ADVENTURES IN THE LAND OF MUSIC.

The week of May third was set aside in many parts of the country as music week, the purpose being, of course, to rouse a renewed interest in music. And, as in any other line of educational endeavor, the best way to build is to begin with the child.

In these days of the radio and the victrola, any mother who is really desirous of teaching her children a love of good music can do so ever though she herself be unable either to sing or to play any musical instrument. There are many homes where nothing but trashy music is heard on the piano and the graphophone, and where nothing but popular vaudiville songs are sung. Jazz is the music most heard nowadays, and jazz is musical slang.

Nothing But Musical Slang. It has been said that the musical instinct is as deeply rooted as the speech instinct and that to deprive a child of music is to rob him of his birthright. Slang adds piquancy to a language, no doubt, but a lavish use of it denotes an impoverished vocabulary. And the child who hears nothing but jazz in music is never going to be able to appreciate anything better.

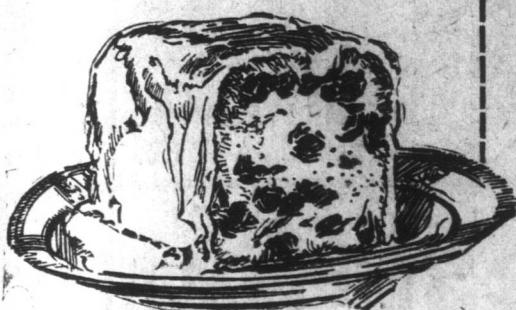

I have a little ten-year-old friend who is very musical. She is not a prodigy, but she feels music and interprets it far better than the average child of her age. Her mother tells me that when Sara was a very little girl, a record with a pronounced rhythm would be played on the victrola and she would be urged to dance or sway or clap her hands in time to it. She used to love it, and although her clumsiness was really funny at first (for she was a roly-poly child), after awhile she became quite graceful, and by expressing in bodily movement these musical rhythms she absorbed a sense of "time" which has been invaluable to her in studying the piano since.

Tell Them What the Music Is Saying. Children learn to appreciate classical music quite naturally if it is presented cleverly. Melodies such as "Caprice Viennois," "In the Hall of the Mountain King," "Swan Song," "Day in Venice," "Funeral March of a Marionette," become full of interest to children if a little story is told before they are played which will help to tell what the music is "saying."

There are all sorts of helps for the mothers who will only avail themselves of them—booklets which tell the life story of the masters in childish language with pictures to be pasted in blank spaces left for them in the text; stories of the famous operas told in childish language and simplified to childish understanding which may be read aloud with perhaps a victrola record to illustrate the theme; books of simple melodies with charming illustrations in order for the mother who can sing and play just a little; and there is the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music in New York City which has literature and suggestions of every sort which are furnished free on application.

"It Is Not Going To Rain Any More." A word of warning to the mother who "overdoes it" may not be amiss although the danger is not very great. I do not think it is a good idea to deprive a child entirely of popular music. Children love to sing what every one else is singing, and if they are denied the privilege it may make the grind of scales and finger exercises more irksome by comparison. I remember the pathetic spectacle of a neighbor's child who was finally allowed to sing the popular "It ain't a-gone to rain no more," but in the chaste version, "It is not going to rain any more." Does all this seem too much time

CANADA TO POLICE ARCTIC ISLANDS.
 WASHINGTON, June 8. The decision of the Canadian Government to send police to establish patrols over the islands north of the mainland, was received with interest in Washington, although officials declined to comment upon the press despatches, telling of the plan. Indications have come from Ottawa for some time that Canada might take active steps to support the claims she has made to the islands in the Arctic, and it is thought likely that the intention of the MacMillan expedition this summer, to claim lands discovered in previously unexplored regions of the Polar Sea, may have been a factor in the Ottawa Government's decision to move by physical possession toward consolidating her claims in that region. Officials here have denied receiving any communication from the Canadian Government bearing on the situation. It was said to-day at the State Department that a letter from Donald B. MacMillan had been transmitted to it through the Secretary of the Navy, but its contents were not made public.

Audience Cheers "Charley's Aunt"

NICKEL REVERBERATES WITH ROARS OF HYSTERICAL LAUGHTER.

When they say "It's enough to make a cat laugh" they don't go quite far enough. "Charley's Aunt" with Syd Chaplin is more than enough to make a crab laugh—even those "crabs" that never admit it was the picture which made them laugh, it was only that they were feeling good.

The farce was originally produced in England thirty-three years ago and has played continuously and in almost every known language ever since. As a screen farce, however, it far surpasses the stage version partly because the screen permits greater latitude in settings, and largely because Syd Chaplin is by far the greatest comedy actor who ever assumed the title role.

Syd Chaplin has the soul of a true comedian. Every gesture, every lift of the eyebrows, evokes a humorous reaction from his audiences yet he himself seldom so much as smiles. The production, directed by Scott Sidney, to whom much credit is due, in addition to being beautiful, is so smooth and steady it seems actually to flow along. There are no raw edges, no unfinished corners.

The simple story of a college boy who assumes the part of an elderly aunt in order to help his chums win the girls they love, is told in the straight from the shoulder manner which is so delightful and refreshing. Without recourse to gags and by-plots the play attains a maximum of suspense and manages by some miracle to maintain the fullest share of comedy throughout every moment of the production. There is not a single slow moment in the film even in the rare intervals when Chaplin himself is not on the screen.

