A Daring Officer

Disguised as Stupid Boer He Outwitted the Huns.

The cablegram from Vladivostok, stating that the first boatload of 800 returning Canadians of the Archangel expedition sailed about April 20, has revived some very interesting stories about the officer commanding the expedition to Russia, Maj.-Gen. Ironside.

When the Fourth Canadian Division went to France in August, 1916, there went with it, as general staff officer, Lieut.-Col. Ironside, a very big, stern young soldier in his middle thirties. He was such a good tactician and had such knowledge of Hun ways and systems, that those with whom he worked sought for his past history. Of this he would say little to his fellow staff officers, but one day it leaked out from an officer on army H. G. staff.

Gen. Ironside had been a driver in the German army in the grim campaigns of East Africa!

Disguised as a Boer of rather meagre intellect and stolid disposition, he accompanied all the movements of the Hun forces. He was thus able to study all their methods and systems. A master of strategy, he was able to piece together all their plans and intended campaigns. He made a few friends with the common soldiers on the different German staffs and from officers' servants, grooms, chauffeurs and passing despatch riders he gathered gossip that gave him the key to the situations that developed.

These bits of information were passed on through the various channels to the opposing British staffs. He spoke Dutch fluently, and once said that it used often cause him inward amusement to be bossed brutally about by pups of young German officers. They treated him, and the phlegmatic type of Boer whom he was impersonating, very much like animals.

Upon finding that his career as a spy was known to the others on the Fourth Divisional Staff, Gen. Ironside would occasionally tell a few of his experiences, his favorite story being as follows:—

He applied to the German staff for discharge as he wished to go back to his farm. After some difficulty, and a good deal of browbeating from officers, this was arranged, but he found that they were not paying him his full pay. He complained, and obtained an audience with his officer. One tried to frighten him with loud talk, but the general true to the type he was impersonating, remained firm in his demands. Losing all patience, the other Prussian officer arose to his feet and struck him across the face with his whip.

Only with a mighty effort did he control the inclination to kill the officer, for stitched inside his tunic and in his breeches were all the maps of the campaign, the strength and organization of the Hun army in East Africa, and notes on their tactics and plans.

This information proved of immense value to the War Office in London, and also to him later when he became Gen. Watson's chief adviser on the staff of the 4th Canadian Division. Gradually, his past romantic history became known all throughout the Canadian Corps in France, and the men of the division took great pride in their big, forceful G.S.O. An expression of general regret ran through the Corps when it was learned that he was leaving the Canadians, but, when it was found that he was making the big jump in promotion — to become a major-general, and to take command of the Allied expedition in Russia—the men decided it was his just due.

The general and his ugly-looking bulldog, "Gibby," were a familiar sight to the men in the front line. A contemporary newspaper is wrong in stating that Gen. Ironside used often to go into the line without gas mask or steel helmet, for although he was bold and absolutely fearless in exposing himself to any danger, he used to insist on the men taking every precaution against foolish exposure of that kind and was meticulously careful always to set a fine example to the men and officers in the division.

Old Hats Exported.

Thousands of hats discarded by English women are exported every year to Brazil, where they are eagerly bought by the Indians. The feathers and other ornaments on the hats are taken by the men, and the bare straw shapes given to their women-folk.

Getting Together.

A youth named Beer was arrested the other day for breaking into a public-house. The magistrate decided that the proper place for him was the jug.—London Punch.

Y. M. C. A. Track Meet at Fair Grounds

A Twilight Track meet will be held next Thursday evening, July 3, at 7 p. m. There will be an interesting program and it is hoped every boy in the village will take advantage of this opportunity of displaying his athletic ability.

This the first of a series of track meets which will be held every week. The winners will be awarded with silk ribbons and credited with points, those gaining the greatest number during the season will be presented with either a cup or medal.

The County Y. M. C. A. secretary will act as director of sports. Everybody come, it is free. See handbills for program.

An important Conference of the Boys Workers of the County was held in the Y. M. C. A. Hamilton, on Saturday afternoon. Addresses were given by Mr. W. R. Cook, the Provincial Boys' Work Secretary; Rev. A. N. Barclay, of West Hamilton, and Major F. J. Smith, Director of Recreational Activities. An interesting discussion took place after each address and definite plans were adopted for carrying out the suggestions offered by the Speakers. The result of the Conference will be that many of the Boys of the small towns and rural districts will have in the near future an interesting recreational program for the summer.

Taylor-Crabbe Wedding

A quite but pretty wedding was solemnized at 4 p. m. on Saturday, June 7th at the Church of Ascension Rectory, Hamilton, by the Rev. H. Roche when Maisie Beatrice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Crabbe 182 Duke street, Hamilton, and Mr. Geo. S. Taylor of the Bell Telephone Co. of this village, were united in marriage.

The bride looked charming in a dress of brown georgette silk with rose headings and wearing the groom's gift, a gold cameo necklace set with tiny pearls. She was attended by Miss Edith Selina Moore of Dundas, who was becomingly attired in a dress of grey crepe-de-chine. The groom was attended by Mr. Robert O. Buchan of this village. A rather striking coincidence was that both the groom and best-man were in the same platoon with the 15th Batt. in France for over two years, both having served as sergeants.

