

James Carruthers, Largest Lake Freighter, Was Probably Lost In Sunday's Big Storm

WRECKAGE OF GIANT BOAT FOUND NEAR GODERICH STREWN ALONG SHORE

Lifebuoy of Edwin Holmes, Large American Boat, Also Found—Bodies From Charles Price, Washed Up at Grand Bend, May Be Capsized Craft Near Pt. Huron.

THE LIFE RAFT OF THE ARGUS FOUND

[Canadian Press.]
Goderich, Nov. 12.—This morning an oar marked "James Carruthers," was picked up off the harbor here, and under instructions from Superintendent Parsons, of the Goderich Elevator Company, a systematic search was commenced. Wreckage was found along the shore for a mile or more below the harbor, including the rudder of a lifeboat also marked "James Carruthers," part of an oak-finished cabin, pieces of oak chairs, part of a pilot-house, and other pieces of the upper works of a large boat. It is evident that the James Carruthers, the largest Canadian freighter on the lakes, went down in Sunday's storm. She was owned by the St. Lawrence and Chicago Navigation Company. A. A. Wright, of Toronto, marine superintendent of the company, has been notified.

Last night seven bodies from the Charles S. H. Price came ashore below Grand Bend. This is believed to be the boat lying off Sarnia upside down. A lifebuoy from the Edwin F. Holmes, a large American boat, also has been found.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Nov. 12.—General Manager A. W. Wright, of the St. Lawrence and Chicago Navigation Company here, says the last word the company received from the James Carruthers was that she left the Canadian Soo eastbound Sunday. Mr. Wright has received official word of the finding of the wreckage on the Lake Huron shore, but declines to admit the loss of the vessel. Captain W. H. Wright, of Toronto, was in command, with 25 men, most of the latter from Midland and other Georgian Bay points.

Goderich, Nov. 12.—A life raft and some oars from the Argus were picked up here this afternoon. The Argus is not known here.

Miss Gordon's Brother Perishes on Wexford and Mother Is Ill.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Ont., Nov. 12.—Miss Annie Gordon, of Toronto, a sister of one of the men drowned on the ill-fated Wexford, was found in Toronto this morning to be borne down with grief. To add further to the sorrow of her brother's death, her mother is down with smallpox, and her father is quarantined. She is alone in Toronto with her grief. Today she was hysterical and is beside herself with the troubles that have come to the family.

ENRAGED POLACK STRUCK SWITCHMAN

Hurled Iron Pin at Ed. Evans and Injured Leg—Police Not Called.

[Canadian Press.]
Ed. Evans, 35 Weston street, a switchman on the Grand Trunk, near the Maitland street crossing, was struck on the left leg by an iron pin in the hands of a Polack laborer at noon today and seriously injured.

The assault was the result of an altercation which arose between the two. Evans, it is said, was having a little fun at the expense of the Polack, who was a member of Foreman Spence's gang engaged in repairing track at that point. The Polack finally lost his temper, and picking up a bolt which was near, struck Evans in the leg. He was scarcely able to walk, and was taken to his home in a cab. The police were not notified of the occurrence.

ALMOST WRECKED WHILE LIMPING IN TO PORT STANLEY

City of Hamilton Almost Crashed Into 600-Foot Liner and Barge.

THE BESSEMER KEEPS IN Drydock Floats Into Lake, But Is Brought Back by Gale.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Port Stanley, Nov. 12.—Port Stanley, after passing through the throes of the worst gale in the history of Lake Erie, is gradually assuming normal once more. Throughout Sunday and Monday the greatest anxiety prevailed throughout the village as the waves, lashed by the fury of the gale, broke mountains high on the beach and breakwater. The harbor proved an asylum for several weather-bound boats, the coal ferry Bessemer, that battled its way in to port early Sunday morning, and the R. and O. liner, City of Hamilton, that came limping in late Sunday.

The Worst Ever.
Never in the history of the Port have vessels seen such weather as that of the big storm. Along the beach driftwood and debris has been thrown for miles, while vessels and boats in the harbor itself have been grounded and splintered. The big drydock ground herself free of her moorings and drifted out into the lake. It was feared that she would be lost in the gale, but she drifted back and was re-secured. The amount of damage to the dock is unknown as yet.

Narrowly Missed Disaster.
Captain Baxter, of the City of Hamilton, reported the worst storm in his experience as a Great Lakes navigator. Near Long Point his vessel narrowly shaved a 600-foot freighter, while shortly afterwards a large lumbered out of the darkness, almost directly across the bows of the Hamilton. Only the greatest of luck, coupled with dexterous seamanship, prevented another lake tragedy, for had either two of the three boats come together, it would have meant death and destruction to both. So thick was the weather that lights were indistinguishable, and strong and fog horns could be heard at a few yards.

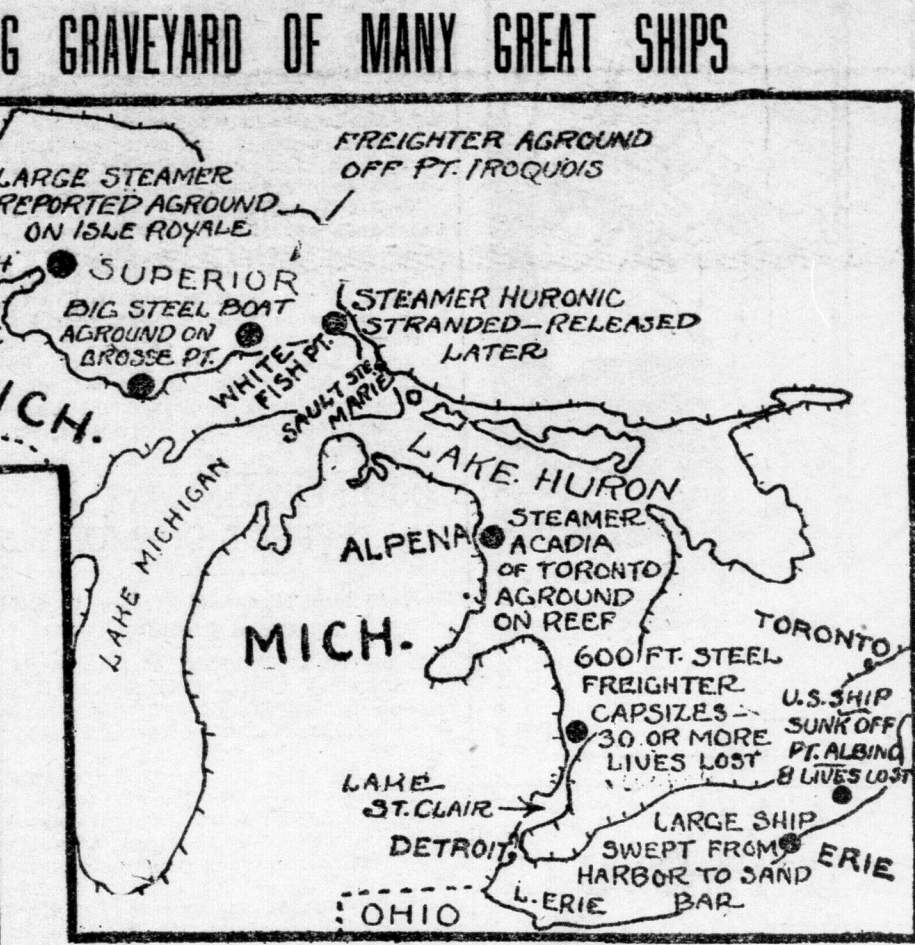

Bessemer Goes Out.
Last night the Bessemer made her first trip since Sunday. The loss of her sister ship, when Captain McLeod and his entire crew were lost, is still too vivid in the memory of the crew. The boat remained tied up in Port Stanley dock until the storm abated.

MR. JOHN W. LAIDLAW ACCEPTS DECISION OF TEMPERANCE PARTY

Always a Total Abstainer, He Will Vote With the Party Giving Fullest Measure of Prohibition—Mr. McFarlane Is Non-Committal.

Mr. John W. Laidlaw, of Westminster Township, this morning accepted the nomination of the temperance party of East Middlesex, to contest the riding in the by-election for the Legislature. Mass meetings in his interest have already been arranged at Ealing Thursday night and Brynston Friday night, committee rooms will be opened in the city, and one of the liveliest fights that the Ontario anti-liquor forces have ever figured in, is looked for in the constituency.

Always an Abstainer.
The committee appointed at Tuesday's convention waited upon Mr. Laidlaw today, and in accepting the nomination he issued the following statement in reply to a question as to where he stood on the temperance question:
"I desire to make my position clear. I am and have been all my life a total abstainer and am a thorough-going prohibitionist. The evils of intemperance are so appealing in their effect upon individual and national life that no man unwilling to do all in his power to suppress the evils of the liquor traffic would be worthy of the support of the electors."
A Social Blight.
"Regarding the liquor traffic to be a great economic burden, a social blight, and a corroding influence in the community, I am against it, and inasmuch as 502 out of 835 municipalities in the Province of Ontario have already abolished the retail sale of intoxicating beverages, while 123 others

Nineteen Bodies Found on Lake Huron Beach From Grand Bend to Dashwood

Many of Them Wore Life Belts and Their Pockets Contained a Considerable Amount of Money—One Corpse Garbed in the Uniform of a Captain—The Victims Had Evidently Been Overcome by the Cold Long Before Nearing Shore.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Dashwood, Nov. 12.—Nineteen bodies of sailors lost in the worst Great Lakes disaster in history have been washed ashore between Grand Bend and Bayfield.

Two miles and a half north of Grand Bend nine bodies have been washed on the shore. All of the men had lifebelts on and most of them had considerable amounts of money in their pockets. It is believed that one of the bodies is that of a captain.

Seven bodies have been cast up by the waves in the vicinity of Port Franks, and three have been discovered on the shore north of Thedford.

The nine bodies found at Grand Bend have been taken to the home of Mr. Robert Turnbull, who lives nearby, and an inquest will be held this afternoon by Dr. Campbell.

The district where the bodies have been cast up has been practically cut off with communication from London for several days, and this morning the lines were kept busy with messages from anxious owners and relatives.

The discovery of the bodies was made by farmers, who saw the bodies being rolled about by the waves close to the shore.

The bodies give every appearance of preparation for the worst by the men who were drowned. They wore heavy clothing and evidently depended on lifebelts to keep them. Apparently their ships were wrecked at such a distance from the shore that it was impossible for the sailors to survive in the cold water. It is said that some of the lifebelts found were defective and would not hold a man above water for long.

TOLL OF THE STORM

While it will probably be many days before the full extent of the disasters on the Great Lakes by Sunday's storm will be known, reports up to the present indicate that the loss in both life and property will be the greatest in the record of inland marine disasters. There is no doubt now but that at least six big freighters have been lost, and in the case of three of these every member of the crews are believed to have perished. Many bodies are reported washed up on the Lake Huron beaches from Goderich to Sarnia. A message from Grand Bend this morning says that eighteen bodies in all have been washed up there.

Steamer Carruthers, largest ship on lakes, believed lost. Unknown steamer found capsized close to Sarnia is thought by some to be the Regina. She appears to be a large boat, and probably carried a crew of forty.

The steamer Wexford, owned by the Western Steamship Company, of Toronto, grain laden from Fort William, was lost on Lake Huron with her crew of twenty, all of whom belonged to Collingwood and Goderich. Several of the bodies of the victims have come ashore at St. Joseph and Port Franks.

The Canadian steamer Regina was lost with all on board. Ten bodies have been washed ashore at Port Franks.

The steamer Northern Queen was lost off Kettle Point, but the entire crew of nineteen is reported to have escaped.

The steamer Turret Chief, of the Merchants' Mutual Line, of Toronto, went ashore off Keweenaw Point, Michigan. The crew was saved after a frightful experience.

The United States Lightship No. 82, stationed in Lake Erie off Point Abino, Canada, was torn from her anchorage and wrecked, and the crew of eight men perished.

The steamer L. C. Waldo, of the Robin Transportation Company, went to pieces on Gull Rock, Manitou Island. The crew was rescued by the Portage Lake Ship Canal lifesavers, who arrived on a tug. The sailors suffered terribly from exposure.

The Huronic, the Northern Navigation Company's steamer, got on the bar at Whitefish at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon without damage. The Alberta left Whitefish to cross Lake Superior westbound at 9 a.m.

The barge Halstead is stranded on Washington Island, Lake Michigan, and her crew of probably six are reported frozen to death.

The steamer Hutchinson is aground at Iroquois Point, Lake Huron, and is filled with water.

The steamer Hartnell is also ashore at Iroquois Point, and full of water.

OLD SAILOR PUTS BLAME FOR LOSS ON THE OWNERS

Charles Roe, Who Sailed on Lost Ships, Talks of the Wrecks.

MANY OLD MATES GONE

Believes the Cargo of Wexford Shipped and Caused Freighter To Capsize.

"It must have been a terrible storm. Those boats were all good seaworthy ships, and it must have taken a lot to put them under," said Charles Roe today, speaking of the many marine disasters which are reported from Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

For many years Roe was a sailor on the great lakes, and more than half a dozen of the ships reported lost he has sailed on.

He was first mate only two years ago on the barge Tyrone, which is several days overdue, and is thought to have met disaster. He also sailed on the Frank H. Peavey, the Hawgood, the Maythan, the A. S. Upson and others. The steamer Wexford he had often seen, although he had never been aboard her. He had not heard of the loss of that ship until informed by an Advertiser reporter this morning.

"So the old Wexford is gone," he said.

Capsize Puzzles Him.

