

Ravachol's Rant.

The Anarchist Leader Boasts of His Crimes.

Mrs. Montague Indicted by the Dublin County Grand Jury.

France Having a Lot of Trouble With the King of Dahomey.

Terrible Fate of a Mother and Five Children in Posen.

London's Unemployed Want Something More Than "Consideration."

Hard Fighting in Tonquin.

Paris, April 3.—French troops have captured the forts at Yente, in Tonquin, after hard fighting, during which the French and seventeen natives were killed.

Tragic End of a Pleasure Excursion.

Belfast, April 3.—Three men and a woman, who set out on a pleasure excursion to-day on Belfast Lough in a leaky boat, were drowned through the sinking of the boat.

Food for the Famishing.

London, April 3.—The steamer Missouri, from New York, with food for the famine sufferers, was enthusiastically welcomed on her arrival here. The discharge of the Missouri's cargo has almost commenced.

The British Yacht Won.

PARIS, April 3.—The international yacht race yesterday over the course from Monaco to Nice resulted in a victory for Lord Dunraven's famous yacht Valkyrie. This is the third time that the Valkyrie has won in the last three races.

Russia is Not Ready.

LONDON, April 3.—A Berlin special says: The leading social fact regarding war preparations is that the Russian army is not fit for the field. The new equipments will not be ready before the autumn of 1894.

Famine Spreading.

VIENNA, April 3.—The famine in the north of Hungary is spreading. Two thousand persons near Munkacs have been without food for a month. Many deaths from starvation are reported. In 50 communes the suffering is extreme.

Berlin Starred.

BERLIN, April 3.—This city was agitated to-day by the announcement of a supposed "Jack the Ripper" murder. The body of a woman named Annie was found floating in the river Spree. The police are searching for the murderer.

Baffled and Furious.

BERLIN, April 3.—The present session of Landtag will close on the 8th inst. The members are baffled and furious over the withdrawal of the Primary Education Bill. The Conservatives will give the Government a parting kick, but even the rejection of the credit made necessary by the separation of the functions of the Imperial Chancellor and the Chief of the Prussian Cabinet will not lead to an immediate Ministerial crisis.

Trouble for France.

PARIS, April 3.—The Government has received alarming news regarding the situation in the French possessions in the light of the French attacks upon the King of Dahomey. The Dahomians have already destroyed several villages around Porto Novo and the outlook is quite serious. The French intend to blockade the whole coast and prevent any trade in arms or slaves. The payment of the annuity of 20,000 francs paid to Benin, King of Dahomey, by France under the treaty of 1890, will be immediately stopped and the Government will send the Chamber of Deputies for a credit of 300,000 francs to be expended in dispatching troops to Porto Novo.

A dispatch from Porto Novo says: "Two thousand Dahomians, armed with rifles, are in camp near Obo, on the River Queme. The king is concentrating his warriors at Arrah. The road to the interior is closed. The King has sent a letter to a French resident saying everything on the land belongs to him, including Porto Novo."

Dynamite in a Sausagepan.

PARIS, April 3.—Ravachol, the arrested anarchist leader, says that in the case of the explosion in the Boulevard St. Germain, he deposited the infernal machine on the staircase of the house and Mathieu watched in the street. Ravachol was stationed in a wine shop opposite, and Chammartin and the woman Joubert brought the dynamite in a sausagepan. The Loban barracks explosion was effected with dynamite packed in a metal mould used for baking cakes.

Ravachol said to the magistrate: "I am proud of what I have done. You will not get a single word of repentance out of me. If I had not been arrested I would have continued my exploits, sparing nobody connected with the condemnation of other anarchists. I would like to have blown up the Chamber of Deputies for imposing on dynamiters the penalty of death. Let nothing stand in the way of the anarchist propaganda. I murdered the two sisters Marcon and others simply to procure money to assist the cause. I could never stoop to begging."

Jumped Four Stories.