After the ceremony the happy young couple left by way of the Highway for parts unknown, but on their return will make their home in Dundas.

Turner-Schoan

A very pretty wedding took place in Victoria avenue Baptist church on Wednesday afternoon, June 18, at 3 o'clock, when Rev. William Ross, pastor of the church, united in marriage Mr. Edgar Roy Turner, of Chicago, and Miss Etta Elizabeth Schoan, of Aldershot, Ont. The bride was prettily gowned in green rajah silk and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Melva Schoan. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Melville Turner, of Stouffville, Ont.

After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the residence of the bride's father in Aldershot, where a reception was held and a luncheon partaken of.

The happy couple left for a trip down the Saguenay. Needless to add, the young couple were followed by the best of good wishes by their large circle of friends. They will reside at 2515 South Ridgeway avenue, Chicago, Ill.

William Tuck and bride of Rockwood, are spending part of their honeymoon with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Tuck.

Rev. W. W. Prudham and wife of Walkerton are paying a flying visit to his parental home here.

USE OF THE RAT.

Had Its Part in World Ages Ago.

One of the zoological details connected with the rat is its failure to sustain any discoverable relation with the balance of nature.

The rat seems the solitary exception to the general experience that interference with the fauna of an environment invites disaster through an upset of the balance of nature.

Rats will attack very large organisms. Even the elephant is not respected. It is widely known that certain varieties of Asiatic elephants have a great dread of rats.

In brief, all the evidence suggests that there has raged in the past a great warfare between the rat and certain gigantic forms of life.

The very voracity of the rat must have been of great zoological importance when it had to attack, perhaps, a herd of mastodons.

TOGOLAND

Togoland is one of the earliest and richest of German colonies.

Togoland is shaped like a hoghead, with a 32-mile base resting on the Gulf of Guinea, its sides swelling to more than three times that width.

Germany annexed Togoland in 1884, the year she launched upon her colonial expansion with the acquisition also of Northeastern New Guinea and the Bismarck Archipelago.

Along the seacoast Togoland's soil is rich and sandy, its climate warm and moist.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand.

ISAAC E. MANN, Metapedia, P. Q. Aug. 21st, 1908.

Despite heavy German emigration to the United States and South America, and despite her effort to divert this flow to her colonies, only about 300 Germans were to be found among the million natives of Togoland in 1910.

Togoland lies along the famous Slave Coast of Africa. Behind the treacherous schools and bars slave traders defied cruisers from the shelter of lagoons and inlets that abound along the shores where they obtained their human stock in trade.

Northern tribes of Togoland are mostly Hausa, a mixed negro race, who have become civilized and industrious. But the Dahomeys, in the south, present a curious blend of shrewdness, cruelty and superstition.

The King of the Dahomeys is a tribal deity. He controls the lives and property of his subjects. Formerly he was regarded as more ethereal than human; he was believed to require neither food nor sleep.

Finland, which has declared its independence from Russia, has long been a buffer state between the latter and Sweden.

He was a suburban garden faddist, who innocently bored all his friends by asking them down for week ends and showing them around his two by four estate.

Oh! Such Pain! dizzy—dragged-down? With dull headache, backache—racking with pain here or there—a poor woman, she's one of many. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed, she must still be at the desk or counter, or struggle through the day as best she may with her household or her family cares.

Usually she who feels those dragging-down or dizzy symptoms, and other pains caused by womanly disease, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains.

Faded, jaded, tired, overworked, weak, nervous, delicate women are helped to strength and health by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. In liquid or tablets.

CHRYSLER, Ont.—"Being a nurse I have had occasion to use 'Favorite Prescription' quite a lot. I recommend it to my patients and it has been a wonderful help to many of them. I never know of a case where it failed. I have a patient who is using it now and is doing fine. I have taken it myself and got the very best results. I consider it the best medicine there is for women who are ailing."—Miss Doris Moonen, 25 Dorset Street.

ROSY CHEEKS AND GOOD HEALTH

COME THROUGH KEEPING THE BLOOD IN A RICH, RED AND PURE CONDITION.

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and her lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after the slightest exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia—thin, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up and renew the blood, bring brightness to the eyes, color to the cheeks, and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good, plain food. The girl or woman who gives this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health. Mrs. Hiram Shook, R. R. No. 1, Lyndhurst, says: "I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I believed they saved my daughter's life. She was in a terribly run down condition, pale, wan, and dependent, and people who saw her considered her in a decline. The doctor who treated her did not help her any, and then I decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This decision proved a wise one, for before six boxes were used she was much better. I got six more boxes, and before they were gone she was in the best of health. When she began the use of the pills she weighed only 90 pounds, and under their use her weight increased to 127 pounds. I strongly urge all mothers of weak girls to give them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail post paid at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TURKISH RACE WAS BETRAYED

Into War Against Their Wishes, Says Vizier.

