Coolidge Elected But Working Majority is Doubtful

COOLIDGE GOES BACK WITH BIG MAJORITY

President Assured of 343 Votes in Electoral College—Extends Thanks to All Electors and Promises To Carry Out Full Program of Reforms.

GIVEN TOTAL OF 18,000,000 POPULAR VOTES

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 5.—As returns from the states continued to roll in today, they served only to swell the tide upon which Calvin Coolidge is riding to an apparent and overwhelming victory over his two opponents in the 1924 presidential contest.

In eight states, all of them in the west, the result still was in doubt at mid-day, but the president had a lead in seven of them, including Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, which follow Senator La Follette had expected to give the independent candidate their electoral votes.

Returns in the congressional contests were slow and at noon they still were insufficient to show whether Mr. Coolidge will have a real working majority of his party in either the House or Senate.

COOLIDGE THANKS ELECTORS.
President Coolidge, having received a vote of confidence from the American voters, today expressed his "simple thanks" to one of his first acts after his election was assured. In a statement which he read to the newspapers, he said: "I can only express my simple thanks to all those who have contributed to this result and plainly acknowledge that it has been brought to pass through the work of divine Providence, of which I am but one instrument. Such powers as I have I dedicate to the service of all my country and of all my countrymen."

RADEL'S DIAMOND RING AROUSES SUSPICIONS

Police Refuse to Give Stone to Prisoner's Sweetheart—Possible Owner Sought.

The only thing that is stopping Harry Radel from signing away his rights to an appeal from the three-year sentence in Kingston penitentiary is the refusal of the city detective department to hand over Radel's valuable diamond ring and other belongings to his sweetheart, it was learned in police circles this afternoon.

Detectives working on the case have been loathe to agree to the demands of the prisoner, who his friends state, has issued an ultimatum that he will not sign any papers hustling him to Kingston until the police surrender his ring to the girl.

The detectives on the other hand have a hunch that the ring did not arrive in the hands of Radel through an honest channel and have endeavored to find someone who lost a ring of that description. So far their search has been unsuccessful it is said.

All officials when questioned late this afternoon stated that Radel had not signed the papers required before a prisoner can be removed to penitentiary for an indictable offence and had nothing to say about the diamond ring story.

Thirty days must elapse before constables can remove a prisoner to penitentiary, in order that the may have plenty of time to appeal the sentence of the court.

DETECTIVE'S BILL PASSES ENGINEER

E. Clarence Settall Claims Signature of W. Robertson Added to Statement.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 5.—With returns from many states still incomplete, President Coolidge appears to have been elected over his two opponents by a rolling tide of ballots mounting up toward the Harding landslide of 1920.

But the returns still were insufficient early today to show whether he will have a working majority of Republicans in congress. Little more than half the senate and house contests had been finally reported with results so far showing a net Republican gain of a dozen representatives and probably three or four senators.

A member of throwing the presidential election into congress was chased away by the rapidly with which the large blocks of electoral votes either fell into the Coolidge column or gave seemingly unmistakable evidence of going there as the returns continued to come in.

John W. Davis succeeded in capturing many of the states generally reckoned as irreversibly Democratic. Even at that he lost Kentucky, on the face of the incomplete returns, although Cox had carried it against Harding in 1920.

The same returns indicated that he had brought back into the Democratic fold two of the states which had carried it against Harding in 1920—Oklahoma and Tennessee.

Record Vote Was Cast.
Senator La Follette, although polling a popular vote of about four million, which approximates Roosevelt's total when he led the party movement in 1912, was assured the electoral vote of only one state, his own, Wisconsin. Roosevelt captured 88 electoral votes in 1912—enough to defeat his Republican opponent, Taft, and elect his Democratic adversary, Wilson.

It was estimated that Coolidge polled 18,000,000 popular votes—two million more than were given to Harding. Davis, it was estimated, had 8,000,000 as against 9,000,000 for Cox.

More voters trooped to the polling places and dropped their ballots yesterday than ever before in the history of the United States.

In many of the states carried by Coolidge his majority over both of his adversaries was overwhelming. In New York state, where the Republican national ticket made a clean sweep in the metropolis and also up-state, the plurality over Davis was more than 800,000. In the New England states, Mr. Coolidge's one-time neighbors piled up a lead for him which in some cases ran up to ten to one. In Ohio and Illinois the majorities likewise were tremendous and in the Pacific coast the tale of the ballots was almost the same.

Latest returns from California indicated the Republican margin there will be close to 200,000.

The tide of Coolidge strength swept to defeat a number of Democratic state tickets and made a number of members of congress who had been confident of election. In New York, Governor Alfred E. Smith withstood the sweep and bested his Republican opponent, Theodore Roosevelt. The sweep of the Coolidge side appeared on the other hand to have handed Ed Jackson, Republican, in the governor's chair for Indiana.

In Texas, "Ma" Ferguson, wife of an impeached governor, who won her nomination on the Democratic ticket after a furious battle against Klan sympathizers, and secured a place on the ballot only after a further fight in the courts, apparently has been rewarded with the distinction of being the first woman governor.

Women Governors Elected.
In Ohio another Democratic governor, Vic Donahey, was about holding his own today in a nip and tuck race with the Republican nominee, former Governor Harry L. Davis. The sweep of the Coolidge side appeared on the other hand to have handed Ed Jackson, Republican, in the governor's chair for Indiana.

Settall's Local Charges Meet With Flat Denials

Charges Against Sir Adam Beck Involving Affairs in London Have No Supporting Evidence—City Paid Street Railway Bills.

5 Local Charges Made By Settall

The five Settall charges against Sir Adam Beck before the Snider commission, based on affairs in London, are listed below. Inquiries by The Advertiser indicate that these charges are largely ungrounded. They are dealt with in detail in the accompanying article:

1.—That a bill dated Nov. 16, 1917, and rendered by Code & Burritt, barristers, Ottawa, was paid by the hydro power commission in respect of the early electrification of the London & Port Stanley railway, when Dr. R. E. Gaby, brother of the chief engineer, as medical adviser to the commission.

2.—That large sums of money were paid by the hydro power commission in respect of the early electrification of the London & Port Stanley railway, when Dr. R. E. Gaby, brother of the chief engineer, as medical adviser to the commission.

3.—That in 1911, the McClary Manufacturing Company of London, although the highest bidder, obtained the contracts for signs on the right-of-way.

4.—That in 1922, Roy Beck, while an employee of the commission and under salary from it, spent three weeks at a time in London taking on Daniel Simpson around looking at horses.

5.—That in 1922, many trips were made by Fairley, Stanley and Howson, hydro power commission employees, to London, Cleveland, etc., in connection with the affairs of the London street railway, and that the expenses of such trips were paid for by the hydro power commission.

The work was done with the full consent of the mayor (Cameron Wilson), and the city council, and it and the payment by the city were fully ordered, he said.

