BAD STORMS

Culminate in a Cloudburst—Damage at one Place half a Million Dollars.

Hosick Falls, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Destructive storms in Berkshire county, Lower Vermont, and in Eastern New York, which began yesterday afternoon, culminated in a disastrous cloudburst last night. A bridge is gone at Pownal, Vt., and people are forced to keep in houses by the depth of water in the streets. The wreckage force of the Boston and Maine Railroad in repairing washouts in the vicinity. North Adams suffered great loss from the cloudburst. The damage there is estimated at half a million dollars. Loss of life is reported, a man named Fitzpatrick having been drowned while trying to rescue a horse from the flood. The rainfall continues to-day.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 21.—George Gordon, a negro, killed his wife with an axe in Raymond, Miss., to-day. He chopped the body until it was unrecognizable. Gordon escaped. A sheriff's posse is in pursuit.

He that would have a short Lent, let him borrow money to be repaid at Easter.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

After Seventeen Years a London Girl Finds her Father.

Left Yesterday to Join the Family of a Windsor Man Whom She Discovered by Accident was Her Father.

London, Ont., August 22.—Truth seems to have fiction beaten in the story of the life of a young London girl. The climax of the story was reached yesterday, when she went to Windsor to join the family of her father, who, although she is now 17 years of age, she had never known until a couple of weeks ago.

Years ago a young man who has since become one of Windsor's well known citizens fell in love with a charming girl in this city. His love was fully reciprocated, and the young couple kept company for more than a year. He promised to marry, and the young woman trusted him implicitly. At this point, however, a little tiff occurred. The breach grew, and the young man left town. His sweetheart deemed him unfaithful, and they never met again. She bore her shame and sorrow in silence, and he never knew that a daughter was born to him.

The young mother died while her child was in infancy, leaving the babe to the care of her own mother. The granddaughter never knew until less than a month ago that she was such and not daughter to the woman she called mother. About two months ago the latter died, and the granddaughter subsequently discovered letters which revealed the sad truth regarding her case. She determined to write to the man whom the letters clearly indicated was her father. The terms she used were not those of endearment, for she was very angry. The treatment her dead mother had received.

Something in the girl's letter caught the father, and his old love for the girl he had ruined seemed to centre upon their child. No name was signed to the letter he received, but he never doubted that it was his daughter who wrote, notwithstanding that he had not previously known of her existence. He came here, and with the aid of the city detectives found the girl at Victoria Hospital, where she had been ill. The meeting is said on his part to have been a most affectionate one. He remained here several days, and was constantly at the hospital. The sick room was filled with flowers, and fruit in abundance was always on the table beside the sick bed.

Yesterday the young lady left for Windsor, to become the eldest daughter in her father's household.

LIVE LONGER NOW.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Census Bureau to-day issued a bulletin giving the mortality statistics during the census year in the States and Territories and the principal registration cities. The total number of deaths reported for the year was 1,039,094, against 841,419 for 1890. Perhaps the most important feature of the results presented found a decrease in the general death rate in the registration area of 1.8 per 1,000 of population, a decrease of nearly 10 per cent. The average age at death in 1890 was 31.1 years; in 1900 it was 35.2.

FIERCE HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT BY CONSTABULARY AND BOERS

Twenty-Three of the Burghers Fell—Fine Bravery was Shown—Boer Leaders Captured.

Pretoria, August 21.—Capt. Wood, of the Constabulary, with 100 men, including some of Morley's Scouts, a command made up partly of former burghers, made a night march and surprised a Boer laager Saturday morning, 20 miles northeast of the springs. They surrounded the Boers on three sides, and poured in a hot fire at 200 yards range, the Boers settling up in confusion. It is known for certain that 23 Boers were killed, but the number is probably greater. Numbers of the Boers managed to stream out on one side of the laager. The British retired, but found their line of retreat blocked by another body of Boers which was coming up. The situation was perilous, and a hand-to-hand fight ensued. Fine bravery was shown. Capt. Morley was severely wounded. Three Boers attacked Capt. Wood and pulled him off his horse. Capt. Wood smashed the face of one of the Boers with his riding whip, took his rifle, remounted, and escaped. There were other similar incidents. During the melee nearly all the prisoners who were taken in the first fight escaped.

KILLED 2—CAPTURED 30.
Col. Benson surprised a laager at Warm Baths, near Carolana, killing two and capturing thirty. Among the latter were Commandant De Villiers, father-in-law of Acting President Schalkburg, and Captain Greysonbach.

LARGEST FOR MONTHS.
The number of prisoners that arrived at Pretoria during the past week was the largest for months.

STRIKERS SENT TO THE COAST.
Pretoria, August 21.—A number of miners in the May, Chimes and Robins mines, who had agreed to work for five shillings a day, and then refused to do so, have been sent back to the coast.

ORDER FOR PAY FOR YEOMEN.
London, August 21.—The war office has issued orders that the Yeomen who have returned from South Africa, who have been complaining because they have not been paid in full, shall receive their arrears.

REAL WARM WELCOME TO SIR THOMAS LIPTON

The English Yachtsman Reaches New York and is Cordially Received—Believes Shamrock Will Win—A Canadian Challenger.

New York, Aug. 21.—Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of Shamrock II., challenger for the America's cup, arrived in this city at 8 o'clock this evening. He met with the most cordial American reception, indeed the steamship Teutonic, on which he was a passenger, received one continuous ovation from Sandy Hook to her dock. Sir Thomas and his party landed at 8 o'clock and were driven to the Waldorf-Astoria for dinner. To-morrow he will take up his quarters on the steam yacht Erin, now anchored off Stapleton.

