Peace Treaty First Then Turks May Take Eastern Thrace

Great Britain and France Agree on This as Principle and Refer Question to Respective Cabinets—Believed Italy, Too, Will be of the Same Mind.

(Canadian Press Cable.)

Paris, Oct. 7.—Great Britain and France, as reported by Foreign Secretary Curzon and Premier Poincare, have agreed in principle, that the troops of the Turkish Nationalists shall be allowed to occupy Eastern Thrace only after the conclusion of a peace treaty.

This general agreement will now be submitted to the French and British cabinets, which are in session, and will be referred to Rome by the Italian representative here.

BONAR LAW, IN LONDON PAPERS, CAUSES STIR

Possibilities of a Break in Anglo-French Relations

Declares Britain Alone Cannot Act as Policeman of the World—Looked on as Threat to End Entente if France Could Not Agree as to Near East.

(Canadian Press Cable.)

London, Oct. 7.—A sensation has been caused by a letter from Andrew Bonar Law, upholding the British government's attitude in the Near Eastern crisis, which is given conspicuous publicity in all the London newspapers this morning.

The pronouncement is widely held to be equivalent to a direct threat to withdraw the British troops from the Thibet and Chinese frontiers.

Greater interest could scarcely have been stirred by the letter were its author still a member of the cabinet. His position as potential head of a potential Conservative government in the near future, and his intimate relations with several of the present cabinet ministers are regarded as giving his views special weight.

Indeed, it is surmised that the cabinet members, especially Premier Lloyd George and Colonial Secretary Balfour, had something more than mere previous knowledge of the launching of this utterance at the moment of Foreign Secretary Curzon's mission to Paris.

The most sensational statement in the letter, that relating to France's reported encouragement of the Turks, is: "We cannot alone act as the policeman of the world. Our duty will be to say plainly to France that if she is not prepared to support us we shall be unable to bear the burden alone, but we shall have no alternative except to initiate the governing line of the U. S. and restrict our attention to safeguarding the more immediate interests of the empire."

In connection with Mr. Law's letter it was said today the possibility of a break of the relations of France and England had not arisen for the present.

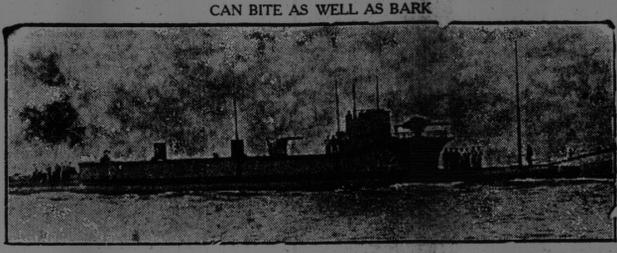

WALTERS MADE MISTAKE BUT WON SCHOONER RACE

Wrong Course and Had to Go Back to Round Buoy

The Margaret Smith Did the Same—Candia Got Lead of Half a Mile, But Bluenose Soon Began to Overhaul Her.

On board C. G. S. Tyrion, off race course, Oct. 7.—(By a special staff correspondent.)—At 9:32 o'clock pennants were broken out from the flagstaff on the starting line indicating that number two course would be followed in today's elimination race to choose a defender for the fishermen's cup.

The first preparatory gun at 9:45 found all four schooners back of the starting line, with the Bluenose on the starboard standing in line. The Bluenose was ghosting along in light air in surprising fashion. Canada seemed heavily ballasted and moved slowly. The

These are the largest and most powerful submarines in the world, capable of developing great speed on the surface, as well as making good time under water.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Transportation of liquor from U. S. ships anywhere whether privately or government owned and on foreign vessels within three miles of the U. S. coast was held illegal under the prohibition laws of the U. S. in an opinion rendered yesterday by Attorney-General Daugherty.

The term "all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof" appearing in the prohibition amendment expresses not a limitation just to lands, Mr. Daugherty held, but rather an extension wherever the jurisdiction of the U. S. may reach.

New York, Oct. 7.—The decision rendered by Attorney Gen. Daugherty, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on all vessels flying the American flag also upon foreign vessels trading to any port in the U. S. did not cause much surprise in shipping circles, as it had been expected for some days.

The head of one of the large American steamship companies, which operates its own vessels, said that the attorney general was trying to make a local law out of an international law, and is enforcing upon the people of the world laws enacted in Washington upon the people of the world.

Managers of foreign steamship lines did not wish to discuss the ruling of the attorney general at the present time as it was a matter which would require serious consideration.

They did not think it was likely that the U. S. supreme court would endorse the sweeping decision, made yesterday in Washington. If any attempt was made to enforce the prohibition law on foreign flag ships trading to American ports, they could call at Halifax east and west bound of St. John, N. B., without any trouble to load and discharge their supplies of wines, beers and spirits.

In line with weather each of the big steamship companies would have a supply ship anchored off the Long Island shore, outside the three mile limit, but it would not be feasible in rough weather.

McGraw Picks McQuillan With Ryan Ready for Relief—Snyder is Probable Catcher for Giants if a Game is Played Today.

(Canadian Press.) New York, Oct. 7.—This is a morning of uncertainty for the baseball fans. The weather man and the club managers seemed to be in a conspiracy to keep the customers guessing. The biggest guess was as to whether there would be a game. Up to noon only the weather man knew the answer.

The day dawned with an overcast sky but that did not mean much, for days have a habit of dawdling that way in New York. Frequently it is only a haze which burns off by eight o'clock.

This morning it proved to be something more serious. The heavy clouds hung over the city throughout the morning and there was an occasional light drizzle. At noon the possibility of the fourth game of the series being played was an uncertainty, though it looked as though there would be a contest unless a heavy rain came on suddenly.

The few light showers of the morning were not sufficient to spoil the diamond. The other guessing was in regard to batteries and there was much speculation in fandom on this question. Early reports coming from the Yankees indicated a state of uncertainty similar to that of the weather.

SEEKS FINGER PRINTS OF ALIENS AND CITIZENS

Committee of State Chamber of Commerce Gives Report of Investigation.

New York, Oct. 7.—The finger printing of every person in the United States—citizens and aliens alike—is recommended in a report prepared by the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York.

The report is the result of an inquiry made by a sub-committee, and emphasizes the importance of finger printing as a protective measure which would make difficult the evasion of clever and dangerous aliens sent here for the purpose of spreading discontent among the unassimilated elements of our population.

The report declares that with a general finger-printing system in effect it would be possible, by proclamation of local authorities during "such periods as may be deemed expedient," to require all persons to carry cards of identification. The value of the system in the detection of election frauds and as a means to check crime are brought out in detail.

The suggestion covering the recommendations of the committee, and declaring the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce "any movement of the federal or other public authorities having as its object the promotion of a plan for general registration and fingerprinting of all citizens and aliens," will be presented for adoption.

Checks Election Frauds.

The report, which is signed by David T. Warden, Lenore F. Love and William McCarroll, and endorsed by the executive committee, says that general finger printing must be considered on a broader basis than that of criminal identification.

"Citizens, both male and female," the report says, "are now required to register for election purposes if they are to avail themselves of the privilege of the franchise, which is the foundation of our democracy. It is a matter of common knowledge that one of the greatest abuses of this privilege arises through the so-called colonization of voters, and the voting of persons who are dead or have moved away, through the criminal registration by party henchmen. There is only one certain and positive corrective method to be applied for the elimination of this evil, and that is through the adoption of a registration system of finger printing, which can neither be forged nor altered.

"The suggestion of registration of immigrants is already before Congress in a bill endorsed by the secretary of labor, and if thoroughly carried out, will doubtless be of great assistance to the federal authorities in preventing the entry of undesirable, particularly those with a criminal record. The committee, however, feels that the value of registration of immigrants as protective measure would be greatly enhanced through the complete registration of citizens and aliens.

Advantage to Bankers. "In order to overcome the practical difficulty of educating the public to accept a general system of finger-print identification, to which, as a matter of fact, the committee can see no valid reason upon which any honest man, after due thought, can base objection, it is suggested that registration for the purpose of identification by finger print be permissive in the first instance and not mandatory, and it is the opinion of the committee that should this provision be carried into effect by law, all insurance companies dealing in burglary insurance will avail themselves of the opportunity so afforded to issue policies offering a differential in rates in favor of all employers requiring the presentation and record of finger print certificates of identification issued by the government, over those employers who carry on their business in the present fashion.

"To bankers the advantages of permissive finger printing by which the identity of their clients could be definitely established is too obvious to require detailed elucidation, but it may be pointed out that the merit of this system appears particularly pronounced in the case of issuing letters of credit.

"The difficulty in the administration of the law relating to the carrying of concealed weapons in this state has been not so much in the number of weapons possessed by an individual, as from the circumstances, that the authorities have no adequate means of checking the identity of the person who may bear a card in accordance with the terms of the law.

"In other words, in the regulation of the sale of firearms the government feels that, instead of going to the length in the bill introduced in Congress by Senator Shields, it would be better to deal with this question along the lines of identification of citizens and aliens, rather than by the imposition of an act which will prove practically unenforceable as regards the criminal and most inroads in this respect to law-abiding citizens, who have a real need of a means of self-protection for their homes under present conditions.

ASKS OPERATION ON BANDIT

Roy Gardner's Wife Says It Might Reform Him.

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Dollie Gardner, wife of Roy Gardner, notorious bandit, is anxiously awaiting word from Washington as to whether the government will permit an operation on her husband, who is confined in the Federal prison here.

The operation would be to relieve a supposed brain pressure which is said to cause Gardner's criminal tendencies. Mrs. Gardner arrived from California to be present at the operation.

"Although I was disappointed when I learned the permit had not been received, I have not given up hope," Mrs. Gardner said.

"I cannot say why the government will not permit it. It certainly will not make Roy any worse, and if it accomplished his reform he would be the gainer."

SERIOUS CHARGES MADE AGAINST EXECUTIONERS

Hanging of Bennie Swin Took More Than an Hour Although the Prisoner was Unconscious All the Time — Statements by Deputy Sheriff and Physician.

Details in connection with the hanging of Bennie Swin at Woodstock, yesterday, during which the body was cut down before life was extinct, necessitated a second hanging, were given last evening by Deputy Sheriff H. V. Mooers. Mr. Mooers' story is as follows:

"Bennie Swin was brought out of his cell at 5 o'clock, supported by two men on the scaffold. During this time the doomed man kept praying continuously. The black cap was placed over his head and the noose adjusted. When this had been completed Doyle sprang the trap and immediately went down and opened the door. He asked the doctors present to go in and examine Swin. Dr. Griffin, the official jail doctor, Dr. Grant McIntosh, and a visiting doctor named Mapplebeck, all entered along with the sheriff, deputy and other officials. Dr. Grant took the stethoscope and started to examine Swin's heart, while Dr. Griffin and Dr. McIntosh held his pulse. I did not hear what they were saying, but I took for granted that they pronounced him dead. The black cap was removed, and Swin was then carried into the jail and placed on a bed.

"They were just about to bring in the jury when the doctors noticed that he was breathing. All gathered around him and evidently concluded that he would live for only a few minutes, but instead of that his pulse was evidently getting stronger. They must have waited nearly an hour and then evidently concluded the hanging would have to be done over again. Gill performed the second hanging and made a good job of it. The body was cut down for fifteen minutes. At that time Swin was dead and the body was carried into the jail and the jury summoned. The body was then passed over to Jessie Foster, an uncle of the deceased.

"The doctor who made the remarks made by Hangman Doyle to the condemned man, the deputy sheriff said, 'He was in a worse condition than they thought he was. They blamed the trouble in the first instance to his drinking.'

Physician's Statement. Dr. Griffin, the official jail physician, when interviewed by The Telegraph reporter regarding the taking down of Swin before he was dead, said:

"I do not know who ordered him cut down. Dr. Grant had been listening with a stethoscope and turned to hand the instrument to me when the body was cut down. I did not see who actually cut the rope. Swin was unconscious when he was carried into the jail. I was examining him looking for a fracture. His neck had not been broken. I discovered a dislocation between the third and fourth vertebrae and while I was working with him he began to revive. I advised the sheriff that the only thing to do was to hang him over again. The sheriff was fortunate in having hangman Gill present for he made a good job of the second time. Bennie Swin was not conscious at any period."

"The body of Bennie Swin was taken to the former home at Mainstream and the funeral will take place there tomorrow (Saturday). Mainstream is five miles back of Hartland. Hangman 'Doyle' was kept in the jail until the afternoon and was then escorted to Teed's Mills, six miles out of Woodstock, and from there he was transported for Montreal. Deputy Sheriff Mooers said they did not think it advisable to let him out during the day as there was a strong feeling against him due to alleged remarks made to Swin, some of which were exaggerated.