There is, however, a new feature of the hydro's activities in connection with the London street railway, which is interesting. In September and October of 1923, after Sir Adam Beck had been asked by the city council to make an independent valuation of the road, hydro engineers came to London, presumably at Sir Adam's request, and made a valuation, the bill for which has just been received by the council for $724.

It was considered at the last meeting of the finance committee, and referred to the city clerk for his consultation of the minutes in reference thereto.

POCOCK DENIES

Advances to L. and P. S. Are Repaid, Say Ex-Commissioner and Manager.

The London street railway, the London & Port Stanley railway, the McClary Manufacturing Company and Sir Adam Beck's private stable have been involved in five of the twenty-four new charges made by Clarence Settall, formerly private secretary to Sir Adam, against the Hydro-Electric power commission and Sir Adam Beck.

Of the twenty-four charges made public by Judge Snider, who is conducting the probe in Toronto, three have already been withdrawn. Inquiry by The Advertiser into the five local charges, which are listed in the next column, shows a lack of any supporting evidence, with the single exception of the charge regarding Sir Adam's interest as a horseman.

Street Railway Accounts.
In the first charge, Settall alleged that "in 1922 many trips were made by Fairley, Stanley and Howson, hydro power commission employees, to London, Cleveland, etc., in connection with the affairs of the London street railway, and that the expenses of such trips were paid for by the hydro power commission."

LAW CHANGE NEEDED TO CUT BOARD

Trustees Meet Brittain at the Station and Deal With Survey.

DIVIDE ON CUT

Believe, However, Other Changes Should Be Considered at Once.

If the board of education is to be reduced from twelve to six members it must be by an amendment to the education act and must have the sanction of the provincial board of education and several school trustees state today.

Dr. Horace L. Brittain, in explaining his report to a committee of the board yesterday, said that this was simply a recommendation in his report and that it was not vital to the internal economy of the board as some other clauses of this report.

Most of the members are agreed that it is expedient to go ahead with such changes as affect the immediate business transactions of the board, as in the appointment of Chief Inspector V. K. Greer as inspector-secretary of public schools, to give more power to both Principal E. A. Miller of the Central collegiate and Principal Beal of the Technical, and the question of having a purchasing agent for the board. The reduction of the board is a matter which will need more consideration and time to decide.

Generally the members are understood to be in favor of the suggestions as to making the changes of officers of the board. On the question of the reduction, however, they are divided. Several members seen today declined to announce their stand on the matter, merely remarking that they have made up their minds and will state them tomorrow at the meeting of the full board.

The caucus meeting of the special survey committee, of which Roy Cairncross is chairman and which contains Dr. A. J. Grant, George Copeland and Hayden Campbell, saw Dr. Brittain for a few minutes yesterday as he stepped off the train from Toronto, and from him obtained an outline of the chief items of the report. Members of the committee stated to The Advertiser that the outline published in yesterday's Advertiser contained all the essential clauses in the report.

VOTE LIST APPEALS ARE COMING SLOWLY

Assessors Ultra-Efficient or the People Indifferent, Baker Says.

With today the last day for entering appeals for changes on the municipal voters' lists this year, City Clerk Baker has received only 50 appeals from citizens. Of these only 75 are really additional names, the other half being mere changes from one section of the city to another.

Mr. Baker has about 200 appeals which he is making himself, through information gleaned during the revising of the provincial voters' lists in the campaign of last month.

The small number of appeals proves one of two things," Mr. Baker said. "Either the work of the assessors has been far more complete than ever before, or else the people are becoming more indifferent over city elections."

REV. G. Q. WARNER, Judge of London's juvenile court, who is considering carrying on his duties without remuneration for another year.

WARNER MAY STAY AS COURT JUDGE

Asked by Nickle To Remain For Year Without Remuneration.

Attorney-General W. F. Nickle is loath to lose the services of Rev. Quintin Warner as judge of the juvenile court.

So loath, in fact, that yesterday in an interview with Judge Warner at Toronto, he asked him to continue in his present capacity as judge without remuneration for at least six months or a year.

Judge Warner told The Advertiser this morning that he was giving serious consideration to the attorney-general's request and would forward his final decision to Mr. Nickle within the next few days.

The decision arrived at by Mr. Nickle with regard to the juvenile court in London may briefly be set down as follows: Judge Warner should continue to function on his present basis as an independent institution, entirely apart from the police court.

For the present, at least, the city council should not be required, against its expressed wish, to pay a salary to the judge of the court.

In view of the almost unanimous indorsement of the work of Rev. Mr. Warner as judge, his services, if at all possible, should be retained in that capacity.

Asked to Continue.
Having arrived at these decisions, and particularly the latter ones mentioned, Mr. Nickle has "put it to Mr. Warner by asking him to continue as judge for an indefinite period without remuneration."

Primarily, however, on the basis of the interview yesterday between Judge Warner and Mr. Nickle was to discuss the possibility and the feasibility of placing the juvenile court under the control of the Children's Aid society, and thus do away with the independent staff of officials at present engaged in conducting the court.

It would seem that Judge Warner is not of the opinion that the court could be placed in the hands of the Children's Aid society as it has during the past year and a half.

Mr. Nickle has definitely decided against involving the authority delegated to him through his position as attorney-general of Ontario, whereby he could require the council to provide suitable and adequate salary for the position of juvenile court judge, whether that position be held by Mr. Warner or some other citizen of London.

Expressed Pleasure.
Mr. Nickle has more than once expressed his pleasure at receiving such a large number of resolutions from various organizations in London urging the continuance of the juvenile court on its present basis and the retention of the services of Mr. Warner as judge of the court.

Yesterday, Mrs. John A. Rose called upon Mr. Nickle to further bring to bear upon him the full weight of 27 women's organizations of the city requesting that the court be continued and Mr. Warner be retained as judge.

As to Judge Warner and his decision to continue without remuneration, as he has so frequently stated his position, it is not a matter of not providing suitable and adequate salary for the position of juvenile court judge, whether that position be held by Mr. Warner or some other citizen of London.

DEVONSHIRE'S RETURN WOULD BE WELCOMED

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Nov. 5.—The dominion circles here are anxious to hear of the return of the Duke of Devonshire to the office of colonial secretary under Premier Stanley Baldwin would be warmly welcomed.

There seems to be no ground for assuming that the duke has a real distaste to taking office again and among recent colonial secretaries none has created better relations between the dominions and the colonial department here than the former governor-general of Canada.

WORKMEN HURT WHEN WALL FALLS

Several Have a Miraculous Escape From Death at Old Registry Office.

BEING TORN DOWN

Jump Almost Clear When the Roof Sags Slightly—Feet Injured.

Two workmen engaged in wrecking the old registry office on the corner of Talbot and Carling streets, narrowly escaped being buried alive, and others working nearby, being injured, when tons of bricks of the roof of the building caved in at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Harry Wilkins, 38 years old, 123 York street, was injured about the feet when his legs were buried under the crushing mass of brick. George Smith, 34 years old, of 903 Dufferin street, also received injuries about the feet when he was struck by the avalanche.