BERLIN, April 3.—A dwelling house in Posen caught fire Saturday night, and before all the occupants could get out the staircases were burned away. On the fourth story of the burning house was a woman and five children. The only way for them to attempt to escape the awful death that threatened them was to jump from the windows. The crowd in the street pressed a blanket, which was thrown over and held in position by a number of men. The women and children were then told to jump. They did so. The woman jumped first. She struck the blanket with such force that it was torn from the grasp of the men and she dashed to the stone pavement. She was instantly killed. One of the children jumped and met the same fate, it being impossible for the men to hold the blanket firmly enough to break the fall. The other three also jumped, but each of them received injuries that will prove fatal.

A Liquid Combustible for Boilers.

NAPLES, April 3.—Secret trials of a liquid combustible to be used by torpedo vessels have recently been made at Spezia and have been very successful. The boiler tubes were exposed to a powerful heat and there was no smoke, everything worked perfectly. The boiler required no repairs afterwards. Italian officers declare that one result will be a radical change in marine boilers, as the new combustible gives powerful motive force, with great economy in space and weight. A depot is building at Spezia in which to store the liquid.

The Financial Pulse.

LONDON, April 3.—Discount during the past week was quoted at 14 for three months and 12 for short. There was no demand, as the Bank of England's reserve is now higher than at previous periods when the rate was 24. A reduction to that figure is expected on Thursday. Fluctuations in silver were the feature of the week. The stock exchange departments generally suffered under the silver influence, the only exception of the downward tendency in British railway securities. Canadian securities were weak.

PARIS, April 3.—Early in the week prices on the Bourse were steady, partly owing to the dynamite scare, but later a recovery set in and yesterday prices closed firm. There was a week's rise in 3 per cent of 48 cents.

Panama Canal Shares were quoted at 15, the lowest quotation ever recorded for this stock, which is now becoming simply an object of historic curiosity.

PARIS, April 3.—Strong demand for Russian securities on reports of improved politico-commercial relations.

Deeming Denies.

MELBOURNE, April 3.—Deeming had an interview with his solicitor yesterday. He absolutely denied the various crimes imputed to him. He said he had never made any confession and had made no admission to anybody. He could prove an alibi in the case of the murder of John James, a Johanna, South Africa. Deeming has examined Deeming's declaration that he is in good health.

LONDON, April 3.—A dispatch from Johannesburg, South Africa, says that Deeming has been indicted for the murder of John James, a Johanna, South Africa. Deeming has examined Deeming's declaration that he is in good health.

The loss is estimated at $250,000. It is believed the buildings were mostly insured.

TERRIFIC CONFLAGRATION.

A Four Million Dollar Fire in New Orleans.

Over 80,000 Bales of Cotton Burned and Several Blocks of Buildings Destroyed.

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., April 3.—Last night about 11 o'clock the frame building in rear of Stiefelmeyer's livery, owned by Henry J. Stiefelmeyer and used for storing conveyances, was totally consumed, together with most of the contents. Loss, $1,500; insured in the Wellington Mutual for $300. The flames extended to a stable belonging to Joseph A. Laird, which was also burned. Loss about $500.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Five cotton presses, including the Fireproof, Shippers, Independent and Orleans, have been burned from a corner of the Independence press. The department responded promptly, but the wind was so high and the cotton so dry that it burned like tissue paper. A general alarm was sounded and extra streams of water pumped, but the flames, but they had no effect. The Fireproof press had about 10,000 bales of cotton stored in it. This was entirely consumed. In half an hour the Fireproof was consumed and the flames communicated to the upper press and the Independence press. In a second almost the entire square was ablaze, and the flames formed almost a solid block of fire. In the yard were stored some 10,000 bales, which were soon consumed. The last press to catch was the Orleans. The place was gutted, and its contents, consisting of about 20,000 bales, was consumed. The district bounded by Peters, Front, Tialia and Robins streets. The amount of cotton destroyed is estimated at 80,000 bales, held by factors and commission merchants. The total loss on cotton is between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000. Loss on presses and sheds estimated at $150,000. It is thought some fire started from a cigarette which some person threw among the cotton. Capt. Alfred Dupue was slightly injured and Lieut. Shaw and Pippen Bordeaux badly hurt by falling walls.

While the cotton press fire was raging an alarm was sent from the square bounded by Laurel, Annunciation, Second and Third streets, a residential part of the city. ## The Tornado's Track

Fearfully Fatal Effects of the Western Cyclone.

The Loss of Life in Kansas Estimated at Fifty.

