The New Leader Everywhere Received With Enthusiasm

Reports of Overtures for a Reunion of the Liberals and Unionists.

The Bones of 33 of Capt. Wilson's Men Found and Buried by a Trading Party.

Want Freer Trade Still. LONDON, March 5 .- Those who have at idea that England is a free trade country should take note of the many petitions being received by the Chancellor of the Exchequer from workmen's societies, who implore the Government to repeal the duties on tea. coffee, cocoa and dried fruit, and to reduce the duty on tobacco. There is no chance that the petitions will be preparing. The Encore Hog.

London, March 5 .- The sudden death of Mme. Patey as a martyr to the insatiable demands of a concert audience has started public protest against the encore nuisance. The newspapers are discussing the adoption of the custom in Russia and some other continental countries where ordinary applause, no matter how prolonged, calls for merely the artist's acknowledgment by bowing. If the audience desires a repeti-tion of the song they shout "Bis."

Royal Hat Makers.

LONDON, March 5. - The latest fad among the ladies of the English royal family, including, it is said, the Queen herself, is to beguile the winter hours by plating straw for the fabrication of hats to be presented to their sons and husbands at the approaching season. A well-known hatter has just | finished a handsome straw hat for Prince Henry of Battenburg, every inch of which was pleated by Princess Beatrice's own hands. It is said to be a remarkably delicate piece of workmanship. The Bones of Capt. Wilson's Men.

CAPE Town, March 5 .- A trader from Shangani River, who has arrived at Buluwayo, states that he found within a radius of 50 feet at a point where the party under command of Capt. Wilson is supposed to have made their last stand before being massacred by the Matabeles, the bones of 33 men. The trader and his party buried the remains. It is a matter of congratulation, however, that the favorite tones are more moderate than two or three seasons ago. The shockingly intense greens are disappearing. The British Political Situation.

It is officially announced that the Earl of Kimberley will succeed Rosebery as Rt. Hon. Henry Hartley Fowler, president of the Local Government Board, will take the place of Earl Kimberly as Secretary of State for the Indian Department.

The St. James Gazette is authority for the statement that a reunion of the Liberals and the Liberal-Unionists is probable. Lord Rosebery having already entered into communication with the Unionist leaders, Joseph Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire, on the subject.

Mr. Edward Ellis M.P., one of the Lords of the Treasury, has been designated to succeed the Rt. Hon. Edward Marjoribanks as Patronage Secretary to the Treasury and chief Liberal whip.

Mr. John Morley has declined the office of Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, not wishing to take an office that will separate him from the cause of Ireland. Sir Algernon West, Mr. Gladstone's intimate friend and companion at Biarritz, has been appointed to the Privy Council. John Cowan, chairman of Mr. Gladstone's election committee in the Midlothian district, has received a baronetcy. G. W. Spencer Lyttleton and G. H. Murray, private secretaries to Mr. Glad. stone as First Lord of the Treasury, have been made companions of the Order of the

The National Liberal Federation, consisting of a union of all the Liberal associations throughout the kingdom, has issued through its executive a long manifesto which eulogizes Mr. Gladstone, and pledges the organization to follow the home rule programme. The manifesto demands that no item of the party programme be imperiled or delayed, and closes with expressions of confidence in the Ministry. It contains no direct reference to the change in the Premiership. The Liberal and Radical Union of London met to-day and passed resolutions expressing deep respect for Mr. Gladstone, gratitude for his work at the head of the party, and confidence in Lord Rosebery and Sir William Harcourt. The union emphasized the necessity of adhering to the party's declared programme and of carrying on the campaign against the House of Lords.

Justin McCarthy held a conference today with Mr. Gladstone as to the future policy of the McCarthyites.

The News admits that Mr. Fowler's choice of the India office is a surprise, but considers him eminently qualified to deal with monetary and commercial questions. The Standard expresses a similar opinion of Mr. Fowler.

They will be on their good behavior, and will do anything to save themselves; but that won't stop the agitation once it has been started, as the popular enthusiasm for it is unbounded."

"Then you regard the position with confidence?

"Certainly. The prospects of home rule have been in no way injured. It may turn out that they will have been furthered. In any case I can assure you that the Irish party is well able to take care of itself and of home rule, whatever happens."

GOING TO FLORENCE.

The Queen Will Take a Continental Tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Both Refuse "Nobility"-Victoria Doesn't Like Charles II .- Edmund Yates' Gorsip.

(Edmund Yates' Cables to the Tribune.) London, March 6.-The Queen proposes to leave Windsor for Florence next Tuesday afternoon. The Queen intends to reside at Fiorence for nearly five weeks. Then she will proceed to Coburg for a stay of about nine days before returning to England. Her Majesty is expected to arrive at Windsor Castle from the continent on April 28.

The Queen has offered Mr. Gladstone an earldom either for himself or for his wife, Spring tints prevailed, and the feminine but he declined any such honor, desiring in this matter, he informed her Majesty, to follow the example of his political master, Sir Robert Peel, who refused similar distinctions in 1846, and they were again declined by Lady Peel in 1850 after her husband's death.

The Queen was asked to purchase the necklace, earrings and brooch in the Eglinton collection of jewels which had belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, but her Majesty declined as Queen Mary is not one of her favorites. Some time ago a fine portrait of Charles II. came into the market and the Queen was urgently requested to buy it for the royal collection at Windsor Castle. Her Majesty refused and covery is barely possible. then and elaborate memorandum was sent to the palace in which the reasons for buying the picture were enumerated. Ultimately the Queen decided to purchase Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and the work and thus indorsed the memorandum: "I consent but with great reluct-

POLITICAL POINTS.

Patrons Must Not Espouse the Cause of the Old Parties.

Bro. Joseph H. Alexander, Patron and P. P. A. Candidate.

P. P. A. AND P. OF I. An important meeting of the Protestant Protective Association was held in Toronto oe Friday evening, and features of the occasion were the application of A. F. Campbell, M. P. P., East Algoma, for membership, and the presence of delegates in attendance at the Patrons of Industry convention. Grand Vice-President of the P. P. A. and President of the Toronto council of the organization Joseph Kinersley delivered an address assailing the Mowat Government, and the gathering was like unto a Tory caucus. Bro. Joseph H. Alexander a delegate to the Patron Grand association, was P. P. A. first, last and always. He, too, had received a P. P. A. nomination, and is a candidate for the Local Legislature in the that he had received the Patron nomination also, but subsequently another convention was called and W. H. Taylor, formerly a Liberal, was made the Patron nominee. This Mr. Alexander contended, was irregular, and maintains that he is still the Patron candidate. He is, however, in the field to stay, and will uphold P. P. A.-ism and Patronism, and has reason to believe that W. H. Fox, the Conservative candidate, will not run.

Mr. Alexander has for some time been one of the most active of Patron organizers, even going out of his own county to organize for the orders to which he belongs.

MUST SUPPORT THE ORDER. A resolution having an important bearing upon the political conduct of the Patrons order was passed by the Grand Association on Saturday as follows:

"That whether a Patron candidate has been nominated or not, members of the order shall not be permitted during an election contest to support the candidature of any party candidate on any platform, but that every member shall regard it to be his duty on any platform or elsewhere to defend the Patrons' platform and advocate the principles of the order."

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Dominion Parliament to enact a law making it a misdemeanor for a member of Parliament to accept free passes from rail-DUNDAS TORY NOMINATION.

The committee took the grounds that the Patrons were not called upon in any way to take action in regard to the P. P. A. organization. P. P. A. members and Catholics, they said, were included among the ranks of the Patrons and would remain so. The convention closed to-night. PATRON PLANKS.

