critical watcher knew how high heels cut in half the capacity and the endurance of women at any work that demands walking or standing. He knew of the backaches and weariness—and he knew that intelligent women also knew. And so the women who selfishly and foolishly chose vanity instead of common sense for their parade footwear established a bad impression of their own serious purpose. In the matter of war service, even the choice of one's shoe-heels, since it involves working efficiency, is not one's own business.

MEET BROTHER JUST BEFORE HIS DEATH. Pte. Frank Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Sanders, of Ottawa, who was killed in action about the middle of October, was permitted to meet his brother, Pte. Joseph Sanders, under most unusual circumstances just prior to his death. The battalion to which Frank was attached had taken over a certain section of the front line trenches on the day he was killed and had been warned to be ready for an attack the following day. An order came suddenly for a supply party to report to the rear and Frank went back. To his surprise he encountered his brother Joseph who was in sole charge of the commissariat and was dispensing refreshments to the soldiers. For

THE WAR SITUATION.

There was a pause in the British advance at Cambrai, in order to bring up more guns and supplies, and to consolidate the ground gained.

The news from the Italian front is more hopeful. The Italians are resisting with splendid courage the enemy attacks, though the fighting is of the most desperate character.

The Russian situation remains unchanged and there is no immediate prospect of a change for the better.

On other fronts nothing new is reported. The attention of the world is centred on the western front, for there the issue will be decided.

ONLY ONE ISSUE.

There was no referendum in 1914. Canada went into the war because it was a war for civilization, and for the very existence of Canada and the British Empire.

THE VICTORY LOAN.

Whoever can afford to buy Victory Bonds ought to do so, for the reason that the money is needed to keep business active and labor well employed.

HON. DR. ROBERTS' ADDRESS.

The Times today prints in full Hon. Dr. Roberts' address on medical inspection of the public schools, delivered this week before the Associated Charities.

The leading article in the Dominion Medical Monthly for November deals with this subject. It was written by Dr. C. A. Patterson, of Forest, Ont., and includes the following:

"When we consider communicable diseases, we must also consider school inspection, as the two are inseparably connected. In an epidemic of any sort, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, etc., nine-tenths of the trouble originates from contact of school children with each other, and as a consequence some measure ought to be taken to control the spread of these diseases from a carrier to others.

There are various quarantine laws, etc., for preventing spread, but they do not get to the root of the trouble. It can only be done by some means of detecting the disease in the early stages, as once it is established one child may have infected dozens before he is quarantined, and the damage is done before you even know about your case.

The only way to do this is by school inspection, and I maintain that no health officer can control an epidemic, or rather prevent one, without school inspection. A graduate nurse trained in this work will detect the trouble on the child's arrival at school, and on suspicion will send the child home, to report either to the health officer or to his own physician before he has a chance to infect the whole school.

St. John has not established medical inspection. It will be noted that Dr. Patterson deals only with communicable diseases, but if he can make so strong a case in that regard, how much stronger must the claim be for medical inspection when we remember that in Halifax schools last year more than one thousand children were suffering from physical defects needing correction in order that they might become more intelligent and successful students?

The case is established. The proofs of the need of medical inspection are unanswerable. What are we going to do about it—and when?

KEEP THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

It is not true to say that the Liberals who support union government have deserted Sir Wilfrid Laurier. They have only stuck to the men in the trenches, whom Sir Wilfrid's policy would leave without adequate support.

In sticking to the men they sent to the front they have had to part company for the time with their old leader. They have not been influenced by any thought other than that relating to their duty to the soldiers and to Canada.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had agreed to stand by the Military Service Act, the only fair and feasible way of getting help for the men at the front, there would have been no division in the party except what might have occurred in the province of Quebec.

The Liberals who have parted company with Sir Wilfrid Laurier are not abusing him. They are not attempting to condone what they formerly condoned. They simply say there is a supreme issue at this moment that overshadows all others, and that to play fair with the men we cheered when they went overseas we must send them help as quickly as possible.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy means delay and the gradual drawing of Canada out of a war in which she ought to stay to the last man and the last dollar, for her own honor and her own protection.

The union government is pledged to stand by the men at the front. That is why the union government should be endorsed by the people.

Much has been made of the fact that Capt. Power, a returned officer, and Laurier candidate in Quebec South, is in favor of conscription. There is, however, another side to the story.

James Belford, in a letter to the Quebec Chronicle, expresses surprise at the sentiments opposing conscription which have been expressed by Capt. Power. He declares emphatically that while in London last spring, previous to his return to Canada, Capt. Power on several occasions spoke strongly in favor of conscription in his presence and that of other Canadian officers.

Capt. Power had also stated that his main object in life on returning to Canada would be to fight for conscription, and that a battle would begin with his legal partner, Lucien Cannon, of Dorchester election fame.

"The war reminds me of the call to Canada in connection with it is becoming increasingly imperative. If the actual situation were properly realized by the people, we are convinced that they would make a speedy end of partisan pretensions and partisan clamor. They would understand how trifling a matter it is whether one party or the other or no party prevails, so long as our resources are duly husbanded and our best efforts put forth in the mighty conflict which so vitally concerns us, our children and the whole future of civilization."

"The issue boils itself down to one simple little question. Are you willing that Canada shall stand up to the end, or are you going to quit as Russia has quit? You are either going to send men to back up the Canadians at the front or you are not, that's all there is to it."

Sir Robert Borden is quite right when he says: "There is the one issue for you: You sent these men forth. The voice of the country was unanimous that Canada should take part in this war. The men went forth with your pledge that they should receive adequate support."

Tomorrow is Victory Loan Sunday. St. John has not subscribed half the amount allotted to this city. What is the trouble? Are the citizens not fully aroused to the need of the hour? Let the pulpit speak.

A lot of people in your ward are buying Victory Bonds, from fifty dollars up. To buy a bond is to make a safe and profitable investment, and it helps to win the war. Buy and help.

LIGHTER VEIN.

The Other Half. Mrs. Highbrow—"Wouldn't you be interested in knowing how the other half lives?"

Mrs. Lowbrow—"Not in the least; but I am really curious to know where he spends his evenings."

The Best of Training. "Her voice has been well trained." "Why, I've never heard her sing." "That shows the training."

A Dull Sport. She—"I thought prize-fighting was exciting." He—"It is." She—"Well, I heard my brother talking about a fight, and he said one of the fighters was soon put to sleep."

His Great Luck. "Been off hunting? I hear. Have any luck?" "You bet! Shot two cows and the farmer never found out who did it."

"I haven't had a bite for two days," whined the tramp. "Neither have I," responded the summer boarder, according to the Louisville Courier-Journal. "Hotter fishing around here."

"I see they have recruited several clergymen for the aviation corps," remarked the incurable talker, as reported in the Harvard Lampoon. "As sky-pilot, I take it." "No, as birds of prey."

Mother (in Passing Show)—"Joan, dear, have you been doing anything to this ink?" Joan—"Yes, mummy, I put some water to it to make it write weak. I've been writing a letter to daddy—and I wanted to whisper something to him!"

STOOD ON THE GRENADE. (London Paper). Among a list of nine new V. C. awards notified in the London Gazette appears the name of Sergeant John Carmichael (No. 84795), North Staffordshire Regiment, whose mother resides at Greenwood Terrace, Glenaville, near Airdrie.

The V. C. is awarded him for most conspicuous bravery. When excavating a trench, Sergeant Carmichael saw that a grenade had been unearthed and had started to burn. He immediately rushed to the spot, and shouting to his men to get clear, placed his steel helmet over the grenade and stood on the helmet.

The grenade exploded and blew him out of the trench. Sergeant Carmichael could have thrown the bomb out of the trench, but he realized that by so doing he would have endangered the lives of the men working on top. By his splendid act of resource and self-sacrifice, Sergeant Carmichael undoubtedly saved many men from injury, though it resulted in serious injury to himself.

Sergeant Carmichael joined the Lowland Division of Engineers in May, 1916, and was in training for some time at Bridge of Allan. He was afterwards transferred to the 10th Battalion, North Staffordshire Regiment. Before going on military service he was a sett-maker with Messrs. Moore & Co., quarrymen, at Redbank, near Glasgow.

He has two brothers with the Black Watch.

"I FEEL LIKE A NEW BEING"

FRUIT-A-TIVES' Brought the Joy of Health After Two Years' Suffering.

MADAM LAPLANTE. 85 St. Rose St., Montreal, April 4th. "For over two years I was sick and miserable. I suffered from constant headaches, and had palpitation of the heart so badly that I feared I would die. There seemed to be a lump in my stomach and the constipation was dreadful. I suffered from pain in the back and kidney disease.

"I was treated by a physician for a year and a half and he did me no good at all. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' as a last resort. After using three boxes, I was greatly improved and twelve boxes made me well. Now I can work all day and there are no headaches, no palpitation, no heart trouble, no constipation, no pain or kidney trouble and I feel like a new being—and it was 'Fruit-a-tives' that gave me back my health."

AT ZERO Grim Story of the Fighting On The Western Front

Of all the stories that have come from the western battlefield, none, perhaps, has given such a concise and enlightening account of the technical details of a "wave" attack, which official and unofficial reports mention in every despatch, as the one published in the December number of Popular Mechanics Magazine under this head. But it gives much more than that. It is full of dramatic, not to say tragic, human-interest anecdote.

The story was told to the anonymous writer by the sole survivor of one of the incidents related, and every word of it bears evidence of its truth. Indeed it is so lifelike that it might well be called a moving picture in words. The very first paragraph puts the reader right into the trenches with the actors. To quote:

"I counted four of them, and all I could see at any one time was about 80 yards of trench. The truth of it was that we all were near the border line of insanity from the suspense, and these four were weaker links that couldn't stand the stress. All along the line it was just the same, for every man knew it was coming, and yet did not know when. It stood for zero hour, the moment our big attack was to start."

