THREE RUSS DESTROYERS GO DOWN IN FIERCE BATTLE OFF PORT ARTHUR WHILE CARRYING DISPATCHES TO CZAR

Japanese Cruiser Kasuga Sinks
One, All Hands On Board
Perishing.

Of Four That Attempted to Run
Togo's Blockade, But One Succeeded.

New York, Nov. 22. — A London dispatch to the Sun says that a dispatch to the London Express from Nagasaki gives a new version of the report of the south of torpedo boat destroyers, from Port Arthur, which is said to have occurred at the time the Rastoropy left. The correspondent of the Express says that the three boats left two days before the Rastoropy, carrying dispatches of a dispatch from Gen. Stoessel. There were some badly wounded officers on board the boats, who preferred to risk their lives at sea than to meet certain death in the unsanitary hospitals of Port Arthur.

The Japanese cruiser Kasuga sank the first destroyer after a light fighting half an hour, in which all the Russians were shot or drowned, except four, who were rescued from the sea by boats from the Kasuga after the destroyer sank. One of these three rescued has since died.

The cruiser Matsushima sank the second destroyer 25 miles from Port Arthur, receiving herself an ineffective blow from a torpedo.

Two Japanese torpedo gunboats sighted the third destroyer off Liao Tishan at midnight, and chased her until 4 o'clock in the morning, when the engines of the torpedo boat broke down. The gunboats discharged two torpedoes at her, both of which struck almost simultaneously. The destroyer sunk with all on board.

The correspondent adds that the Japanese naval officers express the highest admiration for the bravery of the crews of the destroyers.

Alexieff In Council.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 22. — An imperial decree issued today appoints Viceroy Alexieff a member of the council of the empire and the committee of ministers.

Fortifying Vladivostok.

New York, Nov. 22. — A Wonsong, Korea, dispatch to the Herald, Nov. 10, via Shanghai, Nov. 21, says: A Korean arriving overland from Vladivostok reports a large number of men there engaged in throwing up a new line of fortifications outside of those already constructed which have been greatly strengthened. Meanwhile the harbor presented a scene of activity. Five large steamers were loading thousands of tons of supplies. Three large warships have completed repairs, and are ready for instant service.

Eight torpedo boat destroyers are also ready and auxiliary gunboats have been prepared by mounting guns on small steamers. Troops arrive daily by railway and immediately begin work on the fortifications. From Vladivostok to the Tumen River at Tai Hwa, a railway has been completed, facilitating the transport of supplies. Russian troops in Northern Korea are continuing to move south across the Tumen. The Korean reports passing several large encampments of Russians. He estimates the total at 100,000. Russians now in the Kyung Sung district with numerous detached bodies at all the towns as far south as Ham-Gwan Pass. No forward movement of either belligerent is yet apparent.

The construction of this end of the military railway to Seoul was begun Nov. 9. The survey has been completed for half the distance, and it is expected that ten miles of grading will be completed before the ground freezes.

A steamship has arrived from Japan with railway materials.

CARNEGIE'S LATEST

To Spend $3,750,000 For Convalescent Home in Surrey.

London, Nov. 22. — A provincial paper says Andrew Carnegie has purchased or is about to purchase, for $3,750,000, the late Sir John Lubbock's estate in Surrey, with the object of establishing a national convalescent home.

MR. COWAN BANQUETED

Declared He Would Always Have Warm Spot for Essex County.

Windsor, Nov. 22. — The banquet tendered Mr. K. Cowan, K. C., at the Crawford House, here, last evening by his political admirers and other friends, gave ample testimony to the popularity of the guest of the evening. The toastmaster was Dr. James Samson, and he performed his duties in a manner that left nothing to be desired.

In responding to the toast, "Our Guest," Mr. Cowan recalled the happy days he had spent in Essex county and Windsor, and said that he would always have a warm spot in his heart for the place of his boyhood.

"Can you imagine," he said, "Dr. Samson and responded to by J. W. Hanna. 'The Parliament and Legislature of Canada' brought forth replies from Mr. J. W. Hanna, M. P., and Dr. J. O. Reame, M. L. A. The addresses were interspersed with songs by J. L. Murphy, A. R. Bartlett and Col. N. A. Bartlett.

THE SOUTH HURON LIBERALS IN LINE

Will Make Vigorous Efforts to Return a Supporter of Premier Ross.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Hensall, Nov. 22.—The Liberals of South Huron meet on Friday next in Miller's Opera House, Hensall, for the purpose of choosing a candidate to contest the next provincial elections.

Great enthusiasm exists among the party workers over the prospect of defeating the Conservative representative of the riding, Mr. H. Elber. In the last provincial election, he was elected by the small majority of 53, sustaining a loss of 210 in his own township of Stephen. In the last Dominion contest he worked in the south end of the riding as for his own life, and in every municipality there was a considerable gain for the Liberals. The influence of Mr. Elber is meteoric, and has now reached the vanishing stage. A number of excellent candidates are named for the convention on Friday. Besides Mr. M. Y. McLean, ex-M. P., who some time ago declared himself out of the running, there is Mr. J. G. Stanbury, a popular young barrister, of Exeter, and president of the Reform Association, and Mr. Peter Lamont, reeve of Hay Township, whose names are prominently mentioned. If Mr. Stanbury could be induced to sacrifice his large and lucrative practice for politics he could undoubtedly carry the riding. Mr. Lamont, too, is a strong favorite, and if chosen by the convention would get not only the united support of the Liberals, but many Conservative votes as well.

Whaling Steamer Lost.

