tell the duration of the war. It may be, and I have no doubt months—it may be years—before the war is over. No one can foretell its duration. (These words created a deep and impressive silence in the large hall.)

"That being so, we must continue to put forward every effort to uphold the cause of the Allies; we must play our parts like men and be strong. We must bear our part as the New Zealanders, the Aus-would not be going too far to say in all seriousness and fully real-add that it is the plain, the clear young and unmarried man in this to the little Belgian people and its heroic king of their land from the barbarity of the Hun, for the supersuey of the British empire, to fight for king, country and native land."

(Applause.)

Before closing, Hon. Mr. Hazen mentioned the heroes whose names were enrolled on the monuments of the province, and added that the example of Rev. M. E. Conroy in enlisting as private should be followed by the immense number of those who wanted to go with commissions. Since it had been announced that Lieut. Col. G. W.
Fowler was about to command another
New Brunswick battalion, Mr. Hazen said he had received hundreds of letters from young men in the province wanting to get commissions and asking him to use his influence. He advised all these young men to get into the ranks as Capt. W. Barnes of Hampton had done, as they could serve their land just as well there. (Loud applause.)

GERMAN SACRIFICE IN EFFORT TO TRAP RUSSIANS IN VAIN; NEWS OF BULGARIA'S ENTRANCE NOT QUITE SO DEFINITE HUNS LOSE 250,000 IN VILNA BATTLES RUSSIA'S FRONTIER STAND MAY DAMPEN ARDOR OF BULGARIANS FOR WAR GERMANY FOLLOWS NEW TONE WITH U.S.

Russian Retirement from Difficult Positions Completed and New Line Established

Germans Now Racing for Crossings of Beresina River Where Napoleon Came to Grief in 1812—Air Flotillas Do Effective Work for Allies in West, While Cannonading Continues—Italians Make Gain.

Petrograd, Sept. 23, via London—The Russian military authorities regard the withdrawal from the very difficult position near Vilna, which for a time seriously menaced a large army, as virtually completed. They assert the Germans have lost 250,000 men in their recent operations in this region.

According to the latest information received here, the line now runs from Osmiana to Smorgon, which is on the left bank of the Viliya, west of Vilna. From Smorgon, the line extends to Lebedvo, protecting the Molodechno railway junction. Then it parallels the Vilna-Lida railway, crossing the Lida-Molodechno railway, and extending across the Gada river at a point eighteen miles east of Lida. The line then runs to Nocim, Melchad, Milovidy, to the east of Lake Vygonovski, and eastward along the Oginski Canal to Lysecha and the junction of the Jasiolda river with the Vina, east of Pinsk. The remainder of the line is unchanged.

Russian officers admit that the new front in the Vilna region is warped, and interrupted in places.

The region to the east of Lida and south of Molodechno is intersected by a multitude of rivulets. These are embarrassing the German advance, necessitating a detour northward, and consequently co-operation between the German groups in the vicinity of Vilna and that near Lida will be difficult.

The Russians expect that the Germans contemplate a race for crossings of the Beresina river, particularly at Borisovo, thirty-eight miles northeast of Minsk, where Napoleon came to grief in 1812.

The Red Cross hospitals evacuated Vilna in good order. Two local hospitals, with 350 wounded, remain in the city, it being impossible to remove them.

Active Air and Artillery Fighting.

Paris, Sept. 23—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The artillery combat continues very actively in Artois, particularly in the sectors of Souchez and Neuville. The enemy has thrown on Arras and environs incendiary shells, which started fires at various points, but these were quickly extinguished.

"Our artillery has violently bombarded and damaged the organizations of the enemy to the south of the Aye. There has been fighting by means of bombs and grenades in the region of Quenneville.

"In Champagne the cannonading on both sides has been especially active in the Auberville territory and on the borders of the Argonne. Between the Meuse and the Moselle our batteries especially pounded those of the enemy, while a continuous struggle was going on with bombs and torpedoes, particularly in the forest of Apremont.

"On the Lorraine front we have continuously bombarded the German positions and works to the north of Nomeny, on the banks of the Loure-Nairy, and in the region of Embermenil, Leiry, Gondrexon and Domèvre. We have exploded several mines in the Vosges to the north of Wissembach.

"One of our dirigibles bombarded, last night, several stations where movements of the enemy were reported. Our aeroplanes have compelled several of the enemy's captive balloons to descend. The aeroplanes have also been very active in the region of the railway stations at Ofenbrugg, Conflans and Vouziers, as well as enemy cantonments at Langemacq and Middleberke."

Italians Break Through Barbed Wire.

Rome, via Paris, Sept. 23—The war office tonight made public the following official communication:

"During the night of Sept. 21, one of our detachments pushed forward on Monte Mellino, where the valley of the Doona joins the valley of Giudicaria. Favored by darkness it reached positions which the enemy was engaged in strengthening, and by a bold attack succeeded in tearing up the barbed wire and demolishing part of the entrenchments.

"During the day of the 22nd and the following night our troops repulsed an enemy attack against our advanced positions on Malmea and Del Bertoldi, northwest of Monte Coston, in the Falzergo zone, and at Santa Maria heights in the Tolmino sector."

Belgians in the Fighting.

Paris, Sept. 23—The Belgian official communication issued today says:

"The enemy artillery has displayed some activity, bombarding intermittently several positions on our front, in the direction of Ramscapelle, Pervyse, Saint Jacques Capelle and the Ferryman's House."

"Our artillery has dispersed enemy pioneers around Mandekensvere, Terwacte and Dirckgrachten."

Body of Trucks Dispersed.

Petrograd, Sept. 23, via London, 8.30 p.m.—The official communication issued today by the war office concerning the fighting in the Caucasus says:

"On the 21st, in the coast district, there was rifle firing in the direction of Olti. In the region of Khintzopore our troops dispersed the Turks by their successful fire.

