THE VATICAN THUNDERS AGAINST FEMININE FASHIONS Official Organ of the Church Declares Popular Styles of Dress Excite the Passions and Lower the Moral Tone -Women Should Exercise Greater Modesty

NEW YORK, July 8.—A Paris dispatch to the Times says that the issue of the Observatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican, which reached Paris last night, contains a scathing denunciation of the tendencies of the feminine fashions of today. Taking as its text the petition against the immoral press forwarded by the Catholic ladies to the minister of the interior and signed by several thousand Italian women, the Observatore says: "We hope the competent authorities will apply the law against these new Aesopian stables. At the same time we cannot but deplore another danger to good morals which comes to us from other countries, and against which we men might well unite. We refer to the fashions worn in the streets by women of all ages and by young girls. "Those who profess with ardent Catholic faith and morals should not be indulgent toward women who walk about the streets wearing immodest garments. All the present day fashions are designed to excite the passions, to lead the mind to the things of the flesh, to lead the mind to the things of the flesh, to lead the mind to the things of the flesh. These fashions are prejudicial to beauty which is the reflection of the bounty of God and therefore fruitful in moral and well-being. "Cleanse these unholly wardrobes, rid them of their dresses which make the wearer, guarding against modesty, let your wives and daughters make their own clothes rather than wear dresses which grieve the holy spirit and the father of truth."

COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE CRAZY FROM LIQUOR James Murphy, of Newcastle, Jumped Out of Hotel Window and Drowned Himself in the River

NEWCASTLE, July 8.—A man suspected to be James Murphy, a native of Newcastle, and later a resident of Doaktown, for some time working in Maine, returned home this week. He was drinking heavily and came to the Harris House here, Wednesday night, he took delirium tremens and yesterday when he became violent the proprietor sent for a policeman. The man quieted down and Dr. Desmond was sent for. The doctor went out to get the police to send a man to stay with the sick man. Murphy became violent again and asked Proprietor Harris for a knife. While Harris went away to lock up the knives, Murphy, left alone, jumped out the up-stairs window, ran to the ferry wharf about one o'clock this morning, and drowned himself. The body was found nearby about 2.30. The body was identified by the deceased's half-brother, William Gould, of Nelson. Murphy was about twenty-five. He left a gold watch and one hundred and seventeen dollars cash with Harris. An inquest will be held.

NEXT YEAR'S CONFERENCE WILL HAVE A BUSY TIME

WASHINGTON, July 9.—International regulation of aerial navigation and wireless telegraphy will receive prominent consideration at the fourth Pan-American conference, to be held at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, July next, if the tentative programme prepared for that occasion is approved finally. The committee on programme which has just made public its report to the governing board of the international bureau of the American republics considered the rapid advancement along these lines in the last few years justified these subjects being placed in the programme for discussion. "The questions of uniformity in census and commercial statistics, of uniformity in customs regulations and consular documents of sanitary police and quarantine, of the establishment of greater stability in commercial relations and of a more uniform monetary standard, foreign immigration, naturalization, neutrality in case of civil war, and uniformity of regulations for protection against anarchists are other subjects mentioned. Much attention will doubtless be given to the proposed Pan-American railway now being considered by noted New York financiers.

Weston was feeling in the best of spirits and announced that he expected to reach Sacramento Saturday afternoon and San Francisco the following Tuesday.

SENATE FINISHES THE TARIFF BILL Passed at a Session Which Lasted Till Midnight Congressmen are Assembled Today to Have the Last Word on This Much Discussed Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The scene of the great battle over the tariff bill shifts now from the Senate to the House of Representatives. The members of the house, rallying to the call of the whip, flocked from all directions to Washington yesterday and today, and the outlook this morning was that when the house convened at noon there would be a full attendance on both sides to witness the bill over which the Senate wrestled yesterday until nearly midnight.

The final vote in the Senate passing the bill by a vote of 55 to 34 was announced at 11.15 p. m. after a weary day of protracted debate which was almost devoid of animation, until within a few minutes before the close, when there arose a sharp controversy over the party standing of the insurgent republican senators, several of them hotly resenting being voted out of the party by Senator Aldrich, who disclaimed any such intention. The house had arranged yesterday to be in session at noon today in the hope that the bill could be received from the Senate by that time and then was prospect of a full attendance in anticipation of its arrival. It early came to be understood, however, that the measure probably would not be received during the day because of the laborious task upon the Senatorial clerical force in the enrollment for the other body.

TELL ABOUT A LIVELY TIME IN THE CURREY HOUSEHOLD

MANY MIRACULOUS CURES AT ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE First Train Returning From Shrine Reaches Moncton With Seven Who Have Received Benefit.

MONCTON, N. B., July 9.—With seven cures among the passengers the first pilgrim excursion train from St. Anne De Beaupre arrived at Moncton at 10.30 this morning. The train was in charge of Father Mombourquette, Archat, C. B., and J. H. Corcoran, Moncton. Seven who have been cured returned home on this train. Greta White, of Sydney Mines, has been deaf and partially blind for fourteen years, and now her affliction is completely cured. Sadie Gillis, of Antigonish, went to St. Anne De Beaupre on crutches and returned without them. Annie McGilivray, of Antigonish, who has been lame for 24 years, almost since the day of her birth, is now able to walk as well as anyone. Margaret Chisholm, of Antigonish, has for the past eleven years been suffering from paralysis and rheumatism and is now fully recovered. Mrs. Frank Lesere, Sackville, has been cured of lameness from which she has been suffering for one year, and Mrs. A. Haines, of Blackville, was completely cured of dropsy and rheumatism. Louise Phelan, Chatham, has for eighteen years been suffering from a sore foot and is now cured. Mrs. McCarthy, Moncton, went away with crutches and at Lewis station last evening walked the whole length of the platform. The pilgrims were cross-examined by Mr. Skinner. He said to Mrs. Currey when she addressed him: "You ought to be so happy. You two are foolish to set this war."

