Crime & Criminals

The Jurisprudence of Crime—Medical, Biological, Psychological, Practical, by Charles Mercier, M.D., F.R.C.S. The most sensible book yet written on this subject. An outspoken, fearless work which seems to clear away much of the "hot air" that has obscured so long the plain truth about "Crimes and Criminals."

Dr. Mercier stands as the exponent of common sense and recognized science applied to the study of Criminology.

By special arrangement with the publisher we are enabled to offer the 10/6 edition for only $1.75, by mail $1.80.

DR. LEHR, Dentist, 329 Water St. RECOGNITION. The care of the teeth is now recognized as a necessity. In fact the large hospitals all over the world examine the patients' teeth and where it is possible put them in good condition before attempting a surgical operation. Experience has shown that the patient has a better chance for recovery with a clean healthy mouth than without it. This ought to convince the most skeptical that care of the teeth is requisite to health.

CHAPTER XVI.
 "Kitty—that was the name, of course . . ." Calligan had been frowning slightly, but now suddenly he laughed. "Do you know, I rather thought Phil was a bit struck in that quarter at one time."
 Peter had thought so, too, but he was not going to admit it.
 They had almost reached Kitty's house now, and Peter stopped. "I've got to pay a call here. Good-bye for the present."
 Calligan nodded and walked off thoughtfully.
 "Kitty!" That was the girl, of course. He remembered uncomfortably how on many occasions Philip had given him the slip in order to go to her. It was not so very long ago either, now one came to think of it—August, July, June, only about three months ago. He turned into a little shop to buy some tobacco.
 "By the way," he said, casually, as he was leaving, "which is the Arlington house—can you tell me?"
 The woman came to the door and pointed it out—the very house into which Peter had gone a few moments ago.
 "Well, I'll be dashed!" said Calligan, disgustedly.
 He was not so sure now that he liked Peter Dennison particularly, after all.

CHAPTER XVII.
 Eva's prophecy with regard to the weather was not so far off, after all, for two days after her marriage the sun suddenly drew the clouds about his face and torrents of rain descended on London.
 There was a chilly wind, too, and summer frocks were hastily replaced by warmer clothes, and stout boots and Mackintoshes became the order of the day.
 The Winterlicks took their meals downstairs now with the rest of the hotel visitors. They sat at a little table in the window and talked platitudes for the benefit of the waiter or anyone else who might be at hand, as if—so Eva told herself bitterly—they had never been married for years and years.
 Since that first night Philip had made no attempt again to allude to their estrangement. He was always courteous and kind, always willing to do anything she wished, but his attentions were those of an ordinary acquaintance. Whatever his real feelings were, he hid them admirably, and Eva told herself fiercely that she was glad she had not believed in his sincerity when he pleaded so passionately for another chance; that it showed she had been right to refuse to listen, seeing that he had so soon apparently got over his disappointment.

