CITY NEGLIGENT IS JURY VERDICT

Find That No Measures Are Taken For Sewer-worker's Safety.

A charge of negligence was brought against the city last night by the jury at the inquest into the death of William Greengrass, 173 Sumach street, who died while working in a man-hole 17 feet deep at the corner of Scott and Front streets.

In the absence of a crown attorney the inquest was conducted by Coroner J. W. Russell. In summing up the case the coroner informed the jury that they had to decide whether death was caused by an epileptic fit induced by gas acting on a weak stomach, or by asphyxiation due to the absence of oxygen. If the man had been seized by epilepsy, the coroner pointed out, and had a weak stomach, the jury must decide if the man should have been allowed to work in the man-hole. Further, if death was due to asphyxiation, was someone to blame for the absence of oxygen?

The jury's opinion was to the effect that Greengrass had been killed by suffocation, and that the city was to blame in that no precaution was taken for the man's safety, and that he was allowed to work in the man-hole 10 hours a day without being visited. Greengrass was a returned soldier who suffered the amputation of one arm.

GERMAN MINERS WILL CO-OPERATE

Resolutions by Organizations Indicate Intention to Aid in Reconstruction.

Berlin, July 22.—The attitude of the German coal miners with regard to Germany's engagements at the Spa conference, seemingly is indicated by resolutions passed by various miners' organizations. These resolutions testify that it is the intention of the miners to do their utmost to co-operate in the reconstruction of the European economic situation, but express grave doubt whether Germany's engagements are susceptible of being carried out.

Three of the principal Ruhr mining organizations were summoned by the government to Berlin this week to discuss the situation. One of them, through its delegates, laid down a condition of freedom from taxation on overtime, wages, the readjustment of the taxation scheme, and better food for the miners. Another group, including iron ore miners at Nordhausen, passed a resolution fully endorsing the statement made by Otto Hesse, president of the German Miners' National Association, at Spa, and declared solidarity with the International Miners' Union in combating imperialism.

This group also declared its intention to remain passive in the event of foreign occupation of the Ruhr, but added that it would not refuse to assist any attempt at enslaving German labor.

SKELETONS SHOW FATE OF SOLDIERS

Bodies at Suvla Bay Found Locked With Turks in a Grim Struggle.

Special Cable to The New York Times.
London, July 22.—One of the mysteries of the war fate of a battalion of an English territorial regiment, the 5th Norfolk, in the fighting at Suvla Bay, Gallipoli, has at last been solved.

Sir Ian Hamilton, in his despatch on the fighting around Anafarta on Aug. 12, 1915, referred to the fate of this battalion as a very mysterious thing. On the night of the attack they found themselves less strenuously opposed than the rest of the brigade, and the report "and under Col. Sir H. Beauchamp men eagerly pressed forward. Some were wounded or exhausted, and found their way back to camp."

"But the colonel, with sixteen officers and 250 men," continued General Hamilton's despatch, "still kept pushing on, driving the enemy before them. Amongst these ardent souls was part of a line company enlisted from the King's Serpentine. Nothing more was ever seen or heard of them. They were charged into a forest and were lost to sight and sound. Not one of them ever came back."

The forest into which the battalion gallantly charged was never retaken by British troops. A few men who fell into the hands of the Turks, it was afterwards found, had fallen out of the attack earlier, and not a man of Col. Beauchamp's force was seen again.

The Rev. C. S. Edwards, who has just returned from a visit to the peninsula on graves registration work, says that on going over Anafarta Plain he found skeletons of men of the 5th Norfolk, the 5th Suffolk and 5th Hampshire, more than a mile in front of what was afterwards the British first-line trench.

Apparently the battalions had advanced in perfect order, and to all appearances had not been caught by machine gun fire. One man had taken cover behind a stone, and a large pile of empty cartridges, cases and shells, which showed that he had defended himself to the last.

Behind the Norfolk front line Mr. Edwards came across the remains of about fifty men who had fallen in the grim hours of the attack. Touching each other lay bodies of Britons and Turks, the heads of the latter facing seaward and those of the attackers toward their adversaries' lines.