St. Johns, Nfld., Nov. 21.—The whaling steamer Harbor Grace with a crew of twelve men, bound for St. Johns, and now nearly a month overdue, is given up for lost.

Dry at Nice.

Nice, Nov. 22.—The fact that autumn rains have not fallen yet on the Riviera is causing much uneasiness. The drought is almost unprecedented, only five rainy days being recorded since May. Should the rain not occur during the next few days the result will be that the wet season will commence about the middle of December, and last for seven weeks without interruption.

The social season here, however, has begun in real earnest, and with the present fine weather tennis and golf are daily indulged in.

THE BALKAN PROBLEM

Christians Now Fighting Amongst Themselves—Reform Plan Fails.

London, Nov. 22. — The Standard today prints a long letter from Constantinople dealing with the situation in Macedonia. The writer says there has been a marked change in the last six months. Formerly it was a question of protecting the Christian population against violence, but now it has become one of intervention between various Christian elements. Since the policing of Macedonia has been taken out of Turkey's hands the corresponding elements, who were formerly repressed, the Turks were formerly repressed. The truth is, according to the Standard's correspondent, each of these Christian elements wants independence, and their hatred of each other exceeds their detestation of the Turks. The Austro-Russian reform scheme, therefore, has not hastened the solution of the Macedonian problem nor brought autonomy any nearer.

$2,900 FOR TOOTHPICK

Was Carried by Charles I. on the Scaffold.

London, Nov. 22.—Much interest continues to be taken in the personal relics of the unhappy Charles I. as was proved by the crowd in Willis' rooms, when two melancholy souvenirs of his death came up for public sale in the shape of a gold toothpick and case used by the monarch on the scaffold. These mementoes were once the possessions of that old Tomlinson who was the officer in charge of the King from the time of his imprisonment in the Tower until the end, and were presented to him at the last scene in Whitehall by Charles as all he had left to requite him for his civilities. When the relics were submitted an opening bid of £200 was made, and by slow advances $500 was reached. At this stage no one could have anticipated the result, and at $925 it was crowded to its very doors. But suddenly the bidding took new life, and Messrs. Renton and Partridge made a duel of it. The latter carried the contest to $2,875, and did not challenge Mr. Renton's final bid, $2,900.

ENGLAND IN GRIP OF "JACK FROST"; SNOW, GALES, FIERCE BLIZZARDS

Outdoor Work Suspended at Many Points—Southern Europe Very Cold.

London, Nov. 22. — Keen frost and heavy snow squalls are reported from all parts of the United Kingdom. A gale raged all night long over the coasts, driving vessels to shelter, and seriously dislocating the telegraph wires, especially in the North of England and in Scotland. Blinding snowstorms are causing deep drifts and rendering traffic difficult in the country districts, and are necessitating a cessation of outdoor work in many of the provincial towns. In London little snow has fallen, but a sharp fall in temperature is accentuating the distress among the poor, which is already prevalent.

The snow is so deep at Chatsworth that the King of Portugal and others of the house party there have been prevented from shooting. Some small craft have been wrecked. Up to the present November had been unusually mild, and the sudden change is causing much misery. Wintry weather seems general in Europe, frost being reported so far south as Naples.

In Westmoreland the unusual sight was seen of trains stuck in snowdrifts and blocking communication on the Northeastern Railroad. The race meeting at Warwick had to be postponed as the track was deeply covered with snow.

The land lines in Ireland are affected, causing delay in communication with America.

The lifeboats are busy, but the most serious wreck so far reported is that of the British steamer Inverlochy from the River Plate, via Madeira, which was driven ashore on the rocks near Sunderland. The life-savers took off her crew.

A few fatalities have occurred as the result of wrecks of small craft.

YOUNG'S WIDOW MAY TAKE STAND

Sensational Turn to the Trial of Nan Patterson at Trial of York.

New York, Nov. 22.—Search for a man witness, who for months has eluded the detectives from the district attorney's office, and the possibility that one of the central figures in the case—the dead man's widow—would appear before the jury and tell her story, were the points of special interest today when the trial of Nan Patterson for the alleged murder of Caesar Young was resumed in the supreme court. In outlining his case yesterday, Assistant District Attorney Rand informed the jury that the prosecution had been successful in locating J. Morgan Smith, who, he claimed, purchased the revolver with which Young was killed. He hopes, however, that Smith would be brought forward by the defense at the proper time. Later in the day Miss Patterson's counsel said she had no intention of producing Smith. Only the announcement of the defendant herself that she would go on the stand and tell of her acquaintance with Young would have created more public interest than the report that the dead bookmaker's widow might appear in the case.

Since the day her husband died, Mrs. Young has remained in seclusion, except when she called at the district attorney's office and testified before the grand jury. During the trial she has not appeared in the courtroom, but it is said she has followed all the proceedings from an adjoining room. A big crowd was present in the courtroom when the trial was resumed.

Several police officials were called to the stand in rapid succession and examined briefly regarding happenings in the police station when Miss Patterson was brought there under arrest.

THE WEATHER.
Tomorrow—Fair and mild.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 22. Sun rises, 7:21 a.m. Moon rises, 4:38 p.m. Sun sets, 4:47 p.m. Moon sets, 6:31 a.m. Showers have occurred since the morning. Lower St. Lawrence Valley and in the Maritime Provinces. Elsewhere the weather has been fair.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Victoria, 42-52; Vancouver, 42-52; Port Arthur, 26-42; Parry Sound, 26-38; Toronto, 32-40; Ottawa, 26-32; Montreal, 30-38; Quebec, 30-38; St. John, 32-48; Halifax, 32-54.

SAVED HER BABY

Three Women Fatally Hurt in a Tentacle House Fire.

