They who assembled last night in the dining halls of Host McMartin, tasting Scotch haggis and cockie leckie, were only doing what "gay brither Scots" in all parts of the world were doing at the same time, and the best wish that they could have for others of John Tamson's bairns was that all might have as good fare, as soulstirring songs, as eloquent and inspiring speeches, as they in London had. Then, indeed, would the morning's sun rise upon a world-encircling band of Scotia's sons who had received an unlift that would help them to face the world with a truer pride in the land of their birth and their forefathers, and a nobler hope for the land of their homes. Certain is it that London-a city that boasts many a bonnie Scot—has never seen St. Andrew's night celebrated with such success. ingly said that this was fortunate, for tris new congregation. It was difficult to make a speech to a gathering of Scotchmen, and the speaker had great sympathy with the divinity student who was asked to compare his calling and qualifications for the ministry with those of Zaccheus. The student "First, Zaccheus was small of stature, and I never felt so small my life. Second, Zaccheus ascended into a tree, and I have done a very similar thing in ascending this pulput. "Know Matthew Maticks!" he answered. "Why, I know Matthew Maticks and Willie Maticks and the whole Maticks family." Secondly, it's hard to speak to Scotchmen because they are so hard-headed. Henry Ward Beecher gave the advice to young preachers, When you have nothing to say, holler." This sort of preaching would not do for Scotchmen.

Some say that it is wrong to keep alive the old traditions and memories of the motherland, but this is a wrong Where can be found men more loyal to Canada than the Scotchmen, who hold in loving hearts the glorious memories of Scotland. The Scotchman's loyalty is not an emotional or hysterical quality, but it is founded in love and intelligence. Every Scotchman yields allegiance to our noble voman Queen, the purest and in the world. The man who doesn't love the memory of his mother country cannot be a good citizen of his adopted country. "I am a Scotchman by birth," said the reverend doctor, "and I am proud of it; yet I am none the less a thorough Clanadian." Speaking of the different elements that compose the people of Canada, the speaker assumed that French-Canadian human-nature was very much the same as Scotch human-nature, and this should be remembered by those who insinuate that because they come from another race, they cannot be loyal to Canada. No section of Canada should be spoken of slightingly, because we are all loyal Canadians, and there are no disloyal Canadians. The sooner Canadians cease to talk of disloyalty in certain sections, the better for Canada. The sending of the Camadian contingents to South Africa should put an end to such talk forever. Considering the composite nature of the people of Canada, it might have been expected there would be opposition to the sending of the contingents, but there was none. From Canada went the sons of Scotland, England, Ireland, France and Germany, and they all brought honor and glory to Canada. The mingling of their blood on South African fields sealed forever the unity of the Canadian people. Dr. McCrae believed there was a magnificent future for Canada. In his earlier life, he said, the newspapers used to devote a great deal of space to discussing the destiny of Canada. The destiny of Canada is settled now. It is forever an integral part of the glorious British Empire.

Scotland is the mother of modern civil and religious liberty. Her sons do not claim a faultless record or a stainless esculcheon for Scotland, but with all their faults they love Scotland has never been conquered, and Scotchmen never have and never can be slaves. (Cheers.) The history of the land throbs with the spirit of freedom, and from her glens and moors and heather that spirit speaks to the

He would not undertake that, but remembering what Canada had been he would picture with some assurance what they might expect it to be in the future. He was yet a young man, and yet he could remember very well the first Dominion Day, and the way in which as a little lad he looked upon its celebration. The Canada of 1867 was a combination of provinces, the citizens of which knew little about one another. We spoke of the Maritime Provinces, and of Lower Canada as strange places, and as for the great Northwest, on which we dwelt now so often with pride, it was thought to be little but a barren waste. Think how much more closely the provinces are bound today, and what vast wealth is to be found within the borders of the Dominion. Men of great gifts had exhausted their powers of description in dwelling upon the greatness of Canada's wealth, in forest, mine and river, and they must be grateful for it, but it took more than material wealth to make a people, and in all essentials Camada, though a unit of the British Empire, was a nation. (App ause.) He asked permission to quote lines not as well known as they should be:

"What constitutes a state? Not high-raised battlement or labored mound, thick wall or moated STARTLING CONCLUSIONS. London, Saturday, Dec. 1-3:30 a.m.-The Spectator, in a striking article dealing with the Chinese crisis, expressed the opinion that the most recent developments at Pekin foreshadows Chinese victory over the allies. "The quarrel has been brought to the test of force," it says, "and force on the civilized side has proved insufficient. This result is mainly due to the attitude of Russia and the United States. If China escapes with a small indemnity and many promises on paper-as seems not unlikely, since Germany and Great Britain may not be willing to incur the expenditure and risk involved in persisting in their demands involved in persisting in their demands—it will be equivalent to a victory for China, for nothing has occurred which will convince the Chinese that their nighty empress has been defeated or mighty empress has been dry future that Europe can avenge any future

Intense Enthusiasm of the Spectators -The Soldier Boys' Buttons and Straps Coveted as Souvenirs.

London, Dec. 1.-When the Canadian Regiment reached Windsor yesterday the large crowd that had assembled on Castle Hill gave the men from the premier colony of the empire a rousing reception, cheering them lustily at almost every movement they made.

The Queen inspected the officers in the quadrangle of the castle, and expressed her happiness on seeing them. She regretted the heavy casualties that had occurred in their ranks since the war began. Her majesty said: "I am very glad to see you here today, and to express my warm thanks for the admirable services rendered during the war by the Canadian troops. I wish you a safe and happy return to your homes.

He lost one of his legs while fighting in South Africa. Her majesty spoke in a most sympathetic way to the unfortunate fellow, as well as to others in the regiment.

When the time came for the party to return to London an immense throng had gathered and became so demon-strative that they rushed into the ranks, grasped the Canadians by the hands, and caused the parade to become disorganized. Others, more wildly enthusiastic, endeavored to wrench the shoulder straps and regimental letters from the clothing of the men, as mementoes of the occasion. Despite the efforts of the police hundreds dashed through the lines into the station and gave the Canadians a wildly exuberant sendoff, the bands playing and the crowds singing "Auld Lang Syne." During the crush to see the Canadians at Windsor station several persons were injured. Lieut.-Col. Buchan and Capt. Rich and Poor Alike Suffer From Catarrh in This Climate.

All observant physicians have noticed the enormous increase in catarrhal disease in recent years, and the most liberal and enlightened have cheerfully given their approval to the new internal remedy, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as the most successful and by far the safest remedy for catarrh yet produced.

One well known catarrh specialist, as soon as he had made a thorough test of this preparation, discarded inhalers, washes and sprays and now depends entirely upon Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in treating catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach.

Dr. Risdell says: "In patients who had lost the sense of smell entirely and even where the hearing has begun to be affected from catarrh I have had fine results after only a few weeks use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. I can only explain their action on the theory that the cleansing and antiseptic properties of the tablets destroy the catarrhal germs wherever found, because I have found the tablets equally valuable in catarrh of the throat and stomach as in nasal catarrhy

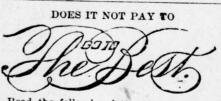

Dr. Estabrook says Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are especially useful in nasal catarrh and catarrh of the throat, clearing the membranes of mucous and speedily overcoming the hawking, coughing and expectorating.

Any sufferer from catarrh will find Stuart's Catarrh Tablets will give immediate relief, and being in tablet form and pleasant to the taste are convenient and always ready for use, as they can be carried in the pocket and used at any time, as they contain no poisonous drugs, but only the cleansing antiseptic properties of Eucalyptus bark, Guaiacol, blood root and Hyd-

A Curious Election Dispute.

The delayed election for the Dominion House of Commons in Nipissing has resulted in the return of Mr. Mc-Cool, the Liberal candidate, without a contest. It will be remembered that, acting on the advice of the Secretary of State, who had charge of these matters, the returning officer on Nov. 7 postponed the day of nomination to a later date. This action, it was explained, was taken under a provision of the law enabling an election in such an unorganized district to be postponed if it were impossible to have the proclamation properly posted and the voters' lists ready. In this case it was found that no proper voters' list existed, except that in process of completion at the time of dissolution, and the election was postponed to enable a voters' list to be provided.

On nomination day, Nov. 7, both candidates-Mr. McCool, the Government nominee, and Mr. Klock, the late member-were ready with their deposits and papers, and the nomination would have proceeded then if it had not been postponed.

Now, we find that on the day finally fixed for the nomination, the Conservative nominee fails to appear. His avowed reason is that he ought to have been declared elected on Nov. 7. We fail to see why this should be, seeing that the postponement of the nomination was not the fault of his opponent, who, with his friends, was ready for the election, and desirous of going on with it. He was as ready as Mr. Klock to proceed. If the fault was anybody's, it was the returning officer's and those who advised him; but we cannot see how any court could, in equity, give the seat to Mr. Klock, unless he was prepared to enter the lists against Mr. McCool, and was shown to have the majority of the voters who went to the polls at his back. If irregularity there was in postponing the election, and upon that we do not profess to be authorities, it had the same effect on both candidates, and one of them had no more right to the seat than the other. Both had the same notification that the election was postponed, and both had the same chance to enter the lists in the delayed contest. Mr. Klock now plays the schoolboy, and refuses to enter the fight. That is his own lookout. We cannot believe that any court will decide that he is entitled to the seat. It may order another election, on the ground that the returning officer had no right to postpone the holding of the contest, even to provide a fair and up-to-date voters' list; but surely it could not decide that a man who had a fair opportunity, as Mr. Klock had this week, to test the opinion of the electors, and who, after all. ignored it, is entitled to get the seat. Cheap martyrdom is probably what Mr. Klock is posing for.

That Contemptible Cry.

The Literary Digest, that standard weekly review of current affairs, has an interesting article on the late Dominion general election. It points out that the Liberal campaign was made on its successful trade policy and the prosperity of the country since the accession of the Laurier Administration to power in 1896. The campaign, it explains, was comparatively quiet. But, adds this outside authority, "the Conservatives tried to put more life into the elections by raising the race issue. To the Englishspeaking voters Laurier was described as a Frenchman, and the French-Canadians were told that he is more cision from a higher court if the can-English than the English themselves. didates in question are wise. We had But this maneaver seems to have hurt thought that the ballot on which the the Conservatives much more than the vote was taken was so plain that no Liberals." Indeed it did, taking the elections as a whole; but in the Province of Ontario, where a persistently contradictory decisions of this kind, semi-secret race and religious cry was raised to aid in the election of Opposition candidates, there can be no doubt a result of the new ballot there is that it in some measure succeeded, still room for differences such as we But we doubt if ever it will be as suc- have noted. cessful again. The Literary Digest editor, reading such journals as the Toronto World and the Winnipeg Telegram, from which editorial quotations are given in support of its position, adds that "the Conservatives, though they are badly beaten, seem to be inelined to retain the race cry as a means for future agitation." That is no doubt or so the journals which were most persistent in their efforts to defeat Liberal candidates, because they had a leader of French origin, have strenuously striven to make their readers believe that those who now point out the contemptible means by which the Opposition strove to win votes are the real raisers of the race and religion cry. That is to say, the guilty person is not the law-breaker, but the individual who calls "Stop,

Our Municipal Policy-VIII.