ISLE LA MOTTE, Vermont, July 9.—Patriotic women of Vermont today dedicated a boulder in memory of Col. Smith Water and Capt. Remember Baker, heroes who were associated with Ethan Allen in the battles of the Revolutionary days along the shores of Lake Champlain, as a part of the exercises marking the close of the week's celebration of the 100th anniversary of the discovery by Champlain of the lake bearing his name. BURLINGTON, Vt., July 9.—After the events of yesterday when the President of the United States, British and Canadian representatives were here to assist in the burlington concert was given in connection with the discovery of Lake Champlain, today was practically a day of rest. A band concert was given in City Hall Park in the forenoon and in the afternoon there were trotting races at the track of the Burlington Driving Club.

HEAVY TRAVEL TODAY

There was a heavy traffic by rail and steamboat this morning. The Union Depot was the scene of more than ordinary activity. The outgoing and incoming trains were taxed to their utmost capacity. Additional cars were provided to accommodate the large number of travellers. The Calvin Austin arrived from Boston about 9 o'clock bringing 568 passengers. The majority went out on the noon train. Saturday and Monday will also be heavy days, as large numbers will reach the city to attend the Orangeville celebration.

FORTNIGHTLY PAY DAY.

The fortnightly laborers' pay roll disbursed at City Hall today was as follows: Ferry Dept. $186.77 Water and Sewerage $2,968.17 Public Works $2,270.01 $6,124.95

Among the passengers on the Calvin Austin today was Frederick M. Berryman, of San Francisco. It is over forty years since Mr. Berryman left St. John. While there are many number of changes in the city, Mr. Berryman still sees a few familiar faces. He is a brother of Dr. D. E. Berryman, formerly leaving St. John he was in the hardware business with W. A. Adams, father of Arthur Adams. At San Francisco he is engaged in the wholesale coal business. Joseph Foley was arrested this morning on the charge of assaulting two men in Sayer's mill. He will be tried this afternoon.

Several St. John Men Who Were Present on One Exciting Occasion Describe What They Saw and Heard—Child Had Asked Them to Come In

FREDERICTON, N. B., July 8.—The Currey divorce case was continued this morning. After the evidence of George E. Vincent, Alfred Peatman, Elias Currey and Alice Currey, taken at the former hearing, had been read, John Flood, of St. John, was called and examined by Mr. Hamington. He said that he lived about one hundred yards from the Currey residence. He was passing the latter house one Sunday in August, 1907, when he heard a woman screaming. He looked up and saw a woman in a window and a man in a night shirt take hold of her and pull her back and close the window. A boy was standing at the door crying out. The witness entered the house and saw Mrs. Currey, coming down the stairs with a little girl by her side. Mrs. Currey, who was up stairs, shouted down: "Don't believe a damn word she says."

Mrs. Flood said: "This man has been abusing me all the time." The boy at the door cried to the witness, "Wolnister, come in, my father is killing my mother."

Mr. Flood said he knew the Currey children and always considered them properly cared for and well dressed. The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Skinner. He said to Mrs. Currey when she addressed him: "You ought to be so happy. You two are foolish to set this war."

Arthur Munde, next called, said he remembered the morning of July 15th, 1906. Early that morning, about one o'clock, he left his place of business and when opposite the Currey residence he heard a woman screaming and a man talking very loudly. He went into an alley next the residence and saw an open window. He heard the woman say two or three times, "Let me go." The witness went in. Currey was in the hall at the head of the stairs, she beside him. The reason he went in was because a boy came out, crying: "Mister! Come in, father is killing mother!" Mrs. Currey was in hysterics. The witness asked Currey if he had struck her and he denied it. Currey told the witness about the writ being served. There was only another man in the yard and he went in the house with him. There were a great many people looking from the surrounding windows. The witness swore positively that he had made no cross-examination to be there. The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Skinner, but the evidence remained unshaken. He said he recognized Currey of striking his wife. Currey denied it and witness said to him: "If you did so you ought to get your head punched." The reason he denied Currey was because when he looked in the window the man and woman were close together. He saw the woman fall, but he could not say whether she fell or was pushed. The witness also asked Mrs. Currey if she had been struck, and she, after hesitating, replied, "no." He asked Mrs. Currey if she had any place to go for the night. She said no, that she would stay where she was. After he left the house he saw the police enter and he waited outside until they came out. The whole affair could not have lasted more than fifteen or twenty minutes.

PROCESSIONS OF THE HOST.

Mr. Gladstone in Parliament States the British Law.

In the House of Commons on June 24, Colonel Long (Worcestershire, Evesham, Opp.), asked the Home Secretary if it had not been brought to his notice that, since the Prime Minister deemed it his duty to stop a procession of the Host in the streets of London last September, illegal processions of the Host had been held in the public streets of Reading, Walsworth and Highgate, were the police employed on some of these occasions to protect such illegal processions; and what steps had been taken to prevent such processions taking place in the future, and if no such steps had been taken, what did he propose to do in the future.

Mr. Gladstone (Leeds, W.)—My attention has been called to the processions mentioned, which were of small dimensions, and passed off without any disturbance. Neither the Government nor the police have power by previous formal action to prohibit processions, even if there is reason to suppose that section 28 of the Roman Catholic Emancipation Act is about to be contravened. If illegality occurs, penalties are prescribed under section 4, but they have to be recovered afterwards by information filed by the Attorney General. It is important to observe that the Act, by excluding the common informer, and leaving the question of prosecution to be considered on the merits of the case by the Attorney General, does not contemplate that proceedings should be taken in all cases of contravention. The duty of the police is confined to the maintenance of order. It is most desirable that in these matters common sense and... influence all who are concerned (Nationalist cheers), and when such an influence prevail, there is no occasion whatever for police action.

The A. O. H. moonlight picnic last night was a splendid success. Some three hundred odd excursionists sailed merrily away on the Elaine at 8:30 last night to view the beauties of the Saint John river by moonlight. The beauties were there, but the moon was absent, yet it did not detract the picnic party from having a most enjoyable outing. Dancing to a good band is always a pleasant pastime, while singing and spooning have certainly furnished a delight on the water which cannot be obtained on land. The Elaine steamed up to Brown's Point and returned, after which she took a short spin up the Narrows, finally docking at Indiantown at 12:35 p. m. Special cars were awaiting to take the contented excursionists to their respective homes.

