back as quickly as the wind and tide will bring you."

Nora rose, put on a thick, short pea-jacket, and her red worsted cap, thrust the packet of cakes in her wide pocket, and moved to the door.

"No; there will not be much wind, I think," she said, in the dreamy, absent way which had become habitual with her of late. She stood, appeared to linger, and the elder woman's voice saying, sharply, "Why don't you go, Nora?" seemed to rouse her.

She turned and approached the table where Mrs. Trevanion was washing up the tea things.

"Good-bye, aunt," she said, with downcast eyes, her fingers drumming softly on the table edge.

"Good-bye," said the elder woman, coldly; but still Nora stood, and seemed to wait; then she lifted her face, pale with a strange light—a wistful, thirsty light in her eyes.

"Won't you kiss me, aunt?" she said, in a low, clear voice.

Mrs. Trevanion colored a dusky red, and an expression of displeasure and surprise shone in her face. Nora had never in all her life asked for a caress. What had come to her?

The elder woman bent over the table and let her lips touch the pure white forehead with a kiss as cold as ice—as cold as charity.

Nora drew back repulsed, repelled, paused a moment, with her eyes on the cold, hard face; then, with another "Good-bye, aunt," turned and left the cottage.

She had asked for love and her aunt had given her a stone. She knew what a kiss should be. Was not Vane Tempest's burning on her lips even now?

She went with firm step down the rocky way, and launching the boat, sprung in, set the sail, and steered for Trelorne. It was only a short run, with the tide and the little wind there was in her favor.

She sat, her arm round the tiller, as she had sat that day—that never-to-be-forgotten day—she and he had sailed together.

How long ago was it? Years? Had it ever happened? Going to Australia, never to come back!

As she leaned back and steered the boat, with a skill and knowledge as unerring as that of any seaman's on the coast, and thought of every little, tiny incident on that never-to-be-forgotten day, her aunt's words rang in her ears, her heart. Never to come back! She would never see him—never—for all her life!

Her face grew paler, her heart throbbled and ached.

True, it was extremely improbable even if she remained at the Witches' Caidron, that she should see him again; but while she was in England, there was still a chance—a wild chance; but with the seas between them—with, perhaps, thousands of miles to separate them—

She could not go on thinking of it. With a shudder, she pressed her hand to her eyes and drove the thought back from her. But it would come again and again; and it so absorbed her that she failed for a time to notice that the wind was changing and that the sea was running higher.

Presently these facts were forced upon her notice by the flapping of the sails and the dash of spray above the gunwale. She put the boat on the tack, and so had to go out of her course. The evening was growing chilly. She drew out her suit of oilskins and put it on, and lay down at the bottom of the boat, still, of course, keeping her hand on the tiller. The wind got higher, a sea came on—one of those groundswells which make this one of the deadliest coasts in England.

As she watched the clouds driving swiftly across the sky in heavy banks, the thought floated into her mind, that half a turn of the helm, with the sail-sheet tight, and there would be an end of the torture, the strange torture that burned in her heart, the awful longing to see him again, to hear his voice! At the thought her hand moved half unconsciously; the boat swayed; yes, she could overturn it easily enough.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Haven't I always done so?"

"No," said Mrs. Trevanion, grimly; "not so much as you have done lately. And you seem to be in the clouds or in a dream all the time. I can't think what has come to you, or why you should behave as you do—or what you can be always thinking of," she added.

The pupils of the lovely eyes contracted, as if their owner had suffered a sharp pain.

"I think of nothing," she said, in a low voice, "I don't know what you mean. Do I not do all you want me?"

"Oh, yes, yes!" assented the elder woman, coldly. "You do what there is to be done, as you always did, and you do it willingly enough, but—she seemed to find it difficult to define the short-coming, and paused as she went and lifted the boiling kettle from the hook and made the tea—"but I don't want to complain. I know your life is hard enough. It is not my fault."

"Whose is it?" said Nora, not angrily, but so suddenly and gravely that the elder woman started slightly.

"Not yours nor mine," she said. "Why do you ask? What is it you want to know, child?"

Nora looked beyond her rather than at her.

"Am I a child?" she asked, with the same kind of gravity, as if she were simply desirous of information—as if the question had only lately arisen within her own bosom.

Mrs. Trevanion peered at her with cold scrutiny and an embarrassment she concealed.

"You ask strange questions, Nora. What has come to you? You are not a child in the ordinary sense, but in others—you are different."

"Why am I different?" demanded Nora. "Why can't I read and write? He said that other girls as old as I am could do so. He said—"

She stopped short, and a faint color came into her face, but her eyes did not droop. She forced them to continue looking over Mrs. Trevanion's head.

Mrs. Trevanion turned and looked at her.

"He? Who?" she asked. "Do you mean Mr. Vane Tempest?"

"Yes," said Nora.

"What else did he say to you?" asked the elder woman, after a pause, during which Nora had turned her eyes to the fire.

She did not answer the question.

"Was it he who taught you to be dissatisfied—to ask questions?" demanded Mrs. Trevanion.

Nora shook her head and rose.

"No," she said; "he said nothing. Why should he? I was nothing—as nothing—to him. He has forgotten me by this time."

She did not speak with bitterness; the words fell softly enough from her lips.

"Of course he has. Why shouldn't he?" said Mrs. Trevanion, sharply. "He is a gentleman as far removed—as different from us—as as Lady Isle from London town. I thought perhaps he had been putting some folly into your head—"

She looked keenly at the lovely face, but it did not flush. "But no; he is too true a gentleman for that," she broke off, almost to herself.

There was a moment or two of silence, then she said aloud:

"I fetched you in now, Nora, because I want you to do something. The tide turns in half an hour, doesn't it?"

Nora glanced at the clock on the shelf, and nodded.

"I want you to go to Trelorne," resumed the elder woman.

Nora looked up from her cup. "To Trelorne! Not to the schooner?" she said, in a low voice.

The elder woman shook her head. "No," she said, gloomily; "I doubt whether we shall ever be able to meet the schooner again. The meek sharp lookout day and night I've had warning this afternoon that the schooner is being closely watched by a government cutter. Nora, our business, trade—call it what you will—is at an end."

She spoke firmly, with all a man's decision. "We must begin the world again—find a new life. I have resolved to leave here."

"Leave here?"

Nora repeated the words with bated breath.

"Yes, I think—I am not quite sure—that we will go abroad—to Australia."

"Australia?" The sweet red lips formed the word. "That is far from—London, isn't it?" she asked, as if unwittingly.

Mrs. Trevanion looked at her with faint, cold surprise.

"Of course it is," she said. "But I have not quite decided."

"If we go, when shall we come back?" asked Nora, her eyes fixed on the fire. They had grown darker, deeper, as she grasped the significance of her aunt's words.

"Come back?" echoed the elder woman. "Never."

The expressive eyes grew black.

"Never?" she breathed.

