WON AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXI.

The rustle of a dress and the opening of a door made us all look round, and I saw a sudden flash brighten the languid eyes of Raby St. George, and a sudden color rise in his dark cheeks. He thought it was Nat, I suppose; but it was only mademoiselle who entered, her pale face as composed as usual, her thin figure, in its trailing black silk, borne with its usual grace. As yet she had not seen the stranger, and I took the opportunity which madame's introduction gave me to slip out and hurry upstairs to dress for dinner.

Dressing is never a lengthy process with me, and I was in my shirt-sleeves, brushing away at my hair, when I heard a tap at my door—a very gentle tap—followed by an eagerly whispered "Ned!" through the key-hole.

"Halloo!" I returned, by means of the same medium.

"Are you ready to come down?" Nat's voice asked mysteriously.

"Pretty near. Why?"

"I'll wait for you then—only make haste," and then came the soft sweep of her skirts across the corridor.

I made haste, of course, and went out. She was standing lower down the corridor, staring out of a window, but as she heard me she turned round quickly, and it struck me instantly that I had never seen her look so pretty. What her dress was I do not know, but she had some of her queer barbaric jewelry on, glittering upon her throat and wrists, gleaming in her thick short curls, twinkling in her ears. She was pale enough to be sure, but her eyes were like stars.

"Well, what is it?" I asked.

"Ned, have you seen him?" she whispered, nervously.

"Of course. I came up just now."

"Well, why don't you go on?" she said, impatiently. "Do you want me to cross question you? You can say what you think, I suppose. What do you think of him?"

"Well," I returned, meditatively, "he's an awfully handsome fellow; there's no denying that."

"Who wants you to deny it?" she retorted irritably, giving my arm a shake. "I don't deny myself, do I? I know he is handsome—I told you so. I believe you are trying to be stupid. Do you like him?"

"No," I said, promptly.

"And why don't you?"—with a quick glance up at me, and pulling one glittering bangle rapidly round and round upon her wrist.

"The Only Cure for Piles"

Writes Mr. Taylor in Telling His Experience With Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. M. Taylor.

Because Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost immediate relief from the dreadful itching, burning, stinging sensations of piles, it is well worth the attention of everyone suffering from this annoying disease.

In most cases, even after years of standing, Dr. Chase's Ointment makes a thorough and lasting cure of itching, bleeding and protruding piles.

Mr. Maxwell Taylor, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes: "To all sufferers from piles in any form I would recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only cure. Over a year ago while in Boston I became afflicted with a dreadful itching. I went to a doctor, who gave me some ointment, which made me no better. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and by the use of two boxes I was entirely cured. You may publish this statement in order that other sufferers may profit by my experience." Dr. Chase's Ointment can better prove its value by the relief it affords than by all the words we could use in its praise. 40 cents a box, all dealers. C. J. "I don't know."

"Ah, neither do I; and by and by, when you know him better, you still won't know. Is he going to stop here?"

"To dinner? Oh, yes, of course!" "I mean altogether."

"Not that I know of, he has put up at the Station Hotel for the present."

"And he is going to stay in England long, did you hear him say?" she asked, with the same nervous eagerness.

"No, he didn't mention anything of the sort while I was there. I say, Ned, I suppose you think he has come for you, eh?"

"I know it," she answered, in a tone of most perfect conviction.

"Like his impudence, then! A man must be either more or less than a fool to come bothering round a girl when she has shown him she doesn't want him, that's all."

"Raby St. George is not a fool, Ned," she said shaking her pretty head. "You need not think so. He is anything in the world but that."

"That means he's a little bit of a knave, I suppose? So he may be for aught I know, but he's certainly an idiot to come all that confoundedly long journey for the pleasure of being sent back again. By Jove, he must be awfully spoony on you, miss!"

"Didn't I say so?" she cried, pettishly. "And I tell you that I hate him for his pains."

"Just so," I returned, easily, raising my elbow off the window-ledge as the second dinner-bell clanged out down-stairs. "Well, after all, I wouldn't bother myself about it, Ned. He can't well whip you off to Gretna Green against your will, when all's said and done, and you can't well give yourself away twice over, you know."

"No; that is lucky, isn't it?"—and I laughed to see how this reference to Roger was enough to bring all the bright crimson back to her cheeks with a rush. "Wait a minute, Ned; don't go down for a minute. He and madame are talking, aren't they? Did they say anything about me?"

"Madame had only said you had run away to dress, not knowing he was there."

"And he believed that, you think?"

"Of course, he did. He didn't see you."

"Oh, didn't he?" Nat gave me a look of half-pitying, half-contemptuous wonder. "Ned, what a goose you are! I tell you that he not only saw me, but knows perfectly well that I saw him and ran away from him. You don't know Raby St. George, as I told you once before; but I do. There—come down now, while my courage is screwed up."

She started away from my side and ran down-stairs so quickly that it was only outside the library door that I caught up with her. There she stopped short, and looked up at me with such scared eyes that I nearly laughed.

"Why, Nat, you don't mean to say really and truly that you're afraid of him?"

"Ugh!" she shuddered, and then threw up her little curly head proudly. "Of course I'm not; but, oh, Ned!"—whispering eagerly, as we went in— "I wish—I wish Roger were at home!"

CHAPTER XXII.

My limited experience tells me that things mostly happen as they are not wanted to happen, and of course on the present occasion madame, for some reason best known to herself, had not only taken herself off, but mademoiselle also, and Raby St. George stood by the fire alone. He turned round sharply however, at the opening of the door; and, although I, her rival to boot, yet I could not help did not like the man, and he was feeling a tinge of pity as I saw his dark face changed at the sight of Nat. He was badly hit, poor fellow—there was no doubt about that—and he showed it even more plainly than did Roger. His slender hand—a hand so thin and delicate that it did not look like a man's—trembled as he took hers, and his slow languid voice shook as he spoke to her. As for Miss Orme herself, I must confess I could not help admiring the little lady's acting. Had she seen him a week before and had his presence now at Chivasse been quite a matter of course, her greeting of him could have been no cooler and no more self-possessed than it was. Certainly the artful-little maid could hold her own, I thought.

"What a surprise to see you, Mr. St. George!" she said, entreating herself in madame's big chair with a slow stateliness which would have done no discredit to that dignified lady herself. "Really I could hardly believe it! And what in the world induced you to take so long a journey in such terribly unpleasant weather?"

