ROBSON BELIEVED TO HAVE VARIOUS REASONS FOR QUITTING JOB

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The reasons for the resignation of Judge Robson as chairman of the beard of commerce are a mystery. "I have nothing to say," remystery. "I have nothing to say," remarked Sir George Foster, acting prime minister, when questioned on the mat-

"Let it rest for the meantime." Judge Robson has apparently his reasons for retirement, and considers it the right of the Government to first make it public. He is leaving for Winnipeg tonight. Other members of the board, including Messrs, O'Connor and Murdock, have nothing to say. In the meantime, how-ever, action against Price Brothers of Quebec is being proceeded with, and O. M. Criticism of the use of these powers has come from all quarters, and this criticism has reacted on the Government, which perhaps has lent too ready an ear to complaints of manifacturers, retailers and farmers. The board, as a consequence, has felt that it did not have the backing of the administration. Added to this is the undoubted conflict with the civil service Continued on page three.

the carnival this year in yiew of "the carnestness of the times." Berlin shows no signs of following suit, for only two functions—the big students bail and a gala charlty performance for the starving Vienna children—has been called off so far for political reasons. There is a sound of revelry every night at numerous places in Berlin, which seems determined to put up a strong bluff at the merry carnival spirit despite the depressing hard times, One night this week the World correspondent counted six big masquerade balls in different parts of town, including a pyjama ball, a "Naughty Boys" and Giris'" ball and a so-called bathing beach festival, all with extremely scant costumes worn by women and men. There is no real, zippy, light-heartedness or light-headedness at these functions, however.

A Great Problem.

"The lack of skilled men among the younger workers presents," said Mr. Dennis, "the great problem. It has been brought about to a great extent by the abolition of the old system of apprenticeship. At the present time the young men come from school and either seek a 'white shirt' job, or become machine hands, handy men or laborers. The best human material in the world is to be found in Canada but I doubt if the employers, fathers a not teachers are discharging their responsibilities toward the boy in a proper manner."

Action Deferees.

The discussion touched upon many phases of the natural gas situation, but no definite action was planned, the meeting deciding to defer a proposed delegation to the Government until after Cas Commissioner Estlin has completed a series of inquiries, which open Wednesday at Sarnia, Windsor, Chatham and Sarnia have arranged for their respective city solicitors to be present at these inquiries.

Government control of the natural gas supply might not be an improbability. "The position is this," he said. "The producers say they need more money producers say they need more money producers."

Must Be Trained.

"must be trained by industry, in that industry, and under practical business conditions. You manufacturers must get back to the apprentice system or you cannot go on much longer. We must meet new conditions with new methods as we cannot go back to the methods as we cannot go back to the old system of young men serving a

"One of the main features of our industries should be a well-supervised training department for beginners. Serious Situation.
Capt. W. H. Carling of the Century
Coal Company of Montreal spoke on the coal situation in Canada and the relacoal situation in Canada and the relations it had to the clay products manufacturing companies. He said that his company has just received information from their representatives at the mines that the coal situation was serious. There was a lack of production, and a great shortage of cars, there being only 30 per cent of the required number to be had. The price of coal for the future did not look premising, at least not until the fall,

He strongly advised manufacturers to Rome, Feb. 25.-Rome changes fast; as prosaic as New York's.

The war killed old customs—too many to mention, and peace has failed to do anything except put a stone on their graves. Gone is the old noisy Befana (Epiphany) toy fair, when children got their "Christmas" presents. Romans predict that stockings will actually be hung up by the children if things go on like this.

Carnival Is Gone.

Gone, too, is the carnival, with its races, masques, confetti and noisy mirth. The Feast of St. John on June 24, when every decent citizen ate snails and garlic and sang Roman ditties outside of St. John's Church, is no more. And many other feasts and fairs and customs which delighted citizens as well as tourists, have been swept away.

But Romans, whether Italian or American, no matter where they happened to be born, consoled themselves with the thought that Aragno was left. Aragno is the biggest cafe in this city—the club, debating room and rendezvous where you look for anybody you happen to want. No sane man seeks a long-lost brother on the telephone or by means of the local "Who's Who." He keeps to Aragno—and finds him there.