8.—Parks and playgrounds should be established in every part of the city.

We have taken occasion more than once to call attention to this defect. It is as natural for a boy to play ball as it is to eat, and it is almost as

A few years ago when London's population was not so large as it is now, and when there were commons in every part of the city, this defect was not noticed. The commons were the playgrounds. Then there were ball clubs in every part of the city, and the boys gladly took advantage of their privileges.

At the present time nearly all these open spaces are built on, but it is not yet too late to obtain fairly good provision for both parks and playgrounds

With reference to our parks we have Victoria Park and Queen's Park, each good in its way. Victoria Park is in reality only a square, and no part of it has been reserved for recreation, and it is too late to point out the error made when the military grounds were sold, or when the "Old Orchard" was sold, or when the Union School grounds were sold. All these were errors. It remains to be seen what can be done to prevent errors in the future, and secure what may yet be secured.

The late Mayor Cowan advocated nish for that section a good park and of the injustice will now come. playgrounds.

The Parke and Gerry flats and the part belonging to the Beattle estate, been complete from reliable sources, in South London, would make a beau- is interesting as giving the rates cursouthern portion of the city. London imgmen in the trade centers named; has many beautiful trees, but few, if any, are equal in size and beauty to those on these flats. Then Tecumseh park should be made permanent and public, not reserved for professionals only; and one in the northern part of London West should be obtained.

No. 4 Ward should secure one or two blocks before they are built on. The northern portion of the city has had many good houses erected. A few more years will leave few available spaces. The possession of recreation grounds will make that section of the city more desirable, and the possession by the city of such parks and play grounds will not cause one house less to be built, or add one cent to the taxes.

London East has Queen's park. The most difficult part to provide for is No. 3 Ward. It is very common in this ward to see boys playing in the street. Part of the block bounded by Of the Vote Cast in Ontario on Waterloo, Horton, Coltorne and Simcoe streets might be got for the central portion; and perhaps in the southeasterly part of the ward another

Other points may be suggested. We regard parks and play grounds as very desirable, not only in point of health, but also as educators. It does all boys good to play ball, and to play matches; to learn to win and lose, and be men. There is no doubt that the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon race is largely due to their love of out door sports. Give that love for out door sports an opportunity to gratify its desires, and the result cannot fail to the number of Laberal members electbe productive of much good. More ed to serve the new partiament. The muscular, active and brainy men will grow out of our boys, to say nothing of a total vote of 377,552. In the disof the unadulterated pleasure to be derived from such games.

We hope to see a move in the direction indicated, and to see London within a year possess more parks and play grounds.

Ballot Marking.

In Manitoba a judge has counted all the marks opposite the top space in the new ballot paper, for the candidate whose name is nearest to it; but in Ontario three judges have thrown similar ballots into the "rejected" basket. In all three cases the Liberal candidate was the loser. There must be an authoritative devoter would be led to mark it in any way that could leave any room for but experience proves that though a vast improvement has taken place as

It is maintained that there are more Canadians and their descendants in Chicago than in any other city on the continent. Unfortunately for the Windy City, however, they have not generally become nuturalized, hiving to, in hope, apparently, that they will be able to resume residence in the Dothe case, though within the past week | minion. The opportunities for success, if they chaose to return, were never so plentiful as they are now.

> The Winnipeg Free Press bewalls the fact that the Conservative party no longer commands the support of the majority of young men in the country. There is good reason for the lamentation. The Liberal party, it cannot be denied, has proved the party of progress, and the youth of the land, it is fitting, have as their mette, "Onward and Upward."

Butter and Cheese.

We observe that while the quantity of cheese exported from Canada last year shows a substantial increase, there is a decrease in the exports of butter. This result is probably due to two causes. Cheese brought such a good price last year in Britain that there was a greater disposition to make and export it instead of butter. On the other hand, as householders Canadian cities well know, the price of butter all last year, throughout the Dominion was high, and exporters tell us that the price in our markets was such as to make it more profitable to sell at home than to sell abroad. It would be interesting to know how far this is the result of the increased demand for our dairy products arising from the phenomenal development of Canada's natural resources that has been in progress within the last four years.

Near I's End.

The perpetuation of the gerrymander in Ontario was what the Opposition worked for so hard in the recent election. The official returns show how much method there was in their fevenish anxiety to defeat the Government. They knew that with a fair distribution of the constituencies, such as will now be possible, under the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Liberals would now have over 50 and the Conservatives less than 40 at the the land at the north end of Talbot present time, reversing the conditions street, bordering on the river, as a which the infamous gerrymander park, and he was right. A Liberal Majority Outside of Toronto--How the Gerrymander Operated.

The Montreal Witness has the following tetter from i.s Otlawa correspondent:

the correspondent of the Witness has completed a calculation of the popular vole in the Province of Onbario on the tate Dominion elections, which will prove of deep interest. What will strike it e observer at first glance is the disproportion between the vote polied for Liberal candidates in the various electoral districts, and election returns show a choice of 55 Conservatives and of 36 Lane. als out tracts included in the accompanying table the conservative majority is only 3,286, but if it were the voice of the Province of Ontario as a whole U.at counted the Conservative plurality of nineteen seats would be small indeed. In other words, if a man's vote were of the same value wherever he cast it and if the inequalities existing in favor of the Conservative party by virtue of the gerryn anders of 1882 and 1892 were removed, it would put a very different face upon the outcome of the poli in Ontario.

The returns quoted are, for the most part, from the official figures, communicated to the clerk of the crown in chancery here. In instances the official count has not yet been handed in, use has been made of the figures given out as official by the returning officers. In the cases of Ottawa, Toronto West and Hamilton, where each elector marks his ballot for two candidates, account is taken of the highest for each of the party nominees. This seems the only fair way of getting at the popular vote.

Again, there are numbered on the government side Messrs. Rogers, Mc-Carthy and Stubbs, nominal independwho have given the Laurier Administration an independent support, and who were in each case opposed straight Conservative candidates. Mr. Richardson, who won over Dr. Landerkin in South Grey, is reckoned as a Conservative. The acclamation for Seagram (Conservative) in North Waterloo is paired off against the ac-clamation of Charleon (Liberal) in North Norfolk. The cases of South Lanark, in which there were two Conservatives running, and of South Huron, where two Libera's held the field to themselves, are also paired off.

If attention be directed to the resuft in the province outside of Toronwhere the Conservative plurality was 3.814, it will be discovered that the government has an actual majority of the popular vote, which will be larger when the figures are published for Algoma. The returns of the popular vote may not alter the fact that the Conservative party has a majority of nineteen members from Ontario, but it wipes out the dream of the Conser-vative party leaders that the government has met with the severest condemnation at the hands of the electors of Ontario. No more convincing proof could be adduced than these returns furnish of the soundness of the claim put forward by Sir Richard Cartwright and his colleagues that, but for the stifling of this province by the iniquitous gerrymander, the hiving of the Liberals into sections where Liberal sentiment was known to prevail,

IN SURGERY

By Dr. Alex. C. Wiener, Professor of Surgery in Harvey Medical College.

It is a strange coincidence that the year 1846 brought forward the two fundamental discoveries on rests modern surgery in all its diversified branches. On the 13th day of November the chemist, Charles Jackson, of Boston, submitted a communication to the Academy of Sciences of Paris on his discovery that human beings could be brought into complete anaesthesia and unconsciousness by inhaling the fumes of pure sulphuric ether. One year later Professor Simpson, of Edinburgh, introduced chloro-form into surgical practice for the same purpose. The war waged between the two rival remedies has lasted since their discovery, and as yet neither can claim a decided victory. Local anaesthesia. which wards off pain without disturbing the central nervous system is rapidly being developed; lately by successfully injecting a 2 to 4 per cent cocaine solution in the

Today the operating rooms all the world over are constructed on the same principles; the methods, which insure an absolute absence of microscopic germs in everything which directly or remotely comes in contact with the wound, are wonderfully uniform. The tender structure of delicate membrane which covers the inside of the abdominal eavity could not stand the inroads of strong chemicals, as carbolic acid, which Sir Joseph Lister first employed. The poisoning germs were then supposed to be omnipresent and to drop out of the at-mosphere into the open wound, where their infectious presence had to be counteracted by the liberal flow of strong chemical solutions, preferably tions for ulcorative weaknesses, and formany sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, and especially te mothers. The use of CUTICURA Ointment with CUTICURA SOAP will suggest itself in the severer cases.

Scientific bacteriology has long ago proven this theory to be erroneous. The principle today is established and borne out by our results that healthy tissue is free of germs and that infectious material must not be carried into the wound by instruments, dressings or the hands of the operator. The vitality of the peritoneum, not being diminished by chemicals, is the best help and friend of the surgeon. Thus general anaesthesia and asepsis in the first place have made possible the great work done for the re-

The amount of work done in this region and its success are even wondered at by physicians. The technique has reached great perfec-Surgery of the bones and joints has not received the attention it deserves. The best talent was attracted too much by the fascinations of abdominal work. The walking treatment of fractures of the limbs is coming rapidly to the front, for it is absolutely safe and abbreviates the time of bed rest to about ten days. The more successful removal of malignant tumors is another task reserved for the future. So the discovery of the X-ray by Professor Roentgen has been of incalculable value to surgery. CLOSING THEIR ENGAGEMENT. The Marks Bros. Company close their engagement at the London Opera House tonight, after a successful run of two weeks. The matinee performance this afternoon was crowded, and the production tonight of "The Celebrated Case" should attract a very large audience. An amusing and original feature of tonight's performe will be an amateur competition, in which ambitious local amateurs will be given an opportunity to show their musical, dramatic or elocutionary talents. A substantial prize wil be awarded the most proficient. The next attraction is the blograph, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next with new and superior views, and Owen A. Lieut.-Col. Buchan Gracefully Acknowledges the Hearty Reception of the Canadians.

London, Dec. 1 .- During a course of sightseeing in the metropolis today the members of the Royal Canadian contingent troops were received at the Mansion House by the ford mayor and corporation.

His lordship expressed the high honor he felt at entertaining a regiment "whose services to the empire were so great that they had been acknowledg. ed by the Queen's own lips, the highest honor which could be bestowed on returning troops."

