JAMES LETT

One of the oldest and most popular residents of Brooke Township passed away on Monday, September 15th, in the person of Mr. James Lett in his 89th year.

Mr. Lett was born in Lanark Co., eastern Ontario, on December 26th, 1835, and as a lad of twelve came to Brooke township with his parents and settled on a homestead just north of the farm on which he spent the balance of his years. He was a quiet, genial disposition, a friend to everyone and a great lover of animals. In later years he has been keenly interested in the fur farm conducted by his sons, fame of which has spread far and wide as successful breeders of black fox, skunk, etc.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the family residence, Nauvo Road, Rev. S. J. Thompson of Watford Methodist church, officiating, assisted by Rev. J. L. Foster, pastor of Brooke Methodist circuit. The pallbearers were six grandsons—Robert and Howard Clark; Russell Acton, and Clayton, R. V. and Earl Davidson. Interment took place in the family cemetery, 9 sideroad, Brooke.

Three sons and three daughters survive—Hezekiah and John, at home, and Howard, at the adjoining farm; and Mrs. Jas. Acton and Mrs. E. Davidson on the Brooke-Warwick townline and Miss Sarah, at home.

12th Line West

Mr. Sydney Butler, of Kellogg, Idaho, and Mrs. William Tanner, of Craven, Sask., have returned to their homes after spending several weeks visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butler, who recently celebrated their golden wedding.

Wilbert Napper is busily engaged in threshing in this vicinity. Mr. Norman Roddick and bride have returned home after spending their honeymoon in Woodstock, Niagara Falls and other eastern points. Twelfth line friends extend congratulations and heaps of good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer O' Hara were hosts at a family dinner party on Tuesday evening in honor of members of the family who have been visiting from the West.

Be a booster for your home town. If you let people know of the great opportunities your town offers, they will "sit up and take notice," and finally see you are right. There is no town, however small, but has some advantages. Look at the natural advantages of your home town, think how they could be utilized successfully. When town looks good to a stranger you can rest assured that your boosting has been effectual.

"Woman Proof" featuring Thomas Meighan is a hilarious comedy of a young man who had all the beautiful women after him, but seemed woman-proof. Did he eventually fall? Come to the Lyceum next Thursday and see.

FORMER WATFORD DOCTOR, NOW NOTED SPECIALIST GIVES RADIO TALKS

The radio section of the New York Sun last Saturday contained the following announcement pertaining to Dr. J. A. McLeay, formerly of Watford:—

DOMINION ALLOY STEEL CORPORATION ANNOUNCES ERECTION OF STEEL MILL WILL COMMENCE THIS WEEK

Sarnia Shareholders Hear First Hand Report of Operations From President Boyd Who Expresses Optimism Over the Prospects of The Company—Gas Well Struck on Property is Increasing in Flow and Effecting Savings in Construction Work—All Expenditures Met and Paid Promptly and Cost of Construction is Below Estimates —Big Market Exits For The Company's Product.

(Reprinted from the Sarnia Canadian Observer of Thurs. Sept 4th, 1924.)

Sarnia shareholders of the Dominion Alloy Steel Company, several hundred strong, listened to an enlightening review of the affairs of the company and the steel business in Canada last night in the city hall when President W. B. Boyd, and St. Clair Couzens spoke regarding the plans and progress of the company's plant at the Indian reserve south of the city.

Mr. Couzens reviewed the birth and growth of the steel industry in America, its expansion in Canada and the need of even greater exploitation here. The steel plant here is, he declared, filling a long felt want in this country and he reminded the shareholders that the city of Sarnia as well as themselves would benefit thereby. He stated that people from sixty-five different cities in the United States had visited Sarnia to look over the plant during the past two weeks and went home well satisfied. Mr. Couzens was enthusiastic over the future of the plant and had some high words of praise for Mr. Boyd and the other officers connected with the company.

Mr. Boyd's Review.

W. B. Boyd, who has been active in the steel plant here, acted as chairman of the meeting and in his address to the stockholders said:

Your directors propose to submit to you at this meeting, a brief outline of the work accomplished to date and of the plans for the immediate future.

Mr. Ralph D. Nye, of Canton, Ohio, and engineer of experience and highly recommended, was engaged in the fall of 1923.

The company's property, as you know, comprises some two hundred and fifty acres south of Sarnia, with a frontage of over three thousand feet on the banks of the St. Clair River. As necessary first steps, this property was surveyed and its topography ascertained to secure its levels and elevations; test holes were put down at various points to ascertain the nature of the sub-soil and its fitness for foundations. After having made a thorough study of the ground, the river banks and the water facilities, Mr. Nye was instructed to draw up the plans for a complete steel mill and to submit cost estimates. Mr. Nye visited and studied various mills in United States, discussed features of construction and arrangement with highly competent steel men and then drew up and submitted plans for a steel plant looking not only to the present but to the best utilization of the property for future expansion and for cheapness of operation. These plans have been checked and rechecked by independent engineers and steel men and embody their suggestions and we believe take full advantage of the water facilities afforded by the property's location which will prove a great asset in the operation of the plant and permit of the most economical operation and of the most convenient expansion possible.

