CHAPTER XV.

The phrase was very often on the old man's lips now; and it did not strike a chill to Mr. Starkey's heart as it had been wont to do. For the announcement of Lord Dalesford's engagement to a great heiress had smoothed the financial way for the Wrayboroughs; and Mr. Starkey's once gloomy countenance had grown lighter, and his voice less lachrymose, for he found no difficulty now in raising a loan which could be met by some of the money which Diana was going to pour into the Wrayborough empty coffers. He paid several visits to Shortledge, where he attempted to talk business with the earl. Diana now saw him coming across the lawn.

"Here is Mr. Starkey," she said. The earl stifled a groan; then he smiled. "He has got a new hat, and how cheerful the man looks! It's all your doing, my dear girl. How do you do, Mr. Starkey? Sit down. Let me order you a cooling drink. What! Still sticking to that absurd habit of yours of never drinking between meals? Don't say you've come on business, on such a beautiful day as this, and when you can talk on ever so many pleasant matters with Miss Bourne, here!"

Mr. Starkey said that he had come on business, and Diana rose, but the earl pressed her down in her seat again. "Don't go, Diana; it is as much your business as mine now, you know. Besides, three heads are better than one, especially when one of the three is so extremely pretty and clever—of course, I allude to Mr. Starkey's. What is it, Starkey? Let's get it over before tea-time."

"It's rather an extraordinary matter, my lord," said Mr. Starkey, pulling a paper from his pocket. "You remember that property at Sunning-lee, in Cornwall, which fell into our hands some years ago? I say you remember, because I myself had almost forgotten it. It is a stretch of land, with a bay—an extremely pretty place, but by no means a profitable one. There are one or two small farms, but the rent from the whole of the property does not pay the interest of the mortgage—of course, it is mortgaged."

"You see, he says, 'of course' my dear," remarked the earl to Diana. "There is scarcely anything that is not mortgaged. The merry game began in our family generations ago, and, of course, we have kept it up. Well, Mr. Starkey?"

"The mortgage is in the hands of Drake & Drake," Mr. Starkey went on, "and they served us with a notice of foreclosure some time ago; in fact, I think they bought it in."

"Well, there's an end of the matter, isn't there?" said the earl.

"Well, no, strange to say. Three days ago, I had a most extraordinary letter from a solicitor. He is a Mr. Jeffrey, of whom I know nothing. Quite a small man. He writes and informs me that a client of his, of the name of Brown, has purchased the property, and that he is willing to sell it to us at a small profit."

"Of course, you told him that we didn't want to buy it?" said the earl. "I should have done so; but Mr. Jeffrey's letter contained a most extraordinary statement. He said that the main line intended running a branch to Sunning-lee, and that, therefore, the possibilities of the place were enormous. I saw that myself at once, and I went round to him, and asked him the very natural question, why his client did not keep the property, and reap his own harvest? Mr. Jeffrey, who seemed a very sharp man—"

"Scarcely a necessary piece of information. My dear Diana, you heard Mr. Starkey say that this gentleman was a lawyer."

"In polite terms, he advised me to mind my own business, pointed out to me that the sum his client was asking amounted to only a fair profit on his purchase, and took it for granted that I should accept his really very advantageous offer. I have satisfied myself, by cautious inquiries, that the railway company do intend running a line to Sunning-lee, and I think we ought to buy it."

The earl smiled. "Would you not like to buy also, say, Buckingham Palace, and an estate or two in Wales?" he said ironically. "My dear Starkey, where is the money to come from?"

Mr. Starkey shot a sideways and involuntary glance at Diana.

"Oh, there is no difficulty about the money, my lord," he said, in a tone of cheerful confidence, which contrasted markedly with the melancholy one which, until recently, had been habitual with him.

"Oh, very well," said the earl. "Shall we buy it, my dear? Don't blush, and look so startled, for I've more than a suspicion that it will be bought with your money; eh, Starkey?"

Mr. Starkey coughed assent. Diana, blushing still, laughed, and nodded.

"Oh, yes, buy it, by all means," she said. "You say it is very pretty, Mr. Starkey, and that it will bring in a great deal of money later on?"

"You see!" exclaimed the earl, gazing at her admiringly. "Didn't I tell you that Miss Bourne's head was a clever one?"

"You forget that I was once a schoolmistress," said Diana, "and that I know something of multiplication and division."

The earl looked at her proudly—he liked her reference to her former humble station.

"All right," he said. "You've got your instructions, Mr. Starkey. Buy it, by all means; and, when you've turned it into a fashionable watering place, we'll come down and stay there; eh, Diana? There's the tea. Come along, Mr. Starkey. And, by the way, better not say anything of this business to Lady Selina. She's always thinking we are trembling on the brink of ruin, and she will think we have taken leave of our senses."

CHAPTER XVI.

The journey to Scotland was made with so much of state and ceremony, and luxury that Diana, who still retained her liking for simplicity, was filled with amazement. It seemed to her that the whole of the express-train would be needed by the apparently innumerable servants, the carriages, the horses, and the piles of luggage; for, when he went north, the earl traveled with semitroyal state. It seemed as if every official connected with the railway station, to say nothing of the porters, had considered it to be his duty to see that the earl and his party started under the most favorable auspices; but the earl himself, and Lady Selina, and the rest of the family—indeed, the whole household—took it as a matter of course; and only the presence and conduct of Mabel and Bertie saved Diana from the conviction that the great Wrayborough family were more than mortal, and of different flesh and blood to the crowd of servants, porters, and inspectors who attended them with obsequious offers of service.

Mabel and Bertie were enjoying themselves like a couple of children off for the holidays; and very nearly behaved themselves as such. Regardless of the fact that an elaborate luncheon would be served in the saloon-carriage, they dodged Lady Selina, and loaded their pockets with Banbury cakes and chocolate, purchased at the refreshment-room; they bought piles of magazines and comic papers at the book-stall, and trotted up and down the platform, at the peril of their own limbs and the sanity of the luggage porters. Both of them had brought guns and fishing-rods, and Mabel, affecting to be anxious about their safety, continually insisted on Bertie's hunting them up among the stacks and piles of other luggage.

At the last moment, they pretended that they could not find room in the saloon-carriage, and smuggled themselves into a compartment, the only other occupant of which was an old lady, who was absorbed in a King Charles spaniel, which had been yapping from the window at the pug in Lady Selina's arms.

