Safe, Clean Cooking

SAFE, because the oil tank is away from the heat, and because the height of flame cannot vary. Clean, because there are no wicks to smoke or need trimming.

Burners can be regulated to give degree of heat desired, and when not in operation are left completely up out of oil contact. The asbestos lining and dead air space, and glass door of "Success" oven ensure heat retention and visible baking.

An economical cooker and baker, beautiful in appearance.

Incompetents Enforcing Military Service Act

Man Placed in Jail and Given No Food for Twenty Four Hours — Change Should be Made

That the enforcement of the Military Service Act in Northumberland County is in the hands of incompetent parties is being rapidly brought to light in the entirely unwarranted and thoughtless actions on the part of these officers, a glaring instance of which was given here on Monday of this week. On Sunday afternoon a young man from Negus was arrested and brought to Newcastle and placed in the lock-up without being given any supper, neither were any arrangements made with the town authorities whereby he might be fed, and when the officer in charge of enforcing the Military Service Act did not put in an appearance to provide the man with any breakfast the Town Marshall endeavored to locate him and see what was to be done, but he was unable to do so, and finally about two o'clock a citizen took pity upon the unfortunate man and provided him with some dinner. The Military authorities finally showed up about three o'clock and took the defaulter to the wireless Garrison, and he was sent to St. John on Tuesday. There have been other instances where the men who are enforcing the Act have been negligent of their duties, and while we have no sympathy for any man who refuses to do his share in this national crisis, we must remember that we all are human, and that if the officer who has charge of the enforcement of the Military service Act is negligent of his duties or uses methods like the above to show his authority it is high time that he was removed and a man with a sufficient quantity of common sense and judgment to properly fulfil the duties of the office placed in charge.

Vote of Thanks Tendered Rev. Dr. Squires the Retiring Secretary of the Relief Fund

The west Northumberland Patriotic Fund Executive met last night at Ex-Mayor Charles J. Morrissey in the chair.

W. A. Park, chairman of the Relief Committee, was appointed to certify to the monthly lists.

Several applications for separation allowance were directed to be signed by Chairman and secretary.

Several applications for patriotic allowance were laid over for further information.

THE PRUSSIAN AND THE HUN

The exceedingly instructive and interesting lecture on "The Family Tree of the Modern Hun" was delivered in St. James' Hall last Monday night, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, by Dr. D. R. Moore, ex-M. L. A. The lecture was a thorough investigation into the history of the Huns and Hohenlohrs and a brilliant exposé of Prussian Kultur and German pretensions as the learned doctor delivered some time ago in Moncton and of which we then gave an extended notice. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speaker on motion of Gordon Brander and Rev. Dr. C. W. Squires, who spoke in the highest terms of Dr. Moore's address. A solo was very nicely rendered by Mrs. L. H. MacLean and a solo by Mrs. P. Russell and Miss Clara Russell; Miss Olive Williamson accompanist. Rev. L. H. MacLean presided, and spoke very appreciatively of the lecture. It is to be noted that a Newcastle audience will soon day have the pleasure of hearing Dr. Moore's lecture on Art which he delivered last winter in Chatham.

Hon. Mr. Veniot Inspects North'd Roads

Finds Going None Too Easy, and Promises Some Repairs, as well as the Establishment of a Patrol System

Hon. P. J. Veniot, Minister of Public Works, who is paying an official visit to all parts of the Province inspecting the roads, arrived in Newcastle on Tuesday and was met here by a large delegation of auto owners and driven to Chatham Town Hall where the needs of the roads of the County were emphasized.

Mr. Chas. J. Morrissey and W. B. Snowball drew the Minister's attention to the need of repairs on the Newcastle—Chatham—Logerville road, on which some six hundred automobiles and 1000 teams pass each week.

Mr. W. A. Park, also reminded Mr. Veniot of his promise to repair the Chaplin Inland Road.

Hon. Mr. Veniot said the road between Newcastle and Chatham was a hard one to keep in repair, but he would have some work done, providing the Dominion Government gave its sanction to another issue of bonds. It was the purpose of his department to establish a permanent patrol system between these towns, as well as from Chatham to Tracadie.