Included in the party of Sir Thomas were George Lennox Watson, designer of the Shamrock, Hon. Chas. Russell, who will represent the Royal Yacht Club on the American cup defender, J. B. Hilliard, a prominent Clyde yachtsman, whom next to Mr. Jamieson, Sir Thomas considers the best amateur yachtsman of the United Kingdom; C. O'Malley, John Westwood and Wm. M. Duncan.

FULL OF HOPE.
Sir Thomas comes to America for his second attempt to lift the cup, cheerful and resolute. He had this to say to the newspaper correspondents: "I think I can do better this time, for I have in Shamrock II. a better boat, at least nine minutes faster over a 30-mile course than the Shamrock I, and the old boat during the trials on the other side was certainly five to ten minutes faster than when she raced in America in 1899. At any rate we expect to make a good race against the American defender, whether she be the Constitution or Columbia. I am hoping for a good breeze during the races, for certainly Shamrock II. is something better than a light weather boat."

"Whatever the outcome I shall be thoroughly satisfied that the better boat has won. I have the utmost faith that we shall win."

WON'T RACE INDEPENDENCE.

Judging from the conversation with Sir Thomas and members of his party, it is not likely that Shamrock II. will engage the Independence. Sir Thomas feels that his challenge applies only to the defender selected by the N. Y. Y. C., and that it would not be well for him to sail other matches. Designer Watson, who accompanies Sir Thomas, when asked if he were satisfied with Shamrock II., said: "I am not satisfied with her as a boat but as a racing machine. I hope she will give a good account of herself. Under the tonnage rule nothing is developed, so far as marine architecture is concerned in building racing machines, but as an experiment in fast boats propelled by the wind it is perhaps interesting. We hope to be successful."

W. G. Jamieson, the well-known amateur yachtsman who will sail on Shamrock in the cup races, representing Sir Thomas Lipton in the management of the boat, will not arrive till next week. He will be accompanied by Submaster Raley and Capt. Wring, who sailed the first Shamrock in the races two years ago.

CANADIAN CHALLENGE.

New York, August 21.—A special from Montreal says: The syndicate of Sydney yachtsmen who had Duggan design the Cibou, winner of the Prince of Wales cup at Halifax, has decided to challenge for the America's cup in the event of Sir Thomas Lipton failing to lift it. The leaders of the syndicate are H. M. Whitney, of the Dominion Coal Co., A. J. Moxam, manager of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., ex-Mayor Stephen, of Halifax, Leroy Williams and others. Herick Duggan will be asked to design the challenger.

A Canadian yacht has not been entered for the America's cup since 1881, when the Atlanta raced the Mischief and was beaten. The only other Canadian entry was the Countess of Dufferin, which was defeated by the Madeleine in 1876.

SHOOTING AFFRAY

Four men Wounded, Three Fatally, After Justices Retired to Decide a Case.

Water Valley, Miss., Aug. 21.—A shooting affray occurred at Reynolds, in Panola county, ten miles north of Water Valley, this afternoon, in which four men were wounded, three of them fatally.

Otto Johnson was being tried before Justices Shelby and Warner on a charge of seduction. The evidence was all in, and the justices had retired to make up their verdict. More than 100 men were present in the room. Suddenly a shot was fired, supposedly by Otto Johnson.

Instantly other shots were fired, fully fifty in all, and when the smoke cleared away Otto Johnson had three bullets through the body. Len Smith, who testified against Johnson one through the breast; J. W. Dawson one through the breast and the father of Len Smith one through the arm. Eight or ten had narrow escapes.

All the parties to the difficulty are farmers.

"We were very much pleased with the design you sent. It was beautiful and appropriate." The Victoria Ave. Greenhouses receive such words of commendation every day. Telephone No. 181.

OVERBOARD

How a Supposed Thief Disposed of Silverware Which was to be Used as Evidence Against Him.

Toronto, August 21.—A struggle having a peculiar result took place on the Str. Corona last night as she was coming through the eastern gap into the harbor. Detective Slemm, of the city force, was bringing back from Niagara Falls a man named John Madison, who was accused of breaking into the house of H. H. Cook, the lumberman, and stealing a quantity of silverware. Detective Slemm had the prisoner handcuffed to him on the boat, and the silverware was carried in a satchel. As the steamer was entering the harbor Madison engaged in a struggle with Slemm, and managed to secure the satchel with the silverware, which he dropped overboard, so the principal evidence against him was lost.

ANOTHER NEGRO HANGED.

Charlotte, N. C., August 21.—Luke Hough, a negro, was hanged near Wadesboro, N. C., to-night by a crowd of enraged citizens. His body was then riddled with bullets. His crime was criminally assaulting Miss Lena Keith.

It Means Something

To have the largest circulation in Western Ontario, to carry more advertising than any other newspaper printed or published in this district. It means that . . . . .

"The Planet"

gives an advertiser the kind of satisfaction he wants, at a price he is satisfied to pay. It is the real reason—The secret others are seeking to solve—That The Planet is ever winning increased patronage and approval.

THURSDAY, AUG. 22.

PLANET SHOW PRINTING.

Since Saturday last The Planet Show Printing Department has received large orders for theatrical printing and engraving from Boston, Mass., Kingston, Perth, Toronto and London, and the prospects of a largely increasing business this fall are most encouraging. Several large orders have also been placed for block engraved stands, as The Planet is the only establishment in Canada that supplies this class of printing to the theatrical profession.