Diana and Vane had watched the confusion from a cogen of vantage behind the luggage, and they, also, eschewed the luxurious saloon, and found an empty carriage. To Diana, the journey was the most delightful she had ever taken; for was not the man she loved by her side, to watch over her comfort, to point out the notable objects on the way, to hold her hand, and whisper those short, sweet sentences in which love expresses itself so eloquently? They had to go into the saloon for lunch, of course, but they stole away again to their own carriage at the next station, and remained undisturbed till the train ran into the little Highland station near Glenskel.

Here, Diana found fresh cause for amazement, for the state and ceremony which had attended their departure were as nothing compared to that which awaited them on their arrival. In an "orderly confusion" of carriages and servants, footmen in the Wrayborough liveries, and Highlandmen in kilts of the Glenskel clan, of which the earl was chief; luggage torgonnas, and a huge 'bus for the servants who had come down by train, the party was received by a crowd which astonished and bewildered Diana.

"Are you very tired, dearest?" Vane asked, as their carriage started. "It is not a long drive to the castle; I know you will be glad to be there."

"I am not in the least tired," she said, nestling up to him all the same. "It is the happiest journey I have ever taken in my life; and I am thrilling with excitement. It is all so strange to me. I feel as if I were a princess of the blood royal; indeed, I can't imagine any greater fuss being made over any one."

Dalesford laughed rather apologetically. "Yes; they do make rather a fuss," he said; "but it's their way of showing that they are pleased to see us; and I'm afraid that you will be still more surprised when we reach home. But you will like these people, Diana. They are true and staunch as steel; and there isn't a man of them who wouldn't go to the end of the world for us. But you will understand it all before you have been at the castle many days—many hours, for that matter. Look, dearest; there is the first glimpse of it."

Diana looked out of the window, and saw, in the twilight, a vast castle, set half-way up a hill, and rising from amid a dense mass of furs. The size and grandeur of the ancient pile were intensified in effect by the misty light, and she gazed upon it in speechless admiration and something akin to awe.

A few minutes afterward, the carriage, winding its way up a magnificent avenue, drew up in the courtyard of the principal entrance, the outer space of which was lined by Highlandmen bearing torches, which threw ruddy gleams in rivalry with the electric light that streamed from the apparently innumerable windows of the building. The great entrance doors were opened wide, and Diana, as Vane helped her to alight from the carriage, saw the earl standing, silhouetted against the lighted hall, waiting to receive her, with a state which accorded and seemed necessary to, and even consistent with, the presence of the crowd of retainers who watched the great earl and the beautiful young girl who would be their future mistress.

As Vane led her up the broad stone steps, flanked by great couchant lions supporting crested shields, a deep-throated cheer arose, and awoke the echoes of the hoary walls and the surrounding pine-forest.

The earl took her by both hands. "Welcome to Glenskel, my dear!" he said; and, as he led her in, another cheer went up, the men waved their torches, and, closing up about the steps, watched her eagerly as she entered the hall.

She was startled, and the tears sprang to her eyes. With an instinctive movement, she turned to Vane, who stood by her side, eyeing her proudly and fondly.

"That's meant for you, my dearest," he said. "It's their welcome. Have they frightened you?"

Obituary.

ROBERT CARTER.

The passing of a bright young man, in the person of Mr. Robert Carter, occurred at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carter, Hamilton Street, at 8.30 a.m. to-day. The deceased, who was in his 19th year and just entering on the threshold of manhood, contracted a cold in January last from the effects of which he never fully recovered. Despite the tender care of his parents and sisters, and all possible medical aid, that dread disease tuberculosis set in. Not until August last did his condition become critical, but even in the midst of his suffering a perfect resignation was manifested. During the last few weeks of his illness, he had several attacks of unconsciousness, but after rallying out of them, he longed for the customary visits of his much cherished friends. He had been working with the Imperial Tobacco Co., and was held in great esteem by his employers. The end came peacefully, death being in his case a happy release from many months of patient suffering. To his father, mother, brother and two sisters who are left to mourn, the Telegram extends sincere sympathy on the loss of their much loved son and brother, who was thus cut down in the bloom of a promising life.

Mother! If Child's Tongue is Coated

If cross, feverish, constipated, bilious, stomach sour, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative to-day save a sick child to-morrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or other children's ailments, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

"The Spirit of the Flag."

The Crescent Picture Palace is showing a strong picture programme to-day. "The Spirit of the Flag" is a great two-reel Spanish-American war feature produced by the Bison Biograph Company. This great war drama being photographed on the spot contains some beautiful scenes and is full of dramatic action, beside having an interesting love story running through it. "Hawman Love" is a dramatic novelty, beautifully tinted; it is produced by the Champion Photo Play Company, famous for its beauty of detail and coloring of all their films. "The Coward's Charm" is a strong Victor drama, the story of a man who thinks he is a coward and behaves as one until set right by the doctor. Mr. Walsh sings "We Have a Navy, a British Navy," a great patriotic song; and Mr. McDonald sings "These Songs my Mother used to Sing," a very fine ballad.

A Few Words About

"STAFFORD'S LINIMENT"

Any person calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and asking us to show them orders amounting to the sale of over 5000 bottles of "Stafford's Liniment" from the 1st of January up to the present time this year, and by us not being able to produce them we will gladly give them the sum of $1,000.

We will be only too glad to show you these orders, so all you have to do is to ask us.

We want to convince the people in Newfoundland that "Stafford's Liniment" has obtained a large sale owing to its good results, and any person suffering from Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, and all kinds of Aches and Pains could not do a better thing than try a bottle of this Liniment. No home should be without it. Testimonials are being received nearly every week.

Stafford's Liniment is one of the strongest and most penetrating Liniments for sale in Newfoundland and there is not a person that can deny it.

There are over 100 stores in St. John's selling this Liniment and in the outports there are over 500.

Don't buy a Liniment that is "Just as good" but insist on obtaining "STAFFORD'S"

DR. CHAPLIN RECEIVES COMMISSION.—Dr. Hal. Chaplin, son of Mr. Mark Chaplin, has received a commission as Lieut.-Serjeant in the Navy. It is not yet known to which of the warships he will be attached, but he has been ordered to report aboard H.M.S. Victory at Portsmouth. We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin, who now have two sons and two nephews in the service of the Empire.

Patriotic Association.

The meeting of the Newfoundland Patriotic Association, held at the L. B. Armoury last night, was largely attended. His Excellency the Governor presided, and with him were Rt. Hon. Sir E. F. Morris, Premier; Mr. J. M. Kent, K.C., Leader of the Opposition; Sir Joseph Outerbridge, and Mr. W. J. Higgins, Acting Secretary.