Sheet Mill Unit.
These plans map out the plant in units and it becomes necessary to decide at which end of the plant construction should be started, i.e., which unit should be first built. This matter was carefully considered from its various angles; two complete surveys were made of the Canadian trade to arrive at an accurate estimate of the consumption of the different kinds of steel in Canada; consultations were held with consulting engineers and others and it was decided to commence with the construction of the sheet mill unit. To understand this we might explain that the raw material requires the blast furnace to make pig iron, and then open hearth furnace and blooming mill to convert the pig iron into steel; along with the open hearth furnace there must be the electrical furnace to provide the high grade alloy and specialty steels, which the company proposes to produce. There are also the finishing units of the plant consisting of the bar mill and the sheet mill. The bar mill is supplied with ingots of steel from the blooming mill and the sheet mill is supplied with sheet bars from the bar mill. You are doubtless aware that there are blast furnaces and open hearth furnaces in Canada, and only one small sheet mill, equipped to handle only common black sheets. The market for sheets is comparatively steady, the importation of sheets into Canada running into hundreds of thousands of tons per year, and the sources of supply for the raw material are numerous. These bars for sheets can be brought into Sarnia from Buffalo, Cleveland, Algoma and Chicago by water, which means the cutting in two of the freight rates. These advantages with many others led to the conclusion that the first unit to be constructed should be the sheet mill and the second unit the bar mill. Our investigations establish that the sheet mill unit will be a paying proposition and the source of its raw material has been kept in mind.

First Sod Turned

About March 22, first sod was turned, but unfortunately, the spring this year was late and very wet, and the property had to be drained before work could proceed. Your directors decided to make a permanent job of this drainage and have constructed a thirty inch sewer from one end of the plant to the other. This work completely drained the property and should stand the company in good stead. Next an eight inch water main was put in which will likewise serve the entire plant. The Pere Marquette Railway Co., have constructed a siding which will eventually be extended to the water front.

The next work was the locating on the ground of the sheet mill, warehouse building, furnace building, raw material building and shearing building. The mill proper will be 506 feet long by 75 feet wide; then followed the excavation necessary for the foundations of these buildings, the putting in of the foundations for the machinery and the construction of over one hundred piers on which the structural steel for the above building will be erected, practically all of which has been completed.

About the end of July the structural steel work was let to the Sarnia Bridge Company, and I am glad to announce that the erection of the steel will commence the latter part of the week; you will be pleased to know that the drop in steel prices has saved the company over twenty thousand dollars in the costs of its structural steel alone. You will also be pleased to know that every expenditure has been met and paid promptly as it fell due, and that the company is in a position to discharge all obligations undertaken.

Struck Gas.

A gas well was struck at a depth of 130 feet when drilling for drinking water. The company obtained an experienced man to test this well and after showing it to flow more than a week a test showed that this well was producing between five and six hundred thousand cubic feet per day with a pressure of between five and six pounds. The well has been capped and the gas used to drive the engines in the concrete mixers used in the plant, and our engineer advises us that this gas is saving your company at least thirty dollars per day. We are pleased to report that the gas, instead of falling off, has shown a tendency to increase, and that it now has a pressure of over 19 pounds instead of the 5 or 6 pounds it possessed on the first test. The directors have decided to drill a few wells to a greater depth. Investigations show the tremendous savings which may be effected by the use of gas either in generating power or supplying heat for the furnaces.

Financing

With regard to the financing of the company, you are doubtless aware that the Michigan Securities Commission, after a thorough investigation of the company, granted it a permit to sell stock in Michigan. The sale of stock in that state is in charge of Mr. St. Clair Couzens, president of the Investment Savings Corporation who has handled the sale of stock in Michigan in a manner which we believe has been entirely satisfactory to the Michigan Securities Commission. Mr. Couzens is now taking charge of the company's stock selling in Sarnia City, Lambton county and various other sections of Ontario. The company has also submitted its affairs to the investigation of the Security Commission in certain other states, namely, Colorado, Wisconsin and Kentucky, and permission to sell stock has been granted to it in the state of Colorado and its application is pending in Wisconsin and Kentucky. Mr. Howard who till recently had charge of stock sales in Sarnia and Lambton County, will in addition to certain counties in Ontario, hereafter keep in touch with the sale of stock in the States above mentioned. We are glad that Mr. Couzens is here this evening and he will say a few words as to the outlook for the sale of stock. Tenders have already been called for the masonry, roofing and sides of the buildings which work will be done as soon as the structural steel is erected and then will follow the installation of the machinery. All work done up to date has shown a saving and a cost below our estimates and we have reason to believe that the company will be able to show further savings in the construction of its plant.

Alloy Steel Park

Before closing, let me refer to a subdivision called Alloy Steel Park, which has been recently put in the market. The company, nor any of its directors or officers are in any way connected or interested in this subdivision; and the use of the company's name and of the names of its directors in the advertising matter used in the sale of this subdivision has been referred to our solicitors for immediate attention. Your directors are endeavoring to carry on the work of the company in a sane and substantial manner having in view the construction of a plant which can be economically operated to supply a market which undoubtedly exists and therefore ask for the whole hearted support of every shareholder and subscriber. —(adv.)

The Old Fall Fair

The big fall fairs have had their fling, more gorgeous than a red necktie, with whoppin' cows of pedigree, with strings of prizes two feet high. And now we come into the spot more sweetened than June day air, the time when bills tell us the dates of each succeedin' country fair.

Ah well I mind when once I dwelt near Hank and not so far from Joe, how when the country fair came round we'd squint along the squash we'd grow, and feed one likely-lookin' chap until he was a monstrous thing—he'd go with turnips, spuds and corn, a-headin' up our fall fair string.

While Hank's folks was a different sort, his missus handy with the thread, she worked a dog upon a mat with pinkish tail and yellow head. And she'd have socks, and quilts and shirts, and neckties worked in red and blue, so many duds we reckoned Hank would go to bed till fairs was through.

But Joe he prided on his horse, and every fall fair never fail, why Joe would trot along his nag, the ribbons braided in its tail.

It seems to me as I look back at when we had the old fall fair, that me and Hank and likewise Joe knew every soul that come out there.

And it was pleasant for to stop and chat with women folks and men, and joke about a-seein' Ed. a-drivin' down concession ten.

