CHAPTER XXX.

"Oh, why not?" she returned, her brightness all evaporating. But to this Mr. Hurst only made indistinct response as to "trespassing too much," and walked away, leaving Sydney to begin her assorting down-cast and sad.

Mr. Babbington dined with them the next day. Before the meal he talked some while aside with his hostess, and presently at the table asked Mr. Hurst if he were intending to go to the Jarvis's on Friday, these being people who for a couple of summer months rusticated and fished at Perristone, a little higher up the river. Slight acquaintance, begun the previous year with Mr. Hurst, was followed up this season by an invitation to dinner.

"For you only, Gilbert," Miss Hurst had commented on the note, arrived that morning. "Mrs. Jervis is down, I understand, but they have not included me. Oh dear, no! Perhaps they have never noticed me. Or if they do know there is such a person, why, I'm only your elder sister. I have no position to make any one take account of me. Don't be offended at it Gilbert. I'm not. I'm above being offended, though I can't help feeling it. You'll go?" But Mr. Hurst had told her gently to decline. He cared nothing whatever about it, and Miss Jean seemed gratified. Now she appeared to have altered. Answering for her brother—"Oh, he must certainly accept," she said; "to oblige me, Gilbert," she really, really must. Etiquette is nothing at all to me, so long as you get a pleasant evening."

"So I will call round and walk up with you," offered Mr. Babbington; but Mr. Hurst replying, "It brings you out of your road. I would rather make my way there alone." Then I will return with you, at any rate," persisted the clergyman, with a meaningful glance at Miss Jean: "Your sister will feel easier if you agree to that, I know." And Mr. Hurst acquiesced rather than combat such a trifle.

At seven o'clock on the day of this dining at Perristone, Sydney wandered from garden to drawing-room, intending to write there part at least, of her letter to Jacob Cheene. Miss Hurst was cutting out jackets for the small Babbingtons in the study. Mr. Hurst she imagined gone. But there she was mistaken. Not due for an-

She can end that Corn

End it in two days. Blue-jay would stop the pain the moment she applied it. Then it would gently loosen the corn. In 48 hours, the whole corn would lift out, without any pain or soreness.

Blue-jay, each month, ends a million corns in that way. No hard corn can resist it. Since this invention it is utterly needless to suffer from a corn.

Yet thousands of people still pare corns, or use some old-time treatment. They simply coddle corns, and every little while they become unendurable.

Try this scientific way. See how Blue-jay stops the pain. See how it undermines the corn. And see, in two days, how that corn forever disappears.

After that, so long as you live, you will never let corns bother you.

other half hour at his entertainers', he was standing on the hearth-rug, waiting, before he started, for the farewell inspection his sister had required, and Sydney halted on the window-step, letting her gaze, first of surprise, then of something more rest on that tall, well-built figure in Englishman's evening uniform. Another June evening, another man so dressed, she remembered vividly, and hung her head, as if for that wretched bubble of misdirected fancy she owed apology to the presence before her. He could not see that mantling shame nor divine that secret self-reproach; but a keen sense of both bade her draw back, away from him. An instant and she would have been gone, but just too soon Miss Jean came hurrying in, one hand bandaged with a handkerchief.

"So you are ready, Gilbert? or think you are. But, Miss Grey, would you very kindly give me the brush off the hall-stand? Thank you. Stretch your arm out, Gilbert. I hate a speck of dust on broadcloth, and, of course, you can't tell if its there. Do you remember how I used to brush you in your school-days when you never would stand still? Dear, dear, to think I have to do it now, and you— and everything—so different. But I never have repined. I don't mean to, even if—oh, Gilbert—breaking off to turn aside and wipe her eyes.

"Your poor old sister does like to see you as you are looking now. She is always ready to be proud of you! But come, you are not finished off yet. Mrs. Jervis is a bride, they tell me. You must go properly adorned. Where is a flower for your button-hole?"

"I want none, Jean. Let me be off now, I shall be late."

"Not till you have a flower. Miss Grey, are those wild rosebuds you are wearing? They are lovely, anyhow. May we rob you of them?"

"No, Jean, No!"

"They are your own," said Sydney, unfastening them from her dress. "Davis had clipped them from the orchard hedge. I brought them in so that they should not die entirely neglected," and she held the delicate cluster out.

Miss Hurst sighed at her own disabled fingers.

"I cut them stupidly with my huge scissors. Will you be good enough to pin the flowers safely in? Oh, here comes Flossy for the jackets before they are ready? Gilbert, you have your hat? Now do enjoy yourself, and pray come back in good spirits. I—I—shall wait up for you."

Flossy was piping forth "Miss Hurst" in the hall. Flossy and her garments controlled the situation. Away Miss Hurst hurried. Shyly, reluctantly, Sydney took up the miniature nosegay.

"Have I to be decorated, then?" Mr. Hurst asked in a low voice, and for answer she fixed the buds in their place with wondrous speed, frightened at—herself.

Hardly a tittle of a minute her hands hovered about him; her soft skirt lay upon his foot. He could almost feel her breathing. Another second he could not have endured it. As thankless as when her song all but unmanned him, Gilbert Hurst took up his hat and went forth to keep his engagement.

"I shall take Flossy home if you will excuse my running away," said Miss Hurst, looking in some while after: "Oh, I see you are writing. You will be glad to be left." Sydney had just caught up her pen, guiltily conscious of an aimless fit of absence. Glad she was to be again left, but her letter was not finished, not even begun, when, an hour later, in the wight, Miss Hurst returned nervous, tremulous, delightedly important.

"I have been too long, but I could not tear myself away from little Horace. He was crying for his father. Nothing would comfort him but my stopping till he fell asleep. Ah, it makes a woman very happy, Miss Grey, to have children fond of her; even—other people's!"

Then Miss Jean fitted away, smiling as she recalled the child's little warm hold upon her wrist. Presently back she came, suggesting, "Don't let me keep you up longer than you like, Miss Grey. I want to talk to you very much, but I think it must be to-morrow. Of course I shall sit up for my brother; but you had best not wait."

"Are you sure the time will not seem long if you are alone?" Sydney asked, nothing loath, though, to escape a tete-a-tete.

"Oh, not the least. I would rather you went. Which sounds rude, but it only means I am not good company to-night. For—oh, Miss Grey, I must tell you this much—Mr. Babbington wants me to forget all these past years; to marry him now! He told me so three weeks ago. I have been distracted as to what was my duty. I told him yesterday I dare not answer for myself. Gilbert must decide. And he is going to talk to Gilbert as they come home from Perristone. It does agitate me so. You won't mind my saying good-night. I can—oh, dear—I can tell you more to-morrow!" How much more, and what would it be?"

