This statement will, perhaps, com people, but a little mathematical calculation will show that it is correct that the building being erected by Messrs. Pemberton & Son, corner of Fort and Broad streets, in this city, is much larger, though not of the "sky-scraping" variety.

The Dominion Trust building in Vancouver, in ground area, occupies a space 85 feet by 70 feet. The total square feet on the ground floor is thus 5,950. As it is 14 stories in height, the total floor space in the entire building is 83,300 square feet.

The Pemberton block in Victoria occupies a ground area measuring 188 feet by 89 feet—or a total ground floor space in square feet of 16,532. The block will be seven stories in height-co ing the basement as one story—an thus the grand total of square feet i floor space in the entire structure no less than 115,724. In other word the Pemberton block will be nearly twice as large as the much-vaunte Dominion Trust building in Vancouve and were a similar ground space to b ed it would reach to no less height than 28 stories

Vancouver's pride is thus apparently elicited more in consequence of the "sky-scraping" shape of the Domir possession of the biggest coast-which Victoria can legitimately claim to possess in the Pemberton proceeding rapidly. The immer ment is now about completed, and the task of erecting the superstructure wil the property loss will run into the ground flooring is being laid, and soon the walls and steel frame will be placed in position, and then Victorians will ence to get an idea of how huge a building is going up with very little

What Other People Think

To the Editor:-With all due regard that excellent paper, the Post, I can't help but say that I think its staff very poorly posted on leading topics of the day. My attention was drawn last evening to a paragraph accusing the Times of making errors in headlines. It was an insipid little comment and would have slipped my memory but for the fact that on the very next page was an account of the Bedford's armament, etc. According to that worthy paper, the Bedford is a thirdclass cruiser, and Esquimalt has been olding its sides in glee ever since ause it is a well known fact that the said ship is a decided improvement on the Monmouth, one of the County class which came to Esquimalt some time ago. In fact, the Bedford was built long after the Monmouth, and is a first-class cruiser. That is the second time I have seen the same error. Of course I am aware there is a great deal of force in headlines, but, given the choice, I would rather have a rather bungled headline so long as it was not absolutely misleading than a glaring mistake in a column of news, NEPTUNE.

most importance to Vancouver Island, duced at Manchester. G. Bethune Gray, British and European manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's land department, is in the city a guest at the Empress hotel. As a result of his inspection of the lands under the control of the company on this island it is anticipated that there will shortly flow a stream of desirable British immigrants to this portion of the province, and the problem of land clearing will have been made easy of solution

In an interview with the Times this afternoon Mr. Gray, who has charge of all the lands of the company in Canada, said that his office in London was repeatedly in receipt of enquiries regarding the possibilities of securing desirable land for settlement in British Columbia, and particularly on Vancouver Island, and these inquiries had come so insistent that he determinbecome so insistent that he determined to come and make an investigation.

As a consequence of the inspection trip which he is undertaking on this island, Mr. Gray hopes to be able to arrange to send an almost unlimited number of British settlers here to locate. Steamer Victoria Made Round Trip From Seattle in Twenty-Three Days.

With bullion treasure in bricks of gold to the value of half a million dollars, the steamship Victoria, Capt. John A. O'Brien, arrived in Seattle at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Passen-gers of the Victoria declared that the late strikes on the Ididderat caused almost a stampede among the miners of Nome. The point of the discovery is on a tributary of the lower Innoko, Two prospectors had located pay averaging 20 cents to the pan, which, with a few days' work, had brought returns sufficient to purchase a working outfit.

WOUNDED SHERIFF KILLS ASSAILANT

Single-handed He Faces Seven Bulgarians and Pistol Duel Follows.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 26.—Lying in a Butte hospital is Deputy Sheriff J. W. McCall, of Fergus county, one eye shot out, the other in a critical condition, and his right side and arm filled with buckshot, as the result of a gun fight. Undaunted by the fact there were sixty-one Bulgarians in a railroad camp near Meistone, members of which and out of season, McCall, single hand-ed, repaired to their camp and came away from him, whereupon one of the party blazed away at the officer. Although one eye was blinded and McCall was barely able to see out of the other, he shot the follow dead. An-ether Bulgarian fired and hit the sher-iff in the head and side, but the officer covered the others of the hunting party and they broke and fied. Later a rancher found McCall bleeding upon the ground. A posse was quickly organized and the Bulgarians captured and lodged in jail at Lewistown. BURGLARS SET FIRE