They didn't have no circus then whene'er they held a country fair, no barkin', 'bout the divin' girls, no hot dogs smellin' up the air.

The whole place had three buildin's on, a ticket office at the gate, a grandstand with no cover on, the crystal palace, hall of state. Why them what took their chickens in they stacked the boxes in a row, the way they told the hens from geese was when the rooster starts to crow. Of course it wasn't up to-date like what they have in fairs today, but we could show just how hogs fared on corn cobs, swill and cans of whey. Yes, let us keep the old fall fair, more wholesome than boiled artichokes, where walks the fatted calf about, where folks talk to the other folks.—ARK in London Advertiser.

LAMBTON TAKES PRIDE IN BEEF CATTLE HERDS

Farmers in District Around Wyoming, Arkona and Forest Depend Largely On Splendid Herds For Returns, and So Grazing Lands Have Important Place in Mixed Farming Area

FAIR APPLE CROP IN VICINITY OF FOREST

THE LONDON ADVERTISER CROP SURVEY—DISTRICT SEVEN
This is the seventh of ten daily articles surveying farming methods and crop conditions in southwestern Ontario. The survey was made for The London Advertiser by C. G. Higman, who has had O. A. C. training as well as thorough practical experience.

District seven takes in a portion of Lambton County, where beef cattle raising is the outstanding feature of mixed farming.

District seven of The Advertiser crop survey includes the important sections over a considerable stretch of fertile land in the southwestern portion of Western Ontario bordering the lower portion of Lake Huron and including the towns of Wyoming, Petrolia, Sarnia, Forest and Arkona. This country is for the most part given over to mixed farming, with beef cattle as the largest single item, taking the district as a whole. There are exceptions to this, of course, dairying being more in vogue in the immediate vicinity of Sarnia.

The district surrounding Forest is a well-known apple-growing district and, although the crop there is not a bumper one, it exceeds anything visited so far in the survey of the crops of this portion of the province.

The district was entered from the Sarnia gravel road and commences at Wisbeach, halfway between Poplar Hill and Wyoming. At this point district seven is distinctly a stock-raising country, the acreage set out to small grains being comparatively small, while the extent of the pastures and grass land stands in greater proportions than in any of the other districts visited to date.

The soil is a rich clay loam running almost to straight clay in spots, and there is on this account little diversity in the methods of farming. Wheat and oats are the staple crops, and in many instances only sufficient oats are grown to carry the necessary horses and chickens on the farm. Potatoes and garden stuff are grown only for the farm homes, and the efforts of the farmers are concentrated in producing beef, cattle, sheep and some hogs.

The harvest this year is stated in this section to exceed anything of recent years and corn, with few exceptions, is an excellent crop.

Many of the farmers in the country lying between Wisbeach and Wyoming have adopted the practice of sowing a small proportion of sunflowers with the corn, and state that it improves the silage, the chief benefit being found in an increased proportion of leaf to stalks.

Splendid Crops
John Watson, a farmer living near Wisbeach, and on whose farm splendid crops were noticed, was pulling wild carrot from the roadside in front of his property when interviewed by The Advertiser. Mr. Watson stated that in that district this weed is becoming more troublesome than in the past, and he feels that some united effort on the part of the farmers should be put forward. He said: "It is almost useless for one man to try to cope with the weeds unless his neighbors are equally interested in keeping them down. In this district the wild carrot has gone almost beyond control."

Mr. Watson stated that oats will run almost 50 bushels to the acre and wheat around 35 as an acreage for the district.

In the neighborhood of Warwick and from thence to Wyoming, the crops continue to be well above average. The farming nearer Wyoming is slightly more intensive, although cattle-raising is still the outstanding industry. At this point on the trip an improvement was noticed in the apple crop, although here, as elsewhere, some orchards are practically devoid of fruit.

In the Wyoming section, and south to Petrolia, the clover crop is good and the second cutting should be a profitable one, provided that weather conditions will allow of the harvesting of this crop.

Before reaching Wyoming, excellent crops of corn and splendid fields of clover were seen on the farms of D. Conklin, C. Hodgins, and Henry Kerton.

Before leaving the Wyoming district, it may be of interest to note that in searching for additional branches of revenue the farmers have become restaurateurs, and the roadside there bristles with signs inviting the tourists to abandon his reckless career and rest, dine, or overhaul his car. The selling of cut flowers is also a new sideline in that section, and some of the farmers' wives are making this a source of extra pin money.

Throughout the whole of district seven a considerable acreage of mangolds has been set out, and at the present time this crop promises a fairly heavy yield, although not so good as the Kent and Essex crops.

Silver Fox Farm.
At Wyoming the chance to visit a silver fox farm presented itself and a surprise occurred when, in inspecting the plant of Sam Lucas, not only a fox farm was seen, but a regular zoo was discovered which in some respects outshines the London municipal zoo at Springbank. Here The Advertiser representative saw pheasants, skunks reared in captivity, alligators, and a monkey-faced owl, considered by naturalists as a very rare bird. A large eagle, which was captured on Mr. Lucas' farm in 1912, is quite evidently lord of the birds on that ranch.

From Wyoming to Petrolia, the land is scarcely as good as that seen along the Sarnia road, although some of the lighter land is being profitably cultivated in small truck.

In the oil district surrounding Petrolia some excellent black muck can be seen, and in visiting this section one wonders why the cultivation of celery has not become more extensive, the soil in places rivaling the best found in the celery district near Theford.

On all of the farms for miles around Petrolia can be seen oil derricks and pumps, and as most of the farmers in the district draw a revenue from the oil as well as from their farming, the district is a prosperous one. The fact that many of the farmers are employed in the oil industry may have some bearing on the lack of diversity in the farming scheme of the district.

