KING GEORGE THE FIFTH SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE.

SWIMMING POOL RE-OPEN MARCH 1st, 1922.

The instinctive desire for cleanliness, says Lotze, marks the beginning of a culture; at any rate it indicates a fortunate tendency in that direction. Filth is unendurable in the eyes of those civilized peoples alone who prize, in the case of their bodies, the same degree of purity which they impart to their enterprises and their personal environment.

To-day the Seamen's Institute affords abundant opportunity to enjoy the advantage of the bath not only as a means of cleansing the body but also as a tonic and the promoter of a healthy skin—"the finest undergarment ever invented."

The Pool has been redecorated, recleaned, and new Shower Baths installed. Inspection invited.

Open daily except Sundays from 9 a.m. till 10.30 p.m.
Tuesdays, Ladies only . . . . . 9 a.m. till 10.30 p.m.

Admission—which includes Swim, Hot Shower, Soap and Towel, 20c.

CASCARETS 10¢

For Constipated Bowels—Bilious Liver

The nicest cathartic-laxative to physic your bowels when you have Headache Biliousness
Colds Indigestion
Dizziness Sour Stomach
is candy-like Cascarets. One or two to-night will empty your bowels completely by morning and you will feel splendid. They work while you sleep. Cascarets never stir you up or ripple like Salts, Pills, Calomel, or Oil and they cost only ten cents a box. Children love Cascarets too.

Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"You've been—oh, such a dear to me! I don't know what I should have done without you! And it can't have been much fun for you—taking me about day after day."

"I've never been so happy in my life," Calligan said hoarsely. The words seemed forced from him. "There is only one thing that could make me happier—and that is to see you and Philip."

She broke in with a little high-pitched laugh.
"You'll never see that! There's only a fortnight left, and miracles don't happen nowadays." She brushed the tears from her eyes. "Don't desert me, Tom—you've stood by so faithfully."

She had never called him by his Christian name before, and the blood rushed to his face at the unexpectedness of it.

"You and I have done the wrong thing," he said presently. "At least I was wrong in consenting to what I did. This sort of thing never does any good. You'll only get talked about and

"Do you think I care?"
He shook his head.

"No—not now, perhaps; but I do . . . Eva—go down home—I know it sounds brutal to say that to you . . . but sometimes one has to be cruel to be kind. You say there's only a fortnight left—well—don't spend it in a way for which you may be sorry all your life. Go back to him."

"It's only of Philip you think," she said stormily. "You don't care how often I am hurt and humiliated . . ."

"It is only of you I think," he insisted gently. "And that's why I say this must stop—this . . . this make-believe of you and I going about together . . ."

"You mean you're going to desert me?" she asked in sudden terror. "Oh, don't do that. I've nobody but you—if you throw me over, too . . ."

She was sobbing. In her overwrought state it seemed the last straw that perhaps she was to lose this man as well. Calligan looked away from her. Her sobbing wrung his heart, but he knew he was doing the right thing now if he had never done it before.

"I shall always be your friend," he told her with an effort. "But there are some things in which not even a friend can help you. Go down to Apsley, my dear—don't let him put you in the wrong; don't give him an excuse to blame you—any more."

"You mean that he will blame me—for these last ten days?" she laughed. "I don't care if he does—I don't care what he says or thinks . . ."

There was a little silence, then Calligan said sadly:

"The mere fact of your saying that disproves your words, dear."

She leaned back her hands clasped in her lap.

"I'm going to tell you something now," she said, and her voice was suddenly quiet. "I'm going to tell you the whole truth!" She waited a moment, but he did not speak. "I can trust you, I know, trust you never to tell anyone. I shouldn't be telling you, only—if I don't you'll go away and leave me too, as—as Philip has—and I couldn't bear it . . . Well—well . . . Philip married me because his father had lost all his money, and they were on the verge of ruin; he married me for my money—to save his father."

"I didn't know at the time—he didn't tell me." Her voice was dull monotonous as if she was past feeling or caring. "I found out—on my wedding day," she went on slowly. "Just—just after we—came back—from church."

She looked at Calligan, but he sat motionless, and she went on:
"I nearly went mad—at first, but afterwards . . ." She made a passionate gesture. "Oh, can't you see now that there's no hope! No hope at all! It isn't Philip's fault; he can't make himself care for me. He married me to save his father—"

"We need not have been in such a hurry, need we? Mr. Winterdick only lived three days after the wedding."

She drew a long breath.
"So now—now I've told you everything, you won't ask me to give him any more chances, will you? It's—it's just as embarrassing for him when I try to be nice to him, as it's—it's painful to me . . . He's done his best—the first day he really did his best. He said that he loved me—he begged me to believe it—and for a moment . . . well, just for a moment I almost did . . . I'm so glad that I didn't quite give way—after all . . ."

She stopped, but Calligan did not speak, and presently she touched his arm gently.

"Well? she asked. "You're not going to tell me to go down to Apsley now, are you?"

He roused himself with an effort. "I am—more than ever," he said firmly. "You must go! It's the only way left—can't you see it?"

"I can't see anything except that Philip doesn't want me, and that he wants to get away from me." She broke down into bitter weeping. "Oh, there isn't anybody in all the world who cares for me," she said sobbing.

Calligan did not move; his hands were clenched and he had almost bitten his lip through to try and control himself.

Presently, when she was quieter, he said evenly:
"You mustn't talk like that. Things are never so bad for any of us, but that they might be worse. Come now—"

—he took her hand and patted it comfortingly—"promise me that you will go down to Apsley to-morrow."

"I can't leave Peter."

"Peter can go with you, or stay here and look after himself."

"I don't want to go."

"We never want to do what is our duty. I'm not trying to preach to you, God knows, but—it's for—for both our sakes."

Something in his voice arrested her attention. She looked at him quickly. It was too dark in the cab to see his face at all clearly, but they were just passing a street lamp, and its yellow light shone in through the window, and for a second she had a glimpse of Calligan's face—white and strained, with hopeless eyes.

She knew then that Peter had been right when he said that this man loved her, and she realized, too, with overwhelming shock the appalling selfishness of which she had been guilty. She had been willing to sacrifice him for her own desires; she had never given a serious thought to him, or what he might suffer as a consequence.

Her fingers tightened for a moment round his, then she drew them gently away.

He was asking a great deal of her to go to Apsley, to play the dutiful wife—to throw dust in the eyes of a world that was already wondering; to keep up the farcical pretence until Philip had really gone.

But she owed Calligan something; she was beginning dimly to realize now how much she owed him, and after all—a fortnight was such a little time!

Twice she tried to speak, but could find no words, then at last she said almost in a whisper—
"Very well—if I go, will you—will you promise me something?"

"Yes."
"That if—if I want you—if I—if I can't go on with it, if I have to send for you—or—come back—you won't send me back to him again—will you promise me that?"

"On my word of honour."
She drew back a little.

"Very well, then, I will go."
They had reached the flat, and Calligan opened the door and got out; he avoided looking at Eva.

The taxicab had rolled away into the darkness before he spoke.
"Good night—and God bless you."

She tried to answer him, but could find no words, and the next moment he was walking away down the street.

CHAPTER XL.

Eva locked the front door and put up the chain. She was turning away to her own room when Peter came into the hall. He looked at her very oddly she thought. When he spoke his voice was abrupt and unfriendly.

"Philip has been here," he said.
"Philip?" She stood quite still staring at her brother.

"Yes. There's a note for you in your room." He waited a moment, then "Good-night," he said brusquely.

He made no attempt to kiss her. He walked away to his own room and shut the door.

Eva stood for a moment where he had left her. She felt a little dazed. So Philip had come to the flat after all—and had found her out with Calligan!