BIG SEIZURE OF LIQUOR AT OTTAWA

More Than Five Thousand Dollars' Worth in the Haul.

Ottawa, July 22.—One of the biggest seizures of intoxicating liquor, since Ottawa made a legal farrow to John Thomas, was made by Inspector McLaughlin and his men at Ottawa, which near up wards of $5,000 worth of assorted liquors.

The raid was made upon the premises of a saloon at 25 Wellington street, occupied by Mr. L. George. In both places there were very large quantities of liquor, and also a quantity of cigars, Mr. Frost and Lauson stayed with the boss all night.

Both Lemaire and George claim they are acting legally in exporting the liquor, claiming to have a license for this purpose. Inspector McLaughlin states, however, that the Ontario government cancelled all exporters' agents' licenses some months ago, and will charge them with having liquor in a public place, contrary to the provisions of the Ontario temperance act.

According to Inspector McLaughlin, Lemaire and George were soliciting an export license for duty-free liquor at Ottawa, Hull and other towns and villages in the surrounding district.

The Economic Disturbance.

Nearly every prophecy as to what would happen after the war turned out wrong. Practically everybody was wrong, and so absurdly wrong that no pointing of fingers has resulted. For example, we were told that after the war was over there would be a general curtailment of business, a period of unemployment, and a general fall in the scale of wages and the price of commodities.

These prophets turned out to be all wrong. The merry-go-round of higher prices and higher wages has slowed down not at all, and the band plays on. Here and there some industry may have slowed down; here and there some man may have been thrown out of employment, but the first six months of 1920 will show more men at work, and more wages for them per head, and more profit for their employers than for the corresponding period last year. This is true in the United States, according to the carefully prepared statistics just given out by the department of labor at Washington, and the same, or even better, conditions prevail in Canada, where we have no factor closing down to influence the elections, no railway breakdown, and no fuel famine in immediate prospect. The showing for June, 1920, in the United States was poor, when compared with May of the same year, but good when compared with June, 1919. So if the summer of 1920 in Canada has not been as big a business year as might have been anticipated last spring, we are sure it will compare favorably with the summer of 1919, and that 1920 will be a banner year for many business men of Canada.

While there is much complaint about high wages and high prices, the last thing anybody wants to see is low wages and low prices. A cheap coast often means a cheap man inside the coast. What the people on fixed incomes, who will in the end have to pay the piper without ever being allowed to call the tune, complain about is the absorption of so much of this prosperity by parasite and profligate. The farmer is not really getting the high prices we pay for his produce, and the increase in wages is more apparent than real. Yet waste and extravagance is seen on every hand, the most wasteful extravagance of all being the purchase of imported goods.

It is no use to export people to spend their money wisely. Indeed, much is to be said for the genial testator who left two hundred dollars apiece to a string of poor relations, with the injunction to spend it foolishly. At the same time, some limit should be placed upon the purchase of commodities from abroad, and possibly the only effective curb would be an embargo. The government has tried preaching, and has tried taxing, but nothing seems to cure the mania for "imported" goods.

At any rate, we are glad that the prophecies of disaster have not been realized. With a big crop in prospect and high prices prevailing, we ought to have a good autumn. When the farmer has money to spend, there is general prosperity all round. For all that, something should be done to check the high cost of living and the profiteers as well. There's got to be a limit to the boosting of charges for the needs of life, and of wages; also of unnecessary buying out of the country.

How this is to be done is the question.

Will Books Disappear?

John Murray, the well-known British publisher, gives warning that book production may soon cease in England. The ever-increasing cost of labor and material, especially white paper, renders the physical making of the book so expensive that it cannot be sold at a reasonable price. We know on the authority of Bulwer Lytton, that civilized men can live without books; but the outlook is dreary indeed for the man with the pen. Perhaps he will be glad to change places with the man with the hoe.

Two or three interesting admissions are unconsciously made by the great publisher. He has paid more and ever more to the printers, machinists, and binders, but the writers are apparently getting less. Indeed the publishing house is going in on a big scale for reprints so as to eliminate the living writers altogether. Finally we learn that the public will pay so much for a book and no more. The book that was sold for five shillings before the war cannot be sold for ten or fifteen shillings now.

