Here's a suggestion from a local paper apropos of the high cost of living. Here's a recipe worth trying. When boiling corn for eating do not salt the water in which it is boiled. When the corn is removed, add a little sugar to the water and boil down to a syrup, which will be found delicious.

The conductor and a brakeman on a Montana railroad differ as to the pronunciation of the name of Eurlia. There are 377 persons qualified to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly and 144 qualified to serve as jurors.

The price of newsprint was increased forty percent by the paper mills in Canada on July 1st. To prevent newspaper offices from stocking up, the paper mills and jobbers for months past have refused to supply any customer beyond the average amount. Since 1915 the price of the printing paper has increased sevenfold, and another jump is announced before the snow flies.

It is an old proverb that trees laden with nuts give sign of a severe winter. If this be the case a cold season will be ours this year, as walnuts and other trees are already bending with the weight of nuts. Last year there were very few nuts and when did humanity experience the like of the length and severity of last winter for this part of the universe? This rule has its exceptions, like many others.

The stamp act on patent medicines toilet preparations and numerous other articles has been removed. On the other hand government taxes have recently been imposed on all manufactured goods. A manufacturer selling to another manufacturer is required to collect 1 percent. A manufacturer selling to a consumer must collect 2 percent. Thus, every job of printing executed in a printing office now carries with it a government tax of 2 percent.

He is a shrewd, courteous business man and a good citizen highly esteemed by all. During his residence here he was always prominent in any undertaking considered for the benefit of the town, and exceedingly popular as a bank manager. THE LATE WILLIAM CRONE

The late William Crone, whose death occurred at the family residence, Scott street, Strathroy, on Tuesday, August 17th, was born on the 4th line in the Township of Warwick, in the year 1834. He resided there until 1855, when he married Maria Williams, daughter of Dr. Williams of that place. There were only three children in the family—William Lawson, John Thomas and Maria Ann. Mr. Crone moved to Metcalfe Township when 22 years of age, remaining there nine years. He then returned to Warwick and continued to reside there until the death of his wife in 1884. His sons being married, he was left with his daughter. He remained there until the marriage of his daughter, when he came to Strathroy to live with his aged parents. In 1891 he was married a second time—to Sarah M. Schram, second daughter of Frederick Schram, of Adelaide Township. Mr. Crone was upright and honest in his dealings, and will be greatly missed by his friends and neighbors. The remains were interred in Strathroy cemetery, Rev. F. S. Robinson conducting the funeral services. The pallbearers were Thomas Dunsmore, Alex. Leitch, John Waddell, Colin McKeigan, Robert Brock and Wm. Richardson.

The population of Forest, according to the 1920 assessment, is 1398, and the total assessment $773,958.

Reeve Cameron of Harwich township got 3,100 bushels of wheat from 105 acres—30 bushels to the acre.

This is big potato year. Murphies weighing from 20 to 24 ounces are reported in some sections.

In Forest there are 55 houses with only one occupant, and 165 with only two. If the occupants of those 55 would double up there would be no shortage of houses.

Operations were started last week at McEachern's sawmill, Alvinston, for the first time since the recent fire. A new planing mill will be erected at the G.T.R. yard.

70,000 cases of liquor were seized by the Essex license inspectors since April 1st, and fines amounting to $215,000 have been collected. This bootlegging is quite a business and the fines and confiscations should make the government rich.

The Strathroy Age would have the Sydenham river in that town dammed up and a lake created on the flats in the centre of the town, following the example of Stratford, where the Avon river was converted into Victoria Lake, in the centre of the city.

Mrs. George Herbert, 2nd con. of Bidart, had an extremely sad experience during a recent severe electrical storm. She was alone with a sick baby of three months, which suddenly took convulsions and died before even a neighbor could be called.

Found technically guilty of a charge of threatening to kill a fellow countryman, Florient D'Hoey, of 10th line Enniskillen, Victor Biels, a Belgian, was fined $50 and $25 costs by Judge Albert E. Taylor in the county judge's criminal court on Thursday, and in addition was bound over to keep the peace for one year.