So coolly and carelessly she asked the question, waving her fan idly to and fro as she looked at him, that I did not wonder at the dark flush—a flush of mingled anger and resentment as I read it—which swept across his handsome face. He did not speak coolly in reply, and I could see that he was paying no more attention to me than to the poker. Whatever might have been the characteristics of Raby St. George's former love-making, he certainly did not beat about the bush now.

"The weather was nothing," he responded, a harsh jarring note in his soft voice, which had a dogged touch of resolution in it too. "I simply followed you to England as soon as I could."

Leaning with my arm on the mantel-piece beside Nat's chair, pretending to look at the fire, I saw that her lips trembled nervously behind the softly waving fan, although over it her eyes met his as quietly as ever.

"Ah, you have business, I suppose? I think I remember hearing something of it before I left Jamaica. It seems a pity that you did not choose a different time in the year. Even Chivasse itself is under a certain disadvantage in winter—isn't it, Ned?"—glancing up at me with a smile. "You and I must show Mr. St. George all the beauties of Daeshire which this firesome weather has not spoiled."

"Oh—er—yes, certainly, of course!" I stammered, a good deal taken aback myself by her coolness, and drawing back a little.

It certainly did not seem that she required my protection, and I picked up a paper and pretended to read it, but waited to hear what she would say next from behind the fluttering fan.

"And when did you arrive, Mr. St. George? Lately, I suppose?"

"I landed yesterday."

"Only then! Then I won't ask you how you like England yet. I think it is lovely."

"Better than Jamaica?"

"Oh, yes, a thousand times."

"Then you are not very faithful to your old country!" He did not say it as a question, but bitterly; and Nat gave a little laugh in which I do not think he heard the tremor.

"Certainly not. It seems to me very foolish to say you like a place best simply because you chance to have been born there. No, I don't think I could bear either Jamaica or life here after my English experiences. After all, I am half English, you know."

"You did not think so once," Raby St. George said, in a tone which suggested that he was keeping a tight rein over himself; and again Nat laughed carelessly.

"Didn't I? Perhaps not. But I don't think I was much more than a silly child in those days, was I? One changes and grows wise more quickly in England, I think."

"Have you changed?" he asked.

eagerly, moving a step nearer to her chair.

"Oh, yes, in ever so many ways! I have grown wonderfully clever, thanks to mademoiselle—you saw her, didn't you? I can play my own accompaniments when there are not too many sharps and flats, I can manage to write a letter without the dictionary, and Ned has taught me to ride and row and drive and fish, and I don't know what besides."

"And is that all?" he asked, gloomily, nervously, unclasping his delicate hands.

"Not quite, madame declares that I have grown an inch taller, but I don't believe it. Let me see—what were we saying? Oh, about your business, to be sure! Do you remain long in England, or is it only a flying visit?"

"Only you can tell me that," he answered; and for an instant I saw those nervous fingers grasp her bangled wrist, holding it tightly. "You dragged me here," he went on, in tones uncomfortably low and fierce, "and you it must be who will either keep me here or send me back again. You know it, Natalie!"

Madame's crisply rustling skirts were audibly outside the door, and it opened to admit her and mademoiselle. Natalie rose, dropping the fan with which she had shielded her face until now, and with her black eyes looking full and coldly at Raby St. George.

Ladies' One Piece Corset Cover and One Piece Drawers.

Dainty lingerie is always pleasing to a woman, especially if good effect can be gained with little labor. The Patterns here submitted are easy to develop and suitable for all lingerie fabrics. The Corset cover and drawers are each one piece models. Flouncings could be combined with lawn or muslin, or, cross bar dimity, or batiste, with lace edging and insertion. Ribbon run beading would trim and also hold the fullness of the cover. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 2 3/4 yards of 36 inch material for the medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

9515.—A UNIQUE AND COMFORTABLE HOUSE APRON.

The "body and sleeve in one" idea has been carried out in garments of every sort, hence the busy sewer and home dressmaker, will welcome this mode in an apron that is not only simple but practical in that it covers most all of the dress worn underneath, and is easy to make because of few seams. The design is suitable for percale, alpaca, lawn, Anderson gingham, seersucker or chambray. The fringed edges could be scalloped and embroidered. Blue and white checked gingham, with bandings of white would be neat and would launder well. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small Medium and Large. ## Efficiency in Shopping.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Are you tired of shopping? Are you tired of hearing about the efficiency movement, that great new thing in the world of things in the easiest way? If you are not, I have a new application for it. As you know, the efficiency idea has been applied to housework, and it has been proved that by eliminating useless motions, perfecting her apparatus and improving the conditions under which she works, such as the position of apparatus, the heights of sinks, tables, etc., a big slice of every woman's time and energy can be saved.

Now if the science of efficiency is useful in this department of woman's work, why can't it be applied to others? And in what possible direction could a study of energy and time-saving be more valuable than in relation to shopping?

Are you an efficient shopper? I don't simply mean, do you get what you are after. But do you get it without using an unduly large amount of time and energy?

It was after a morning of shopping which left me astonishingly tired and out of temper that I began to wonder if I might not use more efficient methods in this matter.

I went over the ground thoroughly in my mind and formulated some rules for more efficient shopping. If

OMAN'S TRIALS.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nerve—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing illness peculiar to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important thing to every woman is that this medicine is made from efficient medicinal roots, without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce, who is President of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes Mrs. M. M. Mozart, of Bluff City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial, I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

Household Notes.

Mincee meat usually makes the most acceptable sandwiches.

Be adept in cooking does her work without utensils.

Scald new brooms in hot suds. This will toughen the fibre.

Fried bananas laid on a bed of rice makes a good luncheon dish.

To keep away moths, scatter cloves in bureau drawers and boxes.

Clean nickel and silver pieces with ammonia applied by a flannel cloth.

Milk puddings are the best desserts for children, but they should be varied.

Cheese is very wholesome prepared with macaroni, potatoes or bread-crumbs.

Regular bathing with hot water before bedtime is excellent treatment for the eyes.

Always fasten the ends of the threads when you finish a seam done by a chainstitch machine.

To peel onions without crying hold both onions and knife under cold running water while peeling.

A three-cornered telephone stand or table is a great saver of space, as it fits into a corner perfectly.