Amongst those present were Hon. M. P. Cassin, S. D. Blandford, J. Harvey, R. K. Bishop, J. Harris, J. R. Bennett, M. G. Winter, Lieut.-Col. Rendell, Lieut.-Col. Conroy, Captain Montgomery, T. A. Giff, K.C., Capt. Outerbridge, R. G. Reid, T. Cook, W. A. Ellis, J. H. Monroe, I. G. Sullivan, W. J. Ellis, Dr. Macpherson, J. C. Hepburn and others.

His Excellency asked that the minutes of the previous meeting be deferred after which the following resolution was passed: "Resolved, That the Patriotic Association be moved by the Premier and seconded by Mr. Kent, both of whom paid a fitting tribute to the man whose passing means a great loss to the Army and Empire. His influence had been an inestimable factor in the cementing of the Empire. The following is the resolution—

RESOLVED—That this Patriotic Association of Newfoundland formed to organize the men of this ancient Colony in the defence of the British Empire offers its homage to the memory of that distinguished Soldier and Patriot, Field Marshal Earl Roberts of Kandahar, Pretoria and Waterford.

His Excellency also referred to the death of Earl Roberts, spoke of the contribution of soldiers Newfoundland had given to the Empire to date, which number 1,099 exclusive of those Newfoundlanders, who had enlisted abroad. He also mentioned that the Imperial authorities had decided to pay for equipment, maintenance, and rations for the Newfoundland Regiment, the Government would be saved the sum of about $200,000.

The Army Council, in messages to the Government had intimated that it was desirous to form a reserve to keep up the Newfoundland Contingent at the front. The reserve could be then drafted to England, as soon as they became perfect in drill. It was desired that our regiment be kept at its full force. The Government were unable to do so yet but would advise the Home Authorities at the earliest possible moment.

Sir Joseph Outerbridge, on behalf of the recruiting committee, reported that a draft proclamation was prepared and that he had circulated. Capt. Montgomery will be the recruiting officer, and act in conjunction with the city brigades in raising a force of 500 or more to be sent abroad, as called upon, may to commence on or about the time of embarking.

After some discussion in which the Premier, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Capt. Montgomery, J. A. Clift, J. M. Kent and W. J. Higgins took part, the report was adopted with the understanding that the men who enlist must be between the years of 18 and 25, and enlist with the object of going to the front when called upon. An officer of experience will be engaged to do all the necessary drilling.

Hon. M. P. Cassin read the report of the Finance Committee. Those of the dependants of the Volunteers who were in need of immediate assistance were attended to, and after the arrival of the Mongolian with the allowance sheets a more systematic arrangement will be effected. The amount in sight for the Patriotic Fund was estimated at $75,000. His Excellency suggested that an early date the Government should be in receipt of all the draft that would cover the first year of the Regiment, to August 1915, so that the actual expenses could be estimated, after which the report was adopted.

The Chairman also thought that some provision be made for providing a pension for the dependants of those of the Newfoundland soldiers and sailors who fell in the service, either through warfare or illness while actively engaged.

Hon. John Harvey thought that the Finance Committee should deal with the question. On Motion of Mr. J. A. Clift, seconded by Mr. T. Cook, it was decided that the Finance Committee deal with the pensions.

His Excellency read a letter received by Mr. R. G. Reid from a friend who visited Salisbury Plains, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again two weeks hence.

Big Irish Play at the Nickel to-day.

STORY OF DONEYBROOK FAIR.

Nickel patrons are assured another attractive bill this evening. There are two two-reel films, both of which are of the highest quality. The first is "The Vanity Case" by the celebrated Vitagraph artists in which Dorothy Kelly, Julia Swayne, Gordon and James Morrison appear to advantage. It is a pretty story of the greatest human interest and is very cleverly acted. It tells of a young lady who unconsciously steals; she is discovered by a rascal who endeavors to use his influence over her. Everyone should see this picture. The other two-part film is an Irish comedy drama—"The Filly" a story of Doneybrook Fair. It is well acted by the Domino artists and is certain to please all. "How pictures are made" is a Keystone educational comedy, by the Lubin Co. Mr. Arthur C. Huskins made another great hit last night when he sang "Two eyes of Gray" and "As 'Til Nothing Else to Do." Don't forget the big matinee for the children to-morrow; extra pictures will be shown.

Mr. W. R. Butler won first and second exhibits of white and brown eggs. Prof. Henry, who entrained last evening for Truro, again expressed himself as favourably impressed with the show.

For the feeding and watering of the poultry since the exhibition opened it has taken 500 pounds of grains of different quality and 52 gallons of water daily.

To-night the exhibition will close after the prizes are presented by Lady Davidson.

Sentenced to 5 Years.

In the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon, before His Lordship the Chief Justice, an aged man named Ricketts was tried for atrocious assault. The case was first submitted to the Grand Jury, who brought in a true bill. Hon. R. A. Squires, Attorney General, acting for the Crown, asked that the accused be arraigned forthwith. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Penitentiary, with hard labour.

Insane Passenger

On Board S. S. Stephano Brandished a Knife.

During the present trip inward of the Red Cross Liner Stephano a sensational incident occurred on board when a passenger named Cleary, an elderly man, who was suddenly stricken with insanity, began to act strangely and terrorized a couple of other passengers.

The first symptoms that the man was mentally unbalanced was noticed yesterday when he ran through the saloon furiously brandishing a knife in his right hand and shouting loudly. The chief steward of this ship who attempted to quieten the unfortunate passenger came near being assaulted with the weapon but for the timely assistance of two other members of the crew, who managed to control the passenger for the remainder of the voyage without doing damage to himself or anyone else. On arrival here last evening two police officers took the man Cleary into custody and brought him to the police station where he was examined by Dr. Cowperthwaite, pronounced violently insane and then conveyed to the Lunatic Asylum in a cab. The patient is a Newfoundland, who was away out of the country for a number of years.

