NAVAL STRATEGY TO-DAY AND YEARS AGO

Discussed by Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge.

In All Distinct Engagements the Victors Have Concentrated on a Weak Spot in Enemy's Formation.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—At a meeting this week of the Institution of Naval Architects, Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge, discussing Trafalgar and Tientsin under the title of Naval Strategy, pointed out the fact that the British fleet has not succeeded in concentrating against a relatively weak spot in its enemy's formation a greater number of its own ships. The rule certainly prevailed in the battle of August 10 last year off Port Arthur, though it was not so overwhelmingly decisive as some others. At the recent sea fight in the Straits of Tientsin at least some of the Russian ships were defeated or destroyed by a combination of Japanese ships against them. Looking back at the tactics in the time of Trafalgar we see that history confirms the experience of earlier wars, viz., that victory does not necessarily fall to the side which has the bigger ships. It is a well known fact of naval history that generally the French ships were larger and more numerous than the British of corresponding classes. This superiority of size certainly did not carry with it victory in action. On the other hand, British ships were generally bigger than the Dutch ships which they fought, and it is of great significance that at Camperdown the victory was due, not to superiority in the size of individual ships, but, as shown by the different lists of killed and wounded, to the act of bringing a larger number against a smaller.

SCHWAB GOING TO EUROPE

Will Consult Andrew Carnegie About Armor Plate and His Deal With Russia.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—A Bradstock, Pa., dispatch to the Times says that Charles F. Schwab, who is expected today (Sunday) to attend the funeral of his relative, Thomas M. Wagner, told friends that he would sail for Europe on Tuesday, while he visits Andrew Carnegie at Skibo Castle. It is known that Mr. Schwab will take with him some famous engineers and that he is going abroad for the purpose of closing his deal with Russia. The fact that he is to call on Mr. Carnegie has given rise to a report that there is to be a great deal of the Carnegie armor plate used by Russia. Mr. Carnegie has given a great personal pride in his name and this more than anything else it is thought is responsible for his being consulted in regard to the Russian contract.

THE NEW I. C. R. ROUNDHOUSE READY.

It Is Expected That the New Building Will Be Used by the End of the Present Week.

After considerable delay the new I. C. R. round house will probably be occupied this week, everything being now fairly well prepared. Orders have come that the new building is to be in use when the tour of inspection on Friday and Saturday takes place. As yet no repair shop has been built in connection with the new house and for the present the old shop will be still used. A new shop, however, has now become a necessity. There is likely to be considerable difficulty on the part of the employees in reaching the new house, the only mode of entrance being along the track. The difficulty in winter will be even greater. It is the intention of the I. C. R. authorities to tear down the old round house and with its destruction, one of the best known land marks will disappear.

The new track running near the new roundhouse is now completed. The additions are quite extensive giving terminal facilities to about 400 cars. This with the present track will make room for about 1500 which is as much as the railway is likely to require. The lighting plant in the new roundhouse is ready for use. Besides lighting the new building, some 16 or 17 lights will be put in between the roundhouse and the depot, thus working the new plant to its full capacity. The minister of railways and M. J. Butler are expected in the city on Friday and Saturday on their tour of inspection. They will probably inspect facilities at Halifax to-day and from there they will go to Sydney and after two days in P. E. I. they are expected here.

DEMONSTRATIONS OF GOOD WILL.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 14.—The French fleet sailed for Brest today amid great demonstrations of good will. Farewell salutes were exchanged between Vice-Admiral Calliard's flagship, the Massena, and Lord Nelson's flagship, the Victory.

CZAR AND MIKADO ENVOYS ARE AGAIN IN SESSION.

The Two Big Barriers to an Agreement, Indemnity and Sakhalin Remain as High As Ever.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 14.—The starting of the peace conference was resumed this morning in ideal weather conditions. The excessive hot wave which has almost driven the foreigners to distraction during the first days of the conference, was broken by yesterday's storm and after a good night's rest the plenipotentiaries and the members of their entire suite appeared this morning bright and cheerful. Baron Kuruma and Mr. Takahira both appeared in frock coats. They entered their motor cars shortly after nine o'clock, smiling and bowing to the guests who were already on the veranda to witness their departure. Three minutes later Mr. Witte and Baron Rosen came out of the rooms where the Russian headquarters are located. So cool was it that Mr. Witte wore a light overcoat.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 13.—No progress has been made with the peace negotiations over Sunday. They stand exactly where they did last night. The session of the plenipotentiaries will reach an impasse where a rupture was the holy Sabbath, which is universally observed in Russia as a day of rest. The Russians had not been anxious for a session today and the Japanese took the initiative and, through the intermediary of Mr. Peire, it was decided to postpone the sitting until tomorrow morning. The situation therefore remains the same. It would perhaps not be too much to say that the general feeling is more hopeful in spite of open predictions made by persons connected with both sides of the negotiations that before next Sunday the plenipotentiaries will reach an agreement. This pessimistic view is based upon the fact that so far as known the two big barriers to an agreement—indemnity and Sakhalin—remain as high and insurmountable as ever.

JAPANESE PRESS OPINIONS.

TOKIO, Aug. 14.—Japanese newspapers are taking a pessimistic view of the results of the conference at Portsmouth.

The Ji Ji says: "It is not possible to place much hope in the outcome of the negotiations. It is patent to everybody that the best course open to Russia is the conclusion of peace as it is now impossible for her to recover her lost prestige. Should Mr. Witte conclude a peace which means the acceptance of Japanese terms he will find himself confronted by a strong opposition which will cost him the confidence of the emperor and of the Russian government. If Mr. Witte is brave enough to subordinate his personal interest for the good of his country he is in an unique position to render a meritorious service to his country. But it is too much to expect such a sentiment in any Russian statesman under the present form of government.

"There is every indication that the Russian delegates will decline to accept Japan's terms and that a rupture will occur. Should a rupture occur, the degree of Japan's terms will not be responsible for the break."

The Asahi says: "We are inclined to pessimism, because Russia is allowing herself to be influenced by a misunderstanding in regard to Japan's actual condition and strength. Russia thinks that Japan is soliciting for peace, thinking that peace alone can save Japan from a collapse in the near future. Russia still thinks she can exhaust Japan. As long as the Russian delegates allow themselves to be misled they will not accept Japan's terms, which are the logical result of Japan, as victor can accept. The Russian terms will not satisfy Japan, hence there is little hope that peace will result from the conference."

The Nichi Nichi this morning says: "Russia's unevenness and humiliation are natural but excess of such sentiment is likely to lead to greater humiliation and possibly to disgrace. Japan consented to open a peace meeting in response to the chivalrous efforts of President Roosevelt, who was supported by France and Germany. Should Russia continue her bluffing she will find herself isolated and alienated from the civilized powers."

The Nichi Nichi further declares that Japan's terms are modest and that Russia alone will be responsible if there is a breach at Portsmouth.

THE LAND IS POLLUTED

Through Which the Water Will Flow From Lake Latimer to the Reservoir When Flood Gates Are Open

Another difficulty has arisen in connection with the Loch Lomond extension. As is generally known the sluiceway is to be opened to allow a flow of water to the reservoir from Lake Latimer.

Some of the camps on No. 2 section of the extension are near the land through which the water is to run and this land itself has been polluted. Late, however, in preparation for this flow of water for the first time, the sluiceway is to be opened and the men forbidden to further pollute it. There would seem, however, to be need of a careful investigation before the water is turned on. If there is any danger of pollution the course of the water should be changed. Hitherto this section of the country has been practically uninhabited and the only drawback to the water was a slight discoloration due to the boggy land through which the stream passed.

The caretaker, Constable Duffy, has had considerable difficulty in dealing with the men employed on the works. They are principally foreigners and are not of very clean habits. He has succeeded fairly well, however, in keeping them away from the city's water supply. He has been forced to threaten them many times with arrest and occasionally has frightened them with a display of handcuffs.

HEAVY FROST IN YORK CO.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Aug. 14.—It is stated on good authority that Brown Bros. have the contract for rebuilding the Central railway.

A heavy frost prevailed in upper section of country last night, and in Douglas severe damage was done to the crops.

Devine pleaded guilty in police court this morning of escaping from Fredericton lockup, and was remanded.

TO BOYCOTT AMERICAN GOODS

HONG KONG, Aug. 14.—Chinese residents of this city are applying to the government for permission to hold public meetings for the purpose of discussing the boycott on American goods.

POLICE COURT.

Fotis Sioris Held for Examination as to His Sanity—Families Disagree and the Dog Will Pay the Penalty.

Five ordinary drunks were arrested on Saturday, two of whom were let out on an $8 deposit. As they failed to show up this morning, their money was forfeited. The remaining three had the usual Monday morning penalty of $8 or two months in jail each. Fotis Sioris, aged 38, a Greek shoemaker, who a few weeks since attempted suicide by cutting his throat, was charged with vagrancy. Officer Sullivan said his attention was called to the prisoner yesterday morning in an alley off Charlotte street, where the prisoner has been sleeping for nights past. Witness sent for Chris. Nichols, the interpreter, and Sioris told the latter he was tired of living, saying he had no friends, and that he intended to burn all his clothes and then take to the woods and drown himself. Officer Sullivan took him to the station where some food was procured for him, but the man refused to eat. Mr. Nichols told the magistrate that he thought the prisoner's trouble arose through a letter received by him from his wife. His honor remanded Sioris for Dr. Berryman to examine him.

