NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Many a grand opportunity has been lost because the laborers stopped to dispute and forgot to resume the work. Religious Telescope.

The Episcopal Register thinks that the Anglican air of the junior Americans who go abroad and return with a hesitating voice and an altered pronunciation, ought to be made to pay a heavy duty at the Custom House.

The Christian Intelligencer says: "The real work of every denomination is performed by a minority, and it will be found that of this minority nearly every family reads the denominational newsparers."

To say that no man can reach Christian perfection, and yet urge men to seek it on the ground that though they cannot reach it the effort will be beneficial to them, is to trifle with wordsa thing our Lord never did. - Nash.

The New York Evening Post ventures to assert "that a large proportion of the judges on the bench hold railroad passes, and have asked for them, or have, in other words, incurred obligations to railroad companies which ought to disqualify them, but do not, for sitting on any railroad case, and which the law ought to make a punishable and disgraceful offence.'

Rev. Joseph Parker, recently speaking before the students of the Baptist Regent's Park College, announced a great truth that many of our preachers are indisposed to accept: "The more learned the congregation," he said, "the less learning the congregation asked for, but for that inner life, that wondrous spiritual mystic power which made the whole world kin.

"Give me a bass drum, or a Chinese gong, rather than our quartet of two youngsters, with their hair parted exactly in the middle, and a pair of young girls with their wool gathered over their eves like a marino sheep or a Scotch poodle, who troll out something which nobody can understand, and call it the 'praise of God.' "-Dr. Mark Trafton, in Zion's Herald.

The Springfield Republican says of Matthew Arnold: "He is distinctly and by emilience a literary man, and of that undetermined theology and those pronounced esthetic opinions which are always near to Boston's and perhaps of the monarchy itself.' heart; yet she takes to him somewhat But we are bound to say that such a coldly, and eyes him as it were askance; neither overcome by his sweetness, nor quite dazzled by his son and good sense. — Central Adv. excess of light.

The custom of singing songs entirely secular and often of little merit seems to be on the increase in missionary and Chris ian temperance meetings in Cincinnati. One might wish that the better hymns of the Church could be used, especially on Sunday. However, as it is seldom that a word of these songs can be understood by the audience, perhaps the offence may be condoned. - Western Adv.

The preacher was relating some voice to the pathetic pitch, or rather depth. We are sure what he said was good, having confidence in the man, though we heard not. The Old Testament intelligently read and interpreted by the New Testament is of great advantage to every Christian, but more especially to every Christian minister. It is an inexhaustable source from which material can be gathered for presenting the gospel in all its phases, and for illustrating the teachings of the New Testament. A converted Jew said, "The New Testament is the Holy Ghost's commentary on the Old Testament."-

It was Dudley Warner, we believe, who said that he attempted to worship in a church in which "the reproduction of the old Gothic was so complete that the builders even seemed to have brought over the ancient air from one of the churches of the Middle Ages." This is quoted for the special benefit of the sextons in our churches. Beloved ministers to our comfort, don't give us so much of the Gothic. We want, at least, the air of

Says the English Christian World There appears to be a growing desire in this country on the part of the female portion of the community that the word "obey" should be struck out of the marriage ceremony. Some clergymen come forward to say that they never insist upon this pledge of obedience to husbands being taken by brides. Away in Canada, where a man may marry his deceased wife's the obnoxious word out of the Marriage Service."

The grounds for the combined attack of the Church of English bishops on the bill authorizing marriage with a deceased wife's sister, may be found in the following utterance of the Bishop of Lincoln: "It was really a bill for the separation of Church and peace of families and disastrous to the safety of the national institutions, statement gives signs of unreasonable prejudice and fright rather than rea-

Here a man had lived an intellient and studious life, supposing him self to be 2 rationalist, and had never done any real thinking about his relations to God. Thinking precedes all genuine feeling. Feeling that begins and ends without thought will make a goodness which goeth away as a morning cloud and as the early dew. Said the late Dr. Durbin to the writer: "When you try to make a man feel, put a thought into his mind, and the thought will rekindle the feeling long after the voice of the preacher has died away." The thing for the pastors, the Sunday school teachers, and the class leaders to seek after is to set the people to thinking, not abstractly, but in the concrete: Who am I? Why was I made! Whither am I drifting ! What will the end be ! A vast moral upheaval would result in all our churches and congregations if. oughly conversant with the scheme in these autumnal months, the people

And glory shone around. It was a child's voice, clear and sweet, but so plaintive. Some. thing in the tones reminded Jerry of little Alice, who was silent in the grave. She had learned those very words in the Sabbathschool. The desolate father dropped an upraised tool, burying his face in his hands. He recalled how Deborah had dressed her for a Christmas-gathering in the church, where she sang with her class that quaint hymn of praise. It seemed like yesterday, as the words fell upon his ears:

It would attract no special at-

But to my eyes this cup surpasses all others, because the golden lining and each line of engraving illustrate to me spiritual truth more precious than gold, and remind me of experience in God's school of discipline, more to be desired than silver. Years ago a young minister was appointed to a certain parish. It offered wider opportunities than he had yet enjoyed, and heavier responsibilities. He was preparing to enter every sincere servant of the Lord tion of service, with a sense of meet the increased responsibilities. But alas for the human side! I know I have given you cause for resentment; but your gentlemanly, Christian forbearance has quite won my confidence, and I felt that you, of all persons, were the one to influence my husband and lead him to Christ." O, the value of living Christ as well as preaching him! So when the time came for the great upheaval, the moving time at the close of the pastorate, when packing boxes and perplexity were at the front, and pleasant scenes and associations were for a time somewhere in the dim background, a messenger called at the parsonage bearing this silver cup, delicately engraved, and accompanied with this note: "My dear brother, please take this cup with you, and drink from it every day, and let it remind you ever and always of the blessed and unfailing power of prayer."

