Engineers Complimented or Fine Work Done at Activated Sludge Plant.

River clean-up proposals and possible extensions to sewage disposal plants in the near future have directed attention to London's present sanitation plant. The Advertiser in this article gives some idea of the city's disposal equipment.

London has sewers and sewage disposal equipment valued at more than a million and a half dollars, and the city hasn't stopped spend ing. Year by year equipment in various districts becomes inadequate old methods are discarded, exten sions are needed and repairs are made. The penalty of progress must be paid. During the past 15 years the corporation has expended at least $1,343,882 for sewers. Much of that money was spent when con-struction costs were low and equip-ment is worth more today than when was constructed

A survey this week of the city's sewer equipment shows London to sanitation work. There are more than 100 miles of lateral sewers and 17 or 18 miles of trunk sewers.

Pollution of the river today draws different opinions from different authorities. A prominent engineer wrote a short time ago: "One would scarcely recognize the dirty stream of 10 years ago in the Thames today." On Tuesday of this week the body of a dead cat, incased in a cloth sack, floated in the river near Egerton street bridge. The carcass was covered with maggots. The condition has been duplicated in many places along the river. People still resort to the popular old method of getting rid of excess litters of backyard mongrels.

Dead fish are thrown into the river from time to time. The mayor reports this practice at the Coves. The medical officer of health tells of instances at the Forks. The smell of dead fish is not describable. There is pollution of the waters of the Thames. The cause cannot be named by any authority in a single sentence. The whole remedy

Taking in the Western Crop.

The harvest in the Canadian west will need east. 50,000 workers from the east, at least that is the present estimate. The west can attend to the work the rest of the year, but when harvest time comes it is swamped.

In order to get the best results from this western excursion there should be an appreciation of what it means, both on the part of the the commercial transaction involved. It is the western farmers and those who go there from the east. Some years ago harvest excursions attracted many farmers from Ontario who wanted to go and see if that were the land for their own future operations. That provided the finest harvest help the west ever had. The drawing power.

from Ontario to the west has practically ceased. would be the last thing the St. Davids woman That means that the men who go now to help take in the western harvest are not as experienced as formerly; many of them have never been farm hands at all. Certainly if there are to be 50,000 go west this fall, a large percentage will be green hands.

to take what he can get, particularly if he is no training in the use of firearms, but was , some distance removed from the main lines, and the railroads should see to it that travel is made just as cheap as possible once the helper has arrived at the central points.

This business of taking 50,000 men west for as she did. temporary employment is a big undertaking, and those who go should understand that they are not off on any fall picnic. It is a serious time for the western farmer; very often he finds good name for himself in the world war, saved himself working against the time when froat the life of Helen Covert from the waters of Lake is liable to occur. Unbasis they might better stay where they are.

Vacation Time.

The vacation season is on all right, the time of year when wives who are having a gay time at some summer resort write postcards to husbands telling how they are counting the days until they can come along. Likewise husbands pen similar lines after coming in around three in the morning giving vent to similar views.

One Toronto man found himself in the women's court. His wife was away, so he gave a party to his friends and it grew so hilarious that the police were called in. The court heard the explanations of the husband and some of the guests, and made the assessments accordingly, but the real time of explanation, we imagine will come a little later on.

When Sir John's Desk Was Sold.

A font used for the christening of some of years was disposed of at a sale in England for a to the fire department and had it put out. fairly good sum, much in advance of the value of the article, and the proceeds went to charity.

The difference between the selling price and the actual value was made up of sentiment. Sales based on this point are not unusual in England. They seem caught up in the wake of a long tradition and the movement is so strong that it can actually attach itself to the pursestrings of the country.

In contrast to this a sale that took place in Canada twenty-five years ago this month showed that at that time at least sentiment had not become established on the basis it occupies in England. The sale to which we refer took place when Lady Macdonald decided to dispose of all the personal property of her late husband, Sir the time thought the occasion worthy of an editorial written in a manner not altogether complimentary of the idea of putting such material under the auctioneer's hammer. In part the Tribune said:

"The sale was a pitiful one in the respect that even the most cherished and familiar belongings of Sir John's, things that one would were put up at public auction and went for a mere song. There was, for instance, the shabby, time-worn writing desk at which Sir John had for about $25, while his complete outfit as chief she learned quite a bit by being in hospital. of a great Indian tribe went for $10. Valuable pictures, some of them gifts, others of his own choosing, went for a mere nothing, and a Japanese umbrella, presented to Sir John by Lord Wolseley, went for $1.50."