He inquired if anything definite had been learned as to the identity of the freighter which was overturned near Port Huron.

"I cannot understand it, at all," he said. "How such a big boat could turn over is beyond me." He was inclined to reject the theory that water, let into her cargo hold for ballast, was responsible for the accident. This was often done, and should have made her steadier.

"It might be that she had a cargo of wheat," he continued, "and it perhaps shifted. That's the only way I can think of it happening."

The Loss of the Cypress.

He recalled the wreck of the Cypress in Lake Superior two years ago. "It was a brand new boat, and was making its first trip. She had a cargo of ore, and it was piled in the middle to make it easier to handle. She started to roll, and the ore shifted all she went down so far on one side that her hatches were carried away and the water rushed in and capsized her. The same thing may have happened to this other boat. In the case of the Cypress all but one of her crew of thirty were drowned. They had no chance of escape. If this ship went over in the same way, there is no doubt that every one of her crew is gone."

Blames the Owners.

Storms in November were not infrequent on the lakes, he stated, and captains had no business to be out, especially if storm signals had been displayed, as he assumed they were. "The ship owners are to blame," said he. "The captains take their boats out long after it is unsafe, and risk the lives of their crew, to please the owners."

"I guess a good many of my old mates are gone," he added, with a touch of sadness in his voice.

He did not know of any London men who were likely to be on any of the vessels.

SUCCESSION DUTIES CASE
DECIDED AGAINST PROVINCEPrivy Council Rules Cannot Be Collected Outside the Province.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Cable advices received in Toronto yesterday that the privy council had reversed the judgment of the supreme court of Canada and decided that succession duty may not be levied on personal property situated outside the province will have a serious effect on local revenues. The case in point is that of the King vs. Cotton, Province of Quebec, which, stripped of its legal aspect, simply decides that only that portion of an estate situated within the province may be taxed for succession duty. Real property heretofore has been exempt under such circumstances, but personal property, such as stocks, bonds and mortgages, has been assessed for succession duty by the province where the deceased was domiciled at the time of death. In the Cotton case most of the personal property was situated in the United States, and objection was made to paying a double tax, one to Quebec and another to the state where the property was held. The supreme court of Canada held with Quebec, but the privy council by the cable yesterday has reversed that decision.

Big Loss to Ottawa.

Inquiry at the Parliament Buildings yesterday revealed the fact that this decision will probably mean hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the provinces of the Dominion. Between Ontario and the other provinces of Canada, except Quebec, there has been a reciprocal arrangement so that double duty would not be exacted from an estate. Quebec, in view of the fact that a large number of big corporations had their head offices in Montreal, chose to keep out of any such arrangement, with the result that the Cotton litigation arose, and it now loses whatever might have come from a reciprocal arrangement.

Hon. J. B. Lucas, in discussing the privy council decision, declined to be interviewed. He was not inclined to think that the decision could be retroactive, and although there will be an appreciable effect on the provincial exchequer, he could not say just what course would now be pursued.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Light Eternal."

Local theatregoers should have no trouble in reasoning out for themselves the business motive that brings about the booking of "The Light Eternal" at the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, for two nights instead of for the usual one-night stand contract, with attractions of its size and merit. Were the attraction of any but the highest order it would be financial suicide for the management to book it for more than one performance, and the mere fact of the engagement being for more than one performance is in itself a guarantee of merit. "The Light Eternal" is now in its fifth successful season, the last two of which have been devoted to the plan of booking now in vogue. Seats today at 9 a.m.

May A. Bell Marks Company. Next week will bring to the Grand Opera House for four performances, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday nights and Wednesday matinee, May A. Bell Marks, supporting Marks Bros.' Dramatic Company. The plays to be presented will include comedy drama and costume plays. The Marks Company are so well known that nothing more need be said than that they will present their usual high standard of

FIFTEEN INJURED IN
WRECK ON MARQUETTETrain on the Allegan Division
Goes Into the Ditch.

Holland, Mich., Nov. 11.—A passenger train on the Allegan division of the Pere Marquette went into the ditch three miles out of here tonight. About 15 persons were injured. Spreading rails were the cause. Thomas Cecil, travelling salesman, of Detroit, has internal injuries. His condition is serious. Two coaches left the rails and all the passengers in them were hurt. The cars caught fire and burned, but the injured were taken out before more than one passenger who has not been identified was caught scorched. William Filkins, the engineer, Ed Egan, conductor, and the train crew, believed to be in Detroit, have many cuts and bruises and internal hurts. Bollinger, the mail clerk, is not expected to live.

GOOD FEEDING HAS
EFFECT ON MORALSRev. Joshua Stansfield Refers to Evil
Effects of Gluttony.

"Some Ideal Elements of Character" was the subject of a discourse by Rev. Joshua Stansfield, of Indianapolis, in the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening.

In portraying his character sketch, the speaker took the life of Daniel as being one both interesting and appropriate. Particularly that period of his life spent in Babylon was emphasized.

Describing the manner of the lives lived by kings in the ancient days the speaker declared that their gluttonous habits were often responsible for their actions. "There is more morality in the dining-room and the kitchen than in any other part of the house," was his apt method of describing the results of the degrading habits.

"Daniel would not defile himself with the food of the kings. He saw no reason for ruining the body God had given him with riotous living. The temperance cause is not a 1913 fad, emphatically declared the speaker. "Three thousand years back it was advocated by those who were aware of the ruinous course of strong drink."

EXETER.

Exeter, Nov. 11.—The most successful 13th anniversary of the Main Street Methodist Church was held on Sunday, Nov. 9. The preacher was Rev. S. Anderson, of the Memorial Methodist Church, London. The severe storm of the day interfered with the attendance, and lamps had to be used at night, the electric lights being out of commission. The collections amounted to about $600. The choir rendered special music at both services, assisted by the ladies' quartet of the church. The sermons at both services were very inspiring and interesting. A mass meeting took place of the Sunday school in the afternoon when the Robert Ralke diplomas were presented to the scholars and teachers of the Sunday school, who maintained a perfect record. The music was furnished by the ladies' quartet, and an address was given by Rev. S. Anderson.

BAYFIELD.

Bayfield, Nov. 11.—Mr. M. Ross, after being storm-stayed for several days at Kettle Point, arrived here safely.

Mr. Gem Atkinson, of Detroit, spent a few days in town, being the guest of Mrs. Cowie.

Mr. W. Jowitt spent Saturday in Clinton.

Mrs. Dan. Wilson, of Watrous, Man., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. West.

Mr. W. Weston spent Saturday in Goderich.

Mrs. Alfred Scotchmire had a second stroke of paralysis, which ended in her death at her son's home on the Bronson line.

Mr. Edwards, of the Bayfield line, while driving to church, his horse ran away, smashing his buggy and injuring him so that the immediate services of the doctor was required.

One of the severest storms of the season, accompanied by very high winds and snow, caused considerable damage by blowing in windows and causing Mr. Ross' boat to break from its mooring and come in contact with the bridge. The roads for a time were almost impassable. The study about the bridge, which had been broken by its passengers, Mr. Jewell McLeod has left for Port Stanley, where he intends to fish during the balance of the season.

GODERICH.

Goderich, Nov. 11.—An informal dance was given on Saturday in the Oddfellows' Hall by a number of young people, which proved a great success. About fifty took part in the dancing, good music being rendered by the Goderich Orchestra. Among those present were: Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Kidd, Mrs. Fotheringham, Miss Clifford, Miss Hodge, Miss Elliot, Miss Reynolds, Miss Corbould, Miss Galt, Miss Alexander (Toronto), Mrs. Nesbitt, Miss Leckie, Miss Lewis, Miss Williams, Miss Harp, Miss Roberts and Miss Field; Messrs. Doyle, Carter, Nesbitt, Smith, Adams, and H. Williams, T. Kidd, E. Porter, Hoag, Munro, and Gilcrest. The chapters were Mrs. V. M. Roberts, Mrs. J. Fotheringham and Mrs. J. Kidd.

OR DANDRUFF--25-CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the Quickest, Surest Dandruff Cure Known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A MYSTERY STORY OF NEW YORK

By WILL IRWIN

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.

She started upstairs, then, to that room on the third-floor back, the centre of the sinister web which she had made of this, her dwelling-place, so strangely acquired, so strangely used, in that web struggling, a half-blind, half-distracted fly, toward which she, the spider, was now creeping. Some such comparison may have struck Rosalie, for she shuddered twice in her slow progress. And these were not the assumed shudders which announced her false control.

Rosalie knocked at Miss Estrilla's door. "Come in!" cried the invalid, more eagerly than her wont. And as Rosalie entered, "Oh, I was expecting you! Can you—will you—today?"

"I've been putting all the power I have into this thing," said Rosalie. "You've no idea how I've tried. I was awake half the night, just getting into touch."

"I'm sure I'm grateful for that," replied Miss Estrilla.

"I'm pretty sure I'll be strong," pursued Rosalie, "but I'm just an arm that it will be weeks and weeks before I can ever do it again. This is my last sitting over do again. This is my last sitting with you for ever so long, Miss Estrilla. I can feel it going. When I'm playing for all my power, as I've got to now, conditions must be right. You wouldn't mind, would you, if I darkened this room completely? And let's have a little more air."

There was a window, which opened on the fire escape, at the foot of Miss Estrilla's bed. This window Rosalie darkened last of all, but first she raised the latch a foot.

"That curtain will blow and disturb me," she said. "I'm going to pin it down."

Had Miss Estrilla's soul held any emotions, in that moment, but grief and eagerness—had she been capable just then of suspicion—she might have noted a tiny but significant sound. The fire escape creaked a little, as though a weight had been imposed at the bottom. It creaked again at intervals for the next five minutes, but afterward, usually, when the rear of a passing Ninth avenue elevated train drowned all slighter sounds.

"Now, I'm ready to try," said Rosalie, settling down at the foot of the couch. "Dear, you do look anxious! Don't try to crowd the spirits—that's always the best way—but remember again—this is about the last control that's in me for a month. Be quiet, dearie."

Her eyes sought the distances, her body shook. Then came the change which Miss Estrilla had watched so often, and with such a fascinated eagerness. Rosalie's body relaxed and fell backward in the Morch chair. Her lids gradually closed. She breathed as though asleep.

"Oh, sad lady again," bubbled laughing-Rose quite suddenly. She could hear Miss Estrilla shift eagerly on her couch. "Can't stay long, John speaks. He says he wants you quick. John is big and strong. Good-by, sad lady!"

Rosalie's breath came hard; her body tensed; a machine voice followed her. "Voice which Rosalie always assumed when she impersonated Captain John H. Hanks."

"I am here again, Margaret. I love you. I am ready to forgive."

"Oh, John, thank you. You will, when you know. For John, you have so little to forgive, beside what I have already forgiven."

As usual, Miss Estrilla made reply.

"I know, and I suffer, but I understand. First, I have told you how little I saw that night. My flesh still clung to me—"

Rosalie stopped here and seemed to gather her body together, as though the thing which controlled her was struggling to exert more power.

"So I do not know what happened even before I passed out—it came so suddenly—say to me again that you loved me."

"So much, John dear, that I cannot tell you all."

"And I put aside such a love as that for jewels?"

"Yes, John. And when I searched your room—the night I found you there—I had given them to you if you had waked and spoken kindly to me. But you were married—and you would have laid soon at the best. Oh, why not before this happened to Juan?"

"Was it Juan? I have told you that I could not see clearly at that time—it is all confused."

"Yes, dearest. You could not understand because of the clothes—but, dearest, it was Juan who held the knife which went into your body. Oh, forgive him more than me. He is my brother—he did it for me—John, I can't forget his remorse when he came to me—were you watching? Did you see?"

"No—I was not awake in spirit yet—"

"Quick!" This time she was understanding then how you died. He thought the knife killed you. He worked it all out afterward—when I told him about your condition. But then, he said to me: 'My God, I have run a knife into Captain Hanks! What is it—what is it?'

For Rosalie had leaped from her chair, out up the window shade at the foot of the bed, through the sack wide open, and into the room leaped two men. They ranged themselves beside the couch, and then, "What is it?" screamed Miss Estrilla again.

"These are police detectives," said Rosalie, in her natural voice. "They have been listening behind that window. They've come to find what you know about the death of Captain John H. Hanks."

Miss Estrilla gave a little scream which died in a rattle of her throat. Her eyes caught at Rosalie. "Traitor!" she managed to gasp before she gave another scream—and fainted, as Rosalie expected that she would.

"Go right at her as she comes out," she whispered to Inspector McGee in passing. "That's the time."

"Ain't you going to stay?" inquired McGee.

"No. She'll be too busy hating me ever to talk. And there's two things I never want to watch. One's a hanging, and the other's the Third Degree."

And by the time Rosalie was conscious again of the sights and sounds of her terrible world, Rosalie was gone from the room, and Detective Kennedy, police stenographer, who had been listening at the open tell-tale register of the room below, was with the group of inspectors about her.

CHAPTER XVII.
The Third Degree.

"And now we will take your statement," said Martin McGee.

The brutal processes of the Third Degree were finished—the Third Degree, that modern system of torture more terrible than the medieval, by just as much as the mind is more sensitive than the body.

We do well, as Rosalie Le Grange has said, to witness it. Miss Estrilla lies back on her couch, a bruised and broken soul, ready now to tell all the truth, because there is in her no more strength to lie. Detective Kennedy, who is now a little to the centre of the room, set out his pencils and his note books, and prepared for his work.