Wheat and oats are the principle grain crops of this district, and the harvest has been an abundant one. The oats for the most part have been taken from the field, although in some instances the wet weather has prevented this.

Particularly good crops of oats have been harvested on the farms of H. Huckle, J. McPherson and E. Tolbridge.

In passing from Petrolia to Sarnia, an increase in the number of dairy cattle is evident, and the herds found in the Sarnia district include some fine Holsteins. Elsewhere in district seven the cattle are for the most part beef types, and Herefords and Shorthorns are about equally divided in popularity.

In the immediate vicinity of Sarnia both on the Florence Toll road and along the London road, one sees splendid market, and raspberries and strawberries for local use and for shipment form the staple crops of the small holders in this section.

Goodison Farm.
Leaving Sarnia on the London road and before striking off on the Forest and Goodrich diversion one passes the Goodison Farm. This is a model farm in the strictest sense of the word, and the abundant crops and orderly appearances of the buildings and equipment speak volumes for the management of this estate.

Among the market gardens seen in this section those of W. H. Blunden, J. T. Parr, F. W. Egan, and J. Joynt looked particularly fine, the abundant moisture of the past few weeks adding greatly to the thriving appearance of the small fruit plantations and also to the cabbage and cauliflower crops, which are rapidly attaining perfection.

In passing from the Sarnia Gravel road in the direction of Camlachie and Forest, the country changes once more into a grazing district, with large pasture fields, alternating with extensive orchards and occasional fields of roots.

Throughout this section, which lies close to Lake Huron, one seems to have entered another province. Glimpses of the blue waters of the lake and the natural beauty of a countryside, which is broken by hill and dale, relieves the monotony of highway travel, which although affording excellent travel, tends to be somewhat irksome from the straight severity of the roads, which extend for miles without break or curve.

Fine Herds.
In the district surrounding Camlachie, fine herds of cattle are the rule, and the stock seems to be fairly well bred and culled. The orchards

DISTRICT EIGHT.

District eight takes in the Glencoe-Watford area, where beef cattle, brings wealth to the farmer.

The eighth district of The London Advertiser crop survey comprises that country extending in a broad belt from Wood Green, on the Longwoods road, to the shore of Lake Huron. In this district, which is well known as a grazing country, are situated the towns of Glencoe, Alvinston, Watford, Ailsa Craig and Parkhill.

In travelling this section of Western Ontario, one is impressed with the fact that although extensive cattle-raising is usually associated with cheap lands and natural meadows which could not be put under intensive cultivation, in this section the reverse is the case, for here one finds cattle-raising, and not dairying, the backbone of the farm livelihood. The soil for the most part is a clay loam, which small sections of the country varies from medium loam to really stiff clay.

With the exception of the land just west and north of Watford, the country presents a rolling appearance, broken in places by hill land, and interspersed with streams and brooks. It is a pleasant country, and the fine homes and well-kept appearance of the countryside tell a tale of steady prosperity and contented homes.

Busy Harvesting.
The district was entered from Wood Green and the route followed touched the district towns and villages from that point to Parkhill. On approaching Glencoe, one sees a picture of busy harvesting. In most cases the grain has been brought in from the fields, and the threshers are working at high pressure to wind up the oat threshing before silo filling claims their attention.

From the Longwoods road to Glencoe, fine crops of all sorts were noticed on the farms of D. Machlin, J. C. Machlin and M. C. McNeil. A good crop of apples, a real variety this fall, was noticed on the farm of Thomas Thorne.

Along this portion of this route, excellent crops of sugar beets and mangolds could be seen, and the clover for the most part is excellent. The corn crop is varied in character, some fields showing a heavy stand of well-grown corn, while other fields quite close by carried little more than half a crop.

Throughout the whole of section eight, the preparation of the fall wheat land is engaging the attention of all the farmers who are not working with the threshing gangs.

Oat Crop Good.
The oat crop between Glencoe and Alvinston is particularly good, and while there are a few yields which are only average, most of the farms will turn out over 40 bushels to the acre, and others will reach 50 bushels. Fall wheat is also good and has outstripped early predictions, some farmers reporting yields in the neighborhood of 40 bushels. All small grains are an excellent sample, though some of the farmers who have been forced by the weather to thresh have misgivings as to the keeping and storing quality of the grain, which, they state, holds an excessive amount of moisture.

In turning towards Alvinston, one enters a more rugged country, the land to the east of the village and near the village itself being much cut up into deep gullies and ravines. At this point some excellent natural meadows can be seen, although the land for the most part is good arable soil, and a goodly proportion is kept under the plow.

Heavy Clover Yield.
The clover near Alvinston is exceptionally good, and in one field which was being cut the owner here, too, are large ones, and the farmers operating them are evidently progressive, spraying being the rule and untidy or neglected orchards the exception.

The small grain crops hereabouts are threshing out well up to the standard of the balance of the district, and the straw is exceptionally long.

The apple crop in this district, as stated before, is a very fair one, although some of the winter varieties are extremely light. Most of the growers of the district from Camlachie to Forest are optimistic over the apple situation, in so far as it concerns them, feeling, no doubt that even with a short crop, their returns are likely to be very satisfactory on account of the scarcity of apples throughout the whole province.

stated that he thought this second cutting would yield two tons or better per acre. Sheep-raising is this section is an important factor in the farming scheme, and some fine flocks of Border Leicesters were seen. The pastures are in good shape and the cattle and stock generally is looking very sleek.

Large straw stacks and a heavy stubble gave evidence of a heavy crop on the farms of D. B. Ferguson and Donald McArthur, and in fact on all of the land in the Alvinston area. This country is stocked with very good farm horses, the Clyde type leading in popularity, and poor horses are a sight seldom seen.