 She did not understand that it was because his remorse and hurt were so deep that other attempts were absolutely impossible to them. His one desperate desire now was to hide from her how much he cared.
 It was horrible humiliation—it was never-ending torment.
 He never knew how he dragged through the days.
 He and Eva walked together, and drove and shopped and went to the theatre. Now and then they ran across an acquaintance of his. Once, when she had dismissed him for an afternoon, he wandered in sheer desperation round to Calligan's bachelor flat; but it was shut up, and the caretaker told him that Mr. Calligan was still down in the country.
 Philip's face brightened a little.
 "At my place, do you know? At the Highway House?"
 The man said that he believed so. He knew young Winterlick well, and had heard of his marriage. He unhesitatingly and ventured to congratulate him.
 Philip laughed.
 "Thanks—thanks, very much."
 He turned abruptly and walked away through the pouring rain.
 A taxi-driver hailed him at the end of the road, but he shook his head. A taxi would take him back too quickly. If he got to the hotel there was nothing to do, and Eva did not wait him. He could not really believe that they were married—he and she. He had never been so utterly wretched in his life.
 He hated London—he had only agreed to stay there because he felt that it might be a degree less impossible, as things were, than the beauty of the Lakes. He wondered what on earth they were going to do when they got back to Apsley. Everyone would know then, he felt sure.
 He wandered about the West End till he was tired out, then he went back to the hotel and implored a man whom he had never before seen to play a game of billiards with him.
 The man agreed, but Philip played so badly he did not suggest a second game. The man thought Philip must be ill. He looked after him curiously as he wandered aimlessly away.
 He stood for a moment in the wide entrance hall; there was an orchestra playing and people sitting about having tea; he felt utterly at a loose end. He wondered where Eva was, and what she was doing, he went up to their sitting-room again; the door of her bedroom opposite to it was partly opened; with sudden impulse he went across to it, lifted his hand to knock, but turned away again.
 What was the use? It was hopeless.
 He went into the sitting-room; he sat down straddled on a chair and stared out of the window.
 The rain was pouring down steadily; the big drops splashed up from the pavement in diminutive fountains.
 Philip crossed his arms on the chair back and rested his chin on them.
 If they were only back at Apsley, perhaps things might improve, he thought hopelessly; more than once he had thought of suggesting to Eva that they went back, but he did not believe she would consent. They had started on a three weeks' honeymoon, and so far only three days of it had gone.
 He bowed his head on his arms in weariness of heart and soul; for the first time in his happy life Philip sturdick honestly wished himself dead.
 "Philip . . ."
 He started guiltily and turned; his wife stood behind him.
 He got to his feet clumsily; he hated himself for having let her see his despondency.
 "I thought you were out," he said stupidly.
 "No . . ." She glanced towards the window and the cheerless street, and suddenly she said: "Philip—can't we go home?"
 "Home?" His face flushed eagerly. "Do you mean Apsley?"
 "Yes—I hate London—I've never hated any place so much in my life; I hate this hotel . . ." Her voice quivered; she bit a lip hard to steady herself.

The Kidneys
 The office man and the outdoor worker suffer alike from derangements of the kidneys.
 Backaches and headaches are among the symptoms. In some cases Bright's disease soon develops, others suffer from high blood pressure, still others from hardening of the arteries.
 In order to forestall a painful and disabling ailment, attention should be taken at the first sign of trouble.
 Mr. A. D. MacKinnon, Kirkwood, Inverness county, N.S., writes:
 "I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to all suffering from weak kidneys. I suffered from kidney disease for a long time. I may also say that for three years I was nearly always troubled with headaches, and no treatment seemed to do more than afford temporary relief. I was finally told of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using a few boxes was completely relieved. I have also used Dr. Chase's Ointment with the best results, and never fail to recommend these wonderful remedies."

He laughed mirthlessly.
 "We're agreed to that, at any rate," he said. He looked at her silently for a moment. "When do you want to go?" he asked.
 "As soon as possible—tomorrow, perhaps."
 "Very well; I'll tell them here. He half-turned to the door. He never dared trust himself alone with her, but a thought suddenly struck him, and he stopped, looking back at her. "You will come with me to the Highway House, of course?" he said, stolidly.
 There was a little silence.
 "Surely there is no need for that?" she said then, in a low voice. "I can go home . . . I would much rather go home."
 "If you prefer it we will go there, certainly," he said, purposely misunderstanding her.
 She looked at him with startled eyes.
 "I don't want to make plans for you; I want you to be quite free. Your people will like to have you . . ."
 Philip's sombre eyes flamed.
 "If I go to my people you will come with me," he said obstinately. "If you insist on going to yours, I shall come with you. I have given in to you so far, but I will not have a public scandal. You understand—?" He paused. "Well, which is it to be?" he asked.
 For a moment she did not answer; then she broke out angrily:
 "Then I will stay here—that is all; I will stay here."
 He shrugged his shoulders.
 "Very well; as you please. Then we will both stay."
 He was moving away from the door, when someone knocked. "A telegram, please, sir!"
 Philip took the envelope from the trap; he wondered who on earth it could be from. He had not given their address to anyone; he supposed Eva must have done so.
 He read the message through, and his face paled. "Come at once. Mr. Winterdick dangerously ill. — Calligan."
 "No answer . . ."
 Philip crossed the room and gave the message to his wife.
 The great fear and apprehension in his heart made him almost brutal. "You've got your wish, you see," he said curtly. "We'll go home at once."
 CHAPTER XVIII.
 The miserable day was drawing rapidly to a close as the train crept into Apsley station. The windows of the carriage were dimmed with rain, and the countryside through which they had passed was soaked and depressing.
 Philip had hardly spoken since he had given Calligan's wire to his wife to read.
 Eva tried to tell him how sorry she was; had tried to cheer him up—to assure him that his father would be probably be better when they reached Apsley, but he hardly seemed to listen to her.
 She knew that Philip had thought of the world of the old man, and for the first time since their marriage something of her old feeling for her husband stirred in her heart, and crept through the pride and pain that had number her.