Sheriff Foster left today for his home in Hartland. It is recognized that the sheriff did all a man could do and that he is in no way to blame for the mishap.

EVERYTHING ON WHEELS TO MOVE NEW YORKERS Van Owners Say Confusion and Lack of Transportation are Unprecedented.

New York, Oct. 7.—Unprecedented confusion and lack of transportation facilities have marked the annual fall rush this year, according to Charles Morris, president of the Van Owners' Association, and will probably continue throughout the week.

In the first place the month began on Sunday and there was little moving on that day. Jewish war veterans and storage houses were observing their holiday yesterday and the moving facilities were again curtailed. Mr. Morris blamed the landlords chiefly, saying that their determination to hold up rents had caused many families to move who would otherwise have remained where they were.

"Everything on wheels is being requisitioned," said Mr. Morris, "and I know of many cases where taxis have been used. In all my experience I have never known so many people to be moving. If there were twice as many trucking companies they could not begin to take care of the business. People are half frantic in the efforts to get their things moved."

(Toronto Telegram)
When Paderewski, supreme master of the piano, entered his native Warsaw to become premier of Poland, roses literally strewn his path. But the great pianist's reception in Toronto would be very different if one Jewish editor of this city had his way, for Paderewski as hero of the Polish state is accused by him and others, of having permitted pogroms — an accusation which Father Dowling, priest of St. Stanislaus church, Toronto, seeks to refute by stating that Jews who were traitors suffered.

Years have passed since the famous Pole with the aureole of one golden and now grey hair, and the intense blue eyes, ran his wonderful fingers across a pianoforte in public. One day in 1918, the master closed down the lid of his piano and cancelled a contract to play at a fabulous fee in the cities of South America. The hour for which he longed was come. At last he could serve his beloved Poland. But he had to serve her in the United States where he then was. Not until December of 1918 did Paderewski and Madame Paderewski reach Warsaw. Four million Poles in the United States were backing him. He was welcomed with shouts of joy and in February, 1919, he headed the list of those elected to the Polish Constituent Assembly. His countrywomen gave him a tremendous vote.

Unrecognized King of Poland.
"I love music, but I love my country far more, and the one boon I ask of life is to see Poland rescued from her poverty and slavery." Paderewski had exclaimed to a friend in pre-war days when the land of his birth was an oppressed thralldom of Russia. His dream was realized, and he went back to Poland, where from the terraced lawns of his beautiful and stately home at Kozna he had so often gazed across the hills and valleys to the distant peaks of the Carpathians. Even in his former days Paderewski was regarded almost as the unrecognized king of Poland. No king could have had a more triumphant reception than he on his return from his musical conquests. The grounds at his house would be brilliant with crowds in gala costume. They would pass before him in procession with bands playing national airs while robed girls carrying bouquets which they laid in tribute at his feet. Afterwards feasting and frolic would follow with the most representative of his tenants and friends.

Back to California Ranch.
But, alas, Paderewski's reign as Premier and Foreign Minister was a short one. Thirteen different political factions were too much for him to handle and after useful service at the Paris peace conference, where he declared himself the most representative of his countrymen, he voluntarily resigned in favor of some more iron-constituted person to guide a staggering nation through its troubles. And now, after six years in which he scarcely touched the piano, he is back at his art and coming to perform in Toronto. At present Paderewski is resting on the big walnut ranch which he bought a year before the war, in Southern California, which has a large colony of distinguished Poles.

A Professor at 18.
Paderewski's last public performance was by special request before Marshall Joffe and the French Commission at the reception in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, in 1917. Born 62 years ago in Poland, Paderewski was taught music when seven years old by a local teacher. He studied harmony and composition in Warsaw and finished his education in Germany. At 18 he became a professor in Warsaw Conservatoire. He first appeared before a critical audience at Vienna in 187, and in 1888 in Germany and Paris. He scored a triumph in London in 1890 and first visited the U. S. A. in 1891.

He took Paris by storm, but, strange to say, his first appearance in London fell flat. The receipts did not exceed $50, and the critics could not understand "the fuss that had been made about him." In Paris, but the audience was enthusiastic and thereafter he played to crowded houses. By 1894 he seldom gave a London recital which brought less than $5,000—as much as Patti earned at the most brilliant period of her career. Though even those masters Rubinstein and von Bulow had had a few years before to close out their concerts in New York with the help of other artists, it was found that Paderewski alone could draw big audiences. Sixty-seven early performances of Paderewski in New York netted him $180,000, whereas Rubinstein in 1872 had only got $50,000 for 215 concerts. But this was no reflection on the great musician—only an instance of the growth of the country in numbers, wealth, and musical appreciation. Paderewski says he won't play golf. In fact he even stopped playing billiards because it made corns on his delicate hands, whose marvellous suppleness must be preserved at all costs. 'Tis said he used to work them 18 hours a day at practice, and that this countryman of Chopin, and greatest exponent of the piano since Liszt and Rubinstein, has each thumb and finger insured for $5,000.

SIX LANGUAGES IN COURT.

But, English Wasn't Among Those Russian Actress Could Speak.
New York, Oct. 7.—Speaking a half dozen languages fluently, but with none to answer the purpose of the occasion, Mme. Maria Kousnezoy, member of the "Revue Russe" company at the Booth Theatre, appeared before Magistrate Erik A. Smith in West Side Court in answer to a summons served on her by Health Officer James Halligan, who was leading an Alaskan hound unharmed through Forty-fourth street near Eighth avenue.

She told Magistrate Smith she had arrived here from Russia a week ago and didn't know dogs had to be muzzled. She was given a suspended sentence. Difficulty was found in hearing the case. Henry Goodwin, assistant district attorney, who speaks French, gave it up after two attempts. A spectator finally went to the rescue.

FIREWORKS VICTIM DIES.

Woman Succumbs to Blood Poisoning—One Held by Court.
Mrs. Nancy Panella, fifty-two years old, of 890 New Jersey avenue, Brooklyn, who was burned on the legs on September 28 by the explosion of a bomb set off during a religious celebration, died in Kings County Hospital this week. Blood poisoning which set it caused her death. It was said.

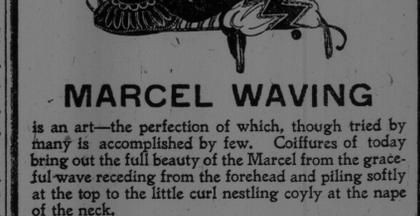

The new Alexandra Chapter, I. O. D. E., held its first meeting last evening with Mrs. R. A. Corbett presiding. Mrs. Walter Gregg read the report from the municipal chapter telling what members promised to do their best to fulfill this charge.

PROTEST DOOM OF OLD OAK
Residents of Green Creek Strive to Save 200-Year-Old Tree.
Cape May, N. J., Oct. 7.—Residents of Green Creek, nine miles northwest of this city, are up in arms because the Cape May County Board of Freeholders wants to cut down the giant oak that has stood at Schellenger's Corner, in the villages of Green Creek, for more than 200 years. The oak is nearly seventy feet in height and measures several feet in diameter. It was under this oak that President Woodrow Wilson made his now famous speech to the Delaware Bay fishermen when he was a candidate for Governor of the State of New Jersey.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE NEAR EAST

Proposals for armed participation by the United States, if Great Britain and Turkey should come to blows, or without even waiting for such an outcome of the present situation, armed intervention on behalf of the Christian peoples condemned anew to Turkish misrule, have assumed a lively discussion in the United States. The extent of the agitation for action to "stop the Turks" by threats or by actual force is indicated in the following Washington despatch to the New York Tribune:
"An avalanche of demands that the United States intervene at once in the Near East, and if necessary join Great Britain in a war upon Turkey, has dumfounded President Harding and Secretary Hughes. The White House and the state department have been swamped with resolutions from all over the country, insisting that Turkey must be checked regardless of cost. Practically all of the insistence has come from church organizations. Some of the resolutions assert that war would be perfectly justified. It is almost impossible to exaggerate the tension in administration circles. There is no disguising the fact that if battle is ever drawn between the British and the Turks, a large element in this country will open a highly organized drive to put the United States in arms at Britain's side."
The interest of many people in the United States in the fate of the non-Turkish population of Asia Minor has been stimulated and kept alive by the relief, missionary and educational work in the interests of these peoples which for many years has received the sympathy and support of the citizens of the Republic. When Turkish military successes in Asia Minor were followed by persecution of the Christians, the facts soon were made known in America and aroused a storm of indignation. With the burning of Smyrna and the incidents attending that disaster, the protests became more vigorous, and the demands for American intervention more insistent. Bishop James Cannon, representing the Southern Methodist in the Near East relief work, spoke for many of his fellow-countrymen when he declared:
"Neither France nor Italy nor any other country can retain the friendship and respect of the American people if that country minimizes or palliates the outrages committed by the Turks, or if it agrees to any compact or treaty which does not thoroughly safeguard the Christians of the Near East. I believe that Christian America will insist that the government of the United States shall co-operate promptly and actively, not only diplomatically, but if necessary with the army and navy, to secure this result."
In a message to the State Department of his country, Bishop Cannon declared: "A prompt, definite American demand, supported if necessary by American naval units present, would probably have prevented, certainly greatly minimized, the Smyrna fires and massacres." He proceeds vigorously: "Almighty God will hold our government responsible for its inaction while thousands were murdered and deported," and he calls upon his government to realize its responsibility and to demand that the burnings, outrages and massacres cease.
From all parts of the United States there have come emphatic messages supporting the stand taken by Bishop Cannon, but the government has made it clear in an authorized statement issued in Washington and through various utterances by Secretary Hughes that under no circumstances would American armed forces be used in the Near East, nor would there be any active participation in the settlement of the Near East problems.
Representatives of the more moderate newspaper opinion expressed in support of the government attitude are the views of the Philadelphia North American, which says:
"It is undeniably shocking to contemplate the return of all of Asia Minor and Thrace and their Christian populations to Turkish misrule, but that is just one way to prevent it, and that is by going to war against the same Turkey we refused to fight five years ago. A justifiable war, in the opinion of Bishop Cannon and multitudes of other earnest folk. But the fact is to be faced that it would be prosecuted by the United States alone. Greece is crushed and in any case would be un dependable. France and Italy are avowed backers of the Turk. Great Britain is making a resolute stand for the freedom of the Straits, and would be a strong ally in seeking to establish of that principle, but if she would make war again to break up the existing Turkish empire, a course which would cost her all of her Moslem-peopled possessions, even if it would be tolerated by her own war-weary people. Incidentally, an American war to wrest from Turkey Armenia and Smyrna and Thrace would be a war to nullify concessions already granted by Great Britain and France and Italy, and to undertake to nullify them would be to confirm the Turks in the troubled and unenviable position in their power. The project of overthrowing the government of the Near East presents a lofty ideal, but manifestly its advocates have not examined the problems involved in its accomplishment, nor counted its cost to America and civilization."
While the Boston Transcript says:

"The return of the Turk to Europe will be a disgrace to that continent, and the resubjugation of Armenia and Thrace to his despotism will be a grave reflection on European diplomacy," it cannot view the situation as a disgrace to or a reflection on the United States, and it condemns those who urge intervention as "followers of Woodrow Wilson and supporters of his policy," whose views he advocated and still advocates our entry into the League of Nations, which is in itself sufficient to place any one beyond the scope of the Transcript's sympathy, or finally as "pacifists, who didn't raise their boys to be soldiers." However, the inconsistencies which appear to mark the Transcript's attitude are no more glaring than the inconsistencies of many others on the subject of the foreign policies in the United States.
The opposing views have inspired a lively controversy across the border, and the discussion is reminiscent of the days before the United States entered the Great War. At present there would seem to be little likelihood of the United States taking any part in the Near East controversy, except perhaps for the protection of the citizens of that country, but it will be remembered that the prospect of the United States entering actively into the Great War at one time appeared to be even more remote.
TIME TO AGIT.
The revolting blunder in connection with the execution of a prisoner in Woodstock yesterday morning should serve to bring sharply to the attention of the federal authorities the absolute need of a capable and responsible hangman for the Dominion. If we are to have capital punishment the government must see to it that it is administered without such appalling bungling as that which marked the execution of Swin.
This matter should not be left to the sheriffs. They are not expert hangmen, and are not supposed to be. It is unthinkable that they would attempt to construct gallows and hang the prisoner, for the risk of error would be too great. But there should be a well paid, careful, sober expert who would go wherever it was necessary, and who would be able to avoid mistakes.
"It is to be hoped that this whole matter will be brought before the government in the proper way, and that hereafter the Canadian government will prompt action will be taken. Canada must never have another such exhibition as that at Woodstock yesterday."
A permanent memorial to the Canadian soldiers who never returned but who were not reported officially as dead, would be a fitting tribute to those who still are and for ever will be listed as "missing." The suggestion that the memorial should be placed on Vimy Ridge, a place made memorable by the sacrifices of Canadian blood, is worthy of consideration.
If the winner of the International Fishermen's race accepts the challenge of the owners of the schooner Mayflower for a race, the contest will serve to determine which is the speedier boat, but it will not throw much further light on the disputed question whether the Mayflower is a real honest-to-goodness fisherman or merely a racing craft which has been used as a fishing boat.
Credit is due to those who so promptly arranged for the immediate relief of the fire sufferers of northern Ontario. There are some 6,000 fire sufferers, most of whom will need assistance, and the promptness with which the first arrangements were completed undoubtedly has served to prevent much suffering among them.
Beginning tonight all the stores in the city will be open on Saturday evenings. The Saturday half holidays have been greatly enjoyed and next year's will be looked forward to with pleasure. Shoppers will have a good opportunity to inspect the different stores this evening.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

POINTS TO REMEMBER.