New York, Nov. 22.—Three women were probably fatally hurt and five firemen were injured severely in a blaze that destroyed two buildings in Brooklyn early today.

The fire started in the cellar of a drug store at Fulton and Adelphi streets. Three upper floors were occupied by three families consisting of fifteen persons.

The flames spread upward so quickly that when the sleeping tenants were aroused by the smoke and crackling flames were found, escape by the stairways had been cut off.

Bella Hill, Florence Seabrook and Hettie Richardson, all of whom lived on the fourth floor, made their way down one story and out on to a cornice. Mrs. Seabrook had her baby in her arms. The cornice gave way and the women fell to the ground.

Mrs. Seabrook clasped the infant to her bosom in such a way that when she struck the sidewalk the little one escaped injury. The women were hurriedly carried to a hospital, where their injuries were pronounced probably fatal.

Eight families, comprising 34 persons, escaped or were rescued from a building adjoining the drug store, before the house was destroyed. The firemen displayed great bravery in the work of rescue, and two of them fell from a swerving ladder, two stories above the street. Three others were badly cut by falling debris. The financial loss was small.

LIBERALS OF EAST LAMBTON AGAIN NOMINATE PETTYPIECE

Present Representative in the Legislature To Be the Standard Bearer in the Approaching Contest.

WATFORD CONVENTION UNANIMOUS IN ITS CHOICE

Mr. Pettypiece Accepts—Exposes Whitney's Trickery in Regard to the Railway Taxation Bill—Conservative Election
Methods Come in for Some Severe Criticism.

[By Our Own Reporter.]

Watford, Nov. 21. — The convention held by the Liberals of East Lambton in the town of Watford today was a striking event in the history of the Reform party of that riding. By 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the large music hall was crowded to its very doors, and many of the delegates and friends of delegates preferred to stand in the aisle-space all through the meeting, rather than miss being present at the proceedings. There were two big features in the meeting. First of all, Mr.

played in the United States, in taxing railways. The Opposition have taken up the cry that Mr. Pettypiece "finked," and that when they offered to take up his bill and pass it, in conjunction with him, if possible, he withdrew it to save the Government from a possible vote of want of confidence. This is what Mr. Whitney has made a point of feature in his late campaign. But Mr. Pettypiece today exposed all the trickery of the Opposition and explained his position in its true light, issuing at the same time a challenge to any Conservative in the Province to meet him upon the platform and show that he had not done his duty in every respect. He explained first of all that ever since he introduced his measure in 1901 until the last Mr. Whitney and his followers did not give him and his bill one ounce of support, and only when they had held a caucus and decided that, considering the smallness of the Province's railway tax, it was not worth the trouble of introducing it, they then approached him and wanted him to come over to their side, bringing his bill with him. The candidate further explained that the Government had shelved his measure, but were not yet prepared to go as far as he asked, although they had agreed to introduce the bill as a formal proceeding, and that they had investigated the American systems more fully by means of a commission. The fact that Mr. Pettypiece was the head of this commission and that the big railway corporations in Ontario were fighting him for all they were worth, was sure proof, if any were needed, that the Government is following along the lines proposed by Mr. Pettypiece.

Mr. Pettypiece, M.P.P.

Unanimous Choice of the Liberals of East Lambton.

H. J. Pettypiece was again tendered the nomination for the Provincial House, and the perfect unanimity of the convention on this score was a great testimony to the ability and integrity of the candidate. No one thought for a moment of anyone else being the standard bearer, and all those whose names were also handed in as a formal proceeding, withdrew immediately, and in their speeches expressed the greatest confidence in Mr. Pettypiece.

The other feature of the convention was the speech of Mr. Pettypiece, which was of provincial importance. As is well known Mr. Pettypiece is considered to be the authority on the subject in the question of railway taxation, and that he put forward a bill on his own account, and that he was not withdrawn it for the time being, while the whole matter should be investigated still more thoroughly by a Government commission, of which Mr. Pettypiece is a member, and which is now hard at work inquiring into the methods employed by the railways.

The Ballot Boxes.

In the desperate attempts that are being made to fasten fraud upon the Ontario Government there has been nothing more audacious than the effort of those who are prominently connected with the West Hastings ballot box charges. So black does their conduct appear that it is questionable which would be the greater wrong against the public—the wrong committed by those who seek to associate the Provincial Government with this affair, or the wrong committed by those who conspired to defraud the electors, by means of these bogus boxes, if indeed such a conspiracy existed.

The accusers wish to smirch the Liberal party. They cannot print the finger of suspicion at the Dominion Government, which sent its officers to investigate the case; and, besides, the Dominion Government is entrenched for another term, at least. But they are foolish and unscrupulous enough to try to switch the infamy to the Ontario Government, which they know will soon go to the country. It is patent to every intelligent person that the Ontario Government could have had nothing to do with the business, for several reasons:

1. The Ontario ballot is similar to the Australian ballot—it is a numbered ballot. It will be within the memory of all that the Opposition in more than one campaign made this one of their strongest charges against the Administration. It is clear that numbered ballots would prevent any substitution of ballots. The substitute would be discovered as soon as the box was opened.

2. The Ontario Government owns no ballot boxes, but uses the boxes belonging to the various municipalities. These could not be replaced by boxes with handles and other patent devices.

3. No scrutineer would permit a deputy returning officer to turn a handle to direct the course of one ballot, and not act similarly with reference to all, if ballot boxes had handles, which they have not.