"In the region of Van, our scouts fought an engagement near the village of Ang. On the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

London Has No Definite News of Reported Mobilization—German Army of 800,000 Ready for Drive Through While Berlin Reports Heavy Reinforcements for Allies Landing at Dardanelles.

London, Sept. 23, 10 p. m.—"The riddle of the Balkans," as the London press terms the latest developments in the near eastern peninsula arising out of Bulgaria's order for mobilization, remains unchanged. The greatest uncertainty still exists, even in official quarters in London, as to the intentions of King Ferdinand and his advisers. In fact, it is not yet certain that the mobilization has begun, or that the date has been set for it. One report from Athens says that the mobilization has been postponed.

It is known, however, that the Entente representatives at Sofia and other Balkan capitals are still busy trying to reconstruct the Balkan League, and thus prevent Roumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Serbia from fighting among themselves. As the Bulgarian government appears to have made up its mind, despite the opposition of some parties, it seems likely that these diplomatic efforts will have many difficulties to overcome.

The central powers have already commenced their attempt to make their way through Serbia and one of the intervening neutral countries to the Aegean Sea. With Russia now holding its own against the Austro-German in Galicia and Volhynia, it is believed here that the Balkan powers would hesitate before going contrary to the wishes of their big neighbor and former protector.

Standing Firmer in North.

The Russians also are doing better on the northern end of their line, and thus far have prevented Field Marshal Von Hindenburg from reaching the Divia river, west of Leningrad, where, for the first time, a battle has been fought, and, putting up a stubborn fight further down the river, west of Drinsk, where the Germans claim to have penetrated their positions.

Southeast of Vilna the Russian rear guard, which made possible the escape of the main Vilna army from the German net, are now falling back, and, in doing so, have left some prisoners in the hands of the Germans.

Prince Leopold of Bavaria has made a slight further advance, but Field Marshal von Mackensen and his Austrian colleagues in the south are at a standstill, or are even being pushed back by the Russians under General Ivanoff.

The big guns continue to boom along the western front, and the men on both sides are finding plenty of employment in mining, bombing and air fights, which are now an almost hourly occurrence.

There has also been something happening in the North Sea, the correspondence at Ameland, a Dutch island off the coast of Friesland, reporting heavy firing to the north last night and again today.

800,000 for Serbian Drive.

Nish, Serbia, via Paris, Sept. 23—The best information obtainable here indicates that there are 800,000 German troops available for an attempt to force a passage through Serbia. It is felt in Nish that this movement will be undertaken, although it is not certain.

It is felt that this movement will be undertaken, although it is not certain. The character of the reports is of a nature that indicates that the Tentons are feeling out the Serbian positions.

"Urgent and Immediate."

London, Sept. 23—At the whole, the Bulgarian stroke marks a bit of the Balkan situation urgent and immediate," says the Westminster Gazette. "This might not be a misfortune, if it compels the states to come to definite decisions about the Bulgarian demands."

"The Germans are threatening to join the Austrians in another attack on Serbia. This may be partly a bluff, but it might come to a dangerous reality. If Bulgaria were willing to throw her lot with the Turks and the Central Powers, then we should see the unloosening of incalculable forces throughout the peninsula."

Bulgarians to Stay in Canada.

Toronto, Sept. 23—Toronto Bulgarians have declared that they will not go back to Bulgaria to fight for that country if they declare war on Serbia. They take the stand that Great Britain and Russia are responsible for the liberty they now enjoy and they will not go against the Allies.

"They liberated us and we want fight against them. If Bulgaria fights our enemy, then we will go back and fight," they declare.

"Only Civilians in Armed Camp."

London, Sept. 23—No further news from Bulgaria has reached the British public, and even in diplomatic circles inability to explain the Balkan riddle is expressed. Mr. Milner, first secretary of the Bulgarian legation, said today:

"Up to now we have been the only civilians in the armed camp of Europe. Roumania and Greece have been mobilized for a considerable time, and even Switzerland is under arms. Why, therefore, is it so astonishing that Bulgaria should follow suit? Why should mobilization mean any change in our national policy?"

Home from Switzerland.

Geneva, Sept. 23, via Paris, 6.59 p.m.—Three hundred Bulgarian officers and men will leave Switzerland on a special train for Sofia on Friday, travelling by way of Austria.

Berlin, Sept. 23, via wireless to Sayville—A new army of 110,000 men has

INDIA MAY HAVE A VOICE IN NEXT EMPIRE COUNCIL

Viceroy Hardinge Favorable to the Proposal, But Says it Rests With the Conference Itself.

London, Sept. 23—(Through Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—A special despatch from Simla announces that India's place in the councils of the empire was discussed at an important meeting of the imperial legislative council today, and that a resolution will be forwarded to London requesting that measures be taken to have India represented at the next council of the empire, as are the various overseas dominions and dependencies.

The resolution, which was moved by the Hon. Khan Bahadur Mian Muhammad Shah, asked that India in future be officially represented at conferences of the British empire, the request to be forwarded to the secretary of state for India.

Lord Hardinge, the viceroy, affirmed that the government of India gladly accepted this important resolution, which had his warmest sympathies, adding that if the council adopted it his government would readily comply with the recommendation.

The viceroy proceeded to recapitulate what had taken place at previous conferences in the past, pointing out the representation was at present confined to the United Kingdom and the self-governing dominions. The ultimate decision upon the representation of India at the next meeting of the conference rested with the conference itself.

Von Mackensen, said his excellency, India were admitted, said his excellency, it would appear reasonable that she would be represented by the secretary of state and one or two officials from India.

Much had happened since the last imperial conference, said the viceroy, and India's size and population, her wealth, her military resources and her patriotism demanded suitable representation. She could not be disregarded when great imperial issues were debated in which the defence of the empire without counting upon India, he declared, would be ignoring the value of the empire's greatest military asset outside the United Kingdom itself.

To discuss trade questions without India would be disregarding England's best customer. To concede India direct representation in future imperial conferences would be no revolutionary or far-reaching concession to Indian opinion or to her just claim.

