

Brewed from Dublin Malt.

Keith's Medicinal Stout

REACHES YOU IN PERFECT CONDITION.

London Gins and Cordials!

BOORD'S "CAT AND BARREL" BRAND.

The ever increasing demand for BOORD'S Gins and Cordials is a sure sign that the public know how to appreciate.

BOORD'S is a universal household word. This firm is one of the oldest and best producers of Gins in the world. The "American" last week landed in its import of BOORD'S Gins and Cordials, including:

JORDAN OLD TOBACCO DRY, CHERRY BRANDY, GINGER GIN, etc., etc.

These are old favorites, particularly during the Yuletide festivities.

The Keith House catalogue of Christmas Wines and Spirits sent to any address upon request.

KELLEY & GLASSEY, Ltd.
Box 760. Halifax. Phone 238.

Do You Use Scotch?

If so, you surely are entitled to the best value for your money.

It is claimed by life-long users of that there is no better value than this brand.

Royal Blend Scotch

You can easily test the veracity of this statement by buying a bottle or case of this old time favorite.

A "Wolfe Toddy"

is the ideal "Night-cap"; hot water, lemon and sugar, and a wineglass of Wolfe's Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps, and you have a totty for a King. You will sleep "like a top," wake in the morning with the cold arrested, and a freedom from those aches in the joints and pains in the back.

That "Wolfe Toddy," while you sleep, has gone direct to the seat of the trouble—the kidneys. It has commenced a cure which can make complete by a glass of Wolfe's Schnapps twice a day for a day or two. Then when you feel "as fit as a fiddle," don't forget what made you so; get into the Wolfe's Schnapps habit; drink it regularly, and you will not suffer from liver or kidney troubles.

WOLFE'S AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS

is the world's greatest tonic—energizer for sluggishness of the vital organs of the body.

Obtainable at all Hotels and Retail Stores.

AGENTS: KELLEY & GLASSEY, Limited, Halifax, Agents for Nova Scotia.

For the Christmas Trade.

Our importations comprise selections in WINE from the finest vineyards in the world, comprising:

SAUTERNES, AMONTILLADO, and other SHERRIES, The popular brands of CLARETS, RARE OLD PORTS, CHAMPAGNES, BRANDIES, ETC., ETC.

Qualities—The highest possible. Price—The lowest possible.

Let us remind you of our Cooking Spices: PORT WINE, 25 cents; COGNAC BRANDY, 50 cents; SHERRY WINE, 50 cents; JAMAICA RUM, 50c. per bottle.

Right now is a good time to send in your order.

A. MONAGHAN & CO., Importers and Dealers
120-124 Barrington Street - Telephone 1051.

Everything for Your Christmas Cakes and Puddings.

Our main show window is highly suggestive of Christmas preparation. There is hardly a housekeeper who is not thinking of getting ready to bake her Christmas cakes and to make her Christmas puddings. These preparations usually make a big hole in a number of dollar bills, and one is always attracted by anything which points in the direction of cutting down expenses as low as is possible, consistent with quality which one should demand when it comes to establish. Gathered from the four corners of the earth is such a selection of materials for cake and pudding making as will delight the most careful housekeeper or cook. Nothing but the best has been purchased—and that at the most advantageous prices. Here are some of the prices:

Citron Peel, per lb.	50c	Cocoa (bulk), per lb.	25c
Lemon Peel, per lb.	50c	Almond, per lb.	75c
Orange Peel, per lb.	50c	8 oz. bottles Flavoring Ex.	40c
Pine (new stock), per lb.	50c	Baking Soda, per lb.	25c
New Valencia Raisins, 3 lbs.	50c	Choco. Mousse, per gallon.	50c
New Currants, 5 lbs.	50c	Mace, per lb.	50c
Mixed Raisins (dark), per lb.	50c	1 doz Nutmegs for	50c
Almonds, per lb.	75c

Besides the above, we have a large number of brands of Flour, and also any other ingredients necessary in making good cakes and good puddings. Buy now and avoid the rush.

Buy at the Big Store and Save Money.

WENTZEL'S LIMITED
The "Big Store"

DARING ROBBERIES.

The Dodges of Pearl and Diamond Thieves in London.

There is no more daring robber than the man who makes jewels his specialty, of which the selling price was fixed at $150,000, while in transit between Paris and London, goes to prove. In this case, the package, dispatched by registered post, containing the pearls, arrived in London on July 15th last with only a neatly arranged piece of French sugar and some sawdust in it. The thief must have extracted the pearls after the parcel containing them had been posted in Paris and before it was delivered to the Marquis Mayer, the owner, at Hutton Garden. Probably Hutton Garden has been the scene of more jewel robberies than any other thoroughfare in London. On one occasion a traveler in the employ of a large diamond firm, drove in a four-wheeled cab to a house in the Garden. When entering the building he left within the vehicle two large bags, hands containing jewelry. Presently a lad in the uniform of a messenger, came up to the cab and, remarking to the driver that his fare would be out in a few minutes, he suddenly attacked the driver from behind and overpowered by a handkerchief, soaked in chloroform, he was rendered unconscious. He discovered that the bags containing his jewels were gone. The thief or thieves left no clue whatever behind them.