Anniversary of Great Fire, June 9th, 1846

(H. F. SHORTIS.)
 Today is the 79th anniversary of the Great Fire in St. John's, which occurred on the 9th June, 1846, when it broke out in the western portion of the city and the tongues of flame licked everything before them. Before the fire closed in, about three-fourths of the city was in ruins. There was a strong wind blowing during the evening and the blazing brands and "embers" were hurled over the whole city. At that time the majority of the buildings were built of wood, but even mercantile and other establishments, which were built of brick and stone, were swept away almost as completely as those built of the most inflammable material. Few of the public buildings escaped, except the Government House. All the others, such as the Office Savings Bank, Bank of Newfoundland, North America, Custom House, Office, Exchange Buildings, Ordnance Stores and numerous others were totally wiped out. To make matters worse, while the great conflagration was at its height, and the flames spreading in all directions, the mill-rats took fire, and the flames spread over the waters of the harbor, and set fire to several vessels. It is estimated that twelve hundred people were rendered homeless, and the amount of property destroyed was valued at one million pounds sterling. But the people did not despair, and they were quickly cast off for provisions, etc. When the British Government heard of the terrible calamity, a sum of £5,000 (five thousand pounds) was sent for immediate relief, and parliament granted £25,000. Queen Victoria sent a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury and the collections were taken up in the churches, which greatly augmented the amount, and the people of the United States and Canada were slow in rendering very valuable assistance by liberal contributions. James Macbraire, who was so unjustly abused by one of our historians, sent out the sum of £100, and I never gave further assistance. Anytime he was ever ready to extend a helping hand to Newfoundland and its people, and poor return he received for his kindness by having it said in one of our histories that when leaving Newfoundland he waved his hand and remarked, "Good-bye, you poor devils." He did not say a word derogatory to Newfoundland or our people. He had previously advised the merchants as to what they had to expect, having foreseen that "hard times" were coming, but they would not listen to him, and the result was that they all went down with a crash. William Kelson of Trinity took advice.

There was no provision made for the time and at the end of the year after the battle of Waterloo, the price of fish dropped from forty-five shillings to twelve shillings per quintal and nearly all the large firms became hopelessly insolvent, and utterly unable to meet their creditors. Others who saved a little from the wreck became dependent, wound up their affairs and left the country. About 900 cases from failures came before the courts, and the losses in bankruptcies amounted to £1,000,000. In those days the fishermen and others left their money in the merchants' hands, as there was very little business done with the Banks, and when the merchants went down in the crash, about £400,000 of the people's money was lost—the hard earnings of years.

In looking over an old paper dated 20th June, 1846 (the year of the fire), I was struck with the tenor of the report of the Grand Jury, composed of the following gentlemen:—Thomas Stubb, foreman; Hon. Lawrence O'Brien, Hon. John Kent, Thomas Thomas Rowe, Duggald McCall, W. LeMessurier, T. G. Moray, J. Rogers, F. Bowring, H. T. Bowring, S. Mudro, John McWilliam, Walter Dillon, Gilbert Clapp, and Edward Esquires. The majority of these gentlemen were intellectual men, and figured largely in the commercial, professional and political life of our country, and their names are carved in marble in the history of Newfoundland. I wonder had they a notion of what was going to happen when they made their presentation to the Court? The Hon. Assistant Judge Des Barres presiding addressed the jury in reply to their presentation:—

"There was a presentation which His Honor could not refrain from bringing under the special notice of the Grand Jury relative to the manifest want of a Public Safe for the security from fire of the public records and private deeds, and official documents deposited in the Registrar's Office. This is a subject of vast importance, involving a large amount of property, for if a fire should unfortunately occur, which Providence avert—and assume these papers, the consequences would be incalculable. His Honor hoped that, as the matter had formerly been brought under the attention of the Court by the Grand Jury, some member of that body, holding a seat in the General Assembly, would have exerted his influence to obtain the necessary means to construct a safe, and he regretted that it seemed to have escaped their notice."

This Built-in Quality Means Lower Cost of Operation

The fast-increasing number of new good Maxwell cars on the streets is causing widespread comment. It is a perfectly logical happening, for no other four delivers the Maxwell combination of 58 miles an hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

But there are still greater satisfactions for the Maxwell owner. The car is completely manufactured within its own great plants. This is an advantage of genuine importance to the buyer. In no other way could you be assured of the quality that distinguishes the new good Maxwell from all other fours.

It is this high quality that accounts very largely for the dependable nature of Maxwell performance, the car's durability and, above all, costs of operation and maintenance so low as to create a new standard of economy.

We are always eager to demonstrate the new good Maxwell, for a ride in the car proves at once that it offers more fine motoring than was ever before available at the price.

The Good MAXWELL

June 2, 1925

Six weeks after, the greater portion of the city was in ruins, and it is not probable that the safe was procured in time, and, of course, many valuable documents, public records, deeds, etc., must have been destroyed, with, as Judge Des Barres remarked, incalculable consequences.

"Zebrugge" Shows Daring of British Naval Manoeuvres

The public has recently seen reconstructions of old-time naval warfare on the film in the "Sea Hawk" and "Captain Blood". At the Nickel next week there will be on view a dramatization of one of the greatest modern naval exploits. The British patriotic film, "Zebrugge", an accurate and dramatic reconstruction of the very brilliant enterprise which in 1913 resulted in the crippling of one of the main bases from which Germany conducted her barbarous "U"-boat warfare. It was produced

It is water-proof, wind-proof, and cannot rot. It will last as long as your house. It will help to keep your house cool in summer and warm in winter.