POLICE LAND

SLAYERS OF MRS. STABER

NEW YORK, July 8.—Two shoeshorn men, one wounded in the arm and thigh by the police, and the other tonight, charged with the murder of Mrs. Sophia Staber, wife of George Staber, a New York importer of paper, in whose residence, at Flatbush, L. I., in the suburb of Brooklyn, occurred a fight with burglars early today, which Mrs. Staber met and slayed.

The latter was the one wounded and admitted, the police say, that it was a bullet from his pistol which killed Mrs. Staber.

George Staber, a son, has identified both men as those who entered the house.

Mr. Staber was shot dead at two o'clock in the morning while standing in his bedroom door.

Mr. Staber was the first to be awakened by the burglars by the flash of an electric pocket lamp carried by one of them.

"Who are you?" he demanded. "Keep quiet and we won't hurt you," came the answer. "We want your money."

Wakened Mrs. Staber

The dialogue wakened Mrs. Staber, who became uncontrollably frightened. She began to shriek. The burglars went to the hall, but Mrs. Staber's cries had aroused her son, George, 29 years old. As he stepped from his door a man struck at him in the dark, near but missed him and stumbled down stairs. At the same instant he saw the second burglar, grappled with him and fought him into the bath room. In the struggle the burglar managed with his free hand to draw a seven-shot automatic pistol. Then began an even fiercer fight for the pistol.

In the meantime, Mrs. Staber was standing in the doorway screaming and agitating her husband's attempts to pull her back into the room. Young Staber succeeded in keeping the muzzle of the burglar's revolver away from him, but it was nevertheless discharged. Two shots went wild; the third cut the draw-string of his pajamas, set the cloth on fire, and though not wounding him, killed his mother. Just as young Staber finally got control of the pistol, the burglar wrenched himself loose. Staber chased him down stairs, firing as he ran. Two shots evidently took effect, but the last two cartridges missed fire. When he reached the veranda the street was empty.

JAI ALAI IS BETTER THAN A BULLFIGHT

Grows in Favor in Cuba and Surpasses National Pastime.

If the fans who sit and watch the ball game could suddenly be transported to Havana or the City of Mexico and see a game of "jai alai" pronounced "jai alai," they would agree that it is the most exciting sport in the entire world.

Jai alai is the baseball of Spain and all Spanish countries. In some places, it is called "pelota," which is Spanish for ball. It is in Havana, however, that the game is at its best during the winter season.

The game is a sort of cross between handball and tennis. It is played in a large building, three walls of which are heavily concreted. The court is eighty-five yards long. The open space on the fourth side of the building is given over to tiers and galleries for spectators.

On the wrist of the players in the game is strapped a bat made like a basket of strong, closely-woven reeds. The baskets, or "sets," which is the Spanish equivalent—are made in Spain and cost $10 American money. The ball which the players use is also imported from Spain. It is smaller than a baseball, but harder and heavier.

The game may be played by two men, four men, or six men, divided into teams, or by five or six men, each man playing for himself. The game in which the two men play against each other is by far the most exciting, and sets the question upon which the most gambling is done.

It was in 1883 that Arthur Irwin, playing shortstop for Providence, broke the third and fourth fingers of his left hand and revolutionized the fielding game writes Will Irwin in Collier's. He still shows a little finger bent almost at right angles and he says as he shows it: "That did it."

Then a club was a team, not two or three teams. They entered the struggle with ten or, at most, eleven men—a full team and one or two substitutes. If there were two pitchers the one not in the box served as an outfielder.

A man took a day off only for serious cause. So Irwin, star infielder, had to devise some way of healing his injuries. He consulted a glover. They took a buckskin driving glove, many times too large, padded it, made a fastening at the back and sewed the third and fourth fingers together to make room for bandages. The crowd, Irwin knew, would forgive him because of his mangled condition.

From the first time he took a ground-er with that glove he noticed that he did not have to "ease off" and he could get away his throw quicker than any other man on the infield.

John Montgomery Ward, of the New York team, observed this. With monumental moral courage he got a glove like Irwin's and used it in a game. No one booed him for his cowardice. Within two weeks after Irwin and Ward first took their gloves around the circuit, a sporting goods firm had orders from professionals for a hundred like them.

By the next season nearly every professional was wearing one of the "Irwin gloves." Denny, the rugged old third baseman, was a conspicuous ex-

BOATS WILL RACE UNDER NEW RULES

R. K. Y. C. to Use the Universal Rule in Their Races

A big racing day for the R. K. Y. C. will be on the 15th of the present month. On that day the first real race of the season, that of the big boats, takes place. It also marks an epoch in the club's history, in that for the first time the universal rule will be tried. This rule is in use by all of the important yacht clubs of the United States and Canada. Hitherto the R. K. Y. C. have sailed all races under the Seawaska rule. The former, it is claimed by the yachting generally, is the best for the rest of the world, and the cruising motor boats at 4 o'clock.

The officers for the day are as follows: For the first race Judge J. Fraser Gregory, Fred C. Jones, timers, W. C. Rothwell, Geo. M. C. Blairard. For the second race: Judge, Judge Armstrong, J. D. Cadby, Judge Willich. For the third race, S. P. Gerow, R. D. Patterson and A. G. Rainie.

The race will be over a special course, the boats will be in sight of the club house most of the time. The start will be off the club wharf, sailing to Sandy Hook, then to Board's Head, from there to the Milkish Chop and back to Middleville. The course for the motor boats will also be a special one. The start will be off the club house to Sandy Point, around Indian Island, back to Sandy Point, and again around Indian Island, finishing off the club house. The cruising motor boats will sail the same course.

SAD DROWNING AT ANAPLIS
ANNAPOLIS, N. S., July 8.-A sad drowning accident occurred here about noon today by which Cecil Jordan, aged eleven years, lost his life. A number of small boys were playing on a raft that was lying off the ferry slip, and in some way the raft tipped up, throwing young Jordan into the water. The other boys were too frightened to do anything and valuable time was lost before their cries attracted the attention of a sailor on one of the ships lying in the harbor, who dove over after the drowning boy, but was unable to locate him. A number of persons were attracted to the scene and the body was found about ten minutes after the accident occurred. Every means was used to revive the boy, but after working over him for some time doctors pronounced life to be extinct.