A velvet hat can be kept in condition by wiping it with a piece of black stocking after brushing.

When washing out the refrigerator some washing soda in the water will help to keep it sweet.

The triplicate mirror is an absolute necessity to the woman who would be always in perfect trim.

Attention to detail—orderliness and perfect cleanliness—make the kitchen a place of peace and beauty.

If canned pears are insipid, drain off the juice and cover them instead with the juice of oranges well sugar-ed.

When kitchen towels wear thin, stitch two of them together around the edges and diagonally across the center.

A soiled rubber raincoat can be scrubbed with automobile soap, wetting only a small surface at a time and drying it.

A delicious gelatine pudding is made with the juice of canned strawberries. Add the juice of an orange to the strawberry.

As soon as tongue is boiled tender, it should have cold water run over it for a minute; then the skin will slip off easily.

When furniture does not actually need polishing it is a good idea to wipe it off thoroughly with a cloth dipped in linseed oil.

To rid a room of flies instantly, put a few drops of carbolic acid on a live shovel and wave the shovel around the room.

If you wish to get the utmost heat from soft coal, powder it small, wet it and sprinkle 1-2 cupful of fine salt on a large hod of coal.

A good polish for patent leather shoes is one part linseed oil and two of cream, well mixed. Apply with a bit of flannel, then rub off.

Soapsuds should always be saved for the garden—roses, vines and fruit trees all thrive with an occasional sudsy watering of their roots.

Lace theatre caps which are out of fashion can be turned into charming bags by running cords and tassels in where the elastic was.

An appetizing change for breakfast is slices of dried-out bread quickly browned over a very hot fire, and eaten dipped in hot salted water.

Varnished wall paper can be successfully washed in warm water to which a little vinegar has been added. Rinse with clean tepid water.

Arabian lace curtains can be cleaned by brushing dry cornmeal through them as they lie on the floor. A sheet should be spread under them.

A hat should never be set flat on the floor of its hat box. Place a little hat rest in the centre, made of an inverted strawberry basket, padded.

A nice way to prepare fruit for the luncheon basket is to divide an orange into sections, dip it in powdered sugar and pack tightly into a little stone jar.

Seven a Day Killed.

In Greater New York During the Past Year.

New York, Jan. 29.—In the twelve months of 1912 there were 2,712 persons killed in Manhattan by shooting, stabbing, assaults, self-inflicted wounds or from injuries received in falls and other mishaps. This made an average of more than seven violent deaths each day. These figures are given in the annual report of Antonio d'Alessandro, chief clerk of the Board of Coroners.

One hundred and forty-six persons lost their lives by being struck by automobiles, or fifty-five more than in the previous year. There were 114 homicides by shooting and 198 homicides by all methods.

The antiquated horse cars still in use killed ten persons in the year, ten were killed by horse kicks and the apparently harmless bicycle killed three. Horse drawn vehicles killed 108, surface cars 62 and the subways 14.

Accidental burns killed 267 persons, and of these fourteen children were burned by playing with matches; six children were burned to death by bonfires, and seventy-four children were scalded to death by pulling pots of hot water, soup and coffee down upon themselves.

Five persons were killed by jumping from windows at fires, fifty-nine were burned to death in fires, and twenty-three were burned to death by their clothes catching fire.

Interesting figures are revealed in the list of deaths by suicide. Thirty-eight persons chose the method of leaping from windows or roofs, while only two employed the supposedly easy method of drowning. Fifteen hurled themselves in front of trains or automobiles; thirty-two hanged themselves; sixty-seven selected poison; 183 used gas; eighty-nine shot themselves and twenty-eight used knives.

Fifteen persons were choked to death by food; 229 were accidentally drowned, three were accidentally shot and 52 were killed by accidentally taking poison. Ten persons were killed by falling into the holds of vessels tied to piers; 102 were killed by falling from chairs and beds; 60 were killed by being hit by bricks and other material falling from buildings; 39 fell down elevator shafts; 35 fell off roofs, and 34 fell off street cars, automobiles or other vehicles.

Of the 97 killed by falling from windows, 36 were children, and of the 55 who fell off fire escapes 43 were children.

Rabies killed eight persons, and tetanus or lockjaw killed six. Eighteen persons died immediately following surgical operations.

Notes and Comments.

Morris is not making good with the people. They dread that he should be allowed to go on with his work after the fall.

The Government have not made good with fishermen or merchants in the way they have carried out the Fair Protection Service. Nor has the Government made good in the way they have financed the building of the branch railways.

The storing of smuggled Newfoundland bait at St. Pierre as referred to in the report of the Council of the Board of Trade is a serious matter. The Council regard it as a menace to the profitable marketing of our bank fish next season, and it has apparently come about through the slackness of the Government in the enforcement of the restrictions of the Bait Act and their desire to give Governor Williams a picnic.

In his manifesto, Sir Edward Morris gave the country an idea of the cost of his branch railway policy. He contented himself with the assurance that it would entail no extra annual burden on the Colony. But in the same manifesto he dealt with the reduction of the annual burden on the Colony, which he has failed to bring about.

As to the framing of the railway branch lines, the Morris Government made a stupendous blunder pointed out by Sir Robert Bond of taking upon themselves the risk of selling the railway bonds.

He said: "Up to date all Railway construction in this country by contract has been paid for in Debenture Bonds of 3½ per cent. at par, and the contractor had run all the risks and expenses incident to the flotation of these bonds. The present Government have changed this order of things, and the Reid Nfld. Co. are to be paid in hard cash and the people of this Colony are made to shoulder all the risks and expenses of a flotation in the interest of the Reids. Why is this? Whatever the intentions of the Government may have been, the fact remains that this contract peculiarly and emphatically is in the interest of the Reid Nfld. Co., from whatever standpoint you view it.

—They are relieved of all risk and expenses incident to the flotation of Bonds which they hitherto have had to assume in connection with similar work, &c., &c."

In the next place the Government underestimated the cost in 1910 when they floated the first railway and underestimated it a second time in 1912, when money was much tighter, and now a third loan will have to be floated to finish the railways already contracted, and the country will have to float 4 p.c. bonds, for the days of the 3½ per cent. are over.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mrs. James Elliott died very suddenly at her residence near Queen's Road, early yesterday morning. The deceased who had reached an advanced age was well known and highly respected in the community.