Working On Arch.
The men were working on an arch of the roof of the building, which is constructed of seven layers of bricks. Notice was given of the impending cave-in when the roof sagged slightly. The men saved themselves by jumping a distance of 18 feet at the same moment the whole end of the heavy brick roof crumbled and fell to the ground with deafening roar. Bricks were hurled about the street, and several workmen standing at the side of the building were struck, but received only slight injuries.

Wilkins was extricated from under a large pile by passersby who were attracted by the noise of the cave-in and cloud of dust that followed. Police officers, however, but Wilkins' condition did not warrant his removal to the hospital.

Smith was also buried up to the knees. His legs were badly bruised. Both men attributed their remarkable escape to their effort to jump immediately the roof began to sag and crack. Had they been working below they would have been buried beneath tons of brick, piling ten feet high.

The men are employed by the Matthews Wrecking company. The registry building is one of the oldest structures in the city, the walls and roof being built three feet thick. The bricks, which constituted the arch of the roof, are so old that the mortar which held them was of a crumbly nature.

The men stated to The Advertiser that it was the most dangerous building they had ever worked on and that they had been warned against a probable cave-in.

John Hugh Woodhams, one year and seven months old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Woodhams, 12 Askin street, died shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Victoria hospital of injuries received when struck by the street car at Wharmcliffe road and Askin street. The little lad suffered from a fractured skull, shock and several cuts and bruises.

The mother of the child was in the backyard of her home, when the accident occurred about 2:15. She had left the child in the room of the house playing, and believed that the front door was locked.

The lad was rushed to Victoria hospital by a passing motorist. He showed some sign of improvement shortly after being treated, but his injuries were so severe that he failed to rally from the loss of blood.

Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson was called, and an inquest will be held at the Victoria hospital.

The conductor of the car was W. Whitley.

CRITIC TEACHERS ARE INCREASED BY NINE

Inspector V. K. Greer Will Report on Changes at Session Thursday.

Inspector V. K. Greer will tomorrow report to the board of education at its regular monthly meeting the addition of nine public school teachers to the list of those doing model work on behalf of the London normal school.

The addition of nine teachers brings the list up to 101, and is divided among the schools as follows: Rectory, 5; Victoria, 5; Tecumseh, 3; Wortley road, 3; Simcoe street, 12.

The teachers just added to the list include five teachers at Rectory, one at Tecumseh, and three at Victoria school.

The increase in the number of "teachers in training" at the normal school during the past two years has resulted in practically doubling of the staff of critic teachers from 20 to 40.

The board of education receives from the provincial department of education an allowance of $50 per month for the maintenance of the normal school in this particular connection.

DELAWARE—Coolidge majority 15,000. Republicans gained a seat in the house and elected T. Coleman Davis to senate. Republican nominees for state offices elected.

RHODE ISLAND—Coolidge plurality more than 42,000. Republicans elected full slate of state officers. Re-elected two Republican and one Democratic congressmen and elected Senator Metcalf. Republican nominees increased majority in both houses state legislature.

MAINE—Coolidge majority more than 95,000. Nearly complete returns gave Coolidge, 136,399; Davis, 41,265; La Follette, 11,299.

VERMONT—Natal state of Coolidge gave him 4 to 1 majority, elected a Republican governor and two Republican congressmen.

ARKANSAS—Coolidge majority more than 40,000. Elected Senator Joe T. Robinson and two Democratic congressmen. Davis majority about 20,000.

INDIANA—Coolidge majority approaching 200,000. Ed Jackson, Republican, elected governor.

NEW HAMPSHIRE—Republican landslide gave Coolidge 37,322 plurality, increased Republican majorities in state legislature, regained governorship and a seat in the federal congress for the Republican party, and elected Henry W. Keyes, Republican, to the senate.

NEW YORK—Coolidge swept the state, gaining majority of 229,000, but Governor Al Smith, Democrat, won gubernatorial race by plurality of 113,000. Both branches of the state legislature will be controlled by Republicans.

PENNSYLVANIA—Recorded largest Republican plurality in the history of the state, Coolidge majority about 200,000. Returns indicated Republican victories in 34 of 36 congressional seats. All six seats formerly held by Democrats went to Republicans. Opposition was recorded to a proposal to revise the state constitution.

TEXAS—Democrats successful in all contests with exception of election in which a Republican congressman gained a seat. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was elected the first woman governor in the history of the United States. Davis majority 30,000.

KANSAS—Coolidge plurality over 130,000. All Republicans elected to state offices. For the Republican candidates for president and senate three Kentucky's electoral vote to a Republican for the second time in the state's history. Coolidge majority for the first time. Coolidge majority estimated at 20,000. All but three incumbent congressmen were re-elected.

NEW JERSEY—President Coolidge's majority of 24,124 led the ticket on which United States Senator Walter E. Edge was continued in office and party membership in the state congresses. Coolidge's majority increased from six to ten. Republican gains also were apparent in the membership of the house of assembly.

ILLINOIS—Coolidge swept the state by a vote which promised to come within a few thousands of the combined vote of the majority given President Harding in 1920. With him were whirled into office the Republican candidates for senate and governor. Coolidge's majority in Cook county (Chicago) Republican ticket.

OKLAHOMA—Followed the "solid south" vote on the Democratic ticket. Democrats lost a seat in the United States senate. Davis majority is estimated at 25,000, while plugging up a majority of 10,000 for W. W. F. Fine. Republican senatorial aspirant, over J. C. Walton, Democrat, former governor, who based his campaign upon an extensive tour of the state.

MASSACHUSETTS—A close race between Governor David I. Walsh, Democrat, and Speaker Frederick H. Gillett, of the national house of representatives, for senator was an outstanding feature of the election in Massachusetts today. The outcome was still uncertain today, with Gillett leading by 7,371 votes in the returns from 1,162 precincts out of 1,232 in the state. Coolidge carried his home state by a plurality of 10,000. There will be two women members in the state house of representatives, Mrs. Sylvia Donaldson, from the 10th Plymouth district, and Mrs. Harriet Russell Hart, in the 13th Essex district.

OHIO—Coolidge plurality is expected to exceed that attained by the late President Harding and may possibly reach the half-million mark. Governor A. V. Donahay, Democrat, had a majority of 50,000. The remainder of the Republican state ticket held substantial majorities.

