Pelvic Catarrh.

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produce such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people-in fact, the majority of people-have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

The Nervous System. Weakness of the nervous system not only produces catarrh of the mucous membrane, but also causes nervous prostration in some places, and different degrees of nervous debility, derangements of the stomach, sleeplessness and tired out feelings.

Depression of the nervous system is a fertile source of blood impurities. Peruna invigorates the system and produces regular sleep. It builds up the system run down by overwork. Catarrhal Weakness.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors she has consulted, by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicines with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these remedies have been recommended to them. If you do not derive prompt and sat-isfactory results from the use of Pe-

YUKON REPRESENTATION.

Ottawa, May 9.-After Mr. Sifton's bill respecting the representation of the Yukon in the House of Commons had peen approved, Hon. The senate bill to amend the act respecting the naturalization of aliens was put through its final stages. MANITOBA GRAIN AMENDMENT.

In committee of the whole on Sir Richard Cartwright's bill to amend the Manitoba grain act, Mr. Boyd complained of the lateness of Sir Richard Cartwright's amendments. Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out that Mr. Boyd's complaints referred largely to the inspection act. He was aware that at so late a period of the session they could not discuss every phase of the question, and he would not feel like making important changes in the act without mature deliberation. Mr. John Hagga, characterized the legislation compelling the railway com-panies to furnish cars as unheard of, and expressed the opinion that it was impracticable.

Hon. Mr. Sifton disagreed entirely with Mr. Haggart, and was convinced there would always be plenty of farmers waiting for cars, so that if one man defaulted there would be someone else able to take the car immediately. The bill was reported and stands for YUKON AFFAIRS.

In supply Hcr. W. S. Fielding stated that he was very hopeful after the reduction of the royalties in the Yukon the revenue from that territory would still be sufficient to meet the expenditure. He was encouraged in this hope by the fact that the government had up to the present received a larger sum from the Yukon than had been expended upon it, which he regarded as a fair reason for reducing the royalty, at the same time adhering to the policy of making the Yukon pay

A Breakfast Dish That Is Daily Bringing Health and Strength to Thousands.

The old breakfast grain foods with abundance of insoluble starch and dyspepsia, indigestion, irritation of the stomach, eruptions and redness of the skin, have not been tolerated in many homes since the introduction of Malt Breakfast Food.

The advent of Malt Breakfast Food has brought health, joy and content-ment to tens of thousands who use brain and muscle in the activities of life. This unequaled breakfast food is a positive banisher of dyspepsia and stomach irregularities; our best physicians recommend it daily to those whose digestion is weak. It perfectly agrees with the stomach of the young child and the strongest adult. If you would build up in flesh, bone, muscle and strength, make Malt Breakfast Food your first morning dish. All Gro-

FUNERAL OF LATE BISHOP CORRIGAN

Over a Thousand Ecclesiastics Take Part in the Impressive Services.

New York, May 10 .-- A solemn re quiem mass, for the repose of the soul of the Most Reverend Michael Augustine Corrigan, Archbishop of New York, was said yesterday in St. Patrick's cathedral, by Cardinal Gibbons, of Ealtimore.

Before 6 o'clock, the hour of the first mass, there were 3,000 persons around the cathedral waiting for the opening of the doors. Five masses were said up to 8 o'clock, and as one congregation left the building another took its

A wreath of Easter lilies, white roses and snowballs was received at the cathedral from President Roosevelt. Another wreath received name of John W. MacKay.

THE INTERMENT. The remains were interred in the crypt of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The funeral was conducted with all the impressive solemnity and ceremony of his church, and attended by a remarkable gathering of clergy. Almost with the break of day crowds began to assemble Humphreys' Witch Hazel at the cathedral, and when the hour of the funeral arrived, a vast multitude had assembled to pay last rever-ence to the dead prelate. Inside of the gothic altar six candles were burning, and smoke of the incense hung about it. Around the bler, where the dead archbishop lay, three burned, one on each side of him, with a double row on a candelabrum above his head.

New York, May 9.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s review: At a time when con-sumptive demands surpass all previous records in the nation's history, it is unfortunate that production should be curtailed. An Educational Neophyte.

There has been a deluge of loose talk about the school system of Ontario from politicians and writers who by no stretch of charity could be called educational experts. Mr. Whitney, for instance, professes to be an authority on the needs of the public schools and seeks to give the impression that he carries in his head some scheme which would broaden their scope and increase their efficiency. Mr. Whitney, as an educationist, may be fairly measured by one of his utterances in the Legislature, during the session of 1901. The Minister of Education introduced a bill in aid of Toronto University, and justified it by the statement that it would strengthen the public and high schools of the Province. Mr. Whitney agreed to the proposal to assist the university, but added that he "couldn't see in what way the strengthening of the university would affect the public and high schools of the Province." One can fancy the amusement such a remark from a public man would cause in an assembly of teachers or any educated body. The Minister of Education was obliged to tell Mr. Whitney, what any schoolboy knows that the public schools draw upon the high schools for their supply of teachers, and that the great majority of the high school teachers of the Province are trained In the Provincial University, which was therefore to a large extent the foundation head of the whole school system. This single incident proves Mr. Whitney to be the veriest tyro in educational methods.

The St. Pierre Horror.

The city of St. Pierre, the scene of one of the greatest catastrophes in centuries, was settled by the French in 1635, and was the largest town and West Indies. The Island of Martinique, of which St. Pierre was the fortified seaport, is 381 square miles in fession to level up rather than level area. It is irregular in form, high, down The physicians themselves will rocky, and contains five or six extinct be benefited by the wider currency craters. Mont Pelee is the highest of cluding the privilege of registering the three mountains in the interior, being 4,438 feet above the sea. Its last violent volcanic eruption was in August, 1851. The island has been always subject to earthquakes, several of which have been disastrous. The vallevs of the island are broad and fertile. About one-third the surface is under cultivation, the principal productions being sugar, coffee, cotton, cassia, manioc, bananas, indigo, maise and ginger. In view of this, it is probable that later reports will show that thousands of the agricultural population have perished, as the awful avalanche of fire would sweep the adjacent valleys.

In its suddenness and appalling effect, the catastrophe has been likened to that of Pompeli. The population of Pompell is believed to have been no more than 12,000, while that of St. Pierre was about 30,000, and the full magnitude of the horror in the interior of the island is not yet known. The nearest approach to it in modern times was the eruption of Mount Etna, Sicily, in 1669, when fourteen villages were destroyed; but the inhabitants had warning. Such was the awful suddenness of the present calamity that even the ships in the harbor of St. Pierre | the stately maple, oak or pine tree of had not time to escape.

Mr. Whitney at the Soo.

We were mistaken in thinking Mr. Whitney would refrain from mentioning the Algoma Central Railway grant while in Sault Ste. Marie. He did touch upon it, but not in a way to improve his reputation for candor and courage. He is reported as saying:

"We voted against the grant to the 'Algoma Central Railway. The first reason, in a general sense, was that so far as we could see, and we could not see farther than our noses, so to speak, the bargain was not a good bargain to make. It might have been a meritorious scheme, a deserving scheme, one which the Opposition would have been glad to have aided, but when the grants of land were made the Government refused to tell the Opposition or give them any information as to what the value of these lands was regarding minerals, and we said, as far as it appears on the face of it, it seems an improper proposition, and we will vote against it, and so we did."

"It might have been a meritorious scheme!" A humiliating confession from the man who denounced it as "the greatest robbery, the most heinous public crime ever committed by any government on the continent of North America." Mr. Whitney at Sault Ste. Marie tried to square himself by pointing out that he voted for the grant to the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, another Clergue enterprise. The conditions of that grant were precisely the same as those of the Algoma Central Railway subsidy, and Mr. Whitney had just as much information in the one case as in the other. He has so long made a practice of crying "Wolf!" that the public pay no attention to him.

The Temperance Question.

No Reformer and no lover of his country should fail to vote for the candidate of the Ross Government, Col. Leys. We do not doubt the sincerity of the motives of those who THE LONDON ADVERTISER COM- support Mr. Daly, but sincere motives are not always proof of right.

> Why should any Reformer fail to support the Ross Government? Not alone in temperance enactment is it entitled to gratitude and confidence, but in many other ways its legislation has gone into the homes and lightened the burdens of the fireside. Look at the asylums and charities, at the educational agencies, at the administration of justice, and point out where it has left undone anything it ought to have Every citizen of London whose memory goes back 30 years realizes the wonderful improvement that has been wrought by the temperance legislation of the Liberal Government. Starting from the market square and walking a mile in any direction, how many licensed places would one pass then which he would be required to pass at the present day? The Mowat, the Hardwand the Ross Governments have been steadily true to the highest moral ideals of the community. They have minimized, to the best of human ability, the evils of intemperance. Therefore we say no Reformer, no lover of his country, should fail to support the candidate of the Ross Government, Col. Leys. He should conscientiously consider which course will best serve the cause he has at heart.

The New Medical Council.

Dr. Roddick's bill for the establishment of a Dominion Medical Council was passed in the House of Commons on Wednesday. It provides for a council of 39 members, to be composed of representatives from the various medical colleges of the Dominion. The chief function of the new body will be that of an examining board. However, Dr. Roddick's bill has been so amended as to require legislative enactment from all the provinces before all over ten. We have read of boys the council can be constituted. The amendment was made to preclude any idea of infringement on provincial rights. The benefits likely to accrue from making medical examinations uniform for the Dominion, are obvious. The Canadian public will certainly be the gainer, provided the standard of the whole Dominion is on a par with that set by the Ontario Council. There should be a manifest desire in the prothat will be given their diplomas, in-Great Britain.

The bill is one which has found support from the medical members on both sides of the House and from the Premier and leader of the Opposition. The matter now rests with the provinces, and it is hoped that they will merge any local interests in the broader interests of the Dominion.

The Stunted Poplar.

Men have been compared to the trees of a forest, and it has been said that in every large city there are many clever men, just as there are fine trees in every large forest. The leader of the Opposition, as he looked at New Ontario, saw it as "the land of the stunted poplar," but what a different prospect was unfolded to vision of the leader of Government! He saw vast and timber wealth, a country yet to be inhabited by hundreds of thousands of hardy people. He proceeds to develop and settle this country, projecting railways and roads, and encouraging industries. The leader of the Opposition compared with the leader of the Government is like a stunted poplar compared with our splendid forests.

The people will trust the men who secured New Ontario to govern it.

Why He Stands. [Toronto Star.]

The Globe has an editorial this morning headed with the question: "What does Mr. Whitney stand for?" We suppose he stands because he can't get a front seat, and will not be content with one of those that are away back.

Mr. Whitney's Peculiar Oratory.

[Sarnia Observer.] Mr. Whitney's claim to distinction as a speaker rests upon the length, strength and vigor of his adjectives, and the extent and variety of a somewhat picturesque vocabulary, of which "slimy villains," the latest addition, is a fair to middling sample. A new set of school books incorporating a collection of his choicest phrases would e a delicate tribute to his Chesterfieldian style and might mollify to some extent his rampant hostility to the milder mannered literature now supplied to the pupils in our public schools by Mr. Ross.

After Twenty Years.

While a well-known vaudeville team was performing on the stage and everyone in the audience was listening intently to the jokes, suddenly the house was startled by a cry which mingled with the laughter.

Ushers ran down the aisles and soon were beside a man in evening dress who sat in the front row. His face was whiter than his shirt-front. He was stamping his feet with the rapidity of a boy beating a drum, and every moment a moan escaped him.

Water and whisky were brought, but he pushed the glasses away. The performers had stopped, the audience had ceased laughing, and with terrortricken faces watched the strange Doctors in the audience rushed forward to give their help, but they were not needed.

"I'll be all right in a moment," said the white-faced man. "It was only a sudden shock. You see, I have been going to vaudeville shows for twenty years, and this is the first time I have heard this team give out a new joke."

too;
They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loth;
Both have their ties, and both incline,
When polished, in the world to shine;
And both peg out—and would you choose
To be a man or be his shoes.

Gladstone and Disraeli.

[The Spectator.] Gladstone was a great financier, and perhaps the very greatest expositor of finance who ever lived. He had a magical influence over masses of men and a power of words the effect of which was more like that of huge anything else. His Midlothian speeches made one think less of a river coming down than of the sea coming up. His skill in constructing a difficult measure was not even approached by any man of his time, and perwas never exceeded by any man at any time. These and many other merits we must freely allow him, but when the final estimate of him is made, many traits must be introduced, and not least his extraordinary power of believing precisely what he wished to believe. He had a tender conscience but save only where finance was concerned, he had that conscience thoroughly under command. If it showed the slightest recalcitrancy his will was always ready to say, "Just you dare!" And yet when all has been said for and against him there can be no doubt that he will remain the most notable Englishman of his generation-as much out of place among the Liberals as Disraeli was among the Conservatives; but, like him, a head and shoulders above all his rivals, and as much superior to Disraeli himself in most of the higher arts of statesmanship as that immense-

Allowance Should Always Be Made for Physical Weakness.

We Do Not Always Consider as We Should the Bodily Infirmities of

Those With Whom We Come in Contact. Many a strong and hearty-looking man or woman is a constant sufferer from some physical pain or weakness. Often they do not care to explain or complain, and no one but themselves or perhaps their families know the amount of pain they endure every day. They are often irritable and cranky, and it is no wonder.

