Rich and Poor.

Prince and Peasant, the Millionaire and Day Laborer, by their common use of this remedy, attest the world-wide reputation of Ayer's Pills. Leading physicians recommend these pills for Stomach and Liver Troubles, Constipation, Biliousness, and Sick Headache; also, for Rheumatism, Jaundice, and Neuralgia. They are sugar-coated; contain no calomel; are prompt, but mild, in operation; and, therefore, the very best medicine for Family Use, as well as for Travelers and Tourists.

"I have derived great relief from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills."—Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.
"Ayer's Pills have been in use in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles from which I suffered many years, they afford greater relief than any other medicine I ever tried."—T. F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.
"I have used Ayer's Pills for a number of years, and have never found anything equal to them for giving me an appetite and imparting energy and strength to the system. I always keep them in the house."—R. D. Jackson, Wilmington, Del.
"Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me of severe from which I was long a sufferer."—Emma Keyes, Hubbardston, Mass.

"Whenever I am troubled with constipation, or suffer from loss of appetite, Ayer's Pills set me right again."—A. J. Kiser, Jr., Rock House, Va.
"Ayer's Pills are in general demand among our customers. Our sales of these exceed those of all other pills combined. We have never known them fail to give entire satisfaction."—Wright & Hannelly, San Diego, Texas.

SUPPOSE.
Suppose, my little lady,
Your doll should break her head,
Could you make it whole by crying
Till your eyes and nose are red?
And wouldn't it be pleasant
To treat it as a joke,
And say you're glad 'twas Dolly's
And not your head that broke?

Suppose that you're dressed for walking,
And the rain comes pouring down,
Will it clear off any sooner
Because you sold and frown?
And wouldn't it be nicer
For you to smile than pout,
And so make sunshine in the house,
When there is none without?

Suppose your task, my little man,
Is very hard to get,
Will it make it any easier
For you to sit and fret?
And wouldn't it be wiser,
Than waiting like a dunce,
To go to work in earnest
And learn the thing at once?

Suppose that some boys have a horse
And some a coach and pair,
Will it tire you less while walking
To say, "It isn't fair?"
And wouldn't it be nobler
To keep your temper sweet,
And can you walk so thankful
You can walk upon your feet?

And suppose the world don't please you,
Nor the way some people do,
Do you think the whole creation
Was made just for you?
And isn't it, my boy or girl,
The wisest, bravest plan,
Whatever comes or doesn't come,
To do the best you can?

—Phoebe Curry.

OUR WILLIE.
Rev. Charles Garrett in British Messenger.

Some time since, on a specially festive occasion, was invited to dine at a beautiful house which I had often visited before. There was a large gathering of friends, for the family had long been famous for its hospitality. I knew that total abstinence had not been smiled upon there, and I was therefore surprised, on sitting down to dinner, to notice the entire absence of wine-glasses. I wondered for a moment, whether this was done out of compliment to myself, and I therefore asked the lady of the house if they had become abstemious since I had last visited there. I saw by the change in her face that my question had given her pain; and bending towards me, she said, in a whisper, "I will explain it after dinner."

As soon as dinner was ended she took me into an ante-room, and with great emotion she said, "You asked me about the absence of wine-glasses at the table?"

"Yes, I replied; 'I noticed their absence, and I was puzzled as to the reason.'"

With a quivering voice she said, "I want tell you the reason, but it is sad and requiring something to brace it up, and make you feel all right again. I will tell you this you should take."

"Oh, yes," I answered. "I remember him well!"

"Wasn't he a bonnie lad?" she asked, with tears in her eyes.

"Yes," I said; "Willie was one of the finest lads I have ever seen."

"Yes," she continued; "he was my pride, and perhaps I loved him too well. You know that we always used wine freely, and never imagined that any harm could come from it. You are aware also that our house is known as the 'Minister's house,' and that they are no where more welcome than here. On Sundays I have always let the children stay up to supper, so that they might have the benefit of the conversation; and as my husband and the ministers took wine, I always gave the children half a glass—on Sunday nights only."

By and by Willie went to business, and I was as happy as a mother could be; I thought I had everything to make me so.

"After a time, however, I began to feel uncomfortable. I noticed when I gave Willie his good-night kiss that his breath smelt of drink; and I spoke to him about it. He laughed at my fears, saying he had only had a glass with his friends, and I thought that perhaps my strong love for him had made me foolishly suspicious. I tried to dismiss my fears; but it was in vain, for I saw things were getting worse. There was a look in his eyes and a buskiness in his voice, which told me he was at least in terrible danger. I didn't know what to do about it. I feared to speak to his father. If it should turn out that I was mistaken, I knew he would be vexed with me for suspecting such a thing; and if I was correct in these suspicions, I dreaded he might take some strong measures with Willie which would end badly. So I waited, and prayed, and hoped. My hopes, however, were vain. He began to come home late at nights, his father became alarmed, and as I feared would be the case, spoke sharply to him, and threatened severe punishment. Willie, who had a high spirit, answered his father as he should not have done, and they frequently came to high words.

"One night Willie came home quite drunk. I tried to get him to bed without his father's knowing of it, but I failed. His father met him in the passage, and many bitter words passed between them. At last his father ordered him to leave the house. He went, and for months we heard nothing whatever of him. Father ordered us never to mention him, and I and his sisters could do nothing but pray that some way God would restore him to us."

"At length one night after my daughters and the servants had gone to bed, and while father and I were sitting reading, suddenly I heard a faint voice, which I thought sounded like Willie's."

"I dared not speak, but father looked earnestly at me and said, 'Did you hear anything?' I said I thought I did. He said, 'Go to the door and see.' I went and opened the side door, and there looking more like a corpse than a living body, was Willie."