Sydney shook loose her heavy braids, wrapped her dark dressing-gown about her, and gathered herself up on the deep window-ledge in her bed-room, to ponder over that. Sore-hearted, jealous, resentful—not for herself—smarting irrationally for some one else and what the coming hour was bringing him. Mutely she kept vexed vigil, while the outer world, that had sunk into shadow with the falling eve, rewoke to clear untinted shape beneath a full June moon. From beyond the far, dim hills: touching the west woods' crests, down the still, billow-like masses of full foliage; to wreaths of mist about the meadows, the silver light had stolen before; through the perfect quiet, voices sounded nearing Wynstone. By the gate some minutes' monologue ensued. Then an interchange of good-nights, and Mr. Hurst re-entered the house to meet Miss Jean.

Well Sydney knew if arbitration were left to him what the issue of that conference would be. Acutely, as inarticulate sounds rose from the lower room to her open casement, imagination kept pace with the painful steps Gilbert Hurst must now be treading of self-renunciation to what-over point his sister's happiness demanded. For him, for his future, there was no one to plead; no one by to care! And she, an Alwyn, who ought most of any in the world to have helped him now, could do it less than the veriest stranger in the world. With a bitter flood of tears she buried her face in her hands, and feverishly struggled long to quell the useless torrent. When, throbbing and aching, she raised her head at last, the voices underneath had ceased. A foot-fall, Miss Jean's, traversed the lobby to the opposite room, and the hush of near midnight settled on the house.

But sleep seemed as far from Sydney's eyes as if the dawn of another day were nigh; as indeed, in some sort, it was.

Miss Jean's palpitations had long subsided into slumber, and still Sydney stood at the window, tormented by yearnings, passionate as futile, to furnish Gilbert Hurst, master, instructor to her as he had been, second thus only to Mr. Vaughan, clever as she was, noble and worthy, to furnish him now with some haven from this last storm of homelessness that threatened him.

So earnestly she was thinking, looking starward, that a movement below was unheeded. A figure from the house crossed the lawn, passed over the sloping meadow to the curve of the stream beside two drooping willows, then stood, a bare six inches from the eddying pool. Then her eyes suddenly rested on it—took in the spot, the form. Something more subtle than instinct showed her the peril of that conjunction, and in that moment's awful fear she knew the truth. Gilbert Hurst's life was dearer to her than her own! Swift as thought, with soundless, slippered feet she was down the stairs, out from the open window, over the grass, near, near, nearer to him; and not a whit too soon!

Forgive him all who can. Bethink you, any who would condemn, how horribly close to mortal sin most men some time or other of their pilgrimage have been. How the strongest heart has had its hour of sickening weakness. How the lives of well-nigh all mortals know some era when sense and even faith are overridden by agony that seems incurable. Such slow-gathering through months, culminated to-night in the hour when any world promised Gilbert Hurst more rest than this. In the white full light he stood, every pain-racked feature plain, one hand pressed hard upon his mouth. For one beat of the pulse he swayed; another—

"Wait patiently for Him; and—He shall give thee thy heart's desire."

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia, made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN. Sulphate of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Yes, my home is run just about to suit me," I heard a man say the other day with an air of immense self-satisfaction. There's a lot of talk about compromising between husbands and wives these days, but my wife doesn't expect any such nonsense. She's glad to have things the way I want them. Now I happen to know that man's wife and I can testify that what he says is true. She is a quiet little creature as self effacing as he is self aggressive. And he certainly speaks the truth when he says that she runs things exactly as he wants them. Why shouldn't she when she learned long ago that it was the only way to keep peace in the home? Why should she expect any such nonsense as a fair compromise of interests and desires when her husband has long ago proved to her that he does not intend to consider her wishes in anything. One often meets people like this man who boast of the fact that things are run to suit them in the family, the club or the social group to which they belong. They seem to take vast pride in this assertion. To my mind it would be difficult to find a poorer reason for pride.

Why do they have things their own way? Because people love them so? Not once in a thousand times. Just because they know how to make others uncomfortable when they do not get their own way.

LONDON, May 21. The sitting of the House of Commons was suspended to-day until tomorrow, in consequence of disorderliness of Opposition members, who succeeded in forcing an adjournment, a motion for which had been just defeated by a vote of 286 to 176. After the vote had been taken the Unionists started the refrain, "Adjourn." The uproar was long and loud. The Speaker finally rose and asked the Leader of the Opposition whether he assented to the demonstration. Amid shouts from his supporters of "Don't Answer," Bonar Law refused to reply, and the Speaker declared the sitting suspended, saying there was nothing else he could do, as Law declined to assist him in maintaining order.

LONDON, May 21. An official announcement has been made in the Commons that the division on the third reading of the Home Rule Bill will be taken Tuesday next.

LONDON, May 21. St. James' Park and the grounds of Buckingham Palace were crowded with police from an early hour this morning, 1,500 men having been ordered there for the purpose of opposing the projected attempt by suffragettes to present a petition to the King. The police formed a ring around the grounds as the women had threatened to scale the high walls enclosing the gardens. All the detectives from the police headquarters and Scotland Yard were on duty. In order to throw the suffragettes off the track, the King and Queen did not go direct to Buckingham Palace, but drove to Marlborough House, the residence of the Dowager Queen Alexandra.

LONDON, May 21. Premier Asquith announced to-day that the second Home Rule Bill for Ireland, amending the pending measure, would be soon introduced, but no definite date was decided on.

NEW YORK, May 21. The Vaterland, the biggest steamer afloat, arrived here early to-day on her maiden voyage from Hamburg. Her run yesterday was 594 miles, an average speed of 23.3 knots. The Vaterland is 955 feet long, 100 feet beam and 58,000 tons. She carries one commodore, 4 captains and a total crew of 1,234. Including crew and passengers, she carried 3,000 persons. When she headed in for the pier more than 50 tugs had her in charge. As the bow neared the pier the strong ebbing tide caught the vessel stern and she began to swing around, heading for the wooden pier nearby. After the vessel drifted more than a mile the tugs succeeded in getting her in tow again, and she was headed up stream under control.