OLD HANNAH.

" Hannah says the cattle fall upon their knees at twelve o'clock Christmas eve," said Minnie Grant to her aunt, as they sat waiting for the child's bedtime.

" Hannah is a superstitious old Scotch woman," returned the aunt: "she believes all that she has ever heard, without reason or questioning; but that is happier than to doubt every thing, as many people do. I suppose that idea about the cattle came from an old Latin poet, who speaks of them as cherishing the new-born Child with their warm breath, and falling down before the majesty of his glory. There are many human beings who never show this reverence that is attributed to the beasts: they might learn a lesson from old Hannah's superstition."

Aunt Ellen was thoughtful and quiet for a moment, then she said. It would not be so very wonderful for the dumb creatures to prostrate themselves before such a sublime mystery as God manifest in the flesh, when, through the instrumentality of an angel, an ass was once caused to fall down before it and to speak as with man's

"Hannah will put her new 'besom' behind the door to-morrow morning, and a chair in the doorway with bread and cheese upon it," said the little girl; "she thinks it will bring prosperity to the family."

" If we try to make clean our hearts, and to sweep out all evil things from them, as we sweep the house with a new broom; and if we use hospitality and charity to all the poor and needy who come to us, it will indeed bring prosperity, and God's richest blessing," replied Aunt Ellen. "There is a good deal of significance in many of these old customs. It would be pleasant to use them if we always thought of their meaning."

" And Hannah has made me a 'Yule baby' from some of the bread dough," said the child. "That is to remind you of the blessed Babe, who is to us the bread of everlasting life. If we do not feed upon his love and his word and his Holy Spirit, we can no more live the Christian life than these bodies could live without our daily bread. I like Hannah's customs when rightly understood."

THE TRUE TEACHER.

The teacher should know what he teaches. With his own heart filled with the love of God, and being well grounded in the taith, he should care fully and prayerfully study the special lesson to be taught at each session of the school, and seek to find its practical bearing upon the general funda mental doctrinal truths which lie at the foundation of all true Christian character.

To help such an important trust and to attempt its performance with out proper preparation is to be dishonest to himself, dishonest to his class and dishonest to his God. The scholars alone may be deceived for a while, but they, too, will soon learn that what is given cost the giver nothing, and properly estimating it, will treat it as valueless. The lessonstudy and preparation should be not only a mental research and employment, but also a heart and soul niedi-

The teacher's mind may grasp the truth that flows from the throne of the Eternal as clearly as the eye may see a river running to the ocean; but unless he has a clear conception of the channel, marked after deep sound. ings, and is an experienced pilot, navigation with him on either will be alike unsafe. He should be patient, faithful and true, that his pupils may readthin like the open page of a book. No funeral-like solemnity should drape or shroud his countenance. Love and tenderness should mantle his face and guide his tongue. Like a soldier equipped with burnished armor, he should come to his class with a beaming tace through which the bright rays of God's truth are shining out of his soul. Thus prepared and in his position, he should yield cheerful obedience to the regulations and requirements of the school, so that by example, as well as by the exercise of proper authority, he may command respect and secure observance of proper decorum from his scholars. He should know his scholars and understand thoroughly their circumstances and surroundings. He should probe the mind of each one to ascertain its present condition, bias, power and capacity regarding religious truth. He should teach what he knows! Having studied his lesson and his pupils, and having acquired the truth of the one and the confidence of the other. he has fulfilled an important duty no less to himself than to his class, and he is now in condition to enter upon the equally high duty of imparting what he knows to his pupils. The few brief moments allowed to the lesson afford no time for mere amusement or entertainment. Plain and intelligible words and simple methods and illustrations should be employed in teaching the truths of the lesson. The consciousness should be upon the teacher with all its crushing weight that immortal souls are before him, tender and beautiful it may be, yet not without the blight of sin; some of them may be indifferent and callous, others eager for the unfolding of the truth; all should have their portion in due season. Each one should be made to know his true con- trouble. dition, the Father's love for him, the plan of salvation, the suffering and death of Jesus their Redeemer and Saviour, who so tenderly said, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me; for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

The teacher should carefully and fully explain in his class the sacraments and ordinances of the church, and its articles of faith, and should urge attendance upon its services. Seiting a good example will do much towards enforcing his precepts on this latter duty. He should visit his scholars at convenient seasons and nu e thus show them that he has an interest in their welfare that is not confined to the four walls of the Sunday-school room. Absentees should be diligent. ly inquired and sought after. -Baltitimore Methodist.

IMPRESSIONS OF LEAVES.