After relating some queer instances of mental aberration in the heat of battle, the story goes on:

"Somehow or other an incident like that brings home the hideous reality of war stronger to me than even the ear-breaking thunder of heavy shells, for it emphasizes the strain that we all are having to bear. One sees every detail of conflict the mind is blessedly oblivious to most everything but the footing and the aim."

"And the worst of it is that these weak ones that go under often take others with them. One sees every detail of conflict the mind is blessedly oblivious to most everything but the footing and the aim."

"I touched Carney on the leg and he signalled to Wight, who was just beyond. That was the signal we saw the Hun, a hulking shadow, creeping toward us and very near. The three of us put an end to his scouting duty quickly and without much noise. We just made sufficient, however, in choking him, to arouse the trench ahead of us. Stealthy sounds came up of many men scrambling to the edge."

"We could have no further doubt that the trench will be occupied, so Carney and I started back without more ado. We could not see Wight, but thought, of course, that he was at the side of us. Just as we were twenty feet from home, however, we heard a blood-curdling yell behind us. Outlined roughly against the lesser blackness of the sky came Wight, running and waving his arms."

"A commotion arose in our trench. As Wight charged on, our sentries, evidently mistaking him for the van of a German surprise attack, opened fire and brought him down. Carney and I both lost our heads for a second and started up. That was enough for Carney. He went down with four bullets in the back through him. One shot cut through the skin on my arm just above the elbow, and it brought back sense to me. I dropped flat."

"For the next two hours I remained without moving, afraid to attempt to make the trench before the dawn guard was posted. I tried to call the attention of one of the earlier sentries, but to no avail. I knew that the barrels of thirty rifles and two machine guns were banging over the edge, pointed in my general direction, waiting for more Germans."

"With the first streaks of dawn I gathered all my courage and called my captain by name and then each of the officers in turn. Then I crawled in, without flat."

A BIG WORK.

(Southern Lumberman.)

Amid the strain and uproar of war, people are likely to lose sight of some of the big things in the way of peace-time achievements. Among these is New York's completion of its $140,000,000 Catskill aqueduct.

If ever there was a city that needed an improvement in the quality of its drinking water, it is New York. And now is the accepted time, in view of the soaring prices of other liquids. The new aqueduct is 120 miles long; it conducts water under the Hudson River through a siphon which at one point is 1,114 feet beneath the surface. Another tunnel far below the surface of the East River carries water to the people of Brooklyn. The work was begun twelve years ago and has been continued practically without cessation.

According to some authorities, the Catskill enterprise ranks next to the Panama Canal among the works of American engineers. The work involved the construction of tremendous dams and the destruction of whole villages and forests to provide a drainage shed free from contamination.

THE WOMEN WHO ARE ENTITLED TO VOTE

(Ottawa Journal-Press)

Women from the Old Country living in Canada who have relatives serving with the British or Canadian armies are entitled to vote in the coming general election, even though those relatives have never been in Canada.

The mother, sister, or daughter of a nurse serving outside Canada is also entitled to vote.

As there is much doubt, even among the enumerators, as to just what women are entitled to be placed on the voters' list, The Journal has secured a statement from an authoritative source. Women who can qualify should insist upon the enumerators enrolling them, and if he refuses or should not turn up before Nov. 27, send their name and address to The Journal.

The following are the necessary qualifications, and the enumerators should place upon the voters' list every woman who:—

- (1) Is a British subject by birth or naturalization.
- (2) Is twenty-one years of age.
- (3) Has resided in Ontario for one year prior to the writ of election.
- (4) Has resided and is domiciled in the electoral district (Ottawa) for thirty days prior to the writ of election.
- (5) Is the wife, widow, mother, sister or daughter of any person male or female, living or dead, who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the military forces of Canada or of Great Britain or within or without Canada in any of the naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain, in the present war (but not those members of the naval forces of Canada who are engaged with the British or Canadian military or naval forces since the 20th September, 1917).

Note the words "male or female" and the words "living or dead." For example, the person serving in the military forces without Canada may be a man who is a soldier or a woman who is a nurse; and such person may not now be living or may not now be serving in the military forces. Also note the words "without Canada." The person, either man or woman, serving in the military forces must have been at some time in service outside of Canada during this war, but in order to entitle his or her wife, widow, brother, sister, or daughter to vote, it is not necessary that the soldier or sailor or nurse, as the case may be, serving or who has served on the British or Canadian military or naval forces should have ever been in Canada. It is sufficient if his or her female relatives live in Canada.

But the above mentioned female relatives shall not be entitled to be placed on the voters' list or to vote if the person who has served in the army or navy and through whom they claim to vote is no longer serving as above mentioned unless such person has died, in or has been honorably discharged from

If a woman is qualified as above she is entitled to be placed on the voters' list and to vote, although she is within the class of naturalized enemy aliens.

Soldiers' Votes.

Soldiers who are twenty years of age and under are entitled to the same voting privileges in the coming elections as those twenty-one, and over, provided they are on active service outside of Canada. This is the interpretation placed upon the Military Voters' Act by W. F. O'Connor, of the Department of Justice. Female relatives of such soldiers have no vote unless the soldier is out of Canada and on active military service.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

CANADA'S MAIMED FARE BETTER THAN ALLIES

England and France Cannot Give Disabled Men the Thorough Training Dominion Offers

Canada is doing more today to rehabilitate her soldiers industrially than any country in the world, according to the correspondence between the Military Hospitals Commission to which this work is entrusted in the dominion, and the organizations in England and France engaged in the work of healing and reeducating maimed soldiers.

In France and England only four out of every hundred soldiers discharged as unfit are estimated to need instruction in new trades to enable them to carry on, whereas in Canada ten per cent of the disabled men are being granted this advantage.

The Length of Course.

The course which Canada gives a man in a new trade is governed in length by his need. Sometimes it is six months, sometimes eight, and in exceptional cases even a year. In France the course is limited to three months. There is no over-intensity of effort brought on by pressure in Canada. The hard pushed Frenchmen appreciating the fact that this is the last chance which a struggling country burdened with difficulty can give them, must strain every nerve.

"The Canadian is expected to be industrious, but the course is usually started before his convalescence is completed, and he is given time to acquire the new knowledge under normal conditions. His mind is freed from worry for the work, since the government maintains him and his family during the required period, and there is no danger to his newly regained health.

The Canadian soldier realizes that his endeavor to acquire a trade which will make him independent will not decrease his pension. He knows that his pension, fixed before he undertook his course by the measure of his disability at that time, will not be reduced in any way. In England the pension is fixed after he has been re-educated.

In France and England only bed patients are given training in hand crafts, as occupational treatment, but in Canada every convalescent soldier is given opportunity to take some vocational course in order that he may improve himself and gradually ease into civilian life and routine.

"Now," said the colonel, looking along the line of recruits, "I want a good, smart bugler." At that, says London Opinion, out stepped a dilapidated fellow who had a thick stubble of black beard.

"What?" said the colonel, eyeing him up and down. "Are you a bugler?"

"Oh, bugler!" said he, "I thought you said bugler?"

FINANCIAL Canadians Win High Praise of Commander

Lieutenant General Currie Eulogizes Army That Has Not Known Defeat; Mixture of Races Makes Fine Soldiers; Says War Will End "When There are no More Boches"

Paris, Nov. 23.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The newspaper Excelsior publishes an interview with Lieutenant General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian army corps in which he pays the highest tribute to his men. In the course of the interview General Currie said: "It is the mixture of two races which gives us such fine soldiers. They have got the dash and irresistible elan of the French and the tenacity of the Anglo-Saxons. It is the French and Anglo-Saxons coupled with bull-gut. When my boys have got their teeth in they do not leave go."

Harry Lauder in Montreal Recounts Fearful Tales of War

Harry Lauder brought the atmosphere of the trenches to a packed Canadian Club gathering at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, on Wednesday afternoon. It was a "we-are-going-to-win-the-war" atmosphere, and as the great comedian U.S. Steel... "I am sorry that I cannot send you at once an affirmative answer. I will look into the matter, but will keep it under advisement."

DOES NOT THINK PLAN FEASIBLE

Thinks Suggestion of Owner Com-pany Would Not Meet With Approval of Fans (Bangor Commercial) Although the next baseball season is far away the baseball fans in Bangor are much interested in the suggestion of Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, that the big league clubs should pool their interests next season. As we understand it the suggestion is that the players be drawn from the various clubs and that the financial receipts be pooled as well.

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH BRONCHITIS

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP GAVE INSTANT RELIEF Bronchitis is a disease which is very prevalent during the late winter and early spring, when there are sudden atmospheric changes. It is a condition of inflammation of the bronchial tubes which produces mucous or phlegm. This irritates the throat and causes you to cough in order to get rid of it. The mucus may be light or loose, according to whether the mucous is sticky and hard to remove, or soft and easily expectorated.

SUFFERED GREAT AGONY FROM PAIN IN STOMACH

FOR OVER 5 YEARS

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arise from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. If you are feeling out of sorts, have pains in the stomach, especially after eating, bilious spells, headaches, sour stomach, coated tongue, sallow or morose complexion, specks floating before the eyes, you should take a few doses of Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills and note the change.

GLORY WON BY IRISH TROOPS IN OPENING OF GREAT ATTACK

During the afternoon the Irish were held up temporarily because of the shortage of ammunition near a sunken road southwest of Graincourt, where the Germans were established in considerable force. This position was rendered doubly strong by a machine gun concentration north of Graincourt, which could sweep the British lines near the canal. The ammunition came up, and the British charged forward again. They overcame the resistance south of the Cambrai-Bapaume highway.

lighting. An elaborate battalion headquarters fell into British hands. During Tuesday night the Germans counter-attacked Anceux with troops which had just been brought from the Russian front. A strong battle took place and the British withdrew. On Wednesday morning the British again attacked Anceux and recaptured it.