4. No Government would patent such a box.

We do not think it necessary to point out more plainly than we have done how absurd the charge is that the Government agreed to pay $50,000 for the patent. Perhaps one of the worst features so far disclosed in connection with the matter is the introduction of a magistrate who permitted hearsay evidence. This goes to the country as a means of legal slander. The administration of justice has been above suspicion in this country, and it is necessary that magistrates' courts should be above suspicion, as well as every other court.

The Ontario Government should take such steps as may be necessary to prevent magistrates' courts from being used for unjust purposes, and such steps as will lead to the punishment of those who, in the manner described, have sought to fasten responsibility on the Administration for acts which no member of the Government would for one instant countenance.

In the meantime, let no one be misled. The facts will disclose that the Government has not been either directly or indirectly connected with any fraud, and that the present accusation is only one of the many unscrupulous attempts made, and to be made, to poison the public mind.

Brighter Days For Russia.

It seems as though the Russian Empire is on the eve of great organic changes. The awakening of intellectual life in Russia during the present century has exercised a profound political influence. As the people became more enlightened, they became more restive; and as they became more restive the reactionists, who have controlled the empire, excepting during the reign of Alexander II., have become more despotic and oppressive. Nothing in the history of Russia has been so revolting as the legislation against the Jews and the suppression of Finland, within the reign of the present Emperor. It would appear that Nicholas has seen light at last and is resolved to take occasion by the hand and adjust the political institutions of the country to the rising tide of liberalism before they are overwhelmed by it.

This is the interpretation which the world will place upon the conduct of the new Minister of the Interior, in summoning a conference of the presidents of the Zemstvos. The Zemstvo is an assembly made up of nobles and delegates elected by landed proprietors, householders and peasants, and having jurisdiction over local matters within a province or district. The Zemstvos were the creation of that enlightened ruler Alexander II., who freed the serfs. He planned a still greater extension of the principle of popular government—an imperial legislature—but was assassinated before it could be realized. His death was ascribed by the Russian authorities to nihilists, but it is generally believed he was the victim of the reactionists, who execrated his liberal ideas. His successors have tried to undo his work by encroaching on the powers of the Zemstvos. These were reduced to a shadow by M. de Plehve, the late Minister of the Interior, who was assassinated a few weeks ago.

The new minister, Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, has lost no time in reversing the policy of de Plehve. Today comes the intelligence that the Zemstvo representatives, whom he assembled, have unanimously drafted a memorial, calling for the creation of an elective body which shall be in reality a parliament for the empire. This is one of the most impressive and significant documents which have been penned in Russia since the days of Alexander II. It is more important to Russia and the world than the war in Manchuria. It may be that the Russian bureaucracy will thwart reform for a time, but the movement will be given a new impetus by the action of the Zemstvo delegates and must sooner or later break down resistance. The memorial which they have signed may become the charter of Russian liberty.

Mr. Pettipiece's Renomination.

East Lambton Liberals have shown only common gratitude in renominating Mr. Pettipiece by acclamation for the Legislature. He has been an aggressive and painstaking member, and has made a special study of one branch of legislation—railway taxation—which he has pursued with much ability and perseverance.

In his address yesterday Mr. Pettipiece administered a stinging rebuke to Mr. Whitney for this passage in his recent public letter:

"The attitude of the Opposition on the question of the proper assessment of railway property was made clear by their efforts to pass the Pettipiece bill as a basis for action—efforts which failed when the promoter of the bill abandoned it and joined the Government in killing it."

The measure known as the Pettipiece bill was referred by the House to a committee of 21 members, ten of whom were Conservatives and eleven Liberals. This committee sat during the sessions of 1903 and 1904. When Mr. Pettipiece moved that the committee report favorably upon the principle of the bill he failed to get a seconder, although Mr. Whitney and some of his principal colleagues were members. Later, when the member for East Lambton moved the second reading of his bill in the House, Mr. Whitney suggested that the measure should be taken up and there. Subsequently Mr. Hanna, the member for West Lambton, suggested to Mr. Pettipiece that if he would divide the House on the bill, the Opposition would support it. As Mr. Pettipiece points out, this was a trick to defeat the Government, and he refused to act the traitor and play into the hands of a party which was not an honest friend of the cause which he had at heart. The Government decided to appoint a commission to visit the United States and collect information, bearing upon the question. This commission had consulted the experience of different States of the Union, and has accumulated a mass of data which it has been sifting for months, so as to present its report to the Legislature at the next session. The result will throw a new light upon the problem. Whether or not the Legislature goes to the full extent of the Pettipiece bill, the member for East Lambton will be entitled to credit for pressing the question on the attention of the House, and stimulating public interest.

A New York man has hanged himself as a protest against his wife's housekeeping. This was a much more gentlemanly method than beating her.

The war will not be in vain if it has exposed the rottenness of Russian officialdom, and thereby paved the way for a new order of things.

The City Council last night gave notice to failfast and hard-working municipal servants that they need not look for promotion when a vacancy occurs.

Parliament has been called to meet on Jan. 11. The law-makers have a hard choice. They have to endure either an Ottawa midwinter or an Ottawa midsummer.

Conservative newspapers quote the Portland, Me., papers as jubilating over the victory of the Laurier Government. Which shows the Portland papers know no more about the Grand Trunk Pacific contract than the Conservative press.

Three hundred fugitives from the Russian army reached Halifax yesterday. It is not altogether a reproach to these poor fellows that they chose to flee rather than fight. They would be fighting for a despotism, not for a country.

Mr. Clancy, the defeated of West Lambton, has been nominated for West Kent. He seems to be a standing candidate among the Conservatives of the western peninsula. The prospects are that he will continue standing for want of a seat.