One night in December, 1874, Lord and Lady Dudley drove up to Paddington Station followed by a cab conveying two servants and in charge of her ladyship's jewel-case. The servants alighted from the cab and placed the box on the pavement while they paid the driver. When they turned to pick up the box they found it had vanished. Although a reward of £1,000 was offered for any information that would lead to the recovery of the jewels or part thereof, no trace of them has since been discovered.

An Adventurous Life.
That remarkable novelist, Mr. Joseph Conrad, who now receives a well-deserved pension from the English Civil List, is a Pole by birth. He was born in 1857, his father being a well-known poet and critic, and the proprietor of a review in Warsaw. As the elder Conrad was an ardent patriot, he came under the notice of the Russian Government, and was arrested just before the Polish rising. The members of the Conrad family were concerned in this rising, and the novelist's mother was banished to Siberia.

Mr. Joseph Conrad was educated in Cracow, and in his youth was made on an English trading vessel, and in this manner he acquired the knowledge of the English language. He stuck to the sea for many years, and qualified as a master in 1883, becoming at the same time a naturalized British subject. About ten years later he wrote his first novel, "Almayer's Folly," and though it did not secure many readers, the literary critics were kind, and Mr. Conrad resolved to adopt writings as a profession.

Mr. Conrad writes English with a rare sense of style and beauty, so that it is a surprise to many of his admirers reading to learn that he is employing a language which he did not acquire until after boyhood.

Painful Experience.
"After I had written 'The Wake of the Sun' I sold it for $250," writes Mr. Joseph Conrad in "The Private Life of Henry Matthews." "When the bargain was finally struck Mr. Jones Brown said to me, 'Now, Mr. R., as the business is all done, would you mind telling me quite frankly to what extent this book of yours is true?' I replied, 'It is as true as I can make it to be.' Then you meant to say, 'that you actually did starve as you relate?' I said, 'Certainly I did, and might have died a dead dealer if I had chosen.' He fell into a fit of nervousness, and shaking his head, murmured, 'Ah, hunger is a dreadful thing—! I once went without dinner myself!'

Historic Home For Sale.
Plus Newryd, the home of that eccentric couple, "The Ladies of Llangollen," has been offered for sale. Its first sale occurred in 1832, and from the style of the announcement it would appear that the auctioneer, one Mr. George Robbins, was an aspirant to literary fame. "Upon the freehold," wrote the excellent Robbins, "is a considerable quantity of valuable timber which overhangs a fine garden. In the garden, in the east end, a fine brook leaps and dangles over the rough stones in its channel towards the vale of Llangollen."

An Eratic Echo.
The late Sir John Long had traveled in most quarters of the globe. On one occasion when visiting Spain he was asked by a certain party a traveling companion to test the powers of what was declared to be a wonderful cure. Sir John, slowly and deliberately, in rounded tones uttered the words "Dun-dee Ad-ver-sary," the name of the opposition party, came back as he echoed! Sir John's friends had played him a trick.

For a bad cold. Nothing cures so quickly as the healing Pine Essences in Catarrhs. It fills the breathing organs with a healing, soothing vapor that relieves irritation at once. Ordinary colds are cured in ten minutes. Absolutely sure for Catarrh, and in throat trouble the remedy is a charm. Catarrhs are a permanent cure, but a temporary relief. Not an experiment—no temporary relief—but one that is guaranteed. Get Catarrh Essence today. 50 cents and $1.00 sizes.

PATENTS
and trade-marks procured, in all countries. Why not discuss your work with us? In connection with the following:

FATHERSTONHAUGH & CO.
St. Paul Building, Halifax, Phone 112.
100-102-104

We have just received another large supply of the Royal Society Goods

—BUREAU SCARVES, GLOVES TOWELS, COVERS, LAUNDRY BAGS, FANCY BAGS, FIN OUSHIONS, BIBES, SACKS, SHIRT WAISTERS, BABY PILLOWS, and many others.

—AT—

CROWE'S GREEN BRICK STORE

"COME UP HILBERT"

Rev. Mr. Hilbert.

Through earthly trials, and clouds of tribulation, The heavenly message gleams its radiant way. Coldly we listen to the invitation, And then our souls, our hearts, resume their sway. "Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we wait, we long to greet, "The slippery pathways which your feet are treading. And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Why do you linger? Grief, and care, and doubt, and sorrow, they are all behind you; Battered today, you build upon the morrow?"

"With you, love changes, friendship dies in coldness; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years; You also, some day, may break the ties of years."

And then, now, planted with unfading flowers! Trembling we walked them, every moment drawing near the gates, the portals of the bowers."

"Come, come up Hilbert," cry our lost and loved ones, "Bending to watch us from their happy seat: 'Will you not heed our voices, our entreaties?'"

Your ransomed souls we

