The Largest Labor Celebration Ever Held in This City.

Size, Orderliness and Organization.

Fifteen Thousand People Attend Sports and Games at Queen's Park.

Complete Absence of Disorder a Marked Feature of the Day

Not a Police Officer on the Grounds or Track, but Perfect Order Prevailed.

Cars Ran Till Nearly Midnight, but Not One of Them Was Molested-Day Was Quiet as Sunday, Say the

"It is our day off," said the workingmen of London yesterday. And they knew just what to do with it, and how to make the most of it. After yesterday's celebration, Labor Day will always be remembered, in London at least, as the one great holiday of the year. It is a thing to be glad and proud of, that the workingmen of London know as well how to play as how to work. Only those who earn a holiday know how to enjoy one, which explains the boyish light-heartedness and enthusiasm with which the workingmen of London entered into the fun yesterday. The celebration proved, too, how eplendidly organized are the workingmen of this city, and gave an admirable illustration of the immense advantages of organization. The monster parade itself, with its thousands of marching men, and its many divisions of brigades and companies, presented a problem in organization and discipline that would have floored any but a military body, or, as the event proved, a highly intelligent and perfectly organized body of laboring men.

"It was the most orderly, the best organized, and in every way the best parade I ever saw," said Chief of Police Williams last evening.

The long lines presented an almost military uniformity. Each of the forty or more different bodies fell into its appointed place in the procession without a hitch, and the parade moved off with the beautiful precision of a welloiled machine. There was no haste, no flurry, no confusion, and no delay. The promptitude with which the first division moved off was a matter of surprise to many who were unfamiliar with the thoroughness of organization. It was a triumph of organization.

The same admirable efficiency was in evidence everywhere at Queen's Park. The enormous crowd of 15,000 people was handled with ease. The programme, which was so well filled that without capable direction it would have spun out for a week, went off swiftly, smoothly, and, above all, enjoyably. Another cause for pride and congratulation was the demonstration yesterday by the labor unions of this city that their members are intelligent, order-loving, law-abiding, self-respecting citizens. Notwithstanding the presence of an irritant in the form of the street railway trouble, the men showed no hostility toward the street railway company except only to utterly ignore them and the cars. The cars were run until s late hour at night. They were running when the crowd was leaving Queen's Park in the evening. They were on Dundas street, though not running, when the parade passed along, but not a car was molested in any way. has been as quiet as Sunday," said the police last night.

QUEEN'S WEATHER. Nature smiled on the celebration. The weather was perfect. The day opened bright and fine, and the sun shone brilliantly all day long. Light, cooling breezes, fragrant with the faint scent of fallen leaves and whispering of the coming of winter, tempered the summer heart. Early in the morning groups of workingmen, clad in their best, or else wearing the neat, simple uniform characteristic of their trade, which several of ade, began to appear on the streets. enjoying a leisurely stroll in the fresh morning air, and a pleasant chat with friends. The morning trains from St. Thomas brought many visitors. Long before noon Dundas street was crowded with citizens and visiting friends. At 10:30 the Hamilton, Ingersoll and Woodstock delegations arrived over the G. T. R., and were met by the local committee and a brass band at the East London station. There were about 800 visitors from the labor organizations of the three castern towns. Hamilton alone sending 500.

THE PARADE. The arrangements for the parade had been made with the admirable forethought and a minute attention to detail. Each body or organization re-ported promptly at noon to Chief Mar-

Parade Was a Marvel in Richmond and King streets, and had its place in the parade assigned to it. Everything had been arranged beforehand, and every detail of the arrange-ment was carried out. The procession was divided into four great main divisions, and these again into unions or distinct bodies. Music was furnished by six bands, placed at intervals along the line.

The first division formed on King street, east of Richmond; the second, on King street, west of Richmond; the third division on Talbot street, south of King street, and the fourth division, including the mechanical displays, carriages and floats, on the Market Square. The Musical Society Band headed the procession, the order of which was as follows:

Musical Society Band. Hamilton Labor Unions, 200 strong; Ald. Finley, marshal. Carriage and Wagon Makers, 80 strong; Joseph Reidy, marshal. Painters and Decorators, 25 strong; H. E. Hardingham, marshal.

No body of men in the procession made a more striking appearance than the Typographical Union, who all wore the unions selected to wear in the par- jaunty Glengarry caps, of red, white and blue, with long purple feather. They were complimented all along the line. The only lady member of the union, Miss Cora C. Sifton, rode at the head of the section in a carriage, accompanied by her sister. She wore the regulation Glengarry. The union is evidently very proud of their lady member and had decorated the carriage very tastefully. It was honored bearing the handsome banner of the Typographical Union. There were many handsome banners in the parade, and some very striking floats. Those of the stonecutters, stove mounters and brass finishers were particularly noticeable. The last-named evoked marked applause by its brilliance and beauty. The G. T. R. car shops' employes were not only one of the most largely represented bodies in the parade, but they shal Wm. Davidson, at the corner of had one of the prettiest and most effec-

5 or 6, wore a gold crown and carried a scepter. She rode in state beween a curly-headed mite of 4, wearing the uniform of a British soldier, on the one side, and an equally dimin-utive representative of her Majesty's navy on the other. Behind rode three maids of honor. Two black, liveried footmen marched at the horse's head. The little queen was the daughter of Mr. R. Comber, and represented "Britannia." The car shops' men carried a banner bearing a painting of the superintendent's private car, and in-scribed with the name of their organization. The cigarmakers, who turned out in great force, wore gray plaid fedora hats, and unique badges, representing the union label, with two cigars pend-ant from their buttonholes.

Many of the visitors fell in along with the local bodies of their respective crafts. The most gratifying feature of the procession was the splendid appearance of the individual members. Everywhere could be heard comments upon the fine physique and the manly, dignified bearing of the men. They gave the impression of intelligence, self-respect and mental and physical well-being.

AT THE PARK.

Upon the arrival of the procession at the park, and as soon as the crowd had got seated in the grand stand, Ald. Plant, on behalf of the Labor Day committee, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. The demonstration served to show, he said, what organized labor could do, acting unitedly. Everything possible would be done to make the stay of the visitors so pleasant that they would be glad to come again. As it was a play day. not weary them with speech making.

106 During the past year, however, labor throughout the world had in many instances been brought into conflict with capital.

A voice-What about the street railway strike?
"We are not going to discuss that today, my friend," replied Ald. Plant. "We do not wish to flaunt our strength in the face of those opposed to us.' Ald. Plant then introduced Mr. Richard Jose, president of the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council, who thanked the committee on behalf of the visitors. It was good to see so many members of organized labor together. He wished to say a few words of encouragement to the striking street railway employes of London. The splendid fight they were making was being waitched with sympathy and approval by organized labor all over Canada. They might well be proud of the support they had received from organized abor in London, and organized labor might well be proud of them. speaker expected to see them carry the 'No Surrender" banner to victory.

THE SPORTS. When the sports began there were fully 10,000 people on the stands, and the number eventually reached 12,000. Scattered about the grounds were some 3,000 more. There was not a policeman on the grounds or on the track, nor was one needed. The committee kept perfect order without difficulty.

The sports in the ring commenced at about 3 o'clock, and were all keenly contested. The lengthy programme of 33 events was run off with snap and vim. There were none of the tedious waits between the events so customary with demonstrations of this nature, and the committee in charge are to be congratulated on their success in this line, as it certainly added to the afternoon's pleasure. The entire programme was concluded by 5:30, which gave the crowd an opportunity to get home to supper and return in good time for the evening entertainment. Following is a list of the events and the prize-winners:

Afghans Defeat a Force of Turkomans in a Fierce Fight.

General Strike of British Seamen and Steamer Firemen Inaugurated.