It is hard to be affable and genial and good humored, when you have a nasty grumbling toothache. Toothache is not to be compared to the distressing pain of dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn or sour stomach. Thousands of men and women are today going about their daily duties carrying a burden of these stomach troubles, which give them absolutely no rest. The worst "thorn in the flesh" is dyspensia. We should make allowance for a dyspeptic. Don't judge him or her harshly or too quickly. But no one should be troubled with dyspepsia or other stomach trouble when there is a certain remedy within the reach of all. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any case of dyspepsia or stomach

This is not an empty boast, but a positive statement of fact, which has been proven by happy results in the thousands of the most severe cases-it is not now disputed. Physicians have given Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets their heartiest approval, and many prescribe them in their practice, as a treatment for stomach ailments. There is no longer any excuse for anyone being cranky or irritable be cause of dyspepsia, for they may be cured if they want to-Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Grain trading was very quiet today, waiting for the government report of the crop situation, which is expected tomerrow. In spite of the slowness of the market, however, a very firm undertone prevailed, and July wheat closed higher, July corn 1/4c to 3/4c higher, and July oats 3/4c up; provisions were again independently strong, and closed 71/2c to 171/4c advanced. Minneapolis and Duluth reported that stocks would show a decrease of 1,000,000 bu. Local receipts of wheat were 51 cars; Minneapolis and Duluth received 153 cars; making a total for the three points of 204 cars, against 292 last week and 233 a year ago. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 20 cars; corn, 90 cars; bats, 150 cars; hogs, 16,000 head.

INDUSTRY AFTER NEW LOCATION

Manufacturers' Committee Told of New Concern.

Investigate Still Further-It Would Want Free Site and Exemption.

The members of the manufacturers' committee learned last night from ex-Ald. Robert W. Bennet, of a new industry, which might be secured for this city. He said that representatives of a big Rochester firm were in the city a day or so ago, and in company with ex-Mayor Rumball and himself inspected several prospective sites. They wished to establish a big sash and door factory, to employ about 100 hands, and would invest $30,000 in a plant. The company proposed to manufacture for export, and the Northwest trade, while doing some local business. They wanted a site of about five acres, and insisted upon good railway facilities. The company asked for tax exemption and a free site. Mr Bennet said he was not himself interested in the company, but he thought it would be a good thing for the city. He suggested that the secretary of the committee write for further particulars of what the company wanted, and the committee will act on this suggestion.

Mr. E. H. Johnston, barrister, told the committee that it was possible that the city might lose the London Pant and Overall Company. Mr. Johnston said that the industry was owned and operated by two young men, Messrs. Chas. Deeley and B. S. Sainsbury. It was started some years ago with only ten men, and now employed 60. They paid out about $20,000 a year in wages on the union scale, and business was increasing so that their wage bills would increase proportionately. company had received some good offers to go elsewhere, being offered free site and tax exemptions. They did not wish to leave London, and did not complain of their treatment here, but the offer meant a bonus of $700 for $800 per year, and they felt that the city might well assist them in some way or other to remain here. They would ike a fixed assessment similar to what had been granted other local industries. The company's present assessment is about $7,000. They suggested that it be fixed at the present amount, enabling them to increase their factory without having to pay increased taxes. The matter will again be con-

A Special Message of Comfort for Sick and Despondent Women.

Ten years of suffering from treacherous kidney disease is of itself a heavy record of sickness and agony for one frail woman. When we add to kidney suffering, nervousness, sleeplessness and continued overwork in the home, it marks a condition of life that draws forth our tenderest and deepest sympathies.

as follows: "I have been troubled for the past ten years with kidney disease and have tried a great many preparations and doctors' prescriptions, but with little or no benefit. For the last six months I have had a great strain upon my system from night-watching and overwork. I was breaking down; my friends said, 'I was going fast to death.' I resolved to try Paine's Celery Compound, and used four bottles. My kidney trouble disappeared; nervousness and sleeplessness are troubles of the past, and my general health is good. In a word, I am cured; I wish I could publish this so that the world can read it."

DUPLICATION.

The same system which makes it possible to produce as good a factory Watch for one dollar as could be made singly by a workman for twenty dollars, results in the making of as good garments in the "Semi-ready" factory, for $20, as a Custom Tailor could produce for $35.

But while the "ready-made" Watch fits any man's pocket, the "ready-made" suit wont fit any man's form, or give to it, that individual expression which his judgment approves and his taste desires.

Semi-ready "finish to order" is necessary to supply individuality-according to your own form and preference.

New York, May 10 .- The French Cable Company's office in this city were advised today that their repair steamer Poure Quertier, has arrived at Port de France, having rescued 450 persons from St. Pierre. She has returned immediately to the scene of the disaster to search for further survivors.

40 000 DEATHS. The latest messages indicate that the number of deaths will be about 40,000, several of the smaller islands near Martinique having also suffered.

Between 8 in the morning and 8 in the evening of Thursday, May 8, St. Pierre was a mass of fire, and there was also A VOLCANIC ERUPTION AT ST.

VINCENT. The Island of St. Thomas is sending help. A ship which arrived Friday, May , at the Island of Dominica (British West Indies), and which was lying of at St. Pierre when the eruption com-menced, reports that the noise was ter-rific. A huge cloud of fire appeared over the town and neighborhood, giving the inhabitants no chance to escape. Private dispatches received late this afternoon from the West Indies say the town and neighborhood, giving the eruption at Martinique is decidedly worse. SOME SURVIVORS.

New York, May 10.—The agents of the Quebec Steamship Company has received a telegram from the company's agent at Dominica saying that the survivors of the steamship Roraima, which was destroyed in the Martinique disaster, are on board the steamship Korona. The following are reported as saved: The quarterments the stewardses and Seamen termaster, the stewardess and Seamen Morley, Thompson, Moore, Evans, Ben-son, Mayer, Leady and three others, names unknown. The first officer and assistant purser are in the hospital at Port de France.

CABLE COMMUNICATION CUT. London, May 10.—Cable communication between London and the Island of Martinique is cut off. The direct West India cable reported a cabled dispatch from St. Lucia at 1:30 this afternoon, dated today, saying: "Sloop just leaving for St. Vincent, presumably with the object ascertaining what has happened on of ascertaining what has happe that island. Possibly took Gov. lyn." Communication is still obtainable with the Island of Guadaloupe (French West Indies), but the news is congested, owing to the confusion prevailing in the cable system and the numerous official messages filed.

CIPHERING ON THE DAMAGE. It is apparent that the eruption of the volcano of Mont Pelee will not do much damage to the sugar crop, which is chiefly confined to the southern part of the island, and the gathering of which is now two-thirds over. However, the wiping out of the moneyed population of

Not one of the business houses in London has heard a word of its agents in Martinique. A partner of the princi-pal English firm dealing with Martinique said to a representative of the Associated press: "I suppose all our agents are dead. Says Enormous Rush of Immi- though I have no statistics to prove gration From States Has Started.

The Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary is at present in this city, and will be here until next Tuesday as the guest of the Bishop of Huron.

His lordship spoke most interestingly today to The Advertiser concerning the marvelous growth and unprecedented prosperity of the great Northwest. He confirmed the reports which are daily coming from that land respecting the immigration from the United States.

"An enormous rush of immigration has set in." he said, coming principally from the United States. I attribute this to the work of the Dominion Government's agents there, who are making the people of the States know of the possibilities of the Canadian Northwest.

"They are spreading the information throughout the Western States, and the result has already been wonderful. The people who are coming in are mostly farmers who have sold their to try the public school leaving exam- farms in the States for good figures inations must send their names to In- and come to Canada well supplied with money and often with stock. They buy land just as good, if not better, than that which they sold, and their chances of prospering are as good.

"From traveling with them and being with them, I believe that they are greatly taken with the Northwest Territories, especially with Northern Alberta, although many are going into Eastern Assinibola and Saskatchewan. They do not come in by way of Winnipeg, but come by the Soo line, which connects with the main C. P. R. line at Moosejaw." His lordship said that these people form a most desirable class of settlers.

DEATH FOLLOWED BRIEF ILLNESS

Mrs. Pauline Stein, an Old Resident of London, Passes Away.

The death of Mrs. Pauline Stelf which occurred last night after a very short illness, will cause profound regret among the many friends of the family. She had been ill only since Monday, and hopes were entertained up till late last night for her recovery. Mrs. Stein was born 53 years ago in of the late Lovenz and Wilhelmina Schlegel. BASEBALL NOTES.

Rube Waddell made the first home run in the California League and he received a suit of clothes for this feat. "Cupid" Childs. Jersey City's second baseman, is without a doubt the fattest 15 hits in 24 times at bat, giving him an average of .625.

Christy Mathewson has deserted the journalistic field this season and is devoting all his time to playing the game. The players will like him better for it. The Boston Club has agreed to pay $1,500 for Carney; $750 has already assumed name of Joyce. Coach Hughey Jennings, of Cornell, has signed to play first base for the Philadelphia Nationals for $3,500. He receives $1,200 from Cornell for coaching the ball team and free tuition. Cy Young has won four of the five games he has pitched, all but one from the Orioles. Cy has given only nine bases on balls in these games, and has struck out seventeen men.

Jack Thielman, now pitching for Toronto, is a brother of Henry Thielman, the New York twirler. Last year Henry was the star pitcher at Manhattan College and this year Jack was the Manhattan star.

Pitcher Wright, who went to Pittsburg with President Ebbett, of the Brooklyn club, returned to Cleveland yesterday, and denies that he has quit the Cieveland team. His visit to Pitts-burg, he says, was "just for fun." What's in a name? Jim Hart is one of the "Big Chiefs" of the National's executive board, and Jim Hart is also playing first base for Columbus. There are likewise two Elmer Smiths in the game-Kansas City's outfielder and Tacoma's catcher. President Ed Mack, of the Torontos, wagered a suit of clothes with Manager Stallings when he was in Buffalo that the Torontos would beat out the Bisons in the Eastern League pennant race. Director Tom Soole made a similar bet with Treasurer O'Brien, of the Buffalo club.

The Detroit pitchers seem to be doing all the batting for their team these days. In the game with St. Louis on Wednesday Miller scored both of Detroit's runs with a three-base hit. On Thursday Siever made the only two hits credited to Detroit during the Manager Hanlon, of the Brooklyns, has released Pitcher McCann, the ex-Canadian Leaguer. A correspondent of Sporting Life says McCann pitched one good game and one game that was not so good. He does not seem strong enough for major league baseball, in spite of the fact that he has had their reservations with Denver. The local management tried to get Mohler to reconsider his determination, making some very good offers. He replied that he would get about eight months of baseball in California, where he hoped eventually to make his home.

The Southern League started its second consecutive campaign on April 26 and the race is now in full blast. The attendance to date shows the great interest felt in the teams, and the outlook for a successful financial season is bright. New Orleans, which heads the league, has three ex-Canadian Leaguers in its ranks-Norcum, center fielder; our old friend, George Bradthe blacksmith pitcher, and ford. Freeland, formerly with London. Bradford divided up the pitching in the game against Memphis on April 28, but lost the game, in which Freeland made a home run. Laroque, London's old first baseman, is covering second bag for Birmingham, and is hitting and stealing bases in fine form. Skopec is on the pitching staff of the Little Rock

FAMOUS SIRES. Electioneer, it may be said, is far and away the most consistent sire of trotting speed the world has seen, as his list is composed of 158 trotters and tunities considered, in the matter of getting high-class horses, and yet the Belmont family, like that of Almont, another son of Alexander's Abdallah, is rapidly running out, so to speak, just as has that of Volunteer, the foremost son of Hambletonian in his day, so against London and the rest. It's a that today the leading representative of the Alexander's Abdallah family is Cresceus, the champion, a greatgrandson of that horse through Robert McGregor, and Major Edsall. The com-plete list of horses that have over 100 trotters and pacers to their credit with standard records-2:30 for trotters and 2:35 for pacers—is as follows: Name Record. Sire. P'f's. SOUTH LONDON DALY MEETING

Prohibitionists Say Hard Things of the Politicians.

Candidate Daly Says Many of Rank and File of Old Parties Are Deserting to Him.