TALES OF DEATH AND DESTRUCTION FROM OTHER SECTIONS—TERRIFIC FORCE OF THE HURRICANE.

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—It is stated here that the loss of life by the cyclone will reach 50. Up to Saturday morning the list of dead, including those who died from injuries received, numbered 27.

A dispatch from Wamego, Kan., states that seven persons were killed in that vicinity. The victims were: Mrs. Albert and two children aged 3 and 4 years, and a laborer on the Eggers farm; Chas. Taylor, Mrs. Chas. Taylor and her 2-year-old child.

The house of Albert Eggers was completely demolished. Mrs. Eggers was found dead clinging to her arms the dead body of her youngest child. The body of the oldest child was found some distance away. The faces of all had the appearance of being powder burned. Dust and debris had been forced into the skin by the force of the wind. Albert Eggers was found about midnight wandering about his farm. He was in a dazed condition and had sustained a fracture of the right arm and had bruises. His injuries may result fatally.

The house of Charles Taylor was moved some distance from its foundation and dashed to the ground with terrible force, wrecking it completely. Taylor's body was found among the debris, crushed and mangled beyond recognition. His 9-year-old child met death in the ruins. Mrs. Taylor was rescued in an unconscious condition. She cannot recover.

John Fulmer's house was twisted out of shape and almost wrecked. Fulmer's wife and mother were terribly injured. Other houses in the vicinity were badly damaged.

Following is the death roll at Towanda: Charles, wife, Wm. Barclay, Dr. J. D. Godfrey, John S. Blake, Wm. Blake and his infant son, Zanna Robinson, post-mistress, Mrs. J. B. Kerr and her young son, Earl Kerr, and C. E. Westcott, shopkeeper.

At Rosell, Miss Carl A. Finley and Mrs. Wm. Bransfield, at Wamego Mrs. Albert Eggers, Robert Eggers, Ruth Eggers, aged 3 and 5, Jos. Johnson, John Taylor, Mrs. Chas. Taylor and infant, and Frank Reiser.

At Strong City—Wm. Rischer and wife, Theodore Glosser, wife and infant, George Blossom, T. W. Maxwell's infant son and Thos. Ramsey. At Lawrence—Chas. McPherson and wife, Adam Smith and wife and Mrs. I. J. Plummer.

At Smolan—Mrs. Britton. At Vine Creek—Samuel Smith. At South Haven or H. H. Maple and son Samuel, John Moore and infant son, Wm. Little and four small children.

At Florence—Timothy Dunn. At Louisville—An unknown boy. At Augusta—Herman Hoskins, Albert Barnes, Wm. Rhodes.

At Smolan, one of the towns which was completely destroyed, the storm could be seen in their collars. This accounts for the small loss of life.

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—The death roll of Thursday's cyclone is incomplete. Four towns were wiped from the face of the earth and a dozen or more were more or less damaged. The locations of New Haven, Towanda, Augusta and Smolan are now marked only by wreckage and piles of splintered timber. Of the 50 dead, 23 were killed outright. Twenty-two are those who were fatally injured and who have since died.

A suit for $2,000,000. CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 3.—E. M. McGowan & Co. have begun suit against H. B. Claffin & Co. for $2,000,000. The petition alleges nine causes of action founded on stock transactions and breach of contract.

A "Dry" Sunday in New York. NEW YORK, April 3.—It was difficult to find a saloon in this city to which admittance could be gained. The hotels were closed. Dr. Parkhurst's aid admitted customers through the doors outside, and no one who was not well known could get in. It was probably the driest Sunday New York has ever seen. Most of the hotel guests were out in force, and there were also a large number of policemen in citizens' clothes going from saloon to saloon.

Dogs Protected From Living and Dead. PITTSBURGH, April 3.—For many years an old woman, Mrs. Schmidt, has lived with a dog in a little house on Sawmill alley, Allegheny. Yesterday her neighbors noticed a strange howling by the dogs. Mr. and Mrs. Morse attempted to enter the house, but were driven back by the angry canine. A policeman was called and he shot the animals through a window. Mrs. Schmidt was found dead on her couch, dressed, with her prayer book in her hand.