M. Bertot, of the Paris Academy, has just made known a simple method of taking impressions of plants, requiring only a large sheet of paper, some olive (or other) oil, blacklead, ashes, resin, (or colophony,) The paper is first lightly oiled on one side, then folded in four so that the oil may filter through the pores, and the plant may not come into direct contact with the liquid. The plant is placed between the leaves of the second folding, and in this position pressed (through other paper) all over with the hand, so as to make a small quantity of oil adhere to its surface Then it is taken out and placed carefully on white paper; another sheet is placed above (since two impressions can be taken), and the plant pressed as before. On now removing it an invisible image remains on the paper. You sprinkle over this a quantity of blacklead (or ashes, etc. ) and distribute it in all directions, as in applying sand to wriing; the image then appears in all its parts. With an assortment of colors, the natural colors of plants may be reproduced. To obtain fixity. resin is added to the blacklead (previously) in equal quantity; the im. pression is fixed when it is exposed to a heat sufficient to melt the resin.

HOT BREAD.

The Scientific American points out that the chemical changes by which paste is transformed into dough and dough into bread are not completed, when the bread has been baked. "They continue for quite a time afterward, and until they have entirely ceased the material has not become what it ought to be-bread easy of digestion. It is a burden to any stomach, to a weak one it is simply poison." The advice given is to avoid the eating of hot bread or any of its substitutes, such as hot biscuit, muffins, rolls, waffles, buckwheat cakes, etc. "Hot bread in any form whater be eaten. Some forms are very bad, and should in reason be banished from every table."

CHRISTMAS-1884.

To say that Christmas is near i quite unnecessary. If the hearts of some of our readers do not leap at that fact as they once did, the irrepressible anticipations of their juniors will render forgetfulness of it impossible. Even if they are conscious that "there has faded away a glory from the earth," it does not follow that its absence should cause them to cast any shadow over the pathway of those who are following in their track. "Life and immortality, brought to life by the Gospel," should throw over age a cheeriness out of which should come no sigh for lost youth, nor mourning for departed friends. On Christmas Day, the "children's day" emphatically though it may be, the presence of the aged saint should add rays of quiet beauty and gladness to the unmixed merriment of the surrounding wouth, and should make the busy men and women who are calling a brief halt, feel that in life's winter-time and at its evening-tide there may be

We are not preaching a sermon. To that the pastors will attend. May we, however, point out a duty which others may perform—the duty of seeing that the import of the day is not wholly forgotten. We cannot always bid our own souls mount to the heights of spiritual contemplation, much less can we take our children thither and keep them there. But we can carefully save them from the opposite extreme, and teach them that they have souls as well as stomachs. The only answer a teacher received from her Sunday school class, in re ply to her question about Thanksgiv ing-day, was from a little fellow who with thorough childish candor answered, "It's the day to eat roast turkey." Worthy of pity will be that home circle where there shall be no room for Jesus among the greetings and the gifts which his own life and death have procured, as there was no room for him in the inn on the world's first Christmas. Blessed will that child be beneath all whose joy shall be present an undertone of praise to the Holy Child Jesus, his recognised friend for time and eternity. Let Christ be the foundation of all Christmas joys.

In preparation for the day one should keep in view the fact that Christ lived not for himself, and that he has left us an example in this respect. The natural selfishness of the heart may now be strengthened or a life long victory be entered upon. The Prince of Peace who, eighteen hundred and eighty-three years ago. made Christmas for us all, does not hold out to us happiness as our chief end and aim. "Happiness, as a habit of the mind, dies with our first wouth ; but on its grave may spring a higher, more enduring growth, whose branches will rise heavenward and spread over the earth." Some writer speaks of a man whose countenance seemed to say that he had once performed a kind act, under the joyful impulse of which he had gone forward all his life. In preparing for the hap-. #### A WORD ON TEMPERANCE.

The visit of a deputation of ladies to the City Council last week, in the interests of temperance, was perfectly in order. Many may sympathize with that New Orleans marine board which recently refused a woman after long training a license as master of a steamwoman belong rare qualifications for a leading place in the religious and philanthropic movements of the age. If at times she has thoughtlessly led men toward ruin by intemperance, none has suffered through intemperance as she has. A report in another column shows what Christian ladies in our sister city of St. John have been doing; we are persuaded that female Christian workers here have been no

Our dependence, we must however admit, is not on our civic or provincial or Dominion authorities, so far as the suppression of intemperance is concerned, but in the education of our people to that point of conviction when no man shall be sent anywhere as their representative who is not most thoroughly committed to total abstinence principles. Until a wide awake temperance sentiment shall over-master the community, the most ardent temperance worker in the civic court can only "make the best of a bad matter." A bad matter it certainly is, beyond doubt, when according to law, for which the people are responsible, child vaccinated. The event was folit becomes an important part of the lowed by meetings at which resolutions duties of our aldermen to give men were passed condemning the Acts permission to embrute their fellow men, and to open soul traps for our ble. Some one thas said that to judge aright of any act one should ask himself. "How will this look afterward?" How will our conduct as Christians in relation to this monster evil of drinking look hereafter? It sometimes seems as if the greatest of many mysteries to our descendants will be that we bore so patiently and so calmly the presence of an evil so deadly. What will they of a coming generation say of an English curate being and rector for having written in plain Anglo Saxon words about the liquordealing in his congregation? What, too, will they say of the fault found with the minister who walks our streets and, filled with the outside sion. into his pulpit and uses burning words about the evil? They will wonder at us as we wonder at our fathers for because he carried off a loaf for his starving children, and will moreover feel that new wo.ds might in our agony have been coined to describe an evil of which even the traces will inspire them with horror! ### IRELAND.