Urges That Empire Be Left Intact.

Paris, Cable — Council of Ten of the Peace Conference received the Turkish peace mission in the Clock Room of the Quai d'Orsay this morning.

In his address to the councillors the Turkish Grand Vizier pleaded that the Turkish people were not to blame for the war. He urged that the Empire be permitted to remain intact in both Europe and Asia. He promised to submit a memorandum to the Council on Friday.

Premier Clemenceau, as president of the conference, stated that upon receipt of this memorandum the council would make reply.

Members of the Council of Ten were seated when the Turkish delegates entered the room. Premier Clemenceau addressed the conference briefly. He reminded the Turkish delegates that the audience had been granted at their request, so they might state their case. The Turkish Grand Vizier, in his statement, said his country had been committed through secret agreements with the former German Emperor, against the wishes of the Turkish people, by the Committee of Union and Progress.

The Turks also exonerated the Sultan from all responsibility for the war and urged that he be permitted to remain in Constantinople, saying Asia Minor had been reduced to a desert by the war.

The Entente attitude toward Turkey still remains a mystery. The great powers have not announced whether they consider Turkey actually exists, and refuse to say whether a treaty will be negotiated with the Ottoman Empire. They maintain that the present conference is only for the purpose of learning Turkey's position.

The near eastern parts of the great powers were denied admission to today's conference. One of them remarked afterwards that the diplomats did not want anyone there who knew anything about the near east.

CROP OUTLOOK ON THE PRAIRIE

Helpful Rains in Saskatchewan and Alberta

Will Also Reduce Grasshopper Damage.

Regina, Sask., Despatch—Telegraphic reports on the condition of the crops, received by the Bureau of Statistics of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, show that rain was fairly general all over the Province last week. In the southeastern districts the grasshoppers have done a great amount of damage, but it is thought the situation is now under control. Reports from south of Moose Jaw, Outlook and Eyebrow, indicate serious damage from the same pest.

The recent rains will be helpful in reducing the damage. In the southwestern and central districts crops are reported as the best since 1915, no damage of any kind being reported. In the central and northern districts the rain would appear to have come just in time to save the crops from being destroyed from wind or drought. The cutworms have done some damage in nearly all parts, but it is too early to form an estimate. To summarize the situation, it would seem that the crops are much further ahead than at the same period last year, and prospects are generally favorable to a crop of at least equal to last year, and in parts better than they have been for some years.

RAIN HELPS ALBERTA, TOO.

Lethbridge, Alta., Despatch—Severe electrical storms, accompanied by heavy rains, visited practically every part of southern Alberta from High River south, Sunday night. At Grass Lake an empty house was struck by lightning and buried to the ground. Telegraph and telephone service was also seriously interfered with. The rain came opportunely for the crops, which are making uniformly good progress in practically every district.

TO MAKE IRELAND LOYAL DOMINION

Leading Irishmen Form a New League For Early Home Rule On Colonial Lines.

Dublin, Cable — An influential organization is being formed in Ireland under the name of "The Irish Dominion League." It is composed of men who believe that an Irish republic is unattainable and undesirable, but think that a prompt measure of home rule on the fullest colonial lines is urgently necessary.

Among the promoters of the league are Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Irish convention, and many men who were associated with him in the convention, as well as representatives of important business and professional interests.

The proposals mark a large advance on the provisions of the 1914 Home Rule Act, or the two previous Home Rule bills, and their promotion by men of position is regarded as significant of the growth of Home Rule opinion and the urgency of a settlement.

A weekly paper, in the interests of the League is to be published. It will be known as "The Irish Statesman." The directors include Sir Horace Plunkett, William Butler Yeates and T. P. O'Connor. The contributors, it is said, will include some of the most distinguished of the workers for Ireland.

NEGLECTED COLDS LEAD TO CONSUMPTION

Unless a complete cure is effected the inflammation passes rapidly to the throat bronchial tubes, and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or a new nose—hence consumption is practically incurable.

But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.

Catarrhozone Guaranteed to Cure

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists—germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills—it's pleasant, safe and guaranteed in every case.

Two months' treatment, large size, guaranteed to cure, price $1; small size, 50c; sample size, 25c; sold everywhere.

RENNER FINDS MANY FAULTS

Head of Austrian Delegation Voices Objections

To the Treaty as it Affects His Land.

Paris, Cable — Vienna despatches, received here by the way of Basle, say that Austrian newspapers publish despatches from St. Germain saying that Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian peace mission, has handed the Council of Five a memorandum, drawn up by delegates from the German sections of Austria, and setting forth the alleged injustice which "menaces 4,500,000 German-Austrians as the result of the proposed peace treaty."

It is said that Dr. Renner has asserted that the setting up of new states in the heart of Europe would "create another hotbed of war such as the Balkans have been."