Trebilcock's Hall, South London, held nearly 50 people last night, the occasion being a meeting in the interests of Mr. Fred W. Daly, the prohibition candidate for London in the provincial election. The speakers of the evening were Mr. D. A. McDermid, the chairman; Mr. Daly, the candidate; Revs. R. D. Hamilton and W. H. A. Claris and Mr. G. N. Weekes. All spoke vigorously in favor of Mr. Daly and his policy, and a couple of them had hard words for both political

Mr. McDermid, in his opening remarks, said that both political parties in London were becoming alarmed at Anthracite Coal Bosses Will Not the magnitude of Mr. Daly's following, and were making an effort to stampede the adherents of the prohibition candidate. All kinds of tactics would be adopted to stem the tide. He urged his hearers to be faithful their battle cry be "Daly, Prohibition and Victory.' The next speaker, Mr. G. N. Weekes, said it looked to him as though the two great parties in London thought the city was for sale. It was a pity it should be so. Enormous campaign funds were talked of, on one side, and equally large funds on the other side, to meet them. The old method of fighting the devil with fire was in vogue, and the same kind of fire was used on both sides. Most people were born, as it were, in either one or other of the old parties. It was time these parties should prove their title to the terms by which they are now known. The Liberals were only liberal with the sinews of war in election time. The time has arrived when the Ontario Liberal party was no longer Liband what was the party of progress had really become the conservative party. Mr. Weekes said there need of some new life being infused into the politics of the province. The depths to which the parties would sink to retain or attain power, as the case may be, was apparent. He believed the people of London, who were politically clean, would disassociate themselves from those parties. Rev. R. D. Hamilton, of Wellington Street Methodist Church, said he was present in the interests of moral reform. He was not opposing men. He was standing for principle. The liquor traffic had entwined itself around every department of life, until its traces could be found in every community. The greatest foe of the workingman was the government's licensed traffic in rum. The only way to regulate it was to put a prohibitory restriction on the whole business. Rev. W. H. Claris, of the Southern Congregational Church, defended clergymen for taking a hand in behalf of right and righteousness. If all the promises made the temperance people happy lot of men and women. The claimed that the temperance people did not understand them aright. The candidate, Mr. Fred W. Daly, was the last speaker. He expressed his belief that the prohibitionists were to be one of the curses of the country. The bringing out of the two party candidates in London had placed the politicians just where the prohibitionists wanted them. Mr. Daly did not care for the mere honor of winning the election; he wanted to win for the principle of the thing. He would not arraign or condemn the rank and file of the parties, for he expected to get many supporters among them. There had never before been such a movement away from the old parties as there is at present. Mr. Daly condemned the party machine, which had left undone things it should have done and had done those things it should not have done, and there was no health in it. The electors should rise above party in this campaign. There were Christian men and women, and clergymen, too, who were working hand in hand with the liquor men. The people were sick of the party, and what was needed in the legislature was a few men who would stand on their own party lash was altogether too power-"If the past representative of the city had done half as much for the homes of the city of London," said Mr. Daly, "if he put forth half as much effort in behalf of temperance as he has in behalf of fish in the

Derwent Man Seriously Injured at Crossing.

Had Been Warned Not to Cross and When He Did So Was Hurled Aside.

Ernest Stanley, of Derwent, Westminster, was struck by an engine last night at the Adelaide street crossing of the Grand Trunk. His injuries are painful, but he will recover.

The accident occurred at 9:45 o'clock. Stanley, it is said by the Grand Trunk officials, was warned not to drive across the tracks, as an engine was coming, but did not heed the warning. His horse had just cleared the track when the engine struck the carriage. The horse was not injured, but the rig was demolished. Stanley was thrown across the next track and was semi-conscious when picked up. He lost consciousness entirely when reached Victoria Hospital, whither he was taken in the ambulance, and attended to by Dr. English. Stanley had a slight scalp wound and a swelling over the left hip, where he was badly bruised. Although it is not yet possible to estimate their exact extent, Dr. English believes that his injuries will not prove fatal.

Toronto, May 10.-The Grand Trunk Railway has decided to increase the pay of several hundred sectionmen. A circular was issued today, stating that all sectionmen who are receiving less than $1 20 per day are, after Monday, to be paid $1 20 per day. There are between 600 and 700 men along the system now receiving $1 10 per day, who will benefit by this advance. A new scale has been granted also to the section foremen, whose pay has averaged from $1 50 to $1 60 per day. After Monday the section foremen will have a monthly salary of $45 a month, an increase of the old figures. These advances were made without any representations from the men.

question this afternoon." COAL STRIKE ORDERED!

Scranton, Pa., May 10. - A general strike of the miners of the anthracite region has been ordered for Monday next, but the order has a reserve qualfication attached. The question as to whether the strike is to be made per-manent is left to the decision of a convention of delegates of all the local organizations of the mine workers to be held at Hazelton next Wednesday. When yesterday's sessions of the miners' executive committee of three districts concluded, President Mitchell prepared a statement to the miners, in which he said the executive committee had exhausted all means to settle the dispute with the operators, but feit that before a strike was inaugurated the question should be further considered by a delegate convention, in which representatives from the various local unions shall be fully instructed by their constituents, and prepared to vote for or in opposition to a complete cessation of work. The executive committee recommends that meetings of all local unions be held on Monday afternoon, May 12, for the purpose of sesays he cannot ascertain the names of Equipped in the Most Up-to-Date Style to Produce an immense Output.

> Only a comparatively small number of people have any exact idea of how bread is made nowadays. They eat it a combination of dough and kneading and ovens, and that's about as far as another instance of the very general and very common ignorance respecting things which are integral portions of everyone's life. It has been said that people do not want to know anything these days, that they are satisfied to get through the world without attempting to get very much information regarding everyday things. It seems true. There is at least a minimum of knowledge about the making of bread as it is now made in a bakery of modern construction, managed in the up-to-date fashion which in these keep to the front and win out in the race for best results. An Advertiser reporter had the interesting experience a day or so ago of being shown through a bakery which is without doubt one of the finest, if, indeed, not the finest, in all Canada. It was that of the Parnell-Dean Baking Company in South London. The experience was a revelation of the methods which this enterprising firm puts in force in order to meet the tremendous demands which its rapidly developing trade is making upon them. A mere word picture of this establishment will be inadequate to give any distinct idea of the way its immense output is made. It would be necessary, if an exact idea of it were desired, to make a personal inspection. It would repay anyone to do so. It would broaden the mind considerably in the way of teaching very much, not only of the modern way of making bread, but also of the modern way of making a success-that is, by judicious expenditure, so as to procure a plant times bakers as well as all other business men must follow, if they are to capable of turning out sufficient quantities of the kind of goods the people want to buy. The inspection was made under the guidance of Mr. Frederick Parnell, ex-Ald. Parnell's son, who is manager of the London business. A younger son

His beautiful buildings are surrounded by well-kept lawns and line garden plots. All the walks are made of cement, and the interiors of his shops are either painted or whitewash-As illustrations of his determination to maintain the strictest cleanliness about his place, it may be mentioned that he has one man whose sole duty it is to look after the good appearance of the outside, while inside he has an excellently equipped bathroom, and every workman must take his bath there every day. Each, too, must have two clean white suits every week. Bread is made by a different process dozen or more years ago. It will be in-teresting to watch it through the course which it follows. The Parnell firm buys in immense quantities; stance, they get flour in 10,000-barrel lots at a time. In their two plants, at Toronto and London, they use 850 barrels in one week. The mixer takes four of these barrels at a time, and after properly mixing it, places it in an immense machine run by electricity from the dynamo right on the plant. This mixes the whole four barrels in very little time. It is then taken out and placed in great long troughs, in which it is allowed to stand, sometimes for five hours, and sometimes for much longer. The fermentation system is followed here; it gives bread of better lasting qualities than the straight yeast plan. It is taken from the troughs, which are on the second floor, and sent down a chute to a big table on the first floor, where it is scaled off-that is, every pound of dough is weighed, and provision made, so that the loaf may be the full weight. From three to four ounces extra is allowed for shrinkage, and the men work under strict orders to see that by no manner of means is any bread under weight. After scaling it is molded into loaves, and let stand to prove, then remodeled and put into pans. A lot of it is not touched by new to that which was in vogue a hands at all. The pans are then put into eupboards and the loaves stand for a while. The bread is next placed in the four magnificent ovens, 12x14 feet in measurement, which are heated and controlled by the most scientific methods. In these ovens, 1,250 loaves are baked at a time. Only a housewife or a baker can realize what this means. In fact, one night's output at this bakery is from 4,500 to 7,500 loaves. The bread stays in the ovens for from threequarters of an hour to 55 minutes, and is then taken out, placed upon stands from which the loaves are transferred to racks, and finally taken to the cooling room and shipping room.

An immense proportion of the trade which this firm does is done through their 43 agencies scattered all throug! Western Ontario. They undoubtedly do the largest business of this kind in Canada, shipping away every night not less than a carload of bread. The express bill totals $125 every week. The vastness of the business will thus be realized. To handle and produce this immense output requires a large staff. The firm employs an average number of 30 men the year round. The pay sheet amounts to $200 a week. The equipment in the way of distributing apparatus is very complete. The firm has ten horses working the year round, and has eight handsome delivery wagons. In order that his foreman may be always at hand Mr. Parnell has built for him a comfortable cottage right in touch with his bakery, so that he may directly oversee everything.

In all ways this establishment is one that is a credit to the man whose energy and progressiveness have produced it. It is a credit to the city which it gives the honor of having the best equipped bakery in Canada

The Value of a Life.

How many men have seriously considered what their life is worth to their family? Most people would say, if asked the value they placed on their life, that they had never given the every day and have a hazy notion of matter a thought. And yet hasn't everybody placed a value on his life in the amount of life insurance he carries If you have your life insured for their knowledge goes. It is simply $5,000, doesn't it practically mean that you value your life at that amount? What you value your life at? If you are sceiving a salary of $1,500 a year, de you think $2,000 or $3,000 life insurance is enough for you to carry, If so, in case of your death the re sources of your wife and family would be exhausted in a couple of years. "The Continuous Fund Bond," as issued by the Imperial Life Ansurance Company of Canada, Toronto, is an ideal policy to enable a salaried man to leave his family in an independent position. It guarantees that his salary will not stop at his death, but will be continued for whatever amount he may determine upon for at least twenty years thereafter, and after that time until the death of the beneficiary. Paris, May 9.-M. Bouguenot, a sugar planter of the Isle of Martinique, received a cable dispatch this morning from Fort de France, sent by the manager of the Francais factory, announcing that he had tried to reach St. Pierre, but found the coast covered with ashes and the town enveloped in Provisional Agreements of the Companies in the Combine.

The Arrangement to Hold for Fourteen Years—The Morgans Get a

London, May 9. - The Associated Press has secured copies of the shipping combine agreements. They are called "provisional agreements for the purpose of acquisition on or before Dec. 31, 1902, of the White Star, Dominion, American and Atlantic Transport lines, to be organized under the direction of the vendors to the satisfaction of the bankers, namely, the Morgans, under the laws of the State of New York or such other state as shall be selected. The vendors, Ismay, Imrie & Co., Mills & Co. (Dominion Line), and Messrs. Widener, Griscom & Bernard Baker, receive as a consideration for all their capital stock $120,0000000, of which $60,000,000 is preferred stock, cumulative at 6 per cent, $60,000,000 common stock, limited to 10 per cent, and also $50,000,000 in collateral trust 4½ per cent debentures. lateral trust 41/2 per cent debentures.

The White Star Line's acquisition is antedated to Jan. 1, 1901, the combine or corporation, as it is termed, taking all the line's profits from that date. The White Star Line shares are exchanged on the basis of ten times the net profits made by that line in 1901. The arrangement made with the Dominion Line is similar to that made with the White Star Line, but on the net profits for 1900. The American and Transport lines are lumped in one valuation at $34.158.000. subject to $19,686,000 of the American Line's 5 per cent bonds.

The Leland Line is valued at $11,736, 000, based on the understanding that there are or will be outstanding $4,-075,000 in 5 per cent preference shares and $2,500,000 in 4 per cent debentures," which are not included in the purchase price.

METHOD OF PAYMENT. The method of payment is as follows: White Star Line, 25 per cent, cash, 75 per cent preferred at par, and 371/2 per cent of the total amount in common at par. The Dominion Line payment is exactly the same, and the American Transport lines get between them $18,-314,000 in preferred, $915,700 in common, $15,844,000 in eash, and such further cash as may be required, at a rate not exceeding 6 per cent. The Leyland Line gets $11,736,000 cash and the remainder in capital stock, and the bonds to go to the vendors, who, however, contribute to the operation as working capital $786,000 in preferred, and $6.643,000 in common stock, and are to transfer to the syndicate, if and when formed by the bankers, viz., the Morgans, for $50,000,000 in cash, and in full payment for its services, the said $50,000,000 in debentures, and also $2,-500,000 in preferred and $25,000,000 in Erne has already signed articles to face Daly, but if he is whipped Gans will be substituted.

As was generally expected, the race is proving more interesting in the American League than in the National. Pittsburg was greatly conceded before the season opened to be an easy winner of the National pennant, and, despite the fact that New York, Chicago and Boston are showing up unexpectedly well, there is no reason to believe that the champions will not make a runaway race for the flag. It has a seasoned team, with an exceptional corps of pitchers, and will play better ball as the season advances.

In the American League, the clubs that were thought to be the strongest are at present in the second division. Critics argued that Chicago, Boston, Baltimore and the Athletics before crippled by the supreme court decision were the strongest clubs in the circuit. Not one of these teams has made the showing expected. There is no reason, however, to believe that they will drag along in the second division. Chicago, Boston and Baltimore are all composed of seasoned, experienced players, and each carries a strong staff of pitchers, and there is not much doubt that with the advent of warmer weather they will strike their true playing form and rapidly forge to the front. All three should finish in the first division.

A new colored cycling star has appeared and the bicycle riders must shortly decide what they will do about him. Woodie Hedspeth is the name of the new racer, and his home is at Indianapolis. In size and general style, and in his position on a wheel, the new colored wonder resembles Major Taylor to a marked degree. In fact, riders who competed against him in the middle west last season believe he will one day beat the Major, providing he is well handled.