On Saturday the Patrons elected John Miller, of Glenmorris, one of their best speakers, as honorary grand lecturer. They will prepare an address to the electors, setting forth the more important reforms advocated by them, the address articles, among them a witch doctor's to be used as a campaign document. It was decided to pay Grand Secretary and a quiver tull of the poisoned Welch a salary of $1,000 a year.

They decided that only widows and unmarried women should be granted the privilege of voting. They refused to add another plank to their platform. "The elections are too near, and it takes time to weld together the planks that will form our Giant's Causeway to power at Toronto and Ottawa," said one of their crators.

Archdeacon Sandys, D.D., who was stricken with paralysis early yesterday morning and died just before 11 o'clock Monday night, not having regained consciousness. Dr. Sandys was curate of Christ Church, although he has not of late years discharged the active duties thereof owing to the enfeebled condition of his physical health. Everywhere he was held in the highest esteem. Mr. Ed W. Sandys, of New York, and Mrs. Denison, of Toronto, well known magazine writers, are two of the children of the deceased clergyman.

A Romantic Reality

Dr. Johnston and His Wonderful Tour Through Africa.

His Narration Delights and Instructs a Large Audience.

Stranger Than Fiction-4,500 Miles Through the Dark Continent Alone With Natives-Curios and Pictures Exhibited.

Fact is stranger than fiction, and the imagination of a Jules Verne has conceived nothing more romantic, picturesque or adventurous than the actual experiences of stalwart Dr. Johnston, of Jamaica, who last night delighted the eyes, the ears, and the intellects of a splendid audience at the First Presbyterian Church by the illustrated constituency of North Middlesex. In the narrative of realities such as few men in course of his address he referred to the fact | this age have encountered. Dr. Johnston is a handsome specimen of muscular Christianity, tall, broad and shapely. His pleasant though powerful face, bronzed by southern suns, is so youthful that one would hardly believe, unless assured, that he had been a missionary for over 20 years. He has a rich voice, a ready command of unimpeachable English, an engaging manner and a vein of humor not too dry to

He told how, when a young Canadian, studying medicine, his thoughts turned to the mission work, through reading the lives of Dr. Moffat and of Livingstone. An opening appeared in Jamaica and While engaged in this work he was the thither he went in 1874. He found pledged candidate of the P. P. A. the church active in the settled districts, but away up in the mountains it was asleep and needed waking. Here, apart from religious work, his services became in great demand as a physician and a dentist, though of medicine he had an imperfect knowledge, but as he clung to senna and salts he did little harm if he did no good. (Laughter.) Nineteen years had passed away since then, and now they had ten self-supporting stations erected by the blacks alone.

The doctor said his heart still yearned for Central Africa, and there he determined to go with six native converts of Jamaica. He appealed to Canada for aid, and the aid was forthcoming. They landed on May 18 at Benguela, on the west coast of Africa, to walk across the Dark Continent. He had had a distorted opinion of Africa. He had thought it was like Jamaica. Jamaica was a flower garden; Africa was full of deserts. He did not realize when he started, the journey that was before him, but his men stood true to him. He completed the journey of 4,500 miles principally on foot, taking about twenty

It was given to him full of native beer, not intoxicating unless The other leading incident of the day fermented, which he passed on to the heads of his party. It came back empty. A knife was exhibited, the blade of which he twisted around his fingers, as he had done hundreds of times. This peculiar metal retained a razor edge as well as the hardest steel, and yet could be bent in any shape. The lecturer explained that the secret of the process belonged to the natives, and they would not part with it. It was also used as a razor, for they were great shavers over yonder. In showing the Matabele war hatchet, a horrible looking weapon, the lecturer said that if the British had been armed with similar weapons in the late wars they would then have stood equal chances. He showed a number of other fetish, the tooth of a hippopotamus. arrows of the bushmen, which sometimes caused death in twenty minutes. The native drum was peculiar-it could not be beat. The doctor created much amusement by singing African songs (limited to six notes) with accompaniments on the native drum and piano which were laughably hideous. The woman dug with the hoe in the field and her husband performed the household duties. To have suggested an exchange would have offended the wife's idea of woman's rights. Some beautiful robes were displayed. One was made of 626 tiger cat tails sewn together with the sinews of animals broken into fine threads, a brad-awl supplying the place of a needle. There were rugs made from the skins of a silver jackal, a panther and a leopard of rare beauty and great value. One of zebra skin was given him from the shoulders of King Khama of the Bechuans in gratitude for the recovery of sixteen of his wives from fever, for which Dr. Johnston treated them, The panther was more dangerous than the lion. He unexpectedly met a lion face to face one day, looked it steadily in the eye and the brute slunk away. He never saw any of the majesty attributed to the beast. The lecturer brought out a modern pistol which he had often used for its moral force. but, thank God, not a single life had been sacrificed during his long journey. (Applause.) The pistol had been a true friend, for the natives had no respect for anything but physical power. Once he had frightened away 200 hostile blacks by barking a tree with it, but he had called them back in their terror and made them his friends It had turned away many a javelin aimed at his life. The lights were turned off and magnificent views reproduced on canvas from photographs taken along the journey. A map of Africa was shown. A black line indicated the route taken by Dr. Johnston and party. It started from the southwestern coast, struck almost half way through the continent, thence southerly along the Zambesi River to Southeastern Africa, the land of the Matabeles, and thence north to Lake Nyassa. He had trodden through regions where the face of a white man had never been seen. Their food was chiefly the flesh of the antelope fried in the fat of the hipponotami. He did not bring a specimen of the latter back, as one animal weighed ! two or three tons. (Laughter.) Many other views were exposed, the lecturer making a running commentary all the while. He showed the natives hunting caterpillars for food. These they consider a great delicacy. He was induced to try caterpillar stew once himself, but the long hairs with which the insects are covered got into his teeth, and he did not try it again. A view of the station of M. noble French missionary, was accompanied with a most pathetic scene representing that gentleman standing beside the grave of his lately deceased wife, who had been his colaborer for 30 years. At this mission occurred the first Christian wedding in Africa. It was that of King Liwaniki's son, who was attired in a suit of European clothes brought from the coast for his use, while the bride wore a costume of buckram trimmed with furniture chintz, and which was made for her by her prospective husband. Her bridal veil was mosquito netting. Of the wonderful Victoria Falls, the largest in the world, he exhibited on the screen two photographs, the first ever taken. One of these was a beautiful evening scene, showing the effect of moonlight on the waters of the fall. He had stayed a whole day there listening to the music of its waters. At the conclusion of the lecture Dr. Johnston was cordially thanked by Rev. W. J. Clark, the chairman, on behalf of the delighted audience, many of whom remained to shake the explorer's hand and examine the curios. To-night he will relate the story of his remarkable journey in a more continuous manner, and the treat is one that should not be missed.

Dr. Johnston commented on the brilliancy of the pietures which were reproduced by a splended local instrument. They were the best the speaker had ever seen, he said.

FAIR PLAY FOR PUBLIC MEN.