COMPANY PAYS FOR UNIFORMS OF MEN
TORONTO, July 8.-A somewhat unexpected turn was given to the controversy between the management and the men of the Toronto Railway Company over the matter of uniforms, when some of the motormen and conductors on opening their pay envelopes today found a refund for uniforms which they had purchased, as they claimed, contrary to their rights. It is believed that any other questions that stand between the men and management now can be easily settled. The men have one complaint, that spotters are on too many cars, but this can be easily adjusted.

MAGNIFICENT FEATURE AT "STAR" TONIGHT.
"The Violin Maker of Cremona" is one of the finest stories ever written, and when produced by the Biograph Co. in Star Theatre, North End, this evening, will undoubtedly prove equal to its interesting as a picture-play. In addition will be "Her First Discuits," a cat's comedy, and "The Fated Valley," a grotesque. Al Weston will sing his farewell numbers, and on Monday Mary Ballard, a winsome soprano, will make her bow at the Star. Big Saturday matinee.

TOLSTOY'S RESURRECTION AT H. H. TODAY.
Today and tomorrow the H. H. H. will present the biggest picture hit of the year. It is an adaptation of Count Leo Tolstoy, the great Russian reformer and novelist, masterpiece, Resurrection. No novel of the past decade has made such an impression with this great story. It has been translated into every language and been played by the leading actors of the world. The picture is magnificent. The staging is correct and elaborate, the acting is by the famous Biograph Company and the photography is perfect. Two side-splitting comedies, Mr. Phip and The Bachelor's wife, founded on (Charles) Auntie, will be shown. A "by request" singing programme will be given. Mile. Berlin will repeat Annie Laurie, Signor Berlin will repeat Howes Bring Dreams of You, and their duet will be The Message of The Red, Red Rose, from the musical comedy Marcelle, of which company Mile. Berlin was a member. Last night the Cordovino Sisters made an even bigger hit than the previous night. Critics declare they are the best dancers seen here in years. Their English, Scotch, Irish and Dutch dances, in costumes has certainly made a hit. They close tomorrow night. Don't miss this entire show. It's worth double the price. Matinees every day.

BERNHARDT'S LEADING MAN AT NICKEL.
"The Reckoning," the famous Art Plims of Pathe Freres, will be the big feature at the Nickel today, not only because it is a particularly strong so-called drama, gorgeously staged and costumed, but because it is enacted by the leading players of France, headed by Mome Krause, who is today the leading man in Sarah Bernhardt's renowned company. Mome Krause plays a cess less evening in their triple bill, "Bobolink," by Miss Holmes; Kipling's "Mother O'Mine" by Mr. Ballagan, and in duet "Schubert's Serenade." Wee Pat Harrington was enthusiastically receiving Rev. Mr. Ruth conducted the services before a large congregation.

Children's matinee, Saturday at 2.30.

NEW SONGS BY BLIZZARD-NEW PICTURES-BIQUO.
Again last night the Blizzard Trio delighted large audiences with their songs and to say that they are making a big hit is putting it mildly. These people, who are winning new friends each day, will be heard in new songs, and in addition Miss Blizard and Mr. Wm. Blizard sing "I'm Starving for One Sight of You," and Mr. John Blizard will sing "I've Got Mine." As their engagement at the Bijou draws to a close tomorrow, all who have not heard these colored vocal wonder should not miss the treat. In pictures, five good ones, comedy and drama will be shown. Let's say right here, see "At the Time of the Northernmen." It's by one of the best film manufacturers in the world, "Luis," beautifully scenic and gorgeously colored. Full show afternoon.

ANOTHER SHOCK FOR MAN.

Great are the discoveries of science. Amlet Skeelies, Professor of Physiology in the University of Kansas, has found that whenever a man tells a lie his wiggle his big toe. This announcement is a result of years of observation. The learned educator explains that reflex nervous force caused by the man's sub-conscious radio mental activity which will not control, moves the toe. This indeed is a rather technical explanation, and the professor in order that the public may realize more clearly just what he means, simplifies matters by saying that a man who is departing from the exact truth says to himself, "You know you are a liar"—and his toe wiggles.

Out of this remarkable discovery much can be drawn and great results may be achieved. It has been said that language is given to man to conceal his thoughts. A slight variation must now be made, shows, according to Professor Skeelies, were given to conceal thought and in line with the professor's idea it may be deduced that if all men went in their bare feet, the race would soon undergo a process of reform. Fretfulness would be unknown and deception never practiced. Yet even in this thought some doubt arises for almost anybody can pick out a barefoot urchin on the street who at times appears as a liar or almost fiendish inanity.

Supposing, for instance, that instead of watching a man's face when he is talking to you, you keep an eye on his feet. He will naturally want to know what you are looking at and his friends may easily be looked by the explanation you offer. But what a magnificent method Professor Skeelies' idea would be to flabbergast the political speaker. The electors of St. John County could have heard of fun by watching the pedal extremities of those stumpers who are now making the rounds. And what a shock a Christian congregation might sustain, if they noticed an intermittent rising and falling of the leather covering their beloved pastor's toes.

The professor's experiments were not confined to man only but were extended to monkeys. One of his tests was in placing a lump of sugar in a baboon's cage. Then he went away. When the cage was opened the sugar was gone, and in an exceedingly angry tone he asked the baboon, "Where is that lump of sugar?" The ape made faces and chattered as loudly as it could, endeavoring to say, as could plainly be seen, "I don't know nothing about your sugar."

To the professor's extreme satisfaction the baboon's toes wiggled violently while the creature was talking. What further proof could be desired?

THE MICHIGAN DECISION.