Frank Hopkins, 179 Union street, charged James D. Daley, of 1 Peter's Alley, with keeping a ferocious dog, whereby Mr. Hopkins was bitten on the hip last Thursday morning. E. S. Ritchie appeared for Mr. Daley. Mr. Hopkins said the dog in question was a large one being of a collie and sheep dog breed. It had been a source of great trouble for months past, and had frightened his wife and a Mrs. McArthur so badly that they were laid up for a fortnight, having to call in the doctor. He had many times called Mr. Daley's attention to the ferociousness of the dog.

Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. McArthur gave corroborative evidence as to having been attacked by the dog. Mr. Daley denied that his dog was a dangerous one, and said that on the occasion in question Mr. Hopkins struck the dog with a stick, and had many times thrown stones at it. Mr. Hopkins had a small dog, and the two were always fighting. Witness said Mr. Hopkins brought the charge for spite because of an unfriendly feeling existing between the two men. His honor held that the evidence of the two ladies was indisputable as to the character of the dog and ordered it to be destroyed.

MISSING RIG RECOVERED

The horse and buggy hired by a man named Herbert Waycott, of Moore street, Port Howe, on Friday afternoon from J. W. Smith, the liveryman on Sydney street, has been traced to Spruce Lake and early this morning Sergeant Campbell and Mr. Smith set out for the purpose of bringing it in, and also if possible, of arresting Waycott as well.

It appears Waycott, who is known to his friends as Erb, hired the rig about three o'clock on Friday, saying he wanted to take a woman into the country and would return at seven o'clock. That was the last heard of him until this morning, when information reached the police that the rig had been found at Spruce Lake. Waycott has lately been employed by Robert T. Worden at his livery stable on Princess street, where he left on Thursday evening last. He has been on the liquor lately, and it is supposed this has a lot to do with the stealing of the rig.

JAPANESE TROOPS AGAIN ADVANCE.

Russian Outposts Retired in Good Order.

Chinese in Vicinity Leaving for the South—Unconfirmed Rumor Russians are Crossing Tumen River.

TOKIO, Aug. 14.—It is reported that the Russians are retiring across the Tumen River and that they will avoid a battle in Northern Korea. Confirmation of the rumor is not obtainable. GODEYADAN, Manchuria, Aug. 12.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Japanese began to advance against the Russians at Yanagda and at Zoumshou, in the Gougou district at 9.30 this morning. Their forces were not very numerous, there being only two battalions in each column. The movement had every appearance of a demonstration. The Russian outposts fell back in fine order. The Chinese in the vicinity are again significantly leaving for the southward.

GOOD BREEZE FOR TODAY'S RACE.

CHARLOTTE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The racers for the Canada cup will face a strong breeze when they start today. The wind is blowing from the east and white-caps are rolling. The course is to be a windward and leeward one, four miles to a leg, twice around, with a 5 1/2 hour time limit. The crew of the Temeraire have shifted her bowsprit about a foot ahead which will raise her fore canvas somewhat higher and permit of an increase of about three feet in the length of her spinnaker boom. A change also has been made in some of her upper tackle, which will allow her mainsail to go up much higher. There has been no change on the Iroquois. It is said, however, that Harry Van, one of the Iroquois' crew loaned by the makers of her sails, is to be dropped and Earl Anthony put in his place.

CHARLOTTE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—At 10.30 o'clock both the Temeraire and the Iroquois went out of the harbor into the lake, the Iroquois going east and Temeraire to the west. The launches started out at the same time with the dingies to be used as stake boats.

CHARLOTTE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The start was made at 11 o'clock. The Iroquois went on a line 3 seconds ahead of the challenger.

CHARLOTTE, Aug. 14.—At 11.07 the Iroquois came about and it was seen that Mahbett probably would have to go astern of the Temeraire. Wedd to keep his rival to leeward came about right after him a length in the lead to the windward. The yacht were then on the port tack, the Temeraire in anything pointing a bit better than the Iroquois.

Miss Ethel Gorman returned Saturday evening by the Prince Rupert from Yarmouth, N. S., where she was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. H. Allen.

NORWAY SOLID FOR DISSOLUTION.

National Vote Taken Amid Great Enthusiasm.

CHRISTIANA, Aug. 13.—The Norwegian people in a referendum taken today pronounced in favor of the dissolution of the union with Sweden with remarkable, though not unexpected unanimity. Of 450,000 voters, 120,000 cast ballots.

One of the members of the cabinet said to the Associated Press tonight: "While the final result will not be known for some hours, up to midnight showed that about one person in three thousand voted against the dissolution."

There were scenes of the greatest enthusiasm everywhere. Thousands of women who did not have the right of franchise signed petitions in the streets endorsing the dissolution. In Christiania and the other cities the total population turned out, everyone wearing long streamers of the national colors and pictures of Premier Michaelson.

The result surpasses the most sanguine expectations. The next official steps will be taken after the forthcoming meeting on August 21, when immediately the result of the plebiscite will be communicated to Sweden, and the Swedish cabinet and the Riksdag. The startling result will repeat the request that Riksdag declare the Riksdag's intention to negotiate concerning the dissolution of the union. It is the earnest desire of Norway to conclude the dissolution amicably. Norway will never retract, but everything will be done to meet the wishes of Sweden in other directions. If peace depends upon abolishing the forts they will be abolished. Norway must remain a monarchy, the people do not desire a republic.

At midnight reports from 178 places showed a vote of 96,985 for and 27 against dissolution.

FR. SAVAGE UNWELL.

Threatened With Fever and Reception by His Congregation Was Postponed.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 13.—Owing to the indisposition of Father Savage, the funeral welcome by his congregation to have taken place this evening, was postponed till next Sunday. Fr. Savage was not feeling well when he reached Moncton, and has since been confined to his room, threatened with typhoid fever, but nothing serious is anticipated.

The Fox Creek picnic last week realized some $1,500 in aid of the new R. C. stone church at that place, which is now about free of debt.

The L. C. R. employees had their annual picnic at Point du Chene on Saturday. About 5,000 people went over and the town wore quite a deserted appearance until their return in the evening. The outing passed off without accident of note.

Saturday was the hottest day of the season, some of the thermometers going up to 85. About 50 would probably be nearer the mark for a correct registration. The sun was fairly scorching and the breeze that was going only served to carry the hot air everywhere. Two bands are already engaged for the Labor Day celebration and two others are in process of negotiation. A grand programme of sports is being arranged for the afternoon and evening, in addition to the parade in the morning.

FINE NEW STEPS FOR ST. PETER'S CHURCH.

Work has begun on the construction of new steps up to St. Peter's church. These steps are to be built of Hudson River bluestone from the Rondout quarries, New York state, with a quantity of freestone to correspond with the trimmings of the church. The contract for the work has been given to Albert Clark of Carleton. The bluestone used in this construction will be the first to come to this city, and is said to be a very handsome stone. There will be three approaches to the doors, the center steps being about 15 feet long and the two side approaches 14 feet each. When completed these steps will be without doubt the handsomest in St. John, and will add greatly to the appearance of the church. The material for the construction is expected here in about six weeks.

Through a 'Star' Want Ad.

LINEVITCH IS FOOLING THE JAPS.

Is Keeping His Men Con- stantly on the Move.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Daily Telegraph's Japanese correspondent at Mori, Japan, cables that General Linevitch is constantly changing his dispositions in order to deceive Field Marshal Oyama.

"Prisoners say," the correspondent adds, "that General Linevitch is constantly telegraphing for additional troops, as he is unable, without reinforcements, to hold the line to Vladivostok. Considerable have been withdrawn from his right and sent to his left wing."

"New arrivals are disinclined to fight and say they will surrender at the first opportunity."

The Japanese who recently occupied Kamchatka are now constantly patrolling that coast and the sea of Okhotsk.

"It is believed at Tokio that as soon as the Japanese flag is seen flying at any corner of Siberia it will affect M. Witte's attitude at the peace conference."

THEY RAISED $45,264 FOR MISSION WORK.

Great Collection Taken on Sunday at Old Orchard Camp Meeting.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 13.—The collection taken today for foreign missions at the Christian Alliance camp meeting amounted to $45,264, which is $20 in excess of the former mission offering taken here a year ago. Most of the gifts were in pledges, which the donors promise to redeem. All of the New England branches of the Alliance were represented in the list of pledges. There was an unusually large number of small offerings. Fourteen pledges ranged from $100 to $500, and 72 of the total of 494 pledges covered all but $5,000 of the total collection. There were no sensational scenes, no gifts of watches or rings as in some former years. Ten young women responded to the call for foreign missionary volunteers. The Christian Alliance convention will be concluded tomorrow.

BURN NEGRO IN A PUBLIC SQUARE.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 12.—At Sulphur Springs, this county seat of Hopkins county, this morning Thomas Williams, a negro, attacked a seventeen-year-old white girl named Nettie Griggs. The crime was reported to the sheriff's office by telephone, and soon after officials with one hundred citizens were in pursuit of the criminal. Williams was captured two miles east of Sulphur Springs by City Marshal Hall, who brought him in and sent for Deputy Sheriff Stacey.