LIVER TROUBLE

It will be hard to fill.

All work at the London Advertiser Publishing Company was at a standstill for two minutes out of respect to Mr. Stronach, who served in various capacities on the editorial staff for a term of over six years. The funeral was attended by all members of the editorial staff in a body.

A profusion of lovely flowers in every design covered the caskets of Mr. and Mrs. Stronach. The pall-bearers were Roy McLeod, W. J. York-Hardy, Hersystem which causes many troubles to arise. Therefore, upon the liver, more than any other organ of the body, depends the general health.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advt.

Friction Between Board and WOULD COMPEL USE Civil Service Commission Hampers Board in Obtaining Help For Investigations - Resignations May Fol-

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—Friction between the board of commerce and the civil service commission and a certain lack of sympathy with the board's activities higher up may lead to resignations from the board. It is stated that the board, owing to the interference of the commission under its powers conferred by the new act is unable to secure the appointment of men suitable for the carrying out of certain important inquiries, and that, for instance, the textile investigation cannot as a consequence be properly proceeded with.

DISEASE AND HUNGER RAPIDLY DECIMATING PETROGRAD PEOPLE

No Food, Medicine, Soap, Disinfectants or Fuel.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 24.— reports of serious living conditions at Petrograd have been received by Prof. Hermann Zeidler of Viborg, showing that typhus, cholera and influenza are taking a heavy toll of the Petrograd

The reports state that up to January 5, deaths in Petrograd were reaching total of 3,000 a day. The coffin factories could turn out only 1,000 coffins daily, and most of the bodies were being carried into the country on sleds and left in the snow, Many bodies were being dropped through the ice in the Funerals are prohibited, owing to the Prof. Zeidler's information about conditions in Petrograd is wholly at variance with the cheerful account given to the Associated Press correspondent by Sergius Zorin, a membr of the Bolshevik committee from Petrograd that came to the frontier to receive the Russians deported from the United States. Zorin said every resident was obtaining one and one-quarter pounds of bread dally, while Prof. Zeidler asserts that two ounces of flour is all that can be supplied even to the Don't Wish To Live.

LONDON, Feb. 24.-The Right Hon. E. S. The secretary considers that India's wishes should be consulted in the matter, particularly as Indian soldiers and material played a prominent part in the response to the Empire's needs. No Dirt Lurks Where the Hoover Works.

75 For a Hoover Avoids Ripping Up Carpets

If there is a thing in the world that takes the joy out of spring, it is nousecleaning.

The old-fashioned, laborious, nerve-jarring business of piling up the furniture like the belongings of earthquake refugees, while carpets are raised and tugged out to the back yard is a relic of another age.

If you impose this ordeal upon yourself and the family, remember, as you swat the carpets and smother in dust, that it is absolutely unnecessary.

The Hydro Shop, for a payment of $5.75, will put a Hoover Suction Sweeper in your home. It beats as it sweeps, as it cleans, raising the rug or carpet and fluttering it more than a thousand times a minute on a cushion of rushing air. With the Hoover cleaning is only a matter of minutes, and it entails no effort. It extracts every particle of ground-in grit and dirt, raising the nap, brightening colors and prolonging the life of carpet or rug.

No state of siege is proclaimed each spring in homes that have the Hoover.

The Carpets are always clean. No germ-laden dirt accumulates in them or under them.

They never come up; they never have to be beaten; they never have to be re-laid, and when spring comes home is normally cosy, and you

The Unionist cabinet, already badly shattered by the developments of the last year, is further and seriously weakened by the dropping out of Hon. A. K. MacLean of Halifax, one of the Liberal Unionists. Though not head of any department during the time that he was assoclated with the present Government, Hon. Mr. MacLean has been regarded as one of the strongest men in the cabinet, and it was entirely at his own wish that he kept out of departmental administration, for unquestionably every Liberal in Parliament to do his duty. his colleagues would have been glad to utilize him in any one of several important portfolios. His departure from the cabinet renders still more striking the disproportion of the two parties composing it and must be regarded as hastening the final break-up of what has become a strangely assorted body.