A Michigan woman whose home has been ruined through liquor has obtained judgment against a saloon keeper for converting her husband from an upright man into a drunkard, and has been awarded damages of $5,225. This is only common justice, but such a decision has never previously been regarded as law. Now, although the Superior Court of Michigan has itself declared the verdict just, it is likely that the principle involved will be generally accepted. The liquor dealer who profits through the sale of his goods to weak-minded men, should of course be held responsible for the damage done by his wares. This, at least, would be regarded as a great point in the fight against the liquor traffic. But if this rule is to be applied to the sale of intoxicants, it must be equally applicable to all other branches of business. And no country is yet in a proper state of mind to declare that such a law shall prevail. There has never yet been an authoritative ruling regarding the extent to which liquor in itself is responsible for suffering and wretchedness, and what proportion of the resultant misery is due to human weakness. The Michigan decision which will scarcely become law, however desirable such a condition might be from the temperance standpoint, throws upon the liquor dealer the responsibility of judging accurately the moral and mental calibre of all his customers. In the same way a vendor of sluggish pastry—if an extreme view were taken—must be held to account for damage done to the digestive organs of his weak-womached patrons. Those who sell firecrackers must adopt the necessary precautions against loss of life or property as a result of their use, and in fact the whole responsibility for self-preservation is taken from the ones directly affected and placed upon others whose interest naturally is only of a mercenary nature. Certainly one could wish that such a verdict as has been rendered in Michigan might become law, and indeed legislation along temperance lines is at times so peculiar that this is not beyond the range of possibility.

MASQUERADES AS MAN AND WEDS A WOMAN

Noted Convent Leads Extraordinary Deception Error Up to Rails of Altar.

MELBOURNE, July 8.—After an extraordinary masquerade in man's clothes, in the course of which she went through a form of marriage with another woman, the notorious Amy Brock, who has many times been convicted on various charges of fraud in Australia and New Zealand, was arrested at Fort Melbourne, New Zealand.

Calling herself "Percy Carol Redwood," she stayed at a boarding house at Fort Melbourne, and giving it to be understood that she was something of an Archdeacon Redwood, she was received in the most fashionable circles.

"Redwood" lost no time in paying "his" addresses to Miss Ottaway, the landlady's daughter. His cheerful manner had made him a general favorite, and he was accepted.

The girl's parents a few days later received a letter purporting to come from the bridegroom, stating that he had ample means, which she intended to double on his wedding day, and that at her death she intended to be present, with her daughter at the wedding.

Another letter, written on the notepaper of the Auckland Drainage Board, arrived to say that he had been appointed their secretary at a salary of $35 a week.

Taking the bride to Dunedin, Redwood bought her jewelry of the value of $800. To pay for this he mortgaged a brilliant diamond ring, long recognized in the most fashionable circles.

Suspicious, however, regarding the debonair bridegroom had been aroused. After a family consultation a detective was called in and confronted with Redwood. "Ah!" said he. "I thought so! Amy Brock! The game's up, Amy!"

"Well, what do you think of it by this time?" asked the preacher. "Well, mah," replied the colored man, "ah prayed and prayed, and do good laws, he says to me, 'Rastus, ah wouldn't bodder mah had about dat no mo. Ah've been trying git into de church mahsef for de las' twenty years, and ah sint done had no luck.'"

ROMANCE REVEALED BY WOMAN'S DEATH

PARIS, July 9.—Students of the Latin Quarter will miss the familiar figure of "Mrs. Terzin," the white-haired kindly old woman who, for over thirty years, sold evening newspapers at the corner of the "Boulevard." Every day, from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until midnight, in all weathers, she was to be found at her post. She was never communicative, but there was an air of refinement about her, and a tone in her speech that are not usually found in those who sell newspapers in the street.

Now that she is dead the secret, or at least a part of it, is out. It is said to have been a fact that she was a member of one of the oldest families of the French nobility. How she came to get a living as she did nobody knows. She died in a shabby room with no comforts about her and only a few coins, including some that are not current in France. These are supposed to have been palmed off by unscrupulous customers.

PORTE IN ACCORD WITH ORIENT RAILWAY

Division of the Compensation to be Paid by Bulgaria is Agreed to.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 9.—An entente has been reached between the Porte and the Orient Railway Company with regard to the division of the compensation for the seizure of the Eastern Roumelian lines by Bulgaria, and the fact was communicated to the Bulgarian government. An agreement was also reached fixing the amount payable to the company by the Porte in settlement of a number of longstanding claims on the basis of Senior More's arbitral award. Finally the company has agreed to accept transformation into an Ottoman company.

The settlement of all questions between the Porte and the Orient Railway, including the payment of compensation for the lines situated in Bulgaria, which again threatened to involve Turkey and Bulgaria in complications, is a highly satisfactory achievement due to the conciliatory attitude displayed on both sides. The company and the Porte have both reduced their claims. Thus the sum of $8,400,000 which is obtained from Bulgaria will be divided equally between the Porte and the railway company, while the indemnity payable by the Porte on the basis of Senior More's award is considerably reduced.

On the other hand, the company secures a 15 per cent. increase in its share of the net receipts of the railway when these exceed $3,325 per kilometer.

In the afternoon he accompanied Mr. Bowers to his office, and there saw, and was immediately conquered by Miss Gita O. Eaton, a stenographer. Lovemaking started at once.

On the following day McLaughlin dined with Miss Eaton at the home of her father, Thomas R. Eaton, who is supervisor of the Manual Training School at Canton. On Monday he proposed, and refused to listen to any delay. This evening they were married at St. Bridget's Catholic Church, at Canton, by Father McNamara.

The bridal pair departed tonight for a short wedding trip, after which they will reside at 3125 Canace street, Tioga.

HER BOARDING HOUSE WAS A DEATH TRAP

Widow in Vienna Charged With Murder of Five Men.

VIENNA, July 9.—One of the most sensational criminal cases which the Austrian capital has ever known has been brought to light by the arrest of Frau Kobovsky on suspicion of having committed five murders.

Frau Kobovsky, who is a widow, 42 years of age, kept a boarding house here. Two of her lodgers died in the house four years ago, and she was sentenced to two years imprisonment for stealing their property.

When she came out of prison she reopened the boarding house, and three more lodgers died in it last year. Recently another lodger told the police that Frau Kobovsky tried to push him into the Danube, and then gave him poisoned wine during an excursion.

The police have discovered that all the five lodgers who died were rich and elderly, and their bodies will be exhumed and examined.