Her lips twisted into a wry smile. Well, what did it matter? She put out the light and felt her way to her room in darkness. The first thing she saw was her husband's note propped up against a bowl of roses which Calligan had sent to her only that morning.

There was a sort of irony in the fact. She wondered if Philip had guessed from whom the flowers had come. Anyway it did not matter—nothing seemed to matter.

She went over and took the note up in an envelope. She wondered if Manders had had sufficient curiosity to read it.

She unfolded the paper and looked at her husband's writing. It came over her with a sort of shock that this was the first time he had ever written to her, and inconspicuously, she remembered the note she had written to him that last night at Highway House.

Philip had written in pencil—it made his big, sprawly writing look particularly schoolboyish, and for an instant her heart contracted. There is something so motherly in the love that all good women bear to a man, something that—if appealed to—never fails to respond with a thrill of tenderness, something which even now for a moment brought the tears to Eva's eyes.

Potatoes—Owing to the frosty weather of the past week no potatoes of local growth were brought to the city by the farmers. Imported stocks are again being generally used, and the price is satisfactory to the consumer in comparison with home-grown. When winter is over and cellars can be safely opened a big influx of home-grown from nearby outports will enter the market and, no doubt, will result in a drop in present prices, which are $3.80 to $4.00 for imported 180 lb. sacks and $3.20 to $3.50 for local.

Hay—The local price is firm at $54 per ton ex importers store this week, though large lots were bought at $53.50 from the wharf. The markets of Canada are quiet but firm at $26 to $27 (Montreal) per ton for No. 2 Timothy in car lots, and $28 to $29 for

Do you want your choice of a Suit or Overcoat—cut, made and trimmed in the Spurrell way—at almost your own price? We must have work, even if we don't get profit. SPURRELL the Tailor, 265, Water Street. Jan 29, 1922.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codfish—The exports this week were only 4,523 quintals, all from St. John's; 1,033 by the Schem from various shippers, to U.S. ports, and 3,549 quintals by the schooner Gordon E. Moulton to Fernambuco from Geo. M. Barr. The consumption has improved greatly in the Oporto market, the record sent in this week to the Board of Trade being 9,900 quintals, while the stocks of Newfoundland fish on hand had been reduced to 54,614 qts. The outlook for profitable sales of the limited quantity that is yet to go forward is very good.

Cod Oil—The export of cod oil this week was 7,574 gallons to Boston by the Schem from Tessier and Balne Johnston. The market just now seems to be improving in the New England States, as compared with Great Britain, where most of the February shipments were made via Liverpool. The quantity of fish available is down to low proportions and it looks as if there will be a clean market by the time the new oil is available.

Cod Liver Oil—A small shipment of 250 gallons was made by the Schem to Boston this week from Messrs. Job Bros. The quotation in London recently advanced to 115 shillings c.i.f., but it is too early a stage in the Norwegian fishery to forecast what direction the cod liver oil market will take. The demand is steady just now in the United States for requirements, Norwegian being quoted at $20 to $21 a barrel.

Flour—Wheat continued to advance steadily during the week. There were downward movements some days in the fluctuations, but in the end a steady advance was clearly the tendency. The weather for the winter wheat continues unfavorable, and the export demand has grown stronger, considerable premiums being paid in the United States for cash wheat. Leading brands are no longer easy to get here at $10, wholesale, the general price since Tuesday last being $10.20 per barrel. We expect to see the quotation $10.50 next month, is not sooner. The imports this week were 1,739 barrels and 525 sacks.

Pork—The pork market continues to show strength, and products are advancing steadily in this line since New Year. Mess Pork, for example, is to-day $5.00 per barrel, dearer than it was at the low point in December. In the local market this week the advance was one dollar per barrel over last in this grade, and Spare Ribs went from $28 to $29 per barrel, while Dressed Hogs in Montreal advanced 80 cents per 100 lbs. Fat Back is still quoted here at $28; Ham Butt $32, and Family Mess $45, wholesale. The opinion of the future of the market is best revealed in the fact that to date the St. John's import of pork is 2,900 barrels in excess of last year.

Beef—Beef is unchanged at prices quoted this morning. However, as pork has not on gradual advance dealers say that beef, according to precedent, will ultimately follow in sympathy. We should not, therefore, be surprised to see this commodity stiffen within the next few weeks. To-day the prices are very favorable from the consumers standpoint: Bos. Plank $25.00; Bos. Packet $20.00; Family $21.00; Boneless $21.00, wholesale. The imports to date are about level with last year's record.

Molasses—The sale of new crops molasses opened at Barbados last week at 40 cents a gallon f.o.b. wine measure. The Maritime Province importers have placed limited orders for immediate shipment at this figure. A feeling prevails that the quotation will be cut later in the spring, and Quebec buyers are therefore holding off, as well as the majority of Newfoundland importers. The crop is reported to be a good one and there will likely be no rush. The local quotation for old molasses holds at 80 cents a gallon in the puncheon for Fancy, three cents additional in tierces and five cents more in barrels. Holdings are getting short.

Sugar—There is no change in the local sugar market this week, nor is there likely to be for some months, according to the opinion of exporters. Sugar is being offered for April shipment at unchanged prices. The local quotation is now $10.25 per 100 lb. United States market is firmer with good export demand. The imports of sugar last year was about one million tons less than in 1920.

Potatoes—Owing to the frosty weather of the past week no potatoes of local growth were brought to the city by the farmers. Imported stocks are again being generally used, and the price is satisfactory to the consumer in comparison with home-grown. When winter is over and cellars can be safely opened a big influx of home-grown from nearby outports will enter the market and, no doubt, will result in a drop in present prices, which are $3.80 to $4.00 for imported 180 lb. sacks and $3.20 to $3.50 for local.

Hay—The local price is firm at $54 per ton ex importers store this week, though large lots were bought at $53.50 from the wharf. The markets of Canada are quiet but firm at $26 to $27 (Montreal) per ton for No. 2 Timothy in car lots, and $28 to $29 for

Blair's NEW SALE SYSTEM "DIFFERENT SELLING"

MEANS BARGAIN PRICES FOR YOU.

Owing to changing and present conditions of business, we are considering this year running our merchandising and selling differently.

Part of this change will be the cleaning up of goods of which we have an overstock, or goods the season of which is passing, at prices which will not necessarily mean any consideration of the cost of these goods. Customers will however note that all such prices can hardly be expected to be held indefinitely and they will do well to seek advantage of same early.

In our "Different Selling" Campaign we also aim to achieve other results which will be unfolded later.

We open our "Different Selling" Campaign with the following Reductions and Bargains:

- CORTICELLI WOOL in balls. Regular 25c., at . . . . .19c. ball
- LADIES' ENGLISH WOOL GLOVES. Regular $1.25 and $1.35 pair, at . . . . .89c. and 99c. pair
- LADIES' BLACK FLEECED WOOL CASHMERE GLOVES. sizes 6 to 8, at the ridiculously low price of . . . . .35c. pair only
- MEN'S TAN LINED KID GLOVES, as sold elsewhere at $3.00 to $3.50 pair. Blair's "Different Selling Price" . . . . . $1.95 pair
- LADIES' BUTTONED GAITERS—Medium heel; sizes 2 1/2 to 6. Regular $3.60 for . . . . . $2.95 pair
- LADIES' HIGHEST QUALITY RUBBERS—Medium and high heels. Regular $1.30 to $1.40 pair. Now . . . . . $1.10 pair
- LADIES' WHITE CASHMERE STANFIELD COMBINATIONS. Price last year was $7.00, this year $5.50. Blair's "Different Selling Price" to clear only . . . . . $3.95
- WOMEN'S WHITE AND NATURAL CASHMERE "NEW KNIT" WOOL VESTS AND PANTS—Prices ranged from $2.00 to $2.80. Now only . . . . . $1.25 each
- WOMEN'S WHITE FLEECED VESTS AND DRAWERS. "Blair's Different Selling Price" . . . . . 63c. each only
- WOMEN'S BLACK AND NAVY SERGE SKIRTS. Our price was $9.50 each—as they were bought when Serges were high. Our price now is . . . . . $3.50

These are Wool Serge makes and this ridiculously low price is under present cost. We don't expect many will be left now.