According to these despatches, Dr. Renner has also handed the Council a note covering territorial questions, in which he calls attention to "the great responsibility assumed by the Entente in submitting millions of German-Austrians to foreign domination." It is said he has expressed the hope that the conference will act on the suggestions contained in his memorandum relative particularly to the Tyrol, Southern Carinthia, Styria and Western Hungary. He is reported to have declared that the new German-Austrian state would "from a second Alsace-Lorraine, doubly greater in size, and condemned to remain without defence, a considerable part of the ancient nation being subjected to much younger peoples."

"That domination," despatches quote him as saying, "could never be supported by the former or exercised by the latter."

Dr. Renner is said to declare that the incorporation of territory of German-Austria in the Czechoslovak state is in contradiction to the principles proclaimed by the Allies themselves, and he points out, the despatches say, that the German-Austrian state and the organization of the provinces was effected on the principle that the sovereign will of the people is the creative force of a state. Complaint is made that the German states near the Alps would be deprived of defence and means of existence, their most important industries and most indispensable natural products being taken from them.

Destroy Bridge, Lay Blame On the Poles.

Berne cable — Denial of the truth of a statement spread by German newspapers that the Poles blew up a bridge between Lissa and Krotoschin, near the Polish border, thus preventing the transport of Polish troops from France, is made by the Sennink Berlinaki, a Polish paper printed in Berlin.

An enquiry made by an inter-allied commission, the paper says, proved beyond doubt that the bridge was destroyed by the Germans. The inter-allied mission at Warsaw, it is added, compelled the Germans to build a temporary bridge for the passage of five troop trains.

McKim's Directory Shows Many Changes In Publishing Field

The Canadian Newspaper Directory for 1919, just issued by the publishers, A. McKim, Limited, Advertising Agency, of Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and London, England, indicates great activity in the publishing field during the past year.

While the number of daily papers published in 1918 diminishes from 135 to 126, due mainly to the effect of the high cost of newsprint, the total number of Canadian publications increased from 1,490 to 1,552. Fifty-five new weeklies have arisen during the past year.

Altogether, the situation warrants optimism of the soundest nature, reflecting, as it does, the healthy condition prevailing generally from East to West of the Dominion.

Whoever examines the pages of the McKim Directory with the care they deserve cannot fail to be impressed with the great labor involved in glean- ing so many thousands of items of information. Not only is the entire field of Canadian publications covered, but the Directory is a complete gazetteer of every town and city in Canada and Newfoundland where a publication is issued. One may turn to it for information as to publication, county seats, railways and waterways, telegraph, express and banking facilities.

Especially with the new conditions arising daily: Reconstruction, expansion, development, this book in its familiar green and red covers must earn its place on every office desk and in every business library.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

By LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will cure catarrh. It is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Druggists 75c. Testimonial free. F. J. WANT CIVILIANS DISMISSED.

Guelp, Cable — At a well-attended meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association a resolution was unanimously passed that this branch of the association go on record as endorsing the action of the Dominion Executive in calling for the resignation of Sir Jas. Loucheud, and would recommend that all civilian officials of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment be dismissed and their places taken by returned soldiers, a start to be made at the Speedwell Military Hospital, Guelp.

RAID FRENCH NAVAL JAIL.

Brest, Cable—Two hundred French sailors, carrying a red flag, attempted to enter the naval jail here yesterday to rescue imprisoned sailors. The attempt failed. There were no casualties. The imprisoned sailors were from the French battleship Justice, which arrived here from Sebastopol, a Russian Black Sea port.

The city is more calm to-day, but the situation is considered to be still serious.

KEEP CHILDREN HEALTHY

To keep children healthy the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. Nine-tenths of the ailments which afflict little ones are caused by derangements of the bowels and stomach. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in guarding either the baby or growing child from the ills that follow a disordered condition of the bowels or stomach. They are a mild but thorough laxative and never fail to give results. Concerning them Mrs. W. B. Coolidge, Sarnia, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for over three years and have found them the best medicine I have ever used for my children. I never have any trouble giving them to my little ones and they have saved me many a doctor's bill. My advice to all mothers of little ones is to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE YOUNG PRETENDER

By H. D. McLaren.

Bill, aged twelve years, was upstairs in his father's dressing-room going through tonsorial operations. He was shaving his face. Standing before the mirror, he lathered his face thickly with the white, creamy soap.

Then he looked for his father's razor, but to his disgust could not find it. But he had a large, new pocket-knife which he could substitute for the razor. He remembered he had left it in the dining-room.

Descending the stairs with the lather still on his face, Bill entered the dining-room. The table was set for a tea which Bill's mother was giving to some ladies that afternoon. Hark! Bill could hear them now approaching. He would have no time to escape from the room!

When the procession of ladies entered the room, not a trace of lather was on Bill's face.

"Oh! What beautiful whipped cream there is on that jelly!" remarked one of the ladies to her host.

CAN'T PUNCTURE OR BLOW OUT

Dayton airless tires in the past six years have been used by thousands of owners of light passenger and delivery cars in all parts of the civilized world, and have conclusively demonstrated:

- 1st—They can't puncture nor blow out.
- 2nd—They ride much longer as smoothly as pneumatics.
- 3rd—They give much longer wear than the average pneumatic.
- 4th—They absolutely will not injure the car.