In leaving Alvinston the farms of Colin Walker and A. C. Walker were seen, and on the latter a splendid apiary was noticed. A fine crop of beans, which are nearing maturity, was seen in passing the farm of W. R. Dolbear, and were the first noticed after leaving the Longwoods road.

Apples Light This Year
The apple crop throughout the whole of this section is very light, while in the lake shore district to the north of Parkhill some varieties are a very fine crop.

In leaving Alvinston and approaching Watford the country flattens out somewhat and larger acreages of grain and corn are noticed. Here the corn crop appears to be pretty well up to the average, and in some instances the yield of strictly silage kinds will be quite heavy.

In the Watford district the crops are as good as those seen anywhere, with the exception of Kent and Essex counties, and the farmers throughout the district state that small grains are a bumper crop.

Near Watford some fine flocks of turkeys were noticed, one flock in particular running nearly fifty birds. This stands out in marked contrast to the other districts visited, where turkeys were few and far between. The flock on the farm of James Lett was one of the best and biggest seen.

From Watford the route was abandoned for time in order to allow a short run toward Strathroy and Adelaide.

Grass and Pasture.
Leaving Watford and travelling due east, one crosses a level country in which much of the land is given over to grass and pasture. The farms in this district are for the most part large ones, and the cultivated land balances the large tracts of hay and grazing land.

Cattle rising, from a beef standpoint, is the big item in most of the farms there, and some splendid beef cattle were seen, these giving place to a few scattered dairy herds in the Strathroy and Adelaide district. The crops still standing and in process of being threshed on the farms of J. E. Collier, Jas. Wynn, John Stirling and L. C. Reycraft give a prosperous appearance to the land adjoining the route followed.

Sheep are plentiful in this section and those seen grazing on the farm of T. H. Fuller gave evidence of the good grazing that has been their lot during this season.

Exceptionally Good Roads
A striking feature of this particular trip was the splendid condition of most of the sideroads and concessions which were followed through district eight. The roads are for the most part narrow ones, but the condition of the surface affords excellent travelling, which stands out in contrast to the rough pitted surface found on the much used highways and truck roads, where it is next to impossible to keep the surface in a satisfactory state.

Parkhill District Visited
The next section visited was that country surrounding Parkhill. From Strathroy to Parkhill, the country varies little. The soil is very similar to that seen along the earlier part of the route and with few exceptions the crops are identical with those grown in the Glencoe and Alvinston districts. As one travels farther north in district eight, a difference in the maturity of the crops and the difference in the time of harvest can be noticed quite distinctly.

In the Glencoe section the harvest is well advanced, and in many instances threshing is all but completed. As one nears Parkhill, the crops which are still standing, such as buckwheat, corn and beans, growth is not completed.

Another difference which can be noticed is that, while Glencoe and Alvinston little damage has been felt from frost, some of the corn fields in the neighborhood of Parkhill have been nipped rather severely.

In the Parkhill district cattle are the outstanding feature, and in the country lying between Parkhill and Ailsa Craig, some splendid herds of beef type Shorthorns and also some Herefords were passed.

Heavy Grain Yield.
The grain harvest here, although not so far advanced as farther to the south, is resulting in heavy yields, the crops turning out from forty to fifty bushels of oats, with fall wheat averaging close also to thirty-five bushels. Corn also is fairly good, though some fields, as stated before, show evidence of having been touched with frost.

From Parkhill the return journey was made through the well-known stock country around Ailsa Craig. This part of the countryside was viewed with particular interest on account of the fame which Ailsa Craig has attained in becoming one of the largest cattle shipping centers in the whole Dominion.

Little difference was noticed in the manner of farming to other points touched in district eight, unless that a more distinctly beef type of cattle is raised, while elsewhere the cattle range from beef type to the dual-purpose Shorthorn, from which an income along dairy lines could be expected.

All's a Craig Contented.
The crops in the Ailsa Craig district are splendid, and the farmers feel well content with the harvest, albeit there is a tendency to cuss the rains, which while well enough in the growing season, are playing havoc with the oat harvest and the farmers' patience.

The crops seen on the farms of Robert Armstrong, George Johnston and others in this section were particularly good, and the corn on most farms is above an average yield.

The poultry department on most of the farms in district eight is evidently a profitable branch of farming, for, while commercial poultry farms are conspicuous by their absence, nearly all of the farms seen boasted large flocks of chickens, with the Barred Rock leading in numbers and White Leghorns a close second.

District eight was left at Lucan crossing, and the return journey made through Ilderton.

Alexander Tait, one of the oldest and most respected residents of Wanstead vicinity died suddenly at his home at Wanstead on Thursday morning. Mr. Tait, who was over 80 years of age, had been a very active man, had lived here since childhood and succeeded in bringing his two farms into a fine state of cultivation from virgin forest. In his younger days Mr. Tait was a very extensive buyer and shipper of cattle to the leading cities of the east. Of late years he has been noted as the largest grower of sugar beets and other hoe crops in the county. Mr. Tait's wife and daughter pre-deceased him six years ago. He is survived by four sons, John at Rolo, Sask., Edward, Niagara Falls, Herbert of London, Victor on the farm adjoining the homestead. Two daughters reside in the west. The funeral was held Saturday from the home of his son, Victor and was very largely attended. The Rev. Mr. Petter of Wyoming has the service at the house and at Wyoming cemetery. STRATHROY RACES PROVIDE THRILLS

Several Mishaps Feature Last Day of Excellent Fair.

Strathroy, Sept. 17.—Strathroy fair closed this evening with all records shattered. The attendance today was well over 4,000. President E. Degex of Metcalfe is still a patient at Strathroy Hospital, not recovered from his accident of some weeks ago. The duties of leadership have thus been cast upon the other directors and especially upon the vice-president, William Gallagher, and the secretary, D. J. Donaldson.