MEXICO CITY, To-Day.
The army rose in revolt in Mexico City yesterday, took possession of public buildings, shot down Federal adherents on the streets, released General Felix Diaz, leader of the Vera Cruz revolt, from prison, and falling into line under practically captured the Mexican Capital. Francisco Madero, President of Republic, and members of his Cabinet took refuge in the National Palace, where they were besieged, but with some loyal troops at their back succeeded in defending the Palace from assaults. Madero's family has taken refuge in the Japanese legation to-night. The President is making a fight for a retention of his power. General Diaz, who is a nephew of the deposed President, Porfirio Diaz, is now at the head of majority of capital troops, including most of the army, and is in possession of the arsenal city and powder works nearby. Madero is relying on the loyalty of General Blanquet, who has been summoned from Toluco, forty miles distant. But Blanquet has only a thousand men under his command and the rebels are confident of defeating him should he refuse to join the movement of revolt. The day was marked by four separate engagements which took place in front of the National Palace, but the most important was that which terminated in the formal surrender of troops and artillery of the barra kas. It is believed that not less than two hundred were killed. Among the number was General Reyes, a strong adherent of Porfirio Diaz, ex-Secretary of War. When the fighting ceased the ambulances of the Red and White Cross engaged in the work of picking up the dead and succoring the wounded. Plaza Area for four city blocks was strewn with bodies of men and horses. Within the Palace there were a few victims, but Colonel Morelos, one of the most loyal of Madero's adherents, was killed. Outside of fighting between the two opposing sides there was little disorder last night. The streets are patrolled by rebel troops. Diaz succeeded in capturing the arsenal after strong resistance by the Federals. A large number of the Rules mounted police last night went over to his cause, later on an artillery company from Tacubaya with a dozen field guns rode into the arsenal grounds shouting for Diaz. It is reported that revolutionary movements have begun in other places and Zapatistas said the fighting is a short distance south of the Capital.

Their wages are low, he says, their rents high, while class distinctions rend in twain the unity of all nations. Armstrong, who is not yet to full age, as he will not be twenty-one until October this year, favors the use of political weapons for remedying so ical evils, but says if constitutional means fail, he advocates a general strike as the only alternative.

Not until the young woman screamed loudly attracting passers-by, did the fellow make himself scarce. This is the second time this winter that this same female has been attacked in this neighborhood.

Scott Party Perished in a Blizzard After Return From South Pole.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Noon.
A despatch from Omaru, New Zealand, says that Capt. R. Scott and his party were overwhelmed by blizzards on their return from the South Pole and the entire party perished. They reached the South Pole on January 18th, 1912.

Taxicab Strike.

The cause which led to the recent taxicab strike at London was the notification by the employers to their men that the price of petrol would be increased from 8d to 1s 1d per gallon. The London Cabdrivers' Union lodged a protest pointing out that it was an utter impossibility for the men to pay the price demanded. The average earning capacity of a taxicab is a guinea a day, and of this sum the driver receives 25 per cent.—5s 3d. Out of that he has to pay for three gallons of petrol, which a cab normally consumes during a working day, which, at 1s 1d per gallon reduces his money to 2s. That, however, is not clear, for every time he enters a railway station he has to pay a due of 1d, and here there are fees to be paid to rank attendants, the net result being a weekly earning of something under 12s for at least sixty-six hours work. About 6,000 drivers went on strike.

A Four-Bob Hold.

The proprietor of the engineering works was casting his eagle eye round, and slack! It fell upon an unhappy apprentice who was using his hammer rather gingerly. "Look ye here, liddle," he said, going up to the youth and taking the hammer from him, "when I see a man that takes his hammer by the end of the shaft, and strikes a proper blow like this, I give that man 32s. a week, and the sack whenever we get middle like this only gets 25s. a week, and the sack whenever we get slack. See?" Hoping that he had sufficiently well driven home his point, he surveyed

Scott Party To-Day's News.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
SOFIA, To-Day.
An official statement says that the Turks yesterday took offensive action against the Bulgarians before Bulair Gallipoli Peninsula. A fierce engagement lasted for several hours, finally the Bulgarians repulsed the Turks pursuing them toward Bulair Forts. Many wounded were left on the field. The Turkish prisoners of the Turkish positions hardly had begun when landing parties from the ships were attacked by the Bulgarians who inflicted heavy losses, the Turkish vessels thereupon sailed away. All attempts by the Turks to assume offensive Tchatalja has been completely checked. They essayed to land troops at Polesna, North East Isbadia, on the Black Sea, but were beaten off leaving fifty dead. The bombardment of Adrianople continues a uniform success. Despatches say that people within the invested city are fleeing from one section to another to avoid Bulgarian shells.

Artistic Calendar.

We thank Bowring Brothers for a very pretty and artistic calendar. It is a reproduction of a most charming rural scene, the After Glow by Geo. Howell Gay. Attached to it is the following words of appreciation:—
The still hour after sunset—at the end of a perfect November day. The air, chilled by the damp earth, grows misty and diffuses the fading light in a mellow glow. The tree forms grow vague and dim. The landscape is wrapped in a veil of mystery and enchantment. It is nature's last picture play of the day, before she draws down upon all the shadowy curtain of night. And, meantime, we stand fascinated, gazing down the roadway stretching before us into obscurity—expecting at any moment to have our loneliness disturbed by the gleaming lamps of a belated car spinning on its homeward way. It is altogether a fancy, but a natural one, for this is just such a witching back road as riders love to take in the golden hour after sundown.
All lovers of nature, whose hearts respond deeply to a scene like this, are, in a sense, silent artists, and they know what the painter felt when he pictured it. The peaceful sky, with its tints of pearl, the ghostly white birches, the clay road, strewn with autumn leaves, the moist, olive sod—all bear messages of joy of nature that the artist and poet in each of us readily comprehend. And we welcome gladly the beautiful expression of the scene that the artist has given us here.
The pleasure of the picture is moreover enhanced for us by the fact that we have here not simply a reproduction, but an actual water-color painting. In that respect it is an unique possession—a genuine work of art, with all the freshness and delicate beauty that only the actual brush and paint can convey. It is a pleasure and satisfaction to offer to our patrons this exquisite example of water-color art.
A billiard match was arranged between two of the local champions. The favorite was well supported, and felt in particularly good spirits before the commencement of the match in the village inn.
Unfortunately his luck seemed to be out that night, so that before the game had progressed very much he found he odds dead against him. Full of chagrin and mortification, he picked up his cue, placed it in the old-fashioned tin case, and shouldering it, strode out into the dark street. He had just passed the lamp-post at the corner of the street when a yokel came running up to him, and pointing to the lamp, exclaimed: "Hi, mister, yer've forgot this 'un!"