The Effect of Virol as a Tissue Builder
 "Owes her robust health to Virol."
 Cranfield, 50, St. Albans Road, Moseley, Birmingham, Aug. 20, 1920.
 Gentlemen,
 Enclosed you will find photograph of my daughter at 17 months old. I think you will agree that she is a splendid testimony to the value of Virol as a body builder. From early days Virol has been added to her milk food, and I am quite sure that she owes her robust health to this addition.
 I have many times recommended Virol and in every case there has been improvement in general health, rapid growth and easy assimilation of food.
 Believe me to be,
 Yours faithfully,
 (Signed) Geo. Mosca.

The Pernicious Submarine.
 (From the New Republic.)
 The fight of the British Government to abolish submarines is being waged in a good cause and we deeply regret the failure of the American Government to back it up.
 Considering the spirit and the underlying purpose of the original American proposal to limit the building of capital ships, Mr. Hughes certainly had every reason to support abolition of submarines. They give rise to the same fears and suspicions that capital ships create. But instead of abolition he suggested in the beginning their increase and suggests the retention of a large marine fleet. It looks as if in this respect he had allowed himself to be taken into camp by the "express" of the Navy Department. The demand for a large submarine fleet renews the threat against British security which Germany has made when she began the building of a fleet of capital ships. It creates an apprehensive state of mind and is carried out. It will provoke as part of the British Government's form of retaliation.

Burns

Burns are very painful and dangerous, and if not treated promptly and properly, are in danger of poisoning. They will also leave disfiguring scars if not guarded against.

Vaseline Petroleum Jelly

is a dependable remedy which gives quick relief to the burned skin, stops the pain, and keeps out the air, allowing the burn to heal properly.

It is also valuable in the treatment of wounds, sprains, skin diseases, chilblains, etc., and, taken internally, for coughs, colds, sore throat, etc.

It should be always on hand—in every home and on every vessel—for emergencies.

HALIFAX, Jan. 16. Fifty-two and a half hours from City Island, New York, to her dock at Halifax, a distance of about 550 miles, was the time hung up by the two stick Newfoundland owned vessel H. H. The MacIntosh was built at Mahone Bay, N.S., eight years ago.

IRISH NIGHT AT ST. GEORGE'S.

The happy settlement of the Irish question and the creation of the new Irish Free State has brought joy and contentment to all Irish sympathizers abroad, but none more so than Irishmen and their descendants residing within the Empire. An interesting event, expressive of this feeling in the highest degree, occurred recently at St. George's when an Irish Night was celebrated in honour of Revs. Father O'Reilly and Fr. Brosnan, two Irish priests of the Palace there, to felicitate them upon the happy outcome of the negotiations between the two countries. The entertainment took place in the Star of the Sea Hall, and was graced by the presence of His Lordship Bishop Renouf. Irish airs were played and sung, and the opening solo "A Nation Once Again" rendered by Mr. James MacDonald, M. H. A., was enthusiastically received by the large audience. Patriotic recitations were also delivered, and the programme was concluded by the presentation of addresses and purses of gold to the two Irish priests, who replied in eloquent and feeling terms. Afterwards a banquet was held at "The White House" the principal hotel at St. George's, and a very enjoyable and memorable day was brought to a conclusion.—Com.