"I feel confident," said Lord Hardinge, in conclusion, "that when the question is placed in its true light before the governments of the dominions they will regard it from the widest angle of vision, from which we hope other India questions may be viewed in the near future, so that the people of India may, in the words of Mr. Aquilla, feel that they are conscious members of a living partnership, extending all over the world, under the same flag."

Sir Ebrahim Rahmtolla in the course of his speech, suggested that Lord Hardinge be India's first representative. Numerous members warmly supported the motion, which was unanimously adopted, amidst applause.

BIG FRENCH LINER READY FOR NEW YORK SERVICE OCT. 3

New York, Sept. 23—An addition to the steamers in the trans-Atlantic service was announced here today, when the French Line received a message from its Paris office, stating that on October 8, the line's new vessel Lafayette, will begin regular trips between Bordeaux and New York.

The Lafayette was built on the same lines as the France, which carries about 2,000 passengers, has gross tonnage of 23,966, and is 680 feet long.

American financiers that the need for the establishment of the loan was greater to the United States than to either Great Britain or France. Quite a few American bankers, it was said tonight, have not shared this view, although all were in accord as to the desirability of establishing the credit, if sufficiently liberal terms could be obtained.

During the two weeks' stay of the commission here opponents of the proposed credit loan have been far from idle. Well-defined opposition apparently has been increasing, it is said, in the west and middle west, and New York financiers are said to look to the eastern section of the country for their great aid in establishing the loan.

Throughout the period of negotiations, until a day or so ago, it was said, no good authority the commission had dominated the situation, pointing out to

Latest Note Gives Assurance That American Vessels Carrying Conditional Contraband Will Be Spared

Proposals of U. S. Regarding Settlement of Frye Case Both Accepted and Hague Tribunal is Likely to Settle Question of Treaty of 1828—Austro-Hungarians Seeking to Carry Out Dumba's Plan to Cripple Munition Factories.

Washington, Sept. 23—Germany, in a note on the case of the ship William P. Frye, has given the United States formal assurance that American vessels carrying conditional contraband will, under no circumstances, be destroyed, even though deemed lawful prizes. The right to destroy American merchantmen, if carrying absolute contraband, is reserved, but the promise is given that this will be done only in case of extreme necessity, as provided by the Declaration of London.

These assurances, together with the acceptance by Germany of the two proposals of the United States—the one to name a joint commission of experts to fix the indemnity for the loss of the Frye, and the other to submit to the Hague the dispute which the case produced over the meaning of the treaty of 1828—produced a favorable effect in official quarters.

Just what the practical operation of the new assurances will be officials were less interested to learn, for under the lists of contraband proclaimed by Germany, in retaliation for acts of Great Britain, nearly everything previously known as conditional contraband has now been made absolute. It is not known, as yet, what attitude the United States will take in its next note, but it is understood that it may reiterate its insistence that the treaty of 1828, and not existing international law, make American vessels immune from destruction, irrespective of their cargoes. Germany, however, is anxious to submit to arbitration what the meaning of the treaty is on this point, and it is possible that if no further cases of damage occur during the pendency of the arbitration proceedings, the American government will be disposed to await the decision of the arbitral tribunal.

One thing which attracted attention in connection with the German note was the evident necessity of submarine commanders, under their new orders, to exercise the right of visit and search with respect to all American vessels, to decide the nature of their cargoes.

The fact that Germany referred to its attitude toward the United States, was regarded by many officials as evidence that the Berlin foreign office was disposed to avail itself of every opportunity to remove causes that have led to the strained relations between the two governments.

London, Sept. 23, 6.28 p. m.—"There will be no course open but to apply to the United States to fill up the necessary complements of medical men. If this country cannot produce the requisite doctors," writes Sir James Barr, vice-president of the British Medical Association, and a lieutenant-colonel in the Royal Army Medical Corps, in appealing for doctors from the United States, "two thousand five hundred of them are required," declared Sir James, who adds, "Conscription is coming."

Washington, Sept. 23—The American consulate at Stuttgart, Germany, was struck by a fragment of a bomb during the recent raid upon that place by French airmen, according to a message today from Consul Higgins. His Majesty Spoke of "Wonderful" Supply of Men Provided to Empire by Canada—Nothing Escaped Eye of King and His War Lord—Some Changes in 26th Before Departure to France.

The story of the final review of the Second Canadian Division by the King and Kitchener, at Beachborough park, is told in Canada, an illustrated English weekly.

Canada says: On Thursday morning of last week the king reviewed the troops of the 2nd Canadian Division and the Canadian training division. His majesty was accompanied by Field-Marshal Lord Kitchener, Lieut.-Colonel Lord Stamfordham, and Commander Sir Charles Cuff, Bart., R.N.

On the arrival of the Royal train at Lymington, on the Elham Valley branch of the South-Eastern and Chatham Railway, his majesty was received by Major-General Sir R. E. W. Turner, V.C., C.B., D.S.O., general officer commanding the 2nd Canadian division, who was accompanied by his respective staffs.

The troops of this division were drawn up in review order, as on two previous occasions, in the meadows on each side of the road, near to the divisional cavalry, artillery, engineers and infantry on the east side of the road, and the Army Service Corps, Army Medical Corps, and other details of the division, on the west side.

The King's Congratulations. As his majesty rode through the entrance to the main review ground, a single "G" on a bugle called the troops to the salute, and the massed bands of the 2nd division played the National Anthem immediately on the arrival of the king at the saluting base. This over, his majesty, accompanied by the staff, rode slowly along the line of all the assembled troops, his escort being provided by a squad of Canadian Mounted Rifles.

On returning to the saluting point, his majesty entered into conversation with the king's private secretary, Sir George Perley, M.P., his commissioner for Canada, and the hon. Lady Markham, who had been with her for a little while. In the meantime preparations for the march past had been completed, and the king reviewed his position in front of the flag-staff, Lord Kitchener being on his immediate left. The king then turned up, and down the long stretch towards the saluting base came the 2nd divisional mounted troops, in command of Lieut.-Colonel Leonard—announced for this occasion owing to want of sufficient space.