Artistic Calendar.

We thank Bowring Brothers for a very pretty and artistic calendar. It is a reproduction of a most charming rural scene, the After Glow by Geo. Howell Gay. Attached to it is the following words of appreciation:—
The still hour after sunset—at the end of a perfect November day. The air, chilled by the damp earth, grows misty and diffuses the fading light in a mellow glow. The tree forms grow vague and dim. The landscape is wrapped in a veil of mystery and enchantment. It is nature's last picture play of the day, before she draws down upon all the shadowy curtain of night. And, meantime, we stand fascinated, gazing down the roadway stretching before us into obscurity—expecting at any moment to have our loneliness disturbed by the gleaming lamps of a belated car spinning on its homeward way. It is altogether a fancy, but a natural one, for this is just such a witching back road as riders love to take in the golden hour after sundown.
All lovers of nature, whose hearts respond deeply to a scene like this, are, in a sense, silent artists, and they know what the painter felt when he pictured it. The peaceful sky, with its tints of pearl, the ghostly white birches, the clay road, strewn with autumn leaves, the moist, olive sod—all bear messages of joy of nature that the artist and poet in each of us readily comprehend. And we welcome gladly the beautiful expression of the scene that the artist has given us here.
The pleasure of the picture is moreover enhanced for us by the fact that we have here not simply a reproduction, but an actual water-color painting. In that respect it is an unique possession—a genuine work of art, with all the freshness and delicate beauty that only the actual brush and paint can convey. It is a pleasure and satisfaction to offer to our patrons this exquisite example of water-color art.
A billiard match was arranged between two of the local champions. The favorite was well supported, and felt in particularly good spirits before the commencement of the match in the village inn.
Unfortunately his luck seemed to be out that night, so that before the game had progressed very much he found he odds dead against him. Full of chagrin and mortification, he picked up his cue, placed it in the old-fashioned tin case, and shouldering it, strode out into the dark street. He had just passed the lamp-post at the corner of the street when a yokel came running up to him, and pointing to the lamp, exclaimed: "Hi, mister, yer've forgot this 'un!"

Three suffragettes, sentenced to a month's hard labor for smashing windows in Dublin Castle, are on a hunger strike. One of them, Mrs. Hopkins, is in so serious a condition that she was released to-day and sent to hospital.

MANSFIELD, Eng., Feb. 9.
Thirteen pit sinkers were killed and a number injured at Bolsover colliery by the snapping of a chain which suspended a bucket, containing 800 gallons of water. The bucket crashed down a shaft 500 feet deep, at the bottom of which the men were working. The workers were crushed into an unrecognizable mass. Only a few who happened to be in shelter holes on the sides of the shaft, escaped death.

LONDON, Feb. 9.
A sensational report that the Turks suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of the Bulgarian troops on the Peninsula of Gallipoli, losing 15,000 killed and 10,000 prisoners, published in Berlin this morning, receives no confirmation or support from any other source. It is pointed out here as incredible that such a battle could have taken place without the Bulgarian headquarters hastening telegraphically to notify the world. A telegram received here from Sofia this afternoon does not refer to any fighting, merely mentioning the departure of King Ferdinand for the army headquarters in the field.

SOFIA, Feb. 9.
All attempts by the Turks to assume the offensive at the Tchatalja lines have been repulsed. A semi-official despatch says that yesterday the Turks advanced in three columns. The first, consisting of six battalions, supported by the guns of Fort Gaurain and warships moored in Bizuk Chetnja Bay, attacked the Bulgarian positions but were driven back by a counter attack. The second column of two battalions were obliged to retire. A column of one regiment was routed with great slaughter by a bayonet charge. In the Derkos district attempts by the Turks were also repulsed, and they withdrew to their original positions. The bombardment of Adrianople continues.

LONDON, Feb. 9.
The Suffragettes destroyed many valuable plants, and did other damage to the hot house in Kew Horticultural Gardens this morning. It is believed that a number of them hid in the gardens over night. Many rare orchids were uprooted and scattered in all directions, and thirty panes of glass in the orchid houses were beaten in. The total damage is from $4,000 to $5,000. Window smashing raids in London continue. Two immense windows in an Oxford Street establishment, which heretofore had been immune because the proprietors contributed to the Suffrage funds, were broken during the night. The postal authorities issued a notice that there would be a delay in all telegrams despatched from the South to the North of England, owing to the cutting of telegraph wires by the suffragettes.

BERLIN, Feb. 9.
Declaring that the Prussians were an oppressed and dismembered folk in 1806, as a consequence of God's judgment, because they had lost faith in Him, the German Emperor at a Memorial Service in Berlin University, to-day, delivered a characteristic speech, warning the present generation not to forget the faith of their fathers. He emphasized his words by pounding his right fist on the desk and was often interrupted by applause. He asserted that Germans of to-day were inclined to believe only in tangible things, and to place difficulties in the way of religion. They should study history and see how the Prussians regained their old faith and fought the war of liberation whose glorious result was not the work of men but of God. So, continued the Emperor, we have in the history of the past, certain proof of God's guidance, and He is still with us, and with this teaching of the past the youth of Germany can forge in its fire the tried shield of faith, which must never be lacking in the armoury of Germans and Prussians. With such weapons, looking neither to the right nor the left, we will go our direct way, with eyes and hearts uplifted, and with trust in God. Then we can all repeat the great Chancellor's