Thus we learn something about the law of supply and demand in the world of books. The supply depends not upon the poet or the historian, but upon the binder, the printer, and the machinist. Nature may produce Shakespeares and Miltons by the score, but they must remain mute and in-lorious until there is a fall in the price of paper. The publisher apparently cannot hold the price of his books, to keep up with the increased cost of production and the high cost of living. The man who pays seventeen dollars for a pair of boots that used to cost him seven, will not pay two dollars for a book that at normal times cost him a dollar and a quarter. But a good many people will say that the world is suffering from too many books. Books were printed by the million during the thirty years preceding the outbreak of the war, but few of them are likely to be reprinted. The very cheapness of books and the universality of authorship brought literature into contempt. An enforced literary holiday may cause some budding Milton to be mute, but it will give the tired world a rest from much hysterical propaganda, from much morbid emotionalism, and from much downright foolishness.

CORRECTION OF HYDRO REPORT.

In the commissioners' ninth annual report, as recently published, there was an error in the typesetting. The word "and" was omitted in the sixth line of the second column, whereby the sense of the sentence was destroyed. The report should have read as follows:

"Until equilibrium is restored between the reciprocal and currently independent of Canada and the United States, or until gold moves freely from the Dominion in settlement of international balances, rates of exchange adverse to Canada are liable to continue, which may, on occasions, prove very severe. The possible consequence of this should be well considered when Canadian municipalities consider Canadian versus American bids for their debenture issues AND when they make them payable in gold in the United States."

REIGN OF TERROR IN WEST SIBERIA

Tokio, June 22.—A despatch to the Kokusai News Agency from Harbin quotes a Russian merchant just arrived there from West Siberia as describing the situation there as follows: "Tomsk, Novosibirsk, and Krasnoyarsk, formerly the richest cities of Siberia, now present the appearance of dead towns. The streets are deserted, the shops are closed, and very many of the houses destroyed by fire."

"The populace is terrorized by constant public executions. M. Adams, editor of the Sibirskaya and M. Pili-monoff, editor of the Svobodnaya Sibir have both been executed at Tomsk. The Kolchak officers who were imprisoned at Krasnoyarsk are reported executed."

"The peasants are everywhere in revolt against the reds and refuse to send any food to the towns. In the vicinity of Minusinsk they have formed five regiments and are pushing an offensive against the reds."

PORT DOVER HARBOR BEING OVERHAULED

Usefulness of Docks To Be Greatly Increased—Brantford's New Project.

Brantford, Ont., July 22.—(Special).—The harbor at Port Dover is being overhauled and the breakwater being built up from the water's edge and replanked. The harbor was in a very bad state and the old pier was crumbling to the water's edge. The repairs will add much to the usefulness of the docks.

The town planning commission is discussing a project to open up the properties on the Grand River to the west of the bridge, for park and residential purposes, as the same is now only fit for agricultural use, and is being used as such.

In addition to the plan to open up the land along the river to the golf link, the town planning commission proposes to have a 100-foot driveway along the river from Duffin avenue to the golf grounds. It is also proposed to have this driveway completed down thru the Holmedale, along the river bank. Comproment architects are being secured to advise on the plans which are mooted.

BUSINESS HOUSES MERGE?

Kitchener, Ont., July 22.—(Special).—Persistent rumor has it here that the W. G. & R. Shit Co. have amalgamated with the Cluett, Macbush Company. S. J. Williams, president of the local concern, admitted that amalgamation negotiations were practically completed, but stated that no authoritative announcement could be made until the directors authorize a definite statement.

VANDALISM IN GERMANY.

Breslau, Germany, July 22.—Unable to check the despoiling by metal thieves of monuments in the public parks, the police have decided to remove to places of safekeeping all bronze statues which can be easily transported. Among the statues of great men placed under "protective arrest" are those of Germany's nature poet, Eichendorff, and the composer of war songs, Koerner.

BOWMAN TAKES FAMILY ON INSPECTION TOUR

Hon. Beniah Bowman, minister of lands and forests in the Ontario government, is making an official tour of inspection of Northern Ontario. Traveling with him in the government's special private railway coach, "Whitney," it is said, are the minister's wife, his young son, his three brothers, his father-in-law, his mother-in-law, and a young lady stenographer.