We know who he will buy it for? But who will he buy it from? Hundreds of Engagements and Weddings are sealed yearly in Newfoundland with Trappell's Solid Gold Rings. Hundreds of friendships and tokens of affection to sweetheart, wife, mother, sister and friend are embodied in lasting embrace with Trappell's Rings, the popularity of which is based upon their quality, finish and variety and beauty of design. Rings for men, women, baby and miss for every occasion. Gem Rings, Child Rings, Signet Rings, Birthday Rings. Should you have a desire to get a ring of such design as you may create yourself, or that you had seen somebody else wear, just take your design to Trappell; there is nothing impossible along these lines for his talented workmen. A splendid assortment of "Gem Rings" can be seen if your design calls for a Gem Ring. Ask to be shown the new White Sapphires. They are hard and brilliant like diamonds, so much so that they puzzle experts.

New Glasgow, N.S.

Dear Sir,—

I wish to state that I am well satisfied with the results which your Company have given me in connection with my Endowment Policy No. 47,775, which matures on the 17th of March. I find that the returns give me over $424.00 more than I have paid in premiums, in addition to the protection that I have had during the Policy term. I consider this all the more satisfactory taking into account the fact that the dividends were applied as a Bonus every five years. I, therefore, received a return beyond Bank interest, in addition to the protection.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH STEWART.

Venezuela.

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." Venezuela, an outpost of the nether regions located just above the equator in South America has 60,000 square miles, these being the only square things which have been discovered in the country up to date. It was discovered by Columbus in 1498 and owing to the negligence of the civilized world in maintaining a quarantine almost three million people are now living within its borders—a feat which is regarded with awe by those who have visited the country and have studied its politics from a safe place.

Venezuela consists of mountains, tropical forests, great grassy plains and the Orinoco River, which has more tributaries than an American trout. It has 500 miles of railroads on some of which last year's trains are not due until day after tomorrow. It is bounded on the north by the Caribbean sea, on the east by British Guiana, on the south by Brazil and on the west by Columbia. It costs $1000.00 steamer fare to visit Venezuela from New York and there is never a line at the ticket window. Venezuela produces cattle, beans, coffee, tobacco, and dictators, of which the latter are by far the best known. The nation is one of the most interesting parodies on a republic now in existence. All Venezuelans over 21 can vote just as all Americans can go through Niagara Rapids in a barrel. Of the two adventures the latter is generally a little safer.

With its three million people Venezuela has about 250,000 whites and less school children than Indianapolis. Caracas is the capital of the nation. It is situated on a mountain 55 miles from the seacoast and the scenery along the trip is the only thing in Venezuela that has not deteriorated during the last half century. Venezuela is governed by presidents who are elected by the simple process of holding a pistol to the heads of the congressmen. The term of a Venezuelan president is indefinite. He rules as long as the country can stand him. General Crespo, who ejected his predecessor in 1894, made the remarkable record of leaving the chair without a general request. President Castro killed off the opposition in 1906 and ruled for eight years. The country is now slowly recovering from his administration, but it will never recover the public treasury which closed to Paris with him.

For all his faults Venezuela produced the greatest man in South American history—Simon Bolivar, who freed South America early in the last century.

Died Trying to Save His Mother.

New York, N.Y.—May 16.—Returning home to find it burning and knowing his aged mother, a paralytic, could not escape thalided Harry Halstead, 23 years old, threw himself into the flames in a burning apartment house in Brooklyn, last night, in an attempt to rescue his mother.

Firemen later found his charred body. The mother, Mrs. Harry Halstead, 65 years old, had been suffocated the flames scarcely touching her body. The fire was caused by a lighted match thrown on a table cloth by a servant 77 years old.

Visit Of Duke Of Connaught.

We are officially informed that the Duke of Connaught will visit New- foundland in July next, enroute on the West Coast on board H.M.S. Essex, on the 7th of that month. His Royal Highness will go to various portions of the Island arriving at St. John's on or about July 14th. He wishes to be back in Quebec by the morning of the 19th July.

His Royal Highness is very much looking forward to his visit to the Colony and his only regret is that the Duchess's health does not allow her to accompany him. Further details of the arrangements will be announced later.

Mr. Higgins stated the case for the Crown. The following witnesses gave testimony:—Madge Moakler, Annie Moakler, John J. O'Connell, Wm. T. Scully.

More Larceny.

Last night the police arrested a boy of tender years on a charge of the larceny of $2.50. The youth had been employed in Stafford's drug store and within the past few weeks small amounts were frequently missed from the cash register. Some of the coins were marked and that was how the proprietor of the store discovered who was doing the thieving. The accused appeared in court today. Mr. Stafford would not prosecute, and as the youngster's home circumstances were not the best, His Honor let him go on suspended sentence.

Vessels Experience Rough Weather.

Vessels that arrived here from Trinity Bay last night report a very heavy sea coming up the shore towards this port. One of them the scur, Emma, Capt. Penney from Random was very heavily laden with lumber, and when nearing Cape St. Francis the crew had to chop away a portion of the after quarter to allow the water to run off the deck as the little vessel was awash, and carried a heavy deckload. Two others from Winterton and Heart's Content respectively report similar conditions. The former having to shorten sail when off Pouch Cove where a gale was blowing from the land.

Helpful Hints for Guidance in Buying R. J. & W. Preferred Stock

St. John's, May 22nd, 1914.
Robln, Jones & Whitman, 6 p.c. Cumulative Preferred Stock sells for 85 p.c. with a 25 p.c. bonus of Common Stock.
This means that one $100 Par value share of the Preferred costs $85.00 and includes a quarter share of Common as a bonus. The remaining three-quarters to make up the full share of Common can be had at the rate of $35.00 a share—or $26.25.
Therefore ONE share of Preferred and ONE share of Common will together cost $111.25. Such a desirable investment would give you a share of Preferred yielding 7.07 p.c., and a share of Common on which a 2 p.c. dividend was paid last year and on which an average of at least 6 p.c. was earned yearly for the past four years.
Any number of shares may be had at this attractive rate—either on the outright or the $10 down and $10 monthly plan.

The Firemen's Case.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Permit me through the columns of your widely circulated paper to give expression to some matters that have more than passing interest to us Newfoundlanders.

To begin I ask your readers to recall to their memories the incident nigh on two years ago which led up to the change of the personnel of the firemen on board the S. S. Florizel from a Newfoundland crew to a foreign crew. No doubt it is fresh in the minds of most of us what was said by those who were responsible for this arrangement. They were profuse in their fulmination at that time against the Union firemen, and on the other hand they were equally profuse with all manner of praise for their new employees. They said there was more satisfaction with the foreign than with the local firemen. We had to stand idly by and listen to this empty and make-up boasting which emanated from the followers of the despot-in-manager policy, knowing full well that time would certainly reveal the hollowness of the situation taken by men who should have acted more kindly. Now in a concise manner I will give an epitome of the stoking department of the Florizel before the occurrence which resulted in the employment of foreign firemen and since that time two years ago when the Union firemen were cut off altogether from the work which should be theirs.