"Yes. Why should you want to come back? Have you been so happy here? Well, I suppose you have been happy enough; you have had no past to brood over—"

She picked herself up short, and went on in a different—a more business-like way. "I want you to go to the landlord of the inn and give him a small parcel. You will get there quickly enough on the rising tide, and come back by the fall; there will be moon enough."

"The moon doesn't matter," said Nora, calmly.

"No. There is just enough wind, and the weather bids fair. You will take care of the parcel. It is money."

Nora nodded indifferently.

The elder woman stood over the fire and looked broodingly into it.

"Yes, money. It is half the money I have saved; half the money we have saved. The man who gave me warning that the cutter was watching me that the revenue men might pay us another visit any moment, and that any money we might have would not be safe, I'd have risked it if it all belonged to me, but half is yours."

"Mine?" She spoke the word with faint surprise.

"Yes," said the elder woman, coldly. "Yours—by right of having worked for it. It is not a large sum." She drew a small parcel wrapped in sail canvas from a corner of the chimney and laid it on the table, keeping her hand on it. "I will keep mine here hidden in the old place, but I will not risk yours any longer. Take it to Penhorely, the landlord of the inn, and give it to him. There is a note inside telling him to put it in the bank. He is an honest man, and I can trust him. When we start for Australia, we can draw this money out of the bank. It will be safe there till then; and if anything happens to my share—well, it will be mine that will be gone, not yours."

"This is really mine?" murmured Nora, as she took the parcel and tied it in the bosom of her dress.

"I tell you so," responded the elder woman, coldly, sharply. "You had better take some of these cakes with you." She went on, as she wrapped up half a dozen of the scones in paper. "You may be hungry before you come back. Speak to no one but the man at the inn. Ask for Mr. Penhorely, give him the parcel, and come back."

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

What is Success in Life?

By RUTH CAMERON.

To hit a target when you do not know exactly at what you are aiming is next to impossible, isn't it? And yet it is the way most of us live. In a vague way we are all aiming at the shining mark of "success."

Every young man or woman thoroughly expects to lead a successful life. No one would thank you if you told him that his life was likely to be a failure. And yet, how many people really have any idea what and where the target at which they are aiming is? How many young people stop to define success before they start to win it?

What is success? Who succeeds in life? Who fails?

Suppose we try to define it. We mean you and I, reader friends. I will give you my own present definition, by the way, it's one of the queer things about this target that as we travel the long road it seems to shift and change like a mountain seen from various points of view; the youth is sure to see it in one direction; the same youth grown to middle age sees it in quite another quarter; and the old man sees it still differently, if at all. To return to the main road, I'll give you my present definition and two or three others I have heard or read, and in return you must send me yours and we will have a symposium of them some day soon. It is possible to define a thing very clearly by defining its opposite. Therefore I call this Canon Farrar's definition of success. "There is only one real failure possible, and that is not to be true to the best one knows."

"A successful life is that of one who leaves the world a little better than he found it," a friend of mine contributes.

David Graham Phillips, without labelling it as such, has put into the mouth of one of his political characters a very beautiful definition of success. "If a man," said he absently, "fixes his mind not on making friends or defeating enemies, not on elections or history, but just on avoiding from day to day, from act to act, the condemnation of his own self-respect."

And now my own, perhaps, "a poor thing, but mine own." Just at present my best definition of a successful life is—to be happy and to make others so. You will surely admit that no one who fulfills these two conditions can be wholly a failure, and no one who fails in them wholly a success.

Please do not fail to send in your definition. Talk it over around the dinner table. Formulate it and send it in, and who knows who may be helped by it? Probably not the least of all,—yourself.

Incidentally, please be brief. We want to be able to get up a good many points of view on this subject, and if you can pack yours into a hundred words or, better still, into twenty-five or fifty, you will help make that possible.

Fashions and Fads.

Red, green and blue umbrellas have silver handles. Flush and velour are much used for children's hats. Marigold yellow is one of the new colors in Paris. Wide white belts are seen made of kid or suede leather. Wash frocks are best for the little girls' first days of school. Wool brocades are being used, even for young girls' suits. Persian effects will be seen galore on the new autumn gowns. New black braids have the basket weave and suggest astrakhan. A new braid is the combination of dull braids and bright ones. Pouch bags of silk or leather have pommer handles to match. The new tailored suits show as many as ever of the dip-back coats. Spanish leather desk sets are handsome additions to den or library. Rubberized bengaline is the newest fabric for young girls' raincoats. Net gimpes can now be had in eern and flesh color, as well as white. Serge frocks never go out of fashion, especially those of navy blue. Indian blanket designs are very much to the fore in bath robes for boys. Soft crushable velour hats for wee girls are now to be seen in the shops. The black and white combination is still good for young girls' topcoats. Sleeveless tunics of brocade appear on some of the new charmeuse gowns. Bull trimmings are seen on the new serge skirts—usually edging drapery. Elephant gray is one of the favoured shades for Fall. Another is deep plum. Colored fruit is used as a trimming on black hats, usually black velvet hats. Hexagon mesh veils, with chenille, silk or velvet dots, are frequently seen. Soft felt hats with simple and natty ribbon bows are best for school wear. Zetline, especially in two-tone effects, will be often chosen for dressy winter coats. Hand-done French knots are seen on the black silk waists for Autumn; so is fagoting. Some of the new separate skirts are made of a Jacquard wool, and prettily draped. Even for Autumn, women are wearing white net waists with frills down the front. Black, relieved by a touch of violet, green or white, will be much worn this season.

Asquith's Birthplace.

Morley, in Yorkshire, was en route recently, when Mr. Asquith visited it to receive the freedom of his native town. Yorkshire, Mr. Asquith once declared, had produced men in every walk of life who had contributed in a greater measure than the people of any other county in England to the making of history and the service of mankind; and, however this may be, none will be disposed to deny that Mr. Asquith himself is a worthy representative of his county. But, though born in Yorkshire, Mr. Asquith is a Cockney by adoption, and it was at the City of London School, as most people will be aware, that he laid the foundation of his future fame. Long before the birth of the future Prime Minister, Asquith was a name honorably known in Morley, and Mr. Asquith's father and grandfather were very prominent personalities in the town. He himself has told us that one of his earliest recollections centres round the carrying of a flag in a Saturday school procession after the Crimean War.

Special to Evening Telegram. LOUISBURG, Sept. 16. Brister & Son's wrecking schooner Winnie Hazel, with a cargo of manganese, arrived here this morning from Fermeuse, Nfld., and while leaving the harbor for Sydney, took fire and burned to the water's edge, the hull going to the bottom. There was no insurance on vessel or cargo. Capt. Ford, of Channel, twelve in crew and two divers, who were on board at the time were saved.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 16. The biggest parade held here for years began forming early this morning to celebrate the Nation's Independence Day. From early morning detachments of soldiers, cadets, students and volunteers made their way toward Chapultepec, where the celebrations began with speech-making and music. General Huerta, in full uniform, surrounded by his staff, and accompanied by many government officials and foreign diplomats, made a short address, applauding the patriotic ardour of the younger element of the population, calling them the hope of the nation, and worthy sons of loyal fathers.

