Brighten up!

Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes "The Real Brighten Up Stuff"

That's my advice to you. You've seen it in the pages of the leading magazines. Now you see it here. It means paint and varnish and every thing that makes the home bright—outside and inside. It means spring and cheerfulness and boost, and finally Spring brings a desire to Brighten Up things about the house, both inside and out. This is a wearisome task unless paint and varnish be used, and an uncertain task unless you use the best. The Sherwin-Williams Co. make a finish for every surface in your house—a piano or a chair—a floor or a picture frame. A little time and money spent this Spring on "Brighten Up" stuff will greatly lessen your work and add very much to the appearance of your house.

Come in and Talk the Matter Over!

Coal Will Soon Become Luxury

With the domestic coal supply dwindling at the rate of 400,000 tons a year and the foreign supply disappearing at an equivalent rate, the problem of the fuel supply takes on more than an academic interest.

It is all year well, it states, to inquire profanely what posterity has done for us that we should forgo skinning the earth's resources on its account, but from the present outlook this matter has ceased to involve waiting for posterity.

It has reached a point where they may be trouble within the lifetime of children now alive.

If the coal consumption of the country increases at anything like the present rate it will probably not be more than a quarter of a century before the calamity of dearer fuel will be exhausted by then, but that scarcity, long transportation and deep mining will co-operate to enhance the price of coal to a completely mofidy present conditions.

The coal famine of a few years since shows the disastrous result of even a slight shortage in forcing up the price what would be the industrial situation with steam coal at $10 and upwards per ton permanently?

It is not a pleasant thing to contemplate and yet such is the situation which confronts us in the non-distance future. It will not be long before most of the remaining coal will be low grade bituminous lignite.

A large part of the fields yet lying untouched, are in fact, the best kind of lignite, entirely unsuited for transportation.

There is not enough wood left to cut any finger in the industrial situation. Of peat, good, bad and indifferent, there is a large amount, but thus far all attempts to get it into utilizable shape on a large scale proved somewhat futile.

The hydraulic power available at reasonable cost of utilization is being rapidly taken up. Even if 10,000,000 horse power were in good shape for profitable development, it would at rough approximation relieve the present coal consumption by only something like 10 per cent. while that consumption has risen 30 per cent. in less than five years.

Hydraulic power, then, valuable as it is, can be regarded only as a small auxiliary. It is not time for electrical engineers to make good for perennial bluff about distributing power from the coal mines? This proposition has been up for a long time, yet nothing substantial has been accomplished.

Except for a plant in South Africa and one in Pennsylvania, there is as yet nothing like a serious power transmission from heap coal.

There is a vast amount of clam, lignite and such like stuff which cannot be profitably transported and which is burned at the mouth of the mine with serious economic result if the work were seriously undertaken. Most of it is so situated that it can be advantageously utilized in other way, unless by the generation and transmission of gas, which again is a scheme not yet seriously attempted from such sources of fuel. It is time that progress was being made in these directions.

Of course there are difficulties at present in the way of burning lignite, efficiently, and on a large scale. Most boilers and furnaces are designed for use with fairly high grade fuel, so that burning lignite involves special appliances. Yet there are indications that the problem of using lignite economically has been at least proximately solved. Certainly there are already in existence plants which do use it with pretty good results. It is sufficiently rich to do well once the art of burning is mastered.

With a big turbo-generator plant worked on such cheap fuel, power could be brought on to a point that would permit transmission over a long radius and sale at a good competitive figure—a figure, in fact, that would stagger a good many hydro-electric plants. Gas production and transmission under moderate pressure, as in the case of natural gas, would be also practicable in the case of some grades of poor fuel, and would give the ability to furnish general heating as well as power.

Heating is a terribly serious matter in our northern climate, and if one relies on electrical heating the outlook is bad, since the whole power of Niagara could not keep New York from freezing to death. When it comes to heating, in fact, there is still not enough hydraulic power to be worth serious consideration. Fuel gas, however, can be made to help out very effectively and may come to be our chief reliance. The present outlook is grave, and it is time to be up and doing. Each year, with its increase of fuel consumption brings down the current estimate of the endurance of the supply. Not long ago it was 500 years, then 200, and now practical exhaustion of the available supply seems a bare century off, with a serious increase of cost looming up in the near future. It is about time to start the fight to preserve the existing state of things lest the pressure of industry bring disaster.

King Edward to Visit Emperor of Russia London, May 20.—King Edward will shortly spend a week with the Emperor and Empress of Russia. It is expected that they will embark at Portsmouth on May 29, at the conclusion of President Fallières' visit to London. This will be the first time that the king has met the emperor since his accession. The last meeting was on the occasion of the funeral of Emperor Alexander in 1894, when the King was Prince of Wales.

They Beat Him and Spat on his Letter

Berlin, May 24.—The Foreign Office has received a report from Dr. Rosen, the German minister to Morocco, regarding the alleged maltreatment of a man under German protection by French soldiers. According to the information received here the man was carrying a letter from the German consul to the commander of the body of French troops but the soldiers maltreated him, while the officers spat upon the consul's letter.

Dr. Rosen immediately lodged a complaint with the German legislation at Fez and the matter is now undergoing consideration at Berlin. Apparently the foreign office regards the case as one calling for diplomatic representations.

It is assumed here that Chancellor Von Buelow brought this matter to the Emperor's attention at Wiesbaden Monday and possibly this was the cause of the Emperor's cancelling a luncheon engagement with the provincial nobility.

Bomb Exploded in Crowded House

New York, May 20.—A wealthy Italian physician's refusal to comply with the demands of Black Hand criminals resulted in grave danger to the lives of a hundred persons today when a bomb exploded in the tenement house at 316 East 15th street. As it was four were injured and the other occupants of the house rushed into the street in panic.

White doors and beams which had been twisted out by the explosion, tumbled around them. The lower part of the house was completely wrecked. None of the victims was dangerously hurt with the exception of Tony Lambaro, who was crushed by falling timbers and internally injured.

The explosion occurred when most of the occupants of the house were at breakfast. Dr. Cascani, who had an office on the ground floor of the tenement, told the police that he had received a number of threatening letters of the Black Hand type.

Law to Lessen Evils of Cigarette Smoking Among Boys of Canada

Ottawa, May 20.—The government will take action this session to lessen the evils of cigarette smoking among the youth of Canada. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth has given notice of a government measure providing for an amendment to the criminal code so as to make it an indictable offense, punishable by a substantial fine, for anyone to sell cigarettes to juveniles under sixteen years of age for their own consumption. It is further provided that any officer of the peace may confiscate cigarettes found in the possession of boys under sixteen and the boys themselves may be fined to amounts ranging from $1 to $5. Furthermore, any dealer selling to youths under sixteen will have his license cancelled.

By making the law a provision of the general criminal code of Canada, it is expected that a more adequate and uniform enforcement of the restriction of the sale of cigarettes to minors will obtain than is now the case under the provincial enforcement of laws passed by the various legislatures which have taken action respecting cigarettes.—Sun.