John Brown, Jr., Wyoming, met with a painful accident last week. While engaged with the other G.T.R. sectionmen in shovelling gravel around the ties at the Petrolia switch his companion, Robert Jenner, who was on the opposite side, struck his left hand with the pick axe which penetrated the hand, which was badly lacerated.

Alfred Kettle, Jr., was kicked in the face by a stallion on Tuesday afternoon and is in a serious condition. The young fellow, who is the eleven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Kettle, Petrolia, had been in the paddock during the afternoon riding on the animal's back. His screams brought Mrs. Bryant, who carried him into the house and called a doctor. Two teeth were also knocked out.

The Boy Scouts of Brockville in four days collected and tied up old papers and magazines, the sale of which netted them a nice sum of money. Mr. Traill, scoutmaster, says:—"We shipped 9 3/4 tons of paper and received a cheque for $325.44. Expense for twine, notice in press and cartage was $36.85, giving to the Scout treasury net proceeds of $288.59.

Almost within sight of his mother, Hubert, the thirteen months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Petty-piece, living on the fourth concession of Anderson township, drowned in a tub of rain water on the porch of their home on Friday. Mrs. Petty-piece had been with the child on the porch, and left him for a few minutes to go inside. Returning, she found the little fellow at the side of the tub with his face in the water.

"Tansey Hall" and two hundred acres of excellent farm and oil property on the Plympton-Enniskillen township has been sold by John Josh to a Mr. Jackson of Scotland for $52,000. The commodious house on the property was built by the late Edward Ivison about 1899. On the property were some of the largest producing wells of that time, three of them pumping 3,200 barrels of crude oil a month. Mr. Ivison, who paid $5,000 for 100 acres, made a fortune from the property.

During one of the many electrical storms that have visited this district this summer, lightning left its mark in a peculiar way on Mr. B. C. Watson's onion farm, near Leamington. A storm came up one afternoon and in its midst a bolt of lightning struck the ground on which all vegetation on a space about 24 feet square has been wiped out. Several persons working in the field about 30 rods from the spot were knocked unconscious by the shock, from which it took them some time to recover. Strange to say, a short time afterwards, during another storm, lightning struck the ground only a short distance from the first spot.

Women Prefer Male "Bosses"

WHEN war came and thousands of women who never had worked before went out into the industrial world, it soon became very apparent that women, as a rule, hate to work for women and, in fact, many of them "just won't, so there!" According to one stenographer who tried it and "won't," feminine bosses have a lot to learn about how properly to treat employees of their own sex. Here are her views on "woman's inhumanity to woman," which affords an interesting study in temperament, as well as psychology:

When I came forth from the stenography school I was firm in my belief that women in business were "just as good" as men—and better. I could not understand why there was such a reluctance on the part of the more experienced girls to apply for positions where there was a woman secretary or woman supervisor. But it took me just three weeks to find out—the most nerve-racking, worrying three weeks I ever lived through. Since then, I have steered clear of women executives. Not alone, either. Many a time, on the back benches of employment agencies, the story has been told confidentially: "I could have landed that job, but there's a woman manager, and I just won't work for a woman."

To the unsympathetic onlooker it just shows our "catty" dispositions, our lack of co-operation with one another. That is not so. Girls on an equal plane in an office get along reasonably well. They show the mutual helpfulness, the "team-work" quality that men consider masculine by divine right. But the woman with girls working under her, in the majority of cases, has no vestige of the qualities that make it comfortable and preferable to work for men.

In the first place, she has the corner-peering habit, perhaps a relic of good housekeeping days. She is always looking for the tiniest, most insignificant details, and pestering her underlings about them for dear life. The misplaced comma, the too light or too dark strokes, the skipped space concern her more than the general sense of the letters her stenographer turns out. She is a master of the art of "picking" on people. Her friends may term it conscientiousness, but to her subordinates this unwavering consideration of the veriest trifles is likely to prove nerve-racking.