BELFAST, Sept. 16. Sir Edward Carson landed to-day to inspect Ulster's volunteer army, which is to support the revolutionary government. This army is said to be thoroughly organized with 100,000 men, and expectations of 200,000. Carson will remain a week. The climax of the visit will be on Saturday when the Belfast Unionist corps will be inspected. There is little hope of Lord Loreburn's suggested conference maturing, though the idea is not abandoned.

LONDON, Sept. 16. As the result of the action of 1,600 of their employees at Liverpool, yesterday, two English railway companies have become involved in the Irish Transport Workers' dispute. More than 1,000 men employed on the London and North Western struck in support of three of their number, who refused to handle Irish traffic, and later the sympathetic strike movement extended to certain employees of the Lancashire and Yorkshire railway who alleged that the Irish goods they were told to handle had come through the L. and N. W. system. The strike in Ireland is said to be spreading rapidly, but so far there is no disorder. In Dublin itself more than 10,000 are now idle. Laborers in the building trades refused to give the understanding required by the masters, and have joined the strikers. Farm laborers in the county of Dublin also went on strike yesterday. The Dublin pawnshops will take no more pledges, as they are already overflowing with cheap clothing and other articles, pawned for a few pence to buy bread.

LONDON, Sept. 16. A great motor omnibus strike, which would bring to a standstill thousands of motor omnibuses now traversing the streets of London, is threatened, owing to the issue of notices by Messrs. Gillling prohibiting conductors and drivers from wearing Trade Union badges.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The Cunard liner Andania from Canada, reached Plymouth last evening, with 368 passengers, nearly 24 hours late. Fog delayed the steamer for 10 hours on the banks, and in a northwest gale her propeller was damaged.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 16. The effect of the strike of Dublin transport workers was felt on this side of the Irish Channel to-day, when 3,000 Liverpool dock-workers and railway men struck in sympathy.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F.L.D., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1913.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

We direct the attention of our readers to correspondence we publish to-day, in which serious charges are preferred against certain officials of the Post Office. Two of these letters are from the Right Honourable Sir Robert Bond. The first letter is addressed to us and covers a copy of a letter addressed to the Post Master General, the Hon. H. J. B. Woods on the 5th of the present month. In the letter to us, Sir Robert points out that he brought under the notice of the Post Master General a condition of affairs in connection with the mail service, that he considers calls for IMMEDIATE REDRESS. As he waited ten days without receiving the courtesy of an acknowledgment of his communication and as it was a matter which affected the public, he enclosed to us a copy of his letter for publication.

SERIOUS CHARGES.
Sir Robert's letter to the Post Master General is dated September 5th, and in it he states that

"On Wednesday evening last I sent one of my employees to the Railway Station here (i.e. Whitbourne) with a quantity of mail matter to be posted on the northern mail car. On arrival of the train my man went to the car to post the mail, but was unable to obtain admission, the door being bolted. He then knocked to attract the attention of the clerk who was in the car, but no notice was taken of him. He next went to the window of the car and held up the mail matter for the clerk to see what he wanted, but this did not avail anything, and an important mail had to be brought back to me. This meant in some cases a week's delay in receipt of my correspondence."

Could there be anything more disgraceful? Here we have a mail car attached to the train, which is subsidized by the Government to receive and carry mails, and a Government official, paid by the public monies, to receive, care for and look after the mail, and the mail car is closed and not open for the reception of the mail. Was this conduct repeated at other stations or was the mail car closed at Whitbourne merely? If only a Whitbourne, why was the mail car closed there? The time was important. It was a few days after Sir Robert Bond had announced that he would again lead the Liberal Party at the polls next November, and his correspondence would of a certainty contain important political communications. But whether this is so or not, whatever the nature of the correspondence, whether it was political, social or business, the correspondence should have been received and treated as sacred, as the Post Office officials are called upon to do so. It is a monstrous condition of affairs, if these mail cars are to be closed at the whim of an official and the rights of the public to the use of postal service are to be outraged and the services they pay for are to be denied them.

A WORSE OUTRAGE.
Outrageous as is this state of af-airs, the second complaint is far worse, and calls for condign punishment of the official guilty of the outrage.

Here is Sir Robert's second complaint:—
"On Thursday week last I sent a quantity of mail matter to the Post Office, here addressed to various places, to be despatched by the morning train. It was promptly sent down to the train by the Post Master, Mr. Leslie, but to my great surprise and annoyance, Mr. Leslie informed me that when his messenger placed the sealed bag on the mail car, THE MAIL CLERK KICKED IT OUT ON THE PLATFORM, AND SAID HE WOULD NOT TAKE IT. This mail was also left behind."

Ex-Governor Williams was staggered at Morrison's doing, the public will be staggered far more at the revelation which Sir Robert Bond has made of the way on two occasions, at an important stage of the political fight, his mail has been treated. Sir Robert Bond characterizes this conduct of a public service as disgraceful, and well he may, but one of the most extraordinary features of the complaint, which called for immediate attention and redress, is that no reply is made to his communication in the space of ten days.

Concurrently with this we publish a letter from Mr. Griffin, of Conception Harbour, setting forth the way in which his complaint was set at naught by certain postal officials.

We ourselves have been in receipt of complaints of the non-delivery by postal officials of The Evening Telegram to our subscribers.

All these things point out that there is something rotten in the State of Denmark, and that the Post Office department will have to be purged thoroughly before it becomes an efficient public service. During the past four years it has been made a dumping ground for Morris' political heeled, who seem to be much more occupied with politics than with their official business.

But what can be expected in other departments of the Post Office, when McGrath is permitted to use the postal telegraphs as a political machine and the output message as a political propaganda, and every telegraph office as a centre to circulate the political falsehoods he sends in this output message. This grave scandal has been going on far too long and it is serving as an example to civil servants to use their office to aid Sir Edward Morris' campaign and to thwart that of Sir Robert Bond. Every day some new outrage or other is revealed and it is high time for the people to rise in their might and turn out those who are prostituting the public services for party purposes.

MEXICO, To-day.
Provisional President Huerta delivered his semi-annual message last night at the opening of the second session of the twenty seventh Mexican Congress. In it he promised to spare no efforts to bring out unrestricted elections of the President and vice-President of the Mexican Republic next month, declaring it would constitute the greatest triumph in his career to turn over the office to his successor with the country at peace as he hoped to do. General Huerta said the strained diplomatic relations between Mexico and the States had caused the Mexican nation to suffer an unmerited affliction, and had retarded the pacification of the country. Nevertheless, he asserted he had good grounds of hope for an early solution of the difficulties between the two nations and see Mexico and States once more united in the bonds of friendship. The provisional President drew a distinction between the attitude of the Government of the States and that of the people of that nation saying, "Tenseness of our diplomatic relations with the Government of States America, although luckily not with that people had put Mexico into a state of apprehension. In his peroration, Provisional President Huerta said the Mexican Government regards the pacification of the country as a urgent and necessary in order to restore the public services to their normal state, to re-establish political, social and economic equilibrium, and make possible a program of reform which will satisfy the national aspiration. I will spare no effort, no sacrifice to obtain the coveted peace, and guarantee fully that the coming elections shall be a free casting of the ballot. You may be sure it will constitute the greatest possible triumph for the interim Government to surrender office to its successor, if the latter as is to be expected enters upon its functions with public peace and order an accomplished fact."