Because Patent Sheathing is rot-proof and water-proof, it preserves the rough boards and clapboards on your house.

Patent House Sheathing is safe; no bugs, roaches or other vermin can get through Patent House Sheathing.

One roll of Patent House Sheathing will cover (allowing for laps) 200 square feet of surface at a cost under $4.00. So you see it is not expensive.

You may use Patent House Sheathing for any purpose that one-ply felt is suitable for, therefore it's a double purpose sheathing.

Use it under floor canvas, it lies close, prevents dust or water getting through your floor. You can wash it at house-cleaningtime.

You may use it as a wall covering for your kitchen, you can paint it, kalsomine it, and you can wash it.

It's splendid for lining poultry houses and for roofing them also, for damp proofing and for temporary erections.

from material supplied by Commander Bruce, D.S.O., R.N., by H. Bruch Woolfe and A. V. Bramble, and verified by officers who took part in the action. From start to finish it is thrilling to anyone.

The film "Zebrugge" has been described by naval experts as being absolutely true to the facts of the raid as carried out on the morning of St. George's Day, 1918, and has been acclaimed by every critic as the greatest dramatic masterpiece ever seen on the screen.

The picture also holds the unique description of being the only film so far that has been patronized by Their Majesties the King and Queen. In the making of the film, the Admiralty not only gave the use of the films taken at the time before the "Zebrugge" fleet set out, but also films taken of the fleet on its return to Dover on the morning after the raid.

A Notable Diplomatic Achievement

The agreement reached between Britain and France on the problem of European security, which is described by the news agencies as "the greatest diplomatic achievement since the war," is the outcome of the stand taken at Geneva a short time ago by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, when he rejected the protocol to outlaw war.

In sponsoring Germany's proposals of a security pact between Germany and her former opponents in which she should be included, Austen Chamberlain discarded the theoretical for the practical, and established a basis for discussion, and this has led to a definite and apparently amicable agreement.

The argument advanced by the British Foreign Secretary when he threw his bombshell into the Geneva camp was that it was futile to expect that any real security could be found in military guarantees alone, and he admitted that he had received overtures from the German Government which suggested a way out. The Manchester Guardian summarizes the German proposals as follows:—"The substance of the German proposals is understood to be the unconditional renunciation of the Treaty of Versailles, so far as the western frontiers of Germany are concerned, and an undertaking not to use force in the alteration of her frontiers with Poland and Czechoslovakia."

The most significant fact in connection with the proposal made by Germany is that it is voluntary, and aims at an agreement which would be mutual. To-day it would appear as if the powers were in complete accord, and if the solution of the difficulty has been found, it will be a notable success for the British Foreign Secretary.

The Return to the Gold Standard

We print in another column an article upon the resumption of the gold standard in England written at our request by Mr. Brian Dunfield. There are probably not very many in the Colony qualified to deal with a question of this kind, but if there are, we think that Mr. Dunfield would be among them, as when taking his Bachelor of Arts degree at London with first class honours as one of his subjects. We learn also that he has not lost interest in this subject, as since that time he has successfully taken the London University Intermediate examination in Economics, with a view to taking a degree in that subject at some future date should other occupations permit.

The preparation of this comprehensive treatise on a subject which is engaging the attention of business men on both sides of the Atlantic, has occupied considerably more time and labour than we had any intention of imposing on the writer when we made the suggestion, and we are most grateful to him for the care which he has taken in its preparation. We feel certain that the business community and other students of such problems will find it well worth their perusal.

Surprising Situation at the Humber

A writ was issued from the Supreme Court this morning by Mr. Brian Dunfield, Solicitor, which suggests a surprising state of affairs.

It appears that some years ago some city gentlemen, now incorporated as the Humber Valley Farms, Ltd., purchased about 2500 acres of land near South Brook with the intention of establishing a hay farm near the paper town, which at that time was to be at Deer Lake. This is said to be some of the finest agricultural land in the country, and our reporter when at Corner Brook some years ago remembers seeing a trench dug on this property, which exposed splendid loam without a single stone of any kind for quite a depth. At a later date it was resolved to establish the mills at Corner Brook, and consequently a transmission line was built last year. The plaintiffs, Humber Valley Farms, Ltd., now claim that this line was put over their land for a distance of five miles without any consent from them whatever; and they now issue a writ demanding heavy damages for trespass and the removal of the line by the Nfld. Power and Paper Utilities Corporation Ltd., which owns it.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

June 8th.—The weather turned fine again, albeit still somewhat cold, yet as told by all the weather prophets that we are like soon to suffer the Chicago heat wave, being that all heat waves that do strike America early in the year do eventually pass over Newfoundland. Povey do laugh at this and think we are not like to feel any heat before next Xmas, and then when we have our furnaces alight and a fire in every grate, in discussing with Spalding he do suggest a clean up week being that all citizens may be encouraged to paint their houses and improve the appearance of their homes. This he do think should be done that a good impression may be left with the members of the English Commons when they visit our town this summer. I do this day receive a letter from an Admirer who signs no name, yet tells me how he do take the greatest pleasure, in this, my journal, and indeed, is a great satisfaction to me to know that my poorer writings do meet with such approval. Talking with Grass this day he tells me how the railway is now in such good condition from Clarendville to the city that where once the journey did take 7 hours, it may now be done in but 4 1/2. Indeed, he believes how in a very short time the journey from St. John's to Port aux Basques will take but 20 hours. My wife and I this night to "Charley's Ann" and much amused thereat, being as good as the play which I did see night 20 years ago, did give me an ache to my side for many sennights.