(All Rights Reserved by United Feature Syndicate. Reproduction Prohibited.)

REMEMBER THAT:

For best reception of speech and music on a radio receiving set the product of the value of the capacity of the grid condenser measured in microfarads multiplied by the resistance of the grid leak in ohms should equal 200.

If the crystal detector is inserted directly in the antenna circuit the decrement or damping of the circuit is increased enormously due to the high resistance of the crystal and the circuit will tune very broadly.
For use in portable sets where the detector must withstand considerable vibration, a perikon detector will be found useful, since it has the property of retaining its adjustment well, and the sensitiveness is not markedly reduced when the adjustment is changed by jar or vibration. It is also reduced when a potentiometer and battery with the perikon detector necessary to secure maximum efficiency of operation.

During the times when receiving vacuum tubes are at a premium it is well to remember that excellent results are obtained with the regular five watt transmitting tubes employed as amplifiers in receiving circuits. It is usually necessary to employ 100 or more volts on the plates of such tubes in order to secure satisfactory operation.

When attempting to employ the electric light wiring system for an aerial for reception purposes, only one side (the ungrounded side) of the circuit should be connected to the receiving set and a condenser should be inserted in series with the set to prevent possible damage to the apparatus and blowing of fuses.

Insulators on outdoor aerial systems suspended in localities where there is much smoke frequently become coated with soot which causes loss of energy by leakage on the surface of the insulators, requiring the removal of the defective insulators. This condition is particularly annoying during damp or rainy weather.

While air currents do not affect the propagation of either waves between the transmitting and receiving stations, the swaying of the antenna of the aerial and therefore a change in wavelength which may be noticeable at the receiving station. This fact is more evident when the transmitter is employing continuous waves and the receiver is operating on the heterodyne (synchronous) principle.

With the antenna circuit tuned to a slightly different wave length and the secondary tuned to the desired station it is possible to receive very strong signals on a three foot loop indoors, employing only two vacuum tubes. In the case of the ordinary oscillator, by using the second tube to prevent the antenna from oscillating.

An antenna in the vicinity of where lightning strikes may have considerable current induced in it which may cause a flash and fire at any point in the antenna circuit unless the antenna is properly grounded. This means that a direct "strike" by the lightning is not necessary to cause damage but any wires in the vicinity of the place where the bolt goes to earth may have a heavy current induced in them.

LIGHTER VEIN

An Archdeacon, visiting a parish church, asked the vergers, "Do you have many people here for private devotions?"
Vergers (proudly):—"Yes, sir; I caught two of 'em last week, but I soon 'ad 'em out!"

Her Way Out Of It.
Jones (dismally):—"Helen, I simply can't meet my creditors."
Mrs. Jones:—"Why should you? What in the world do you employ a secretary for?"

Too Bad.
Jones found Julia more or less in tears on his return one evening from the office, and at last got it out of her.
"Yes," said Julia, "she's insulted me dreadfully."
"Insulted you, Julia? Absurd! She couldn't have done so; she's miles away."
"Yes, but a letter came for you this morning from her, so, of course, I—I opened it."
"Of course," repeated Jones.
"There was a p-p-postscript," cried the wife, bursting into fresh floods of tears, which said: "P-P-P. S.—I—let—ter—to—James. I—want—him—to—have—p-p-par—ticularly—"

WIRELESS HOBBY OF WOODMOUNTBATTEN

Prince of Wales' Cousin and His Bride Face a Firing Squad of Reporters.

(New York Times.)

Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the Prince of Wales, is at the Ritz-Carlton with his bride, who was Paulina Ashley, heiress to the great fortune of her uncle, Sir Ernest Cassel. Lord Mountbatten, before the war a British Prince, is a lieutenant in the British navy and he told reporters that he intended to specialize in naval wireless.

"If you say anything about it, though," he added, "I might get checked out; so many of the men are interested in wireless now that few of them get in. I am not sure of it at all. The code is a year and hard but I certainly have no idea of sitting and doing nothing."

At this point Lady Mountbatten appeared. She wore a trim black moiré frock relieved with a double row of pearls, a diamond pin and earrings. A red kerchief and a jade bracelet were the only notes of color. Although she would not talk at length on any topic she had a ready answer for all questions. She was not particularly interested in feminism, she said, and when asked about a career her husband answered that would be confined to being his wife, and she smiled assent. This led to a question on divorce, on which they were reluctant to commit themselves.

"A departure from the old-fashioned way of living may have resulted in so many divorces," ventured Lord Mountbatten, uncertainly. "If the husband and wife are chasing off in opposite directions all day, they are very apt to get home and find no dinner ordered. It is pretty certain to mean discontent. I think the greatest happiness is found when the husband works at his career and his wife looks after the home and children."

Lord Mountbatten talked freely about his impressions of the two cruises on the Renown when he acted as naval aide for the Prince of Wales, but would not discuss politics on the ground that it was a violation of naval etiquette. He described with enthusiasm the new fleet in England which bids fair to supplant the "Beaver." The new one is called "Decameron," in which one to five is in tennis. The Mountbattens will go to Niagara Falls, then to Florida and West as far as Colorado. While here they will attend the polo matches at Meadow Brook and one of the world series games.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING ON A MOTOR CYCLE

The narrow trails circling the north side of Mt. Ranier in Glacier Basin, near Seattle, Wash., are fairly safe for mountain goats. Recently, however, a party of three, Wm. Pollard, Earl Everett and O. V. Schott, invaded the altitudinous icy fastness, and a little flag was waved at a point 8,400 feet up, on the Basin Trail. The flag was planted by Pollard, who says he would not attempt the trip again for any amount of money and would break his altitude record. According to all three riders, it was some real hill-climbing. The riders say they had some slight respect for their machines and somewhat of a desire to remain among the living.

The motor cycle was a Pollard, which they rode the precipitous trails farther than anyone in his right mind would dare to. Had Pollard ridden with spurs, he would have gone straight over the 14,000 foot summit, his companions contend.
The motor cycle went into Mt. Ranier National Park via the new road to White River Camp. The camp is well up in the air, at an altitude of 8,000 feet. Approximately nine miles of trail was ridden in reaching 6,000 feet; the point where Everett and Schott came to a halt. The riders, when glancing straight down into the forests and knowing that a good long fall would result if they fell, were below on the ranger's cabin, which resembled a very tiny dog house from where the riders looked down at the trail, but little call to go farther, but not so Pollard. There was still a little rubber on the rear tire of his machine and he toured on for nearly a mile, to a point 6,400 feet in the air. Here Pollard planted his flag. He contends that no rider will ever reach the flag until the rangers have blasted out several hundred tons of rock along what is now called the trail.

YOUNG VENETIAN GIRL DISCOVERS HIDDEN SPRINGS

Rome, Sept. 16.—Augusta Del Pio Luogo, a beautiful young girl of Venice is looking forward to a period of profitable and pleasant employment. She is particularly interested just now in two things, the location of petroleum, for all the world wants oil, and the finding of water, for the drought of the last two summers is said to be but the beginning of a long dry spell. To Augusta Del Pio Luogo is ascribed the ability to locate the deposits, wily as earth, of both oil and water, and her services have been so remarkable that companies interested in oil production and irrigation.

Augusta first noticed her ability when a child. When walking in the country she would notice little shocks passing from her feet to her head, causing her distinct pain. In 1800 she met a famous water diviner, Chiblerre, and found that his divining rod acted as well for her as it did for him. A year later she went to Argentina, and there, in the presence of two engineers, has located not only water, but petroleum and deposits of pyrites. She no longer uses the divining rod, but a chronometer. It is said that this equipped she can tell with remarkable accuracy the depth at which the water will be discovered, and whether it is scanty or abundant.

MANY WANT TO COME HERE FROM OLD COUNTRY

Sir George McL. Brown Speaks of Conditions in England

Other Prominent People Arrived in Quebec Yesterday on S. S. Melita—St. John Lady Home and Two Others Sail for Motherland.

Quebec, Oct. 7.—The Canadian Pacific 14,000 ton steamship Melita, from Antwerp, Southampton and Cherbourg, in command of Captain G. Hamilton, docked at Quebec yesterday morning at four o'clock with 600 passengers, including 323 cabin and 286 third class, 1,300 bags of mail, 136 parcels of express for Quebec and general miscellaneous cargo. The third class passengers, an excellent aggregation, were landed at seven o'clock for immigration inspection and C. P. R. representatives sent them to their western destinations on a special train at ten o'clock. The Melita with her cabin passengers left for Montreal at eight o'clock. Among the cabin passengers were Mrs. P. Larkin, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner to England; Sir George McL. Brown, European traffic manager of the C. P. R. in London; Colonel J. Obed Smith, Canadian superintendent of immigration in London; Surgeon Rear Admiral C. M. Beadnell, of Portsmouth, Eng., who is on his way to Washington to represent the British army and navy at the U. S. military and naval congress in Washington, Oct. 12 to 14, and who is accompanied by Mrs. Beadnell; Hon. Mrs. Shallworth King, wife of Brig-General W. B. King of London, Ont.

Among the returned Canadians was Miss L. Austin of St. John.

Colonel J. Obed Smith said he had been sent for by the minister of immigration, no doubt to confer on the question of immigration. He said immigration was a matter of demand and supply. The Canadian government did not want to encourage new settlers who would come over here to crowd an overstocked community which was suffering from people out of employment and was therefore careful of the immigrants who left their country. Speaking for his office in Great Britain, he said they were perfectly organized and all they waited for was for the Canadian department of immigration to give the orders when the Canadian organization in Great Britain would get to work immediately to provide the supply of new settlers in demand.

Sir George McL. Brown said Canada was fortunate to have secured the services of Sir Henry Thornton to manage the Canadian National Railway. "I know Sir Henry intimately; he is a personal friend and a big man mentally as well as an accomplished railway expert."

Speaking of present conditions in England, Sir George said the economic situation in Great Britain was progressing rapidly towards normal. All branches of trade and commerce were beginning to show healthy signs of revival and this included the shipping trade.

There were plenty of cargoes offering and ships that were laid up in consequence of the war were now being chartered.

On being informed of the abrupt interruption of the Mudania conference Sir George said that England could not have taken another attitude than she did in the Near East difficulty. She had to be firm and stand fast otherwise the Moslem world would come to the conclusion that England was becoming disintegrated, which would encourage difficulties in India and everywhere else where the Moslems predominated in population and where there were British interests to be protected.

Many Would Come Here.

Speaking of British trade relations with Canada and emigration to this country, Sir George said there was a strong inclination in England in connection with British trade and close relations with Canada. This was manifested by the many thousands of men, women and children who were anxious to come out to settle in this country, and so soon as conditions and regulations would permit to provide assurance, and present restrictions done away with, there would be a big exodus of people from the British Isles to Canada.

The difficulties that confronted the English people today were the lack of means caused by the war. This applied to thousands of agriculturists and farm laborers who wished to come out here to settle, and it appeared to him that something should be done to remove the difficulties of that desirable class to allow them to come to Canada. It was possible to arrange a scheme that would provide a system of financial advancement of

Quebec, Oct. 7.—The Canadian Pacific 16,000 ton Empress of Britain, Captain J. Turnbull, C.B.E., R.D., R.N.R., for Cherbourg, Southampton and Hamburg left Quebec at four o'clock yesterday afternoon with more than 800 passengers including 170 in the saloon; 800 bags of mail and 1,000 tons of cargo. Among the prominent passengers in the saloon accommodation were The Earl of Stafford, member of the parliamentary party who came to Canada to take part in the one hundredth anniversary celebration of the Montreal Board of Trade; Dr. Thos. Recent Weddings Fanjoy-Clark.