Hedspeth is already a registered rider. The union men declared when they reinstated Major Taylor under pressure that they would compete against no other colored man, and they were practically assured by the board of control that they would not be called upon to do so. But unknown to themselves Hedspeth was registered. and should he decide to come east the matter must be settled between the union and the board of control. His ability will probably have a great deal to do with the matter.

A QUEER RELIGION. Horrible deeds are perpetrated in some countries in the name of religion. To those whose wanderings in foreign countries have not brought them into contact with some of these scenes, it is almost incredible that such ceremonies should be allowed to take place. A religious rite, a "Shoura." as it is termed by the natives, recently took place in the town of Tabriz, in Persia. is an interesting ceremony, but at the same time it is horrible to watch. It is not an exceptionally rare occurrence. In a picture made by an artist who saw the ceremony may be seen a number of men standing with bare backs striking themselves with iron chains. This they continued to do until the word to cease was given. On their retirement about twenty men all clad in white with unsheathed swords, formed up in line. At a given signal they commenced inflicting deep cuts on their heads in the most frantic manner, not taking the slightest notice of their wounds or the blood trickling down the white garments. This extraordinary procedure continued until they were obliged to give in through falling strength. Some got over-excited and had to be stopped by force to prevent them taking their lives. Drink Grano Cereal Coffee

Her appetite continued to improve and already the hollows in her cheeks were beginning to fill out, a delicate pink to suffuse them, and her eyes to sparkle with their cld natural light.

On the afternoon that Mr. Archibald had gone to John Abbot's office "to settle old scores," she had been left elege for an bour for the first time dur-

Mr. Archibaid continued, his face growing hard and stern. "I should have held off a little longer perhaps, if it had not been for a recent discovery; and you have your precious son to thank for this studden ruin that has overtaken you—and him, through you."
"My son! Herbert!" gasped Mr. Abbot; while at this startling statement there was a slight stir behind some draperies leading into a small toilet-room.
"Yes, your son; the rascal attempted."
"Yes, your son; the rascal attempted.

He had managed to bribe one of the servants to act as such and report all news that could be gleaned from the sick-chamber.

Every other day, toward evening, when it began to grow dark, he bent his steps thither to ascertain how Agnes was. If she died he felt that he should be fortunate in getting out of a bad scrape; if she lived he intended to get her so into his power that she would not attempt to bring him to justice for what he had already done.

He was ignorant of the servants to act as such and report all news that could be gleaned from the sick-chamber.

Agnes.
She had, then, confessed the whole story to her guardian, and the man had immediately taken measures to settle the old score with his father and crush him at the same time. But, while listening in his place of concealment to all that had passed between them, a cunning plot had suddenly taken form in his mind. He had heard Mr. Archibald tell his father that Agnes was to be his heiress. "The old codger is evidently as rich as a Jew," he mused; "he at least possesses the faculty of accumulating money, and this girl will reap the benefit of it all. would be like the mockery of fate if I should marry her and get the handling of his money-bags. I believe I'll court her in real earnest. I suppose she'll be r offish after that trick I played but I reckon I shall be able to her, but I reckon I shall be able to frighten her into a secret marriage by threatening to make a public scandal of the affair. It'll be worth trying, anyhow; the old man is ruined, that's sure, and I've no notion of working for my living, old 'money-bags' advised; so I'll set wits at work to outwit him by capturing his heiress.

With this daring scheme in his mind, with this daring scheme in his mind, he had taken a swift course toward the — Hotel, to learn how Agnes was, and how soon there would be a prospect for him to carry it out, and it seemed as if fate had taken especial pains to help on his deviltry that very day.

When he arrived in the vicinity of the house he made his usual signal and in house he made his usual signal, and in a few moments the white cap and pretty face of a chambermaid made their appearance at a gate in the fence which separated the backyard of the hotel from the narrow court that lay between it and the house where Mrs. Remington lived. Abbot glided quickly to the spot.

Anything new today?" he inquired, in a low tone. "Yes: the nurse goes tomorrow ing, and the next day madam is to take the girl home with her," said the maid. "Ha! that's a go, sure enough!" the young man remarked, with a frown.

Anything more? "Nothing special; only she's doing beau-tifully now, every day; she's so much better today that madam and the nurse both out this afternoon, and she's

"Oh, ten or fifteen minutes, perhaps."
The fellow's face lighted. Here was "Good! This is the best news that you have brought me yet. Mollie," he said gleefully; then added, "I'll give you a

EDISON MEETS SANTOS-DUMONT.

The Wizard Chats With the Inventor of the Airship.

Former Too Busy With More Profitable Work to Study Subject of Aerial Navigation.

Thomas A. Edison believes that mankind ought to be ashamed of itself because the problem of aerial navigation by human beings was not solved years ago. He also makes the rather remarkable statement that, while Santos-Dumont has done a great thing in steering airships about through the air, it will be a long time before any contrivance for air navigation is commercially possible, because no inventor will be able to secure any reward for his labor in this line of work under the present patent laws. To make this great possibility practical it seems that we shall have to establish a sort of protective academy of invention, which shall reward the successful inventor of the commercial airship. "I was down in Florida recently, and one day I watched a big bird-I think it was a vulture—that floated about in the air a whole hour without moving its wings perceptibly. When God made that bird he gave it a machine to fly with, but he didn't give it much else. He gave the bird a very small brain of the machine, but he gave to man a pied to a framework of extreme light- grown children. much larger brain in proportion to that of the bird."

Mr. Edison is not the first to make this way the other day to Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, there was a world of meaning in the words. The wizard of the laboratory was nature in human beings and animals much interested in the young man and I do not see why we may not put wno had startled Paris and the world by steering an airship over the city, not once, but several times. When you get your balloon part smaller and yet smaller until it is so small that you cannot see it with a microscope, then you will have it. Then you will have solved the prob-

Here, in a nutshell, is Mr. Edison's solution of the problem of aerial navigation. He believes firmly that it can be solved. But he believes just as firmly that the solution must be reached by means of the flying machine and not by the airship. Only with the machine, he says, can air navigation ever be made either safe or commercially it is to be afraid of falling." profitable. This will be clear to the reader when it is explained that in Mr. Edison's vocabulary the term "air ship" applies to a contrivance that, being lighter than the air, floats in it as a ship floats on the water. The term "flying machine," on the other hand, heavier than the air it is intended to navigate. At rest such an apparatus would not float at all, the power of flotation being furnished by the high speed at which it moves. In Edison's mind, then, aerial navigation is simply a question of sufficient motive power, properly applied, to overcome the lack of buoyancy necessary to make the machine rise and to keep it in eath. He constantly refers to the figure of the bird, which anyone may see rise and fly at will. "Take the case of the vulture," he chine which is a thousand times as over a distance which man finds encumbered with all sorts of obstacles and there is scarcely a flutter of its wings in the operation. There is nothing there but a machine and a small brain, and it is not a very remarkable machine either. Why is it that a man cannot make a flying machine as efficient as the bird? A lot of people say that it was never meant that man should fly; that if nature had intended such a thing, man would have been provided with the necessary machinery in his body, such as is now possessed by the bird. But you might just as well say that it was never intended that man should have any light aside from the sun and the moon and stars him, or that he should not move about

Some one asked Mr. Edison whether his new storage battery would be of service in solving the problem of aerial navigation. "Oh, no, of course not," he replied. 'It would be too heavy. We must get the lightest possible motive power. Thus the greatest factor of this problem is to get a very light motor which will be powerful enough to operate the flying machine properly. The best thing now in sight for this purpose is a gasoline or gunpowder motor, something that will get up power quickly KIDNAPPED HIS and which at the same time weighs little. Santos-Dumont is on the right track in that regard, but he can't go much farther till he gets rid of his gas bag. You cannot control a bal-loon in a gale of wind. In order to airship, it will be necessary to make its operation absolutely sure and its use safe. The flying machine is bound

"No, I will not go into anything which cannot be protected from the pirates who live off the work of inventors, and I do not believe it would be possible to secure a patent on either a flying machine or an airship, or any part of one, that would stand the test of the courts. If some one should make a commercially successful flying machine dozens would at once copy isn't a judge in the country who would hold that there was really any invention in such an apparatus, because so successful machine which is to be and the many failures which have been will be very slight. INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS.

It seems an almost universal belief that the air itself offers tremendous resistance to the passage of any body through it. As a matter of fact doesn't. The bird in its flight has been refers, as he uses it, to a contrivance both a constant wonder to man and an unending promoter of hope that some day he may equal its aerial movements, but if the air resisted flight according to the computations of Newton and the ordinary text books of the day the swallow would have to be as strong as a man. Prof. Lang-ley has demonstrated the contrary by interesting experiments which any one may reproduce. He attached a plate of brass to a string registering apparatus and fastened it to a long arm which easily could be set in motion. When the arm was at rest the brass registered one pound, but when the arm was revolved the spring, instead of being drawn out still further, was "Here is a natural flying ma- contracted until it registered less than an ounce. The weight then seemed to heavy as the air it displaces. In a few float in the air, and it was found that seconds of leisurely flight it can sweep much less power was required to move the plate rapidly than at a low rate of speed. It seemed to run over the air much the same as a "skipping" stone runs over the surface of the water and does not sink until its mo-

Mr. Edison's plan of solution was apparently so different from that of Santos-Dumont that I asked the aeronaut how he regarded the matter. "I don't think our ideas are so far apart." he replied. "He told me I was on the right track. I den't believe in doing away with the balloon entirely yet, but I am making the gas bag smaller and increasing the motive power all the time, so perhaps after a while I shall come to Mr. Edison's plan. Unfortunately, what he says about the rewards of the inventor is true, but I have never cared for that part of it. I never tried to get a patent on any part of my airship, and so not intend to. Whatever money I get in prizes I shall devote to further experiments in the airship line. "I was glad to talk with Mr. Edison. He is a practical man. He has promised to give me the first battery he turns out of his factory, and I shall use it on my airship for the purpose of lighting the gasoline engines with an electric spark. This is the safest and quickest way, and, of course, the battery will be so light that it will add value to my equipment without adding unnecessary weight." Minard's Liviment Cures Colds, etc

"For a good many years, ever since he had become well off, in fact, the German had been endeavoring to induce his wife to take a trip abroad with him. He wanted to take her to Ireland to see her remaining folks there, and from there on to the little village in Germany where he was born. But he could never induce her to undertake the voyage. They are a very devoted elderly couple, but she couldn't see his proposition at all. She wanted to see the Emerald Isle again the worst way, as she admitted, but her recollection of the stormy time she had of it when she came to this country from Ireland as a young girl lived in her memory, and all her husband's persuasions were in vain. She begged him to go back to Germany alone and enjoy himself, but he declined to do this, playfully telling her that he was afraid she might run away with some younger and better-looking man during his absence.

LAND OF PROMISE IN GOLDEN WEST.

new settlers in the Golden West: Red Deer, Alberta, April 18.—When the train pulled out of Calgary on the Edmonton branch, Mr. Winn, the agent of the immigration department, had just made comfortable the settlers least used to the fatigue of travel, and wished them all good luck. The effect of the pleasant word and ready helping hand of the government representatives at the points of entry can hardly be overestimated. Every man and oman thus treated seems to regard it as a good omen, and they go forward to the unknown all the more courageously. And what life stories are to learned on these immigrant cars! This morning there were eighty-five settlers on the regular train north. They were from Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. One young woman had a brood of five chil-dren, of the steps-and-stairs pattern, the eldest being perhaps eleven.

"I am from Nebraska," she said. "My husband went up with our stock and implements a month ago, leaving me to follow with the children. He was born in Ontario, but I have never 403 girls, a total of 1,783. The total been out of Nebraska, in my life. Why, for the three months ending March I never was on a railway train till I took this journey, and we've been on the cars now since Monday, five days. It has been tiresome, but pleasant, to me, for I have seen some beautiful things. The mountains are grand," added the Nebraska woman, as she turned to the west, where the Rockies rose in enormous bulk, like great white clouds banked against the blue of mid-

"Why did we come? Oh, there's no secret about that. We have had four very poor seasons in our section, and last year it was so dry that we had to spend a lot of money to put up a windmill and get water to save the stock from dying. My husband said we had better get out, for if we didn't and had another bad season, we shouldn't be able to pull stakes. This looks like a fine country, and I guess we'll get on all right."

Later, at Olds station, when I landed, the smallest of the ex-Nebraskans on the platform gave a shout, and a big broad-shouldered fellow came forward, kissed his wife, gathered as much of Nebraska's exodus in his arms as he could—one has to draw the line at five—and marched them off to the

THE MAN FROM OKLAHOMA.