Who Will Be the Lucky Ones? It has been definitely stated by the Committee in charge of the St. Andrew's Jewett Car Grand Drawing, which takes place on July 15th, that said Drawing will be made absolutely on time, and that to participate, all Stubs must be returned with cash immediately. The return of unsold tickets will facilitate the desire of many in St. John's who have not as yet purchased tickets, as the local supply is very limited, it is understood that the issue was closed in May. The way the St. Andrew's Jewett Car Grand Drawing is being conducted is very creditable to the Committee in charge. June 9, 11

Complaint of Rubbish

Complaint is made of a disgraceful condition which exists along the old railway track from Povey Road to the rock crusher, due to an accumulation of filth and rubbish, and old mattresses which contain no one knows what. This place appears to be a favourite place for dumping all sorts of refuse and the practice should be put a stop to.

Weather Report

Road Repairing

Schooner Cyril F. Founders Off Bear Point

The three masted schooner Cyril F., formerly owned by Tessier & Co., foundered yesterday about three miles from Bear Cove Point, whilst bound to this port from Maine in ballast. The first intimation of the loss of the vessel was contained in the following message received yesterday evening from the Light Keeper at Bear Cove Point:—"Three masted schooner sunk about 3 miles from Bear Cove Point. Boat with crew boarded another small schooner off here." The Hugh D. went out this morning and took the shipwrecked crew off the schooner and brought them to port. As far as can be learned the stern of the vessel gave out possibly due to straining in the Bay of Fundy, where she had a hard time for 7 or 8 days. The crew had barely time to save a few personal belongings before the vessel sank. The Cyril F. is owned by Capt. Wm. Davis and was commanded by Capt. Nelson. She was purchased at River John, N.S., in 1918, and was towed here by S.S. Sabie I, who was not at that time rigged. Ever since she has been engaged in the foreign trade, and made some very successful voyages. Her last trip from here was with a cargo of fish to Port au Prince for the Monroe Export Co. After discharging there she took a load of salt from Halifax to Maine, and was returning in ballast when disaster overtook her.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

FOUR POWERS PACT AGREED UPON. GENEVA, June 8. Great Britain and France reached a complete accord to-day in the problem of European security, and if Germany, to whom the accord will soon be sent, agrees to the conditions, a four-Power pact will come into being, based on the inviolability of the Rhine frontiers as delimited by the Versailles Treaty. The pact will include Great Britain, France, Belgium and Germany. Italy is not included, though the text will be communicated to her for reasons of courtesy, and Poland and Czechoslovakia are not directly affected, though they will benefit by the operation of France's alliance with them.

VALUABLE CARGO OF WHALE OIL.

NEW YORK, June 8. The Norwegian steamer Falk of Sanderford has docked here with 19,000 barrels of whale oil gathered during eight and a half months in the Antarctic Ocean. The cargo represents three hundred whales harpooned off the Shetland Islands, and will net a profit of $35,000. The whales were captured by means of a gun harpoon fired from the ship's deck. Capt. Lassen of Falk said the old custom of sending men out in small boats with hand harpoons was obsolete. He said he saw many fish between sea elephants which were killed in oil yield, but they could not be high since their habitat was under British control.

Methodist Conference

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

DEARLY BELOVED. Assembled in His name we greet you. "Peace unto you and peace be multiplied."

wilderness, and the Great West was unknown. With the development of this wilderness and the opening up in the late sixties, of the West, the Methodist Missionary Society has kept pace, and brought the Gospel to the people, incidentally branching out in 1873 to Japan, and in 1891 to China.

CHURCH UNION.

Another cause, beloved, for the sons of praise that it is ours to sing to-day is the measure of success that has at last but not crowned the efforts of those who for years past have zealously laboured to bring nearer that time when, not only in a spiritual sense, the prayer of Him who perhaps we are safe in calling the Great-est Unionist, shall be answered, namely, "That they all may be one as we are One."

MISSIONARY CENTENARY.

Perhaps one of the great vital outstanding things of which early in this pastoral address we feel it our duty to our privilege to remind you, is that the oldest of us have seen before, and the youngest will, in all probability, never see again. We refer to the Centennial of the Missionary Society of our Church, the celebration of which has so signally marked the new past and gone. While we think with humble pride of this great record which someone has called "One hundred years of glorious and blessed memory," we are reminded of one of the bygone days, as he viewed that the Gospel through the Missionary had done, said "I am not ashamed."

PROHIBITION, ETC.

Notwithstanding the temporary defeat, or setback, we may have suffered through the passing of the Iniquitous liquor bill during the year, we rejoice that Methodism, in its hostility and opposition to the liquor trade, still remains unshaken, and is, we believe, in this fight to a finish. And though as a Church for the moment we may be "cast down," yet thank God, we are not destroyed. While perhaps among us there always has been, and always will be, a difference of opinion as to how this evil in our midst should be dealt with and fought, yet that it must be dealt with and fought, must never for a moment be lost sight of. In this connection it is fair to say that while we are praying for, and in our own quiet way working to hasten, the day when we shall have a Warless World, we are also praying for, and in our own quiet way working for, a Boozless World as well. Let us speak from our pulpits and our platforms, in our schools and homes, that no one may be in doubt as to our position regarding this life destroying traffic. We believe, it is of the devil, therefore we must fight it, not merely till we get tired, but till death discharges us from toil. In passing we must pause to say that our attitude regarding the evils of the drink traffic is also our clear and unmistakable duty regarding all other great moral and social evils. Someone has well and wisely said "Every true and timely moral reform should be bore, and nursed, and reared and supported by the Church of Jesus Christ. There is not a single moral precept which sinful humanity needs but the Church should teach it, there is not a wholesome example to be set but the Church should practise it. That Christian Church is the most Christ like which does the most to seek and save the lost."