A wedding of much interest to many friends in the province was solemnized at the Baptist church at Centreville on Wednesday, Oct. 4, when Miss Dorothy Clark, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Clark, of Centreville, was united in marriage to Edward Fanjoy, son of Mrs. M. J. Fanjoy, of Boston, formerly of St. John. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and there was a large gathering of friends to witness the ceremony. Rev. Mr. Bell, the pastor of the Centreville Baptist church, who assisted in the ceremony, officiated. Presque Isle, in performing the ceremony. The bride looked charming in her wedding gown of white tulle and satin, and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses. Her sister, Miss Phyllis Clark, was bridesmaid and was very prettily dressed in a pink and white gown. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and the bridesmaid's bouquet was of pink roses. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Frank Fanjoy, brother of the groom, who was groomsmen. During the ceremony Miss Clark sang a solo, "The Church is a House of Prayer for all People." A buffet luncheon was served following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Fanjoy left by automobile for their new home, a modern bungalow, on the outskirts of Centreville, on their wedding tour to the United States. The bride's traveling dress was of blue tulle and embroidered with a pattern of white and pink. She wore a mink tie. Mr. and Mrs. Fanjoy will reside at 1000 St. John street, Centreville. The bride has the good wishes of a host of friends. Many out of town guests were present at the wedding, among them Mrs. S. J. Rowley, of St. John, a sister of the groom.

Elliott-Curie.

A pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. David Patterson at Jemseg, Queens county, on Oct. 4 last, when he united in marriage Miss Cora Greig Curie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Curie, and Harrison Otty Elliott, of Portland (Me.). Miss Mabelle Curie, sister of the bride, played the wedding march at the ceremony, which was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's attire was a "lured suit of navy garbardine with hat to match and a gray squirrel scarf. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Elliott left on an extended trip to upper Canadian cities. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will reside in Portland. Among the guests were Mrs. Kennedy, Dr. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, of Jemseg; Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott, Hartford (Conn.); Mrs. J. A. Needham, St. John; Mrs. T. B. Miller, St. John; Mrs. Tower and Lawrence Tower, of Young's Cove (N. B.). Many useful and valuable gifts were received by the young couple.

HOMICIDE COURT BEGINS ITS WORK

Hereafter Cases of Murder Will be Publicly Investigated in New York.

New York, Oct. 5.—New York's first Homicide Court was opened this week in what was formerly Part 2 of the Court of Sessions at 300 Mulberry street, where hereafter all cases of manslaughter or murder not taken directly to the Grand Jury will be referred to the District Attorney's Homicide Bureau for investigation. William McAdoo, Joab A. Banton, district attorney, and Magistrate Frederick B. House, speaker of the court, were present at the opening of the new court, which is a means of publicly investigating killings of all kinds, similar to that which disappeared with the abolition of the old coroner's office.

The first case to come up in the new court was that of Isadore Renert, driver of a fruit wagon, who was charged by Policeman Robert Burns with having run over and killed Getzel Sabn in East Houston street two weeks ago. Magistrate House held Renert in $1,000 bail and adjourned the hearing until Friday in order that witnesses might be summoned.

To curb Drivers and Gamblers. Because of this confusion in the minds of the natives, it is likely that the alleged Eskimo murders now being held at Herschel Island will be tried there, by a specially constituted court which will leave Edmonton next spring for the purpose. In the meantime the Eskimos are being given their preliminary trials before Inspector Wood of the R. C. M. P., who is in charge there.

One of the alleged murderers to be tried by the special court next spring is Alkomiak, who confessed to the murder of Corporal Doak and Otto Bininger, when natives Bay Co. According to the statement of Alkomiak to Inspector Wood he had been arrested by Doak for his share in other murders, and had determined that rather than be brought out to civilization he would end his life. He therefore shot Doak while the latter was lying asleep, with the idea "that Doak would get mad, seize his revolver and shoot him (the Eskimo) dead."

After shooting Doak, the report states, the native waited outside the police buildings for some time for Doak to come out and shoot him. Then when he saw the Hudson's Bay man approaching the police quarters the native shot Bininger, and with the help of a native woman placed his body in the buildings and started for a seal camp, where other Mounted Policemen were located. Before reaching there he was persuaded by other Eskimos to give himself again into custody and did so.

A multiple killing affair is also reported by Inspector Wood at Kent Peninsula, when natives Biagagugak, Ipkukwak, Harnack and his wife, Pugnana and a child named Okoilana were killed and Bininger was wounded by Pugnana and Tatamagna. Pugnana, referred to as the chief, was subsequently killed by Alkomiak with the assistance of Tatamagna, according to the natives' story, because he wanted to kill more natives. Alkomiak and Tatamagna were arrested and brought to Three River detachment, where the latter committed the murder of the Corporal and Hudson's Bay official. The killing of the child was looked upon by the other natives as an act of kindness, according to the report received, on the grounds that both the per-

THE ESKIMO AND OUR COURTS

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—(By Canadian Press)—Eskimo philosophy, failing to comprehend the justice of a punishment for crimes, is likely to put an end for the time at least, to the bringing of natives the Far North out to civilization for trial for murder. The Eskimo, especially when he or one of his fellows, has admitted killing a white man, and is extremely difficult to understand why the red-coated mounted policeman, representative of the White Man's law, should not shoot him on sight, but instead should bring him out to civilization where a big white chief, dressed like a woman, sits on a bench and hears another white chief say, on the Eskimo's behalf, that though he killed the white man in question he should not be punished. Several natives having been brought out to civilization for trial, given good treatment and then returned to their own people rather than when they left, the Eskimo mind has been unable to understand that situation when all of the murderers' friends had given them up for dead, in some cases the men having confessed to the murders of white men.

Because of this confusion in the minds of the natives, it is likely that the alleged Eskimo murders now being held at Herschel Island will be tried there, by a specially constituted court which will leave Edmonton next spring for the purpose. In the meantime the Eskimos are being given their preliminary trials before Inspector Wood of the R. C. M. P., who is in charge there.

Alkomiak and Tatamagna were arrested and brought to Three River detachment, where the latter committed the murder of the Corporal and Hudson's Bay official. The killing of the child was looked upon by the other natives as an act of kindness, according to the report received, on the grounds that both the persons had already been killed by Pugnana. The bodies were disposed of by being thrown into a lake. Alkomiak and Tatamagna are both being held at Herschel Island for their trial in the spring. A third case, an unusual "eternal triangle" is that of Ikakulpiak who was arrested and charged with the murder of Hav-oo-Ogack, the crime having been committed, it is alleged, because the former wished to secure sole possession of the woman Khatlia, who was living with them as their joint wife. Khatlia was one of the natives who assisted in the arrest of Ikakulpiak and bringing him to police quarters.

The fourth case arises from the killing of Alkik in 1919 had murdered a native named Agluetuk and as a result had been strangled by the above named relatives of his alleged victim. Inspector Wood in his report states that there is some apprehension among the few whites over the serious crimes in the Coronation Gulf area, where the natives are Copper Eskimos. He expects to have all the cases ready for trial by next spring, which he states is the earliest date by which a court from outside could reach the territory. Arrangements are now being made for the sending of a court to the Far North.

American Express Co. Said to Be Contemplating Discount.

Montreal's city treasurer is charging a discount on U. S. funds when rendered by large taxpayers for taxes, though he is accepting small sums at par. A number of smaller cities are doing likewise, and at Hamilton the American Express Company contemplates a one per cent. discount, according to today's advice.

LINERS AVERT CRASH BY 200 FEET IN GALE

Gothland and Menominee
Helpless in 50-Foot Waves and 100-Mile Wind—Oil Poured to Still Seas.

New York, Oct. 7.—How two 10,000-ton Atlantic liners met in mid-ocean during the hurricane which damaged the Aquitania and escaped by barely 20 feet a collision, which would have drowned 700 men, women and children, was related by Captain H. Bastin, master of the Red Star liner Gothland, arriving from Antwerp with 402 third-class passengers, of whom only four were American citizens. The ship was fifty-six hours late, but the passengers did not mind that. They were glad to reach New York in safety and said they owed their lives to the skill of the captain and his officers and crew.

During the hurricane, which lasted for forty-two hours while the Gothland drifted with the seas, like a sailing ship, the waves forty-five to fifty feet high rolled over the bow and stern like a half tide rock. Eleven lifeboats were damaged more or less seriously, the jollyboat was smashed, the cover torn off the poop were torn away by the fierce seas which thundered over the ship continuously while the passengers were battered down below.

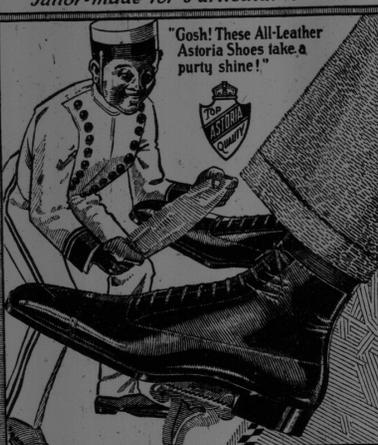

Cat Washed Overboard; Hurled Back.

Only one living was washed overboard during the hurricane, according to the captain and his officers, and that was sweetie, the ship's pet tortoiseshell cat. She went over the starboard side with one huge corner and was hurled back again a few seconds later right on to the promenade deck. Sweetie had no strength to meow, but she was seen by a young sailor, who risked his life to grab the cat and carry her under his oilskin coat to safety. Since that day Sweetie has never left Purser Astill's cabin. She takes no more chances of going overboard. Four days ago the Gothland passed to the northward of a big iceberg.

Captain Rene H. Bastin, thirty-one years old and the youngest master in the Red Star line, who holds American, English and Belgian certificates, said that the Gothland left Antwerp on Sept. 21 for New York, and on Sunday, Sept. 24, in latitude 50 north and longitude 20 west, she ran into a gale from the southeast, which increased to hurricane force, and at midnight the wind was blowing from eighty-five to 100 miles an hour.

The Gothland plunged down into the fifty-foot waves, the captain said, and at times would roll to an angle of forty-two degrees, while the water rushed over the ship, fore and aft, with terrific violence, sweeping all before it.

The racing of the engines when the ship pitched was so strenuous that he thought something would carry away down below every minute.

Saw Steamer Bearing Down.

was drifting on towards us with the seas and crossed the bows of the Gothland within less than 200 feet. When I saw her away on the port side of us I began to breathe freely again. The strain had been intense for all hands on deck as both ships were powerless against the violence of the hurricane and the high seas. The wireless apparatus, flagstaff and the log and line were completely carried away. Nothing movable was left on deck by the seas, which even tore away the iron cleat and fastenings for the anchor chains.

"The hurricane shifted around to the northwest and lasted until nine o'clock Tuesday morning when the weather began to moderate, and the seas gradually went down so that the cooped-up passengers were enabled to get on deck. They had no idea of the danger they had passed through on Monday morning, but they were surprised to find the wireless and watch on the promenade deck had all disappeared with the wirenitch and many other familiar articles, including the jolly and several dog kennels."

"Under ordinary conditions the Gothland can steam 16½ knots. From noon Monday to noon Tuesday she drifted eighty-five miles, the captain said. The chart of the Gothland showed how the captain had tacked with her like a sailing ship and made a half circle to make good positions on his course to New York. The passengers were so grateful to Captain Bastin and his crew that they gave him a testimonial and made a collection for the sailors. After the storm the ten seamen who formed the deck crew of the Gothland worked switch and watch with the carpenter, painting and cleaning the ship and casting away the broken gear from the decks, so that it was difficult for the people waiting on Pier 61, North River, to realize what she had been through because of her spic and span appearance.

The Gothland was built in 1898 as the Gothie for the White Star New Zealand service from London via the Cape of Good Hope and returning around Cape Horn and was used as a royal yacht by King George when he was Prince of Wales on his visit to Australia and New Zealand.

Captain Bastin received a good training keeping a cool head in time of danger when he was an officer on the Ostend-Dover express channel steamers, which have to make their time in all kinds of weather through a sea that is full of shipping at all hours. He also was supported by a crew of real sailors. The crew were cheered up yesterday by getting the baseball returns from the Polo Grounds by wireless telephone just as the last man was out.

"I was on the bridge all night," Captain Bastin continued, "and at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning we just managed to make out the Atlantic Transport liner Menominee less than a mile away bearing right down on us. She was three points on the starboard bow and bound for the English channel. We had been unable to distinguish the steamship before because of the immense waves and the blinding spray that was driven over the bows by the hurricane and blotted out the horizon. Both vessels were pitching and rolling terribly. Down in the trough of the sea swallowing one minute, and the next perched on the crest of a huge wave. While one was down the other was up. It was the most anxious time I had ever passed during my career at sea, which included the Channel and North Sea in the war. I stopped my engines and then let her fall off and went astern with the starboard engine.