I said, "Willie!"

"Mother," he said, "will you let me in?"

"Ah, my boy," I said, as I folded him to my heart, "you should never have gone away. Come in, and welcome!"

He tried to do it, but he was so feeble that I had to help him. He said, "Don't take me into the drawing room; take me into the kitchen. I am cold and dying."

I said, "No, my boy, I'll soon nurse you up, and you'll be yourself again."

"Mother," he said, "I wish you would make me a bath of bread and milk, as you used to do when I was a little boy. I think I could eat that!" I said, "I'll make you anything you want, but don't look so sad; come upstairs and go to bed, and I will soon get you right."

"He tried to walk, but fell back into the chair. I called his father, and he came. Not an angry word was spoken. They only said, 'Willie! Father!'"

Seeing his condition, his father took him in his arms as he would a little child, and carried him into his own bed. After a moment's pause he said, "Father, I am dying, and the drink has killed me!" His father said, "No, no, my boy, cheer up! you'll be better soon; your mother will bring you round!" "No, never, father. God me merciful to be a sinner!"

His head fell back, and my bonnie boy was gone!

His father stood gazing at him with a look of agony for some minutes, and then turned to me and said, "Mother, I see it all now. The drink has killed poor Willie, but it shall do no more harm in our house; there shall never be another drop of drink in this house while I live!" All there was in the house was destroyed, and we parted with the very wine-glasses, and that's the reason of what you noticed to-day."

HER LOST FAITH.
The mother of David Hume was a susceptible woman. Affectionate by nature, she lived in the affections of her family. More than this, she was a religious woman, and it was her aim to rightly educate the conscience of her orphan children.

David Hume was a brilliant lad. His success in his intellectual pursuits and studies led his mother to hope that he would become an eminent man. With this vision like a bow of promise before her, her life had many happy hours.

But one day a shadow crossed the light of this beautiful dream. Her son viewed himself a sceptic. His mother viewed the change of his opinions with alarm, both on account of his own future happiness and his influence over others.

He loved his mother. Her love and admiration for him gave him great influence over her. He determined to overthrow her religious belief, and succeeded. His subtle, scientific reasoning destroyed her faith in God, and left her without religious hope.

Hume became a leader among men, and crowned himself with fame. He associated with courtly people, philosophers, wits and men of genius. He was quoted, and multiplied his influences among men.

He went abroad, roaming over the sunny provinces of France and historic fields of Italy. Returning to London on his way home to Scotland, he was met by a postman who gave him a letter. The communication was from his mother. It began substantially as follows:—

"My Dear Son,—My health has failed me. I am in a deep decline and I cannot long survive.

My philosophy gives me no comfort. I am left without the consolations of religion, and my mind is sinking into despair.

I pray you hasten home to console me.

Hume hurried back to Scotland, and when he arrived at his home he found his mother dead.

We do not know what his feelings were. We only know that he had arrived before her death he would have done no consolation to offer. He himself died, and we have no mortal to draw from any regrets which one might reasonably imagine he would feel in such a case.

But the incidents suggest a situation to better hearts than had David Hume. There are no consolations in unbelief for the hour of sorrow, disaster or death.

He who destroys the religious hopes of others may one day be asked to give in their place a substitute that will meet the needs of the soul. What is there to give? In these times, when opinions are changing, God's laws do not change, and the needs of the soul remain ever the same. Be careful of your influence, lest you one day be called to face a scene such as this might have been.

WOMAN.
Great is the name of woman and wonderful are her ways.

In the morning of life she cometh forth radiant as the spring time, decked in ribbons and fine raiment and the bloom of youth.

She arrayeth her head in false hair and bangeh the front portion thereof.

She playeth on the piano and singeth in the best room, and doeth many other unseemly things.

In the winter she sleigh-rideth with her best young man till he is sore perplexed over his lively bills, and the lively man refuseth to be longer stood off.

In the summer she eateth ice cream until her young man mortgages his house and his lot and all his possessions and has even put his clothes into pawn for the cost thereof.

She layeth in bed of mornings and refuseth to get up, while her mother cooketh the breakfast.

She tarrieth long before the glass and maketh her wardrobe with great care, and she is given to much painting of the cheeks, and seeketh by strategy to cover up the mole that roseth on her nose.

When she dineth with her beau she minceh over the dainties with much delicacy, but when she eateth in the kitchen alone she gobbleh down beans and onions with great voracity and in much quantity.

When she is yet in the bloom of life she marrieth.

And she goeth into the pantry to make some cake for her hubby, and she succeedeth after a fashion. And when the cake is baked, behold they selleth it to the miller for a mill stone and it maketh a good one.

And her hubby eateth her cooking and dieth. And she putheth on mourning and weepeth at his funeral.

Thus in the midst of life she bloometh out again, and herself fair to look upon.

And in an evil hour when she reckoneth not the marrieth a second time.

And behold the last husband is worse than the first, for he surviveth her cooking, and taketh to drink, and seeketh consolation in the flowing bowl.

And he squandereth her wealth and refuseth to work and thus she is brought down in sorrow and poverty with a large family on hand, and is compelled to take in washing to support them.

And in the evening of life she becometh a grandmother, and is full of many years and rheumatism.

And at last she giveth up the fight and layeth down in death. And she sleepeth with her mothers.

Such is the life of women.

She cometh forth in the morning full of hope and life, and a love of flattery. She marrieth and beginneth to sew on buttons and raise a family. She singeth away her cares and goeth wild over a new bonnet.