The most interesting of the settlers, however, was the man from Oklahoma, who, with his wife and four children, ranging from 12 to 3, was en route to the latest land of promise. in Iowa, lived in Kansas, was in the Oklahoma rush, been farming and frontiering all my life," he said. "No use talking; that land of mine down there wasn't any good." He said "warn't," but the reader can reproduce the mid-western drawl for

"If it had been I wouldn't be here. Sold the place for seven hundred; so you can guess. Got some good stock, dairy cows, four fine horses, some pigs ing to pitch the tents and let the family stay till I look up some land. It na got to have timber on it. My wife, the has been on the plains all her life, and she is just bound to have some timber. Don't care if it is back from the railroad a bit. Guess I'll not be so far from the other road when it strikes across to the Pine River Pass. I reckon it's going through all right. There are my boys growing up. Real smart boys. Want to give them a chance. I'm anxious about hooling for them, and if we go too far out I guess there may be some

GUN PLAY AND GOOD MORALS.

The Oklahoma man for the next few minutes pumped me like one of his prairie windmills on the details of government, the organization of sch districts, the relations with Great Britain, the powers of the territorial and federal authority, and the safety of life and property.

got a revolver," he said, when I told him of the law against the carrying of concealed weapons, "but it ain't for use against man. There's lots of gun play. where I come from, but I reckon it ain't Christian to put lead in a man when his back is turned. Lots of them settle their rows there with their guns, but, you know, they're getting down on it, and sometimes they put a man in the 'pen' for a good long term for shooting another, sort of un-

The Oklahoma man's ideas of our relations to Great Britain were hazy. "They tried to scare me off," he said, when I told them I was going to Canada, by saying first thing I knew I'd be packed off to South Africa to fight the Boers; but I didn't scare a bit. I fust said to myself, there ain't no conscription in Canada that I ever heard of, and I'll risk it anyway. Besides that war's a gone coon.

The Oklahoma young hopefuls were originals. The 6-year-old boy proudly drew out a knife and exhibited it, a big horn-handled jackknife. "My uncle gave me that to skin the bears up in Canada," he said, confidently. "I'm going to get a pony, too, and I think I'll call it Daisy. We had a bird at home, but we had to let it fly away when we left. I'm sleepy, but you can't tire me. No, sir. We had to sleep on the quilt last night, in the room at the station, and I just couldn't sleep."

These poor little children had been on the train traveling steadily, under great hardships, for eleven days, and yet the mountain peaks, a colt in a meadow, a flock of wild ducks, and the ice on the little lakes interested them seenly. Ice, of course, is rather scarce in Oklahoma. Other settlers had stories largely of the same sort: Growing families and no room to spread out at home; reports from friends who had settled in Alberta as to the fine opportunities for mixed farming and the crop results of last year. They were bound all up the line, a little knot dropping off at each s. tion. The most intense interest was displayed in the country through which we passed. The judgment was frank "Too much alkali there and decided. "I have had enough of bare prairie; I want trees." "That is fine black earth; bet you that would grow rare crous." were remarks heard at

WHERE VILLAGES GROW FAST.

As the train reached Carstairs, forty miles north of Calgary, the plain bedotted as far as one could see with newly-built settlers' houses. showing up brown and bare in the morning sunlight. At the siding long lines of cars, full of settlers' effects, being unloaded, and horses, cattle and implements and household furniture were mixed up in apparently inextricable confusion. The scene was a good deal like that on get-away day Toronto Industrial Exhibition. Near the station men were rushing up stores and dwellings, and a prairie it will be shipped out over the mountown under construction was revealed. takes to the Pacific Coast, and thence, "De chile got so hot hit 'gin

Mr. Stewart Lyon, who is writing a | At Didsbury and at Olds, the next two Beries of letters to the Globe from stations north, the same scenes were Western Canada, thus describes the repeated, cars unloading, stores and houses building, and out on the prairie men at work in the fields. One began to understand the importance of the figures given by Mr. Sutherland, of the Calgary Dominion land office, who said that in his district 931 homestead entries had been made since July 1, 1901, or 129 more than for the whole of the year previous, with the best two and a half months of the year to come. These figures mean that at least 4,500 settlers had come into the district, for

> The number going in along the line between Calgary and Edmonton will be at least 12,000 this year. The bulk of those passing through the Calgary immigration depot are bound north, and have entered Canada at Portal, on the Soo Line. The Calgary records for January were 120 males over twelve years, and 70 females, and of children 100 boys and 90 girls. In February there were 216 males over twelve, 136 females over 12, 256 boys and 208 girls. In March there were 541 males above 12, 361 females, 478 boys and was 2,979, and April will itself show almost three thousand. To indicate the enormous quantities of settlers' effects brought in, it is only necessary to state that in March 210 cars were passed at Calgary, the value of settlers' effects being entered at $156,000. During the last three days over 100 cars of effects were sent north over

THE LAND OF PROMISE.

What is bringing this army of people into the country and causing towns and hamlets to spring up almost in a night? Nothing less than the discovery by the farmers of the United States of a land of marvelous productiveness, and the most remarkable variety of advantages, a land which has hitherto been almost altogether neglected, and Moore, a very well-known Toronto gentleman, who is land commissioner for the Red Deer tract, a splendid stretch of country, extending some 35 miles along the railway between Innisfail and Lacombe, and five miles back on either side, and which is now being very rapidly disposed of to American geon, of the C. P. R., and Rev. Dr. de white woman baby make de black Gaetz, formerly pastor of Queen's Ave-nue Methodust Church, London, and "Now you hesh up," said mammy, one of the early settlers here, I gleaned much information that explains the eagerness of Americans to settle in this region. It is a park country, with gentle slopes and alternating woods and plains, the trees being chiefly spruce along the water courses and poplar and Balm of Gilead on the highclumps of spruce, some of them with and cut up into lumber, which is consequently cheaply. ply, is in process of erection. Some twenty miles down the stream there is an excellent deposit of lignite, which said to contain almost 60 per cent. of fixed carbon, and is a fine, freeburning coal. It crops out on the river bank, and the total depth of the deposit at the thickest point uncovered is

The Red Deer is a fine fish stream, the trout being large and good fighters.

It becomes almost necessary to say that I am not an immigration "boomer," and that these facts are all, where not personally verified, vouched for by reputable public servants. For diversified scenery, a pleasant park country, a deep rich black soil, and an enthusiastic people, Red Deer is the log," he continued, much enthused, chile ter dis day." best bit of the west I have yet seen. like the California wheat, in sailing vessels to Europe. They do not believe that wheat will be a profitable crop if it must always be hauled east to the

The bulk of the settlers coming in here are Americans, but Englishmen, Icelanders from Manitoba, who are ex-cellent settlers, and Swedes are also noticeable. There are no special colonies, and the newcomers readily mix with one another. The Americans are most energetic and enterprising, and are all pleased with the country. The idea that there may be danger to Canadian nationality as a result of their coming in overwhelming numbers is laughed at by the men on the spot. TROUBLED ABOUT TWO KINGS.

"They seem most concerned," said Mr. Cottingham, of the land department, "about the two kings—Edward and Frost." Some of them rather ex-pect to find restrictions imposed by the King at every turn, and the King himking at every turn, and the king him-self at the railway station, with his crown on, running things. They say to me about the frost: "Now, tell us the truth. We don't mind 30 or 40 be-low, but we don't want to settle where it is 60 or 70." On these two points it only needs a little experience to show them how absurd are their misapprehensions, and they usually come back and laugh with me over them. One told me the other day that he had heard a great deal more about "the King" in the States than he had heard in Canada. They will make the best of settlers, and we cannot get too many of them. The homestead entries in the Red Deer district, which is the next north of Calgary, have been 114 in March. and 195 for the first three months of the year. Since July 1, 1901, the total has been 668. For the year to June 30 they will total 900 at the least, or an addition of 4,500 to the population. It must not be supposed that there is no leaven of Canadians here to assimilate this foreign immigration. Rev. Dr. Gaetz, for example, has been here eighteen years, and has a family of ten children, most of them settled right around here, and all in the west. He came in, as did Mr. J. T. Moore on his first journey some time earlier, by Red River carts, along the old traders' trail from Calgary to Edmonton, long before the railway came through the valley. When Mr. Moore first came up here, just twenty years ago, there were but a few traders and others scattered along the trail, and no attempt at per-manent settlement. The Central Alberta country, therefore, is but a creation of a day, as the history of nations goes.

Baby's Own Tablets is the best medicine in the world for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Nervousness, Diarrhæa, and the Troubles of Teething Babies. These Tablets have been in use for years and thousands of mothers say that nothing else acts so quickly and relieves and cures little ones so surely. Children will take them as readily as candy, and, if crushed to a powder or dissolved in water, you can give them with absolute safety to the tiniest, weakest baby you ever saw. All Mothers Praise Them. Mrs. II. Rainshaw, Acton, Ont., says :- "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for some time, and would not be without them in the house. When I first gave them to my baby he was very constipated; his stomach was sour and he vomited his food almost as soon as he took it. He was very cross and restless and I had to be up with him many times during the night, and it was very trying to both baby and myself. A friend advised me to get Baby's Own Tablets and since using them there is a great change in baby, his stomach is sweet, his bowels regular, he is no longer cross and sleeps well, and I do not have to le up nights. I can recommend the Tablets to every mother." You can get the Tablets

Some False Standards by Which Men's Lives Are Judged.

Associated With an Honest and Contrite Heart

Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?-St. Matthew, vii., 16. There is an old saw which tells us that nothing succeeds like success which is another way of saying that success vindicates its own methods. The statement is false and misleading. and as an incentive to youth it is wholly disastrous. To put a disregard of the means employed into a young man's mind, and so convince him that if he accomplishes his purpose the world will ask nothing more, drove a knife into his heart. In very truth there is a kind of apparent success which spells defeat. and a kind of apparent failure which is reckoned success in heaven. In other words, the best thing for a man is to be manly always. A lie is apt to come home to sleep and bring with it a large brood of unpleasant memories, and the man who cheats cheats himself out of more than he does his neighbor. be straightforward is worth something, and especially in times when temptations are both many and strong. It is a beautiful world and at the same time an almost cruel world. That is to say, it is governed by law, and the law is inexorable. There are no circumstances under which you can dishonesty finds no nook or corner in which to hide itself. You may demur at this and tell me that many a rogue is happy, that many a man deals in crooked measures and has the respect of the community. I doubt both propositions. Men are measured pretty accurately in the long run, and a man is not likely to wear his heart on his sleeve and proclaim his regrets. The world has not yet been turned upside down. Every man loses unless his life is square. Eternal logic runs in that direction. Wrong is always wrong and right is always right. If you look at life from that standpoint you are safe; if not, you are in danger.

Beneath a man's reputation, which is sometimes a man's mask with false do so. features, is his character, his real self. If that is not upright he has a hornets' and cannot be happy. If this is not our conception of God. I do not care for what that man seems to be, nor for what he poses as being, nor yet for what the people say he is-he trampled on his immortal nature, has misdirected his energies, and until you can find figs on thistles he will not be satisfied with himself. As far as the east is from the west, so far is he from what God and nature intended him to Strip off his wealth, tear down his social and commercial position, lay bare his inmost soul, and what do you find? Any material on which to build a character fit for heaven? And yet not live at all. This little life, a mere hand's breadth of time is as nothing. It is the eternity ahead of us that gives significance to the present, and it is a man's fitness for heaven that stamps him as real gold or counterfeit coin. It is not what he appears to be here, but what we shall honestly be when we get there, that counts. The day after death, when we leave all these trappings behind us, life's falsities and wrongs will tell the story. Earth fading away in the distance, immortality looking us in the face, asking us who we are and what we are -then we shall step on the scales and be weighed. If we are found to be just and true and loyal the angels will be glad to welcome us, but if we bring nothing but our misdeeds we shall be pitied because of the great mistakes tacle of one-half of the human family we have made. God's blessing on a utterly excluded from the work of life, man's honest life will be worth more than the whole world's wealth. The thing for a reasonable human second is to stay there. In that statement is included the essential elements of religion. It marks an ascending grade from the lower to the higher altitude of mind, until at last we step across the grave into heaven. Nothing equals in value a noble life. Live well, then, live nobly; live for others as the blessed Christ did. When you of mind, that is the best of all indeed, but quite long enough for your purpose.—George H. Hepworth.

A play or a novel to be popular must have many points of appeal-incident, character, emotion and motive-incident for the crowd, character for the few, motive for the fewer, and emotion for the women. Without emotion, without passion, and the analysis of passion, no novel, I think, and certainly unless a man lives for heaven he does no play, can succeed great'v. Women have imposed this condition dramatists and novelists, and I think upon musicians and painters also, and the appeal of art, as a whole, is to women first, and to men and the multitude afterwards. A few years ago a theatrical manager in New York, the Napoleon of theatrical warfare, trying to inspire me to write a play, said. "Write me a play for the girls of 19." "Why the girls of 19?" asked. "Because they are quite sure to bring all the rest," he answered.

These were high and honor-harmony with the universe, and the able occupations without doubt but able occupations, without doubt, but they left unanswered the question, "What business have (unmarried) women turned of 40 to do in the world?" Women younger than that have now to settle the question for themselves, and they are doing so by the exercise of talents which are commanding the world's esteem. HOUSING POOR OF SCOTLAND

Efforts of the Authorities to Do Away With Slums.

The Work So Far Accomplished In City of Glasgow Has Cost a Tremendous Sum of Money.