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

The very mention of Sabbath Observance, we have to confess, makes our hearts grow sad, for, perhaps, foremost among those things which sadden them is the Christian Sabbath. To some of us, alas! alas! in this matter, as in many others we could name "The gold is becoming dim." Was it not Ramsay MacDonald who, deploring the lack of Sabbath Observance, said, "It is our modern craze for recreation that has robbed us of our capacity to spend a good Sunday?" "I am amazed," said he, "at so many of my friends who say the old Scottish Sabbath was a burden. I would like to see a state of society where every man and woman preferred the old Scottish Sabbath to the modern French one. In that state of society you would have a fine, solid and eternal foundation of character and self-command upon which to build your Church and your States."

THE HOME.

In dealing with the influence exerted by the home, and its importance as a builder of character, someone has wisely said, "Where perhaps we are falling down the worst of all today is in the great and important matter of home teaching." Parents have in many instances shirked their responsibility in the matter of training their children in the way that they should go, or where the responsibility has not been shirked it has often been regarded as a burden to be shunned rather than a privilege to be attempted." He further says "We are convinced that the remedy for much that troubles us to-day lies in a re-valuation of religious influences in the home—the perfect home being that which trains its sons and daughters not only in body and mind, but also in spirit. An alarming number of our people to-day are growing up without any religious training, let us not send them to the House of God, but go with them, and show them that we believe the things we want them to learn, and that they are worth while."

REVIVAL.

While spiritual revival has always been the Church's supreme need, there has been, perhaps, no age in which that need has been more pressing than now, and few things rejoice some of our hearts more than to notice what a strong conviction is slowly but surely settling upon the minds of many, that the supreme need of the hour is a spiritual awakening. Just how this need can be best met, opinions perhaps never varied more than they do to-day, but that the need can be met we have never doubted. Since "My God shall apply all your need out of His riches in glory by Christ Jesus," this spiritual awakening will come in His own good time. Gandhi is right when he says "The revival and quickening will come when we who name His Name begin to live more like Jesus Christ, when we practise our religion without adulterating it or toning it down, and when we take it in its simplicity and live it just as it is." Truly, the greatest need of our life to-day is the vitalizing and energizing touch of the Risen Christ.

STATISTICS.

If memory serves us right it was Dr. Campbell Morgan who once spoke of "the evil of statistics," and he ended up by saying that if he could have his way no figures in connection with the Church's activities should appear in print for many years. We pass that statement on for what it may be worth, but we wish to say that our own honest opinion is this, while in connection with the Kingdom figures always have had, and perhaps always will have, their right and lawful place, yet there have been times when we have sincerely regretted the undue prominence that has been given to them. We, unfortunately, to-day have come to measure our successes only by the additions that we make. In that, it may be, we are altogether wrong, for there are times when we cannot help wondering whether decrease, instead of increase, is not a sign of revival, and whether subtraction, instead of addition, would not be a good method to employ in future in our endeavours to measure the success of the work done. Perhaps one of the things, that in our feverish haste to hurry on the Kingdom, we are forgetting is this, "The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation." But to all this, thank God, there is another side. Whatever may be said to the contrary, statistics in connection with the Kingdom have a right and lawful place, therefore with sincere gratitude to Almighty God, "Who alone has given the increase," we beg to submit the report so recently tabulated by our General Conference established in which he states "our total membership at present is 414,047, with 240,221 families under pastoral care, these figures show an increase in membership over the previous year of 4,966." We are pleased, though with humble spirits, to record that towards that splendid showing of last year our Conference made a substantial contribution, and while apparently this year the "sheaves of golden grain" that have been gathered have not been so many, yet "the joy of the reaper" has not been altogether denied many of our brethren.

METHODIST COLLEGE.

We cannot close this Pastoral without making a sad and feeling reference to the great loss that not only Methodism, but the entire Colony, sustained through the loss of our College building on the evening of Monday, January the nineteenth. Our "Greeting" editor—wisely in our judgment—spoke of the loss as being Newfoundland's loss, for undoubtedly the destruction caused by the greedy flames on January the nineteenth, not only left Methodism the poorer, but the whole country, for who, acquainted with the facts, can deny that in the shaping and moulding of the trust and the best, our College played a part of which none need be ashamed. The sorrow, however, that came to our hearts on the 19th, gave place to joy on the 20th, when we read that while the conflagration was yet at its height the city members of the Executive Board had met together to devise ways and means of carrying on the work. It is with thankfulness that we are able to record that in less than a week, in buildings placed at the disposal of the Executive Board by the Government and various organizations and friends, every class was comfortably housed and able to "carry on" as usual. With the welcome development—worthy of the day in which we live—that have taken place since then we are all acquainted, and out of the ashes we pray yet will arise, Phoenix, like educational institutions and buildings, that in the work they will perform, will outclass and outstrip in every way all the glories of the former days.

Calibrating the Wavemeter

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

PART II.