With The Foresters

Foresters in particular will be interested in the following statements in regard to the matter which have been clipped from an exchange:—The Supreme Court of the order will meet in Toronto on June 16th, and the proposed increase of rates will be the principal subject discussed.

The proposed increase will effect all members who join the order previous to 1898 and in this class there are 110,000 men. The 150,000 policy holders who have joined since 1898 will not be effected by the proposed changes. The old members had policies totalling over $100,000,000. The executive is recommending increases in their rates averaging from 20 to 25 per cent. The difference between the old rates and the present rates is as follows: At the age of twenty years 62 cents per month and 80 cents; at twenty-five years, 67 cents and 94 cents; at thirty years, 72 cents and $1.14; at thirty-five years, 90 cents and $1.68; and the other years in proportion.

Three different plans are proposed by the executive officers for placing the old members on an equality with new members in the matter of payment of rates: A.—The old members now to contribute the difference between rate that they paid and what they would have paid at age of entry under present rates, with interest at four per cent. compounded, and pay the present rate for age under entry for the future. If any member is not in a position to pay this difference

St. George Man Succeeds

Sydney, May 18.—Interest in the National Rolling Mills is revived by the return to the city of C. V. Wetmore and F. A. Crowell, the chief promoters, from a mission to the upper provinces undertaken on behalf of the project. Mr. Wetmore returned on Friday and Mr. Crowell on Saturday night. It is understood that the mission of the promoters has on the whole been successful. Arrangements have been completed whereby construction of the plant will be undertaken without delay, pending the completion of a satisfactory arrangement with the city. The project according to the promoters has been regarded by investors favorably from the outset, in fact it is one of the best propositions of the kind in Canada, and it was only because of the condition of the money market that the rolling mills in common with many like propositions had been temporarily suspended. The money market has now turned the corner and gradual improvement may be looked forward to.

The Boundary Line

There was laid upon the table of the house at Ottawa Tuesday afternoon copies of the treaties between Great Britain and the United States, providing for the demarcation of the international boundary between Canada and the United States and also concerning the fisheries in contiguous waters.

The latter provides for uniform regulations as to times, seasons and appliances for the catching of fish to be determined by international commission, consisting of one representative of each government.

It is provided by the treaty that the regulations thus agreed upon shall be enforced simultaneously and that each government shall exercise jurisdiction over the citizens of either country in the case of violations of the joint regulations.

It is further provided that these regulations shall remain in force for four years and shall be terminable only upon one year's notice by either of the contracting parties. The waters to which the treaty is to apply are: Passamaquoddy Bay, Lake Memphramagog, Lake Champlain, St. Lawrence River, Lake Ontario, Niagara River, Lake Erie, St. Clair, Lake Huron, (excluding Georgian Bay, but including North Channel), St. Mary's River, Rainy River and Lake, Lake of the Woods, Strait of San Juan de Fuca and contiguous waters on the Pacific. The treaty deals first with the demarcation of the line through Passamaquoddy Bay in New Brunswick from the mouth of the St. Croix River to the Bay of Fundy. The line is to follow as closely as possible that laid down under the treaty of 1892.

In regard to the boundaries from the intersection of the international line with the St. Lawrence River to the mouth of Pigeon River, it is agreed that the location shall be made by the existing International Waterways Commission.

The remaining portion of the line as to which the commissioners did not agree in 1892 is to pass through the centre of the Lubec Narrows channel between Campobello Island and the mainland. But inasmuch as differences have arisen in the past with respect to Pope's Polly Island above Lubec Narrows and with respect to certain grounds east of the dredged channel below Lubec it is agreed that each of the high contracting parties shall present to the other within six months after the ratification of this treaty a full printed statement of the evidence and arguments with a view to arriving at an adjustment of the location of this part of the line, in accordance with the true intent and meaning of the provisions relating thereto of the treaties of 1783 and 1814, between Great Britain and the United States.

his good night commands involved all night marching and fighting of his army of the Potomac, and his waking orders might mean victory or defeat, the killing or the saving of a thousand men—under it all he lay down and dropped to sound sleep as quickly as you or I when we read ourselves sleepy over an old story book. Grant had what a great writer has called a "frictionless mind."

Here is a sample of the other extreme. Said a Minneapolis lawyer to me to day: "When I began the practice of law I always lost two nights before I had a case in court, tossing about and combating every thinkable stand point of my opponent. And I lost as much sleep afterward upbraiding myself after not having thought of certain points at certain pat occasions in the progress of the case." Of what value were these night thoughts to this young attorney? About as much value as night sweats to consumptive! I venture to say that all the business planning a man does in life while lying on his back at night isn't worth an hour's good thinking on his feet on one June morning. As compared with the sleep it displaces, such night thinking isn't worth forty winks after dinner. Burning the candle at both ends sometimes makes a fine bonfire. But it always makes a bad grease spot of a good candle.

I Won't go Back on Dad

We hear lots of songs about mother
It has become a fact;
It's time we had another--
I mean one about dad.
I think my darling mother
Is the pink of perfection.
But then it was my father
That made this good selection:
Had father been a foolish man
Instead of good and wise,
He might have wed another one--
Some demon in disguise,
What kind of boy would that make me.
Such a mother would make me
But I am happy as you can see,
So I'll stand up for dad.

When to a picnic we did go,
Or a sail across the lake,
Dad bought the tickets we all kept
And the fruit that's in the cake
I love my darling mother,
She calls me her dear lad,
But just the same I'll be to blame
If I went back on dad.

Us kids we love nice pictures,
So mother brought us views,
But when the weather did get cold
'Twas dad that got the shoes;
And when we took the measles,
I remember he looked sad--
Then for the doctor he did go,
My dear old loving dad,
Dad works hard in the sawmill,
His wages are but small;
When on Saturday night he goes down town

He can't buy things for all;
But I will try and wait my turn
And he will make me glad That's why I write this little rhyme
For I'll stand up for dad.
Dad's hair now is getting gray,
His cheeks are pale and thin;
He has worked many a summer day
And in the winter wind,
To make his family glad;
I tell you still, let come what will
I don't go back on dad.

Your friends, a closing verse to you
To the lass as well as lad;
Love your mother good and true,
But don't go back on dad.
When he is dead and laid away
'You will then feel lone and sad;
With keen regret you will rue the day
That you went back on dad.

You may be weak, sleepless, Nervous,
-digestion may be poor, but don't despair.

Canada Benefits By French Treaty

Shipping men say the new French treaty is going to greatly benefit Canadian shipping ports, and that Halifax and St. John will get all the French import and export trade in winter. The new treaty encourages by privileges the landing and shipping at Canadian ports and land transportation by Canadian companies of all imports from and exports to France.

At present thousands of tons for Canadian consumption or from Canada for France come and go via New York carrying it across the water. It means thousands of tons during a year and one Canadian concern alone is known to ship nearly 400 cars per year, not to speak of their imports. Under the new treaty all this traffic must pass over Canadian roads and through Canadian ports in order to reap the benefit of the privileges under the treaty.