Hon. Mr. Veniot yesterday inspected the road between Newcastle and Blackville.

Dowling of St. John, secretary of the New Brunswick Social Service Council, will meet with representative people in St. James' Hall, Newcastle, on Tuesday afternoon, June 25th, at 4:30 o'clock. Crown Lands Commission At Work

Archie Fraser and D. J. Buckley are Members, and J. W. Vanderbeck a Forester

The Crown Lands advisory Commission, consisting of Hon. E. A. Smith, together with the Deputy Minister of Lands and Mines, the chief forester and Messrs. Archie Fraser and D. J. Buckley, met on Tuesday Mr. Fraser representing the owners of granted lands and Mr. Buckley the lessees of Crown lands. The first work was the appointment of an examining board to examine the qualifications of all employees in the forestry service. The chief forester is the chairman. The others appointed are Mr. McFadden, a forester of long experience, and Councillor J. W. Vanderbeck, of Millerton. Already there is a long list of applicants for work in the service, and this board will presently hold sessions in Fredericton and Chatham to pass upon the applications.

The advisory commission has decided to proceed with the erection of watch towers for the early detection of fires, and four or five will be built this year on the highest points of the principal forest areas, commanding a wide survey of the surrounding country. These will be wooden structures of the most approved design. It was decided, also, to begin the cutting of forest trails and the building of telephone lines, and fire-fighting equipment will be purchased and located at various strategic points.

In the course of the meeting many practical suggestions were made by Messrs. Buckley and Fraser, who will be most valuable members of the commission. The Minister of Public Lands and Mines feels that the province is going to secure a complete return of all the lost land and soon reach a point where the great menace of forest fires can be adequately dealt with. Hon. Dr. Smith estimates that although the timber cut this year is likely to be only seventy per cent of last year's cut, the increased stampage rate, will produce a revenue $69,000 greater than that of 1917.

Progress of the War During Past Week

Enemy Making Very Little Gains in the West, but Rapidly Conquering Eastward

The battle on the French front has calmed down. The enemy drive is now against Italy. The Austrians have crossed the Piave river, but have not been able to make any further headway so far. In the east the Turks have completely conquered Armenia and have received the submission of Georgia. They are now marching on Baku, the great oil port of the Caspian. They have also occupied Tabriz, the chief city of northwestern Persia. They will soon be able to directly communicate with Russian Turkestan, the great Mohammedan country of Central Asia, whose people are related to the Turks and will probably welcome them. The capture of Turkestan will carry the Turkish frontier to those of China and Siberia.

There are now 800,000 Americans in France, there will be 1,000,000 by August, and 2,000,000 more under arms at home. Italy has rejected Austria's offer of a separate peace.

First Steamer of Season In Port

The first steam vessel to enter the Miramichi this year, was the Car Ferry "Scotia" which came into port this morning and is now docked at the Railway wharf.

The "Scotia" will take a load of 20,000 Railway ties, which will be used in standardizing the Prince Edward Island Railway, which is now a narrow gauge.

After her return the "Scotia" will undergo repairs, such as will enable her to dock at Cape Borden and Tracadie, and be used as an auxiliary to the car Ferry "Prince Edward Island".

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep, I Walked the Floor in Nervous State — When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

This is the kind of cure that has Windson people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radically different from the usual treatment that it needs no maniacal efforts to try it. Gradually and certainly it nourishes the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.

Mrs. M. Smithson, 27 Arthur Street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when fire broke out in my bedroom house. My nerves were in such a state that after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room, or get into bed again, while I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and wake me. I used to have cold, nervous night sweats; sometimes would become so tired and weak that they would pull a little weaker. I was always cold and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or keep warm. When on the street I would see two or three old men sitting and not dare approach to speak to me or bother me. And little noise irritated and annoyed me very much. I had consulted specialists and tried many remedies during this time, but could not get relief. I had tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could see that this treatment was proving of benefit. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty and across the river and to about the same as usual. I sleep well at night, and am feeling more like myself every day. I am pleased to be able to write you to let you know what the results of your food has done for me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system. I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Hozier was deputed to obtain the girl's consent to the proposal he had already put before her. He feared that she would refuse compliance, for he understood her fine temper better than the others. He was a young man—one but little versed in the ways of women—but some instinct warned him that there was a nobility in Iris Yorke's nature that might set sail at night and urge her to share her companions' lot even though certain death were the outcome.