AUSTRIAN GOVT'S TROUBLES.

VIENNA, Jan. 16. Further complications for the present Austrian Government developed when the Pan-Germans withdrew their member, Dr. Wagner, Minister of Interior. Their action was in protest against certain political features of the agreement reached at the recent conference between Austrian and Czechoslovak representatives, their special grievance being the guarantee of the territorial integrity of the Czechoslovakia and the retention of German and Bohemian authorities under Czech rule.

OTTAWA, Jan. 16. The 1921 census gives Toronto a population of 519,290, an increase of three per cent over 1911.

"Amen."

There are some good stories about General Booth in "Men I Have Painted," by J. McClure Hamilton (Fisher Unwin).

"He was a commanding personality, and he was as positive in his opinions as he was fearless in expressing them. On hearing that I had one son, he said, inquiringly, 'An artist, like yourself, I suppose?' 'No,' I replied, 'He is an astronomer.' 'Worse and worse!' he exclaimed, with a degree of surprise and alarm in his voice, and continued by declaiming against astronomy and all astronomers, stigmatizing the science as one of the most useless on the whole useless list. 'It was not God's intention that we should have any knowledge of the sun, moon, and stars,' he went on earnestly, and he professed a conviction that no one knew anything of any real importance about the heavens!

"He invited me to join him and Commissioner Kitching at tea. After saying grace he turned sharply to me and asked, 'Why don't you say "Amen"?' Say "Amen"?' I murmured that I had said "Amen," to which he replied that "Amen" should be said in a loud and grateful voice, and not muttered under the breath."

Southern Ireland Has Full Government.

Notice to Disarm Served on Bulgaria --- Dublin Castle Handed Over to Irish Free State -- Poincaré on Anglo-French Pact.

BULGARIA MUST DISARM.

SOBIA, Jan. 15. The Bulgarian Government, to-day, advised from the Allied Council of Ambassadors an order saying that Bulgaria must be completely disarmed within one month. The order says Bulgaria must dismiss her Gendarmerie and Frontier Guards, leaving for these services only volunteers who number 500. The Government replied it was unable to execute the order without throwing the country into anarchy.

IRISH GOVERNMENT NOW IN FULL CONTROL.

DUBLIN, Jan. 16. Governmental powers for Ireland, vested in British authorities at Dublin Castle were turned over today to the Provisional Government of Ireland as constituted last Saturday under the Anglo-Irish Treaty. The transfer was made by Viscount Curzon, Lord Lieutenant, in the City Council Chamber.

COLLINS ISSUES STATEMENT.

DUBLIN, Jan. 16. The following statement, signed by Michael Collins, Chairman, was issued from the Mansion House to-day: "Members of the Provisional Government of Ireland received the surrender of Dublin Castle at 1.45 p.m. today. It is now in the hands of the Irish nation. For the next few days the functions of the existing Departments of that institution will be continued without in any way prejudicing the action. Members of the Provisional Government will proceed to the Cabinet Committee to arrange for various details of handing over. Statements of the Provisional Government will be issued to-morrow."

WITHDRAWING TROOPS FROM IRELAND.

LONDON, Jan. 16. The War Office to-day issued an official announcement that the evacuation of Southern Ireland will commence forthwith. The locations to be left are named, and it is stated other units will be moved as they are transported and other consents permit.

ENGLAND STRAIGHTENING OUT PACT.