To make a start, when the Florizel came here she was entirely manned in the stoking department by men who were bona fide members of the Firemen's Union, of Newfoundland, and during all this time which would be about three years, every satisfaction was given. The ship was never delayed in her sailings and on most trips was ahead of the schedule time of arrival. So it can be seen that as far as the Union men were concerned there was no need of complaint and certainly no justification for the extravagant comparison made by those people who said that Foreigners gave more satisfaction. We will just for comparison state briefly just what has taken place in the S.S. Florizel's stoking department since our men were removed from working this ship, and we will leave it to any unbiased public to judge, believing that the result of their findings will be entirely in favor of the Union Firemen of Newfoundland.

To begin I may say that every trip since these firemen were employed to work the Florizel they left her in numbers, sometimes as high as 50 p.c. of the stoke hold's crew. This last trip in New York all the stokers left her notwithstanding the inducements held out to them by someone. I will just state one inducement which will serve the purpose of showing how far men will go to bolster up a position taken by them. As you know the firemen out of New York are paid the same rate as men engaged in like work in Newfoundland. Well in addition to that wage these firemen are offered $2.00 per month for every period of three months they work on the ship. In face of this inducement most of them do not stay, causing no doubt trouble in having to secure new firemen every trip. This trouble did not occur when our men worked the ship, as they were on her from the time she came off the stocks until that little friction which took place two years ago. How in the face of the above evidence can a man be justified in stating that the foreign fireman gave more satisfaction than the Newfoundlanders. Is it not strange that men can bear such continued trouble from one class of people where they cannot stand even a shadow of a disagreement from us in Newfoundland? Doesn't it warrant us in thinking that there is a strong hatred towards us existing in the hearts of someone with meagre power? Surely the owners and agents cannot be aware of this continuous trouble on the Florizel on trips to New York. We feel that if they were and knew the conditions prior to the employment of these foreign stokers they would certainly in all fairness return to the conditions which existed a few years ago.

Just another instance of how men can be patient, with a class when it suits them. As already stated on the last trip of the Florizel the firemen all left her. How much this delayed the ship we cannot say, but certainly it is only reasonable to suppose that she was considerably delayed, because they hadn't time to sign articles in New York. They had to wait to get here to St. John's to sign, which they did last Friday. Does not this last act show a spirit of unadmitted "cussedness" of some one's part. I would like to know were the captains and engineers as zealous in New York when this thing happened as they were when the little friction occurred here two years ago. Then they were more than energetic against us members of the Firemen's Union of Newfoundland. Anyway what surprises me is how men can put up with such inconvenience during the past two years as they did, when it could be avoided by leaving the stoking department of the Florizel in the hands of the Newfoundland Firemen's Union.

From what I knew and from what I have learned through the school of experience, I have come to the conclusion that there must be something behind all this thing which is not known to the proper authorities. Whilst I cannot publish the opinions which I have in mind, I believe that if an investigation were made the findings of such would show that there is something rotten about the whole matter. It makes one feel sorrowful when we know that as far as ability goes we have in the Newfoundland Firemen's Union as fine a class of workmen as can be found in any part of the world. In face of this to have the work that should be ours, in the hands of others through the vindictiveness of some people, is most regrettable from any point of view.

Thanking you in anticipation for space,

I am, yours truly,
F. L. WOODS,
President of the Firemen's Protective Union.
St. John's, May 22, 1914.

Logging Camp Burglarized.

FIFTY DOLLARS STOLEN.
By the express train, which reached the city at ten o'clock last night, they arrived from Grand Falls, Constable Martin, in charge of a prisoner for the Penitentiary. The name of the accused is Albert Lee, who was convicted of burglary and theft and got six months imprisonment. During the midnight hours of Saturday last, Lee broke into a logging camp at Badger Brook while the inmates were asleep, and stole a purse, containing $50, belonging to one of the loggers. The authorities were informed of the theft and Constable Martin rounded up the culprit who was brought to Grand Falls, tried before Magistrate Fitzgerald, who took into account the prisoner's bad record and gave him the sentence already mentioned.

Petty Thefts.

This morning, in the Magistrate's Court, a man, who had been victimized by a junior employee, intimated that he has had within the past few years dismissed several boys for taking small sums of money. Inspector General Sullivan commented strongly on this nefarious practice and said that it was poor example for the coming generation in the community.

There was no word received from the Prospero to-day and it is believed she is still icebound.

The Hawk arrived from Bell Island at 10 o'clock last night and sails again at 6 o'clock this evening.

Mrs. Bridget O'Leary's famous cow which has always had the discredit of having caused the great Chicago fire of 1871 by kicking over a lamp while being milked early in the morning, is at last to have her memory vindicated if the death bed confession of Miss Rebecca Thrift, 70 years old, who died in the county infirmary at Lima, Ohio, on May 7th, should, upon investigation, prove true. Miss Thrift with her last breath gasped out that she was responsible for the conflagration and that she fled through the flames and confusion to avoid arrest for an act which preyed upon her mind ever since.

The King and Queen on May 7th, opened a new wing of the British Museum, which has just been completed at a cost of a million dollars. It is the first part of a large scheme of extension. The new wing is in architectural harmony with the old museum. The main entrance is surmounted by a balcony, the parapet of which is formed by a stone laid in June, 1907, by the late King Edward, its facade, which is of Portland stone, is flanked by two massive towers, the outer walls and pedestals of the forecourt being of Scottish granite.

The increasing use of intoxicants in the Austrian army has led the Minister of War to order a comprehensive and searching investigation of the effects of alcohol on the fighting strength of the dual monarchy. The commanding officers are ordered to report what influence the regular and abundant drinking of stimulants by the people generally exerts on the physical condition and military capacity of young recruits and also the number of cases of alcoholic poisoning and of prosecutions for drunkenness in the last year.

Caesar, the famous white wire-haired terrier, which for many years was King Edward's constant companion, and at his funeral four years ago followed in his royal master's funeral procession, died recently at Marlborough House after a brief illness. After His Majesty's death Caesar was inconsolable for weeks, and refused to take food and whined in piteous fashion. Queen Alexandra made him a great favorite, and he often used to walk or drive out with her. Although King Edward's bedroom was the terrier's home while His Majesty lived, the dog never went near it after the King's death, tho' he wandered about Buckingham Palace for days searching in vain for the face or the hand of his dead master. He was 12 years old.