We are also chopping the prices of all other Costume Skirts to reduce the quantity we have in stock.

WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S WINTER COATS. If you are interested in these, we are offering them at ridiculously low prices rather than carry them over till next season.

Boys' Winter Overcoats

Never Again Will You Get Such an Offer. LONG WINTER OVERCOATS—All with good Italian linings; ages 8 to 17 years, only . . . . . $5.90 each. It is unnecessary to say these cannot be made at this price.

Men's Winter Overcoats

LONG LENGTHS, WELL LINED. One Coat was priced last season at $22.00. We are clearing it up now at . . . . . $7.50 each only. Other Men's Overcoats we offer you now at . . . . . $12.00 and $15.00 each. The $15.00 ones were priced last season at $35.00. IF YOU NEED AN OVERCOAT THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

Ladies' Fur Sets, Collars & Muffs at HALF PRICE.

Owing to so many Fur Collars being worn on coats and so many Wool Scarves being used now, Fur Sales have been off the past two seasons. We are clearing up our stock of Furs at absolutely HALF PRICE only, as our highest price. Never again will you have Fur Values like these offered you.

It hurts us, really, to have to make some of these prices, but we are out to give you values that you will always remember.

DON'T WAIT! BUY EARLY! AND AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT.

Whooping Cough.

Mr. Robert Wilks, 837-103rd Ave., Edmonton, Alta., writes:—"I really believe we would have lost our two-year-old baby with whooping cough had it not been for Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine. He would cough and cough until he would fall back in my arms white as death. We had a doctor for him, but his medicine did not do him any good. We got a bottle of Linseed and Turpentine and to our surprise it did wonders for him. After the second dose there was a difference in his condition, and we kept giving it to him until he was entirely well."

Prince's Indian Visit a Huge Success.

Welcomed at Lahore by Cheering Thousands--Anglo-Irish Delegates Now in Convention--Lloyd George May Propose Ten Year European Truce--Simplicity Will Mark Royal Trousseau.

WELCOMED AT LAHORE. The Prince of Wales arrived here Saturday and received a cordial welcome from large crowds notwithstanding the fact that Lahore has been considered the storm centre of the world for weeks a martial had been declared and the city closed to foreigners as unsafe. Last week a riot broke out mysteriously sprang up among crowds of natives. The martial did not forbid attendance upon the fair these crowds gathered to see the glittering train of the Prince's entourage. The visit was completely ignored. Lahore marks the culminating point in the progress of the visit to India of the Prince of Wales. Nothing remains in the official program which gives cause for uneasiness.

STATE DELEGATES IN LONDON. LONDON, Feb. 26. The South of Ireland Provincial Government, here today to meet with the British Cabinet the agreement reached by the Sinn Fein National Convention in London to postpone for three months the election of a parliament for the Free State, refused to discuss the subject either in the details of the mission, or the identity of the members of their party. The members will first consult with Winston Churchill and may, possibly, not meet until the end of the week-end in the country.

THE USUAL QUIBBLE. WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. The four-Power Pacific Treaty, together with its supplements and reservations and the naval limitation and sub treaties were ordered favorably reported yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The reservation attached by the Committee to the Four-Power Pact embodies a compromise suggested after the Conference at Geneva. Lloyd George intended to propose at the Conference a ten year truce in Europe to afford opportunity for reconstruction. In lack of anything official on the subject Foreign Office quarters would not comment on the reported proposition, but it was indicated that further details would be eagerly awaited.

SMOOTHLY. LONDON, Feb. 26. Delegates of the Irish Provisional Government had a conference with Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and the Leming-Worthington Evans, Secretary for War. The discussions aimed to have proceeded smoothly, but both sides are reported to be taking a cheerful view of the situation.

LOLLO GEORGE SAYS RELIGIOUS REVIVAL NEEDED. LONDON, Feb. 26. Lloyd George entertained leading Free Church ministers at breakfast at Downing Street Saturday, and urged the necessity of the Churches stimulating a spiritual revival in order to improve the material conditions of the people. The Premier supported his contention by reference to European and British history, and declared that at present England needed a religious revival more than anything. It is being suggested the Premier, who has always enjoyed non-conformist support, has been perturbed by the fact that two Independent Liberals are to speak at the coming National Free Church Council Meeting.

THE GEDDES AXE. LONDON, Feb. 26. The Ministerial view of the probable influence of the Geddes report on the Parliamentary prospects of members of the Cabinet was disclosed last night by Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, who said that every member of the Government might lose his seat in the Commons as a consequence of the report.

MR. CULLEN'S SUMMING-UP. Mr. Cullen sums up by speaking of the "injustice of one form of religious teaching being enforced and paid for in all schools by the state in addition to all other religious teachings," which would certainly be a vicious and wrong thing to do, if it were true. There would, however, be no form whatever of religious teaching, in the sense Mr. Cullen implies, taught in state schools. None whatever, absolutely. I can guarantee Mr. Cullen that he or anyone else could take a classroom full of Anglican, Roman Catholic and Methodist children and teach them religious axioms or truths, which would not interfere with their denominational religions. Mr. Cullen also speaks of the "injustice of compelling Jews, Roman Catholics and Church people to pay . . . for this one form of religion of which they disapprove."

Mr. Cullen and State Schools.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I do not offer myself as an educationalist, nor as an expert on the school question. At the same time as the one who led the case, for state schools in the debate which seems to have given rise to the present discussion on the subject, I might be permitted to attempt a rejoinder to the interesting letter of the leader of the negative side in that debate, my good friend Mr. V. Cullen. Readers of your paper will remember that the Cathedral debating club went overwhelmingly in favor of state schools in the vote which followed the debate. Mr. Cullen has fallen into one or two serious errors or, shall we say, misconceptions, of what state schools would entail. With the exception of these errors we will all cheerfully subscribe to the arguments which he brings forward. Religious education certainly does not—or at least one would not think that it did—consist of a mere knowledge of Biblical episodes and characters, as he says. Also, of course, religion is a very necessary work of a normal man a makeup. A man without religion is nearer the lower order side of life than he perhaps imagines. These are things with which we all agree.

THE FIRST QUARREL.

My first quarrel with Mr. Cullen is concerning his definition of education. Education can only be religious education, says he. Now, surely that is a statement which can not be entertained. Mr. Cullen is right when he says that education is the drawing out of what is already in a man, or the forming of character. Learning means putting something in the man. The mistake that he makes is in supposing that education can only be religious education. According to his theory, only a Christian can be educated, because education consists of religious education, and religion is the Christian religion. Therefore, no Jew is educated. No Buddhist, no Mahomedan, no agnostic and no atheist is or can be educated. Surely, surely, Mr. Editor, this is not the case. Think for a moment of the many scientists of greatness and genius who were not Christians, who did not believe in God or in Jesus. Think of Darwin or Huxley, or Haeckel. These not educated men? These men people. The Premier supported his contention by reference to European and British history, and declared that at present England needed a religious revival more than anything. It is being suggested the Premier, who has always enjoyed non-conformist support, has been perturbed by the fact that two Independent Liberals are to speak at the coming National Free Church Council Meeting.