They were followed by the 2nd Divisional Artillery, in command of Lieut.-Colonel H. C. Thacker, and the 2nd Divisional Engineers, in command of Lieut.-Colonel J. H. Boulton; both units having been unmounted—the latter in so far as their transport is concerned. The Engineers were followed by the main body of the division—the infantry. First came the 4th (Central Ontario) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel L. R. Snider; the 20th (Central Ontario) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel C. H. Rogers; and the 21st (Eastern Ontario) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel W. H. Pierre Hughes. Then the 5th brigade, led by Lieut.-Colonel David Watson (recently appointed to the command) and his staff, comprising the 22nd (French-Canadian) battalion, Colonel F. M. Gaudet; the 24th (Montreal) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Gunn; the 25th (Nova Scotia) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel R. A. Cain; and the 26th (New Brunswick) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel L. J. McAvity. And, finally, the 6th brigade, led by Colonel H. D. B. Ketchen and his staff, comprising the 27th (Winnipeg) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel L. R. Snider; the 28th (Northwest) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel J. F. L. Embury; the 29th (Vancouver) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Tobin; and the 31st (Calgary) battalion, Lieut.-Colonel J. H. Bell. The units of the division paraded on the west side of the road were not included in the march past owing to the limited area of the review ground.

Cheering His Majesty. Prior to the march past, at the call of Brigadier-General Turner, V. C., commanding the division, three cheers and the inevitable "God Save the King" were given for his majesty and Lord Kitchener were in the front lines. He enlisted in the 48th battalion here in June, and was drafted to fill up the gaps in the 1st division at the outbreak of the war. Private R. A. Earle, of the 26th battalion, has written an interesting account of life at East Sandling Camp. At the time of writing he said that the battalion was expected to leave soon for France, as they had their equipment all ready. In a letter Captain H. Hill, Y. M. C. A. representative with the 26th battalion, tells of some of the needs of the men and suggests that friends at home might help them out by sending parcels. Those who wish to make sure that their gifts will reach the 26th may send them to him direct, addressing them as follows: Captain R. H. Hill, Canadian War Contingent Association, West Palace Hotel, London, England, and they will be forwarded to him free of charge. If preferred they may be sent from St. John through the Soldiers' Comfort Association. Parts of his letter follow:

He said he hoped all the boys who could would send socks, cigarettes, tobacco, etc., to him so that he can distribute them to the men. They will need everything in the nature of comforts in the trenches this winter, he added.

News of Brother's Escape. Rev. James F. Rowley, of Hampton, has received a thrilling letter from his brother, Corporal Walter Rowley, of the 2nd Canadian division, telling of his sensational escape from Germany. Rowley was made a prisoner in the early part of the war, while lying wounded in the trenches. He was placed in various camps in Germany and at the time the last letter was received from him, July 14, he was in Munster. Now a letter, dated Sept. 9, comes from England heralding the good news of his safe escape. He, with a lad named Bennett, of the Connaughts, planned the getaway from Duland and thence to England, but his comrade was recaptured on the frontier. John T. Nuttall, of this city, has received a letter from F. A. Tisher, commanding the 1st Canadian division, telling him that his son, Gordon Nuttall, was in the Royal Netherland Hospital, near Southampton, suffering from amnesia and physical strain. He was doing well, however.

Mr. John Leachman, Mecklenburg street, has received word that his son Louis, wounded in the thigh by shrapnel several months ago, has been operated on by Dr. Taylor, a London specialist, at the 2nd Canadian Military Hospital, Aldershot, and is doing well. 55th Draft in France. A number of young people of the village attended the Red Cross sale and supper at the Range on Thursday, most of the party going by motor boats. A very disastrous fire occurred about a mile below here about 9 o'clock Friday night, when a large quantity of lumber owned by W. A. SPARKLE OF BAYONETS MARKED ADVANCE OF BRITISH ON GALLIPOLI

In Graphic Review, Sir Ian Hamilton Brings Story of Fighting Up to July 1

Turks Lost 3,000 Dead in One Day, Then Failed Under German Commander to Keep Faith During Armistice for Burying Dead—Positions Dearly Won Held With Grim Resolution.

London, Sept. 20—How the British and French, through the summer, kept at grips with the Turks in Gallipoli, with terrible losses on both sides in the arid, congested area, where the gain or loss of a few yards of trenches measured the tide of battle, and the dead lay so thick that a temporary armistice was imperative, is related by General Sir Ian Hamilton, commander of the British forces, in a despatch to Lord Kitchener, made public in London this evening.

Covering the fighting in the Dardanelles from May 5 to July 1, the account sheds little light on the general military situation, being mainly noteworthy as a soldier's description of what the commanders endured. Indirectly it pays tribute to the gallantry and fighting qualities of the Turks. General Hamilton gives no support to the numerous newspaper reports that the morale of the Turks has been shaken. Going back to May 5, soon after the Allies obtained their first footing on the peninsula, General Hamilton relates how the commanders, under pressure for reinforcements, found it necessary to mix the French and British troops to an extent even of the French on our right having a British battalion holding their own most extreme right.

Three Days' Terrible Fighting. Followed then three days of terrible fighting with Erethia as the objective. "The steady advance of the British," says the general, "could be followed by the sparkle of bayonets until the long lines entered the smoke-clouds. The French, at first, made no move; then, their drums beating and banners flying, they charged forward in a stream of skirmishers, which seemed for a moment to cover the whole southern face of the ridge of Kereves Dere. Against these the Turkish gunners turned their heaviest pieces, and as the leading groups stormed the first Turkish redoubt, in black bursts high explosive shells blotted out both assailants and assailers.