A man has some confidence in the people who work under him. Especially he trusts his stenographer. After she has typed him for six months generally he merely glances over her letters before affixing his signature. If her hieroglyphic notes prove too much for her occasionally she changes a word or a sentence and he is not too curious. If the letter is reasonably clean and well appearing he doesn't stop to measure the margins or count the commas. The way Miss Blank runs her typewriter, light or heavy touch, a la limousine or flivver, doesn't worry him. That's her business; she knows it best and he is content to leave it to her. Perhaps it is man's natural vanity. Miss Blank must be all right. Else why would a judge of character and efficiency like himself keep her on the payroll?

A woman employer has a passion for personally supervising. She will not trust any subordinate with the slightest detail unexplained. She will not leave the slightest thing to an employee's initiative. A man will go to the telephone girl, yea, a fluffy-haired, French-heeled, tight-skirted telephone girl—seemingly the latest thing in inefficiency and laziness. "Tell Brown I can't see him to-day." There may be a million Browns whom he could have possible reasons for not seeing. He leaves it to the fluffy-haired one to communicate the message in the gentlest way. And by some miracle of mental telepathy she does.

Now a woman executive would leave nothing to so unbusiness-like a thing as personal initiative. She would walk out slowly and fix the frivolous person with piercing eyes. She would say: "Miss Blank, call up William J. Brown, Brown-street, of Yonge street. His telephone number, I believe is Main 1492, but kindly look it up to make certain. When you get his office please ask for the secretary. Tell her you are talking for me. She will connect you with Mr. Brown. Say to Mr. Brown, etc. By this time the telephone girl has forgotten whom to call up.

Furthermore, women executives have usually what they call "certain ways of doing things" which they insist on, forcing their assistants to follow. I never met a man who actually cared whether a dash or a colon came after the "Dear Sirs" or who made it a rule of the office that all letters must be written in double space, but the fatal three weeks' woman who taught me to avoid women executives had minute instructions on all office routine. She left nothing to your personal idea or suggestion. The very air of her room was heavy with "Don't do this and that."

There are many like her. They call it "training girls." I call it painful brain extraction.

And the way women make corrections! The average man corrects a mistake good humoredly, half-apologetically. Mistakes fret a woman's finely developed sense of perfection. She has a way of saying accusingly, "You did this, didn't you?" or triumphantly, "You've done the very thing I warned you against," that is gall and wormwood to her subordinates.

I am a thorough feminist, but that does not prevent me from acknowledging honestly that women employees have a lot to learn about the treatment of employees.

PAINT THE BUILDINGS

FARMER WILL FIND THAT IT PAYS.

Time Has Come to Make Up For the Neglect That Was Necessary During the War Period—The Proper Housing of Live Stock Makes It Necessary to Have Well Preserved Barns.

Now that rain has done its part, and the country is looking its best, the barn appears unusually drab and cheerless in comparison. It is not only in comparison with the works of nature that the barns and other farm buildings look particularly seedy at this period of the world's history, their appearance is inferior compared with what it was only a few years ago. As a recent arrival from Great Britain, who had, nevertheless had time to visit numerous farm sections in each of the provinces, said recently, "The country looks as though all it needs just now is a couple of coats of good paint."

Admitted that the war period was no time for putting on frills, it must also be admitted that the time has come again when it is in the best interest of the farmer for him to make provision for the future, and with increased live stock production the watchword of the present day agriculture, there is every reason that provision should be made for the comfortable housing of the stock. This entails the preservation of farm buildings in first-rate condition, an accomplishment that is impossible without regular and thorough painting of the same if they are of material that needs paint to guard it from the action of the elements, as is the case with the great majority of farm buildings in Canada. Of course the excuse given for neglecting construction, repairing and painting of farm or other buildings at the present time is that the cost of labor and material is excessive. But it is a pretty safe bet that before the costs are materially reduced, buildings that are now beginning to show signs of neglect will have deteriorated to an extent that will necessitate expenditure out of all proportion to that needed at present to keep them in good condition.