PRINCESS MARY'S TROUSSEAU.

LONDON, Feb. 26. Simplicity is the keynote of Princess Mary's trousseau, now practically completed at Buckingham Palace for her marriage to Viscount Lascelles on Tuesday. Except for the wedding dress itself, which conforms to the precedents of English history for attire of Royal brides, blue is the predominant note of the other robes, while a cloak of silver with sheen of moonlight forms the foundation of the wedding dress.

THE GEDDES AXE.

LONDON, Feb. 26. The Ministerial view of the probable influence of the Geddes report on the Parliamentary prospects of members of the Cabinet was disclosed last night by Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, who said that every member of the Government might lose his seat in the Commons as a consequence of the report.

MR. CULLEN'S SUMMING-UP.

Mr. Cullen sums up by speaking of the "injustice of one form of religious teaching being enforced and paid for in all schools by the state in addition to all other religious teachings," which would certainly be a vicious and wrong thing to do, if it were true. There would, however, be no form whatever of religious teaching, in the sense Mr. Cullen implies, taught in state schools. None whatever, absolutely. I can guarantee Mr. Cullen that he or anyone else could take a classroom full of Anglican, Roman Catholic and Methodist children and teach them religious axioms or truths, which would not interfere with their denominational religions. Mr. Cullen also speaks of the "injustice of compelling Jews, Roman Catholics and Church people to pay . . . for this one form of religion of which they disapprove."

of no character? Buddha and Confucius men of no character? Plato and Socrates and Demosthenes and Aristotle men of no character or education? Here is my proof that Mr. Cullen believes that religious education has to be Christian religious education. "Religious education first and above all leads the child to a true and living faith in God, Father, Son and Holy Ghost." Only Christians believe in the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Therefore, according to him, only Christians can be educated. Therefore, according to him, all Christians are and cannot help being educated, because they have "a true and living faith in the Father, Son and Holy Ghost."

UNDENOMINATIONALISM.

Mr. Cullen also falls into much confusion when he talks of "undenominational religion." As advocates of un- or inter-denominational Education mean the word, it is simply teaching the Bible and facts. In inter-denominational schools the teachers would not, positively would not, teach religion, in the generally accepted meaning, which is denominationalism. They would, certainly, teach certain bits of morality common to all good religions, such as abhorrence of lying, stealing, cowardly killing, etc. They would teach the children to be good and brave and chivalrous and generous, but they would not teach denominational religion. If there is such a thing as undenominational religion, it is that. However, the word interdenominational means, simply, that the various denominations would come together in the matter of schools, and that children of different denominations would go to school together. It is not undenominational religion, but undenominational education, that is proposed. The teachers would not teach religion, in the popular meaning of that much-abused word, in state schools. The state could never uphold religion, or pay for its propagation. The state would allow and indeed compel its teachers to teach religion in the broad, or real sense, which is really morality. Morality is not something confined to denominations, or even specifically to any particular religion. The state would not, however, pay teachers to teach denominational religion to children. If the denominations wanted to teach their own denominational religion, they would have to do it themselves. They would have to come in school, in or out of school hours, according to arrangement, and take the children of their own denomination apart and instruct them. The teachers would not do it. The teachers would only teach them general principles of good morality, which of course is religion in its true sense.

THE RIGHT PLACE.

Any way, the right place to teach denominational religion is in the Sunday Schools, Bible Classes and Churches of the denominations, with all respect to Mr. Cullen's view. As a matter of fact, of course, this is mostly what is done. I have gone to schools of three denominations—Anglican, Roman Catholic and Methodist. In the Methodist school I was taught no religion. In the Roman Catholic I had my own choice to go out of school when they were teaching the catechism. In Bishop Feild College, where I went for five or six years, very little religion indeed was taught in school. Rev. J. Brinton used to come down to us in the Third and Fourth forms for an hour a week. On Sunday mornings Mr. Wood, headmaster, used to talk to us boarders about morality and cleanliness, etc., and I must say that those talks of his were very fine. I do not think I ever heard Mr. Wood teach the Anglican religion to us. I dare say it is like this over all the country. Perhaps—who can say—under state schools there would be more religion, even denominational religion, taught than there is now. The various denominations would be jealous of their children, and would be more zealous in getting their teaching to their children.

MR. CULLEN'S SUMMING-UP.

Mr. Cullen sums up by speaking of the "injustice of one form of religious teaching being enforced and paid for in all schools by the state in addition to all other religious teachings," which would certainly be a vicious and wrong thing to do, if it were true. There would, however, be no form whatever of religious teaching, in the sense Mr. Cullen implies, taught in state schools. None whatever, absolutely. I can guarantee Mr. Cullen that he or anyone else could take a classroom full of Anglican, Roman Catholic and Methodist children and teach them religious axioms or truths, which would not interfere with their denominational religions. Mr. Cullen also speaks of the "injustice of compelling Jews, Roman Catholics and Church people to pay . . . for this one form of religion of which they disapprove."

many children of one denomination go to schools or colleges of different denominations? And are they insured by it? I am personally of the opinion that the mixing of children of different denominations serves to soften and make mellow the fess of sectarian hate which keep the people of this unhappy country, so much at each other's throats. Regarding state schools it will be noted that Mr. Cullen does not go into the economics of the question at all. He brings forward some objections, and these objections are, I suggest, without wishing to be dogmatic, untenable in the light of investigation.

Yours sincerely, J. R. SMALLWOOD.

In Memoriam

On Friday, Feb. 17th, the soul of John Devereaux winged its flight to its eternal reward. Being a young man, just in the prime of life, having almost attained his 33rd birthday, his death comes as a great blow to his grief stricken father and sisters, he being the last of three sons of whom any family might well feel proud, one brother being Rev. Fr. Tom Devereaux who died at Argentina in 1918 whose memory will ever be held sacred; and Alden, the youngest of the three "who sleeps where poppies grow on Cambria's battlefield," made the supreme sacrifice in November, 1917, was a great favorite with everyone.

Girls' Hockey.

EXCITING GAME.
 The best hockey seen at the Prince's this year was the unanimous opinion of the hundreds of fans who saw the play to a draw on Saturday night. The score was 2 goals to 2. Eddie had charge of the game and look at all comfortable when he sent some of the fair hockey-ers to the fence for infractions of the rules. There were really too many fouls for a girls' game. Perhaps the referee was a little too strict. He should have realized that the girls did not know so much about the game as he did. The game started in a forceful and both goalkeepers were heavily engaged in looking for a goal and keeping their eyes on it they found it, in case it should be into their respective nets. One goal before the end of the first period. Miss Mary Power (Mercy Convent) ran through and scored. The second period was a thrilling one and a telegram reporter had to hang on his pulse so that it would not beat with excitement. Shortly after the start, Miss Rose Berrigan scored for the Mercy Convent and a second later Miss Annie Hunter scored the first goal for the Methuen College. The third period opened with excellent combination by both teams and the fact that nearly all the points of passes were off side did not detract from the pretence of the play. A few minutes after the start Miss Jean Parsons obtained the equalizer and no further goals were scored for the game. One fortunate player received an operator's stick in the eye and had to leave the ice. The other team, in a very sporting manner, then decided to drop out of their players so as to even up. Everybody is anxious to see the next girls' hockey. The line-up is:

METHODIST

Goal. M. Robertson
 Defence. H. Moulton
 F. Soper
 Forwards. M. Lawrence
 Jean Parsons
 A. Hunter
SPARES.
 M. Lawrence, A. Martin.

Excellent Programme at the Nickel To-Day.