(Canada Presbyterian.) In the present state of public opinion is Ontario it is the easiest thing imaginable for a Christian man to drift unconsciousi into a most unchristian attitude toward the public men of the country. "The powers that be are ordained of God" is verse that the Higher Critics might strike out of the new New Testament without any considerable protest from many people who call themselves Christians. The Israel. ites were commanded not to curse the ruler of the people, but it might be argued by some that the command was a part of the Mosaid law, and therefore does not apply to Ontario. Judging from some of the speeches that we hear about, and occasionally see reported, cursing men who have given their lives to the public service has become the first duty of a patriotic citizen. Fifty years ago the leaders of the Family Com. pact contended that the people of this Prove nce were not capable of governing sthems selves, and when one reads the tirade of blasphemy and vulgar abuse that some of the people have been listening to lately, one cannot help asking whether the Family Compact Tories may not have been about half right. Fair dis cussion is a good thing, even criticism from party standpoint may be a good thing but indiscriminate, filthy abuse heaped upon decent, clean men, by toul-mouthed designing demagogues, is a bad thing, and men who like to listen to it, and laugh at it, and applaud it, show they are unfit for free government.

All hope of cure seems broken, But there's a "Pellet" all may try, A sure, unfailing token. Yes, a token of recovery in every case as effective, and almost as magical as the famous "talisman" of fairy lore. The Council Does Not Love the Board of Trade, Tenders to be Called for a Stone Crusher -Some Vigorous Opposition-No Pay as Yet for the Employes of the Late I. and P. S. R. Syndicate-Hon. G. W, Ross on the Rights of School Section No. 5, Westminster.

The council was indisposed again last night and made several ineffectual efforts to go home early until it was found by a system of nose-counting that by retaining their seats the aldermen present could attain their object just as well if not better than by leaving the chamber without a quorum. Several times during the passage of motions there were cries of "no quorum," and an interesting dialogue occurred between Ald. Scarrow and Ald. Taylor on the advisability of the latter resigning his seat or sitting in it. Ald. Judd, who was in the chair in the absence of Mayor Essery, through family affliction, managed to keep things moving more than once by counting himself in a quorum, while between times he protested loudly against such a "beer-garden" way of doing Under "bylaws" the question of reducing the number of shop licenses by two was again introduced. While the action of the last regular meeting of the council killed the tavern reduction for this year, notice of shop reduction can lawfully be given up to April 1.

The bylaw was read for the first time and its passage blocked by the following

Yeas-James Fitzgerald, M. Scarrow, J. Nutkins and S. O'Meara-4. Nays-Chas. Taylor, J. Pritchard, R. Carrothers, G. Shaw, H. Dreaney and Ald.

Ald. Carrothers then moved that the byliw receive its second reading in six months from date. His motion carried on an exset reversal of the previous vote.

The members who were present at times during the evening were: Ald. Judd (chair), Garratt, Shaw, Coo, Nutkins, Dreaney, James Fitngerald, F. J. Fitzgerald, Taylor, Pritchard, O'Meara, Scarrow, Wm. Heaman, Robert Carrothers, Thos. Jones, City Clerk Kingston and Sergeant-at-Arms

Ald. Scarrow (acting chairman) read the raport of No. 3 committee as follows: 1. Your committee recommends that it be empowered to parchase material required to repair and paint the hose wagon at No. 1 station. 2. That supplies be purchased for fire department, and your committee empowered to call for tenders for same: 6 rabber coats, 6 pairs of knee boots (Goodyear Giove brand), 3 lanterns, 4 quilts, 500 pounds sulphur of copper, 400 pounds zincs (beat bar zine), 18 gravity battery cells 6"x8", 6 Leclanche cells complete, 300 glass insulators, 50 porcelain knobs, 250 pins, 150 sideblocks, 100 cross arms and extensions, 200 guards for pins, 25 connectors, 100 Leelanche zines and 4 galvanometers. 3. Recommending that tenders be called for wood for relief and other city purposes for current year, the tenders to state price for delivery in that part of the city north of Dundas street and also south of Dundas street, on the following kinds of wood, viz., all maple, all beech, and mixed maple and beech. Tenders will be considered that offer for either north or south of Dundas street delivery. 4. That your committee be empowered to call for tenders for street watering That your committee be authorized to call for tenders for cleaning market. 6. That your committee be empowered to call for tenders for cleaning the market, tenderer also to perform the duties of market clerk. 7. That the tender of W. G. Endey to rene weigh scales to city for purpose of public weigh scales in No. 5 ward and to act as weigh clerk thereof for the sum of $70 per year, and to pay all fees received by him over to the city, be accepted, being lowest tender, and that an cations for tenders for electric lighting. There was a great deal of discussion on clauses 5 and 6 on the advisability of, calling for tenders for cleaning the market or whether the tenderer should also perform the duties of the market clerk. Clause 5 was adopted and 6 struck out. The majority of the aldermen appeared to think that one of the street sweeping brooms could clean the market when necessary. Ald. Garratt asked why specifications with the late weigh clerk. 8. Reporting progress on the communications of Daniel Bacon, Charles McMillan, John Kemp, et

ai., W. H. Claris, Steam Boiler and Plate

been presented by No. 3 committee. Ald. Scarrow said that the committee had been unfortunate in the matter of its chairman (Ald. Parnell), who was regarded as the electrician of the council, and was not able to sit on the board, hence the matter was laid over. There was not much harry anyway, as the present contract did not expire until December.

The explanation was satisfactory, and the report was adopted as amended.

NUMBER TWO COMMITTEE. Chairman Ald. Thos. Jones read the fol-lowing report of No. 2 committee: 1. Recommending that it be empowered to advertise for tenders for a stone crusher, and submitting the report of the city engineer containing information on the matter. 2. Reporting progress on other matters referred to it by the council. Ald. O'Meara disputed the engineer's report on the matter of the amount of stone available. But even if there was plenty of stone would it not be better to give employment to the out-of-work element of London instead of sending the $1,000 or $1,500 to "Yankee town" for a "bruiser."

"It will be another Jumbo on your hands,"continued Ald. O'Meara, "oranother time ball, like what you have up here. We could get lots of poor workingmen in London to break stone on the streets at $3 ple cord. By this means you will be keeping the money in the city and benefiting the merchants and business men. Spend some of the money in removing the fifth off the streets, and besides benefiting the health of the citizens you will help their ockets." (Applause.)

Ald. Pritchard said that what was wanted was a good roller.

Ald. Coo contended that no mechanic, even if he were out of work, would care to read stone on the street, and no man in his generation used hand power when they ould get machiney. The clause was adopted and the report

-The Montreal Star confesses that the duty on coal oil is 200 per cent., while perfumery gets in at 30 per cent. This will be welcome intelligence to the masses of the Canadian people, who, of course, regard perfumery as a necessary of life !

-Toronto chief of police asks that mounted policemen be appointed to cover suburban districts. The northwest could very easily assign a hundred or two of its mounted police force but for the necessity of watching the Canadian and United States frontier to prevent trade between the two peoples.

-Lord Rosebery, the new British Premier, among his many enterprises, has become a milkman, one of the most exteneive in London, but he does not have his name on his milk wagons as Lord Rayleigh does, preferring to carry on the trade under the names of his managers. Two other peers who turn an honest penny i the same way are Lords Londonderry, retail coal, and Portsmouth, fruit and garden truck.

-It is announced that a marriage has been arranged between Mr. Asquith, Home Secretary, and Miss Margaret Tennant, daughter of Sir Charles Tennant, of the Glen, Peeblesshire. Miss Tennant is the only unmarried daughter of Sir Charles Tennant, and possesses not only considerable personal attractions, but intellectual gifts of a high order. The marriage, which will take place early in June, disposes of the matrimonial fate of a lady who, a year ago, was represented as being engaged to Lord Rosebery, now Premier of Great Britain.