This will probably mean full cargoes in and outwards for the steamers running between here and France and for the all Canadian railways.

This Cat Leaves a $40,000 Estate
Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 11.--Blackie, the only cat in the world with a private fortune of $40,000 died here today, being chloroformed to end his pain when it was seen that his illness was hopeless.

Blackie and his sister Pinkie, were left $40,000 by the late Benjamin F.
Dilley, of this city, the income to be used in providing for them as long as they lived. They were born in 1892 and were Dilley's favorite pets until his death, in 1905. Besides providing money for their maintenance he appointed Miss Addie Ruch to take care of them, and she is to have a substantial pension until her death. Then the estate is to be divided and $5,000 expended in erecting a fine fountain for human beings, animals and birds, and most of the rest

given to charity.

Pinkie died two years ago and Blackie became sole heir to the fortune and lived a life of idleness upon it. He was said to be the wealthiest cat in the world.
Miss Ruch has been seriously ill in a hospital for three weeks her absence seriously affected Blackie.

Wise on Poultry
The boy who wrote the following composition is evidently of an observing turn of mind, and may one day become a noted poultryman.

"Hens is curious animals. They don't have no nose, nor teeth, nor no ears.
"The outside of hens is generally put into pillars and feather dusters. The inside of the hen is sometimes filled up with marbles and shirt buttons and sich.
"A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals; but they'll dig up more tomato plants than anything that ain't a hen.

"Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum pudding. I like plum pudding.
Skinny Bates eat so much plum pudding once that it set him into the colicery.
"Hens has got wings and can fly when they are scart. I cut my Uncle William's hen's neck off with a hatchet and it scart her to death.

"Hens sometimes make very fine springs chickens.
A reign of terror is said to prevail in Hati.
Floods at Hankow, China, are reported to have caused the loss of over 2,000 lives.
It is expected that over one hundred towns will be located in the West this year along the lines of the Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific railways.

In spite of their limitations "the tight little list" has produced the greatest statesmen, the bravest soldiers--the most brilliant scholars, poets, author, and preachers in the world.
A Chinese student has won first place in the McGill University honor list, and another Chinaman has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Columbia University newspaper organ. Here is a real his mentality or lose the race to the

Look Happy
It is just as easy to face the world and its people with a smile as with a frown.
The cheery woman finds that she can be a comfort to others and do good service in various helpful ways--social, personal and charitable. Mothers soon learn that she is one of their faithful aids.
Little children love her, as she enters their amusements and sympathies with their small griefs. Young men and maiden confide their pretty secrets to her discretion, and older people enjoy the delicate attentions she delights to bestow.

unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctors because they did not help me and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me

Good Advice

The following is from the Hantsport,
N. S., Advance--
People are coming home from the United States in numbers, and many are writing from there to friends here asking if there is anything to do here, for the times are so hard in the U. S. that they are, or shortly will be, out of work.
Yes, we would say, there is lots to do here, come back to the land. Take the farms off the old people's hands and work them manfully. Farming was never better here, a market for all that can be raised, and insufficient help to raise it, and prices in the zenith. Come back to the land and be happy. You may not grow violently rich in a very short time, but have you done so in the United States? We will guarantee that you will be better off here in ten years than you would be in the United States in the same time, and live easier, and be more permanently comfortable and contented. Come back to the land.

My Adventure With a Robber

Did you ever meet a robber, with a pistol and a knife,
Whose prompt and cordial greeting was,
"Your money or your life!"

Who, while you stood a-trembling, with your hands above your head, Took your gold, most grimly offering to repay you in cold lead?

Well, I once met a robber--I was going home to tea;
The way was rather lonely, though not yet too dark to see That the sturdy rogue who stopped me there was very fully armed-- But I'm honest in maintaining that I didn't feel alarmed.

He was panting hard from running, so I,
being still unalarmed,
Very boldly faced the macabre demanded what he wanted;
I was quite as big as he was and I was
and I was not out of breath,
So I didn't fear his shooting me or stabbing me to death.

In answer to my question the highwayman raised an arm
And pointed it straight at me--though I still felt no alarm.
He did not ask for money, but what he said was this:
"You cannot pass, papa, unless you give your boy a kiss!"

Overwork a Waste of Time
Overstrained faculties can never bring out the best results. Overwork is always a waste of time; and, though it may not seem to be so at first, eventually the sad truth is always manifested. To cut off needed recreation, to curtail the hours of sleep, to postpone a holiday indefinitely, to refuse to take rest and ease and change, under the impression that this time is saved, is always a short-sighted policy and often a fatal mistake. The time arrives when the poor, abused faculties take their revenge and refuse to serve altogether, or do in so feeble a fashion as to show their deterioration.

P. E. I. Has Another Terrible Murder Case

Charlottetown, May 12 --One of the most sensational murders that has ever exercised this almost crime free Province occurred on Sunday night at Miscouche, a small village about five miles from Summerside. The victim is Joseph D. McMillan, aged 25, a prominent young farmer, and his slayer is Alonzo Docherty aged 21.

One Sunday afternoon McMillan, accompanied by Stella Macdonald and her sister walked from Miscouche to Summerside. In the evening McMillan and Stella left on return to Miscouche, walking along the railway track. When about one and a half miles from their destination they met Docherty coming towards them. It was a bright moonlight night. He had a revolver in his hand.

"Hold on," he said.
"Is that a revolver you have?" asked McMillan.

"Yes, replied Docherty and pulled the trigger. A 32 calibre bullet crashed into McMillan's heart.

"My God, I am shot," he said, and staggered and fell. As he lay on the ground Docherty fired two more bullets into the head of his victim, whose struggles ceased for ever. The railway track was bordered with thick bushes. Docherty dragged the body into the woods and accompanied the horror stricken girl to her home. He stayed there several hours and at daybreak went with the girl to Father Monaghan's priest, and told him the whole story and where to find the body. Father Monaghan informed the authorities and the body was found on the spot indicated. Docherty went to the house of his father, informing him of the terrible deed. The old man, a respectable farmer, fell in a faint when he heard the awful news. The murderer then drove to Miscouche, waited the arrival of the Police Officer from Summerside and gave himself up. He is now lodged in Summerside jail.

To a representative of the press he said: "I did the deed and know I shall suffer for it. It means either the gallows or penitentiary for life. I would not like the latter, for I would pine away and die any way."

I had no quarrel with McMillan he was one of the best fellows in Miscouche. My deed was not prompted by jealousy. I was in the habit of carrying a revolver through the woods and had placed that in my pocket on Sunday. Some uncontrollable impulse seized me when I met McMillan and Stella. I had kept company with her for three years. Docherty then told her she dragged the body into the woods so that no one would see it. Docherty is a fine, strapping, good-looking fellow about six feet. McMillan was also a splendid specimen of physical manhood.