The management of the Nickel offers the week-opening a tremendous programme, consisting of a grand show and solo numbers by Miss Chase and Mr. George Dale.
 The portion of the bill is an attraction that cannot be heard any day, the picture to-night is the great
 "Morris" story, entitled,
 "Morris." How the blunder of the doctor in needlessly cutting both his legs when he was a little boy became a cunning campaign of the end destruction for society, is the theme of this wonderful "Blizzard," king of the underworld, has a most difficult part to play. "Blizzard" is supposed to be a man whose legs have been cut off at the knees. To do this part, he must go with the lower part of his legs strapped back and must walk on his knees. In "The Penalty" you will see the screen's greatest actor in his greatest performance.

FROM INJURIES.—Patrick of St. Brice's, died recently from injuries to his arm, caused by an explosion which exploded. The arm was cut off several years ago a similar accident happened to Nolan of his other

THE THINGS I MUST DO.

I'm the sort of a fellow that's fond of his ease. I should like every day to do just as I please. I don't want to work and I don't want to sigh. I don't want the wind to blow dust in my eye. I don't want the rain when it's my day to play. I'd rather be happy than sad any day. Yet in spite of my wishes for skies that are fair. The days come along with my portion of care.

I've learned, as I've traveled the buoy years through. Life is made up of things that I don't want to do. I must frequently go when I'd much rather stay. I must buckle to work when 'twere nicer to play. I am fond of my bed and I'd like to remain. But the morning returns with its duties again. And I have to get up to the old round again of various tasks that I don't want to do.

Now whenever there come to me things I don't like. I don't sit and sigh and I don't go on strike. Though I'd not invite trouble or anguish or care. When they come I don't say that this life is unfair. Though it may be unpleasant and not what I'd choose. To meet it and bear it, it's vain to refuse. I try to be cheerful and cling to my trust. That all shall be well if I do what I must.

Clean Up Those Records.

Gramophone records get dull when they have been in use for some little time, even though you may have taken every care to keep them free from dust.

Wonders can be worked in the space of one short second, however; and the distinctness of the records can be greatly improved in the following simple way.

Get three pennyworth of petrol and a web of cotton wool, and, just before the record is fitted on the gramophone, dip the wool in the petrol and give the record a rub all over, following the direction of the "tune."

Wipe the record with a silk handkerchief (to pick up the tiny specks of dust that have accumulated during the record's life) and your record will be as fresh as new.

The Best in Life.

If you desire the best that life can give, it is not money that will win for you the ever-present joys that live. And fill your heart with sunshine through and through. Nor is it what the foolish count as fame. Often a poor and empty thing at best—A paltry list of letters to your name Adds naught to life of zest. The best in life is given unto those Who know the secret of a happy smile. That radiates as perfume from the rose Who gladly help a lame dog over the stile; Who, having little, as the world might say, Are rich in friends. Such riches are untold. They last unto the ending of the day And count for more than gold.

SOMETHING TO WATCH FOR AND BE INTERESTED IN.

A Gift That Keeps Coming.

A subscription to a magazine or a newspaper is ideal because it is something to look forward to from day to day and month to month.

Another friend of mine had a shut-in friend to whom she longed to give all sorts of good gifts. But her means were very limited and she could do little in a material way. Finally she worked out this scheme of giving. The shut-in was always longing for something to read. There was a good public library in the town but no one in her family had both the time and the judgment to get her the books she would enjoy. So my friend made it her gift to go once a week to the library and spend time and pains and judgment getting interesting books.

If one has magazines in one's house one can send them along either to personal friends who are shut-ins or to those with whom the Sunshine Bulletin is always glad to put one in touch.

Gifts That Cost Next to Nothing.

Another gracious little habit, is to cut out stories you thing may specially appeal to someone, bind them in brown paper and send; or to collect the installments of a serial until you have a completed story, then bind and pass along.

There is one gift which every shut-in greatly enjoys and which can be made by anyone who can spare two cents and half an hour. I suppose I hardly need tell you that I refer to an interesting letter. Pack it with news of your small doings, gossip, (I don't mean malicious gossip, of course, just little chitchat—Mrs. M. is going to have another baby, Mrs. J. has had her mother's seal skin coat made into a shawl collar, etc.) and send it along, and the shut-in as she listens to the postman's ring, brightens at the sight of a letter, peruses it eagerly and then lies thinking it all over, will surely feel as if she had received a good gift.

Fish Foretell Weather.

Long before any barometer has indicated the approach of rain, you may see salmon and other fish behaving in the most excited way. They roll about, splashing on the top of the water, and at times leap high out of it. Why?

The body of every fish, with the exception of flat-fish, such as soles, plaice, turbot, and a few other, contains a large bag of very thin skin, called the swim-bladder. This bladder is tightly filled with air, and as soon as the slightest change occurs in the pressure of the atmosphere the air in his swim-bladder informs the fish of it. If it feels uncomfortably tight, then the barometer is falling. It is the discomfort caused by the enlarging of the swim-bladder that makes fish so restless on the approach of rain.

Birds, like fish, carry their own barometers. The bones of a bird are not filled with marrow; they are hollow, it is true, but the space within them is filled with air, and there are other air reservoirs in a bird's body. Flying is such hard work that an extra supply of air is needed to keep the blood in proper condition, and these reservoirs contain a kind of "emergency ration" of air that can be used as it is required.

The smallest change in the pressure of the atmosphere is felt by birds just as it is by fish. You may see them wheeling about and uttering strange cries as they make their way to the sheltered sides of woods and hedges.

NERVOUS AND RUN DOWN

Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cobourg, Ontario.—"For many years I have had my nerves in my nerves and have been in a general run-down condition for some time. I could not do my work half the time because of trouble every month. I was told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and advised to try it. It has done me good and I strongly recommend it. Since I have taken it I have been able to do all my own work and I also know friends who have found it good. You can use these facts as a testimonial."

—Mrs. ELLEN PLATTEN, Box 761, Cobourg, Ontario.

Any woman in this condition should take the Vegetable Compound, for it has helped other women and so it should help you.

For nearly fifty years this good old-fashioned root and herb medicine, which contains no narcotics nor harmful drugs, has been the standard medicine for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Allments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

INDUSTRY.

"By industry we thrive," remarked some ancient sage, who, when he was alive, pulled down some kind of wage. I know not how he wrought, I cannot name his trade; perhaps to town he brought some benefit newly laid; perhaps he used the dope to cure a cold; perhaps he peddled bricks that had a skin of gold. For ages he's been gone to better, brighter spheres, and still his words roll on, down all the living years. By industry we thrive; great words and trenchant, these! So in this human hive let's hum around like bees; but all this toil is vain unless, from day to day, in manner safe and sane, we salt the coin away. I've known a thousand men whose diligence was fine, but they put down no yen in the preserving brine. They blew in all they earned for things they didn't need; with nutty zeal they burned their store of chicken-fee. Days after days they slaved to earn the weekly check; and not a red they saved when payday was on deck. So when disaster came, and tribulations, and sickness quered their game, and wolves were at the door, they had no helpful wad, the product of their sweat, and wearily they chawed the cud of black regret. To toil is not enough, man's welfare to insure; but he must save the stuff, the rhino, cold and pure.

"When I say that I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Tanlac," said Jos. B. Drake, 480 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone who finds the hearty way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the lightest kind of diet."

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to drive the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

The Medicine Girl of Japan.

The medicine vendors of Tokio, Japan, are many and of various kinds, but among them none can compare with the girl who hails from Echigo, the cold northern province. She haunts the crowded districts, her country appearance in striking contrast to that of the trim city maiden.

But the girl from Echigo does not care a particle about her nonconformity with fashion; she has a mission to fulfil.