Interest today centered in the entertainment features, rather than the judging of exhibits. The races were especially good, four heats in each being required to declare Tony Mack, the winner of the 2:16 pace, and Lady G., the winner of the greer race.

The day's sport was unfortunately marred by accidents. In the first heat of the green race, Lou driven by J. Lucas of Metcalfe, fell on the back stretch, throwing her driver. J. MacDonald of Christina was right behind with Harry Pointer, and he also went down, and Mr. MacDonald was thrown half way across the track. Neither horse was injured, nor Mr. Lucas, but Mr. MacDonald was so shaken and bruised that he could not continue the driving, but from a seat on the judge's stand saw his two horses win second and third money in the green race.

Sulky Upset.

Another mishap occurred in the third heat of the 2:16 class. Hal Unko had taken two heats by a narrow margin from Tony Mack, and in the third heat Tony Mack obtained the lead. At the last quarter Hal Unko was taken outside to pass the gray horse, but the sulky turned over throwing the driver, Berger, and putting him out of the heat. The sulky was badly wrecked, but although the driver was able to continue the race, the Unko horse had to yield to the gray from Forest.

In the first heat of this race, Tony Mack, in the lead at the stretch, almost became involved in another accident when a newspaper blew across the track and got tangled in the horse's feet. The horse kept his footing, but lost the heat.

In the green race, Star Paldun, an entry of Sinker Bros. of Denfield, was utterly unmanageable, and nearly wrecked the race several times, before he was drawn in the third heat. He caused a lot of scoring, demanding a heap of patience on the part of Starter Barrett, but provided considerable entertainment for the crowd.

At 3:30 p. m. the grand march past of all prize-winning stock took place in front of the stand, and made a really imposing spectacle. Many comments were heard as the noble, beautifully groomed and finished animals went past, led or driven by their proud owners.

Soldiers' Exhibit.

The exhibit of the work of the returned soldier patients at Westminster Hospital, in charge of Nursing Sister Farncomb, assisted by Miss Winnifred McGee, did a thriving business. Tonight there was little of the big stock on display to return to London, and many orders were taken for future delivery. Without exception all exhibitors report as having done a good business during the two days, especially the out-of-town firms.

CarriageHorses

In the first class single carriage horses the prizes were: First, M. McAlpine, of Glencoe; second, Earl Wilson, of Parkhill; and third, J. A. Hill, of Caradoc. Prizes for the best carriage team were awarded to M. A. McAlpine, of Glencoe, and D. Dimon of Strathroy.

There were three entries in the single roadster class and the prizes were taken by A. D. Leitch, of Caradoc, first; M. Runalls of Mount Brydges, second; and P. K. McCrae, of Glencoe, third. Double roadster awards were as follows: First, M. Pierce; second, J. Robson, of Komoka, and third, J. McFarlane of Ailsa Craig.

Lady Drivers

Keen competition was shown by the ladies in the event for the best lady driver and it was evident that not all of the female sex had forgotten how to drive a "high stepper". The awards were: first, Mrs. M. B. McLeod, of West Lorne; second, Miss Marion Campbell, and third, Mrs. M. A. McAlpine of Glencoe.

Cattle

Cattle exhibits were good. In the Shorthorn class the prize for the best yearling bull went to W. E. Parker & Sons of Watford; best cow W. E. Parker, who also won the yearling and heifer calf awards. Hereford prizes were as follows: Three-year-old bull, W. McIntyre, Kerwood; two-year-old bull, W. C. Pearson, who also won the prize for the best bull calf. The award for the best cow, yearling heifer, calf and herd was won by W. McIntyre and W. C. Pierson won the heifer class. Aberdeen Angus prizes were all taken by A. E. Edwards & Sons of Watford. The Holstein class was the best of the cattle. Two-year-old bull, Alex Anderson, Strathroy; bull calf, C. O. Pierson, Strathroy; cow, Bryant & Sloane, Strathroy. Mr. Anderson won the awards for the best two-year-old heifer, best yearling, best calf and herd. All of the Jersey awards were taken by James Butler, of Strathroy.

In all, the entries were the best that have been known by the management for some time. WORKING GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Read How She Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Arnprior, Ontario.—"I must write and tell you my experience with your medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so run-down that I used to take weak spells and would be at home at least one day each week. I was treated by the doctors for anemia, but it didn't seem to do me any good. I was told to take a rest, but was unable to, and kept on getting worse. I was troubled mostly with my periods. I would sometimes pass three months, and when it came it would last around two weeks, and I would have such pains at times in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age and weigh 118 pounds now, and before taking the Vegetable Compound I was only 108 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle of it I felt a change. My mother has been taking it for a different ailment and has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the medicine and to answer letters asking about it."—Miss HAZEL BERNOT, Box 700, Arnprior, Ontario.

A day out each week shows in the pay envelope. If you are troubled with your weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, pains and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

Salem Church Celebrates Diamond Jubilee

One of the old pioneer churches of Western Ontario, Salem Methodist Church, on the twelfth concession of the Township of Brooke, celebrated its diamond jubilee anniversary recently. It has an interesting history and a fine record of useful service extending over 60 years. The following historical information has been gleaned by the pastor, Rev. J. L. Foster, out of the memories of the older residents of the community:

Away back in the year 1860 a Methodist preacher, Rev. Mr. Deacon, came into that section of Brooke Township and commenced church work by holding cottage prayer meetings and regular preaching services in the homes of the people. After persevering work the preacher succeeded in gathering together a fair-sized congregation, so the next problem he had to face was that of finding a suitable place in which to hold the church services. On the corner of the twelfth concession and the twenty-seventh sideroad stood an old, dilapidated building, the use of which was secured for the church. Considerable repair work was necessary ere services could be held, and this was done by the men of the congregation, and the old building duly commissioned for service as the first home—albeit a temporary one, of Salem Methodist Church.