She stieh up the sore toes and runneth up millinery bills. She freth the shovel at her hubby and fleteth from a mouse. And at last her false hair tumbleth out, and she goeth hence never more to return.

A HERO IN RAGS.
No. 5, which is always the heaviest loaded western-bound passenger train on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Road, was only prevented from meeting with a terrible accident on last Wednesday morning at Delta, about twenty-five miles west of Toledo, by the prompt action of one of those generally despised mortals, a tramp. A farmer had been in town and inhibited so freely that when he started for home he was dead drunk and, falling asleep, his horses were left to their own guidance, and when they came to the track, instead of following the road they went up the track until they came to a bridge, where there legs slipping between the ties, one of them was broken, and they lay there helpless, with the wagon wedged between the tracks, while the drunken farmer slept unaware of the approaching danger. About this time a tramp happened to come along and seeing the obstruction on the track and his own inability to remove it, and knowing that the train was nearly due, turned, and walking across the stream, hastened with all his might to the nearest telegraph station, about one-half mile distant, which he reached just four minutes before the time for the train to reach there, and then only to learn that it did not stop at that station. Quick work must be done! The great iron horse was thundering along at the rate of forty miles an hour, bearing behind it several passenger coaches and three sleepers, all heavily laden with human lives, happily unconscious of the peril upon which they were rushing.

The telegraph operator and the tramp grabbed up the red lanterns and ran their fleetest towards the approaching train. Just as they reached the bridge the engine whistled. Oh! how it thrilled them through every nerve, but on they ran, swinging their red lights furiously back and forth. Will the engineer never see their signal? Yes, his watchful, never-tiring eyes had caught the danger signal at last. The whistle screeched, the brakes are applied and the train comes to a stand-still only a few feet from the bridge. The train was delayed only about forty-five minutes until the track was cleared, when the tramp was not only invited to ride, but was taken aboard and treated like a prince by those whose lives he had saved. The train men shared with him their suppers and he was surrounded and gazed on by thankful individuals of all stations in life.

As it happened the Roadmaster was on the train and he informed the tramp that he would take him to Toledo and give him a life position on anything he was capable of doing. Perhaps the least thankful of all concerned was the poor inebriate who was mad because his horse's leg was broken.

THE ENGINEER'S MOTTO.
BY J. ALBERT STOWE.

Business led me recently to a mountainous railway town in southern New York, and during my brief sojourn there I met a gentleman whose exterior appearance and remarkable story struck me as being fully worthy of description and narration. He was apparently between fifty and sixty years of age, tall, erect, and broad shouldered, with a pleasant face, which, however, in the closing of the mouth especially, denoted inflexible firmness and courage. His hair and beard were gray. Learning from the conversation that we were born within about twenty miles from each other he expressed pleasure at meeting me and related the following:

I was in Worcester with my father when the first train arrived there over the Providence and Worcester Railway, and I resolved at once that if I tried I would be master of a locomotive. My father laughed at the idea, for I was but a lad then, but I stuck to it and eventually left home to make a beginning as a railroad engineer.

My parents had endeavored by all means to dissuade me, but failing in that, the old gentleman said to me: "Well, if you are determined to go, let me give you one piece of advice. Never move your engine on a supposition. Be sure you know before you go ahead."

He said this very solemnly, and I never forgot it, and it has been the means of saving me from several bad collisions.

After I had been here a few years, I was running the day express. I was one day ordered to run to Long Switch and wait for Extra 33. This was a freight of course, and my train being an express it was not to be supposed that I would be delayed long to give right of way to a freight. Arriving at the first end of the switch I found a freight waiting, and as I passed she pulled out and went on as she had a right to. I ran to the other end and stopped. No train was in sight, but that was not strange as the entire division is a succession of curves. I waited forty minutes and still no train. The conductor came to me and said:

"Mr. T., there must be a mistake somewhere. Wasn't that Extra 33 that we passed?"

"I said 'No; that was the local.' I told the engine and caboose numbers and the names of the crew, and that the crew never run an extra. Both the division superintendent and the general superintendent were on the train, and at the end of an hour they both came to the engine and the former, Mr. H., said: 'Mr. T., what are you waiting for? I showed him my orders. He said, 'Do you know you have not passed Extra 33?' 'Yes sir,' said I, 'I know it.' He glanced down the track and then said: 'Mr. T., I think you are mistaken. You had better start on.' Said I, 'Mr. H., I am perfectly certain that the train will come, and I shall stay right here and wait for it unless you order out a flag in advance.' 'Send out a flag,' said Mr. H. It was done. But I waited till the flag got a good ways ahead and then said: 'Now, gentlemen, I want you both in the cab.' They climbed up, and the train started I ran slowly, keeping a long way behind the flag, though Mr. H. reproached me for doing so and declared we would meet no train. He had barely made this remark when I thought I saw a wreath of smoke over a long low hill, around the base of which the road curved. Even then Mr. H. averred it was not a train, but I reversed and started back. Round the curve came the long delayed Extra 33 at racing speed with two engines. The engineer tried to stop, but the momentum was too great, and the two mighty machines came together, but not with sufficient force to do any material injury to either.

The two superintendents retired from the cab, and I ran the train on to the end of my beat. I felt indignant at having been ordered into danger unjustly, and accordingly resolved to quit the company's employ, but the despatch from the general superintendent, full of praise and urgent request, finally induced me to stay, and here I have remained for 30 years since."

He then took out his pocket-book and showed me the number of miles he had travelled during each of those years, the sum total of thirty-six being over 1,137,000 miles.

"And never," said he, "has a passenger of mine been hurt, even so much as the breaking of a finger."