An inquest was held by Coroner Bowness today and the jury returned a verdict that McMillan came to his death from shots fired from a revolver in the hands of and fired by the prisoner. Docherty has been remanded till Thursday, when he will be tried before Stipendiary Wright. The affair has created intense excitement all over the province. The general opinion is that Docherty was madly in love with the girl and jealousy prompted him to remove his rival.

McMillan had not been keeping company with Stella to any extent. They were merely good friends, Stella Macdonald was a witness at the inquest. She confirmed what the prisoner had said when he met McMillan and her. They were eight feet apart when the shooting began. Docherty made no threats. McMillan never uttered a word after he fell. Docherty told her he fired the shot in a fit of passion. He never made threats of violence. He said he was sorry he did it. She believed jealousy was the cause. Some months ago Docherty said he would part them. He saw them together Sunday and knew they went to Summerside. After the shooting he handed her the revolver and cartridges, which she handed over to the priest.

Interesting Facts About the Provinces

It is safe to say that there are very many persons in the Maritime Provinces who are unfamiliar with a great number of interesting facts about the part of Canada in which they live. Did you know for instance, that the provinces are almost equal in size to England and Wales?

That they are, is stated in Mr. Frank Veigh's "5,000 Facts About Canada" from which the accompanying matter is taken. The joint population of the provinces is nearly 900,000—and it may be noted, the population is still growing. Many of us boast of our fisheries but do we know that the fisheries of the Maritime Provinces are among the most valuable in the world? Fishermen in the provinces sail from a coast line of something like 5000 miles and the total length of the sea coast line is about 5,600 miles or double that of Great Britain. In New Brunswick alone the value of the fisheries in 1900 was nearly $15,000,000. (These figures include the value of all fisheries products.) In 1906 there were no less than 14,477 New Brunswick men engaged in the fisheries. In the lobster canneries of the province there were 5,025 hands at work. The progress of the province is indicated in a measure also by the increase in crop acreage since 1901. In that year the acreage was nearly 200,000 acres less than in 1907. Moreover, the percentage of acres in crop for every one hundred acres occupied was more than twice as great in 1907 as it was in 1901. Surely, these figures speak of development and increased prosperity! In 1907 too, the figures showed that there had been great advances since 1901 in the raising of stock. In the number of sheep the increase was 69,920; in swine, 46,848 and in cows 22,714.

Over in Nova Scotia there has been prosperity and progress and the same is true of Prince Edward Island. In Nova Scotia the crop acreage showed a marked increase in 1907 over the mark of 1901. The percentage of acres in crop out of acres occupied did not increase to as great a degree as in this province. There was advance, too, in the raising of stock. In 1907 Nova Scotia's coal output was worth $14,000,000 while the steel and iron products were set down as being worth a like sum. The products of Nova Scotia farms are worth over $23,000,000 and the forest products were valued at $3,750,000. A striking way of setting down the value of all industries to Nova Scotia is adopted when it is stated that the value was $107,000,000 or about $1,000 to each family. In passing it may be noted that Nova Scotia possesses the widest coal seam in the world, one at Stellarton which is no less than thirty-seven feet in width.

In the Island Province there was also a great increase in the crop acreage between 1901 and 1907, an increase, to be exact, of 57,144 acres. In 1906 the value of the fishery products of the island was $1,168,939. In the lobster canneries 2,211 hands were employed while 3,577 were engaged in the fisheries. In that year the island had 285 manufacturing establishments with a capital of $1,680,541 and 2,919 employees.

They say that sleeping dogs may lie; But little girls may not. For when I tell the littlest fib They scold an awful lot. Sometimes I wish I was a dog So's I could lie a lot; For when I've taken mother's cake I'd rather sleep than not. Then when she'd say, "Now, Clementine Did you do so and so?" I'd close my eyes and snooze a bit And growl out, "No; oh, no!" --Lippincott's Magazine.

THE FORESTERS

The statement that certain older members of the Independent Order of Foresters, who have been for many years paying money into that order with the hope and expectation of providing for their old age and their families, in case of death, are now to be deprived of a portion of the amount for which they thought they were insured, or in the alternative that they will be forced in their old age to pay an additional and higher premium, has been received with considerable consternation by a large number of people in this as well as other sections of the Province. What the outcome of the recent decision of the Supreme Court as seen in another column, may be, it is hard to tell. The High Courts both of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have voted against the proposition which seems to be altogether unfair to those who have stood by the Order for so many years.

Supreme Chief Justice Stevenson has received the protest of the High Courts but it is reported to have said that these protests will have no effect whatever on the Supreme Court as it has decided that these changes proposed shall be made. The late head of the Order, declared that the rates charged were quite sufficient, and he was an expert in insurance. Evidently his cloak has not fallen upon another, and the old men are called upon to pay for incompetency or extravagance. The big Toronto building yielding about 3-4 per cent, does not speak well for the management.

It will also be born in mind that it was with the funds of the Foresters that Hon. Geo. E. Foster was doing his land business in the Northwest, when the Insurance Commission brought the matter to light.

LOCAL LOYALTY

If your loyalty to the town in which you live is no stronger than that of the man or woman whose loyalty can be purchased by a few dollars it's not worth very much, is it? Yet the few cents saved on some orders given the "Shopping by Mail" houses might be taken as indicating the loyalty to St. George of the men and women who patronize such business establishments. St. George can only make progress through the efforts of her individual citizens and on almost every occasion on which you send to a merchant elsewhere for goods which you can purchase in St. George you are doing something toward holding St. George back. If St. George is good enough for you to live in, good enough to provide you with a livelihood, it is surely good enough for you to spend your money in. The different interests of any town must necessarily be so interwoven that the advancement of one will tend also toward the advancement of many others as well. If, for any reason, a merchant in St. George becomes involved in financial difficulties his misfortune will affect every citizen, directly or indirectly, to a greater or lesser extent. And every order sent to the mail order merchant by St. George people helps to make more different the way of every St. George business man. It is all very well to say that one can buy more cheaply from the mail order house than from the local dealer and, occasionally, one may be able to do so. But the advantage is not always with the merchant in the big city in point of prices. More than this, it is the local dealer who gives credit terms and does not declare that "the cash must accompany every order." It is the local man who spends in. The greater part of his money in St. George. It is the local merchant who helps the various branches of the life of the town. It is the local merchant, not the big dealer or company in Montreal or Toronto or in some other large city, who helps support the local schools and churches and social organizations of the town. He is expected to be ready to help forward town enterprises; and, generally speaking, he does so: the help does not come from the mail order house.

These are the points which we commend to the readers of the Greetings. There are others which we may touch upon in subsequent issues. Meanwhile, help St. George grow by spending what ever you are called upon to spend in St. George's places of business so far as that is possible.

It is no wonder that Premier Roblin and Mr. Rogers hasten to Ottawa from Manitoba to stay the hands and encourage the Opposition in their strange contentions. Roblin and Rogers evidently see themselves politically dead and buried should the proposed Election Bill be passed and the lists be taken out of the hands of partisans and given to the County Court Judges.

What could be more fair than this? The judges are practically irresponsible and non-partisan and would therefore be fair to all.