MICHIGAN—The usual Republican majority was secured in the proposed amendment to the state constitution, which would have banished paroxysms, imposed a state tax on all demagogues in excess of $1,000, and re-appointed the state to give Wayne county (Detroit) a larger representation in the state legislature, were indicated early today by returns from yesterday's general election in Michigan. President Coolidge had rolled up a vote of 3 to 1 against the combined forces of Davis and La Follette.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Political observers concentrated attention on the names of the candidates for the conceded victory to President Coolidge, and virtually the entire Republican state ticket. Despite the steady growth in the plurality which Governor Charles H. McNary, showed in last night's reports, adherents of his Democratic opponent, U. S. Senator G. Cherry, maintained their man would carry the state by at least 5,000 plurality. The Republican easily re-elected Royal John-his property in the future.

NORTH DAKOTA—President Coolidge early today led his closest rival, Senator Robert M. La Follette, by 16,556 votes. Two congressmen, O. B. Burtness, Republican, and James H. Sinclair, Progressive, were conceded victory.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

And how was he to know that all the price she was thinking of was his own life, which she conceived would be forfeited if the assistance of the Silver Heron were invoked?

Before he could return her any answer his attention was diverted. A sudden threatening note had crept into the babble of the crew, and suddenly one or two voices were raised to demand insistently that Asad should put to sea at once and remove his vessel from a neighborhood becoming so dangerous. Now, the fault of this was Mazrak's. His was the voice that first had uttered this timid suggestion, and the infection of his panic had spread instantly through the corsair ranks.

Asad, drawn to the full of his own weight, turned upon them the eyes that had quelled greater clamors, and raised the voice which in its day had hurled a hundred men straight into the jaws of death without a protest.

"Silence!" he commanded. "I am your lord and need no counsellors save Allah. When I consider the time come, I will give the word to row, but not before. Back to your quarters, then, and peace!"

He disclaimed to argue with them, to show them what sound reasons there were for remaining in this secret cove and against putting forth into the open. Enough for them that such should be his will. Not for them to question his wisdom and his decisions.

But Asad-ed-Din had lain over-long in Algiers whilst his fleets under Sakr-el-Bahr and Biskane had scoured the inland sea. The men were no longer accustomed to the road of his voice, their confidence in his judgment was not built upon the sound basis of past experience. Never yet had he led into battle the men of his crew and brought them forth again in triumph and enriched by spoil.

So now they set their own judgment against his. To them it seemed a recklessness—as, indeed, Mazrak had suggested—to linger here, and his mere announcement of his purpose was far from sufficient to dispel their doubts.

The murmurs swelled not to be overcome by his fierce presence and scowling brow, and suddenly one of the renegade—secretly prompted by the wily Vigitello—raised a shout for the captain whom they knew and trusted:

"Sakr-el-Bahr! Sakr-el-Bahr! Thou! not leave us penned in this cove to perish like rats!"

It was as a spark to a train of powder. A score of voices instantly took up the cry; hands were flung out toward Sakr-el-Bahr, where he stood above them and in full view of all, leaning impassive and stern upon the poop-rail, whilst his agile mind weighed the opportunity thus thrust upon him, and considered what profit was to be extracted from it. Asad fell back a pace in his profound mortification. His face was livid, his eyes glared furiously, his hand flew to the jeweled hilt of his scimitar, yet forbore from drawing the blade. Instead, he let loose upon Mazrak the venom kindled in his soul by this evidence of how shrunken was his authority.

"Thou fool!" he snarled. "Look on thy craven's work. See what a devil thou hast raised with thy woman's counsel! Thou to command a galleyle! Thou to become a fighter upon the seas! I would that Allah had stricken me dead ere I beget me such a son as thou!"

Mazrak recoiled before the fury of words that he feared might be followed by yet worse. He dared make no answer, offer no excuse; in that moment he scarcely dared breathe.

Meanwhile Rosamund in her eagerness had advanced until she stood at Sakr-el-Bahr's elbow.

"What is helping us?" she said in a voice of fervent gratitude. "This is your opportunity. The men will obey you."

He looked at her, and smiled faintly upon her eagerness.

"Aye, mistress, they will obey me," he said.

But in the few moments that were sped he had taken his resolve. Whilst undoubtedly Asad was right, and the wise course was to lie close in this sheltering cove where the odds of their galleon's escape were heavily in their favor, yet the men's judgment was not altogether at fault. If they were to put to sea, they might by steering a westerly course pass similarly unperceived, and even should the splash of their oars reach the galleon beyond the headland, yet by the time she saw the anchor and started in pursuit it would be well away, straining every ounce of muscle at the oars, whilst the heavy factor in his considerations—was become so feeble that they could laugh at pursuit by a vessel that depended upon wind alone. The only danger, then, was the danger of the galleon's cannon, and that danger was none so great as from experience Sakr-el-Bahr well knew.

Thus was he reluctantly forced to the conclusion that in the main the wiser policy was to support Asad, and since he was full confident of the obedience of the men, he turned himself with the reflection that a moral victory might be in store for him out of which some surer profit might presently be made.

In answer, then, to those who still called upon him, he leaped down the gangway to the waist-deck to take his stand at the Basha's side. Asad watched his approach with angry misgivings; it was with him a foregone conclusion that things being as they were, Sakr-el-Bahr would be ranged against him to obtain complete control of these mutineers and to cull the fullest advantage from the situation. Softly and slowly he unsheathed his scimitar, and Sakr-el-Bahr, seeing this out of the corner of his eye, yet affected not to see, but stood forward to address the men.

"How now?" he thundered wrathfully. "What shall this mean? Are ye all deaf that ye have not heard the commands of your Basha, the exalted of Allah, that ye dare raise your voices and say what is your will?"

Sudden and utter silence followed that exhortation. Asad listened in relief, and amazement; Rosamund caught her breath in sheer dismay.

What could he mean, then? Had he but fooled and duped her? Were his intentions toward her the very opposite to his protestations? She leaned upon the poop-rail, straining to catch every syllable of that speech of his in the lingua franca, hoping almost that her indifferent knowledge of it had led her into error on the score of what he had said.

She saw him turn with a gesture of angry command upon Larocque, who stood there by the bulwarks, waiting.

"Back to thy post up yonder, and keep watch upon that vessel's movements. We stir not hence until such be our lord Asad's good pleasure. Away with thee!"

Larocque, without a murmur, threw a leg over the bulwarks and dropped to the oars, whence he clambered ashore as he had been bidden. And not a single voice was raised in protest.

Sakr-el-Bahr's dark glance swept the ranks of the corsairs crowding the forecastle.

"Because this pet of the harem," he said, imitating Mazrak's contemptuous gesture, "bleats of danger into the ears of men, are ye all to grow timid and foolish as a herd of sheep?" By Allah! What are ye? Are ye the feeble sea hawks that have flown with me, and struck where the talons of my grappling-hooks were flung, or are ye but scavenging crows?"

This Move Should Be Defeated.

London voters will be asked to record their verdict on the following question at the civic elections:

"Are you in favor of having the membership of the board of commissioners of police in cities increased by two additional members, to be elected by the municipal electorate?"

To this question the answer should be a decided and emphatic "NO."

There is no more need of five police commissioners in London than there is of twenty.