So much for the heading of a paternal admonition which appeared to retain its influence even now that the lad who received it had become well advanced in years. Our interview terminated with a cordial invitation from my stalwart friend to visit him at his home, and with an equally cordial grasp of the powerful hand.—Home Companion.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Much has been written in reference to the damage done by frost to late grain and other crops in the Dominion of Canada and there is no doubting the fact that very much damage has been done. Many statements have also been made in this regard in reference to the wheat crop of the North West, and reports make it difficult to calculate the actual damage done. The Toronto Empire, in referring to this matter gives some valuable information as to the actual loss incurred and editorially makes the following comments:—

In another column will be found a detailed statement of the condition of the wheat crop in Manitoba. The reports come from reliable sources and may therefore be depended upon. There appears to be no suppression of awkward facts. Where the crop has been damaged by frost it is so stated, without any attempt to hide the injury done. Making allowance for everything, the damage is estimated that only 4,000,000 of the 15,000,000 bushels of surplus in Manitoba and Assiniboia will be damaged to the slightest extent. The loss of value on this 4,000,000 bushels is placed at an average of twenty cents per bushel, or $800,000 in all, while the total value of the crop on the spot is estimated at $12,800,000. On the whole, therefore, the loss is small compared with the enormous crop realized. The moderate loss shown by these reports is confirmed by statements within the last few days from three independent sources that are worthy of consideration. We have, for instance, the statement of Premier Greenway, of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and of Mr. Moore, the London Times correspondent, all seeking information from different quarters.

It is well to note that a common mode of speaking of the injury done by early frost is to say that in a certain locality the wheat is damaged to the extent of "twenty per cent," or "thirty per cent," or "fifty per cent." This off-hand mode of expression is apt to be misunderstood. Twenty or thirty per cent, of the acreage may be injured, but the injury may not reduce the value of the portion damaged by twenty cents per bushel. A field of wheat in the North-west producing, say, a thousand bushels, may have twenty per cent. of its area frosted. If the grain were harvested in perfect condition it would be worth, at present prices, say eight hundred dollars, whereas the damaged portion, being only twenty cents per bushel less than the rest, would be worth seven hundred and sixty dollars. This is a fair way of estimating the value of many of the reports so industriously circulated to the disparagement of this year's wheat product of Manitoba.

Municipal Elections.

Nominations for the various parishes were required by law to be handed in to the official appointed to receive the same on time on Monday last and now the candidates are in the field and actively canvassing for the votes of the ratepayers. In Newcastle there are four candidates nominated and a square fight is in progress. Mr. D. Morrison, of Newcastle and Mr. Laurence Doy, of Douglastown are running together on one ticket, and Mr. Wm. Lyons and Mr. Chas. S. Ramsay on another. Many people residing in the shiretown express satisfaction with the manner in which Mr. D. Morrison has performed his duties as councillor for the past year and hope for his return for next year. Of course there are some people hard (we had almost said impossible) to please no matter what is done, and such people as these complain of this and that not being done which ought to have been, but so far as we have observed Mr. Morrison has worked for the general interests of the town and the officers appointed by him have done their work faithfully and well, and Mr. Morrison should receive a large majority of the votes in the upper district and a fair share in the middle and lower sections.

In reference to Mr. Lyons we must say that he has not performed his duties in a manner deserving the support of the ratepayers and in some cases has entirely neglected what the law says is a part of his duty, and altogether has made so poor a councillor that the people of the middle and lower districts have expressed their desire for a change if a better representative from their section could be found.

The spirit of fair play among the residents of the town of Newcastle have always led them to express and act upon the opinion that one representative should be selected from either the middle or lower districts of the parish, and that it was not fair to select two candidates from the town and ignore the people of Douglastown or Lower Newcastle. Hence in the selection of a candidate for councillor they have taken these as well as other matters into consideration and Mr. Lawrence Doyle has been selected to run on a ticket with Mr. Morrison to represent this parish in the Municipal Council of Northumberland, and we bespeak for them a large share of the votes of the ratepayers in this parish on Monday next.

The other candidate who is now running on a ticket with Mr. Lyons is Mr. Charles S. Ramsay, a well known resident of Newcastle, whose object is to displace Mr. Morrison. In our opinion but few ratepayers will believe that such an exchange will be beneficial to the interests of the parish and he will not bring any strength to the falling fortunes of Mr. Lyons. Mr. Ramsay must have been induced to offer by false friends, who to effect some purpose, have had him induced to file his nomination and run for the position of councillor.

In Chatham the three gentlemen mentioned last week are running, Messrs. Flanagan, Watt, Troy, and we learn that in North-east there are four candidates in the field, Messrs. M. Ryan and W. Jones, the former councillors, and Alex. Fitzgerald and John McCullam.

Miramichi Yacht Club's Race.

There was a great deal of public interest manifested in the Miramichi Yacht Club's race on Thursday, as it was known that the old Fishermen was prepared for the struggle with the champion with great care and skill. Some signed that she had her day, and others held firm to previously expressed confidence in her ability to win. Mr. Loggie's other boat, of Ribicault build, had been preceded by accounts of her wonderful sailing qualities, it being stated that she had always beaten the Fishermen in rough water, and many knowing ones predicted that she would lower Kibbick's colors. The majority, however, inclined to the opinion that the Miller boat would prove too much for the Black Brook craft. Both of the Loggie boats had new sails that set admirably. Fishermen's mainsail, made by Mr. Wilson of Chatham, set like a tailor made coat on a shapely mast, and her sails were of extra fine material. Her sail set in running before the wind, was certainly not less than sixty feet on the foot. She had a jibed gaffsail that was fast enough to draw when close-hauled on a wind. She had been out of the water, and her bottom had been prepared in the most approved style, being as slippery as glass. Mr. Loggie had left nothing undone that was necessary to make his boat win if she was equal to it. The wind was east and very light.