Cape Town, Sept. 5 .- The news received from Pretoria yesterday begins to show the situation in a clear right. It appears that the Transvaal's reply which was handed on Saturday to the British diplomatic agent at Pretoria, Mr. Conyngham Greene, was only to Mr. Chamberlain's proposal respecting a conference at Cape Town, and that another reply will be delivered today to Mr. Chamberlain's original proposal for a joint inquiry into the franchise bill. This method of splitting the negotiations by the Transvaal is unfavorably commented upon here. The Cape Argus officially denies that the government of the South Africa republic has agreed to a conference at Cape Town. WILLING TO PARLEY. A Pretoria dispatch says in the course of an interview tottay, State Secretary Reitz said the Transvaal Government was waiting until Satur-day's dispatch reached the imperial authorities before making its contents public. Without, however, entering into details, he could say that in his judgment the proposals of the govern-ment offered Mr. Chamberlain an opportunity of coming to a settlement regarding the franchise and other out-standing questions. He could also say that the Transvaai would take part in the suggested conference and was now awaiting the Imperial Government's reply in order to arrange the details as to the place of meeting.

CONTRADICTORY. The Cape Argus officially denies that the Government of the South African Republic has agreed to a conference at Cape Town. The Cape Argus also declares that the explanation offered by the Transvaal attorney, Mr. Smuts, of the arrests is unsatisfactory, and that the mystery is one that calls for immediate elucidation.

A Pretoria dispatch says: The reply of the Transvaal Republic to the demands of Great Britain increases the term of years' residence necessary in order to obtain the franchise.

CHARGED WITH TREASON.

When Mr. Pakeman, editor of the Transvaal Leader, was arraigned at the bar of the Landrost, the public prosecutor announced that he would withdraw the charge of high treason against the prisoner and enter a fresh charge of contravening the press laws, by inciting to high treason.

Mr. Burger, solicitor for Mr. Pake-man, said he understood the original charge had been withdrawn owing to the inability of the public prosecutor to convict, and he challenged the public prosecutor to supply him with the particulars of the new charge, asserting that it was not right to detain his client 24 hours in jail. Mr. Burger then declared that the affidavit on which the charge against Mr. Pakeman was based contained no particulars that would justify a charge of treason. The public prosecutor characterized this statement as an "absolute lie." The proceedings were then adjourned to Sept. 15, Pakeman being released under $2,500

TEMPORIZING.

Amid the crowd of conflicting dispatches from South Africa regarding the Transvaal situation, it is impossible to say exactly what has happened. It seems evident, however, that President Kruger has withdrawn the five years' franchise, which was dependant upon Great Britain's acceptance of possible conditions regarding suzerainty, and has made some sort of temporizing suggestions regarding a conference.

POOR CHANCE FOR PEACE. The Johannesburg correspondent of the Standard says: I learn from an official who has been earnestly striving for peace that the matter is now hopeless. The Boers will now probably declare war at 48 hours' notice, and will try to gain Natal before the British troops arrive. I believe the Orange Free State will join the Transbut that the Boers of Natal and the Cape Colony will remain quiet at the outset unless irritated at the dismissal of the Cape Colony Cabinet. State Attorney Smuts is the chief inciter of the war party. Thirty thou-sand in the Transvaal and twenty

HEALTH OF SCHOOL GIRLS.

"Parents little imagine how great and prevalent is the injury done to girls between the ages of 10 and 16 by overapplication to study," said a prominent New York physician when addressing the school board recently.

For reasons connected with the physiological structure of women it is of the utmost importance that at this period, when the peculiarly feminine period, when the peculiar feminine organs are begining to assume their functions, the nervous system should not be exhausted by over-exertion and anxiety caused by school work and examinations. Hosts of pale, weak, poorly-developed girls have been restored to health and strength by the use of

HALIFAX HARBOR

Sad Fate of a Party of Pleasure

Only Four Out of Eleven Were Rescued.

Disaster on Lake Huron-Schooner Lisgar Lost-No Word of Her Crew _Tugboat Wrecked.

SEVEN PLEASURE-SEEKERS PERISH. Halifax, N. S., Sept. 5 .- By an accident to a sail boat at Eastern Passage on the east side of Halifax harbor at 7 o'clock last evenng seven lives were lost. The victims all belonged to Halifax. A squall struck the boat and lifted the mast out of its stopping, and as it fell back into its pocket it punched a hole in the bottom of the boat, which quickly filled and foundered. There were eleven people in the boat, four of them be-

Those drowned are Robert Davidson, wife and three sisters, unmarried; W. Hamilton, a clerk in the city clerk's office; John E. Hancock, steamship checker, in the employ of Furnace, Withey & Co. Davidson was a

The hole knocked in the bottom of the boat was nearly two feet square, and the inflow of water overwhelmed the occupants of the craft almost before they realized what had happened. There were no steamers or small boats in the neighborhood, but the accident was witnessed from a distance, and various craft headed for the scene of the disaster.

BRAVE RESCUERS. The four survivors were in a terrible state of exhaustion, and it took some time to revive two of them—young women—named Bertha and Louise Davidson. The latter were saved by the courageous acts of two men who were in the boat, Edward Udy and Albert Pool, both belonging to the British navy. Udy is artificier on the war-ship Talbot, and Poole belongs to the new hospital staff here.

When the boat sank Udy made a brave effort to save Robert Davidson's wife and sister, Louise, but after keeping them afloat for nearly ten minutes he found that they were dragging him under, and he was forced to relinquish his grip on both. Swimming away a short distance he secured a piece of board, and with this he returned to Mrs. Davidson, who got hold of it, but failed to save herself. Udy then took hold of Louise Davidson a second time, grasping her by the hair, and when the boat came along five minutes later they were picked up. Albert Poole took hold of Bertha Davidson and held her above water until they were hauled out by a second rescuing party. Alice Davidson was found floating alone, but for some reason could not be pulled into the boat and was dragged through the water until the shore was reached.

THE DEAD. Robert Davidson, sexton of St. Paul's Church, of this city, was the lather of four of those who lost their lives in the terrible accident, namely: Robert J. POSTAL CARD CRAZE

Germany Finds a Way to Secure Considerable Revenue. Some further, and very remarkable, figures about the postal card craze are given in a consuler report from Frankfort. A trade paper estimates the number of workmen who find employment solely by the manufacture of the postal souvenir card at 12,000. It is computed that at present about 100 new postal cards are published in Germany daily. If one calculates for each card but an issue of 1,000, which is, if anything, too small, this gives a total of 100,000 per day, or 600,000 per week—per annum, therefore, over 30,000,000.

Since the introduction of the souvenir postal card the number of postal cards dispatched in Germany has risen by 12.

BASEBALL.

The Edgars baseball team of Chicago, with which arrangements had been made by the London ball team management to play three games here yesterday, failed to come. They sent no explanation. Their tickets had been sent to them, and everything was apparently satisfactorily arranged. They I simply failed to show up. It was a ! hard blow for the local management and a disappointment to hundreds of people who had counted on seeing one or more of the games. The London management was in no way to blame. The Chicago team simply broke

AILSA CRAIG MAN LOSES A FOOT

Deliberately Walks Before a Moving Train, But Escapes With His Life.

Our Ailsa Craig special correspond-ent gives the following details of a sad accident to which The Advertiser has already made brief reference: The eastbound mixed G. T. R. train arrived at Forest Thurway evening, about 5:30, and having to take up a car, stopped before reaching the sta-tion. Becoming impatient at the delay, Mr. N. Gillies, a building mover of Ailsa Craig, decided to walk the remaining distance, and started down the track, while the engine was shunting, heeding the whistle repeatedly blown to warn him, walked in the space north of the south track. He did not long continue that course, and on the engine approaching he deliberately stepped in front of it in an evident effort to reach the other side, and before the horrified spectators really knew what had happened, the unfortunate man was being mercilessly dragged along by the left foot, which had been caught by the engine, and was being ground to pieces. Willing hands soon conveyed the injured man to the Franklin House, where his foot was amputated at the ankle by Drs. Campbell, Marshall, Blain, Hubbard and Totten, and everything done to make the patient comfortable. He is progressing nicely. His family were speedily communicated with, and are now with him. The injured man also sustained a severe scalp wound, that required three stitches. Those who witnessed the affair wondered how the escaped being crushed to death.