"The ship gave such terrific lurches in the trough of the sea that I sung out to the carpenter, who was standing by the bridge, that it was time to start the oil on the waves. After using three barrels, the sea became less angry and did not pound the decks so much. One wave smashed over the bridge, carrying away the windows and the door of the wheelhouse, and then rolled right along the deck aft, where it ended by stoving in the door of the steering house.

"In the meantime the Menominee

Stone Church Organ Has Been Reconstructed

The work of restoring and partly reconstructing the organ at St. John's (Stone) church was begun after the arrival of the present organist in March last, and has proceeded throughout the summer.
The work has been completed, many improvements having been effected, and it is believed that the instrument is in a better condition now than when installed in 1911.
This organ, which must now take its place among the finest in the province, has many delightful features. It is, of course, the only example of a "divided" organ in the city; that is to say, part of the organ is built on each side of the chancel, both sides being played from an electric console in the choir.
This instrument, besides being capable of producing enormous power when required, abounds in orchestral effects, and possesses steps of the sweetest possible tone.
Not only has the work of restoration been completed, but a new stop has been added which members of the congregation will doubtless find attractive. It is called "Carillons," and consists of three octaves of solid steel nickel plated rears, producing a full, rich and sweet tone, similar to that of orchestral bells. These bars, or bells, are struck by electro-pneumatic hammers, and the whole set is playable from the fourth (or upper) keyboard of the organ. Carillons, it may be noted, are immensely popular in Belgium and several sets have recently been installed in cathedrals and large parish churches in the old country.
This beautiful addition to the Stone church organ was made possible by the kindness of L. P. D. Tilley, K. C., who has made this admirable gift to the church, of which he is so prominent a member, in memory of his mother, Lady Tilley.

The whole of the work has been carried out by A. W. Gates, organ builder, of Prince William street, St. John, under the supervision of the organist, J. F. Browne, formerly of Maldstone (Eng).

BROCKVILLE IN REVOLT.

Local Board of Education Distikes Adolescent School Act.
Brockville, Ont., Oct. 7.—Compulsory enforcement of the Adolescent School Act, with a consequent addition to expenditure for educational purposes, was severely criticized by the Board of Education, which declined to bring the act into force immediately, as required under its provisions.
"A crazy piece of legislation," Dr. J. L. Carroll, chairman of the board, termed the act, and it was proposed by George Ross, a member, that the board should defy the Department of Education and take the consequence.
It was reported that the department had declined to consent to the holding of night classes for adolescents and had insisted upon the institution of part-time day classes, which, it was estimated, would cost the ratepayers in the neighborhood of $1,500 annually.

BREAK IN CRIME WAVE FOUND BY BANK OFFICIALS

Prosecuting Officers More Active—779 Arrests for Offences Against Banks.
New York, Oct. 7.—Belief that the crime wave has been broken was expressed in the report of the protective committee and protective department of the American Bankers Association, covering the period from September 1, 1921, to August 31, 1922, presented before the convention here today. This result has been obtained, declares the report, which refers to conditions throughout the nation, through the activities and co-operation of the various officers charged with suppression of crime, "particularly prosecuting officers and the courts in bringing about prompt trials resulting in just penalties."

The report states that the total arrests in cases under investigation by the protective department since September 1, 1921, were 623. There were pending 286 cases from arrests prior to this date, making a total covered in the report of 779. Of this number, 462 were convicted; 213 were released, escaped, died, or became insane, and 104 remained awaiting trial on August 31, 1922.
Dividing the crimes into classes, the report states that the number of burglaries and attempted burglaries against members of the American Bankers Association in thirty-seven states were 222; in the same territory there were 184 attacks against non-members. In the territory covered there were 20,754 members of the American Bankers Association, and 10,005 non-members.
No burglaries or attempted burglaries were reported in the period covered from Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Louisiana, Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Vermont. Of the attacks on members 140 were successful burglaries and eighty-two were unsuccessful burglaries. Of the attacks on non-members 121 were successful burglaries and sixty-three were unsuccessful burglaries. The losses sustained by members in connection with burglaries were $160,877, while the losses sustained by non-members amounted to $88,728.

145 Hold-ups Reported.
Under the classification of hold-ups reported, in territory embracing thirty states, the report states that ninety-four members of the association were attacked and fifty-one non-members. In the territory covered there were 18,718 members of the American Bankers Association and 8,289 non-members. No hold-ups were reported from Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont, Utah and Wyoming.
The hold-ups against members caused losses of $370,761, while those perpetrated on non-members caused losses of $854,909. It is pointed out that members as a rule report all attacks and also the exact number of the losses sustained, while non-members rarely report attacks or losses, with the result that a complete record of deprivations against non-members is impossible to obtain. It is also pointed out, in connection with the fact that a greater number of crimes are reported as having occurred against members of the association than against non-members, that the association has 22,778 members while there are only 19,224 non-members.

During the twelve months covered by the report there were referred to the detective agents of the association for investigation a grand total of 161 cases of burglary, attempted lary, hold-ups, forgeries, and crimes against banks; 143 of these cases were closed through arrests by agents of the protective department of information furnished by these agents. 156 were closed through arrest by local or other officers, and fifty-seven cases were closed through restitution having been made. During the year covered by the report the protective department handled 32,786 reports and other communications regarding crimes under investigation by it.
The rules of the committee were broadened, it was announced, to include in its activities for investigation hold-ups, burglaries, or felonious crimes perpetrated on an officer or employe of a member bank outside of its premises while they are in discharge of banking business and where life is placed in jeopardy. This amends a rule heretofore restricting investigation to crimes committed upon a bank's premises.

LOCAL NEWS

SNOW HAS COME.
A little snow fell in St. John yesterday afternoon. Fredericton had a pronounced snow flurry. It lasted almost an hour and was followed by rain.

ENGAGEMENT
Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, Burford road, Brantford, Ont., announce the engagement of their only daughter, Minnie M., to Roy Turner, son of Mrs. A. K. Turner, Fredericton, N. B., the wedding to take place sometime in October.

NOT ST. JOHN CASE.
A story which appeared in yesterday's Times in connection with the inability of a soldier's widow to obtain the amount of an insurance policy from the D. S. C. R. after the death of her husband, was not a local case. The article was copied from one of the Upper Canadian papers, but the credit line was inadvertently omitted.

ANOTHER IS GRATEFUL.
G. Bert Mason, little son of Mrs. G. M. Mason of Aylesford, who was badly injured in an explosion recently, is doing fairly well at the General Public Hospital, although he will have to undergo an operation soon. His mother has expressed keen appreciation of the attention shown her boy by the doctors and nurses at the hospital, and also of their kindness to her while visiting her son.

BOARD OF HEALTH FIGURES.
There were fourteen deaths recorded in the city this week from the following causes: Senility, three; apoplexy, two; endocarditis, erysipelas, malnutrition, atelectasis, lobar pneumonia, septic meningitis, gastro-enteritis, heart failure and dropsy, and valvular disease of the heart, one each. Nineteen marriages and twenty-two births, thirteen boys and fourteen girls, were also recorded.

AT THE CATHEDRAL.
Devotions in connection with the Devotions of the Forty Hours were continued last evening in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception and consisted of the rosary, Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and an appropriate sermon by the rector, Rev. Wm. M. Duke. The devotions will close on Sunday evening. In addition to the Forty Hours, tomorrow will be the monthly Holy Communion Sunday for the men of the Holy Name Society.

PLEASANT TRIP.
Miss Maude Cunningham and Miss Hazel Myles arrived home on the Boston train today after a tour of Western Canada and the United States. They left St. John in the latter part of August and visited Winnipeg and Vancouver, sailed from Victoria on Sept. 15 for Seattle and on their return visited Portland, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, New York and Boston. The trip was a very pleasant one and the weather was quite warm. On their travels they met scores of eastern people who were glad to hear about St. John.

MISS BESSIE A. HOWARD.
The death of Miss Bessie A. Howard of Gaspereaux Station occurred this morning at the home of her cousin, Mrs. J. A. McGraw, 396 Main street, following a short illness. She was a daughter of Mrs. Margaret and the late Captain J. K. Howard. Besides her mother she leaves to mourn two brothers, Walter of this city, and Alexander G. of Saskatchewan, and four sisters, Mrs. William Scherd of Pittsburg; Mrs. Roy Graham of Saskatchewan; Mrs. James Martin of Philadelphia, and Miss Nellie at home. The body will be taken to Gaspereaux Station on the C. P. R. train this afternoon and the funeral will be held there on Monday afternoon.

DIED IN OHIO.
Many friends in St. John will learn with regret of the death of Gertrude Wilson, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, formerly of St. John, which occurred suddenly on Thursday in Willoughby, Ohio. She resided in St. John up to two years ago, when she left for Willoughby. She was in good health up to a few hours before her death, when she was stricken with paralysis and never regained consciousness. She leaves to mourn four sisters, Mrs. Thomas McComb, of New York; Miss Eliza and Mrs. W. H. Wilson, of this city, and Mrs. E. J. Henderson, of West St. John. The funeral will take place today at Willoughby.

RUMMAGE SALE.
A very successful rummage sale was held this morning in the Y. M. C. A. recreational centre, King street east. The tables were in charge of Mrs. E. A. Logie, and Mrs. James P. Robertson was cashier. Others assisting were Mrs. John A. McAvilly, Mrs. Herbert Crockett, Miss Johnson, Mrs. T. H. Somerville, Miss Ethel Milligan, Mrs. J. D. Hunter, Miss Bradley, Mrs. G. W. Parker, Mrs. Herman Campbell, Mrs. Robert Travis, Miss Alice Belling, Mrs. H. J. Bingham, Mrs. O. A. Burnham, Mrs. G. H. Moore, Mrs. W. H. Lugdin, and Mrs. F. Foster, general secretary. If everything is not disposed of today it is likely that the sale will be continued on Monday.

THE BAY SERVICE.
The work of making the temporary repairs to the steamer Empress is still being rushed in Market Slip. It is expected now that she will not be able to get away for Halifax to go into dry-dock until some time on Monday. The temporary service to Digby will not be commenced on Monday as was hoped by the C. P. R. owing to the fact that the Aramora has been delayed leaving Charlottetown until today and she is not expected here before Monday. Thus her first trip across to Digby will be made on Tuesday. Since the Aramora is a slower vessel than the Empress she will leave St. John at 7 o'clock in the morning and Digby at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in an endeavor to make the same train connection as was maintained by her predecessor.

Y. M. C. I. BOWLING ALLEYS.
Joseph Harrington, one of the most popular bowlers in the city, has been placed in charge of the Y. M. C. I. bowling alleys. Joe is one of the leading rollers in St. John. Last season he captured the prize in the Y. M. C. I. House League for highest average during the season, and would also have won in the City League, but for the fact that he did not roll quite enough games to qualify for the prize, although he was leading every competitor when the season closed. Joe has taken part in several championship series and he is well and favorably known among bowling enthusiasts of the province, and the appointment is a popular one. He will take charge on Monday.

W. B. MCKAY OF SUSSEX IS DEAD

Was First Mayor and Served Other Terms

Prominent in Mercantile Life of the Town and in Fraternal Societies—A Man of Sterling Character Who Will be Much Missed.

(Special to The Times)

Sussex, N. B., Oct. 7.—William B. McKay, oldest merchant in Sussex, who has been engaged in business here more than half a century, passed away at nine o'clock this morning at his home in Church avenue, where he had been confined to his bed for several weeks suffering from heart trouble and complications. Mr. McKay was in the seventieth year of his age when he died. He was born in White Brook, St. John, engaged as a clerk with that firm. W. H. White bought out C. T. White & Co. and Mr. McKay continued with him until 1875 when he formed a partnership with James McLeod, another clerk in the store, and took the business over from W. H. White, the name of the firm being McLeod, McKay & Co.

In 1882 Mr. McLeod died and Mr. McKay sold out to C. P. White but bought the business again in 1885 and ran it in his own name until 1890 when he took into partnership with him the late C. D. Davis under the firm title of W. B. McKay & Co. In 1890, with his son Gordon B., and others in his employ and family, the business as present run was turned into a company known as the W. B. McKay Co. Ltd.