NEW YORK, To-day.
The discovery of the counterfeit den which Hans Schmidt, Priest and confessed slayer of Anna Amuller, yesterday admitted was fixed up by him to make spurious money, led the detectives and visitors to his cell to express the opinion that Schmidt was sane, and that further investigation will develop that counterfeiting was only one of his sidelines. They declared the belief he was feigning insanity after a careful thought-out plan of a master criminal mind. Dr. Muret, dentist, arrested soon after the raid on the counterfeiter's lair, was held on $5,000 bail. Inspector Furst reiterated his belief that Muret & Schmidt were relatives, if not brothers.

DUBLIN, To-day.
The deadlock continues and vast crowds gathered in the streets last night but there was only one riot and it was confined to the smashing of windows in the street cars. More than 10,000 men are on strike in Dublin. The Bus Drivers Union adopted a resolution last night calling out all employees of the Transport combine, which includes practically all motor bus lines and tube railways, unless the drivers discharged for wearing Union badge are immediately re-instated and the Union recognized.

Minimise The Loss.
Practically farmers may easily minimise the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer.

Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 20 per cent of nitrogen, as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops.

The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated.

We invite the attention of Farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application.

The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating.

Don't Try to Do
Anything Until You
Get New Clothes!

If you have a big deal to put over, don't touch it till you get a new suit of clothes. If you are trying to get a better job, or a raise in salary, keep away till you get a new suit.

This is serious. You have no idea what a remarkable effect a new suit of clothes will have on your whole attitude till you have tried it. You won't feel like the same man. You'll have courage, you'll have conviction in your voice and "punch" in your mind. Every person in the world is affected by what he wears. He can't help it. That is why people who are on the down grade find it so hard to pull up and get started back.

The new fall styles are in now. Every good store has them. And all good stores that want to reach you are advertising those styles in this paper.

Most men, too, are buying their new suits this month. So if you keep on wearing your old summer suit, you are going to feel as badly off as if you started to wear a Gym suit to a dinner party.

Don't try it. Success consists in looking like success. Failure always looks like what it is. No matter how cheerfully a licked man smiles at you, you can see the hopelessness back of every line.

You have got to feel right in order to be right. "And in order to feel right, you have got to look right."

Turn to this Clothing Advertising now. Read every line of it. Make up your mind you are going to get a mighty good suit and get it quick. Let the other man do the shabby genteel act. You play the part of Brummel in the big show. Be a headliner; be right.

And while you are about it, get yourself some shirts and collars and ties and shoes. Then go out and say "How-do-you-do" to the world, and you will be amazed at the way the snobbish old world grins back.

All of these things are to be found in the advertising of this paper you are reading now. So you haven't far to look.

SIR ROBERT'S LETTER TO US

The Grange, Whitbourne, Sept. 15, 1913. Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Under date the 5th inst., exactly ten days ago, I wrote the Postmaster General bringing under his notice a condition of affairs in connection with the mail service that I considered called for immediate redress. As I have not had extended to me even the courtesy of an acknowledgment of my communication, and as the subject matter of same affects the general public, I enclose herewith for publication a copy of my letter to the Postmaster General.

Yours truly,
R. BOND.

SIR ROBERT'S LETTER TO THE POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Grange, Whitbourne, Sept. 5, 1913.

Dear Sir,—I much regret having to bring under your notice the very disgraceful conduct of two of the railway mail clerks. On Wednesday evening last I sent one of my employees to the railway station here with a quantity of mail matter to be posted on the northern mail car. On arrival of the train my man went to the car to post the mail but was unable to obtain admission, the door being bolted. He then knocked to attract the attention of the clerk who was in the car, but no notice was taken of him. He next went to the window of the car and held up the mail matter for the clerk to see what he wanted, but this did not avail anything, and an important mail had to be brought back to me. This meant in some cases a week's delay in receipt of my correspondence.

Again, on Thursday week last I sent a quantity of mail matter to the post office here addressed to various places, to be despatched by the morning train. It was promptly sent down to the train by the Postmaster, Mr. Leslie, but to my great surprise and annoyance Mr. Leslie informed me that when his messenger placed the sealed bag in the mail car "the mail clerk kicked it out on the platform, and said he would not take it." This mail was also left behind. Such disgraceful conduct of the public service calls for immediate redress, and I have to request that you will be good enough to give the matter immediate attention, and let me know what has been done.

Yours truly,
R. BOND.

Mr. Griffin's Complaint About Postal Matters.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Were you under the impression that when I wrote you in connection with the irregularities existing at Conception Hr. among Postal officials, that my letter was to be put on exhibition? In other words, when you gave my letter to the P.M.G. did you think that it would have been handed around by the nonentities, insignificant creatures, mis-called Postal officials of Conception Hr. East, to the public for perusal? I am sure you were not. But such was the case. Miss Moore, of Avondale, and Miss Buck of Conception, Riverhead, received the same instructions I presume that the Kennys of Conception East did, but acting in conformity with their duty they kept it as a private matter. Not so with Post mistresses at the lower office—Kennys. They scorned the idea of my writing. "The more I'd write the more they'd laugh," was the answer. My letter was read for several parties. Others read it themselves. It has been made a byword by members of the Kenny family, passages from it being even quoted on the street.

Now, Sir, you see the latitude that these who have the "pull" get. Is there no redress for such scandalous actions? Are the public to be insulted by these public officials with impunity? The complaint I made is not confined to myself. No, Sir, the dissatisfaction is universal. Every one is talking about the way things are going on. Since the receipt of my letter at their office (Kennys) they have used the most vituperous and vile language towards me; and this to people visiting their office—if they felt disposed to listen.

These parties should be answerable to the P.M.G. for this business. If these people are permitted to insult the public where will every thing lead? I made the same or a similar complaint to the P.M.G. about two years ago, and he suggested that the law was at every man's disposal. Yes, I know it; but—

The charges I made in my last letter I am prepared to repeat, and back them up with proofs. Moreover, my letter referred to them and they knew it, hence the storm. The other ladies had nothing to say, in connection with this matter, for they knew they (I mean Postal officials) were doing their duty; they had nothing to fear. I claim that my letter should not have been used as public property and I further claim that the P.M.G. to whom I am also writing, should take drastic measures with these people for such gross inconsistency.

In conclusion, I ask you to give this the attention it deserves at your earliest convenience, and use this letter if necessary requires, but I contend that its contents should not be committed to memory by the public of Conception Harbor.

Yours sincerely,
P. J. GRIFFIN,
Teacher.

Thick, Glossy Hair, all Dandruff Gone

Girls! Try it! Hair Gets so soft, fluffy and luxuriant at once—No more falling hair.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scrub robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fashish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp, and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Danish Steamer Damaged By Whale.