-Some remarkable revelations are made in the Dominion Attorney-General's report just made public. Last year the Ottawa Government expended for all purposes the enormous sum of $42,148,000, of which over $10,000,000 was for interest on the public debt. Though there was no revision of the Dominion voters lists last year $17,500 was expended under this head. The Attorney-General is kept busy looking after the shortcomings of the extravagant Administration. He insists that "new irregularities" are creeping in to an alarming extent and he points out that the estimates were exceeded by $706,000.

-There will be widespread sympathy in Canada with Lady Aberdeen, who mourns the death of her father, Sir Dudley Coutts Majoribanks, Baron Tweedmouth, which occurred suddenly on Sunday afternoon. The deceased was a Liberal of advanced views, and a life-long friend of Mr. Gladstone. He was M. P. for Berwick from 1853 to 1868, and in 1881 he was knighted. His son, Edward Marjoribanks, M.P., chief Liberal whip and patronage secretary, will succeed him in the peerage. By the parliamentary vacancy thus caused in Berwickshire the first contest under the Premiership of Lord Rosebery will be caused.

-It was fifty years ago-the 5th of March, 1844-that the Toronto Globe first made its appearance. George Brown, its founder, lies in his grave, and there also sleep many of his old colleagues such as Alexander Mackenzie and Archibald Mackellar. During all those years the Globe was in the thick of every fight against privilege and on behalf of the interests of the mass of the people. There has been no time from that day fifty years ago that the Globe could not fairly be considered the leading newspaper of Canada. On moral questions its influence has been during the whole half century progressive and wholesome. The copyright of a long-established newspaper becomes gradually valuable, and under conscientious management is practically indestructible. But, then, to grow a copyright is like growing a tree. A valuable copyright cannot be grown in a day; but when once well rooted it seems next to impossible to uproot it. Tempus fugit ! Half a century since the establishment of the Globe! Time flies, indeed, for all. It is now going on 31 years since the establishment of the London Advertiser. Success to the well-managed and welledited Toronto Globe, and may it be relatively as influential and as useful when it celebrates its hundredth year.

LONDON FIRST.

Now that Mr. W. R. Meredith, of Toonto, has been nominated by the London Tories, a few editorials by the party's iournals on constituencies that have to go abroad for representatives would be in order .- [Hamilton Times.

They will not protest in this case, though only the other day the London Free Press vigorously indorsed the view that too many Toronto lawyers represent outside constituencies. Of course, the remark must be applied, like charity, to begin with, at home. London is simply too self-respecting city, has too much regard for its future, to accept the city solicitor of Toronto, who years ago deserted London, as its representative. Mr. Meredith cannot serve too masters. He cannot serve a city which is the rival of every other city in Ontario, receiving $5,000 or $6,000 a year as his reward, and this important western center of trade as well. And our city contemporary being the witness, albeit it has already characteristically recanted, the majority o the citizens of London do not mean that he shall be placed in that anomalous position. If the city solicitor of Toronto wants a seat, let the city of Toronto provide him with one. London is important enough to demand that it shall have a representative entirely devoted to its interests and unentangled in the affairs of a community that is our keen competitor. Such a representative, we feel assured the Liberal candidate willbe. Meanwhile, let every independent citizen refuse to pledge himself to the agents of the Toronto city solicitor. The coming man for London will doubtless be placed in the field in due SHOULD THE LEGISLATURE ONLY

MEET ONCE IN TWO YEARS? This week a motion in favor of biennial sessions of the Legislature will be seriousy debated in the Ontario Assembly, despite the fact that the change can only be brought about through the intervention of the British Parliament, which has not hitherto been called upon to consider such a request from any part of her Majesty's dominions. The proposition that the Legislature should only meet every two years provides, as Hon. James Young points out in a letter to the press, for a great decrease in Ministerial responsibility and for an enormous increase in the power of the Ministers. So long as a Premier possessed of sound discrimination and honesty like Sir Oliver is in power, there might be little danger; but let an ill-balanced Premier and a reckless, incompetent and dishonest Cabinet get hold of the Government, and there would be a lamentable lack of check if the House only met and took cognizance of their doings once in two years. Every year a great deal of private bill legislation comes up. Would there not be great hardships to many under the biennial meeting system? It may be said, Let the Ministers be invested with powers to settle all this private bill legislation. Is it in the interests of the people that responsible government should be turned into autocracy? The Ministers are even now charged with doing too much without consulting the Legislature, The same men that raise this cry want to load up the Ministers with more responsibility! They are consistent in their inconsistency. It is in the public interest that all representative bodies should meet once every twelve monthsnot necessarily for a lengthened period or to indulge in law making merely to make a show of working, but to take stock, to closely scrutinize public expenditures, to remedy shortcomings, to promote necessary reforms, to obtain public assurances that the trustees of the public are doing their duty.

No one ever suggests that the shareholders of the banks and of the loan societies should not have an annual meeting, or that the Anglican Synod, the Presbyterian General Assembly, the Methodist Conferences and the Baptist Unions should only meet every two years. The financial institutions, the church bodies and the friendly societies hold it to be eminently proper that their trustees shall give an yearly account of their stewardship, and that the balances shall be struck, not for 24 months, but for twelve. The annual legislative stocktaking cannot be done away with at the suggestion of any unsafe political experimenter, hard up for cause of offense against the cautious, safe and withal economical Ministers now in command. Perhaps it might be an advantage to have the British North America Act tinkered, but not in this direction. The British Parliament, which passed it, experimented in regard to both methods. As early as the reign of Edward III. a statute was enacted providing that parliaments should be held "every year, or oftener, if need be." The determination of some of the autocratic kings to govern without parliaments caused the people much trouble, and the failure to hold a meeting of the representatives of the people every year resulted in the perpetuation of some of the worst outrages on the liberties of the people that have been chronicled. Historians are united in declaring that the excesses in the reign of Charles I. chiefly originated in the long intermission of parliaments. Such outrageous imposts as the levying of ship money would never have been undertaken if the rulers of the day had been compelled to meet the House of Commons every year. In the reign of King William all

to by the passage of a bill enacting annual parliaments for the purpose of insuring a strict approximation of the public revenue according to votes of supply. The Whigs (the antecedents of the Liberals) supported the measure, and the Tories generally opposed it. King William at first refused his assent to the law, but the Commons, with commendable pluck, declined to abandon so important a measure, and finally the royal assent was given to it in 1694. From that day to this there have been annual parliaments in Great Britain, and in every portion of the empire where representative institutions have been established the rulers meet annually for stock-taking and needed legislative purposes.

The total trade of the Province of Ontario last year, according to an Ottawa investigator, amounted to $77,834,000, of which $47,607,000 was with the United States and $27,086,000 with the British Empire. Ontario's trade with the United States was, therefore, 61 per cent. of her trade with the whole world; with the British Empire it was 35 per cent. Ontario's trade with the world outside of the United States and the British Empire was less than 4 per cent. of the total. Ontario sold to the United States goods to the value of $18,588,000, and to Great Britain, $10,-689,000. Ontario bought from the United States $28,447,000, and from Great Britain $15,694,000. All these figures refer to goods the produce of Canada. Of $908,-000 worth of minerals sold last year by Ontario the United States took all except $8,000; of Ontario's fish, $454,000 worth, the United States took every pound; of products of the forest Ontario exported $9,874,000, of which the United States took all save $54,000; of animals and their products, cheese, butter and hides, Ontario exported $7,391,000, of which Great Britain took $4,858,000 and the United States $2,-524,000; of agricultural products Great Britain is credited with buying $4,941,000 and the United States with $2,694,000. Ontario exported $3,381,000 worth of manufactures, of which the United States bought $2,141,000 and Great Britain $828,-000. Taking the returns for the whole Dominion it is seen that the total exports of agricultural products was less in value last year than in 1877, sixteen years ago.