"Let's get together and turn the old river into an open road to the sea."

DEAL WITH SOVIET DEFINITELY ENDED

Britain Has Sent Decisive Categorical Message to Moscow Government.

London, July 22.—After weeks of conferences with Gregory Krasin over soviet Russia's proposals to grant "concessions" to the rest of the world in return for the re-establishment of trade relations after a bitter international debate in which Great Britain's stand very nearly precipitated a break between herself and her ally, France, an offer arriving at a point where an almost immediate resumption of commerce might have been expected, the deal is off.

This was given out authoritatively today that all trade negotiations with Russia have been definitely ended for the present and that Russia can look for no more conferences until she has absolutely put a stop to the army campaign against Poland.

Great Britain today sent a decisive categorical message to the Moscow government. It left no room for evasion. It told the Russians simply but firmly that they need not send any more trade delegations to London with any expectation of a hearing. It expressed amazement at the continued offensive of the soviet, and carried the unmistakable hint that Russia must give up her aggressiveness in exchange for equitable treatment from Great Britain.

Launceston, Tasmania, July 22.—The Prince of Wales arrived here yesterday, but was unable to reply to the address of welcome because of a slight attack of laryngitis. His physician has forbidden him to use his voice.

NEW YORK WANTS TO RUN BUS LINE

Mayor Hylan announced at a public hearing before the board of estimate that he had asked Governor Smith to call a special session of the legislature to enact a measure which would enable the city to operate a city-wide system of buses. The mayor said he was in view of court decisions which prevent the city under existing laws from going into the bus business in competition with privately-owned transportation lines.

The board heard scores of persons, who declared that the stopping of the bus lines in Brooklyn and other sections had caused inconveniences, chiefly to working people and school children. There were expressions against granting a franchise to a private corporation and in favor of municipally-operated lines. These would be independent systems in localities where present transportation is inadequate, rather than a city-wide system.

HOME BANK BRANCHES.

It is announced in another quarter that Senator Rufus Pope is to be one of the speakers. The city members stand on the big issues of the day, including proper re-establishment of the returned soldiers.

JUDITH OF BLUE LAKE RANCH

By JACKSON GREGORY.

"That's Carson for you! He wouldn't admit where he was going. I sent him down to Davis where the state experiment farm and laboratories are. He's going to see also, study 'em, think 'em up till he gets a new idea into his head. I have ordered a big extension in our irrigated area. I have begun the construction of two more 'dams. When Carson gets back he's going to look around for some more short-horns at bargain prices. I have an idea it wouldn't do you any harm either to look over what we are doing down at the Lower End."

Again she paused. Then her eyes suddenly darkening, she told him what, after all, lay topmost in her mind. "I have said that if I am given the chance, I can make a go of this. It's up to you, Bud Lee, to help me that I get that chance. An attempt was made to spread me a hand, but I don't know. Now it's the dogs. Do you know what the latest news is from the pans? There's cholera among them."

"Where did it come from?" Judith repeated after him. "That's what I don't know. We've been so careful. But where did the calf sickness come from? Bayne Trevors imported it." The inference was clear. He stared at her with frowning eyes. "I don't see how he could have done it without Tripp's getting on to it. He hasn't bought any new dogs."

"But you understand now why I wanted to talk to you? If I win out in the thing I have taken on my shoulders, it is going to be by a close margin. I've thought it all out. We can't slip up in a single deal. But, it's up to you to give me a hand. To find out for yourself such things as where did the cholera come from! And to look out, that the next time they don't burn us out, when the range is dry; to see that nothing happens to your horses; to keep your two eyes wide open; to help me find the man, working with us right now, who is doubling-crossing us, who turned Shorty loose, who is watching a chance to do his knife act again somewhere else. Do you get me, Bud Lee?"

"I get you," replied Lee. "From without, gay voices, calling merrily, interrupted them. Lee went swiftly to the door while Judith finished her coffee and pulled her broad hat a little lower to throw its shadow in her eyes. "Aho, there!" It was Pollock Hampton's voice. "We saw your horses and thought we'd catch you plonking. Got a fine going, too! Say, that's bully. Come ahead, Marcia."

