Government." Those who were in the Legislature at that time know that this statement is without foundation. Mr.

Peck, in presenting the unquestionable claims of his constituents to what, had been allotted to them by the Lobster Act, made one of the most persuasive speeches ever delivered in the Legislative ive Barracks at Fredericton, awakening so deep a conviction of the justice of what he asked that no man in the House Government or Opposition, could look his fellows in the face and say the deands of Mr. Peck were unreasonable.

No one who heard Mr. Peck on that ccasion can ever forget his speech. The lowering, the prospect of the general Government paying the subsidy was far from comforting, retrenchment was the order of the day, and Mr. Peck and his colleague were in opposition to the Government.