Some of the importations into the Dominion, compared with 1892, were as fol-

The duty collected on iron and steel goods was $2,878,000, an increase; on cotton goods, $1,295,000, an increase; on coal, $991,000, a decrease of $7,000. The importation of coal oil increased from 5,793,-636 gallons to 6,222,290, and the duty collected from $417,000 to $448,000. The quantity of raw sugar imported fell from 327,000,000 pounds in 1892 to 252,000,000 pounds in 1893. Over $3,000,000 worth of ron and steel was imported free by manufacturers. The stress of hard times is shown by the fact that the consumption of tea declined by a pound per head of the population. The value of horses exported was $1,588,000, an increase of $100,000; of cattle, $7,745,000, about the same as last year; of sheep, $1,288,000, a decline of $140,000. There was an increase in the value of meats exported from $1,984,000 to $3,188,000. The gradual death of the barley trade is shown by the following figures: Exports in 1890, 9,975,000 bushels; in 1891, 4,892,000 bushels; in 1892, 5,202,-000 bushels, and in 1893, 2,044,000 bushels. The export of wheat was a little over 13,000,000 bushels, a decline of 600,000 bushels. The decline in value of wheat was marked, the figures being for 1892 $12,056,000, and for 1893 $10,152,000. The quantity of hay exported increased from 85,000 tons to 151,000 tons. The value of household effects exported out of the country increased from $1,227,000 to $1,357,000. The duty on imported sugar fit for use was at the rate of 22 per cent.; the quantity imported fell from 17,000,000 pounds to 3,000,000 pounds.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

BARLOW BROTHERS' MINSTRELS TO-NIGHT. The patrons of the Grand will have an opportunity to-night of witnessing a first class minstrel show. The Barlow Brothers have been in the minstrel line for several years and are excellent burnt cork comedians. The entire company are all well-known performers and the specialties are genuine novelties. Good singing is a prominent feature, while the jokes are all faid to be fresh. The programme is certainly a very attractive one, for it embodies everything in the way of a minstrel performance.

HARRY LINDLEY WEDNESDAY NIGHT. To-morrow night Harry Lindley and his company will begin a five nights' engagement. The opening play is the "Inside Track," a sensational English melodrama. Low prices of 10, 20 and 30 cents are the charges.

'THE SUBSTITUTE" LAST NIGHT. Ezra Kendall and his company appeared at the Grand last evening in his new play, "The Substitute." A fair house enjoyed the performance and applauded the different specialties introduced by the company. The play gives Kendall far more scope for his capabilities than his former production of "A Pair of Kids." The play has been constructed to suit Kandall, and the authors have placed in this production a character eminently suited to one so capable of performing a country character. The lines are arranged so as to throw plenty of the comedy element into the performance, and the entire company are give ample opportunity to display their talents. Mr. Kandell has a clever company supporting han, and they are all well known in theatrical life. Arthur and Jennie Dunn were recalled several times for their dancing, while Chae. Elleidge, the grandfather, was repeatedly eacosed for his "old man" shuffle dancing.

Macadem costs $1 44 a yard, and when the traffic is heavy, the capairs become very costly, sometimes amounting to nearly $1 a yard ennually. A 24 fach rock asphalt pavement on a 6-inch Portland cement concrete hase costs about $3 48 a yard in London with a two-year guarantee from the contractors. It costs an average of 24 cents a yard for repairs during the next fifteen years, making the net cost 42 cents per yard per year. Wood pavement costs 33 cents per yard per year, and granite 18 cents. The cost of coal tar pavement in Hamilton, Ont., with a life of fifteen years, is estimated at 111 cents per Messrs, Meredith and Clancy Have Complaints to Urge.

Another Illustration of a "Great Cry and Little Wool'-Suggestion to Amalgamate Public and High School Boards.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.) PARLIAMENT HOUSE, TORONTO, March 5 .-Two members of the Opposition — Mr. Meredith, the leader, and Mr. Clancy, his financial mentor - to-day dispelled considerable of the monotony which gen erally characterizes the Monday session of competently or honorably with what he termed an asset of the Province, while the latter made an effort to create a stir by parading certain particulars connected with the alleged dismissal of an official at the Penetanguishene Reformatory. Mr. Meredith moved for a return which should give particulars regarding the management of the Agricultural Hall. This is the building in which Mr. Phillip Jamieson has his store, at the corner of Yonge and Queen streets. Mr. Meredith charged that the Government, being practically owners, had not charged sufficient rental. An animated debate resulted.

Both Mr. Dryden and Mr. Ross pointed out that the Government, owing to the fact that the Agricultural and Arts Association which had the management of the building was a separate and responsible body, was not to be held accountable for the basis of rental upon which the building was utilized by individual parties.

Mr. Clancy asked the reasons for the dismissal of Wm. Young, formerly farm instructor at the reformatory for boys at Penetanguishene. In making this motion he insinuated that the Government had trumped up some charge against the instructor so that a friend of the Minister of Education-a Mr. Stewart-might be given a berth. He also alleged that Mr. Young had been paid his salary, amounting to $150, throughout four months after his discontinuance of labor at the reformatory. A gratuity of $300 had also, he thought, been

Mr. Gibson said that the former speaker had been quite wrong in calling the case a dismissal. Mr. Young had resigned. While there had been nothing against Mr. Young's character or his abilities as a farmer, he had been found unable to manage the boys. It was only after the attention of the Government had been repeatedly called to the matter by the warden that it was decided to make the change. The investigation instituted was not viewed in the light of a search into the conduct of a man whose character was questioned, or who had not discharged his duties to the best of his abilities. It was considered as purely a case in which a man had missed his vocation. It was desirable that a man who had to o with boys should have their confidence and have control over them. Mr. Young did not possess either of these qualifications. It was solely in view of this consideration that the Government took the action it did. Mr. Young was quietly asked to resign. As he was unprepared for the announ was granted a leave of absence with pay for the purpose of allowing him to secure another position. Failing in this quest, the gratuity had been granted him.

Mr. Clancy said he thought it peculiar that a man should be retained in the public service for seven years before it was found that he was unfit for the position. He objected to gratuities on principle. The practice was open to grave abuse.

The question of the amalgamation of public and high school boards came up for discussion, when Mr. Ryerson moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Public Schools Act. He claimed that an obvious improvement in the operation of the two branches of learning would result and a financial saving be effected. He instanced London as a city in which representatives of both sections had long sat together in conclave to mutual advantage.

Mr. Ross said that he did not object so much to the tenor of Mr. Ryerson's remarks as he did to the construction, of the bill in question. The bill proposed the absorption by the public school board of the high school board-not the union of the one with the other. Such legislation relating as it did in this instance to Toronto, would be unjust to the latter body. Nothing had ever been said against the manner in which the high school board managed its affairs. Adverting to the principle of the measure, Mr. Ross said that he had no objection to such amendment to the Public School Act as would leave it optional with either of the boards to unite. He hoped, however, that the bill would be dropped for the present in order to give the Government time to further consider this and several additional amendments.

Mr. Ryerson concurred. LABOR ASKS REPRESENTATION.

(Associated Press Dispatch.) TORONTO, March 5 .- Sir Oliver Mowat and Hon. Messrs. Dryden, Gibson and Hardy, members of the Government, received a deputation at 8 o'clock to-night in the council chamber, representing the labor organizations of Toronto, asking for representation according to the present population of the city. J. D. O'Donohue, for the Trades Council, and Alfred Jury, for the Knight of Labor, were the spokesmen. Toronto would have six members if these gentlemen's views were to obtain. Sir Oliver, in reply, said that the whole subject was in preparation to be put in the form of a bill which would be before the House in a few days.