PARIS, Jan. 16. Premier Poincaré's first official act in assuming control of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to-day was in the direction of straightening out the Anglo-French pact as signed by Lloyd George and Briand which he objects. He had long negotiations to-day with Lord Curzon and Lord Harding, British Ambassador, with the purpose of having the pact ready as amended to present to the Chamber of Deputies when he made the Government's declaration Thursday. It is understood that Curzon requested the pact to be amended to make the military protection clause mutual, namely, that England should come to the assistance of France should the latter be attacked, and also that the general relations of the two countries should to disabled soldiers, and to facilitate the employment of these men, the Canadian Government has assumed payment of all damages. The proposal covers those men in receipt of pensions for war disabilities of twenty per cent. or over. The Government holds that the men in receipt of lower pensions are fit for industrial work without special protection.

SPILLING THE BEANS.

CALGARY, Jan. 15. The inside story of Saskatchewan Convention in December, when Hon. T. A. Crerar met the Progressive members newly elected to the Federal House, was made public to-day by Robert Gardiner, member for Medicine Hat. According to Gardiner, Mr. Crerar told the Convention that there were two sections in the Liberal Party, one Progressive and the other autocratic, and it was up to the Progressive Farmers to see that the autocratic section did not dominate the larger and Progressive Liberal section which might occur if they allowed the Liberal Party to take the place of the Opposition. Mr. Crerar, therefore, proposed that a coalition arrangement should be effected between the Progressive

WOULD BUILD WATERWAY TO GREAT LAKES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. The International Joint Committee, in a report submitted to Congress to-day by President Harding, recommends the negotiation of a treaty by the United States and Canada looking towards the construction of a waterway between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic through the St. Lawrence River, by which seagoing craft can load at lake ports. Another recommendation provides that Canada's shall proceed with the work already undertaken for the improvement of the new Welland Canal. The cost of the entire improvement, the Commission recommends, shall be apportioned between the United States and Canada on the basis of the benefits derived by the two countries. The President in transmitting the report made no comment on the recommendations.

Tuesday, January 17, 1922.

Structural Strength.

The weakness in the construction of shipping during the war might have been the cause of so many of our schooners foundering at sea. Haste in building seemed to animate shipwrights and those who placed orders with them to the same degree of rushing contracts in much shorter time than was ordinarily given to the building of tonnage. It was only to be expected then that ships rushed to completion should be structurally defective, and therefore fall easier victims to the elements. There is no doubt that the numerous marine casualties of the past years have had the effect of increasing the rates on marine risks, and today our local shipowners find themselves unable to charter their tonnage because of prohibitive and excessive insurance premiums. It is argued that is the reason so many of our local carriers are rotting at their moorings, while the steamer and the foreign built sailer are cutting in on freights across the Atlantic. And there apparently is no remedy. The owners of these vessels cannot afford to have them re built or re strengthened, so that in time our great fleet of practically new vessels will be but so much junk, unless they can be disposed of elsewhere. It is not a pleasant prospect to conjure up, yet it seems to be beyond improving. The three masted schooner, known as term, of from one hundred to one hundred and fifty tons register, was thought to be the handiest and most easily handled craft for trans-Atlantic voyages. There was but little going aloft, the only upper canvas being the topmast-staysails and gaff topsails. All the canvas of the three principal fore and aft sails are on deck and can be handled easily by the crew. The only real outrigger is the jibboom, but with vessels of the term knockabout type, this spar has been eliminated, and there is no overwater work on bow or taffrail for the seamen. A contributor to yesterday's Telegram puts forward a very reasonable theory regarding the weight of thrust made by the spars of a fore and aft schooner, as compared with that made by the sectional masts of a square rigger. This theory could perhaps be amplified by some master mariners or marine constructor or architect. There is much to be said in favor of the hypothesis suggested and no little light could be shed on this subject by those with the most knowledge of it. At any rate we welcome correspondence on this truly interesting and vital matter. It is worth considering.

Sugar Duties.