Expert inquirers both, at where she cannot avoid their eyes if she but looks up. The door is half open in the midst of the preliminary proceedings, and into the shadow outside creeps Rosalie Le Grange, to listen with all her ears. The victim on the couch is not more pale and drawn than Rosalie as she stands there, one hand on the latch.

"Your name and age about, yourself first," says Inspector McGee, urging gently now.

"Let me omit, as the expert police stenographer did, certain epithets, repetitions, digressions, which always mar testimony. The police stenographer omits these extraneous words out of official statements. Let me omit, too, those passages of question and answer by which the police refresh the memory of the witness. Let me just give the document, as I was told away in the archives of the New York police."

"My name is Margarita Perez. I am thirty-five years old and unmarried. I was born in the island of Trinidad, where I lived all my life. Juan Perez is my half-brother, ten years younger than I. Our father was the same, but my mother was an Englishwoman, my brother's mother was Spanish. My father was a cocoa grower. He was very rich once, but he lost most of his money. When he died, four years ago, he left my brother the place and the family jewels, and he left me twenty thousand dollars of my money. My brother came into his property when he was twenty-one, he managed poorly, and then he had bad luck. By last summer he was so near failure that there was a possibility of his going out—for me to sell my jewels and give him the money. I wanted to do that, but he wouldn't let me. He committed his follies himself, and he would suffer for himself. He saw one more chance to save us. We had rich relatives in Caracas, on the Venezuelan mainland. He went there to see if they would help. Caracas is not very far, it is a long journey on the kind of boats and trains that run in the Indies and South America. He was gone three or four weeks. He sent me only one letter, and it was so discouraging that I felt sure there was no hope."

SEX HYGIENE IN CITY SCHOOLS IS PLAN OF BOARD

Chairman Burdon and Health Trustees Unanimous in Favor of Move.

MUCH "MOCK MODESTY"

Believed That Man and Woman Physicians Should Teach the Boys and Girls Respectively.

Sex hygiene will be taught in the London public schools if the board of health can arrange it. Tuesday afternoon the question came before the board in the form of a report on medical inspection of schools. It was a paper delivered at the Canadian Public Health Congress in Regina, and was brought back by W. H. Abbott, the board's representative at that meeting. The entire report of every paper delivered there was included in Mr. Abbott's report to the board. Among them was the one on medical inspection of schools. It was decided to refer this to the inspector of schools.

Too Much Mock Modesty.

Chairman Dr. F. L. Burdon thereupon suggested that the question of sex hygiene be taken up. "We have too much mock modesty," said the doctor. "What we want is a course of lectures in the public schools—delivered to boys by a physician, and to girls by a woman physician. It is something that has to be dealt with. They are doing it in the States, and we cannot allow the Americans to get ahead of us in this respect."

Other members of the board concurred in the statements of Dr. Burdon, and it is likely that the question will be brought before the school board in the form of a recommendation from the members of the board of health.

Referred to Departments.

Other papers brought back by Mr. Abbott were referred to the various civic departments, whose work is connected with the particular phase of civic administration touched on by the report.

Members of the board thanked Mr. Abbott for the care he had taken in compiling his own report, which was, in brief, a resume of the proceedings of the health convention.

An order was sent to the park commission to see that the lavatories in Queen's Park were immediately repaired. This order was relayed on from the council to the fair board, when it was made last, but was returned by the latter organization, which claimed that the parks commission was the responsible body.

New Sewers Ordered.

Sewers on Adelaide street, between Grosvenor and St. James streets, and on Grosvenor street between Adelaide and William streets, were ordered. This is the remedy suggested for the trouble over flooded cellars and stagnant ponds in this vicinity. A sewer on Ridge street running 85 feet south from Bruce street, was also recommended.

When an application for a sewer on Carfax Crescent was presented to the board it was rejected. The sewer was to empty into the river. The board determined to allow no further dumping of sewage into the river, and for that reason refused the petition.

THE PERILS OF THE LAKE.

The whole world receives a terrible shock when some great ocean liner is wrecked and hundreds of lives are lost with scarce a moment's warning. But the disasters, with accounts of which the papers are full at present, show that the perils of the lake are not less than the perils of the ocean. It may be some time before we learn how great has been the harvest of death from the late storms. But already we have reports of the wreck of a full score of vessels, and in several cases every man on board was lost. It may yet be found that the total destruction of life and property equals that of any of the great ocean wrecks.

The owners of lake shipping are naturally eager to keep their vessels running as late in the season as possible, and it is no unusual thing for freighters to be caught in the early storms of winter. The greed for gain will make men take risks for themselves and impose risks on others. And the lake freight business has given too many examples of this reckless folly. It may be admitted that the late storm came at a season which is considered comparatively safe. But it found the freighters unprepared, as it would have found them had it come much later in the season, or as it would have found them earlier.

Losses like that of the Titanic have turned public attention to the necessity of greater precautions to meet the dangers of the ocean. And with food resources. Wireless equipments, and a more ample supply of lifeboats, have been called for, and are being provided. Everything is being done that is possible to minimize the risk of ocean travel. But little has been done on the lakes. It is quite true that here the business is largely freight, and that the lives imperilled are fewer in number, and are mainly those of common sailors. But though no millionaire nor great man, as the world counts greatness, may be found on the lake freighter, yet the lives of those who are in danger on the lakes are just as precious to their friends and families. And the very fact that their comforts are ordinarily but few, their wages small, and their labors heavy, should make it all the more imperative that as much care should be taken to guard them from danger as would be provided for others higher in rank.

The governments of the countries bordering the lakes should provide without delay more life-saving stations and harbors of refuge. Public and private enterprise should provide a wireless equipment that will place every boat in touch with every part of lake or shore. Lifeboats and rafts and life-belts should be provided for every ship. If the loss of the Titanic was not an unmitigated evil, in that it provided safeguards for the future, so from the wrecks of the freighters and the cries of the drowning seamen this week comes a call to governments and shipowners to guard the lives of those in peril on the deep. With all the care that may be taken, accident and unusual storms will always meet those who are on the lake as well as those at sea. All the more reason why those concerned should do all that can possibly be done to meet the dangers that human ingenuity and money can meet.

A LIBERAL TARIFF PLATFORM.
The Ottawa Free Press would have these four planks incorporated in the Liberal platform:

1. An increase in the British preference to 50 per cent.
2. The abolition of all duties on food—a free dinner table.
3. The abolition or material reduction of duties on all machinery used in the production of food.
4. The appointment of a permanent tariff commission for the purpose of constantly watching for and advising parliament of the presence of injustices in the customs tariff.

We favor the first, provided that it would not invite reprisals that would close profitable markets to Canadian producers, or subject them to fresh disabilities. If an increase of the preference would operate against producers in this way, we should favor in its place an all-round decrease of the tariff, in justice to consumers.

The food duties should go. The trade agreement in 1911 offered the Canadian farmers a free American market. They have got less by the new American tariff, but sufficient to drain Canada of many food products, with a resulting rise in prices which presses heavily on consumers. Our own tariff will prevent us getting the advantage of any occasional drop in American prices below the Canadian level. It also enables the Canadian food combines to pinch consumers and producers alike. But if the agriculturists are deprived of any advantages the tariff may give them, they should be compensated, as in the United States, by a reduction of duties on commodities which they purchase. This covers the third plank advocated by the Free Press.

There can be no objection to a tariff commission which would be a non-partisan board of experts, with purely advisory functions, collecting information as to the cost of production in Canada and elsewhere, and other data which would help parliament to form a judgment on tariff matters. The Liberal party did not oppose the creation of a commission of this kind. But the Government must have had a different body in mind when it refused to accept the Senate's amendment, requiring protected interests to disclose information as to earnings, capital, etc., when an increase of the tariff was asked.

SIR CHOLLOP ROBLIN.

The Premier of Manitoba, in his indignant tirade over the Hon. Mr. Samuel's modest criticism of an admittedly unsatisfactory feature of the Prairie Province's education system, recalls the utterances of that eminent citizen of the United States, the Hon. Mr. Chollop, described by Dickens in "Martin Chuzzlewit" as Mark Tapley, from his experiences in the dismal swamp of a western Eden, did not have the most exalted opinion of some of his neighbors, nor of his surroundings. Warning him to be careful how he talked, Mr. Chollop said:

"We must be cracked up, sir. We are a model to the earth, and we must be cracked up, I tell you. We are the intellect and virtue of the earth, the cream of human nature, and the flower of moral force. Our backs is easy ris. We must be cracked up, or they rises, and we snarl. We shows our teeth, I tells you, fierce. You had better crack us up, you had."

Sir Richmond Chollop Roblin evidently wants his province to be "cracked up." Visitors from England and other places will please bear this in mind. They may say what they like about the rest of us, but when it comes to Manitoba, they must be careful if they do not want its Premier's back to rise, and his teeth to snarl.

The Roblin-Rogers machine has been ditched, if not destroyed.

The Government gives up the parliamentary seat in Macdonald in order to sit on the lid.

Mr. McFarlane's reply to the temperance people is eminently satisfactory—to the liquor people.

While the Unionists have been talking about a land policy, Lloyd George has been framing one. It is another example of his low, under-handed methods.

Alfred Wallace Russell was so incensed by the mass of misery in the world, that he exaggerated the defects of the existing social order. But better a Wallace than a Popsnap. The present social order calls for reform, and it is being modified in every country of the British Empire save Canada.

The Privy Council has decided that a provincial government cannot collect succession duties on property outside that particular province. The Ontario exchequer will lose many thousands of dollars annually. But, of course, Sir James Whitney and his colleagues will rejoice. In Opposition they shed tears over the succession duties as a form of confiscation.

"What on earth," asks Sir Charles Beresford, "have party difficulties to do with imperial requirements for the safety of the Empire?" That is a pertinent question. And we refer it for answer to the Conservative leaders in Canada, who broke away from the agreement made by both parties on the naval policy of 1909, and who with a view to party interests have made the matter of naval aid to the Empire a political dispute.

The new-fledged hopes of the Unionist party have been dashed by the Keighley, Yorkshire, by-election, where the Liberals, in a three-cornered contest, increased their majority. In a total vote of 12,228, the Unionist received only 3,852. It is safe to say the bulk of the 3,646 votes given to the Laborite would have gone to the Liberals in a two-party contest. As compared with the general election, the Liberal vote increased 63, the Labor vote 194, and the Unionist vote only 10. The successful candidate, Sir Stanley Buckmaster, is the new so-called leader, and a leader at the Chancery bar.

NOT THE SAME WITH A BOY.

[Pittsburgh Post.]
"Man wants but little here below." It's different with a boy. He wants a mandolin, a razor, a false moustache, a bull pup, a magic lantern, a detective's tin badge, a motor-cycle, a mud turtle, a saddle, a printing press, a stamp album, a toothbrush, a boat, a telescope, a tame rat, a camera, a squirt gun, a baseball suit and a pair of roller skates.

JAMES TAYLOR IS PLACED ON TRIAL IN MURDER CASE

Charged With the Brutal Murder of Dawson Boy at Brantford.

CALL MANY WITNESSES

Counsel For the Prisoner Will Argue That He Is Insane and Degenerate.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Brantford, Nov. 12.—The grand jury having brought a true bill yesterday James Taylor, half-breed Indian, known as "The Spaniard," was this morning placed on trial for his life on the charge of murdering Charles Dawson, a young lad on the Blossom road, near Cainsville, on Sept. 5. There is a second charge, but this will not likely be pressed. The accused was brought out this morning looking very fresh, his detention in jail since the time he was arrested having apparently had little effect on him. He has slept the greater part of the time, waking only for his meals, which he has eaten with gusto. He is a degenerate and does not seem to be aware of the immensity of the crime or to realize the punishment which is likely to be handed out to him.

Call Many Witnesses.
Sixteen witnesses will be called by the crown. J. J. Drew, of Guelph, being the crown prosecutor. A. M. Harley, Brantford's youngest barrister, is defending the prisoner, having been appointed yesterday by Judge Kelly. His defence will be that the prisoner is insane, and that he was of unsound mind when the crime was committed. In view of Taylor's confession, which will be used against him, this is counsel's only chance. Argument will be largely used to prove this point, as the time has been too brief to secure medical testimony favorable to Taylor. The prosecution will fight against this plea, claiming that though Taylor is a mental and moral degenerate, he is not insane. Three of the eighteen jurors called.

The Jury.
James A. Bawtinheimer was challenged by the prosecution on the ground that he was not a naturalized citizen. Wm. Stander was excused on account of deafness. Jasper Smith, colored, was excused, no reason being given. The jury to try Taylor consists of George D. Stern, Fred Holter, Chas. Kew, Chas. King, Norton Buck, Thomas E. Barr, S. Deagle, W. Lash, G. Schofield, W. Andrews, J. H. Burns, F. Graham.

John Dawson was the first witness called, and testified that the boy found murdered was his son, and was about 13 years of age. Roy Misner, the discoverer of the body, was next called, and he testified that he found the body while hauling hay to the city from Cainsville.

Doctors' Evidence.

Coroner Dr. Raphael and Dr. E. C. Ashton described how the boy was done to death, the latter also stating the blood stains were found on Taylor's clothes, on his hands under his nails, and on the knife which Taylor had thrown away. Serjt. Wallace told of the arrest and confession of Taylor, and then court adjourned until 2 o'clock.

"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH."

[Chicago Tribune.]
The laws of England are class laws, the laws made by gentlemen for gentlemen. England has tried out the system of government by a growing class, a class of educated, trained, fit men, a class which is ideal theoretically and much praised in America among the "educated, trained, fit class." This class in England has done better than analogous classes in some other countries, but it has taken too heavy a toll for the service. The twentieth century is going to try a different system.