The Turkish "too ser" for the Senegalese, Zouaves, they recalled; they rallied. Another rush forward; another repulse. Then a small supporting column of British soldiers seen silhouetted against the sky as they charged upwards, along the crest of Kereves Dere. "Not until next morning did any reliable detail come of what had happened. The net result of the three days' fighting had been a gain of 600 yards on the right of the British and 400 on the left and in the centre. The French captured all the ground in front of the Turkish positions, as well as the redoubt."

The German leaders of the Turks were quick to realize the advantage the attackers had gained. General Hamilton continues, and by counter-attack the counter-attack tried to wrest away the trenches they had lost. "Everywhere our assailants were repulsed," says the account, "and now for the first time, I felt that we had planned for the first time upon the point of Gallipoli peninsula."

Rest After Three Weeks. This was on May 10, and General Hamilton relates how the exhausted men on the firing line after eighteen days and nights of uninterrupted fighting. "During this breathing spell," says General Hamilton, "I realized that we had now nearly reached the limit of what could be attained, mingling initiative with surprise. The enemy was as much in possession of my numbers and dispositions as I was of his first line of trenches. The opposing fronts stretched parallel from the sea to the strait, and now there was little scope left for tactics which would bring fresh battalions against the lines of unbroken barbed wire. Siege batteries were soon bound to supersede manoeuvre battles in the open."

"In preparation for this, the British commander tells of how he divided the front into four sections, then describe the futile fighting up to May 18, when the Turks made a most violent assault on the British positions with forces estimated at 80,000, under command of the German Field Marshal Von Sandershausen. But the British held firm, leaving upwards of 8,000 Turks dead within open view of the trenches. "The next four days," the account says, "were chiefly remarkable for carrying through negotiations for the suspension of arms, which actually took place on May 24. "On May 20 white flags, with red crescents, began to dot the Turkish lines. Presently a Turkish staff officer and two medical officers met a British officer between the lines. An informal armistice was reached and stretcher parties on both sides began collecting the wounded. Reinforced During Truce. "Meanwhile it was observed that columns were on the march in the valley up which the Turks were accustomed to bring reinforcements. As evening drew on, the enemy's concentration continued, and a message was sent stating that no clearing of the dead and wounded could be allowed during the night. The stretcher parties fell back, and immediately fighting broke out. "It did not profit the Turks, General Hamilton asserts, as the British guns drove them back. But as the Turks were anxious to bury their dead, and as human sentiment and medical science were in favor of the removal of the dead and wounded, arrangements with a representative of Essad Pasha were finally effected. "The negotiations resulted in a suspension of arms from 7.30 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. May 24," continued the report. "The burial of the dead was finished at 3 p. m. Some 3,000 Turkish dead were removed or buried in the areas between the opposing lines. The whole of these were taken on or since May 15. General Hamilton fails to state how many British were buried, but says that both sides observed the ethics of the situation to the letter. "Everywhere intense fighting during the remainder of May is described, culminating in a general attack on the Turkish positions on June 4, which netted a considerable gain, but was a costly affair. "From the date of this battle to the end of June," the British commander says, "incessant attacks and counter attacks, which so grievously swelled our lists of casualties, has been caused by the determination of the Turks to regain the ground they had lost—this determination clashing against our firm resolve to continue to increase our holding."

Several of these daily encounters would have been the subject of a separate despatch in the campaigns of my youth and middle age, but with due regard to proportion, they cannot even so much as be mentioned here. "During the whole period under review, the efforts and expedients whereby the great army had its wants supplied upon a wilderness, have, I believe, been breaking world's records. The country broken mountains, and the lack of supplies. The water found in the areas occupied by our forces is quite inadequate to their needs. The only practical beaches are small, cramped breaks in impracticable lines of cliffs. With the wind certain quarters no sort of landing is possible. "The wastage by the bombardment and wreckage of lighters and small craft led to crisis after crisis in our carrying capacity, while over every single beach plays fitfully throughout each day devastating shell fire at medium ranges. "Upon such a situation appeared suddenly enemy submarines. On May 22, all transports had to be dispatched to Mudros for safety; thenceforth, men, stores, guns and horses had to be brought from Mudros, a distance of forty miles, in the fleet-sweepers, and other small and shallow craft, less vulnerable to submarine attack. Every danger and every difficulty was doubled."

Havelock News. Havelock, Sept. 17—A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Keith and Frank Keith, of this place; Mrs. E. McKnight and daughter, of Boston, and Mrs. L. Price, of Moncton, left here on Thursday for H. A. Keith's camp at Pork's Stream, where they will enjoy a week's hunting in the Canadian woods. Miss Lupa Keith left on Thursday to resume her studies at Edgemoor. On Wednesday and Thursday of this week Mrs. W. Ryder held her post-natal reception at the paragonage. Mrs. Ryder received in her wedding gown, and was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Gulton. On Wednesday Mrs. Abram Atkinson poured tea and Mrs. Robinson ushered, while on Friday Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Fred Alward were the hostesses. On both days Miss Duff, of Moncton, and Miss Katie Kingston served in the dining room and little Miss Storey, of Moncton, opened the door. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers. In the reception room white prevailed, while the dining room was aglow with yellow. The Book Lovers' Club was very pleasantly entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. S. E. MacDonnell. Word was received here this week that Vaughan MacDonald, one of Havelock's well known young men, had enlisted in St. John.

The death took place last week at Hickey Settlement, near here, of Chandler Hicks, a well known farmer. Death was due to lung trouble. Mr. Hicks was about sixty years of age and leaves a widow and grown up family. Elias Hicks, of Havelock, is a son.