BE UP AND DOING.

One doesn't feel particularly energetic these days. "It's sleepy weather," as one citizen wistfully put it yesterday.

But slothfulness doesn't pay—never did. And if it is the weather conditions and their somnolent tendencies that have caused the long silence and inaction of the city Board of Trade, relative to local beet-sugar industries, the members thereof will be glad that The Planet has decided to create just enough racket over the matter to arouse them. For the members of the Board of Trade are a really appreciative and energetic coterie.

Have we your ear, gentlemen, for a moment?

You will notice in your Planet of yesterday that the refinery established at Wallaceburg is giving such splendid results that London, Hamilton, Walkerton and other places—with far less claim and natural advantages, than Chatham possesses—are all earnestly negotiating for the location of factories.

You didn't notice Chatham in the list.

Do you, gentlemen of the Board of Trade, intend that a large beet-sugar industry shall be established here? You told us some time ago that you did and we believe you. Then, have you communicated with any capitalists and promoters? Have you done anything to interest neighboring farmers in the growing of sugar-beets? Have you taken any active, genuine steps to bring about the erection and operation of a big refinery in Chatham?

If not, why not?

CANADA AND THE STATES.

The Ottawa Citizen directs attention to the fact that a New York paper institutes a comparison between the census returns of Canada and the United States, which, while not particularly encouraging, is interesting. The whole Dominion has only 5,338,883 inhabitants—an increase of 505,644 in ten years, or 9.4 per cent. In the same month the United States had 77,586,000 inhabitants, or nearly fifteen times as many as Canada. In the ten years from 1890 to 1900 the population of the United States increased by 13,235,045, or 21 per cent. The mere increase in the republic was nearly two and a half times the entire population of the Dominion in 1901.

Our New York contemporary adds magnanimously: "Canada is all right. There are many states in the Union that are growing less rapidly than she is. It is even possible to pick out a group of seven states which together have no more people than the seven self-governing provinces of the Dominion and are making no greater progress. It is only when the Canadians try to represent their little colony as a continental power and a rival of the United States that they provoke a smile."

Nobody has been representing Canada as a continental power, except in its relation as a portion of an empire, the statistics of whose population would make the United States look like a suburban borough. Canadians may not be numerous but the breed is all right, which is more than can be said of the polyglot millions of the States. We have a fertile country with great natural resources and plenty of room to grow. We are becoming wealthy. We have a healthy climate, good schools, an excellent banking system and a law-abiding and contented people. Statistics aside, can our patronizing republican cousins say as much?

HELP YOUR NEWSPAPER.

There are more ways than one in which the readers of a newspaper can help it. A very important item of help is, of course, the financial support in the way of subscriptions and advertising. Occasionally a subscriber gets an exaggerated idea of his importance in this respect and "stops" his paper because of some real or fancied oversight or mistake on the part of his newspaper, forgetting that he is only one out of thousands and that while the aggregate is a large matter, the one has but a small effect on the total circulation. No publisher, however, despises the individual support in this respect. The reader can often assist materially in making his newspaper better by furnishing items of interest. No matter how large its staff of news gatherers they cannot be ubiquitous, and especially in the case of a local paper can assistance often be rendered by giving the office or the reporter an idea of news. Such assistance is always welcomed. Then, again, a paper can be helped by the presentation through its columns of well-written letters on subjects of public importance. There is perhaps on the score a redundancy as well as a deficiency. There are in most communities persons who are ready to rush into print frequently and to contribute letters which are not of an edifying character. Sometimes it is difficult to get readers whose opinions would be really valuable on certain subjects to place them before the public in a letter written to a newspaper, but such letters when well written, form a valuable help to making up a newspaper. Editorial articles although supposed to be impersonal are after all to a great extent personal views, or views on certain subjects, presented as some aspects of them may present themselves to one or more minds. Strong clear opinions from readers couched in appropriate language, will command attention and make a newspaper of increased interest to other readers. The New York Sun has recently been congratulating itself in an editorial article on the quantity and quality of the correspondence which it has always been able to obtain from its readers. It has systematically encouraged them to use its columns to state their individual opinions, and in this way has been enabled to publish a great deal of very valuable matter, which it truly regards as one of the most valuable features of the paper. If a reader of any well-conducted paper has an idea on a subject well thought out, the paper will always be glad to receive and publish it, but one or two points are essential in such letters. They should as a rule be brief, and personalities should be eschewed.

SHELVED.

The Hamilton Spectator presents the following list of Liberal claims which the census figures will retire from active service—

The growing time.
The suppression of the exodus.
The wonderful progress of the country.

That the increase in population justifies the enormous increase in the Government's expenditure.
That the growth of the country warrants the enlargement of the Dominion cabinet.

That the country is more prosperous under Liberal rule.
That the present Government is doing wonders in inducing immigration.

And,
That big trade figures are a sure indication of great prosperity.

There really seems to be no doubt about it, after all. Chatham, the superior of Windsor in every other respect, is inferior in population.

The census returns remind us, says the Ottawa Citizen, that the expenditure of the last session of parliament was about $11 per head of population.

Windsor has a bit of a start over Chatham in population. But we'll wager that the Maple City reaches the 20,000 mark first.

The greatest increase in Canada's population is along the line of the C. P. R. and in the districts opened up by the big Canadian railway, points out the Brockville Times. Yet this was the road so sneered at and depreciated by the Liberal party when the Conservatives proposed to build it.