Generally short of stature, but strong and stout as a pony, her eyes look frankly forth underneath a wide straw hat, tied under her chin with red cords. Her broad country face beams with health and good nature. She wears a kimono short to the knees, and leggings of dark blue that reach to her rough-shod feet. The very long, narrow apron hangs down in front and the coarse straw sandals she wears give her a peculiar style. She has a walk all her own and a particular poise of her body, this wild bird, the daughter of Echigo Province.

She generally rambles through Tokio with a companion who is her counterpart, and when her presence is made known it is also clear that the whole band to which she belongs is also in Tokio, the members of it operating in different quarters of this great city.

She belongs to a medicine guild that sends its members to sell the balls of earth taken from the compound of some Echigo temple and said to be a sure remedy for certain human ailments. So she comes from the mountains and valleys of her native country and arrives in the capital, where she lives in cheap lodgings with many of her sisters for protection.

The Echigo maid's introduction to the complex life in Tokio must prove to her a liberal education. Simple as she may seem, with her stooping figure, her wide hat, her long apron trailing down in front and her muddy sandals, her medicine box slung over her shoulder, and her big leather

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF PLAYING CARDS.

The history of playing cards extends over hundreds of years, and various theories have been mooted as to their origin. Many Eastern nations, especially those of India, China, and Egypt—possessed cards long before the Christian era. The earliest known European cards were those of the East, and were used by the wise men of the East for centuries with great veneration. It is considered that the medium of the celestial powers, and that playing cards were invented by Europeans. It is said that they were known in the East as early as 1379, and that the Saracens introduced them to Europe at an earlier date. The first cards were called "Nabis," and the Hebrew word "Nabi" means a prophet. The word "Nabi" was used to designate the divination of cards as for the future. Various explanations have been given as to the name. The divination by means of cards was supposed to be found in the Egyptian "Book of Thoth." Thoth, the Egyptian god of wisdom, was supposed to have been the guardian of the sacred books of the gods. Outside of a few of the museums, there are no cards to be found. The cards were represented by priests, emperors, devils and devils. Later on numerals were placed on the cards so that they could be played with them. The beginning of the fifteenth century had games of cards comsult has also close reference to affairs of the home and to both the domestic and social sides of life. Diamonds are representative of financial matters, small and great, with a generally favourable signification. Clubs stand for prosperity, a happy home life with intelligent pleasures and successful undertakings. Spades forbode evil. They speak of sickness, death, monetary losses and anxieties, separation from friends and dear ones. They are also representative of love, appealing exclusively to the senses.

First Salvation Band.

The very first bandman of the Salvation Army is now living at Gillingham, Kent. He is Mr. Fred W. Fry, chief clerk of the Gillingham Corporation.

Mr. Fry was living at Salisbury when the Christian Mission—as it was first called—was started in 1878, but before the year was out the title of Salvation Army had been adopted. Playing a cornet, Mr. Fry led the musical part of the service. Soon his father and mother and two brothers joined him, with other instruments, and there was thus formed the first Salvation Army band. Later, as a travelling band, the Frys toured all parts of the country with the late General Booth.

Mr. Fry (now a Wesleyan local preacher) is well known to Salvationists as the composer of several of their most popular tunes.

Where Spools Come From.

Scarcely any article in common use is as little regarded as the wooden spool, yet this bit of turned timber is of the utmost importance in the commercial life of the country. Without it the thread manufacturer or would face enormous difficulties, and every manufacturer and housewife using thread—and it is astonishing how few industries do not use thread in greater or less quantities—would be subjected to great inconveniences and loss.

Every sewing device in the world, except the simple hand needle, is designed with the idea that the thread it is to use will come wound on a wooden spool.

The manufacturer of wooden spools has come to be very largely a New England industry, and Maine takes the lion's share. Factories there turn out about 1,000 million spools annually, which have a market value of about one and a half million dollars.

Only the best quality of timber is used in the manufacture of spools, the white birch, used almost exclusively, reaching the factory in bars 1/2 to 2 9-16 inches square, and 3/4 to 4 feet long. These bars must be absolutely clear. The birch is cut in winter and sawed in small portable mills, which operate as near a railway line as possible.

About two and one-third cords of timber are required for one thousand feet of bars. After sawing, the bars are piled cross-wise, in order to facilitate seasoning and protected from the weather, are allowed to cure until June. About 15 million feet of bars are consumed by the spool factories, and an equal amount is exported to Scotland and England.

Spool making machines are complicated, and require skilled workers for their operation. The spools drop from the lathe one a second, and must be uniform, else they will not work satisfactorily in the thread winding machines or on the sewing machines when in final use.

So far, no equally good and cheap substitute for the wooden spool has been placed upon the market, but probably, as suitable spool timber grows scarcer, a composition spool will appear.

Wood pulp, apparently, will lend itself readily to this use.

Prince of Wales' Rink Notes.

At to-night's game between the Saints and Terra Novas, during the second interval (about 2:30) Mrs. W. Angus Reid, wife of the Chairman of the Rink Directors, has kindly agreed to present the medals won at the recent Ice Sports Championship meet.

Much interest is being taken in the Grand Carnival to be held on Tuesday evening next in honor of Princess Mary's marriage, and the Rink management has been more than fortunate in being able to get Miss May Furlong and Mr. Geo. F. Kearney to kindly agree to act as judges. As everybody knows, up to a few years ago Miss Furlong was responsible for the costumes of most of the best dressed women in St. John's, and what George doesn't know about men's dress you can't learn clear of Bond Street, London, even if you can learn it there.

Talking about costumes, there seems to be an idea fairly prevalent that a costume should be a costume, and that a masquerader dressed in his (or her) ordinary clothing and carrying a tray containing excellent representations of topical happenings in paper mache, is not strictly in the category of a masquerader. We are making this remark for what it is worth, and, in doing so, are not casting any reflection on the judgment of the ladies who so kindly judged the costumes at the youngsters' Carnival on Saturday when one or two such representations were awarded prizes. In these instances these prizes were awarded because the competitors evidently went to great trouble to provide really clever representations of local happenings. As far as the "grown-ups" go, however, we cannot imagine that at, say, a New Year's Eve Fancy Dress Ball at the Savoy, anybody turning up in an ordinary suit of clothes with a tray round his middle containing, say, a well done representation in cardboard of the Princess Mary's wedding, would get much consideration when it came to the awarding of the prizes.

Talking of prizes, it has been decided to offer Cash Prizes on Tuesday night. Surely the lady masqueraders cannot expect a mere man to know what they might like to spend twenty dollars on and when it comes to picking out prizes for the men it is difficult to know whether the winner might prefer a silver cigarette case, two pairs of silk pyjamas or four bottles of "Royal Household" (including scripts). There's nothing like the "kale" after all! Therefore, the prizes are one "twenty" and one "ten" for the ladies, and ditto for the men, and if you don't believe there's so much money in the world, the "prizes" are on exhibition in the Royal Stationery Co.'s window.

The twenty dollar bills, by the way, are not the kind Billy Clouston took in payment of his account from the Bank!

The Rink management has been obliged to come to a definite decision regarding the admission of spectators to special games held between 6:30 and 7:30 in the evening, and that is that spectators will have to pay the ordinary admission fee to the Rink, viz., 25c. for adults and 10c. for juveniles. This is brought about by the fact that about twenty per cent of the spectators admitted to the match between the Mercy Convent and Methodist College girls on Saturday night for ten cents tried to "beat" the Rink by remaining for the evening's skating without paying any further admission and were only ejected with the greatest difficulty.