London, Tuesday, Sept. 5.

Alarmed at Canadian Competition.

The American newspapers are seri ously discussing Canadian competition in the British market, a question which has been sharply thrust upon them by the report of United States Consul Boyle, of Liverpool. Mr. Boyle declares that the rivalry between Canadian and American products has be-"competitive battle." He confesses to the great superiority of Canadian products, and expresses surprise and alarm at the tremendous growth of the shipping facilities between Canadian and British ports. During 1898 he points out, there were 23 steamers under subsidy, contract or agreement, with the Canadian Government, to provide cold storage service for the carring of butter, cheese, eggs, fruits and other perishable products to British Since the present summer season has opened a number of ships have been added to the regular Canadian lines, the capacities of some of the old ships have been increased, two or three new regular lines have been established, and the number of tramps has From Liverpool alone there have been six additional sailings a month to Canadian ports since January. A regular line has been subsidized to Manchester, going through the ship canal, which has an outlet into the Mersey, near Liverpool.

Mr. Boyle quotes other statistics illustrating the marked increase of Canadian imports into Great Britain. These show a gain in almost every item as compared with the United States. It is significant, the consul says, that one style of Canadian honey is sold in Livas "the preferential tariff The consul advises the American farmers to try to offset the activity of the Canadian Government, in promoting trade, by sending nothing but the best goods to the British market to meet the Canadian specialties. American goods, he admits, cannot get the free advertising that the products of the Dominion enjoy, but by careful management he thinks his countrymen can hold the enormous business they already have, and increase their exports in some lines.

Commenting on this the Pittsburg

"It must be recognized in this country, however, that agricultural exports have reached nearly the zenith, and that hereafter the increase in agricultural production will be more largely consumed at home, while our manufactures will be more largely exported. Great Britain and Canada are also awakening to a realization of this fact, and in that realization may be found one incentive to the booming of Canadian agricultural products in England. The fact should also be borne in mind that it is within the power of Britain and Canada to make all of their products of the 'preferential tariff brand,' to the detriment of the United States. All of these facts may enter into the consideration of the boundary dispute, as well as into consideration of the imperial policy upon which England appears anxious to see the United States embark."

Canadians can afford to smile at the sting in the tail of this paragraph, in view of testimony so favorable to this country. It is probably true that the United States in future will have a diminishing, rather than an increasing, surplus of farm products for export, while Canadian agriculture is capable of unlimited expansion. But even if American rivalry does become less formidable, competition is developing in other quarters. Russia is going in for cold storage, and will push her products vigorously in the British market. Australia and New Zealand also are bending every energy on their export trade. Canadians are working on the right fines, and if they fail to improve their present advantage it will be their own is reckoned at one hundred and twenty millions of dollars. What will be the of wealth in the hands of a small number of men? It seemed at one time very likely that these bloated fortunes were an incident of the abnormally rapid development of the new world, and when that had subsided and commerce fell into its natural course, they would cease to be made. But, on the contrary, thanks to the stock market and to the prevalence of commercial aggregation in the form of trusts, or in other forms, multi-millionarism, or, as it has been called, the tendency of wealth to run into pockets, appears to be growing greater than ever. Money begets money, and covetousness has no bounds. When a man has made money enough to glut, not only every reasonable, but every unreasonable he only thirsts for more, while his of acquisition, from his command of the market, is being continually increased. People comfort themselves by saying that in the next generation the fortune will be divided; but multi-millionaires usually have few children; the pile, even when divided, is enormous, and it is apt to fall into the hands of heirs demoralized by idleness and luxury. Strong measures may some day prove inevitable if the world is not to fall under a domination, perhaps not the most oppressive that ever seen, but certainly not in the least degrading.

Mr. Justice Miller was always courteous, but in his last years on the su-preme bench he acquired an aversion to what some of the lawyers at the bar of the court took to be oratory. A lawyer who may be called Brown, was addressing the court one day in a long rambl-

Justice Miller listened, uneasily fanning himself, for some time. Then he leaned over the desk and said, in an audible whisper:

TEDDY'S WELCOME

The Governor-General's Foot Guardsin Albany-Pleasant Words From Governor Roosevelt.

Albany, N. Y., Sapt. 5.—The Gover-nor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa, Canada, on a visit to Albany, as the guests of the 10th Battalion, made a tour of the capital yesterday and visited the Executive Chamber. In the absence of Governor Roosevelt the following message from him was read to the Guards by Col. Treadwell, his military secretary:

"Please, present to the Foot Guards
my cordial well wishes; state how sorry I am that I cannot meet them in person, and that I hail their visit with peculiar pleasure, coming as it does at a time when the English-speaking peoples have been brought closer together than ever before, for I feel that it is of peculiar interest to the future of civilization and humanity that this good feeling should continue to be strengthened. (Signed) -Theodore Rossevelt."

A TRYING SITUATION.

[From the Dertoit Free Press.] When the car had stopped at the conrer a poor looking woman got on, "Please take a seat further forward," said the conductor, and he waited for her to do so. The woman paid no attention. The conductor repeated what he had said before, adding that she was in the smoking seat. But the woman did not budge.

The conductor said it all again with greater emphasis. The woman looked somewhat uncomfortable, but did not stir, nor did she say a word. The conductor was getting exasperated, as the cer had been waiting at the corner all this time. So he went along to where the woman sat and helped her to alight. It became evident then that she did not know what she was expected to do, so she started for the curbstone, to wait for another car. But the conductor motioned her to another seat and helped her on. Then she said her end of this inordinate accumulation Tricks of the Dreyfus Persecutors Exposed.

> Another Interesting Day at the Court Martial.

Endeavor to Introduce New Evidence Against the Accused-Exciting Scenes Mark the Proceedings.

Rennes, Sept. 4.-The fifth week of the court-martial of Capt. Dreyfus began today with the largest attendance yet seen in the Lycee. The interest in the trial grows as the denouement approaches. Sixteen days is given as the outside limit for the further duration of the trial. There were an exceptionally large number of ladies present today, their bright costumes giving a gay look to the court room. The session opened very interestingly with the appearance of the witness, M. Cernuschi. His letter to Col. Jouanst offering his testimony states that having been mixed up in political troubles in Austria-Hungary, he had been obliged to seek refuge, from September, 1894, to 1897, in France, where he had a friend who was a high official of the foreign office of a central European power. This might denounce him, the first name mentioned being that of Dreyfus. Another officer, a foreign general of the staff, similarly warned him. One day, the witness said, when he was visiting the latter, he saw him take from his pocket a voluminous packet containing military documents. The officer said that in France one could up a face he was handsomer than he buy anything, adding: "What is the was other times!" Being questioned if he had asked the name of the traitor in the case, M. Cernuschi replied: "No, because the officer had already said Dreyfus was his informant.

Major Carriere, representing the government, asked that the court hold further examination of this witness behind closed doors in view of the diplomatic side of his testimony.

M. Labori then arose, and announced that since the prosecution had summoned the aid of foreigners, he intended to make formal application to have steps taken through foreign channels to ascertain whether the documents were delivered to a foreign power, and, if so, by whom. This announcement, if Col. Jouaust consents to the application, will have most important consequences. The words of M. Labori created a deep impression, as they made it evident that counsel for the defense is on the warpath.

M. ANDRE.

M. Andre, a clerk of M. Bertullus, judge of the court of cassation, testified to hearing Lieut.-Col. Henry say to M. Bertullus: "Don't insist, I beg of you. we must save the honor of the army." Witness also heard Lieut .-Col. Henry say: "Leave me Esterhazy and let Du Paty de Clam blow out his brains. That's all I ask.'