PRACTICAL AND PROMPT.

(Brantford Expositor.) Nothing could better illustrate the advantage of having an attorney-general who man promptly deserted. is intimately and practically acquainted with the administration of justice, than the prompt reply of Sir Oliver Mowat to the London and Ottawa deputations that waited on him the other day to ask that Superior Court judges be permitted to hold sittings in these places for the hearing of motions. The wishes of the deputation were fully met, and in such a way as to preserve fully all existing privileges while conferring new ones.

NEW YORK, March 5 .- Mr. W. T. Stead, the English editor, who was said to have left Chicago stealthily for fear of harm coming to him through the publication of his book entitled "It Christ Came to Chicago," was interviewed in Philadelphia last night.

"Those who know me," said he, "know that I am no coward. I left Chicago because my book was finished and I have work to do in London. I spent more than four months in Chicago, and I think I am pretty familiar with it, as my book will show. Those who surmise that certain persous in high places in Chicago will be affected by the book are right and they ought to be affected, for, while nothing but facts are printed, there the Legislature. The former attempted to are some things which persons cannot do show that the Government was not dealing and be respected. I employed a man to ascertain the owner of, or taxpayer for every piece of property which is put to questionable use, and it really afforded me some surprise to find how very disreput-able people are. A chart showing the location of these properties, will be published with the book, and I have hopes that some good will result.'

BLOODY BATTLES OF EUROPE.

At Zorndorf the Loss of Life Included About Half the Contestants.

Linear tactics and firelocks contributed more lavishly to the death-roll than the skirmishers and breechloaders of modern times, says the Saturday Review. At Blenheim England lost some 23 per cent and her enemies about the same number. At Mollwitz the Prussians lost 18 per cent, the Austrians 28 per cent. At Kolin Frederick's force suffered to the extent of 37 per cent, while their victory cost his enemies only 14 per cent. At Zorndorf, the bloodiest battle of which we have any record that we may rely upon, the proportion of loss to the total forces engaged rose to the enormous total offrom one-half to one-third. Kunersdorf was almost as destructive to human life, and Frederick lost 35 per cent, against 26 per cent of the allies. With the advent of Napoleon and the loosened foragainst 26 per cent of the allies. mations of the revolutionary armies, losses were at first diminished, but at Aspern the Austrians left nearly 28 per cent of their men on the battlefield and the French, although the bulletins denied it, are said to have been weaker by one-half after the battle. Borodino, too, deprived the Russians of 36 per cent and the French of 25 per cent. During the Napoleon wars we find the losses lower, although after Ligny the Prussians were weaker by as many as 50 per cent, and the victory of Waterloo cost England rather more than that proportion. When, however, we turn to the campaigns which succeeded the lull of exhaustion following the downfall of the first empire, we are confronted with no such bloody records, in spite of the invention of percussion caps, rifles, and even rifled cannon. The allies at the Alma only lost some 9 per cent and the Russians 14 per cent. Inkerman, however, was as bloody as Waterloo, but it was a struggle in which tactics played a very small part. The losses at Magenta and Solferino were comparatively slight. Although the con-sequences of Koniggratz were immense, they were cheaply purchased by the victors; while in 1870, notwithstanding that both sides were armed with breechloaders, the losses never approached the totals of some of the battles of the early century or of those of the seven years' war. At Worth, it is true, one-sixth of the total forces engaged were either killed or wounded; but at Gravelotte the proportion was only one-eleventh, and at Weissenburg onetwelfth.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS

-Scarlet fever has appeared at 408 Burwell street. -The G. T. R. staff moved into their commodious new offices to-day. -Barlow Bros.' Minstrels paraded the treets at noon to-day. They appear at the Grand to-night.

before Judge Wm. Elliot on Thursday. The River Rising. The Thames is getting frisky again as the warm sun of spring melts the snow. During last night it rose rapidly, and the rain of to-day will not decrease the flood any. This morning the water was on a level with the Cove roads, and the flats opposite London West are partially submerged, forming a delta of islands. If rain continues an old-time flood may be expected to-morrow. How the Paper Was Met.

Yesterday was settling day with the banks and wholesale houses throughout the country. In the city bank circles paper was apparently very well met, and there are no complaints. In some instances the payments were far better than expected. Among the wholesale houses it would seem that payments had been made as well if not a little better than usual, and renewals were no more frequent than formerly.

Dr. Gray's Testimony in the Cocaine Cure Case.

Paid $150 and Was Not Cured. He Said -An Interesting Examination.

At the resumption of Col. E. J. Meagher's case at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon before Squire Smyth, Dr. Gray was again called and gave evidence till 5:45. Mr. Toothe cross-examined the witness closely, and more than once Dr. Gray was compelled to sit down and rest.

To Mr. McEvoy Mr. Gray said that he could not stand the treatment and he threatened to go home, whereupon the defendants were going to publish him. The defendants afterwards told witness that there was a mistake in the medicine-that it would have to be increased in strength, and that the treatment would have to be started alresh; witness continued to take the medicine, for seven weeks; he had told defendants that there was morphine in it, but they denied it positively. During the seven weeks Wheate and Meagher had wanted to sell the witness the right to use the remedy in the Province. The company had offered him $5,000 if he could sell the Province for $25,000. Wheate and Meagher had frequently assured witness that there was no morphia in the medicine. They would claim to know what composed the formula and again they would claim not to know. After some little change in the medicine (which was numbered by bottles) they wanted to put the witness onto No. 2 and when he refused they wrote to witness' friends and asked for the money. On Jan. 27 $150 was paid. On Jan. 28 witness went for an extra dose, when Meagher rushed into the dining-room and said he had nothing for him, and want ed him to come at the regular hour. After that time for three weeks the witness took medicine from the same bottle every 36 hours. Meagher then told him that were he to come at any other than the regular hour he would be put out of the house. The understanding was that no money was to be paid until a cure was effected. When witness saw the results of the treatment he took a dose to the analyst, and it was then found that it contained morphine. Cross-examined by Mr. Toothe, Dr. Gray said he was 35 years of age, and graduated from the medical college of New York in Q.—Were you ever married. A.—No. Q.—Then you went through a form of marriage? A .- Yes; but the judge re-Q.-Why was the marriage not consummated? This question was ruled out. Q .- Was your state of health good when you went to Meagher and Wheate?

Dr. Gray refused to answer. Mr. Toothe then took up the question of rules to be followed during the treatment, and Dr. Gray denied that he knew they were mentioned in the contract. Witness said that after the contract was signed the rows were so frequent that it was impossible to keep track of them.

Q.-Did you break the rules? A.-I did cocaine alone? A .- The one made after works, which were totally destroyed to the contract was signed forbade it.

Q .- And how many times did you take cocaine? A .- Twice. Q.—What else did they tell you was a breach of the rules? A .- They told me that I did not take enough exercise. Mr. Toothe then asked several questions which were not considered admissable. He then questioned witness in regard to signing the contract. Witness said that when he found the contract had been signed by Mrs. Jarvis a row followed. On Thursday, Jan. 23, in the institute, the question of payment of the $150, was broached, and when Wheate learned that neither witness nor Miss Jarvis had the money, he drove out to the Jarvis house at Delaware and tried to induce Mrs. Jarvis to pay over the cash. This was refused, but on the following

Saturday the sum was handed over. The week following this witness had to stop taking the medicine, as it was impossible to stand it any longer. Q.-Did you offer to take $1,000 to settle? A .- No: I did not. Q .- Did you say that the only thing that you had against the medicine was the way in which it was administered? A .- I did Q.-Did you not offer in consideration of $1,000 to give a recommendation to the company for their treatment? A .- No, I did not. I would not want to take the cursed remedy. It is nothing but a tapering-out system of morphia. Anyway I would not want to make a settlement with you. I know you of old. Nobody in London, either, would want to make a settlement with you. By Mr. McEvoy-Did you ever have a bona fide offer of settlement from Wheate and Meagher? A .- Never; anyway I knew they had no money.