They passed together through the cavern. Watts, sound asleep, was lying there. The majority of the men were seated on the rocks without or lounging near the entrance. They were smoking now freely, the only stipulation being that cigarettes were not to be struck in the open.

There was no hiding the desperate character of the coming adventure. The Andromeda's crew did not attempt to minimize it. The choice offered lay only in the manner of their death. As to the prospect of ultimate escape, they hardly gave it a thought. Some among them had served in the armies of Europe, and they at least were under no delusion concerning the issue of an attack on a fort by less than a score of unarmed men—seventeen, to be exact, since two of the ship's company were so maimed by the bursting of the shell on the forecastle as to be practically helpless. It was by the rarest good fortune that they were able to walk.

Iris smiled at them in her frank way. "I hope you will all be spared to us on a new Andromeda," she said.

No sooner had the words left her lips than the thought came unbidden, "If my uncle and Captain Coke wished the ship to be thrown away, nothing could have better suited their purposes than this tragic error."

For the instant the unforeseen outcome of that Sunday afternoon's plotting in the peaceful garden of Linden House held her imagination. She recited each syllable of it, and there thrashed in her brain the hitherto undreamed of possibility that Coke had brought the Andromeda to Fernando Noronha in his behalf. In fact, he dreads a visit by a government vessel, in which event our frail chance of salvation—"is to be practically helpless.

"Coke will stand by the rest of us in our struggle for life, at any rate. But the Brazilians—"

"Have no fear of them. I, too, have watched San Benavides. I don't like the fellow and wouldn't place an ounce of faith in him, but De Syva has brains, and he knows well enough that no ship from Brazil will come to Fernando Noronha in his behalf. In fact, he dreads a visit by a government vessel, in which event our frail chance of salvation—"is to be practically helpless.

"At once she whispered to Hozier: "Is there any one on the path below?"

"No," he said. "The Brazilians are with Coke at the top of the gully." "Is it safe for us to go the other way?"

"I think so. But you must be careful not to slip."

She caught his arm, little knowing the thrill her clasp sent through her frame. This simple gesture of her confidence was bittersweet. He reluctantly closed his eyes to the knowledge that this might be their last talk.

They climbed down. Neither spoke until they stood on the curving ledge that had proved their salvation. They reached the place from which the Brazilians had thrown the rope. They could hear the great splash of the water in the cleft. A low, thinning roar of the surf was the funnel and other debris of the Andromeda. The black mud was plainly visible beneath the surface.

"If we follow the others, will the sea?" she asked.

"I want you to believe that you will be absolutely safe if we escape being discovered during the crossing of the narrow strip of water that separates this rock from the island," he hastened to say. "That is your only risk, and it is a light one. Senator de Syva is sure that the troops will not keep the keenest lookout tonight. They are still convinced that the insurgent steamer is sunk. Our chief danger will date from tomorrow's dawn. Marce reports that a systematic search of the island was begun today. It will be continued tomorrow, but on new lines, because by that time they will have learned the truth. The Andros-y-Mela is not lying in pieces at the foot of this rock, the president has not escaped, and every practicable inch of Fernando Noronha and the adjacent islands will be scoured in the hope of finding him. At first sight that looks like being in our favor. In reality it means the end if we are discovered here. The soldiers will shoot first and inquire afterward. I have not the slightest doubt but that plenty of evidence will be forthcoming that we were a set of desperadoes who had unlawfully interfered in the affairs of a foreign state."

"I want to do that which is for the good of all," she said at length. "Do you ask me to go to this convict's home, Mr. Hozier?"

"I urge it on you with the utmost conviction. With you on our hands we can act freely. We must deliver an attack tonight. God in heaven, you cannot think that we would expose you to the perils of a desperate fight!"