Marcia, a long riding-habit gathered in one hand, her cheeks flushed with her ride, her eyes bright as they rested upon the tall form in the doorway, came on behind Hampton. As the eyes of the two girls met, a sudden hot flush flooded Judith's cheeks. She hated herself for it; she wondered just how red her eyes were.

"Say, Judith," called Hampton, "I'm glad as the dickens we found you. Sawyer, the sheriff, telephoned just now. Said to tell you he'd located Quinlan. The funny part of it is that we made a mistake. It wasn't Quinlan at all that tried to shoot you and Bud up the other night."

"How's that?" demanded Lee. "Who says it wasn't?"

"Sawyer. Found Quinlan at a sheepman's place thirty or forty miles north of here. The sheepman swore Quinlan had been with him two weeks, was with him that night."

SOLDIER PATIENTS GIVEN LAKE TRIP

Knights of Columbus Entertained Over Six Hundred Veterans.

When the good ship Cayuga, pulled out from Yonge street wharf at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, she carried 600 patients from the Dominion Orthopaedic, Devisville, Spadina, Pierson Hall and Euclid Hall hospitals, who were being entertained to a day's outing by the Knights of Columbus.

The Catholic army huts made a reputation during the war, which is being lived up to faithfully now—a reputation for whole-hearted generosity and true charity, which earned the respect and gratitude of all veterans, no matter where they served, or in what capacity. So they invited all available patients in the local military and D.S.C.R. hospitals to join them in a day's outing, and at 2 o'clock they set out—the skies bright and sunny above them, the waters beneath them asleep. There was music on board, supplied by the G.W.V.A. Band, and a concert and dancing, and refreshment for those who did not care to indulge themselves in these respects. The verdant shores, green and beautiful, delighted the eye, and spoke of rest and peace. So the veterans danced and sang and were happy—the freshening breezes brought the breath of the forests to their nostrils, the gentle waves lazily lapped the sides of the boat, and God's good green things were all around them; those who had two legs danced, and those who hadn't sang.

Ladies Help Entertain. W. T. Kernahan, chairman of the Knights of Columbus Catholic Army Huts, was largely responsible for the arrangement of the details, and 30 ladies of the Catholic Auxiliary, always indispensable, worked hard serving refreshments and doing all that was possible for the comfort of the boys. Miss Greeta Mallon was in charge of the ladies, and if she had heard the murmurs of approval from the soldiers, she would have been very proud of herself. Major Grimshaw, the Christie street chaplain, was on board as cheerer as ever. The major seemed to know everybody, and everybody seemed to know the major; his contagious optimism seems to have made him indispensable to the success of any veterans' social affair. The concert party was provided by Jules Brass, whose performance at the piano kept the passengers' minds off the slight rolling of the ship. By the time supper was announced, the breeze and fresh air had done surprisingly effective work in sharpening the appetites of the fellows, and colossal quantities of sandwiches and cakes and all that sort of thing were disposed of with alarming rapidity, and the 60 women were kept very busy replenishing empty cups and plates.

The steamer left Queenston at about 6 o'clock, when the sun, having done a good day's work, started to sink lower and lower in the west and a glittering carpet of gold fell on the tranquil waters. The coast outlines became blurred and the night fell serenely. So the day passed. What it meant to the patients, none but themselves know, but this much is certain, the memory of this and kindred kindnesses mingles with the happier memories of the war and helps form the cradle philosophy of life and shows him that there are some who gratefully remember the sacrifices our men so gladly made when the empire was challenged to mortal combat.

SEEK ASSISTANCE IN GETTING JOBS

Deputation Asks Government to Aid Crippled Veterans in This Way.

Government assistance toward securing employment for veterans who are permanently crippled was asked by a deputation from the Amputation Association, composed of President Sutcliffe, Col. Price, Col. Cooper and Capt. Ramsden, which waited upon Premier Drury yesterday. There are 450 members of the association in Toronto, while there are about 1,600 amputation cases in the province.