There was heavy fighting to the north in the region of Bullecourt. The main objective here was the famous tunnel trench, an underground fortification of great strength and about 2,000 yards long. The entire trench was mined, as the British well knew, and behind it the Germans had dug 1,000 yards of support trench. Many concrete pill boxes also reinforced the trench defenses.

For a month the British had been keeping the Germans nervous by putting down smoke barrages and employing gas. The enemy had become so accustomed to this that when the British started a flurry of gas fire on Wednesday the Germans thought it was more of the same thing, and they were caught unawares. The greatest danger which the attackers faced was the possibility of the mines being blown up, and they knew this when the British started a flurry of gas fire on Wednesday the Germans thought it was more of the same thing, and they were caught unawares.

A hot fight took place in the tunnel. Many Germans battled with bayonets to the death, and 400 enemy bodies were counted after the conflict. In addition, more than 700 prisoners were taken. The Germans have called upon every possible source to get troops to withstand the British attack. By making many places in their line they were apparently able in the first forty-eight hours of fighting to bring in only two new divisions and some five odd battalions. Today another division was brought up from the Aisne front, and the 119th division from Flanders.

Representatives of Municipal Council Confer With Department of Agriculture Re This Need - What the War Situation Requires

Men, munitions and money, we are told, are the three main factors that will ultimately decide whether Great Britain and her Allies come out of the present gigantic struggle in which they are engaged with victory perched on their banners or crestfallen with defeat. In other words, the action that can best uniformly maintain these three factors the longest is bound to be the nation that will triumph in the end.

But what of "food," the main and most essential of all munitions. To increase the food supply, preparation must be made many months before the harvested product is needed for consumption. The land must be plowed, cultivated, fertilized and seeded. Then comes first the blade and after many days the full corn in the ear, and the proverbial bread cast upon the waters returns a manifold yield.

secondary position to that of necessity. We have no assurance that in order to supply more urgent needs, an embargo may not be placed on the shipping of wheat or flour to provinces that can to a certain extent "bread themselves" if they do not put forth an honest effort regardless of cost.

Anticipating that wheat can thus save for export across the Atlantic will be an extra bomb thrown into the camp of our enemies. The 1917 season was not favorable to the best results in wheat growing in the province of New Brunswick and consequently many farmers who gave wheat growing a trial did not realize the results they anticipated.

There is no organization in the province that so thoroughly covers every district as does the municipal council. The response to the call was very encouraging. Councillors representing many districts of the province received an insight into the seriousness of the situation. Many of them did not realize before coming to the meeting that the demand was so urgent and openly expressed themselves as being heartily in accord with the steps the department of agriculture has taken, not from the political standpoint but purely and simply as a pressing need that must be attended to without delay.

Mr. Carter, chief superintendent for the education for the province was present and offered the department of agriculture and the municipal councils every possible assistance through the agency of the various teachers, pupils and officers of the schools in the province, a proposition which was readily accepted. The plan of campaign will necessarily require publicity in order to bring the seriousness and urgency of the situation to the attention of every farmer. The press will be asked to co-operate in this work. Circulars explaining the situation will be placed in every home and the clergy of all denominations have already expressed their willingness to give the matter all the publicity they can.

ALLIES TAKE STEPS AGAINST BOLSHEVIKI

Washington, Nov. 23.—Information reaching Washington indicates that the allied governments have definitely and formally refused to have any relations with the Bolsheviki administration in Petrograd and have refused to recognize even its de facto authority.

The Maximalist foreign minister, Leon Trotsky, attempted to call upon the British ambassador at Petrograd, who declined to receive a visit from him. The road taken by Britain is understood to have been followed by all other Entente Powers in respect of Russia, and the application of this treatment—excluding the Bolsheviki government from all intercourse with foreign nations—is expected to hasten the downfall of their power.

It was intimated in a high quarter today that while the Bolsheviki possessed control of the cable and telegraph offices in Russia, Great Britain and probably will not permit the use of them by the Maximalists. The marching of a Japanese army of 5,000,000 men through Siberia to the eastern fighting front is advocated by the Tokyo Mainichi in the event that Japan should decide to mobilize a large army in Europe.

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL. The graduating class of the St. John High School and the football team of the school held their annual social last evening in the Y. M. C. rooms. The social was attended by about 125 persons and was one of the most successful and enjoyable socials that has been held in the school. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the programme and the party then dispersed at an early hour.

JOHN BEAMISH HONORED

Life Membership Presented by Thorne Lodge, I.O.G.T.

A large number of friends of Thorne Lodge, I. O. G. T., attended their thirtieth anniversary celebration last night in their hall in Thorne avenue. A short history of the lodge was given by E. N. Stockford, G. C. T., who presided. He spoke of several incidents in the life of the lodge and of some of the success that attended its efforts. Appropriate addresses were given by Rev. Thos. Marshall, E. S. Hennigar, B. L. Kirkpatrick, A. B. Day of Midlands and John McCarver of Lorneville. John McEachern sang a pleasing solo and an instrumental trio, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wallace and Mr. Ring, gave selections. A sketch was presented by Thorne Lodge members.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of a life membership certificate to John Beamish which was made by the chairman, who spoke of the pioneer work of Mr. Beamish in the introduction of the Good Templars to the city of St. John. Mr. Beamish replied fittingly, relating many experiences of interest and showing the progress of the order in the time since the institution of the first lodge here. Many good wishes were expressed to Mr. Beamish for a continuation of health and usefulness.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS An Argument for the War Loan

In Flanders fields the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row, That mark our place, and in the sky The larks, still bravely singing, fly Scarce heard amid the guns below. We are the dead; short days ago We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow, Loved and were loved, and now we lie In Flanders fields.

CHANGED HIS VIEWS

Quebec, Nov. 23—Major James Belford, in a letter to the Quebec Chronicle, expresses surprise at the sentiments opposing conscription which have been expressed by Captain C. G. Power, Liberal candidate in Quebec south. The writer states emphatically that while in London last spring, previous to his return to Canada, Captain Power on several occasions spoke strongly in favor of conscription in the presence of the writer and other Canadian officers. Captain Power had also stated that his main object in life on returning to Canada would be to fight for conscription, and that a battle would begin with his legal partner, Lucien Cannon, of Dorchester election fame.

CHANGING MADE IN NIGHT TRAINS BETWEEN MONTREAL AND QUEBEC

Quebec, Nov. 23—Mr. Allan Purvis, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, announced here today that the scheduled train service between Quebec and Montreal and vice versa will be changed so that the late night trains leaving Quebec and Montreal will reach their destination in either city at 6:45 a.m., when will permit the mails to be sent out by the first delivery in both places. This change will be welcomed by business men in Quebec, a number of whom complained about the late arrival of their mail and the action decided upon by the C. P. R. is the result of negotiations which were taken up by the Quebec board of trade.

Rev. T. Porter Drumm, pastor of the St. John's Presbyterian church in Montreal has received a call from the First Presbyterian church in Boston. He has not definitely decided as to whether or not he will accept. It is the largest Presbyterian church in New England.

Private William C. Banks Killed. George Banks, of 164 Rockland road, received a wire on Thursday morning from his parents at Central Blissville, conveying the sad information that his younger brother, Private William C. Banks, had been officially reported killed in action on November 6. Official word of the death of the soldier in England, primarily to Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Banks at their home in Central Blissville.

Private Banks enlisted in January 10 with the 140th Battalion and upon reaching England, in September of the same year he was drafted into the 26th Battalion with which gallant unit he was fighting when killed. He was twenty years of age and, previous to enlistment, lived in Central Blissville with his parents who are greatly shocked with the receipt of the sad tidings.

Private Banks leaves behind his father and mother, four brothers, George and Edward, of this city, and Hans and Harry at home also four sisters, Mrs. A. F. Bresler, McLeod (Alb.); Mrs. D. Perry, St. John, and Eva and Vera, of Central Blissville. Many friends of the youthful soldier will regret to hear of his death. It is something of a coincidence that his chum with whom he enlisted in the 140th and who has fought beside him throughout fell on the same day. This was Private D. T. Mowers, whose death was reported Thursday.

Friends and relatives of Private Arthur Crowe, of Sussex Corner, have been informed of his being wounded on Nov. 9. Private Crowe enlisted with a local battalion and was later transferred to the front. He was first wounded over a year ago and returned to the front last March.

Hopewell Hill, Nov. 22—Friends here will extend deep sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Silas Stiles, of Moncton, formerly of this place, who recently received word that their second son, Private Maxwell Stiles, had been killed in action in France. Private Stiles was born at this village where he spent his childhood. He was twenty years of age, Mr. and Mrs. Stiles' family consisted of four sons and all of them enlisted in the service of king and country, making a splendid record.

Several Apohquat Soldiers on List. Apohquat, Nov. 22—During the past week a number of official telegrams have been received here by parents who have sons at the front. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Humphrey have received news that their son, Lieutenant A. T. Humphrey, had been admitted to hospital with wounds in the hand.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McAfee also are in receipt of a telegram stating that their son, Lieutenant Ralph Evans McAfee, has been wounded in the hip. This being the third time Lieutenant McAfee has been wounded.

Mrs. W. A. Jones has also been informed that her nephew, Carl Freeman, has been killed in action. Young Freeman's home was in Amherst but he had frequently visited here.

Mrs. George H. Secord, of this village, is the recipient of much sympathy from her many friends since the death of her brother, Sergeant-Major George K. Chapman, who was recently killed in action.