In order to facilitate business, Premier Laurier made such concessions as could not but be satisfactory to the Opposition, but after accepting the compromise, they go back on it, and continue their astonishing tactics of obstruction. Can their position be justified by even the blindest partisan?

It is all or none or we will make the country pay dearly for it. And the country is paying the price.

Few will be found to disagree with the Montreal Star's strictures on the obstructive tactics of the Opposition, namely, that "there will be sound business men in the country who will think that it ought not to be in the power of a small group in Parliament to absolutely tie up the financial resources of the country by simply talking against time for a few days. A much smaller group than an Opposition might in this way force the most pernicious measures on Parliament."

MR. HAZEN RAISES THE TAXES.

We have said that we will stand for giving Mr. Hazen a fair trial. He is touching a tender spot, however, when he begins to raise the tax. On motion of Mr. Hazen, in connection with the passing of the Highway Act, the poll tax under the act, was increased to $2.00. The Opposition protested vigorously against the increase but it passed 23 to 12—the Independents voting with the Opposition.

Mr. Borden can afford to "fight it out all summer." He doesn't have to worry about making a living. He receives his $9,500 a year from the Government. In other words he gets some $36 per day. Sundays included, whether he works or not. Who wouldn't "fight" at that price.

Gentle Hints For Boys

Keep step with any one you walk with. Hats lifted in saying "Good bye" or "How do you do?"

Always precede a lady upstairs and ask her whether you may precede her in passing through a crowd or public place. Let ladies pass through a door first, standing aside for them.

Let a lady pass first always, unless she asks you to precede her.

Look people straight in the face when speaking or being spoken to.

In the parlor or drawing-room stand till every lady is seated, also older people.

Rise, if a lady comes in after you are seated, and stand till she takes a seat.

Never play with a knife, fork or spoon. Use your handkerchief unobtrusively always.

In the dining-room take your seat after ladies and elders.

Rise when the ladies leave the room and stand till they are out.

Special rules for the mouth are that all eating and smacking of the lips should be avoided.

St. John's Big Show

Preparations for the Exhibition in St. John this fall are now in full swing. The dates for the show are from September 12 to September 19th. The most successful business men of St. John are helping to make the Exhibition successful. The provincial government assists to the extent of a Five Thousand Dollar grant and the city of St. John gives $3000 to help along the enterprise. The buildings are being put in splendid shape, the prices announced are greater than ever, the arrangements already made for special attractions are such as to guarantee most successful and varied entertainment for any big crowd.

St. John is splendidly situated for an exhibition. The railroads and steamboat companies have promised attractive excursion ticket rates, and there will be no excuse for any one in the provinces not making the trip on those pleasant early September days.

Mr. Joseph McCormick flew a flag with a history on Victoria Day. Forty-eight years ago, a number of ladies in the town presented the flag to Company No. 1, St. George volunteers. This was the first volunteer company in the County of Charlotte. The officers were: Douglass Wetmore, Captain, James Campbell, First Lieutenant, Edward Knight, Second Dan better known as Ban Wetmore, Ensign, Geo. Baldwin, Thos. McGowan, John Kidd and James Brown, Sergeants. Officers and men numbered fifty and at the reception tendered King Edward then Prince of Wales at St. John in 1860 the company received much attention.

The flag was the only volunteer flag saluted by the Prince who also congratulated the company on the fine appearance they presented.

Forty years of wind and weather have worn and torn the flag. When first flung to the breeze it was fully ten feet in length, with a Union Jack, a thistle and a harp woven into the silk. The harp and the thistle are almost gone now and the tattered ends of the old flag are fast wearing into the Union Jack.

Of the old company No. 1 the following gentlemen alone survive: R. J. Austin, James O'Brien, Frederick Wetmore and Joseph McCormick.

Mrs. Susan Bailey and daughter Ethel, of Marvsville, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bailey, returned home on Monday.

Miss Elinor Winslow of St. John spent the holiday with friends here. She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McGrattan at Lake Eutopia. Others invited were Miss Ross of St. John, Mrs. Rearson, Miss Etta Marshall and Miss Annie Bradley.

A. C. Gilmour is repairing the old house on Clinch Street.

The "Edna Bell" the beautiful new gasoline yacht belonging to Arthur Brown carried a party down river Victoria day. The boat behaved splendidly and a most enjoyable time was spent. Mrs. Annie Dodds chaperoned the crowd.

The dawn of Victoria day was born but a moment when Major Goodwin Sparks awoke the echoes round the town with a rifle. Shot after shot he fired and every shot carried with the love of a heart that has ever beaten true to England and her rulers. It was a fitting opening to a day that was royally enjoyed by many in town. Lake Eutopia was the mecca for many parties. The country round about in every direction drew admirers from the town. The N. B. Southern left St. John with three cars crowded with holiday seekers. Quite a number came to St. George, and many were at New River, Penfield and Bonny River.

Miss E. Pauline Johnson and Mr. Walter McKay gave a most pleasing entertainment at Drageogian Hall, on Monday evening. The entertainers allowed themselves more latitude than in their recent entertainings and the result was a most cordial reception at the hands of the audience present.

The Martin - Senour 100 per cent PURE PAINT

Investigate Before You Buy In these days of sharp competition, it is well to know that you get what you pay for. There are so many brands of house paints on the market, now-a-days, advertised as "pure" (but little better than "dope,") that a man ought to investigate what he intends to buy.

We suggest to those about to paint to make a practical test and convince themselves. Buy a small can of the Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint and one of any other brand with which you may have been favorably impressed, selecting about the same colors, and paint a few feet. Carefully measure the paint, so that you use no more of one than the other. Thus with the conditions the same, you can determine for yourself which paint has the better body or covering capacity; which is the easier brushing out and has the better finish. If you do not decide in favor of the Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint, our agent will return the money you paid for the can of Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint used in the experiment, and we will credit the same to him.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Alewites should soon make their appearance.

Mr. A. C. Gillmor is expecting a schooner loaded with coal.

The public schools will close for the summer vacation in about a month.

The wood work on the Upper bridge is showing signs of decay. A steel railing is needed.

The first strawberries of the season at McGrattan's. They smell of summer nice and sweet.

The N. B. Southern has nearly one hundred men at work on the road. They are at present located at Bonny River, working towards St. Stephen.

There is a fresh fish cart, or two or three nearly every day now. The number engaged in the business has caused a slump in the price of the fish which favor the buyer. It is to be hoped that competition will not drive all hands out of the business.

A company of real merit, a scenic equipment unsurpassed by any company travelling and a play simple in story and pure in sentiment are some of the features of "Along the Kennebec," the newest big success which will be seen at Coutts' Hall on Wednesday May 27.

The next big attraction to be seen in this city is that sterling New England play, "Along the Kennebec," which will be given in all its entirety, wealth of rural scenery, the great quarry scene with its working drills and a real steam engine at Coutts' Hall, St. George, Wednesday May 27.

The tugs Lord Kitchener and Lord Roberts left at 2 a. m. for St. Andrews with the dredge New Dominion and two scows in tow. The New Dominion will be in operation at St. George during the summer.—Globe.