The Gladness of Nature. There are notes of joy from the hang-bird and wren. And the gossip of swallows through all the sky. The ground-squirrel gaily whirls by his den. And the wilding bee hums merrily by. The clouds are at play in the azure space. And the shadows at play on the bright green vale. And here they stretch to the frolic chase. And there they roll on the easy gale. There's a dance of leaves in that aspen bower. There's a titter of winds in that beechen tree. There's a smile on the fruit, and a smile on the petals of the flower. And a laugh from the brook that runs to the sea. And look at the broad-faced sun, how he smiles. On the smiler earth that smiles in his ray. On the leaping waters and gay young isles. Ay, look, and he'll smile thy gloom away. —William Cullen Bryant. ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPTEMBER 26, 1915

WHY DO WE MISS IT? In these glorious autumn days we have a habit of saying that it grows dark too soon, that it is almost dark by half past six or a quarter to seven in the evening.

When these hard-headed business men who complain of the shortness of our summer and autumn days are traveling down from Montreal to the Maritime Provinces, they are notified somewhere en route to change their watch by one hour.

Because people will not really think about this matter, it is difficult to make them realize that the sun can be made to stand still, for all practical purposes, in so simple a manner.

SIR SAM ALSO AMONG THE PROPHETS. General Sir Sam Hughes visited Berlin, Ontario, last Friday. He told the people there that a year hence Canada would march through the streets of "the other Berlin."

THE ELECTIONS. Some of the wilder Conservative newspapers, which cannot present any valid reason for an election, seek to comfort their more rabid partisans by saying the Liberals object to a contest because they are afraid they will be beaten.

THE WAR. Will the Germans attempt to carry their attack to Petrograd, or will it be aimed farther south, at Odessa, in which direction winter campaigning would present less desperate hardship?

Another consideration is that no one can predict the result of the election. The government now has a working majority. The loss of twenty seats or even less would create a deadlock.

in government under most discreditable circumstances has greatly changed the situation. Mr. Rogers, who was once regarded as a sort of Emperor of the West, is a dethroned monarch.

THIRTY VOTES! Charlottetown despatches analyzing the figures in connection with the recent Prince Edward Island elections show that the Conservatives won several seats by such small majorities that "less than thirty votes, properly placed, would have given a Liberal victory."

NOTE AND COMMENT. It is true there are many calls upon the generosity of the people in these days, but they are duty calls. And remember that he who gives with a smile, and a word of cheer gets as good as he gives.

THE RUSSIAN LLOYD GEORGE. In supporting disabled soldiers or the relatives of men who are in the fighting line? Have you expressed a willingness to do what you can? If not, why? Those who are inactive, or who merely criticize while others fight or work, must have uneasy consciences today.

General Polivanoff, the new Russian War Minister, who is charged specially with the speeding up of the munition factories' output.

have lately recorded the view that the weight of the offensive is directed towards Petrograd. What are the chances for German success against the Tsar and his two best generals—January and February? One observer tries to answer this question as follows:

According to Colonel Feyler, a Swiss military critic of eminence, "Germany has now 4,000,000 men in the fighting line and 1,250,000 with which to make good the wastage of the coming winter campaign."

The situation in the East is improving, in one sense, in the eyes of military critics, for while the Russians are still retreating they appear not to be losing heavily in men or equipment, and it is now believed their great field armies will escape practically intact.

It is safe to say that Germany is not providing new submarines at the rate at which the Allies are sinking the enemy's under-sea craft.

They asked me to their reception, but I wasn't because they liked me; it was only because I can sing." "Oh, I'm sure you're mistaken."

MORE CANADIANS ARE IN ENGLAND

The Metagama Arrives With More Than 1600 Men—Germans Threaten New Mine Field in Sound—Danish Steamer Lost.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—The troopship Metagama, which sailed from Canada on Sept. 11, has arrived in England. She had on board the following troops: Infantry drafts from Alberta, 25 officers and 1,250 men; from Manitoba, 5 officers and 250 men; army service corps, 5 officers, 100 men; Medical Corps, 1 officer and 50 men. Details (including four Belgian reservists), three officers and six men.

A CHANCE NEW BRUNSWICK MISSED.

London, Sept. 22.—Eight biplanes have been presented to the British government by overseas clubs. Three of them are from Montreal, St. Catharines (Ont.), and Nova Scotia.

FRENCH AVIATORS IN GERMANY.

Basel, Switzerland, Sept. 17.—(Delayed in transmission)—A French aeroplane, presumably becoming disabled, came down at Lommeringen, near Metz. The two occupants set the machine on fire and escaped into the woods.

NEW MINE FIELD IN SOUND.

Amsterdam, via London, Sept. 22.—A Berlin despatch received here says the German government has announced that a new mine field will be laid south of the outlet to The Sound, and that beginning next Friday a pilot service will be established to enable neutral shipping to traverse the danger zone.

DANISH STEAMER SUNK.

London, Sept. 22, 6:42 p. m.—The Danish steamer Thorvaldsen, of 1,217 tons gross, has been sunk. The crew was saved.

GERMAN STORY OF AIR RAID.

Berlin, Sept. 22, via London, Sept. 23, 2:25 a. m.—An official statement issued here today says:

"Enemy airmen with German marks on their aeroplanes appeared at 8:15 o'clock this morning over Stuttgart, dropping bombs on the town, killing four persons and wounding a number of soldiers and civilians. The material damage was unimportant. The airmen were fired at by our anti-aircraft troops and disappeared in a southern direction at 8:30 o'clock.

"Owing to the fact that shortly after 7:45 o'clock the military authorities were informed of approaching German airmen the population could only be warned when it was comparatively late.

"A German airman arrived over Stuttgart at 9:30 o'clock. He was fired on from below for a short time until he was with certainty recognized as a German airman. He landed unharmed near the town."

OSTROW LATEST GERMAN CAPTURE

London, Sept. 22.—Developments in Bulgaria threw into comparative obscurity the continued Russian retreat from Vilna, but, with the exception of the northern tip of the Polish front, where the Russians are on the offensive near Friedrichstadt, the Germans claim progress throughout mid-Poland as far south as Ostrow, which they have captured. The greatest number of prisoners taken at any point, however, did not exceed 2,000, which would seem to indicate that the attempt to complete the coils around the retreating Russians has proved unsuccessful.