There was a decided lack of sentiment in allowing such relics to go under the hammer in the first place, and the same thing was evident in the prices they brought. It is not a wild guess that were that sale held today there would be a decided change, for Sir John, like all men who did a big life's work, grows greater in public esteem as he gets his proper setting in our national history.

Keeping Batch

Ned Whiskers stayed to home last night to fling the rubbish from his shack, because he was suspectin' how his wife might be a-comin' back.

I met Ned Whiskers yesterday and stopped to talk with him a while, for he was frozen in the face, he couldn't raise a sickly smile. I noticed for some days gone past no folks around Ned's place at all, it looked as quiet and barren there as when the trees get stripped in fall.

So Ned was tellin' how the folks had gone to visit Timbuctoo, and he was keepin' house himself and doin' the best that he could do Sometimes he'd get a meal alone, he'd do this once most every day, but he gets off his oats, he says, when he is feedin' on this

Last night Ned said how he stayed home to tidy up the humble shack, for he had word as how his wife and all the kids was comin' back.

"She'd throw a fit," says Ned to me, "if she could walk in there today, and see the stone-age way I live when all the folks has gone away. Some men seem handy in the house and know just how all things should be, but I ain't arguin' the point for that class don't refer to me.

"There's egg shells in the kitchen sink, there's crusts of bread upon the floor, there's so much truck upon the shelf that I can't pile it there no more. There's butter on four dishes now, there's tea leaves piled upon a plate, and if my wife had seen the mess she'd chant a mighty hymn of hate.

"Within a month I made my bed just twice I can remember now, it looks as though it had been used for beddin' down a brindle cow. There's dust upon the stairs I know, there's more of it upon the floor, there's lots upon the picture frame, and cobwebs on the parlor door.

"So that's why I am home tonight to do my housework in a chunk, to heave the rubbish from the floor and straighten out my slumber bunk.

"At least I'll have a place to eat and room cleaned off for them to sit, but if she'd see that hut tonight my wife would well nigh

Saginaw, July 15.—Bill Coogan scattered Saginaw's 11 hits nicely today and won a pitching battle from "Lefty" Jacobs 3 to 1. London bunched two hits in each of the first three innings for a run in each. After that Jacobs are only two scratch hits.

Sandquist opened the game with a riple to the scoreboard. Baker and Stimpson hit right back at Jacobs, but Cross walked, and Brower's hit over Foster's head scored Sandquist.

Vermilyea led off in the second with hit to left, that Kerr could not reach. Baker's double scored him after two were out. Cross got a double, when his hit popped over Kerr's head in the hird. Klein singled him home.

London was never threatened after that. Saginaw put men on first and third in the first frame, when Nunamaker hit into a double play. Beumel fipled to right centre in the second with two out, but got no help.

Beumel doubled, with one out in the seventh, and counted on Jacob's single Kerr followed with a hit, but Foster forced him. In the ninth, Beumel's second double and Jacob's single gave the Aces the opportunity to tie if up, but the needed hit was not forthcoming.

Toronto, July 15—The match between the team representing Southwestern Ontario and the Toronto cricket team were tied after two full innings had been played today, the second day of the Toronto cricket week. As a rule there is not sufficient time to complete two innings in one day. However, Toronto was all out in the first inning with $2, and the visitors replied with 52. In the second inning Toronto's last man was out when the score was 58. The visitors needed $3 runs to win, and when R. Jeffery (Ontario hospital), scored 33 runs the prospects looked bright. The ninth wicket fell at 77. Boydon and Blake were the last pair, and Boydon was out when the score was $8.

ball game at Tecumseh park yesterday afternoon to the scrapping Stratford clan 8 to 7, but in doing so gave the Bards a life as far as getting into the play-off with St. Thomas.