The Inglorious Goeben

The success of the Germans in practically closing the harbor of Liban, is important for it may lead to the complete burning up of the harbor. It is the most serious Russian port in the Baltic. It has natural advantages over other Russian Baltic ports in being almost ice free. It is open three weeks before Riga and six weeks before St. Petersburg. The port is on a lake, which is connected by a canal, over 25 feet deep, which gives access to the port, and is kept open throughout the winter by ice-breakers. The importance of the bottling up of Liban, arises from this fact, that it is the only Russian port in the Baltic which the Russian fleet can utilize throughout the winter. If struck and gorges is blocked by sunken ships, the Russian Navy in the Baltic will be useless for the next three or four months, and the Germans can direct their attention to the North Sea without having to divert any important units of their fleet to watch the big Russian battleships and cruisers, for the latter will either be bottled up by the closed channels of Liban or blockaded elsewhere by ice. The Russian story of the fight in the Black Sea is a strange one. The story is that the Goeben, a faster cruiser of 2,100 tons, and carrying ten 11-inch guns after a quarter of an hour's fight with the Flagship Evstafiev, which is 12,500 tons and carries four 12-inch and fourteen 6-inch guns, sought safety in flight, after she had been set on fire. It is to be hoped that the story is well-founded. But it should be remembered there was a similar story a little time ago of her escaping from the Black Sea into the Bosphorus badly damaged. The sooner we hear of her being out of commission the easier it will be.

TURKEY MAKES NO REPLY.

LONDON, To-Day.—Turkey has not yet replied to the request of the United States Government for information as to why the launch of the cruiser Tennessee was fired upon by Turkish forces at Smyrna. It is an answer is not forthcoming shortly it is probable that the American Government will ask the British Admiralty for permission to use its wireless communication with the American ships in Turkish waters.

GLASGOW TO DRY DOCK AT BRAZILIAN PORT.

RIO JANEIRO, To-Day.—The British cruiser Glasgow has obtained permission from the Brazilian Government to enter the dry dock to receive urgent repairs. Repairs must be completed within seven days. At the expiration of that time the vessel will sail for the high seas. The Glasgow has five holes in her hull by shells in battle and four sailors were wounded. From conversations with the officers of the Glasgow it became known to-day that at the very beginning of the battle, the cruiser Good Hope, considering the higher power of the German squadron guns, ordered the Glasgow and transport Otranto to seek a place of refuge. Notwithstanding this order the Glasgow answered the fire of the German cruisers and received a number of shells in the first part of the fight. Officers of the Glasgow say the Good Hope had one of her 9.2 inch guns dismantled and then her gunpowder stores exploded. Admiral Craddock and crew of Good Hope and Montevideo went down with their ships. The British battleship Canopus, the officers say, spending at only sixteen knots an hour, could not arrive in time to participate in the battle.

THE RUSSIAN RETREAT.

LONDON, To-Day.—Public interest is now largely centered in the battle between the Russians and Germans between the Vistula and Warta Rivers in Poland, as it is believed that the result of the fighting there will have a very marked effect on operations elsewhere and on duration of the war. Curiosity is far from being satisfied, as both German and Russian headquarters are very sparing with information. All that is definitely known is that the Russian advance guard, consisting largely of cavalry, which advanced right on to the German frontier after the battle at Warsav, met superior forces of the enemy and have been compelled to fall back more than half the distance covered in the advance. The Germans are sending very strong forces of men and guns into the country between the two rivers where the battle must be fought, hoping that in this confined area the Russians will not be able to deploy their enormous forces to their advantage, as they have done in practically all previous battles. Grand Duke Nicholas, Commander-in-Chief, however, can choose his own ground for battle and it is probable that he will select it as far away from the German lines of communication as he can. In Galicia, before Cracow and in East Prussia, the Russians are pushing their advantage, apparently disregarding the fact that their centre has been compelled to fall back. They are also showing much activity in the Carpathians, their object being to prevent the Austrians from returning into Hungary. In fact it is said that they have already cut off 800,000 Austrians, who will now be compelled, if defeated, to retreat westward.

WEATHER STOPS HOSTILITIES.

BRIDGES, via St. John's and London, To-Day.—Quiet reigns in West Flanders. The sudden and violent coming of winter has caused a suspension of hostilities. The Yser River now has the temperature of that of the New England coast on a bleak windy day. In this way the armies are compelled to live in devastated territory where there are no houses to give shelter or warmth. Physical weakness and not

TREBIZOND BOMBARDED.

LONDON, To-Day.—An Amsterdam despatch says that during the bombardment of the Turkish port of Trebizond, on the Black Sea, by the Russian fleet, the Russian Consulate was demolished and the Consul severely wounded.

GREAT BATTLE IN POLAND.

BERLIN, To-Day.—A great battle in West Poland is in full progress. Official reports state that no cessation has yet been reached, but otherwise no definite results are known here of this climactic struggle which far overshadows the battling on the West front. The engagements previously reported eastward of the Maurian Lakes, St. Saldia, Cracow and other places seem to have been merely preliminaries to the general engagements along the whole line. The German bulletin mentions fighting northward of Lodz, while the Austrians report an advance of their army northward from Cracow, and it is evident that the allies and Russians are engaged in the country along the north and south lines. Hence it seems that the Teutonic allies are leveling a concentrated attack from three directions against the Russian forces.

More Fires.

Paris, Nov. 19.—The French have learned to conduct the enemy in the art of trench making. An officer writes that, not only have his men fired a cooking range at their trenches but they have had a dozen bathtubs properly tiled, screened off and fitted with a hot and cold water spray shower. Better still a regular system of drainage is to be installed next to the trenches in the shelling zones, and the soldiers are now at work on a safe and concert hall all under ground, to be warmed and lighted and something less than half a mile from the German lines.

A SURPRISE FOR EUROPE.

Brigadier-General Nugent, commander of the Hunter defenses, speaking in the sheriff's hutchon at Ball quarter session recently, said:—"Britain's Army is not a very large one, but it is very keen-edged, and in a very short time we shall have an army that will surprise the Continent of Europe."
 "We look on our soldiers as men, not as machines."
 "No nation can fight against men and money, and we have both. Added by time—and the Fleet will give us all the time we want—the issue is absolutely certain."

B. I. S. Smoker.

The smoking concert held at the B. I. S. Club Rooms was largely attended, and proved highly successful. An excellent programme consisting of national and patriotic songs, interspersed with recitations, comic songs, and instrumental selections. A particularly pleasing feature of the programme was the rendering of the "Old Maid Shawl" by Mr. Arthur C. Huskins. With rich voice, and much expression, the singing of this popular old ballad so delighted his hearers that he had to sing the "Little Irish Girl" and "Mother Macree" as a double encore. The programme was as follows:—
Instrumental—Piano, Mandolin, Japanese Viol.
Song—Mr. W. Cornick.
Recitation—Mr. P. K. Devine.
Comic—Mr. J. Atkinson.
Instrumental—Japanese Viol Solo (with guitar Obligato)—Mr. T. Power.
Song—Mr. J. L. Slattery.
INTERVAL.
Instrumental—Piano selection—Mr. J. J. Slattery.
Song—Mr. M. McCarthy.
Mandolin Solo—Mr. F. Devereaux.
Song—Mr. Huskins.
Horn Solo—Mr. A. Bulley.
Song—Mr. C. Benning.