There were three starters in the second class—Mackerel by Mr. Watt; Lotie, by Mr. Hays, Nelson; and Annie, by Mr. Stewart. Lotie crossed the line first, followed by Nelson, and Mackerel forty seconds later. Mackerel soon slipped by the others and gradually gained the turn of Newcastle, when Lotie, which had kept second place quickly overhauled and past her, finishing with a long lead. Mackerel kept ahead of Annie, but after working down the North shore, out of the strength of the tide, started across for the stake boat into a fast calm, and drifted back to the Foundry wharf. Annie hugged the shore till she reached the ferry wharf, stood across, tacked and crawled over the line, 26 minutes behind the leader. The small boats did well to get down all in the light, and then they started against the flood tide. There was no race in this class, as the leading boat failed to finish in four hours.

There were six starters in the first class, and they formed one of the prettiest marine pictures seen on the Miramichi for many a day as they crossed the line in a bunch with splinkers and topsails spread out to catch the light breeze. Kibbick, Blonky, and Blonky were first across the line, followed in 25 seconds by Fishermen. The old champion gained rapidly on the new one, and passed her off the Miramichi Foundry. She caught and gained steadily, moving very fast in the light wind. Mr. Loggie steered her as straight as an arrow, and she rounded the mark boat with a long lead. She gained on the windward down river to the finish. It was a great victory for Black Brook. Welcome Home showed herself to be fleet footed, though no match for her consort. She passed Kibbick off Hutchinson's wharf, and got past Kibbick off Rosebank, and a long struggle for the lead. She proved to be no match for Kibbick on a wind, however, as the latter caught her on the second or third tack of the beat down and left her twenty minutes in the lead. The knowing ones who had pinned their faith on her lost all their gains, and she was not to be trusted. Blonky, the fifth to cross, passed Kibbick off Hutchinson's wharf, and Kibbick at St. Paul's Church. She was caught and left in the rear by Welcome Home rear the Canadian Marsh, and in attempting to turn the mark boat was run into by Kibbick, whose bow struck her on the quarter and forced her out of position. The boats were so close that the foul was, perhaps, unavoidable, but it was not the leader's fault. Blonky, after being passed by Kibbick at the Marsh, overhauled Welcome Home and got ahead of her on the last reach for the line. Kibbick, the fifth to turn, pointed high and made good time on the beat down. She was unable to get into as shallow water as the others tacked in, and was at some disadvantage accordingly. She passed Blonky and Welcome Home, finishing third. Fedora, like Fishermen, was not passed by any of the others; she started last and kept that position throughout.

FIRST CLASS.
Fisherman, R. Loggie, 3 11 30
Kibbick, J. C. Miller, 3 36 50
Kibbick, J. C. Miller, 3 43 50

Church News.

Rev. E. Wallace Watts called to Knox Church, Owen Sound, a congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, on Wednesday evening. Mr. A. D. Smith was called to the chair and Mr. George Fraser was appointed Secretary.

After discussion a resolution was carried to the effect that delegates be appointed to oppose the translation of Mr. Watts to Knox Church, Owen Sound. Subsequent discussion was had and this resolution was reconsidered and withdrawn. When a resolution sympathizing with Mr. Watts in his family affliction and saying that whilst the congregation would deeply regret Mr. Watts' departure from St. Andrew's Church that he be left free and untrammelled so that he might decide the matter as may seem best under all the circumstances. Messrs. A. D. Smith, George Fraser and Daniel MacLachlan were then appointed delegates to the Presbytery Meeting which is to be held in St. Andrew's Church next week, to consider the memorial from the Presbytery of Owen Sound, asking that the Rev. E. Wallace Watts be permitted to accept the cordial call of Knox Church.

The Rev. E. Wallace Watts accepted the call from Knox Church, Owen Sound. On Monday, the 24th inst., the presbytery of Miramichi met in the Hall of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, to consider the call to Mr. Watts. The Rev. Mr. Aitken, moderator, presided. Mr. Fraser appeared as Prolocutor. The members of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, pointed out that Mr. Watts had been over six years, with great acceptance, ministered to the St. Andrew's Church and that his removal just now would be a serious loss, and therefore would be in behalf of the session ask that Mr. Watts be not accept the call of Knox Church. Messrs. A. D. Smith, Daniel MacLachlan and Geo. Fraser, delegates from the congregational meetings then severally addressed the Presbytery, all giving strong reasons why Mr. Watts should continue the good work now doing in the Chatham Presbytery. The session, as a whole, expressed as strong a desire that Mr. Watts should remain their pastor.

Mr. Watts then addressed the Presbytery, going fully over the ground, and concluded by saying that for many reasons, but more especially in consequence of family affliction, he felt constrained to accept the call to Knox Church. He said at the same time thanked the whole congregation of St. Andrew's Church for the kind manner in which they had asked him to remain as their pastor.

The Presbytery then agreed to Mr. Watts' acceptance of the call, and unanimously passed a cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Watts for the good work he had accomplished here, and prayed that his labors in the new field may, under Divine Providence, be abundantly blessed, and that the serious affliction may be speedily removed by the restoration of Mrs. Watts to her former good health. Mr. Watts will preach in St. Andrew's Church during all the month of October, and will occupy the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church the first Sabbath of November. Knox Church, we are informed, is a fine brick and stone structure, which cost $20,000. Owen Sound is a growing and prosperous town in Ontario. Its present population is over 7,000 and it is an important railway centre.