BOY'S TERRIBLE TRIP IN A BALLOON

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., July 8.—In the presence of 10,000 persons, gathered to witness the celebration of the Fourth, Jesse Wyman, 10 years old, was caught in the ropes of a balloon yesterday afternoon, and carried, head downward, 500 feet in the air. Scores of women, including the boy's mother, fainted as they saw the little fellow carried away. The crowd expected to see him dashed to the ground, but the rope seemed to hold, and he soon got himself into an upright position.

As the balloon drifted out over the ocean, Virgil Moore, the aeronaut, drew the boy up to him, and held him close to his side on the trapeze bar. After it drifted over the water for a third of a mile, a gust of wind blew the balloon on its side, and it slowly descended to the water as the gas escaped. A lunch from the naval training ship Alert had followed the balloon, and as the aeronaut and the boy touched the water and rescued them.

POLITICIAN, IN BATTLE, KILLS FOUR SNAKES

Call of One, Councilman Avers, Brought Reinforcements on Run.

CHESTER, Pa., July 9.—Councilman William W. Johnson, of Eddystone borough, had a real battle with snakes on the lawn of his residence this morning.

Johnson was walking through the grass, when he stepped upon the tail of a reptile. Here is Mr. Johnson's account of the battle:

"With a hiss that could be heard a square the snake darted its forked tongue directly into my face, maintaining its most perpendicular position to do it. I swatted the snake across the head with my open hand and laid it low, but the snake again darted at me and attempted to fasten its fangs in my leg, but I kicked it off."

All the time that the struggle lasted the snake kept up a hiss that was evidently meant as a call for reinforcements, as two other snakes appeared, and were later joined by a fourth.

"By this time I had secured a club and succeeded in dispatching the reptiles, which measured nearly five feet each."

Mr. Johnson has not yet decided what aspects the snakes are.

ELBERTON, Ga., July 9.—After living for eleven years in Alabama under an assumed name, accumulating a fortune and becoming prominent in his community, J. B. Hill, a former citizen of this county, has been brought to Elberton and lodged in jail to be tried for complicity in a murder committed years ago.

Eleven years ago Hill and his son-in-law, Samuel Brock, it is alleged, killed Lee Crook, a wealthy planter. It is admitted that Brock did the actual killing, but it is charged that Hill was an accessory. Brock escaped and has never been heard from. Hill was arrested, but escaped before trial and went to Alabama, settling near Guntersville, and assuming the name of "Tom Lind."

Later he went back to Georgia for his wife and children. Mrs. Hill posed as a widow and her husband remarried her in Alabama under the name of Lind to avoid suspicion.

Hill after going to Alabama accumulated money. He now owns over 1,000 acres of arming land under which, it is said, a coal vein and also a bed of iron ore have been discovered. Hill's old neighbors in Georgia had forgotten him and the killing of Crook when it was discovered that he lived in Alabama and had become a man of means.

Wansley Wansley communed with the authorities in Alabama and went to the home of Hill and arrested him. It is said, a coal vein and also a bed of iron ore have been discovered. MURDERER SENT FROM CHAIR TO THE SINK

WOODSTOCK, July 8.—While Martin Allan, employed with the C. P. R. here, was seated in the kitchen of his house last night, a blinding flash of lightning entered the room to hit him bodily from his chair and to cast him into the sink. He was burned severely about the body and legs and one shoe was torn from his foot.

Mr. Allan's experience was a most remarkable one and it is regarded as little short of miraculous that he escaped with his life.

The electrical fluid did not wholly confine its attention to Mr. Martin, however. The furniture of the room was sent flying in all directions, and the stove and fan by means of which it effected its entrance was wholly demolished.

Mr. Allan does not remember much of what occurred. There were no preliminary signs, and the first intimation he had of anything happening was his somewhat rude precipitation into the sink. He will be confined to his home for some days.

PANAMA, July 8.—Mail advice received from Colombia report a very critical condition of affairs in that republic. As the result of the departure of President Reyes for Europe, the various political parties which a few months ago seemed to be united are now completely disorganized and there are indications that Colombia is on the verge of a great revolution.

AGGUES HIS CHILDREN AND THEN DROPS DEAD

Two Sisters and Three Brothers Charge With Murder of Another Sister.

SAN SEBASTIAN, July 8.—Extraordinary scenes were witnessed at Lezo at the trial of five persons, two sisters and three brothers, all of whom were charged with the murder of a third sister.

It was stated that the mother of the five persons had been so stricken with grief at their crime that she had died before being able to depose. The father declared on oath he guiltiness of his five children, and then exclaiming "Thank heaven I have discharged my conscience!" fell dead of apoplexy.

A great crowd thronged the streets when the two women and three men were brought to the court, and endeavored to lynch them.

The gardeners in charge had the greatest difficulty in getting back the mob, who fought furiously with sticks, stones and knives.

INSIDE THE YILDIZ.

Kiosks and Gardens, Factories, Museums and Treasures of the Palace of Mystery
The Crimes of Abdul Hamid—Burned Girl to Death and Had Sixteen Others Drowned in the Bosphorus.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 8.

Thanks to the generalissimo I have been inside the Yildiz Kiosk several times. When my admission card was issued at the Ministry of War, Enver Bey told me: "The Yildiz Kiosk and the park will be opened to the public with a few weeks; invite the Americans, through the Evening Post, to come and see the Yildiz."

A GUIDE'S TALK.

Our guide, Ahmed, an Albanian, who has been a gardener at the Yildiz for twenty years, talked freely. Whenever we stopped to watch an object of interest, there Ahmed seemed to know some story of crime that happened on the very spot. "He had no heart, no sentiment, no mercy," said Ahmed, referring to Abdul Hamid. "He sacrificed everything to his own wishes and pleasures, sparing no one, caring for nobody. I knew a little girl, only twelve years old. She was a bright and bold girl, and Abdul Hamid never liked any one who possessed a little spirit of independence. One day he threw her with his own hands into a stove and watched her till she was burned to ashes. What do you don't believe me? Any one acquainted with the inside life of the palace will tell you that this is true. Why, have you not heard the story of gardener Halli? "One day, poor Halli was working right there," said Ahmed, pointing toward a slope, near where we were standing. "Abdul Hamid was out that day for a walk. Halli dropped the hoe and stood to salute the ex-Sultan. Hamid was always suspicious, and any one engaged in his garden who he thought might be there to kill him, immediately an order was given to Hassan, the imperial eunuch, to shoot the gardener. Hassan obeyed."