Fishery Reports.

Nov. 14th. From W. Chambers, (Hr. Buffett to Brine's Island)—The total catch is 3,000 quintals and for the last two weeks, 10. Twenty dories and skiffs are fishing. The fishery is about over for the season. Herring are plentiful now at Mussel Harbor Arm.
Nov. 14th. From T. Soper (Channel to Port aux Basques)—Prospects are poor. The catch to date is 246 qts. and for last week 22. Fifteen dories and skiffs are fishing, and one boat. The prevailing winds recently have been from the S. E. and the 10th and 13th were the only days the boats could get on the grounds and then only for a short time. The weather of late has been very changeable and bait is scarce, only a small supply being obtainable from Bay of Islands.

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a box.
ZYLEX, London.

Stephano Here Again.

The S. S. Stephano, Capt. C. Smith, reached port at 5.45 last evening from New York Halifax. From New York to Halifax a very rough trip was had but from the latter port conditions were normal and the run was made in forty-one hours. The ship brought a full freight and as passengers:—Mrs. E. M. Blum, George Geary, Miss H. Powers, F. Cook, H. Haley, W. B. Bell, F. W. Beave and 16 second class.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen,—I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and in my family for years, and for the every day ills and accidents of life I consider it has no equal.

I would not start on a voyage without it, if it cost a dollar a bottle.

CAPT. F. R. DESJARDIN,
Schr. "Storke," St. Andre, Kamouraska.

Diphtheria Reported.

An outbreak of diphtheria was reported from Broad Cove the day before yesterday. Dr. Brehm who visited the settlement found that three little girls had contracted the disease. The patients are undergoing careful treatment at their respective homes, while strictest measures have been adopted to prevent further contagion.

AS AN AFTER THOUGHT—that is, after the fire starts—it is useless to think of taking out a policy. The time to do it is NOW—before the danger threatens.

BE ON THE SAFE SIDE
and let us write you a Policy on your home and property at once. It ought to be made a criminal offense to be without fire insurance when the cost is so small.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BLACK SEA.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 19. The following official statement was given out to-day by the Russian Minister of Marine, regarding a naval battle in the Black Sea, between the Russian and Turkish fleets, on Nov. 18th. A division of the Black Sea fleet, returning from a cruise to Sebastopol near the coast of Anatolia, sighted a Turkish detachment consisting of the Goeben and Breslau, fleet immediately drew up in battle order bringing the enemy to starboard open fire at a distance of five miles. The first salvo of 12 inch Sebastopol near the coast of Anatolia, Esvatry struck the Goeben and caused an explosion amidships, setting her on fire. The other Russian ships opened fire. The Russian guns giving a good account of themselves. A series of explosions occurred in the hull of the Goeben, which opened fire slowly. The enemy seemed not to have expected to meet us. The Germans fired salvos from their heavy guns, directing them exclusively at the flagship. The encounter continued 14 minutes, after which the Goeben withdrew and disappeared in the fog, taking advantage of her speed. The Breslau took no part in the fighting herself on the horizon. The Ivestail suffered only insignificant damage. The Russian losses are a Lieutenant and 19 sailors killed, and 5 sailors wounded.

DRIVEN FROM ENTRENCHMENTS.

LONDON, Nov. 20. The Official Press Bureau has issued the following report from the General commanding the force operating on the Shat-el-Arab River in the Persian Gulf:—On Nov. 17, our troops drove out of entrenched positions about 4,500 of the enemy, capturing two guns, many prisoners, camp equipment and ammunition. Our casualties are, 3 officers killed, 15 wounded; rank and file, 35 men killed, 300 wounded.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—(Official.) Yesterday was particularly calm. There is nothing to report.

OFFICIAL FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 20. The situation in West Flanders and in the north of France is unchanged. A German aviation squadron encountered some of the enemy's aviators while making a reconnoitering flight, and caused them to descend, one of them falling. One of our flying machines is missing. The German fleet has succeeded in partially closing the harbor of Libau, in Russia, through sinking ships, and also bombarded important military positions. Otherwise there is no news of importance.

GERMANS LOSE HEAVILY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. The Foreign Office despatches to the French Embassy here yesterday, referred to the great loss of life inflicted on the enemy by the Allied troops, and spoke of the success of the French scouting parties in securing information of German troop movements. The despatches duplicated the war office communications with the following additions: Supplementary information received here reveals the fact that after three days, fighting resulted particularly disastrous for our adversaries as regards the execution rendered by the allies in repulsing the attacks. To the east of Ypres the Germans left more than 1,200 dead in a space of ground of not more than five or six hundred metres. In the vicinity of Saint Mihiel, after having made successful advances, our troops withstood the shock of the reinforcements of the enemy, holding all the points previously taken. The Germans blew up the garrison of Chauvencourt, with a mine. We had partially captured this town, and, resuming, we were able to force the enemy's lines back upon other troops operating in that region. The German press announced that a strong French attack in the region of Clecy had been repulsed. As a matter of fact we have not engaged at that point, except in reconnoitering. These reconnoitering parties fortunately have been successfully conducted, despite resistance, and have discovered the position and strength of the enemy.

Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion or Gas

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a Little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A Little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Cathedral, when Mr. Albert Lundrigan, son of Mr. M. Lundrigan, of Peter's River led to the altar Miss Babe Gibbons, of St. Vincent's. Very Rev. Monsignor Roche, V.G., officiated. The bride looked charming in a dress of blue silk voile with hat to match and was attended by Miss M. Power, while little Miss Molly Sutton, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Mr. V. Lundrigan, brother of the groom, acted as best man and Mr. W. Sutton was father giver. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to 148 New Gower Street where a sumptuous repast awaited them at which some 80 guests were present and did justice to the good things prepared by Miss Gatheral, former restaurant keeper, of Water Street, after which dancing, toasts and songs were kept up by the young people till the wee sma hours of the morning. The newly wedded couple are now spending a few days of their honeymoon in town, after which they will go by train to Placentia to join the Portis en route to their future home at Peter's River. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Lundrigan every happiness down the stream of life.

The S. S. Sjorstad is not yet finished discharging her coal cargo, and will not be ready to sail until to-morrow.