Campbellton Notes.

CAMPBELLTON, Sept. 17.—The hull, cargo, anchors and chains, etc., of the burned bark Kewark was sold at public auction on Friday, realizing about $1,000. The hull and cargo were bought by Mr. E. Lantlam, of Lantlam & Co., St. John, and the anchors chains, etc., by Mr. J. D. Sowerby.

The steamer William, of Charlottetown, arrived on Saturday evening with a cargo of coal for Mr. J. P. Mowat. She will load with sleepers, posts and ties for Cape Breton. This is her third trip this season.

They have purchased a chime of three bells for the Mission Church at Mission Point, and, although they are not in their proper place yet, being on a scaffold in front of the church, they sound very fine and clear.

Several vessels are in port loading lumber; two for Mr. Wm. Richards and two for Mr. H. O'Leary.

CAMPBELLTON, September 24.—William Marshall, an Indian, was drowned here on Saturday by falling off a scow. The body has not yet been found.

A brutal affair at the Mission Point, opposite Campbellton, on Saturday, was directly caused by the use of strong drink. An Indian, while under the influence of liquor, beat his daughter about the head so badly that she is not expected to live. He also frightened others by using his revolver freely, but without serious result.—Transcript.

Maritime Press Association.

The number present, has been a splendid success and augurs well for the future of good fellowship and the advancement of mutual interests among maritime province journalists. Nearly all of the visitors took the night express for home last evening.

His Honor Chief Justice Allen was admitted an attorney in October 1838, and will soon be in a position to celebrate his jubilee. A meeting of the St. John Law Society is called for this afternoon to consider what action shall be taken in honor of the occasion.—Sun.

Personal.

A correspondent informs us that the following persons are now visiting friends in Restigouche, N. B.:—David McNeil and wife, from New Westminster, B. C.; Mrs. Mary McMillan, from Marquette, Wis.; Robert Black, from Seattle, W. T.; F. McMillan, from Sacramento, Cal.

Hons. Messrs. Costigan and Hagarst returned to Ottawa from New Brunswick.

Thomas Mowat, Esq., of New Westminster, Dominion Fisheries Inspector for British Columbia, was in Ottawa last week on his way to his native place, Restigouche, N. B.

Mr. Fraser, of the Halifax Critic, was in town on Saturday last. He had attended the Press gathering at Moncton and accompanied the party to Fredericton, where he returned here.

The following resolutions were adopted:—Resolved, That the association condemn the action of the Western Union Telegraph Company in doubling the day rates for press messages, and enforcing the imposition of so unfairly discriminating against the press of the maritime provinces by charging full rates for such messages asking for reports, while sending such messages for upper mail at a reduced rate, and while only charging American press one-half of the rate.

Resolved, That the press association present, furnished from Boston is inefficient and often trashy and worthless, and entirely inadequate to the wants of the press of the Maritime provinces, and we are happy to learn that the Canadian Press are rapidly pushing the extension of their system to the provinces, and with the aid of the press and public of the provinces may hope for much lower efficient service than that now afforded by the Western Union Telegraph company.

Resolved, That the association through their proper officers approach the telephone companies of the maritime provinces to secure telephone service at a rate sufficiently low to admit of the more general use of the telephone for the purposes of obtaining news between points reached by telephone lines and at such rates as will show a large discrimination in favor of newspapers as servants of the general public.

The Sun gives the following account of the proceedings in St. John:—The members of the Maritime Press Association came down by boat from Fredericton yesterday. They were met on the wharf by representatives of the city press in barouches and taken for a drive to the harbor. The party drove across the suspension bridge and across Carleton heights to the Martello tower, then back again and up to Reed's castle, after which the principle streets of the city were traversed and the principal public buildings and institutions and handsome private residences pointed out. The comprehensive view of the city and surroundings which the visitors took thus enabled to get caused them to express much surprise at the natural beauties and facilities and the evidences of push, substantial progress and general good taste apparent in St. John.

In the evening the visitors were entertained at supper at the Victoria, being also joined there by George J. D. Scott of the St. Croix Courier, S. D. Scott of the Maritime Press, and Mr. William Costigan on Wednesday last. During the course of his speech he said that "although he had turned the first sod of this railway he did not propose to turn the last sod at the end of 14 miles. He would use his utmost endeavors to have the road extended to Plaster Rock at an early day, and it was only a question of time when the proposed road from Campbellton to Grand Falls would be built, and the people of the Tobique could reasonably hope and rest assured that a portion of the through line to the Restigouche."

Sad Drowning Accident.

Tidings reached Newcastle on Monday of a sad drowning accident at Dalhousie on Saturday last, whereby three youths lost their lives. We deeply sympathize with the afflicted families in their sad bereavements. The following are the particulars of the sad event:—It appears that three boys, Joseph Barbare, son of Hon. J. C. Barbare, legislative councillor, George, son of Lewis Edward, and Lawrence McIlhenny, an orphan, had been spending the afternoon of Saturday last on a small island opposite the Inch Arran Hotel, known as the Bon Am Rock. In returning during the darkness of the early evening they must have upset their boat. Their cries were heard on shore, but no boat was at hand and as the darkness prevented those on shore from locating them nothing could be done. The three boys clinging to it. It is supposed that the boys perished in the surf, being too weak or too much terrified to save themselves. There was a heavy sea at the time. Young Barbare's head was bruised; otherwise the bodies were uninjured. He was about 16 years of age, and his companions were probably about the same age. The greatest sympathy is expressed in the village and elsewhere for the bereaved parents.