They have been endorsed by 50,000 or more satisfied users, including the late George Westinghouse and Edward Grey formerly Chief Engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

Piers of live elastic built about one inch apart inside the casing and vulcanized or welded to it take the place of an inner tube. Nothing can happen but wear.

We have standardized on 30x3 1/2 and the price is right.

Is Saving Worth While?

Perhaps it doesn't seem so when you can only save a few dollars at a time and get little or no interest.

But when you can get 4 1/2 per cent. interest on every $4.00 you save, with the Dominion of Canada as security for your savings that is a different story.

You can do this — by means of War Savings Stamps.

Canada needs money for reconstruction. Canada says to every wage earner: "Lend me your odd savings as often as you can, and for every $4.00 you lend me now, I will pay you back $5.00 in 1924. The odd cents are for accrued interest.

Saving under this plan is worth while.

If you have never been thrifty, be thrifty now. Thrift Stamps will help you to form the habit. Buy one every time you save 25 cents, and when you have sixteen, exchange them for a War Savings Stamp.

GLENN CRAIG TOBIAS - UNDERWRITER Suite 855-856 KING EDWARD HOTEL, TORONTO.

Sunday School Lesson XIII, June 29th, 1919. Response to God's Love-Review-Philippians 3: 7-14.

SUMMARY.-Lesson I. Topic: God the Father Almighty. Place: Horns of Hattin, in Galilee, where the sermon on the Mount was spoken. God is presented to us as the Creator. He made the world and all that is in it. His crowning act of creation was the making of man. God is our heavenly Father and cares for us. He cares for the birds and the flowers and will be not care for us? Our first care should be to seek him and his righteousness.

II. Topic: Christ, the World's Redeemer. Place: Bethabara, on the east bank of the Jordan. Jesus comes to the earth as the greatest gift to man. He comes as the Lamb of God to take away the sin of the world. He came as God manifest in the flesh. He came that man might be saved from sin and made ready to live forever with God.

III. Topic: The meaning of Christ's resurrection. Place: Jerusalem. Through the hatred of the Jews toward Jesus he was crucified and placed in a rock-hewn tomb. On the third day the tomb was found empty by the women who came to embalm his body. An angel was at the tomb and told them that Jesus had risen and would meet his disciples at Galilee.

IV. Topic: What the Holy Spirit does for us. Place: Jerusalem. Before Jesus was crucified he told his disciples that he was going away and that the Holy Spirit would come to them to abide with them. The disciples and others remained in Jerusalem and waited and prayed for ten days after the ascension of Jesus for the descent of the Holy Spirit. He came on the day of Pentecost. The followers of Jesus were filled with the Spirit and Joel's prophecy was fulfilled.

V. Topic: The dignity and worth of man. Place: Garden of Eden. God made man in his own moral image and breathed into him his own life. Eve was made to the man's companion. God placed Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden and provided for their every need. They were instructed to care for the garden.

VI. Topic: The nature and results of sin. Place: Garden of Eden. After Adam and Eve had been in Garden of Eden for a time, Satan came to Eve and told her that she would be better off if she would eat some of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. The Lord had told Adam and Eve that they should not eat it, but she listened to Satan, believed what he said and ate the fruit. Adam also ate of it. They thus sinned against God and were driven from the Garden of Eden.

VII. Topic: The grace of God the source and pledge of our salvation. Place: Epistles to the Ephesians and Titus were probably written from Rome. God in his mercy and wisdom provided a way for man's deliverance from sin. This was done through the gift of his Son who gave his life as a sacrifice for our sins. He has provided grace sufficient for all human needs.

VIII. Topic: The nature and fruits of repentance. Place: Nineveh, in Assyria. After the Lord had called Jonah the second time to go to Nineveh to preach, he went and preached as God directed him. The people of Nineveh heard the message and began at once to repent. They turned from sin, fasted and prayed, and the Lord in mercy spared the city. Repentance is a necessary condition of salvation.

IX. Topic: The place of faith in the religious life. Place: Place of writing the Epistle to the Hebrews is unknown. Repentance and faith are the two principal conditions of salvation. Faith is implicit trust in God. Faith takes God at his word and results follow. Many notable examples are given of the results of faith. We are exhorted to look to Jesus, who is "the author and finisher of our faith."

X. Topic: Obedience a test of discipleship. Place: Horns of Hattin. Abraham is presented as one who be-

Please Mention This Paper. lied and obeyed God. One must continue to obey the Lord if he would retain his Christian experience. It is necessary to do God's will. They who hear God's word and fail to obey are like those who build houses on the sand; while they who obey are like those who build upon a rock.

XI. Topic: The Christian conception of prayer. Places: Galilee; Perea. The disciples desired Jesus to teach them to pray. He gave them the Lord's Prayer as a model prayer. Persistently is essential to true prayer. This is presented to us in the parable of the importunate widow and the unjust judge. The difference between ineffective prayer and effective prayer is shown by the parable of the Pharisee and the publican at prayer. The former was haughty and self-sufficient; and received no benefit from his pretense at prayer; but the latter was humble and penitent, and was forgiven.