Ireland still continues to occupy a prominent place in the gaze of the world. Each day it becomes more difficult to separate Parnell from O' Donnell. The one is the most prominent individual at a banquet where the Queen is grossly and wantonly insulted; the other shoots down a man-a most unworthy man, it is true -vet one under government protection. Here the comparison ends; for there? It has been more than sustribute of $38,000, and the man led Saviour's joy. Then shall be fulfilled the credit of the American government our wish: A Happy Christmas to all that if, in view of the Irish vote, it did not quite mind its own business. it at least had sufficient self-respect to take a mild stand in behalf of the poor dupe whom his countrymen and their more guilty leaders pretend to glorify as a martyr.

> The world grows sick over this Irish trouble, but is not yet to be released from it. To Parnell it means wealth: to Roger A. Pryor, who defended O' Donnell, it brings $15,000 for his services; to some blatant orators on this side of the ocean it means an easy living, but there is reason to fear that to many of their blind followers it means only death, as it has done to a score or more already. The Times. in a leading editorial, says there was never a more uncompromising defiance flung in the face of the English nation or Government than by Mr. Parnell. in his speech in the Rotunda at Dublin. It is impossible for the public men in England to regard this renewal of Irish warfare with indifference or contempt. Late dispatches state that the police are closely watching the houses of the leading Irish Nationalists in London, and that several armel policemen have been sent to Hawarden Castle to guard the Prime Minister.

Bitter opposition to vaccination still prevails in some parts of Britain and the continent. His conversion, subsequent to his resignation, had never been announced, and Dr. Milnor was of the opinion that he had been a Romanist while occupying a Protestant Episcopal pulpit. This happened forty years ago or more, and there is no reason to think that Rome has grown more sparing of such devices since ritualism has so widely spread.

> It was William Arnot, of Edinburg, who said to his congregation in reference to the hour before church on Sabbath morning :-

I am anxious about it. The note struck then is likely to give tone to your spirit all the day. Redeem it. Redeem it as much as you can from family duties. Redeem it wholly from " plaiting of hair and putting on of apparel." Redeem it wholly from vain conversation. How very much the power of the minister's preaching depends on the preparing of the hearer's heart. If you come up to the church with your mind crowded with trifles, and puffed up with vanity, what can ministers do? They can do nothing but beat the air. What else can they do if there is nothing before them but air to beat at? It will make a sound, and that is all. I fear that many of my dear people spend more time on the Sabbath morning in putting veils on their faces, than in taking the veil off their hearts: more time in trying to make themselves appear before men what they are not, than in trying to make themselves appear before God what they are.

The Government of Prince Edward Island has very wisely issued a pamphlet of thirty-four pages, giving all necessary information regarding its climate, soil, resources, etc. Few spots in the world possess greater natural advantages, and these have never been adequately set forth. This valuable pamphlet should be widely circulated. Its statements are clear and definite. Should anyone deem them overdrawn he has only to search through theireports of our Dominion Exhibitions, to be convinced of the great progress and capabilities of the Island Province.

We have only space to notice the receipt of a pamphlet by Rev. Dr. E. M. Saunders, entitled a "Defence of the Governors of Acadia College, in | carried some of the features of the tion, and in the appointment of Dr. Rand." In this way the able letters real or supposed reduction of prices on there can be no doubt. The of Dr. Saunders in behalf of the Governors of Acadia Sollege will be preserved for future reference. We trust that Acadia, under the new arrangement, may go on and prosper.

> The Autumn term at Mount Allison closed this week. We learn that good, honest work has been done, and no examinations have ever been more satisfactory. We trust that our people will neither treat lightly the value of education, nor the claims which these Institutions have upon them for a generous and hearty support.

Will ministers send us circuit items of interest? If necessary we will put them into shape. Half-column reports of tea-meetings, concerts, etc., are seldom sent and are neverneeded-The public ask for the facts and noth ing more. Improvement is observed in memorial notices, but they are sometimes too lengthy yet.

Dr. Burns continues his lectures this evening in Fort Massey Church. 'C's" letter will remind the Doctor of a beautifully-finished public building, which was pronounced unsafe before it was used because of its hidden weakness, or rather, perhaps, of a pyramid with its point on the earth and its base in the air.

DOCKED FOR REPAIRS.

DEAR MR. EDITOR -1 will endeavor o fulfill an old promise to drop you a line occasionally. A strange experience it is to a Methodist minister to be docked for repairs As soon as health improves restiveness and restlessness are apt to chafe thespirit, and yet may it not be a sacred duty to harbor strength for the future in order to become a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, thoroughly furnished unto all good works? Believing prayer, a day's exercise in God's sun shine and air, and a night of the sweet sleep God gives to his beloved, will cast out the stomachic devil. It is somewhat soothing to find one's self in the goodly company of Timothy whose perverse stomach gave him oft infirmities, and to remember that Paul wintered with his friends in Ephesus before his campaign in Jerusalem, with Rome and Spain in prospect.

THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR. The discussion which has stirred Protestantism to its depths in Halifax has sent out its sound through all these Maritime Provinces, and I cannot but believe that in the Providence of God it will be productive of good. It must lead to searching the Scriptures, to a desire to become acquainted what is reliable in early church history, and to the formation of a more intelligent faith and clearly comprehended creed. There may have been too much looseness in the so called liberality of some of our modern methods of teaching and belief. Hence many are unlearned and unstable and become the easy prey of those who wrest the Scriptures. We rejoice that all the truly evangelical pulpits in Halifax have given forth no uncertain sound from the Gospel trumpet, and that the people have rallied to the sound, and the hearts of thousands elsewhere are with them in the defence of the good old British right of private judgment, no matter what a consensus of the fathers or the tradiditions of any historic church may say.

A QUESTION FOR PROTESTANTISM.

A portion of our Church of England friends are a little sensitive it appears, at other hands being put forth so freely to steady their ark. But if they are the Church of England, all English subjects and dependents must be interested in the purity of their teachings. If they, the ancient bulwark of the Reformation, should ever have their ramparts levelled, the reactionary forces would sweep against us. Their history and success is the common cause of British Protestant. ism. We Methodists are the direct de scendants of this historic Church, and, though we were turned out of doors at a tender age, we have always fondly cherished the belief that we the founding of the Chair of Educa- fathers of the Reformation, and for relation's sake could never find it in our hearts to call ourselves Dissenters because we believed that if the old Church of England were true to the traditions of her fathers and true to the spirit of her prayer-book, especially the articles of religion, there would be no need of dissent. I say their spirit as interpreted by the times of Edward VI. and Queen Elizabeth. for their letter killeth. That spirit should have led to a revision when those troublous times were passed, and if there is to be no revision or abandonment as the genius of the age demands, if the letter can be subverted to misinterpret the Reformation, if for doctrines are taught the traditions of men, then Methodists are compelled to loud dissent or else disloyalty to the Head of the Church.

CHURCH PEDIGREE.

We do not care however to go back further than the reformers. If an unbroken succession could be traced through men like Cædmon of Whitby. and the Venerable Bede and St. Columba, there would be something to be proud of. This ancient British Church was Presbyterian, for the bishop was only "primus inter pares," a pastor with a charge, superior in office but not in order. It was Protestant, for it protested against the supremacy of Rome, and its so-called monasteries were only theological schools. Wyckliffe, Latimer, Knox, and Bunyan and Wesley, if they had not its transmitted authority, had its transmitted spirit which loved liberty and purity and an open Bible. Unfortunately the line, if traced at all, must be traced through St. Augustine and back through all the slime and soot and blood of the Mediaeval Church. Then, when we have managed, by dint of holding our nose and shutting our eyes, to emerge into the purer atmosphere of the earlier Church, into what confusion are we landed. These good fathers are all at sea about the succession. Linus died before Peter and no one can tell with certainty whether Peter was ever at Rome; and when we find that there are no authentic records, and that they contradict one another in matters of tradition, and that with all their piety they can seriously tell apocryphal legends, we are forcibly reminded of what Paul says about "giving heed to fables and endless genealogies which minister questions rather the Union obtained permission to visit than godly edifying." or convey grace to any sacrament is a small bouquet with an illuminated

W. C. T. U.-ST. JOHN, N.B.

The sixth anniversary of the Wo. St. John, N. B., was held on the 11th inst. We abridge the report as given The Union was organized Dec. 11th, 1877. Meetings are held regularly on each Tuesday for business and prayer.

There is an enrolled membership of about 180 names, but few of that number are actively engaged. Any woman willing to consecrate herself to the work can become a member, by taking a pledge of total abstinence and pay ing a small fee. The aim is to make it entirely unsectarian. At the beginning the work was principally visiting homes of inebriates, to lead them back to a life of sobriety, pointing to Him who alone could keep them from falling. Special cases have not been wanting to encourage renewed effort. Another undertaking was jail visitation. Four ladies each week visited female prisoners, and endeavored to lead back the fallen to the path of rectitude. In this way many were reached at what seems the only time of reaching those poor women, when they are sober and in their right minds. Touching letters have been received from girls thus rescued. Several were clothed by the Union, and sent to their former homes, with the hope that away from evil companions they might, with God's blessing, reform. With deep regret this work was discontinued, as the ladies were not permitted to visit the jail after a time, for reasons unassigned. Meetings were also held in a mission house on Sheffield street, with house visitation in that locality. While engaged in this work great need was felt for a place of refuge for those who, sincerely repentant, desired to live a different life. a house was taken and furnished by the aid of friends and fitted up as A 'Woman's Christian Home." inmates found there a permanent home during the winter. Others were cared for until sent to a situation, or to friends. At the close of the year, the ladies, who could no longer support it without assistance, appealed to the Evangelical Alliance, proposing to take the whole care of the home, if $300 per annum could be guaranteed for its support: the remainder to be raised by the union. It was not thought advisable to accede to our request, and, with heavy hearts, the W. C. T. U. closed their home in December, 1880. A juvenile class was successfully carried on for some time. At an early period in our work, material assistance was rendered to the Reform Club. This crippled the Union, preventing other work. Prominent lecturers have been engag. ed and expenses paid by the Union. with collections taken at the time. Temperance literature has been distributed. Committees visit the sick and poor, when made known. In 1882, the juvenile class was re-organized, as the "Wide Awake Club." girls and eighty boys took the triple pledge against "drinking, smoking and profanity." Small silver badges were provided. Every Monday, a short lesson on "Alcoholand Hygiene" was given (sometimes with simple experiments) to make it more interesting. On the last day of 1881, the Union gave a dinner to 130 news boys. Fifteen afterwards took the pledge and some became orderly and attentive members. The average attendance of the club was from 40 to 60. It is hoped that this important branch of work can be resumed this winter.