The Chicago Alcoholic Beheading. CHICAGO, April 3.—The local investigation, which has caused such a stir among Chicago politicians, ended yesterday. Under the indictment only one of the ten suspected officials—Ald. William O'Brien—must necessarily go to the penitentiary for a term of years. The others, if convicted, may escape with a fine. State's Attorney Longenecker was not mentioned in the grand jury's report. The charges against him were dropped. The bodies of the hoodlums were voted unsuitable.

Fatal Duel with Rifles. NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Michael McGowan and Andrew Kirk, both citizens of West Melbourne, fought a duel with Winchester rifles on Friday. The distance of 100 yards was measured off and the men placed back to back. When the signal to fire was given McGowan fired, but missed his adversary. Kirk calmly leveled his rifle and fired, hitting McGowan in the head, the ball entering near the left eye and coming out at the left ear. The wounded man fell to the ground and expired almost instantly. Two years ago McGowan was engaged to marry a young lady, but on account of numerous stories circulated about him the engagement was broken. He accused McGowan of being the author of the stories and had blood between the men has existed since that time.

Canadian Cattle at the Columbian Exposition—A Conservative Whip Cared For.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.] OTTAWA, Ont., April 3.—A deputation from the Shorthorn Breeders' Association, the Ontario Arts Association, and the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association waited on Hon. John Carling yesterday in regard to making arrangements for the World's Exposition. They asked that the Government defray the cost of transportation of live stock, insurance and maintenance while there, as well as the cost of the cattle on their return. They also wanted the privileges of selling while there. Mr. Carling, in reply, said he would unite his opinion with the Canadian exhibit a success, in making the cattle exhibit a success. He would not have one at all if it were not a good one. Mr. Carling added that an Order-in-Council had been passed asking the Dominion Government to defray the cost of the Dominion in getting up the exhibit.

Mr. Rufus Stephenson, ex-M.P. for Kent, Conservative whip when in the Commons, and one time editor of the Chatham Planet, has been appointed lecturer of customs at Chatham in place of J. G. Pennefather, who is to be superannuated to make room for him.

According to yesterday's Canada Gazette a charter has been granted to the Toronto Type Foundry Company, which takes over the business now carried on by J. T. Johnston. The incorporation are H. A. Massey, manufacturer; John Bain, C. W. E. H. Massey, J. McLean Livingston, all of Toronto; S. C. Colville, Kingston; John Marler, Chicago; R. McPherson, Toronto; and T. M. Harris, Brantford.

LABOR AND CAPITAL.

A Suggestive Dialogue—Cotton Spinners Locked Out.

First Factory Hand—We will never be able to better ourselves until we organize and have a fund to fall back on when our demands are refused.

Second Factory Hand—That's so. We must save all we can.

Factory Superintendent (some months later)—I learn that some of our factory hands are saving a little money every week.

Owner—My stars! We must reduce wages or they'll soon have enough ahead to go on a strike.—[Luch.]

A London cable says: Owing to depression in the cotton trade and the demands of operatives, the master spinners have declared a lockout in all the mills except of those of Egyptian cotton spinners. The decision includes Oldham, Rochdale, Ashton, Bury, Stalybridge, Stockport and other centers. Altogether 17,500 spindles will be closed, representing wages of £48,795 weekly.

A Brandon dispatch says: "The tailors working in the establishment of Mr. J. S. Laughton struck work Friday morning. During the many years they asked to be allowed to go through the front shop till the sidewalk was built, and the request was refused. Hence the strike."

The fur manufacturers of New York are resolved that their employees shall in future work nine hours a day instead of eight. Within the last few weeks the employees have been working nine hours. The employees are clamoring over the breach of contract. Last September the employees agreed to work for two years, that eight hours should constitute a day's work. This is denied by the manufacturers. Nearly 1,000 journeymen furriers are idle, and many have left the city. The journeymen say they will not return until the eight-hour scale is recognized.

As an outcome of the lockout at the Citizen office, Ottawa, a new eight-page daily morning paper, the Ottawa Citizen, the first issue is expected on Tuesday. The paper will be controlled by the Typographical Union.

All the carpenters at Ottawa, Ill., have gone out on strike because their demand for an eight-hour day without reduction of wages was refused.