HENNELLY—BROTHERS.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Kindly publish in next issue of your paper about a pretty wedding, which took place here on the 28th of January, 1913. The groom, Mr. Owen Brothers was joined in wedlock to Miss Annie Hennelly. The groom being neatly dressed and wore a white rose. The bride wore a white hat trimmed with silk (white), and wore a suit of white silk and in her bosom a white rose. The best men were Mr. Michael Hennelly, a brother of the bride, and Mr. Frank O'Neil, a cousin of the groom. They also were neatly dressed and wore a temperance badge mounted with a white rose. The bridesmaids were Miss Lizzie Hennelly, a sister of the bride, who wore a white satin waist and a blue silk skirt and a white hat trimmed with blue, and Miss Fannie Brothers, a sister of the groom, who wore a white silk waist and a brown silk skirt and a white hat trimmed with brown silk and feathers. They drove to Renewes and Rev. Father Sheehan celebrated the ceremony, after which they left for the bride's residence. On arriving there all flags from friends around were flying and some forty or fifty guns were fired. Some 90 or 100 people enjoyed themselves heartily until the next day, 29th. At about 10 o'clock all felt sleepy after the night and went home. The bride and groom remained at Mr. Hennelly's residence until Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The groom had a new house of his own and on reaching it about forty or fifty people had assembled to welcome the bride and groom to their new home. An enjoyable time was spent there and all enjoyed themselves heartily. Mr. John Duggan, a cousin of the groom, who lived in Maynard, U.S.A., for twenty years and who came to Newfoundland two years ago and lived with his uncle, was their musician at Mr. Hennelly's and the groom's residence. The bride received many costly presents some of which came from the city from relatives and friends. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Brothers many happy years of wedded life.

Yours, etc.,
—COR.

MEMORIAL TO PRIEST HERO OF THE TITANIC.

(From the Catholic Universe, and Weekly, London.)

The heroic conduct of Father Byles who went down in the Titanic will not be forgotten by the present generation. Future generations will learn of the inspiring zeal of Father Byles from the mural plate which has been set up at St. Edmund's College, Old Hill Green. The brass, which has been erected in the college cloister, opposite the tombs of the Vicars Apostolic, tells in graphic language the story of a brave man's heroism. The following is the inscription:

Pray for the soul of Rev. Thomas Roussel David Byles, formerly student and Professor of this College, Who having embarked for New York on the ship Titanic When that vessel struck an iceberg and became a total wreck In the midst of that midnight horror, of April 14, 1912, He twice refused the offered safety of a lifeboat,

Choosing rather to comfort the Catholics and other Christians with the supreme consolation of the faith,

And so to die with them, Too numerous to be saved from the deep

But not to escape eternal loss, Thus did he follow in the footsteps of the Good Shepherd; Thus did he lay down his life for the sheep.

Worst Stomach Trouble Ended.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia five minutes after taking "Pape's Diapepsin."

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapepsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no more sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disorder.

A Priest Hero.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The accompanying exchange is from the columns of the Montreal Catholic Tribune, and will prove of interest to thousands of your Catholic readers. Father Byles was one of two other Catholic Priests who went to their deaths in the "Titanic," and a late article in the "Missionary" a New York Catholic Magazine, and which was written by one of the survivors of that never-to-be-forgotten tragedy, tells in graphic language of how these noble men met the inevitable end. The Rosary and other pious prayers was being recited as the ship sunk into darkness and into death, and it is a splendid truth that not only did the Roman Catholic brethren gather around to join in the last acts of piety and faith, but others of different denominations united too in that prayer and petition to Heaven for pardon and for peace.

It has been truly said, Mr. Editor, that the Priest is always to be found, where help is to be given, where suffering is to be alleviated, and where dangers is most in evidence.

Thanking you in anticipation of publication, I remain,
Very truly yours,
P. J. KINSELLA.

The Solution.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir.—The solution of the difficulty regarding St. Patrick's Day, seems to me to lie in the letter of "Erin" in this morning's News. It would be very regrettable if the usual festivities in connection with the day should have to be abandoned this year above all others, and I quite agree with "Erin" when he says that the holiday could be arranged for the Thursday preceding the 17th, without anyone suffering inconvenience.
 I would not be writing did I not feel this matter to be an important one, for not only does it appeal to the Irish section of our people, but I may say that two-thirds of the population of the Island are also in sympathy. Let us hope that this year as formerly we shall hear the strains of "The Banks of Newfoundland" and "Garryowen," co-mingle on the morn of a common holiday.

Yours truly,
 NEWFOUNDLANDER.

 A cup of hot Oxo is a great thing on a cold day. It provides a rapid and pleasant stimulating and warming drink without the disadvantages of alcoholic stimulans, as it is stated to contain a certain amount of nourishment. One cube of Oxo will make a good cup of steaming hot beef tea nicely seasoned and very comforting and appetizing. Price 15 and 25c. a box containing 4 and 10 cubes, respectively.

Do not fail if your hands, face, or lips are sprayed, rough or abraded, to procure a crock of Cream of Lillies which will soften, soothe, and heal the irritated skin and make it like velvet. Many people are using it this season who have not used it before, and are finding it "just right" for the skin and complexion. Price 25c. a crock.

Mistaken Identity.

The wrangle among the artists and the city critics about the exhibition of the late Sir Lawrence Alma-Tadema's paintings recalls a story that concerns the close resemblance between the great painter and Mr. George du Maurier.

A lady sitting beside one of them at dinner one night refused to admit that there was a resemblance.

"You know, Mr. Alma-Tadema," said she, "I think it is quite too ridiculous of people to say that you and Mr. du Maurier are alike. There is a slight resemblance, but you are both quite unlike each other. Now, you are not a bit like Mr. du Maurier, really. Don't you agree with me?"

"I don't," was the reply; "but then, you see, I happen to be Mr. du Maurier!"

A DIFFERENCE

It Paid This Man to Change Food.
 "What is called 'good living' eventually brought me to a condition quite the reverse of good health," writes a New York merchant.

"Improper eating told on me till my stomach became so weak that food nauseated me, even the lightest and simplest lunch, and I was much depressed after a night of uneasy slumber, unfitting me for business."

"This condition was discouraging, as I could find no way to improve it. Then I saw the advertisement of Grape-Nuts food, and decided to try it, and became delighted with the result."

"For the past three years I have used Grape-Nuts and nothing else for my breakfast and for lunch before retiring. It speedily set my stomach right and I congratulate myself that I have regained my health. There is no greater comfort for a tired man than a lunch of Grape-Nuts. It insures restful sleep, and an awakening in the morning with a feeling of buoyant courage and hopefulness."

"Grape-Nuts has been a boon to my whole family. It has made of our 2-year-old boy, who used to be unable to digest much of anything, a robust, healthy, little rascal weighing 32 pounds. Mankind certainly owes a debt of gratitude to the expert who invented this perfect food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

A Knighted Modiste.