After you have gotten at least 10 "points" from stations whose wavelengths are widely separated, get a piece of cross-section paper and lay out the "Wavelengths in Meters" and Condenser Scale" divisions as shown in our drawing for to-day.

Divide the bottom horizontal line into units so that you can have from 200 to 600. That line represents the wave lengths. The left-hand vertical edge should be divided into units so that you can get from 0 to 100 for the condenser scale readings. Now plot the 10 points on the paper. We will say that you tuned in a broadcasting station, got zero beat and a click on the meter and after looking up this station in the call book found that it was on 200 meters. Also, say that the wavemeter condenser setting was 10 degrees for this station. Where the "200" vertical line crosses the "10" horizontal line make a heavy dot. In like manner the rest of the points are plotted on the cross-section paper. A line should now be drawn through these points. This line may or may not be straight. It will depend on the type of condenser used in the wavemeter.

In our diagram you will note that 425 meters represents a condenser setting of 60 degrees; 237 meters a condenser reading of 20 degrees and so on. If you desire to tune your receiver to a desired wavelength, possibly to listen for a station you have not heard before, find what condenser setting you must have on the wavemeter to give the wavelength you want and proceed in a reverse manner from that shown Saturday. Set the tuning condenser on the receiver at about 50, advance the regeneration control until the tube oscillates and bring the wavemeter coil up close to the secondary of the receiver. Now turn the wavemeter Note the point at which this click appears on the wavemeter condenser scale and refer to the chart of calibration for the meter. If the chart shows that you are tuned to 300 meters and you want 340, advance the receiver tuning condenser slightly, repeat the above process and see where the click on the wavemeter now appears. If it appears at a point which is still below 340 meters, advance the tuning condenser and repeat the above process.

You can roughly calibrate the receiver itself by going over the whole tuning scale and measuring the wavelengths every 10 or 15 degrees, plotting the wavelength against condenser settings on cross-section paper as was done with the wavemeter calibration. This receiver calibration will NOT be accurate under all conditions as the condenser settings will vary with A and B battery voltages, position of regeneration control and so on. Nevertheless it is a very good rough check on the wavelength.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

"Dearest me," sighed Lady Love, "our little white house needs painting. Mr. North Wind and the snowstorms have turned it a dingy color," and hopping into the sitting room, she called up Uncle Lucky, the dear old gentleman rabbit, on the telephone.

"I'll see the painter man about it," answered kind, thoughtful Uncle Lucky. "Maybe I'll see him to-day. Come to think of it, I have a call to make in Rabbitville. Might as well stop at the Bramble Patch for Little Jack Rabbit on my way."

"Bunny boy, bunny boy!" called Lady Love, hopping out on the back porch. "Uncle Lucky will soon be here to take you to Rabbitville."

"All right, Mother dear," answered the little rabbit from the barn where he was making a little house for the pigeons. "I'll listen for the Luckymobile horn." The next minute his pretty bunny mother called. "Come and say goodby to the Three Little Grasshoppers and Tiny Miss Cricket."

"Dearest me," thought the little rabbit, dropping his hammer on the barn floor. "I'm sorry they are leaving," and he quickly hopped over to the back porch. Right there on the doorstep stood Tiny Miss Cricket, all her belongings neatly packed in a small leather bag. Just behind her the Three Little Grasshoppers were saying goodby to Lady Love, who, like the kind little rabbit she was, had packed the dress suitcase for them.

"Come back as soon as the cold weather begins," she said, tears glistening in her eyes, for she was fond of them all. "You made lovely music for us all winter."

"The woodbox was very comfortable," answered the grasshoppers. "You were good to charge us no rent. We did our best to repay you with our fiddles."

"Goodby," said the little rabbit, holding out his paw to Tiny Miss Cricket. "Mother and I will miss your singing."

"Don't say that," answered the little Cricket. "I'll chirp to you from the Sunny Meadow. I couldn't go to sleep unless I had sung a song for the little rabbit family," and away she hopped down the winding path through the bushes out to the Sunny Meadow.

"Goodby," cried the Three Little Grasshoppers, two of whom carried the suitcase between them. "We'll fiddle every day at the gate. Maybe not always at the same time, for we shall be very busy amid the long grass. But you shall hear our music unless the rain is beating on the windowpane," and away they hopped after Tiny Miss Cricket.

"Dear little people," cried Lady Love, turning to her bunny boy who was still watching his tiny friends hopping away. "They filled the house with music all winter. Don't they make it cheerful?"

Just then the Canary Bird from her cage began to sing:

"I will do my very best To fill the house with song Every day a sweeter lay Will help the work along."

"Thank you, little bird," answered pretty Lady Love. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

THE GARDEN.

My garden but reflects my toil and care. My very life within its bounds are seen. As I have labored so the lawn is green. As I have failed it, weeds are growing there; The roses bud and blossom and are fair. But many an hour among them I have been, Watching for wild shoots darting up between.

The sturdy scions. Where the ground is bare. Beauty could hide the ugly and the mean.

As I have toiled so have I been repaid. This unto me my garden plainly shows; 'Tis not enough the beds were truly laid. Only by constant care will bloom the rose. So with my life, 'twill quickly choke with weeds. Unless I, watchful, give the care it needs.

Better and Better

Dependable ten years ago, and five years ago, and more dependable than ever to-day, Dodge Brothers Motor Car simply represents the latest phase in a process of continual betterment.