Lieut.-Col. Buchan gracefully acknowledged the heartiness of the reception of the Canadians everywhere in England.

LOST HIS CHANCE

Interest in Kruger is on the Wane in France and Europe.

Paris. Dec. 1.-Kruger has recently asked a number of questions regarding public and political sentiment in America so far as the Boers are concerned, but will not go to the United States now. His plans for his future abode are unsettled, depending largely on the success of his efforts at securing intervention.

Kruger has almost lost his opportunity of rousing French feeling. Had he followed up his Marsellles speech with specific charges of barbarous conduct against the British and made a vigorous appeal to the warm-hearted sympathies of the French and continental nations, something more favorable might have happened. But he allowed himself to be persuaded to remain silent because of diplomatic fears of causing trouble. The interest aroused by the visit of Kruger to Europe is subsiding, with the inevitable result of a gradual waning of enthusiasm, as in all such events. The British Parliament meets on Tuesday, and Kruger's indictment, including documents compromising prominent English statesmen in the Jameson conspiracy, ought to have been launched on his arrival in Paris to have created the maximum effect. For this Oom Paul's timid European advisers are to blame.

TREKKING AGAIN

Past President Odm Paul Kruger Leaves Paris for Cologne.

Paris, Dec. 1.-Mr. Kruger left the Hotel Scribe at 1:10 p.m. today in a closed carriage, surrounded by ron of mounted municipal guards. The Boer statesman was cheered as he drove away, swinging his hat from the landau window in reply. The special ed for Cologne at 1:40 p.m.

The Favored Shrub of Christmastime.

However welcome Christmas may be there is always a certain amount of regret as it approaches, and although it comes so surely, people always find it hard to believe that the happy Yuletide season, with its gifts, its associations, its joys, is once more at hand. There is one custom that is quickly growing in popularity in this country, although for centuries it has held sway in the old lands, the use of holly in decorating the house on the day merry old Santa Claus makes his stealtry visus among the homes of the

how many of those now use the prickly shrub, with its dark green leaves and scarlet berries, can believe that only twenty years ago the holly was unknown in Canaga. But the folks from the old land wanted it. from their entiest dalldhood they were accustomed to see the red berry adorning ceiling and wall, it was cheasined as one of the loved remembrances of the home across the sea. So they desired it here, and when they could not glow it in Canada, because of the hard frost, the loogs and swamps of Delaware and Virginia were scoured to satisfy their demands. These were moderate at first. Twenty years ago one case sufficed, sixteen cubic feet: but so necessary is it now considered at Christmastime that only the other day three lorries could be seen in front Darch & Hunter's store, bearing one hundred and twenty-five cases of the prickly plant.

The trace has grown more rapidly in Canada than in the United States in comparison with the population, fact which may be accounted for by the closer connection that exists between our Dominion and the old land. M. Alions of dollars are now invested in the holly business. Thousands of people in Delaware and Varginia make their living in gathering, packing and shipping it.

Old land people can tell many interesting tales about the holly in explaining the hold that it has upon their affections. Authorities tell us that the custom of employing holly for decora-tive purposes is of considerable antiquity, and that it is a survival of an old Teutonic custom of hanging the interior of dwellings with evergreens as a refuge for sylvan spirits from the inclementy of the weather. A border proverb defines an habitual story-teller that "lees never but when the hollen is green." Several popular superstitions exist with respect to holly. In the county of Rutland it is deemed unlucky to introduce it into a house before Christmas Eve. Holly that has adorned churches at that much esteemed and cherished in Worcestershire and Herefordshire, the possession of a small branch berries being supposed to bring a lucky year; and in Germany it was believed consecrated twigs of the plant hung over, a door are a protection against thunder. In some English rural districts the prickly and nonprickly kinds are distinguished as "he' and "she" holly, and in Derbyshire the tradition obtains that according as the holly brought into the house at Christmas is smooth or rough, the wife or the husband will be master.

The Young Grow Old Before Their Time.

When youth shows infirmity, when old age creeps in before its time, when the days that should be the best of manhood and womanhood are burdened with aches, pain and weakness, we know that the nervous system is wearing out and that there is imminent danger of nervous prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

How we admire the old in years—crowned with silvered hair, yet erect in stature, faculties retained with vigor necessary to the declining years-cheerful, bright, grand old age. How lamentable is youthful infirmity, middleaged enfeeblement, parting of the ways too soon, told by restlessness, starting up violently during sleep, morning languor, tired, fagged, worn-out; trembling limbs, worried brain, mind aimless and depressed.

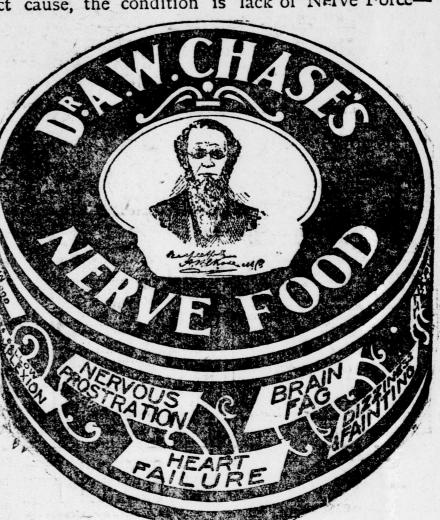

Whatever the indirect cause, the condition is lack of Nerve Force-

HOCKEY. THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Today's annual meeting promises to be a most interesting gathering. The whole constitution has been revised, and several important amendments will be considered. A proposal will be submitted to the meeting that the clubs be divided into districts and each district be allowed to draw up its own schedule for the first round.

O. H. A. EXECUTIVE MEETS. A meeting of the executive committee of the Ontario Hockey Association was held last night at Toronto to arrange the business to come before the annual meeting today. The consideration of the proposed amendments to the constitution and playing rules was the first business taken up. "Hookey" Dixon, who was dropped from the ranks on the charge of professional-ism, may be reinstated. W. J. Barber, of the Gueba Nationals, expelled for professionalism, was reinstated. The evidence he produced, if presented when he was charged with professionalism, would have cleared him. The association has adopted official colors -red, green and gold.

BASEBALL.

New York, Dec. 1.—The annual meeting of the National League and American Associaton of Baseball Clubs will be held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on Dec. 11, and it is expected that considerable business will be transacted. The magnates will be called up to adjust a few important matters to stave off the impending baseball war. The first of these is the proposition of the American League for some of the territory the National League at present occupies, by reason of the reduction of the league last year. The cities the American body wants are Baltimore, Washington and Cleveland. It is expected that National League magnates will allow the new league these cities, as they are valueless to It is believed the American League is a strong body, and that if the major body can work in harmony with it a revival of the national game will fol-low the union. The Players' Associa-tion, which was formed last summer, wants some consideration from the big league, too. The players, through will ask that some changes be made in next season's contracts. They want the reserve rule modified so that a club cannot reserve a player for a longer period than three years, and also demand that the 'farming out" system be abolished.

FOUR DROWNED

Out of Eighteen Men Who Were Crossing Spokane River.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 1 .- Four lives were lost here last night by the cap-sizing of a ferryboat in the Spokane River. The ferry is about two miles down the river. It was crossing the stream with eighteen workmen, who had ended their day's work in a construction camp near the Great Northern's new bridge. The men crowded to the bow, and it was forced under the swift current and the boat was swamped. All the men were thrown into the water. Five swam to shore and the others climbed on the capsized boat. The waves ran high and washed four of them off to be drowned. The dead: L. Simons (colored), Jack Lovatt, and

DARING RIDE

Bicyclist Passed Over the Back of a Crouching Catamount.

Riding a bicycle over the back of a crouching catamount is rather more exciting than shooting the chutes. Rogerson Clark, of Oriole, Pa., says as much, and Clark wouldn't go seventeen feet out of his way to see a whole menagerie full of such commonplace creatures. Clark is an enthusiastic wheelman, and he takes long rides into the hills. On a recent moonlit night he was coming down a slope toward the mill dam, near which is a favorite watering place for the wild things of the forests. Suddenly he was startled by the sharp, walling cry of a catamount. He mimicked it, and in a flash the dark creature leaped into the moonlit road ahead of him and crouched sul-

Going down the hill at a brisk pace Clark had only a short second to consider. He set his weight against the pedals and drove at the long, lithe figure in the road.

Clark was thrown high into the air by the impact, and a scream of pain from the panther told that the creature, too, had been hurt. But beast and rider were on their feet in a moment, and when Clark, following his bluff, sprang at the creature, the catamount, snarling, jumped into stream and swam to the woods on the other side.

These all went to make up a British nation. In their own beloved Scotland the bitterest intolerance had prevailed. As Barrie represents one of his facters in "The Little Minister" saying, "Sooner than hae a U. P. minister in an auld licht poopit, I'd burn in hell-fire for-ever." And yet in a land where such intolerance had prevailed, just a few weeks ago two great churches had become one, and Canada had shown them the way to such a union. And these men who did honor to us in the hour of danger, who, when the battle thundered, and the red flame of death smote their evehalls, held their place undaunted. What made them strong but the memory of the Canadian home, and the loving hearts that held them in tenderest affection. (Applause.) Let all stand together in the great work that the future has laid upon us. We all had prejudices, and he who said that he had not was liar or fool, but let them forget these in the common national sentiment, and then they might hope when another century had run its course that Canada would have a front place among the nations of the earth, and would write her name large on the roll of the glory of the peoples. (Continued applause.)

D. C. Fraser, M. P.

"The Scot away from Scotland," was one of the most enthusiastically honored toasts of the evening. After the appliause which followed Mr. J. W. poses, said the speaker, and the fusion McIntosh's singing of "Scots Wha of races in Canada is showing the Hae" had subsided, Duncan C. Fraser, M.P., the genial giant of Guysboro, N.S., rose to reply. For over half an hour he moved his hearers to laughter or held them thrilled, by his eloquence. He remarked humorously that he had come from New Scotland, and judging by the quality of the speaking so far, the gathering would soon learn that there was one Scot away from home unnecessarily. To bring a man all the way from Nova Scotia to reply to a toast when there was such talent available here was almost a waste of energy quite foreign to the Scotch na-The theme assigned to him, said ture. Mr. Fraser, was "The Scotchman Away From Home," but the term was somewhat of a misnomer. He was the third in descent since his forefathers had left the old shores of Scotland, yet he did not consider that he was away from Scotland yet. In treating his subject, should he tell them of the Queen of Morocco-a Scotchwoman; of the admiral of the Chinese navy-a Scotchman? of the high officials in Turkey Russia and other countries-Scotchmen? of the Scotchmen all over the world who stay by their job and

He would speak, he said, of the riches with which Scotland dowers her sons before they leave her shores. When the Englishman and the Irishman leave their native lands to seek their fortunes, they take with them memories of their country, but the Scotchman takes with him a better capital. He takes with him four precious jewels, more valuable to him wherever he goes than a bank account.