The negro was taken before his victim and fully identified. While passing through the city from east to west one thousand men with shotguns and rifles went with the officers to the scene. On the return the crowd was increased and the feeling intensified. The authorities did all in their power, but were helpless. The mob took advantage and disarmed them.

At the intersection of the main street leading to the public square the procession was stopped and the negro was dragged from the buggy. A shot was fired, a rope was produced and put around the negro's neck. He was lifted up in an effort to hang him. Finding this too slow, a can of oil was procured and the flames soon drove the crowd back. The charred body was left on the square for an hour and then removed. The city by that time had resumed its quietude as if nothing had happened.

When Williams was taken before Stacey Griggs for identification the young woman screamed, "Take him away and burn him!"

BOY DROWNED IN SYDNEY HARBOUR.

SYDNEY, Aug. 13.—Thomas Neil, aged 16, son of Matthew Neil, was found drowned this morning at International pier. Neil went bathing Saturday afternoon and not returning home in time, search was made for him, resulting in the finding of his body a few yards from the shore.

THE STORM ALSO STRUCK NEW YORK.

And While Few Were Killed Many People Were Hurt, and Much Damage Was Done.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Widespread damage was caused by a thunder storm of unusual violence that, accompanied by a high wind and a deluge of rain, burst over New York and vicinity today.

A boat house at the foot of west 112nd street in which a large number of persons had taken shelter was struck by lightning and Miss Jeanette Freer, aged 30 years, was instantly killed. A dozen other persons were rendered unconscious but revived.

A Webster avenue trolley car, carrying nearly a hundred passengers bound for Mount Vernon, was struck at 170th street. The detonation that accompanied the shock precipitated a panic among the passengers. Forty-seven persons, almost all women, were injured, nine of them so seriously that they had to be removed to a hospital. After the bolt struck the car continued running at a high speed and most of those hurt received their injuries by jumping or being pushed from the platform.

In the harbor the storm was cyclonic in its fury, and many small boats were capsized.

Five hundred immigrants were in danger for an hour when two barges on which they were broke away from the dock at Ellis Island and were blown down the bay, pitching and rolling in the heavy sea. Three tugboats grappled the barges and succeeded in holding them until the storm subsided.

At Fort George the machinery of the big Ferris wheel stopped. Just as the storm broke and nearly a hundred panic-stricken men, women and children were held aloft for fully an hour, exposed to the full fury of the wind and rain.

One death and three cases of prostration resulted from the heat, which was intense before the storm broke. In Brooklyn a trolley car, crowded with passengers for Coney Island, was struck and two women were injured by leaping in panic from the car. At the same moment another car was struck and six persons were injured by shock and burns.

THE STORM IN MAINE.

HOULTON, Me., Aug. 13.—Reports received today from the farming districts in the vicinity of Houltou, Me., that the grain and potato crops and garden truck were damaged considerably by hail and storm last night. A high wind prevailed for 15 or 20 hours, and heavy rain fell. Many of the hall stones were two inches in circumference. Lightning damaged a dwelling in Houltou, but no one was injured.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 13.—Reports from the Saco Valley show that a large section visited early Sunday morning by what is pronounced the worst tempest ever known there. The country affected extends from Bar Mills to Old Orchard, and from the first named town to West Buxton. Two electrical storms met over the valley, the fierce lightning being accompanied by a violent wind and a storm of hail. Several farm buildings were struck by bolts and trees were uprooted, orchards being extensively damaged. No case of personal injury has so far been reported.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HAVE GONE HOME.

Given a Hearty Send Off on Saturday Evening by Their St. John Brethren.

The Knights of Pythias from Massachusetts, who spent two very enjoyable days in St. John, left on the Calvin Austin on Saturday evening. They were kept busy on Saturday. In the forenoon most of them scattered around the town, and at two o'clock the band with a large number of the Knights went to Monument Park to see the races. They returned shortly before five o'clock. Others went to the ball game or to Seaside Park, while a few preferred resting in their hotel.

Shortly before six o'clock the uniform rank of the local Knights, accompanied by the kind Band, assembled at their rooms, and then escorted the visitors to the Eastern line wharf. Many persons gathered to see the parade, and the two bands, with the Knights, made quite a showing. At the steamer suitable airs were played, officers of the visiting regiment expressed the pleasure they had found in visiting St. John and their appreciation of the entertainment provided. Local officers in turn spoke of the happiness they had in entertaining their American brethren. Cheers were given by both sides and the steamer moved off. The visitors were as fine a body of men as ever came here. They made friends everywhere, and had the faculty of amusing themselves. Their two days in St. John afforded pleasure to citizens here as much as to themselves.

OLD HOME WEEK BEGINS IN MAINE.

Numerous Reunions Will Be Held All Over the States—Many Visitors Expected

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 13.—Old Home Week in Maine is being observed this week, commencing today and continuing through the 19th. There are official state or city programmes of celebrations, but all over the state there are to be numerous reunions in recognition of the event. Family reunions are to be numerous this week, the Brackett family to meet Thursday at Peaks Island, and others are to be held in the vicinity of Portland. The only thing that can be called an official observance of the event is the fact that there are four U. S. battleships in the harbor, and thousands of people are expected to visit the ships. Monday forenoon the officers of the ships are to be officially received by Mayor Baxter and the citizens of Portland in City Hall.

A POPULAR FEELING AGAINST HOUSE OF LORDS.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—It would seem that not since the famous Home Rule agitation has there been as much popular feeling against the House of Lords as at the present time because that body appears indisposed to allow the party said that he certainly was not proud of the House of Lords at the present moment because of the division on the bill for allowing tramways along Westminster and Blackfriars' bridges and along the Victoria embankment. He gave the adverse majority credit, however, for sincerity of motive and goodness of intention. If the Lord Chancellor said that a course was the right one to pursue it must be right in the opinion of the noble lords. But the Earl of Aberdeen added that he was pretty sure that the tramways would come—House of Lords or not.

At a meeting of the Southwark Borough Council a resolution was passed by forty votes to six condemning the action of the House of Lords in having rejected the over-tramway bridge bill. The mayor (the Rev. A. W. Jephson) pointed out that twenty-one out of the twenty-eight metropolitan boroughs had supported the measure, while the remaining seven had not expressed an adverse opinion. This is taken as a measure of the reflection of the popular sentiment and as a criterion of the feeling against the House of Lords in this connection.

OLD HOME WEEK BEGINS IN MAINE.

Numerous Reunions Will Be Held All Over the States—Many Visitors Expected

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 13.—Old Home Week in Maine is being observed this week, commencing today and continuing through the 19th. There are official state or city programmes of celebrations, but all over the state there are to be numerous reunions in recognition of the event. Family reunions are to be numerous this week, the Brackett family to meet Thursday at Peaks Island, and others are to be held in the vicinity of Portland. The only thing that can be called an official observance of the event is the fact that there are four U. S. battleships in the harbor, and thousands of people are expected to visit the ships. Monday forenoon the officers of the ships are to be officially received by Mayor Baxter and the citizens of Portland in City Hall.

IT WORRIED HIM.

"Yes," said the first doctor, "I have a case up on Bunker street that is causing me a great deal of worryment."

"Indeed?" asked the second doctor.

"Are you wondering whether or not the patient will get well?"

"Not so much that as I am puzzled over whether or not he will pay my bill."—Chicago Tribune.

INFANT MORTALITY.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The subject of infant mortality has been receiving a vast deal of attention not only at the hands of the public health conference, but at the hands of health boards and health committees as well. Dr. F. G. Moore, of Huddersfield, is authority for the statement that in some of the large cities only three out of every four children born live twelve months, while in the country districts the mortality is often as low as ninety-one out of every hundred.

At the Southwark coroner's court, during a recent inquiry into the death of a child from improper feeding, Dr. F. J. Waldo said that the infant death rate in Southwark was higher than in any other district in London. He said that in Hampstead the death rate was only one-third as heavy.

GERMAN NEWSPAPER REPORTS DENIED.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 12.—Inquiry in official quarters here shows that there is no truth in the reports widely circulated by the German newspapers to the effect that the people in Cape Colony have been aiding the natives of Africa in their quarrels with Germany. In the first place there is apparently no feeling against Germany in South-west Africa. But more than this it is almost impossible for the natives to obtain a supply of arms and ammunition. Since the war the Government regulations about arms have been most strict. Every one must have a permit for each weapon owned, and permits are given only to responsible persons.

SCHR. SILVER LEAF WENT ASHORE ON PARTRIDGE ISLAND.

She Sustained Considerable Damage by Going on the Rocks.

PARRSBORO, N. S., Aug. 12.—During a thick fog last night the stern schooner Silver Leaf, Captain Satter, from New York for Digby River in ballast, went ashore on Partridge Island, and remained there until this morning's tide, when she was towed off by the tug Springfield. The Silver Leaf carried away jibboom, bowsprit and all head gear when she struck the rocks, besides tearing her sails and receiving other damage. She was brought into the river and docked at Huntley's wharf. As she lies in a mangled state it is impossible to tell what damage she has received, but it is believed that she is considerably strained, and it is known that her bottom is cracked. She will go on the marine blocks as soon as possible, when a survey will be had and necessary repairs made. The Silver Leaf was built at Sprucehead Island two years ago, is owned at this port, and registers 235 tons.