The Even Tenor of Our Way.

We have incurred the displeasure of an evening contemporary. The gravamen of our offence is insufficient effort in demanding a Commission of enquiry into the conduct of the scaling ventures and other like offences. We are however unrepentant and prefer to preserve the even tenor of our way.

We have already expressed our views in the premises and we do not intend to go further until the Government become defaulters in carrying out their promise to appoint such a commission. We consider it only fair to give a reasonable time to them to consider Judge Knight's report and if they fail to act properly in the matter, we shall not be lacking in telling them what we think of their conduct. Meanwhile we shall bear the censure of our contemporary with equanimity. We may remind that censor that we have something to our credit even in his own columns as to the time, energy and effort we made on behalf of those bereaved by the Newfoundland disaster and what we had of time, energy and ability we gave unsparsingly, and we give it not unmindful of the organization which our contemporary specially respects, and the account by no means closes with these matters, although the assistance has been undoubtedly mutual. There are credit accounts on both sides. Even if the editor is unaware of it, a conference with the President of the F. P. U. should put him in possession of facts which will convince him that in the past we have not been backward in investigating gross evils of a public nature, the kudos for which we were content to let go elsewhere, while the Evening Telegram at least took as much risk as the Fishermen's Advocate in the publication of the matters to which we refer. The course we pursue we shape ourselves, and we shall pursue it quite independently, regardless of either censure or praise.

Suffragette Battle at Buckingham Palace.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
The attempt of the suffragettes to present a petition to the King at Buckingham Palace failed, but not until a battle was fought, which for ferocity surpassed any previous militant demonstration. The crowd of onlookers suffered almost as much as the fighters. People waited in the hot sun for hours for an attack which eventually came from a totally unexpected quarter. The police precautions had been directed toward repelling the assault from the direction of Westminster, where suffragettes had advertised they would form a parade. Instead a small body known, because of their militant record, as gun women, of the Women's Social and Political

Union, burst from a private residence in Hyde Park forced their way through the archway at the top of Constitution Hill, before a small squad of police on duty there had time to collect to resist them. Headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, a flying squad of women swept down Constitution Hill towards the Palace. When half way along they met the most hated enemy of militants in the person of Inspector Riley, who has charge of suffragette details at police headquarters. The stock of the combat was short but sharp and resulted in the arrest of many women, who, in fighting used clubs. Many mounted policemen were thrown, their comrades on foot rolled with them in the mud. Eventually the strength of the policemen told. Over thirty women, including Mrs. Pankhurst, were placed under arrest, while others had been scattered into small groups. One group headed by Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, reached a point almost across the drive from the Palace, where mounted police surrounded the women, placed Miss Sylvia and several comrades in custody. The crowd at this point was so dense that the attempts of the police to clear the drive were without success until they had recourse to water sprinkling carts which ruined many of the fine gowns of the fashionable women spectators. Several members of the Commons were among the spectators and denounced the police for not adhering to their promise to treat the women with gentleness. The police retorted that the "terrible onslaught of the militants had left them no other alternative. The casualties were not numerous and consisted of a few broken heads. At no time were more than a couple of hundred women engaged in the battle while opposed to them was a force of 1,500 police. With the exception of a few minutes when the King stood at a window watching the preparations to defend him from the attentions of the women, the palace presented a deserted appearance. The Police Inspector said when Mrs. Pankhurst was arrested, he "carried her inside the Park gate, she shouted, "That is right. Arrest me at the gates of Palace. Tell the King the police raided a West End flat and arrested four militants. They seized bags filled with flint stone and also a number of hammers to be used in a window smashing campaign."

"I ask no better fate than die as President of this nation. As between resigning and meeting death by the hands of the Mexican army, I would certainly die better." The President made the foregoing statement while dining at a country club. According to advices received here, Huerta denounced the report that he would resign as utterly baseless.

Horse Parade.

The Society for the Protection of Unless the food you eat is digested Horse Parade in St. John's, early in September next, and hopes that all who are interested in bettering the condition of horses in this country, will give their co-operation and support. These Work-Horse Parades are held every year in many places, and are invariably found to exert a most beneficial influence, not only with regard to the driving and the treatment generally of horses, but also in improving their standard of quality. Prizes will be awarded to the winning horses in each class, and the Society hopes for a large number of entries, from large and small stables alike. Full particulars will be issued shortly, and information may be obtained at any time from the Directors of the S.P.A., or from its agent Mr. A. E. Bastow.

WEATHER.—It is calm and fine along the line of railway to-day with the temperature ranging from 40 to 60 above.

DID THE WORK

Grew Strong on Right Food. You can't grow strong by merely exercising. You must have food—the kind you can digest and assimilate. It adds to the burden the digestive organs have naturally to carry. This often means a nervous breakdown. "About a year ago," writes an Eastern lady, "I had quite a serious nervous breakdown caused, as I believed, by overwork and worry. I also suffered untold misery from dyspepsia. "First I gave up my position, then I tried to find a remedy for my troubles, something that would make me well and strong, something to rest my tired stomach and build up my worn-out nerves and brain. "I tried one kind of medicine after another, but nothing seemed to help me. "Finally a friend suggested change of food and recommended Grape-Nuts. With little or no faith in it, I tried a package. That was eight months ago and I have never been without it since. "Grape-Nuts did the work. It helped me grow strong and well. Grape-Nuts put new life into me, built up my whole system and made another woman of me!" Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville", in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

This Date in History.

MAY 22.
New Moon—25th.
Days Past—141. To Come—223.
WAGNER born 1813. German musician, who revolutionized operatic methods and doing away with set ballads and choruses, endeavored to give the same unity of action to an opera as would be realized in a play without music.
MUTINY AT THE NORE 1797. A serious mutiny in the English fleet. Food was bad, the men were badly treated, and wages had not been altered since the reign of Charles II. The ringleader was hanged and the sailors soon forgot their grievances in fighting and defeating the Dutch at Camperdown.
SIR A. CONAN DOYLE born 1859. He reached the point of highest popularity in his present day detective sketches in which "Sherlock Holmes" figures.
VICTOR HUGO died 1885, aged 83. Great French poet, dramatist and novelist whose various writings are all works of splendid genius.
The supreme happiness of life is the conviction that we are loved.
—Victor Hugo.