The aforementioned Britisher, who, by the way is a farmer of sorts, and has made it his business to read Canadian farm journals, including their frequent reference to the desirability of keeping the young man on the farm, and how to do it, declares that his extensive experience of farms and farmers in England, Scotland and other countries had led him to believe that pride in the home farm, including the home and farm buildings, had more effect in keeping the family on the land than any other feature that he was aware of. "He could judge the status of a farmer," he said, "by one glance at barn and stables." A farmer who uses paint with good judgment will use purchased fertilizers in like manner, and the barnyard tells the tale of how much barnyard manure is appreciated on a particular farm. The man who uses these two forms of enrichment in fair measure, will either be a successful farmer, he declared, or else will be in the poorhouse.

Clean to handle. Sold by all Drug-gists, Grocers and General Stores.

Guide-Advocate

WATFORD, SEPT. 3, 1920.

The Kingston Whig describes bootleggers' liquor as "near beer."

The price of potatoes is rapidly going down without being investigated by the Board of Commerce.

Some people claim that the Bolsheviks are adverse to all kinds of work, but they seem to glory in driving Poles.

Fifteen thousand veterans will take part in the first national reunion to be held at the National Exhibition this month.

The Railway Commission's order for increase in freight rates between Canada and the United States, came into force on August 26th.

Considering weight, the cod fishery is the most productive in Canada, but the salmon fishery is by far the most valuable from a monetary standpoint.

The fact that the level of the Great Lakes is lower than formerly is said to be accounted for by the people drinking more water since prohibition came in force.

New York City spends on an average ten million dollars a week on luxuries. During last year the people of the United States spent fifteen billions of dollars on articles so classified.

Cattle from the United States may enter Canada free of duty for another year and Dr. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture, states that an order-in-council will probably be passed providing for the free importation of sheep into Canada.

That onetime popular beverage, "G. & W. Special," will soon be only a memory. Gooderham & Worts, the well-known Toronto distillers, announce that they have discontinued the manufacture of whiskey and will go out of business.

The price of sugar is going down, but a little late for the berry preserving season. Should this necessity ever get down to a reasonable price many housewives will profit by experience and keep a year's supply on hand in future.

The National Safety Council declares that a person is killed by an automobile every 35 minutes and that three times as many persons are killed by motor accidents as in all factories, mines, railroads and other industries in the United States.

The Canadian Wheat Board ceased operations last Tuesday and now flour is decontrolled. With the large crop of wheat all the world over flour prices should come down. With cheaper bread other foodstuffs will show a downward tendency.

Montreal and Winnipeg millers predict a big drop in the price of flour and bread. One prominent miller says that the drop in the price of flour would be $1.50 per barrel at least. The price of flour per barrel now is $14.30. The price of bran and shorts, it is said, would drop from $6 to $7 per ton.

"Good roads" has become a watchword of post-war progress. Canada is now well launched upon a period of road building. Farmers should be particularly interested in this, as experts figure that millions of dollars are lost each year in marketing crops because of poor roads.

The farmers of the United States own over one-third of the passenger automobiles in the entire country, or 2,400,000. There are about 15,000,000 farmers in that country. At the rate they are acquiring cars it will not be long before they can all take a spin in their own machines and take their families with them. The percentage of farmer-owned cars in Canada is fully equal to that of the U.S.

There is undoubtedly profiteering in sugar, but the recent high price is in some part due to the growing consumption of the commodity. The United States consumes about five million tons each year and England one and a quarter million. One authority states that "England would have riots were she to follow the American system of sugar distribution and abandon rationing."

The voters' lists for the various municipalities are many of them already printed and posted up. The right to vote is a privilege that cannot be too highly prized, yet there are too many people who do not take the trouble to see if their names are properly recorded on the list. Practically every man or woman, 21 years of age, can vote in the Dominion elections. Copies of the municipal lists will soon be hanging in every postoffice. It is worth while to stop long enough to see if your name is on. If not, enter a protest with the clerk at once. You may be sorry enough if you find you have no vote when the voting time comes.

HAT MADE OF WOOD SHAVINGS

From wood pulp and shavings this exquisite hat is fashioned. It was recently shown in New York, among a number of other late Parisian ideas.