The complete returns of the censu for 1901 in Scotland which have been published indicate only too clearly that the exodus from the country districts into the large cities is still greatly on the increase. As a consequence, on this side of the Tweed, as in London and Birmingham, there is in progress a movement which has for its ultimate object the reduction, if not the entire removal, of those slums which are not only the haunts of crime, misery, and vice, but, as two outbreaks both of bubonic plague and of smallpox within one year in Glasgow alone have demonstrated, are the breeding-grounds of disastrous epidemics. In Scotland, as in England, enthusiasts are dreaming of "garden citles" and, like Mr. H. G. Wells, of workmen in the great centers of population being conveyed speedily and nightly into the country "by twopenny tube" motor-car, or that "mono-rail" which is al-ready seriously suggesed as a means of bringing Edinburgh and Glasgow within 25 minutes of each other. Apart from such possibilities, however, two circumstances are telling in favor of a revival of that popular agitation for a more effectual treatment of the hous-ing problem which led the Presbytery of Glasgow thirteen years ago to take special evidence as to the condition of the poor by means of a commission. In the first place, the religious organizations of the country, following the example of the Salvation Army, are making a fresh effort to cope with that "mad criminal drunkenness"—as Lord Rosebery called it in his great speech in Glasgow-which is THE CURSE AND SCANDAL OF SCOTLAND. and holds its most hideous carnival in the slums and "closes" of Edinburgh and Glasgow. In the second place, family; and, of course, a two-roomed there is an all but universal feeling house containing two families is not that only through some solution of the housing problem can the "decent" be separated from the "vicious" among

Taking advantage of the large powers conferred upon them, most Scottish city corporations have scheduled unsanitary dwellings in specific areas, have purchased and demolished them, and sold the sites for other purposes. While the inhabitants of these areas problem which the corporations have tried to solve either directly or indirectly through partially regulated enterprise. Glasgow, as the largest city in Scotland, supplies the best illustration of what is being done and of what can be done. There the corporation through a body of its own appointment known as the improvement trust committee, which acquires lands for building purposes and erects houses constructed. These include 200 shops and 1,455 dwelling houses, among the latter being 402 one-apartment houses, 892 two-apartment houses 150 threeapartment houses, and eleven houses of larger size. The minimum rents charged for the one-apartment houses is £4 10s, for the two-apartment houses £6 16s, and for the three-apartment houses £12 9s, while the maximum rents are £8, £14 and £21 respectively. As a result of the general work of the trust in destroying bad houses and erecting good ones, the death rate over the city, which in 1876 was 27.4 per 1,000, is now 21.1; and in the central district, which is the least the rate has been reduced from 40 to 30. There is really, however, no end to the labors of any corporation which seeks to solve its own housing problem in its own way. The cen-sus returns now issued show the exact position of the city. In 1891 houses in Glasgow had an average of 2,325 rooms and 4,727 persons, or 2,033 persons per room. At the census of 1901, when the city had been largely extended by annexation, the houses had an average of 2,562 rooms and 4,778 persons, or only 1,865 persons per room. There are 32,709 houses of one apartment each in which live 104,128 persons, or 3,183 per room. There are 784 houses of two apartments each, in which are housed 348,731 persons, or 4.927 per house and 2,463 per room. There are 28,055 houses of three apartments each, in which are housed 151,room. In short, nearly onehalf of the population live in houses of two apartments. In 1891 there were 31,032 houses of one apartment, and in the same area there are now only

This announcement has given impulse to a local agitation for further inquiry and action, which is certain to increase in volume as the time for oband shops. Sir Robert Giffen has in a letter put the matter thus:
"As yet, although the Glasgow corporation have invested a good deal of money, they have not housed more than 10,000 families. If they are to make a great impression on the housing of the poor, they will have to accommodate in the end probably 100,000 families, if not more, involving ten times the expenditure already incurred. All the while private trade will be hampered and the corporation will have become the chief employer labor and the chief landlord in Glasgow, which are both undesirable positions for the corporation to hold .- Lon-

Mr. Bailey purchased Jumbo from the Zoological Gardens of London. He brought with enormous difficulties in getting him aboard the ship at London, and like by natives. difficulties were expected here in unloading him. Mr. Bailey sent Scott in to see Jumbo. The little man went in and began to talk to the biggest brute tonic and the greatest health maker in the world since prehistoric times. His soft, gentle voice could scarcely be heard. With his hands empty Scott went up to Jumbo in his room, which had been built upon the upper deck of the ship, and walked up to

"'Hello, Jumbo. Nice old Jumbo. Wont you come with me, Jumbo? Come on, Jumbo. Come along! "And as he loosened the chains upca Jumbo's ankles the big fellow stepped out of the house and submitted quietly to the process of being hoisted off the ship by means of an enormous crane. Scott remained with Jumbo all the time. He paid no attention to any of the other elephants. Among them was a very big and very bad elephant called Pilot, who long since paid the death penalty for his wickedness. It was plain to see that Pilot was horribly jealous of Jumbo. Before Jumbo's arrival Pilot had been the star monster of the herd, and he seemed to know that he had been superseded as well as we knew it.

"One evening at Lansing, Mich. Pilot got loose from his chains, and, without making any noise, he worked his way around in front of Jumbo's place of honor in the menagerie. Suddenly Scott felt himself seized and dragged backwards, and in the next instant he saw before him the enorm ous trunk of Jumbo. Looking beyond the protecting trunk he saw the maddened Pilot standing before him, shrieking his anger at being prevented by Jumbo from wreaking his dislike upon Scott. But old Jumbo stood just there, holding Scott between his trunk and his fore legs, and Mr. Pilot knew it would be bad work for him to come

"Pilot's shrieks were heard all around the show, and in a moment his keep-ers came running in from the cook tent, where they were eating their supper, and for a while they had a lively time of it getting Pilot back to his place and getting him securely chained. "Another time, at Ottumwa, Iowa, Pilot led the other elephants into a stampede. At first it seemed as if Jumbo would join them, but when old Scott said, 'Here, Jumbo, what are you going to do? You are not going to leave old Scott, are you? Stay here, Jumbo,' and I am blessed if the big fellow didn't quiet down in an in-stant. A few moments later the other elephants got beyond control of their keepers and bolted off through an alley at the side of the show grounds. Old Scott took Jumbo, and hurrying out to the end of the alley, where the elephants were shricking a sort of a pow-wow, as if they were deciding what they would do, Scott sent Jumbo into the alley ahead of him, saying 'Send them home, Jumbo. Make them go back, Jumbo.' And back they went. "Jumbo never got a blow or a prod all the time he was with the show from the time he landed until his untimely death by accident up in Canada. It will be remembered that it was his attempt to rescue his little mate, Tom Thumb, from injury by a train, which caused him to be squeezed betweep the bank of a cut and the train, and killed. Tom Thumb was the smallest elephant in the herd, and Jumbo would have nothing to do with any of the Tom was a lady elephant despite the name, and Jumbo was her steadfast beau, while old Scott was a sort of guardian to both."-Washing-

GOOD HUSBAND

Rev. E. J. Hardy Has Some Suggestions for Married People Who Do Not Always Agree.

Men cannot be chivalrous and selfdenying if women do not give them the chance of cultivating these noble qualities. Instead of this, some fondly foolish wives encourage their husbands in rudeness and selfishness by not demanding and even insisting upon that attention, consideration and help which every woman, much more a wife, may claim from a man. Sometimes it is a woman's "highest pleasure" to bear all her husband's burdens. To secure this highest pleasure, she makes him weak, inefficient, and childishly selfish. It she had taken a proper stand and respected herself and her sex during the first year of married life, things would have been different. "To be ever beloved one must be ever agreeable," so it is most fool-ish, as well as wrong, for a young woman, when married, to lay aside those graces and accomplishments that won her her husband. It is this sort of thing that made Swift say that "the reason why so few marriages are happy is because young women spend their time in making nets, not in mak-

won: And oft the careless find it to their cost,

The lover in the husband may be lost. Young wife-Suppose you were to come down late one morning and find the coffee cold, what would you do? Her husband-My dear, I should make it hot for you. Of course a husband ought not to expect much when he is unpunctual at meals, but still it is never safe for a wife to disregard the precept-"Feed the brute."

The following remedy has been suggested for a delicate wife: "For a slight headache, give her a dozen pairs of gloves; if it grows worse, a new gown. In extreme cases a new hat has been known to produce instant relief. For nervous debility, a new horse and carriage; for dullness, a theater ticket; extreme weakness, a trip to the sea; nervous irritability, invite the lion of the season to din-We do not advise a man to begin his married life by administering drugs in this way, for the domestic pharmacopoeia would soon be exhausted, but there is one thing he ought to do, and that is to abstain women), arousing jealousy and every other action that may even remotely has not heard of a bad-husband headache, or one brought on by the worrying and fault-finding of a selfish man? A man is always bound to protect the health and happiness of his wife, but this is especially the case during the Mr. Kent had Bright's disease; he first year of marriage. And the wife on her part ought, for the sak others, if not for her own sake, think more of her health than dancing about from one kind of dissipation to another. Ignorance of the laws of nature does not make a young woman more innocent or better in any way, and it may destroy or blight her married life.

"What is the reason," one Irishman asked another, "that you and your wife are always disagreeing?" cause," replied Pat, "we are both of one mind—she wants to be master, and so do I." They go to church and say "I will," and then, perhaps, on the way home, one or the other says "I won't," and that begins it. A man said, in the presence of Archdeacon Paley, that he and his wife had lived together for thirty years and never had a difference of opinion. Paley's comment was: "Praiseworthy, but how dull!" There is more spice and zest in domestic life when husband and wife do not think exactly alike, and if either of them are the stronger, it is a great mistake, besides being tyrannical, to try to crush the opinions and individuality out of the other. There is room in the world for both. and God knew what he was about when

A husband said of his wife, "I would not mind her having the last word, remedy arrested the progress of the if it were the last word, but there are always more last words." first year of married life a man may think that he cannot get too many words from his wife, but his opinion will alter in this respect if she acquire the most dangerous habit of trying to get the last word. An old Athenian custom required that a newly-married couple, when first alone, should eat a quince together, in token, as this fruit was the symbol of good will, that their conversation should be mutually pleasant. The young husband need not be afraid of spoiling his wife by kindness, for an ounce of praise worth more than a pound of faultfinding. A woman, "like the Koh-inoor, mounts to the price that's put on

When a wife has been planning and working all day in order that she and her house may be pleasant for her husband's reception on his return from work, does she not deserve a word of praise, instead of having all were also there to enforce the settle- wish that he had a tail to wag when he is pleased." Some husbands never wag their tails. "Man," says Victor Hugo, "was the conundrum of the guess her, but we will never give her up-no, never." I quite agree that no man can guess woman, but that husband goes nearest to understanding his wife who loves her most and in the wisest way. And the more he studies her the more interesting will the subject be, and the less likely will he be to give her up. A woman, it has been said, is like tar; only melt her, and she will take any form you please. We know, of course, that there never was a wife of a waspish disposition, but if ever such a phenomenon should appear, let her husband remember that "more wasps are caught by honey than by vinegar." Of course, if the pump sucks there must be a valve to prevent its leaking when the bulb is contracted. No one reports ever seeing a mosquito leaking at the mouth, so the germ cannot pass out that way be-cause there is no thoroughfare. "How the poison gets into the wound is a subject of conjecture, and possibly a layman's guess is as good as an other, and I venture to make one. The so-called poison, it seems to me, is the saliva, and is possibly used, as alleged, to inflame and enlarge the wound. It is forced down and out by the mechanical pressure exerted either on the clypens or the smaller bulb by the forcing into the flesh of the main lance and setae. This is, I think, rendered probable by the shape of the smaller bulb and the clypeus.

Use Care and Avoid Trouble

ANY growers of Field Roots seldom succeed in having a good crop. Why is it? They may not carefull that seed diff. other article they purchase. All varieties of seed are valued in proportion to the care with which they are grown. Good seed is the first requisite for a good crop, and the quality governs the price. Next to the seed is the careful selection and preparation of the ground for the crop. Care in selecting seed together with intelligent cultivation are the absolute requirements to win success—successful growers know it and prove it.

Steele, Briggs' Celebrated Turnip Seeds

Are produced by growers of the highest standing in Europe, they are all the product from carefully selected and improved strains. The following varieties are the finest bred stocks in existence and have grown the most abundant crops that it is possible to obtain. You can improve your crop by using them:-

PATHETIC ROMANCE

It was Saturday night, and the sound | her often, but the prospect was not encouraging. The society of such a pretty orphan in charge of such a grim relative was not for him. It would take too much time, and he was no hand at sitting around waiting for opportunities.

Yet, somehow as the autumn days passed into winter, acquaintance rip-ened, although the eyes of vigilance was upon them. Such strange, accidental meetings in hall, parlor and dining-room, just before Auntie appeared. Only a glance, a word, on of-fered book or flowers, but the small slow building. And they were both growing quiet and thoughtful, and cared not for the innocent revels of the other boarders. But on Sunday evenings with the gathering around the piano, their eyes were fixed on the same hymn book as they poured forth

Aunt Edwina by his devotion to sacred music, and was never at a loss to think of one more devout rendering. As his selections were of many stanzas and he insisted upon singing all, it may be inferred that he loved hymns. At least, this was the united expres-sion of the others, and he did not say them nay. So after their renditions, Rosette retired to dream happily of impossibilities, while Marston sat late with his pipe, and a book which failed to interest him.