HIS IDEA OF HAPPINESS.

Here's an old time citizen's idea of summer happiness:

Lots of trouble in life I see,
An' I dunno where 'twill lan' me,
But I've found a place 'neath a shady tree—
A fine old garden where my flowers grow free,
An' the julep's sweet as sweet kin be,
An' a cool west wind to fan me,
—Atlanta Constitution.

CARLETON NOTES.

A party from Rodney street, Carleton, made up their minds to have a day's outing on Saturday morning, and going by the 8.00 a. m. train, Shore Line, journeyed as far as Spruce Lake, there to spend the day in gathering raspberries and other wild fruits, and were amply rewarded, having gathered there was quite an amount, there being several other parties from St. John and Carleton busily gathering them.

From a visit to Fox's granite and monumental works, Rodney street, Carleton, there can be gathered some very good ideas as to how such splendid designs and workmanship can be put into practice, by the production of thoroughly skilled work in all kinds of granite, marble, stone, etc. A visit there will show the very latest designs in crosses, tablets, etc., all the work of the proprietor.

A full grown cat, belonging to Mr. Woodland, of Rodney street, Carleton, is somewhat of a curiosity, the like of which is seldom seen. It is a masterpiece at catching rats, birds, etc., its two fore feet having a double set of claws.

ABERDEEN MILL LOSS

WILL BE $100,000.

FREDERICTON, Aug. 13.—The fire which on Friday evening swept out of existence the splendid mills of Donald Fraser & Co., made smoke, flame and shed of a thriving industry. The Aberdeen mill was built in 1884 by Donald Fraser at a cost of $10,000. It has been enlarged and new machinery added from time to time, and Mr. Fraser's two sons, Donald and Archie, were admitted into the partnership. It gave constant employment in and about the mill to 125 men, and some seasons both day and night crews were at hand. The mill was valued at $20,000, and insured at $15,000. In the lower yard was piled nearly all this season's cut of boards. In the shed near the river bank were stored about $10,000 worth of finished box shooks, no part of which was saved. The probable loss on lumber and other stock is $60,000 or $70,000, or a total loss of some $100,000. Donald Fraser said that nothing has been decided on as to rebuilding.

TWO YOUNG MEN DROWNED AT DALHOUSIE.

DALHOUSIE, Aug. 13.—A sad drowning accident occurred here Saturday evening.

One of the mills being closed down for the day some of the young men went for a sail. In one boat there were Alexander LeBlanc, Peter Mercier and Henry Arsenault. When they were about half a mile from the shore a terrible squall broke out with rain, and their boat capsized and sank.

Arsenault, who could swim, held out and was saved. Mercier, 17 years old, was an only son, and LeBlanc, 25 years old, was to be married in a few weeks to a very popular young girl of Dalhousie. The whole community sympathizes with the bereaved friends.

The bodies have not been recovered. During the squall another boat containing two lady visitors and a gentleman from Quebec in charge of a Norwegian captain had a narrow escape. Their boat was filling with water when they were picked up by the crew of the dredge St. Lawrence, that was returning from the ballast ground.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 14, 1905.

THE SITUATION AT PORTSMOUTH.

The business at Portsmouth has reached the critical stage. At this moment the prospect of peace is not good. Japan has made propositions which could only be accepted by a conquered country. Russia has been beaten but she has not been conquered. The island of Sakhalin is the only Russian territory which has been touched by a Japanese army. All the land fighting so far has been on Chinese territory. It is true that the Russian fleet is gone, but that fact is of less importance to Russia than if she were assailable from the sea, or were a great commercial power.

There is in fact no comparison between the position of Russia today and that of France when she made peace with Germany, or that of Austria at the close of the war with Prussia, or that of Russia, herself, after the Crimean war. German troops invaded Paris and had that capital at their mercy when France agreed to pay an indemnity and gave up parts of two provinces. A short march would have brought the Prussians to Vienna when Austria made peace with Emperor William. The chief fortress of European Russia and the control of all her ocean outlet was with her enemies when Russia made peace with the allies. But at the close of the Crimean war there was no indemnity and no cession of territory. The war indemnities after Prussia made herself master of Germany were slight, and those at first imposed upon some of the defeated principalities and duchies were remitted when they formed the new empire.

It is not surprising that Russia should refuse to make terms such as have never been accepted by any but a conquered country. To make such an admission when she has an army at the front nominally equal to that of absolute incapacity and helplessness. Outside of Russia there is an impression that such helplessness and incapacity exists. Russia does not yet admit it.

THE RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES OF THE SLEEPER.

What are the rights of a citizen of St. John who desires to sleep until the usual hour for rising against the earlier rise who takes occasion to make a noise in the street? This question presents itself somewhat acutely, so the Star is informed, in numerous households. A professional man who retires at eleven o'clock and does not sleep too well in the early part of the night, tells this journal that his rest is much disturbed by early street cars passing his door. He admits that there is no escape from this, and so with reluctance does the invalid lady whose best sleep of the twenty-four hours is broken by the cars turning the corner where her house stands. But the case which occasioned the protest to the Star last week was that of a light sleeper whose health is not good, and who is awakened at five in the morning by the loud caw of a colored driver of an ice wagon which passes his way at that hour. The complainant does not see the need of all the shouting that happens which he hears from the front of his own house and a dozen others, more or less, on each side of it. And if the voice is not necessary, or not even useful, can it be stopped? The Star is not answering this question just now. But it suspects that the suppression of these early morning noises would be a grateful service to many who do not get their full share of healthy sleep in the early part of the night, and in fact to all whose duties or inclinations do not compel them to rise very early in the morning. Most of the conduct which is described as "disorderly" by the police reporters is less disturbing and causes less suffering and annoyance than the rattling of elderly and loose jointed vehicles when driven rapidly over stony streets before the night has fairly passed, or the hilarious untimely calls of maternal traders, or the shouted conversations, and uproarious and anti-social greetings of ice carters and other very early people. From these representations that have been made the Star is of the opinion that these excellent and useful people, vendors of ice and other necessities, who work early that others may enjoy life more, would greatly increase the obligation which the public bears them if they would perform their duties less noisily. It is just, however, to say that much blame rests upon the city public works department, which is remarkably unsuccessful in its efforts to make smooth the streets.

THE AMHERST ESTABLISHMENT.

The Amherst establishment, has contracted with the Grand Trunk Pacific Company for 3,000 freight cars annually for the next five years. From this concern alone the company will thus have 15,000 freight cars long before the road is completed. This is more than one-third of the number owned by the Canadian Pacific, which operates over 3,000 miles of railway. In fact, the 15,000 freight cars will be a more complete equipment for the 3,000 miles of Grand Trunk Pacific than the 37,000 freight cars were last year for the Canadian Pacific system.

It is further pointed out that the old Grand Trunk railway never had cars made in Eastern Canada, but imports large quantities of rolling stock from the United States.

The Telegram states that one-third of the capital stock of the Canada Car Company is held by the Pressed Car Company, a United States corporation, that another third belongs to the Grand Trunk Company, and the remainder of the stock is owned by a group of Canadians, including Senator Cox. Our Amherst contemporary finds in this state of affairs a blue outlook for local car-builders doing work for the new transcontinental.

HOW TO GET SCRIP.

Some interesting evidence has been given by witnesses in the land scrip investigation. One of the persons who were induced to sell to Macdonald for two hundred each scrip that was worth two to three thousand dollars, was an ignorant half-breed woman. She testified: "Thibert and Simpson came to my house and offered to buy my scrip and I refused. They came back again next day with Macdonald. Thibert said he would arrest me and put me in jail if I did not sell my scrip. And as a bonus she got fifteen dollars for according to their demand."

Another half-breed, who seems to have signed away scrip which would have been coming to his deceased brother and sisters, said that he had signed the papers at the request of Macdonald. How many he did not know. His version was: "They told me to sign, that is all. I don't know why."

LUCKY JAPAN.

(New York Globe.) —South of the Japanese island of Tori Shima has sprung up a new island, 480 feet and nearly three miles in circumference. Its growth was watched by the inhabitants of two or three islands, a few miles away. On November 14 last they were startled by strange rumblings. Two weeks later they saw great clouds of black and white smoke, or, in other words, clouds of black ash and steam. Next the sea appeared as if it were on fire. Later it looked as if there were three islands. On December 12, instead of three islands, one large island was seen standing in the sea. From day to day this changed in its configuration, and those who watched it were anxious as to what might happen next. Finally ten men set out in a thirty-foot boat and a canoe. They reached the island on February 1 and placed upon its summit a flag with the inscription, "New place, Great Japan. Many banquets." The south coast is a precipitous mass of rock, while on the north there is a boiling lake.

OLDER THE BETTER.

"Yes," said the old man to his young visitor, "I am proud of my girls and would like to see them comfortably married, and as I have made a little money they will not go penniless to their husbands. There is Mary, twenty-five years old and a really good girl. I shall give her $3,000 when she marries. Then comes Bet, who won't see thirty-five again, and I shall give her $3,000. And the man who takes Eliza, who is forty, will have $5,000 with her."