Premier Drury has given instructions to Civil Service Commissioner McCutcheon to give a preference to such cases in the Ontario service, and promised to do his best to secure suitable places for such men. A request that the government provide funds for disabled veterans to go into business for themselves met with the reply that this was a matter for the federal department, and that the provincial government would not be responsible for the establishment, rather than for the provincial government.

Sentenced for Murder, Now Dying From Consumption

Steadfastly maintaining his innocence of the crime of murdering Joseph Rosenthal of Toronto, for which he was sentenced to life imprisonment in November, 1912, Charles Gibson lies dying of tuberculosis in the home of his step-mother, 170 George street. After the death of Gibson's father and younger sister, and while his brother was overseas in 1915, friends endeavored to obtain his release from Kingston Penitentiary, but all their efforts were unsuccessful. In January of this year Gibson was said to have

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS

Being the Confessions of the Seven-Hundredth Wife.

BY HELEN ROWLAND. (Copyright, 1930, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Who is this, my Daughter, that cometh sighing as the sad wind thru the Cypress? Who is this, that greeteth thee with the mien of a pall-bearer and the face of a martyr? Who is this, that claspeth thine hand for comfort, and gaseth into thine eyes in search of sympathy? Lo, it is he, the LONELY HUSBAND!

Yes, it is HE, the "Summer Widower," whose wife hath left him with only the cat for company and the Outlook-board for diversion. Yet, behold how subtle he hath grown with the years. For once upon a time he celebrated his wife's departure with joyous feasting and loud huzzahs, crying: "My Wife's gone to the country—Hurray! Hurray! He is as a school-boy and bragged of his 'freedom' and bragged of his iniquities. Once he went forth 'boldly' in search of gayety and adventure arrayed in his sportiest vestments and his gaudiest cravats. But the damsel of the city turned away their heads and smiled, saying: "Poor stump! He is as a school-boy who hath just heard the bell ring for recess. He yearneth to get into mischief. He longeth to break all the RULES. But why shall we waste time upon him, when the land is full of Eligibles? He is giddy with his own conceit! His 'nerve' is exceedingly great!"

But the Summer Widower of 1932 is WISE to his own folly. He goeth amidst the multitude, sadly and softly, as one that is greatly afflicted. He seeketh out the tender-hearted damsel and telleth her of his "loneliness." He leadeth her unto the pink tea-room and discourseth of his empty life. He speaketh sweetly of his wife as of one dead and departed. He praiseth the damsel's "charity" in consenting to have pity upon him. He pleadeth with her to "be-kind" to him.

He reveleth in his own misery, and greatly enjoyeth his sufferings. He consenteth to have pity upon him. He praiseth the damsel's "charity" in consenting to have pity upon him. He pleadeth with her to "be-kind" to him. She methinks as a starved collier at a graduation banquet. For, behold, he hath discovered that the way to a woman's heart is not a highway, where the Conquering Hero cometh with the blowery of trumpets and the fanfare of a brass band; but a Secret Way, thru her COMPASSION. Verily, verily, every woman yearneth to "mother" some man.

And he that hath succeeded in winning her sympathy may be assured that in time her heart will follow after it! Then, beware of the Summer Widower, my Beloved. For he goeth softly—and is WISE! And it is meet that the Lonely Husband be pitied—but not that he be PETTED! Selah.

contracted tuberculosis at the penitentiary and his condition finally became such that the prison authorities recommended that he be allowed to come to his home in the hope that the change might restore his shattered health but since his release it is reported that his disease has been found to be incurable.

SCARCITY OF CANS.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 22.—Local canners are being held up by the scarcity of cans. Can makers cannot get tin plate, and in consequence there will be less preserving than had been expected. The local canning factory has been unable to take contracts for peaches on account of the uncertainty of getting cans, the makers not giving any guarantee of any definite amount for delivery. It was expected that this would have been a record year. There is no scarcity of sugar or help.