Early Morning Blaze.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday morning the Central and East End fire companies were called to Smyth building, corner of Water Street and Beck's Cove. The fire was on the upper flat of the building and was first discovered by Head Constable Savage, who in going his rounds noticed smoke issuing from the windows. A few minutes after the firemen arrived. Several good streams of water were brought to the seat of the fire and the blaze was gotten under control. The fire originated in the hall on the top floor, but the cause is not definitely known. The floor was eaten through by a fire, and but for the timely discovery a serious blaze would have resulted. The damage by fire was not serious, but the building suffered much from water. The offices of Messrs. B. McGrath, G. V. Pippy, W. J. Crotty, J. O'Donnell and R. H. Tait were flooded, as was also the Gen's Furnishing store of Mr. George Kearney on the ground floor. Much of the goods, however, were saved from damage by the foresight of the Inspector General. He had two sails procured from the premises of Messrs. Bowring Bros. and A. H. Murray spread over the stock. It is understood that sufficient insurance is carried to cover the loss on the building and stock owned by Mr. Kearney. Those who occupied the offices, however, as far as can be learned, did not carry insurance.

If you have property to insure the following may interest you. The Motor Union Insurance Company, Limited, Head Office, London, E.C.4, with funds exceeding $18,000,000 will insure property of every description against loss by fire at lowest rates. For promptness and satisfaction in settling claims the following is an illustration. In the conflagration which destroyed the Cabot Building on February 6th, and damaged property adjoining, we had seven claims against us totalling $15,000 which we paid the same month as the fire occurred. MILLER & CO. Agents for Nfld. Office: Room 21, Bank of Nova Scotia Building, Water Street, P.O. Box 1023. Telephone 849. feb27,11

And so you fell for the Princess Mary cable story, did you, reader? Ever hear before of the man who signed it "Adam Light"? It's "Adam-light" you didn't!

And, finally, the record crowd of the season is expected at the Rink on Thursday evening next when the Sports towards Rev. Col. Nangle's Memorial Fund come off. You should be there and your wife and the seventeen children, bring seventeen of somebody else's. A large committee is working like niggers to make it a success in every detail. And it only costs 25c. to get in this time.

The Air Mail Put Into Poetry.

EDDIE MCGINLEY HAS A GOOD ONE TO SPRING. To-night patrons of the Crescent will see Eddie McGinley in an entire change of vaudeville. Eddie has been busy lately making poetry, most of which he has localized for the benefit of his friends. His first localization is a unique bit of poetry dedicated to the "Hallfax Air Mail." This piece is intensely humorous, although it does not contain any offence whatever. Eddie will also be heard in new monologues, songs and jokes. He will present a new characterisation that is a sure glom-haser. See Eddie at the Crescent to-night and forget your worries; he's a sure cure.

Obituary.

On Monday last, February 20th, death claimed as its victim one of Bell Island's oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Mr. Daniel Dwyer. Deceased had been ill but a short while before the summons came, and the news of his death came as a shock to those who knew him. Representing as he did one of the oldest families and pioneer settlers on the Island, he was known and respected by many to whom his acquaintanceship was a comfort and a pleasure. In him the poor always found a friend and the sorrowful a sympathising heart. The knowledge of his life will always prove a consolation to those who are left behind to mourn the loss of a husband, loving father, and sincere friend. Deceased leaves a wife, two sons, and two daughters residing at Bell Island, also Mrs. W. J. Murphy of this city and Thomas Dwyer of Boston to whom the deepest sympathy of the community is extended.

Schooner Isobel Moore Arrives.

TOWED TO PORT BY S.S. SAGONA. The schooner Isobel Moore, Captain "Tibo," 50 days out from Gibraltar, with a cargo of salt, reached port Saturday night, being towed in by S.S. Sagona. The vessel had fine weather for the first eleven days after leaving the other side. After reaching lat. 43.30, W., long. 33. N., strong headwinds were encountered and little progress could be made. During a heavy gale from the South, some of the vessel's canvas was blown away. The gale chopped from the N.W. after about 12 hours and continued until the 19th January. On this day ice was encountered but the vessel was kept on her course. Very little progress, however, could be made, owing to intense frost and strong winds preventing the crew from putting on sufficient canvas. On the 23rd inst., the S.S. Sagona, bound to the assistance of the S.S. Sisto, was sighted. The steamer bore down on the vessel and gave her provisions and fuel. After proceeding to the Sisto the Sagona returned and took the schooner in tow. A hawser was made fast and the tow to port began, but owing to heavy ice the job was very difficult. The hawser parted several times and eventually a 6 inch wire hawser had to be put into service. On Saturday night, however, more trouble was experienced when the chocks were torn from the stern of the steamer. On entering the narrows yesterday our hand caught and fingers crushed whilst handling the hawser, otherwise all on board are well after their eventful trip. The vessel was brought to Duckworth Street, or to Mr. Chancy at 6 o'clock last evening.

The Millennium.

A lively interest was manifested last night at the Adventist Church as Evangelist B. E. Manuel addressed his audience on the subject of the Millennium, taking as a basis of his discourse Rev. 20: 1-10. The speaker made it very clear that the thousand year period, spoken of six times in this scripture, "It begins," he said, "with the resurrection of the righteous dead which takes place at the second coming of our Lord, when, together with those that are living, they are caught up to meet the Lord in the air. 1 Thess. 4: 16, 17. They are taken to that place where Jesus went to prepare for them John 14: 1-3. And they live and reign with Christ a thousand years. Rev. 20: 4."

Judgment of Judge Morris.

Society for the Protection of Animals Versus Samuel Andrews. Charge.—That the defendant had on the 14th of February committed cruelty by binding his horse's mouth tightly with a strap. Judgment.—The question to decide is: Has there been cruelty? The prosecution have not proved that there has. A witness for the prosecution claims that there was cruelty. The S.P.A. should have investigated whether the strap in question was bound tightly or not. The defence contends that the use of the strap is not cruel. It is the duty of the S.P.A. to examine further. As it is I have no choice but to dismiss the case. If, after further investigation, it can be proved that there was cruelty, judgment will be given. (The Judge here read the Act.) There is nothing in this Act about tacking. There is no section in it by which I can apply the prosecution. The complaint was well made by Mr. Crowley as a citizen, but the circumstances should have been further investigated by the S.P.A.

Curliana.

The first round for the B. Stafford Cup was played on Friday night by the whole Curling Association, the condition being that the first sixteen highest scorers play the second round, which takes place this afternoon and evening, viz.: John MacFarlane, 25; E. W. Taylor, 32; D. MacFarlane, 28; W. F. Joyce, 27; Hon. W. R. Warren, 27; W. C. Job, 26; Eric Chafe, 26; T. Winter, 26; E. Rowe, 25; H. J. Jardine, 26; D. F. Duff, 25; E. Hallett, 25; Heber Angel, 25; W. S. Monroe, 25; the following tied on 24 each, Robert Stick, F. Bennett, S. C. Thompson, J. Baxter, W. Rodger, played off on Saturday at 2 o'clock—the famous Out Wick Shot—Will Rodger scoring 3, and John Baxter and Frank Bennett to complete the 16. Bennett then played off and Bennett scored one, leaving Will Rodger and Frank Bennett to complete the 16. After this game five highest aggregate scorers then play off for the cup. Points, Jubilee Medal, open to all.

World Voyage of Floating Shop.