The young man reflected a moment and then inquired: "You haven't one about fifty, have you?"—Judge.

LOCAL NEWS.

Haying operations were going on vigorously yesterday afternoon on one of the farms on the Gilbert marsh. At three o'clock one man was working the horse rake, one team with three or four men was hauling in to the barn, while other men, making up a crew of eight or ten, were raking by hand and rolling up. Yesterday was perhaps the best hay day of the season, but nothing was doing on the other farms.

The city laborers will hold a meeting tonight and discuss the question of wages. They hold that the general scale of wages prevailing in the city is $1.50, as contractors always pay this for unskilled labor, and they think the city should raise its pay from $1.40 to $1.50 per day. They are not seeking to hand and rolling up. Yesterday was perhaps the best hay day of the season, but nothing was doing on the other farms.

About 5.30 yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in the roof of Rev. Mr. Sampson's house on Duke street, Carleton. Owing to the prompt response of the firemen to the alarm the house was saved with slight damage. The engine arrived, however, just in the nick of time, as the fire was getting pretty firmly seated in the roof before it was discovered, and with the aid of the big wind which prevailed there soon have been a big blaze. A spark from the chimney of the kitchen was supposed to have started the blaze.

George Harrison who lives with his parents in the post office and John Buckley of Carleton have gone on a trip to Boston. They were down to the Calvin Austin Saturday night to see the last of the visiting Pythians and did not leave the boat in time.

To-day fully one hundred and forty men will be added to the force at work on Mooney & Sons ground at Loch Lomond. This will make a total force of not less than 230. On both of their sections good progress is being made. The concrete mixer will be set up and started to-day.

The annual picnic of the Fredericton corps of the Salvation Army which was to have been held at Rolstown on Wednesday, will be held somewhere in the vicinity of Fredericton owing to the fact that the army officials have been unable to procure from the railway company sufficient cars to run the excursion. This will mean a considerable disappointment to the army and their many friends in that vicinity, as this annual picnic has been for years past a largely attended affair. Col. Sharp will leave Halifax for Fredericton tomorrow to attend the picnic.

ST. JOHN STAR, MONDAY, AUGUST 14, 1905

SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY.
Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. BILLINGHAM COMPANY

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

Sir Henry Morgan, a notorious buccaneer, who had been knighted by King Charles II. and made vice-governor of Jamaica, was deposed by King James and ordered under arrest. Morgan admitted the two officers who came to take him, slew them and made his escape. With the help of one Benjamin Hearnigold, a former assistant in his piracy, he collected a gang of a hundred cut-throats in Port Royal and announced his intention of holding the black flag again. Hearnigold actively aided him because he hoped in this way to get Morgan in his power and exact a horrible revenge for his brother whom the old buccaneer had hanged. After capturing the Mary Rose Morgan and his gang got safely past the forts with their prize, firing a broadside as they passed. During the next few days the Mary Rose sailed south Morgan drilled his crew. The sailors that were taken prisoners from the frigate were captured were given their choice of casting in their lot with Morgan or walking the plank. Nearly all joined the buccaneer. Two Spanish frigates, conveying a heavily loaded galleon, were unsuspectingly engaged, as Morgan's vessel was flying the British ensign. Morgan was flying the British ensign but was obliged to blow up the stern of his frigate to complete his victory and his vessel sank but not before he and his crew were aboard and in control of the galleon. The convicts were destroyed. Some members of the crew on ascertaining how rich this prize was wished to make a New England port and disembark. Morgan has other ideas and as usual carried his point even stopping at death. Two days Morgan sailed south finally running into a severe storm when off the coast of Caracas. Morgan's vessel runs ashore after a previous collision of seamanship on the part of the buccaneer to save her. The last chapter introduces Captain Dominico Alvarado, commandant of the port of La Guayra.

But, though they had enjoyed brief opportunity for personal intercourse, the very impossibilities of free communication, the difficulties of meeting, had but added fuel and fire to their affection. Love had burned into these two hearts with all the intensity of their tropic blood and tropic land. Alvarado's passion could feed for days and grow large upon the remembrance of the fragrance of her hand when he kissed it last in formal salutation. Mercedes' soul could unfold itself in the recollection of the too ardent pressure of his lips, the burning yet reverent glance he had shot at her, by others unperceived, when he said farewell. The situation was complicated in every possible way for Alvarado. Had he been a man of family, like his friend, De Tobar, he would have gone boldly to the viceroys and asked for the hand of his daughter, in which case he thought he would have met with no refusal, but, being ignorant of his birth, having not even a legal right to the name he bore, he knew that the proud old Hidalgo would rather see his daughter dead than wedded to him. Of all the ancient splendors of the Spanish people there was left them but one thing of which they could be proud—their ancestry. De Tobar, who belonged to one of the noblest and most distinguished families of the Ibero peninsula, would never consent to degrade his line by giving his only daughter to a nobody, however worthy in other respects the suitor might prove to be.

Again, had Mercedes' father been any other than the lifelong patron and friend to whom he literally owed everything that he possessed, such was the impetuosity of Alvarado's disposition that at every hazard he would have taken the girl by force from her father's protection, made her his wife and sought an asylum in England or France or wherever he could. So desperate was his state of mind, so overwhelming his love, that he would have shrunk from nothing to win her. Yet just because the viceroys had been a father to him, just because he had loved him, had been unexampled in his kindness and consideration to him, just because he respected such absolute unlimited confidence in him, the young man felt bound in honor by fetters that he could not break.

And there was his friendship for De Tobar. There were many young galleons about the vice-regal court who, jealous of Alvarado's favor and envious of his merits, had not scrupled in the face of his unknown origin to sneer, to mock or to slight—so far as it was safe to do either of these things to so brave and able a soldier. Amid these gilded youths De Tobar, with noble magnanimity and affection, had proved himself Alvarado's staunch friend. A romantic attachment had sprung up between the two young men, and the first confidant of De Tobar's love affairs had been Alvarado himself. To betray his friend was almost as bad as to betray his patron. It was not to be thought of.

Of all the cities and garrisons which were under sway of the viceroys, La Guayra was the best appointed and cared for. But it did not require a great deal of time or attention from so skilled a commander as Alvarado to keep things in proper shape. Time, therefore, hung heavily on his hands.

On the other side of the mountain range, after a descent of several miles and feet to a beautiful verdant valley whose altitude tempered the tropic heat of the low latitude into a salubrious and delightful climate, lay the palace of the viceroys and the city which surrounded it. St. Jago, or Santiago de Leon, commonly called the city of Caracas.

Many a day had Alvarado turned backward from the white walled, red roofed town spread out at his feet, basking under the palms, seething in the fierce heat, as if striving to pierce with his gaze the great cordillera, on the farther side of which in the cool white palace beneath the gigantic celibaes the queen of his heart made her home. He pictured her at all hours of the day; he dwelt upon her image, going over again in his mind each detail of her face and figure.

He was mad, mad with love for her, crazed with hopeless passion. There seemed to be no way out of his misery but for him to pass his own sword through his heart, or to throw himself from the precipice, or to plunge into the cruel blue of the enveloping Caribbean—the color of the sea changed in his eyes with his temper, like a woman's mood. Yet he was young; he hoped in spite of himself. He prayed—for he was not old enough to lose his faith—and he planned. Besides, he was too brave a soldier to kill himself, and she was not yet married. She was not formally betrothed even, although it was well known that her father looked favorably upon De Tobar's suit; no formal announcement had been made of it as yet. So, in spite of his judgment, he dreamed. The thoughts of youth and love are long, long thoughts, indeed.

That morning the young captain, engrossed in his emotions, was not aware of the approach of a messenger until the clank of the man's sword upon the stone flags of the plaza caused him to lift his head. He was a soldier, an officer of the bodyguard of the viceroys, and he bore in his hand a letter sealed with the De Lara coat of arms. The messenger saluted and handed the packet to the captain.

"Yesterday evening his excellency the viceroys charged me to deliver this letter to you today."

"Fadrique," called Alvarado to a servant, "a flagon of wine for the cavalier. By your leave, sir," he continued, with formal politeness, opening the packet and reading the message: To the Captain Alvarado, Commandante of La Guayra, Greeting: The viceroys, in view of your service and devotion to his excellency, propose to appoint you as one of the witnesses to the formal betrothal of our daughter, Mercedes, to Don Felipe de Tobar. After that, as we have received appeals for help from the Orinoco country, we propose to lead his catholic majesty's imperial troops and devotion to your safe keeping in our city of La Guayra until we return. Therefore prepare accordingly. Given under our hand and seal.

It had come! The old man, as a last token of his respect, had nominated him as a witness to the contract which robbed him forever of hope and happiness. The young man went white before the keen eyes of the messenger, who, in common with other officers of the viceroys' court, suspected what was, indeed, concealed from no one save the father and son. His heart almost stopped its beating, yet, summoning his resolution, he recovered himself by an effort that left him trembling, the sweat beading his forehead.

"Say to his excellency the viceroys that I thank him for the honor he does me. I shall wait upon him tomorrow and obey his commands."