His sudden outburst was unexpected, even by himself. He trembled in an agony of passion. Iris placed a timid hand on his shoulder.

"I will go," she whispered. "Please do not be distressed on my account. I brought you here not to discuss my own fate, but yours. These Brazilians will not scruple to make use of you."

and then throw you aside if it suits their purpose. That man De Syva does not care how he attains power, and I know that he and the officer entertain some plan which they have not revealed to you."

"You know!"

"Yes. I understand a little of their language. I have a mere glimpse of its sense, as one sees a landscape through a mist. When De Syva told you today that San Benavides was with you heart and soul, he was lying. There were things said about a ship and midnight and a boat. I watched the officer's face. He was wholly opposed to the landing tonight. My mind is not so vague now. I think I can grasp his meaning. Was it not to night that the Andros-y-Mela was to appear?"

"Yes."

"Well, may they not hope secretly that she will keep to the fixed hour? Once you and I and the others are on the island and an alarm is given the Brazilians could slip away unnoticed. Yes, that is it. I do not trust them any more than I trusted Captain Coke. Don't you realize that he brought the Andromeda to this place in order to wreck her more easily? It was to supply a pretext for the visit that he made undrinkable the water in the ship's tanks."

That appealing hand still rested on Hozier's shoulder. Its touch affected him deeply. With a lightning dart of memory his thoughts went back to the moment when she lay, inert and half fainting, in his arms on the bridge, after he had taken her from the azoreto. But he controlled his voice sufficiently to say:

"You may be right. Indeed, I know you are right so far as Coke is concerned. When I went aft to find out if one of the boats could not be cleared I noticed that a steering gear box had been pried open again. I had time for only a second's glance, but I was sure the damage had not been done by a bullet. So the Andromeda was doomed to be lost, no matter what happened."

"Coke will stand by the rest of us in our struggle for life, at any rate. But the Brazilians—"

"Have no fear of them. I, too, have watched San Benavides. I don't like the fellow and wouldn't place an ounce of faith in him, but De Syva has brains, and he knows well enough that no ship from Brazil will come to Fernando Noronha in his behalf. In fact,

BEAVER FLOUR

MILLED OF BLENDED WHEAT

"Beaver" Flour equals any of the "special pastry flours" because it is, in itself, a special pastry flour—being the choicest Ontario fall wheat, blended with western spring wheat to give it strength. This is why Pies, Cakes, Cookies, Tarts, Doughnuts, Buns and Fancy Pastry—when made with "Beaver" Flour—are so light, so flaky, so uniformly good. This is also why the Bread and Rolls—made with "Beaver" Flour—have a delicate, nutlike flavor that is totally lacking in western spring wheat flours. Just try "Beaver" Flour for anything you are baking—and see what happy results you get, every time.

The Lounsbury Garage

Headquarters for Autos and all Auto Accessories a Great Convenience to the Miramichi

One of the most important additions recently made to the business establishment of Newcastle is the Garage of the Lounsbury Co., built last September. The main building, 64 foot front by 75 feet deep, is two stories high. An elevator, with a carrying capacity of more than 5000 lbs lifts the cars to the upper story, where there is room to store some 40 cars, and also a paint shop and vulcanizing plant.

The ground floor contains the retail department, where automobile accessories of all kinds are kept in stock, the show room holding four or five cars, and room outside for some twenty more. Back of the show room is a large well lighted office.

The Ell is a one-story building 33 feet front by 50 feet deep. In it is the workshop where assembling of parts and all kinds of repair work is done.