Shipwrecked Crew On Stephano.

Completing a stormy voyage from New York, the Red Cross Liner Stephano brought into Halifax on Monday last Capt. Steel and five members of the crew of the tern schooner Lady of Avon, which ran on a reef near Turk's Island on the night of Oct. 22nd. The crew were stranded for nineteen days on the island before being picked up by the S. S. Algonquin which landed them at New York. The men lost all their belongings.

Three days after leaving the doomed vessel one of the crew, a Finlander, was taken ill and died a few hours afterwards. Nobody seemed to know what caused the young seaman's death, but thought it was heart failure. Deceased was looked upon as a young giant and had never seen a day's illness in his life.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up." Professor C. V. Boys, F.R.S., says in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a blue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—Nov. 17, 14.

MOUNTSTUART ELPHINSTONE died 1859, aged 80. An Indian administrator of great ability, who from 1819-1829 was Governor of Bombay. He was one of the chief founders of our Anglo-Indian Empire.

RT. HON. SIR WILFRED LAURIER born 1841. Canadian statesman and present leader of the Liberal Party in Opposition. He turned early to politics and entered the Dominion House of Commons in 1874. His splendid gift of oratory gave him an immediate position in federal politics, and he had the gift and distinction of speaking equally well in both French and English. He became Prime Minister in 1896 and held the position for twelve years.

RUBINSTEIN died 1894, aged 64. Jewish piano-virtuoso and musical composer, whose emotional style of playing, combined with his remarkable technical equipment, never failed to exercise an almost electrifying effect upon his audience.

FROM "ODE ON THE DEATH OF WELLINGTON."

A people's voice! we are a people yet. Tho' all men else their nobler dreams forget, Confused by brainless mobs and lawless Powers; Thank Him who isled us here, and roughly set His Briton in blown seas, and stormy showers. We have a voice, with which to pay the debt Of boundless love and reverence and regret To those great men who fought, and kept it ours. And keep it ours, O God, from brute control: O Statesman, guard us, guard the eye, the soul Of Europe, keep our noble England whole, And save the one true seed of freedom sown Betwixt a people and their ancient throne, That sober freedom out of which there springs Our loyal passion for our temperate kings: For, saving that, ye help to save mankind Till public wrong be crumbled into dust, And drill the raw world for the march of mind, Till crowds at length be sane and crowns be just. —Tennyson.

All First Class Druggists Sell Salvia Hair Tonic

SALVIA destroys dandruff in ten days. The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Jerseymen in Newfoundland.

By H. F. SHORTIS.

The more that we study the history of our country the more do we recognize what a lot there is still to be learnt.

We have been taking it for granted for many years that John Cabot was the first discoverer of our Island, but I am thoroughly convinced that such was not the case.

I have been gathering together some facts about Jerseymen that I feel very sure will be interesting as well as instructive at this season, and if it will only lead others into this new field for thought and research, I will be more than recompensed for my work during the past year.

There is a well founded tradition in the Channel Islands that Jerseymen had visited Newfoundland before John Cabot's discovery in 1497. I firmly believe this tradition, and all my historical researches prove to me that the Jerseymen had far more to do in the earliest settlement of our country than any writer has ever given them credit for.

Numerous claims have been made that the Basques were fishing for both whales and codfish, for probably fifty years prior to Cabot's arrival. Many facts to prove this have been brought forward, but one will suffice.

Our Island was called Baccalos in all the maps for over one hundred years after Cabot's discovery. Sebastian Cabot says, this name was given to the place because of the Red Indian name for Codfish, which were found in such quantities. Now this is not the Red Indian name for codfish, but the very fact of the Indians calling the fish by the Spanish name Baccalos proves that the Spaniards or Basque fishermen had been constant visitors and the Indians believed that the crew of the 'Matthew' were Basques in search of codfish.

There are many other facts that I could mention but in the last number of the 'Newfoundland Quarterly,' published in October, the late lamented Archbishop Howley, in those estimable articles of his on the nomenclature of our Island home has this to say about the Basque fishermen: "They played a very important part in our early history. Relics of their presence are to be found in the names of a great many places along our coasts. It is admitted now by almost all students of our early Colonial history that the Basques had in the XV. century and long before the voyages of Columbus and Cabot visited the coast of Newfoundland. It is certain that as early as 1447 they had a regular fishery on the 'Grand Banks of Newfoundland.'"

I had been preparing this article long before I saw His Grace's endorsement of this subject, but I have great pleasure in bringing it forward now as there is no greater authority on this subject. I would ask my readers to give special attention to the following, as I believe the British Ambassador's assertion has reference to the Jerseymen, as they must have been the only British subjects here previous to Cabot.

Spain made a very determined effort in 1761 to establish the rights of Biscayan fishermen to Newfoundland waters, and this was fully endorsed by the French, but Wm. Pitt wouldn't hear of it, and refused to make any concessions that would interfere with the true and capital interests of Great Britain. The British Ambassa-

Dizzy Headaches Cured in One Night.

If Troubled With Head Fullness, Ringing Noises, Specks Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault.

Quick Relief and Certain Cure Came From Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away, and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set me wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleaning remedy I would still be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy, and healthy, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

"MRS. B. C. CURRAN, Westport P. O." Thousands who are in an ailing, low state of health need nothing else but Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or the Catarrozone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

dor writes at this time, that the Biscayans had often made this claim, but it was as often denied by England, and he brings forward further proof that the uninterrupted possession from the days of John Cabot proved that England was the rightful owner.

The inference is very pronounced that English subjects certainly had some other reason for their claims besides the right that John Cabot established in taking possession of this country in the name of King Henry VII.

There are other facts about the Basques or Spaniards having been in Newfoundland, but my object is to write about the Jerseymen, who were of the same adventurous spirit, and a wonderful class of Roovers. If they did not reach the Newfoundland Banks and shores as early as the Basques, I am certain they were not long behind and were here before the Englishmen.

I know very well I cannot make a statement of this kind without giving some good reasons to substantiate them. The Jerseymen had settlements in every part of our Island from the Straits of Belle Isle to Placentia, and being the earliest pioneers they undoubtedly gave the names to many of the harbors. It is a very common thing to name the new harbor after the familiar spot in the old home, and this enables us very often to draw a close connection. In Jersey the French language is very common. With the daily intercourse between both France and Jersey it is not surprising that these names are very often French, but we also find some of them English as well.