Sergeant-Major Chapman was well known here and a young man who at once gained the respect and love of those with whom he mingled. His exemplary life and agreeable personality won for him many friends who will ever regret his passing.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. Drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wythe's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular and friends to serve his country in the South African war, through which he escaped unscathed except that his health was much impaired.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wythe's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous and appearance of abundance which is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. Says He Cannot Comply With Act

The Strange Case of Ottawa Civil Servant

Declares He Did All He Could But Sympathies Are Not With the Aims of Armies of Belligerent Governments—Remanded For Sentences

"I do my best to comply with the law, but my absolute un sympathetic regard for the aims of the armies of all the belligerent governments preclude me from enrolling or submitting to the arbitration of an exemption tribunal. I understand I am guilty under the provisions of the draft law, when I could not apply for exemption or could not be so exempted. I am physically fit and I fully realize the seriousness of my situation, but I could not in view of my lack of sympathy for the aims of the belligerent armies."

Such was the declaration of Harold Morris, 154 O'Connor street, Ottawa, a civil servant, arrested for failure to comply with the draft law, when he was charged in the Ottawa police court with "being a man in Class 1 of the Military Service Act, and that class being called out, failed to comply with the provisions of the act."

Magistrate Askwith asked Morris if he would not consider his stand and make the best of his opportunity to even yet comply with the draft law. He advised him to take another week's remand and consult with friends who would be able to give him wiser counsel and not to influence persons who advise defiance of the Military Service Act.

Morris insisted, however, that he was firmly decided to maintain his present stand and he declared he did not want a further remand.

"I sincerely appreciate the opportunity you offer me and I would be happy to further comply with the act, but my complete lack of sympathy for the aims of the belligerent armies precludes me from doing so," Morris declared. "My mind is made up. I am not in sympathy with the aims of the belligerent armies. I did my best to keep within the law. I recognized the sum of money that was offered me, and I accompanied the police officers to the station quietly and submitted to arrest. I gave the 100th. The information they wanted. I hoped the law might be complied with, without a severe sentence being imposed upon me. The Magistrate has indicated further to persuade the prisoner to reconsider his stand, but it is unavailing. Morris finally struck his gun, repeating several times that his lack of sympathy for the aims of the belligerent armies made it impossible for him to enroll for service or submit to the arbitration of an exemption tribunal."

A Further Remand. "Well, I have a duty to perform and I must do it," declared Magistrate Askwith when he became convinced that he had no other alternative. "I will remand you for a week for sentence. In the meantime, you may be liable to the minister of justice. So far as I know, your case is the first of this nature in Canada, and much will depend on my decision. It will establish a precedent and I must take time to consider it."

Morris declared he hoped that in imposing penalty, special consideration might be given his case in view of the fact that he had no other alternative. He was remanded for a week for sentence.

Feeding The Army

While the patriots citizen is denying himself luxuries, says the London Morning Post, and even comforts, progress on the same lines of cutting down consumption and preventing waste has been made in the armies in the field and in all other departments of supply. In the matter of food the army has given the lead to the whole country in reducing the daily ration and in utilizing to the full all waste products. The great savings have been made in the training of cooks at the schools of cookery, where they are taught to get the best possible value out of the ration, and where over 40,000 cooks have been trained. On mobilization the ration consisted of the following items: 1 1/2-lbs. fresh meat, or 1-lb. (nominal) preserved meat; 1 1/2-lbs. bread, or 1-lb. biscuit, or 1-lb. flour; 4 oz. bacon, 3 oz. cheese, 1/2-lb. fresh vegetables, 1/2-lb. tea, 1/2-lb. jam, 1/2-lb. sugar, 1/2-oz. salt, 1-2-oz. mustard, 1-8th-oz. pepper. As these allowances have to be multiplied by several millions to give the daily ration for the men, it is readily seen that, though some of the items appear trivial, the total amounts concerned are enormous, and a very slight reduction of any item means a very great saving to the public.

In September, 1914, in order to give greater variety of diet the issue of bacon was actually improved, owing to better cooking, greater variety of diet, and more economic methods employed. This has been made possible by the training of cooks at the schools of cookery, where they are taught to get the best possible value out of the ration, and where over 40,000 cooks have been trained. On mobilization the ration consisted of the following items: 1 1/2-lbs. fresh meat, or 1-lb. Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disease.

How the Vicious Circle of Neurasthenia is Formed

Overstrained Nerves, Loss of Sleep, Indigestion

When the nerves are overstrained by mental exertion, by accident or by shock the irritation makes rest or sleep impossible, and consequently there is no restoration of the wasted nerve force.

In its turn digestion fails, because there is lack of nervous energy to control the flow of gastric juices in the stomach and to operate the other organs of digestion.

Failing to obtain the necessary nourishment, the blood becomes thin and watery, and as a result the nerves are further starved and rendered less capable of standing the strain put upon them.

In this way is formed the vicious circle of neurasthenia or nervous prostration, and there is no magical way in which the circle may be broken up.

The Food Cure

Mrs. George Ross, Augusta street, Cornwall, Ont., writes: "Some two years ago I was attacked with neurasthenia or nervous prostration. I doctored with diet and rest, but without any good results, and even took a trip to a distant city to see if I could get recuperated. But upon returning I found I was no better—in fact, I kept getting worse all the time. I had no appetite, could not sleep, and I also had terrible headaches. One day I was helped up and down stairs, and I was left at the door telling about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I decided to try it. My first getting better. You may be sure I was delighted to find a remedy that would give me relief. I continued taking them, and recovered so thoroughly that I was able to help with the household work as usual. I had fallen from 115 pounds to 90, and since my recovery I have gained as much as 112 pounds. I still keep Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the house, and use them when I feel the need of them. I have recommended them to a great many people around Cornwall, as I feel that I cannot speak too highly of them."

HON. DR. ROBERTS PRESENTS CASE FOR MEDICAL INSPECTION IN SCHOOLS

Convincing Proofs of the Need and An Outline of a Plan for Better Conservation of Public Health in the Province of New Brunswick—Address Delivered Before the Associated Charities

The following is a full report of a very important address by Hon. W. F. Roberts, M. P., at the annual meeting of the Associated Charities of two evenings ago.

HON. W. F. ROBERTS, M. D.

Previous to the coming of this terrific world war, we found the attention of those occupying places of authority taken up with the building of the great arteries of commerce, both provincial and federal (some wise and some otherwise); arranging terminals for the exporting and importing of raw materials and manufactured articles; legislation arranged for and being arranged for the protection and preservation of our forests, our game, our fish and many other natural resources.

Now, Sir, while we have spent valuable time, brain power and mints of money in the investigation and carrying out all of the above, with good results in the majority of instances—and very wisely so—remember we would not curtail one jot or tittle from anything that has been or is being done since the inception of this world conflict, but on the other hand would trust and pray that it may go on in leaps and bounds until our monster enemy has been crushed and crushed for all time, but we would like to draw the attention of the inhabitants of the province, the constituents of the municipalities and the citizens of the large centres of population and those who represent them, and especially would we direct our words to the chief government of the City of Saint John and the trustees of our St. John School Board, to the fact that they are leaving unattended to possibly one of the most important of all, viz., medical inspection of public schools.

In delivering an address upon this subject about a year ago, I, to some extent, offered an apology for introducing a topic before an audience at this peculiar epoch of our world history, such as medical inspection of public schools. The need a sacrifice for so doing because of its not having some direct or indirect relation to war conditions. Mr. Chairman, I need not further offer any excuse for speaking upon such a question—of all general subjects that might be discussed, this is by far, to my mind, the one of our excellence.

If we will for the moment stop and consider the tomorrow of Canada, do we not conclude in sorrow and in tears that we are today expending the very flower of our nation's—then what will be left if we do not take care of the bud?

We must absolutely put forward every effort in our power to conserve every life. Even I will go so far as to say, while it is still embryonic, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, in every city, town, hamlet and country side, if we would anywhere near make up for losses made upon our brain and brains by the terrible war. And the only time to begin is when the little plant makes its first peep and is beginning to grow.

Public health has no sub-division more important to the nation than that of

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS

Pape's Diapepsin is the Quickest and Surest Stomach Relief

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and cruddle about, undigested stomach, or a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach heaves, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on the wrapper of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves our out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, the food goes right to work and prepares for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the toilet with a healthy and better, but what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and free, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach reliever, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gas, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some of this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.

glories that have passed." Then came the pick of the army, young men, strong, brave and lusty. "Nay" said the king, "valiant are they, but when now their strength goes with age, and before long they, too, will be long to the things that were." Next advanced the boys of the nation, bright and flushed with health, their eyes bright with the gladness and joy of childhood, laden not yet freed from the pale, "Al" cried the king, "these are the nation's hope, its joy, its assurance. The others have passed or are passing, but these little ones betoken the continuance and the coming of the nation's greatness."

Anything that tends to increase the value of this asset is constructive state-manship and of the highest order and worthy of a prominent place in the program of our legislators.

The Spartans used to expose their newborn infants, that only the hardiest survived, but we have made a noble effort to improve the physique and stamina of our race. While we do not approve of their methods, they have thus far failed to do.

From Social Standpoint. So much for some of the national reasons. From a social standpoint we own the right to demand that the nation should be a better place. Why should my child inherit with diphtheria or scarlet fever germs permitted to attend the public or Sunday schools, or the theatre, and while there associate with your children, and as a result of such contact prevent their health by the germs of disease? All of this is possible, and if so, why not let us awaken and make use of the curative and preventive methods just considered by medical authorities to be the most effective.