It must be with considerable trepidation that the cabinet is meeting Parliament this week. THE COMING BATTLE.

Now that we have got our new local theatres open and going lively amidst all the H. C. of L. and "flu." it is time to have a look foward at the grand opening in Ottawa next Tuesday. There hammers are busy at the last details of the reconstruction on Parliament Hill, and the Government forces are huddling together for an attempt to live through another session of their useless life.

The leaderless ministers are hardly merry. They have one policy left in common, just to hang on to their cushions. Their speech from the throne is looked forward to as a piece of evasion, mockery, sleight-of-hand, and clownish impudence, all mixed, a record in its way. How will they ever do it at all? Only the fixed idea of hanging on can hold them to their desperate task. Imagine a brass band, without a leader, bickering among themselves, getting up an overture to be performed before a representative gathering of the whole nation. Consider that the trombone man was recently transferred to the bass drum, and then to the piccolo, and is equally ignorant of all these instruments, that similar rapid changes have been effected from the cornet to the trombone. or the tin piano to the alto horn. Could there be a greater anarchy even where Bolshevism is at its worst? A brass band with nothing Dr. Paget needed nothing of the kind. When he but the brass will deliver the speech from the

The Liberal opposition will be strong and well led, with a definite policy to stand on. There will be a contrast between the old wheezed-out organ of Unionism, as dead as a dud of the late war, and the clear lines of tariff reform, taxation reform, encouragement to agriculture. labor reforms, re-establishment of soldiers and federal assistance to provinces for control of the liquor traffic. by a tremendous onslaught upon the Government's fiscal policy, its substitution of expensive oans for taxation, its supertaxes on the poor man's tariff and refusal to enforce supertaxes on large incomes and luxuries. Mr. King is a fighting man, well equipped with comprehensive knowledge and experience, seriously convinced of the virtue of Liberal policies and actuated by the strongest sense of public duty. By his side the older Liberal chiefs are rallying for the fray. It is a pleasure to see Mr. A. K. McLean detach himself from the bunch of bunglers who are concocting the speech from

The manufacture of this speech might resemble what some scholars understand to have been the procedure of barbarians in composing the primitive ballads. Or it might be likened to Topsy who "just growed." No directing hand, no purpose or principle to steady a course either "preudunt" or imprudent, frantic energy without head or art. But there comes in the difference, there is a sort of "art" in our spechframers, the rather obvious art of self-preserva tion, as they conceive it. Another difference between Topsy and the Meighen-Rowell band is the total want of positive direction or movement or "growth" at all of any description in the prospectus of the latter. Their policy is marked by negation, do-nothing, standstill, because all pull against one another, and know not what to do. We shall see the clean-cut Liberal policy directed against the frozen nullity of the speech from the throne in overwhelming fashion. Canada is exasperated over the massed discord at Ottawa and will expect

INDUSTRY AND HUMANITY.

ARTICLE NO. 4. "The introduction of machinery and the opportunity to manufacture on a large scale made the division of industrial processes possible and profitable."

The National policy was introduced into Canada to stimulate industry. Whether the story of its introduction is true or not, that if Alexander MacKenzie had yielded to the wishes of his colleagues, including Edward Blake and Wilfrid Laurier and raised the tariff only the spirit of unrest is abroad in this as in other | slightly, the history of Canada, industrially, might have been quite different. Professor W. H. Presently he would reappear humming a note, then the would tap his forehead with his finger and call out 256 or some such number. Now, it is extraordinarily difficult to recognize the exact pitch of a note without the help of a tuning-fork or instrument to compare it with. tapped his forehead it always resounded to one note which he had ascertained with great accuracy. BRITISH GOODS FOR CANADA.