"Abdul Hamid became extremely angry. He was accustomed always to be subjected, and Hassan's pleading was something unusual, so he believed there was a conspiracy against his life. Pulling out his pistol, he fired three, and poor Halli fell down dead. Halli's murder made the Sultan nervous, and he began to complain and accuse almost everybody as an accomplice in Halli's imaginary conspiracy."

"Sixteen Circassian slave girls were suspected most. Poor girls, they knew nothing of the wretched lot that awaited them. Abdul was haunted by fear till he ordered the terrible Felin Pasha, his foster-brother, to 'do away' with these girls. Felin, who kept a few of the fear of God nor the shame of men, executed this outrageous order. One night the sixteen girls were taken out in a yacht over the Bosphorus. Felin told them that he was going to take them to Broussa for the summer. In the night all were thrown to the bottom of the sea. "I tried then," said Ahmed, "to report this to a foreign correspondent, but who could be told of the Yildiz without being watched by the spies?"

WHERE THE SULTAN WATCHED.

Before Ahmed had finished his story we walked to the top of a hill, situated in the middle of the park. Here we found a little kiosk, perhaps not much larger than a hall room, having large windows on four sides. A rug, a table, and a couple of chairs were all the furniture found inside. A tunnel leading from the middle of the room told the story of this place. The kiosk overlooked all the important points of the city; one could see from here the Bosphorus, Marmora, Seraglio Point, the Golden Horn, Stamboul, Pera, Beşiktaş, Klat Hane and the Taxim barracks. The Sultan would come here, a telescope in hand, and would watch for hours the movements of the city and the boats on the sea.

Thirty paces away was the menagerie, but the animals were taken away after their master's exit.

Walking down towards Orta Keop, near the shores of the Bosphorus, we came to the kiosk where the Persian Shah was entertained a few years ago when he paid a visit to the ex-Sultan. Near-by were stunted cypress trees collected from all parts of the world. The food and pheasants were most attractive, and there were parrots in all colors, but they did not about any

(London Standard.)
AMSTERDAM, July 8.—The early history of America is so picturesque linked with Holland that the proposal of the Holland Society to present to the United States a duplicate of the vessel which bore Henry Hudson across the Atlantic and over the waters of the bay and river which are named after him; and it is proposed to send to America a duplicate of the Half-Moon, with all her gun appointments.

The original Half-Moon was lost in 1611, but as accurate a copy as possible has just been constructed at the naval dockyard here. No drawing or picture of the Half-Moon was in existence, so that the designer has had to rely on information collected from different sources. An old record of the Dutch East India Company, still preserved at The Hague, gives the tonnage of the vessel, and from Nicholas Wisner's book on shipbuilding, published in these days, it is deduced that the craft which bore Henry Hudson across the Atlantic was a sort of three-masted yacht. This vessel was built of oak, and the vessel is rigged with hand-wooden flags, and is antique enough in its fittings to confound the best seaman afloat.

On deck there is a wooden figure with a curved figure-head, to which the rigging can be fastened. Roughly-carved figures of heads are found in the wood-work, and a wooden pump helps to draw out of an ancient character to this "ship of oak." Some half-dozen banks have been built in, although the vessel was close on twenty. They must have taken turns and turn about if they all used the banks; but probably they were used for the crew generally.

The crew of such a vessel in the ordinary way would consist of not more than seven or eight men, but on the journey of discovery on which Hudson set out the crew was threefold.

Forward is a raised foredeck, and in front of that the prison in which the crew members were fastened, and where they got drenched as the little vessel plunged its nose under water when the wind rose.

On deck also will carry a jolly-boat, or ship's boat. It will be remembered that the ship's boat after the Half Moon had been built by the Dutch East India Company, and was used for the crew generally.

At the Imperial stables, nearer the main kiosks, there were five or six pairs of horses, and a few interesting black donkeys were side by side with the horses. Each animal was in his box and his name attached in a golden frame. An automobile stood near the door. A few snow-white oxen and working oxen were grazing not far away. Another section contained pretty Angora cats. Three beautiful grey-estrics and two red deer were within an iron enclosure. Gazelles and other animals were kept in a large enclosure through the park there were quantities of pools. They say that the Sultan was fond of birds and Osman Bey, the koushji-bashi, that is the First Birdman, was an important person in the palace. He drew a salary of $50 a month, having the rank of vizier.

FACTORIES AND MUSEUMS.

Outside of the kiosk walls are many factories, shops, and pavilions. The Tamirahane, or the shop of repairs, is a vast hall, adjoining the Imperial Bureau, where the fallen Sultan went often in his leisure hours. The Tamirahane comprises a sawmill, a foundry, and a locksmith shop. Before the proclamation of the Constitution a special commissioner-general had charge of them.

The museum of arms contains objects of value and interest. It comprises three halls and is said to be the richest small-arms museum in the Orient. The ex-Sultan spent enormous sums for that establishment. There are Oriental arms of historical value, enriched with diamonds; modern and old European arms, and a few ancient cannons, for which the German Krupp offered large sums to Abdul Hamid. The value of the objects in this museum is estimated at $8,000,000.

The porcelain factory is a large building, situated near the Sultan's residence. Its foundation is not very old. Almost all the porcelain were made here. The Frenchman engaged through the Paris Turkish embassy. There are in this shop several vases and other objects of value which have been transported to the new Sultan's palace.

The Yildiz Observatory is a small building, containing a few astronomical instruments, not of great value. This observatory was abandoned for many years after the death of Mr. Combes, the French director.