CHAPTER X. ALVARADO was alone in the cabinet of the viceroys, to which his rank and the favor in which his excellency held him gave him access at all times. He had ridden all day over the rough road that winds over the mountains from La Guayra to Caracas. The storm which had rushed down the mountain side all afternoon matched the tumult in his soul, and the sheets of rain blown upon him by the fierce wind had not cooled his fever of his agitation. The unusual tempest was one of the most terrible he had swept over the coast in years. He had marked as he rode a huge ship far to seaward, staggering along under shortened canvas and laboring tremendously in the heavy seas. But his thoughts were on another subject, on a situation in which he found himself that he had not particularly noticed the vessel, although passing ships were infrequent sights off the port of La Guayra. Pain, rage, and distraught from his mental struggle, he had crossed the pass at the summit of the mountain and descended into the fertile valley now adieu with rain and looking almost cold under the gray sky and had presented himself at the palace of the viceroys.

He had changed his apparel after his reception, and his old sergeant had polished his breastplate until it fairly blazed with light, for though the occasion was one of peace he had felt that he could better sustain his part in the military uniform in which he had won his only title to consideration. Consequently his appearance in the brightly lighted hall of the palace among the gay courtiers resplendent in magnificent attire, blazoned with jewels, threw a somber note over the proceedings.

It was as a soldier he had won fame and the consideration of the viceroys; in no other capacity, so far as any man knew, had he the right to enter that assembly of the rich and well born. It was as a soldier he would perform that hardest of all duties which had ever been laid upon him by his friend and patron, the governor. Pale, stern, composed, he stood on the figure of repression. So severe was the constraint that he put upon himself that he had given no sign of the emotion, even at the near approach of Donna Mercedes, and the hand which signed his name beneath the father's as if the principal witness was as steady as if it held a pencil. He was so deadly calm, he endured passively the affectionate greetings of the happy De Tobar, who was intoxicated at the assurance afforded by the betrothal of the coming realization of all his hopes. He sustained with firmness the confidence of the viceroys and the admissions De Lara made to him in private of his pleasure in the suitable and fortunate marriage which was there arranged. He even bore without breaking one long, piteous appeal which had been shot at him from the black eyes of the unhappy Mercedes.

To her he seemed preternaturally cold and indifferent. He was so strong, so brave, so successful. She had counted upon some interposition from him, but the snow-capped Andes were no colder than he appeared, their granite sides no more rigid and unresponsive. It was with a feeling of anger and resentment at last that she had signed the betrothal contract.

But the restraint on the man was more than he could bear. Flaming indignation, the early light left him withdraw from the festivities which succeeded the completion of the betrothal ceremony and the retirement of the ladies. At the suggestion of the viceroys, who had desired to consult with him later in the evening, he went into the deserted cabinet of the latter. The palace was built in the form of a quadrangle around an open space. A balcony ran along the second story, passing the viceroys' cabinet, beyond which was his bedroom and beyond that the apartments of the viceroys. The balcony was the scene of a storm had spent itself. It was a calm and beautiful night. The moon, shining with tropic splendor through the open window, dispelled the necessity of light. There was no one in the cabinet when he entered, and he felt at last able to give way to his emotion. Mercedes, though, he was not married, he was now left to him beyond recourse. After the women withdrew there was no restraint put upon the young and reckless man. He and his comrades with generous cheerfulness the happy bridegroom, undisturbed, forgotten, and likely to remain so. He put his head upon his hands and groaned in anguish.

"Why should it not have been I?" he murmured. "Is he stronger, braver, a better soldier? Does he love her more? Richer? Can I not acquire them? Fame? Have I not a large reputation? Ah, that's it! My father! My mother! If I could only know! How she looked at me! What piteous appeal in her eyes! What reproach when I stood passive, case in hand, and with a breaking heart! Mercedes! Mercedes!"

In his anguish he called the name aloud. So absorbed and preoccupied in his grief and the thought that he was not aware of a figure softly moving along the balcony in the shadow. He did not hear a footfall coming through the open window that gave into the night. He did not realize that he had an auditor to his words, a witness to his grief, until a touch soft as a snowflake fell upon his hair and a voice for which he languished whispered in his ear:

"You called me. I am come." "Serenita Mercedes!" he cried, lifting his head and gazing upon her in startled surprise. "How came you here? So soft fell upon his head."

here?" he added brusquely, catching her hands with a fierce grasp in the intensity of his emotion as he spoke. "Is this my greeting?" she answered, surprised in turn that he had not instantly swept her to his heart. She strove to draw herself away, and when he perceived her intent he opened his hands and allowed her arms to fall by his side. "I am not wanted," she went on piteously. "I am not wanted."

MR. TARTE'S VIEWS. He Thinks Borden Cannot Remain Leader of Opposition.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—Hon. Mr. Tarte volunteers the opinion that R. L. Borden cannot be replaced in the head of the opposition. La Patrie says: "The members of the conservative party are recruited chiefly from the province of Ontario, while the members from that province mostly belong to the Orange Association. The attitude of the opposition in the school clauses of the autonomy bill is due to this fact and not to the inner opinion of Mr. Borden, whom we find as a matter of fact to be a man of considerable liberal and tolerant views."

"Unfortunately as Mr. Borden's policy has been on that question, from our point of view, it has not altogether satisfied an advanced group of his party. Certain groups now seek his decapitation. La Patrie does not see that Mr. Borden can be replaced. We give our opinion for what it is worth. We believe he has lost in this province a part of the ground he gained, and we also know that the last session did not add to his prestige in Ontario and the other provinces. The party leaders as well as the parties themselves, have hours of eclipse. But after all he is, under the circumstances, the most capable man to organize a vigorous opposition, which is most important for the country."

"The liberal party is not at sixes and sevens but there reign feelings of lassitude and it is asked, where are the men to come to replace Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. Mr. Scott?"

"It is most important that the liberal party should gain ground in Ontario, so that this province shall be placed more in harmony with Quebec, its ally of other days."

"The prime minister has a laborious task before him in the tariff commission, composed of Hon. Messrs. Fielding, Patterson and Brodeur, will soon begin its labors. The general opinion was that this commission would not be exclusively recruited from the cabinet. We learn, however, from the best possible source that Hon. Mr. Fielding intended that the composition should be what it is today."

RECOVERY OF LOUISBURG RELICS. How Rare Finds Are Made at the Right Moment.

LOUISBURG, Aug. 12.—It is wonderful there is always something being dug up about Port Louisburg just at the appropriate time. Last week two old coins were presented one to Lady Grey and one to Lady which were dug up the week previous at old town. Now it is more than likely that if the lieutenant governor would favor the digging with a visit that some old coin would be presented to him that had only been dug from among the ruins of ancient Louisburg a few days previous to his visit.

When the monument put up by the Society of Colonial Wars was about to be erected it was the wish of the people who were erecting it that medals could be struck from a piece of brass cannon that had been used at the siege of Louisburg. A diver went down one day at a point near the entrance of the harbor and he procured the necessary brass cannon among the ruins of an old man-of-war that had been sunk there during the siege. The brass was sent for to the United States and the commemorative medals were accordingly struck.

Rev. C. T. Phillips has resigned his position as pastor of the Free Baptist church. It is very much regretted that Mr. Phillips has concluded to sever his connection with the Hartland church, as people of every creed and denomination will be sorry when he leaves, as no doubt he will take up his work again in another field. Wherever he goes, however, he will always have the good will and prayers of all denominations in Hartland—Woodstock Dispatch.

TWO TRAGIC DEATHS IN NOVA SCOTIA. Digby Mother Kills Her Child by a Mistake.

DIGBY, Aug. 13.—Edith Irene, infant daughter of Herbert Forest, living just outside Digby, was accidentally poisoned yesterday afternoon through the administration of a dose of carbolic acid in mistake for castor oil, and died within two hours. The child's mother poured out the dose, taking the bottle off a shelf in a bedroom on which stood a bottle of castor oil, somewhat resembling the carbolic bottle in size. She handed the spoon to Pliny Butler, the nurse, who did not notice the mistake until the child's mouth was rendered white where the heavy fluid touched it. The child's throat became paralyzed and no effective antidote could be administered. Both bottles were plainly labelled, the acid bottle having a red poison label across the face. The coroner's jury exonerated both women from blame.

HALIFAX, Aug. 13.—A tragic death occurred during the regatta on the Northwest Arm Saturday afternoon, when thousands of people were there to see the races. Harry W. Cox, son of J. P. Cox and member of the firm of J. P. Cox & Sons, had rowed down the Arm with his wife and children and party of friends. He became much overheated with the toilsome row, and when the party reached the place where they intended to spend the afternoon he and some others went in for a bath. In a few minutes Cox hove up his hands and sank in comparatively shallow water. His wife ran into the water and with others succeeded in getting Mr. Cox afloat. He was dead. He had died, the doctors afterwards said, from a sudden rush of blood to the heart. A panic among those trying to rescue him, most caused the death of others, but they were resuscitated. Mr. Cox was vice-president of the Liberal Conservative Club of Halifax and a most popular business man.

FREDERICTON NEWS. Aberdeen Fire Starts Up Again—Visiting Clergymen in Fredericton Pulpits.