The leper from time immemorial has been ostracized from society, yet we permit equally virulent diseases to exist with little or no restraint. At the present time we placard our houses in which contagious diseases exist; this is wise, but is it not often done after the child or children so affected have been sent home from the public schools sick with the case fully developed, to some extent this is "locking the child eventually becomes maimed, either by the partial or total loss of sight or hearing, or the development of some physical or mental deformity, or as a "weakening" from a sickly parent permitted to prosecute his studies without the red light of danger being exhibited, until finally he goes over the precipice of disease, and death puts an end to his career; whereas had it been compulsory for this child to have undergone a thorough medical examination before entering school, it is very probable these defects would have been detected and a remedy offered, and the child's future been a brighter, happier and more healthful one.

Again—as a nation—what are our truest assets—men or money? Men, we say. Of course, then, if so, are we going to continue to permit them to depreciate in value physically? There is the story of the Grecian king, who, feeling that death was hovering over him, ordered his troops to pass in a farewell review before the palace, in a room of which he lay. This was done. First came the veterans, worn and war-scarred. "Nay" said the king, "these are they who have been. They belong to the days that were, to the means compulsory infection, because the child on the one hand under the existing law of compulsory education is compelled to attend school, and on the other, should there be nothing recognized case of any contagious disease, such as diphtheria or scarlet fever, he is necessarily exposed to infection. And further, it is possible from that one unrecognized case of either of the above diseases, to have same carried into the homes of hundreds of children in that one day. Advantages of Medical Inspection. Investigations conducted by well trained experts have demonstrated again and again that many children attend school suffering from contagious disease. In the first month of medical school inspection in Boston 487 sick children were found at school, 37 being ill with diphtheria and 104 with scarlet fever. Such children are as capable of infecting the things with which they come in contact as if they were suffering from severe attacks. Medical inspection would at once exclude these from school and have the rooms disinfected.

Investigations regarding the eye-sight and hearing of children show that there are many in the schools who are handicapped by the effect upon the eye-sight, or hearing, or both. The mild forms and early stages of these ill effects are the most difficult to detect, and a teacher—a thing not to be wondered at when it requires special skill on the part of the physician to discover the defect. In the necessary cases of defective hearing neither parent, teacher, nor child is aware of the defect. When it is undetected, it is a serious handicap, and the child is handicapped in the vail of the naso-pharynx are all too often the cause of the normal stupidity and go hand in hand with poor talents, surely parents and school boards will see to it that the imperfectly hearing child is not wasted effort and failure to have adequate returns for legitimate expenditure. The following table shows that these defects are not imaginary, but are real.

Table of physical record of children in New York City from March 27th to December 29th, 1903. Number of children examined, 55,382. Number of cases of bad nutrition, 3,282. Number of cases of defective hearing, 14,814. Number of cases of diseased parotid glands, 8,047. Number of cases of cardiac disease, 788. Number of cases of pulmonary disease, 909. Number of cases of skin disease, 968. Number of cases of deformity of chest, 465. Number of cases of defective vision, 401. Number of cases of defective hearing, 16,894. Number of cases of defective breathing, 6,129. Number of cases of defective palate, 18,182. Number of cases of defective teeth, 8,947. Number of cases of posterior nasal growths, 5,119. Number of cases of defective mentality, 1,810. Number of cases where treatment was necessary, 88,351. Immediate Action Required.

Admitting all of the above to be true, what is our present attitude towards it? One of absolute inaction. One of immediate action. An action which should be intelligent, systematic, aggressive, all-inclusive, comprehensive and far-reaching. Intelligent—Only as knowledge of this subject becomes general and scientific methods adopted in treatment can any real progress be made. This means medical research, training of school teachers, and the whole question treated in a liberal, popular and accurate form in the curriculum of the school.

Systematic—Not in a haphazard, spasmodic, undirected plan, but one which combines with simplicity and practicality, a definite policy, so that all classes may have sufficient knowledge to know their relationship to and responsibility in the matter; also that the data and knowledge derived by experience may be used and registered for future reference and comparison, thereby constantly increasing the effectiveness of the work and justifying its existence.

Aggressive—Progress is the keynote of the world today. No profession has made greater effort than the medical to keep abreast of the latest conditions of mankind, and in this matter of medical inspection they again take the lead. No policy in its inception is equally so, but adopting this principle we can enlarge upon it until it attains within a measurable distance of the standard.

All-inclusive—That from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Hudson Bay to the 40th parallel every city, town and village should have a thorough medical school inspection. It must be borne in mind that the importance of this inspection is not a question of large or small population, but a vital principle in our national life.

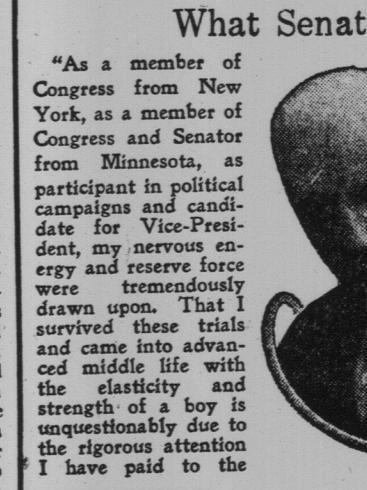

Compulsory—This matter should not be left optional with school trustees, but should be enforced with rigor with compulsory school attendance, if the latter is necessary the former is equally so, if one is to be insisted upon so should the other.

Governmental—The authority that creates and governs our system of education should also have the control of this matter. They have the machinery and they have the power. It unifies method, it centralizes effort, it reduces expense and standardizes the whole fabric of labor.

The Silver Tongued Orator of Minnesota, Charles A. Towne, Former United States Senator

Late Member of Congress from New York—Nominated for Vice-President Recommends Nuxated Iron to All Who Feel the Need of Renewed Energy Says That Henceforth He Shall Not Be Without It

Probably no remedy has ever met with such phenomenal success as has Nuxated Iron—over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone, to say nothing of the vast thousands of others who are using it in France, England, South America and other countries. It has been highly endorsed and used by former United States Senators and Members of Congress; physicians who have been connected with well-known hospitals and observatories; and recommended it; Monsiegnur Nannini, a prominent Catholic Clergyman, recommends it to all members of the Catholic church. Former Health Commissioner, Wm. R. Kerr, of Chicago, says it ought to be used in every hospital and prescribed by every physician; Dr. N. H. Hornstine, for ten years connected with the Department of Public Health and Charities of Philadelphia, says the administration of Nuxated Iron in a number of stubborn cases where other tonics had utterly failed, only served to convince him absolutely of its remarkable and unusual power; Former First Assistant Post Master General of the United States, C. P. Grandfield, strongly endorses and recommends it to the tens of thousands of civil service employees who know his name and signature.

Minnesota's Man of Mark

Former United States Senator, Charles A. Towne, graduated from the University of Michigan, twice elected member of the United States Congress, served in the United States Senate, nominated for Vice-President, takes Nuxated Iron; now recommends it to all who feel the need of renewed energy.

What Senator Towne Says: "As a member of Congress from New York, as a member of Congress and Senator from Minnesota, as a participant in political campaigns and candidate for Vice-President, my nervous energy and reserve force were tremendously drawn upon. That I survived these trials and came into advanced middle life with the elasticity and strength of a boy is unquestionably due to the rigorous attention I have paid to the proper care of my body. Recently I have been taking Nuxated Iron and have found it of the greatest benefit as a tonic and restorative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the advantage of others, to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy, and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to all who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions."

Aggressive—Progress is the keynote of the world today. No profession has made greater effort than the medical to keep abreast of the latest conditions of mankind, and in this matter of medical inspection they again take the lead. No policy in its inception is equally so, but adopting this principle we can enlarge upon it until it attains within a measurable distance of the standard.

All-inclusive—That from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Hudson Bay to the 40th parallel every city, town and village should have a thorough medical school inspection. It must be borne in mind that the importance of this inspection is not a question of large or small population, but a vital principle in our national life.

Compulsory—This matter should not be left optional with school trustees, but should be enforced with rigor with compulsory school attendance, if the latter is necessary the former is equally so, if one is to be insisted upon so should the other.

Governmental—The authority that creates and governs our system of education should also have the control of this matter. They have the machinery and they have the power. It unifies method, it centralizes effort, it reduces expense and standardizes the whole fabric of labor.

By Cobbs, the greatest baseball batter of all time, took it to help give him renewed energy and great staying power. No matter what anybody says, you can't at this day get such prominent men to endorse a remedy that has no value—doctors, lawyers, politicians, statesmen, great actors. Dr. E. Sauer, a Boston Physician, who has studied both in this country and in the great European Medical Institutions,

Health Department. The organization of a department of health in each province, in which matter we would be proud to see our own province take the lead, whose duties would be governed by acts of the legislature, and would, generally speaking, be along the lines suggested by this paper, modified to suit provincial conditions.

The following I would humbly suggest as suitable provisions to be included in such an act: The appointment of a medical inspector for each incorporated city or town, and in the rural districts, one for each municipality.

In all districts throughout the province each child making application for first entrance to school be required to undergo special examination by inspectors, which examination would decide whether or no the child was free from any physical handicap.

In incorporated cities and towns regular examinations would be made each week or two to each school and, if much offense, the occasion demanded. In rural districts at least once a month and often if required, by the medical examiner.

The insertion in the normal school curriculum of a practical course sufficient to make each graduate proficient in the recognition of abnormal health conditions in school children. Lectures to teachers, in order to make them the more proficient in the recognition among the children of pathological condition, thus supplementing the work of the medical inspector.

That special attention be given to children between the ages of eleven and fifteen, both as regards their health and the number of studies allotted. Some provision must be made for the medical and surgical care of those students requiring attention whose parents cannot afford to provide for it. The medical inspector shall report any case requiring attention to the child's parents, and they shall immediately provide adequate medicine or surgical attention as the case may require, under penalty, the child to be received back into school only on presentation of a certificate from the family physician. The remuneration of medical inspectors would be by salary, and fixed by the respective municipalities, subject to the supervision of the department of health.

ing test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians in such a great variety of cases, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians both in Europe and America. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron, that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron, and increase their strength 100 per cent, or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in ten-day packages by Watson's Store and all good druggists.