The Bards jumped into the game all set to get back at the locals for stinging them on their home lot. At first things looked hopeless for the visitors due to five husky swats off Marks' offerings in the first inning that brought in an equal number of runs and gave Hank Down a big leeway to work on. However, the big boy didn't seem to see the situation in the same light, and as a result the Bards had fourteen safeties to their credit after the mixup.

Three of the fourteen hits gave them two runs in the second frame, three more, coupled with a miscue, brought a pair across in the fourth and then they passed the locals in the seventh with a trio of counters shoved ac with three bingoes and two passes. The game was further sewed up in the next frame, two hits bringing in a run.

The locals batted all the way around in the first inning. Nolan, who did the receiving duties since Isaacs hurt his knee in the game in Stratford last Saturday, drew a walk. Armstrong's choice caught him at second, and Reilly sent Armstrong to third on a hit to right. Doherty brought them both in with a single to centre and came galloping home himself on Baker's triple to the signs in left field. home himself on Baker's triple to signs in left field. Another run came in in the fifth when Reilly scratched a hit off Marks' glove, went to third on Doherty's lazy fly, and came in on Baker's smash to

With two oue in the final frame the locals made an energetic attempt at a rally, but stopped short after one lone run was tallied. Armstrong got his first real hit of the game, a triple between centre and left and came in on Reilly's single to right. "Toots" Doherty came up with the tying run on the paths, but the best he could do was ground out to second.

FUND. DWINDLES

The first soccer final this season will be played on Saturday at the Sackville street grounds, when the Caleys and C. N. R.'s (the latter the present holders), will meet and decide who shall have possession of the Thomas Furniture trophy for this season. This handsome trophy is played for each year to secure fund. for injured players and this game should be the best patronized of the soccer season. The players, who try to give the fans good exhibitions of football all season and play for the love of the game, deserve full support from every person interested in soccer, as accidents occur and this season is no exception as already two players this season have been unfor tunate enough to get a leg broker and the fund will be severely taxed The teams competing this season the Does the shape of the head of the caleys and Railroaders, are everly matched and both are confident they will win Saturday's encounter. New York, July 16.—After the initial New York, July 16.—After the initial display of strength the market quieted down, although brisk rallies took place in several high-priced issues. United States Cast Iron Pipe spurted up six points, and Havana Electric extended its early gain to 5% points. Price movement of several specialities reflected a hasty retreat of shorts. Activity in the rail shares was restrained by the reported decision of the western carriers to modify their demands for a rate increase from 11 to 5 per cent.

Call money renewed at 3% per cent. Buying of the general list again assumed larger proportions when the steel group began to move up in a spurited fashion. Considerable activity and substantially higher prices prevailed for Cents on the Local Market.

Toronto, July 15.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:
Industry is keeping its stride through midsummer, in spite of the checks imposed by mid-year inventories, adjustments and holidays. New elements in the business situation make it likely that the third quarter will be both active and profitable for those who take advantage of the situation.

The metal-working trades and supply houses believe the improvement indicated in several of the basic industries of the Dominion, notably that of agriculture, will soon react to their benefit. Prominent Scientists Doubts Value of British Parasite Discovery.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, July 15.—"Information from England to the effect that the cause of cancer has been found in an ultra-miscroscopic germ should lead no one to suppose that the methods for dealing with the disease hitherto developed by the scient.fic world are about to be superseded," declared Dr. George A. Soper, managing director of the American so-ciety for the control of cancer, today. "There is no reason whatever to relinquish the vigilance in seeking to discover cases of cancer in their earliest stages and in delaying the radical treatment by surgery and

Chicago, July 15. - A woman cientist, working alone at the University of Chicago in a house full of mice, has recently made important discoveries about cancer which now re emphasized by the announced indings by two British scientists of the cancer germ.

Miss Maud Slye, through her research with the hundreds and hundreds of mice by which she has been surrounded in her daily work for years, has now established beyond dispute, so scientific authorities say, that the tendency to produce cancer is hereditary. This discovery, presented by Miss Slye to the American Medical society, has been accepted as one of the very few tangible facts about this dreaded disease.