The Banner-News gloats over the fact that it mentioned a county court case "exclusively" in its Monday issue. Of course you did, little one. This great home journal gave the news the previous Saturday. Our tardy contemporary has "exclusive" news items every day which have been culled from previous issues of The Planet.

OUR SINKING POPULATION.

Bobcaygeon Independent.

Mrs. Hetty Green, the richest woman in the world, acknowledges that her sole hobby consists in constantly changing her place of abode. Mr. Smiff, the gentleman who writes our leading articles, in his younger days was given to the same hobby. He moved every quarter day. Many of his friends affected the same hobby, and among themselves it was jocularly spoken of as "shooting the moon."

PLAIN FIGURE PRICES

There is no good, honest business reason why a merchant should not mark his goods in plain figures. It pleases certain people wonderfully to take something off the price, and in order to give this pleasure and not interfere with their profit, some merchants mark their goods in hieroglyphics and adjust the price to suit the customer. If goods are right and prices are right, no need to be afraid of daylight information. We believe the only straightforward, honest business method is a plain figure, one price plain, the same to everybody. You can read your own prices on every piece of goods in this store.

THE LOCAL MARKETS

Planet Office, Tuesday evening, Aug. 20, 1901.

The following grain gossip was given to The Planet, by Wm. H. Benson, of the Canada Flour Mills Co.

New wheat is offering very freely; very little change in price. The dealers are looking for lower prices, as the Northwest wheat begins to move.

Coarse grains are offering very freely.

Oats—Dealers are looking for a decline in price of oats, especially in mixed, as there are very little inquiry for them by export dealers.

Barley—Very little inquiry; as the malting season has hardly got in full swing yet.

Corn—Very little offering, as the supply of old is almost exhausted. There is no change from last week's quotations.

Beans—Very few being offered by the farmers. What is offered on the market commands a good price, from $1.50 to $1.80.

The wool market is about over, and is very quiet.

DETERMINED TO DIE.

Innisfail, N. W. T., Aug. 20.—Frank Holmes, a young Englishman living two miles west of here, was in town and attempted to suicide in Kemp's livery barn. He fired two shots at himself with a 22-calibre revolver. He did himself no injury, however, and the gun was taken away from him. He then pulled out a bottle of strychnine and attempted to swallow the contents, but was stopped. The bottle was taken from him, and he was placed under arrest.

STONED HIM TO DEATH.

Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 20.—Four boys, Roy and Lester McVeta and Ray and Freddie Marvin, all in knickerbockers, ranging in age from six to ten years, have been arrested for stoning another boy, Eddie McKee, to death. Only one of the children was old enough to write his name to the bond. The children were playing on the railroad, when the McKee boy, who was older, came along, and a fight followed, which resulted in his death.

RAILWAY LOSSES HEAVILY.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 20.—The freight sheds and 50 freight cars, belonging to the Union Pacific Railroad, were burned at the transfer depot of that company in Council Bluffs to-day, causing a loss estimated at $100,000. ## SULTAN INSULTS FRENCH MINISTER.

London, Wednesday, Aug. 21.—A despatch to the Times from Constantinople says that the promises made by the Sultan to M. Constans, the French Ambassador, regarding the quays dispute were unfulfilled. It is added that M. Constans has intimated that unless the matter is settled by Monday noon relations between France and Turkey will be broken off. The Sultan promised a settlement by noon on Tuesday next.

LOSS OVER $200,000.

St. Louis, Island of Marie Galanti, W. I., Aug. 29. (via Haytian cable).—The fire which nearly destroyed Grand Bourg, the principal town of this island (having a population of about 15,000 persons) broke out at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in the residence of the commissary of police. The conflagration is supposed to have been of incendiary origin, due to malevolence. All the public buildings except the church, prison and headquarters of the Genda armory, were destroyed, as were some 500 houses. The flames were extinguished at nine in the morning. From three to four thousands are without shelter, and suffering from the want of food. The Governor of Guadalupe, Joseph Francois, has chartered the steamer Horten, which left that island yesterday with the first relief supplies of food and money. The Governor of Guadalupe himself will leave Basse-Terre, capital of the island, to-day, for Grand Bourg, where he will arrive Wednesday. Public subscriptions are being organized at Guadalupe. The loss sustained is estimated at over $200,000.

CITY GUNNERS SHOOT NOT

Service of Complaint Stops the Marksmen's Practice this Afternoon.

Club Grounds and Traps are Idle While Gun Club Men Mourn Sotly.

There may be some citizens who purpose strolling out to the Fair grounds at five o'clock this afternoon to witness the scheduled shoot of the Maple City Gun Club. If some kind friend fails to post them upon recent happenings, their recreation will be solely that of the pedestrian. They will find the traps idle and the grounds deserted.

Yesterday Officer Tom Groves paid an official visit to L. F. Wilson. "Link" is the secretary of the Gun Club and received from the officer notification that complaint had been laid against the shooting upon the Fair grounds and it would have to be discontinued forthwith. The name of the complainant was not given nor the cause of complaint, yet the officer's instructions were emphatic. Consequently this afternoon's shoot is indefinitely postponed.

If the prohibitory mandate is perpetual the members of the Gun Club will be heavy losers. They have expended over $100 in "new traps" and houses and have built, in addition, the sidewalk and stands. They have also leased the grounds and a year's rental has been paid in advance.