The 200 blacksmiths employed in the axle department in Carnegie's Twenty-ninth street mill at Pittsburg, Pa., struck Saturday against a 10 per cent. reduction in their wages.

In Paris a manifesto of the Socialist secretariat of labor calls upon workmen to organize, in order that this year's May Day demonstration may be of surpassing strength.

MURDERED BY A MOB.

A Colored Man Lynched Because He Was Anxious.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 3.—A special from Milersburg, Holmes county, says a mob yesterday lynched an unknown negro, hanging him to a tree. He had been about the town a few weeks and had been ordered to leave. He had lingered about people's doorsteps and annoyed them in various ways. Nothing is known of the victim's history, not even his name. He was said to be the only negro in the county.

AT LAST!

The Cotton Combine Secures All the Mills in the Country.

TORONTO, April 3.—The negotiations of many months were consummated Saturday afternoon in the purchase of all the cotton mills of the Dominion by the syndicate from Montreal. The consolidated business will be known as the "Canada Cotton and Textile Company," and embraces the mills hitherto known as Ontario, Dundas, Merritt, Lybster, Kennedy (Cornwall), Stormont and St. Croix, New Brunswick. The business of the amalgamated mills will be operated from Montreal. The capital invested represents a total of $5,900,000.

Vessel Burned at Sea. NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—The steamship Maine, reported from London as having been burned at sea, was owned by the Anglo-American Steamship Company. She had left this port for Liverpool. The value of her cargo was $255,000. About 40 persons were on board, including Captain Brown and three cattle men.

In patent medicines the largest and most complete stock in the city may be found at Szabo's drug store, 184 Dundas street.

The Little Minister.

By J. M. Barrie.
AUTHOR OF "WINDYBOUL IN THIRMS," "WHEN A MAN'S SINGLE," "MY LADY NICOTINE," ETC.

I looked from Gavin to the gypsy woman, and again from her to him, and he began to tell a tale in his interest. But she got no farther than "I met Mr. Dishart" when she stopped, ashamed. It was a story of a man who had checked the lie. Not every man has had such a compliment paid him.

"It is natural," Gavin said slowly, "that you, sir, should wonder why I am here with this woman at such an hour, and you may know me so little as to think ill of me for it."

"I did not answer, and he misunderstood my silence."

"No," he continued, in a harder voice, as if he had asked him a question, "I will explain nothing to you. You are not my judge. If you would do me harm, sir, you have it in your power."

It was with these cruel words that Gavin addressed me. He did not know how cruel they were. The Egyptian, I think, must have seen that it was his suspicious which hurt me, for she said, softly, with a look of appeal in her eyes.

"You are the schoolmaster in Glen Quahary? Then you will perhaps save Mr. Dishart the trouble of coming farther by showing me the way to old Nanny Webster's house at Windyghoul."

"I have to pass the house at any rate," I answered eagerly, and she came quickly to my side.

I knew, though in the darkness I could see but vaguely, that Gavin was holding his head high and waiting for me to say my worst. I did not tell him that I dared think no evil of him, and he still suspected me. Now I would not trust myself to speak lest I should betray Margaret, and yet I wanted him to know that base doubts about him could never find a shelter in me. I am a timid man who long ago lost the glory of his life, and I was again timid, when I sought to let Gavin see that my faith in him was unshaken. I lifted my bonnet to the gypsy, and asked her to take my arm. It was done clumsily, I cannot doubt, but he read my meaning and held out his hand to me. I had not touched it since he was three years old, and I trembled too much to give it the grasp I owed it. He and I parted without a word, but to the Egyptian he said, "To-morrow, dear, I will see you at Nanny's," and he was to kiss her, but I pulled her a step farther from him, and she put her hands over her face, crying, "No, no!"

If I asked her some questions between the hill and Windyghoul you must not blame me, for this is my affair as well as theirs. She did not answer me, I know now that she did not hear me. But at the mudhouse she looked abruptly into my face, and said,

"You love him too?"

I trudged to the school-house with these words for company, and it was less her discovery than her confession that tortured me. How much I slept that night you may guess.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"The kirk bell will soon be ringing," Nanny said on the following morning as she placed herself carefully on the stool, one hand holding her lible and the other wandering complacently over her aged merino gown. "Ay, lassie, though you're only an Egyptian I would have taken you to me to hear Mr. Dishart, but it's spairing over muckle o' a woman to expect her to gang to the kirk in her ilka day claes."