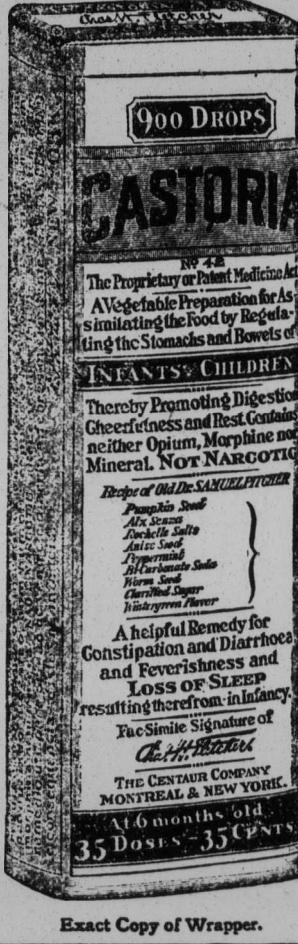

An oxy-acetylene welding plant adds greatly to the efficiency of this department. All kinds of welding and lead burning are done here.

In the work shop a big stock of auto parts is carried, including springs of all standard cars.

The buildings are, of reinforced concrete. Next fall the basement will be cleared adding another room 6x75 feet to this thriving business.

The manager of the garage with all its auxiliary departments is Mr. J. Russell McKnight.

The recent extension of the Lounsbury business has proved a great convenience to the people of this county.

Save Food

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food.

It is not how much you eat, but how much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

OUR STREETS

As economy is everywhere the order of the day it behoves us to exercise an intelligent economy—to not be "penny-wise and pound-foolish." One of the best means to really save time and labor, and thus materially increase the national effectiveness, is to see that our highways are in the best of condition. The leveller and smoother the road the greater the load can be handled over it and the greater the speed attained. These are important items and we commend them to the earnest consideration of the Public Works Committee of our town.

The main highway of Newcastle all the way through the town—from French Fort Cove to the Northwest Bridge—is in a bad condition, and especially that portion between the forks of the Old and New Highways and the Railway Crossing. Very little attention seems to have been given to this road for years, although it is one of the main thoroughfares of the county, no other portion of road carrying so much traffic. In spring it is a continuous mudhole and in summer is of very uneven surface, to say the least. Another important thoroughfare which is in bad shape is Jane Street, between the Newcastle—Chatham Head bridge and the C. G. R. Station, especially the lower part of it.

At the close of a rain these streets should be rounded up with the split log drag, and steps should be taken to pave them with something colder than mud. Good streets will encourage the farmers of the prosperous country districts to increase their already heavy business with Newcastle, and will in every way work out to the good of both town and country. Will the Town exert itself to make these two Newcastle thoroughfares a credit to the Miramichi.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

There is now a tendency in New Brunswick, noticed none too soon to, increase the salaries of school teachers, of whom some two thousand are patently failing with considerable success, in the various districts of the province. The town of Sussex, which is smaller than Newcastle and not more than half the size of Chatham, has engaged its principal for the schools at a salary of $2000 a year—double that of Newcastle's Principal and much larger than that of Chatham's—with an annual increase of $100 promised for the next five years. Sackville, in order to hold its Principal for another year, raised his salary by $500. St. John City has given an increase of $100 a year to each of its lady teachers who is not a Principal, and many other places are doing likewise. At Fredericton there were nearly 100 less candidates for Teachers'

REGISTRATION NOW GOING ON, ENDS ON SATURDAY

All Over Sixteen Years of Age, Male and Female, Required to Fill out the Cards

Registration Day is Saturday, the 22nd, instant, on or before which date all residents of Canada must register, in order to provide the Government of the country with the full information as to the man and woman power of Canada.

The Sheriff of each County is registrar for that county, and there are many deputy registrars and assistants.

The deputy registrar for the Town of Newcastle is Jas. W. Davidson. His assistant deputy registrars are: Messrs. John A. Creaghan, D. A. Jackson, Charles Morris, D. Ray Morrison, H. J. Drummond, Althen Ingram, Douglas Thompson, R. H. Lockward, G. W. Thomas, John T. Morrisey, Eugene Connolly, John D. Keane, Walter Amy and Wm. C. Leslie, and the Misses Clare Lawlor, Jennie McMaster, Annie McCombs, Margaret J. Dunnett, Jennie M. Fellows, Maude Atkinson, Marjorie L. Davidson, Louise Mann, Lyle McCormack, Margaret Irving, and Ella Gray.