But, perhaps, the severest blow will be the cancellation of the big tournament here, for which full preparations have been made. This will be a great loss to the club, but it will also be a loss to the city. About one hundred visiting marksmen were expected and all of these shooters would leave considerable money in the city during the days of the tournament.

Mr. Wilson, however, does not believe, however, that the prohibition will be perpetual. Speaking to The Planet this afternoon he said, "I am very hopeful that arrangements can be made by which the use of the grounds can be continued. The Gun Club feels that when matters are fully explained and its desire to deal fairly with everyone is pointed out, complaint will be withdrawn. I feel sure that the matter will be adjusted amicably."

Rosedale Cricketers Give Them an Awful Drubbing—Chathamites Shared Bowling.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—The picked Western Ontario cricket team played the first of their three matches in the city yesterday. They met the strong Rosedale team, and were defeated by 220 runs in a single innings game. The North End team gave the tourists a merry hunt for the leather during the afternoon, hitting up a grand total of 274 runs. J. H. Forrester contributed a beautiful innings of 103 runs, including 13 fours. Fleetwood 50, H. Beatty 42, and A. N. Garrett 16 were the chief scorers. One over off the visitors' bowling gave Rosedale 21 runs, 4 fours, and a five.

The visitors went first to bat, and Capt. J. Horstead was the only batter to reach double figures. He played a nice bat for his 30. Richardson was at the wicket for a long time, but only put up 8 runs. The West-erners had 4 wickets down for 3 runs; the next one added 43. This was their only stand. Rosedale fielded sharply. Major Coogan Says he is Preparing Evidence in the Well-poisoning Case.

Dungey came up again in the County Court yesterday afternoon and was again remanded until the 23rd. Pelletier, charged with poisoning the well of Mr. Price, will come up for trial on the 27th. He is at present out on bail. In speaking of the case this morning High Constable Coogan said: "A man who would poison a well is the meanest and worst sort of a murderer, because he is a coward at heart. The man who did the deed must have used about two pounds of Paris green and then used a pole to stir it up in the well. He must have done it in the night time, which also shows that he was a coward. One mouthful of the water in the well is enough to kill any man. I have in my possession the pole he used to stir up the water, and I think, though, that we will have considerable difficulty in procuring sufficient evidence as it is a very difficult case to get at."

THE UNDOING OF A DOUBT BY HUGO ST. FINISTERRE, MD.

AUTHOR OF "WHO'S WHO ETC. ETC."
COPYRIGHT, 1898 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

"Yo' hain't left a crumb, Marse Hank. Shall I go and get a cartload more fur yo'?"
"I have plenty, thank you," I replied dignifiedly, "but you must remember that that is the first mouthful I have had since last night."
His eyes expanded, and he twisted his thick lips into a grin to emit a whistle.
"Gorrynation, if dat had been me I'd died two, free days ago!"
I looked toward Black Man's swamp. Still it gave no sign of life.
"Well, Erastus, now that the hungry has been fed, what do you think I ought next to do?"
"Hanged if I know! Miss Esther had writ it all down in dat letter and said as how dat would explain matters."

And the worried fellow renewed his search for the missing missive, making as he went, a most comical figure, as he shuffled and shuffled, with the former hunt had established the fact that it was nowhere about him.
I felt uneasy in remaining near the swamp, from which my pursuers were likely to emerge at any moment.
"Erastus, I am going home with you. Lead on."

"Guess dat's what Miss Esther expects from de way she looked at me when she handed me dat letter."
"Don't think any more about it," I remarked, with an odd pang of jealousy that so unworthy a person should be the recipient of a missive from the dainty hand of Colonel Mansley's only daughter.

"Seems de debil!" muttered Erastus, finally giving up the hunt through his clothing and scrutinizing the ground as he walked onward, with me beside him, furtively glancing every few seconds over my shoulder.
"Do you know a darky named Pete who lives in Black Man's swamp?" I asked, with a view of diverting his attention from the subject that distressed him.

Erastus stopped short, with a sort of gasp, and stared at me.
"Why do yo' ask dat question, Marse Hank? Yo' knows dat everybody in de world knows dat wuthless nigger. He's a bad man. Doan' yo' trust him."

"I must say I don't fancy his looks and manner and might have known that you are acquainted with him. Why does he make his home in the swamp?"
My companion must have thought I was pretending ignorance, but all the same he answered with engaging frankness:

"His fader was Big Tom, who runned away afo' de war. He war de slave of Gin'ral Witterspoon and one day killed his overseer. He tuk to de woods, slewed de dogs day hunted him wid and libed dar till he died."

"His wife accompanied him, I suppose?"
"Yaas, and dar son Pete was born dar and hab libed dar eber since."
"What is there so bad about Pete?"
"Why, I hab heard it said," replied Erastus, lowering his voice to a confidential key, "dat he ain't none too good to stole chickens. What yo' tink ob dat, Marse Hank?"

"It is awful," I replied, with a shudder. "I have my suspicions that he is degraded enough to indulge in such wicked doings."

"I doan' say so myself, fur I nebbber hab met him when—dat is!"
"You have never met him when?"
"When—dat is, when I sometimes takes a walk by moonlight," explained Erastus, with considerable embarrassment.

This was amusing in its way, but I was eager to question the servant about the family of Colonel Mansley and saw no way of doing so. Evidently he had not a grain of doubt that I was the real Henry Beyer, who, as the accepted suitor of Miss Mansley, could impart information to others. The questions which I would have asked, therefore, would have made me ridiculous in his eyes. His mistress, having reason to believe I was in hiding somewhere in the neighborhood and knowing my personal danger, had sent her servant with food and a letter which, unfortunately, he had lost on the way.