XII. Topic: The strongest bond between men and nations. Place: Written from Ephesus. Love is shown by the apostle Paul to be of greater value than anything else. The most desirable things other than love are of no account without it. Love is patient, humble, unselfish, hopeful and unfailing. Of the three abiding graces, faith, hope, love, love is the greatest.

PRACTICAL SURVEY. Topic.-Some fundamentals of faith and practise.

I. Love the nature of God. II. The response God seeks.

1.-Love the nature of God. The determining element of any system of religion is the character of its deity. The exalted teaching of Christianity concerning God underlie its unparalleled propositions to faith and is realizations in experience. The Christian scriptures contain three great statements concerning Deity: "God is a spirit," "God is light," and, "God is love." The first describes his mode of being. The second has reference to the infinite wisdom which sweeps the stonies and can never be perplexed or baffled. His understanding is infinite. The last reveals the movement of infinite impulses and the principle governing their manifestation. God never has been, and never will be, moved by any other impulse than love. There is no vindictiveness in the divine nature. Even his anger originates in his love, and his judgments are its necessitated expressions. They are the last resources, and are never experienced until love's gentler efforts have proved ineffectual. Even the final settlement of moral accounts proceeds on the basis of justice founded on inclusive, moral love. Banishment is the most gracious destiny possible to final incorrigibility as companionship is the necessary goal of moral affinity.

II.-The response God seeks. Christianity has as its central fact and faith an immeasurable and unrepeatable manifestation of God's love. Love always seeks response and is distressed or destroyed without it. Because "God is love," he created all intelligences with an original capacity and natural impulse which responded to his own nature. It was not in the original purpose that any being should ever be moved by an opposite principle or feel an opposite impulse. The design of love revealed is to awaken the desired response. "We love him because he first loved us." is the apostle's statement of the great purpose. God is more concerned that his creatures shall cherish the right disposition toward him than about any service they can render. No service is acceptable unless inspired by love for himself. An archangel's song would be a discord if his heart grew cold.

The lessons of the quarter have shown us the original, state and relations, the fatal disruption through disobedience, the provisions of infinite love, their methods and outworking, the agencies enlisted and conditions established-the only ones possible-upon which the defaced image can be restored. The light of love makes the countenance radiant. There is a legend that when man was driven from Eden, he said to the guardian angel, "What shall I bring back when I return?" To which the angel replied, "Bring back the face God gave you, and I will let you in." The psalmist declares, "He restoreth my soul." This is the path to the "green pastures" and "still waters" of Paradise. God has given his supreme love and must demand a like response. Even "faith worketh by love." God and man were intended to live together; the latter to find the completion of his being, and the former, glory and joy in the response of the latter. W. H. C.

It is a Liver Pill.-Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation through gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

Odd Geographical Division.

The ranges of the Blue Ridge mountains in Pennsylvania is divided by a river every twenty-seven miles, as follows: From the Susquehanna to the Swatara, twenty-seven miles; from the Swatara to the Schuylkill, twenty-seven miles; from the Schuylkill to the Lehigh, twenty-seven miles; from the Lehigh to the Delaware, twenty-seven miles. At the next twenty-seven miles is a hollow of New Jersey, in which nestles a lake known as Culver's pond.

Bird Farming.

It is quite within the bounds of possibility, says the Strand Magazine, that within a very few years bird farming will be practised in the tropics, because the least civilized of men respond to the possibility of making money; and, whatever our personal views may be, it cannot be denied that the demand for the skins and feathers of birds is an ever-increasing one and is following the growth of national wealth.

With committees for economic preservation in the great capitals of Europe, and with a trade willing to accept their findings and give prompt effect to them, we may look in a little time for the end of a reckless killing and the recognition of the simple truth that a live bird, capable of reproducing its species and renewing its plumage, is far more valuable than a dead one.

TOO MUCH OF A SUCCESS.

"Successful, I should say he has," said the friend, "I'm having to pay him high money."-Harper's Magazine.

SIR WILLIAM'S WILL

CHAPTER I.
"Tell me the truth, please," Sir William said grimly, but quietly; and the doctor, after a momentary glance at the hard stern face, told him.
Sir William stood motionless for a moment or two, then his lips twitched, and he nodded.
"Thanks, Morton," he said calmly. "I had an idea that it was bad; but I did not think it was as bad as that—as near."
As he spoke he reached for his hard felt hat and held out his hand.
"Well, I've had a good time, in my way. It isn't everybody's way, perhaps; too much work, and too little pleasure, some would think. But work has meant pleasure to me. No; I can't complain. Thanks once more. Good-bye."

Doctor Morton went to the window and watched the square, upright figure as it went down the street and out of sight; and he shrugged his shoulders and muttered:
"The old man's a plucky one, to the last."

Sir William's carriage awaited him at the end of the straggling village street, but he signed to the coachman to drive off, and followed, walking steadily and by no means slowly, across the square and out into the open country in the direction of Bramley Hall; and as he passed them the people bowed or touched their hats with that significant indication of respect which the world is so ready to pay to wealth, prosperity, and position.