James Lynch was summoned to appear before John Nevin, Esq., Police Magistrate, on Thursday last, to answer a charge preferred against him for a second offence against the provisions of the C. T. Act. Mr. Lynch appeared and the information charged being read over to him he pleaded not guilty to the charge. S. Thomson, Esq., appeared for the prosecution and C. J. Thomson, for the defendant. There were only two witnesses called and these on the part of the prosecution. Mr. C. J. Thomson moved to have the complaint dismissed on several grounds, but his Worship overruled them, and after hearing the evidence adduced considered the defendant and fined him $100 and costs. In default he has been sentenced to sixty days in jail.

There was another case on Monday morning, that of Charles Reid. The defendant appeared in person, and S. Thomson for the prosecution. He pleaded guilty to the charge of selling intoxicating liquor contrary to the provisions of the C. T. Act and his Worship fined him $50 and costs.

The Deaf and Dumb.

Mr. G. E. Powers has been visiting the towns on the Miramichi collecting donations in aid of the Fredericton Institution for the education of the Deaf and Dumb. This institution is well worthy all the aid and support it receives from the local government as well as from private individuals. We have been asked by the principal of the institution to call the attention of the people of Newcastle to the claims of this institution, but as Mr. Powers concluded his work of collecting here last night his office will not be of much help to him. He left last night for Chatham, and leaves for Blackville by this morning's N. & W. train and will spend a day there, a day in Daoukton, and a day in Fredericton, returning to Fredericton on Saturday. He will defer his visit to the counties of Gloucester and Restigouche to a later period, of which he has promised to give due notice.

Leaped From a Train.

On Friday night a man named Miller of Dalhousie, who was being conveyed to the Provincial Lunatic Asylum, managed to escape the vigilance of the person to whom he was entrusted, and between Jacques River and Belledune, while the express train was running at a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, jumped from the platform of the car. The train was stopped and on search being made by the conductor and others, he was found lying near the track in an insensible condition. He was brought to Bathurst and the aid of Dr. G. M. Duncan was got, when it was found that two ribs were broken and his collar bone dislocated. He is in a very precarious condition and his recovery is doubtful. He is about 50 years of age.—Globe.

A friend sends us the following notes. We are always glad to receive such items and wish some of our friends would favor us.

Messrs. Haze & Co. have erected a large and substantial shingle mill at the mouth of River Charlie, which is expected to be completed in the course of a few days. It will give employment to a large number of men and has already made River Charlie more lively than usual. There are now thirty shingle machines in the county of Restigouche manufacturing cedar shingles chiefly for the American market. It is only lately that the important industry has begun to be developed, which has added greatly to the business done in this part of the province. There will be more men employed during the coming winter in cutting cedar logs for the shingle mills than for the other mills.

In consequence of the cold and wet summer the harvest in Restigouche is very late; while it will not be general for a few days yet, some of the oats are so green that it is doubtful if they will ripen. The potato crop has the appearance of being above the average so there will be a large quantity for export if there should be any demand for it.

Tobique Valley Railway.

The first sod of the Tobique Valley Railway was turned by the Hon. John Costigan on Wednesday last. During the course of his speech he said that "although he had turned the first sod of this railway he did not propose to turn the last sod at the end of 14 miles. He would use his utmost endeavors to have the road extended to Plaster Rock at an early day, and it was only a question of time when the proposed road from Campbellton to Grand Falls would be built, and the people of the Tobique could reasonably hope and rest assured that a portion of the through line to the Restigouche."

Change of Base.

The Chatham Advocate is about to make a move, which if it results in the place of a morality being of a higher grade in the future than in the past will be a matter of congratulation not only to its long suffering friends and well wishers but to its opponents as well.

When the new Methodist church was erected in Chatham the old building was disposed of to J. B. Snowball, Esq., and with the exception of part of it being used as a gymnasium for a short time, has been vacant. And now the edifice is to be removed into and occupy its former sacred edifice, still looked upon with respect by the older members of the congregation, and we sincerely hope that in future our contemporary in his writings will have due regard to the sacred precincts of the old Chatham Methodist Church.

Sad Drowning Accident.

On Saturday last, after dinner, Mr. Thomas Baldwin, of Douglastown, started from his house for his work in an adjoining field. He was accompanied by his wife and three children, two of the latter going all the way to the field with him, while Mrs. Baldwin and the other child—a girl—went only as far as the barn. On returning towards the house Mrs. Baldwin stooped to pick up a few sticks of wood near the back door, when she fell over. Her appearance so alarmed her little girl that she ran for her father, who immediately hastened to the house and found Mrs. Baldwin lying dead where she had fallen. It was quite evident that death was the result of heart disease. Deceased was 44 years of age and highly esteemed in the community in which she lived.—Advocate.

"Night and Day."

We have received a copy of the above publication for the current month, edited by T. J. Barnard, F. R. C. S. E. The work done in the institutions provided over by Mr. Barnard is most marvelous, and thousands of poor wails of both sexes have been inmates of the various homes provided by the charitable for the rescue of destitute and suffering children. In reference to his work Mr. B. says:—

"Work like mine has its good and its bad financial seasons, its ebbs and flows of the tide of gifts which constitute income. The best months in the year are December and January and part of February. During these months I receive three-fifths of our whole year's income. During the other nine and a half months I am—well, not actually starving, but just only able to keep my head above water. At present I am penniless! I have not one shilling in hand, and, moreover, my bank account is heavily overdrawn. But to sure I have been penniless before, and that not once or even twice; but I never have been penniless with the same amount of daily responsibility upon my shoulders. My family now number nearly 3,000, and day by day I am grappling with cases sent to me from all parts of the country; absolutely determined, indeed, not to admit any that are not really destitute, but equally resolved, by God's help, not to turn one away that is. So I go on my way, 'faint yet pursuing,' 'cast down, but not destroyed,' 'preplexed, but not in despair.' God sometimes allows the heaviest burdens to rest upon my shoulders in order, doubtless, to teach me the lesson that so many of His servants need to learn, that they cannot do without Him, but that they must lean hard upon Him, and depend upon His help and goodness and presence and blessing."