The first of these jewels is a robust constitution. Here the speaker was interrupted by shouts of laughter and cries of "Look at him." You should remember, he answered, that I am the third in descent from a native Scotchman, and besides 1 am the small boy of the family. The Scotchmen fed well on plain food, and this gives him the nerves, the muscle and the brain that helped him to win success. Why can we not go back to common-sense methods of living as did our forefathers? They lived and dealt with nature, and they acquired the constitution which enabled them to endure and overcome the difficulties and trials of new coun-to think for himself. One thing that cers and congratulated them upon the was taught in the old days in Scot- success of the annual supper. land not taught now, even in the parochial schools, is the fact that each child was a thinking entity, to be dealt with as an individual and not in the mass. The child was taught to act and think in his own proper place, and was supposed to be ready to give his own individual opinion, formed on individual conviction, because it was held that some day he would be called up to give an account, not only of each act, but of each thought. The third jewel possessed by every Scolchman was his adaptability for commerce in its larger sense, meaning a nation. The young men of today need to learn that they should apply them-selves to the work immediately before them if they would hope to attain to success on higher levels. The pioneer Scotchman was not ashamed of any sort of work, but he was ashamed to be a loafer or an idler. Any work was considered nobler than idleness. The speaker feared the present generation is losing this characteristic of its forefathers. The pioneer Scotchman's aim was not the mere obtaining of by any meians, but the serving of promotion, and promotion 11. Honest work brought its best returns in Character, and not in money.

The Scotchman's fourth jewel was a fervid attachment to his native land, that made him a better citizen of his adopted country. It was the possession of qualities like these that helped in the building up of Canada into what it is today, and these things constitute the foundation of character-building, and the building of nations.

The speaker said that as a child he knew the geography of Scotland-its strathspeys and hills better than those of Canada, yet he loved the hills and mountains and lakes of Canada better, and the maple was a dearer tree to him than all the trees of Scotland. Providence had placed him here to live his life, and the spirit which he had inherited from his forefathers had led him to endeavor to live here as they had lived there. The characteristics of the land from which they sprang, the thrift and health of its sons, had enabled the Scotch to hold their own wherever they had gone. In this Dominion, said Mr. Fraser, we were all one in a way which some of the people have yet to learn. Out of the many elements of which the nation is made up, a better life is being evolved. He believed firmly in pura way of forgetting the difficulties and race antipathies that have so long environed them. The world over Scotchmen are found doing their duty, whether as soldiers, as sailors, or in any walk of life. Let all hold fast to the traditions of their forefathers and follow in their footsteps, laying deeper the foundations of individual character and making the land great one hundred years hence, let them who gather to do honor to St. Andrew's Day say of those gathered now that they did their duty and left Canada in a better position for its own future and for the world. In conclusion Mr. Fraser said that it was a long way from Nova Scotia to London, yet he would willingly and cheerfully come to enjoy the luxury of being present.

Sister Societies.

The toast to "Sister Societies" was honored fervently, and the company sang their praises as folly good fellows. Mr. E. T. Essery, president of street. St. George's Society, replied on behalf of that organization. His speech was characterized by all the vigor and, ability that has made Mr. Essery famous as an after-dinner speaker. He thanked them, he said, for asking him to reply to the toast. "We have heard songs tonight that warmed the heart's blood of Englishmen and Irishmen and Scotchmen alike," he said, and added: "We have had glorious banquets in the past, but they were not equal to this tonight." He paid a sincere tribute to the societies for the excellent work in which they were vying with each other.

Mr. John Stevely replied for the Irish

Benevolent Society, in the unavoidable absence of President Forrestal, and he fairly carried his audience along with him in one of the most eloquent, even if one of the shortest, speeches of the evening. With Celtic ardor he described the aims and achievements of the Irish, and the splendid results that had come through the happy intermingling of Scotch and Irish and English qualities. The banquet was ended by singing "God Save the Queen," and with looked arms, "Auld Lang Syne." The gen-

The duties of chairman for the evening fell upon Mr. A. B. Cox, and well he filled them, hustling the programme through without delay. The opening march of the tramps caused no end of merriment. Music was supplied for this grand march by Frank Gruber, and it soon developed into a ragtime cakewallk. The first prize for the most realistic tramp fell to Charley Johns, the popular goal-keeper of London's champion hockey team. The prize was a box of 50 cigars. Charley tells numerous thrilling stories of dodging stray dogs and policemen on the way to the hall. Jim Fleming came in a close second and received a hundsome case pipe. Police Magistrate Love, the official judge, had to leave early in the evening, and his powers were eguted to Mr. W. H. Edgecombe, ho filled the position very satisfactorily. Songs by Mesers. When Friedhelm wishes he thunders like a Resential or whispers like a Sauer, but Friedheim only wishes upon rare occasions, and then the brilliancy and force of his virtuosity stand out from the background of communence and repression like a crimson flame against a winter sky.

Gazette, Montreal

The lavish harmony which impregnates the inborn powers of the instrument, as the living touch of Friedhe m's finger-tips roam over the speaking keys, convulsing them at will with spasms like the strife between the surging surf and thundering raucus under-roar which throbs all day beneath the sea-girt precipice, or fusing gentle shades of feeting, which light and loom as fleetly as do moods along the margin of the mind, takes hold of the whole being and transforms it.

Free Press, Ottawa.

His rendition of Mendelssohn's Song Without Words was exquisite. It was in this selection that his expression and tone-coloring were exhibited to their best. The audience was perfectly still, and when he finished the applause was so great and prolonged that he was compelled to respond to an encore, and rendered it a second time. At the close his rendition of Rhapsodie No. 6, by Liszt, was also encored, and, despite the fact that he had played almost continuously for two hours, he responded.

Citizen, Ottawa.

Words fail to take to themselves the beauty, the life, the meaning even of tonal efforts and effects when wrought from a master mind by a master mind. It goes without utterance that Friedheim, on a return visit to Ottawa, will be greeted by all who had the privilege and preasure of sitting in his presence and within range of his magic touch last evening.

His Triumphant Canadian Tournee.

HE great musical event of the closing days of the old century has been the wonderfully successful triumphant tournee of Friedheim, the renowned Russian pianist, which within the month has taken in Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto, London, and will close with Winnipeg on December 4.

Large and cultured audiences greeted the great pianist at every point. At Ottawa Lady Minto, at the close of the recital, personally congratulated Friedheim on his brilliant success.

Ye Old Firme of Heintzman & Co.

It is worthy of note that Fried-heim introduced into his programme four numbers that have probably never been played here before by a foreign artist. These were four of the Liszt Transcription Paganini's Violin Caprices. The executive complications of these four numbers appeared to present no difficulty to Friedheim, who played them with great technical fluency and with some beautiful must not tong and variabeautiful muances of tone and varia-tions of light and shade.

The Friedheim programme was notable for the enormous difficulty of the numbers selected, which only his pro-digious technique enables him to accomplish. That he succeeded to the satisfaction of the audience there was no doubt. Notwithstanding the ex-acting demands of special Rubenstein and Liszt numbers, the audience was merciless and demanded more.

Spectator, Hamilton.

Friedheim is musically an intellectual giant, who, while possessing the power to produce tremendous tonal effects, can as readily present the daintiest and most zephyr-like touches. So charmed was the audi-ence with the Mendelssohn song it warmly encored the planist, and he repeated the number.

News, London.

Friedheim has hardly a peer as an exponent of faultless technique. His exquisite delicacy of touch and strong wrist movement blend perfectly as he draws from the instrument the most delicate shades of expression and the heaviest of sonorous effects.

Free Press, London

Friedheim is second probably only to Paderewski in the marvels of his exquisite technique and the perfec-tion of cleanliness of polyphonic enumciation and balance, which is the tri-umph of part reading. In the Liszt and Rubenstein numbers the player let loose the resources of his technique and dazzled his hearers with a display of wenderful powers, all their mystery and witchery being revealed with the wealth of skill in coloring and phrasing which is the especial claim of Friedheim's art.

How common the expression is, "I have never been well since I had the Grip." How often you hear it, because it's true, once you get the Grip your system is filled with germs, and their favorite place of attack is the kidneys. Then beware when they cause backache

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 20, 1900. Arnold Chemical Company, Toronto,

Dear Sirs,-I had la Grippe last December, and was confined to my bed for ten days, and for six weeks following I felt out of sorts, and was distressed by a hacking cough that seemed much worse just as I was retiring at night, and it would keep me awake for hours. I lost weight and felt generally used up. I saw Dr. Arnold's Toxin Pills advertised and began taking them, and it was the most satisfactory treatment I ever had. If these germs ever attack me again, I know where to go to get relief. Hoping this slight testimonial may be of service to some fellow-sufferer from the after effects of la Grippe germs, I remain,

QUARTERLY MEETING

Of the Deanery of Middlesex Lay Workers' and Sunday School Association.

The quarterly meeting of Middlesex

Lay Workers' and Sunday School Association was held in St. James' Sunday school, South London, yesterday afternoon and evening. His lordship the bishop held a quiet hour for the clergy from 11 to 12, when 21 clergy of the deanery were present. The bishop spoke on the five dispensations with his accustomed eloquence and fervor, and received the hearty thanks of those present and their congratulations upon the anniversary of his consecra-tion to the episcopate. The Holy Communion was celebrated at the close At 3 p.m. the convention opened, with the rural dean, Rev. Canon Smith, in the chair, having with him Mr. C. H. Armitage, vice-president, and Rev. G. B. Sage, secretary, as well as the rector, Archdeacon Davis. Deanery business and reports occupied some time, after which Rev. A. L. Beverly, of Forest, contributed a paper on "Lay Help," which was thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The discussion was opened by Dr. Crawford in an earnest address, followed by several others. Mr. R. B. McElheran gave an address on "What Constitutes a Good Lesson," giving many useful and practical hints. Canon Richardson opened discussion with well timed remarks, and a number of others followed. At 6 o'clock adjournment was made to the adjoining room, where well laden tables, supplied with abundance of good things by the teachers of St. James', were waiting attention. In the evening there were addresses by Mr. W. Hart and others, followed an address by Mr. James Sadleir, of Strathroy, on "Encouragements to Teachers," giving helpful suggestions. Mr. C. H. Armitage opened the discussion which followed, by forceful gave a paper on "How to Retain Older Scholars," treating his subject in a way which gave satisfaction to the audience. He was followed by Messrs. Beattie and Pope, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Thorpe, Miss Lynch and others. The usual vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies of St. James' and those reading papers.

A POPULAR APPOINTMENT.

Lord Kitchener Has Supreme Control in South Africa.