The W. C. T. U. feels that the great need of the temperance work is women who will help to destroy the deadly social sanction given to drinking. It is not the example of the reeling drunkard that we fear for our sons, but it is "when the sparkling deceiver is offered to them from the cut glass decanter, poured out perchance by jewelled fingers." A hard drinker of many years said, as he signed the pledge: "Twon't do any good ; I can't reform, it's too late, but for God's sake save the boys.

With the conviction that to "persuade men" from the intoxicating cup and dangerous saloon it was necessary to provide a substitute, a coffee room was opened in June, 1882, which is still in operation. A good work has been done, but they hope to open the coffee room in a new locality before Christmas. Last winter, hot soup was supplied gratuitously to the poor, one day in each week. Soup tickets were sold to charitable ladies, at 60 cen ts per dozen, for distribution. Some were sent to the Chief of Police, enabling him to supply a bowl of nourishing soup, before dismissing prisoners on a winter morning, after a supperless night. But, unhappily, there is no fund in reserve, this year, and we are in arrears for rent. To further aid work, it was thought advisable by some to erect a drinking fountain for men, near King Square, and, as it was the centennial year, to make it a memorial to the Loyalist women. The design was rejected, and they have felt most keenly the disapointment. They worked hard to raise the amount paid for the present structure, $844 27. They will work still harder until it shall be improved.

THE CONFESSIONAL.

To the Editor of the WESLEYAN.

Our Anglican friends may receive some light on the above subject by referring to Dr. Wm. Smith's "Dictionary of Christian Antiquities" vol. II. p. 1616. Under the caption Penitentiary" we read : "For our knowledge of the office of the Penifentiary Priests, we are indebted to the account which Socrates (H. E. v. 19) and Sozomen (H. E. vii. 16) give of the abolition of the office. The appointment dates from the time of the Novatian schism. The number of penitents, particularly of those who had lapsed during the Decian persecution, who flocked to obtain absolution from the Church gave a handle to the Novatian party to denounce the sys tem of Catholic discipline. Penitents also frequently made confession of ains before the Church which were unfit to be recited in public, and were a cause of scandal both to the bishop who published them and to the congregation who listened to them. obviate these difficulties a special officer called the Penitentiary was added to the ecclesiastical roll whose duty it was to determine what crimes were too scandalous for public acknowledg. ment, and particularly to decide what offences excluded the offender from partaking of the Holy Communion. and generally to superintend, under the authority of the bishop, the administration of discipline. The office was in force only till the time of Neccknowledged the jurisdiction of Conpersonally." (What immediately follows is scarcely fit for the columns of a family newspaper.) "The scandal caused a great outcry, and Nectarius. to prevent similar disorder for the future, formally abrogated the office. This was in A. D. 391. There hangs some obscurity over the question whether the office was at any time a universal one. Sozomen (H. E. vii. 16) implies that it existed throughout the West, and was particularly held in esteem in the Church of Rome. But the more general opinion seems to be, from the absence of any mention of the Penitentiary among Latin ecclesiastical writers, that the office was confined to the Eastern Church. The chief interest attaching to the abolition of the office is the bearing which it has on the Roman controversy of auricular confession. Both Socrates and Sozomen expressly state that upon the discontinuance of the office, each one was to be allowed to partake of the holy mysteries as his own conscience dictated. From which it seems to follow, that whatever may have been the practice while the Penitentiary Priest was one of the recognised officers of the Church, henceforth secret confession was discountenanced, and that there was to be nothing approaching to compulsory confession before coming to the holy sagrament. * * * * Ducange quotes Anastasius Bibliothecarius for the authority that pope Simplicius, A. D. 468-483, appointed an officer called Poenitentiarius Ecclesiae Romanae. with the duty of superintending the penitents and hearing their confes-

The writer of the above is the Rev. George Mead, M.A., Chaplain to the Forces, Plymouth, England. The "Dictionary of Christian Antiquities" is essentially an Anglican work and favors that denomination when it can. If it could prove auricular confession to have been a practice of the early Church we may be certain it would have been done. It has not been the close of the 4th century confession was public, (2) to prevent indecent recitals an officer was specially set apart whose duty it was to determine what sins were too scandalous to be confessed before the congregation, (3) that the office was very soon abolish ed, (4) that the purely Scriptural and Protestant usages of letting "a man examine himself" before coming to communion was then adopted, (5) that it was not till towards the close of the 5th century that the pope of Rome appointed an officer to superintend confessions, (6) that up to this time Public and not private confession of Min was the rule in the Latin Church, atand temptation when released from (7) that when the practice of private confession was introduced it was simply a precautionary measure of discipline to prevent scandal, and was by no means based upon the blasphemous he promised the ladies. He has been assumption that the priest had power to absolve from sin. For further light consult Christian Antiq., Art. "Penitence," p. 1586.