Mr. McKay was one of the most respected and progressive citizens of Sussex. At the time of the incorporation of the town in 1904 he was elected its first mayor by acclamation, and was re-elected in 1905 and again elected as chief magistrate in 1914. Mr. McKay was a past master of Zion Lodge F. & A. M., past high priest of the Royal Arch Chapter, a Shriner and also prominent in the I. O. O. F. He was an elder in Chalmers Presbyterian church and always took a very active interest in church and Sunday school work. He was a man of sterling character foremost in everything that pertained to the welfare of the town and always willing to lend a helping hand to the needy. He was one of the very best of citizens and in his passing the town will suffer a distinct loss. He is survived by his wife, one son Gordon B., and two daughters, Mrs. C. P. Clark of Sussex and Mrs. H. B. Clark of Stockton in the I. O. O. F. He will take place on next Monday from his late residence at 830 o'clock. Rev. A. V. Morah will officiate and the funeral will be held at Kirk Hill cemetery.

KEEPING ALIVE COMRADESHIP

Plans of Second Canadian Divisional Train Association for Armistice Day Reunion.

Plans for a hearty re-organization of the Second Canadian Divisional Train Association at a reunion to be held on Armistice Day this year were talked over at a meeting on Thursday night and a special committee was appointed to take charge of the affair. The place where the dinner and evening programme will be held has not yet been decided but the best arrangements possible will be made and everything done to make the event a success. Included in the business to be taken up at the reunion will be the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The association was formed when the train returned home from France and a reunion was held on Armistice night, 1919. Since then the members of the train have become scattered and the contemplated reunion this year is for the purpose of bringing the men together again and uniting them in bonds of still firmer friendship.

Up a system of correspondence among the members of the train to keep each in touch with the others and to afford each a chance to help some of the others. It is hoped to hold a dinner and an impromptu programme and to this end the members have secured the hearty co-operation of former officers, Lieut-Colonel A. E. Massie, D.S.O., and Major Andrew Rainnie, who have been in all ways possible to make the association a success.

The present officers of the association are as follows: President, R. I. Carloss; treasurer, E. N. Willis, now of Detroit; secretary, W. A. Dougherty, jr. In connection with the reunion it is hoped to have completed and published the history of the train, compiled by two of the members but some difficulty has been experienced in collecting the 200 or so photographs to be included and the work may not be finished in time.

BLUE GEESSE ARE TAKING WING

St. John Representative Away Tomorrow to Convention in Chicago.

Although the annual migration of geese from this part of the country to the warmer southern climes is not scheduled for at least a month, next week will see the departure of several members of the family towards the equator. They have no intention, however, of reaching such a distant point.

The route is that of the Ancient and Honorable Order of the Blue Goose will hold its annual convention in Chicago on October 16 and 17, and St. John representatives from all over the United States and Canada will soon be flocking.

L. W. Nicholson, of St. John, who is custodian of the geese in the maritime pond, will leave for Chicago on Sunday evening. He will go by way of Montreal where on Monday evening he will attend the annual banquet of the members of the Montreal pond in the Windsor Hotel.

This organization is made up of representatives of fire insurance companies in North America and while it appears to be a playground order, matters in connection with the efficient handling of the business receive serious attention at all their gatherings.

STONE CHURCH BADDINGTON

The annual meeting of the St. John (Stone) church baddinton club was held last night in the vestry room of the church with the honorary president, Rev. A. L. Fleming, in the chair. Rev. Mr. Fleming spoke of the fine work the club had done last year and of the prospects of still finer achievements this year. He also referred to the work of the treasurer, Henry Morrissey, in connection with the activities of the club.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Honorary president, Rev. A. L. Fleming; honorary vice-president, Noel Sheridan; president, Henry Morrissey; secretary, R. B. Clark; treasurer, Marlin Merritt; convener of refreshment committee, Miss Helen Skinner.

The club was informed that, due to some unhappy accident, the ancient constitution and by-laws of the association had been mislaid and the executive was asked to draw up new ones for the approval of a meeting to be held as soon as convenient. It was decided to start play immediately.

PREPARING THE PEOPLE FOR RULE OF ROAD CHANGE

Movies, Press and Posters to be Used in N. B.—Motor Vehicle Revenue.

(Special to The Times)

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 7.—Hon. P. J. Veniot, minister of public works, after attending to departmental business for some days here, left for home last night. He announced that an advertising campaign for the change in the rule of the road on December 1 had been arranged and would begin in the near future. Motion pictures are to be used extensively to inform the public that after December 1 they must turn to the right instead of to the left. Every motion picture house in New Brunswick will show special advertising signs starting toward the close of October, and continuing six or seven weeks. The press of the province also will be used in the advertising campaign. In addition 10,000 notices, some in English and some in French, have been distributed and are now being posted.

The fiscal year of the province will close with the present month. Hon. Mr. Veniot said that he had no doubt of the receipts from motor vehicle fees reaching the estimate of $300,000 which he made last winter in the House of Assembly.

The minister announced that his department would soon call for contracts for some heavy work to be done during the winter. The completion of these contracts will be next summer, but heavy foundation work can be carried on during the winter season. In Kent county there will be work of this type at Brown's shipyard and East Branch and in Madawaska county at St. Boniface.

OTTAWA COMMENT ON THE HANGING OF BENNIE SWIM

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Beyond expressing regret that the execution had been carried out in such a bungling manner, officials of the justice department had little to say in regard to the Woodstock despatch telling of the hanging of Bennie Swim.

Apparently it is not the first time in Canada that a convicted man has been hanged twice before he was extinct, and there seems to be no question of the legality of so doing. A person convicted of murder is sentenced "to be hanged by the neck until dead," and this sentence must be carried out even though it is necessary to spring the trap more than once.

BOY OF FUNDY SERVICE. Owing to slight delay, S. S. Armore, which will replace the Empress on the St. John-Digby service, will not leave St. John until Monday, October 9. It is now expected that the service will be resumed Tuesday morning, October 10.

Owing to the fact that this steamer cannot make as good time as the S. S. Empress, public will please note carefully that this steamer will leave St. John at 7 p. m., Atlantic Lodge, and will leave Digby 2:15 p. m., which is thirty minutes earlier than old schedule.

Every effort will be made to make connections with all trains, but until such time as the schedule performed by the boat can be tested it will not be possible to guarantee connections in any way. This condition, of course, will only prevail until such time as the Empress resumes service. 10-10

Cherry looking St. John high school girls, in addition to older taggers, combed the city with a fine enthusiasm this morning, holding up everybody they met and requesting purchase of tags to aid the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Complimented on the interest they were taking, one of the younger members of the tagging squad said, "After all, it is in a good cause and that makes us enthusiastic."

At headquarters it was reported that the taggers were meeting with much success and that the sum realized would probably be up to their expectations. The order is being ably assisted by the local Council of Women and, through them, by the Free Kindergarten Association, the Pythian Sisters, the King's Daughters, some of the members of the various I. O. D. E. chapters, and the high school girls. The committee charge is composed of Mrs. G. F. Smith, general convener, Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson, ward convener, Miss Alice Estey, convener of boxes; Mrs. J. HUGGINS TOOK BUSH OUT OF BOX TOO LATE. Joe Page Reviews First of World Series Games. Bancroft's Catch One of the Most Wonderful ever Seen in Championship Contest — Teams Look to be About Fifty-Fifty.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press)—The Windsor Telegram ceased publication today. It was founded on April 23 of this year. In a little more than five months, it is understood the paper has lost a large sum of money in operating expenses.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 4.—Since the inception of the World Series games between the major league pennant winners, probably the largest attendance that ever witnessed a ball game was present at the opening session of the world series, between the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. While the figures were not announced to the press at the conclusion of the game, it is estimated that the attendance figures will show that I am correct in my surmise.

Another thing to the outsider who is not following the game from day to day was the wonderful spirit of the vast attendance present. They applauded every good play that was made by both teams and showed little antipathy when a poor play was on the part of the Yankees.

It was a great day all around. To start with, the weather was everything that could be desired. Impires were on hand, and the game was a real attraction for the fans.

Yankees played a perfect fielding game without the semblance of an error or anything that approached a blemish. On the other hand, the Red Sox were not so good. They showed at nervous tension, particularly so in the case of Nels, the pitcher, who Stengel and Young, outfielders.

Brilliant ball was put up by both teams until the sixth inning, when the Yankees came to bat with Bush, the first man up, going out Bancroft to Kelly. The second man up was Witt.

The third man pitched set it into far left field in a line drive, which Meusel, who had just come in, hit to right field. The next three batters, Kelly, Stengel and Snyder followed with clean singles, but the fielding of the Yankees was so clever and fast they were able to secure only one base on each, filling the bases. The next batter up hit to Ward and a lightning double play was completed, Ward to Scott to Pipp, thus retiring the side without a run. This in itself should have been a warning to Miller Huggins, the manager, to take Bush out.

However, in the eighth inning Bulet Joe Bush was hit for four clean singles, Bancroft, Groh, Frisch and Meusel doing the necessary. These, together with sacrifice fly to left field by Young, caused the Giants to gather in three runs and the game. Then it was that Miller Huggins realized, when too late, what should have been done in the previous inning, and banished Bush. There is no question in the mind of the great majority of those who witnessed the game that it was Miller Huggins who really lost the game for the Yankees.

The novelty of a clean sweep in a big sale which the Liberty Cloak and Suit Co. of Allentown, Pa., conducted, has attracted a crowd of spectators and attention and they were offered to the public at one cent each. Only a limited number were sold at this price as all Allentown could not be supplied, but the crowd which called brought in its wake many who were interested in the real line of goods the firm wished to feature in its sale.

MORE HOPEFUL AS CONFERENCE IS RESUMED

Turkish Representative a Bit Hasty in His Action on Thursday. Mudania, Oct. 7.—The sessions of the conference here were resumed at 9 a. m. The session opened amid a feeling of optimism. Ahmet Pasha, Turkish Nationalist representative, immediately sounded a conciliatory note by making the astonishing statement that at the time the conference broke up on Thursday he had not received a copy of the Ankara government's reply to the allied peace proposals. This reply reached Constantinople from Angora at three o'clock on Thursday afternoon.

Apparently, Ahmet, upon receiving the Ankara reply, became convinced that his position in the conference had been considerably at variance with the Ankara position, and that he had demanded more than the Ankara authorities were asking.

In any event, the opening of today's deliberations, his attitude had softened markedly and the whole situation seemed to have become more hopeful.

ASQUITH AFTER THE GOVERNMENT RE NEAR EAST

London, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Former Premier Asquith, leader of the Independent Liberals, speaking at Dundee last night and referring to the Near Eastern crisis, said the official communication issued by Downing street on Sept. 16, sounded a double note of provocation and panic. Mr. Asquith challenged the earliest publication of the communications passing between the government and General Harrington, commander of the British forces in Turkey.

The freedom of the Straits, said Mr. Asquith, was of international importance but not exclusively or mainly of British interest.

VIMY RIDGE MAY BECOME THE HILL OF MISSING MEN

Suggestion Abroad to Make Memorial to Those Reported Missing During Great War — Lemieux May Take Matter up.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Vimy Ridge, made famous by Canadian valor, may become the Hill of Missing Men. It has been suggested in government circles here that there should be some permanent memorial to those who never came back but who never were reported as dead. This might be most appropriately done by inscribing the names of the missing on the largest monument on the Ridge, there being ample space for the list. Great Britain, with whom Australia and New Zealand are associated in the scheme, is doing something similar on another battlefield in France, and it is felt here that Canada should not be behind in public recognition of her heroes.

It is possible that Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the house of commons, in connection with his special

They were discussing their troubles at the College street armories. There was a report that the pensions of the armless and legless veterans were to be cut so soon as the life of the high cost of living bonus expires. Ways and means were debated to enlist public opinion on their side. "If our pensions are cut, if the government does not make up for the loss of earning power, then this country has lost the spirit that won the war," said Captain Sydney Lambert. While the president was speaking a woman entered the assembly hall. "My child is in danger of death at the hospital for sick children," she said. "A blood transfusion must be made immediately, the doctors tell me. Is there anyone here who will volunteer to give a pint of his blood for my child?" she appealed. "I am a soldier's widow." There was a hush, then somebody grabbed his crutches and stumbled to his feet. "Right here, madam," he called. Another maimed veteran got up—and another. Finally 300 men responded. The meeting broke up. No more business was done. The call for service had come once more.

Would Stop Gambling At Fairs

The last of the standing committees of the Fredericton diocesan synod to meet at this time convened yesterday morning and afternoon at the Church of England Institute, with His Lordship Bishop Richardson presiding. The majority of the out-of-town members left last night for their homes.

Horace A. Porter tendered his resignation as secretary and H. Usher Miller was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The matter of gambling at the fairs and exhibitions in the diocese was discussed and it was decided that the committee should consult with the Social Service Council of New Brunswick in order to put a stop to illegal gambling.