BRALEY'S POEM TODAY

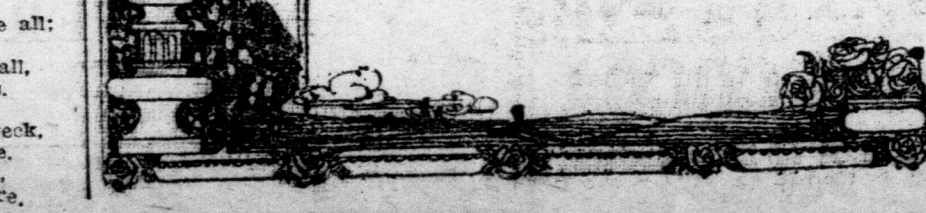

FLATTERY.

However fine his words, how kind
The praises that he chatters,
He always has an axe to grind—
The smiling chap who flatters—
And wise men know how insincere
Are all the words he's saying,
For, though they're pleasant words to hear,
They mask the game he's playing.

A kindly word of honest praise
Will help and never harm you,
But flattery is meant to daze,
To blind you and disarm you;
It makes you strut with silly pride,
It dulls your brain in action,
And causes you to glow inside
With warm self-satisfaction.

Of course, we wise men all agree
To hold ourselves above it;
We know the game of flattery—
And golly, how we love it!

WAS BRAKEMAN SENT TO GUARD TRAIN KILLED BEFORE WRECK?

Lantern Found on Tracks Gives Rise to a New Theory of Wanstead Catastrophe—Investigation To Be Held on Thursday.

Almost innumerable are the arguments and theories advanced in connection with Monday morning's wreck near Wanstead, where three men were killed and several others seriously injured.

Perhaps the latest statement, which is at present circulating among railwaymen, is that the brakeman who had been sent back to protect his train from the other locomotive approaching, and was struck and caught on the fender and carried into the wreck.

To substantiate this statement, it is alleged that a lantern has been found down the track to the distance of what is known in railway parlance as 47 poles. Railway regulations specify that when a train stalls, its brakeman shall retire the space occupied by 15 telegraph poles behind his train as a protection against a rear-end collision. Following the supposition that a brakeman—one of the men who was killed—did follow regulations, he apparently took extra precaution and went over double the distance required. In the blinding snow that was being driven before the gale, it is quite possible that the man might not have seen the approaching train until too late to step off the track. It is possible, too, that his clothing, catching in some manner on the fender, held him fast, and that his body was on the pilot when the locomotive plowed into the caboose.

An investigation into the wreck will be held Thursday by Superintendent Davidson.

BOOKS THAT CHILDREN LOVE TO READ

Statistics regarding the supplementary reading course of the lower grades of the public school have been compiled by Public Librarian W. O. Hanson.

During the term between January and June, 1913, 3,500 pupils read some 7,000 books, or an average of two books each for every pupil in grades one, two, three and four. As a result the pupils gained an increased facility in reading. The public school and the public library cooperate, all the books being read in the school, and the teacher of each class being supplied of books from the library as soon as they have been read by her pupils.

It was found that the favorite books

FORGER SUSPECT

NOT FAMOUS "RAY"

Swindler Who "Worked" Western Ontario Banks Is Not Man Held in Toronto.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Nov. 12.—W. H. Marshall, alias Mason, alias Huntington, appeared in the police court this morning on a charge of false pretences in obtaining money from the Royal Bank in Toronto.

There was but one charge laid against him, and it was for obtaining money by false pretences. He was charged with forgery in connection with the check drawn on the Trusts and Fidelity Company of Buffalo. He pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for a week.

Seven or eight bank clerks came to Toronto this morning to try and identify Marshall as the man Ray, who had been called, and tested in Western Ontario. All of them saw him, but none could identify the man. The police are now certain he is not the man.

MORAL SENSE.

Appropos of a scandal in the New York bar, Bishop Winston C. Rutherford told the following story:

"The morals of the New York bar seem to be about like the morals of Colonel Byrne, no better and no worse. 'Colonel Byrne, a Kentuckian, defended a man for murder. It was testified that this man murdered a woman on the night of Aug. 20. Two or three witnesses saw the deed. It was committed under the milky light of a full moon.

"The witnesses were able to identify the defendant on account of the brilliancy of the moonlight. The defendant could not prove an alibi, and things looked pretty bad for him. 'But at this point Colonel Byrne produced an almanac showing that on the night in question there had been no moon whatever. Thereupon a great laugh resounded through the courtroom, and the defendant was speedily acquitted.

"Colonel," said the defendant, afterwards, 'how much do I owe you?' 'You owe me,' the colonel answered, 'five hundred dollars.'

"'Ain't that pretty steep?' 'No—not when you consider that I only get one hundred out of it.' 'You owe me,' the colonel answered, 'four hundred dollars.' Bribed the jury."

"No, sir!" shouted Colonel Byrne, hotly. "No, sir! Do you think I have no moral sense? It cost me four hundred dollars, sir, to get that almanac printed."

For grade one pupils were "Aesop's Fables," and "Long Ago Stories From Greece and Rome"; for grade two, "Dick Whittington and Other Stories," and the "New Globe Readers"; for grade three, "St. George and the Dragon," "Highways and Byways," "The Golden Rule," "The Golden Garden of Stories," "The Golden Rule," and "Highways and Byways," book one; and for grade four, "The Golden Rule," "The Golden Garden of Stories," "The Golden Rule," and "Highways and Byways," book two.

The R. C. separate and commercial school pupils of the higher grades read as their favorites, "Lamb's Tales From Shakespeare," "The Merchant of Venice," "Ivanhoe," and "Boys in the Block."

Record Price for Christmas Cattle

St. Marys, Nov. 12.—Messrs. Weir & Weir, cattle dealers, who are feeding 100 cattle intended for Chicago market, have disposed of 36 of them at record prices being the highest price obtained in fifty years for a couple of 21 days.

Philip Myers, a bachelor, 64 years of age, who lived for many years alone in a small house a short distance north of the G. T. R. Junction, and who early this fall removed to the corner of Widder and James streets, died suddenly on Monday morning from heart failure. The funeral takes place today under orange auspices, from Brandon's undertaking parlors, to St. Mary's Cemetery.

CROCKETT A REPEATER

Despite Promise to Magistrate He Returns to Police Court.

"Now don't you come back here," said Magistrate Judd to Sam Crockett when he allowed him to go in police court on Tuesday morning.

"You bet your life I won't," solemnly avowed Sam.

He lost his bet, however, for he was gathered in again on the same charge a few hours later. This morning he lost his liberty for a period of 21 days. It was the only case the court was called upon to decide this morning. It was a record in light courts.

PARCEL POST AFTER CHRISTMAS

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Preparations and data are so well advanced by the postoffice department that it was announced today that the parcels post system will be inaugurated as soon as the Christmas mail rush subsides. Rates will be somewhat higher than in the United States, it is understood.

FLORENCE.

Florence, Nov. 12.—Rector Smith, of St. Matthew's Church, was injured while engaged in feeding his horse. He fell from his hayloft and severely hurt his back and arm, and is now under a doctor's care, and will not doubt remain there for some weeks.

The heavy fall of snow here on Sunday and Monday night, with heavy winds, made everything have a wintry appearance. The roads are in bad condition. The stage which carries the daily mail from Bothwell to Florence, came in late this morning with four horses. Telephone poles are blown down, and telephone much out of order.

Rev. Mr. Peters spent Sunday at his home here.

Rev. Mr. Kitley occupied the pulpit in the Thamesville Methodist Church on Sunday.

Miss Wilma Wilkinson spent Sunday at her home in Zorra.

Miss Hazel Lindsay, of Bothwell, spent over Sunday here.

MOUNT BRIDGES.

Following is the honor roll for the Mount Bridges public school for October, names being in order of merit:

Class V—Ada Bond, Leo Humphrey.

Class IV—Merle Wyatt, Clarence Wilson, Fred Barnes, Howard Kinder.

Class III—Maise Barnes, Helen Kidd, Eva Harcourt, Allie Gamble, Blanche Wyatt, Donna Humphrey, Bessie Mason.

Class II Senior—Barbara Mitchell, Carman Thomas.

Class II Junior—Reta Barnes, Frank Wilson, Milton Baxter, Curtis Baird, Jack Lamont, Norman Chew.

Part II Senior—May Dingman, Walter Smith.

Part II Junior—Cecil Snelgrove, Gladys Dingman, Willie Graham, Everett Baird, Tom Barnes, Clarence Sinkey, Irma Snelgrove.

Primer—Victor Kronenim, Grenville Harding, Rita Hawes, Annie Hardy, Dorothy Wyatt, Cameron Steer, Clarence Brown.

MAKING GAME.

[Manchester Guardian.]
The Duke of Marlborough in a recent article, innocently suggested that even peasants add to the food supply of the people. A rhyming correspondent thus makes game of the notion:

The navvies' life is always pleasant,
In season he enjoys his pleasant
The winter holiday of his type
Recalls the flavor of his snipe.

A brace of partridges gives deep enjoyment to the chimney-sweep.
The scavenger is first a hen-fowl.
Over his weekly haunch of venison,
See solemn within the chamber's house,
The better-half is cooking grouse.

Now does the fowler ever fall
To serve home his house of wall.
At once the fowler's house of wall
Is founded by a rhyming
And thus these navvies' game
Unstated by the middle class!

KEEPS BABY'S SKIN HEALTHY

Baby Eczema

Mrs. Lois McKay, Tiverton, Digby County, N.S., writes:—"My child was taken with an itching, burning skin disease and tore their flesh until it was sore and their skirts would sometimes be wet with blood. The doctor did not seem to know what ailed them, and could give no relief, so I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"Wherever it was applied it did its work well, and has entirely cured them of this horrible disease. They suffered so they could not sleep at night, and I think it had lasted much longer I would have gone crazy from the anxiety and loss of sleep. I cannot find words to praise Dr. Chase's Ointment enough for the good it has done my children, and hope other sufferers will try it."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is a necessity in any home where there are children. By curing irritation and chafing it prevents torturing skin disease. 60 cents a box, all dealers. Sample box mailed free, if you mention this paper. Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

TREATMENT OF THE HANDS AFTER ROUGH WORK IN COLD WEATHER.

The witchery exercised by a beautiful hand is not to be overestimated, according to the beauty specialist. Many women have red or at best unattractive hands when there is no need for it. The woman who does housework or whose occupation roughens or reddens the hands, can still have graceful, attractive ones, but she must be most vigilant in caring for them. Occasional ablutions in tepid water with a cold dash afterwards are often sufficient for housekeeper or seamstress. For the housekeeper of country or a suburban establishment with a fondness for working amongst flowers, pet animals or chickens, the occasional washing is certainly not enough. Dirt and stains of various kinds not only get on but into the skin of women engaged in such pursuits. Usually hot water is scrubbed over the hands constantly throughout the day without a thought that so frequent a use of it will enlarge the pores, make the texture of the skin coarse and cause the hands to become flabby and to age rapidly. The housewife who uses rubber gloves when washing dishes and padded cotton housemaid's gloves when she sweeps and dusts will find it a simple matter to keep her hands clean and her skin and nails in good condition. Soap and water will not bring dirt out of the skin unless the scrubbing brush is used more vigorously than it should be, and the soap is frequently of a sort that injures the skin. Much more the growth of hair, if used on the face for blackheads?

3. Some time ago I read in The Advertiser that sage, tea and sulphur would take the light streaks out of the hair. Do you think it will? If so, how would you mix and apply it?
4. Do you think that heavy winter coating, bought by the yard, could be made at home into as stylish a coat as a ready-made one for a girl of twenty?

5. What do you think of my penmanship?
Hoping I have not troubled you too much.

BLUE EYES.

A.—1. Make a lather of warm water, white soap, and a tiny pinch of chloride of lime. Dip in the collar and let it lie for half an hour in the water, washing gently now and then between the hands. Remove without wringing, dip through several rinsing waters until the soap is entirely washed out; then into a bowl of clear, thin starch, slightly luted. Roll the collar up in a bath towel until most of the moisture is absorbed, and then smooth it out on a perfectly clean window pane, or mirror, until quite dry.

2. Olive oil is too heavy a fat to use on the face, and is apt to cause superfluous hair to appear. Best get a box of vanishing cream and use a little every night.

3. Sage tea and sulphur is an old remedy for darkening hair, and it is absolutely safe to try it. Simply make a strong tea of a handful of sage leaves and water. When you think it is strong enough, drain off the liquid carefully, and while still hot add a tablespoon of sulphur to two cups of the tea. Apply a little with the fingers night and morning. It is best not to make up a large quantity at once, as it may not keep.

4. If the home dressmaker is a good sewer and presser, and has a nice-fitting pattern, yes.

5. It is extremely good.

Mrs. H. Ashplant, of this city, was elected president of the local Women's Christian Temperance Union by a large majority, at their election of officers held yesterday afternoon at 432 Park avenue. Officers chosen were as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. Heaman; recording secretary, Mrs. Rae; treasurer, Mrs. Weekes. The office of corresponding secretary was left open until the next meeting. All the officers mentioned were re-elected from last year.

The report of the treasurer was received, showing very encouraging figures in the year's finances, with a good working balance. Mrs. Weekes was tendered a very hearty vote of thanks for her efficient work as treasurer.

DOLL I' THE GRASS

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

Chapter III.

Up came a merman with little Doll I' the Grass in his arms. That was certainly good luck. Pickles fairly beamed with happiness and he took her into his own strong arms.