The s.s. Wladimir Reitz, Capt. Olsen, put into port last night in a leaky condition. The ship was six days out from Campbellton bound to Plymouth, England, laden with lumber. On Sunday last, when about 250 miles off this port the vessel collided with a whale. An examination showed that the ship was leaking and the captain decided to put in here for repairs. The pumps had to be kept going until port was reached. Mr. Tasker Cook is the agent for the ship. The Wladimir long, 42 feet beam and 26 feet deep. She will discharge her deck load at Prowse's premises on the Southside. It is hoped that by doing this they will be able to make repairs to the damaged part without having to dry dock.

Royal Hunter O.K.

It is reported that the schr. Royal Hunter, which cleared from St. John's brickyard, Random Sound, on the 4th inst., for Bay Roberts, with a cargo of brick, is O.K. The brick were to be used in the Western Union Cable Co's. new building. Much anxiety was felt when she had not arrived up to Monday evening. It was learned yesterday that she had been at Bonaventure and had to harbor there owing to stress of weather. Mr. R. Templeton had a message to that effect as well as the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

A Large Fish.

While fishing at Cherry grounds, off Cape Spear, yesterday, James Martin, son of Mr. A. Martin, of the Battery, fished a codfish that weighed 100 pounds. Great difficulty was experienced in getting the fish over the side of the boat and it was, no doubt, a feat for the lad Martin to accomplish.

Marine Notes.

The s.s. Gansford is now due from Bermuda to Harvey & Co., for which firm she will take a cargo of fish to the Mediterranean.

The s.s. Digby reached Liverpool yesterday and sails from there again on Saturday next for this port.

Minor Imperfections.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Mr. Editor.—J. Alexander is very much annoyed at the persistence with which the Opposition shows up to the public what they are pleased to designate heinous crimes or mistakes, which in John A.'s opinion are only minor imperfections. How does that strike you? only minor imperfections. So after all "Forgetful Donald" is not as bad as he's been painted, and there was no occasion at all for "Sir Ralph the Rover" to have been "staggered" when he became aware that poor "Forget-me-not" advised the stealing of timber from Crown Lands. Even though he was Minister of Justice, it was only a "minor imperfection," and whilst it might have caused many to say, when he put up the plea of Forgetfulness that if the plea was truthful, Sir Robert Bond wasn't much astray when he said "Sappy Head." But then Donald has interests in J. Alexander's outfit and therefore it is only a "minor imperfection." Again, the giving of two thousand and odd dollars to the Hon. J. Crosbie for two spars which cost $25 was only a "minor imperfection," and the same applies to all the mail carrying contracts, coal contracts, etc., etc., also the giving $2,500 to the Hon. P. T.

McGrath for the Bell Island royalty deal, was only a "minor imperfection." Of course it was the duty of the Minister of Finance to handle the matter, but then what matter, Patsy wanted a sop, so it has to be classed as a "minor imperfection." The same applies to Devereaux and Downey, the agricultural experts. The poor devils they had to get a "sop" to enable them to live, no matter if the Placeman's Act was violated, they were white-washed, and after all it is only a "minor imperfection." And then again all those other cases of hoodlums such as picnics, land-grabbing, foisting useless relatives into Government jobs, etc., etc., are only "minor imperfections." Well, J. Alexander says so, and of course he knows, so there is all there is about it.

Another "minor imperfection" was their barefaced withholding, or refusal, to table the information asked for by the Opposition on the floors of the Assembly last session. Such an act would not be tolerated in any other self-governing country in the world, but they knew well that if the public were made aware of the glaring boodles that was going on, it would be a big nail in their coffins, hence their audacious act of withholding. But the electors will not forget, and when the time comes will show them what they think of their "minor imperfections." John Alexander also tells us that apart from the "minor imperfections" the other charges made against the Government are spurious, or manufactured out of whole cloth for party purposes. Will he please enumerate for the benefit of the public what are the charges made against the Government which have been "manufactured" or are spurious. Has it been "manufactured" or is it a spurious charge that Morris told the people that the cost of building the Branch Railways would be four million dollars whereas it will cost near eight million dollars. Is it manufactured or a spurious charge that Morris has lost hundreds of thousands of dollars of the people's money by paying Reid in gold instead of Government Bonds? Is it manufactured or a spurious charge that during the life of the present Government it has been a career of extravagant pic-nicking by the various members at the expense of the taxpayers? Has it been manufactured, is it a spurious charge that M. P. Cashin called the men who work on the railway "Cullage," perhaps it is only a "minor imperfection." Anyhow, I may go on asking such questions until I would take all your space.

PORTSMOUTH, To-day.

A sprint of 100 yards was run at Portsmouth yesterday afternoon by Rear Admiral Sir Robert K. Arbuthnot and Captain Eric Back, British Navy, in fulfillment of a bet made by them twenty years ago. The captain won by a yard in the excellent time of 12 seconds. Both officers were serving in the Pacific Ocean on board the Warspite in 1892, when the challenge was given and accepted for the race to be run on the same date twenty years later. Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux was Commander of the Warspite at the time of the wager and was stakeholder. Rear Admiral Arbuthnot is 49 and Captain Back, 48.

LONDON, To-day.

The country is again threatened with a great railway strike here. Liverpool as before will be the storm centre. The trouble began with the refusal of the Liverpool dockers to handle freight from Dublin, when the transport workers are on strike. Men to the number of 3,500 employed in the freight yards of various railways went out yesterday at noon, were joined later by 4,000 from Birmingham. That a complete freight tie-up is expected on the North-western lines is indicated by the warning issued by Cunard officials to homeward bound Americans to carry all baggage with them. At Liverpool work was struck without the sanction of the Railway Union, and lack of support may prevent a national strike on the railways, but as other big centres are involved, the outlook is ominous. The only hopeful feature is the appointment of a Committee of strikers to negotiate with the companies.

Tragedy at Labrador.

FOUR MEN DROWNED.

A sad drowning fatality in which four fishermen, belonging to Avondale, lost their lives, has occurred at the Labrador. Messrs. Harvey & Co. received the following message, sent from Smokey via Fogo:

"Schooner Victoria, Mark's Hr. lost four men, including master, others Sullivan, Mansfield and Dèveaux. Advise Father Sheehan." (Sgd.) BERTHA O'BRIEN.

The master and owner of the vessel was Frank O'Brien, a well-known and successful planter of Avondale. How the drowning happened will not be known exactly until more definite information is received, although it is believed that the four unfortunate men were swamped while hauling their trap.

On receipt of the foregoing message Messrs. Harvey & Company immediately communicated with Messrs. Harvey & Company in news to the families and relatives of the deceased victims. To the bereaved ones the sympathy of the whole country will be extended and in which the Telegram sincerely joins.

Great Ventriloquist at Rossley's.