The principal remedy suggested for the unfavorable exchange rate against Canada in the United States is curtailment of the purchase of American goods. It is of interest in this connection to note that attention is being given in Great Britain to what is held up as an opportunity for British nanufacturers to secure a better footing in the Canadian market in competition with their American rivals. The British have been losing ground in Canada for years. Forty years ago Canada bought 60 per cent of her imported goods from Great Britain; today we buy ten times as much from the United States as from the Mother Country.

In a series of articles in the Empire Mail, a periodical published in London largely in the interests of British trade, Mr F. A. McKenzie, the wellknown journalist and former London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal, is advising the British manufacturers that they will never again have as good an opportunity as they have today to improve their position in the Canadian market. pointing out to the British the reason why the Americans have made such headway in Canada at their expense-proximity, similarity of interests and customs, and the demand for American products created by the advertising in American publications which circulate so widely in Canada being among the obvious ones-Mr. McKenzie urges that the British manufacturers have certain distinct and vantages. One of these is the preferential tariff. Added to this now is the exchange rate. While Canadian money is away below par value in the United States, British money is at a large discount in Canada. He advises British manufacturers to make their effort now, because of the assistance the exchange will give them, and also because he thinks the tariff conditions may not remain as favorable-he notes the demand of the western farmers for reciprocity with the United States.

Another advantage the British manufacturers have, in Mr. McKenzie's opinion, is the preference on the part of many Canadians for what he considers the higher quality of British goods. In many lines of goods this advantage, perhaps, is considerable. British quality is generally to be relied upon. In high class articles it is often superior to American quality, the Americans themselves recognizing this in their importations from Britain. the new tariff days come," says Mr. McKenzie, possible for the makers of high class British goods to establish a permanent Canadian reputation and market. Wiith many in Canada today it is quality, convenience of supplies and reputation that

MARS AND WIRELESS. [Montreal Herald.]

Major H. MacCallum, the superintending engineer for the Marconi system in Great Britain, believes that the Martians have picked up the Morse code used by wireless operators on this earth, and declares that in the messages which Marconi says are coming from another planet, the Morse code is actually being used, although no intelligible message can be picked up.

"Now, if they originate from the moon or from Mars," said Mr. MacCallum in an interview, "the question arises: Why do the messages come in

"Assuming that Mars, the more likely source, is inhabited, as many scientists, including Professor Lowell, believe it to be, there is a perfectly plausible

"The Martians are probably of a more advanced civilization than we are. They may have been working on wireless for hundreds of years. Given a sufficiently sensitive receiver, they may have picked up some of our messages in code and worked out the meaning of them. That is not at all farfetched: we did the same thing with German messages during the war.

"If they have done this, it is almost certain they would work to a program and try to get into touch with the earth at regular intervals. This is a point on which careful investigations must be made and exact records kept before anything certain can be said. We have not been looking out for such a program, and may have missed it so far.

The messages heard by Senato Marconi and others have been of equal strength in this country, in America and elsewhere thus doing away with the possibility of a practical joker being at work. It would be a comparatively easy matter to calculate if a message received at various far apart stations was the same one.

"The speed is 186,000 a second, and by sending out, say, the alphabet and noting the exact time of the dots and dashes at each end, any difference of as little as a fraction of a second could be noted. "To say that a wireless message from Mars could not reach the earth would be nonsense. Given a sufficiently powerful transmitter, distance is certainly to be overcome.

"It has not yet been done, but by means of directional wireless it is possible to tell the position of origin of messages transmitted within 100,000

It is agreed by almost all scientific men that if signals are coming from some point outside the earth, and if the canals really exist on the planet Mars, then there can be no doubt that living creatures of some kind in Mars are the cause of the signals. If they have the skill and intelligence to construct the canals they could easily signal to the earth.

A diagram shows part of the surface of Mars with extraordinary markings, called canals, as they have been portrayed by Professor Lowell and his assistants in the great observatory at Flagstaff. Arizona. There, perched on a lonely mountain-top. in dry air, with perfect seeing, and equipped with one of the most powerful telescopes in the world. for twenty years constant watch has been maintained on this mysterious planet, waiting for something to happen. The existence of the canals was long attributed to imagination, but in 1907 they were photographed, and have subsequently been photographed again with fair success. It was then said that there was no atmosphere on Mars, but in 1915 photographs of the Martian spectrum were taken, which showed water vapor there, and oxygen. It is therefore possible that the canals as we see them are belts of vegetation following watercourses, along which water is forced by some stupendous mechanical power.