His Promotion as Lieutenant-General Approved by Her Majesty---Return of Lord Roberts and Retirement of Lord Wolseley---Uneasy Feeling at Cape Town.

London, Nov. 29. - The war office from the beginning of anything which announces this evening that Lord Roberts handed over the command of the British troops in South Africa yesterday to Lord Kitchener. It is further announced that the Queen approves Lord Kitchener's promotion to lieutenant-general, with the rank of general while in command in South has been unable up to the present to

The Evening Sun welcomes the assumption of command by Lord Kitchener. It says Lord Roberts is too much of a humanitarian for the work required in South Africa.

LORD ROBERTS' RETURN. Durban, Natal, Nov. 30.-Lord Roberts is due to arrive at Pietermaritzburg, Dec. 4, and should arrive here

Dec. 6.

THREE IMPORTANT EVENTS. London, Saturday, Dec. 1-4:30 a.m.-The retirement of Lord Wolseley, the return of Lord Roberts and the appointment of Lord Kitchener to the supreme command, occuring as they do simultaneously, are keenly discussed. Lespite some misgivings hearty approval is given of Lord Kitchener's appointment. It is fell that if anyone can clear up matters in South Africa, he is the man; and it is readily admitted that the task before him, though of a different kind, is almost as difficult as that which faced Lord Roberts ten months ago, and is calculated to give fullest' scope to Klitchener's talents as an organizer. The Morning Post hints broadly that the recent demand of Lord Roberts for reinforcements has not been compiled with, and insists that Lord Kitchener's must not be tied by any lack of men or horses. It says if reinforcements are withheld or delayed, Lord Kitchener may be paralyzed, with what consequences to the empire no one can foresee. From thirty thousand to fifty thousand men are required. All the editorials dwell with considerable emotion on the nation's debt of gratitude to Lord Roberts, who has successfully piloted through one of the darkest hours of our history.

NEGOTIATIONS PROPOSED. London, Dec. 1.-The Statist today proposes that the government should begin negotiations with Commandant-Gen. Botha and Gen. Dewet to bring the war to a close. As the Boer leaders might misunderstand the motive of an overture from the military authorities, the paper suggests that the highest civil authority in South Africa should begin negotiations—if not Sir A. Milner, then the chief justice of Cape Colony, or even Mr. Hoffmeyer. This great financial journal leads up to its proposal by an analysis of the situation in South Africa, and says: are losing in every way-losing in prestige and losing in trade. We are seeing our South African possessions plunged into greater and greater distress, and the opinion is gaining ground abroad that we are incapable of bringing the struggle to a satisfactory termination." Military incompetence is alleged, and the Statist avers that military harshness should be avoided and the Boers be conciliated. If men like Botha and Dewet voluntarily surrender and bind themselves not to act against us in the future, the Statist says, "is there any good reason why a promise should not be given not to send them out of the country? Mr. J. B. Robinson suggests that Botha and Dewet should be invited to take seats in the legislative council that will be established. The suggestion is worthy of approval. OOM PAUL. Paris, Nov. 30 .- Senator Fabre called on Mr. Kruger during the day and presented him with a copy of his "Life of Washington," dedicated as follows: The grand old man, who, by his struggles and persistency, recalls Washington, and to whom France has given the same enthusiastic welcome as offered to Franklin, regretting she co-operate in the foundation of the United States of South Africa, as she co-operated in the foundation of the United States of America."

THE BELL WILL TOLL. Mr. Kruger late this afternoon visited M. Deschanel, president of the Chamber of Deputies, remaining with him ten minutes. M. Deschanel returned the call. The clergy of the Church of the Sacred Heart of Montmare will toll tomorrow at the moment of Mr. Kruger's departure, the famous Savoyarde, the second largest bell in the world, in memory of the Frenchmen who died in the Transvaal.

GERMANS ARE CAUTIOUS. Berlin, Nov. 30.-The semi-official statement that Mr. Kruger is coming here is discussed cautiously. It is regarded as premature to predict that Emperor William will receive him. There is no appreciable sign of a public demonstration, and some of the papers warn the public to beware of a policy of sentiment, pointing out that Germany is not in a position to change the fate of the Transvaal, and deprecating manifestations which are likely to clash with the government's policy.

BOERS LOST HEAVILY. London, Nov. 30.-A dispatch dated

Orange River, Nov. 29, says: The Herzog commando, 500 strong, holding a splendid position on a range of precipitous kopjes, near the village of Luchoff, completely barring the British advance, attacked Col. Henry Hamilton Settle's column on Tuesday morning. After five hours hard fighting the Boers were expedded from the position, losing heavily. The British losses were small, owing to the fact that the British adopted Boer methods of taking cover. Col. Settle occupied Luchoff yesterday (Wednesday). The Boer commander openly boasted in the village of having shot 200 natives for sympathizing with the British.

Lord Roberts has left Johannesburg for Durban and is expected to arrive there soon and to remain in Cape Town for a few days.

SENDING WOMEN AWAY. London, Nov. 30 .- A Standerton, come indications of the uneasiness Transval, dispatch, dated Nov. 27, felt. Military posts throughout says: Seventy Boer women and childwhose husbands and fathers are still fighting, have been deported to Pietermaritzburg, Natal.

DEMISE OF OSCAR WILDE

His Own Hand.

The Porte Shows No Desire to Settle the Missionary Claims of the United States.

Dublin, Dec. 1.-A dispatch to the Evening Mail from Paris, says Oscar Wilde is dead. The dispatch adds that he expired in an obscure house in the Latin Quarter from meningitis, and was received in the Catholic Church on his deathbed. Oscar Wilde, who was about 45 years of age; was born in Dublin, and was the son of Wm. Mills Wilde, an eccentrio surgeon-dentist, who had been termed the "crazy doctor." Dr. Wilde was knighted for curing a defect in the eyesight of a member of the family of one of the viceroys. Lady Wilde, Oscar Wilde's mother, wrote poetry over the signature of "Speranza." Oscar was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and at Oxford. He obtained the Greek medal in 1874 and the Newdigate prize for a poem in 1878. In 1879 went to London, and soon afterwards originated the so-called "aesthetic craze," which was burlesqued by

W. S. Gilbert, in "Patience. Wilde visited the United States later on, and lectured on "The usefulness of the useful," "The soulfulness of soul, and" The worthlessness of worth." When he returned to Europe his success was even greater than before, and he married a beautiful woman, who bore him two sons. He had reached the zenith of his fame in 1894. Five of his plays were being acted in London theaters at one time, and his poems and books were read everywhere. Then came startling disclosures. He was convicted of a nameless crime, and all those who had known him tried to blot his name from their memory from their minds forever. After his release from prison he became an outcast in France and in Italy, living upon the bounty of a few friends. Quite recent-ly a play produced in London, "Mr. and Mrs. Daventry," in which Mrs. Patrick Campbell is the star, is said to have been the work of Oscar Wilde. although his name is not attached to it. BIG VERDICT. London, Nov. 30 .- In the sheriff's court today the London and West. minster Contract Corporation was awarded £66,400 against Joseph Hamilton Brotherton, formerly an American Methodist minister. It appears that Brotherton and an alleged con-federate, J. C. Kemp Vanee, came to England in 1895 and promoted a number of doubtful mining companies. They then formed the Contract Corporation, inducing Sir James Linton and other men of importance to act as directors. Brotherton, it is stated in the testimony, next sold shares in these companies to the Contract Corporation for £55,000, and, it is claimed, he and Vanee decamped to America with the loot. Counsel said the papers in the case were served on Brotherton in America, where he was found living

THE CZAR'S ILLNESS. St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—Information referring to the czar's health. His majesty has made such genuine improvement that his condition seems to promise certain recovery.

The London Daily News publishes the following dispatch from Yalta: A bacterial examination showed that Emperor Nicholas was suffering from Crimean typhus. The orisis was reached Sunday. But throughout the day he never lost consciousness or became delirious. The empress herself has done all the nursing. The czar is now inclined to occupy himself with business affairs. As soon as possible he will be removed to the Tzarskoe Zelo, in order to avoid the malarial season at Livadia.

DUCKED A MORMON.

Vienna, Dec. 1.-Advices received from Temesvar, South Hungary, report that two Mormon emissaries from Salt Lake City, Utah, were delivering lectures there when the audience stormed the platform and ejected the pair. One of them was compelled to run the gaunulet of 300 irate citizens armed with sticks, straps or knotted cords and shod with hoonafied shoes. He was afterwards stripped to the waist and thrashed by half a dozen matrons of Temesvar. The second Mormon was ducked in a horse pond, Finally the two elders were rescued by the police. The minister of the interior has prohibited further Mormon attempts to proselyte, as being a danger to the well-being of the state. KILLED NINE MEN.

Weekly Summary of the Situation by Bradstreet's and Dun & Co.'s Review.

New York, Dec. 1. - Bradstreet's weekly review says: Unsettled weather and holidays are a drawback to redepartment to prevent or interfere with any arrangement that the Turkish government may enter into with American shipbuilders and individual still a most satisfactory one, and the claimants. The point is, after all, to iron and steel, coal, boot and shoe, have the claims paid. nardware and humber trades are conspicuously well situated. The industrial situation is also deserving of note, because of the striking absence of complaint as to idieness or as to pending of future labor troubles. Bank chearings, while naturally smaller than those of last week, are considerably ahead of last year. The fact that the slight gains showed over last year's railroad earnings returns are skill being maintained is an added proof that trade as a whole is being conducted on a targe scale. The feature in the grain market this week was the carrying to a successful conclusion of the November corn corner in Chicago. Following the private settlement of the shorts, at a basis of 50 cents a bushel, came a group to al cents. At New York the infinence of this corner—one of the few successful corn corners on record was to advance proces slightly, owing targely to the deflection of supplies. Wheat has been irregular, but with the undertone bearish, because of large supplies and discouraged speculative liquidation. Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 2,-497,880 bushels, against 3,827,296 bush-els last week, 3,639,400 bushels in the corrersponding week of 1899, 7,483,959 received through private sources fully bushels in 1898, 6,499,960 bushels in 1896 confirms the recent favorable bulletids and 3,653,164 bushels in 1896. Corn exand 3,653,164 bushels in 1896. Corn exports for the week aggregate 4,801,030 bushels, against 5,235,568 bushels last week, 4,441,514 bushels in this week a year ago, 4,723,988 bushels in 1898, 4,-585,806 bushels in 1897 and 1,768,102 bushels in 1896. Fallbures for the week number 184, as against 215 last week, 177 in this week a year ago, 212 in 1898, 250 in 1897, and 315 in 1896. DUN & CO.