We entirely agree with a correspondent signing himself "Taxpayer," in our issue of yesterday, who takes exception to the excessive rate of duty now being extorted from the people on sugar. Six cents per pound tax is a bit too thick to be paying on an article costing not greatly over half that sum in the New York market. But it seems that when duties are put on it is extremely difficult to take them off. The sugar tax was supposed to be provisional. As the returns from it have very appreciably covered the losses which the high rate was supposed to assume, via the pockets of the people, of course, it is now in order to abrogate this super tax and let us get sugar at a much lesser rate. Not one stroke of business should be done by the Legislature when it assembles, until this infliction is taken away. May we ask the members of the Opposition to keep this matter active and by the power of outraged public opinion force the Government to lessen the present duty on sugar by at least fifty per cent.

Twenty Years Ago To-Day.

(Evening Telegram, Jan. 17th, 1902.) The weather was unusually mild, the risks were all water and wheeled vehicles were plying in the city. Fred Hiscock, son of Arthur Hiscock, was promoted from the Branch Bank of Nova Scotia in the city to a position at New Glasgow. He was the first native official of the bank to receive such promotion. Lieut. N. Snow presented with a silver mounted baton by Prof. W. W. Blackall of Bishop Field College. King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra opened parliament in state. The King's speech referred to the then recent Colonial visit of the Prince of Wales. Prince Khilkoff, Russian Minister of Ways and Communications, announced a new use for automobiles, which was that of haulage. A plank track several hundred yards long with board guide rails at the side was laid. On this it was discovered that the automobile was able to pull a load of 2 1/2 tons at a speed of 12 versts an hour.

(2) What does Mr. P. E. Outbridge, as Manager of the Risk think of a children's self denial week?

(6) If Father Nangle started his "drive" in our store, would the Manager give us a holiday?

Employment for Five Hundred Men.

The citizens Committee on unemployment have arranged work for some 500 men. The work will start immediately. The Committee got in touch with the most deserving cases. The work to be undertaken will consist of widening the Western part of the South Side Road. This will employ about 250 men as a wall will have to be built and quite a lot of back filling done. Railway work is also being undertaken, and 250 more men will find employment on one of the sections in Conception Bay destroyed during the storm of last fall. Arrangements for taking out stone sets to repair Water Street are also being made by the Committee. Only those absolutely in need will be given work.

Officers Nominated.

At a special meeting of St. Andrew's Society, held last night, Messrs. H. D. Reid and R. H. Tait were unanimously confirmed in their offices of President and Secretary respectively. Nominations were made for other offices and these will be balloted for at the annual meeting on Monday next. At this meeting the financial statement will be presented and reports of committees will be tabled. A meeting of the committee on Burns' Night was also held and satisfactory progress reported. Efforts are being made to make this celebration a greater success than those of previous years.

Another Sneak Thief.

A man entered the house of Mrs. Peet, Cookstown Road, yesterday afternoon and stole the contents of a hand bag. The bag was hanging on the hall stand. The robbery was effected in broad daylight. Although several people were in the house at the time, none heard the thief at work. Children who saw a man leave the house, have described him to the police. Surety houses have had sufficient warning. If precautions are not exercised, these robberies will undoubtedly continue.

Rotary Luncheon.

REV. E. C. EARP TELLS OF WAR EXPERIENCES. At to-day's luncheon of the Rotary Club the speaker was Rev. E. C. Earp, Rector of St. Thomas', who addressed the gathering on "The Pathos and Humour of the War." During the luncheon the announcement was made that the St. John's Rotary Club had been third in number one district for December attendance at the weekly gatherings. The actual percentage of attendance was 93.75, and as over 90 per cent. had been attained, the Club is entitled to one of the prizes offered by Mr. R. D. Patterson, Governor of No. 1 District. The St. John, N.E. Club won the first prize.

Express Still Delayed.

THIRTY-SIX HOURS AT KITTY'S BROOK. The east bound express has been delayed thirty-six hours at Kitty's Brook by the storm which raged over the Topsails since Sunday night, but which is now abating. The west bound express is held at Quarry by the storm. All day yesterday a south-west gale with snow swept the Topsails and drifts now lie on the line to a depth of from ten to twelve feet. The weather has been very cold and passengers on the express must have had a most unpleasant time. The trains are expected to move on this afternoon, and the Rotaries will also get to work. There is no snow east of Bishop's Falls.