FREDERICTON, Aug. 13.—A number of outside clergymen occupied the pulpits of several of the churches today. Rev. J. H. E. Rickard of Portland, Me., preached in the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. McCaskill of Fort Kent in the Presbyterian and Rev. H. F. Adams in the Baptist. Rev. Dean Partridge was able to attend divine service at the cathedral today after his late illness. He preached in that church this evening.

It was found necessary at an early hour this morning to turn the water on the Aberdeen mill premises. The heavy wind stirred up the smouldering ruins, and at one time the wharf looked to be in danger. The flames were soon subdued. Another heavy electrical storm passed over the city last evening accompanied by heavy wind. The fire department was called out at noon today for a slight blaze on the roof of Daniel Lenihan's house, King street.

ENTERTAINMENT AND INSTRUCTION FOR YOUNG FOLKS; GOOD ILLUSTRATIONS, GOOD STORIES AND GOOD VERSE

The Land of Good Tempered Children

By ALBERTA PLATT

WOULD it not seem queer to live in a country where the babies never cry and the boys never fight and the girls do not squabble and quarrel? There seems to be just one such country on the globe and that is Japan. The main reason for the tearless babies and the peaceable children is that Japan people themselves are always pleasant tempered and polite both to one another and to all children. No race loves children more than the Japanese. No other race is so invariably kind and gentle to them. Parents give up much of their time to amusing and teaching their children. In turn, as children grow older they love and reverence their parents more than some Americans can understand.

A Jap baby is never under any circumstances scolded, slapped or shaken. No wonder, then, that it does not cry. Its brothers and sisters never pinch it. Pinching babies is unknown in Japan. When grown people speak to children it is always in a gentle, kind voice. Thus the children, never hearing any scolding or rough, quarrelsome talk, themselves naturally become polite and speak in gentle voices too.

Once a white missionary went with his wife and children to Japan. The family had Jap servants, who watched every movement of the white people. One day the missionary's wife slapped her child, as white mothers often do. At once all the servants cried out in horror, and every one of them left. Such a thing as striking a little child had never been known among them, and it seemed to them as wicked as murder. They told everybody they knew about the white woman's crime, and after that she never could get any person to work for her; so the missionary had to move away to a place where nobody had ever heard of him. Among the common people of Japan older girls help mind the babies and younger children. The baby is carried upon its older sister's back in a queer way. A sort of bag or hood is tied securely around the girl's body. The hood or bag hangs loosely upon her back, and in it the baby is placed. The child's legs are placed astride around the girl's body, so that it really rides pickaback. The bag holds it so securely that it cannot slide out. Its head, shoulders and arms stick up above the bag, and it can cling with its hands to its young nurse's shoulders. The girl nurse's hands are thus left free to do what she likes. She often plays "bounce ball" with the baby on her back. She throws the rubber ball forcefully upon the ground. The game is to whirl around while it is in the air and be ready to bounce it again as it comes down. She has to whirl thus with the baby upon her back, and the jouncing that infant gets is something fearsome. The infant does not mind it a bit, however, perhaps because it is a Jap.

Every year in Japan there is a special holiday for little girls, called the Feast of Dolls. All day long the streets are full of demure and pretty little maidens going about with their mothers, buying and looking at dolls. As to the dolls, there are thousands of them, of all sizes and varieties. They are on sale, they are carried in children's arms—they are everywhere.

JAP NEWSBOYS.

CHILDREN TAKING A RICKSHAW RIDE.

About two months after the girls' holiday comes one for boys. It is called the Feast of Flags and is really a celebration in honor of Hachiman, the ancient Japanese god of war. Then the streets are full of flags. There are also tops and kites without end, and the boys have as much fun as the girls had on their holiday. Jap boys have many games; but, peaceable and merry as they are among themselves, they like best of all playing soccer.

Children are carefully taught in Japan too. Most of them can write with both hands. They can draw and make pretty paper flowers and wooden toys. In Japan are very few horses. The common method of traveling short distances is by jinrikisha, called, for short, rickshaw. This is a little carriage drawn by man instead of a horse. In the picture you see two Jap children taking a ride in a rickshaw. One of these strong rickshaw men can trot hour after hour like a horse and draw a vehicle containing two grown persons.

Japanese newsboys are just as wide awake as those of America, only they have a different way of announcing great events. They run with bells attached to their belts, and the number of bells increases with the importance of their news. The highest number is six. On the fall of Port Arthur there must have been a tremendous jingling of newsboys' bells. Japan, where little people are not whipped, where all grown people love them and try to make them happy, where scolding is scarcely heard and both parents and children are always kind and loving to each other, has been called the paradise of children.

Who Invented Spectacles?
When you children are looking for grandmothers' spectacles did you ever wonder who invented them? Roger Bacon, the friar, is supposed to have been the first man to make spectacles, in the year 1280, but on a tomb in Florence, dated 1290, there is an inscription which gives the honor to another man. It runs: "Here lies Salvino degli Armati, inventor of spectacles. May God pardon his sins." Spectacles became common in Holland and Germany in the sixteenth century.

Tommy's Great Fear.
"Tommy, my dear, what are you crying for?" said a lady to her little boy, who had just returned from church. "Because the clergyman says that we must all be born again, and I'm afraid I shall be born a girl next time."

THREE GREAT INVENTIONS.

Do you know what are the three greatest inventions in the world? Well, they are the mariner's compass, gunpowder and printing. The mariner's compass is for us perhaps the most important of all three, for without its aid Columbus would never have discovered America. But first of all, what is a compass? It is a little instrument, like a large watch in shape, used for telling directions. The Chinese are supposed to have invented this instrument, and Marco Polo, the great traveler, introduced it into Europe.

The Chinese certainly knew something about the magnet and the magnetic needle, for one of the early emperors constructed a compass for indicating the south. This instrument was merely a needle in a cork floating in a vessel of water. But the Chinese never used it in their short sea trips. The first European compasses were of this sort, and it was not until long afterward that men learned to make a compass that would not be affected by the rocking of the ship. Before this time mariners were afraid to venture far out at sea, as there was no way of finding out where they were going, so they kept close to the coast.

To Berthold Schwarz, a German monk, belongs the honor of making, or rather, mixing, gunpowder so it might be used in warfare. The Chinese, again, are supposed to have invented this powder, but they used it in a crude form in making fireworks.

Cannon loaded with gunpowder were used for the first time by King Edward III at the battle of Crecy. Since that time all civilized nations have used this deadly weapon of warfare. The invention of printing is attributed to Gutenberg, a native of Mainz,

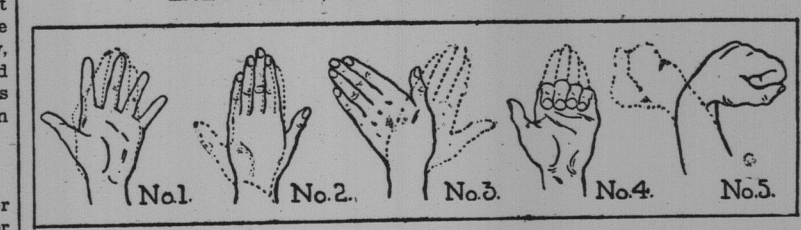

Germany, who was the first person to use movable molded type. Gutenberg's claim has been disputed in favor of that of a man named Coster who lived in Haarlem, Holland. There have been lots of improvements made in printing since these early methods of typesetting, but there has been no radical change in theory or process.

To Engrave an Egg.
Write on the eggshell in beeswax or varnish or even with tallow. Plunge the egg into a glass of strong vinegar. Whenever the shell is not protected by the covering material it is decomposed, and the design stands out in relief. There is no difficulty in this experiment. Two or three hours will be sufficient to bring out the tracing.

His First Ride.
Bobby had been for his first ride in an electric car, and something having gone wrong with the electricity, the lights kept on going out and suddenly re-lighting during the journey. "We had lightning in the car coming here, granny," he said when they got in. "But," he added, "I didn't hear any thunder."

An Unripe Egg.
"Will you have an egg for breakfast, Molly?" asked her aunt. "Yes, please, auntie," answered Molly. "But when the egg was cracked and proved to be soft Molly exclaimed: "Oh, auntie, I can't eat that! 'Tisn't ripe."

EXERCISES FOR HANDS AND WRISTS.

Many people forget that a "chain is as strong as its weakest link." The hands, fingers and wrists are often overlooked in the desire for big biceps. Here is a series of movements specially directed to strengthen these parts: First—Position, fingers close together, thumb pressing against the side of the first finger, not in front. Movement, slowly widen out the fingers to their fullest extent all in one plane. Pause momentarily and return to the ready position, pressing the fingers tightly together. Second—Ready position, back of the hand upward, fingers together, thumb slightly apart. Movement, reverse, holding the palm of the hand slowly up so that the palm is perfectly horizontal. Return to ready position and repeat. Third—Ready position, as in second exercise. Movement, work the hand slowly from side to side as far as possible. Fourth—Ready position, fingers flexed upon themselves, not upon the palm, as shown in the sketch. Movement, (a), extend fingers to full extent, keeping them together. Flex them rapidly again to ready position (b) as before, but extend fingers to full extent fanwise, separated from one another instead of extending them together. Fifth—Ready position, flat clinched. Movement, work flat slowly backward and forward upon the forearm, grinding the muscles thoroughly.

THE KITTY.