There were other points, however, upon which it was safe to question the African.
"Erastus, what made you leave me so suddenly last night?"
"Yo' knows, Marse Hank. It war de cry ob dat bloodhound."
"But he was looking for me, not for you."
"I know dat, but I war wid yo'. Dem critters sometimes get t'ings mixed, and he might tuk me fur yo'-se'f and not found it out till he had chased me up."

"Have yo' seen anything of the dogs and men today?"
"Send a party go by de house, but dey didn't stop. Dey had a dog wid 'em. Miss Esther seed 'em, too, and she turned white as def. Den she writ dat letter and put up de stuff to eat and told me to try to hunt yo' up. Gorrynation, I didn't know what to look fur yo', but I jes' dug ahead till I happened to see yo', and den I nearly swung my arm off tryin' to hurry yo' up."

"Has Colonel Mansley said anything in your hearing about me and the affair of last night?"
"The face of the African became grave, and he lowered his voice.
"Dat's somethin' goin' on atween him and Miss Esther dat gits me. Dey had a long talk together de mawnin', and den he had me saddle de big bay horse, and he jumped on his back and rode away like de debil."

"Where was he going?"
"Hain't no idee, but it looked as if he meant to ride de bay to det, and he'll doot, too, if he doan' draw rain on him purty soon."

We were approaching the residence of the gentleman of whom we were speaking. It was a disappointment to learn that he was absent, for it interfered with my plan of appealing directly to him. However, I could not think he would be gone long.

I was on the point of asking a question of no special import when Erastus uttered an exclamation, and I turned toward him to learn the cause. He had caught sight of an object in the path ahead and broke into a run for it. I saw something white lying on the ground and knew what it was before he added joyously:

"Dat's de letter dat Miss Esther writ fur yo' dat I lost!"
And, picking it up, he eagerly handed it to me.
"I doan' s'pose it doan' make no difference, Marse Hank, and, if it's all de same to yo', yo' needn't observe anything 'bout my losin' it."

"I certainly shall make no mention of it."
And, to show my indifference, I was on the point of placing it in my pocket unopened when a pardonable curiosity led me to look at the address written in a dainty hand. The name, instead of being "Henry Beyer," was "Mr. Edward Kenmore."

Miss Mansley had written the communication to me!

CHAPTER XIX.
With feelings that cannot be described I read my own name on the envelope which Erastus Brown, the colored man, handed to me. Until that moment I had not dreamed that it was not intended for Hank Beyer, but I was mistaken. It was for me and no one else.

Breaking the envelope, I read the following:
Mr. Edward Kenmore:
I have learned the dreadful mistake that was made last night regarding yourself. The people believe you to be a criminal when you are an honest stranger in this neighborhood. Nevertheless, the law is powerless to protect you for the time being, and your only safety lies in holding yourself beyond reach of the misguided men until steps can be taken to establish your identity. My father is doing his best, but he may not succeed in time. Knowing that you must be in need of food, I have sent our servant in quest of you, bearing this note of explanation and with little hope that he will succeed in finding either. Should, as I desire to say to you, speaking for my father, Colonel Mansley, and myself, that you will be given a cordial welcome under our roof and will be attended to the last.

ESTHER MANSLEY.
How characteristic, this letter of a true southern woman! And how characteristic, too, of her real father, the Confederate veteran! Having become satisfied of the truth and my grievous peril, they were ready to defend me to the death, even though the parent had never seen me and I had not exchanged a word with the daughter. It was sufficient for them to know that an irreparable wrong impended for their sympathies to be enlisted.

And yet as I walked slowly forward beside the colored servant, to whose chatter I gave no heed, a labyrinth of perplexity opened before me. Despite her chivalrous feelings toward me, it was evident that she loved the warriar Hank Beyer, the cause of all the mischief and trouble. There is no fathoming the mystery and contradictions of a woman's heart, and, should it come to a choice between sacrificing me or him, which would she choose? With that willful unreasonableness often manifested by a bright woman, would she not be ruled by her emotions and her affection? The problem was beyond my solution, and my footsteps lagged, for I was uncertain whether to go on or turn aside and seek safety without human help.

No doubt Colonel Mansley had ridden with headlong haste in quest of help to protect me from lynching. Great as was his personal influence in his own neighborhood, he must know that a mob is not amenable to reason, and with the people roused to exasperation against me for my supposed crime they would give no heed to his pleadings. While standing alone he could make out a weak defense against the infuriated yemen.

True, if he could convince his friends beyond the immediate vicinity of the real situation, he might organize a force that could defy the mob, but to do that required at least several hours, and my fate must be decided in the meantime.

I turned about and studied the swamp now at a considerable distance to the rear. Still it gave no sign. What could it all mean? Where were those men and their bloodhounds that were so clamorous for my death? I was now in the open and offered the most inviting opportunity for destruction, but they made no attempt to do me harm.

We had now advanced so far that the broad, spacious residence of Colonel Mansley, surrounded by trees, was in sight, with the winding highway in front. Had I described any of my enemies when I cast my last searching look to the rear I should have changed my line of flight so as to pass to one side of the dwelling and grounds, while I sought safety somewhere else, but with the coast clear it seemed that it was my duty to call at the dwelling and personally thank Miss Mansley for what she had already done and for the interest she showed in my welfare.