Unemployed Meet.

A meeting of the unemployed was held in the T.A. Armoury yesterday afternoon, when the matter of procuring work was discussed. The meeting was presided over by Mr. J. Gardner. The purpose of the meeting being outlined by the speaker, a Committee of ten was appointed to interview the City Council and the Prime Minister. It was stated at the meeting that some 15 or 16 hundred men were out of work and that many were in desperate straits. Suggestions for opening the quarry on the Southside and also the establishment of a kindling wood yard were made. The idea of the latter was to supply the Government institutions, and also sell any surplus to the general public. The Committee met after adjournment of the general meeting and discussed their plans.

Personal.

Mr. U. Critchell of Belleoram is in town on a business visit. Mr. Alfred Moore of the Evening Telegram Linotype staff who is in hospital shows much improvement to-day. Mr. R. Judah of Dublin, Ireland, who with his wife (nee Miss Mollie Shea) is now visiting the city, was the guest of honor of Sir Michael Cash at a dinner given at Smithville last night. About 20 other guests were present.

Called at Government House.

The committee of unemployed appointed at yesterday's meeting in the T. A. Armoury called on the Acting Premier yesterday evening, and this morning they visited Government House. End of Bristol's Clay Pipe Industry.

"The last kiln for making tobacco clay pipes at Bristol was lighted on Friday, Dec. 16 in the presence of representatives of three generations of the firm of George & Co.—grandfather, son, and grandson—preparatory to closing down on Monday after an existence of 200 years," says the Bath Chronicle. "Wooden pipes and the greatly increased cost of clay have killed the clay pipe industry. Many years ago quantities of Bristol clay pipes were exported to Africa and bartered for ivory and other articles of value. "At that period clay pipe making was a considerable industry at Bristol. There were 14 manufacturers employing men in one parish. "One after another these firms have dropped out, and Messrs. George are believed to be the oldest house in England, if not in the world."

John Rossett, George Snow, George J. Hayward, for the plaintiff were examined by Mr. H. A. Winter, and cross-examined by Mr. Hunt. The hearing was adjourned at recess hour to be resumed this afternoon.

Express Still Delayed.

THIRTY-SIX HOURS AT KITTY'S BROOK. The east bound express has been delayed thirty-six hours at Kitty's Brook by the storm which raged over the Topsails since Sunday night, but which is now abating. The west bound express is held at Quarry by the storm. All day yesterday a south-west gale with snow swept the Topsails and drifts now lie on the line to a depth of from ten to twelve feet. The weather has been very cold and passengers on the express must have had a most unpleasant time. The trains are expected to move on this afternoon, and the Rotaries will also get to work. There is no snow east of Bishop's Falls.

Masons Win First Round.