THE CALL OF THE WILD

I AIN'T shore whether you'll be with me or again' me when you hear my story, but I'm gonna spell it just the same. Most gals would keep the lid on, I guess, but you all know what a problem it's gettin' to be—this tidin' yourself over the week-end. Not that aint't strong for the simple life, but I like to take my joy from a Pullman window and atop at Hollowell's just long enough to take on a-ice cream cone (essein' they're a dime straight on the trains). But, like I was sayin', I was all for beasin' it somewhere's last week-end and I caught a ad, what said, refined dancin' at a swell joint somewhere near Buffalo, every night except Sunday. "I'll be there Sunday," I says, commutin' myself on the two-bell too-too. Lucky for me there wasn't a crowd, and I grabbed a seat next the scenery and had a good chance to lawn the base of supplies all along the road. The crop of swedes turnips and mangel wurzles, cattle corn, 'n' everythin' were never before so good, if I know anything about such. And near St. Kitz there was the grandest grape orchards I ever seen. We was easin' along by Bridgeburg and my lamps were on a bunch of black cherries, when in swoops a conductor guy and you'd a thought I reminded him of somebody with a record, the way he handed me the frosty north. "Where you goin'?" he says to me, "Buffalo," I pipes. "What are you gonna do at Buffalo?" he comes back at me. (What do you think of that gettin' know?) "I'm a fetchin' a bag of peanuts to feed the squirrels in Delaware Park," I zipped over. "Are you married?" he snaps. "Like a cow, when somebody shoots the bulb," I says. "That made him sore, and any' if he didn't yank me right off the train and shove me into a cage. Then, after a lotta red tape, he shipped me back—deported me, because I wouldn't let him get fresh. Bulve me! a dame what travels alone gets treated fierce.

DRIVER NEGLIGENT SAYS CORONER'S JURY

Motorist Who Ran Down Little Girl Is Committed For Trial.

"Criminal negligence" was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury last night against the driver of the automobile, license No. 101143, which knocked down and fatally injured ten-year-old Helen Tagney on July 17.

The evidence at the inquest last night went to show that the girl was standing near the middle of College street, near Sheridan avenue, and that both an automobile and street car were approaching her.

On the jury's return, the coroner informed them that he disagreed with their verdict and asked them if they wished to reconsider. At first they agreed to withdraw and consider the case again, but later changed their minds and allowed the verdict to remain as it was.

During the argument which preceded this decision, it was pointed out that the driver of the car could not have seen the child, but a member of the jury replied that there was no evidence to support that theory.

THREATEN CONTROL OF COAL FIELDS

Government May Act If the Operators Do Not Increase Production.

Washington, July 22.—(Special)—Bituminous coal operators were warned by J. D. A. Morrow, vice-president of the National Coal Association, that their failure to meet the urgent fuel needs of the country at this time would mean continuous government control of the industry.

Mr. Morrow cited statistics to show that the northwest was short 5,000,000 tons of coal ordinarily shipped to it via the great lakes, and added that New England and New York state points were also short on shipments.

Failure would justify federal control, which would be fastened upon the coal industry permanently, Mr. Morrow continued. "There will be no such failure. This effort deserves the gratitude and assistance of every coal operator in the United States.

Vanover, July 22.—The 15th annual convention of the Retail Merchants' Association was opened here today. In his presidential address, J. A. # YACHTS ARE READY FOR FOURTH AMERICA CUP RACE TODAY

SET AND READY FOR THE IMPORTANT RACE TODAY THAT MAY END SERIES

Shamrock Drydocked and Polished—Race Over a Triangular Course Today—If Shamrock Wins New York Yacht Club Will Challenge For a Race Next Year.

Sandy Hook, N.J., July 22.—Shamrock IV, slipped out of drydock tonight and is ready to race again tomorrow for the America's Cup.

Meanwhile, the crew of Resolute, American defender, put in the day making things shipshape aboard their craft and also are prepared to give battle.

With the tally now standing 2 to 1, in favor of the challenger, Resolute must win the next contest if the hundred rupee cup, valueless trophy, is not to travel back overseas in custody of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club.

Shamrock arrived at a Staten Island shipyard early today under tow and at once was put on the ways under the keel.

While Captain Charles Francis Adams II, had not put her yacht into drydock for another inspection, he gave his crew little rest as the great white sloop was collected on her sleek sides since she had left drydock about a week ago, but when she was slid back into the water this afternoon, this fear was pronounced groundless. Not a barnacle and scarcely a streak of oil had been found on her hull.