It would appear from the above that the river would be dredged this summer.

Tenders calling for the erection of an annex to the public school building will be opened tonight. The plans were drawn by Mr. E. M. Nabbitt and provide for the building of an addition which will accommodate all the school children and will add much to the appearance of the school house.

Logs are coming down the river for the Pulp Co. The winter's cut of logs is at Bonny River and the work of ascertaining the lot for Sherwood and the Pulp Co. is going on. Mr. Sherwood has decided to have his mill at Bonny River. This industry might have been secured for St. George. A board of trade alive to the interests of the town would have induced Mr. Sherwood to locate here.

Frank H. Lambert, of Lubec, was drowned last Wednesday night and his companion, William Keegan, was barely rescued by two men who pushed out from shore. The accident happened at the narrow and was caused by the upsetting of a small boat in which they were returning from Campobello. They struck the edge of the tide which was running about six knots an hour and this capsized their craft. Their cries attracted the attention of two young men on the Lubec shore and they succeeded in saving Keegan. Lambert was nowhere in sight and probably swept out to sea at once. Lambert was a native of Deer Island, N. B. He was a dentist by profession, and was about 35 years of age. He leaves a widow.

Organization was completed of a Golf club, at a meeting of a number of enthusiasts held in Dr. Alexander's office on Tuesday evening. The club is to be known officially as the St. George Golf Club. Dr. Alexander was chosen President and Edward McGrattan Secretary. A committee known as the "Greens Committee" will look after the grounds and recommend improvements, etc. Mr. A. H. Hay is chairman and Thos. Kent, Geo. McCallum, H. Frauley, B. H. Gillmor and Dr. Taylor are members. At the meeting a resolution was adopted instructing the Secretary to convey the thanks of the club to Mrs. Lee for the very generous use of her grounds, at Mount Vernon. Mrs. Lee and her family were made honorary members of the club. The initiation fee was fixed at two dollars for gentlemen and one dollar for ladies. This entitles the gentleman or lady to all the privileges of the club, for one year. The club starts with every prospect of success, a large number have already joined and others will follow. The opportunities the club will offer for social intercourse should be an inducement for all to join apart from the pleasure to be derived from the game.

The Doctor's Romance

The doctor stepped from his phaeton and, drawing the horse a little nearer the curb, pushed open the gate and went up the hedge bordered walk.

A woman of middle age, a woman with a serious expression, stood in the doorway.

"Mornin', doctor," she said. "You're out early."

"Plenty to do," cried the caller in a quick tone that was a strong contrast to the deliberation of his movements. "Suddenly felt thirsty, Mrs. Clem. Had a strange longing for a glass of your butter milk. Don't say you're out."

"Guess there's plenty," replied the woman. "Our folks don't care much for butter milk. Set down."

She pushed a splint bottomed rocker toward him and he dropped into it.

"Elinor," the woman called through the open door, "bring Dr. Thomas a glass of butter milk."

A faint voice replied from the interior of the house.

"How are you all? The doctor asked. Pretty tolerable, the woman answered. Josiah has just a touch of rheumatism an' I feel a little neuralgia in my head along towards night. But I guess it's all the weather."

"How's that cough of Elinor's?" "Seems to be about the same. It goes an' comes. It bothers us most at night. Her mother had just that kind of cough. It took her—an' I s'pose it'll take Elinor the same way."

She spoke in a resigned tone, as if the girl's fate was an understood thing.

The doctor took the glass in his left hand and stretching out his right gently touched the girl's wrist with his stout fingers. As he did so he puckered his lips as if he were preparing to whistle.

"Then he took another sip at the buttermilk."

"Is your Aunt Rachel Clem your only relative Elinor?" he asked.

"I have another aunt in Arizona. She's my Aunt Jessie—that is, she isn't really my aunt, she's the widow of my Uncle Wadsworth, I haven't heard from her for a long time."

The doctor slowly sipped his buttermilk.

"Where was she living when you heard from her?"

"At Tucson."

"And her name is?"

"Mrs. Wadsworth Reeves. But you are not interested in Arizona, doctor?"

"Yes, I am—a little, I may want to go there some day."

"You couldn't be spared."

"Nonsense. That's what they said about old Dr. Jenness."

Dr. Homer Thomas had been in Culverton for six years. He had Josiah can do to get us bread an' succeeded to the practice of Dr. butter an' keep up with the mortgage. Elisha Jenness, who had cared for

"I will see that the money is ready, he said."

The woman stared at him. Then she laid aside her sewing.

"Out of your own pocket, doctor?"

"Never mind," he abruptly answered.

Tuesday morning a little group bade the girl goodbye at the railway station. When the doctor came forward and put out his hand Elinor impulsively clutched it.

"Goodby, doctor, and there were tears in her voice. "I can't thank you—I don't know how. If—if I live I will try to show my gratitude."

And before he could draw back she reached up and impulsively kissed his cheek.

A moment later the train was gone—Elinor's waving handkerchief at the car window becoming a gray shadow and then fading away altogether.

The doctor's cheek still tingled with the kiss when he turned away. And there was a tingling about his heart, too.

In due time a letter came from Elinor. The journey had proved very exhausting—a beautiful journey, but too long. She was quite worn out and her cough was worse. She had found her aunt's house homelike and her aunt very kind. She would write again when she felt better.

She was better when she wrote the next time.

The doctor looked forward eagerly to the receipt of these delightful letters. They became a part of his existence. The girl would live. She owed her life to him. She was grateful. She realized her indebtedness.

He drew a quick breath when he asked himself the next question. Could that gratitude grow into love? Elinor's letters came regularly. She was very much better. She had gained 16 pounds. The difficulty in breathing was quite gone. And then she told about her new friends. There was a family hotel not far away and there were some nice people there. Among them was the daughter of United States Senator Maitland, a charming girl, Her brother Paul was with her, a mining engineer just out of college. The doctor frowned a little at the reference to this young man, and then growled at himself for his folly.

Elinor had been gone six months when the doctor suddenly determined to go to Arizona. It was time he had a vacation.

He hungered for a sight of Elinor's face. He would go there and ask her to be his wife, and if she seemed well enough he would marry her and bring her away.

And so, having mapped out his plan, a sudden feeling of relief quite overcame him. He leaned back in his big chair and gave himself up to a delightful day dream.

He was interrupted by a rap at the door. His man had brought the mail. There were two letters with the Tucson postmark postmark. The envelope of one was square and heavy. He would open that first. A card dropped from it. This is the message it bore—

Mrs. Wadsworth Reeves
Announces the marriage of her Niece

Tired nerves, with that "no ambition" feeling that is commonly felt in spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter-time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the worn-out weakened nerves; it sharpens the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly brings renewed strength, life, vigor, and ambition. Try it and be convinced. Sold by All Dealers.

"The Story of a Brave Man's Ordeal"

Again he consulted his watch. Twenty-nine minutes to eleven. He fumbled awkwardly in putting it back

Gladys might be, at that very moment examining the photo he had left for her.