However, the building was at best a makeshift and not very suitable to the needs of the little church, so pastor and people began casting about to secure a real church building. In 1862 a very desirable plot of land on the opposite corner of the twelfth concession and the twenty-seventh sideroad was deeded to the congregation by William and Jane Watson, grandparents of Peter and Harry Watson, of the twelfth concession, who are still connected with the church's life. The present church building stands on the property donated by Mr. and Mrs. Watson.

Prior to the commencement of church work by Rev. Mr. Deacon the community had a rather unsavory reputation, that of drunkenness, much whiskey drinking going on in that section of the countryside, and the presence and work of the church was largely instrumental in changing this condition of affairs and of uplifting the whole moral tone of the community life.

The first church building erected was a log building, which was erected in the year 1862. The seats in the log church were just rough hewed logs of basswood, without any back rests of any kind, but the little congregation was quite happy and content, rejoicing in the fact that they had a suitable church home of their very own. A large box stove was installed in this quaint old building, which must have been of exceptionally good material and workmanship, for it has succeeded in weathering the storms of time, and, by its genial radiance, has generously warmed each succeeding generation of worshippers even down to the present day, for the old box stove is still occupying a position of honor in the present building.

Rev. Mr. Deacon was succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Lawrence, who was largely instrumental in building up the congregation.

In the year 1880 the present frame building was erected by the side of the old log church, under the superintendency of Rev. Mr. Parker, who was then pastor. When the first consignment of lumber for the new church arrived, having been teamed from Alvinston, the pastor, after careful examination, discovered it to be of inferior quality to that which the specifications called for, so he refused to allow the contractor to proceed with the building until the lumber had been returned to Alvinston and the superior quality lumber secured in its place. The preacher had the courage of his convictions that nothing was too good for God or for the house of prayer. When the building was practically erected an exceptionally strong west wind almost wrecked the new church and had it not been for the protection afforded by the old log building would have been completely levelled to the ground by the terrible windstorm.

Rev. Mr. Nethercott, a superannuated minister, still living, is remembered as one of the early pastors of the church.

Among the more recent pastors who have served Salem church are the following well known men:

Rev. Walter E. Millson, of London, field secretary of evangelism and social service for the Methodist church in Canada and president of the London Methodist Conference for 1923, who began his ministerial career as pastor of Salem church.

Rev. Dr. R. W. Knowles, of St. Marys, formerly of Petrolia, began his Canadian ministry as pastor of Salem church, having just come straight from Old Ireland to accept the pastorate, Rev. Mr. McVittie, superintendent of Muncey Institute, supplying the pastorate for several months until the arrival of Mr. Knowles.

Other recent pastors include: Rev. H. E. Currie, of Greenfield Park, Montreal conference; Rev. S. V. R. Pentland, of Cairgorm circuit; Rev. J. A. Snell, of Dutton, now superannuated; Rev. S. J. T. Fortner, of Minnesing, Toronto conference; Rev. T. A. Steadman, of Westminster circuit, and the present pastor, Rev. J. L. Foster.

Among the early trustees were Robert Edgar and James Watson, now long deceased, and Francis G. Powell, who passed away in the spring of this year, and who is lovingly remembered for his long years of faithful service. John Hair, who was another of the early trustees who served in the old log church, is still living and takes a very active interest in the church and its work. David Watson was one of the first stewards of the church, and another of the early stewards was A. E. Clothier, father of Mrs. Gilbert Woods.

The present stewards of Salem church are: James Hair and Gilbert Woods, and Sherman Hair is secretary-treasurer of the trustee board. Mrs. Fred Atchison is organist and choir leader. The officials of the Sunday school are: Superintendent, James Hair; secretary-treasurer, Miss Rebecca Hair; teachers, Mrs. Peter Watson, Mrs. Gilbert Woods, Mrs. James Hair and Norval Woods. The officials of the Ladies' Aid Society are: President, Mrs. Gilbert Woods; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Sherman Hair.

Although but a church at the country crossroads, without opportunities for growth which city congregations enjoy, Salem Methodist Church has accomplished good and faithful service in the work of the kingdom of God throughout the 60 years of the church's life and is still doing good work to-day.

An Oil of Merit.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Blind Men's Buff

By KETURAH VAN TYLE

"Seats, please."
Mechanically the little usher held her hand for the performance of her duty, which happened to be the safe piloting of its patrons down the aisles of the dimly lighted concert hall. Night after night she parroted the same request, and night after night the bits of pasteboard were entrusted to her keeping, while the owners followed her flashlight until they were safely located.

Nothing unusual ever happened to Elise. Jenny Sykes, the girl on aisle four, had once received a box of candy, and Mabel Mertz had been asked out to lunch, but Elise had moved along with no exciting experiences whatever to her credit. However, she was happy and contented, for wasn't she adding every week to the little hoard which was to pay for making her a great singer? And wasn't she hearing the very best music, which she could not afford to hear in any other way?

Imagine then her sensation when the young man whom she addressed not only placed his seat coupon in her upturned palm but his own hand as well. Her first emotion was one of thorough indignation, but that gave way almost at once to surprise as she thought she saw him sway a bit, catching at the back of a seat, and the next instant came remorseful pity.

"Why, the poor chap must be blind!" she told herself. Whispering to him, without further hesitation, "Don't be afraid—I'll guide you." She clasped firmly the hand which lay in hers and led him to his seat.

The next night he stopped inside the dark hall to speak cheerily to her. When it was time Elise again took his hand without waiting for further suggestion and led him to his seat. For weeks he came, hearing the same programs over and over until Elise decided he must be a student like herself. She always waited to lead him to his seat, and each time he thanked her gravely for it.