Trifling matters intrude on the most momentous occasions. I looked down at my clothing and felt that I was not in proper form to appear before a young lady. While my garments had suffered little damage during my flight through the swamp my shoes were soiled. I needed clean linen, my hair was unkempt, and a three days' growth of beard demanded attention. If I only had my traveling bag, which presumably was still at the inn at Aldine, the necessary metamorphosis could be effected, but it was hardly the part of prudence for me to go in quest of it.

"Erastus," I said, stopping short, with a new inspiration, "can't you go down to Landford Bullfinch's and get the valise I left there?"
"No, sah," was the prompt response.
"Why not?" I demanded.
"Cause it ain't dar."

"How do you know that?"
"It hab been tuk away."
"Who took it?"
"Me."

"You! When did you do that?"
"Dis mawnin'."

"How came you to do that?"
"Miss Esther sent me fur it. I fotched dat and yo' umbrella, and dey bote likewise am at de house now."

This was gratifying news in every sense, for it not only provided me with what I greatly needed, but showed that Miss Mansley expected me to come to her home. This put a new face on matters and sealed my determination to go thither.

But a bewildering complication impended. What had become of the real Hank Beyer? Had he presented himself to the young woman since the affair of last night? Was she lending a hand to protect him also? It was vain to speculate over that which was beyond my comprehension, and I gave up the attempt.

SOUGHT DEATH

Unknown man Deliberately Ducked His Head Under Water.

Detroit, Aug. 21.—A man floating down the river and attempting to drown himself, and yet unable to sink below the water's surface, was the peculiar sight that people along the wharf at the foot of Twenty-fourth street saw last night about 6 o'clock. For some time the man floundered about in the water and frequently held his head below the surface for a minute or two. Finally a spectator rowed out and towed the body to the wharf, but life had already fled.

George Bingham, who was standing on the wharf, saw the man climb to the top of a lumber pile close by and take off his coat and vest. He carefully folded them and placed beside them a pair of carpet slippers that he wore. Then with an unearthly shriek he plunged into the river ten or fifteen feet below.

At first the people thought the fellow was in for a frolic, as he did not sink. Frequently he held his head under water and would then shake it and blow the water from his nose and mouth.

Finally the spectators, after watching him for half an hour, concluded that he was trying to commit suicide and could not sink.

Daniel Corbin, of 44 Minnie street, secured a rowboat and rowed to where the body was drifting dead. It was towed ashore, and a coroner's inquest was summoned and ordered it taken to J. W. Maney's morgue, 48 National avenue.

The man was apparently a German or a Belgian, about 40 years of age. He weighed about 180 pounds, had black hair and a sandy mustache and wore a brown coat and vest, blue flannel shirt similar to those worn by firemen, and a slouch hat. His trousers were of common cloth. Aside from a match safe, which had come from H. A. Hinz's cafe, 75 Gratiot avenue, and a knife and empty tobacco pouch, there was nothing in the pockets by which he could be identified.

Several people who saw him say that he closely resembles the first mate of the M. P. Barkley, a vessel that was unloading at the Twenty-fourth street wharf a couple of weeks ago.

VISIT FRANCE

Czar has Accepted Loubet's Invitation—Anarchists Secure Date.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The Parisians were delighted to-day by the unexpected announcement that the Czar of Russia has accepted President Loubet's invitation to witness the close of the grand manoeuvres, at Rheims, and that he will land at Dunkirk after having previously witnessed, with President Loubet, a review of the northern squadron, which will welcome his majesty to French waters.

There is a drop of bitterness, however, mingled in the cup of joy, and that is that the Czar will stop on his way for the purpose of seeing Emperor William of Germany. But the papers are consoling the Parisians with assertions that the interview between the Czar and Emperor William will take place at sea, off Dantzic, so the Czar will not set foot on German soil before reaching that of France.

The Temps says the visit was personally arranged between President Loubet and the Czar themselves, through the intermediary of a Russian-court official. The foreign office has no news of an intended meeting of the Czar, Emperor William and King Edward at Kiel, Sept. 7, as telegraphed from Berlin this afternoon. The foreign office thinks it is even denying the truth of the story.

The exact dates of the arrival and departure of the Czar are not fixed. The only thing certain is that he will arrive between Sept. 15 and Sept. 20. He will remain four or five days and will join the Czarina, who will come by the land route to Compiegne, to which place he will proceed from Rheims, where he and President Loubet will review 150,000 troops about Sept. 19.

The officials of the foreign office intimate that the exact dates are purposely withheld, in order to prevent the plotting of anarchists and others.

BRIBE JUDGE

Lawyers Endeavored to Buy off the Bench in a Toledo Case.

Toledo, Aug. 20.—There were some sensational developments to-day in the case in which State Pare Food Commissioner Blackburn recently secured a verdict of guilty against A. D. White, a local grocer, charged with selling a glazed coffee manufactured by the Arbuckles.

The attorneys for the Arbuckles went before Judge Meek, in the city courts, before whom the case was tried, and requested him to make the docket entry so as to get the case into the higher courts. Judge Meek declined to do so until Walter Brown, the attorney for the state, was present. A heated discussion ensued, in which the attorneys for the Arbuckles, which the attorneys for the Arbuckles charged that the attorneys for the Arbuckles had sent three men to him offering $1,000 to let them have the jury. The judge says he will, if necessary, make public the names of the men who made him the proposition.

In answer to this charge Clarence Arbuckle, gave the Associated Press the following statement: "I will say that an offer was made to us to secure a verdict for defendant in the coffee case for a consideration and the price was named. We don't say it was done by Meek's authority, for we don't know. But the offer was made and the price was named at which we could secure a verdict, but we did not care to get one that way."