The Babbie of yesterday would have laughed at this, but the new Babbie sighed. "I wonder you don't go to Mr. Dishart's church now, Nanny," she said gently. "I am sure you prefer him."

"Babbie, Babbie," exclaimed Nanny with spirit, "may I never be so far left to myself as to change my kirk just because I like another minister better? It's as easy as lissie, that you ken little o' religious questions."

"Very little," Babbie admitted sadly. "But dinna be so waeftal about it," the old woman continued kindly, "for that's no name like you. Ay, and if you see muckle mair o' Mr. Dishart he'll soon cure your ignorance."

"I shall not see much of him," Babbie answered, with averted head.

"The like o' you couldna expect it," Nanny said simply, whereupon Babbie went to the window. "I had better be 'stepping,' Nanny said, rising, 'for I am ye late unless I'm on the hill by the time she bell begins. Ay, Babbie, I'm doubting my merino's no sair in the fashion!'"

She looked down at her dress half despondently, and yet with some pride.

"It was fowerpence the yard, and no less," she went on, fondling the worn merino, "when we bought it at Sam'l Carr's. Ay, but it has been turned six times since ye."

She sighed, and Babbie came to her and put her arms round her, saying, "Nanny, you are a dear."

"I'm a gey auld-farrant-looking dear, I doubt," said Nanny ruefully.

"Now, Nanny," rejoined Babbie, "you are just wanting me to flatter you. You know the merino looks very nice."

"It's a guld merino yet," admitted the old woman, "but, oh, Babbie, who would the material matter if the cut isna fashionable? It's fine, isn't it, to be in the fashion?"

She spoke so wistfully that, instead of smiling, Babbie kissed her.

"I am afraid to lay hand on the merino,"

Nanny, but give me off your bonnet and I'll make it ten years younger in as many minutes."

"Could you?" asked Nanny eagerly, unloosening her bonnet-strings. "Mercy on me!" she had to add; "to think about altering bonnets on the Sabbath-day! Lassie, how could you propose sic a thing?"

"Give me, Nanny," Babbie replied, so meekly that the old woman looked at her curiously.

"I dinna understand what has come over you," she said. "There's an unca difference in you since last night. I used to think you were mair like a bird than a lassie, but you've lost a' your daff capers o' singing and laughing, and I take ill wi' it. Two or three times I've caught you greeing. Babbie what has come over you?"

"Nothing, Nanny. I think I hear the bell."

Down in Thirms two kirk-officers had let their bells loose, waking echoes in Windyghoul as one dog in country parts sets all the others barking, but Nanny did not hurry off to church. Such a surprising notion had filled her head suddenly that she even forgot to hold her dress off the floor.

"Babbie," she cried in consternation, "dinna tell me you've gotten over fond o' Mr. Dishart."

"The like of me, Nanny?" the gypsy answered, with a affected rally, but there was a tear in her eye.

"It would be a wild, presumptuous thing," Nanny said, "and him a grand minister, but—"

Babbie tried to look her in the face, but failed, and then all at once there came back to Nanny the days when she and her lover wandered the hill together.

"Ah, my dawtie," she cried so tenderly, "what does it matter who he is when you canna help it?"

Two frail arms went round the Egyptian and Babbie rested her head on the old woman's breast. But do you think it could have happened had not Nanny loved a weaver twosome years before?

And now Nanny has set off for church, and Babbie is alone in the mudhouse. Some will pity her not at all, this girl who was a dozen different women in an hour, and all made of impulses that would scarce stand still to be photographed. To attempt to picture her at any time until now would have been like chasing a spirit that changes to something else as your arms clasp it; yet she has always seemed a pathetic little figure to me. If I understand Babbie at all, it is, I think, because I loved Margaret the only woman I have ever known well, and one whose nature was not, like the Egyptian's, complex, but most simple, as if God had told her only to be good.

Throughout my life since she came into it, she has been to me a glass in which many things are revealed that I could not have learned save through her, and something of all womankind, even of bewildering Babbie, I seemed to know because I knew Margaret.