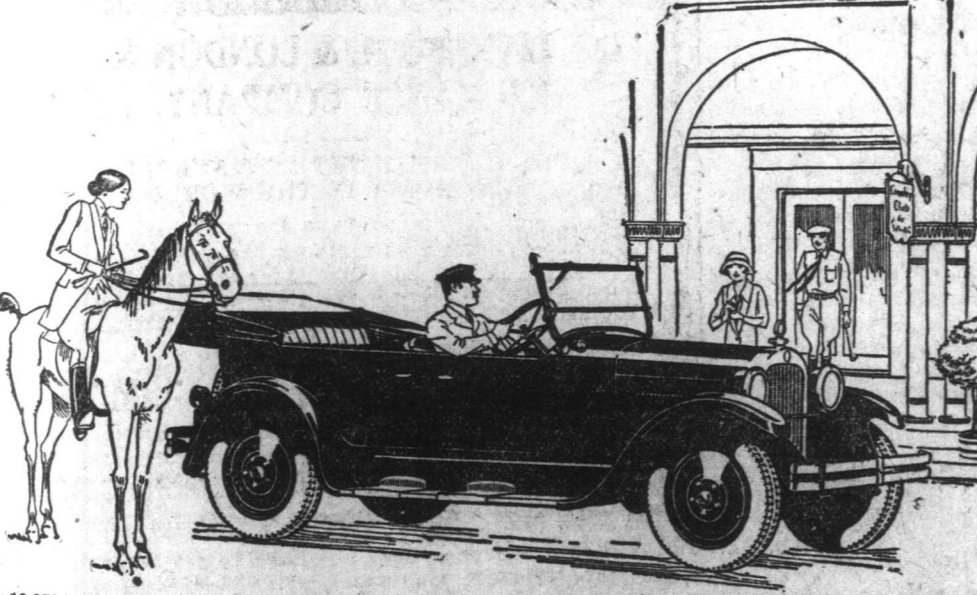

The first cars Dodge Brothers built established a world-wide reputation. The cars they are building to-day incorporate the accumulated refinements of those ten intervening years.

That important improvements in the comfort and appearance of the car are made from time to time, implies no basic departure from Dodge Brothers' traditional policy of PROGRESSIVE rather than SEASONAL development.

THE CHECK BOOK.

The merchants in this town of Heck are always glad to get my trade, for when I buy I write a check, I ask no tick, the bill is paid. The merchant princes of the town look rather pale around the gills, for they grow weary running down the men who do not pay their bills. And they admire the stately gent who packs his check book to and to, that he may pay up every cent, when buying hens, or liquid glue. And he, that stately gent, appears like Caesar on the village street, he swells his chest and wags his ears, and nobly wields his haughty feet. He meets all people eye to eye, his bosom knows no craven dread, he does not owe for pup or pie, for gran or brislet, broth or bread. He haunts his check book in the store where, he has bought a quilting frame; upon the slate behind the door no goods are chalked against his name. And when he goes to blow some coin he does it with a lordly air, he orders wurst or tenderloin as monarchs might, if they were there. The man who always is in debt acquires an abject, slinking mien; he can't pay off the old bill yet, and wants to buy some Paris green. The merchant princes let him wait until the paying ones are gone; they're always speaking of the slate and his account inscribed thereon. He's humbled in a score of ways, he's loitered in his self respect, and he's pursued, throughout his days, by people anxious to collect.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS.

GUARDS 2
STAR 0

A good attendance and a fine exhibition of football, marked the opening of the 1925 football season at St. George's Field last night. The contesting teams were the Guards, (last year's champions) and the Star, the former team emerging by a score of 2 goals to nil.

The season was declared officially opened at 7.30, when Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., the President of the League, kicked off the ball. The evening was an ideal one for football, there being scarcely a breath of wind, although the atmosphere was a bit cool for the spectators.

The ball was kicked west by the Guards only to be repulsed by Barney Hart, who sent the sphere to mid-field. Both forwards then made several end-to-end runs, but without success. The backs of the opposing teams cleared their lines well, and very little was left for the goalkeepers to handle. Play gradually waxed warm, while the spectators grew quite interested, and were satisfied with the excellence of the exhibition. Meadus of the Guards, made a pretty individual run along the right wing, after ten minutes of play. He sent across a well directed shot, but the ball grazed the crossbar. After this play was all over the field, with no noticeable difference between the two teams. Toward the end of the period the Star boys pressed hard and gained a couple of corners, but the Guards set up a solid defence and frustrated their efforts from scoring. The whistle sounded without any scoring.

2nd Half

Upon resumption of play the Star confined the ball to their opponent's territory, for several minutes, and made desperate efforts to score. "Bill" Hart and Flynn placed the ball well to their forwards, which resulted only in the securing of a few corners. On each occasion the ball was nicely placed to the goal mouth, but the players seemed to lack the experience to send the ball through. In one of the onslaughts on the Guards goal, some pretty hard work was witnessed. Halfyard then drove the piskin out of harm's way, and saw the Guards forwards wage a determined attack on their opponent's goal. Quick and Macklin each paid a visit on Power, who cleared well, and saw Squires making a pretty drive up field. The leather did not remain long in the Guards territory, however, before Parsons had taken control, and sent the ball to Meadus on the right. The latter player availed of a good opportunity by placing a beautiful shot from outside of the goal area, which found its way underneath the crossbar into the net, scoring first blood for the Guards, after ten minutes of play. Upon the ball being re-centred, the Star forwards rushed matters, and found the Guards halves kept busy keeping their opponents in check. Jack Tizzard, who was making his first appearance in Senior League company, playing centre half for the Guards, was playing up well and proved a great addition to that team. Thirteen minutes after the opening goal had been scored, Tizzard got in some fine work near mid-field, which ended in Rose scoring the second goal, on a pass from Parsons on the right. During the balance of play both teams exerted every effort to bulge the twines. The Star boys, in particular, tried hard, but nothing resulted.