Registration on the 22nd will be in the Armory and Bule School House, from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. Joseph H. O'Brien, Deputy Registrar for Douglastown, Nordin, Ferry Road and Back Lots has secured locations for Registration day June 22, at the following places:

Douglastown—Associated Lodges Hall and School House; Ferry Road—School House; Nordin—Residential buildings.

Licenses this year than last, and many experienced teachers are going West or out of the business altogether. The remedy is more salaried.

All other workers are receiving increases of pay to meet, at least partially, the rapidly increasing cost of living, and it is right that teachers should have their share of the general increase. If they do not receive it as teachers they must go where they can make living wages. The schools must be kept up, if we would not fall back into Russia's condition. They must be improved, and the people, who are immeasurably benefited by the schools, must pay the price.

A DEAR BOTTLE

On Thursday last week, Inspector Ashford, whose suspicion was aroused by the action of three young men leaving for Chatham, waited for their return on the eight o'clock boat, and found one with a bottle on his hip. The young man refused to give it up, was arrested, and next day fined $50 and costs for having the liquor and $7.00 and costs for resisting the inspectors, a total of $63.00.

WISH TO CONTROL CEMETERY

Foreigners in Rome Urge Italian Government to Take Over Burial Ground Owned by Germany.

War has drawn attention to the fact that the great Protestant cemetery in Rome, where are buried many distinguished foreigners including the poets, Keats and Shelley, is the property of the German government, and the rents for plots therefrom are still paid to German agents.

More than a century ago Prussia was the only non-Roman Catholic power represented at the Vatican. Therefore, it was Prussia which obtained the concession for a cemetery to be used for the bodies of those not of the Roman faith, and the property still remains in the hands of the German government.

Prominent foreigners now are urging that the Italian government should take over the cemetery and place it under British protection.

The serious side. The summer is past, the harvest at its end. What have you to show for your work? The days speed quickly, and "going to do tomorrow" does not get deeds done. "Work today," "do it now," are trite mottoes, but useful admonition.

Cloudy and chilly days come occasionally, reminding one that another season is at its close. What have you gained from your summer days? Is your body stronger, your mind fuller of stored knowledge, your soul grown to wider appreciation of the true things of life? Are you more human, more charitable? Do you better understand the rights and needs of men? What memories have you stored up for future reflection during the long winter nights?

Recreation and entertainment have their rightful place in life, but serious thought must fill the mind or one will not grow. Not to advance means decay, death. To be ever growing is a necessity through life. But to advance, time must be given to the higher things in life. To what end are you speeding? What are your aims, your purposes?

William Had a Peer. "Good morning, children," said the arithmetic teacher. "How many of you have prepared an original problem in multiplication, as I requested?" Only one hand went up.

"Well, William, you may give your problem and the rest of the class may solve it."

"If my baby sister is a year old now and weighs twenty pounds, and keeps on gaining two ounces a day until she is sixteen years old, and if the price of living doubles again in the next ten years, how much will my sister's graduation outfit cost? Mother says she would like to know."

Was Expecting It.

It was his first time under fire. He had expressed his terror to his comrades a few moments before. They had tried to cheer him, and as they rushed into the fray he kept him within their observation. When the enemy opened fire he fell. They quickly bent over him and hastily tried to determine the extent of his injury. No wounds were visible.

"Are you shot?" asked one.

"I—I dunno," he whined with teeth chattering, "but I must be!"

Fuel From Peat

A company has been formed in Norway for making fuel from peat by the Rosendahl method. The raw material for the new industry will be chiefly peat from the extensive Norwegian moors, but any other material may be used which is sufficiently abundant in the neighborhood of the factory, particularly wood waste. The product is said greatly to resemble English coal.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A successful remedy where this remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attend the making of this medicine for woman's use.