At the brow of the hill, from whence the Hall, a fine, old-fashioned mansion, could be seen, he stopped, and, turning his back to his country-seat, looked long and steadily at a firm waked long and steadily hung above a cluster of factories and houses; for it was there his treasure, and consequently his heart, was.

He had begun life as one of the factory lads down in the bottom of Bramley Pit, and it was there, climbing the steep and slippery rungs of the ladder of success, that he had made the vast fortune which had obtained for him the house of an ancient, a noble family, and his baronetcy. Often, when as a boy he had coveted it, little thinking that his coveting would lead to possession, little dreaming that he would in the fulness of time lord it in the ancestral home of the county family to which had once belonged every acre of the estate which now owned Sir William as master.

And now he was going to die. With a quick gesture of the hand, as if he were bidding the place good-bye, he smothered a sigh and went on to the Hall. The great door was open for him promptly, for every servant on the vast place knew how perilous it was to keep the imperious old man waiting, and Sir William passed through the wide hall and entered a small room at the end.

It was not only a small room, but one so plainly furnished—a common deal table, a wooden chair, and another without arms and of the cheap description were, with the exception of the huge safe in the corner, almost all the furniture—that it looked more like an office than the "den" of a wealthy baronet. There was no attempt at ornament, none of the knickknacks with which most men surround themselves; no guns or for fishing-rods; for Sir William had never had the least idea of sport, and no feeding for it but the contempt which the hard-working, strenuous man of business has for an occupation which means "wasting time." The only picture had its face turned to the wall.

Sir William sank into the hard wooden chair, and leaning his arm upon it drew a long breath and gazed thoughtfully before him, his rugged brows knit, his lips tightly compressed.

He sat there for nearly half an hour, then he rose and crossing the room slowly turned the picture and looked at it long and fixedly.

It was the portrait of a lad, a handsome boy, with something of Sir William's strength of expression, but with finer features, a more sensitive mouth, and eyes in which a certain nobility, a touch of tenderness, shone through the smile of boyhood's audacity and spirit.

This was the portrait of Sir William's only son, only child, Wilfred. And it was the old story—two strong wills in conflict and the deuce to pay.

The father had been fond and proud of his boy; proud of his good looks, his high spirits, his perfect courage, and his very daredevilry; but he had wanted to rule the boy as he had ruled all with whom he had come in contact; and there was too much of his father in him for Wilfred to submit. There had been the usual little quarrels, then the one big one in which the father had bade his son begone, and had turned him out of the house as if he were one of the lowest of the menials.

The young man had given his father a chance, for he loved him, had hesitated at the door and, looking back, had murmured brokenly "Father!" But Sir William had hardened his heart; and as now at this moment being punished by the memory of his son's face, the tone of that "Father!"

It was not the first time he had been a prey to remorse, had experienced that paternal yearning which lurks in the bosom of even the hardest of men; and he had written to Wilfred, to the wild Australian settlement where Sir William had traced him. But there had been no reply; and the portrait had remained, until this moment, with its face to the wall. The father's hand had been extended, Wilfred had refused it, and "I had been suffering with a pimply face for three years. My face was full of pimples and they were hard and awfully sore. They festered and dried up, and were scaly, and disfigured my face. They caused me to lose a lot of sleep, and were awfully itchy, making me scratch and irritate my face."

"I started to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment when I was healed." (Signed) Clifford Yeomans, East Chesapeake, N. S.

Sir William's heart had hardened again.

But death heals all quarrels; and the old man as he gazed at the half-laughing lips the frank brow, the strong yet tender eyes, wanted his son badly.

He turned away at last and, unlocking his safe, took from it some documents and opened them out on the table. He had scarcely done so when there came a knock at the door.

Sir William folded the documents quickly and covered them with a newspaper; then said "Come in!" The door opened slowly and a young man entered. He was tall and thin, with the form and face which are usually described as "distinguished-looking." His features were much sharper than those of Sir William, and his face was of that pattern which often goes with almost black hair and eyes.

It was the face of a man of intellect; and one would have guessed him to be the general manager of the Pit Works, and Sir William's nephew, the son of his only brother. His name was Hesketh Carton; next to Wilfred, he was heir to the baronetcy.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said. "I disturb you? I wanted the pass-book." His voice was low-pitched and musical, a voice that matched the face; but the tone was rather thin and sharp, and had behind it—as had the face—a note of reserve.
Sir William reached for the pass-book and held it out then drew it back and looked at Hesketh.
"No, you don't disturb me; in fact, I wanted to see you. Come in and shut the door."

He signed to a chair and Hesketh sat down and waited calmly, his eyes fixed impassively on the old man's rugged face.

"Morton's just been giving me some bad news," said Sir William, in a matter-of-fact way. "Says I'm going to die."

Hesketh's eyes were downcast for a moment, then he looked up with an expression of concern and anxiety.
"I—I—yes—this is a great shock, sir," he said, in a very low voice.