The idea of Mayor Wenige in the first place was to make the police commission entirely elective, taking a page from the American system where the whole business of municipal politics is run on a straight party ticket.

Failing to impress his views on the government, or to show any good reason for making the change, the next move is to accomplish the same purpose by another method. The commission of three now has one elected member, the mayor. Increase it to five by having two more elected members and you have three—a majority—elected, and the whole business is thrown into local politics.

Mayor Wenige admits himself that the London police department is well managed. That being the case leave it alone, and attend to places of which the same cannot be said.

London, or no other Canadian city, wants to put in the thin-edge American political methods in civic government. The Advertiser believes the move to elect two more members to the police commission should meet with the sharp rebuke it deserves.

Coolidge Again President.

At midnight it was conceded that President Coolidge was certain of re-election in United States. The states on which he had counted did even better than expected, and he made inroads on territory thought safe for the third party.

The campaign, from the standpoint of Canadians, has been a drab affair; there was no great outstanding issue before the people. The result means that there will be no change in tariff relations toward Canada; we still face a hostile trade wall to the south, and are likely to do so for some time.

The campaign put up by President Coolidge was unique in that he absented himself from the public platform with the exception of a few notable occasions, not more than five in number. During his term of office he impressed his stability of character on the people, and the belief grew that he was a safe man, and that is a big asset for any candidate to possess.

The Ryerson School Pageant.

Never in the history of Ryerson school has there been such a clamoring for admission as at the pageant on Monday evening, and never before has it been so abundantly demonstrated how a school auditorium can be made a real community center.

One wondered as the seasons passed in review how such an elaborate presentation of seasonal activities could be given by school children; how they could combine the qualities of finished performance and youthful simplicity, and yet eliminate entirely any suggestion of the child spoiled by public applause.

Even the critical observer would fail to detect many flaws, and he would find that the attention to detail more than balanced these. When Santa Claus called for the little tin soldier, out he came, resplendent in his red jacket and gun, walking as mechanically as any wind-up toy could ever hope to do. When the mama-doll was called she walked likewise, and when she bowed it was the mechanical "ma-ma" that spoke to the audience.

Although Miss Laura Cook had plenty of willing assistants in the work of planning and rehearsing, still it is in her own fertile and imaginative mind that the panorama of the year first took root and grew to the stage of realism. The Ryerson pageant shows, as few other events have done, what can be accomplished with child talent, and how truly a school can function as a community center without interfering with the regular work of the school year.

Let Our Laws Have Some Spine.

Another raid has been conducted in the "ward" at Toronto with the idea of making some of the people there understand that they are living in Canada, and that being the case they must abide by the laws of this country.

The officers found liquor and they found a fight as well. Looking around farther they discovered in a trunk belonging to Rocco Antonacci a fully loaded automatic and 100 cartridges. That automatic, loaded, and cuddling up close to 100 rounds of ammunition, was not there as an ornament, nor was it put in that trunk by mistake.

That deadly weapon was there because that law-breaking foreigner thought the time would come when he would have occasion to use it. He anticipated the hour when he would get by force what would be denied him by reason and right.

That is not the only automatic in Canada herded together with a flock of ammunition. If the law went in, took the owner of that gun by the neck, and confiscated the weapon, it should have the power and the common sense to multiply that action by a thousand or a hundred thousand if necessary.

There has been too much weak-kneed, wishy-washy humbug in the attitude of law and official dom toward the miserable and cowardly business of gun-toting.

Let the law of this country arise and assert itself. Have a determined drive against this damnable habit of allowing foreigners or Canadians to cart around with them an article that changes a healthy fist fight into a deliberate murder.

Power In the Old Book Yet.

Billy Sunday went to Elmira, N.Y., to conduct a six weeks' campaign. Whether one agrees with his methods or his manner of presentation or not, the fact remains that he blasts many people out of a rut that have never been moved by any other method.

In Elmira the American Railway Express Company and the government parcel post service have been baffled by a series of robberies for two years. The best brains of their detective departments have had to confess defeat because the robbers were too smart for them.

Yesterday morning a woman walked into the office of the chief of police and told the story of the whole string of robberies. It was not the result of the work of detectives determining a trail that ended at her door, for she had never been suspected; the chief of police had never seen her nor heard of her.

This woman had been at Billy Sunday's service, just one of 7,000 who crowded the great tabernacle built to hold the crowds. She heard the gymnastic preacher declare that "no person in whose heart reposes guilty knowledge need expect to make peace with God until confession is first made." That woman had the guilty knowledge of crime, and Billy Sunday's message stuck. She went home and fought the thing out all night; her conscience became an operating asset instead of a dormant liability. Early in the morning she went to police headquarters and cleared her mind and soul of the barrier that had been raised there, and which no one could take down but herself.

Those who are inclined to hold that the power of a fearless declaration of the word of God has lost its power should look squarely at this case. A blast of dynamite from the Old Book solved a mystery that had baffled dozens of detectives for years.

Stopping a Rumor.

Peterboro Examiner tells of a rumor that got a fairly good start in that city a few days ago. The report was that a teacher had asked pupils in her class to stand up if home brew were made in their homes. The facts were that two little pupils had volunteered the information in a lesson where the word "beer" had been used.

It was fortunate that the Peterboro rumor got run over as quickly as it did. The trouble with most of them is that they travel on high, all eight cylinders firing in order, and a great supply of gas in the tank. They have no tire trouble and there is seldom a speed cop to take the number.

If the Peterboro paper has definitely entered the field as an effective rumor stopper, it has set its hand to a great task, for there will always be bags piled up on the platform of the mill.

Note and Comment.

Winter sports are about ready to start, the first being the resumption of debates in the B. C. legislature.

With only 40 members to lead, there has been no great controversy yet over who is to lead the Liberal party in Britain.

Probably the greatest and most deliberate swindle in United States electoral history was leaving Andy Gump's name off the presidential ballot.

Britain is now seeking to find out if there were any truth in the Zinovieff letter from Russia. There was at least a tremendous election kick in it.

Answer to Buckshot: Safest way to hunt in the north—Get a map of the country, get gun, get shells, hire cook and guide, tell friends where you're going, practice loading gun, stay home.

Peter Smith has been sentenced to another three-year term, but it runs concurrently with the first sentence, so the only confusion will be that Peter may wonder at times which of these years he is living in.

Let's Sit Down

I've just been readin' of events, and chalkin' twenty of them down, of meetin's of this sort, and that what's takin' place inside our town, and as the list she grows in length I wrinkle up my ancient dome, and wonder if the folks round here has any time to stay to home.

I know one person on the list. I heard her stop the folks and say, as how she planned to spread herself at four affairs inside one day.

A chap I know and like quite well, I wanted to go to his hut, and sit a spell and talk about the boys what lived with old King Tut, and gossip of the things about, just pass a friendly hour or two, but I've give up that notion for he's always somethin' else to do.