DREYFUS' CHARACTER. Dr. Well came forward to deny that had any doubt of Dreyfus' innocence. he had ever made statements attributed to him with regard to the guilt of the prisoner. He had always believed Dreyfus innocent. Dreyfus, said the witness, was a model husband, and not a gambler, and it was absolutely un-true, the witness added, that he had made the statements to Rabbi Dreyfus reflecting upon the prisoner.

AN IMPORTANT WITNESS. The next important witness was the well-known mathematiclan, M. Paln-leve, who began by tearing M. Bertil-lon's system of argumentation to pieces. M. Painleve then entered upon a personal topic which quickly won him the close attention of the audience and brought on a dramatic scene. M. Painleve referred to his evidence before the court of cassation, and protested vehemently against the version given by Gen. Gonse of a conversation with M. Hadamard, a cousin of Drey-fus, in which M. Hadamard expressed belief in the guilt of Dreyfus. "Never," explained Painleve, "did M. Hadamard doubt the innocence of his cousin."

Gen. Gonse insinuated that the faith of M. Hadamard and M. Painleve in the innocence of Dreyfus must have been strengthened recently. M. Painleve re-

The two men then went at it hammer and tongs, M. Palnleve facing Gen. Gonse with his arms folded, and thrust home with his questions and retorts face. Then Gen. Roget joined in the M. Labori began a cross-examination of Gen. Gonse regarding a certain doc-ument in the secret dossier, to which Gen. Gonse had referred, but which had not been submitted to the court.

M. Labori, not receiving satisfactory answers and finding that Col. Jouaust declined to allow him to press the matter home in the way he wished, became extremely indignant and protested with considerable warmth against Col. Jou aust's veto of his questions.

This caused a little scene between Col. Jouanst and M. Labori. Finally, the latter asked why a certain dispatch from the French ambassador at Rome, relative to the payment of money to Major Count Esterhazy by an Italian agent, had not been included in the secret dessier presented to the court. Gen. Gonse replied that he had not Gen. Gonse asked to be heard, and mounted the stage. After declaring that the whole matter was insignificant, dossier.

Gen. Gonse replied that he had not considered the dispatch of sufficient importance to be included in the secret dossier.

Col. Jouaust here again refused to allow some of M. Labori's questions. M. Labori was fuming with indignation, but was obliged to submit.

M. Labori asked Gen. Gonse who compiled the secret dossier. "I did," shouted Commandant Cuignet, from the body of the hall. Commandant Cuignet then came to the bar, and declared that he had amittied all documents from abroad because foreigners were interested in deceiving us.

MM. Demange and Labori immediately arose and expressed surprise that fresh evidence against Dreyfus should be introduced in this way. M. Labori also expressed curiosity respec-ting these documents which were being held back concerning espionage, and he insisted that all these documents could be submitted to the court behind closed doors.

The question of the report drawn up by Commander Cuignet and Officer Wattines dealing exhaustively with the secret dossier was then introduced, and Gen Billot arose to explain that the statement was intact, that he took this report away with him. "I gave this report," he said, "to M. Cavaignac, the former minister of war."

'Then," said M. Labori, "let us have M. Cavaignac's explanation of what became of the report." Col. Jouanst called for M. Cavaignac, but the former minister of war was not in the room.

ALL TALKING AT ONCE. The proceedings above described were very exciting, as at one time, when Gen. Chanon and M. Paleogue were brought upon the stage to ex-plain Commandant Cuignet's statements, there were five witnesses at the bar, all speaking at once, and interrupting one another. The testi-mony throughout was interspersed with heated scenes between M. Labori and Col. Jouaust.

A commissary of the secret police named Tomps, who was called by the defense, and whose testimony concluded today's proceedings, proved a strong witness for Dreyfus. His evidence brought out glaring evidence of duplicity on the part of the staff office in suppressing documents which must

The witness was asked if he had which was as follows: Paulmier was which will extract the valet of Col. Schwartzkoppen, the day without pain.

German military attache in Paris, and it was alleged that he saw on Schwartzkoppen's desk documents signed by Dreyfus. The general staff had declared that an effort would be made to get at the truth of this story, but Paulmier disappeared, and therefore, although the general staff could not prove the story, it could not be disproved.

To the question regarding this case. Commissary. Tomps replied that he had not investigated the affair, whereupon M. Labori suggested that M. Hennion, sub-chief of the political police, who is now in Rennes, could give information in the matter.

Col. Jouanst called to Hennion, who was present in the courtroom, "come here and testify." Hennion declared that he investigated the case and actually found Paulmier, who told him there was not a word of truth in the whole story. He never saw any paper bearing the name of Dreyfus. M. Labori immediately called attention to the fact that the general staff had suppressed M. Hennion's report in favor of Dreyfus, and only declared that the report had been received representing Paulmier as untraceable. Commandant Cuignet and Capt. be traced had been received at the office of the general staff. M. Hennion replied, reiterating that he had forwarded a report to the check the advance of the disease general staff giving Paulmier's emphatic denial to the whole story. M. Labori asked Commandant Cuignet and Capt. Junck where the report was that they said had been received by the general staff stating that M. Paulmier could not be found. The officers interrogated were obliged to admit that they were unable to find the

This practically closed the matter. The court adjourned after deciding to sit with closed doors tomorrow to investigate M. Cernuschi's testimony.

Shortly after 2 o'clock a huge tank of ammonia was reached, and near it a giant hogshead of oil. With a report like a battery of artillery, it exploded, carrying into the air a great part of the roof of the plant.

POOR FISHING FOR THE FRENCH. St. Johns, Sept. 5.-The colonial cruser Fiona, which has arrived here from a revenue cruise along the south coast, reports that the French fishery on the Grand Banks, is very poor, owing to the colonial policy prohibiting the French from securing bait. Trustworthy information goes to show that the French Government is desirous of settling their treaty coast controversy.

BIG LUMBER YARD BLAZE Quebec, Sept. 5.-About 11 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the lumber yard of Messrs. Price Bros. and Co., at Amqui, Rimouski county, on the Intercolonial railway, 244 miles from Quebec. The lumber east of the mill on Riverside was entirely consumed. Seven buildings were also burned. The loss will reach fully $100,000. The ratiway ties in the vicinity of the fire were burned, causing a stoppage of freight trains and several telegraph poles were

CHARGED INTO THE CROWD

Tragedy Narrowly Averted During the Parade.

Several Children Knocked Down and Severely Injured-A Member of the Rube Band Also Badly Cut.

While the Labor Day parade was passing the corner of Wellington street on Dundas street yesterday, a horse attached to a phaeton, and driven by Mr. Fred Chantler, bolted into the dense crowd of spectators that lined the pavement. Lute Schwitzer, a member of the Rube Band in the parade, was knocked down, severely bruised, and received a bad cut over the eye.

Lulu May Scott, 10 years old, had an ugly gash several inches long cut in her cheek, and was badly bruised. Edna May Parsons, 6 years old, and Arthur Parsons, 8 years old, were also struck, but were saved from serious injury by the promptness of Wm. Schussler, of 24 Mount Pleasant avenue, who snatched the children from under the

Nellie Sampson, 12 years old, had her foot crushed by the horse, and John Sampson, aged 8, was knocked down

Mrs. Harry Parsons, South London, and her sister, Mrs. E. P. Scott, of Galt, were standing with their children just where the horse charged into the crowd. Mr. Chantler, with remarkable horsemanship, pulled the animal on his haunches, so suddenly that the rig went clear on top of the horse. The animal fell over on his side and the rig with him.

The horse was being driven in the parade, when one of the shafts broke, prodding the horse, which caused him to bolt. The injured persons were removed to McDermid's drug store, and their injuries attended to by Dr. Wilson (the mayor), and Dr. Drake. Several stitches were required, each, to close the gaping wounds in Lulu Scott's face, and in Schwitzer's forehead. The latter was removed to his home in a carriage.

FOR TWO YEARS Metallic

James Rogers Sentenced to Kingston for Burglary.