Washing Laces.

Fine laces should be hasted to a piece of cheesecloth before they are washed. Wash by "sousing" up and down in lukewarm neutral soap solution. Rinse in several clear waters. Lay out flat to partially dry, and then iron on the wrong side, so that the iron only comes in contact with the cheesecloth and not directly with the lace. When ironed and thoroughly dry, cut open the stitching, and the lace will be as fresh as new, if carefully done.

Flowers Feared by Witches.

Witches, of course, must be excluded from the house. The Chinese bring this about—or think they do, which amounts to the same thing—by suspending bunches of herbs and magic plants over the door. In England Hawthorn used to be hung over the entrance to a house in May to ward off witches. On May day the witches, as well as the fairies, are in the gorge, so choose some other time for burning it. If you don't believe there are any witches there are Dutch folk who will tell you to carry a four-leaf clover on Christmas eve and let your own eyes convince you.

NICE SETS PACE FOR CHIC GOWNS

Opening of Race Course Brings Out Generous Showing of Lovely Clothes.

RICH DISPLAY OF NEW HATS

Cellophane or Varnished Braids Score
Big Success; Veil-Trimmed Models
Attractive; Turbans in Crinkled
Braid Are in Evidence.

The opening of the race course at Nice and the presence of many prominent visitors, among whom the American contingent did not lack full representation, mean a brilliant social season, which in turn signifies an assemblage of lovely clothes, writes a prominent fashion correspondent.

No more beautiful background for clothes is to be found in the world than Nice, situated as it is on the border of the Mediterranean; just where the Var river, a mountain stream of great beauty and swiftness, flows into the sea. The long range of verdant mountains, the Maritime Alps, are directly visible from the grandstand. The beauty of sea, sky and land is spread before the eyes.
The Var valley leading off to the west and north is fragrant with blossoms
and full of historic interest and romance.

Not far up the rambling course of this river is the little Church of the Madeleine, where Mary Magdalen and Lazarus are said to have preached the gospel to a handful of Christian refugees. All of this strip of Celto-Ligurian coast is intimately associated with the earliest history of the Christian church.

When Templars Defied the World.

It was near here, too, that the black and white banners of the Templars in their noonday of pride and ferocity spoke defiance to the world. Within sight to the south is Golfe Juan, where Napoleon landed in 1815, coming direct from Elba to this point in France.
Thus history, political, romantic and religious, serves to make an interest for all the world at this alluring spot.

Small wonder, then, that here this social season should open with un-wonted brilliancy. Many women wore their long sable mantles, but left them swinging open to show their charming new frocks in bright or dull hued silks.
These fur mantles are still being worn on the Riviera, because after four in the afternoon a cold wind springs up,
and if one is driving in an open car or standing about it is absolutely necessary to have a warm wrap.

Several new cloth coats were seen.
A beautiful color effect is carried out in the loose, wrappy coat of putty-color is again introduced through pipings of red patent leather, which appear on the pockets, sleeve trimming and about the collar.

Two Shades of Tan.

By using two shades of tan for the second topcoat, one coppery and the other a fawn tone, an entirely new effect is obtained. The cloth selected for this model is duvety, the copper color being used for the coat itself while the fawn shade makes a standing collar which is set inside the rolling shawl collar of copper colored cloth, while the turban cuffs over the very loose sleeves are of the lighter toned material. The coat is lined with a pale fawn shade and the frock worn with it is of fawn duvety, like that which trims the coat.

The restaurants of both Monte Carlo and Nice have been very gay. The most extreme Goya styles appeared in evening dresses. The hips were widely extended, forming a veritable shelf on either side of the figure, which swung and tilted as the wearer walked or danced. The most pronounced of these models were those created by Lanvin, who seems determined to adhere to this Spanish style. These costumes are largely a question of skirt,
the bodice being of a secondary importance.

Daring Evening Costume at Nice.