Over 350,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

"THE FIGHTING TRAIL"

NOW SHOWING AT THE HAPPY HOUR

The entrance to the main shaft of the mine was all brittle and hurry. One cage were travelling in and out with unusual speed, making up for the time that had been lost. Near the entrance Casey and Nan were talking idly, enjoying the first relax in days, now that the excitement had died down. Gwyn with a shift of workmen was down in the mine. Then with an abruptness that was startling Nan's voice broke off in the middle of a sentence. There was a rumbling, terrifying sound from within the mine, accompanied by several sharp explosions coming in rapid succession. Both Casey and Nan started in fright. What did this unexpected turn of affairs mean? Was it more of Von Block's work? Their minds were working with lightning quickness. Suddenly the signal for the cage to be lowered worked frantically. Casey ran to the donkey-engine and ordered it to be sent down immediate ly.

The five minutes which followed, before the cage was lifted, were filled with mutual agony and suspense for both Casey and Nan. They were nervously trying to imagine the scene when the men from below, who had given the signal, would reach the surface. And then, wrapped in a little film of smoke, the cage appeared at the top of the shaft. The forms of half a score of staggering, weakened men almost fell forward. Casey and Nan rushed forward to meet them, and saw, lying prone on the floor of the cage, the forms of a dozen unconscious victims of the catastrophe. To these they went and brought them out one by one, where miners could work over and revive them. As Casey carried the last man out of the shaft, Nan, her eyes wet with tears, cried:

"Gwyn! Where is Gwyn? He didn't come up in the cage." "We tried to make him come up," one of those who had been rescued answered, "but he wouldn't. Said he'd stay down and try to save some others. Better send the cage right down again to him."

"What happened?" Casey demanded.

"Big explosion," was the reply. "Tried to wreck the mine, I guess. Most of it was in the old part, where no one was working. The biggest danger's from the smoke. The whole mine is filled with it. Heavy, black stuff that'd smother you in a second!"

The words seemed to burn Nan's very soul. The thought of her husband imprisoned below in the suffocating smoke terrified her. She rushed to the cage, but it was already descending for another load of humans. Standing beside the spot where the cage was located, Casey and Nan waited many anxious minutes for it to rise again, hoping that Gwyn would be among those in the second load. But, when at last the cage was again hoisted to the surface, Gwyn was not to be seen. Only a mass of huddled men, more dead than alive, emerged. One told Nan that Gwyn had saved the majority of them, and, when the cage had been lifted, he had gone back for more of the imprisoned miners.

"I'm going down!" she screamed to Casey. "He's down there and I'm going to help him! Don't stop me!"

"Don't!" Casey shouted back to her. "Let me go. I can help him more than you can."

But Nan, as he spoke, had already run to the cage and vanished in the smoke that now curled out of the shaft in heavy clouds. Her voice was heard coming from the cage, as Casey rushed forward to check her brave but seemingly futile descent.

"All right! Let me down! Quick!" The man in charge of the donkey engine which controlled the cage obeyed the order. Hogan's dog, attracted by the sound of Nan's voice, rushed into the smoke, and when Casey reached the shaft, he arrived just in time to see it being enveloped in smoke, to the bottom of the mine.

The dense, black smoke rolled through the web-work of tunnels that wove and interwove under the ground, until every subterranean passage of the mine seemed filled.

To one implement there escape must seem impossible. Even should he escape asphyxial, the task of finding the way through the black tunnels, lighted only hardly by the burning wood of the shoring, was a practically hopeless one. Yet, for over an hour Gwyn, exhausted almost to insensibility, had staggered along with faltering steps. He had wandered away from the cage and had been unable to return to it. He was lost in the blinding, suffocating curtain of smoke that enveloped him. Now, by an effort that was superhuman and which sapped every ounce of his energy, he braced himself and hurried. He had thought, moments before, that he had heard Nan's voice calling for help in one of the passages which led off from that in which he was trapped. Floundering along as quickly as his weak legs would permit, and feeling his way with his hands, more than seeing, he reached a turn and halted to listen. The smoke, here, driven on by the draft where the two tunnels met, was less dense. He was able to breathe freely and regain some of the strength which had left him. As Gwyn stood there, wondering which way to proceed and listening attentively to every little sound, with the hope of again hearing Nan's voice, another sound, almost as encouraging, reached his ears. It was a sharp, hollow bark—the bark of Hogan's dog—and it came from the direction of the tunnel in front of Gwyn.