To give some idea of the size of the canals, that of Orcus is 3,450 miles long-and longer than from

Montreal to Vancouver. At intervals in recent years, when Mars has been watched so carefully, observers have seen apparent flashes of blue light on it; and it has been suggested that flash signals have been attempted by the supposed Martians. The Harvard Observatory authorities in 1909 considered a plan of making

The drawback about artificial skin oils, as compared with the natural sebum, is that they do not last as long on the skin. They dry up too quickly, or disappear by attrition or something—of course, no oil applied to the skin is absorbed in any appreciable amount, contrary to a popular fancy. One should use any such oil sparingly, not in sufficient amount to make the skin unpleasantly greasy. It has been estimated that the normal daily average quantity of sebum secreted by the skin is about a teaspoonful. Therefore apply oil sparingly, but often.

I am certain that the country is ripe for drastic drink reforms, and I want to see that the drink submarine does not torpedo the prime minister, and that he is master in his own house."

Cheers and laughter greeted this sally.

Sir John Rees, Unionist for East Nottingham, in a brilliant and witty speech, urged the removal of the existing war restrictions on the liquor trade.

"I know that strong forces are arrayed against me," he said, "and that there is a rod in pickle for me. But I shall be prepared to kiss the rod."

Given Utmost Reserve.

According to the testimony of States Attorney Messerschmidt, which was given with the utmost reserve and caution, Erzberger had smuggled large amounts of his private funds to Switzerland. Previously, testimony adduced from Dr. Helfferich involved Erzberger in numerous questionable transactions in connection with the issuance of import permits, and otherwise misusing his official position and influence in the furtherance of ventures in which Erzberger was alleged to be interested.

The official statement announcing Erzberger's retirement from the cabinet bases his action on his desire to have an investigation concerning his income tax without reference to or in consideration of his official position.

The resignation was tendered to President Ebert, who ordered an investigation of the income tax incident conducted with all possible promptness.

THAMESVILLE, Feb. 24.—Albert C.

Hebert and David Harris of Windsor and Ford City, respectively, were arrested here today, and this afternoon came before Magistrate John Coutts on a charge of having liquor in their possession in a place other than a pripose dwelling and without a license. After hearing the evidence the magitate imposed fines on each man of $200 and costs.

The evidence given in court showed that the arrest followed suspicions created when the men endeavored to get a vehicle of some kind to take them to Windsor, and an investigation of their movements showed that they had unloaded from G. MENACE TO PURITY.

Mathias Erzberger brought suit against Dr. Helfferich, formerly vice-chancellor and minister of the treasury because of attacks in September, in which Helfferich designated Erzberger as "a menace to the purity of our public life." and asserted that he was a dangerous member of the Government. On the witness stand Helfferich declared that years of careful observation of Erzberger's activities had convinced him that "this man is bound to become fateful to the German nation, and that he must be removed from public office if our political life again is to become healthy and normal."

He charged that Erzberger was the Brittsh propagands ministers' best ally. Helfferich also asserted that Erzberger's fortune was made during the war by utilization of his political and parliamentary position, and indicated various alleged incidents where Erzberger had secretly amassed large sums as a result of his governmental position. Erzberger denied all these allegations. He asserted that he was not possessed of a large fortune, but admitted that they contained 50 cases of whiskey.

It is assumed that the men, who had gone from Windsor to Montreal on Friday last, noticing a number of officials on the train, feared that they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to Windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to Windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to Windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to Windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through to windsor, and in a panic effort to save the "goods" they would not be able to get their "luggage" through MENACE TO PURITY.

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, hervous people who lack vim, energy formation in the appearance; the innervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from mendation. Moreover, if we judge from patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds respectively, through the admendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of nealth and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods.