Bourassa Influence In Quebec Province

For Such Work as the Nationalists Have Done, With or Without Reward, in Canada, German Agents and Spies Have Been Paid Extravagantly in the United States

Montreal, Nov. 23.—One fact overshadows all others in Quebec nowadays—the declared adhesion of Henri Bourassa and his followers to the cause of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Six months ago Mr. Bourassa declared the Liberal leader to be the most nefarious man in Canada. His reason for this judgment lay not alone in old animosities, but in the fact that Sir Wilfrid had agreed to the 1916 extension of parliament and had given support to the government in its war legislation. This attitude was infinitely distasteful to the Nationalists, who are blindly hostile towards the war, spiteful in their declarations concerning Great Britain suspicious of the United States, and tender towards Sinn Fein. "Cheapest Traitors in the World." This barbed epigram appeared in a Canadian paper recently: "Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Lavergne may console themselves with the thought that they are the cheapest traitors in the world." It is true. For such work as the Nationalists have done, with or without reward in Canada, German agents and spies have been paid extravagantly to do in the United States. To destroy the morale of the enemy at home is considered by Germany as a military manoeuvre—in the belief that discontent will spread to the very battlefield. The war morale of Quebec was high on August 1, 1914. One remembers parades of French young men, the singing of La Marseillaise and the insistent inquiry "whether or not Great Britain would march." The 4th of August came, and Great Britain marched. For a week or ten days Quebec and Ontario were in accord. Then Mr. Bourassa came home from Europe, having escaped from Alsace by the skin of his teeth. His newspaper had expressed, up to this time, no opinion on Canadian participation in the struggle. It was an ominous silence, followed by an ominous utterance that Canada had no right to send a single soldier overseas. From that moment Quebec cooled into indifference, and more lately, into hostility. Rabid With Race Madness.

It is no secret that Bourassa appeals mainly to the people who think they are intellectuals—to seminarists and priests, to law students and intriguers of every sort, and particularly to young men rabid with race madness. His newspaper sparkles with epigrams, glitters with polished satire. For poetry, for art and literature it always has a place. His writers are stylish and lingual exquisites. Yet under this exterior elegance, narrow, fiercely unfair, Mr. Bourassa, consciously or unconsciously, cannot quote authorities without coloring them. He has carried on against Ontario and Ontario government a campaign of slander and vituperation which savors of the gutter rather than of the salon, and always he has maintained towards England such a spirit of hostility and desperate hatred as Reventlow himself might envy. "What do we owe to England?" is his incessant satirical inquiry. Bought Bourassa to Fury. One may understand the unspeakable anger Mr. Bourassa and his associates had for Sir Robert Borden long before the military service act was promulgated. The war temper of the government and of the majority of the public brought Mr. Bourassa to a state of cold fury. In his opinion both parties had gone mad. (It is always the opinion of Mr. Bourassa that one who disagrees with him is insane.) In this temper he saw the enactment of compulsory service, and of the war-time election act. In this temper he saw the determination to consolidate the war-spirit of the country in a union ministry. In this temper he saw that ministry established, and the consequent disintegration of the Liberal front bench deputations. Naturally enough, he determines to throw whatever influence he possesses to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's candidates, first pledging them to exact the instant repeal of the draft law and the release of all conscripts secured through its operation. The candidates sign gladly, even with enthusiasm, for that is their own conception of duty in a crisis—the duty of refusing all aid to the men who are guarding civilization, the contemptible duty of saving their own skin. Mr. Esher, Liberal candidate for Two Mountains, not only signed, but inserted a paragraph in the declaration to the effect that not only was he opposed to conscription, but that he was opposed to voluntary enlistment, and the further participation of Canada in the war. Mr. Bourassa left the Liberal party because the educational chains fastened by his leader on the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were, in his opinion, far too tight. Since that time unadulterated race and creed has been his only policy. Specious, plausible, courteous, he imposed upon his countrymen the mischievous creed of ourselves alone, and misled his English friends. They thought him chivalrous and honorable, though of mistaken views. The war has revealed him as it has revealed many men and many institutions. Insincere and Hollow.

Before he was revealed, while yet he was a recalcitrant Liberal, the Laurier government proposed a naval programme. It was denounced in Quebec as too extravagant. The by-election of Drummond and Arthabaska was won by a Nationalist after a campaign badly designed to frighten the simple habitant mothers. The general election of 1911 found that naval programme the issue in Quebec, Nationalists denouncing it, and calling heaven and earth to witness that they owed nothing to England. The Liberals fought badly. They were on unfamiliar ground. They were not used to approving the expenditure of money on defence. Yet they carried the province—a good proof at least that however despicable some Quebec leaders may be, the soul of the habitant is sound. Since the election of 1911, the bitterness of official Liberals in Quebec towards Nationalism has been strong. The first move toward rapprochement was made by Lucien Cannon in Dorchester last January, when he declared that Canada had done enough in the war. Since then all has been easy. Conscription! Let it be anathema. Our soldiers! Let them perish. Food conservation! Let it be disregarded. This is the policy of that dragon of disloyalty and sedition which breathes fire and smoke in Quebec today.

Perhaps, this is true in your case? Of course, you are not drinking poor tea because you like it, but because you think it necessary to save money. But are you really saving anything? Cheap, common teas only make about 150 cups to the pound. You are lucky if you can stretch them out to 185 or 200. On the other hand, Red Rose Tea easily makes 250 cups. It goes further because of its fine quality, consisting chiefly of Assam teas, the richest and strongest in the world. You may almost doubt if so many cups of tea can be made from a pound of even such good tea as Red Rose, but you can readily prove the economy of Red Rose without waiting for a package to be used up. No detail is neglected and the medical authorities who have been struggling to find a way to protect the discharged patient from his own foolishness when he returns to civil life, see a great need met in this new book. Liberals to Be Given More Representation With Completion of Cabinet.

Stratford, Nov. 23—Some three thousand electors of North Perth heard Sir Robert Borden and Hon. N. W. Rowell in the rink here this evening. Both received great ovations. audience. He confined himself to speaking a few words on behalf of the Victory Loan. Dr. M. Steele, the South Perth candidate, also spoke briefly while Lieutenant Colonel Young read a resolution of the Great War Veterans' Association, pledging them to support the union government. Sir Robert explained the necessity for compulsory military service in much the same terms used at Toronto and London and repeated his pledge to equalize the representation of Liberals and Conservatives in the cabinet. The government was not, he said, an alliance against any community, class or creed, as had been charged. It was an alliance for winning the war. He was applauded when he declared that compulsory military service had

The Elections

Some of The Candidates Whom Laurier Endorses News Notes From Various Constituencies—Soldier Candidate Cables Acceptance From "Somewhere in France"

Ottawa, Nov. 23—Almost the complete list of Laurier endorsements has been made public tonight. In a few constituencies the endorsement whatever has been accorded. In some others where there are three-cornered fights or where the government has not yet decided who to designate, endorsement has been withheld. In a large number of seats Sir Wilfrid has endorsed candidates against former Unionists or followers of his own. In quite a number of seats Labor men have been selected as his standard bearer and in one seat a Socialist has been selected.

Endorsements yet undecided include Port William and Rainy River, where a Laborite is running against a Liberal-Unionist; the two Hamiltons, where a Labor element again comes in; Kent, where the government has not yet selected its standard bearer; Lethbridge, where two Unionists are running; Toronto west, where there is a Liberal and a Laborite; Welland, where the government has not yet decided on its situation; Charlevoix, where there are three Liberal candidates, one of whom, Pierre Casgrain, is a son-in-law of Sir Rudolph Ford; in Yarmouth and Clair, where two Liberals are running, one an English-speaking and the other a French-Canadian candidate; and in MacKenzie (Sask.), where two Liberal-Unionists are running.

Laborties Endorsed. Laborties endorsed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier include James Dunbar, of Port Arthur and Kenora; Arthur W. Roebuck, of Kamiskating; J. J. Vick, in Toronto east; L. Cunningham (Socialist), of South Wellington; Alphonse Verville, in St. Jean; Ralph Isaac, in Halifax; Alfred Sherwin Skeens (B. C.); R. A. Riggs, in North Winnipeg; R. E. Ward, in Centre Winnipeg; A. M. Beth, in Regina; James Casey, in Saskatoon; Rev. William Irvine, in East Calgary; and L. H. Pack, in Lethbridge. Former lieutenants and followers against whom Sir Wilfrid has endorsed candidates include Hon. Frank Carvell, Hon. N. W. Rowell, Hon. A. K. Maclean, Hon. A. L. E. LeVellier, Hon. F. Paré, J. G. Turfitt, James Douglas W. S. Logie, Hon. T. A. Crear and Dr. Clark. Only four of Sir Wilfrid's former lieutenants in Ontario have been endorsed. They are: Reuben Traux, Duncan Ross, Edmund Proulx and Hon. Charles Murphy.

At least three conscientious Liberals have been endorsed. They are John Sinclair in Guysboro, Duncan Ross in West Middlesex and W. Grace in Lennox and Addington. In Montserrat, where Armand Lavergne, the Nationalist, is running, Sir Wilfrid has endorsed his opponent, A. N. Dechene. Minister is Sped. Quebec, Nov. 23—Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture in the Quebec government, is being sued for $200 for libel by Auguste Siros, the Unionist candidate in L'Islet county. The plaintiff alleges that the minister at a recent meeting in the county uttered defamatory statements regarding him.