He's chairman of this thing and that, a member of a dozen more, the folks can tell the time of day by him a-shuttin' up the door, for just as soon as he has fed and wiped the leavin's off his chin, the meetin' business starts to call, it never yields in vain for him.

He's got to plan to save the state, he's got to see a man what's sick, he's got to meet the voters here to help them frame a goodly kick.

He's got to meet a bunch of boys, these claims they holler and they screech, he's got to work three hours at night to make an after-dinner speech.

So maw she goes to somethin' else and dad he gallops on his way, a-leavin' all the kids at home to 'muse themselves as best they may.

No wonder folks go crazy now, no wonder they get old so soon, no wonder that they're puffin' hard before the years has reached their noon.

If I was runnin' this here land, I'd put a law upon the book, I'd write it in big print and black so folks could see at just one look. I'd take them agitator folks who's always plannin' meetings here, I'd send policemen after them, to put a ring into their ear. And then I'd hire a great big boat, I'd feed 'em on stale bread and cheese, and give that boat a healthy shove and steer her for the northern seas.—ARK.

DAILY SHORT STORY.

Don Peanut's fiery steed quivered, or was it shivered, as shrieks, or possibly howls, rent the atmosphere and sent a chill down the great Don Peanut's withbone.

"Harken!" the great Don Peanut observed, or it might have been remarked, to his faithful valet Carbolite. "Surely 'tis some fair or dark maiden, or maybe matron, in distress."

Carbolite harkened. The sounds sounded like the roar of a dying hummingbird, the shriek of a disappointed mud turtle and the howl of a maddened goldfish all in one, or possibly two.

"Pastorally work is either afoot or afoot," the great Don stuttered as he blew his nose, or klaxxon, in anger. "To horse!"

"Fither they rode and discovered themselves athwart, or was it astride, a cabin or caboose. The shrieks were even worse than they never were. Butting his sturdy nose against the door of solid asbestos, Don Peanut burst, and at the same time crashed, into the abode and raised his mangle to strike. Suddenly he discerned a man with a fanatical, or it may have been maniacal, expression on his face.

"The man, or was it woman, smiled. "Come on in, boys," he cried. "I've just got Chicago."

Dr. Frank Crane

HOLES IN THE BREAD.

Mr. I. K. Russell, member of the American chemical society, has written a book entitled, "The Romance of the Holes in the Bread."

He says that all our lives we have been accustomed, three times a day since we began to toddle, to see holes in the bread, and perhaps some of us have wondered what caused them. If we had known we might have been on a level with the greatest scientist in the world.

This scientist was named Louis Pasteur, who was called the father of modern medicine.

He was declared, in a voting contest in France, to be the greatest Frenchman who ever lived. Most of us would have voted for Napoleon.

Louis Pasteur noted that when heat was applied to dough and it passed above a certain point it broke up and changed in the nature of its particles.

He applied the function of the bake oven to other things in life.

There was cholera, which had swept over the cities of the middle ages every winter, taking thousands of victims. There was smallpox, which was almost universally prevalent, and typhoid fever, which swept in great epidemics the face of the country.

Besides these, there were certain fevers which, in maternity hospitals, carried off eighty women out of every hundred admitted.

Pasteur, when only a young man, asked that the doctors lend him their bandages and instruments, so that he might bake them or pass them through a flame to kill any germ particles on them. The doctors let him take the bandages and the sheets used by the nurses and the death rate dropped to twenty out of a hundred.

He demonstrated that the dough of bread contained yeast which ate away its starches and sugar and gave off carbon dioxide and alcohol.

From this he extended his studies to prevent wine from turning to vinegar, and to preserve some thirty or forty per cent of the beer which the brewers had been in the habit of throwing away as rotten, to cure the plague that had been ravaging among the silk worms, to prevent cholera among chickens, and anthrax among herds of beasts.

Pasteur tied all these instances of human, animate and inanimate experiences together and applied to them, one after another, his great discovery and thus protected humanity and the animals, in a measure, from their enemies among microscopic life.

JEWS MAY OBTAIN PLACE IN LEAGUE

Dr. S. Levine World-Renowned Zionist, Gives Address To Londoners.

Twofold was the message brought to the Jews of London last night by Schmurya Levine, Ph.D., world renowned Zionist, who addressed a meeting in the Horton street synagogue on behalf of the Keren-Haayesod, or Palestine foundation fund.

Dr. Levine asserted that if the Jewish nation wished to live money must be sent to Palestine to build up a homeland for the Jews, and, further, that if every Jew would give what he could to the Keren-Haayesod, no matter how little, within a few years' time the Jewish nation would be able to win recognition and representation in the councils of the League of Nations.

In declaring that Zionism is no longer merely a dream, but an actuality, S. J. Rodman, Montreal, director of the Young Judeans of Canada stated that the 20,000 Jews now in Palestine were worth more to the Jewish nation than the 17,000,000 Jews scattered throughout the whole world.

As a member of the actions committee of the world Zionist organization, Dr. Levine is touring Canada to place before the Jews what has already been accomplished by the movement, as well as what can be accomplished in the future, provided the necessary funds are forthcoming.

Dr. Levine told his audience last night in the midst of his address, delivered entirely in the Jewish language, that while five years ago Palestine was only a barren land, today improvements were being effected on every hand by the chaltuzim, Jewish pioneers of reclaimed Palestine.

In denying the statement that Palestine could not be rebuilt, Dr. Levine described his own home in Tel Aviv, a suburb of Jaffa, and said that he would not trade it for the home of the biggest millionaire anywhere.

Conditions Are Improving.
Dr. Levine testified to the greatly improved conditions under the British mandate, and pointed to the report of the progress made to the League of Nations by Sir Herbert Samuel as high commissioner of Palestine.

"The British government is convinced," remarked Dr. Levine, "that if there is to be a revival in the Near East it can only be effected by hard work and energetic effort on the part of the Jewish elements, which have applied all the modern ideas of the west and are transplanting them into Palestine for their own sake and for the sake of the future of their people."

In his address, delivered in English, which followed that of Dr. Levine, Mr. Rodman urged the invocation of Jewish will power, Jewish spirit and Jewish energy for the purpose of rebuilding Palestine at greater tempo. "Palestine is being rebuilt by the chaltuzim, our pioneers," continued Mr. Rodman. "The Balfour declaration gave Palestine to the Jews as a national homeland, and Palestine is being rebuilt for the Jewish nation, being rebuilt for the Jewish nation."

"There is a clear understanding between the British government and the heads of the Zionist movement that the states of Palestine shall be open to the Jews as long as the Zionist organization can provide employment for them after they arrive in the country. But to find employment, to buy land, settle Jews on it and to develop the country economically and industrially, the Zionist organization is in need of funds and hence the appeal to Jews throughout the world.