It will be a miscarriage of justice if Mr. Smith, the Conservative candidate for Wentworth, takes his seat without a new election. The county judge has thrown out all the ballots deposited in one polling booth, because a deputy returning officer by mistake, numbered them.

This subdivision gave Mr. Sealey, the Liberal candidate, 25 majority, and in the whole constituency his majority was 15. If Mr. Smith has a fine sense of honor he will refuse the seat under such circumstances, though he would have precedents for claiming it. It may be, however, that the higher courts will redress the wrong.

Woman's Weapon of Defense.

[Baltimore American.]

When Miss Ella Anderson, of Paterson, N. J., used a rapier to successfully defend herself against an assault a few nights ago, she utilized a weapon of defense that seems to be coming into somewhat general use. The rapier has long occupied a prominent but unobtrusive position, doing its duty where it could be seen of all men, but until recent years contented itself within its legitimate sphere of feminine usefulness.

There is no reason, however, why the rapier should not become to the modern woman what the spear was to Minerva or the lance to the ancient Amazon. It combines within itself all the elements of a defensive weapon. It is always within easy reach, it is an instrument of sharply pointed steel, and it can be handled with great dexterity and skill. It is really modeled after the long, slim pointed of Venetian fame, and with many a bravo has been effectively armed. Indeed, some rapier-like handles, making the resemblance to a weapon more complete. It combines within itself all the elements of a defensive weapon. It is always within easy reach, it is an instrument of sharply pointed steel, and it can be handled with great dexterity and skill. ## Led to Jail by His Dog.

[London Daily Mail.]

Old and blind, a man was sentenced to a week's imprisonment at Waterford for being drunk and disorderly, and his dog was allowed to spend the night in the lock-up with him.

Next morning the prisoner, led by his dog and escorted by the police, was taken to the jail, and at the gate the animal whined so piteously on being parted from its master that the man was ordered to go to the public pound with his canine companion.

Once more was a procession formed, the dog leading the way, and a motley crowd bringing up the rear. At the pound the companions were parted, the dog howling dismally.

Letters to the Advertiser

THE DIOCESE OF HURON.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The writer has just been favored with the enclosed circular, not sent to him from headquarters, but obtained from one to whom it was sent. As this circular has been issued and signed by one, "J. W. P. Smith," we naturally

The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing-down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restless sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was highly recommended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—Miss FRANKIE ORSER, 14 Warrenton Boston, Mass.—"I feel that if I could let those letter proving genuineness cannot be produced."

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is responsible for any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

ask, (1) Who is this gentleman? By whom, and at what time, was he empowered to send forth this "Episcopal Document"? Is he acting as bishop's secretary during the present interval? (2) Why was not this "Episcopal document" sent to one and all? Not Canon, God, the writer himself, but a great body of his fellow-delegates have not been favored with it. Yet with this body unapproached, and others appearing, the writer himself, but a great body of his fellow-delegates have not been favored with it. Yet with this body unapproached, and others appearing, the writer himself, but a great body of his fellow-delegates have not been favored with it.

Then, again, the writer of this "Episcopal document" mentions by name suitable candidates for the high and holy office of bishop, names which he says have appeared in print and otherwise. From this list, in principle, he selects two from the Diocese of Huron, both well-known men; but why, he asks, has he left out in his circular other names which appeared in print, side by side with those of his own selection, names of worthy men, and well acquainted with the Diocese of Huron? Why? Why this distinction? Read between the lines and give your own verdict.

The writer of this present letter has been for many years a delegate of the Synod of Huron, and has been favored with the same, equally with his brethren, with all "Episcopal circulars" to clergy and laity of the diocese, but this "Episcopal document" is not even addressed to the poor laity. This "Episcopal document" is sent to "some" of the clergy only, and these clergy are to look after the lay delegates. The writer and many others have been overlooked and are not worthy. Why? Is it because we are not "strongly evangelical"? If it is, it is much to be regretted that this term was used, as everyone knows what this means, and it would be against the Rev. Canon Cody, who was the choice of Nova Scotia Synod, and though then not free to accept, is now in a position, it is said to do so. It is here that the transfer of his interests from Toronto would be a great gain for Huron College and the Diocese.

EVANGELICAL DELEGATE.

Circular alluded to.

Rev. and Dear Sir.—The present crisis in diocesan affairs is surely a cause for much prayer and earnest thought. All are looking around for a suitable successor to our late revered bishop, and as it seems desirable that an effort be made to select the best names, it has been thought well to ask a number of the clergy to indicate, if they feel so, those who in their judgment would likely meet with most favor. Names have appeared in print, amongst them being Rev. Dean Davis and Ven. Archbishop Williams, of this diocese, both well-known to us all. From outside were Rev. W. J. Smith, of Nova Scotia, and the Rev. Canon Cody, who was the choice of Nova Scotia Synod, and though then not free to accept, is now in a position, it is said to do so. It is here that the transfer of his interests from Toronto would be a great gain for Huron College and the Diocese.

HOW TO CURE A TERRIFIC HEADACHE.

Many people suffer from an aching head, and are often obliged to get relief from so-called headache powders and nervine-stupifying drugs. They never get cured because they start wrong. Such people should do a little common-sense thinking. Headache is simply the result, a warning signal, of a far more serious trouble. Usually it means that blood, positive or negative or sluggish, is poisoning the system, and is giving rise to liver. Headache sufferers are often nervous, cross and irritable. Their sleep is disturbed and they are unable to do their work. Headache is a sign of a diseased liver, and a diseased liver is a sign of a diseased system. Headache is a sign of a diseased system, and a diseased system is a sign of a diseased body. Headache is a sign of a diseased body, and a diseased body is a sign of a diseased soul. ## SWEET AS A ROSE.