The Marcus Stock Co. are delighting thousands of people, and each night it is impossible to get a seat, after eight o'clock. The ventriloquist is certainly a great drawing card, and together with his "funny wooden" partner, has the audience highly amused. He is a very clever young man. The singing and dancing of the troupe are excellent, and Tommy Levene and Dave Harris, have the house in roars all the time. It is a splendid show, and everyone is looking forward to the next change, when the human mechanical doll, the wonder of the age, will be seen.

DOG-FISH PEST.—Dogfish are reported plentiful at L'Anse-au-Loup and giving the fishermen there much trouble.

A Task For the German Emperor.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has set the German Emperor a task—to change the appearance of war into permanent peace.

Unveiling a bust of Sir Randall Cremer at the Palace of Peace he said:—

"Surveying the world to-day, the most striking figure seen is another Emperor, the German Emperor, who has recently celebrated his twenty-fifth year of peaceful reign, his hands unstained by human blood—a unique record—hence Germany's astounding progress educationally, industrially, and commercially, proving that, the greatest of all national blessings is peace. At Lubeck recently the Emperor said: 'I protect the merchant, his enemy is my enemy; God grant that German trade may develop as hitherto, under my protection in time of peace.'

"Let us suppose that the Emperor were now to invite the chief civilized nations to confer upon the best means of ensuring world-peace, which his own Empire has enjoyed so long. That they would attend and listen is certain. Success, I believe, is certain to follow. All seems so easy, too easy, perhaps; but pray remember that the great inventions, discoveries and steps forward have been achieved at last by seemingly slight and trifling advances, because the ground had been well prepared, conditions constantly changing and advancing during long years of obscure experiment. Most great advances have appeared to burst upon us suddenly in their perfection; so it will probably be with the change from barbarous war to civilized peace—one small spark set creates the flame. The German Emperor holds in his hand the torch, and should apply the needed spark."

DO MOVING PICTURES HURT YOUR EYES!
The corn crops may fall, Wall Street may go into bankruptcy, the high cost of living continue its star-climbing contest, the tariff plays ducks and drakes with industry, but so long as the moving pictures continue to "show" to five or ten millions of men women and children, there will be no decrease in the demand for smart, nifty suits that appeals to them in every particular—made well, looks well and wears well, and we can always depend upon them for permanent customers. The Country Boy's Creed.

"I believe that the country which God made is more beautiful than the city which man made; that life out of doors and in touch with the earth is the natural life of man. I believe that work is work wherever I find it; but that work with Nature is more inspiring than work with the most intricate machinery. I believe that the dignity of labour depends not on what you do, but on how you do it; that opportunity comes to a boy on the farm as often as to the boy in the city; that life is larger and freer and happier on the farm than in the town; that my success depends not upon my place, but upon myself—not upon my dreams, but upon what I actually do; not upon luck, but upon pluck. I believe in working when you work and playing when you play, and in giving and demanding a square deal in every act of life."—From Wallace's "Farmer."

"Say Hullo and How D'ye Do."

When you see a man in woe,
Walk right up and say "Hullo!"
Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do?"
"How's the world a-using you?"
"Slap a fellow on his back."
Bring your hand down with a whoack!
Wait right up, an' don't go slow,
Grin an' shake an' say "Hullo!"
Is he clothed in rags? Oh, sho!
Hail an' hearty "How d'ye do!"
Walk right up and say "Hullo!"
Rags is but a cotton roll
Just for wrappin' up a soul;
An' a soul is worth a true
Hail an' hearty "How d'ye do!"
Don't wait for the crowd to go,
Walk right up and say "Hullo!"
Say "Hullo!" and "How d'ye do!"
Other folks are good as you,
When you leave your house of clay,
Wanderin' in the Far-Away.
When you travel through the strange
Country t'other side the range,
Then the souls you've cheered will know
Who you be, and say "Hullo!"

The Gibbon

Piccott's "Clap the Hammer" --- History of in Which Piccott Were Mixed Up.

The public will remember that in June last year, we published an account of that sensational case in court, in which the Hon. John C. Crosbie, his brother Walter, the Minister of Fisheries, Mr. A. Piccott and Mr. Mark Gibbons figured. This kind of matter the Government press ignores. The editorator will note this well. Surely if anything could be said, P. T. McGrath or J. A. Robinson would make some defence, no matter how lame and ineffectual it would prove. No, the only thing that McGrath can serve up are scare articles on "Godless schools" weeking the Savings Bank, the publication of his business rivals private affairs and such like dirty work. Mr. Robinson contents himself with a daily feeble article on the Government's record, mostly on uncontroversial subjects, or a few silly jibes at the Bond-Cooker alliance.

When the details of the Gibbons-Piccott and Crosbie case were first published and the recommendation of the Court made to the Council for the defence of Piccott, that owing to the latter's position as a Minister of the Crown this case should be settled, no attempt at a justification of this Minister was made by the News or Chronicle, and no effort was made to explain Hon. John C. Crosbie's close connection with this timber limit case. During the past four years many glaring cases in the present Government have been shown up, but we believe we are safe in affirming that the part played in this drama in which the Court had to be called in to protect an inoffensive citizen from the scheming of a Minister of the Crown, rivals even Morrison's Memory Feast. Every utterance was employed to cheat Gibbons; the case had to be taken to the highest Court in the land, before Gibbons could get his rights and it is such men as A. W. Piccott who have so shamefully betrayed the people's trust, whom we are asked to elect and place as rulers over us once more. Heaven defend us and the country from such men and from Morris, who is handing the assets and revenues of the country over to them and the Reids in thousands and millions.

The Gibbons Case.

Piccott's "Clap the Grips" Letter -- History of Shady Case in Which Piccott and Crosbie Were Mixed Up.

The public will remember that in June last year, we published an account of that sensational case in Court, in which the Hon. John C. Crosbie, his brother Walter, the Minister of Fisheries, Mr. A. W. Mr. Robinson contents himself with a feeble article on the Government's record, mostly on uncontroversial subjects, or a few silly jibes at the Bond-Cooker alliance.

When the details of the Gibbons-Piccott and Crosbie case were first published and the recommendation of the Court made to the Council for the defendant, Piccott, that owing to the letter's position as a Minister of the Crown this case should be settled, no attempt at a justification of this Minister was made by the News or Chronicle, and no effort was made to explain Hon. have it gazetted at once, which he did. The property was sold in February, 1911, for $5,000, and the defendants refused to pay Gibbons his share or to recognize his claim whatever.

PICCOTT, CROSBIE'S AGENT.

Piccott in his evidence said that he was W. Crosbie's agent in all that he did, and that there was no agreement made in his office to give Gibbons any share; that he wrote a letter to Mr. Mews in May, 1911, saying that Gibbons had given him the boundaries and that he had given the boundaries to Crosbie. He said reference to that letter that Gibbons did not give him the boundaries at the meeting in his office, nor at any time before me, and that it must have been some time afterwards. But he also said that he (Piccott) must have given Crosbie the boundaries before the property was gazetted. It was gazetted on July 3rd, 1909, the day of this meeting. Piccott said Gibbons had many conversations with him in 1909 and 1910 about this land, asking if it was sold, and Piccott would answer, not that he knew of, and so forth. That Soy (the purchaser) went to Gumbo to look at the area. Gibbons wrote him (Piccott) a letter on Feb. 18, 1911, but said that the cruisers had seen and reported about the timber and that he answered these letters. Piccott's first letter in reply was as follows:

"CLAP THE GRIPS."