The game was noticeable for its clean play, and no deliberate attempts were made to drive the ball over the touch line. The game ended in a victory for the Guards by 2 goals to nil.

The players were:—
GUARDS—Goal, Joyce; backs, N. Halfyard, N. Ellis; halves, W. Halfyard, J. Tizzard, J. Parsons; forwards, F. Meadus, Dick Quick, V. Rose, W. Macklin, B. Rooney.

STAR—Goal, W. Power; backs, B. Hart, J. Squires; halves, W. Hart, W. James, P. Flynn; forwards, J. Meadus, R. Moakler, W. Finn, G. Kearney, J. Reardon.

Notes On The Game.

The Star team is an improved one over last year, and when the younger players gain a little more experience they will be hard to beat. The veterans, "Barney" and "Bill" Hart played as good as ever.

Nelson Halfyard, formerly of Grand Falls, made a good substitute for Thistle, right back position. The only other change in the Guards line-up, was Tizzard, who turned in a good game centre-half.

The Guards have a well balanced team and, with practice, should be able to uphold their previous laurels.

Mr. Coultas, who made his debut as a referee, controlled the game to the entire satisfaction of all.

On Thursday night the C.L.B. and Cadets will compete.

INTER-COLLEGIATE RUGBY.

In the first rugby match of the season, played between the Pelidians and Collegians, the Bishop Pelid College 15 were victorious by 10 points to 8.

ST. BON'S SPORTS.

St. Bon's Campus presented an animated scene yesterday evening when the pupils were seen taking part in the preliminary heats in connection with the sports which take place tomorrow at 2.30 p.m. The "maze," which is always a feature on sports day, contains additional new formations and the exhibition promises to be the best yet. The racing events will be closely contested and the usual drills under the conductorship of Capt. O'Grady will show to the parents and friends what is being done for the physical development of the students. Judging from the close contests in the preliminaries the sports promises to be better than ever while the Senior League football five will have their best representatives to compete for the gold medals which will be awarded at the finish of the final game. Should the evening prove fine a record attendance is anticipated. The Mount Cashel Band will be in full strength and will give choice selections during the evening.

FOOTBALL FIVES.

At St. Bon's Campus last night, two games of football fives were played in connection with the college sports day. The Felidians defeated the C.B.I. in the first game, while the Cadets were victorious over the G.L.B. in the second. To-night the Saints and Star, and B.I.S. and Guards will try conclusions.

JUNIOR LEAGUE OPENING.

The opening football game of the Junior League takes place on St. George's Field at 7.30 to-night. The contesting teams will be the B.I.S. and Cochrane Street Church Young Men's Club. Referee Coultas will be in charge. The C. Y. M. C. have a classy aggregation of players, and their supporters already feel confident of the result. A large attendance is expected to witness the Junior League opening. Messrs. Higgins and Hunt will declare the season open by kicking off the ball.

B.I.S. ELECTS OFFICERS.

A meeting of the B. I. S. Junior Football team was held last night, when the officers for the year were appointed as follows:—
Captain—H. Buckingham.
Vice Captain—T. Manning.
Secty.—Treas.—G. B. Galway.
League Delegate—R. J. Kent.
The B. I. S. team will be a good one, and they hope to make a strong bid for championship honors.

Heart Punch is Movie Drama's Secret

A picture with heart punch. That describes "The Woman on the Jury," now playing at the Star Theatre, and describes it adequately, for "heart punch" is the main ingredient which all motion picture lovers want in a story. And this First National picture possesses it in an unusual degree.

There is heart punch when Betty Brown finds that her lover has decided to cast her off; when he tries the same tactics with Grace Pierce and meets his doom.

Directed by Harry O. Hoyt from Bernard K. Burns' famous play, "The Woman on the Jury," is one of the most powerful dramas of the year, in the opinion of all the critics. It is enacted by a remarkable caste, composed of Sylvia Breamer, Frank Mayo, Henry B. Walthall, Hobart Bosworth, Bessie Love, Mary Carr, Myrtle Stedman, Roy Stewart, Jean Hersholt, Ford Sterling, Arthur Lubin, Stanton Heck, Fred Warren, Arthur S. Hall, Kewpee King, J. Edward Davis and Leo White.

Will the Outport friends who have St. Andrew's Jewett Car Grand Drawing Tickets please send in all stubs and unsold tickets, with cash, immediately, to the parties in St. John's from whom tickets were received, to facilitate the preparation for the Drawing which takes place on July 15th?—June 9, 1925.

Laborer Leaves Fortune

A story of a fortune accumulated by the thrifty habits of a coolie has just been unfolded in the Calcutta High Court. An action was brought by the Administrator-General of Bengal relative to a man named Dohey, who died without an heir and left property worth $125,000. Dohey, as a laborer, never earned more than eighty cents a day. His first purchase of property was a mudhouse on the outskirts of Calcutta, for which he paid 60 rupees ($20). This he sold at a profit of over 400 per cent, and thereafter, by careful investments in land and properties, he went on adding to his wealth until, at his death, he left the fortune mentioned in the court proceedings.