He stops short at the sight of Paula, and not recognizing Sir Herrick, in the dim light, exclaims:

"Hallo, Paula! Where have you been hiding? What are you doing here?"

He breaks off with a smothered oath and a flow of blood to his face, as he recognizes her companion.

"What's this? What the devil—?"

Sir Herrick looks from the bloated, insolent face of the man to the damasked one of Paula, with a curious, half-bewildered glance, then he looks to Stacey, and says in his old, cool fashion:

"How do you do?"

But Stacey has taken too much champagne and is in a jealous rage.

"What's this mean?" he demands of Paula, ignoring Sir Herrick's civil greeting. "What do you mean by sneaking off in this fashion to meet this fellow?"

"Stacey—Stacey!" murmurs May, who has followed him.

"Don't Stacey me!" he snarls. "Mind your own business! She can answer a plain question, I suppose!"

And he glances at Paula.

White and trembling, not with fear of the half-drunken bully who is to be her future husband, but with shame, Paula remains silent and it is Sir Herrick who answers. In a voice cold and suppressed, yet intense with surprise and scorn, he says:

"Permit me to explain. I met Miss Estcourt—"

"We know that," breaks in Stacey, with an insolent sneer. "We ain't blind. Besides, nobody asked you to speak. She can say what she wants, I suppose!"

Sir Herrick looks at him with an indescribable expression of cold contempt, then he glances at Paula, and his head so near his heart, and he presses the trembling arm encouragingly.

But Paula is still silent. She has forgotten Stacey's presence, is utterly indifferent to his violence: it is of her old lover, the man she still loves, that she is thinking. "What must he think of her?"

"Oh, very well!" says Stacey, biting his lip and raising his voice. "If you won't speak, I can think what I like, I suppose!"

"Think what you like, but suppress it," says Sir Herrick, in a stern, warning voice. "Your loud voice has already attracted attention, and the motions towards the table, and which several heads are turned with wondering curiosity. 'Restrain yourself, sir; this is no place for an exhibition of ill-temper, especially towards a lady.' 'Curse your impudence!' retorts Stacey, livid with passion. 'Mind your business! Come with me, Paula, this instant!'"

Paula draws her hand from Sir Herrick's arm, but he holds it in his hand with a firm grip.

"Fardon me," he says, with the cold, punctilious politeness which has marked his manner towards Stacey. "I have what right do you command Miss Estcourt's company?"

"By what right?" echoes Stacey, starting, then he laughs. "She has kept you in the dark? By what right? I'll tell you: By the right a man has over his future wife, Sir Herrick stands silent and motionless for a moment, his eyes looking far beyond the red face confronting him, looking into space, as he struggles with the agony that threatens to overcome him; then he bends his head to Paula, and says, in a lower voice:

"Is this true?" repeats Sir Herrick, white to the lips.

She does not speak, but she lifts her head and looks at him—a wild, imploring prayer for mercy.

He reads the truth as plainly as if she had spoken, with a bow, cold and courteous he leads her to Stacey.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Palmer," he says. "Permit me to explain. I met Miss Estcourt in the room a few—say ten minutes ago. The meeting was unexpected on both sides. This is the simple explanation you demanded; if it does not satisfy you, I am staying at the hotel till tomorrow, and she smiles significantly.

Stacey's face goes deadly white, and his craven soul shrinks within him at Sir Herrick's ominous tone.

"I don't care whether you go or stay," he stammers. "I don't want to see any more of you. Come, Paula! Come, May!" and he takes them, one on each arm, and sweeps through.

As they pass into the ballroom Sir Herrick follows to the doorway, and holding back the curtains, watches them. Suddenly he sees the downcast head turn and look back, and the awful despair in the dark gleam like a ghost's through the mask and into his soul.

With a groan he lets the curtain fall and walks blindly to the white-table.

"Give—give me some wine," he says. "No," answers fiercely, as the footman

WHAT IT IS

The Mucous Membrane and the Important Part It Plays in the Health or Sickness of the Body.

The Mucous Membrane is the inside lining of the body, and of all its vessels and organs. The moment this mucous membrane becomes out of condition, over so, little, illness follows swiftly, in some form or other.

In 99 cases of 100, disease has its beginning in some derangement of this Mucous Membrane.

It is very delicate and extremely sensitive, and consequently very liable to disease.

If you are not feeling well you may be sure that the Mucous Membrane of some organ is sick and requires immediate treatment.

There is one medicine that is intended to act, and does act, directly and curatively on the Mucous Membrane. It is Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Constipation disappear as soon as Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill is taken.

Mucous Membrane to its natural healthy condition. Fifty cents a bottle at all Druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Company, Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada.

offers him some champagne. "Brandy," and filling a glass, he raises it with trembling hand to his white lips.

Then, still almost blindly, he sets the empty glass on the table, and goes slowly out.

CHAPTER XL

Stacey de Palmer swaggers along, with cowardice and impudent rage filling his mean heart almost to bursting.

May leans on his arm trembling. Paula walks by his side, calm and deadly cold, now that Sir Herrick is out of sight. Suddenly, Stacey sees Alice talking to her partner at the end of the room, and pushes his way to her. Alice is seated on a lounge looking up, all attention, to the major, in his court-dress, but her keen eyes notice the man approaching her, and she detects in Stacey's face that something has gone wrong. With an unflinching smile, however, she welcomes them.