Department Marine & Fisheries, St. John's, Newfoundland, February 13th, 1911.
Dear Mark—Your letter of the 10th instant to hand. Soy is here in town and tells me that the man he had to go over the ground reports only 12 miles of timber land, and that he really be true? If it is, you were badly mistaken when you advised Crosbie to take out a grant for it. I surely thought there were 40 miles of the miles timber land there; certainly there must be something wrong somewhere, but I suppose this man Brown, whom you say has returned and is sending in his report, cannot be giving a true statement. Either he or yourself wrong.

Received samples asbestos. What about taking out the claims for it? I will go in with you if you will give me the chance. If you do write me and I will have the claims taken out at once. It looks good, but the party to whom I showed it said it was a pity that the fibre is so short. I do not know anything about this stuff, but if you had it analyzed in Canada as you say you did, you know what the report says. Let me know what you intend to do and I will clap the grips on it immediately.

Yours in haste,
A. W. PICCOTT,
Pro. T. S. D.,
Mr. Mark Gibbons, Gumbo.

SOLD FOR $5,000.

Gibbons' second letter of February 15th gave further details of what the cruisers had reported. Soy came to town and made an agreement to buy the property on Feb. 18, 1911, for $5,000. The agreement was signed by John C. Crosbie on behalf of W. Crosbie, who was away. Piccott went to Botwood on Feb. 13th and came back about the 20th of February. Soy left St. John's by the express on Feb. 19th and went to Botwood. Can you tell me that he agreed to buy the property. Gibbons said he then wrote a third letter to Piccott, asking for his share. Piccott denied getting this third letter, and on Feb. 24th he wrote Gibbons as follows:—

Department Marine & Fisheries, St. John's, Newfoundland, February 24th, 1911.
Dear Sir—Before I went to Botwood I was not willing to sell the timber land for what was offered, as far as I was concerned. Of course the land belonged to Mr. Crosbie, and neither you nor I have anything more to say in it. It is true I helped to pay the rentals. I was at Botwood one week. When I came back Soy was gone and I have not seen Mr. Crosbie since, so that I cannot give you any information as to what was done, or what he was doing to do, and know no more about it than yourself.

Yours in haste,
A. W. PICCOTT,
Mr. Mark Gibbons, Gumbo.

J. C. CROSBIE PAYS RENTALS.

Piccott also said that when he wrote this letter he did not know that the property was sold, but wanted to tell Gibbons that he had no right to be interested in this timber limit, although W. Crosbie had not told him to tell Gibbons that he (Gibbons) was not to have anything further to say in it. He also said that although he signed a note for part of the rentals, he did not pay any, as John C. Crosbie paid them.

WATTIE'S PECULIAR MEMORY

W. Crosbie in his evidence admitted getting from Gibbons all information about the timber limit, but said Gibbons gave it to him for nothing. He admitted meeting Gibbons in Piccott's private office, but said he met him there by accident and not by appointment; that he wrote out the Gazette notice himself and brought his written notice to the Gazette Office on July 3rd, '09. When he was confronted with the typewritten notice he could not say who typewrote it for him. Afterwards he remembered, and he was nearly positive about it that he got it typewritten in Hon. J. C. Crosbie's office. On the appeal, although he proved that this notice was typewritten in the Marine & Fisheries Office, and W. Crosbie did not go in the box to deny it.

There were many discrepancies or contradictions in the evidence given by the defendants. Mr. Piccott was not in Court when Crosbie gave his evidence. A most curious circumstance in the case was the fact that Crosbie and Piccott said that they did not negotiate the sale of the property and did not know who did, and Piccott said he did not enquire.

WHO WILL YOU BELIEVE?

Hon. J. C. Crosbie gave evidence and said he signed the agreement of sale on Feb. 18, '11, but that he did not negotiate the sale. Whilst Mr. Soy, who bought the property, said in his evidence, which was given Dec. 1st, 1911:—
"The first conversation I had was with A. W. Piccott, Minister of Marine and Fisheries. The Fisheries had a conversation with at all was James W. Grant, and he had no interest in it that I know of and he could tell me to Piccott. I had a conversation with Walter Crosbie afterwards, and we broke off; we could do no business. I wrote John C. Crosbie and made him an offer, and that afternoon we came together and made an agreement for sale and paid the deposit of $500 with Howley, a lawyer. Let it in abeyance for to do certain things. I do not remember of anybody else."

At the trial judgment was given for the defendants, and on the appeal the Court recommended a settlement, which was afterwards done as regards the defendant Crosbie, and thereby obviated the necessity of a final judgment.

Mr. Mews was counsel for the plaintiff and Mr. Howley, K.C. was counsel for the defendants.

Rev. Mr. Stewart's Lecture Last Night.

(I.C.M.)
A full house greeted the Rev. Mr. Stewart at Canon Wood Hall last night, for the purpose of hearing him lecture upon his missionary work in the far north-land of Ungava.

In plain words the Rev. gentleman told his tale, and for the space of one hour and a quarter, engaged the closest attention of his audience. His lecture covered a period of some thirteen years, and the experiences of that period were such as only a strong man in body, and a heroic man in soul, could have endured. But even these qualifications of themselves would not have sufficed, for at best we are but human, and human agency alone would have failed, here was that higher power by which men are actuated, and by which they are sustained in the performance of their duty.

In cold, darkness and loneliness the lecturer had toiled amid the eternal snows he had travelled, and under the scanty shelter of some frail tent, within the walls of some snow-house, but he grew not weary for he was conscious of the Master's presence. He felt certain that he was doing his life's work, and that these unlighted people were being helped and benefited.

They expressed their desire for a better life than they had been living, and were eager to learn the story which the white man brought them. This story he told them by song and by instruction, and in due time they were sufficiently enlightened to receive Christian baptism. Some of them had heard of him in their still further northern abodes, and they had come to him to hear his message and to sit at his feet. Though of different tribes and possessing different traditions, they readily accepted the message of God's love, and did their best to make amends for the errors and wrong-doings of the past. They had indeed been in darkness, but when the light came to them they desired to walk in it.

The delivery of the lecture was marked by that spirit of modesty which always accompanies the true servant of God; and although the lecturer was treating of his own work, he avoided all pretence to self and all claim to self-glory. He certainly believed in his work; and the standpoint from which he performed it was beautifully illustrated by the spirit in which he spoke of it.

At the close of the lecture, the Rector of the Parish, Rev. Mr. Golden, requested the Rev. Canon Bolt to thank the lecturer for his address, and this the good Canon did in words becoming and timely. He also paid a high tribute to the work of the late Samuel Codner, who was the founder of the Newfoundland School Society, and from which afterward originated the Colonial and Continental Church Society under which the Rev. Mr. Stewart was laboring. At an early date Mr. Stewart returns to England for a holiday, and we feel certain that all our readers, both at home and abroad, will join with us in wishing him a very pleasant vacation, and a very happy re-union with his loved ones in the dear old home-land.