20,000 TON VESSEL BEING BUILT ON THE THAMES. In the early autumn of 1923 there will leave the Thames a great vessel of 20,000 tons burden that, in construction and equipment, will differ from any ship that the world has ever seen. This ship, appropriately named British Industry, will be a floating exhibition of all that is best in British manufactures. "This ship," Earl Grey, chairman of the directors of the British trade ship, in an interview with Reuter's representative, said, "is not merely a vessel carrying samples of merchandise, but it will carry, in addition, the resources of the country, connected by lifts and stairways, will be wide, long and uninterrupted, for the Diesel oil-engines, by which the ship is to be propelled, will be well aft, instead of midships, as in an ordinary vessel. "The seven decks will be lofty, so affording good ventilation and giving opportunity for adequate display. "But, more than this, every part of the vessel and every piece of her equipment will be an exhibit, shown actually performing the work for which it was made. The engineer may see, not only models, but machines at work, and judge of their efficiency; the boat builder may see the davits lowering the motor lifeboats and test their efficiency in a short cruise. "All the equipment and furniture on board will be exhibits in situ—the beds in the cabins, chairs, carpets, hangings in the saloons, office fittings, and table appointments in the restaurant. "On board will be 300 representatives of exhibiting firms, who will be able to transact business on a large scale. Every facility will be provided in the way of a bank and insurance office, interpreters, typists, library and consulting rooms. The telephone exchange on board will be linked up with that of the town, and the ship will, of course, have her own wireless installation. In addition, the resources of the cinema will be developed, and daylight films shown in connection with the various stalls. "The ship is to set out in August, 1923, by which time it is hoped manufacturers' costs in this country will have been greatly reduced. "The vessel will proceed first to the east coast of South America, thence to South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand, and on to Fiji, Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai and Hong Kong. The return journey will be via Manila, Singapore, and the Indian ports, and Aden. "This gives from 318 to 345 days of actual exhibition during the cruise, which is planned to last eighteen months. "Already manufacturers in this country are obtaining information as to the exact requirements of buyers, so that they may show, not a haphazard collection of their products, but a supply of up-to-date wares and machinery to suit the local demand. Reuter.

Faithful Collie Saves Child's Life. The faithfulness and initiative of a Scottish collie saved the life of three-year-old Jean McAllister, on February 6. The child wandered from her parents' home at Redwood City, Cal., and was not missed until the dog made its appearance in great excitement and commenced tugging at the skirts of Mrs. McAllister, who was working in the yard. The mother followed "Don," the collie, to a large pond nearly half a mile away, where she found her child lying on the bank with her clothes drenched. Apparently little Jean had fallen into the pond and had been pulled out by the dog, whose teeth had torn her clothes. The intelligent collie had then started for the house to bring help. The child was revived, and is none the worse for her thrilling experience. Jean and "Don" have given great friends and inseparable companions since the advent of the former to the McAllister home.  The schooner Emerald, of the U.S. flying the British flag, was seized by the coastguard cutter day. Her cargo, it is reported, consisted of more than a hundred cases of liquor for New Brunswick.

INDIA PROPAGANDA.

DELHI, India, Feb. 26.
 The All India Congress Committee adopted a resolution placed before it by M. K. Ghandi, Nationalist leader, providing for the association of practically all non-co-operative activities, except massed civil obedience. These activities include individual civil disobedience and both defensive and offensive picketing. It is understood the resolution goes beyond Ghandi's personal views, being drafted to satisfy other leaders. Proposals to attenuate the resolution were defeated by large majorities.

APOLOGIZED FOR SHOOTING.

BELFAST, Feb. 26.
 James Hughs, twenty years old, was the victim of a fatal attack on Saturday night by three men, who rushed out of a side street, and killed him in the presence of his mother. Two men were fired on while crossing Mill field, a Sinn Fein section of the city.

 After the shooting apologized, saying they had mistaken their intended victims for specials.

OMINOUS FOR COALITION.

LONDON, Feb. 26.
 The reverse of the Government in the last three bye-elections are regarded as ominous for coalition. Whenever a general election may be held, all parties are prepared, though it is not known when the election will be called. Since the Irish Treaty, revolt of the extreme Tory wing against the leadership of Lloyd George has grown, and unless the Premier is able to stem this revolt, its effect on the coalition will be serious. Victories by two Lagorites and one Independent Liberal in the recent elections were largely due to a tacit understanding to avoid triangular contests. Heretofore the Labor Party has refused any compact with the Liberals but if the Labor and Liberal parties agree to an alteration of seats, it is recognized the Government would face a serious situation when a general election is called. The strength of the Labor and Liberal parties in the recent elections is attributed to unemployment and bad trade conditions.

DE VALERA'S CAMPAIGN.

BELFAST, Feb. 26.
 Eamonn de Valera, continuing his electioneering campaign, was received last night at Ennis, County Clare, with enthusiasm. Ennis is a Valera constituency. He was met at the station by uniformed Guard of Honor, and escorted through the streets by a procession. The town was illuminated. In acknowledging the welcome De Valera said he and his followers had heard strange things in Dublin, one being that eighty per cent of the Irish people were willing to fling away the nation's birthright.

IN FAVOR OF TREATY.

DUBLIN, Feb. 27.
 The Lenten Pastorals, read in Catholic Churches throughout Ireland yesterday, referred approvingly to the Anglo-Irish Treaty. The Archbishop of Dublin said "for the first time in many centuries, our people have to a great extent the framing of their destinies in their own hands, in place of the unsympathetic, wasteful and unintelligent rule of men, alien to us in blood and traditions, we see in process of being evolved, an Irish Government, which have knowledge of our people's needs. The Irish nation has reached a turning point in its existence."

 to hand fighting ensued, in which many casualties were suffered on both sides.

 Gault's Digestive Syrup will enable him not only to take his food, but to eat it with enjoyment, and to digest it.
 Of course in cases of long standing, some discretion must be used in the selection of one's diet, and the way in which it is eaten, being thoroughly chewed before being swallowed, and kinds of food that invariably disagree should be avoided. Still Gault's Digestive

 a great help in restoring the dys-

A Clever Fraud.

On Saturday, a man entered a Water Street shop and purchased some goods with a twenty dollar note issued by the old Commercial Bank.
 He received his change and the fraud was not discovered until late in the day. The Bank note was signed by Henry Cooke, manager and H. D. Carter, accountant, and differs so greatly from the various notes now in circulation that it is all the more surprising that any shopkeeper could have been taken in.

 TARTAR.

"Tartar" is a lime-like substance that forms on the teeth. It is composed of saliva, phosphate of lime, etc., and becomes attached to the teeth near the salivary duct. It is porous like a sponge and holds particles of food which decompose and taint the breath with an offensive odor. This tartar once formed increases, always in the direction of the gums; first inflaming them, then causing them to puff up and recede from the teeth, and finally by absorption of the bony sockets, to cause good, sound teeth to drop out for want of support.

Saving Money is Vogue

The laws of fashion all allow.
 It's stylish to save money now.
 —Dainty Dorothy.

And so it has come to pass that the thinking women of the country as well as serious-minded men have come to the conclusion that the development of thrift is necessary to the development of national character.
 But if you are going to make last season's clothes do for a while it does not mean that you cannot have them dry cleaned and thoroughly refreshed, and that you must not change the shape or color of them. Our dyeing system is a perfect one.

The Influence of Money!

When money is scarce interest rates rise and investors loan their funds on mortgages and bonds for the high return, but when money is plentiful interest rates naturally decline and surplus funds are put into good stocks causing them to advance in price.

The latter condition exists in America. That country has accumulated the lion's share of the world's gold, and this surplus money is seeking higher earning power than bond interest offers. We suggest buying good stocks now for advancing prices.

FALSE ECONOMY.

It is often remarked by customers, "I must try and make my old clothes do for the winter." Perhaps the winter may mean very much longer. To protect your body against our cold winds you want warm woollens. An investment in a good Suit or Overcoat may save you months of illness. Durable material, cut and moulded to your figure by expert workmanship in the garment at MAUNDER'S. Samples and self-measuring cards sent to your address.