I believe that the majority of the names with French derivations around our coast were given by the Jerseymen. Many of these names are to be found in the earliest maps. It is well to mention here that France never made any claim to being a pioneer discoverer of Newfoundland, therefore we must give the Jerseymen the credit of christening many of these localities. I could give many instances of this in all parts of our country, but there is one part of Newfoundland, the section between Cape Bonavista and Cape Race, where there is no record that the French ever did settle, and it is on this part of the coast, that we have the best information of the early history of our country, and I will endeavor to prove my contention that it was the Jerseymen who gave the French names that we find in so many important localities. I will also mention some English names that are so closely connected with Jersey, and date so far back in the earliest manuscripts of Newfoundland, that it should bring a new light to many on this subject.

Conception Bay is the most populous district of Newfoundland, and the names of its harbors show it to have been a Cosmopolitan centre from the earliest date of discovery.

Here are a few of the pure French names: Bay-de-Verde, Harbor Grace, Bay Roberts, Port-de-Grave, Harbor Main.

Bay-de-Verde gets its name from the Green Hill Side, which is a prominent view in summer time as vessels approach the headland coming in from the ocean.

Harbor Grace is mentioned in so many old documents as Havre de Grace that there is no doubt whatever that its long indraft harbor was named from its resemblance to the well known Harbor at the Estuary of the River Seine.

Port-de-Grave is the port of the Gravel Beach.

Harbor Main is the harbor with the shape of a hand.

Rheims.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Sivasch." Rheims, which was inadvertently stepped upon by the German army during its September retreat is an aged and decrepit city of 100,000 people which has been doing business in the same spot for over 2,000 years and which looks it in some places.

It is situated north of Paris, two hours by railroad and apparently several years by German army and is the Lowell of France, about 25,000 of its people working in the cloth industries.

Rheims has fine boulevards and modern buildings, but the tourist do not flock to see these. It is more famous for its ancient French houses leaning towards each other on streets which are mere slits in the sky at the top; and it also has a cathedral which is one of the most magnificent pieces of sandstone pottery in existence. Thousands of workmen laboured for years to carve fauna and flora as well as saints and sinners all over the church, inside and out and its soaring proportions are so graceful and elegant

Cream of Tartar

Many people use cream of tartar for quick baking. They value its superior qualities and will not knowingly accept substitutes made of alum or lime phosphates, such as are sometimes offered.

But even the most careful cannot always know. The high price of cream of tartar has led to efforts to substitute alum and phosphate of lime compounds which are vastly inferior and not as healthful to use.

The easiest way in which the housekeeper can be sure of quality and economy is by using Royal Baking Powder, which is made from pure cream of tartar.

Royal Baking Powder gives perfect results, is less trouble to use, and has not been advanced in price.

Anyone who has once become accustomed to using Royal Baking Powder never reverts to home-made mixtures or any other product for raising biscuit, griddle-cakes, doughnuts, or cake.

Horse Radish.

Man tries his best to come across with some delightful, piquant sauce, which will add zest to things we eat, to all the divers kinds of meat. The plutocrats spend many dimes for sauces brought from foreign climes, the formulas of which I'm told, are guarded carefully as gold. Ten thousand chefs still strive and strain, and torture what they have of brain, some would bring plaudits from a king. Dame Nature gives that noble fruit, the excellent horse radish root, which, grated when it's strong and fresh, while all its vim is in its flesh, and with some vinegar then stirred, makes all your sauces seem absurd. I have a bottle for a dime, and have a condiment sublime. I draw the cork, there rushes out, a fine aroma, strong and stout, that fairly lifts me from my feet, and makes me strangle and repeat. Rorse radish on a slice of beef! It makes a man forget his grief, and stirs his sluggish appetite until he longs to eat all night. There's nothing else that's half as good; though all inventors living should for centuries their skill employ, to make a sauce that's a joy, exhausting every art and shift, they never beat Dame Nature's gift.

Thus it will be seen that entertaining royalty is no novelty to Rheims, and if Emperor Wilhelm chances to stop there during his French enterprise the town will doubtless receive him with a calmness which will almost amount to a lack of enthusiasm. As a matter of fact it would much rather entertain a modest American tourist with a capacious letter of credit.

A japanned tray can be freshened with two coats of white paint and a finish of enamel.

Household Notes

Washing a fountain pen every few months will prolong its life many years.

Grated horseradish, mixed with lemon juice, is better than mixed with vinegar.

The secret of boiling rice is to put it into plenty of boiling water at the start.

Cultivate the throwing-away habit. Your garret will benefit, also your nerves.

Always shrink and set the color fabric of children's dresses before making them up.

Spreading a little flour on the top of a cake will sometimes prevent icing from running.

Linen should always be soaked a long time before washing. Stains will come out much better.

When using melted cheese on sandwiches, remember to melt it in a hot oven and serve at once.

A saving of 1½ to 2 cents may be had by purchasing canned goods by the case or two dozen.

Acid burns should be drenched with water and washed with a solution of baking soda and water.

For white spots on the nails, a solution of turpentine and myrrin in equal parts is an excellent remedy.

The most obstinate coffee stains can be removed by a solution of lukewarm water and the yolk of an egg.

A spoonful of oxgall to a gallon of water will set almost any colored fabric, if soaked in it before washing.

Ugly cracks and splits in furniture can sometimes be filled with beeswax so that they will hardly show.

Cruel Kindness.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"The greatest harm in a business way that has ever done me," a man told me the other day, "was by a man who thinks he is my benefactor. He gave, as authentic, a lot of loose, vague ultra-optimistic information about a business I thought of entering. I took that as a basis, planned accordingly, and lost a year of my life and I don't like to think how much money."

I imagine that few of us have had as bitter an experience as that. But equally few have not had some painful experience as the result of mistaken optimism and vague information furnished by people who fancy they do us a kindness thereby, or who, at least, have no idea of the harm they are doing.

Every day there comes into the big cities of this country hundreds of young men and women who have no idea of the actual conditions they will have to face. They have heard tales of big money and quick success in one line or another; their little talent or ability has been lavishly praised by well-meaning friends who do not stop to think of the empty ambitions they are inflating to bursting point. Finally some cruelly thoughtless person has said, "You ought to go to New York." The train has been set, the match has been applied, the explosion occurs. They throw off the shackles of a little town life and go.

They may succeed brilliantly and they may fail tragically. Or much more likely they may do neither, but just mull along on the dead line of mediocrity. But whatever they do, there will come many a bitter hour when they will rage against the will-o'-the-wisp praise and applause that led them into that wretched morass.