Q .- Can you swear there was morphia in the remedy? A.—Yes; I can. I had it analyzed and know.

DR. JOHNSON, who was also a patient at the institute, was the next witness. He said that Wheate had told him that the formula of the medicine was known to him, but that there was no morphia in it. Meagher had also informed witness that he was a partner in the firm, and shared the profits equally. Mrs. Phebe Jarvis was the last witness examined. She said the money had been paid on Wheate representing that Gray was Counsel for the plaintiff and defendant respectively addressed the magistrate, and their arguments wound up with hot words between the two. Squire Smyth reviewed the evidence, and sent Col. Meager for trial.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 6 .- Chas. Murray, a negro burglar serving a 12 years sentence, attempted suicide last night by thrusting a poker into his throat and strik. ing his head against the wall. Believing himself to be dying, he confessed to Warden James to the effect that in 1887 he had murdered a farmer and his wife near Xenia, Ohio. Robbery was his motive. To conceal the crime he burned the house with the bodies in it. He was suspected and tried, but the jury acquitted him. Murray will probably recover.

Trouble Among Thespians.

NEW YORK, March 6 .- Following the report of a suit to be brought by the wife of Geo. Lederer, the theatrical manager, against her husband for divorce or vice versa, the announcement is made that a brother of David Belasco, the playwright, has fauthorized his lawyer. "Abe" Hummel, to bring suit against Charles Alfred Byron, librettist of "Princess Nicotine" and other comic pieces, for $50,000 damages for alienating the affections of his (Belasco's) wife. Mrs. Belasco is at present a member of Lillian Russell's Princess Nicotine Company. She was formerly Mrs. S. P. Rounds, of Omaha, Neb., and her husband secured a divorce from her two years ago. Last year she was married to Belasco and the marriage, it is said, has been the cause of much trouble in the Belasco family. Byron, it is alleged, is the cause of the trouble between Mr. and Mrs.

Foulkes, which resulted in the mayor bodily throwing the commissioner out of his office and ordering him never to enter it again until he could obey orders. The trouble was over the discharge of Street Sprinkler Van Court Foulkes, the former being a friend of the mayor. The mayor claims that Van Court is a competent officer and has been discharged upon demands from the Ameriican Protective Association. Mayor Van Horn was at one time a member of this association, but was expelled because he appointed a Catholic to the position of inspector of police, and this trouble appears to be a continuation of this affair. The mayor appears to have the best of the fight and will undoubtedly reappoint Van Court.

Unionists in Conference.

London, March 6 .- The Duke of Devonshire, Joseph Chamberlain, Sir Henry James, M.P., and a number of their prominent followers held a conference this morning in regard to the speech which the Duke of Devonshire is to make at Yeovil to-night. It is expected the Duke will make some references to the reported negotiations between Lord Rosebery and the Liberal-Unionist leaders with a view to the return of dissentients to the Liberal party.

Gladstone's Eye Troubles. LONDON, March 6.-It is learned on the best authority that the immediate eye trouble from which Mr. Gladstone is suffering is not the cataract alone. Since his return to England he has begun to suffer from a partial loss of power in the eyelids, especially the right eyelid, so that the lid drops and he cannot raise it.

It is a singular fact that for a year or so before he died his great antagonist, Disraeli, suffered from precisely the same affection of the eyelids. In fact, after his elevation to the peerage Disraeli always sat with his back to the public galleries on that account.

Gladstone first began to suffer from his eyes so far back as 56 years ago. His labors in writing his "Church and State" Donaghy, was very minute and interesting, weakened them so seriously that he was

A Chicago Man Steals a Two-Story House and Sells It.

CHICAGO, March 6.-One of the most startling cases in this city was the act of a Chicago man, who stole another man's twostory house, carried it fourteen blocks across railroad tracks and fashionable avenues and then sold the structure to another individual. Jesse M. Furst owned a two-story cottage at 611 Eliston avenue. The other day he went around to look at his property. When he neared the site he found nothing but a hole in the ground. The neighbors told Furst they had seen the house moving away some time before. Furst reported the occurrence to the police, who located the house on what had been a vacant lot on Dudley avenue. The officers found Joseph Pisazaczek and his wife in possession. The couple were astounded to find they were living in a stolen house, and Pisazaczek produced a bill of sale showing he had purchased the dwelling from Frank Lubnosck for $185. The latter was arrested.

An Energetic Woman.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 6 .- Mrs. Eva Blackman, Leavenworth's woman police commissioner, who recently caused the removal of all the bachelors from the police force, has now set in to rid the town of variety theaters. CHAPTER I.

The death of the Prince of Conde, which occurred in the spring of 1588, by depriving me of my only patron, reduced me to such straits that the winter of that year, which saw the King of Navarre come to spend his Christmas at St. Jean d'Angely, saw also the nadir of my fortunes. I did not know at this time-I may confess it to-day without shame-whither to turn for a gold crown or a new scabbard, and neither had nor disserned any hope of employment. The peace sately patched up at Blois between the King of France and the League persuaded many of the Huguenots that their final ruin was at hand; but it could not fill their exhausted treasury or enable them to put fresh troops

The death of the Prince had left the King of Navarre without a rival in the affections of the Huguenots; the Vicomte de Turenne, whose turbulent ambition already began to make itself felt, and M. de Chatillon, ranking next to him. It was my ill-fortune, however, to be equally unknown to all three leaders, and as the month of December which saw me thus miserably straitened saw me reach the age of 40, which I regard, liffering in that from many, as the grand climacteric of a man's life, it will be believed hat I had need of all the courage which religion and a campaigner's life could supply.

I had been compelled some time before to Bell all my horses except the black Sardinian with the white spot on its forehead; and I now found myself obliged to part also with my valet de chambre and groom, whom I lismissed on the same day, paying them their wages with the last links of gold chain left to me. It was not without grief and dismay that I saw myself thus stripped of the appurtenances of a man of birth, and driven to groom my own horse under cover of night. But this was not the worst. My dress, which suffered inevitably from this menial employment, began in no long time to bear witness to the change in my circumstances; so that on the day of the King of Navarre's entrance into St. Jean I dared not face the crowd, always quick to remark the poverty of those above them, but was fain to keep within doors and wear out my patience in the garret of the cutler's house the Rue de la Coutellerie, which was all the lodging I could now afford.

Pardieu, 'tis a strange world! Strange that time seems to me; more strange compared with this. My reflections on that day, I remember, were of the most melancholy. Look at it how I would, I could not but see that my life's spring was over. The crows'-feet were gathering about my eyes, and my moustachies, which seemed with each day of ill-fortune to stand out more flercely in proportion as my face grew leaner, were already gray. I was out at elbows, with empty pockets, and a sword which peered through the sheath. The meanest ruffler who, with broken feather and tarnished lace, swaggered at the heels of Turenne, was scarcely to be distinguished from me. I had still, it is true, a rock and a few barren acres in Brittany, the last remains of the family property; but the small sums which the peasants could afford to pay were sent annually to Paris, to mother, who had no other dower. And this I would not touch, being minded to die a gentleman, even if I could not live in that estate.