Without listening further, Gwyn made his way along, guided by the barking of the dog. At length, when the barking grew distinct and closer, Gwyn stopped again. When he resumed his walking, it was to advance slowly and cautiously. It seemed to him now, that the dog must be lower, perhaps in one of the galleries or ledges in the same tunnel, but deeper. In another moment, he discovered that this was a fact, for, directly ahead of him, he could see the drop which led to the lower gallery. He advanced carefully, making sure of his footing, and peered over the ledge. The smoke, at this point, was well cleared away, and there remained but a thin veil of it. Below, however, it was darker, and Gwyn could not see distinctly. As he looked, the figure of the dog, moving about and clawing at the wall in an attempt to get up to the higher level, could plainly be discerned. And, beside the dog, stretched out on the ground, Gwyn could see, as his eyes became accustomed to the darkness, a human form. It was too dark below for recognition, but the sight filled Gwyn with horror.

Gwyn followed Casey's finger down the road and beheld, galloping at top speed, the band of Von Block. On one of the horses, bound fast so that escape was out of the question, was Nan. (Continued next week)

As he leaned over to look more closely at the form lying on the ground, he started up in surprise. Instead of the body of Nan he had found that of Shoestring Prant, lying in a little pool of blood—dead. Gwyn reached down and examined the figure. It was certain that the outlaw had been killed by a fall from the upper gallery; there was no sign of a bullet wound anywhere upon him. Just as Gwyn was about to leave and continue his search, which now seemed beyond all hope, the sign of something clasped tightly in the dead man's hand attracted his attention. He picked it up, and, glancing at it in

THE SWEET-HEART OF THE MOVIES

Playing a dual role, Mary Pickford will be seen at the Happy Hour Friday and Saturday. Miss Pickford plays the title role of "Stella Maris," in a film version of Wm. J. Locke's novel, and also interprets the part of Unity Blake, an uncouth character who is introduced as an inmate of an orphan asylum. As Stella Maris, a paralytic heiress, surrounded by every luxury wealth can command and protected from even the slightest knowledge of worldly things, the comparison with Unity Blake presents a startling contrast. Later, when Stella Maris has her health restored and learns of the poverty, misery and crime existing in the world which her imagination had pictured as idyllic, it proves so strong a shock that her life is threatened. Through an amazing chain of circumstances the two girls, the Ugly Duckling and the delicate and beautiful Stella Maris, love the same man, and then comes a supreme sacrifice, the giving of Unity Blake's life for the man she loves and for Stella Maris.

Curing Skin Troubles

These Are Always Due to Bad Blood Which Must be Enriched and Purified

So many people, both men and women, suffer from skin troubles, such as eczema, blisters, pimples and irritations that a word of advice is necessary. It is a great mistake for those suffering from trouble of this kind to smear themselves with greasy ointments. Often they could do no anything worse, for the grease closes the pores of the troubled skin and the condition becomes actually worse.

When there are pimples or eruptions, or an irritating or itching rash a soothing balsamic solution may help to allay the trouble, but, of course that does not cure the trouble. Skin complaints come from an impure condition of the blood and will continue until the blood is thoroughly purified.

It is well known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have effected the results in many forms of skin disorders and blanishes. This is due to the fact that these pills make new, rich blood, and this new blood attacks the impurities that give rise to skin troubles and dispenses them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure skin disorders from within the system—the only sure way. Mrs. W. Ritchie, Parkbeg, Saak, says:—"Two years ago I was attacked with eczema on my hands. I tried almost everything that was advised, but as the trouble was growing worse, I consulted a doctor and took his treatment for sometime with no better results. By this time my hands were a mass of sores and I began to despair of finding a cure. A friend strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After using two boxes I could see an improvement, and I got a further supply. I used altogether eight boxes by which time every trace of the eczema had disappeared and there has not been a single symptom of the trouble since that time. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for troubles of this kind."

It should be added that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a beneficial effect upon the general health. They increase the appetite and energy and cure all diseases that arise from impure blood. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