"You are not giving to unfortunate Jews or war refugees," concluded Mr. Rodman, "you are giving for yourselves and for the generations of Jews yet unborn."

To the Editor

Not Fair Method.

Londoner Says Statement By Dr. Green Should Have Been Taken As He Meant It.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—I notice in the Free Press a statement against Rev. Dr. Bowley Green by the members of St. George's order, who seem to have taken offence at a statement made by Dr. Green in his sermon on Sunday night, in which he referred to a certain class of Englishmen.

I am English and a returned soldier, and as such I believe in British fair play. If the gentlemen responsible for the statements in the paper were fair they would not try to misinterpret what Dr. Green said. If Mr. Green is a good Englishman he would have printed the whole statement and not part of it, trying to leave an impression on the people of London that Dr. Green is seeking to put all Englishmen on the same level, which is not true. He was referring to a certain class which had come under his own personal knowledge.

Dr. Green needs not to make any apology, but the apology should be made to Dr. Green for the way in which some have tried to undermine what Dr. Green said.

Yours very truly,
A. FIELDS.

OTTAWA AWAITS WORD OF TRADE PACT MOVE

Has Received No Official Notice That Australia Will End Treaty.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—No official word has been received here of a movement in Australia to end the Canada-Australia trade treaty. When the treaty was first mooted, there was considerable opposition to it, but after considerable delay it was finally negotiated. As the matter stands, Canada is merely awaiting word from Australia when the treaty is to be given effect. Preferential tariff rates and the additional preference on dried raisins and currants which Canada is to give under the treaty, can be brought into effect by an order being passed under existing legislation.

Abrogation of the treaty at its present stage would create much disappointment in official circles here.

CANADA PREFERRED BY EMIGRANTS, CLAIM

Gen. Bramwell Booth Declares Land of the Maple Leaf Most Attractive.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 4.—Canada stands out among the dominions as the most attractive to the British emigrant, in the opinion of General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, who has just returned to London on the conclusion of a tour of Canada. The exchange from the miseries of unemployment or precarious employment in this country to a condition of having enough and some to spare, he said, was indeed a happy change. He confirmed the view which he expressed some time ago that of all the parts of the British Empire open to emigrants of the old land Canada was the most promising to the new comer.

The general added that he was quite satisfied with his trip to the dominion, and that the Salvation Army was forging ahead from coast to coast.

WAHABIS FORCES PLAN TO RENEW OFFENSIVE

Warfare Around Jeddah Expected To Be Resumed in Few Days.

Associated Press Despatch.

Jerusalem, Nov. 4.—Warfare between the Wahabis and King Ali, of the Hedjaz, is expected to be resumed in the next few days around Jeddah, according to advices from the Red Sea port. The Wahabis forces are said to be preparing for a new offensive, and King Ali is reorganizing his army and receiving reinforcements through Akkaba. It is stated that he will defend the city against the Wahabis.

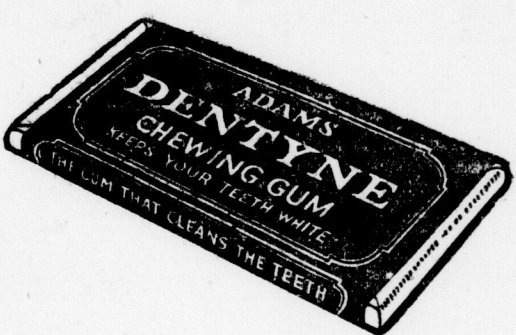

John Philips, British political advisor to the Trans-Jordanian government, who left London on a secret mission three weeks ago, has arrived in Jeddah, according to information received here. It is stated that the purpose of his mission is to start peace negotiations between Ibn Saud, leader of the Wahabis, and King Ali.

COOLIDGE VICTORY AIDS WALL STREET

Stock Prices Advance, and the Volume of Trading Exceeding 600,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 5.—Wall Street's first reaction to the presidential election returns was a sharp uptick in stock prices on an unusually heavy volume of trading. Total sales in the first fifteen minutes exceeded 100,000 shares, with approximately a score of issues selling a point or more above Monday's closing quotations.

Large buying orders which had been withheld until pre-election uncertainties poured into the market from all sections of the country soon after the opening gong sounded. Individual sales of 1,000 shares or more were quite common. The advance, however, was an orderly one, the only outstanding gains being in Woolworth, which moved up 2 1/2, and Missouri Pacific preferred, which climbed 1 1/2, indicating to many traders that the election of President Coolidge had been discounted by the advance in prices this fall.

Railroad shares, trading in which had been restrained by the advance in prices, came to the fore, Atlantic Coast Line and Missouri Pacific leading the way. The latter advanced 1 1/2, while the former came to the fore, Atlantic Coast Line and Missouri Pacific leading the way. The latter advanced 1 1/2, while the former came to the fore, Atlantic Coast Line and Missouri Pacific leading the way.

The foreign exchange market opened quiet and steady with sterling showing a slight gain.

RAILWAY ISSUES STRONGER TODAY

Industrials Also Make Good Recovery on New York Exchange.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Nov. 5.—Railway shares showed impressive strength throughout the morning, with the volume of trading following the first wave of profit-taking. Election results stimulated the buying of all classes of stocks. Jersey Central 4 1/2, and Union Pacific 3 1/2, while nearly a score of other rails moved up 1 to 3 points, many at new highs. Total sales in the first hour exceeded 400,000 shares, but the volume of trading naturally receded in the second hour. Call money renewed at 2 1/2 per cent.

SIR ADAM'S PRIVATE STABLE WAS AIDED BY HYDRO FUNDS SETTELL CHARGES IN PROBE

Chairman's Former Secretary Says Roy Beck Toured On Board Money.

SELECTED HORSES

London Street Railway, L. and
P. S. Ry. and McClarys
Also Involved.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 4.—That Roy Beck, while an employee of the hydro commission, toured the country at hydro expense, selecting horses for Sir Adam's private stable, was one of the several sensational charges made yesterday by E. Clarence Settell at Judge Snider's probe into alleged hydro irregularities.

Settell, a former secretary to Sir Adam, was brought from jail to testify at the investigation. He is awaiting trial on a charge of fraudulently cashing a check for $25,000, belonging to the commission.

The London Street Railway, the London and Port Stanley Railway and the McClary Manufacturing Company of London, are all involved in the Settell charges.

The prisoner declared the hydro officials had been paid by the hydro for looking over the plant of the L.
S. R. during arbitration proceedings.
He also claimed that large sums of money were paid by the commission in respect to the early electrifi-cation of the Port Stanley line.

Enlarging on his charge that contracts had been let to the highest bidder, Settell declared that contracts for signs on the right-of-way were given the McClary firm in 1911, though it was the highest bidder.
An interesting feature of Tuesday's proceedings was Settell's explanation of how he had come to keep tabs in his diary of the alleged misdeeds, dating fifteen years back.