But what do you suppose had taken place?

Why, the tiny Doll had suddenly been transformed under the water into a life-sized girl.

She was extremely beautiful and prepossessing.

So he took her up on his horse and rode home to the king's palace with her.

When Pickles got there all the brothers had arrived, too. Each had a sweetheart. But these sweethearts were not lovely to look upon. Their hair was thick and matted with some kind of tar and soot. The rain had come down while they were traveling, dripping off their hats onto their faces. With the drops came pieces of the soot. So you can imagine how nice their faces must have looked.

As soon as the brothers saw Pickles and his beautiful bride they grew very jealous and angry.

Yes, Grab Him Up!

Dear Miss Grey,—I am a girl of 24 years of age. A young farmer, who has been keeping company with me for the past three years, has asked for my hand in marriage. Am I too young to give this matter consideration?

2. I have blue eyes, auburn hair, and am fair complexioned. What are my colors?

3. Is my writing good, fair, or bad?

4. A friend of mine has said that you are a man. Will you please tell me if you are?

Hoping I have not taken up too much of your valuable space, I remain, yours sincerely, DOT.

A.—1. By all means give the matter your consideration. But don't consider too long or you may lose your chance and never get another.

2. I feel sure you will look well in light shades of tan, in pale blue, and in the very palest shade of pink. Doubtless dark brown, and king or sage blue will also be becoming.

3. Your writing, Dot, is very good indeed.

4. Once again, let me insist—I am NOT a man.

When Boiling Meat.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am a great reader of The Advertiser, and would like for you to answer the following:

1. How to can tomatoes?

2. In boiling a chicken or fresh meats, should boiling water be put on first?

3. In inviting a gentleman to dinner, would it be improper to ask him to do the carving when you know him to be a good carver?

4. Where is the proper place for a guest to sit at table?

5. Would it be proper for a young lady to stay out till 10 o'clock p.m. with a gentleman if he asks her?

I am troubling you with so many long questions, but I know you are so obliging by reading your column. Please excuse mistakes.

A.—1. Should the tomatoes and skin them; cut in half, or slice them thickly, if desired; place in the preserving kettle with a very little hot water to prevent sticking; boil 20 minutes, stirring often.

2. For stew, etc., boiling water should be poured over the meat or fowl, as this forms a sort of film, which keeps in the fat.

BLACK OFFICE GOWN

By Mme. Cecile Dillon

In many offices and stores to dress in black is obligatory. This gown can be made of black satin—the kind with a wool back and which wears splendidly.

When it is worn at the office it should have a white lace guimpe in it. This can be taken out and the business girl will be dressed appropriately for the theatre or a restaurant dinner.

It will be seen from the illustration that the dress is very simply made—a narrow skirt closed at one side, a kimono waist closed surplice fashion in front and a soft sash of the material with black fringe across the ends comprises the whole stylish costume.

LONDON SELECTED FOR SEMI-FINALS

Tecumseh Park Will Be the Scene of a Sudden-Death Mixup of Sarnia and Toronto Capitals.

London has been selected as the scene of a sudden-death semi-final game between Sarnia and the Capitals of Toronto in the junior O. R. F. U. The arrangements have been perfected by the executive of the union and the game ordered for Saturday. Sudden-death games being the rule, neutral ground had to be chosen, and Tecumseh Park was the choice.

Dundas and Galt, winners of groups 4 and 5, respectively, will play off in Brantford on the same day. The team that lifts this semi-final scalp goes up against Capitals II, of Toronto—there being two teams in the junior O. R. F. U. entered by that club—one in the straight union and the other in the Toronto City League. The victors of the second game play off with the winners of the Sarnia-Capital game.

With the interest taken in football this year it is expected that a record attendance will be at Tecumseh Park on Saturday. Rooters from Toronto and Sarnia are to be expected in large numbers, while local football nuts will also turn out en masse.

YALE HAS SMALL END OF N. Y. BETTING ODDS

New York, Nov. 12.—Betting on the outcome of the big football games has taken on a new impetus in the financial district and several fair-sized wagers are being placed. The odds on the Yale-Princeton game are 10 to 7 in favor of the latter.

Even money is wagered that Yale will not score and $100 even was placed yesterday on a freak bet that the total score of the game would be odd. Another bet of $100 even was made that Princeton would beat Yale by 8 points.

The odds on the Harvard-Yale game are quoted as 10 to 6 in favor of the former. The same odds prevail in favor of the navy for the army-navy game.

ERIE FRANCHISE TRANSFER
HELD OVER TILL NEW YEAR

National Board of Arbitration Gives Former Franchise Owners Chance To "Make Good" Before Territory Reverts to Canadian League.

By action of the National Baseball Association board of arbitration, at Columbus, Ohio, announced this morning the extension of the Canadian League to Erie, Pa., has been held in abeyance until after Jan. 1. Until that time the former holders of the baseball franchise in Erie have an opportunity to make good. Unless they do, according to President Samuel Stevely, of the London baseball club, Erie will revert to the Canadian League.

The application of the Canadian League was for territorial rights to Erie, to which it is desired to transfer the Guelph franchise. The board decided to give Erie until Jan. 1 to organize the territory.

When the news of the board's decision was given to President Stevely by The Advertiser, he expressed no surprise.

Paid for Protection.
The Canadian League has paid for

At the Boise Stock Farm dispersal sale at Indianapolis last week, Lon McDougal bought a green pacer, five years old, called Sidney Dillon, Jr., for $575. As this fellow has been a trial mite in 2:08, with the last half in 1:02, and the final quarter in 30 seconds, it looks as though the horse was an unusual bargain at the figure.

At the ice race meeting at Hull, Jan. 29 to Feb. 4, there will be nine $1,000 events.

The three-year-old colt, Etawah, 2:07 1/2, tops the list of the season's biggest money winners, having earned $24,493. Considering that Frank G.

CHAMPION SUPPORTS
INTERNATIONAL GOLF

Hilton Seeks Idea of Annual Anglo-American Cup Along Davis Cup Lines.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The idea of an annual international golf match, somewhat along the line of the Davis cup tournament in tennis, has been seconded by Harold H. Hilton, the British champion. He is quoted as saying that the abandonment of the team match between Scotland and England, which has been an annual event for many years in Great Britain, may be succeeded by an amateur international match in which England and Scotland will meet as sides instead of rivals with "their opponents hailing from the other side of the Atlantic."

The idea of a regular international golf match has already received favorable consideration in this country, but Hilton's comment is one of the first from British sources.

AFTER GERMAN SCALPS

American Bowlers Will Try for the National Championship.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 12.—In an effort to carry off the German championship a team of American bowlers will compete in the national tournament in Berlin next summer, according to an announcement by the United Bowling Clubs of New York. Fifty men, all members of the local organization, will make up the team. Joseph Thumb, who has been president of the body for the last eight years, will be at the head of the party.

The trip will be the fourth taken by American bowlers across the Atlantic in search of foreign honors.

RECORD PRICE.

Goshen, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The largest price, $7,500, brought in years by a green pacer, was paid for Thistle Patch here yesterday. The purchaser of this horse, sired by Joe Patchen, dam Sara Ann, was R. C. Newton, of Detroit. Thistle Patch will be trained and raced by W. L. Snow in 1914. He was owned and trained by W. K. Dickerson, of Goshen, and worked the Lexington, Ky., track this fall in 2:05 1/2, the last half in 1:01.

88 PLAYERS MADE
RISE TO "MAJORS"

Annual Report of Drafts Presented to National Baseball Association—277 Drafts in 1913.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 11.—John H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, today submitted his annual report to the association, in session here.

The report set forth that the number of players drafted during the year from the minor leagues by the major leagues was 88, of which the National League drafted 45 and the American League 43. National Association clubs drafted 189. The total amount received for drafted players, including money refunded on National Association drafts disallowed, was $227,250, distributed as follows:

National League, $59,100; American League, $58,450; National Association, $109,700. Fifty-eight thousand and eight hundred dollars was paid on optional agreements, and $7,200 was paid on the drafted players returnable under the waiver rule.

The amount paid for releases by purchase of National Association players was $188,250, and the grand total received through Mr. Farrell's office for drafted players, optional agreement players, and released-by-purchase players, was $481,500.

The report added that the association in 1913 embraced 43 league organizations, including 302 cities and towns of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

WILLARD-MORRIS
BOUT CALLED OFF

New York, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Jess Willard, the Nebraska heavyweight, and Carl Morris, of Oklahoma, will probably have to cancel the bout for which they were matched to appear here on Dec. 2. The state athletic commission has ruled against Willard's appearance here until he straightens out his contract with a Buffalo club last January, when he failed to appear.

protection on the Erie franchise, and the decision handed down by the board simply means that they have given the former owners of the Erie franchise an opportunity to make good and organize another league. If they don't, then the territory naturally reverts to the Canadian League.

John H. Farrell, secretary-treasurer of the National Baseball Association, today announced the decision of the board, which was reached after a session which extended into the early hours of the morning.

No Elections Coming.
The annual convention of the National Baseball Association, which opened in Columbus yesterday, resumed work at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The day is expected to be taken up largely with committee reports. No officers are to be elected by the convention.

Jones bought the youngster at the opening of the Grand Circuit for $5,000, the return on the purchase investment was "pretty good."

Frank Caton is on his way from Russia, and will probably take back a few fast ones with him.

FEWER TEAMS PLEASE
HAMILTON HOCKEYISTS

Reduction in the Number of O. H. A. Outfits Good Move Says Herald.

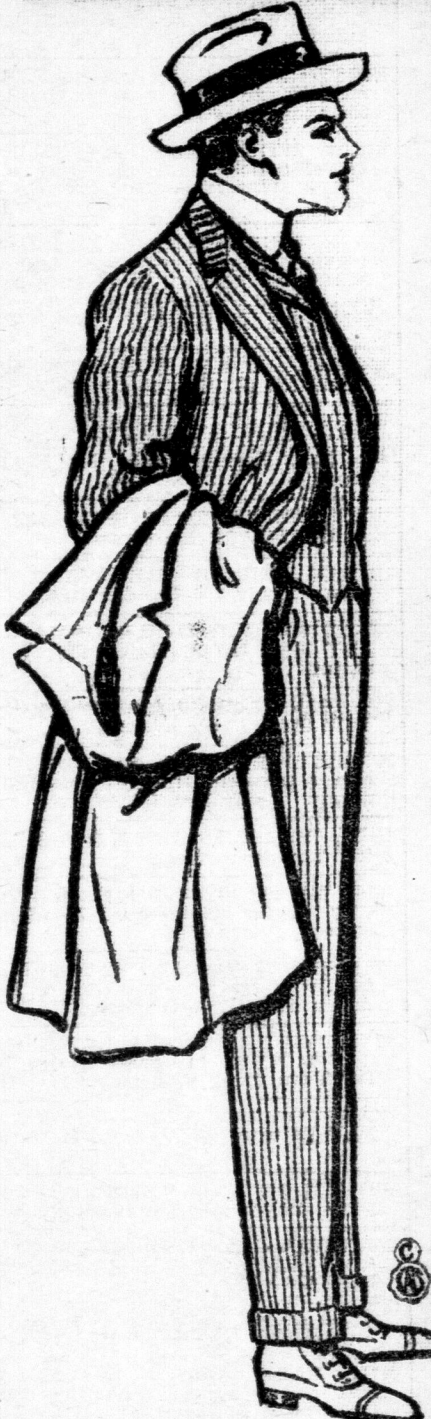

Commenting on the hockey situation in Hamilton, the Herald has this to say: "The hockey situation in Hamilton has cleared, and it is better for all concerned. What this city wants is one or two teams that can hold their own with the best in Canada, and not half a dozen outfits that would prove easy prey for almost every team in the O. H. A. One fast intermediate and junior team will do nicely, thank you."

STATUS OF "CHAMP"
BEING INVESTIGATED

Committee Will Examine the Amateur Standing of Kolehmainen, Olympic Champion.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Investigation of the amateur standing of Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish Olympic champion, will be begun tonight by the registration committee of the Metropolitan Association of American athletes. It was announced that a postponement of the meeting will not be considered because of the absence from the city of Farley, the usual representative of the American athletes, and that the Finn must appear with all the trophies he has won in this country. The hearing will be in secret.

Friends of the Finnish champion maintain his innocence of any violation of the amateur law, while members of the committee are equally as positive that they have evidence that he has become a professional since coming to America.

ST. CATHARINES LADY TAKES HER LIFE

[Canadian Press.]
St. Catharines, Nov. 12.—The body of Mrs. Philip Sneath, a resident of Port Huron for many years, was taken from Muir's Pond this morning. The woman was clad in a night gown. She got out of bed some time during the night and threw herself in the pond. Since the death of her daughter a few months ago Mrs. Sneath had been very nervous. She was 60 years of age, and is survived by a husband and son.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp, and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy, and you look years younger. For sale by W. T. Strong, London.

STEAMER WEXFORD LOST ON HURON WENT DOWN IN SUNDAY'S STORM BODIES WASHED UP ON THE BEACH

The Bodies Bore Life Preservers Marked "Wexford"—Ship Thought To Have Foundered Between Kettle Point and Bayfield.

Goderich, Ont., Nov. 11.—That the steamer Wexford, of the Western Steamship Company, Limited, Toronto, was lost in the storm of Sunday, is evidenced in the finding of five bodies bearing the steamer's life-preservers, at a point about twenty miles below here, or half-way between Bayfield and Kettle Point. Two bodies were found this morning along the shore by residents from the village of Blake, who, after communicating with Colonel Dr. Campbell, of Zurich, continued their search and afterwards found three more. Five more bodies are reported to have been found between Kettle Point and Port Franks, strewn along the beach, but as yet their identity is unknown.