His avowal came unexpectedly and in that most unromantic spot-the dining-room. Rosetta had slipped down early; perhaps, she might see him a moment before dinner-no one was in the room.

Leaning over the table she arranged the stiff bouquet in the center. A quiet step in the rear caused her little heart to thrill and she turned her head. It was too much for the man behind her. Their eyes met in a quick ecstasy as their lips touched.

He had intended to whisper, but the unexpected shuffle of Aunt coming rapidly, disconcerted still further his chaotic senses. Roscoe, in the security of his chamber, gazed in his long mirror with hysterical amusement. "Lucky it was so old lady's lack of hearing. Rosetta kept her bright eyes on her plate, and wondered if anyone noticed

DRIVEN TO SWEAT SHOPS.

Broken-hearted the young woman was set adrift on the world to make her own way. She had never known what work was in her childhood days, but being too proud to return to her parents and seek help she obtained employment in various sweat shops, sewing to support herself. For two years she led this dreary life, earning barely enough to live in cheap boarding-houses. Finally her nerves gave way under the strain and she fell sick. Then it was that the crowning misfortune of her whole misguided career came upon her.

No longer able to earn the money with which to pay the rent for her squalid little room she was too proud to beg or seek public assistance, so she wandered the streets ceaselessly for two days without food. The poor, mis-fortune-ridden girl was not allowed even this liberty. She was arrested by the police of Paris for vagrancy.

and all but dead so that she could no longer resist, word was sent to her parents, from whom she had been separated for five years. They came to her post haste, but the poor, tired young girl was worn out and delirious when they found her. She could not be moved, so the proud parents who disinherited her for marrying against their wishes were forced to sit by the side of a narrow little cot in a Paris jail and do what they could to allay her sufferings.

They have forgiven her, and when she recovers sufficiently she will be taken back to the home she left to become the bride of the unfeeling bank

OYSTERS THAT GROW ON TREES

The British Government conducts a turtle farm on Ascension Island. January in each year sees the commencement of the turtie season, which does not, as a rule, last more than three months. All turtles caught at Ascension Island are the property of the crown, and are only sent to England and other places for disposal as directed by the admiralty, in whose hands the government of the whole island practically rests. The particular species which favors Ascension with its visits is the green turtle, from whose green fat and portion of the fins that particular brand of soup is made which is proverbially associated with the banquets of London's civic dignitaries. Many people still smile when they hear travelers talk of oysters that grow on trees, just as long ago sailors were laughed at when they came home with stories of flying fish. Both are real enough, however, and the tree oyster is of delicious taste, if voyagers through the tropics are to be believed. At a conference recently held in Barbadoes, J. E. Duedren, of Jamaica, as economist scientist of some note brought forward an interesting proposal for increasing and improving the cultivation of tree oysters, and as there is a rich field in nearly all the West India islands and along the cost of Central America, something may come of the scheme. These ovsters cling to the branches of the man-

When the English rooks are building their nests frequently a rookery is disturbed by big quarreis over the placing of those huge bundles of sticks in the tree tops. The trouble occurs mostly with young birds wishing to place their nests too near to an old nest. A council of rooks is called with the result that the disputants' nests are soon scattered to the winds and the claimants and the defendants both have to begin a new foundation. Sometimes there is a disturbance on a more limited scale when a pair of birds do their very best to pull the sticks from the nest of another pair, each of the contending parties doing all they can to prevent the other from building. Rooks are curiously weather wise, and they scent a coming storm and set to work to repair and strengthen their nests before that imminent gale has been evident to the farmer. The rook's powers of sight and hearing are remarkable.-Chicago News.

New York Subway a Tremendous Engineering Task.

Strange Sights Along the Line of Construction-A Mine Under the Metropolis.

Imagine a tunnel six feet high and three feet wide, from New York to Chicago, and you have some conception of the cubical contents of the New York subway when completed, says a New York writer in the Washigton Star. Now imagine that from New York to Cleveland there was solid rock, that for a considerable distance a street car service had to be maintained unimpaired above the fligging toilers, and that water mains, gas pipes and sewage had to be moved whenever the path of the tunnel intercepted them, and you may realize what whenever the path of the tunnel intercepted them, and you may realize what a tremendous engineering task is being pushed forward now in New York city months ahead of contract time.

The comparison is not quite accurate, but it serves its purpose of calling attention to the most gigantic piece of engineering in modern times. Three million cubic yards of space, underneath a teeming city, are to make room for a $5,000,000 railway. Sixty-five thousand tons of steel will be used in the arches, pillars and rails. Ten thousand men will have been engaged for nearly four years in bringing this marvel about. All this is to the end that the New Yorker and the visiting stranger may be whisked from one extremity of Manhattan Island to the other in a hurry.

At the present time millions of feet of lumber are being used to maintain undisturbed the street surface, with its ceaseless traffic going on above the excavations. If this lumber had been used in building homes for the army of 10,000 workmen employed, there would have been sufficient for a two-story frame house for every man. The 2,500,000 tons of rock which are to be taken out would make a solid wall three feet thick, six feet high and nearly 500 miles long, and if the dirt were spread over central Park the entire area would be covered ten inches deep. As a matter of fact, acres and acres of New Jersey swamp land transit commission began to dispose of the surplus dirt and rock upon them. It is a veritable city under a city which the engineers and contractors are building, a city of one street, to be sure, now with two roadways, now with four, but it is an electrically light, clean, well-ventilated avenue of travel, and millions of passengers will be carried over it STRANGE METROPOLITAN SIGHTS. These who wish to see strange sights in the metropolis can find more variety in a trip along the line of the subway

In a trip along the line of the subway in its present state than in any other excursion in Manhattan. New Yorkers have not yet accustomed themselves to the upheaval of streets, the Jacked-up street car lines, the swinging cranes and the cable ways on which to loads are carried at a time. Now and then the pedestrians are confronted by a workingman who waves a red flag and cries out "Fire!" and the pedestrian knows that an explosion is imminent. Crowds watch daily the operation of the compressed air drills which bore into the solid rock; air drills which bore into the solid rock; air drills which bore into the solid rock; at times the monotony of living in the neighborhood is disturbed by the thunder of a blast, passengers in nearby street cars feel their hats lifted slightly from their heads. They remark "Only the subway," and wonder when all the confusion and muss will be over.

Down below, on the damp, sunless ottom of the many openings, the real tate of the subway may best be seen, provided one is fortunate enough to secure permission to explore the cuts and headings. At City Hall Square, the lower terminus, fully two-thirds of the work terminus, fully two-thirds of the work has been done. One section of the loop is already covered over, and the floors, arches and entrances of the station are now being completed. The City Hall station is to be a local train station only. Originally a great loop was planned here, which was to circle a part of the postoffice and furnish room for the main station, and it was understood that all the trains, both express and local, should pass this way. The task, however, was too difficult. It was not possible to pass under the postoffice without weakening that structure, and the plan to tunnel to Brooklyn also made it advisable to locate the main station at plan to tunnel to Brooklyn also made it advisable to locate the main station at the bridge. Accordingly Mr. William Barclay Parsons, the chief engineer, planned a smaller loop and a local train station which has aroused the admiration of all the engineers. There is not a straight line at this terminus. The station is a curved platform, the roof is a series of domes and arches within arches. The change in the loop made necessary a switch yard for trains, and this was tunneled out under Park Row. Only a short distance up from the loop is the main station. That is to say, the main station will be located here, close by the New York end of the Brooklyn bridge. It is one of the last pieces of work to be taken up. On both sides of the locality work has been going on for nearly two years, but, owing to the continual crowds in this neighborhood, it has seemed best to complete one part before beginning another. sable to locate the main station at bridge. "Twenty-six feet high here all along—two tracks. Look out for this mule stable." "Come here, Jenny," he called out to a moving shape in the darkness ahead. "There are six of these animals down here, and most of them haven't seen daylight for a year. Right above us," pointing upward through the gloom, "there used to be a big boulder. When it fell it caught two men unler it. That's the only accident we've had up here."

The mules, the little dump car tracks The mules, the little dump car tracks, the drills at the ends of the headings, the blasts and the cavernous gloom throughout remind one of nothing so much as a huge mine. For two miles the work in this section is carried on by boring. On the surface no sign of an excavation is to be seen, save at the shafts, but next to the Hoosic tunnel this piece of the New York subway will be the largest piece of single tube boring in this country. be the largest piece of single tube boring in this country.

These scenes are not familiar to many New Yorkers, because they are so far up Manhattan. There has just been completed, however, another section in which the same kind of work was carried on. When the contractor for the section which runs under a corner of Central Park undertook this piece of work his task was that of boring a tunnel through the solid rock without disturbing the surface of the park. There were many nearby buildings, and every unusually large blast was a menace to the neighborhood. Still, the contractor accomplished his difficult task without a mishap. As an instance of the beautifully exact calculation which has been made in connection with every part of the work, the experience of this contractor in connecting his two headings may be cited. When the blast had blown out the separating rock, it was found that the two headings had joined in one straight tunnel. There was not a fraction of an inch difference in the calculations of each as to the location of the other.

In marked contrast to the scenes of house for every man. The 2,500,000 tons of rock which are to be taken out would make a solid wall three feet thick, six feet high and nearly 500 miles long, and if the dirt were spread over central Park the entire area would be covered ten inches deep. As a matter of fact, acres and acres of New Jersey swamp land are being made habitable since the rapid transit commission began to dispose of the surplus dirt and rock upon them.

The transition of the scenes of mining life, with its accompaniment of mining life, with its to be built up to the end of this branch at Two Hundred and Fifteenth street.

Over on the other side of Harlem another extraordinary operation is going on. The Bronx division has to dip under on. The Bronx division has to dip under the river, and this section has not been done in the regular sub-river manner. A wooden structure, half the width of the river long, into whose cross-section an archway of the subway would fit is built and floated from one bank. Then this structure is weighted and sunk, and the pressure of the water above and around it makes it air-tight. The river bottom is then dug out under the framework, the dirt and rock being placed on top of the structure to hold it down. When the trench is of sufficient depth top of the structure to hold it down.
When the trench is of sufficient depth the regular tunnel masonry is put in, and one-half being thus completed, the wooden structure is released and floated to the other side, when practically the same operation is gone through with

THE MOST EXPENSIVE MILE. It is the ordinary surface cutting which may be seen by everybody, and this, be-cause it is the simplest kind of work connected with the subway is the least interesting. The crowds however, never seem to lose their curiosity. A network seem to lose their curiosity. A network of timbers, supports, gas, water and sewer pipes is practically all that is visible. Through convenient openings huge buckets are lowered, to be loaded with rock or dirt, raised again and run along the cable way until they are dumped into the waiting cars. Great chains lock together the timber supports of the street car tracks. Pillars of steers and wood hold up the street surface. And wood hold up the street surface. And thousands of people pass over these yawning holes daily without a thought of danger, despite the accident that have happened. The work is carried on with happened. The work is carried on with the greatest margin of safety. No sooner is the smoke of a blast cleared away than timber supports are driven into place. Wherever an open trench is dug the side drifts are safeguarded as much as possible. Indeed, the wonder is that the work of excavation can go on at all in the tangle of steel and timbers which are used to maintain the surface.
The most expensive mile of the subway extends from Thirty-second street under the street railway tunnel to Forty-second street; thence around a curve to Broadway, and around another curve to construction of these two curves alone is a most serious undertaking, because it is necessary to pass under buildings in order to get space for the turns. At both of these corners, however the rapid transic commission has ever the rapid transit commission has purchased property which the excavations might have injured, and it is understood that a big hotel will be located over the stations at each of these turns. Within the limits of this mile have occurred the most disastrous accidents of the subway. The dynamite explosion came first, wrecking two hotels and several houses; then two blocks below, followed the cave-in of three houses. The rapid transit commission has recently purchased this property in order to save itself from cestiv damage suits. I said that up to date $5,000,000 have spent by the commission in ma spent by the commission in making similar purchases of damaged property.

A PATHETIC LETTER

"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Tasteless Samaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine, and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent, I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw coming, at all hazards. I sent for your Tasteless Samaria Prescription, and put it in his coffee as directed next morning, and watched and prayed for the result. At noon I gave him more, and also at supper. He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly, as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comforts and everything else dear to a woman's heart; for my husband had told me that whisky was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving him the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot, to have on hand if he should relapse, as he has done from promises before. He never has, and I am writing you this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

YEARS NOTHING IN CUPID'S EYES

Age Is No Protection From the Little God's Darts.

Some Instances in Which Love Laughed In Triumph at Hoary-Head Father Time.