Perhaps Napoleon the Great would turn restlessly in his grave if he could know that just about a hundred years ago after his foundation of the Legion of Honor, a woman dressmaker, Mme. Paquin, had been made a chevalier of that order and authorized to wear the five-pointed white enamel star with the legend 'Honneur et Patrie' on one side and a figure of the Republic on the other. This has been done. We are under the impression that philosophic Frenchmen regard it as proper. Art in dressmaking is worth stimulating. If Mme. Paquin is prompt in finishing a job, and honest about what women call "keeping the pieces," she is not unworthy of the recognition of her virtues.

The Legion of Honor, established May 19, 1802, did not exclude the renowned persons of civic life. Napoleon was then First Consul. Two years before he had whipped the Austrians at Marengo. Austerlitz was to come three years and a half later. The new order was brought in one month after the amnesty to the Emigres, to months after the Peace of Amiens. Probably it was identified in the First Consul's mind with peace as much as with war.

At the beginning the Legion of Honor had 3,665 chevaliers 450 officers, 300 commanders, 105 grand officers, and one grand master, who was Napoleon Bonaparte. The "grand cross" rank was added in 1872. Members of all ranks numbered 43,851 twenty years ago. The number at present must be a shade over 50,000. One dressmaker will do no particular harm in such a mass of distinguished persons.

Cop's Shot Struck Wrong Man.

Winnipeg, Jan. 30.—John Zeopik a Rtheman, is lying in the General Hospital with a bullet in his right temple as the result of a revolver shot fired this morning by William Andrew Wisely, police constable, at another man who stole two bottles of milk from a delivery wagon. Wisely saw the man who took the bottles from a wagon, drew his revolver and fired. The bullet went wide and struck Zeopik. His condition is serious. Wisely is being held awaiting the outcome of Zeopik's injuries.

London, January 30.—One of the boldest suffragettes ever arrested by the police, was taken in the tolls this evening, after she had attacked the residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and smashed several windows.

Her confession resulted in orders being issued to allow no women within the grounds of Buckingham Palace, save those known to be anti-suffragists.

 The boy looked round with longing eyes. Just as the little packet was made up he said: "I notice you have some toffee."

"Would you rather have toffee?"
 "Please, Mrs. Brown."
 She handed him the toffee, and he at once made towards the door.

"You didn't pay for the toffee!" shouted Mrs. Brown.
 "I gave you the mint rock instead."
 "But you didn't pay for the mint rock."

"I left the butter-drops instead."
 "I left the butter-drops for it."

Fatal Accident.

At noon to-day Mr. C. H. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, received a message from Magistrate Fitzgerald, at Grand Falls, stating that Horace Rier, of Norris Arm, and who was working at Goodyear's logging camp, Badger, was fatally injured there on Friday last, by a tree falling on him. He was taken to Grand Falls Hospital where he died Saturday night from injuries sustained.

Train Notes.

No. 1 rotary, which came along ahead of the express, which arrived here yesterday, is to-day at Miller-ton Junction.

No. 2 rotary left Glenwood for the Topsails at 12.30 p.m. to-day.
 An express left here last evening for Port aux Basques.

The Bruce express left Port aux Basques at 11.30 a.m. yesterday with the Bruce mails and passengers, and is due here to-morrow.

Ragout of Squid.

There is a little Spanish restaurant near the Battery, that serves meals at which no epicure need sneeze. Among the choice dishes of the establishment is a ragout of squid—our old friend of fishing days caught by the thousand every day and cut into bait for cod, pollock and haddock. Maine fishermen turn up their blithe noses at a squid, and yet, as cooked at the Spanish restaurant in New York, squid shows the Maine fishermen are doing a grave injustice to an excellent edible fish.—Tip, in New York Press.

EXPRESS ARRIVES.—The Bruce express which arrived here at 2.40 p.m. yesterday, brought a number of passengers. Preceded by No. 1 rotary, the express came over the Gaff Topsails on Saturday evening, but the weather was fine and she had no difficulty in getting along. At Leach's Brook and east from that place about 200 men are employed over three miles of the track keeping ice off the rails. In the recent severe weather some of the men were badly frost-bitten.

Allan Liner Here

The R. M. S. Sardinian, Capt. Hath-erley, arrived in port at daylight this morning from Philadelphia, which port she left at 11 a.m. on Tuesday. Strong head winds were experienced during the passage. Last evening after the ship got inside of Cape Race it was very stormy. At midnight she attempted to enter the Narrows, but owing to the ice preventing the pilot from getting aboard, the ship put off to sea again. She brought 800 tons of cargo but no passengers. The Sardinian sails for Glasgow to-morrow evening. Thirty saloon and thirteen steerage passengers are booked to go.

Doing Well

The men Shannahan, Devereaux, Hayse and Ryan who were scalded in the N. S. S. Co's boiler house, at Bell Island, Thursday, are doing well, all are in hospital and are being looked after by the doctors. The accident occurred before 1 p.m. as the men were boiling their kettles, and when the tubes of the boiler burst the place was filled with scalding steam and hot water poured out on them also. They suffered intense pain for a while.

Couldn't Discharge.

Besides the logs which she had for Bell Island the S. S. Adventure also had a cargo of coal for the D. I. & S. Co. She had only part of this discharged when the ice began to make rapidly in Conception Bay and she had to leave for Sydney Friday afternoon or else she would have become frozen in.

One Hundred Thousand Say 'Tis So.

Of all the engines in the land, Fairbanks is a beauty; 'tis guaranteed for years to stand, and always does its duty; and now we'll have our readers know, and let them duly note it, one hundred thousand say 'tis so, and to it they're devoted. Fairbanks never yet went wrong, nor couldn't if it tried it; 'tis durable, 'tis neat and strong, the rest are "fools" beside it. So if an engine you would buy, 'tis up at BARR'S you'll get it; and you may bet it now, my boy, you never will regret it.

It is with feelings of deep regret we record the demise of Mr. Frank Perlin, of Perlin Bros., and brother of Mr. I. F. Perlin. Mr. Perlin succumbed last evening at his residence Queen's Road, to an attack of heart disease from which he had been suffering for several years past. ## A Fine Collection

At the Roman Catholic Churches, yesterday, a collection was taken up for the purpose of instituting an ecclesiastical seminary referred to in the Pastoral Letter of His Grace Archbishop Howley. Considering the season the collection was a liberal one. The congregations at the masses in the Cathedral donated $1,053, at St. Patrick's $470.93, at Kilbride $76 and at Littledale $10. When private subscriptions are added, no doubt the amount will reach $1,700, if not more. This will form a substantial nucleus for the projected fund.