One of the most daring evening costumes worn at Nice is developed in black satin, with hollow jet balls outlining the hooplike extensions. The bretelle-like bodice of white tulle has a delicate lattice of jet spotted with large jet disks. The Spanish atmosphere of this striking toilette is further accentuated by a high comb of style, made of black cellophane, were seen with elaborate embroidered designs done in dyed raffia and tan color cotton threads in chainstitch.

One Amazon walking hat worn was developed in alternating bands of black cellophane and bright green satin pipings. Two simple loops of cellophane braid piped and lined with green satin made up the trimming.

Lanvin's ribbon-trimmed turban
made of straw and heavy fallie bands was also popular. This model was worn in navy, brown and in the new copper red.

There were several very pretty veil-trimmed models. One from Lewis was of black cellophane braid, cut in fine strips to simulate glossy Belgian straw.

A new veil-trimmed turban from Lewis is developed in crinkled cellophane braid, which looks just like jet bugles. All around the turban is a wired lace veil, which turns back across the front and is held in place
by two long jet pins.

Elaborate Hair Ornaments.

Spanish combs are more than ever favored. They are built quite high, with elaborate designs of iridescent stones. All kinds of pins and ornaments for the hair will be worn and the barrette will again be favored.

Relieves Asthma at Little Expense.—Thousands of dollars have been vainly spent upon remedies for asthma and seldom, if ever, with any relief. Dr. J.D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, despite its assurance of benefit, costs so little that it is within the reach of all. It is the national remedy for asthma, far removed from the class of doubtful and experimental preparations. Your dealer can supply it.

carved shell of the purest blond quality. This comb differs, however, from the ordinary shell comb in that only the frame is of the pale yellow tortoise shell, inside of which is stretched an exquisite panel of real Chantilly lace, thus making the comb almost transparent.

An interesting model developed by Lanvin is a striking illustration of how beautifully the new soft taffetas
may be used to make straight-line dresses. In this instance dark blue taffeta is chosen. The sleeves are in bishop or peasant style, a striking contrast to the very short cap sleeves.
The round high collar in choker form
is in direct opposition to the low neck, collarless frock.

Both Lanvin and Jenny are strongly advocating the full length sleeve and the high collar in their simple silk dresses designed for afternoon wear.
Jenny charmingly combines printed chiffon with foulard in a simple chemise frock. The upper part of the dress and narrow foundation skirt are both of the printed chiffon, the pattern of which is a graduated, spot design in black on a white background.

New Hats Numerous.

New hats were as numerous as spring blossoms, the cellophane or varnished braids scoring a big success.
Very little is being used except these glossy hats solidly embroidered or applied in bright, contrasting colors.
The narrow brim sailor, the draped beret and the small round shape which has a rolling brim and a decidedly cecal effect were most favored.

What Prominent Ontario Women Say

Tillsonburg, Ont.—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription very beneficial during pregnancy. I felt quite poorly, was nauseated and sick, could not eat anything and I was extremely nervous and weak. I took 'Favorite Prescription' and it soon stopped the nausea, my appetite returned, also my strength and I was soon feeling fine and strong. My baby was strong and healthy and has always been so. I consider 'Favorite Prescription' a great help to the expectant mother and am glad to recommend it."—
MRS. AMOS MILLS, Box 233.

A HAMILTON WITNESS

Hamilton, Ont.—"A few months ago I was stricken down and was confined to bed about ten days. My strength all left me. It was my first illness since a child. I lost five pounds and felt awfully weak afterward. I could hardly do my work. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in tablet form. I tried a couple of bottles and before I knew it, I was well and strong and had gained 9 1/2 pounds. I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to build one up."—
MRS. E. MARTIN, 397 Dundas St.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

The Corn Pest.

Again the warning against the European corn borer is being sent throughout the country by the Entomological Branch of the Department of Agriculture. This pest, since it was first discovered on the continent two years ago in Massachusetts, having been imported in material used to wrap European nursery stock shipped by way of Boston, has spread to New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and New York States, and, as the departmental announcement shows, there is grave danger of its being brought into the corn growing sections of Canada.