Cunning little Cupid, with his innocent baby face, has no more regard ears than if time were not a circumstance to be considered. He strikes right and left without regard to age and frequently aims his pointed darts in seemingly unpromising directions with marvelously great success. There is neither an age nor a time limit with Cupid, and the effective impartiality with which he conducts his heart conquests is remarkable. He descends first upon some coy maiden not yet out of her teens. Result a love affair and a marriage. Then, presumably to show his versatility, siege to the impressionable heart of a man of 80. Result, another love affair and another marriage. Then he plans an elopement or culminates a romance by opening a wound he has inflicted in some tender heart years before. The versatility of this little fellow Cupid is, in fact, a marvel that exceeds human penetration. As an illustration of what Cupid can do even on the brink of the grave, take the case of Solon Evans, of Oakland, Cal., who, though 80 years old and a great-grandfather, became a bridegroom. He was a bit shy in confessing his age when he presented himself before the marriage license clerk, and insisted that he was but 50. Later, however, he admitted his right claim an additional thirty years. His bride is 40. It was a quiet wedding. In fact, none of Solon's relatives were present. They had not come because they had objections to their father, grandfather, and great-grandfather marrying at his time of life. But this didn't matter. The preacher performed the ceremony, pronounced a feeling benediction, and then the aged man and his bride confessed that they were as happy as on their first wedding day. FELT LONELY WITHOUT A WIFE. "I thought I'd try it again because I wanted a home of my own" said the aged bridegroom. You see I was kind of lonely here. And why shouldn't I marry if I want to. The fact I'm 80 years old doesn't make any material

And the blushing bride who had been divorced from her first husband for ten years blushed and smiled her assent.

Here is the opposite side of the picture showing conclusively that Cupid eliminates age completely in making his matches. Frank B. Peters, aged 17, and Miss Effie Mesnard, barely turned sweet 16, were recently married at Decatur, Ill. And it wasn't a case of stealing down a rope ladder on a dark night and eloping in a conveniently placed buggy, either. The parents of both the bride and groom agreed to the match, and the ceremony was performed with their full consent. Here is another illustration of the same character, but it is even more striking because the bride was but 13 years old. Her name was Lizzie Haynes, and she married Adams, jun., a callow youth of 18. They are residents of Colly, a small Kentucky town, and, like the youthful Illinois couple, began their matritute the highest and best development monial venture with full parental and luxurious travel. Joseph Hoephner and Mrs. fishing for compliments needs no bait. Anna E. Hale were the participants. The great drawback to the best fish Mr. Hoephner was a widower of one stories is that they are wholly unyear's standing. He was left with a family of children and was looking for a contract with her to act as housekeeper when he found that she was a widow and without any immediate family, her children having married. But one week as housekeeper was necessary for Cupid to find a lodging place for his dart and they went to watering and ware manufactured. Waterloo and were married. Another long-drawn remance culminated recently at Kankakee when Miss Cordella Boilard of that city was married to Isador Mercer, of San Antonio, Tex. In 1880 Miss Bollard and Mr. Mercer were engaged to be married. All pre-parations had been made for their wedding when Miss Boilard's mother was stricken with a fatal illness. She devotedly loved her husband and was pained by the thought that he would be left alone. Cordelia was the only one of three daughters left at home, the others having married and remov-ed from Kankakee. Just before she died Mrs. Boilard exacted ,a promise from Cordelia that she would remain with and care for her father and her orphan niece, Matilda Cyrier. Corelia would not leave her father, and after vainly urging her to fulfill her engagement with him her lover left for the West to seek his fortune. He prospered beyond his expectations, finally locating in San Antonio, Tex., where he is proprietor of a jewelry store. During all these years he never revisited Kankakee, and wrote no letters to his former sweetheart.

Last summer Mr. Mercier gratified an inclination to return to Kankakee. He met the sweetheart of his youth and they renewed their attachment for each other. He returned to Texas, but with the understanding that he would come back to Kankakee to claim his

THIRTY YEARS OF SEPARATION. Love possesses the happy faculty of weathering all sorts of difficulties and finally mounting itself on the crest of a wave of triumph and riding forth victorious. Look, for instance, at the case of Samuel Mole, of Sidney, New York, and Mary Jane Travenor, of Albany. The bride was a widow, and the groom a widower with four children. The bride was the boyhood's sweetheart of the groom more than thirty years ago.

The young people became separated and both married. Mole lived in England for many years, where he and his present bride became child friends and later sweethearts. The couple lived in the same town for many years but they became estranged, and for thirty years they never met. In the in-terval the girl married a Mr. Travenor and came to this country to live, setthing in Sidney.

Mole brought over his wife and four children. He took his family to live in Sidney, N. Y., and lived in almost total ignorance of his old sweetheart in Sidney, who was now a Mrs. Travenor, a woman of great beauty of face and figure. She was left a widow not long after her marriage, and returned to England, where her people lived. From friends at home Mr. Mole learned that his old sweetheart had gone home, a widow. To Mr. Mole this was a singular fact, for his wife died and left him to care for the four children.

Not long after the death of his wife Mr. Mole began a correspondence with his old sweetheart, and his old love for her rekindled as he wrote her a long series of letters, and received a delightful answer to each. He con-fessed to being the father of four children, but love admits of no such bar-rier, and with true womanly adoration she responded to his request to come back to America by saying that she would come. She was met on her ar-Now York city by her old sweetheart of thirty years ago. The meeting between the two was an affectionate one.

Chauncey M. Depew Says That Accounts for His Success in Life.

"I am often asked," writes Chauncey M. Depew, "how I became president of the New York Central Railroad. I'll tell you. By attending strictly to business. 'Way back, when I was a struggling attorney a good friend got me into the law department of the Central Railroad. It fell to my lot to take care of accidents. They were numerous enough in those days.

"To get at the exact facts I used to go personally as fast as a train could arry me to the scene of every wreck. There I went to the bottom of the matter, found out how the accident happened, who were to blame, cause and every circumstance attending it-in fact, acting as a reporter for the New York Central Road. "In this way I learned all the details of railroading, and I soon became a practical railroad man. Old Com-modore Vanderbilt was then head of the road. I had to consult frequently with him on accidents, and he soon discovered I had acquired an intimate knowledge of the workings of the system. Soon after, when changes were contemplated in operation or extension, Vanderbilt would consult me. He got in the habit of sending for me and that put us on intimate terms. My store of railroad knowledge was increasing all the time.

"Finally, Vanderbilt relieved me from my duties as an attorney, took me into his own office, and climbing the ladder after that was a simple matter. But those early days were the winners. Just kept my nose close to the grindstone all the time."

Let him follow my advice for three months and I will make him as vigorous in every respect as any man of his age. I will not promise to make a Hercules of a man who was never intended by nature to be strong and sturdy. Even that man I can make better than he is; but the man who has been strong and lost his strength I can make as good as he ever was. I can give back to any man what he has lost by abuse of the laws of nature. A man who is nervous, whose brain and body are weak, who sleeps badly, awakes more tired than when he went to bed, who is easily discouraged, inclined to brood over imaginary troubles, who has lost ambition and energy to tackle hard problems, lacks the animal electricity which the Dr.

McLaughlin Electric Belt supplies. The whole force of vitality in your body is dependent upon your animal electricity. When you lose that by draining the system in any manner my Belt will replace it, and will cure you.

Charles T. Collins, Leeburn, Ont., writes: Dear Sir,-I have worn your belt for thirty days and have derived great benefit from it. The varicocele is reduced. I had chronic catarrh of the head, which seems to have disappeared entirely.

Letters like that speak for the good my Belt is doing. My Belt has a wonderful influence upon tired, weak nerves. It braces and invigorates them. and stirs a great force of energy in every man and woman.

Sol Smith Russell.

Dear old Sol! We called him so.
As a friend to love and know.
Though his bright and tender face Showed of age but little trace.
Yet he entertained us long
With his winning voice of song
And his nurs and gentle art. And his oure and gentle art, Touching chords that held the heart, Stirring pathos, waking joy. Nothing seeming to employ But a nature exquisite In its satire and its wit, Flowing subtle, sweet and dro's, From his sympathetic soul.

Well do I remember how
With his handsome face and brow,
And his tones of charm so strange.
Wondrous in their mimic range,
And the play of eyes and lips
In their merry songs and quips;
"Ri-ti-iddy, hoop-de-do!"
And the "Goose and Inyuns," too,
Years agone he held us all
In his captivating thrall,
Held us lovingly and fast
For the future as the past,
Trusting in his genius rare
For the laurels he should wear.

So at last the higher day
Rose in his Tom Dilloway;
Then he told the plaintive tale
Of the struggling Noah Vale,
And "A Bachelor's Romance" Came his powers to enhance;
Till he shored with graial Rip Came his powers to enhance;
Till he shared with genial Rip
In the world's companionship.
And John Grigsby bore him on
To the end—and he is gone!
But the songs he used to sing
In our ears shall ever ring,
Fine and quaint and full of whim
And the true great heart of him!

Have you ever noticed the crowds that promenade King and James street on Saturday night? The large majority are young people who are en joying themselves at the close of the week's work. It is their night off, and nothing is allowed to interfere with the pleasure of the promenade. The oldest inhabitant cannot remember when the boy had his girl to walk with, but young men. It looks unnatural to say the least. The trouble with the young men of the present day is either backwardness in making the acquaintance of the girls, or a selfish spirit that fears the expense of keeping a wife. And it may be that the girls are no altogether without fault, for since they have been making their own way in the world a feeling of independence has grown with their years, and they object to the cares and responsibili-ties of married life unless they can begin housekeeping in an elegantlyfurnished house, with a piano in the Nights, Head Felt as Though parlor and a girl to do the kitchen It Would Burst, Thought She work. Mrs. W. H. Alexander of that town suffered from a serious attack of catarrh of the bladder, had swelling of the hands and feet, pain in the back, dizzy spells and general weakness.

Patent medicines and local doctors' treatment didn't do much good. Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets worked wonders, making a complete cure

Mr. Jas. Shurie, the Trenton druggist who sold Mrs. Alexander the Tablets, confirms what she says of her case.

MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER.

The many friends of Mrs. W. H. Alexander, of Trenton, Ont., are much pleased to see her around and well again, after suffering greatly for two or three years from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles, which ordinary patent medicines and treatments failed to benefit. Mrs. Alexander, when spoken to about the means of her recovery, un-hesitatingly gave all the praise to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, remarkable cures in all parts of the country. MRS. ALEXANDER'S STATEMENT.

the new, scientific treatment for kidney troubles, which is making so many

"Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I consider a great boon to sufferers from kidney trouble. For two or three years I was greatly troubled with pain in my back. At times it became so severe that I was hardly able to get around and do my work, in fact, some months I could not do it at all. I used several preparations which were highly recommended by friends, but relief from them, and afterwards became worse than before until I seemed to be afflicted with all kinds of ailments-a distressing pain in the stomach, sick headache, and occasionally swelling of the hands and feet. The headache became so persistent and severe, I concluded I had Then came the bladder trouble and complications. I called in my doctor, and he diagnosed the case as catarrh of the bladder. He treated me and helped me some at first, but the benefit was not lasting. I would at times have dizzy spells, dark specks floated before my eyes, tired feeling, and a dragging steady pain in the loins. I again started using patent medicines, and this time made up my mind to give them a thorough trial. I took ten boxes of one well-known kidney pill, but they did not touch my case. One day a little boy threw a book in my door advertising Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. In a joke, I asked him if he had any samples. The gentleman accompanying him, who proved to be a representative of Dr. Pitcher, heard the question, and told me if I would send to the hotel, he would be pleased to give me a sample. I had lost all faith in medicine, but seeing that the gentleman was in earnest and so confident that the Tablets would help me, I got him to send me a bottle. I read the book carefully, and took that bottle of Tablets according to directions. It seemed strange, realizing the condition I was in, but before that bottle was finished, I was a changed woman. I went to Mr. Shurie's drug store and purchased another bottle, and after taking this second one, happened to call on a friend, who expressed surprise at the change in my appearance. Formerly, I had a pained, weary expression, but now, as I felt well, I could not help showing it. Although not completely cured, I felt that Dr. Pitcher's Tablets were working wonders for me. I continued their use for some time, taking in all ten bottles, but I did not begrudge the cost in the slightest, for had they only succeeded in giving me temporary relief I would have been grateful, but they have done more-they have completely and permanently cured me. "My son, a young man about 16 years of age, who works in the paint shop, and is subject to severe headaches at times on account of the absorption into the system of the lead and turpentine, says that these Tablets just suit him, and he always keeps them in the house now.

"I have recommended the tablets to several of my friends, among whom was Mrs. Geo. Huyck, of Dundas street, who tells me they are the best remedy she has ever taken.

"I cannot too highly recommend Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets to all those who may be suffering as I was, and you are at liberty to use my name and testimonial in any way you choose. (Signed) "MRS. W. H. ALEXANDER."

WHAT MR. SHURIE, DRUGGIST, SAYS:

When Mr. Jas. Shurie, the well-known Trenton druggist, was spoken to about Mrs. Alexander's case, he readily confirmed what she said, and gladly gave the following statement for publication: "I know Mrs. Wm. Alexander, of Francis street, and can indorse what she says of her cure by Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. She purchased the Tablets from me, and I have heard her frequently speak of the great benefit she derived from their use.

The many well-authenticated cases we are publishing of cures of severe kidney trouble put doubt out of the question as to the efficacy of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets for backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the hands and feet, specks or mist before the eyes, dizziness, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding or irritation, frequent calls during the day or night, catarrh of the bladder, uric acid in the blood, rheumatism, unnatural drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, dragging pain in the loins, weakness of the kidneys in children, and old people, and all forms of kidney, bladder, and urinary diseases.