Sensational 2 Reel Film

AT ROSSLEYS.
There was a good house at Rossley's, last night, and a capital program. The Farca Comedy was one that held the audience in roars while the eight little St. John's girls singing and dancing was loudly applauded. The pictures are as fine as any ever seen in St. John's, Mr. Rossley bringing them out right from the best firms in Europe. Can command better films than hirec ones. The two-reel film "A Plunge for a Fortune" is very exciting, and many daring feats are witnessed. A man leaps from a galloping horse into a flying train and from a train going sixty miles an hour over a bridge into the river many feet below. Maurice Costello and Clara Kenbat Young are seen at their best in another picture. There is in preparation a big act for Monday. Coming Dan Cusack, the Irish Minstrel and Miss Lucy Hayes, associate players.

George Carpentier.

Red McGhee says:

In Uncle Sam's bunch o' states the sportin' public's loves an' hates keep changin' all the time. To-day we praise an' cheer a man — to-morrow he goes on the pan, a boob, a quince, a lime. we make o u r heroes over night. A pug'll cop some great big fight an' right away he's IT. We worship at his shrine until some fighter clouts him on the bill. De we stick by him?—NIT!

We're for 'em while they win — that's all. In boxin', wrestlin' or baseball, lose once an' it's Good Night. That's why I think it kind o' queer that this guy Georges Carpentier has France sewed up so tight. He's been knocked out by Joe Jeannette an' Klaus an' Popke, too, an' yet he gets by anyhow. Imagine some 'Yank gettin' beat three times. No chance. Just one defeat sends him back to the plow.

Bean Brummel of the boulevard, he calls the president his pard an' rules society. He's shown three times that he can't box but he goes back an' gets the rocks—the coin, the of speech. I can't see how he pulls the trick but Georges manages to stick as France's greatest champ. If he was over here you bet, the only spotlight he'd get would be an' of barn lamp.

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Re-Toned.
When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night Something is Wrong in the Stomach.

A Prominent Publishing Man Says the Quickest Cure is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callender, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c per box, 5 for $1.00 or by mail from the Catarhophone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Lemonade.

It is a helpful, soothing drink, when flies are bad and days are hot; and whether it is white or pink, it always seems to hit the spot. I drink it with the lovely d a m e s where drugstore clerks take in the kale; I drink it in the baseball games, at home I sip it by the pail. Of all soft drinks it is the best, as every learned physician knows; it always soothes my savage breast, and gives my warlike soul repose. It takes the fungus from my tongue, and kills the toadstools in my throat; and I feel brave and gay and young, when all my innards are afloat; when they're afloat in lemonade, my head is clear, my nerve is strong; I face my duties unafraid, and put up bay the whole day long. And when the cool, gray morning breaks, I do not see, beside my bed, a bunch of hydra-headed snakes with pea-green antlers on each head. I rise refreshed, so full of vim, and of aggressive strength, so full, that when I've sung my morning hymn, I go-out doors and whip a bull.

From The North.

Several vessels from the northward, that have been detained by ice in the vicinity of Fogo, are expected to arrive during the next few days. They are all bound here for supplies for the fishery, which will be somewhat later than last year, because of the ice blockade. Two vessels, bound northward for the fishery passed Fogo yesterday, and it is expected that yesterday's off shore wind freed the coast from the ice that delayed the craft bound inward.

Supreme Court.

(Before Full Bench.) YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Job Bros. & Co., Ltd. et al. vs. John McMartin et al.—Further examination of John McMartin. He first heard of the $100,000 note in the spring of 1913. He had a wire from Job's telling about a note signed by him. He replied that he knew nothing about any note signed by him, nor was there any reason why they should have such a note. That message was the first intimation he had of the note. He received no notice of the dishonoring of the note from Bank of Montreal, or Notary of Bank. At that time he had an office in New York. From January 1st to 19th April, 1912, he had not been near his office. He was in hospital during that period and O'Brien and Harris were in charge of the office. Reid used to come in and out. He had left no instructions about sending his mail. His mail, as far as he knew, was held over till he got well. In December, 1913, he had a conference with Job regarding certain matters. Job wanted the note paid. Witness would not acknowledge note in any way, nor had he ever done so. He always repudiated the signature. He had often seen his brother Duncan's signature.

(Many cheques which bore the signature of John McMartin, were placed before him to be proven, and then handed into court. He was also asked to prove certain cheques drawn by Duncan McMartin.)

The Court adjourned at 5 p.m. The case comes up again on Saturday, when it is expected that expert evidence will be taken.

Good Work for Cleanliness.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—I consider that it is only just that credit should be given where credit is due, and especially to Council officials, who certainly come in for a fair share of censure. Any person passing through that section of the city known as the Higher Levels, cannot but notice the cleanliness of the drains and gullies, while it is very pleasing indeed to notice, also, the systematic manner in which ashes, etc., are removed. I take this opportunity of congratulating our new Inspector, Mr. Nicholas Murphy, and his efficient staff upon the good work done by them in this locality, and at the same time I assure him that we, the people of this section, will do our utmost to make their duties as pleasant as possible.

Yours truly, CLEANLINESS.

May 22, 1914.

Died at Boston

Undertaker A. Canell received a message informing him of the death of Mrs. Brewin, and to look after the remains which was being forwarded to St. John's for interment. The corpse left Boston yesterday morning and should arrive here Tuesday morning next. Deceased was a well known figure in St. John's East where she lived all her life. Only last summer she went to Boston. She was unwell all last winter and spent some time in hospital in which she expired two days ago. Deceased is survived by one son James, the well known seaman and life-saver, who is at present on the s.s. Bellaventure. There are no other relatives of the deceased in St. John's. To-day, through the kindness of Mr. Gerald Harvey, a wireless was sent to the Bellaventure by Undertaker Canell, acquainting Mr. Brewin of his mother's death. He will come on here by rail from Botwood.

Arrested for larceny.

Last evening Head Constable Pett arrested a man named Carew, charged with the larceny of a quantity of clothing. The accused was a companion of the one who stole the oil barrels from the Reid Company. Of late larceny is becoming epidemic in the city.

Heavy Ice.

A wireless was received last evening from the Donaldson Liner Marina which is now forcing her way through the ice to Botwood. At noon yesterday she was 27 miles east by south of the Funks, stopped in dense fog; heavy ice; all well.

Getting Rid of Tramps.

The police are now doing their utmost to rid the city of undesirable. Yesterday afternoon, a half dozen such characters, who had been before court in the forenoon and remanded, were taken to the Penitentiary where it is hoped that they will be given plenty of work to do.