Small as were my expectations of success. since I had no one at the king's side to push my business, nor any friend at court, I aevertheless did all I could, in the only way that occurred to me. I drew up a petition, and lying in wait one day for M. Forget, the King of Navarre's secretary, placed it in his hand, begging him to lay it before that prince. He took it, and promised to do so. smoothly, and with as much lip-civility as I had a right to expect. But the careless manner in which he doubled up and thrust away the paper on which I had spent so much labor, no less the covert sneer of his walet, who ran after me to get the customary present—and ran, as I still blush to remember, in vain-warned me to refrain from

In this, however, having little save hope left, I failed so signally as to spend the next day and the day after in a fever of alternate confidence and despair, the cold fit following the hot with perfect regularity. At length, on the morning of the third day-I remember it lacked but three of Christmas-I heard a step on the stairs. My landlord living in his shop, and the two intervening floors being empty, I had no doubt the message was for me, and went outside the door to receive it, my first glance at the messenger confirming me in my highest hopes, as well as in all I had ever heard of the generosity of the King of Navarre. For by chance I knew the youth to be one of the royal pages; a saucy fellow who had a day or two before cried "Old Clothes" after me in the street. I was very far from resenting this now, however, nor did he appear to recall it; so that I draw the happiest augury as to the contents of the note he bore from the politeness with which he presented it to

I would not, however, run the risk of a mistake, and before holding out my hand, I asked him directly and with formality if it was for me.

He answered, with the utmost respect, that it was for the Sieur de Marsac, and for me if I were he. "There is an answer, perhaps?" I said, seeing that he lingered. "The King of Navarre, sir," he replied, with a low bow, "will receive your answer in person, I believe." And with that, replacing the hat which he had doffed out of respect to me, he turned and went down the Returning to my room, and locking the door, I hastily opened the missive, which was sealed with a large seal and wore every appearance of importance. I found its conents to exceed all my expectations. The ing of Navarre desired me to wait on him at noon on the following day, and the letter concluded with such expressions of kindness and good-will as left me in no doubt of the prince's intentions. I red it, I confess, with smotions of joy and gratitude which would better have become a younger man, and then theerfully sat down to spend the rest of the day in making such improvements in my dress as seemed possible. With a thankful heart I concluded that I had now escaped from poverty, at any rate from such poverty as is disgraceful to a gentleman; and con-toled myself for the meanness of the appearance I must make at court with the reflection that a day or two would mend both habit and fortune.

Accordingly, it was with a stout heart that I left my lodgings a few minutes before noon next morning, and walked toward the castle. It was some time since I had made to public an appearance in the streets, which the visit of the King of Navarre's court had filled with an unusual crowd, and I could not help fancying as I passed that some of the loiterers eyed me with a covert smile; and, indeed, I was shably enough. But finding that a frown more than sufficed to restore the gravity of these gentry, I set down the appearance to my own self-consciousness, and, stroking my moustach-ois, strode along boldly until I saw before me, and coming to meet me, the same page who had delivered the note.

He stopped in front of me with an air of consequence, and making me a low bow-whereat I saw the bystanders stare, for he was as gay a young spark as maid-of-honor could desire—he begged me to hasten, as the king awaited me in his closet. "He has asked for you twice, sir," he con-tinued importantly, the feather of his cap almost sweeping the ground.

"I think," I answered, quickening my steps, that the king's letter says noon, young sir. If I am late on such an occasion, he has indeed cause to complain of me."

"Tut, tut!" he rejoined, waiving his hand with a dancified air. "It is no matter. One may steal a horse when another may not look over the wall, you know." A man may be gray-haired, he may be sadcomplexioned, and yet he may retain some of the freshness of youth. On receiving this indication of a favor exceeding all expectation, I remember I felt the blood rise to my face, and experienced the most lively gratitude. I wondered who had spoken in my behalf, who had befriended me; and concluding at last that my part in the affair at Brounge had come to the king's ears, though I could not conceive through whom, I passed through the castle gates with an air of confidence and elation which was not unnatural, I think, under the circumstances. Thence, following my guide, I mounted the ramp and entered the court-

A Substitute for Hemp. James Marshall, 182 Lansdowne avenue, Toronto, has discovered a wild plant, the fibre of which has all the appearance of flax, except that it is much coarser. THE OPEN FORUM.

London's Incurables. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

In all large centers of population where there is an aggregation of the wealth, in-telligence and industry of the land there is also a corresponding accumulation of the poor and unfortunate, who, either through misfortune in business, loss of health or lack of thrift and energy, become the wards of their more fortunate brethren, and it is the duty of the municipality as well as of the community and state to support them.

In no city on the continent are these better cared for than in London. The Protestant and Catholic orphanages provide a home and tender care for those who have lost their natural guardian. The Home for the Aged looks after those who turer said, he has yet had in any place. in life's evening are without care or means of support.

Our Women's Refuge provides care and attention for a class of unfortunates who need caring for, and all know what a splendid work our City Hospital and St. Joseph's Infirmary are doing; but there is a class in our midst who are not fit inmates for any of these places, and yet who need more care and comfort than any of the classes cared for by any of the above institutions. 1 refer to the incurables. Day after day, month after month, often year after year, these poor people drag out an existence. Often objects of pity it is true, but also of loathing. No money to pay for the simple necessaries of life, let alone for those comforts and luxuries which might make their miserable lot endurable. Hopeless of a cure and longing to die, yet living on in pain and wretchedness, tossed about from place to place. They are not fit in--Miss Edith Grafton, Toronto, formerly of London East, is visiting Miss Kate Maynard, Queen's avenue east.

-W. A. Garrett, grocer, corner Waterloo and Oxford street, has received $1 10 conscience money through the post.

from place to place. They are not fit inmates for hospitals, which are places for acute diseases. Neither houses of industry nor homes for the aged will have them, and so they are left alone to live or die, most people wishing that they would die speedily. I think that if the movement for the establishment of such a home —A mortgage installment of $565 was paid off the debt of the Talbot Street Bapt. ladies and gentlemen would be only too glad of the chance to supply the means for its support.

I am sure that the medical profession of the city of London would all support it in every way in their power, for none know better than they the necessity for such a -Grand Sire Campbell and District charit y.

The expense of a home for the incurables would be great, but I am sure that the reward would also be in proportion, and if some of our wealthy citizens would give of their surplus to start the good work, the blessings of those whose pain would be relieved and whose dying hours would be made endurable would be a reward far more lasting than all the mausoleums or monuments ever erected. J. H. GARDINER, M.D.

London, March 2.

Returning Thanks. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

Mr. John Eldridge and family desire to very sincerely thank all the neighbors and friends in Cardwell, Rosseau, Brantford, Toronto, London and elsewhere for their sympathy and noble help in the recent loss of their house and everything by fire.

We would like all to know that we were very grateful for all the bedding, clothing and money sent in this our time of great need through the kindness of Mrs. Tilley, our Dominion secretary of King's Daughters in London, and of Mrs. F. Wilkes, Brantford, and and many other friends, I. H. N.

Will all kindly accept this our public thanks for every help and assistance sent to us in our great need. Everything sent will be of so much help to us. We have felt the sympathy and prompt help of our friends to be a great comfort in our deep affliction. Mrs. Eldridge is still shut in, but feels that her health is a little better, and hopes, if God wills, she will soon feel stronger. We are very gratefully, I. H. N.,