He often came early enough for a whispered chat, and during one of these obtained her name and address, under pretext of wanting to send her some helpful musical reviews. Ordinarily Elise would have questioned the propriety of allowing a strange man to send her even so small a gift as well-thumbed reference books, but there was something about the blind man's boyish frankness which disarmed his motives of the ulterior completely. When the package came it contained a note which read:

"My dear Miss Winthrop: Being interested in people who have an ambition to climb, especially along your particular line, I'm going to beg permission to hear you sing. As you've probably guessed, I, too, am musical and think we may prove mutually helpful. Sincerely,
"GREGORY BALDWIN."

That night when the little usher led Gregory Baldwin to his seat she whispered to him, "There's no concert Saturday night, so mother says I may ask you to call"; and when Saturday evening came Elise found herself strangely a-flutter with expectation. She was watching at the window when an automobile stopped in front of the building from which Gregory Baldwin alighted unassisted, the chauffeur driving away without seeing his master to the door.

"Well, of all the careless beings, that chauffeur's the worst!" exclaimed Elise, rushing down to the first floor to let her caller in. He wore dark glasses and carried a cane; outside of these two features no one would have suspected he was sightless.

And then Elise sang to him—sang sweetly and unaffectedly, pouring out her heart in the wonderful language of some of the old world masters and her clear, girlish soprano thrilled the listener through and through.

"I wonder if you realize what a really beautiful voice you have?" he asked as he was leaving. "Won't you come over in the park tomorrow afternoon? There are so many things I'd like to say to you—about your work."

After Elise had promised to go she had a queer little feeling of being a rubber ball tossed about in the hands of fate, but she was at the meeting place the next afternoon ahead of the appointed time. She wondered as she waited what had made Gregory Baldwin blind; whether or not he had any hope of ever seeing again; whether—

"So you're here ahead of me?" called a cheerful masculine voice at her elbow, interrupting her reverie, and looking up she saw her friend smiling down at her through his dark glasses as though he owned the keenest pair of eyes in the world.

"How could you tell I was here?" she asked in surprise.

"Well," he hesitated, "there are some presences one can feel anywhere. I'm sure I could pick you from a miscellaneous gathering, even if there were hundreds."

He had taken her hand in his and was looking straight into her face as though his sightless eyes might be reading her very soul, and she did not want him to see what was written there—there in her soul. She could not bear to have him know that she had grown to care, but that, in spite of it, still wanted her career—that she did not feel she could have it and be a blind man's partner—not the kind of partner she meant to be to the man she married. She had guessed what he was trying to tell her—knew with a woman's intuition that a proposal was hovering precipitously on his lips, and she wondered a little that he dared ask this thing of her. Helplessly she cast about for some way of stopping him—some way perhaps, if he did not think of her side of things, of making him feel he might not want to care.

"You must not talk to me this way!" she said with a catch in her voice. "I've deceived you terribly—I'm—I'm old—old enough to be your—your grandmother! Now I suppose our friendship must end."

The man took her outstretched hand in his without allowing her to rise, and with his other removed the unsightly dark glasses from a pair of brown eyes dancing with fun.

"My dear, no grandmother ever sang as you sang to me last night. You're just old enough to be my wife, and I want you Elise—that is, if you can ever forgive me for deceiving you."

"Are—aren't you blind at all, Mr. Baldwin?"

"I'm Gregory, dear, and I'm not blind unless there is something before my vision beside the dearest girl in the world."

"That night—when you gave me your hand in the concert hall," she questioned in half frightened tones.

"I'll have to ask forgiveness for that, too. It was just a boyish spirit of devilry which prompted me to do it when I saw your upturned palm, and then, when I found you thought I was blind, I just didn't know how to extricate myself—that's all."

"You seem to have forgotten that I'm planning a career—I'm going to be a great singer some day."

"My dear, it's an exploded theory that a woman cannot establish a career if she makes the mistake of marrying first. There can be for every woman two worlds: one, the world of her cares, the other the world of her heart, and the latter only fits her the more splendidly for the duties of the former. Now won't you say yes?"

"Well—" she hesitated, "perhaps I'll think about it, if you promise to throw these horrid glasses so far I'll never see them again."

WILD CREATURES DREAD FIRE

Impossible to Eradicate Fear of the Red Flame From Denizens of the Wild.

Man is the only animal who has made friends with the fire, writes Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

All other creatures, in their natural state, are afraid of it. They look upon it with wonder and dismay. It fascinates them, sometimes, with its glittering eyes in the night. The squirrels and the hares come pattering softly toward it through the underbrush around the new camp. The deer stand staring into the blaze of the jack while the hunter's canoe creeps through the lily-pads.

But the charm that masters them is one of dread, not of love. When they know what it means, when the heat of the fire touches them, or even when its small comes clearly to their most delicate senses, they recognize it as an enemy. Let but a trail of smoke drift down the wind across the forest, and all the game for miles and miles will catch the signal for fear and flight.

Many of the animals have learned how to make houses for themselves.

The cabin of the beaver is a wonder of neatness and comfort, much preferable to the wigwam of his Indian hunter. The muskrat knows how thick and high to build the dome of his waterside cottage, in order to protect himself against the frost of the coming winter, and the floods of the following spring. The woodchuck's house has two or three doors; and a squirrel's dwelling is provided with a good bed and a convenient storehouse for nuts and acorns. The sportive otters have a toboggan slide in front of their residence; and moose in winter make a "yard," where they can take exercise comfortably and find shelter for sleep. But there is one thing lacking in all these various dwellings—a fire-place.

Man is the only creature who dares to light a fire and to live with it. The reason? Because he alone has learned how to put it out.