Municipal Home.

The conditions in the municipal home were the subject of much criticism and it was agreed that the Women's Council should be urged to do all in its power to have two women appointed to the board of governors of the municipal home in order to bring about some improvement.

The St. John jail conditions and the poor housing in St. John were also criticized but the committee took no action in this regard.

At the meeting of the board of church literature it was decided to secure a supply of the first volume of the Layman's Library as soon as it was published in order that it might be available in the diocese. The financial statement of the board, presented by R. W. Firth, the treasurer, showed that there had been a substantial increase in the receipts by comparison with the receipts at the corresponding period last year.

In the afternoon the executive committee was in session and each of the standing committees presented the reports of their deliberations. His Lordship announced that the amount of the forward movement pledges had been paid but there remained some $20,000 still to be collected. The diocese had been asked to contribute $50,000 to the forward movement funds and had

One of the special matters taken up by the executive was the fixing of the date for the meeting of the synod and April 17 was the date decided upon. The synod will meet in St. John next year.

A BROTHERHOOD FOR WEST SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH

Plan for the formation of a men's brotherhood, at Charlotte street Baptist church, was presented by Rev. Charles R. Freeman, pastor of the church, at a men's banquet last evening, over which D. C. Clark presided. Rev. Mr. Freeman dwelt particularly on the value of the assistance that the men could render around the church and his remarks were emphasized by the speakers who followed him, notably, Rev. S. S. Poole, Rev. W. A. Robbins, Rev. A. L. Tedford.

In opening the meeting, the chairman explained the purpose and also related some of his experiences on his recent trip to Alaska.

On Monday evening last, a social was held for youngsters, twelve years to sixteen years, looking forward to the formation of an intermediate B. Y. P. U., while a similar one was held on Tuesday night for those sixteen and more, looking to the organization of a senior B. Y. P. U. On Thursday evening, a choir rally was held and greatly enjoyed. It was announced that a few new members had joined and the choir list is being extended to accommodate them.

Border Towns Work for Fire Prevention

Optimistic reference to the enthusiastic manner in which the provincial border towns are backing the efforts of those in charge of Fire Prevention Week was voiced last evening by Hugh H. McLellan, provincial fire marshal, on his return from a visit to St. Stephen, St. Andrews, St. George and Milltown. The primary object of his visit was to impress on the municipal authorities the need for more efficient fire prevention systems, and in this he was successful. WHY SEAS ARE "COLORED"

The North Sea is green, partly because of its clearness and partly because of its sandy bottom. The Red Sea gets its name from a tiny weed-like growth, dull red in color, which seems to cover its surface. The Yellow Sea of China was once supposed to be so named because of its mud, but its color is derived from a multitude of minute living organisms.

JELLY DAY FOR THE PATIENTS

Arrangements have been made to have a "Jelly Day" for the patients in the General Public Hospital next week. The suggestion of holding a Jelly day was heartily approved when brought before the last meeting of the Women's Hospital Aid at the instance of Mrs. Ralph Robertson, who was appointed the convenor for visiting during the present month. Mrs. Robertson has been in touch with the various convenors of the aid's branches and is hoping that there will be a generous response to the appeal. At the present time the Women's Hospital Aid is providing ice cream twice a month for the ward patients and this delicacy has been a very welcome treat to many. It is the PREST-O-PLATES in PREST-O-LITE Batteries that Give Longer Life and More "Pep"

THE life of a battery depends upon the plates. That is why Prest-O-Lite, when it set out to make the Automobile Battery better, began with the plates.

Always a maker of a better plate, it turned its scientific skill and research to improving it and produced Prest-O-Lite Plates—the long-lasting Plate.

Here is a battery plate as different from ordinary plates as gold is from gilt. Unusual hardness combined with a peculiar porosity gives it unrivaled durability.

This explains its ready reserve power in biting zero weather and its great non-buckling strength that resists overheating in summer.

That is why the Prest-O-Lite Battery outdies an ordinary battery and why it is the best all-weather battery.

Drive around to the local Prest-O-Lite Service Station and ask about a Prest-O-Lite for your car.

Prest-O-Lite Batteries are Canadian thru and thru.

WORK OF KING'S DAUGHTERS IS PROGRESSING WELL

Encouraging reports of the various activities of the King's Daughters were presented at the monthly meeting of the St. John branch and city union held yesterday afternoon at the Guild with Mrs. H. W. Robertson, the president, in the chair. Mrs. Edith Stevens lent the devotion. Each of the committees submitted a report showing that each of the departments of the order's work was flourishing. The report of the house committee was particularly gratifying. The order had been asked to take part in tagging for the Victorian Order of Nurses but while the cause of the V. O. N. is one with which the King's Daughters are in heartiest sympathy and individual members will assist in the tag day it was felt that as a body the St. John branch could not undertake tagging. The members regretted that they could not undertake the work of tagging but each pledged personal support. Plans were made for the rummage sale which is to be held to raise funds. Opportunity Circle was appointed to have charge of the advertising and In-His-Name Circle was made a committee to have charge of tables, paper and twine and other incidental needs.

When reliable power is combined with exceptionally long life, as in the Exide, then your battery is not merely a comfort but a genuine economy

Cook Quaker Oats the Quaker Oats Way

INCE all tests prove that oatmeal is the most wholesome, nourishing and economical breakfast food for everybody—naturally the housekeeper wants to make it the most appetizing.

Her success depends on two things—the quality of the oats and the way they are cooked.

Quaker Oats cooked in the Quaker Oats way guarantee the best oatmeal porridge in the world—at a cost of less than one cent per serving.

Quaker Oats have a rich, distinctive flavour that comes from using none but the finest oats grown, and protecting them with the sealed cartons. In order to retain all the nourishment and fine flavour, Quaker Oats should be cooked in a double boiler.

To make this possible for every housekeeper, we are giving away free, a large aluminum double boiler in exchange for premium coupons which are included in all Quaker Oats cartons.

Save the Coupons—Get the Quaker Double Boiler—then you will enjoy porridge at its best.

The Quaker double boiler is pure, high grade aluminum with a capacity of two quarts wine measure. It is manufactured by a nationally known maker and is guaranteed for ten years. Full particulars for procuring it are given on each coupon.

Remember the name—Quaker—when you are ordering supplies from your grocer.

The Quaker Oats way to make Porridge.

Stir slowly one part of Quaker Oats into two parts of freshly boiled water. Remember to salt the water to taste before adding the oats. Cook in a double boiler for half an hour. No further stirring is necessary as the double boiler prevents burning.

Our five minute plan is a convenient way of having Quaker Oats always ready for breakfast. Cook Quaker Oats at any time during the day according to the above recipe and when cooled leave in the double boiler, but set aside until next morning. Five minutes is then sufficient to heat it for breakfast.

"It is a Splendid Article to have in One's Kitchen"

The following letter is typical of many we receive:

"Thanks ever so much for sending the aluminum double boiler so promptly. I am sure it is a splendid article to have in one's kitchen. I have used the aluminum boiler and find it in every way satisfactory and I shall surely recommend it to all my friends."

REIGHT EMBARGO

SHORTAGE OF CARS AND PILING UP TO FINISHED PRODUCT IS AFFECTING INDUSTRY—RELIEF PROMISED.

The shortage of railroad freight cars and the piling up of finished steel at the various mills in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts is affecting operations in the iron and steel industry, according to advices received by The Iron Age. A few mills have already shut down as a result of this situation, and it is intimated that some others may take similar action. "Specific cases" according to the paper, are the piling of 100,000 tons of finished steel by the Carnegie Steel Company, a ten per cent. reduction in operations of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, considerable accumulation of stock at tube mills, and a fifty per cent. shut-down at a sheet mill in the Youngstown district.

Commenting on the congestion of freight the paper says that much of it is due to the ten-day embargo imposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad on shipments west of Altoona, and there is promise of some relief at least, when the embargo is lifted.

"The production side of the industry, so far as pig iron and steel ingots are concerned, has shown further improvement, in spite of the shortage of cars at rolling mills, and blast furnaces and steel works managers are evidently counting on being able to keep up the present rate of operations. In fact, there are plans for the early starting of several blast furnaces.

"Apart from the cutting off of a few prices, prices of finished steel are quite well maintained. Sales above 2,250, for plates are fewer and involve smaller lots than in early September. A few makers of lapweld tubes have made a 24 advance and charcoal boiler tubes are up $10 a ton in some cases. The plates are higher at 2 1/2c, Pittsburgh, and angle bars have been sold at high as 2.75c. Advance of $3 a ton on paint is also in effect. The average for September was $43.79, compared with $38.79 for August, $36.96 for June, and $25.55 for September, 1918.

"The iron trade is not having momentary relief for the magnitude of tonnage in a given time never has been equalled in the steel industry, but the total delivery total at least 1,500,000 tons. Accompanying the heavy rail buying movement has been comparable closing of track material and fastenings. In the Chicago district these orders total probably 150,000 tons. New car orders this week are about 5,600."

IRON, STEEL, METAL AND MACHINERY

In its summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, contains the following comment in its Oct. 6th issue:

"An average advance of $9 a ton, or more, has been announced for the great market movements of 1909 and 1912 has marked the movement in iron and steel during the last six months. According to Pittsburgh advices, this advance includes all steel products. Comes the inevitable reversal, probably due to increased production since the coal strike settlement, coupled with the fact that buyers are drawing upon stocks accumulated in anticipation of interrupted delivery. Car shortage is being stressed as a reason for orders, but the condition today shows improved deliveries on old orders, premiums for early shipment fading out, and there is some feeling that prices on placing business may have to decline. Against this, the fact must be considered that storage of products on hand is necessary, and this must add to costs. Basic prices are decidedly firm. Wire products have advanced. Shapes, bars and plates are very firm at $2 to $2.25. In Toronto markets the price is $3.25 to $3.40, and there are those who maintain that this does not represent a sufficient spread as between Pittsburgh mill and Toronto warehouse. However, it is characteristic of the Toronto market to be quite conservative in the matter of price advances. Conditions in the past three months have necessitated an advance on bars, for example, of from 35 to 60 cents per hundred pounds. Sheet demand has been strong and bars, too, advances have been frequent.

Relief in the coal situation is improving somewhat and the Steel Company of Canada finds it now possible to blow in one of its 500-ton furnaces on basic pig. This will help reassure Ontario foundries who were running short. Toronto price for pig iron still stands at $39.30 for spot, while Montreal quotes $32 at dock for Summerlee Scotch pig. There have never been large tonnages of this available. During an acute period small quantities of this iron made its appearance in Western Ontario.

September's record in the Canadian iron and steel business was a fair record, though by no means as spectacular as might be expected as reflecting the movement in the American market. Railroads have been a strong factor there, while here, apart from the purchase by National lines, of machine tools for eastern and western shops, there has not been any notable buying movement. The scramble by the American lines to add to their equipment is already seen to be a trifle belated to meet present emergencies, and it is held that there is danger of a like problem developing in Canadian demand for rolling stock.

Machine tool demand is reported as showing some slight improvement in the past month's record. Shop and mill supplies have been active, and in this connection it is pointed out that the milline regions of the north are becoming an increasingly important market.

Only a few months ago John Wil-twenty-six, was a pitcher with a lame shoulder, a family to feed, and nothing left but a worn out glove. Scott had shoulder was so far gone that Cincinnati turned him aside upon existence to let him learn another trade.

But it so happened that while his right shoulder may have been full of knots and other troubles, there was nothing the matter with Scott's heart.
Somewhere around midsummer, the tall pitcher, six feet two and a half above the sod, carried his lame shoulder to the Polo Grounds and offered it to McGraw, and McGraw took a chance.

Cool, serene, efficient.
This afternoon in the presence of 38,000 fans, a tall, stoop-shouldered pitcher by the name of John William Scott, of Ridgeway, North Carolina, and the New York Giants, stepped out in front of the once hard-hitting Yankees and turned them inside out with one of the greatest pitching exhibitions of the year.

Working away with the coolness and serenity of one who knows that he has slipped Fate to a standstill, Scott held the astonished Yankees to four scattered hits, shut them out and thereby lifted the Giants into a commanding position that entitles the fertile plains of another rich world series harvest.

It was almost as if an abandoned cruiser had sailed in and whipped a battle cruiser, for Scott pitched the eyes out of Willie Hoyt with an exhibition of consistent sniping that none of those present will ever forget.