Bodies Described.
The constables' description of the bodies found near Blake is as follows:

No. 1—A young man, apparently twenty-eight years of age, clean-shaven, reddish hair and blue eyes, of about five feet ten inches in height, and weight about 170 pounds. In his pocket was a letter addressed to George Glen, of Salford. His clothes were of dark material, with a knitted jersey having a white border. On his left hand he wore a gold ring with a flat top.

It has since been learned that the description of this man would indicate him to be James Glen from Scotland, who had been sailing on the Wexford and made Goderich his home for a short time.

No. 2—A man slightly older than the first, probably thirty to thirty-two years. The upper teeth were false, and he would weigh about 185 pounds. In appearance he resembled No. 1 very much. Some papers in his pocket had been written with a pen, and the ink was very fresh. A small, light-colored, which the water had obliterated.

No. 3—A man slightly older than the preceding two, but lighter in weight, the tooth of the right upper jaw is missing. Nothing could be ascertained to indicate his name. In the clothes were $25.

No. 4—A man heavier than the others, of perhaps 200 pounds in weight, wearing a blue suit of good material, and tan button shoes. No letters were found, but photos of two young ladies were carried in his pocket. His complexion was fair. In his pockets were found a $5 gold piece, and cash aggregating $43.81. This description is much like that of Malcolm McDonald, a passenger from Goderich.

No. 5—The smallest person of those found, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, with thin legs, but very heavy body and thick-set shoulders. He also wore a ring similar to No. 1.

An inquest is to be held near the scene at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when attempt at identification will be made by the owners of the vessel and familiar elevator men from here.

NO DEFINITE CLUE AS TO OVERTURNED BOAT

First Thought To Have Been the Canadian Freighters Regina, But That Report Has Been Weakened Much Upon Investigation.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Nov. 11.—Sarnia and district is agitated. Report after report of missing boats are coming in almost every hour, but all efforts to learn anything definite have so far proved futile.

The big steamer which turned turtle eight miles out in the lake has not been identified yet, but Capt. Thomas Reid, who has been on the scene all day in the Reid wrecking tug Sarnia City, in charge of Capt. F. B. Ely, claims that the boat is Canadian-owned and that it was likely loaded with flax, which is keeping her afloat.

A report that a boat, thought to be the Midland, owned by the Midland Navigation Company, and captained by Capt. B. Lavigne, out of Midland, was broken to pieces just outside of Port Franks, and that eight bodies were washed ashore, was received here by the Reid tug at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The report also stated that three men were taken off, and that the captain and two others would likely be saved before the wreckage sinks.

Rumors to the effect that the Jenks, a Cleveland boat, 414 feet long, with a 50-foot beam and a capacity of 4,944 tons, owned by W. A. Hawgood, of Cleveland, was the one that was overturned, but Capt. Reid, in conference with Mr. William Livingston, president of the Lake Carriers' Association, said he did not think such was the case.

The Hawgood Beached.
Another one of Hawgood's ships, the H. B. Hawgood, is now beached near Weis Beach, three miles north of Point Edward, and the Matthew Andrews, of the Kinsman Transit Company, is also beached right on the spot where the lights stood.

During the terrific storm of Sunday night the lights were moved a considerable distance out of its course and partially destroyed, and the Matthew Andrews' captain, seeing the lights, thought he was taking the proper course and ran onto a reef. Two tugs and a lighter are now at work on the Matthew Andrews trying to keep her from going to pieces.

Not the Regina.
Mr. R. Duggan, of the Merchants' Mutual Company, of Toronto, arrived here early this morning and left on the tug Sarnia City for the scene of the overturned boat. A report sent out Monday said that the overturned boat was the Regina, belonging to his company, but after looking over the wreck, Mr. Duggan said it was not the Regina. On the return trip to Sarnia this afternoon a part of a hatch from the Regina was recovered, and the fact that the Clark had been wrecked, but later reports say she is safe in Goderich Bay, having been blown there during the storm.

The Neepawa, owned by the Inland Lines Company and loaded with general merchandise, is missing, and has not been accounted for, and the Acadia, owned by the Merchants' Mutual Line, loaded with cement is in distress, and on the rocks at Alpena, Mich. The tugs Manitou and Sarnia City, owned by the Reid Company, of this place, have been sent up to the assistance of the Acadia.

The Worst in Years.
In conversation with The Advertiser, Capt. Reid said that he expected the loss of the ship would be enormous when full returns were received. That will not be for some time, however. He says the seas are still running high, and there are some boats that may never be heard from.

"This is one of the worst storms that I ever saw around here," said he. "We have no idea how many boats have been lost or gone ashore, and on account of the wires being down all over this section of the country, we have been unable to get in touch with any point along the lake. We were unable to learn anything about the boat overturned up the lake, but I think that all of her crew have perished. The boat is painted black on the side, and there is no paint on her bottom. She is now showing about 18 feet above water on the bow end, and has sunk about 2 feet since she was first sighted. She looks to me to be a boat of about 300 feet with a 50-foot beam. My estimation is it is a Canadian boat, but it is not the Regina. The boat, I think, is loaded with flax, and it is her cargo that is keeping her afloat. On account of the heavy seas we are unable to send divers down, but I think that some of her crew will be found underneath her."

Lighthouse Tender Morrell, belonging to the United States Government, has been ordered to protect ships from the wreck tonight, and efforts will be made again tomorrow morning to learn the name of the ship.

Barges Ashore.
A report just received says that the Buckler and a steam barge with two small barges in tow was washed inside the breakwater at Harbor Beach, 60 miles north of Sarnia on the American side. The boats were making for shelter, but the seas were so heavy that the four boats were lifted over the breakwater, with considerable damage to the latter, it is said. The big freighter Curry, of Cleveland, is also reported missing. All efforts to locate her have been unsuccessful.

The Sephie, lumber laden, is water-logged at Cape Smith, but the crew has been taken off. Thousands of dollars of damage was done in and about Sarnia by the storm. Nine launches were sunk, four washed ashore, Spanish River lumber wharf, piled high with lumber, was destroyed and washed away, all the lumber being carried down the river, and the lights on No. 82, located about 10 miles from the mouth of the river, was blown to the Canadian side, where it grounded and was partially destroyed.

A fleet of fishing launches anchored along Weiss Beach were destroyed, and other wharves in this vicinity washed away.

The Lost Boat.
The Wexford was a steel vessel of 2,800 tons capacity, built in London, England, and brought out by the Western Steamship Company of Toronto, carrying a cargo of probably fifteen to twenty. She had been engaged principally in grain carrying, and was on her way down from Port Williams to Goderich with a cargo of wheat for James Richardson & Sons. The last word received from the vessel was in passing the Soo last Friday midnight, which, under ordinary weather, would have brought her here on Sunday morning.

Nothing was seen of any vessel from this point all day Sunday, but it is reported by some residents that a steamer was blowing off here during Sunday night when the storm was at its height. It is thought that the Wexford was caught in the middle of the lake, and unable to make her way to shelter against the force of a six-mile gale, turned before it possibly attempting to make this port. From the location of the point where the bodies were found, and the direction from that point on the lake, it is thought that the vessel foundered about ten or fifteen miles southwest of here.

The report that it is the Wexford floating upside down near Port Huron can hardly be credited. The vessel would fill with water when she turned turtle, even before the grain cargo could flow from the holds. The bottom of the Wexford was painted red, not black, as that reported from Port Huron, and from the fact that she is only 270 feet long there would be little visible above water. The finding of the bodies above Kettle Point indicates that the foundering occurred above the point, precluding any possibility of the vessel floating over thirty miles down the lake in an inverted position.

Schooner Sephie Lost.
The three-masted schooner Sephie, of Sarnia, was reported today to be in a waterlogged condition at Cape Smith, east shore of Manitoulin Island, but will not be a loss. The Sephie was loaded with 300,000 feet of white pine at Cauls Inlet, and sailed from that port on Nov. 8 for Sarnia. Rough weather drove her to shelter, and while riding at anchor she began to take water. The cargo of pine prevented her from sinking past her deck. The crew, comprising six men and the woman cook, were able to reach the shore. They are: Captain H. McKinnon, First Mate Captain M. McDonald, Mrs. Fitzgerald, stewardess, and Seaman Gibson, Johnston and Waldon, all of Sarnia.

Seventeen Overdue.
Fort William, Nov. 12.—Wrecks all over the lakes mark the path of the most severe storm in the history of fresh water navigation. Never in the memory of the oldest citizen at the head of the lakes has there been such a host of ships held on the shores of the lakes as during the past four days, and marine men here express the opinion there would be more reported, as there are seventeen vessels overdue at the head of the lakes, none of which have been reported anywhere.

From Friday until Sunday only one boat, the Doric, reached the head of the lakes, and she was overtaken by a gale in the middle of Lake Superior, she turned her nose into the wind and plowed her way to port. On Monday the Hamonic and Assinibola, flagships of the Northern Navigation and Canadian Pacific Railway fleets, respectively, reached here covered with ice, which had formed a coat as high as the top of the mast.

The steamer Tagona, of the Merchants-Mutual Line, covered with a sheet of ice, made her way up the lake without taking shelter.

Many Damaged.
Coming as it did right in the middle of the busiest season on the lakes, many vessels were caught. No doubt the loss of the damaged boats for the remainder of the season will be felt among grain shippers. Insurance companies are being hit hard. The storm was confined to his bed for four months with rheumatism.

Mr. W. H. Riley, Ruddell, Sask., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all suffering with rheumatism. I was so bad with this terrible disease, I was unable to get up from my bed for four months, and nothing seemed to relieve me until a friend recommended Doan's Pills. I had my doubts about them, but was so desperate I would try anything suggested to me. After taking half a box I was able to get up, and after taking two boxes could get around quite well. After taking six boxes I was completely cured, and able to work for the first time in five months, and have not a touch of rheumatism since. Anyone who saw me then would not know me now, as I am strong and active since taking your valuable medicine."

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys to flush out the acids and poisonous impurities which have collected, and thus clean out the kidneys, and dispel the rheumatism from the system.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

will mean a busy season at all the drydocks, where already plans have been made to take care of the Canadian Pacific Railway vessels. One of the steamers more or less damaged, the G. R. Crowe, which was bound up to enter drydock, has been caught by the storm. So far she is unreported and some anxiety is felt for her safety.

The Northern Queen, reported a total wreck on Lake Huron, went aground on the Rock of Ages at the western end of Isle Royale several weeks ago, and was stranded there for several days, until taken off by the tugs of the Canadian Towing and Wrecking Company. She was brought to the local drydock, where temporary repairs were made, when she went to be overhauled in Superior. It is only a short time since she left that dock and went east with a load of grain. She is 299 feet in length, with beam of 41 feet and depth 25 feet. She was built in 1889 and is owned by the Mutual Transportation Company of Buffalo.

Waldo Went on Rocks But Crew Escaped; Turret Chief Lost

Sarnia, Nov. 11.—Capt. J. W. Duddleson and members of his crew of 26 men and 2 women, who were rescued from the forward half of their steamer, the L. C. Waldo, on Manitou Island today, told a terrible tale of hardship and suffering. They were without food or shelter for ninety hours until they were rescued by the Portage life-saving crew and the tug Richard. The Waldo struck Gull Rock at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and broke in two, her masts, stack and cabins being smashed off by the great seas. She was bound down from Two Harbors to Erie with iron ore and was struck by the storm 75 miles west of Keeweenaw Point at midnight Friday. The pilot-house and cabin were torn off by the mountainous waves which poured upon the ship, carrying compasses and all but the auxiliary steering gear, and putting the lightning equipment out of commission, after which a course was steered by a pocket compass lighted by a lantern.

Straight For Rocks.
Capt. Duddleson had little idea of his location when he heard surf beating on Gull Rock and Manitou, his ship bearing directly towards the rocks. After battling in vain for heavy for eighteen hours, driven by the 70-mile gale, he attempted to make the passage between Gull Rock and the island, but struck, the heavily-laden steamer breaking immediately. Members of the crew were forced to lash themselves to stanchions and the hatch covers to save their lives. The steamer Stephenson was sighted Saturday afternoon attempting to come to the aid of the Waldo, but after fighting wind and wave for seven and a half hours had to give up and run or shelter.

The Waldo was built in West Bay City in 1896 for Robey Transportation Company, of Detroit. She is 451 1/2 feet in length, valued at three hundred thousand.

Capt. Duddleson and sixteen members of the crew of the Turret Chief, of the Merchants' Line of Ontario, which foundered six miles from Copper Harbor, Keeweenaw Point, at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning, arrived in Calumet tonight.

Without Food.
Frost-bitten, thinly clad and without food since Friday night, the crew reached Copper Harbor yesterday afternoon, being directed there by a trapper. Today they reached a village inhabited by a few Indians and got into communication with civilization. Food and warm clothing were provided for their comfort until they could reach home. Most of the members of the crew were asleep when the Turret

Chief drifted ashore. The men were thrown from their beds and had time to do but little clothing. A number of the men were compelled to leave the boat barefooted, and several of these suffered frost-bitten feet.

All suffered from exposure.

DISASTROUS QUAKE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Two Hundred Persons Killed When Abancay, Peru, Was Wrecked.

Lima, Peru, Nov. 11.—Late official dispatches confirm the reports of a disastrous earthquake on Friday in Abancay Province. The dispatches say that the city of Abancay was wrecked and that more than 200 persons were killed. Thousands of persons are homeless.