He brushed his hand impatiently across his eyes and looked up the road. How much longer would this suspense last? The Revell's place was about a mile away. Would anyone ever come around that bend, or would he have to wait in vain?

He turned once more to his car, when the violent ringing of a bicycle bell struck rudely into his reflections. Starting up, he saw Lill pedaling towards him as though a life depended on her speed.

"She can see—she can see!" the girl shouted long before she reached Castle.

To all, excepting him, this was the most important point. He wanted to hear more, and waited with highly-strung nerves for a message.

The impetuous youngster threw herself off her machine.

"Glad wants you at once, Vic," she cried.

Castle's throat swelled chokingly, and the words drummed triumphantly in his ears, but he was still doubtful.

"Has she seen my photo?" he asked.

"Yes. And isn't she silly? I think she's crying for you," was the breathless and slightly contemptuous answer.

"Look at me kiddy!" he exclaimed. "Am I very, very ugly?"

"I don't know," ingeniously replied she. "I was afraid when I saw you first, but I like you better than anybody now."

Castle kissed her and seated her in the car, tossed the bicycle in behind, then sprang in himself.

Three minutes later Castle entered the haunting familiar darkened room. He halted an instant, unable to penetrate the gloom.

"Vic—Vic!" said an unsteady voice.

"Glad!" he cried. "You can—"

"As well as ever," she answered.

"And you—know of my—disfigurement?"

"I've known all the time. Mother told me at the beginning. But you never spoke of it, so why should I?"

Draw the blind and let me see you. He drew the blind aside a trifle, then came back to her, keeping his face averted. He found it almost impossible to conquer the shame of his ugliness. She reached up and turned his head, looking straight into his eyes as she stood with her back to the window.

"They're just what I expected, Vic, she said, after regarding him intently for a while."

"What?" he asked.

"Your eyes—bright blue fighting eyes—they're grand!"

"And the scars?" he inquired, bitterly.

"When I look at them, I see, in imagination, a bridge over a railway, she replied, speaking in quick, low tones. "On it, standing across the road, is a governess-car full of children, drawn by a donkey which has developed a fit of stubbornness."

"A great racing-car flashes into view at the top of the long steep road leading down to the bridge. The brakes must be defective, for it tears down the hill at a terrific speed, the horn hooting hoarsely all the way. The bridge is so narrow that, when clear, considerable skill is required to navigate it. In the present circumstances it is a sheer impossibility."

"The girl in charge of the little party makes frantic efforts to whip the donkey into life, but it is immovably ignorant of the appalling danger that is rushing towards them."

"The car is within thirty yards of the bridge. The few onlookers are awaiting inevitable tragedy, when the great car gives a violent jerk, skids half down the loosely built stone wall down on the railway below. It was a heroic deed."

Or a fortunate accident, commented Castle.

"It wasn't an accident," she contradicted. "I was there. You were driving the car. I saw you give the steering wheel a determined twist in the direction of the wall."

Well, what could I do? There were the kiddies, you see, sweetheart, he urged, apologetically, pushing the wad of hair from her forehead, and lifting the shade so that he could look into her eyes.

"Yes, there were the kiddies," she agreed, slowly and thoughtfully.

And you'll love me in spite— "In spite and because of it. No girl could care for you less on account of that."

Castle shook his head dubiously. "It's right, Vic, whatever you may think," she murmured. "I love you dear; so I do know."

Is Your Throat Husky?

This is the first step towards Catarrh. Everything depends on your remedy. A cough mixture slips quickly over the weak spots, drops into the stomach and does little but harm digestion. It's altogether different with Catarrhoseone—it cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrhoseone, breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen and restore the weak throat tissues. You'll not have colds, or coughs, or Throat Trouble and Catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrhoseone. At all dealers, 25c. and $1.00. Get it today.

Crop Rotation

The reasons for adopting some regular crop rotation on every farm are numerous and important. An exchange points out that a proper crop rotation helps in maintaining soil fertility, in renovating impoverished soils, in the destruction of insects, and weed pests, and in the more economical distribution of labor throughout the year, thus increasing the profits. A three-year rotation, corn and roots, grain and clover hay, is well suited for a farm, where it is desired to keep a large number of cattle, and where there is more or less broken land to serve as pasture. For the average farmer, who is engaged in general farming, a four-year rotation, consisting of corn and roots, potatoes or peas the first year; grain the second year, followed by clover, hay, and hay or pasture, the next two years is well suited. A five year rotation—grain, with ten pounds of clover seed to plough down for fertilizer; corn, roots, potatoes or peas; grain; clover hay, hay or pasture, sown in succession, may be followed with some advantage where there is a moist climate. Where climate conditions permit of a good growth after the corn crop is harvested, clover is very profitable to plough down as a fertilizer. Another five-year rotation—grain, clover, hay or pasture; corn, potatoes, roots or peas grain; clover, hay or pasture, is perhaps better adapted for the average farmer anxious to quickly put his farm in good heart; and keep it in that condition.

Poultry Tips

Infertile eggs taken from the incubator need not be thrown away. They can be boiled and used for the little chicks.

Every little detail tells in the result desired, and success in poultry raising depends almost entirely on attention to the smaller details.

The best breed is the one you have tested and tried as the one most adapted to your section and for your purpose. There is no best breed otherwise.

Until chicks are a month or six weeks old they should be fed little, but quite often. Do not overfeed. A flock of young chicks require but a little at a time.

You must study the poultry market, find out what the people want, produce it as near to the demand as possible, and you will get the trade; either for fancy or table use.

Hens will lay more eggs when confined and well cared for than with unlimited range and no care. But if everything else is equally supplied the fowls with reasonable range will do best.

Busy hens are not only the best egg producers, but their eggs show the best fertility. In order to keep them at work strew the floor of the pen with hay or straw and scatter the grain in this.

Never mind the new breeds. Take good care of what you have. It is better to improve the old than experiment.

The Horse

It does not pay to sell a lean horse any more than it does to sell a steer that is low in flesh, says Mr. Duncan Anderson, the well known expert. To get anything like a horse's value the animal should be in at least good condition. Good hay, crushed oats, faithful grooming, liberal exercise, will bring a horse to best condition. Feed oats four times a day; smaller feeds give better results in fattening a horse than too much grain fed at a time. Oats and barley, with a little flaxseed boiled and dried up with bran, fed four or five nights in the week, in addition to the above treatment, will soon put a horse in fine market condition. To summarize, the needs of the horse breeding industry of our Province are: More discrimination in breeding; staying tenaciously with a breed; using more judgement in mating; the paying of liberal fees for the use of good quality stallions; feeding the colts well, especially in the first winter. All stallions should be examined once a year by a competent veterinary surgeon, and unless sound should not be allowed to stand for service.