With great daring today French aeroplanes left the Allied lines and flying as the crow flies, about 120 miles, across Germany raided Stuttgart, capital of Wurtemberg, dropping bombs on the royal palace itself.

THREE ENLIST AT BIG HAVELOCK RECRUITING RALLY

Havelock, Sept. 21.—On Monday evening there was held in the public hall here one of the largest meetings ever in Havelock. The meeting had been called for the purpose of securing recruits for the 6th Battalion.

A committee, consisting of H. A. Keith, Dr. Lamb, A. J. Gulon, J. D. Seely and Rev. Walter Ryder, had been appointed to make arrangements and to see that it was extensively advertised throughout the surrounding country. The meeting was opened by the Rev. Mr. Ryder, as chairman for the evening. The programme was as follows:

Chorus—By Havelock young ladies. Song—Corporal MacDonald, Halifax. Address—Rev. Mr. Rice, Sussex. Song and encore—Corporal MacKell, Halifax. Address—J. D. MacKenna, Sussex. Song—Private Schaeffer. Address—Rev. Mr. Conroy, St. John. Chorus—Havelock young ladies.

The accompaniment of the evening was Miss George Seely, of Havelock, and Private Schaeffer (cousin of the vocalist), of Halifax.

The Rev. Mr. Conroy, who has given up his church in St. John to enlist, gave a most eloquent and forcible address. The appeal for recruits was exceptionally fine and came home to the young men all the more pointedly as they realized what Mr. Conroy had given up to become simply a private. Wild enthusiasm greeted the three young men who came forward to volunteer. They were Robert Conroy, Blair Alward and Frank Thorne.

Vaughan MacDonald, who enlisted last week in St. John, was present and was greeted with much applause.

SEVEN SIGN ROLL AT RECRUITING RALLY AT ELGIN

Elgin, Albert county, Sept. 22.—Seven recruits were signed to fight for the empire's cause at a big recruiting rally held here tonight, and promises of enlistment were received from several of Elgin's sons who will sign as soon as conditions permit.

Patriotic addresses were delivered by Rev. W. F. Parker, chaplain of the 6th battalion, and J. D. McKenna. Marked enthusiasm was evidenced by the large gathering of people.

Arrangements have been completed for a recruiting meeting at Waterford Friday night when a special feature of the address will be a talk by Rev. W. E. Conroy.

Glorious Deeds of Canadians Bring Reward for Valor

Major J. A. Hesketh, of Strathcona Horse, Wins D. S. O. and Fourteen N. C. O.'s and Privates the D. C. M.—Thrill in Every Line of Official Notice.

Included in the list of awards for gallant conduct issued from the war office recently appear the names of the following Canadians to whom has been given the D.S.O. and Distinguished Conduct Medals:

Distinguished Service Order. Major James Arthur Hesketh, Lord Strathcona's Horse (Royal Canadians). For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on August 1, 1915, near Messines, when a magazine in a farm containing much small arm ammunition and many bombs and grenades was set on fire by the enemy shells. One box of ammunition began to burn, and the cartridges were exploding in all directions, when Major Hesketh left his dug-out, entered the farm still under heavy shell fire, put out the fire, and removed all the ammunition. The risk was very great, and but for his gallant action the reserve ammunition would have been destroyed.

Distinguished Conduct Medal. Private H. T. Cameron, No. 8 Field Ambulance, 1st Division. For great bravery and devotion to duty on the night of May 20-21, 1915, at Festubert. He was the first to volunteer to assist in collecting the wounded at the orchard captured from the enemy, and which was still under a very heavy fire. The task was one of great difficulty and danger, and of the party of eight men who undertook it four were severely wounded.

Squadron Sergeant-Major G. S. Collins, Lord Strathcona's Horse. For conspicuous gallantry on August 1, 1915, near Messines. A building in occupation of our troops, and containing a large supply of ammunition, was set on fire by an enemy shell. Several of the buildings, hand grenades caught fire, and one of the ammunition boxes began to burn, the cartridges exploding in all directions. Sergeant-Major Collins, together with an officer of his regiment, in spite of continuing shell fire directed upon the buildings, entered it with the greatest coolness and bravery, and assisted to put out the fire, and to remove the ammunition and bombs outside the building.

Private E. Glehill, 1st Battalion. For conspicuous bravery on June 15, 1915, at Givenchy. Finding himself alone in a captured German trench, and attacked by a bombing party, he continued firing until his rifle was destroyed by a bomb. In withdrawing he found a man with both legs broken. He bound up his legs and carried him into safety through a very heavy rifle and machine gun fire. His display of bravery and devotion to duty were most marked.

Lance-Sergeant W. E. Hart, 4th Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry, ability, and devotion to duty on April 28, 1915, at Langemarck, when he carried many messages for the commanding officer under a very heavy rifle, machine gun, and shell fire. From May 28 to 31, at Festubert, he repaired on no less than eleven occasions the wounded and rendered a heavy shell fire and while being constantly sniped at, breaks in the telephone wires. He was also every night engaged in this hazardous work. At Givenchy his cool bravery and excellent work, the party consisted of R. O'Leary, the game warden, Lieut. Keswick, Lieut. Brooks, Alonso Johnson and the chauffeur, Ernest O'Neill. When they were on the other side of Thompson's hill, about eight miles from home, they saw two Indians driving and evidently the worse of liquor. They kept the middle of the road in order to keep from running over them the brakes were applied, but owing to the softness of the ground they would not properly work. Arthur O'Leary became excited and jumped, landing in the ditch and breaking a leg as well as sustaining other less serious injuries. The others who did not leave the car until the danger was passed were uninjured. Mr. O'Leary was brought home slowly in the car and Doctors Mahoney and Gilvan made an examination. He was taken to Moncton by train today for an X-Ray examination.