The Yildiz proper is not very old, the first kiosk having been built by Sultan Mahmoud, the grandfather of Abdul Hamid, in 1822. Sultan Mejdjid rebuilt the kiosk and turned the place

MR. DURANT RAISES HOPES OF HALIFAX

Mysterious Promoter Looking Over Conditions in the Sister City (Halifax Echo)

F. C. Durant, of New York, arrived in the city yesterday from St. John, and there is considerable curiosity as to the purpose of Mr. Durant's visit in St. John and Halifax, says the Halifax Chronicle. Rumor has it that he is looking into the conditions for establishing in Canada a million dollar manufacturing plant that would engage about three hundred people and would turn out hundreds of tons of manufactures per week. Mr. Durant arrived by the St. John train, and before an hour had passed he was in conference with President Johnson and Vice-Presidents Paulknuff and Mackinlay of the Board of Trade. Mr. Durant was introduced by railway officials and it is felt that the manufacturing plant in which he is concerned has either some connection with railway equipment or furnishes large quantities of material that would be carried over the railways. The New Yorker, however, is not giving out of his business, so it would appear he is not looking for capital, but looking into local conditions and possibilities and into the matter of how new industries establishing here are treated by the city and what aid is given to new industries. It is understood that Mr. Durant wants a site on the waterfront of at least ten acres of land. He says his firm will give employment to three hundred men. If the proposition goes through three large buildings would be erected, one 700 feet long, and nine stories, and a third of seven stories. Mr. Durant is anxious to secure a site where ships can load and unload. President Johnson introduced Mr. Durant to Mayor Chisholm and they held a conference regarding the proposition. Mr. Durant promised to submit a letter covering his proposals to the Mayor for the consideration of the City Council.

About fifteen delegates from the I. O. O. F. lodges of this city will attend the annual convention of the High Court, which will be held at Fredericton on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Representatives will be present from the different subordinate lodges in the province. There is little business, outside the regular routine.

At the Union Depot this morning, a young lady caused considerable excitement. She informed the police officials that her pocket-book had been taken. The lady, accompanied by a sister and child, reached the city on the American boat. She felt sure that a certain woman had stolen the pocket-book. Detective Killen rendered the lady every assistance in locating the missing purse. She said the book contained a ticket to Springfield and some change. The woman who was charged with taking the pocket-book had disappeared from sight.

THE MERRY WIDOW WILL BE BUSY FOR A WHILE

Cripple Who Does Not Like the Almshouse Must Go Back There—Crowley Will Sleep Under Cover for Some Time

In the police court this morning one Mrs. Fannie McGonnel, a twenty-four year old widow, was sentenced to a term of two months in the Home of the Good Shepherd for lying and lurking in the rear of the High School. The woman maintained that she was only out for a walk with a friend. The friend was a sixteen year old youth, however, and Detective Lucas, who made the arrest, told a more convincing story than that given by the widow.

Wm. Crowley was arrested early this morning by Detective Lucas and Policeman Steves. Crowley was found lying under a tree off Union street near the High School and admitted that he had slept out for several nights. He was fined $50 or three months in jail.

The last on the list to be dealt with was Siron Fanjoy, a twenty-eight year old cripple, who is not wanted around by his relations. He was found lying in a shed off Elgin street last night. The man is so badly crippled that Magistrate Ritchie held a special court for him in the guard room at Central Station.

Policeman Merrick gave evidence that Fanjoy had no visible means of support, and only a few days ago left the Municipal Home. Fanjoy said he left the Home because he did not care to stay there. The magistrate said he would have to stay there where he would have a good home and ordered that he be returned to the institution.

ONTARIO FLOUR TAKES A LITTLE STEP DOWN

Not Much Doing at the High Mark—Gradual Lowering May Now be Looked for.

The strength developed in the flour market during the past few months has caused keen interest among the dealers everywhere. The attitude of the buyers remains indifferent. A decline of 30 cents in the Ontario brands was welcomed yesterday, and now the wholesale price is $8.85. Manitoba brands remain firm and no change is anticipated. There have been various reasons mentioned for the slump in the price of Ontario flour. It is stated that the Ontario brands could find no buyers, while the price was the same as Manitoba flour. In the past Manitoba brands have been quoted considerably in excess of Ontario.

The business during the past month has been dull. Trading in fact has been inactive for some time. At the time of the several advances most of the dealers decided to store up, fearing still greater rises.

A leading wholesaler informed the Star this morning that the volume of orders since was comparatively small. He hoped, however, that the prices would gradually work downward to a basis that will make it possible for millers to name prices reasonable to the dealer and consumer. At that event trading in flour would again become brisk and a period of activity would once more be inaugurated. The crop reports are quite favorable.

JUNK DEALERS IN COURT FOR DOGGING THE LAW

Magistrate Thinks It Queer That Licensees are Issued to Persons Incapable of Complying With Regulations.

Cohen, Columbus, Witzel and Weber were a quartette whom Detective Killen had before Magistrate Ritchie this morning on the charge of doing junk business in the city without licenses.

The cost of a junk license is $25 and the fine for doing business without one is $40. The law states that the dealer must also keep an entry book open for examination. In the cases this morning one Jew could read and write English, another said he could read and write a little, but a third could talk a little English, but could not write it, while the fourth could not read or write either Hebrew or English.

The magistrate said he did not know how such people who could not read or write English, could get licenses as they could not put the entries in the books.

One Jew gave an excuse for not getting out a license that he had owed three years' taxes, had recently paid $21 and had not the amount to pay for a license.

The quartette were given until Monday to comply with the law or else be fined $40.

BEING MOVED ABOUT

The case against Michael Harney for refusing to allow the police to enter his barroom on Sunday night last and for having obstructions on his windows, was resumed in the police court this morning. Night Detective Lucas was the only witness. He testified that while walking down Duke street last Sunday night his attention was attracted by a noise in the rear of the barroom. He heard bottles being moved about. He looked under the blinds on the front windows but could not see anything. He then got Officers Ross and Linton and they visited Mr. Harney's hotel, but could not get in the bar as Mr. Harney said he did not have the key.

The case was adjourned until Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

THE MARITIME ROWING ASSOCIATION TO ORGANIZE

Steps are being taken towards the formation of a Maritime rowing association. At Halifax followers of aquatic sports have been active in the effort to form such a body. Local clubs have been appealed to in the matter and have expressed their hearty approval of the scheme.

It is proposed to adopt "The Maritime Provinces Amateur Oarsmen's Association," as the name for the new organization. A St. John man will be picked on the executive. Draft constitutions and bye-laws have already been submitted and the organization will be completed at a meeting next Wednesday.

The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen has granted temporary affiliation to the new body. Arrangements will be made to hold a banner amateur rowing meet in the near future.