INTER-CLUB BILLIARD TOURNAMENT STARTED—THREE GAMES PLAYED. At the close of the first night's play in the Billiard Tournament between the City and Masonic Clubs, the latter were leading by a margin of 113 points. The highest break for the night was 38, made by Mr. D. Duff of the Masonic Club. Only three games were played, and seventeen "mans" unplayed. The first round is being played in the Masonic Club Billiard Room. Masons Take Lead. Mr. G. Flynn acted as referee and Mr. L. J. Harram was scorer. The first game started at 7:15 p.m., the contestants being Mr. G. Freeman (Masonic) and Mr. A. Donnelly (City). This game was finished in one hour, Freeman making 260 to Donnelly's 215. The breaks made were:—Donnelly—11, 10, 11, 19, 16, 11, 18, 11. Freeman—11, 12, 10, 12, 10, 11, 12. Mr. J. Branscombe (City) and Mr. D. Duff (Masonic) were the opponents in the next game. The former obtained a big lead at the start, but Duff soon caught him, making breaks of 22 and 38 in succession. When the game finished after 1 hr. 15 mins. play, the scores were Duff 250, Branscombe 191. The breaks were:—Branscombe—17, 10, 11, 11. Duff—15, 22, 38, 21, 11. An Exciting Game. The third game proved a very exciting one. The contestants were Mr. A. Gosling (City) and Mr. J. McFarlane (Masonic). McFarlane took the lead but was soon caught by Gosling, who led until the score was 201-191 in his favour. McFarlane then pulled ahead, but Gosling again changed the lead. McFarlane, however, made a break of 38 and was unable to give the desired information. However, a few days ago, we called on Miss Morris, the esteemed Librarian in the Colonial Building, in relation thereto, who kindly and materially helped us in outlining a brief history of the author, whose name had not previously been known. "The Banks of Newfoundland," now known as the Regimental March of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, was composed by Chief Justice Forbes, who was born in Bermuda in 1774. In 1816 he was appointed Chief Justice of Newfoundland, where he administered for several years. In 1823 he left here and went to New South Wales as its first Chief Justice, but, owing to falling health, resigned in 1837, in which year he was knighted as Sir Francis Forbes. He died in Lettrinn (near Sydney), New South Wales in 1841. In Newfoundland Judge Forbes was greatly respected, from the fact that when leaving here, very flattering addresses were presented him, expressing the hope that he might again return. At a dinner of the Benevolent Irish Society, held on St. Patrick's Day, 1820, Capt. James McBratne, presiding, his health was enthusiastically drunk, the toast being, "His Honor Judge Forbes, the enlightened and upright Chief Justice, may his years be many and his days be happy." An Irish piper, who was present at the dinner, played "The Banks of Newfoundland." For years after his departure, "Our Late Chief Justice" was found on the toast list at all public dinners, and "The Banks of Newfoundland" varied by "Auld Lang Syne" was played on the different occasions. Could Sir Francis have looked back into the future, how surprised he would have been to find his composition being played in the French trenches, and now at last it comes back to us (thanks to the enterprise of Mr. Charles Hutton) as a lasting memorial to the boys of the Regiment, who rallied to its strains. Yours truly, M.J.O.M.

Popular Song Composed By Nfld. Lady.

"THE SHAMROCK SPEAKS OF HOME." The above is the title of a new song just out, and now being highly spoken of in the United States. Some critics have said it is one of the grandest Irish songs ever written. Our interest in the matter is aroused when we learn that the song was written by a Newfoundland lady Mrs. (Capt.) Thomas Flinders of Trinity (nee Miss Fanny Ryan) daughter of Head Constable Ryan. Mrs. Flinders is a lady of great talent both as a composer and musician, and Trinity especially will feel proud of her success. The song has been copyrighted and is now in big demand in the U.S.A. and Canada. Within a short while it will be on sale here and will be available for either piano, organ or gramophone.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, Jan. 17. McMurdo's Ginger Wine is a good cold weather drink prepared as it is from the old English recipe and of full strength. Though, as prepared according to directions on the bottle, Ginger Wine is practically a non-alcoholic drink it is none the less, a pleasantly stimulating drink and is universally liked by the general public. By the way, a lady friend of ours who uses our product exclusively, recommends that after being made in a saucepan until it simmers gently. She says it greatly improves the flavor of the Ginger Wine. Price 20 cents a bottle.

HIS DIARY. January 16th.—To the office of the Aerial Survey Company, there to wait on Major Cotton, and he tells me of his journey from Bolwood by air coach, and how he intends to fly to Labrador. So to the office, being taken up on the way by Mrs. T. Cook in her motor coach, to my great content. Thence to the Railway Station, and by A. Tait takes me down Water Street in his motor coach. To talk with Mr. C. Carter and our discourse of the Humber Proposition. And it doth appear to me how there is organized opposition to the project, but why this is so, or who are the leaders of it, I do not know. In the afternoon to wait on Mr. Carey, and meeting Major Cotton there, we to have further discourse. After that to play at billiards and so home and to work.

"The Banks of Newfoundland." JUDGE FORBES IS TALENTED COMPOSER. Editor Evening Telegram.