Color-Sergeant J. Hay, 8th Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry on May 28, 1915, at Festubert. After all the company officers had been killed or wounded, Color-Sergeant Hay took command of the company, which was occupying a trench separated from the battalion, and by his coolness and gallant behaviour under heavy fire set a fine example to all ranks, and greatly assisted to keep them steady throughout the day. Private E. H. Heister, 6th Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry and resource on the night of May 20, 1915, at Westbury, in the neighborhood of "K 4." As a bomb-thrower he did exceptionally good work, showing the greatest bravery and skill. This was repeated on the following night when attacking with the 10th Canadian Battalion, and again all day on May 29 in assisting to hold a post, and to repulse a German attack about noon. Private Hester was continually on duty throughout this period, and showed the greatest powers of endurance and devotion to duty. On May 24 he again did splendid work with the van of the attacking party, entering the bomb-proof of the enemy and cutting all the wires connecting their mines, thus undoubtedly saving great loss of life. His daring skill and initiative throughout the operations were most marked.

Corporal S. G. Hobday, 3rd Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry on June 15, 1915, at Givenchy. After two men had been killed and one wounded in their efforts to dig out of a trench an officer and six men who had been buried by the bursting of a high explosive shell, Corporal Hobday took up the work under a heavy fire and succeeded in extricating the entire party, who must otherwise have perished. On the following day he participated in the attack on the German trenches, being one of the first in the advance. In the subsequent retreatment he rendered assistance to four men who were badly wounded and who were brought in later. On all occasions throughout the operations his coolness and great bravery have proved a splendid example and given encouragement to all ranks.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY THERE ISN'T A RUSH TO ENLIST

Writing to his mother, from "Some Old Place in Belgium," under date of September 4, Corporal Robert Movers, of Woodstock says:

"We have just received a new draft of reinforcements and among them were a few of the fellows who were wounded at Ypres. Percy McIntyre, (of Richmond, Carleton County), was one of them. His wounds have left a slight scar on his face. I suppose you read about his Russian decoration recently awarded."

Lance-Corporal Ryan, who was wounded while mining one of the bridges over the Yser canal, also returned in the last bunch. He was in the party sent out from my section shortly after the attack began at Ypres.

"I cannot understand why so many of the fellows back home can read appeals like Burdette Harmon's and still turn a cold shoulder to the recruiting agents. I sometimes believe they do not fully understand the situation, or else they could not resist. I read scores of names of fellows who could come here and join us just as well as not, but who are instead taking part in social functions. However, I want to tell you what a profound impression the machine gun subscriptions are making among the soldiers out here. It is regarded as simply magnificent that the people back home should so fully realize the need and answer the call. It fills the Canadian born with pride and the British born with admiration. There is no doubt that the need for machine guns is the most urgent of all, closely followed, however, by the need of men. The Canadian people are supplying one need at any rate and let it be hoped they will supply the other as well."

"We will see that the sacrifices you people are making are not in vain. The people at home who cannot come to the front are 'doing their bit' in this way fully as much as those at the front."

J. Everett Waters, druggist of the West Side, has enlisted with the 64th Battalion, A. M. C. Mr. Waters speaks French fluently, having studied in Paris for more than a year. He is an expert chemist.

Mote volunteered to attempt the rescue of an officer of his battalion who, after being seriously wounded, had been left in a place of cover within a few yards of the German trenches. They proceeded by different routes under a very heavy shell fire, Sergeant Mote reaching the spot indicated, only to find that the officer was not there. The other non-commissioned officer lost his life in gallantly making the attempt to rescue this officer.

Acting Company Sergeant-Major C. Owens, 1st Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry and ability on June 15, 1915, at Givenchy. When all the officers of his company had been killed or wounded, he took the command and displayed great courage and powers of leadership, and rendered valuable service at a critical period. After the withdrawal of our front line, he returned through a heavy rifle and machine-gun fire and rescued a wounded officer, whom he carried into safety.

Corporal J. E. Palmer, 10th Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry and ability on May 22, 1915, at Festubert, when he took his machine-gun to an advanced position, covering the attack on "K 5" and completely checking the enemy's counter attack by breaking up their bombing parties, and cutting a rope attached to a bag of bombs which little enemy were endeavoring to drag across from one trench to another. His devotion to duty and courage were most conspicuous.

Private H. Vincent, 1st Battalion. For conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty on June 15, 1915, at Givenchy. In a position where a machine gun tripod could not be used, Private Vincent held the gun on his back under a heavy fire while an officer fired over 1,000 rounds. Afterwards he dragged the heated gun through a fire-swept zone and saved it from capture.

Sergeant G. A. Mote, 3rd Battalion. For conspicuous gallantry on May 28, 1915, at Festubert. In company with another non-commissioned officer, Sergeant

FRANK CROSSBIE OF CHATHAM DROWNED

Sixteen Year Old Youth Fell From Tug While Towing Across the River.

Chatham (N. B.), Sept. 22.—(Special)—A very sad drowning accident occurred on the river here this afternoon about 3 o'clock, when Frank Crossbie, the sixteen-year old son of Alex. Crossbie, lost his life. Young Crossbie was engineer on the Dominion Pulp Co.'s small steamer Arthur.

At the time of the accident the Arthur was towing a scow of pulp across the river from the company's mill to the Canada dock, at the lower end of the town. Captain P. McCarthy and Crossbie were the only persons on the boat or scow at the time. It seems that Crossbie spoke to the captain about the tarpaulins on the scow and evidently went to make them fast. A few minutes afterwards the captain heard Crossbie calling out and on looking out of the wheel house saw him in the water about eighty feet astern. The captain immediately ran below, reversed the engines and cut the scow clear and backed the boat to where he had seen Crossbie last. In the meantime some person on the company's other boat saw that something was wrong with the Arthur and immediately went to her assistance, but although both boats searched around for some time they saw no trace of the missing lad. The body has not yet been recovered and men and boats are grappling around the scene of the accident in the hope of finding it.