"Well, my dear isn't this delightful? Have you danced the last, dear May?" Stacey, I promised you the next dance. "Never mind that," says Stacey, with suppressed fury. "I want to talk to you. Look here—"

"Hush," says Alice, holding up her finger warningly. "Remember, we are not the only English here. Come into this ante-room if you want to shout, my dear Stacey," she added playfully. Stacey drags May forward and Paula follows calmly, one would say, unconcerned. The major with a charming smile offers her his arm, but she does not appear to like it.

"Now, then," says Alice, sinking into a chair in a corner of the dimly-lighted little room.

"What's the matter?" she asks, looking at him with a smile. "For, of course, she has been in mischief, or you would not look at her in that grumpy way," and she laughs a playful little laugh.

"Mischief!" echoes Stacey, with a coarse sneer. "She knows best about that. Judge for yourself, if I haven't cause to complain," and he flings out his red hands. "You know I missed her; you know I've been looking for her for the last half-hour. That isn't nice, is it, considering—"

"That you are to be man and wife, and that you are the most unbecomingly, and making a playful dab at him with her fan. "Well, what have you to say, Miss Truant?" and she nods her head to Paula.

Paula stands with her hand resting on a pedestal which supports a dancing figure, but she makes no answer. She looks as rapt and lifeless indeed as the marble figure itself. If she hears the question it has no meaning for her.

"Oh, my darling, my lost darling!" is ringing in her ears like a knell.

"What has she to say? Nothing?" snarls Stacey. "I asked her to explain twenty times—"

"Explain what?" demands Alice, sweetly.

"How it is that I find her closeted with that idiot, Sir Herrick Powis!"

Alice starts and glances at the statue-like figure.

"With Herrick Powis?" repeats Stacey furiously. "Closeted with him in the card-room! She can't deny it! She gives me a slip—the man she is to be married to—on purpose to meet him—on purpose!"

Stacey de Palmer swaggers along, with cowardice and impudent rage filling his mean heart almost to bursting.

May leans on his arm trembling. Paula walks by his side, calm and deadly cold, now that Sir Herrick is out of sight. Suddenly, Stacey sees Alice talking to her partner at the end of the room, and pushes his way to her. Alice is seated on a lounge looking up, all attention, to the major, in his court-dress, but her keen eyes notice the man approaching her, and she detects in Stacey's face that something has gone wrong. With an unflinching smile, however, she welcomes them.

"Well, my dear isn't this delightful? Have you danced the last, dear May?" Stacey, I promised you the next dance. "Never mind that," says Stacey, with suppressed fury. "I want to talk to you. Look here—"

First Year Firemen Get an Increase in Pay—Swanwick's Case Considered and Referred Back.

Increases for Firemen.

The first clause of No. 3 committee's report, which was moved by Ald. Matthews, recommended that the salaries of first-year firemen be increased as follows: First six months, at the rate of $47.50 per year; the next six months at the rate of $47.50 per year; and after the expiration of one year's service, at the maximum rate of $50.00 per year.

Ald. Becher seconded and the clause carried unanimously.

The next clause, No. 3's report recommended that Fireman John Swanwick, who was injured at the Sterling fire, and who, though not incapacitated for duty, it is alleged will never be in as good physical condition as he was prior to the accident, by reason of such injuries, and will not be able to serve in the brigade as long as he otherwise would have, be granted the sum of $150 out of the $225 received from the insurance company, and that the city pay in addition the following accounts incurred on account of said accident, which Mr. Swanwick is liable for, viz: Substitute on brigade, $10.00; Dr. Drake's account, $15.00; Dr. Moore's account, $5.00; Dr. Wishart's account, $5.00; Victoria Hospital account, $12.15; Miss McDermott nurse, $60.00; total, $443.02. Mr. Swanwick to sign a release to be drawn up by the city solicitor.

After reading the clause Ald. Matthews said he would not move its adoption because he did not think Mr. Swanwick was getting enough. Ald. Greenlee, seconded by Ald. Forristal, moved that the clause be adopted.

Ald. Matthews then moved that Swanwick be given the amount of insurance due him on a policy covering him against accident, about $225.

Ald. Judd seconded.

Finally the point having been raised as to whether Swanwick intends to remain on the fire department, Ald. Becher moved, seconded by Ald. Cooper, that the clause be reported back, it being the opinion of many of the aldermen, as well as the mayor, that if Swanwick is to remain on the brigade the sum of $150, in addition to the paying of his doctors' bills, is sufficient, if he is not able to serve the city properly as a fireman he should be dismissed, as was Robertson, and adequately compensated for the injuries he received. The amendment and the clause were referred back.

The Park Monument Fund.

Miss Nora Dunn, secretary of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, requested the council to authorize the transfer to the treasurer of the park monument fund of the money now in the hands of the city treasurer. The money was raised by a concert some time ago. The order now has on hand a total of $1210.89 toward the building of the monument, and the members are anxious to increase this amount by securing all sums which have been raised for the monument, but which have not as yet been handed over to the committee's treasurer. Referred to No. 1.

Wm. Moore, of Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Consumption, and Other Forms of Tuberculosis, wrote the council asking that the city submit a petition to Parliament, calling for the erection of a monument to the fact that it is an absolute necessity that the Dominion and Provincial governments should join in the work of eradicating this scourge from the country. Referred to No. 1 committee.

D. E. Stewart, asked for permission to erect an illuminated sign in front of his store, 434 Richmond street. Referred to No. 2 committee.

The four clauses of No. 2 committee's report carried without debate.

Bylaws Passed.