Crew Kept Busy.—While Captain Adams II, had not put her yacht into drydock for another inspection, he gave his crew little rest as the great white sloop was collected on her sleek sides since she had left drydock about a week ago, but when she was slid back into the water this afternoon, this fear was pronounced groundless. Not a barnacle and scarcely a streak of oil had been found on her hull.

Tomorrow's race, actually the fourth, is a dropping wind which failed to drive the yachts across the finish line within the six-hour time limit—will be over a triangular course starting and ending as usual from the Ambrose Channel light-ship. The signal will be a flag of 10 miles to a leg will be plotted just before the start, when the race committee observes direction of the wind.

Old Topmast Back.—Before Shamrock left tonight for the event the Shamrock IV, won the America's Cup, either tomorrow or Saturday, the New York Yacht Club, would challenge in the hands of the representative of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, for a race next year with a 118-foot schooner, W. L. Gardiner, the designer, is said to have been planning to draw plans for the schooner if the America's Cup is lost to Sir Thomas Lipton.

TOURIST PLAYERS RIDING TO A FALL

Rumor Has It That O. H. A. Is Going to Put the Screws On.

BAD FOR HOCKEY
This Practice Must Stop and Now Is the Right Time.

It was rumored around town yesterday that the Ontario Hockey Association is going to stop the "tourist" player and stop him for all time. There has been a lot of newspaper talk all over the province of star players moving all over the map, and this is the kind of stuff that is to be stopped.

Both Hamilton and Port Colborne are claiming the Green brothers, the good Sudbury boys. Both have done considerable switching about in former seasons and it is said that they will be the first two players that the O.H.A. will want information on.

Bill Box, the Dental star, will be found in Kitchener, but Bill is a dentist and is opening a practice in Kitchener. He should be alright. Several well-known players have moved around a lot this summer and the fans have been trying to guess where they will land.

It is time this touring was stopped. It has been carried on for years, and several towns are notorious for shipping in hockey players around the first of August. The O.H.A. rule says the players must be a resident of the town he plays in before Aug. 1.

Even Toronto cannot claim a clean sheet when it comes to this tourist stuff. Many times players have made their way here and then are found with a Toronto team when the ice arrives. It is a bad game and one that gives hockey a black eye. All the real fans will be behind the O.H.A. if they get the tourist players and put a stop to the travelers for all time.

WORLD'S BEST AT TENNIS

The first pictures received here of W. T. Tilden, the international tennis singles champion, winning his match at Wimbledon, England.

Brantford, July 22.—(Special.)—Geo. Lee, the pilot of the Brantford Red Sox, rejoined the team today. Knotty came back to Brantford and was welcomed upon by practically a whole team and asked to reconsider his determination to quit.

Knotty figured it out that his resignation was not intended to hurt the Red Sox, as he had acted in a manner to his way of thinking, which would probably benefit the team for the drive to come. The action of the players, showing harmony, has always prevailed among the members of the club, really affected the pilot, and he was glad, morning to announce that he would be out there again.

ECREMENT CASE AGAIN POSTPONED

Writ of Habeas Corpus Was Obtained, But Was Never Served.

New York, July 22.—Hearing of the deportation case against Arthur C. Ecrement, former Canadian member of parliament, who is now detained at Ellis Island, was again postponed today on the plea made by Ecrement's lawyer that his client had not had sufficient time to get his passport and other credentials from Montreal. United States immigration officials had announced they would proceed with the case today, whether Ecrement's lawyer appeared or not. Later, it was said that there was "nothing to give out." Eugene F. McGehe, appearing for Ecrement, announced that the hearing had been put over until next Thursday. McGehe added that in the meantime he would apply to the federal courts tomorrow for another writ of habeas corpus. He previously obtained a writ that never served it, "for substantial reasons," he stated. The new writ will ask that Ecrement be released on the bond of $50,000, which was cancelled some time ago by the United States immigration authorities. "This man is being held illegally by the immigration people," said McGehe. "He was duly inspected when he entered the country. He has a passport duly used and a permit allowing him to pass into the United States."