Moody and Sankey are in London. They have labored three weeks and their meetings continue crowded, but the interest is confined within a cer tain circle or ring, and hence the results of their campaign must be partial and disappointing. And we can descry signs easily, for they are patent and public, which point to the termination of the role of these men in Great Britain. The Wesleyan Conference has appointed Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, M. A., of Oxford, one of the ablest of its ministers to do the work of an evangelist through Wesleyanism, and the Methodist Recorder of London has ignored the mission of Moody and Sankey in the metropolis. The Methodist devotes a paragraph of criticism, needed comment, to their meetings

Dr. Wm. Moulton was appointed with the Rev. Robert Newton-Young as a delegation to the Goneral Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but the Doctor will not attend and somebody else will be appointed in his place. The Doctor is an eminent scholar and is greatly and deservedly beloved by his brethren and by learned men of other Churches, but we believe he has detracted nothing from his reputation by declining to attend the General Conference. Ready, fluent, off-hand speakers are the style of men for such deputations. The platform is seldom the sphere of the scholar. The popular platform orator is seldom distinguished for scholarship. The London Quarterly Review has taken a new departure in the line of cheapness, and Dr. J. H. Rigg has been associated with Dr. W. B. Pope in its editorial management. This may be to secure the support of both schools of thought in Wesleyanism. There are two schools. The Methodist has so affirmed, but it does not require the statement to discover this fact. No serious results however are likely to result from these extremes The day has gone by when differences of opinion in Methodism are likely to crystalize into a sect. The last Methodist sect has been formed.

Dr. John Hall, of New York, writes to the veteran Editor of the New York Observer, urging him to take up his pen on the subject of ministerial support. We publish Dr. Hall's appeal:-

We are a people growing in wealth more rapidly than any other. We have our largest church served by a ministry with an average income of about $500 a year. We have thrown away the principle and the burdens of an "establishment," and we have a clergy in whose straits and privations the writer of touching columns finds the realiest material for rousing cheap sympathy.

We in the religions world are lamenting-I had almost said whining-over a deficient supply of candidates for the ministry, and we are making things artificially and unhealthily easy for such as come; and side by side with our joy over ten millions of communicants is the pitiful tale of domestic distress and pinching poverty in the homes of those who minister to these millions.

The salaries promised are all too often ridiculously small; and the churches and church officers, whom the word teaches to "owe no man anything," are at case with even these salaries, irregularly, meanly, sometimes dishonestly, though technically paid, or paid after the laborer has had to mortgage the amount of his poor hire to get the necessaries of

We require hard work from ministers ligion, or for "the eause," to have a younger man. We magnify independence, and glorify those who "get on" financially, and yet we compel the majority of the younger men to toil on incomes that forbid the making of adequate provision for unemployed old

All this we do; and we do it while bodies the loftiest ethical principles, among which "to do justly" is by common consent fundamental.

In many in-tances church officers, trustees, deacons and others are at fault. In many instances the "evil is wrought by want of thought." In many instances the denial of rights is loosely justified to the conscience by overdrawn pictures of elemosynary in terposition, which ought never to come into the case, and men neglect their ministers that Providence may care for them. It is not a ty. Concerning his efforts for good in donation party," or a box of promiscuous valuables that is needed. It is a Beech Street and Barrack Street mis-"living income."

And we wonder that they do not come to our seminaries. We may tell them, indeed, that the disciple has to take up his cross; but the average American youth has sense enough to know that ministers are not specially singled out for the cross; that it is for all; and that it is possible to serve God faithfully without being in the ministry. Aad so they stay away, and we have to adopt exceptional mathods to draw good and educated men into this profession.

Now, Dear Sir, justice, truth, loyalty to God, regard for our national reputeand even a wise church policy require us to correct such evils; and I earnestly commend the cause to you for your advecacy. The time is favorable for calling attention to it. Our churches generally, under the various names, are full of hope, and a growing missionary spirit implies a readiress to learn, and

MRS. JOSEPH L. VINECOVE.

Our much lamented sister died on her 53rd birthday, having been born on the 7th April, 1830. Her parents were earnest Christians before they left England. Her father was one of the early Methodist local preachers and class leaders of Halifax. Brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, she was pious from childhood. With her companions in childhood, or with her friends in womanhood, and managing her house. she was always the same consistent. painstaking, and amiable Christian. Happy in the Church, happy in her home, delighted in ministering to a most affectionate family, she said when stricken down, "Life is sweet, but I separation.

As a man of faith and piety he was called upon to fill many posts of usefulin the Church. He has been trustee and chapel steward, and class leader, and leader in prayer, singing, and exhortation, at week-night services, and superintendent of the Sabbath-school. He took an active part in the cause of temperance when it had few friends in Haiifax, and during his last year addressed the inmates of the Home for Fallen Women every alternate week, not without fruit to his labors.

Perhaps our brother, of gentle spirit, did most good in ways unknown to fame-His unostentatious kindness to the poor, his visits to the sick, and the sinful, his words of cheer to the stranger, are recorded only in the books that will be opened at the judgment. His love of the Bible and his intense interest in its study and his endeavors to solicit the interest of others are known to few. He was too kind-hearted for all the duties of his civil office.

During his final illness, the culmination of four years of heart disease, aggravated by the unreasonableness of men with whom his duties brought him in contact, he gave many expressions of a resigned and trustful experience. He put no confidence in the sufficiency of his good deeds. "I am trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ who came into the world to save sinners, and I think I can now say, 'Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will tear no evil." His last words were, "I am very tired." It seemed as if the listening Saviour immediately sent his angels to take his weary and faint servant to rest. Every wrinkle of care was smoothed out by angelic fingers and he fell asleep in Jesus.