There once was a kitty—from Cheshire he came. His paws they were white and his whiskers the same. He was very polite, and he bowed all the while. As he greeted his friends with a beautiful smile.

A jealous old rat, who chanced to drop in, growled out, "Oh, you silly, to wear such a grin!" So kitty stopped smiling and bit off his head. "I'll teach you to have better manners," he said.

Be'er Rabbit and the Foxes.

"I'll stop those tramps sitting about my grounds," said Mr. Rabbit.

"It's very kind of Mr. Rabbit to put these nice chairs under a tree for us. We are very comfortable," said the wicked pair.

Just then Mr. Rabbit cut the string holding the tree down, so Fox and his friend got a rise in the world.

Johnnie and the Pesa.
Aunt Tillie was shelling peas. Johnnie watched her for awhile, then picking up a well filled pod from the basket, handed it to her, with the request, "Auntie, please unbutton this one."

The Story of a Love That Passed All Understanding; How One Woman Was Loyal to Her Idealization

A Latter Day Sphinx

Copyright, 1906, by Zoe Anderson Norris

By ZOE ANDERSON NORRIS

CAN'T say that I was prepossessed in Cornelia Hardman's favor from the first in spite of her excellent introductions from some dear writer friends. There was in her nature an inexplicable something like calm, an impenetrability, the wariness of the animal that covers up its tracks for fear of detection, that looks upon the world as its natural enemy, from which it must conceal all things possible of concealment.

Cornelia was from the far west. She was said to have had some little success with her work of writing with a magazine or two. Evidently she wrote. Always upon her desk was a typewriter, into which some paper had been coiled. There were often unfinished sentences upon this paper.

However, in contradictory evidence one saw nothing of her work in print—that is, next to nothing. On the wall of her sitting room a newspaper article elaborately illustrated with photographs taken by herself was displayed. The photographs were good, the article mediocre.

This was the sole specimen of Cornelia's work ever exhibited to me. I compared notes with my friends. It was also the only specimen upon which their eyes had rested.

She lived in a three room flat at the top of a great new building of flats in a miserable neighborhood. She rather flaunted her poverty; proud, it seemed, to be able to exist at all by means of her pen.

In that she was not alone. So, too, were we. After our first introduction there were months that I did not see Cornelia. Then she called upon me. After a little in her quiet way she spoke of a young German whom she had met.

They were engaged, she said. Soon they were to be married. She was glad. She was very tired of the constant work for magazines and newspapers, of trying to follow up her work, of waiting for it to appear so that they would send her her money. She existence was a strain upon the nerves of any woman. She often wondered how I endured it. Except that I wrote with such exceeding rapidity when I did write—I passed over the implied inference that this was seldom—she was sure that I would succumb. She was equally sure that, given sufficient time, I would succumb anyway.

With that she arose and extended me an invitation to meet her fiancé. As she stood in the light of the window I observed that she was very pale.

I WAS AMAZED AT SIGHT OF THE YOUNG GERMAN.

He was a tall, slender young man, with dark hair, a high forehead, and a serious expression. He was dressed in a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie. He was looking at me with a steady gaze.

He served the crowlike blackness of her hair without a curl, the straightness of her nose, a peculiar pallor that was not of New York in her complexion. Prompted more by curiosity than anything else, I accepted her invitation and in due time made a visit to her flat.

I climbed six breathless flights, part light, part dark, and entered. "Where is he?" I asked, leaning forward and touching it. "I have never seen your fiancé before."

"Whose is it?" I asked, leaning forward and touching it. "I have never seen your fiancé before."

"Whose is it?" I asked, leaning forward and touching it. "I have never seen your fiancé before."

A meeting of the city laborers will be held tonight and the question of an advance in wages will be discussed. It is claimed that the prevailing rate of wages is $1.50 and the laborers claim that their wages should be raised from $1.40 to this standard. They hope that a presentation of the facts will be sufficient to induce the city to raise the scale. Mr. Winchester when seen this morning said that he had heard nothing of the laborers' demand and did not think it would be granted. Sports are announced to be held at Rothesay upon the grounds used for ball playing on the evening of the 22nd. There will be several events, including a quarter mile run, 320 and 100 yard dashes, broad jump, high jump and hop, step and jump, as well as three standing and high jumps and putting shot. KIMBERLY-MONTANA

IS ALL RIGHT.

A Livingston despatch to the Anaconda Standard of recent date says: H. M. Ryan, managing director of the Kimberly-Montana Gold Mining Company at Jardine, was in the city today. Mr. Ryan says that the cyanide and stamp mills at Jardine are running regularly and that the returns are entirely satisfactory. A number of miners are employed in development work, in addition to those who are taking out the ore. The company is expending about $10,000 a month in wages and supplies. The plant is being constantly improved, for the Kimberly-Montana properties have been investigated to an extent that has proved their value, and Mr. Ryan says they will be enormously profitable when they are thoroughly developed and economies in the matter of ore reductions are inaugurated.

SALVATION ARMY WEDDING.

Captain Irkwood and Miss May Selig, of the Musical Troop to be Married Tonight.

Col. Sharp and a small party of Salvation Army people from here went to Halifax on Saturday to attend a happy event which is to take place in their ranks this evening, when Capt. Irkwood and Miss May Selig, both of the musical troop which left here a couple of months ago, will be united in holy wedlock. Capt. Irkwood is well known in this city, having acted as secretary to Major Phillips for about three years previous to his joining the troop. He is now musical director of the troop, which has been in Halifax about four days. Miss Selig is the alto singer of the troop. She was formerly stationed at Westville as lieutenant, and will now take the rank of her husband. The marriage will take place at 8 o'clock this evening in No. 1 barracks, Brunswick street, Halifax. Col. and Mrs. Sharp will perform the ceremony. Capt. Brace, the officer in charge of No. 3 barracks, Indian town, will act as bridesmaid, while Capt. Riley, Col. Sharp's private secretary, will support the groom. The bride and groom will spend their honeymoon on the road with the troop, as their services are too valuable to be dispensed with, and their leaving the troop at this time for a couple of weeks would practically mean its breaking up for that time. The troop leave Halifax tomorrow for Lunenburg, accompanied by Mrs. Sharp, who will remain with them for a few weeks, while they do the South Shore, from Halifax to Yarmouth.

JOLLY TIME AT FAREWELL.

American Knights of Pythias Returned With Requisites—A Gracious Tribute to St. John.

While the steamer Calvin Austin was waiting to depart Saturday evening, and over a thousand people stood on the wharves to witness the last farewells of the St. John and American Knights of Pythias, Sir Knight Frank Potts climbed aboard the steamer and reached the hurricane deck. Here he addressed the assembled company in a humorous speech presented him with a bottle of Apollinaris water, nicely encased in leather. The colonel was happy, humorous and brief in his reply. Another visiting Knight was asked to step to the front, where he received a butter pat, because "he was so slippery." There were more pleasantries. A third visitor was handed a souvenir piece of chocolate, a piece of Rockwood Park on it. This was because of his invariable temperance, and suggesting Rockwood as a good place to visit; for "you can get nothing there," said Mr. Potts. Perhaps the most taking of all the short speeches was that of a departing Knight, who told the story of the little country girl, who, with her parents was about to leave the old farm and go out west. She visited all her haunts and said good-bye to the good-bye—the grove, the barn, the well, and then finally remembering her religious teaching on the old farm, looked into the sky and said: "Good-bye, God, we're leaving here." This was taken as a tribute to St. John, and was loudly applauded.

NORTH END BOY DROWNED

Roy Northrup, Pantry Boy on the Chrysalis Stream, Lost His Life Saturday Bathing at Coles Island.

Roy T. Northrup, the seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Northrup of 121 Millidgeville avenue, was drowned while bathing at Coles Island, Westhead, on Saturday. Young Northrup was a bright, popular lad and had been working about six weeks on the steamer Crystal Stream. The deceased lad's father is the mate on the steamer. Mrs. Northrup and two of her children left for Coles by train this morning. The Northrup family came originally from Thornetown, about eight miles this side of Coles Island. They have been living in Northrup for about a year and a half. The family consisted originally of ten children—six boys and four girls. The two oldest girls work in the city and had not seen their brother for two or three weeks. The oldest brother is now at Quebec, having joined the garrison there last spring.

The deceased will not be brought back to the city, but will be buried in the Baptist cemetery at his home in Thornetown. The funeral will probably take place tomorrow.

M. R. A'S BIG CARPET SALE TOMORROW.

With fall housecleaning but a few weeks distant and the need of new floor coverings in various parts of the house, the announcement of Manchester, Robertson, Allison, Ltd., in this evening's issue should be read with keen interest. The carpets (five special lots), oilcloths, linoleums, mats, matting, etc., to be sold at remarkably low figures, will be openly displayed on the ground floor of the German street building, commencing at eight o'clock. Prices will be in plain figures.

STEALING FLOWERS FROM GRAVES.

There have been several complaints of late of persons stealing flowers from graves in Cedar Hill Cemetery. A gentleman told the Star this morning that as far as he is concerned the matter is getting monstrous, and he can not understand what the police and caretakers are doing that they do not put a stop to it. On Friday he placed a large bouquet on the grave of a relative; on Saturday it had disappeared. Several other cases have been reported.