Accepts at Front. Quebec, Nov. 23—Major H. Chasse, M. C., who has been nominated Unionist candidate in Quebec West, cabled from "somewhere in France" yesterday his acceptance. His message: "I accept candidature in Quebec West on condition that I remain at the front with my battalion." Deposit Seized. Quebec, Nov. 23—The seizure of the deposit in the case of Dr. Lebl is made on the strength of a judgment of the superior court for a sum of over $2,000 obtained by Colonel W. R. Ray, of Quebec, about two years ago. J. B. E. Letellier, who is seizing Major L. P. Gauthier's deposit, is a wholesale grocer of this city and claims that the candidate is indebted to him for over eighty dollars. Petition Rejected. Quebec, Nov. 23—A despatch from Perce, Gaspé, announced that the petition of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux for the rejection of the presentation bulletin of Major L. P. Gauthier, Unionist candidate, because he is at the front, was dismissed by Judge Tessier. Major Gauthier was represented by W. A. E. Flynn. Trouble in Charlevoix. Quebec, Nov. 23—It is rumored here that the failure of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to endorse a candidate in Charlevoix is rather disconcerting to the Liberal organizers here. Besides Wilfrid Lacroix, the choice of the convention, Pierre Casgrain and E. Audet, both of Montreal, are also in the field under the Liberal banner. A report here tonight stated that the three Liberals had agreed to abide by the decision of their chief and that on his selection, the other two would resign. It was understood that Laurier would endorse Mr. Casgrain.

OLD TIMERS SAY LEONARD WAS NOT GREATEST LIGHTWEIGHT

Many Experienced Judges Pick Joe Gans and Others as Better Boxers

New York, Nov. 20—Hardly a single old-timer agrees with Jimmy Britt that Benny Leonard is the greatest lightweight champion in the history of the sport.

attention to Jimmy's words of fistic wisdom, because this same Jimmy fought Gans twice, Nelson three times, McGovern, Lavigne, Eric and many other crackjacks. He should know something about it, yet such keen judges, old-time and experienced judges, as Tom O'Rourke, Jimmy Wakely, Patsy Haley, Mike Donovan, Jim Corbett, John P. Dunn, Paddy Mullins, Jim Buckley, Dick Roche, Billy Roche, Paddy Donnelly, Frank O'Neill, Joe Humphries, Sam Harris, Jack Doyle, John Kelly, Jack Curley and dozens of others whom we have approached, while they are divided in their opinions as to who WAS the best lightweight, none of them agree on Leonard. Why, there are some of them who believe that "Elbows" McFadden would have stopped our dashing Benjamin. Nearly all of them vow that Lavigne and Gans would have beaten Benny. Lavigne because of his terrific rushes, speed and hitting power, and

Gans, well, Gans because he WAS the "Old Master." Ike Dorgan, "Old Sober-sides," has the best notion as to why Gans would have stopped Benny. He is one of the best judges of boxing in this country. "Of course it is like trying to do a broad jump across the East River to put an old-timer against the best of today, but I'm sure Gans would have taken Leonard, and I'll tell you how," says Ike. "Gans was a wonderful blocker, and this ability to block made it possible for him to work close to his man in order to take advantage of every single opening. Gans was deadly in close, and particularly with a right hand body punch to the heart. He'd take his time picking off this lead and that until he saw just the spot he wanted, and then—bang! He never missed. "One, two and sometimes three heart punches—never more—and most of them wilted, lost their cockiness, dropped their guards, and sing—over went the right to the jaw. Leonard, because of his particular kind of aggressiveness, would have been a mark for Joe's right hand blow to the heart, and no man could live through it. Leonard is a dazzling performer, but not in Joe Gans' class."

PITCHERS ARE ONLY PLAYERS TO COME BACK

Philadelphia, Nov. 20—Connie Mack is out with a spatula. The pitchers are the only players who ever come back. "Very few players I have tried out thoroughly and returned to the majors have ever come back," says Connie. "As a rule those that do get another chance in fast company and make good are pitchers, because a pitcher can always change his style. His brief stay in fast company may have taught him that he was using the wrong methods and if he has a right sort of head on him he will study the thing out for himself. I let Dave Danforth of the White Sox go because he didn't have a curve ball. He hasn't one now, either, but when he went back to the minors he made good with the emery ball and when they stopped that he picked up the shine ball. I've known quite a few pitchers to get by with the spitball, when they had no other curve at all. Whenever I hear of a pitcher coming back I always ask, 'What is he putting on the ball?' Old Chief Bender pitched three shutouts in a row in a remarkable comeback and I'll make a bet that he's got hold of the shine ball or something like it. The Chief is smart enough to master anything of the sort in a short

MANY BALL PLAYERS ARE TURNED DOWN

It has occasioned no little surprise that so many baseball players have been turned down in the draft in the United States because of physical defects. One of the reasons some of them have not been accepted is because of the deformity of their fingers. There is hardly a player in the game who at some time or another has not had his fingers and thumbs broken or dislocated. Most of them resumed their duties on the diamond before the injured digits had a chance to get back to normal, and as a result they have fingers which are badly twisted and knotted. Benny Kauff of the Giants was not accepted in the draft because his fingers are so badly twisted that the army physicians maintain he would be under a handicap in using a rifle. Traggerson, the catcher of the Boston Braves, was turned down by the examining board for the same reason. The latest player to be exempted for damaged fingers is Heinie Groh of Matty's Cincinnati Reds. Catchers get their fingers smashed up more often than other players and there is not a catcher in the major or minor leagues who has perfect hands. Catchers like Jimmy Archer, George Gibson, Chief Meyers and other veterans have hands which closely resemble corkscrews. Coffey Knocked Out Providence, R. I., Nov. 28—Bartley Madden, of New Jersey, knocked out Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant, in the seventh round of a scheduled twelve-round bout at Mariaville tonight.

Million and Half Dollars Saving In Milk Distribution

Food Controller Makes Public Report of Special Committee of Which Commissioner Wignore is Member

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—An annual saving of more than $88,000 in the cost of milk distribution in St. John and an aggregate annual saving of more than $1,500,000 in seventeen of the principal cities throughout Canada is contemplated under a plan recommended by the committee appointed by the food controller.

The report which was made public today contains a recommendation that the maximum "spread," or difference between the price paid to the producer and the price charged to the consumer, should not be allowed after December 1 to exceed five cents per quart in the Maritime Provinces, Ontario and Quebec, and five and a quarter cents per quart in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. These maximum "spreads," or distributors' margins, represent the present charge for distribution under average conditions and are intended to allow time for the adjustment of the milk-distributing business.

The committee makes it plain that its recommendations do not involve sanction of an increase in the distributors' "spread" in any municipality where it is lower at present than the proposed maximum "spread." In the case of Ottawa the committee recommends that the present "spread" of 3 1/2 cents per quart should not be increased. A plan is outlined for the subsequent reduction of such maximum spreads, wherever it may be found upon investigation that a saving could be effected by a reorganization of delivery and elimination of the heavy waste resulting from unnecessary duplication of services. The committee estimates that, under present conditions, there is an average loss of 1 1/2 cents a quart which could be prevented under a single or local zone delivery system.

In making public the report, Hon. W. J. Hanna said that reorganization of milk distribution, as recommended by the committee, would require action by the provincial governments if it were to be put on a permanent basis. He explained that certain powers were vested in the food controller under the War Measures' Act, and that when that act was repealed there would be no machinery for the permanent reorganization of milk distribution which the committee outlined, unless it be provided by provincial authority. The provincial governments, he said, if they should deem it desirable to do so, might pass legislation to bring about such reorganization and to allow control of local milk distribution to be exercised by municipalities or private companies, under the plan proposed by the committee.

The report states that the price paid for milk to the producers is not excessive, in view of present conditions. An average increase in the price of milk has been less than 50 per cent while the average cost of cows, feed and labor has advanced 50 per cent, 75 per cent and 75 per cent respectively. It is pointed out that, in order to secure a profit, a reasonable margin must always be allowed to the farmer. Any price which did not allow a reasonable profit would result in decreased production and the necessary supply of milk would be endangered.

Taking an average for representative cities of Canada, the farmers are receiving from 6 to 8 cents per quart while the consumers are paying from 10 to 13 cents per quart. The increase in price added by the distributor ranges from 2 1/2 to 6 1/2 cents per quart, and varies in about the same ratio as the number of distributors operating in the different cities. The committee reports that this "spread" is excessive and that the chief cause is an excessive number of distributors.

HOW CITIES WOULD BENEFIT

The following table shows how saving in the cost of distributing milk would work out under the reorganization plan recommended by the committee. The figures are based conservatively on an estimated daily consumption of 1/4 pint of milk per capita and an estimated saving of 1 cent per quart, whereas the committee believes the saving would be slightly more than 1 cent per quart. In computing the daily consumption in the cities enumerated the latest available federal census figures for population are used.

City	Daily Consumption in Quarts estimating at 1/4 pint per Capita	Yearly Consumption	Saving at 1c per Quart
Quebec	19,777.5	7,182,288	$ 71,822.88
Montreal	117,620.0	42,931,300	429,313.00
St. John	10,627.75	3,879,129	38,791.29
Halifax	11,654.75	4,253,964	42,539.64
Toronto	94,194.5	34,339,093	343,390.93
Hamilton	20,492.25	7,479,071	74,790.71
London	11,675.0	4,254,875	42,548.75
Ottawa	21,763.5	7,944,468	79,444.68
Hull	4,555.5	1,662,798	16,627.98
Winnipeg	40,750.0	14,873,750	148,737.50
Regina	6,581.75	2,384,089	23,840.89
Saskatoon	5,292.0	1,920,680	19,206.80
Moose Jaw	4,233.5	1,545,258	15,452.58
Calgary	14,128.5	5,156,908	51,569.08
Edmonton	18,461.5	6,691,448	66,914.48
Vancouver	25,100.25	9,161,891	91,618.91
Victoria	7,918.9	2,889,975	28,899.75
Totals	429,488.25	156,762,120	1,567,621.20

Provision is made in the report for the appointment of provincial committees to investigate the cost of distributing milk in any city and to recommend any adjustment of the distributors' spread which may be found advisable. Where it is decided that economic waste could be reduced by reorganization of distribution a local commission is recommended to deal with such reorganization. The results expected under the committee's plan are:

- (1) A reduction in the price of milk to the consumers or an increase in the price paid to the producers, or an apportionment of the saving between the two classes.
- (2) The release of a considerable number of men for military service or other important war work.
- (3) Economies to both producers and distributors by the co-operative purchasing of supplies and by standardizing of equipment.
- (4) A better quality of milk would be assured to the consumers in many cities, with a consequent reduction in mortality and saving in expenditures to prevent the spread of tuberculosis and other diseases.