THE SOUDAN.

A report to the Foreign-office on the Soudan, made a few months ago by Licut.-Colonel Stewart, contains many to Halifax to embark in new enterprises. | interesting particulars, from which the following are taken:

"The country now occupied -or rather claimed-by the Egyptians under the name of Soudan covers an immense Its length from north to south, or from Assouan to the Equator, is about 1,650 miles. Its width from Massowah. on the Red Sea, to the western limit of the Darfour province is from 1,-200 to 1,400 miles. To include this immense tract of country under a single name is, however, misleading. In the first place, it is inhabited by two totally distinct races. In the northern half of the territory-that is to say, north of the 11th parallel of north latitude-the inhabitants are almost wholly pure Arabs, most of them nomad tribes, professing a more or less adulterated form of Mohammedanism. South of the 11th parallel the country is peopled by negro tribes, who, though officially described as Mohammedans, are really pagans. But besides these two main divisions of races, there are localities the inhabitants of which cannot be classed under either. The negroes, it may be said roughly, are all sedentary and cultivators; the Arabs are almost all nomads, and do little or no tillage. Up to a little more than sixty years ago, when the Egyptians seem first to have directed their attention steadily to the Soudan, the district was divided into a number of kingdoms and chieftaincies, and the petty monarchs seem to have lived in a state of chronic war. In 1819 Mehemet Ali, anxious to find employment for his troops, sent his son Ismail with a large army of regulars and irregulars to invade the country. This commander succeeded in obtaining possession of a large portion of the country; and from this beginning the Egyptians have gone on up to the present time extending the borders of their am ready." #### UNFERMENTED WINE, Prepared for Sacramental and Dietetic use

F. WRIGHT, MANUFACTURING CHE-MIST.

KENSINGTON HIGH STREET, LONDON, W. "This WINE is guaranteed to be the juice of the finest grapes of the Coted'or, Andalusia, and the Medoc. It is perfectly free from Alcohol, and is guaranteed to be Pure Grape Juice. It has stood the test of 22 years' continous sale in every climate, and is now used in upwards of 1500 Churches of all denominations. The mode of manufacture is a slight modification of a well-known aucient practice, and effectually preserves the grateful flavor and the rich nutritious qualities unimpaired. It is therefore admirably adapted in cases of debility and fever, in wlich the stomach is 'oo weak to digest other food. Children suffering from febrile ailments drink it with avidity, even when al other food has been refused.

JOHN M. HODGES, ESQ., M.D., F.C.S, Public Analyst for Antrim County and Belfast Borough,

"I have chemically examined the bottle o Wright's Unfermented Wine (taken by my son from the stock held by Mr. Wright's Belfast Agent), and find that it is free from alcohol, and contains the constitutents of grape juice. When mixed with water it will prove an agreeable beverage."

Who is Perry Davis?

About firty years ago when Perry Davis, of Providence, R. I., in the United States, first introduced to the world his now universally known Pain-Killer, he was a poor man without influence, a cripple and an invalid. He studied the effect of certain drugs upon the human system, and experimented in their uses until he had compounded a medicine capable of curing his own maladies. When restored to health, he offered the preparation to his fellow sufferers, until now there is not a country on earth which does not buy it. It is eminently a .. HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE .. Safe to use at all times. It is adapted for both internal and external application, and reaches a great many complaints, such as Sudden Colds, Chills, Congestion or Stoppage of Circulation, Cramps, Pains in the stomach, Summer and Bowel Complaints, Sore Threat, &c. Applied externally, it has been found very useful for Spraius, Bruisce, Cheumatic Pains, Swelled Face, etc., arising from Toothache-BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

30 YEARS! I MPORTANT TRIAL OF THIRTY years decided, and a jury of half a million people have given their verdict that MINARD'S LINIMENT.

Is the best !Inflammation allayer and Pain destroyer in the world. 600 Medical men endorse and use it in their practice, and believe it is well worthy the name KING OF PAIN.

$150 will be paid for a case it will not cure or help of the following diseases: - Diphtheria and Rhuematism, Scalds, Chilblains, ialls, Boils, Sprains, Lumbago, Brouchitis, Burns, Toothache, Broken Breasts, Sore Nipples, Felons, Stings, Fro t Bites, Bruises, Old Sores, Wounds, Earache, Pain in the Side or Back, Contraction of the Museles.

There is nothing like it when taken inter nally for Cramps, Colic, Croup, Colds, Couchs, Pleurisy, Hoarseness and Sore Throat. It is perfectly harmless, and car be given according to directions without any

and Warts. And will produce a fine growth of Hair on oald head- in cases where the hair has fallen from disease, as thousands of testimonials will prove. A trial will convince the most keptical that the above is true. Send to us for testimonials of distinguished men who

MINARD'S LINIMENT and now have a beautiful crop of hair, and hundreds who have used it are willing to BILLHEADS, swear that by the use of MINARD's LINI-MENT they have obtained a new growth of hair. PRICE "5 cents.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured. "In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the Pectoral a permanent mean way of parts. nent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER."

Croup. - A Mother's Tribute.

Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours,

MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."

159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882. "I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever ried. A. J. CRANE."

Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHER-EY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER's CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRAGDON." Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