In addition to corn, the European corn borer attacks over one hundred different species of plants including potatoes, oats, flowers and garden crops. The presence of the borer may be recognized by the existence of holes in the stalks of the plants with saw dust like material issuing from them. In the case of the corn broken tassels also show where the borer is at work.

If the infested stems are split open the caterpillars will be found most frequently just above the root of the plant. The insect spends the winter as a caterpillar in old stalks of corn or other food plants and changes to reddish-brown pupa late in the spring. The pupa soon turns into a moth.

All persons are urgently requested to keep a constant lookout for this most dangerous pest and to report immediately all suspicious cases to the Dominion entomologist.

Keeping Poultry.

Testifying before a United States Government agricultural committee on the cold storage of poultry, Dr. Mary Pennington, head of the Food Research Laboratory, says:

"I am very glad to say now that poultry can be held for nine months, the ordinary poultry as it goes in the storage warehouse in the ordinary channels of commerce, with practically no deterioration, practically no change in palatability or in composition as determined by the most delicate tests that we can apply in the laboratories that we can apply in the laboratories."

"Between nine months and twelve months there is a slight change in flavor. I think to the ordinary consumer of poultry that change would not be detected. I am speaking now in terms of the greatest refinements that I can apply in the way of flavor tests. I have, therefore, as applicable to the present time, no information that would indicate that dressed poultry cannot be held for twelve months in not only good, but in highly desirable condition. That applies to all classes of poultry going into storage—to broilers, roasters, fowls, as well as turkeys, ducks, geese and so on."

ABOUT SICK POULTRY

A Study of Bacterial Diseases of Chickens.

Diagnosing Tuberculosis, Cholera, Typhoid and White Diarrhoea of Poultry—How to Keep These Troubles From Spreading—Radical Treatment Suggested.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

TUBERCULOSIS—Judging by the number of tubercular birds sent to us for examination from different places we conclude that tuberculosis of domestic poultry is widely spread in Ontario.

In live fowl it is difficult to detect the disease in its early stages. As the disease advances, however, the following symptoms are liable to develop.

1. Emaciation.—Notwithstanding the fact that the affected bird's appetite keeps good, the bird will frequently get thin until eventually it becomes little more than skin and bone. This symptom, however, does not always occur; some birds will remain fat even in the advanced stages of the disease, but such birds will be very mopy and inactive.
 2. Palecom.—The unfeathered parts of the head, around eyes and mouth, the comb and wattles, become pale and dull, and though the eyes usually remain bright and clear, they lack life and fire and are often closed. The feathers become dry and lack the lustre of health.
 3. Listlessness.—Affected birds gradually lose their vigor and become listless and inactive, being inclined to mope around and lie down when not feeding.
 4. Lameness.—When the disease attacks the bones and joints lameness occurs.
 5. Egg laying is frequently reduced to a minimum.
- After death if the bird is opened up tubercles will be found which appear as white or cream colored spots or lumps on liver, spleen, intestines, and may also occur in lungs, bones and other tissues. These tubercles are masses of dead tissue which have been produced by the action of the poison given off by the tubercle bacillus which gets lodged in the tissue wherever a tubercle develops.
- The droppings from affected birds have large numbers of these tubercle bacteria in them so that healthy birds scratching and feeding with tubercular birds soon contract the disease from these contaminated droppings.

When the disease gets established in a flock it is difficult to eradicate except by the most drastic measures. The quickest and most effective method is to kill off all diseased birds and those that have associated with them and then thoroughly clean up and disinfect the premises and start again with new healthy stock.

Fowl Cholera.—Generally the first symptoms of this disease is diarrhoea in which the droppings will be thin and bright yellow mixed with bright green. The feathers get roughened or stand on end, the wings droop, the head is drawn down towards the body. The bird rapidly becomes weak and drowsy. The crop is usually distended with food and apparently paralyzed. The bird becomes very thirsty. In acute cases of the disease the bird dies in from one to two days; in other cases death does not occur for a week or so.