"No, scarcely—oh, you mean to you? Thank you, Hesketh; much obliged. Ah, well, we must all die some time; and, as I told Morton, I've had a good time. I've got all I wanted—and I suppose few men can say that, not a very old man, as age goes now—But we won't mingle our tears over the inevitable."

But it is inevitable, sir?" asked Hesketh gravely. "Surely you will have other advice, a London specialist."

Sir William declined the suggestion with a shrug of his shoulders.
"No use," he said gravely. "Morton's a clever man; and I've never known him wrong. And he warned me some years ago; but I was in the thick of it then, and too busy to take heed. It's always got to the end of my tether, it is so, you may be sure. But I want to talk to you about—business."

As he spoke his eyes wandered to the picture, and Hesketh's following them, saw that the portrait had been reversed and was now hanging in its proper position. He did not start, but his rather thin lips came together tightly, and he averted his eyes from the picture instantly.

"Of course, I've made my will," resumed Sir William. "In fact, I have made two wills." He drew the newspaper from the documents and laid his hand, knotted hand, upon them.
"In one—yes, I'll tell you Hesketh; it is better you should know the whole state of the case—I left everything to you."

Hesketh's face flamed for a moment, and the dark glistened; but Sir William was looking at the papers absent, and when he glanced up the momentary flush had gone, the eyes met his steadily, with nothing, but grave interest and attention in their expression.

"I made this soon after Wilfred had gone, and you came. But blood is thicker than water—I beg your pardon, Hesketh, I forgot that you, too, are of my kith and kin; you are so unlike your father. No matter! My son is my son and though Wilfred has behaved badly, has proved himself unforgiving and unrelenting—You know I wrote to him?" he broke off, in a lower voice.

Hesketh shook his head.

"Yes, and he did not condescend to reply."

"Perhaps the letter 'd not reach him; the answer may have miscarried, sir," suggested Hesketh.

The old man shook his head. "No; I learned that he was in the place to which I wrote—Minton. And letters do not miscarry nowadays, excepting in fiction. But let that pass. I have forgiven him. Perhaps I was as much in fault as he was—Good Lord!" he broke off impatiently, "what is the use talking about it! Anyway, I can't disinherit him altogether; I must give him a chance."

He was silent for a moment, his brows knit as if he were brooding; then he looked up with something like a start, and went on:
"You remember Clytie Bramley?"
Hesketh inclined his head. He was devoured by curiosity, anxiety, but his manner, his face displayed no sign of it.

"It was about her we—quarrelled," said Sir William. "I wanted him to marry her."

Hesketh's eyes flashed for a moment.

"Why?" he asked.

The old man frowned and bit his lip.

"I was indebted to her father," he said. "I bought the land, the Pit land." He paused and shrugged his shoulders. "Oh, it was all straight enough. Yes, yes; I know. But he was in difficulties and I had lent him money grimly. 'I'd do it again of course; but—I took a liking to the girl—I wanted to make up to her—there, there! My reasons do not matter,' he broke off, with his wonted imperiousness. "Wilfred refused."

Hesketh looked down.
"He scarcely knew her, sir," he said.

Sir William flushed. "What had that to do with it? He could have known her, courted her. She was as nice a girl as any man could wish for; and a lady, a Bramley! He refused point blank, insulted me—and her. There, it makes me hot to think of it; all the old bitterness arises in me. Let's say no more about it. He will have seen the folly, the madness, of his ways by this time, I'll wager. He'll marry her fast enough now."

Hesketh shot a glance at him.
"You mean—"

"I mean," cut in the old man, touching one of the wills, "that I have left the estate, and my money to Clytie Bramley."

Hesketh rose then sank down again quickly, biting his lip in annoyance at his display of emotion.

"On condition that she marries Wilfred. If she refuses, then the whole of it goes to him. If he refuses, then it goes to her for life and afterward to—you."

Here was a pregnant silence; then Hesketh shook his head.

"The will will not stand, sir," he said, in a thick voice.
Sir William smiled. "Do you think I am the man to make an invalid will?" he said, grimly. "I have had counsel's opinion. Have taken every precaution. The clauses are so simple that a child could not misunderstand them. No lawyer could wiggle out of them. And I made it when I was of sound mind!" he added, grimly.

The younger man leaned back and covered his eyes with his long, thin fingers. He had scarcely grasped the thing in its full significance; scarcely realized how he himself was affected by this absurd, this grotesque will.

"I am so sure of the result, of the success of my—plot, that I have provided for you—have made you safe. I have left you the Pit Works and twenty thousand pounds, Hesketh."

The Pit Works and twenty thousand pounds—a generous bequest, indeed. But how small, how contemptibly small compared with the Bramley estate and the vast fortune of which Sir William was disposing in so farcical a fashion! The pale face grew palid, the Hesketh had to moisten his lips before he could make the suitable response.

"You are very generous to me," he said, huskily. "Very generous! I did not expect anything beyond a small sum—as a remembrance."

Sir William nodded and waved his hand.