Abancay, Peru, has a population of more than 3,000. It is the capital of the department of Apurimaca and of the province of its own name. The town is situated about forty miles west-southwest of Cuzco. It is an important sugar centre.

THE MENACE OF STARVATION

An Editorial from The Philadelphia North American.

"It is not often that the North American takes a book as the subject of an editorial. We cite the fact because we wish to emphasize our belief that the book which we propose to discuss is a very remarkable book, indeed.

And we would suggest that those who can will buy it, keep it, read it, reread it, and study the facts which it presents. For these facts are of vital import to the people of the world.

The book of which we speak is "ON BOARD THE GOOD SHIP EARTH". The author is Herbert Quick, and it is published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis.

"The Good Ship Earth" is destined to make a profound impression on the thought of the world. It is bound to be translated into many languages and to be popularly read in many countries.

Mr. Quick's book is not a vision but a presentation of alarming truths. The reader is looking into the elemental facts upon which the fate of the entire human race depends.

There is the fascination of danger about the book. And the fascination is all the more eager and intense in "On Board the Good Ship Earth" because the danger is real and present, and besets the reader himself and his children and his children's children.

This danger is something more than individual. It rises above the epic, for it is greater than national. It is racial; almost cosmic. It is the danger of starvation, of an earth no longer capable of feeding her children. It conjures to the mind the picture of the human race in a long, agonizing, losing fight against extermination.

The fight is on at this very moment. In some parts of the world it has already become a losing fight; as it is bound to become to the people of this, the most favored of nations, if we do not guard with jealous care the treasures which nature has bestowed in our soil.

The soil is not only being exhausted of plant food but is being washed by rivers into the sea. The wastage of soil in the United States alone is 610,000,000 cubic yards a year. And if the soil that is lost in this country every year were hauled and dumped into the sea the train of teams would reach twenty-six times around the earth.

This is so much the concern of the nation, of the entire race, that the time will come when muddy water running off a farmer's field will be evidence upon which to take him into court and impose a penalty.

In the matter of coal, there is an equally frightful waste under existing methods. In the United States there is used every year ten times as much coal as the entire output of all the mines in the world from earliest times up to 1843. Three-fourths of this represents waste.

Depletion of soils, wasting of coal, destruction of timber, are bringing about a situation which will make it impossible for the earth to sustain the vast population which will come to it.

The problems are complicated with questions of race and color, which in themselves constitute great menace to the human race.

Up to this point it might seem that Mr. Quick's book is pessimistic. But it is not. It is extremely optimistic. For all the problems he suggests can be solved by the application of scientific truth.

It is this note of optimism that makes the book worth while. The race need not die of starvation. But its rescue is in its own hands.

Mr. Quick looks at the problems of conservation in the largest sense. They are not state or national. They are world problems. And the spirit in which the nations meet to solve them will determine the fate of the people of those nations as passengers on "The Good Ship Earth."

Mr. Quick's book will be a powerful influence in bringing the nations to face those problems in a just and wise spirit. Ask for "On Board the Good Ship Earth" at your booksellers.

EEV. J. H. ROBINSON DEAD AT ARTHUR

[Canadian Press.]

Hamilton, Nov. 12.—Word was received here today of the death at Arthur early this morning of Rev. J. H. Robinson, a well-known Methodist minister, who, after retiring from Emerald Street Church this city recently, went to live on his farm at Oakville. He went to Arthur to visit his daughter a week ago, and caught a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia. Mr. Robinson was born near Peterboro 71 years ago, and ordained in Toronto in 1870. Since then he had charge of many churches in various parts of Ontario. He is survived by his wife, three daughters and a son.

ATTORNEYS CLASH IN FIGHT TO GET NEW TRIAL ORDER

Dr. Macgregor's Counsel Makes Charges of Gross Unfairness to Plaintiff.

PREJUDICED A JURYMAN

Secured Admission That He Believed Doctor Guilty Before Trial.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 12.—Before the supreme court of the State of Michigan a bitter legal battle was waged Tuesday afternoon and this morning for the liberty of Dr. Robert A. Macgregor, former Ubley physician, and a native of London, Ont., who was convicted in the circuit court of Huron County in connection with the death of Cyril Sparling, and who was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary at Jackson.

No criminal case in years has stirred up as much excitement in the Thumb district of Michigan, and the western part of Ontario, Canada, in the vicinity of London, where the physician formerly resided, as the trial of Dr. Macgregor, which resulted in his conviction on June 5, 1912. The efforts of his attorneys to have the conviction set aside and a new trial granted are being followed with considerable interest by many people along the American and Canadian border line.

Decision Long in Coming.

The attorneys concluded their arguments today and the case will be decided later by the supreme court. A decision is not expected for several weeks and perhaps months.

Today Dr. Macgregor is caring for Warden Nathan Simpson, of Jackson, who was the warden having broken leg in three places in an accident last week. Dr. Macgregor is declared to be a capable and efficient physician and surgeon, and has not complete confidence in the jury verdict when the seriousness of his injury became known.

On various assignments of error the case was appealed to the supreme court for review. Attorney Joseph Walsh, of counsel for the physician, declared that the evidence was entirely circumstantial, and consisted in a large measure of the testimony of a single witness, which the prosecution wrongly claimed to be of an incriminating nature.

Was Jury Prejudiced?

Mr. Walsh asserted before the court that the prosecutors in pursuing their plan to convict the jury first secured an expression from Juror Alfred Avery that the defendant was guilty.

The methods used in selecting a jury and the alleged introduction of testimony foreign to the case were given as reasons why the accused physician should have a new trial.

"In conclusion, we wish to say to this court that we do not think that Dr. Macgregor had a fair trial," said Attorney Walsh. "Before the jury was sworn he was deprived of the services of an attorney who knew most about his case, knew the people of the county, knew the jury, knew the facts, and strangers to the case had to do the best they could to get acquainted with the case during the trial. All the insinuations and gossip were gathered together and introduced to damnify him before the jury."

"A melodramatic surrender of Mrs. Sparling by her bondsmen was enacted for the benefit of the jury. The evidence, considered as a great part of the witnesses for the prosecution, did their best to prejudice him by their applause. No stone was left unturned to convince the jury that the means of the case were given as a change of venue, and the presence of the respondent's attorneys, and a fair and impartial trial."

CAMLACHIE.

Cambridge, Nov. 11.—The death of Harry Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, occurred at his home on Monday morning. On Friday he fell from the back of a wagon and sustained severe injuries to his spine, which paralyzed him and caused his death. The mother, father, sister and brother all have the sympathy of the community.

The anniversary concert held in Knox Church on Monday evening, in spite of the extremely inclement weather, was a success. The attendance was good for the night and the program was first-class.

Mrs. W. B. C. Workman sang selected solos beautifully, and her good enunciation and sweet voice captivated her audience. Mrs. J. Fuller handled the violin admirably and rendered the most pleasing selections. Mr. George Andrews, soloist, and Mr. Stanley Newton, reader, of London, also gave excellent renditions. Professor Workman accompanied the soloists and violinist, and Rev. R. Simpson made an admirable chairman.

The anniversary services of the Methodist Church will be held next Sunday. On Tuesday evening following they will give a concert and entertain the talent to be Cyril Hayes and Chris J. Pink.

STEAMER REGINA IS LOST BODIES TELL OF TRAGEDY

Several of the Victims Identified When Found on Beach Near Port Franks—Vast Quantities of Merchandise Coming Ashore.

Port Franks, Ont., Nov. 11.—When the party from Theford reached the shore at noon today at Port Franks, at the mouth of Aux Sable River, two bodies had already been found, bearing Regina lifebelts.

Proceeding north they found with in a radius of five miles eight more bodies. Two of these were found in the battered lifeboat bearing the name Regina. Three of these now lie at Undertaker J. H. Woodhull's morgue at Theford, and seven will be brought in tomorrow.

Names of Victims.

The following identifications have been made certain at this writing: Wilson P. McInnes, aged about 22, identified by letters from his mother, who resides at Johnston P. O., near Owen Sound.

David Lawson, New Brunswick, identified by unmailed postcard addressed to Harry Lawson, New Brunswick, name of postoffice obliterated, signed Dave, indicating the latter to be a brother of the addressee. The three men are strongly built sailors.

Strewn along the shore are great quantities of Canadian merchandise: baled hay from the King Milling Co., Sarnia, hundreds of cases of canned goods from Hamilton, consigned to Fort Frances and Winnipeg. A dozen oars marked Regina were picked up indicating that a large crew had taken to the boat. From the scattered position of the bodies it is evident the lifeboat capsized far from shore. Some bodies had evidently only drifted in during the past few hours, and others are expected in the morning.

When well up, she dropped anchor, but the anchor dragged and the bow landed on the beach Monday night at 7 o'clock.

The crew of the Northern Queen report passing a boat in distress while fighting the gale, but do not believe it was the Regina. The bodies of the men are badly bruised. Considerable sums of money, evidently recently paid wages, were on the bodies.

Stories of Survivors.

A graphic story was told by members of the crew of the Northern Queen. Charles E. Ryan, of Buffalo, mariner, says the Queen went out from St. Clair River bound upward Sunday morning. When forty miles out, she had to turn back and at 4:30 Sunday morning sighted Port Huron lights. She heard the fog whistle warning and the path and headed back north. When well up, she dropped anchor, but the anchor dragged and the bow landed on the beach Monday night at 7 o'clock.

MASTER IN CHAMBERS SUMMONED BY DEATH

J. S. Cartwright, of Osgoode Hall, Died in Toronto This Morning.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Nov. 12.—J. S. Cartwright, master in chambers at Osgoode Hall since 1903, died at his home here this morning. Mr. Cartwright was a brother of the deputy attorney general, John Cartwright, K.C., and was a cousin of the late Sir Richard Cartwright. Though holding aloof from political discussion, he was always deeply interested in public affairs.

He was born at Kingston, and was educated at Rugby, England. He married on June 1, 1869, a daughter of the late Hon. William Cayley, who died in 1839, and was married secondly to a daughter of George A. Young. He was called to the bar in 1868, and became a K.C. in 1902. He was appointed registrar of the queen's bench division in the court division in 1883, from which post he was promoted to his late position. He was an Anglican.

INGERSOLL.

Ingersoll, Nov. 12.—Country roads have been in a wretched condition since the snowstorm of Monday. Had they remained frozen, but little more snow would have been necessary to have made good sleighing. The drop in the temperature and the wet snow made almost inches of slush and mud. Monday many vehicles came into town with so much mud on the wheels that they were as large as automobile tires. Travelling has been slow and tedious on most of the roads, and there naturally has been a big falling off in the traffic.

Mr. H. A. Trainor, who nine months ago came to Ingersoll as local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, has been officially notified that he will be transferred to Sarnia the first of this year.

Friends of Mr. John Christopher learned with regret that owing to his serious illness he had been removed to the hospital. Mr. Christopher has been ill for upwards of a week.

The fifth lecture in the St. John Ambulance course will be given by Dr. R. A. Williams in Connaught Hall this evening. There will be a parade of the Rangers. The boys have found these lectures on first aid work very interesting and instructive and they are attending in representative numbers.

Present indications point to a very large attendance at the convention of the Women's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Society for Ontario West, which opened in the Baptist Church today, and will be continued Thursday. It has been announced that about 300 delegates will attend from as far east as Peterboro and as far west as Windsor. There will be three sessions each day. This evening Rev. A. J. Vining, of the College Street Church, Toronto, will speak.

Personal Menition

Mrs. J. C. Smith, formerly of Wingham, held her reception yesterday in her new home on Duke street, Ingersoll. She wore a becoming gown of pale blue, brocade, silk trimmed, with chancily lace. Mrs. (Rev. R. J. M. Perkins) received with her, wearing white satin draped with black chiffon. In the dining-room Mrs. J. Anderson Collier and Mrs. J. A. Taylor, St. Thomas, A. Bright, Mrs. J. Tanton, Miss Holcroft, Miss Richmond, Miss Hill, Miss M. Hills, London, and Miss A. B. Francis. The table was exceedingly pretty, being decorated with a crystal vase of white chrysanthemums and brass candles with yellow shades.

Mrs. A. H. Jennings and her daughter Jean of 133 Sydenham street have just returned after a few weeks' visit with Mrs. James H. Forbes, of Toronto.

Mrs. James H. Forbes, 10 Cathcart street, has just returned after a three months' visit with her mother, Mrs. R. Patterson.

Mrs. A. E. White, of New Westminster, B. C., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Fitzgerald, King street.

Lower Osgoode, N. S.—At first we thought my child's trouble was his teeth. The whole body was a solid rash and at the arm pits and elbows and thighs the skin came off as if it had been scalded. It was a very thick fine rash, red in color and intensely itchy and burning. The skin just wiped off leaving a raw sore with little specks of yellow matter in them. The skin on every finger split down on each side and looked like a ruffe. His toes broke out in little yellow pimples and the bottom of his feet did the same and he would say he could not walk, that there were pins sticking in his feet.

"The agony of itching and burning was something frightful. If he got a chance he would scratch the skin right off and make a sore, but to prevent that I made mittens for him out of cotton. Every night from twelve o'clock until three in the morning he would have to be taken up out of bed and rocked, his sufferings were so bad.

"With no permanent cure in sight I got the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The first night the child slept like a baby and through the first night for four months. I am thankful to say the cure was complete and I just got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Samuel Higgins, May 17, 1913.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

The quiet spell which has fallen over the local market had not lifted this morning. There was no offering in any line previous to 9 o'clock, and prices are consequently as firm as last week. It is unlikely that a change will occur before Saturday, when, if the present improved weather continues, the offering may be larger.