And while we're on his subject, I should just like to know how many would-be authors have been teased along into wasting infinite time and hope by the deceitfully gracious rejection slips of the various magazines. There is scarcely a magazine that does not practice a studied letting-down-easy, as kind on the surface as it is cruel underneath.

For instance, one magazine rejects your contributions only "because of the necessity of giving precedence to other contributions." Another graciously finds it "not quite suited to our needs," while numerous editors hasten to assure you that the rejection of a manuscript "does not necessarily imply lack of merit."

However, we can at least be thankful that we do not live in China, for this is how the Chinese editor concludes his lavish praise of the manuscript he is about to reject.

"With fear and trembling we return the manuscript. Did we dare to publish it the President would issue a decree ordering us to take your jewel as a model and never dare to publish anything inferior to it."

"Our long experience in journalism teaches us that such pearls can be produced only once in a thousand years. That is why we must return it."

"We crave your forgiveness. Behold, we are at your feet."

J. M. DEVINE, The Right House,
Corner Water and Adelaide Streets.

Dear Sir,—Just a word to say we are all fine and that the Old Country is quite up to my expectations. All hands are well. We had a nice time coming across—'twas a great sight to look at the ships lined up. I must confess, leaving the Narrows and dear old South Side Hill behind, made me feel kind of lonely, but such feelings soon disappeared. We are training hard and hope to be on the firing line at an early date. By the way, that Underwear you supplied the Regiment with is great stuff. They could scarcely believe in England 'twas made in Newfoundland. We are all comfortably fixed. I notice some of the papers are slightly twisting again politically. 'Twas ever thus. We'll do our duty and we cannot do more.

Yours faithfully,
TOMMY.

Get ready, mothers, for Friday and Saturday are going to be great days at DEVINE'S on the Corner. Buy—buy all you want, the qualities are good, the price is low, and as usual you will enjoy the treatment our sales help will give you.

The Kyle Back.

The s.s. Kyle, Capt. Burgess, arrived in port from the Labrador service at 9.20 a.m. to-day, after a trip occupying 17 days. The ship left here on Nov. 3rd and was as far north as Cartwright. From Battle Harbor north winter has set in and the hills are covered with snow, and all the ponds frozen over. Everywhere the dog and komatick are in evidence, and the trappers and woodmen have settled down to their season's work. The Kyle brought a large freight, consisting principally of whale oil for transhipment by the Allan Line, and also a large number of live foxes consigned to various ranches in the city. Upwards of 150 passengers, the last contingent of the Labrador fishermen, were landed at points in Conception Bay, and the following in saloon to this port: C. A. White, Giles Taylor, William Winsor, W. Smith and F. Sullivan.

Sailors in Our Navy.

The collar worn by the sailors in our Navy dates back to the time when our tars wore pig tails. The collars were adopted to prevent the soiling of the coat. All the navies wear blue and white, having copied the British lead. You may distinguish an American from a British sailor by the fact that the former wears stars in the corner of his collar.

You can also detect a sailor's or officer's uniform which has recently been Dry Cleaned—it looks so fresh and new.

War News.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.
PARIS, Nov. 19.—(Official.)
In the north, yesterday was marked by a renewed activity on the part of German artillery, especially between the sea and La Lys. There was no infantry attacks. Between the Oise and Aisne operations around Tracy. La Val resulted favorably for our troops. It is to be remembered that we had taken possession of this village a few days ago, but recently the Germans assumed the offensive to dislodge us, and after having taken the first trenches, they managed to reach the locality, but a vigorous counter attack from our Algerian contingents compelled the enemy to retreat with heavy losses. Thus we regained all our lost ground. In the Argonne our positions are maintained. Elsewhere there is nothing to report.

ACTIVITY IN ARTILLERY FIRE.
PARIS, Nov. 19.
The French official announcement given out this afternoon says that yesterday saw in the north increased activity in artillery fire, particularly between the sea coast and the River Lys, but there were no infantry attacks in this region.

RUSSIAN REVERSE.

LONDON, Nov. 19.
The unexpected blow delivered on the Russian centre by General Von Hindenburg with the German army which had retreated before Warsaw was the predominating feature of the news reaching London to-day, from the Eastern arena. No change of importance has been recorded for some days past in the Western arena, where Flanders is still the scene of heavy fighting. Having for the time being thrown back the Russian advance toward the German frontier on Posen, General Von Hindenburg is the hero of the hour in Berlin. There is much criticism in Berlin of the German retreat from Warsaw but if present marked reversal of form proves permanent the German centre doubtless will retrieve its reputation just as the Allies retrieved theirs selves almost at the gates of Paris. The German wedge from Posen would appear to have driven the Russian centre more than fifty miles from the frontier so that their line is now about midway between German territory and Warsaw. Elsewhere along the great Eastern front the Russians where they are not progressing, seem to be holding their own.

LORD ROBERTS' FUNERAL.

LONDON, Nov. 19.
The body of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, borne on a gun cart, moved slowly through the streets of London to-day to its last resting place in St. Paul's Cathedral. The streets were lined with bare heads as the funeral cortege went by, this in spite of the cold rain which fell incessantly. The cortege reached St. Paul's at noon, where before a great and reverent throng of people, including King George, the funeral services were held. The body will be interred alongside the remains of Wellington, Nelson, Wolsley and other famous Britishers. The pall bearers, representing England's most distinguished men in the service, were Earl Kitchener, Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood, Field Marshal Lord Grenfell, Field Marshal Lord Methuen, Field Marshal Sir William Nicholson, General Sir James Hills Johnes, General Sir Robert Biddulph, General Sir Alfred Guselee, General Sir Archibald Hunter, Admiral Lord Chas. Beresford and Admiral Sir Michael Seymour.

GERMANS VIOLATING ALL RULES OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

BORDEAUX, Nov. 19.
President Poincare issued a decree to-day striking from the roll of the Legion of Honor the names of all Germans thereon. "When the French Government bestows the decoration of the Legion of Honor upon Foreigners," the decree reads, "it does not do so merely in recognition of individual merit, but also, and above all, these distinctions are accorded as a mark of homage to the nation to which Foreigners thus decorated belong." President Poincare asserts that the Germans in conducting the war are systematically violating all the rules of international law by acts of cruelty and barbarism without precedent in the history of humanity, acts which have excited against Germany the universal conscience.

HEAVY RAIN STORM.—On Monday last a heavy rainstorm raged at Yarmouth, Digby and at a couple of other Nova Scotian ports and much damage was done to shipping.