Russell and Moxley Each Get Three Months-George Harding Remanded for a Week.

Thomas Russell, the 18-year-old youth who broke into the G. T. R. freight sheds and stole a number of articles last week, was sentenced to Canadian and American steers in the three months in the Central this morn-

> Gilbert Moxley, who was found guilty of assaulting and wounding Mr. Joseph Owens, was also given three months in the Central Prison. Owens went to the police station to lay a complaint against the prisoner for raising a disturbance around his house, and on his return Moxley gave him a thrashing.

> Wm. Dyer, the young man arrested with George Harding on the night of the Gowaniock tragedy, charged with being drunk, was allowed to go. John Donovan was arrested on Dundas street Saturday on complaint of Henry Foster. Donovan was asking different persons for money to get something to eat, and if they refused he would abuse them. Donovan said he hailed from New York city, and sold laces, combs, and other articles lor a living, as he only had the use of one hand. He was sentenced to one month in the common jail. George C. Willis and Thomas Bren> nan, drunks, were allowed to go. James Rogers, who pleaded guilty to stealing and burglary, on eleven different charges, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail on charges of stealing preferred by Joseph L. Holmes (two), Thomas Nickle, Charles Allan, William Clarke, A. O. Jeffery (two), and James Shoebottom. Ten days on each charge, to run concurrently. On three charges of burglary, preferred against him by Dr. H. A. Kingsmill, Miss Mina Willison and Thomas Nickle, Rogers was given two years in the Kingston Penitentiary on each charge. Sentence to run concurrently.

A petition signed by a number of clergymen praying for leniency was considered by the magistrate. The O'Farrell non-support case was further adjourned for a week. Geo. Harding, charged with having killed Andrew Gowanlock, was remanded for a week.

The case of Frederick Deeley, charged with allowing his hens to run at large, was adjourned for a week.

ARSENALS IN THEIR SATCHELS. Chicago, Sept. 5.—His bethrothal to Miss Jessie Horn, of Shirley, Ill., is alleged to have won for murdered Walter Koeller, of Chicago, the enmity of fellow-students at the Dixon, Ill., college. Herman Hundhauser and Richard Honeck, sons of prominent Hermann, Mo., citizens, were arrested two hours after the murder, each with a small satchel containing a small arsenal. The following weapons were found: One bowie knife, with an eight-inch blade, smeared with coagulated blood; a six-inch bowie knife, a five-inch dirk, a razor and a silver-plated case knife, a 44 caliber revolver, a 38 caliber revolver, and a small wooden-handled 22 caliber revolver, a heavy billy, two hunting belts, filled with cartridges. Each of the men wore one of the belts and carried a revolver. Besides the weapons the satchels contained clothing, from which the names had been Passengers Badly Scared, but Steamer Undamaged.

City of Rome Narrowly Escapes Destruction 1,000 Miles From Port.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Anchor liner City of Rome steamed into port yesterday afternoon with 997 thankful passengers aboard, and a story of an encounter with a big iceberg a thousand miles from port. About six o'clock on the evening of Aug. 31, when the ship, owing to a dense fog, was steaming at less than quarter speed, and most of the passengers were at dinner, the look-out shouted, "Ice dead ahead." Captain Young signaled to reverse the engines at full speed, and the wheel had been thrown hard over to steer the vessel to port to avoid the

The City of Rome had been going forward at only three or four knots an hour, but she had traveled into the berg almost before she began to feel the backward pull of the propeller blades, and just as she had begun to veer off in response to the rudder.

LIFTED INTO THE AIR. There was a crash and a crunching, then the big ship began to rise, five, six, seven feet into the air. crunching became louder, she listed to port a bit, and then sank down as gracefully as she had come up, and in less time than it takes to tell the fog had closed in about the berg, and it was lost to view.

In the part of the ship where the passengers were there was fright that they will never forget as long as they live. Here and there passengers grabbed life-preservers, and made for the deck with them, others fell on their knees and began to pray. The officers and the 297 members of the crew were in their places ready to man the the boats before the women had a chance to scream. Those whose duty it was to attend to passengers in case of

SHORT WORK OF AGUINALDO

Senator Schurmann Thinks the 'Pino Leader Will Be Soon "Done For"-A Brush With the Enemy.

Washington, Sept. 5.-The cabinet was in session for two hours yesterday, and a variety of matters which have accumulated during the president's absence were discussed.

President Schurmann, of the Philippine commission, was present by invitation, and made a comprehensive statement of the situation of the islands. It is understood that within the next two or three days he will make a statement to the press, which would cover his observations on the islands. It is understood that Mr. Schurmann takes A HOPEFUL VIEW of the situation in the Philippines, and has no doubt but that with increased forces the United States will be able to make comparatively short work of Aguinaldo and the insurgent forces. He stated that although Aguinaldo is the leader of a very strong faction of the natives, he does not by any means fairly represent the entire population, a considerable number appearing to be more or less indifferent as to the outcome of the insurrection. Although the work of the anti-Imerialist League has had no considerable influence among the soldiers in the United States army, Mr. Schurmann said it certainly had given great encouragement to Aguinaldo and his followers of ultimate success BRUSH IN THE PHILIPPINES. Manila, Sept. 5.-Five men of Col. Bell's regiment encountered a rebel outpost near Poraca, and in the fightwhich ensued one American was killed and another wounded. The remainder drove the rebels from their position.

Rafael Delpan, a Spaniard born in the Philippines, and recently identified with the Filipino Junta at Madrid, has gone from Hong Kong to Japan. It is reported in Filipino circles here that Delpan's purpose is to request the Japanese Government to recognize the Filipino insurgents. It is asserted that Delpan was recently working in the interest on the Chinese coast. The Washington volunteer regiment has been embarked, and will sail for U. Pacific....... 80 W. U. TRUSTS: NOON LETTER.

(Private wire Roath Bros. & Co.) Chicago, Sept. 5.—The Liverpool cables this morning were a fraction over our Saturday's closing quotations and our market opened firm and higher in sympathy. There was, however, quite a lot of selling orders on the advance, and the market sagged off at 711%c for December option. There seems to be quite a liberal amount of wheat wanted around 11c, but the mar ket at the moment is on the mend and close to the opening prices. Trade is very slow, with a firm undertone apparent, especially so for September. We don't like the idea of selling wheat short at this time, although the cash demand will have to boom a little more belore we can expect any materially higher prices.

The English visible shows a decrease of 148,000 bushels this week, against an increase of 650,000 bushels last week and a decrease of 796,000 bushels last year. The European visible is 58,800,000—an increase of 24,500,000 over a year

Corn opened firm and higher in sympathy with wheat. There was a lot of liquidation by local holders and shippers sold a fair amount of December and May, which caused a slight re-action. The tone is very firm and there is a good demand for corn on all

city (formerly of London), was very badly hurt the other evening. The girl was playing with another, about her own age, in front of the opera house, when a young man came along the sidewalk pushing his wheel by the saddle. He did not have any hold on the handlebars, and, therefore, his control of the wheel was very limited. As he approached the chil-dren the wheel gave a sudden turn knocking both the little girls down. One of them, Mr. Tatham's, in falling, struck her chin on the pedal of the bicycle, inflicting an ugly gash. She was carried into Walton's drug store, and Dr. Rice was called. He found that the cut was a bad one, and necessitated two stitches. He dressed the wound, and the little girl is doing

Confession of Fiends Who Killed a Former Friend.

Wanted Revenge-Perfect Types of Degenerates.