Scott won 3 to 0, and he finished under wraps.
A Big Surprise.
Having heard that the Giants had
out of the way, the packed stands peered out through an Indian summer afternoon to get a close-up of the terrific slaughter about to happen on Henry Flagler's green carpet below.
They expected to see the tall, gaunt giant, in build almost the haunting ghost of Shufflin Phil Douglas, hammered to a pulp, but they knew, either shape nor form. They expected to see Yankee bats pound him into sudden and quick submission as Hoyt rolled back the Giants as easily as he did a year ago.

But as inning after inning went by,
as the light went out of the setting sun and the October grew deeper, it began to look as if the impending slaughter might be delayed.
Babe Subdued.
The average Giant attack got to Hoyt for the two runs of the third,
but the Yankees never got to Scott.
Round after round they found his cool, sedate delivery and his baffling curve ball blocking the highway and no one found the Ridgeway wanderer harder to reach than Babe Ruth.

Scott held Ruth at his mercy, a marionette at the end of a string. The big Babe took his old toehold, scowled each time with grim determination, and threw the big sub at the ball. But Scott, still unruffled and unperturbed, continued to do his stuff as the Babe tried in vain to hit one out of the infield. In four separate distinct trips to the plate the Bambino died the death of slugging fame on granders and appeared back of a hitless cloud.

GOLF PARADISE CLAIM OF ISLAND.
Victoria, B. C., Oct. 7.—(Written for the Canadian Press by Archie Wilby)—Vancouver Island now lays claim to the honor of being the golfers' paradise. Although, after counting in the Indians and Orientals, the island can hardly muster more than 125,000 inhabitants, it boasts of no less than seven golf courses with another now in the course of construction. Three of the courses have eighteen holes and are perfect in all respects. In addition to these facilities for the person who considers that no day has been properly ended unless he has engaged in eighteen holes, the island boasts of a climate which makes it possible for the golfer to play 365 days in the year. There is no hard frost or snow in the winter time to make the courses unplayable and the temperature in summer never gets so high that it makes a player want to sit around the fire-chest.

GIRLS CAN LIVE ON $12.50 A WEEK

Member of Minimum Wage Board Would Not Say That it was a Fair Rate to Receive, However.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—"That a girl can live respectably in the city of Toronto on $12.50 a week," was the assertion of R. A. Stapells, vice-president of the Minimum Wage Board, addressing a well attended meeting of the North Toronto Business Men's Association...

"I won't say it is a fair rate for her to receive," he said. Continuing, he said, board and room in the city would cost $7 per week.

"We have in the office of the Minimum Wage Board hundreds of addresses of clean respectable houses, where one can get room and board for $7 per week." In calculating the weekly expenses of such a girl, Mr. Stapells said $120 a year was allowed for dresses and clothing.

No Frills at All. This does not include silk stockings or a fur coat. For recreation and music during the year, $23 was allowed. The speaker said the Minimum Wage Board was based on the same principal as when the Humane Society would not permit a horse to be abused. "This principal is the sacredness of human life."

He emphasized the fact that the board is a minimum wage one and not a fair wage one. "We don't fix wages, we just fix the minimum," he pointed out. He asserted that the capital and labor were satisfied with the way the Minimum Wage Board was working.

"I have compliments from the C. M. A. on one hand and Tom Moore on the other."

Asked if any changes had been made recently to reduce the cost of living, Mr. Stapells said: "It is true the cost of living has come down in the city, but cost of car fare has gone up, and the two balanced."

MME. LEBAUDY AND DAUGHTER ARE MARRIED

Ceremony in Paris Ends Dispute Over Wealth of the Slain 'Emperor of Sahara'

Paris, Oct. 7.—Mme. Lebaudy, widow of Jacques Lebaudy, the self-styled 'Emperor of Sahara,' who was killed by her in their Long Island, New York, home in 1919, and Mme. Lebaudy's daughter, Jacqueline, had a double wedding here on Wednesday.

Mme. Lebaudy married Henri Sudaire, a French detective, and Jacqueline married Roger Sudaire, the twenty-year-old son of Henri.

Jacqueline Lebaudy and Roger Sudaire were married in Southern France last January. The couple returned to Paris and in March Jacqueline disappeared. She was found in a private nursing home in St. Cloud, Perlevalon, where she was refused the young husband to see her, and the following day Mme. Lebaudy and Jacqueline left by automobile for an unknown destination.

Mme. Lebaudy said that the marriage was a purely formal arrangement, entered into to smooth over difficulties in connection with the Lebaudy fortune, which Jacqueline was to inherit on attaining her majority or when she married. Jacqueline at the time was seventeen years old.

Later Mme. Lebaudy filed a suit in Paris to annul the marriage, charging that Henri Sudaire was making efforts to obtain control of the Lebaudy fortune. In June, advice from Paris said that young Sudaire had requested the French courts to grant him a divorce.

In July, when the application for an administrator for the Lebaudy estate came up, the court ruled that the action must await the outcome of the marriage annulment proceedings.

In August, Paul E. De Fere, a New York attorney, said to be counsel for Mme. Lebaudy, was declared to have stated that he had been advised that Jacqueline and young Sudaire had withdrawn the annulment and divorce proceedings and were living happily together in Paris.

LADY SYBIL GREY WEDS. Daughter of Late Earl, Mr. Middleton's Bride.

London, Sept. 22.—(By Mail)—The marriage took place yesterday, at the parish church, Howick, Northumberland, of Lambert William Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Middleton of Lowwood, Melrose, and Lady Sybil Grey, daughter of the late Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada, and of Alice Countess Grey of 22 Sussex Square, W. 2. The Archbishop of Northumberland (Canon Blackett-Ord) officiated, assisted by the Rev. T. Mitchell. Mr. J. Beaumont Pease was best man.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Earl Grey, wore a gown of silver-grey crepe roman, and a silver-grey hat with a large drooping, grey ostrich plume. Her ornaments were a pearl necklace and a diamond brooch, presented by the bridegroom. She was attended by two child bridesmaids, her nieces, Miss Nancy and Miss Diana Jones, daughters of Mr. Lawrence and Lady Evelyn Jones, who wore frocks of soft yellow silk and marigold wreaths. The service was choral, and the hymns chosen were "Lead us, heavenly Father, lead us," "Now thank we all our God," and the anthem, "O perfect love" (Dr. Bennett's setting).

After a reception held at Howick Hall, the bride and bridegroom left for Bywell, on the North Tyne (lent by Mrs. Burnett), the former wearing a brown velvet hat and marionette staid with a dress of two shades of nut-brown cloth. Only near relations were present, including: Alice Countess Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Middleton, Earl and Countess Grey, Mrs. Lawrence and Lady Evelyn Jones, the Dowager Countess of Artrian, the chowager Countess of Minto, Countess Roberts and Lady Dorothy Wood, Sir George and Lady Holford, Major Rex Benson, Mrs. Burnett, Admiral and Mrs. Baker-Baker, Mrs. Hugh Middleton, Mrs. Middleton, and Mrs. Stanley Smith.

Getting Full Value out of a Garment

After you have worn a blouse, a dress, a gown, a suit for a while, dye it a slightly darker shade with SUNSET. Garments may be dyed several times in this manner and you get out of every dress all the wear there is in it plus the renewed pleasure of several new dresses.

Remember that SUNSET colors may be combined to produce any 'wanted' shade or tone—fast—even deep—brilliant.

Each successive dyeing liven up the garment because SUNSET cleans while it dyes and very largely renews the original freshness of the fabric.

SUNSET really gives you more than the full value of a garment, it gives you several garments in one, at trifling additional cost.

RETURNS TO ASYLUM FOR FILLING POOR BOXES

The excessive philanthropy of Michael Hession of Newark, who was released two months ago from the Overbrook Hospital for the Insane, led to his arrest on a charge of loitering and to his return to the hospital for violation of parole. When found Hession was making a tour of Newark churches and dropping money into the poor boxes.

The police said they found in various parts of his clothing eleven $100 bills, sixteen $20 bills, four $10 bills, three $2 bills and five $1 bills. He had also many gold pieces and forty-three old English guineas to be worth about $200. He had about $2,000 in all and refused to explain where he got it.

English Labor Problems. Tram Employers Agree to Four-shilling Cut—Shipyard Workers Favor Best Terms Possible.

London, Oct. 7.—The tramway men's dispute with the employers over the proposal to reduce the men's wages by twelve shillings a week, in three instalments, seems likely to be settled by the men's ballot agreeing to a cut of four shillings a week. The tramway men recently threatened to strike if the twelve-shilling reduction were put in force.

The present wages of the tramway men are as follows: Motormen, 3, 5s. 8d. per week; conductors, 23, 2s., 3d. There are 55,000 men employed in the tramway services throughout the country.

The shipyard workers have taken a ballot on the proposed reduction of ten shillings a week in their wages. The majority of the workers have voted in favor of empowering their leaders to obtain the best terms possible from the employers.

The shipbuilding trade held a conference in Edinburgh on September 12, at the close of which it was officially stated that the employers' proposal for a reduction in wages owing to the abnormal depression in the shipbuilding industry had been fully discussed, and it had been agreed to adjourn the conference for a month in order that the trades unions might have an opportunity of consulting their members on the question of accepting or rejecting the reduction.

FIRE IN MONROE HOUSE. Blaze in Rubbish Threatens Place Where Fifth President Died.

New York, Oct. 7.—Fire which started on the top floor of the house at Lafayette and Crosby streets, where James Monroe, fifth president of the United States, died, threatened to destroy the historic old mansion just after arrangements had almost been completed to purchase and restore it as a memorial. The damage was slight.

The building, which is known as the Monroe House, is now used as a rag-pickers' headquarters. Rubbish litters the floors and every nook and corner. Even the room where Monroe died is heaped with sacks and rags and piles of dust and dirt.

The flames were discovered in a bag of rubbish. Deputy Fire Chief Henrich ordered the firemen to take special care not to injure the property any more than could be helped.

For many years various civic and patriotic societies have vainly endeavored to buy the property. Recently, on motion of Police Commissioner Enright, the Salgrave Institute appointed a committee to raise funds for this purpose. About two weeks ago Commissioner Enright announced that he had found a wealthy man who was willing to buy the Monroe house and restore it to its former glory.

Slick Scheme. "Our mamma is very kind to us. Every time we drink our cod liver oil without crying we get a dime each." "And what do you do with the money?" "Mamma buys more oil with it!"

REFUSE BABY, SAY THEIRS IS BOY

Authorities May Prosecute Mother Who Will Not Have Girl Child Said to be Hers.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rich of Jersey City, refused to accept Dorothy Helen, a baby the Bergen Sanitarium authorities assert was born to Mrs. Rich in that institution on Aug. 12, and they will accompany Poormaster George Murray before Judge Leo Sullivan, and a date will be fixed for their appearance in the First Criminal Court for a hearing as to whether they should not be prosecuted for child abandonment.

So unusual is the case that it has attracted great attention and created much sympathy for the mother. After the birth of her child, Mrs. Rich alleges she was told by Dr. David Russell, the attending physician, and Miss Mitchell, the nurse, that she had given birth to a son. Several days later she was told that the baby was a girl and the sex of the infant is recorded "female" in the birth certificate filed with the Department of Health.

Although Mrs. Rich nursed the baby she did not know its sex. She said she relied on the statement of the doctor. The latter is emphatic that the child was a girl. The refusal of the couple to take Dorothy Helen led to the baby being sent to the Mothers' Institute, a municipal institution.

There was a conference between Poormaster Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Rich, and Charles E. Simpson, their attorney, in Mr. Murray's office yesterday afternoon. Mr. Murray questioned Mrs. Rich and pleaded with the couple that they take the baby. He held the baby out and offered it to the mother. The latter broke into tears. She said she would take Dorothy Helen if she was sure she was her child, but she insisted that she had a boy and so could not take the baby offered.

Mr. Rich also refused to take the baby, and Mr. Murray, after expressing the greatest sympathy for the parents, said that their refusal necessitated an appeal to the courts.

The building, which is known as the Monroe House, is now used as a rag-pickers' headquarters. Rubbish litters the floors and every nook and corner. Even the room where Monroe died is heaped with sacks and rags and piles of dust and dirt.

The flames were discovered in a bag of rubbish. Deputy Fire Chief Henrich ordered the firemen to take special care not to injure the property any more than could be helped.

For many years various civic and patriotic societies have vainly endeavored to buy the property. Recently, on motion of Police Commissioner Enright, the Salgrave Institute appointed a committee to raise funds for this purpose. About two weeks ago Commissioner Enright announced that he had found a wealthy man who was willing to buy the Monroe house and restore it to its former glory.

Slick Scheme. "Our mamma is very kind to us. Every time we drink our cod liver oil without crying we get a dime each." "And what do you do with the money?" "Mamma buys more oil with it!"