The Feed Problem

In addition to clover, timothy and other fodders, oats, bran and corn form an excellent grain ration for the growing calves and heifers. Oats are one of the best feeds for developing the breeding qualities in our young animals, and if they were commonly used they would be very little complaint about staly or non-breeders. It is largely on account of not feeding for development that farmers have failed to grow profitable herds of dairy cows. They have started well, but have failed to feed well, and the calves, growing up into cows without having their feeding and milk giving capacities developed, have caused their owners to become dissatisfied with the cross, and they have spoiled all progress, by changing sires and buying a bull of some other breed, thus forming blood lines no better than the first and far less prepotent.

By sticking close to one breed until four or five generations have been made, and at all times feeding for development, there should be no difficulty in building up a herd of dairy cows that would be a credit to their owner and pay handsome profits on the feed consumed.

An Imperial Highway

The Victoria Colonist says:—"It was mentioned incidentally in a press dispatch from Ottawa yesterday that the C. P. R. has represented to the imperial authorities that it can transport 10,000 troops across the continent without interfering with its regular traffic. This statement, while perhaps in no sense surprising to even those who have only cursory knowledge of the transportation facilities of the great Canadian highway, will nevertheless serve to bring home the imperial authorities and the British people how important a role Canada will play in the affairs of the empire when war's rude alarms are again sounded."

Concerning Early Marriages

The man who marries a girl of seventeen or eighteen incurs a great risk. The majority of girls at such an age have nothing which they can offer as a safe foundation for life happiness. They are unformed in character, unsettled in their ideas, and in nine cases out of ten are unable to judge correctly as to the state of their own hearts.

At the age of nineteen or twenty a girl has had little time in which to make a study of men. She has her fancies, but is generally incapable of the sincere affection upon which love is based, because she is scarcely old enough to know what the feeling really means.

There is great danger in a girl marrying at an early age the first man with whom she falls in love--or think she loves. At twenty-three a girl would not give a second look at a man with whom she would fall in love at sixteen. And should she marry him at eighteen, what must her thoughts and feelings be about him when she is twenty-three?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

His Good Work

Entering the office of a local weekly the minister said to the editor:
"I am soliciting aid for a gentleman of refinement and intelligence who is in dire need of a little ready money, but who is far too proud a man to make his suffering known."
"Why," exclaimed the editor, pushing up his eye shade, "I'm the only chap in the village who answers that description. What's the gentleman's name?"
"I regret," said the minister, "that I'm not at liberty to disclose it."
"Why, it must be me," said the editor. "It is me. It's me, sure. Heaven prosper you, parson, in your good work."

Says an exchange: Flowers are not only beautiful to look upon, but their influence is wholly refining, the cost of a few seeds is trifling and the labor involved becomes not labor but a keen and health-giving pleasure. There is no good excuse why every householder with a yard should not beautify it, not necessarily with costly flowers, American beauty roses and orchids, but according to his means, if with but a few violets, pinks and nasturtiums. A town is judged by strangers by the appearance it presents. If, in passing through, the predominant note be dirty alleys, heaps of refuse and tin cans and ill kept yards, he judges the town and its people accordingly. If, on the other hand, he finds cleanliness, nicely kept lawns and gardens gay with flowers, he is impressed with it as a prosperous, inviting town, peopled with wideawake, progressive, cultured inhabitants. Impressions count for a great deal.

Have You Nervous Dyspepsia?

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds real misery to life. Not the stomach but nerves are affected. Starved nerves cause the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because it's a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the savings bank of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you're sure to be in health. Ferrozone quickly makes blood, strengthens the nervous system, invigorates the digestive organs and presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. You'll try Ferrozone, 50c. at all dealers.

Conceited Young Wives

Some young wives are extremely conceited, and imagine they are far better qualified for their duties than most of those who have had years of experience. The young matron may be a pride and a delight to her lord and master, but while the new name and the strange ring are surrounded with the glamor of novelty, she often makes herself disagreeable to her women friends.

No one ever knows anything, but herself, and should some older and wiser woman venture to make any little friendly suggestion about the servants or the domestic arrangements, the young wife will serenely smile and remark how quickly time changes the fashion of household affairs. Naturally the older woman resents a comment on her age; thus, instead of making a friend, the bride has secured a foe, and has only herself to blame.

With her girl friends her conceit is appalling, and every remark that falls from her lips is prefaced by, "Wait till you're a married woman, my dear, and then see how differently you'll regard things;" or else, "It makes me laugh to hear girls talk, they are so silly in their ideas before they marry." This disagreeable attitude together with the airs and graces she assumes, soon tires her girlhood friends, and they permit her to adopt her own methods and avoid all suggestions.

Business Girls

When a business girl is a failure the reason often is that she regards the work she has taken up as only a temporary thing--something to fill up the years that lie between leaving school and the husband and home that she hopes sooner or later will fall to her lot.

This is an utterly wrong principle. Even if the chances are that the girl will marry, she must work hard and gain all the knowledge she can of her calling, so that should marriage not come her way she may, instead of developing into a complaining old maid, become an interesting and charming woman, leading a busy life--too busy, very often, to think much of self, but never too busy to do a kind action or help on younger women beginning life.

Laughter is a good, healthy muscle-making, lung-developing exercise, and it is as good for girls as boys. And humor can be cultivated in a girl's mind without any abatement of the dignity and modesty and charm of her womanhood. Not the unpleasant and constant frivolity evidenced in "smart" speech or quickness of repartee, but the humor that looks at the world with a twinkle in the eye and sees its absurdities, its smallness and its fun.

It should be part of every woman's mental equipment, for women are called upon to bare so many of life's small worries as well as its greater ones. The bringing up of children, the care of servants, and the many social duties that become a burden are all made easy and possible to put up with by the woman with an unflinching sense of humor and of the bright side of life.

Ruined His Feet.

Used a ten cent Corn Salve,--for a quarter he could have cured his corns with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Use the best--Putnam's.

Spring Tonic vs. Spring Diet

Now is the time, just as warm weather is setting in, when you begin to feel tired to move; you say you need a tonic--that your blood needs thinning--that your whole digestive apparatus is out of kilter--and you carefully brew dandelion bitters and sassafras by the bowlful on the back of the stove. These are very well in their way, but there are other aids and hindrances to digestion which should not be overlooked.

In the first place, heavy winter foods should be dropped as far as possible from the bill of fare--especially fat meats and fried things, such as griddle cakes, fritters and doughnuts. Substitute beef, broiled and roasted; fish and fowl; soups, salads, fruits, sauce--not too sweet--and every available vegetable. Parsnips, carrots, turnips, tomatoes, (even if they are canned) are better than hominy, wheat and oatmeal for warm weather.

Salads require a close acquaintance with the cook book, but every housekeeper knows how to prepare onions with the addition of a little vinegar, in a dozen different ways, and the early dandelion "greens" are springing up everywhere.

The tender, tart rhubarb is an excellent appetizer and renovator, and should be prepared with a lavish hand.

For biliousness, take the juice of one lemon in a glass of water, without sugar, just before retiring, every night for a fortnight. A dozen and a half lemons are cheaper than a pint of alleged purifier and about as reliable.