Commercial failures in November were 850 in number, and $12,300,316 in amount of hialoihities, against 782 in October for $0,072,791, and 886 in November last, when liabilides were only $8,-046,848. Manufacturing defaults were but 193 in number and $3,883,165 in amount, the bulk of the mortality occurring in trading concerns, of which 617 failed for $7,506,358. There were forty other commercial fainures, with liabilities of $910,793. . Four banking and financial companies defaulted for $823,000. Holiday retail trade starts off well. There is a rise in boots and shoes, which of all the great industries has been slowest to conform to the general improvement. The drygoods trade shows business expanding, but irregularly and slowly. Cotton goods show the best results, fine brown sheetings advancing from 6c to 6.25c, bleached shirtings from 7.41c to 7.62c, and brown sheetings from 5c to 5.12e.

Good news combinues to come from iron and steel sections. The London and Port Stanley road, running from London to Port Stanley, on Lake Erie, a distance of 24 miles, was leased on Jan. 1, 1894, for a term of twenty years, and in August, 1898, the Erie and Huron Radiway, running from Sarnia to Rond Eau, also (n Lake Erie, a distance of 74 miles, was pur-This latter acquisition connected with the Walkerville road at Blenheim, but there was a gap of 43 miles between the terminus of the Walkerville road at Ridgetown and St. Thomas, the nearest intersecting point of the London and Port Stanley road. It is this gap which the company is filling up now. When it is completed the total length of the road will be

225 miles. But the Lake Erie road is important, not so much from its actual mileage as its connections. In January. 1899, the car ferry Shenango No. 1 was leased by the company, and is now running steadily between Port Stanley and Conneaut, O., where connection is made with the Pittsburg, Bessemer and Lake Erie road. This ferry also runs between Rond Eau and Conneaut. By this route, coal, coke, iron and other minerals from the Pittsburg district are transported into Canada, and the car ferry has all the business it can handle. A large portion of the fuel used by the Grand Trunk and Michlgan Central in Canada is brought by this route. The Lake Erie Navigation Company's steamer Urania plies between Cleveland on the one side and Port Stanley and Rond Eau on the other, and makes regular connections during the summer.

The Lake Erie and Detroit River road owns the car ferry International, now lying at Sarnia, where a slipdock been constructed, and when the Pere Marquette road has a slipdock constructed on its side of the river connections will be made with all route between Pittsburg, Michigan points and the west by railway, car ferry and steamship lines.

The principal items of traffic, outside of coal, coke and iron, are the products of the farm and forest. The head offices and workshops are at Walkerville, and the principal owners of the road are the Walkers, through whose enterprise it was started.

A Plain Statement of why "Shiloh" Cures Consumption.

The mistake generally made in treating lung diseases is in treating the effects of the disease instead of the disease itself. Consumption is in the blood and the lungs are the natural organs for throwing off the poison. It is quite useless to merely stop the coughing or even to heal the lungs while the disease remains in the system because the relief is only temporary. Shiloh's Consumption Cure does allay the coughing and sooth the irritated surfaces of the lungs, but it cures consumption because it gives to the blood the power to destroy and throw off the germs.

"Shiloh" is sold on the express condition that you may have your money back if it fails to produce satisfactory results. You can get " Shiloh " wherever med ... ie is sold. In Canada and United States 25c , 5oc, and $1.00 a bottle. Great Britain 15/2d, 25/3d aud

PRO AND CON

The United States Factory as an Element in Social Life.

Recent criminal acts in Paterson, N. J. have had the effect of bringing into prominence some of the blackest features of life in factory towns. The reverse side of the picture is presented by the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, chief of the government bureau of labor statistics, in a recent paper read by him before the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association in Washington. He protests against the idea that "the factory creates ignorance, vice, and low tendencies." "It does bring together a large body of comparatively ignorant persons," he says; "it congregates these persons into one community, and hence the results of ignorance and of lower standards of ignorance and of lower standards. norance and of lower standards of life become clearly apparent because of the concentration. Before the concentration, the ignorance existed precisely the same, but was diffused and hence not apparent." He continues:

"We hear a great deal about the sweating system, and the popular idea is that the sweating system is the product of modern industrial conditions. The fact is, that it is a remnant of the old industrial system. Just as fast as the sweatshops are develop-ed into the factory and brought under the laws which relate to factory reg-utation, just so rapidly is the sweat-ing system being eliminated. The cure is to make of the sweatshop the factory. The social life of sweaters can be improved only by lifting them to the grade of factory oper-

"We sometimes hear of the immorthe factory operative no doubt that immorality exists among factory operatives, the same as it exists in Fifth avenue, and everywhere e'se on earth where men and women are found, but I do not believe that it exists in any greater proportion in the factory than in any other walk of life. On the other hand, I believe that immoral lives are less frequent among the factory population than among any other class in the community, and investigations, and extensive ones at that, in this country and abroad teach the truth of this assertion. The change that the factory breeds immorality among women is not true, and can not be sustained by any facts that have ever been collected.'

Colonel Wright claims that the factory in this country has ever been a civilizing influence among the operatives, "reaching down to the lower strata of society and lifting them up to a higher standard." While it may true that the factory operatives of today do not compare, in physique and grace, suffering, misery and privations due to my husband's drinking habits. Hear-ing of your marvelous remedy for the cure of drunkenness, which I could give my husband secretly. I decided to try it. I procured a package and mixed it in his food and coffee, and, as the remedy was odorless and tasteless, he did not know what it was that so quickly relieved his craving for liquor. He soon began to pick up flesh, his appetite for solid food returned, he stuck to his work regularly, and we now have a happy home. After he was completely cared I told him what I had done, when he acknowledged that it had been his saving, as he had not the resolution to break off of his own accord. I heartily advise all women afflicted as I was to give your remedy a trial."

intelligence, with the New England workers of 50 years ago, the change is largely due to the character of immigration. When the American and English girls were forced out of the factories, they were crowded not downward, but into higher callings, for "they became wives of foremen and superintendents, teachers in the comsuperintendents, teachers in the com-mon schools, clerks in stores and counting-rooms, and lost nothing whatever by their life and services in the factory." The Irish girls who took their places were in turn displaced by French-Canadians, Swedes, Greeks, etc., and each nationally, declares Colonel Wright, was benefited by its experience within the factory walls.

"The establishment of the textile fac-tory in the south led to the employ-ment of a body of native people, those born and bred in the south, popularly known as the poor whites, who up to the time of the erection of cotton factories had lived a precarious existence. Today these people are furnishing the textile factories of the southern States with a class of operatives not surpassed in any part of the country. The poor whites are now able to educate their children, to bring them up in a way which was never possible to them before, and thus are gradually and with more or less rapidity becoming not only a desirable but a valuable element in southern population.

"The experience in the south is simply that of other localities, whether in this country or in England. The factory means education, enlightment, and an intellectual development, utterly impossible without it-i mean to a class of people who could not reach these things in any other way. It is an element in social life. By its edu-cational influences it is constantly liering the people, from a lower to a

As Computed for the Various Provincial Constituencies.

Same Vote Cast in Provincial Election Would Give Liberals Six Majority.

[Toronto Globe.]

The vote east in Ontario at the recent Dominion election has been com-piled for the various constituencies as constituted for provincial purposes. From these figures it appears that that the same vote been cast at a pro-vincial election the standing of the two political parties would have been: Liberals 50, Conservatives 44, a majority of 6 for the Liberals. The various constituencies would have ranged themselves for and against the Ross government as follows:

THE HAMILTONS.

Wentworth, S 1

Wellington, W.....

York, E.....

In the above calculation the seats in Hamilton are given to the Conservatives for the purpose of comparison. For provincial purposes the both of which are now represented by Conservatives. The information was not available upon which the voter cast at the recent Dominion efection and be allocated to the respective provincial constituencies, and they have both been placed in the Con-servative column. Where there was no Liberal candidate running and the candidate, the vote has been classed as Liberal. The election in Nipissing has not yet taken place, but it is induded in the Liberal ranks, where it has been for several legislatures.

Of the constituencies classed in the Conservative column, fourteen are now held by Liberals in the Legislature. They are: Halton, East Hastings, East Lambton, Lennox, Muskoka and Parry Sound, South Norfolk, East Northumberland, North Perth, Peel, West Petencoro', North Waterloo, South Wellington, East and West York. The greater part of these constituencies were carried by the government substantial majorities at the last election, and the representatives in the present legislature are confident of their ability to carry them again. Such constituencies as South Norfolk, Peel West Peterboro', North Waterloo, South Wellington and East York have for a number of years been counted as safe Liberal seats. If the government succeeded in retaining these seats and hold those won on the vote cast Nov. 7 they would have 64 out of the 94 seats in the legislature.

QUEBEC VOTE AND BALANCE OF POWER

A couple of Hamilton gentlemen, who are personal friends though political opponents, have referred to the Times for decision the question whether Ontario ever gave a Liberal majority in a Dominion election, except in 1874 and 1896, and incidentally whether Sir John Macdonald had to depend upon the vote of Quebec to keep him in office. As this question probably interests a good many readers, we shall give the record from the Parbiamentary Companion of 1897, page 96 et seq., to which the figures for the 1900 election can be appended when the recounts are concluded and the returns are completed. In the election of 1867, we are told, 'the opposi-tion raised do particular battle cry. To a certain extent they were indifferent. As many of their friends were in the government, the principal leaders of the opposition were willing to give the ministry of Sir John Macdon-aid a fair trial, although the anticonfederate party, particularly in the Maritime Provinces, was strong, and exerted itself to elect opponents to the overnment." The result was:

Majority for Conservative Government, 22.

Quite a number of members, classed in the above table as supporters of the government, called themselves Liberals in their biographical descriptions. It will be noticed that Sir John Macdonald had a majority of 11 from Ontario in that house, that his total majority was 22, and his majority from Quebec was 25. Had it not been for the Quebec vote, he could not have remained in office. At the next election the record was:

Our inquiring friends will observe that this was one occasion on which Ontario went Liberal. The next election was in Idle Selfishness.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The old adage, "Love will and a way," is not always verified in actual life. "Sitting Mary," who died at Columbiana, Aha., the other day, furnishes a case in point. Thirty years ago "Sitting Mary" had a quarrel with her lover and they parted. Thereupon she made a yow she would payer leave her made a vow she would never leave her chair until she died, and she kept her vow. So long as her parents lived she remained at home in her chair. When they died she was left without means. She refused to stir about and work and the county authorities were oblig-ed to carry her in ther chair to the poor farm, in which she remained sing-ing to herself that her lover would come back. He never came, however, and foolish "Sitting Mary" at last died in her chair, much to the relief of every one in the institution.