Subscriptions are forwarded from all parts of the world to aid these destitute and suffering children of the great metropolis and the work is being extended as means warrant. What a responsibility is resting upon the shoulders of one man, nearly 3,000 of these wails under his charge and with no settled income to provide for their wants, but dependent upon the spontaneous charity of kind hearts who appreciate the labors done in rescuing these wails and strays of a teeming city. Communications should be addressed Dr. Barnard's Home for destitute children, 18 to 26 St. James Causeway, London, E.

Sad Accident. A sad accident occurred in the vicinity of Derby Junction on Monday evening. Some young men engaged in trying how far they could throw a heavy wooden mallet or mail, and in so doing the mallet struck the adopted daughter of Mr. Thos. Vye on the head just behind the ear, knocking her senseless to the ground. Unconsciousness continued until the following morning, when the little girl came to her senses. If inflammation does not set in there are hopes of her recovery, but a day or two will determine.

Music Bath Chama.

For some time past the question of anthems and voluntaries at the Sabbath services of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, has been exciting considerable feeling among some of the older members who were opposed thereto. It was finally agreed that the question should be decided by vote on three successive Sundays, and the vote has resulted in favor of music by about two to one. The result was announced on Sunday last, and as a result the collection was increased five hundred per cent, one person unknown having slipped a $10 note in a blank envelope, to mark his appreciation of the decision arrived at.

which, being climbing, he attempted to pass his gun, but fell forward, holding the muzzle towards him. While in this position the gun went off, driving the charge into his left breast in the vicinity of the heart—Charlottetown Patriot.

We learn from a Boston paper that at least a "real Venetian gondola" has been imported, at a cost of upwards of $411, for use on the pond of the public gardens. We infer from this that the Hibernian member of the common council who suggested, by way of amendment, that "two Venetian gondolas" should be imported for the purpose of propagating the species, must have either retired or lost his election—Halifax Chronicle.

Ten thousand eels, wriggling in the well of a schooner at Portland, Me., was a sight witnessed in that city the other day. Their combined weight was five tons. They will be unloaded into eel cars, or perforated tanks, moved to the wharves. From there they will be put into barrels, in which they have been placed, and shipped to Boston, New York and other places arriving alive and fresh. They were caught off the coast of Nova Scotia.

Word reached here yesterday of a terrible burning accident at Catamount, a country district near Canaan, Kent County. It appears Calvin Dubois, and wife went to visit a neighbor Thursday evening, leaving their three young children in the house. Soon after flames were seen to proceed from the house and when Dubois and his wife arrived on the scene the house was in ruins, and the children consumed by the flames. The poor parents were wild with grief—Times.

KILLED BY A BARE BALL.—About three weeks ago, the 11 year old son of Wm. Cummings, of Pitt street, while playing ball, was struck in the temple by the ball and knocked to the ground. Dr. John Berryman, who attended the boy at the time, says he complained of a headache, but that he refused to tell where the pain was, or what caused it. The lad began to fall rapidly, but he still declined to say what had caused the pain in his head, and the physician could not find any cause for the trouble. One of his companions, however, told of Cummings being knocked down by the ball, and when his death was announced yesterday, Dr. Berryman said there was no doubt but that the blow was the cause of it—St. John Sun.

A Wentworth, N. S., correspondent of the Amherst Sentinel writes; "The fruits of the liquor traffic are seldom seen in this place as they were last week when a young man died from its effects while passing through this place. William Murdoch, of New Amherst, went to Acadia Mines with a load of apples to sell, and when ready to return met with a companion named Carroll, and having secured a supply of liquor both started for home. In coming along down the valley Murdoch became so intoxicated that he fell off the seat into the bottom of the wagon, when Carroll took the reins and covered him up with the rug, but before getting two miles from Beek's Corner he met some persons and stopped to talk when they found Murdoch was dead, Carroll being two much intoxicated to know there was anything the matter with the man.

NEWS FROM EVERYWHERE.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 20.—Ten new cases of yellow fever developed to-day at Decatur, Ala., and a regular stampede from that city is in progress. Great excitement prevails there; people are fleeing and stores are all being closed.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 20.—The weather to-day is almost perfect, the heat being tempered by the sea breeze. The death rate is unimpaired. There were 131 new cases and a total to date of 1464. The deaths to date were 16, total 185.

On the 20th inst. James Lynch was brought before Justice Niven, for a second offence against the Scott Act. This case was also clearly proved, and his worship imposed a fine of $100.00 and costs on Mr. Lynch but he not being willing to contribute to the expenses of the hearing, his worship ordered him to be committed to the County Jail for six days.

On the 24th inst. Charles F. Reid's case came up for trial but as some of the witnesses were not respectable enough to hide from the constable and the other could remember about buying and paying for the liquor, Reid acknowledged he was guilty and was fined $50.00 and costs.

I think Mr. Editor that great credit is due to the counsel for the prosecution for the able manner in which he conducted the case against Lynch and Reid, and also to P. M. Niven for the impartial manner in which he acted through the hearing of both cases, and I have no doubt that the W. C. T. U. will be very pleased to see that their work is commencing to bring forth fruit.

I remain yours,
A. CRITZEN.