Bylaws for cement walks were passed as follows: South, Grosvenor street, Wellington to Waterloo street; south, St. James street, Wellington street to College street; north, St. James street, St. James street to Bruce street; Cement curb—West, Ridout street, Carling street to a point 240 feet north of Maple street; for a cement curb and gutter on north and south, King street, Wellington street to Maitland street.

The bylaw extending the lease of Queen's Park to the Western Fair Association was put through, the extension being for fifteen years.

On application of Mr. Thos. Smallman for permission to transfer Salisbury street, which runs north of the C. P. R., between Adelaide and Elizabeth streets, so as to change the frontage of the lots, which, according to the present survey, now front on the railway tracks, was referred to the board of works.

Those present were Mayor Beck, Alds. Judd, Cooper, Beecher, Stevely, Matthews, Garratt, Greenlee, Gery, Abram, Forristal, and Wyatt, and Acting Clerk Jolly.

A DORCHESTER POET

Mr. Morley M. Swart Publishes His War Time and Other Melodies.

Mr. Morley M. Swart, of Dorchester, who has more than a local reputation as a writer of graceful verse, has collected his poems in a neat volume, which is offered to the public. These poems cover a wider range than is indicated by the title, "War Time Melodies and Other Songs." The war-time melodies, which breathe a robust patriotism, comprise only a few of the 75 selections in the book. Dr. Withrow, editor of the Methodist Magazine, writes an appreciative foreword, describing Mr. Swart's works as "marked by elevation of thought, religious and patriotic sentiment, poetic and musical in diction." Mr. Swart is a lover of nature, and sings of her pleasures by contrast with the hollow allurements of self and place.

"Far, far above these sordid things, Mine, mine the joys that nature brings! The soft caresses of the breeze, The varied beauty of the trees, The quiet grandeur of the hills, The rippling music of the rills, The robin's cheery roundelay, The fading splendours of the day, The glory of the morning star, The wonder of the world's afar."

Mr. Swart is evidently strongly under the influence of Whittier and Longfellow, particularly Whittier. His moral earnestness is unmistakable, and a deep religious conviction pervades his poetry. His faculty for embodying a great principle of ethics in melodious and exquisitely finished verse is shown in the sonnet, entitled "Revenge," which is worthy of reproduction in full:

"An enemy had done him wrong—So to get even with him, he Did plan, and plan exceedingly: Did nourish hate, then struck a blow To be revenged upon his foe, So injured grew, discolored and strife, And trouble vexed his after life.

"An enemy had done him wrong—But he did not retaliate; He checked the rising floods of hate; With acts of kindness did repay, The wrong inflicted on that day, Did manifest goodwill, and so He won the friendship of his foe; Did make of him a faithful friend, Strong, true and steadfast to the end."

The moral sentiment of this is surely teachable, and the poem will surely have a place in any Canadian's breast. Mr. Swart has well earned membership in the Ontario Society of Authors.

—Miss Ethel Brown, 3 Horn street, invited a few friends to meet her guests, Miss Olive Stanley, of St. Mary's, and Miss Ayda Reitsma, of Goderich, at a table tea Saturday afternoon. The tea-table was beautifully decorated with American Beauty roses and smilax, on a centerpiece of red tulips. It was presided over by Mrs. E. F. H. Parker and Mrs. Layman.

FIRST BANQUET IN LONDON.

A meeting of the reception and membership committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association is being held at the offices of the association in Toronto this afternoon. The chief business of the meeting will be to arrange a series of monthly banquets of the members of the association. The first banquet will probably take place in London.

Pumps at Springbank Are Not Working to the Satisfaction of the Commission.

Several weeks ago the water commission received a report from a mechanical engineer regarding the new hydraulic pumps installed at Springbank by the London Machine and Engineering Company. In this report a number of minor defects were pointed out and attention was also called to several important ones. In consideration of this Engineer Moore was instructed to order the company to put the machinery in order or else give their reasons for not doing so.

As stated at yesterday's meeting this order was evidently ignored by the company, as nothing was done towards repairs nor any notice given why the engineer's instructions should not be followed out.

In the meantime the pumps have been working at numerous parts of the city. The vibration of the pumps was evidently too great for the foundation on which they were placed, and it came out that the pumps were likely have to be taken up and a new and firmer foundation put in. It will also be ascertained if the pumps were attached to the steel girders in the proper manner.

Yesterday the board talked the matter over and came to the conclusion that the best plan would be to place the matter in the hands of the city solicitor. The chairman and engineer will instruct him as to the facts of the case.

In regard to the matter the mayor moved that the city solicitor notify

WON BY NUMBER ONE

Marching and Firing Competition For Wolseley Barracks Force.

A marching and firing competition was held yesterday at Wolseley Barracks, the prize being a handsome combination cigar and cigarette case, donated by Lord Dunsford for the sergeants' mess. The affair was the first of its kind to be held for two years, and was a distinct success in every way. At 11 o'clock the men paraded and were formed into sections of eight. Fifty minutes was allotted to each section to reach the Cove ranges where the firing was to take place, and the sections left the barracks successfully, fifteen minutes being allowed between each. The orders were for each to commence firing at 600 yards, and to advance, by successive rushes in double time, to 400 yards. Following were the scores: No. 1 section, under Sergt. Farnsworth, 24; No. 2 section, Sergt. O'Connell, 23; No. 3 section, Sergt. Beals, 22; and No. 4 section, Sergt. Evans, 18.

Gen. William Booth of the Salvation Army, once explained his theory of getting work done. "They call me a pope sometimes," I reply, "but I am not. Twenty people are banded together, and nineteen are for taking things easily, and if you leave them to themselves they will take the easy path. But if you say, 'Go, that's the path,' they will go. My people now want and wait to be commanded."