Examination of the dead bird shows inflammation of the digestive organs, kidneys and mesenteries. Hemorrhages are found in the heart; blood vessels of the liver are congested. The ureters appear yellow from the yellow-colored urates which they contain.

The disease is mostly spread by importation of affected birds, birds returning from poultry shows, etc. Occasionally a spontaneous outbreak will occur where no new birds are introduced to a flock. In such cases it is considered that the causal organism was present in the intestines of an apparently healthy bird that was resistant to the disease but that other birds in the flock not being resistant picked up the germs from the droppings of the affected bird and thus contracted the disease.

Every bird showing marked symptoms of the disease should be killed at once and burned, care being taken that none of the blood gets scattered around as the bacteria that cause the disease will be numerous in the blood.

Fowl Typhoid.—This disease is often confused with fowl cholera which it somewhat resembles. Diarrhoea, however, in this disease is very rare. The head of the bird becomes pale, there is a rise in temperature of about three degrees, the bird becomes drowsy and weak and usually dies in from two to ten days. Occasionally a recovery is made.

Post mortem examination shows liver enlarged and congested and sprinkled with small gray spots; intestines pale, contents normal in consistency; heart pale with red spots; lungs normal; blood pale.

This disease is considered to be a fifth disease. Prevention is the only known treatment. The maintenance of good sanitary conditions is the best preventive.—D. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

ONTARIO'S FELDSPAR.

It is Said to Be the World's Finest.

The region lying from fifteen to forty miles north of Kingston supplies a large portion of the feldspar used in porcelain and glass in the United States and Canada. Owing to its nearness to New York and other Eastern States, American manufacturers find it much cheaper to mine feldspar in the Kingston region than to ship it from the Southern States, Quebec Province, or Norway and Sweden. Last year about 30,000 tons of feldspar was shipped from mines in Frontenac and Addington counties, Ogdensburg and Charlotte, N.Y., being the chief ports of entry to the United States. There are ten or more feldspar mines north of Kingston, several of them having been opened within the past year or so. Nearly all of them are developed by American capital. The whole output of the O'Brien and Fowler mine at Perth road goes to Wheeling, West Virginia. The Dominion Feldspar Co. at Tichborne ships to Toledo, Ohio; the Verona Mining Co. at Bird's Creek to Pennsylvania, and the Eureka Company at Verona to Trenton, New Jersey. There is only one feldspar grinding plant in Canada, that one being at Tichborne, and this turns out five to ten tons a day. There is a grinding mill at Rochester, N.Y., for Canadian feldspar, supplying material for United States porcelain manufacturers. Feldspar rock enters the United States free of duty, and for that reason little grinding is done on this side of the border. The United States duty on ground feldspar is twenty per cent.

It has been proven, according to American Consul F. S. S. Johnson, of Kingston, that the feldspar in the Kingston region is the best in the world. It is purer than any other. Two kinds are found in Frontenac county, the grey, which contains soda that makes Bon Ami and other cleansers, and the pink which contains potash and is commonly used in porcelain.

The present outlook is for very largely increased shipments of feldspar from Kingston to the United States by water during the season of navigation just opening.

A NARROW ESCAPE

On Wednesday evening of last week an accident was narrowly averted by the timely action of Mr. William McClurg, when a Ford car with the five-year-old son of Reeve Lucas, of Alvinston, at the wheel, was about to plunge down the hill to the river. Mr. Lucas had left the car standing with the engine running in front of Dr. Martyn's residence and left the young fellow in it. Seeing his father so many times start the car, he pushed in the clutch and the car started off. The young fellow pluckily stuck to the wheel and steered it around the corner and across the lawn of Mr. Reid to that of Mr. Houston, when it again took a turn for the back of the lot and about to go down the hill.

At this juncture, seeing he could not stop the car, he was about to jump when Mr. McClurg happened along and seeing the predicament he was in, jumped on the car and applied the brakes. A few seconds more and the car would have reached the top of the hill, and it would have then been an almost certain fatality, as the car would have taken a drop of several feet over the edge.—Free Press.

92 bushels of oats to the acre was the yield of Fred Smith, near Pottersburg.