Ice Covered.

The S. S. Othar, Capt. Sedgeman, arrived here Saturday evening from Bell Island. The ship's hull was thickly coated with ice, and she will lay up here until April month; the Euphrates in the meantime performing the Portugal Cove-Bell Island mail service. Capt. Sedgeman says that from the time he left the western end of Bell Island, Saturday forenoon, until he reached Capt. St. Francis he saw no water. The whole bay is frozen over from Holyrood to the mouth and the ice is very tough. In some places well out the Bay the slob is pressed in and is 15 feet deep. The Othar had all she could do to get out the Bay and Capt. Sedgeman several times feared he would have to give up the idea and return to Bell Island. Only by persistent "battering" did the ship reach clear water. Capt. Sedgeman and wife will reside at Portugal Cove until the Othar is again in commission.

Walking From Wabana

Yesterday morning hundreds of men who are working at Bell Island took advantage of the ice in Conception Bay to walk to their homes to spend the day with their families. The ice was in some places nearly 2 feet thick. There is only a small strip of the Bay up near Harbour Main which is not ice covered and if the present frosty spurt continues this will soon be bridged over.

IS YOUR COUGH GOING FROM BAD TO WORSE.

If you catch a cold (which very often develops into a cough) everyone can tell you how to cure it! If one tried half the things his friends recommended he would be a physical wreck! Fortunately it isn't necessary to experiment with ginger tea and such things, get a bottle of Stafford's Phoratone Cough and Cold Cure, take according to directions, and you will be released in a few hours. Phoratone is not like most things put up for this purpose. There isn't a particle of Quinine in it. It relieves the inflamed congested condition of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat, and soon rids the system of the poison that cause colds. Don't wait until you get that horrible, hacking cough which you are not able to get rid of. No treatment having been found successful up to the present time. Try Phoratone Cough Cure at once. Price 25 cents a bottle. Postage 5 cents extra. For sale at STAFFORD'S DRUG STORE, Theatre Hill. STAFFORD'S PHARMACY, Duckworth Street, and all Outport merchants. feb10,tf

Mission Fathers Here.

There arrived yesterday's express from Montreal Rev. Fathers McPhail, Holland, Brick and McAndish, Redemptorists, who will conduct a four weeks mission here, two weeks at the R. C. Cathedral and two weeks at St. Patrick's. The initial service in connection with the mission took place at the Cathedral last night, a large and devout congregation being present. Following the recital of the Rosary, each decade being specially offered, Rev. Fr. McPhail occupied the pulpit and preached a powerful and instructive sermon, taking as his text: "Peace be with you." The discourse was eloquent and impressive and was listened to attentively for an hour. At the close the preacher announced that this week would be set aside for women and girls. The regulations are:

THIS WEEK.
5.30 a.m.—Mass, Sermon and instructions for women.
8.30 a.m.—Mass, Sermon and instructions for women.
11 a.m.—Instructions for girls.
4 p.m.—Instructions for girls.

NEXT WEEK.
(For Men and Boys only.)
5.30 a.m.—Mass, Sermon and instructions
8.30 a.m.—Mass, Sermon and instructions.
11 a.m.—Instruction for boys.
4 p.m.—Instruction for boys.

This morning a large concourse of women attended the Masses at the Cathedral.

Cathedral Men's Bible Class.

Yesterday's meeting of the Cathedral Men's Bible Class was largely attended. Rev. Canon Bolt delivered an instructive and eloquent address on the "Place of the Laity in the Church." He traced the position of the laity in ages past, thought that at present they should have better representation in the church's councils and take a more prominent part in its affairs. He gave an interesting exemplification of the work being done in this diocese and the energy and increasing effort shown by the laity in the outports. All present paid the greatest attention to the discourse which must tend to increase interest in matters appertaining to the work of the church.

The Horse's Point of View.

IN WINTER.

If a horse could talk, he would have many things to say especially when winter comes.

He would tell his driver how a frosty bit stings and sears his lips and tongue when it is thrust into his mouth without being warmed first.

He would tell how it feels to have nothing but ice cold water to drink, when he is already shivering from the cold.

He would tell of the bitter wind that frosts his sides when he halts, steaming from exertion, and is tied for hours in an exposed place without a blanket.

He would talk of slippery streets, and the sensations of falling on cruel city cobblestones—the pressure of the load pushing him to the fall, the bruised knees and wrenched joints; the tightened straps and the feel of the driver's lash, the panting nostrils and heaving flanks, and the horrible fright of it all.

Yes, the horse would talk eloquently, if he had the power of speech. And having horse-sense, he would urge his driver, not merely for the sake of maintaining a faithful servant at the highest point of efficiency, to do these things:

Warm the bit before putting it in his mouth.

Warm his water up to a drinking temperature, if it is very cold.

Give him enough to eat, and spread plenty of clean bedding in his stall.

Put a blanket on him in the stable, on cold nights.

Do not let him stand in a cold wind without a blanket.

Keep him sharp-shod during the winter.

Drive him carefully over icy pavements.

When he falls, quickly loosen his harness and help him to rise, without blows.

Watch for the appearance of galls, and try to heal them before they grow worse.

Be human with your horse. Treat him as well as he treats you.

Phoratone Cough Cure for all kinds of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and various lung troubles. Price 25c.; post, 5c. extra.—feb1,tf

With the Puck.

The Feildians and Crescents will contest in to-night's hockey match, and even if the Crescents lose it will not effect their running for the Championship, and it is more than likely they will win their next match against St. Bon's.

A meeting of the Hockey League took place Saturday night when it was definitely decided to wire the Wanderers of Halifax to come, arrangements re transportation and other expenses having been fixed. The visitors are expected to arrive here on the night of Monday, 17th, and will play on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The proposition of bringing the outside team here is being undertaken by the League solely and any surplus amount will be put aside, Messrs. W. J. Higgins, J. C. Parsons and C. E. A. Jeffrey who were selected as the appointment committee and who met to-day appointed the following fourteen:

From these will be chosen the seven who will play the Wanderers. The city fourteen will hold their first practice at 10.30 to-night.