The case will probably be investigated. It is charged that the Woolsons are back of the state's prosecution of this case. The court made the entry after mandamus proceedings had been threatened.

WELCH ON BASEBALL.

"Smiling Mickey" Talks of the Prospects of the Game.

"Smiling Mickey" Welch, who helped pitch the New Yorks to the pennant in 1888 and 1889, has interesting ideas regarding the progress of the game since he was one of its stars. The fact is he does not think there has been much progress since then, and as he was a player of intelligence as well as of mechanical ability his opinions are entitled to weight, however much they may be differed from. Welch lives at Holyoke, Mass., and comes to New York now and then to see a game, so he is not criticising from hearsay.

"The pitchers nowadays have not got anything on the pitchers in the eighties, and the players nowadays have not got anything on the players of those days," said Welch a day or two ago. "The same tactics were used when I was playing ball that are used now, and the only way in which the game has improved that I can see is that there are more good players. There are more good pitchers, too, a larger number of scientific batters and more fast fielders. That is natural in the development of the game, as it would be in any other business, but the first class players of the present are no better than the first class players 15 and 20 years ago."

"I know the pitcher has to stand back further from the plate now, but this does not make pitching any harder for him except that it gives the batter more chance to time the ball. But look at the new foul strike rule that batters have to go against now. Why, the first thing they know the very best hitters have two strikes on them and are in a hole."

They played the hit and run game in the eighties; but, as I said, did not have as many players who could work it as now. I don't believe there ever was a better hitter than Anson; in fact, I think he was the best batter the game ever saw. Talk about place hitting, there was one man who could do it. Show me any pitcher of the present time who was better than Clarkson, Keefe and Radbourn. Those men not only had the arms, but the head. They were pitchers of fine judgment. I believe Clarkson was the greatest pitcher that ever threw a ball. Nobody was in it with him in the knowledge of how to use a slow ball. 'Lad' Baldwin was the only great left hander I ever saw."

"As an argument of what I say about old timers is the fact that the champions of today are instructed by one of the old timers, Ned Hanlon. He, by the way, was the best base runner on the diamond in those days and the only one that gave Buck Ewing any trouble when the latter was in his prime. Speaking of Ewing, I believe he was the greatest ball player that ever lived. There may have been better catchers, but for knowledge of the game, knowing just what to do and all around ability he had them all beat. Why, when I was pitching to him we used to waste three balls on such a good base runner as Kelly in order to get him to second, and then Buck would give him a start and nail him by 20 feet. We always knew when a base runner was going down. We simply watched him, used our heads, and he would tell us himself. Ewing certainly was the king of them all, and I've yet to see his equal."

The Great Gokteik Viaduct.

The Gokteik viaduct in Burma, which has been constructed by American bridge builders and which has been the subject of discussion in the British parliament, has the distinction of being the largest structure of the kind in the world and the highest, with one exception. It is 2,200 feet long, and its extreme height above the foundations is 335 feet. The only viaduct exceeding it in height is at Loa, in Bolivia, in the Antofagasta railroad, that structure being 336½ feet high, but it is only 800 feet long. Moreover, the foundations of the Gokteik bridge rest upon a natural rock bridge, so that the track is no less than 835 feet above the river, which flows through the natural tunnel. A table published by Engineering News shows that the highest viaduct in the United States is that over the Pecos river in Texas on the Southern Pacific railroad, which is 321 feet high and 2,180 feet long, while close behind it is the Kinzua viaduct on the Erie railroad in Pennsylvania, which is 301 feet high and 2,033 feet long.

Loubet's Democracy.

President Loubet is rapidly driving his master of ceremonies to despair. The president will not have ceremony. It does not fit in with his happy, impetuous manner. Directly his visitors arrive he rushes forward and gives a grip of the hand before his bewildered attendant has got out with the usual announcement. And now, copying the example of the king of the Belgians and no doubt with happy recollections of his struggling bachelor days, the president takes M. Loubet out to dine at a cafe in the open air. Parisians are delighted.

A Variable Lamp.

Among recent novelties in electric lighting is an incandescent lamp having two independent filaments, one giving 10 and the other only one candle power. The low power light is intended for burning in a sickroom or wherever a faint illumination is desired. The current is changed from one filament to the other by turning the lamp in a screw socket.

Big Death List From Awful Heat!!

Suicide, Insanity, Nervous Prostration and Paralysis Claiming Hundreds of Victims—Is Your System in Shape to Carry You Through?

The appalling death rate which accompanies the withering hot waves of summer has set many people thinking as to the best means of fortifying the system against the Grim Reaper. Each day of the scorching atmosphere weakens the body more and more, and its continuance leads to prostration, insanity, disease, suicide and death. ## FARMER'S HEAVY LOSS.

Fergus, Ont., Aug. 20.—One of the most severe storms in many years passed over this section yesterday afternoon. The lightning was terrific and struck the barn of Wm. Richardson, of Garafax, about three miles east of here. The contents, which consisted of about half of this year's crop and a large quantity of last season's grain, along with the building, were completely destroyed. A team of horses, belonging to Mr. Brennan, had been driven into Mr. Richardson's shed to escape the storm. The horses were killed, while the driver and another man, not six feet away, escaped unscathed. Mr. Richardson's loss will be about $3,000; insurance, $1,400.

Twentieth—"He hath taken a bag of money with him and will come at the day appointed."
