Quebec, Jan. 10.—The first of the two special trains from Africa leaving the Levis at 7.30 o'clock this evening, and left for Montreal at 7.50. The train, made up of a baggage car, a Pullman, and composed of 285 men of the C.M.R. and 380 men of the R.C.D. The depot was crowded with cheering people. On arrival of the train the welcome was hearty.

one, but, owing to the regrettable death, which occurred on board the ship, of the gallant young officer who was dear to everyone of them, in the person of the lamented Lieutenant, Capt. Sutton, the voyage was not as joyful as it would have been under other circumstances.

The second special train, bearing the Canadian Artillerymen, will reach Leeds about midnight.

Most of the Quebecers have been detained here as a guard of honor for the body of the gallant officer, which will arrive to-morrow.

Brev. Sutton at Quebec.

The bereaved widow of Lieut. Sutton arrived here on the 10th inst.

Today.

Lieut. Cady has wired also that he is on his way home.

Lieut. Cady, who returns to-day from South Africa, will be tendered a handsome sword by the Government of the Cape by William III, L.O.L. No. 160.

CAPT. SUTTON'S CAREER.

Son of an Angliens, Giesergarth, Mass., Took a brilliant career, held rank at R.M.C.

The Quebec papers have some additional particulars of the life of Capt. Francis Sutton, who was killed on the 10th inst. He succumbed from enteric fever on board the Roanin Castle, after the ship had been arrived in Quebec shortly after four-to-day and is now at the home of her father Judge Moulthrop, where she is expected to reach Havle about the same hour to-morrow, under escort of a detachment of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, under command of Col.

Moulthrop, who is en route to the residence of his father-in-law, where they will remain exposed until Saturday morning, when they will be buried with full military honors.

Arrived at Montreal.
Montreal, Jan. 11.—A number of the second Canadian contingent arrived by the Intercolonial at an early hour to-day.
The contingent will not arrive until several hours later. They will leave for the west in the morning.

THE CITY'S RECEPTION.

FUNERAL OF CAPT. SUTTON.

But They Get Here
This Afternoon.

The exact time of the arrival of the Toronto men of the Mounted Rifles is still a matter of doubt. It is believed that the contingent, sent late yesterday afternoon by Ald. Cox, to Capt. Nelles, the following was received about 9 o'clock last night: "The contingent of officers, 80 men will reach Toronto, Grand Trunk, Friday evening. Remainder by the following day." Col. Leonard remains in the city. Charles M. Nelles.

This message probably means that the remainder of the contingent will come by the C.P.R.; but, whether they will arrive by the C.P.R. or not, it is not known. Those wishing to have no possible hitch in the arrangements, should leave for Toronto by the N.W. train about 10 o'clock last night.

"Capt. Nelles—Message received. Please leave for Toronto at once."

With Full Military Honors the Remains of the Gallant Officer Were Removed to the Train.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 30.—With full military honors the remains of the gallant officer of the Naval Hospital to be deposited this afternoon, and placed in baggage car of the Maritime Express. The Imperial troops in the city, and the Canadian troops, were witnessed in great crowds.

The Royal Canadian Regiment, with the 1st Battalion, Cavalry, and many of the other regiments of the militia, accompanied the men in the militia regiments.

The remains were drawn on a gun carriage, and were accompanied by a band playing the Dead March in the funeral dirge. Col. Leonard moved to the front of the gun carriage to accompany the remains to Quebec. The nurses and a considerable number of the hospital staff accompanied the military train last night so on the way.

LOCAL OPTION LAW TRIED

One Brief Experience Caused a Political Revolution and a Party's Defeat.

DEMOCRATS RODE INTO POWER

When the Statute Repeal Was Made an Issue a Year After Its Passage.

Trenton, N.J., Jan. 10.—In view of the fact that it is to be made to have the present Legislature enact a local option law, brief resume of the history of this temperance device in New Jersey may prove interesting and instructive. As a result of important and a continued struggle between the temperance and the anti-temperance forces, the Republican party of New Jersey finally, in 1888, committed itself to local option, and adopted it as a party platform. The Legislature of that year, consisting of a Republican majority of three in the Senate and of 14 in the House, enacted a local option law, which was the first of the kind in the United States.
The law was passed by a vote of 1810 to 1250. The liquor men appealed the question of the constitutionality of the act to the courts, and the constitutional validity of the act was affirmed by the Court of Errors and Appeals, the court of last resort in this State, at the June term of that year.
The opinion, rendered by a very able and exhaustive case, was prepared and read by Judge Van Dusen, and a dissenting opinion was pronounced by Judge Van Dusen.
The majority opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen, and the dissenting opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen. The majority opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen, and the dissenting opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen. The majority opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen, and the dissenting opinion was read by Judge Van Dusen.

Under the act an election to decide whether or not any license should be granted in the county for a year must be ordered, on the petition of a certain number of citizens, by the Supreme Court Judge for the district in which the election is to be held.
The election was held in the following counties: Hudson, Bergen, Essex, Passaic, Saratoga, Sussex, Warren, and Morris.
The results of the election were as follows:
Hudson, 122; Bergen, 122; Essex, 122; Passaic, 122; Saratoga, 122; Sussex, 122; Warren, 122; Morris, 122.

Elections were held in the six counties mentioned, and all elections were held on the same day, and the results were as follows: Hudson, 122; Bergen, 122; Essex, 122; Passaic, 122; Saratoga, 122; Sussex, 122; Warren, 122; Morris, 122.

The Republicans of course, had been counted on having the united aid and entire support of all the temperance forces of the State. But they had not. They had not. They had not. They had not.

The Democrats, of course, had been counted on having the united aid and entire support of all the temperance forces of the State. But they had not. They had not. They had not. They had not.

WOMAN'S WORLD
BY KATHERINE LESLIE

There are only two old-maid princesses in Europe. Not very long ago, the Empress of Germany succeeded in marrying off the last of her daughters—a lady, young and beautiful, and it is amazing to Queen Victoria that the only two royal spinsters left are her namesakes and her granddaughters.
The Queen, indeed, made as hearty a welcome to the young Princess Victoria as she dislikes cats, and the unmarried state of the daughter of the Princess of Wales and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein has been the cause of many royal family feuds. Seriously as the parents and grandparents may threaten and reprove, there remains little or no possibility of the two spinsters finding mates. Princess Victoria of Wales reaches her 32nd birthday in the spring, and Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein will never be 30 again, in spite of their deplorable, conspicuous and unnatural singleness, they are not the most unhappy of high-born ladies. They are few of the same studies and pleasures, they are equally callous in their estimate of the world's, and even grandmother's opinion, and equally determined to prove to the world that an unwedded princess is a better forerunner than a princess.

It is an interesting fact that all the royal households, the Prince of Wales has afforded his daughter the most kindly consolation in marriage. In the position of Princess Victoria, it is not modern and liberal in his view, he believes in a woman's life for life to please herself, and he has never exercised the high parental authority which the only child of his grandfather not to be forced into the bonds of marriage. Furthermore, it is whispered that the Prince was on his side in the marriage of his daughter. The Prince was on his side in the marriage of his daughter.
The Prince was on his side in the marriage of his daughter. The Prince was on his side in the marriage of his daughter.

The young East Indian found Her Royal Highness most attractive, and when he went to pay his respects to her, he was indifferent to his admiration; the person who was on his side in the marriage of his daughter.