Phoche Meeks, of Brookville, Ind., furnishes another case in point. Phoche, like "Sitting Mary," quarreled with her lover sixty years ago and they parted. Phoebe made a vow never to show her face beyond her own door yard and kept the vow until she was released from it by death last Saturday. Her lover on two or three occasions sought a reconciliation, but Phoebe was inflexible, whereupon he sensiby sought another, married, and amassed a fortune, leaving Phoebe to enjoy her own door yard.

Here are two cases, and there are many others, where love did not find a way. Perhaps it is just as well for the suitors that it did not, for women capable of making and keeping such vows as those which "Sitting Mary" and Phoebe made might have rendered life a burden for their husbands. At the first difference in views
"Sitting Mary" might have taken to her chair and Phoebe refused to stir beyond the door yard, and they would have found themselves tied to two exceedingly uninteresting objects. In cases like these, however, is it so much love that does not find a way as self-love that does. In other words, were not these two foolish old maids, "Sitting Mary" and Phoebe, the incar-nation of selfishness? Their way was the only way and they had it. The discomforts in the one case and the disappointed curiosity in the other were more than offset by the personal enjoyment of each. It was not so much that they wished to punish their lovers as that they wished to punish themselves by the gratification of their self-love, and by making everyone around them uncomfortable. In course of time they enjoyed the punishment undoubtedly and cherished the delusion that the rejected lovers were suffering also. In this way they made a fatal mistake, for the latter, being unselfish, promptly made two other women happy, and thus "Sitting Mary" stuck to her mair and Phoebe to her door vard all in vain, however much they may have enjoyed being miserable. For there are those who enjoy low spirits just as there are those who enjoy poor health.

"Yes," she said; "it was. I did not mean to frighten any one. I was cold and hungry. The bright lights attracted me, and I looked in. I meant no harm; I did no harm. Let me go!"
That one word "attracted," proved fatal. She had spoken in a low, mura muring, hoarse voice, almost impossible to distinguish; but in that word he had recognized the never-to-be mis-taken roll of the French "r" which the people of no other nation can imi-

He grasped her more closely. 'You are a Frenchwoman," he cried. You have perhaps come from that wicked woman herself?"

She struggled afresh with the strength of a man, uttering low, piteous cries, but in his strong grasp she was helpless as a child.

"You cannot escape," he said. "Your struggles are more vain than those of a bird in the fowler's net."

Just then a few rays of light broke through the clouds; they parted in majestic grandeur, rolling away in heavy masses of black and white vapor, leaving the moon sailing peaceful in the sky. "Thank heaven!" he cried. "Now I can see you!' "Let me go," she walled piteously.

"let me go!" Resolutely she turned and bent her head, lest the moonlight should fall upon her face.

'I will will myself if you try to look at me." she cried. You cannot. Have you not the sense, woman, to know when you are conquered? She made a wild dash at him. It was her last hope. It was as though an ocean wave had flung itself against a rock-useless, vain, indeed injurious to herself. The last shred of disguise fell from her, and she stood revealed in the moonlight-which she cursed in her heart-a tall, stately woman, with a mass of black hair and dark wild eyes, contrasting vividly with her white face, the false hair had been trampled under foot in the struggle. The moon now shone out more fully and clearly, so clearly that Lord Fielden could see every line of the stranger's face and

In a moment it flashed across him who she was. This was no poor, common woman looking for work. She was rather like a queen of tragedy. "I know you," he said. "You are the

> He Speaks in Glowing Terms of His Meetings in Canada and the States -- Was Forced to Take a Much-Needed Rest -- Held Four Services Aboard Ship.

> > [British Weekly.]

We have had the pleasure of an interview with the venerable missionary of the New Hebrides. On Thursday morning (11th October) he arri ed at Glasgow, rather unexpectedly ilis health had broken down somewnat seriously in the midst of a great series of meetings in Canada; and, as by stern medical advice, all strain of work had to be suspended, he determined to cannot compel you."
"You can look me up, shut me in prison—you can do anything and everymake for his brother's home in Scotland. He had a long and trying journey to New York, between six and seven hundred miles, where his good friends and unfailing helpers, Dr. and Mrs. Sommerville, again called in the best of skill. Believing that the voyage might help him, consent was given, though not without much hesitation, and in a very few hours he was on board the Furnessia, bound for Glasgow. About the third day he began to rally, and before the voyage was ended, he had addressed four meetings The keeper looked bewidered when on board, his marvelous recuperative he opened the door. There stood Lord energy, again as so often before, surprising everyone. His friends at Glasgow could scarcely realize he had been so ill, even nigh unto death; for the with great black eyes that seemed to blaze with liquid fire, and a mass of affliction has not affected his bright and enthusiastic expression, nor lessened his eager passion for work. He still declares himself "fit for anyblack hair. She had neither bonnet nor shawl; her dress was of plainest still declares thing." But his physicians have or-dered the greatest caution, as to overstrain or great fatigue of any kind; "Mrs. Turnbull will find you all and it is still under consideration by the "J. G. Paton Mission Fund Com-mittee," what should be the number needful accommodation. You will like what should be the number and character of any meetings that may be arranged before he leaves this He closed the door behind him as he spoke, and then turned with a stern country for his Melbourne home. His life is too precious to be endangered "I have brought this lady here," he any continuance of such a strain said, "and here she is to remain in of meetings as he has carried on for close custody until tomorrow mornlast twelve months, though as ing. Let her have every care, every attention—all that she requires; but long as he could stand on his feet, or even hold on by the platform rails, he refused to give in!

Speaking of his meetings in the States and Canada, he says that the Lord "never gave him such opportunities in all his life for preaching the gospel and pleading for all missons. Every hall, every church, was crowded to overflowing. Numerous colleges and countless conferences of all kinds listened to his story. He attended the Pan-Presbyterian Council in Septem-ber, 1899, at Washington, and the Missionary Ecumenical Council at New York in April, 1900. He also spent three days at the Male Missionary Conference, and three at the Female Missionary Conference at Northfield—at the latter of which the ladies, "in a spontaneous burst of enthusiasm," collected and placed in his hands twelve hundred dollars for the mission. He was twelve months in the States, traveling in every direction, for meetings, arranged by ministers' unions, representing all the churches. In this time he covered 10,847 miles, and addressed 563 public meetings. He spent two months in Canada, traveling 1,890 miles, and addressing 85 public meetings. His hand got so sore, with the grip of thousands shaking it warmly, that it became disabled, and the chairman had to make public appeals to the people to refrain; but this only after left hand had given in too! The results, financially though not all come in, promise to be highly gratifying. The aged missionary, feeling that his time is short, hopes to secure as much as will guarantee the speedy accom-plishment of his life's dream-"one missionary on every island of the New Hebrides, and for every people there with a separate language, that all may hear of Jesus in their own tongue before he dies' At Washington he was most kindly bring to me poison that I may destroy myself, or give me the chance of escape through the window here. I received by the president, as also by Mr. Secretary Hay. Mr. McKinley listened with very deep interest to his appeals for the American government to join with Britain in prohibiting all trading under their flag in ammuni-tion or intoxicants with the natives of the New Hebrides, and promised that the subject would not be lost sight of. The missionary thanks God for the keen interest shown by American Christians of every grade.

When we see and talk with the beloved missionary, we cannot but think that with due care, and avoiding all excessive strain-such as exhausting journeys, and a continuous rush of denly to find the dark beautiful face great meetings-there are many days of usefulness and blessed influence for desperate woman. I should set little value upon your life. If you wish well good still before him. But it is extremely difficult to see and hear him without being swept into the stream to yourself, do not expose me to tempof his own enthusiasm, and crowding as much work as can be crowded into This so effectually scared the keeper's wife that she checked all further every hour of the day. This is now, however, absolutely forbidden. Friends inclination to slumber, and watched will understand, and will refrain from urging impossibilities. A life of 77 years, lived as this has been lived, Lola de Ferras paced up and down justily cries aloud for rest, or at least the room, at times wringing her hands for quiet work, apart from heavy strain and undue fatigue. There was never a more devoted husband, and he was content to let his devotion to the sex end with that. He especially could not abide difference of opinion in women; he valued their taste, their wit, their humor, but he would have none of their reason. I was by one day when he was arguing a point with one of his nieces, and after it had gone on for some time and the impartial witness must have that she was getting the best of him he closed the controversy by giving her a great kiss, with the words, 'You are a very good girl, my dear,' and practically putting her out of the room. As to women of the flirtatious type, he did not dislike them; no man, perhaps does; but he feared them. cried Gertrude, "Oh. Transportation Methods in the Hudson Bay Country.

Resources of This Land of Legend, History and Romance—From the Time of King Charles. Who Granted the Company a Charter in 1670, to the Present Day-The New Methods.

More than two centuries have passed since the Commercial world was first attracted by the resources of the Hudson Bay country, and its development first begun. When on the second of May, 1670, King Charles granted the royal charter that gave to the Hudson Bay company all that vast stretch of territory north of What was then French soil, extending from the Atlantic to an ocean they knew not where, he gave away far more than he knew. But King Charles was deeply in the debt of his royal cousin, Rupert, the Black Prince, one time terror of the West Indies islands, for soldiers and treasures furnished him when hard pressed in the wars. In fact, it might be said that King Charles was almost indebted to Prince Rupert for his throne, for without the soldiers and treasures which he furnished it is hardly probable that a Stuart would ever have again ruled over England.

So it happened that when this royal cousin asked for a grant of the territory in North America encircling Hudson's Bay and stretching westward for unknown distances King Charles was quite well pleased at being able to pay his debts so easily. That charter completed the organization of "The Governor and Company of Merchants-Adventurers Trading Into Hadson's Bay." The same company exists to-day, and, though an almost countless number of fortunes have been taken from the land which an early king of England gave away, they have not impoverished it. and many more fortunes remain for others to gather in years to come.

For more than two centuries this same company, now commonly called the Hudson's Bay Company, has operated in the country granted by royal warrant to Prince Rupert and his merchant companions. The story of what it has done of the adventures of its early employes, the hardships they endured and the international contentions for the land which they successfully combatted are all graphically told by Mr. Beckles Willson in his recent book, "The Great Company." Of this company he says in his preface:

'Change, unceasing, never - ending change, has marked the history of this hemisphere of ours; yet there is one force, one institution which surwived nearly all conditions and all regimes. For two full centuries the Hudson's Bay Company existed, unshorn of its greatness-and endures still-the one enduring pillar in the new world mansion.'

For much the greater part of those two centuries, the dog team, the canoe and other primitive methods of transportation known to the Indians and the Esquimaux were the only means of transporting the marketable products of the great territory to where the traders of the company would exchange goods from England for them. But a few years ago the Canadian Pacific Railway invaded a portion of the field occupied by the company, and the territory through which it passed soon became rich provinces instead of the Indian hunting grounds of former years.