FALSE ALARM.—Some alarmists who have a fondness for causing anxiety to other people, circulated this morning that a boy was drowned near Harvey's dock. The story was utterly untrue.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hessong Fuesle

A Dissertation on Married Life

Evenings, as they sat chatting by the fire, Marian loved to listen to the refreshing points of view of Ann, her hostess. As Ann's sentences flowed on, charged with the buoyancy of youth, ambition, courage, and self-reliance, the other would have given years of her life to be like her. She saw in Ann that superiority of womanhood which compelled admiration and provoked thoughts of her own inferiority by comparison. In the chambers of her heart, her own inferiority galled her. At times it bobbed unbidden to the surface.

"Ann, you're certainly a lucky creature," she said once. "I'd give anything if I could paint pictures the way you do, and get real money for them. How do you ever manage to do it?"

"I've worked. I've slaved over it, and wept over it, and stuck to it." "But you had the talent," put in Marian.

"We all have a talent for something." "Oh perhaps, but you had genius." "Genius," smiled Ann, "is nothing but the capacity, the energy, to develop a natural talent. I sometimes think that genius is just the ability to hit it out of being drudgery. Everywhere I see women just content to sit—content to let their talents rot."

"I guess I've been that way," mused Marian, yet without resentment against the other's remark. "All of us are that way until something makes us wake up," returned Ann. "My ideas may be new-fangled, but I don't take much stock in women merely keeping house and dilly-dallying with socky affairs. If they have children, of course, their first duty is to them. But what of the women whose children have grown up and gone their own ways? What is she to do if she hasn't any developed talent of her own to fall back upon in the emptier years? Yet such is woman's lot, and largely because the common run of men want it that way."

"It's exactly as they want it," agreed Marian. "I remember a dozen times that Frank threw a wet blanket over things I proposed to do, until I finally got so that I had no ambition to do anything. It was 'Don't do this!' and 'Don't do that!' Repression, repression, repression, all the time! It was doubly hard because of all the stunts I'd been engaged in at college. Frank's income wasn't big enough to let us have any fun to speak of. Why, we rarely went anywhere. If I got to the theatre once a month I was fortunate. The movies were our limit and I detest them. I dropped nearly every friend I had in town. Couldn't afford to run around with them. Frank insisted on my keeping a maid—it was one of his mother's pseudo-aristocratic notions—and I didn't even have a chance to vent my restlessness on pots and skillets. Really, there was nothing for me to do but sit and diddle my thumbs, and wait for my lord and master to come home from the office. If I had been terribly in love with him, I might have stood it. As it was, it's a wonder the big smash-up didn't come long ago. Forgive me, Ann; I didn't mean to get started on this strain. But it's such a relief to be able to blow off steam."

To-morrow—"The Divorced Tree."

Reckless Drivers.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—I notice in a couple of issues of your paper that some one is injured through a boy of sixteen not being allowed to deliver parcels with a horse. In his idea the law is wrong. The Inspector General must be put away, and we must get a sensible one—about fifteen years old—to guide us. I would ask the injured one what part of the street we may pass? Where are our crossings? Who have we to watch the horses or the sixteen-year-olds, or the fifty-year old driver? It was only to-day I saw a mere tot bring saved through God's mercy. A race was on on the higher levels by three coal teamsters, who I would take to be twenty. I will give the Inspector General the name on the carts and also the tots, but I cannot give the drivers. Come, Councilors, give the man or woman, young or old, the same privileges we get in larger cities. Let us cross the streets at the crossings without danger. Let a child of fourteen drive a horse. Put his employer out of business with a fine, if he hits an old man or woman, young man or girl. Safeguard the passer-by. Make the motorists go at a right speed. Make them turn the corners right and blow when doing so. Put them in the Pen if they go too fast. If the motor car be worth $4,000 and he does not do right, fine him when he is brought to court $500. Serve large and small alike, or let him go to the Lakeside for a year, and we won't have many to kick about injustice.

Yours truly, TRAVELLER.

St. John's, May 20th, 1914.

Try Again.

You have, it may be, used ointments, pastes, lotions for Eczema till you begin to get tired of trying things. Well, but you should remember that science is advancing all the time, and that what was not possible yesterday can be accomplished to-day. If you neglect to try Zylex—the newest and best thing that science has yet to offer for the relief and cure of Eczema and other annoying and disfiguring skin diseases—you are missing a great opportunity. It may be that it will cure you. It has cured some very bad cases. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Wild Animal Picture.

At The Nickel.

One of the most fascinating pictures ever seen at the Nickel Theatre will be presented to-day. It is entitled "Wamba, a child of the Jungle," a two reel story by the Selig Co. It contains many thrilling and sensational scenes. Baby Lillian makes a desperate headlong plunge to safety; Portuguese Pete is chased by wild beasts, and Baby Lillian is rescued from a terrible fate by Wamba.

The film is one which will appeal to every man, woman and child, and no one should miss it. There will also be a splendid drama picture and a comedy. Miss Gardiner and Mr. McCarthy who sang with such success last night will repeat their songs. Joseph F. Ross, the effect expert, will be present with new ideas, and Miss Kitty Ring will have the latest and best music. To-morrow there will be a special matinee for children. Look out for Monday's show—a strong Vitagraph drama in two reels: "The Vampire of the Desert" with the all star cast headed by Helen Gardner.

When Ursus Threw The Bull.

A marvellous burlesque in two reels is shown at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and to-morrow. "When Ursus Threw The Bull" a feature that cannot be surpassed; Al Christie in the leading role. "The Girl and the Bandit" is a Western drama with many thrilling situations. "The Little Drudge" is the second Essanay film this week and it is well up to the date mark. Sidney Earnshaw, the vocalist, won new laurels in Donald Brian's hit "I'm Looking for an Irish Husband," but he scored even greater success in the novelty song, "Everybody Loves a Chicken." The big Saturday matinee is on to-morrow when an extra picture will be exhibited. On Monday and Tuesday next the feature picture is "The Highwayman's Shoes," an Eclair two-reel special. Coming "Laska," adapted from the celebrated poem.

But once when I made her jealous for fun.

To a glorious girl on the Aalmo.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. 1017.U

Obituary.

THOMAS TIBBO.