Chicago, Sept. 5.-Richard Hoeneck and Herman Hundhausen have made sworn confessions to the murder of Walter F. Koeller, their former schoolmate. According to the confessions revenge was the motive of both, Hoeneck, who did the stabbling, for an elleged part Koeller's father took in the street murder of Hoeneck's brother thirteen years ago in Herman, Mo., and for testimony given against Hoeneck by Koeller when the former was on trial for arson; Hundhausen, for some fancied slight while at school with Koeller at Dixon, Ill. The confession was obtained by Detective Brazor, who was locked up in the cell with Hundhausen on a pretended charge of highway robbery, and to whom Hundhausen finally admitted question of municipal ownership of the the crime, as did Hoeneck. According London Street Rallway, will be held to the confessions it was the original London Street Rallway, will be held to the confessions it was the original Thursday evening instead of Wednesday, owing to the absence of several and his brother George, who is station agent at Oakley avenue for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, near

"It was dark, and when I spoke to Walter he was lying on the bed. He recognized my voice, and spoke to me, at the same time getting up and pulling on his trousers. He then lit a match and held it up to light the gas. Just as he did so I came up behind him and put one arm around his neck. Then stabbed him under his uplifted arm." "How many times?" asked the chief of police. "Three or four. I don't remember just how many. He cried murder—not very loud, because the knife had gone deep, then he fell to the floor." Hoeneck, to make sure of his work, stabbed him again. As they left the premises Hundhausen warned his companion to hide the bloody knife, which he still held in his hand, and Hoeneck put it under his coat until their room was reached, when it was thrown into a valise with their revolvers and cart-ridge belts. It was their intention to go to Baltimore, and from there take a cattle steamer to Europe, and ultimately to South Africa, if possible.

"Which ever got the chance was to do the killing," said Hundhausen. "I had my knife ready, but Richard was nearer Koeller, and got the first chance."

Hoeneck expressed sorrow for what he had done. Hundhausen, however, is apparently indifferent.

Both prisoners admit their ideas of adventure were inspired by reading dime novels, and several of these, together with revolvers, bowie knives and one or two obscene pictures, were found in their valise. Eritish Reserves Have Not Been Called Out-In Some Quarters War is Said To Be Inevitable.

London, Sept. 5 .- The latest news received in this city from various points in South Africa is vague and contradictory. Nothing more is known regarding the status of the negotiations between Great Britain and the Transvaal than what was learned yesterday.

The officias of the British war office emphatically deny that the reserves have been called out or that any steps have been taken to that end. The afternoon papers follow the lead of the morning papers in taking an ex-tremely grave view of the situation, al-

ALARMIST REPORTS. The opinion of those who regard the beginning of a war between Great! Britain and the Transvaal as only a matter of a short time is voiced by the St. James Gazette, which says today: The news concerning the crisis is very grave. We learn that three more infantry brigades have been ordered to Cape Colony, including the Gordons, of Dargai fame; one battallon of the Highland Infantry, who fought in Crete, the second battalion of the Black Watch, and the second biattalion of the Cameronians. These regiments are under orders to be ready to leave at 24 hours' notice. The officers and men are delighted at the prospect of active ser-

South African Chief Spending His Honeymoon at Eastbourne.

The Pair Did Not Go Abroad as Was Reported.

London, Sept. 5 .- According to the Morning Herald, Miss Kitty Jewell and her husband, Prince Lobengula, the Matabele chief, recently the principal star at the South African exhibition at Earl's Court, have not gone abroad as was supposed, but have taken lodgings at Eastbourne.

Up to a fortnight ago, the paper says, the Matabele chief and his white wife were staying at a hotel almost in the heart of London. While in Eastbourne the prince and his bride have been seen at one of the theaters, when their identity was no more than suspected, and the performances of the band on the royal parade have been frequently patronized by them.

The other day Prince Lobengula's gold watch needed the service of a watchmaker, and the Matabele chief himself drew the attention of the jeweler to his name, Prince Lobengula, inscribed on the inner case. While yet in London they wrote to a gentleman who owns several houses in the little hamlet of Pevensey Bay, six miles from Eastbourne, announcing their intention of coming to the bay for a stay of six or seven weeks, and intimating a desire to take one of this gentleman's houses for that period. On Tuesday last Lobengula and the lady drove down to the bay and in-spected the house. The lady gave her name as Kitty Duval, expressed herself as being satisfied with the house, which is known as Rathgar, and paid a week's rent in advance. While this was being concluded the prince remained outside in a carriage.

EQUAL WAGES

Union Formed in Kansas City to Do Away as Much as Possible With Woman Labor-St. Thomas Street Railway Employes Organized.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 4 .- A petition has been filed in the circuit court for a pro-forma decree of incorporation of the American Equal Wage Union. The headquarters are in Kansas City, and it is expected that other lodges will be formed all over the United States. One of the organizers said to-day: "The object of the organization is to do away with woman labor as much as possible. In all departments of commerce and industries generally women have, to a certain extent, taken the place of men in some occupations. The trouble is that they are not paid the same wages as men, and that they keep men, who are the heads of families, out of good positions. We do not object to women working, but we are opposed to their taking the places of men for half and often a third of the wages that would be paid to a man for the same work. We will work to have all persons paid equal wages for equal work."

A Transient Experience

"And you never could have done that, old boy, converted or unconverted," he thought, looking up at his pie-"Prophets, when the divine afaffitus is off them, aren't good at divine drudgery.'

So the young husband and wife would fall in love with each other, and the complication would turn into an idyll, and love's flame would warm instead of consuming them. It is one thing to resolve to think fairly, and to feel generously towards a rival, and to know that a hard experience must be lived through with courage. It is quite another thing for people of George's make to correct Latin exercises while the experience is in progress. He did not even get a friendly headache. He had either to go on as

He went on as usual, it is to be hoped with the usual result upon the exercises, and, when afternoon school was over, the next phase of the rapidly changing situation was the appearance of Mr. Fleming to ask for particulars about the marriage ceremony. Then it fully struck George that he would have to play some part in the matter. He was an important witness. He must be ready to be referred to when the discussion came on tomorrow. George answered the rector's questions, and then abruptly asked him what he thought about the matter. Had a mere ceremony enforced upon a boy or girl by such pressure, any moral, if it had legal, power to bind?

"Well," said Mr. Fleming, gravely, "no condemnation can be strong enough for those who put the young people into such circumstances of temptation. and if either had formed another attachment or were ill conducted, or if they were manifestly unsuited for each other, their case would be very hard; but I don't think that any court would set the marriage aside, and for the sake of others for the sake of the holy marriage tie I think it ought to be held binding. And," he added with a smile, 'fate has perhaps been kinder than the conspirators deserved: I see no incompatibility between them."

"It's unreasonable," said George,

"You have sometimes told me that were a socialist, George," said Mr. Fleming, "by which I suppose you mean that you feel responsible for the well-being of your fellows, and must not snatch at individual joys at their expense. It might be that two young things would have to yield personal hopes for the sake of the security of the hopes of all others. But I hope it may not be so." George, when left alone, felt all his ardent youth rebel against a conviction which his conscience shared, and on my cousin, I thought my course was which, in speaking to Gerard, he had clear, but I have had news that has aiready acted. Had he not felt when entirely upset it. First of all, however, first Helena had filled his heart, that any struggle, either of feeling or of fact would be less than the holiest and happiest thing for her? What could he do with the letter that was in his hand and on his mind, but shatter her happiness and destroy her peace? And he must stay there and help to empty the world of his own happiness.

George sat for a long time with his face hidden on his arms on the table. then he suddenly started up, caught up his hat and hurried across the green to the head-master's house.

CHAPTER XV.

In the secret drawer of Helena's old school desk, there was an envelope tied round with string, gummed down with stamp paper, and sealed with many seals. On it was written in the hand-writing of fifteen, "My most hated possession. Never to be opened as long as I live." She cut the string, and broke the seals, and took out a photograph of a boy-cousin given to her by her aunt, at the time when she had been taught that marriage with him was a sort of romantic self-conseeration. "My husband that is to be" was written on the back, and now she looked at it again. She had never really forgotten it. She knew the handsome, stiff school-boy quite well She even remembered the photographic landscape behind him. He was still very like it.