No woman is so bad but we may rejoice when her heart throbs to love, for then God has her by the hand. There is no love but this. She may dream of what love is, but it is only of a sudden that she knows.

Babbie, who was without a guide from her baby days, had dreamed but little of it, hearing its name given to another thing. She had been born wild and known no home; no one had touched her heart except to strike it; she had been educated, but never tamed; her life had been thrown strangely among those who were great in the world's possessions, but she was not of them.

Her soul was so dark that she had never seen it; she would have danced away cynically from the belief that there is such a thing, and now all at once she had passed from disbelief to knowledge. Is not love God's doing? To Gavin, He had given something of Himself, and the moment she saw it the flash lit her own soul.

It was but little of his Master that was in Gavin, but for smaller things have changed the current of human lives; the spider's thread that strikes our brow on a country road may do that. Yet this I will say, though I have no wish to cast the little minister on my pages larger than he was, that he had some heroic hours in Thirms, of which one was when Babbie learned to love him.

THE LORICA, OR BREASTPLATE—SAINT PATRICK'S OWN HYMN.

As literally translated by Rev. Professor Stokes and Rev. Dr. Wright, and sung for the first time in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, March 17, 1888.

BASS.—I bind to myself to-day the strong power of an invocation of the Trinity; the faith of the Trinity in Unity; the Creator of the Elements. I bind to myself to-day the strong power of the Incarnation of Christ, with what of His Baptism; the power of the Crucifixion, with that of His Burial; the power of the Resurrection, with the Ascension; the power of the coming to the sentence of Judgment.

QUARTET.—I bind to myself to-day the power of the love of Seraphim, in the obedience of Angels, in the hope of Resurrection unto reward; in the prayers of the Patriarchs, in the prediction of the Prophets, in the faith of Confessors, in the purity of the Holy Virgins; in the acts of righteous men.

CHORUS.—I bind to myself to-day the powers of Heaven, the light of the Sun, the whiteness of Snow, the force of Fire, the flaming of Lightning, the swiftness of Wind, the depths of the Sea, the stability of Earth, the hardness of Rock. I bind to myself to-day the Power of God to guide me, the Might of God to uphold me, the Wisdom of God to teach me, the Eye of God to watch over me, the Ear of God to hear me, the Word of God to give me speech, the Hand of God to protect me, the Way of God to prevent me, the Shield of God to shelter me, the Host of God to defend me against the snares of demons, against the temptation of vices, against the lusts of nature, against every man who meditates injury to me, whether far or near, with few or with many.

BASS SOLO with CHORUS.—I have set around me all these powers against every hostile savage force directed against my soul, against the incantations of false prophets, against the black laws of heathenism, against the false law of heresy, against the deceptions of idolatry, against all snarling wiles and crafts of devils, against all knowledge which blinds the souls of men.

QUARTET.—Christ protect me to-day! Christ alone, against drowning, against wound, that I may receive abundant reward.

BASS SOLO with CHORUS.—Christ with me, Christ before me, Christ behind me, Christ within me, Christ beneath me, Christ above me, Christ at my right, Christ on my left, Christ in the fort, Christ in the chariot-seat, Christ in the poop, Christ in the heart of every man who speaks to me, Christ in every eye that sees me, Christ in every ear that hears me.

THROUGHT.—Salvation is the Lord's! Salvation is Christ's! Let thy salvation, O Lord, be forever with me!

BRENER BROS.' NEW LEADER

The National Melodrama Brand, PATROL, Is Sure to Be a Winner.

Messrs. Brener Bros., the successful manufacturers of Nos. 182-190 Horton street London, are in the field with a new leader, which has been happily named "THE PATROL." They intend to make this cigar popular wherever the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes float. It is a Cuban hand-made cigar, of which the filler is all Havana, mild and fragrant. The label, which is the design of the Patrol Co., is strikingly original. The words in which the names of the manufacturers occur at appropriate intervals. Nothing in the way of a label that is so simple, and at the same time so rich and attractive, has been originated, and it would be impossible to present to the trade a more elegant package. "The Patrol" cigar is certain to win instant recognition, and to increase largely the annual output of its manufacturers.

For sale at 182-190 Horton street, London; 63 College street, Montreal; 92 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.; 206 LaSalle street, Chicago.