Confesses He Slew His Brother-In-Law

Catalone Clears Mystery of Dis-membered Body Found Scattered in Paterson Suburbs

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 20.—The murder mystery which has kept the Paterson police busy since Nov. 5, when a man's torso was found in a vacant lot on the outskirts of the city, and the head in the mud of the Passaic River two days later, has been cleared. Manuel Catalone, of 77 East Twelfth street, confessed that he had killed his brother-in-law, Stephen Cassa, who lived at the same address, and had cut his body to pieces with a cleaver. Catalone was arrested when the body was identified as that of Cassa. Mrs. Catalone and Mrs. Cassa, sisters, were also held on a charge of murder.

According to the story Catalone told the police, on Oct. 31 he and Cassa, both of whom worked at the plant of the Royal Piece Dye Works, were on their way home to luncheon when they became involved in an argument. Catalone said they went to his apartment, on the second floor of the house, and that he prepared lunch for both of them. While the men were eating, Catalone said he renewed his quarrel with Cassa, and caught up a hatchet and struck at Cassa's head. Cassa, he said, raised his arm and received a deep gash in it. A moment later he succeeded, he said, in striking Cassa on the back of the head, so that he crumpled on the floor and died almost instantly. He said he then dragged the body into the bathroom and covered it with rags and old newspapers. He said that both Mrs. Catalone and Mrs. Cassa were at work at the time.

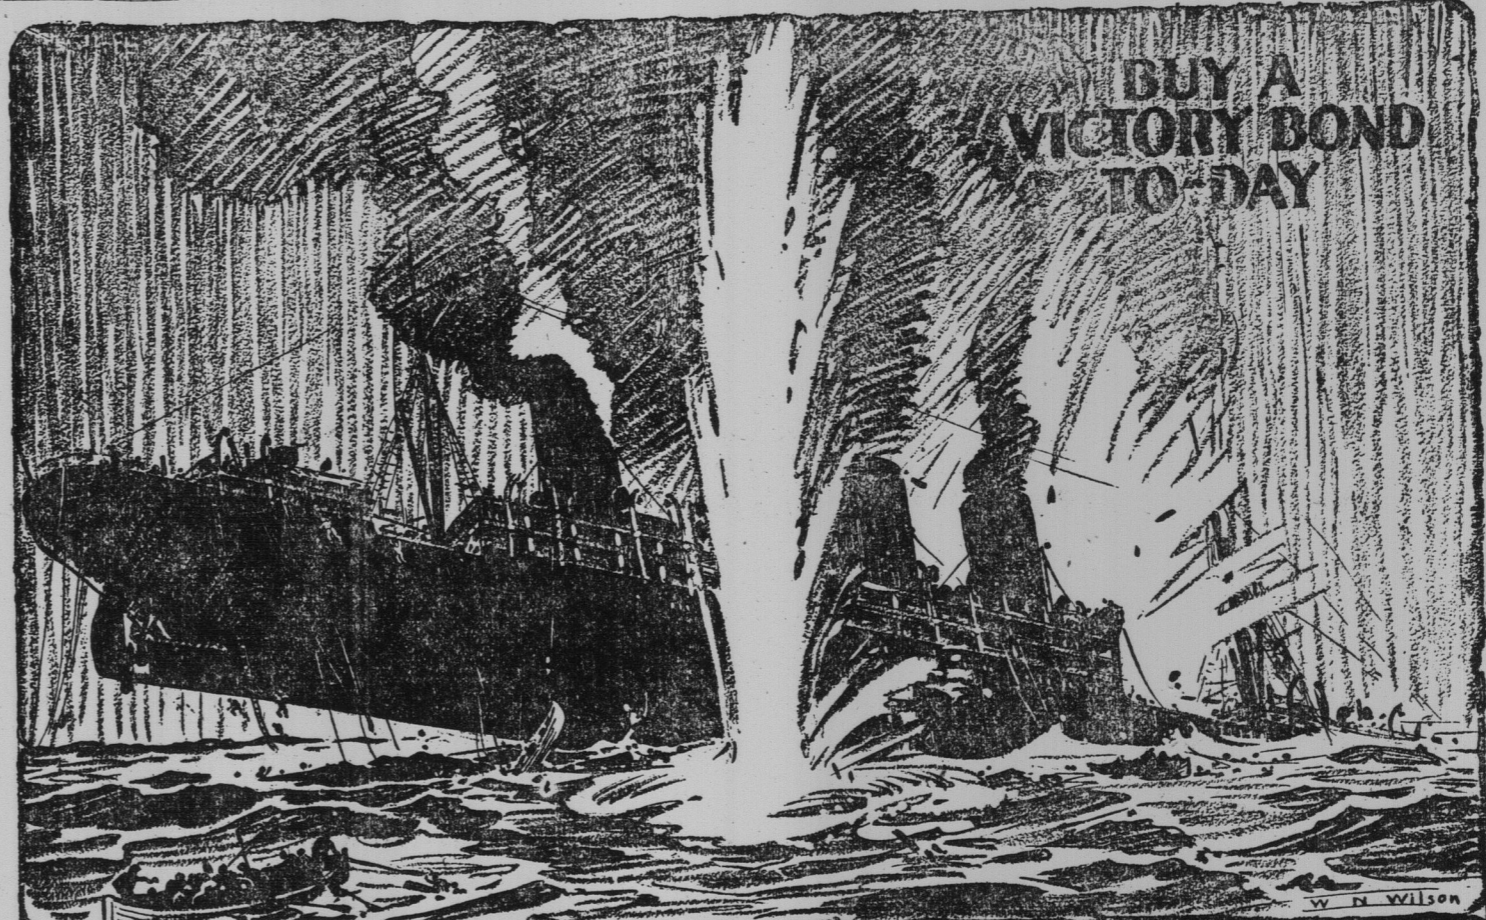

Catalone said that night he told his wife what had happened, cautioning her not to tell her sister. He said that the next day he did not go to work, but after his wife and her sister had gone, went to a store and bought a large suitcase. Returning to his home, he said, with a butcher's cleaver he cut off the head and legs of the body, so that it would fit the suitcase. The body remained in the bathroom over that night. The next day, he told the police, he packed the body in the suitcase, and wrapping the head in paper, went to the Passaic River and threw the head into the water. Then, Catalone said, he went to the vacant lot and threw the contents of the suitcase into a clump of weeds, leaving the suitcase nearby.

Catalone told the police that Mrs. Cassa began to worry about her husband, and he told her that Cassa had gone to Luxor, Penn., where they used to live, to visit friends. This appeared her until Nov. 5, when the newspapers told of the body being found. Two days later she insisted that Catalone and his wife accompany her to the morgue. There the body was identified as that of Cassa, and Catalone, his wife and her sister were placed under arrest.

The police went to the Catalone home and found blood on the bathroom floor. Then they began to question Catalone. He persisted that he knew nothing about the case, until Mrs. Catalone confessed to the police that Catalone had told her something about the death of Cassa. The police have obtained a suitcase which was a counterpart of the one Catalone was known to have purchased, and when they showed it to him and told him they knew he had used it to dispose of Cassa's body, he confessed.

BE ONE OF THE 200,000

It is expected that more than 200,000 people in Canada are going to buy Victory Bonds.

When Canada issued her first war loan there were 24,882 bond buyers, and for the second loan there were 84,226 buyers. The third loan brought 40,800. This is going to be a greater gain this time because the people are going to be told what Victory Bonds really are and how good they are.

Only people accustomed to buy bonds purchased them before. The Victory Loan is now being made to appeal to the country at large because the whole country should do its share to finance Canada and the war.

Victory Bonds will give the buyer a very high return on his or her money and there is no better or safer way to invest money than to buy these bonds.

This fact is beginning to dawn on the public and that is why 200,000 or more Canadians are expected to buy Victory Bonds in November.

NATIONAL PROBLEMS UNCOVERED BY WAR

M. H. C. in Solving Soldiers' Industrial Problem Also Solves Canada's

"We are already hearing of preparedness for 'war after war.' Land settlement, tuberculosis and industrial and industrial and vocational education are all national problems only made more apparent through their being forcibly brought to our attention by the urgency of the disabled soldier problem," declared T. B. Kidner, secretary of the vocational training branch of the Military Hospitals Commission in drawing attention to the importance of vocational training to the country as well as to the individual soldier.

"In providing for the rehabilitation of our soldiers we are providing for the future of Canada."

Suppose You Were Going Over the Top

Out into the night, with the roar of shell fire, through the barbed wire and the mud, into the enemy trenches---would you stop to count the cost?

No, you would go without question because it was your duty. You would not stop to ask about the safety of the undertaking. You would not stop to argue as to the amount of glory you might earn. You would not suggest that some one else be sent in your place.

You would just go, head down through hell on earth because your country asked it.

But you are not going over the top. You are at home with your friends and your family. You are called upon by your government simply to lend money to back up the soldiers who will go into the trenches for you in France. Your dollars will save their lives.