There's only one worthy thing to do," she thought, "and that is to go on telling the truth, and not to be vhere no shame is, whatever ashame one ma, _yel." The morning came and brought wth Mr. Bradbury, unprepared for any-thing but a formal statement to his late ward on business matters, and for formal regrets that so little remained of the large fortune to which she had once been entitled. Mr. Fleming was there to meet him, and Miss Wynne had to go through one of the worst quarters of an hour which she had ever known. The incredulous surprise of the man the clergyman, could not be twisted into any flattering form. "It was-it was an act of justice to the injured," she said, appealingly.

"My father," said Mr. Bradbury, was consulted about the unfortunate appropriation of his father's money by Mr. Richard Wentworth. The correspondence concerning it is still in the hands of our firm. The matter was hushed up, and he was treated with the greatest forbearance. I believe the fact was unknown even to his wife. He could regard himself as injured. It was scandalous to play upon the feelings of kind-hearted ladies, and feelings of kind-hearted laddes, and get a hold upon them, as he no doubt intended to do, by a secret marriage with his son. We must, of course, convince ourselves that the ceremony was valid."

"It was," cried Miss Wynne, "it was guarded with every care. It inaugurated a heaviful future."

"It was a terrible risk," said Mr. Fleming, "the young people might easily have formed attachments else-will be young."

"That what is a trifle?" said Mr. Bradbury. "Oh, a rumor that has reached me." "Perhaps you will explain yourself, madam, nothing is a trifle in this connection.' Miss Wynne produced Mrs. Fenwick's letter, and Mr. Fleming said:

"I thought that it might be satisfactory if we could have a witness to the actual ceremony present. My friend, Mr. George Gladwyn, was present. I sent him a line-

Here Mr. Fleming was interrupted by a note, addressed to him at Birch-brake, and now handed in. "Dear Mr. Fleming.

"I am sorry but I am unavoidably absent for the next two days. I will explain on my return. Mr. Wentworth-Norman has my brother's address.
"Yours, G. D. GLADWIN." "Yours, G. D. GLADWIN."
"His absence is not perhaps of material consequence," said Mr. Fleming but inwardly he was surprised and perturbed. Then Mr. Bradbury asked for a private interview with the young lady herself, while Mr. Fleming endeavored to find solid ground under all the wild growths that filled Miss Wynne's imagination.

Helena called up, as she put it afterwards, all there was of herself to encounter this ordeal. Yes, she had acted entirely under her aunit's influence, and had been made to think of nothing but of restoring Mr. Richard Wentworth's inheritance to his son. Afterwards, she deeply resented her aunt's conduct.

Yes, she had always considered herself to be really married. She never had entertained the idea of marrying any one else, and would never have felit free to do so. But she had been perfeetly ready to let Mr. Wentworth-Norman free himself if he could. Yes, she had seen him three times, and they had talked the matter over with perfect frankness. He was coming today, he would speak for himself. As she spoke a ring at the door interrupted the catechism, and presently "Mr. Wentworth-Norman" was announced, and Miss Wynne came hurriedly again upon the scene.

"Ah, Gerard," she cried, "now you can explain. Now-now, all will be open to the light of day."

"I don't know how to explain my-sel," said Gerard, who was pale and disturbed, and looked anxiously at Helena. "Yesterday morning, when I saw I wish to say, and, in the very strang circumstances, I must say it publicly, that whatever may have been the mo tives of those who brought about my marriage to my cousin, it is my most earnest desire that it should be carried into effect. Should there prove to be any flaw in the ceremony, I should beg her to allow it to be repeated. If I met her now for the first time, I should make it my one obect to induce her to become my wife. I am in every respect at her service.'

The Dortmund and North Sea canal, a waterway planned 200 years ago by the great Elector, has just been for mally opened. The work was begun in 1892, and the total cost up to date has been $20,000,000. The length of the canal is 271 kilometers, and the depth two and one-half meters, and it his a capacity sufficient to float 900 tons. canal connects the Westphalian coal, and iron district with Emden, using the River Ems for a distance of 120 kil-

How hard a mother has to coax before

It is just about as hard to induce a confirmed invalid, especially one suffering with weakness of the lungs, to take the first step to health. There is a lack of confidence, and perhaps a crushing experience of a former failure which depresses and discourages the sufferer.

In spite of doubts and fears you will take the first step to health when you take the first dose of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It never fails to help. In ninety-eight cases out of one hundred it never fails to cure. Never mind about the symptoms. Obstinate cough, bleeding of the lungs, spitting of blood, emaciation, night-sweats, conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate in consumption, have all been perfectly and permanently cured by "Golden Medical Discovery."

Sick persons are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, absolutely without fee or charge. Every letter is regarded as sacredly confidential. Each answer is mailed in a plain envelope. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgi-

I had two physicians but they did not do much good. She coughed night and day; could not lie down for coughing and she got down very low. I thought she never could be cured. Then I got four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she took all of it, and is all right now. She is stouter than before we were married. She is taking care of the baby and does all the housework including the washing."

DAVIS IN GRANITE

A Statue for the President of the Confederacy.

The first statue of Jefferson Davis has been modeled by George Julian Zolnay of New York. It is of heroic size, the figure being 71/2 feet, and it will rest on a pedestal of suitable dimensions. This pedestal will be cut from a block of southern granite, and on its face will be engraved the name and age of Mr. Davis and probably also some suitable inscription. The entire expense of the statue has been borne by Mrs. Davis and her daughter. Mrs. Hayes of Colorado, the sole motive for its erection being the desire of the famous Latesman's widow and daughter to pay respect to his memory in this enduring fashion.

The figure is represented as wearing the very clothes in which Mr. Davis was dressed when he was captured by a detachment of Michigan cavalry in the mountains of Alabama. Mrs. Davis has

STATUE OF JEFFERSON DAVIS. carefully preserved these interecting historical relics, and she placed them at Mr. Zolnay's disposal. Indeed, she furnished him with all the available material that could in any way aid him in his work, and the result is that the statue is a singularly true likeness of

Mr. Davis. The statue of Mr. Davis will be erect ed in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond. Va., and the ceremony of unveiling will take place during the early autumn. The statue of Miss Winnie Davis, which is also the work of Mr. Zolnay, will be erected near it on the Davis family plot. and the ceremony of unveiling it will take place on the same day. As the south takes great interest in these statues, and as the latter is a gift of the Daughters of the Confederacy, it is probable that the ceremonies will be of a public or semipublic character.

TROLLEY CAR FUNERALS.

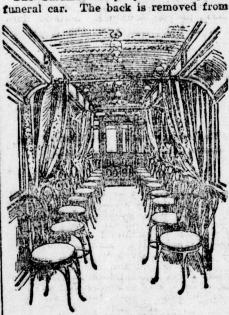

Special Cars Provided by Chicago Electric Roads.

Chicago has introduced the funeral trolley car. The Calumet electric line, which covers a wide expanse of territory, is already

"running" as many as five funerals a day. The popularity of the idea is gaining every week.

Arrangements are made by the company with the undertakers of the different suburbs along the line, who, however, dislike to give up the liberal commissions from livery establishments that they once enjoyed. The trolley funeral is cheaper, and it has come to stay. It costs but $11 for a motor and a trailer, with an extra charge of $3 for every additional car needed.

The Calumet company has no special FUNERAL TROLLEY CAR. one of the seats of an ordinary motor car, and on this seat the easket is placed. On either side of the casket the pall bearers take their places, and the mourners fill the rest of the seats. A placard in the front part of the car, bearing the word "Special," in heavy black letters, indicates its mission.

Oakwoods cemetery comes in for a large share of trolley funerals, although Mount Greenwood, Mount Olivet and Mount Hope are used also. These three are located on the line of the Chicago Electric Traction company, and to reach them it is necessary for the Calumet line to transfer its funeral train to the motor car of the neighboring line, which is done quite frequently.

The Chicago Electric Traction company has a special funeral car. The Virginia is provided. It is dark green in color. At each end there is a vestibule, having a large door in its front for the admission of the casket. In one of the other of these vestibules the casket remains during the journey to the cemetery, acreened from the rest of the car.