It is with regret we record the sudden death of Mr. Thomas Tibbo, of Great Paradise, T. B., which occurred on the 3rd inst. The deceased had reached the age of 55, and the end came rather unexpectedly though for many years he had been suffering from heart failure. His only daughter, with whom he died, went into his room on that morning as usual to enquire how he was, was horrified to find that he had passed peacefully away during his sleep. Mr. Tibbo was born in Presque, and for many years lived in St. Pierre, having returned to Paradise about four years ago, because of the failing health of his wife, who predeceased him by a few months. To his daughter, Mrs. Martin Ryan, and his large circle of friends the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

The Cattle Trade.

Up to the present nothing has been heard of the sailing of cattle vessels from Prince Edward Island for here. The cattle trade usually begins towards the end of May, but the Gladys E. Whidden, which formerly came here to J. & W. Pitts, has recently been sold, and it is not yet known what vessel if any will take her place.

The Eleventh Annual Report of The Longshoremen's Protective Union.

Your officers in presenting the eleventh annual report of the Union avail themselves of the opportunity of congratulating the members upon the splendid record of the organization since its inception. Commencing with a membership of less than two hundred and fifty it has grown in numbers to upwards of two thousand six hundred. The benefits, which members individually and collectively have derived during the past eleven years, have been of incalculable benefit. During its career its relations with employers of labour have been of a most harmonious character, and the requests of the Union for better labor conditions, a greater share of the produce of the toil of its members have been met with a spirit of conciliation. It is with regret, however, that we have to record that this good understanding may not exist in the future. The recent request for an increased wage has been met with what may be termed studied insult on the part of employers, in refusing to even discuss the new wage schedule. Such conduct is not conducive to the peace and prosperity of all concerned; and this year, we are about to enter upon what may witness a struggle on the part of members to win through the aid of organized labour that which all men are entitled to, a living wage. We feel assured that the Union has no desire to enter the lists of industrial warfare; but, if the issue is forced upon them through the action of the Merchants' Protective Association, they will not shirk the fight. In order to be ready for the trial of strength it will be necessary for the Union to start the foundation of a strike fund; and this can be accomplished without in any manner crippling the resources of members, if the question be taken up speedily and thought out in an intelligent manner. It is useless for employers to think that they have heard the last of this matter; it cannot and must not rest where it is; the demands of the home must be supplied and this can only be done through each getting sufficient remuneration for his work. The Merchants' Protective Association seems neither to know nor care that of two thousand six hundred members on the roll upwards of two thousand of them do not earn $280.00 in a year because of low wages and enforced idleness during at least six months of it. The stability of the public, commercial and industrial institutions of every country lean for support principally upon the working classes; and if they are impoverished through lack of employment and low wages, poor indeed will that country be wherever such conditions exist, civilization instead of advancing will recede. Employers of labour should recognize that the advance of civilization means greater and more constant demands upon people of all classes. Every generation sees a new order of things in which there is more to have and to hold, more to do and to enjoy, more to see and to learn. Shall these things mean nothing to the worker? Shall he see the horizon of life widen, the advantages of life increase, the comforts of life multiply and he be divinely content with his wages—when these wages are insufficient to enable him to live the life of to-day? Certainly not. Unionism demands a living wage; that is to say enough money for wage earners to support their wives, their children, and themselves, in a manner becoming citizens.

A night school was opened during the winter months for children of members, which was well attended each night and splendid progress made. The members, we have no doubt, feel grateful to Messrs. Telegan, A. Brien, Fitzgibbon, Miller, Morris, Coady, James Murphy, Flynn, who gave their services free in teaching the youths. It is a lamentable fact that there are many boys growing into manhood devoid of education of any kind. The lesson taught by the opening of the night school is that very many of them are anxious to avail of institutions of the kind; and the avidity with which they pursued their studies, and the progress made by many of them, impel us to recommend its continuance at different times during the winter. The Hon. M. P. Gibbs addressed the scholars upon the necessity of making the best of the opportunity offered and impressed upon them that through education properly applied they may rise some day to be employers; the proud privileges of wealth are slowly vanishing because the son of the farmer, mechanic and labourer was demonstrating his superiority in the professional and industrial life of every land.

The battle for existence on the ice floes has draped Newfoundland in mourning for the loss of her bread winners who forfeited their lives in order that our industrial life may live and it is pleasing to note the practical sympathy shown from the farthest ends of the earth by the large fund subscribed to support of the widowed and the fatherless.

It affords your officers much pleasure to be in a position to state that conditions of the funds of the Union enables them to recommend an additional increase in the mortality benefits payable to representatives of deceased members and their wives.

It is with profound sorrow we have to record the death of forty three members and twenty members' wives. A sum of $3,080.00 was paid in mortality benefits.

The total receipts for the past year, from all sources were $8,671.20, and the expenses of all kinds including mortality benefits were $5,976.12 leaving a surplus of $2,695.08 which has been added to the reserve fund now on deposit in the Royal Bank of Canada which totals the sum of $12,677.58. The Union assets to-day are equal to $27,320.00. There are no undischargeable obligations of any kind.

It is with pleasure that your officers records the loyal co-operation of the members and take this opportunity of expressing their deep debt of obligation to the consistent friend and advocate of the workman, the Honourable M. P. Gibbs.

Respectfully submitted,
 JAMES McGRATH, President.
 FREEMAN MOORES, Fin. Sec.

Energetic Movement.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,—Allow me through your popular paper to congratulate the City's Committee in advance, on their energetic movement to continue the street cars over the rails laid to Cornwall Avenue. This is a good move. It will be a great benefit to those on the higher levels. They are also filling a long felt want in the matter of playgrounds. We hear the Parade Ground has been secured. It will benefit those on the higher levels the centre ward and the east and west end.

Yours truly,
 ADVANCE.

Fishery Report.

The following report of the fishery from Connoire Head to Red Island, has been received by the Board of Trade:—
 "Sixty dorics, skiffs and boats are fishing, but no bankers or schooners from the grounds have arrived. Prospects for the voyage are good there being a fine sign of codfish with herring plentiful for bait. Nothing has yet been done at the lobster fishery. The weather has been cold and foggy with changeable winds but when conditions permit, fishing on the off-grounds is fair. Skiffs with one dory, land from three to four quintals, the men using bultows getting from four to seven quintals per day. The catch of halibut during the week amounted to about 3,000 pounds."

Picked Up.

The accompanying message was received by Deputy Minister of Customs, last night, from the Sub-Collector at Rose Blanche:—

"Three whitecoat pelts picked up three miles from land, marked S, evidently from Southern Cross. No sign of wreckage."

It is apparent that these pelts must have drifted from the Gulf, and not loose long before the Cross passed Placentia Bay.