One load of hay was offered yesterday and the commodity brought $18—the highest price obtained for many months. Straw is firm at $6 to $8.50.

As intimates yesterday, the price of potatoes is somewhat, as the result of the scarcity. Bags are now selling for $1 wholesale and $1.05 to $1.10 retail. Other vegetables are steady.

The prices of butter and eggs are firm and high. With a small offering, there is every probability that a change in price will be experienced in these lines. Eggs are retailing at 40 cents a dozen at present.

Dressed hogs are also on the advance. The prices obtained today are $13 to $13.25. The offering is only an average one.

Apples are selling at 50 to 80 cents per bushel; pears are 75 cents, with a few choice bushels going at $1; grapes are scarce at 30 cents per basket.

The prices of poultry are as quoted in the list.

All other prices are firm and as follows:

MANY MORE GROCERS FOR EARLY CLOSING

Every Merchant Will Be Compelled to Subscribe to Shorter Hours.

The petition of the retail grocers of this city for an early closing bylaw, which would compel all grocers to close their stores by 7 o'clock each evening of the week, received a number of new signatures at a meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, held in the Dominion Savings Building Tuesday evening. More than fifty names have already been signed, and it is now proposed to circulate the petition to all outlying sections of the city, where it is expected more than twice that number of names will be added. The date of the annual banquet of the association was also fixed at the meeting for Nov. 26, at the City Hotel. A large attendance is anticipated, members from Toronto, Hamilton and Brantford having been invited, as well as the local members.

The business of the evening being disposed of the members devoted themselves to social enjoyments. A splendid program of music was rendered, including songs by Messrs. J. T. Taylor, E. J. Ryan, Alf. Cave, Fred Jones, and N. Baker. Readers by Mr. Cyril Hayes were also enjoyed. Mr. William Ranahan acted as accompanist. Progressive euchre rounded out the evening's entertainment. The premier honors going to Mr. George Eccleston and Mr. Harry Hooper. Mr. Harry Ranahan presided at the meeting in capable manner.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat, Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless, it flushes clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; it is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. W. T. Strong, agent for Jad Salts.

DEPARTMENT STORE FOR DRUG SUPPLIES

New Innovation in London Is Started by the Standard Drug Co.

Transformation of the interior of the store next to A. Rowat's on Dundas street, formerly occupied by the Metropolitan Agency, into the most up-to-date modern drug store in London, is in progress. Night and day, the store has been busily engaged in fitting up the building for the Standard Drug Company, and the work is almost completed.

This morning an Advertiser reporter, going behind the wooden fence that has screened the transformation work from the public, saw the almost completed store—a marvel of fixtures, equipment and economy of space. The new store will be rather an innovation from the usual run of London drug stores. It will be a departmental store, specializing in the various sundries and accessories that are connected with the drug trade.

Across the end of the store, which has been extended 25 feet, the prescription department has its quarters. The work-tables are the very latest word in drug equipment, while the rows of shelves are filled with myriad bottles of drugs, usually found on the front shelves of the average store, but in this case relegated to their proper quarters in the prescription room.

Fittings of turned oak throughout handsome silent salesmen, in which the goods of the different departments—cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, candy, stationery, patent medicines, sickroom supplies, rubber goods, toilet supplies

ZAM-BUK IN THE HOMERead How Useful It Proved in These Widely Different Cases

Zam-Buk's strongest point is its effectiveness in all kinds of skin diseases and injuries. Just note how excellent these persons proved it in widely different directions.

Sore Heel.—Mrs. C. A. Campbell, of Powassan, Ont., writes: "One of my heels was very badly blistered by a pair of new shoes, and the poisonous dye from my stocking got into it, and made a bad sore. For a week I could not put on a shoe, and suffered great pain. I applied Zam-Buk, and in a few days it drew the poison out and healed the wound."

Bad Cut.—Mrs. J. Virgint, of Onondaga, Ont., writes: "Zam-Buk healed a bad cut which I sustained. I was hurrying across my yard one day when I slipped and fell heavily, my knee striking a sharp stone. At the moment I did not realize how badly I was hurt, but I found I had a very jagged and very deep. We bathed the cut and applied Zam-Buk. This stopped the smarting very quickly, and in a few days it had healed the wound completely. For cuts and bruises Zam-Buk is a splendid remedy."

Eczema Cured.—Mrs. Antoine Arsenault, of Maxville, P. E. I., writes: "I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to any person suffering from eczema. I had this disease and was under doctors' treatment for two years, without any good result. I then tried Zam-Buk and in the end it cured me. Zam-Buk is just as good for piles, blood-poison, festering sores, pimples, eruptions, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. Fifty cents box all druggists and stores, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Company, Toronto. Try Zam-Buk Soap, 25c tablet."

are displayed make the store a marvel of attractiveness. The cigar department has a special humidor, the candy department has the latest fixtures and a wonderful stock of boxed sweets.

Possibly the greatest feature of the store, however, is the glittering marble soda fountain that occupies one side of the store. It is of the latest possible type, and is the best in the city. Ice cream and sodas are to be featured in this new store, and the equipment that has been installed for the purposes presaged a good development for this department.

STEEL VERSUS WOODEN CARS.

Cy Warman, author of the famous railroad works, said yesterday at the Board of Commerce banquet at Peoria, Ill.: "To argue, to agitate, to demand, the destruction of wooden equipment, and the substitution of a steel rail, or to argue, to agitate, to demand, the destruction of the people who have invested money in the railroads, as would be a demand by Congress for the abandonment of the construction of all motor cars and the substitution of air-ships instead. It is equally inconsistent and silly to argue, whenever there is a railway wreck, that the loss of a single life is better than the loss of the fact that some of the people were killed in wooden cars. No man can say with any degree of accuracy, looking upon a wrecked train either of wood or steel, that much more would have happened if the equipment had been different. We have seen a wooden dining-car caught between two steel sleepers, the former losing one corner, and the great ungoverned army of 'I should worry's' who are required neither to furnish the $750,000 necessary to replace wooden cars nor to assure the investing public interest on their investment."

Although the phraseology in Mr. Warman's statement is somewhat unusual, it is nevertheless quite in accordance with the general opinion of the thinking people of this country. The fact that steel cars would be desirable has never been questioned, but, as recently mentioned in this column, steel cars have not been adopted, or a derelict, and until the Interstate Commerce Commission, which in reality is a representative body of the people, has decided in favor of this nation the ability to build up their net earnings to such proportions as will more nearly care for their increasing expenses, it is evident that the steel car is not the answer.

Mr. S. J. Moore Gives Much of His Valuable Energy to Religious Work.

It is often the busiest men who find time for considerable Christian service and church activities; such a man is Mr. S. J. Moore, who though president of the Metropolitan Bank, president of the Toronto City Creamery, and will be president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, president of Carter-Crume Company, of Toronto, and holding responsible offices in many more thriving institutions, has found time to be president of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Canada; to be superintendent of a large Sunday school in Toronto; an ardent supporter of Y. M. C. A. work in Canada, and has been president of the Toronto Baptists in his untiring efforts and munificent gifts toward missionary work. Mr. Moore is a consistent Christian man, and will be a hearing on Friday night, at the Men's Missionary Conference in Dundas Centre Methodist Church.

STRONGLY ADVISES MEAT INSPECTIONMr. Abbott Brings Strong Recommendation From Health Congress.

In compiling his report on the Canadian Public Health Congress at the University of Toronto, held from Sept. 18, 19 and 20, W. H. Abbott, of the board of health, has this to say of public abattoirs:

Dr. Rutherford, superintendent of agriculture and animal industry of the C. P. R., strongly recommended the public abattoir as the only solution of the problem of modern municipal meat inspection; as prevention was better than cure, he considered the public abattoir as of even greater importance than the public hospital.

The subject was then taken up of public abattoirs by J. T. Valen, sanitary and plumbing inspector of Lethbridge, in which he emphasized the great advantage of municipally-owned abattoirs. There may be a great many people who question the wisdom of the city building an abattoir, thinking it is encroaching on the business of the butcher. It must be remembered, however, that it is the business of the city to look after the sanitary conditions of its institutions, and amongst those needing supervision, we must count the abattoir; consequently, under no conditions should the city neglect the abattoir.

The absolute necessity of such buildings being under keen supervision must be apparent to everybody. There are, of course, now slaughter houses, but that could be closed on the grounds of insanitation. There is also another serious objection that it is impossible for one inspector to inspect all meats unless he is stationed in one place. Mr. Valen pointed out that the chief argument that had been used against the civic abattoir was that it would cause the price of meat to rise, and also that it would not be self-supporting. He said the latter was a most inconsistent view to entertain. Experience has shown that a public abattoir built suitable for the needs of the district, if built and properly managed, becomes not only self-supporting, but profitable. It appears that Toronto is to be the first city in the Dominion to be favored with a public abattoir. Arrangements having been made for the construction of such a building.

FINE PRIZES FOR EUCHE RE TOURNEY

At the Liberal Club tonight, the prizes will be displayed for the euche tourney that has been in progress for some weeks, and which will be continued until next meeting. The executive has co-operated with the special committee, of which Mr. Charles Keene is chairman, in order to have a fine offering of prizes, and those who are at the top of the list of players will receive handsome awards.

The Wednesday night euche are proving a popular form of entertainment. As usual an individual prize will be given for the most points made to-night.

No Friday evening the committee has called a general meeting of those interested in the educational side of the club, and a good attendance is requested.

EACH LANDED DEER IN NORTH COUNTRYAldermanic Nimrods Show No Trace of "Buck Fever."

Ald. B. W. Bennett, chairman of the board of works, and the other members of the city hall hunting party, that left London two weeks ago for the Big French River, returned to the city on Tuesday. The party was not scheduled to come back until Sunday, but as it secured the full quota of deer on Friday last the members decided to return to London. Every one of the eight members of the party, which included Ald. W. B. Robinson and Inspector J. W. McCallum, of the relief and license department, shot a deer. Four were bucks, two of them of record size.

TRUE BILL RETURNED AGAINST H. M. BENNETTCharge of Attempted Murder Is on List of the Perth Assizes.

Stratford, Nov. 11.—A true bill was this afternoon returned against Henry Martin Bennett, charged with attempted murder in shooting at Mr. T. J. Merihan, proprietor of the American Hotel here, last spring. The shooting followed the elections of the defendant from the plaintiff's hotel. Mr. Merihan escaped serious injury. The trial will likely take place on Wednesday.

The Perth Fall assizes opened before Chancellor Boyd at 1 o'clock with the foregoing criminal case, five civil jury actions and four non-jury suits. Three of the jury cases were settled without evidence. The first was a suit for alleged slander brought by Rev. R. B. Stevenson, of Tavistock, against W. Taylor, of the same village. The second was an action for damages by William Rock against Mr. T. I. Gillespie, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, for damages for injuries. The third case settled was also a damage action. W. McEwen vs. D. M. Parker, of London.

A further adjournment was made in the injunction proceedings by Mr. John Murray, of Downie Township, to compel the city to desist from polluting the lower Avon with effluent from the sewage disposal works at the west side of the city. The costly new plant has failed to remedy the evil, and Engineer Dallyn, of the provincial board of health, several weeks ago ordered somewhat extensive improvements.

As the city engineer is working on plans to this end, an adjournment was granted.

This Simple Recipe Quickly Banishes Hairs[Beauty Topics.]

Here is a simple and inexpensive recipe or formula which is used with excellent results by many beauty specialists for removing hairy growths on the face, neck or arms: Mix a stiff paste with a little delatone and water and spread on hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. Care should be exercised to get the delatone in an original package, otherwise it may not be pure.—Adv.

LEGAL QUERIESGLENCOE. — A

Has a house. E rents it. A swarm of bees gets up in the attic and there is a lot of honey. Can A claim the honey because the house belongs to him, or is the tenant entitled to the honey? Could the owner of the bees go into another person's house and get his bees and honey? A.—The tenant is entitled to the honey. The owner of the bees has no right to enter the house to get the bees or honey.

A. B. C.—Your statement shows that you ordered a ton of coal and paid for one ton. By error the coal dealer sent you 2,280 pounds, and did not discover his mistake for some months afterwards and then told you for the extra 1,280 pounds. It meant you had bought from him paid him for other tons of coal. You received and used the 1,280 pounds, which you did not pay for or order expressly, but by your so doing an implied contract was legally made, upon which you are liable. It was your duty to have notified the dealer to take away the coal not ordered if you did not intend to use and pay for it.

Three Reasons Why POSTUM Instead of Tea or Coffee

A Food Drink

Postum made of choice whole wheat, roasted, with a small portion of New Orleans molasses, contains the nutritive elements of the grain, and is wholesome and nourishing. Tea and coffee have no food value whatever.

Has Fine Flavor

Postum has a dark, seal brown color, which changes to rich golden brown when cream is added. It has a delightful aroma, and a rich, snappy flavor, which many say they like as well, if not better, than that of tea or coffee.

Free From Drugs

Postum is absolutely free from any drug. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a poisonous drug—from 1½ to 3 grains to the cup. It often causes biliousness, headaches, heart agitation, nervousness, sleeplessness, and other ills. Postum, being pure and free from caffeine or any other drug, may be used freely by young and old.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum must be well boiled to bring out the flavor and food value.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. Made instantly by stirring a spoonful in a cup of hot water—with sugar and cream added.

If coffee don't agree, try POSTUM.