SOLVING SECRETS OF TOTEMISM

John H. Rogers Tells of Discoveries of Professors Spencer and Gillen, of Australia.

Professors Baldwin Spencer of the University of Melbourne and his assistant, F. J. Gillen, special magistrate, South Australia, have solved the secrets of totem.

ism and given to the world for the first time a full and authentic account of thoroughly primitive savages living in the totem state, while their new theory of origin and meaning of totemism is the most startling one ever presented.

The Australian native. upon whom they made their studies, has remained from time immemorial up to the present day in a more aboriginal and primitive state than any other people elsewhere on the globe. The central region is not only cut off from the outer world by its position, but is also isolated by natural barriers from the rest of the continent. Here, in the center of the most secluded continent, it is natural to find a savage at his very lowest depths living in the totem state and entirely unaffected by modern influences.

There is scarcely an object, animate or inanimate, to be found in the country occupied by the natives which does not give its name to some totemic group of persons. It may be well at this point to remind the reader that a totem is a class of natural phenomena or material objects, most commonly a species of animals and plants, between which and himself the savage believes that a certain intimate relation exists. The two old universal canons of totemism which have hithand erto been accepted by American European ethnologists, as well as the one practiced by the native tribes of the northwest coast of America, the totemic region of our country, are as follows: First, the taboo on the part of the native not to kill and eat the totem animal plant with or which he is identified, and, second, the rule not to marry a woman of the same totem group as himself. In the new Australian system occur some novel and extraordinary features, which set back all the old views on the subject. The prime and essential function of an Australian group is that of insuring by magic means a supply of the object which is the name of the totem group. Though the native will eat of his own totem sparingly, he has no objection to other people doing so and will actually help them to kill and secure it by means of magic. He considers that to eat none of his totem object which is the

none of his totem would produce an AUSTRALIAN TOTEM evil effect, the same as if he were to eat too freely of it. He thinks it is essential for him to pare take of his totem, so as to identify himself closely with it, or else he would be unable to perform the ceremony of multiplying it for food purposes. Further, there is no relation between totemism and marriage, there being no restriction for men of one totem to marry a woman of another totem. This social aspect of the totem is one of the remarkable offsets to all heretofore advanced theories of totemism. A man is just as free to marry a woman of his own totem as one of another, and not only so, but the traditions of the tribes point clearly to a time when men married regularly and by preference women of their totem groups.

Each totem group is charged with the business of controlling some particular department of nature.

"DARKEST RUSSIA."

This play comes to the Grand Opera House for three nights, starting on Wednesday evening next, with a single matinee Saturday afternoon. This play has been a popular entertainer for the past half-dozen years and is still enjoying prosperity at the hands of those who discriminate in their theatrical diet. It is a play full of intensity, and abounds in love interest, and has a good seasoning of clean-cut, bright and amusing comedy. Amusing in both its lines as well as scenes and situations, and presented by a capable cast such as we are promised, "Darkest Russia" should prove an entertainment that should attract audiences of goodly proportions at each of the several performances to be given. All of the scenery for the entire four acts is carried by the organization.

The funniest of all the events was the bicycle race by members of the rube band. There were three entries, Sandy Drennan as an Irish tramp, Dave Walsh as a Dutchman and a burnt cork artist. The first round was a dead heat, the riders being bunched, all crossing the line together. The second, and finishing round, the hoboes found walking much more pleasant than riding, and got off and carried their wheels in, to the great amusement of the crowd. The wheels were broken and bent in every shape, and looked as if they had come out of the ark. Dave Walsh got the prize, being just 25 minutes behind the other contestants. This event tickled the little folks im-

Mr. Frank Gruber acted as accompanist, with Sam Loughrey, master of properties, and C. DeWitt Efner, stage director.

TUG-OF-WAR.

In the evening a special event was put on by the committee at the request of the 'Longshoremen's Union of Hamilton. It was a tug-of-war tween teams of six men each from the 'Longshoremen's Union of Hamilton and the Building Laborers' Union of London, and resulted in a victory for the 'longshoremen in two straight pulls. NOTES.

Mr. Al Slaughter, secretary-treasurer of the Tobacco Workers Union, of Hamilton, was a visitor. The above union is the first one of its kind in Canada, and has only been organized a few weeks. Its members are all employes of the Tuckett Tobacco Company, and number about 400. This union is connected with the National Tobacco Union of America. Mr. Tuckett has given his hearty co-operation to the union. Mr. Slaughter is well-known in London, and was kept busy renewing old acquaintances. A son of Caretaker Bryce McLeod, of Queen's Park, fell from a merry-goround on the grounds while it was in motion, and had his arm broken. Medical aid was summoned and the lad removed to his home.

About 600 visitors came from Hamilton and good crowds came from Woodstock, Ingersoll and St. Thomas. The Labor Day committee were photographed in a group. Big Demonstrations in Different Canadian Cities-A Double-Header at Montreal.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 5.-All business in the city was suspended yesterday. Flags, etc., were displayed in profusion throughout the city. The morning trains from all directions were heavily laden with wheelmen, Labor Day men and visitors from all directions. The eleven o'clock train from the north brought the celebrated Waterloo band and a large contingent of wheelmen from that section. By 12 o'clock the streets were packed with sight-seers. The trades' procession took thirty-five minutes to pass a given point. The column marched to Agricultural Park, where an excellent programme of amusements were carried out. After the trades procession, the wheelmen, headed by the Waterloo band, proceeded to Mohawk Park, where fast wheelmen assembled in good numbers for their contest. those who enjoy shooting at Parkdale there was a shooting contest, and quite a number went there to witness this sport.

STRATFORD.

The celebration of Labor Day here was quite a success judging from the large number of people thronging the streets. The trades procession proved an attractive feature. In the after-noon sports were held at the Athletic the principal interest centering in the hose reel race and the band concerts. In the former Mitchell took first prize and Seaforth second. In the latter Dundas and Seaforth tied for first, and played off in the evening.

The processionists numbered several thousands, and the floats of the ous trades were of the most elaborate description. The iron working trades were represented more largely than in former years, and included a strong de-tachment of riveters from the shipbuilding yards. A carnival feature was given to the procession by several enterprising business men, who used elephants, camels, and other animals from a menagerie in town for advertising purposes. The mayor and members of the council, civic employes and members of the fire brigade were present,

There was a programme of sports on Ouellette Square in the afternoon, and in the evening a band concert and speech-making at the band stand on the Grand Trunk Railway property.

AT KINGSTON. The labor unions had a lively demonstration here yesterday. In the morning seven unions turned out, including masons, carpenters, molders, machinists, tailors and printers. They numbered over 700. With flags and bands they paraded the streets, and then took cars for the Lake Ontario Park, where an immense picnic was held. The day was spent in sports, horse races, dances, foot races, etc., all of a local character. The attendance was very large, upwards of 8,000. Entertaining addresses were delivered by the mayor and others. TWO DEMONSTRATIONS IN MON-

TREAL. There were two large labor demon strations in Montreal, fully 8,000 men taking part in them. The Central Trades and Labor Council conducted one parade, having 5,000 men in line, while the Federated Councils of Labor had 3.000 in parade. After walking through the leading thoroughfares, one party proceeded to the Shamrock grounds to hold a picnic, while the other body went to Queen's Park for the same

Diamond Dyes. Far Ahead of All Others

Practical Experience Has Demonstrated That They Are The Easiest to Use.

It is the easiest matter in the world to dye with Diamond Dyes, as thousands of women know from practical experience. By using these simple home dyes one can make old clothing look like new and save a great many dollars in the course of a year. Do not accept imitations of the ori-ginal Diamond Dyes from any dealer, no matter how strongly they may recommend them, for while he makes a larger profit on them they do not dye as much goods, nor do they equal the Diamond Dyes in fastness of colors.