But 200 miles of unbroken forest still lay between the nearest point touched by the railroad and the inland sea around which the company had first erected its forts and warehouses, while to the north and west almost the same conditions existed that the first traders of the courpany had found when they invaded the territory more than 200 years

Now a new line of rails is being pushed forward to tap this rich country, and assist in its more rapid development. The northern terminus of this new line is to be directly on the shores of the bay, where a town will be built.

Through the Canadian forests, north of Sault Ste. Marie, workmen are now laying a half a mile of railroad tracks every day, and more than 45 miles of the road have already been completed. Other men, prospectors and engineers, have all through the past summer pushed through the forest searching for the easiest route for a roadbed, and for the most profitable territory for the road to traverse Once past the Canadian Pacific main line and the world knows but little of the resources of the great wifory that stretcher away to the porth, but the prospectors who have the country the country the country ter, and who have just been called in for the winter, bring back glowing accounts of what may be experted of it once it is opened up.

> The Mikado's New Premier Has the Common People With Him-The Part He Has Taken in the Rehabilitation and Advancement of His Native Country-A Progressive.

> Marquis Ito, head of the new Ministry of Japan, is a soldier of exceptional courage and resourcefulness and a statesman of the first class He has been styled the "Bismarck o Japan," and the title is very apt. Count Hirobumi Ito represents the progressive element of Japan. He has traveled all over the world, study ing constitutions and parliaments and incidentally picking up what he could regarding the arts of successful warfare.

The extreme significance of his ap pointment to the head of affairs at this critical stage in China becomes more apparent when it is understood that he is an implacable foe of Russia and bitterly opposed to any acquisition of territory by the Czar.

Marquis Ito came prominently to the front during the Chino-Japanes war. He was the high admiral of the Japanese navy and fought the memorable battle of September 7, 1894, defeating the entire Chines fleet of 12 vessels and saving his own boats, with one exception, from injury.

After the war was over he was chosen to make terms with Li Hung Chang, admittedly the most adroit statesman of the orient. It was at this stage of the game that Russia began to interfere, robbing Japan of the fruits of her victory. Ito has not forgotten the part Russia tool at that time, and this thought will likely be uppermost in his attitude in China. Foreigners generally who have met him have confidence in his ation. From his youth Ito has had the reputation of being clever and bright.

After Gen. T. Saigo disappeared the following year, Count Ito and when he was under secretary of the department of public works.

In 1881 an imperial edict promised the people a constitution and a representative system of government, to be inaugurated in 1890. Thereupon Count Ito's entire energy was devoted to preparing the constitution and the laws accessory to it. The committee which worked under his direction labored ten years, and at last the constitution, concise and admirable in many respects and much praised by western political thinkers, was promulgated amid national

Prior to this, in 1886, the government was reorganized to prepare itself for the coming change, and Count Ito became the premier, assisted by Count Inouye, who occupied the portfolio of foreign affairs. This cabinet did not succeed in its efforts to execute the treaty revision which had already proved to be the stumbling block to preceding ministries.

A few years following there were several cabinet changes, caused principally by collisions with the lower house of the Diet. Then Counts Ito and Inouve came back again to power in 1892.

This cabinet, with Count Ito as its premier, and Count Inouye as his chief lieutenant, precipitated Japan into the war with China and they came out of that struggle with many additional laurels.

The relations of Marquis Ito with his Emperor are of the very closest. Ito and his followers, representing the young and progressive element of Japan, overthrew the shogun, dragged the Emperor out of his puppetlike existence in the palace of Kioto and made him the real ruler of the country. The Japanese people have the utmost confidence in Ito and will accord any course he may elect to pursue the most hearty support.

Improved on Marcon!.

A German professor by the name of Rosenberg has invented a system of wireless telegraphy which he claims is an improvement over that brought out by Marconi. The professor's idea is to reduce the size of his transmitter and receiver so that it may be carried in one's pocket. This would enable a person, so it is claimed, to walk along the street or sit in his office and communicate with his

The average annual total of water which falls as rain or snow in the United States is 1,407 cubic miles. This amount of rain would more than twice fill Lake Ontario. To raise this water to the clouds from which it fell would require the work of 500,000,000 horses working ten hours a day throughout the year.

Thousands of Anaemic Girls Hurrying to the Grave.

A Young Lady of Cobourg, Ont., Whose Case Was Pronounced Hopeless, Tells How She Regained Health and Strength-A Lesson to Mothers. Anaemia is the term used by doctors to indicate poverty of the blood. The prevalence of this trouble is most alarming, especially among young girls, and a large percentage of the altogether too numerous cases of consumption which annually ravage the country have their origin in this trouble. The first indication of anaemia is a pale, sallow or waxy complexion. This is followed by loss of appetite, frequent headaches, indisposition to exertion, swelling of limbs, violent heart palpitation, and frequent fainting fits. These symptoms may not all be present, but the more there are the greater the urgency for prompt and effective treatment, which should be persisted in until all traces of the trouble have vanished. Among the thousands who have been brought near to the brink of the grave from this trouble, and ultimately restored to health through the use of Dr. Willi-ams' Pink Fills, is Miss Beila Boyd, an estimable young lady whose home is at Cobourg. Miss Boyd gives her experience as follows:

"It is nearly ten years since my illness first commenced, and although I was doctoring more or less I received little or no benefit, as the doctors did not seem to understand my trouble. Two years ago my health became so bad that another doctor was called in, and he stated that my case was a most severe type of anaemia, and that while he could help me the trouble had progressed to such a stage that he could hold out little hope of a cure. At this time I was as pale as chalk, my eyelids were swollen and would hang down over my eyes like sacks of waiter. My feet and himbs would swell, and were always cold. I was subject to violent headaches, severe palpitation of the heart, and if I stooped over I would be so dizzy that I could scarcely regain an upright position. My appetite failed me almost entirely, and I grew so weak that I was a mere wreck. While in this condition I read in a newspaper of the cure of a young girl whose case was much like mine, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I determined to try them. Those who knew me did not think any medicine could do me any good or that I would ever get better, but I determined at all events to give the pills a fair trial. I have used them for nearly a year with the result that I feel like a new person. The swelling in my eyelids and limbs has disappeared; my appetite is good, and my face is regaining the color which left it years ago. I can sew and do work about the house, and this great change in my condition is due solely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is not too little to say that they have saved my life, and I strongly urge girls who are similarly afflicted to give them a thorough trial.

The Highest Life.

God so loved the world .- St. John,

When a man does what God asks him from the arena of politics at the to do and does it because he returns close of the rebellion of 1877, and the love which God has shown for after the sudden death of Okubo in him, he has the very essence of truth other younger men came to the and practical raligion. He needs nothfront. Ito's most important work ing more to prepare him for this life before this was the building of the and since preparation for this life is first railroad in Japan, in 1874, Itself a preparation for the life to come, he has all that his soul can ask or desire.

The only motive that has any merit is love. Love concentrates and enlarges the heart. If one loves God he must needs be ambitious to make God's world better for his living in it. Love is never indolent or sluggish, but always active. If hatred and avarice and envy have brought maligmant influences they can only be destroyed by love. If, as the theologians tell us, mankind is totally depraved, which statement I decline to accept, the surest and quickest means of routing this depravilty out of the human heart is to persuade men to love one another. Then will be exercised a magic whose results will astonish us all. Crime will slink away before the steady gaze of charity and this grasping for wealth at whatever cost of honor will become a suppressed passion, an arrested development. The state of society in which each individual should do justice to himself by doing it to others, and in which the brotherhood of the race should be an estiablished fact instead of a redigious dream, is perhaps inconceivable, and yet we are moving toword that goal, and if we keep moving we shall some time reach it. As surely as God exists so surely must we approach nearer to him as the centuries, like a great current, flow into the eternity of the past. Higher minded, nobler and truer must we become, larger and more complete our outlook as time flies by, and in the end, when the irresistible logic of the situation has accomplished its work, the human race on the earth and the angels of heaven will be near neighbors. That ghorious time may be far distant, but each day's moral progress brings us closer to it. If you would be your best self, therefore, you must become a part of this on-sweeping tide of events. It is possible for you to wholly consecrate your own little life and so make it divine; possible for you to catch a glimpse of eternal truth and to incorporate it in your daily experience; possible for you to open doors and windows and give the Infinite free entrance into heart and home. I am greatly interested in the effect produced on yourself by the exercise of charity and good will towards your fellows. If you will look into that matter you will be greatly surprised. When you do good to others you do a still greater good to yourself. That is the way in which the law acts. The state of mind which finds pleasure in some act of self-sacrifice is a very exalited one. The Christ, I take it. could not be happy in heaven while we poor mortals were going astray. The Son of God could not enjoy the bliss whileh fell to his own dot while unhappiness prevailed elsewhere. It was absolutely necessary to his own comfort that he should leave the environment which heaven affords and dwell with men in order to give them the secret of a higher life. Pity cannot be selfish, and love finds a divine satisfaction in doing good to those who need help. The ideal man does not grasp everything within reach or turn a deaf ear to those who suffer. The sordid soul thinks of diself alone, is armor-plated against the tears and sorrows of its fellows. Such a soul, instead of being little lower than the angels, is little higher than the animale. When a of is the ruling passion only a mean and contemptible sort of happiness can be found, the kind which a lion has who makes a meal on the lamb which it has just killed. If a selfish soul should go to heaven it would misundersuand everything it saw and long for more congenial companionship. No man can be happy either in heaven or anywhere unless the divine element of his na-ture controls his action.

Religion consists in emphasizing these facts. How poor and wretched seem all your creeds, all the pomp and ceremony of worship, as a substitute for that brotherly love which alone can lift the soul to its proper level! The world can get on without many things but not without love. If you live a life of kindness, of charitable judgment, of helpfulness, if you scorn all meanness tying and deceit, you will find that God has gifts for you which can be had in no other way. The earth will be greener, the sky brighter and the other world so real that you will be glad when the angels come to lead you thither. GEO. H. HEPWORTH.

Woman's Song.

Do you call my face a rose, With the time of roses near? Find a truer name than this, For the brow and lips you kiss, For you know that roses die In the autumn of the year, And beside you, love, must I Front the frost and face the snows.

I was never rose or star. One's too near and one's too far. I'm no pebble and no pearl, But a living, loving girl, Mouth to kiss you, hand to keep Touch with you while you're asleep, Eyes to kindle when you're glad, Hope to climb where you would creep Tongue to comfort when you're sad.

Call me wife and comrade, dear. Call me neither star nor wose-Then the day I need not dread When the snow fals on my head. Then my soul to yours shall be Changeless, though my beauty goes, And the eyes I love not see Youth and grace forsaking me As the bees forsake a rose When the wind of autumn blows, Soul on soul looks in and knows All that's best of you and me. -Norah Hopper.