Investment News

St. John's, Sept. 17th, 1913.

Have YOU Seen This Booklet?

Perhaps you have not noticed our recent reference to it in this column. Or, if you have, possibly indifference or procrastination has prevented you from accepting our repeated offer to send a copy anywhere on request. In either case, we hope that you will stop and consider if the booklet would not be useful to have.

It explains a short cut to investing

And any man who has $20 and can save $5 a month will find that this "short-cut" enables him to start investing AT ONCE. For those who have more and can save more the plan is elastic enough to suit them as well. It permits them to spread their investments over a wider field and thus secure safety through diversification.

It's a common-sense plan that you will readily understand and appreciate. May we not NOW have the pleasure of sending you the explanatory booklet?

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Rev. James Sinclair, of St. Andrew's Church here, will exchange pulpits on next Sunday with Rev. Mr. Fraser, of Valpara. Many of Mr. Sinclair's former parishioners are now residing on the island and were very pleased to meet him last week when he first visited the island.

A number of young ladies went up to Cochrandedale on Saturday morning at the invitation of Mrs. Makinson, to spend the day at that delightful place. A jolly day was spent and all too soon the clock announced the time to leave for the railway crossing to wait for the incoming train. One weary hour was spent, and then another and another, still no sound of the train whistle. At last the welcome sound was heard, and the party boarded the train and arrived here at 1.30 a.m. Sunday.

Miss Bertha McKay returned on Saturday night from an enjoyable visit to her grand-parents and other friends at Haystack, Placentia Bay. The trip was made on the s.s. Argyle, and Capt. O'Reilly and his officers are very kind and courteous to passengers. It must be gratifying to the Reid Co. to know that the travelling public are so well pleased with the courteousness of their officials.

A sad affair occurred here just before dinner hour to-day. A man named Patrick Horney, of Bay Roberts, was loading some furniture on his cart at the home of his sister-in-law.

Miss M. Dormady, and in putting a valise on the cart he slipped in some way and fell to the ground cutting his face considerably. He died a few minutes after from heart failure. The body was confined and ready for the train within four hours after the man left his home for Harbor Grace. Truly in the midst of life we are in death. The sorrowing wife and family have our deep sympathy.

Mr. Eldred Hawkins, of Harvey & Co's office, St. John's, is in town on a visit to Judge Oke and family.

Quite a number of trout are in the country to-day to finish up the trouting season. Partridge shooting commences on Saturday next. Would you kindly tell the public the close season for gulls, if there is a close season. At the present time a number of our people would like to be made acquainted with the law in this respect.

Taxes.

Taxes are a semi-annual scourge which falls upon the average citizen just when his life insurance premium is due. They are raised for the benefit of the patient office holder, who otherwise would be obliged to work for a living.

Taxes are levied on all the property a man has that can be seen without using an X-ray machine. This property is assessed by a lynx-eyed individual who can see everything on the place that is taxable, including the cow, but who is stricken with a total blindness when it comes to money and credits. It is very aggravating to a man to be taxed for everything he has, down to a Scotch shille, and then see one of his neighbors hide all of his assets in a safety deposit box and get away with it.

The tax ferret is an amateur sleuth with a searchlight and a prying manner, who is hired by the board of supervisors to dig up the assessable property of people who would prefer to be let alone. His business is to remove the lid from money which has been buried 6,000 feet below sea level and bring it up where a 5-mill levy can get its hooks into it. The tax ferret is very obnoxious to opulent citizens who have never paid anything but their poll tax.

The income tax is a medieval form of rank persecution which is about to extract large hunks of income from the wealthy classes. It is designed to make taxpayers for the first time out of a large number of people who do not own anything but invisible securities and nineteen automobiles which are plastered with exemptions. The income tax is going to be highly popular with people who earn $1,200 a year and spend $1,100 of it on rent.

The taxpayer is a person who contributes heavily to the support of the High school and then has to buy a new set of revolving school books every semester. He also pays liberally to pave the street in front of the mayor's house, and is rewarded by a set of crossings on his own street that couldn't be scaled by an Alpine goat. This is one reason why the taxpayer never looks happy.

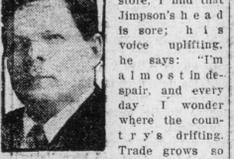

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well. You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more than his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive

Viewing With Alarm.

When I go into Jimpson's store, I find that Jimpson's head is sore; his voice is uplifting; he says: "I'm almost in despair, and every day I wonder where the counter is drifting. Trade grows so bad I'm seeing red; ere long we all must go to bed without our suppers; the crops have all gone up in smoke, and every man I know is broke, and on his uppers. I do not get sufficient cash to keep my family in hash, which makes me dizzy; and things are growing worse and worse; the man who owns the village hearse alone is busy." I always hear that sort of spiel when I enter Jimpson's store. I reel, to buy some onions; his heart is sad, his feet are cold, his mind is covered o'er with mold, his soul with bunions. And that is why I take my ore to old Dad Gundelfinger's store, across the alley; he always greets me with a chirp and gambols round me like a purp with quip and sally. The state of trade he doesn't curse, but "things might be a whole lot worse," he says; "doggone it, I see a lot of trade ahead; the man who says that things are dead talks through his bonnet."

Dooley's Sunday Newspaper.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The people of this city and of this country who are lovers of good order and who repair to their several places of worship in a decent, quiet manner on Sabbath days have surely not forgotten the outrage committed by Mr. Dooley when he started his Sunday paper supported by Government patronage. I am not aware that any Government that ever existed attempted such a thing here before. When the bells of the several churches were ringing out the call to their respective congregations Dooley's boys were on the streets calling for the sale of his paper and that issue was carrying upon its face the support of the Morris-Morison Government in departmental advertisements, and doubtless it would have gone on unceasingly had not outraged public feeling protested against it. And the same Government that authorized the patronage of the vile sheet is the very same that now asks for a further day of grace and the renewed support of the people—yes, the very same Government that would have Overturned the Usages of the Centuries and broken down law and order and laid us open to the reproach of uncivilized communities—the Government that would have plunged the youth of this city into moral ruin—into every evil that comes from Sabbath desecration, this is the Government that is now on hands and knees begging the people for a renewed lease of power. Will they grant it? Not if the voices of the fathers and mothers throughout the Island can be heard. This is not a sectarian cry—not a cry of "godless schools," not that by any means. It is the cry of moral protection for the community—the backing up, so far as possible, by legal and moral restraint, the solemn and necessary advice given from Sunday to Sunday from the pulpits of the different churches throughout the land. If you want a Sabbath-desecrating Government support the Morris-Morison Government, but if otherwise disposed say no when they appeal to you.

Mother! If Child's Tongue Is Coated

If cross, feverish, constipated, bilious, stomach sour, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."