Settell stated, in answer to questions by Hon. I. R. Lucan, through W. S. Brewster, K.C., that his original purpose in keeping a diary of alleged wrongdoings on the part of former Chief Engineer Sotham was that he had been able to help Sir Adam Beck in the event of serious disagreement between the two which Settell said he then foresaw. Later, he said, in reply to Judge Snider, the continuation of the diary down to recent times after the dismissal of Sotham had merely become a habit.

Sotham-Beck Jealousy.
"When I first came to the commission," Settell said today, "P. W.
Sotham was chief engineer. There had always been a little underground jealousy between Sotham and the chairman. A certain individual was making notes of Bell Telephone Company accounts paid by the commission, in which probably there may have been some personal calls for Sir Adam. This man made notes and Sotham picked them out. They were picked out, what they presumed would be personal charges against Sir Adam Beck to provide ammunition for Sotham in case of a break which was liable to come—ammunition to hold up against the chairman."
The commission resumes sittings tomorrow.

Although announcement was forthcoming today from Queen's Park of a reduction from the original $30,000 to $15,000 in the bail bond for Settell, it was understood at the Settell investigation that bail will not be sought.

Letter Written in Haste.
E. C. Settell again took the stand when the inquiry resumed this afternoon. Speaking on his behalf, J.
B. Cartwright, his counsel, stated that the letter on which the charges were based was written in haste and when he was in a disordered state of mind.

"Settell does not think at present he can be very much help to the inquiry until he refreshes his memory with reference to his notes," he stated.

"I think he should go as far as he can now," stated Judge Snider.

Dealing with the charge made by Settell that there was evidence of greed on the part of hydro employees, Settell expressed the opinion that the whole inquiry would show that.

Dealing with the charge made by him that $1,500 was paid to one W. M.
Whitehead of Hamilton to get a by-law passed there, and the amount was paid through A. F. Lobb, Settell stated that he was a "political worker."

"Such payments would have to be made by the chairman," said Settell.
Mr. Brewster—What makes you sure the chairman paid the money over?

Settell—No one else would have authority.
Judge Snider—Whitehead was not

Toll On Highway Causes Trouble

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Nov. 4.—Magistrate Woodrow found Dan Tyrrell of Dawn township guilty of a charge of evading payment of toll on the Plank road on October 12, and imposed a fine of $3 with costs, $2, in the county police court today.

engaged in laying right-of-way?

Settell—No.
Judge Snider stated that this charge of Settell's was based solely on his suspicions.

The charge of Settell that McClary & Company of London received the contract for the erection of signs on hydro right-of-way in spite of the fact they were the highest bidder, was made by him on the basis of a note he had made at the time the contract was let.

Mr. Brewster—Why did you make a note of it?

Suspected Something Wrong.
"I thought there was something wrong about it," replied Settell. He stated he would look up his notes and refresh his memory on the point.

Mr. Lucas—What was the reason for keeping these notes?

"When I came to the commission
I found that there was jealousy between Sotham and Sir Adam Beck," stated Settell. "One was getting all the limelight. I saw that a certain individual was checking up on Sir Adam and telling Sotham of private communications of Sir Adam's."

When I saw that I started to take a few notes myself to protect Sir Adam. That is how it started. As Sotham was checking up on Sir Adam, I was checking up on Sotham. I got weaker, and another man got stronger, and as he got stronger I got weaker, and I kept on taking notes.

Later Sir Adam called me in to his office and asked me if I had anything on Sotham. I said I had and in half an hour he was out of the building."

Mr. Lucas—Did you keep these notes to "frame" Sir Adam Beck?

Settell—No, I kept them because I got the habit.

Dealing with the charge that Roy Beck, while an employee of the commission, had toured the country at hydro expense, selecting horses for Sir Adam's private stable, Settell stated that he had done this to his knowledge for five weeks on one occasion.

Mr. Lucas—How does he know all that?

Settell—Roy Beck told me.
Officials of the hydro had been paid by the hydro for looking over the plant of the London street railway during the arbitration proceedings.

Mr. Brewster—On what grounds do you make these charges?

Settell—Chiefly suspicion, but I think the expense vouchers will bear me out.

Detectives Were Paid, Too.
Explaining his charge that an amount of money was charged to radial purposes when it was really payment to a detective agency for watching Home Smith's house, Settell produced his personal notes on the subject, and the detective's report on the vigil kept outside the house, the report giving details of several visitors to the house.

Mr. Brewster—Why was it charged to one of the radials?

Settell—I guess they were ashamed of their actions.

DEEPENING OF PIKE STREAM IS LIKELY

Twenty-Five Farmers Sign
Dingman's Creek Petition
—Floods Fams.

A petition signed by 25 farmers whose farms adjoin Dingman's creek, asking that the stream be cleaned out, received favorable consideration by the Westminster township council yesterday afternoon, and the old creek "where the big pike swim" will be deeper than ever next spring.

The farmers, headed by William Wood of White Oak, stated that there was so much rubbish in the creek at the present time that their lands were flooded after every big storm. The work will be done under the drainage act.

No action was taken on the appeal of Andrew Elliott regarding the McNevin drain east of Pond Mills on the second concession, despite the arguments of Mr. Elliott that the drain was not in the proper place.

The report of the township engineer, Fred Bell, on the Thornton creek, was accepted and a court of appeal was set for November 25.

The reeve and Deputy Reeve William Boler were appointed to attend the gathering of the Western Ontario united boards of trade, to be held next week.

THREE BUILDINGS LOST IN WESTMINSTER FIRE

Barn, Driveshed and Granary
On Farm of A. Norton Destroyed.

One of the oldest barns in Westminster township was destroyed by fire last night shortly after 11 o'clock.
A driveshed and granary were also prey to the flames.

The barn, which is on the old Teple homestead on the seventh concession, west of the Lambeth highway, was owned by Austin Norton. The house on the property is leased by County Constable Philip Lawson.

Three pigs were in the barn at the time of the fire, and two of these were burned to death.

The barn was one of the landmarks of the township. Mr. Teple, who formerly lived on the farm, and who had the barn built, said that it cost him seventeen cords of wood for the labor employed in the building of the barn.

Mr. Lawson stated that he had gone to bed shortly before 11 o'clock, and that everything around the place seemed all right at that time.

Hundreds of people from London witnessed the fire. It is not known whether the loss was covered by insurance or not.

$1,000 Is Lost By Argonauts

Big Reward Offered For Return of Ticket Money.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Nov. 4.—Argonauts may have got some favorable breaks in the last few minutes against Hamilton here on Saturday, but the club was handed a heavy blow today when it became known that one of the officials who had collected the money paid for tickets in the downtown offices, had lost an envelope containing $1,000 in ten and twenty dollar bills.

If the money is not found the Argos club will receive a staggering blow, but the officials believe that the finder will return it, and they offered a big reward for its recovery.

Since that time Florida has become perhaps the most alluring winter re-
