The HONOR of the BIG SNOWS

By James Oliver Curwood Author of THE DANGER TRAIL

(Synopsis of Previous Chapters)

"Snow," he whispered, "Come! My father's cabin home in the far Canadian north, she hears music. Presently the door opens and Jan Thorvald, with his violin, enters. After the death of Melius, Jan, who sought her last moments, is invited to stay on in the cabin with Cummins, who is a hunter.

CHAPTER II—(Continued) And there was no one who noticed Jan the next day—except Melius. He had returned, he felt more and more the pall of gloom that had settled over his spirit in the heart of the wilderness. He had seen the woman, in life and in death, and he, too, loved her and grieved that she was no more. He said nothing; he asked nothing; but he saw the spirit of devotion in the man, these few days of mourning. He saw it in the terror-stricken eyes of the wild little children who had grown to worship Cummins' wife. He read it in the blanking stillness of the dogs, in the terrible, pulseless quiet that had settled about him.

It was not hard for Jan to understand, for he, too, worshipped the memory of a white, sweet face like the one that had been in the cabin. He knew that this worship at Lac Bain was a pure worship, for the honor of the big snows was a part of his soul. It was his religion and the religion of those other who lived four hundred miles or more from a southern settlement.

At last what civilization could not understand—freezing and slow starvation rather than death, and respect for the dead—came to him. He knew that this worship at Lac Bain was a pure worship, for the honor of the big snows was a part of his soul. It was his religion and the religion of those other who lived four hundred miles or more from a southern settlement.

La MARQUISE de FONTENAY

One Reason for Kitchener's Success in Egypt—A Memorial to the Barons—Cremation at Westminster Abbey

That Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, his proved himself to be a great success in Egypt and that he has restored to the prestige and authority with which it was invested in the time of Lord Cromwell, but which it lost when held by the late Sir Eldon Gorst, is a fact known to all who are conversant with the history of the Egyptian empire. The Englishman succeeded, not only in restoring the prestige of the British name, but in restoring to the Egyptian empire the prestige and authority with which it was invested in the time of Lord Cromwell, but which it lost when held by the late Sir Eldon Gorst, is a fact known to all who are conversant with the history of the Egyptian empire.

CHAPTER III Little Melius. The passing of Cummins' wife was as quiet as had been her coming. With her hands, their always hand falling wide about their faces, their lips set tight to choke back their grief, the few at the post went, one by one, to their little cabin and gazed for the last time upon her face. There was but one sound other than the gentle tread of their moccasins, and that was a catching, sobbing moan that fell from the thick grey beard of Williams, the old factor.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"He is probably a nervous and high strung child," I suggested, referring to a youngster who had just had a tantrum and been sent out of the room. I had hoped by this tactful explanation to soothe his father's displeasure, but strangely enough, my remark seemed to produce just the opposite effect. Across the father's face passed a thunder cloud of disapproval. He is NOT, he affirmed vigorously, and what is more, he's going to be held that he is. I am glad he didn't hear you say that. My wife said it once in his presence, but only once. I let her have her way about a good many things, but that's a matter in which I'm firm as Gibraltar.

"You seem to feel quite warmly on that subject," said I. He laughed. "Well, I think I have reason to," he said. "I've lived in a family once where this talk of nervousness was on all the time. The whole family had nerves, except the father, and he was I did pity that poor man for his own sake. His wife had nerves and high strung nerves and talk about having them. His wife had nerves and high strung nerves and talk about having them. His wife had nerves and high strung nerves and talk about having them."

"I wonder if my friend is going to succeed in carrying out his theory. If he does, I congratulate him and his progeny just as heartily as I know how." What one of us doesn't know families like the one which I have described—families in which "nerves" with a capital N, are made a fetish, the children have their mother talk with pride how nervous and high strung they are, and they actually think of nerves as something to be proud of, or any other indication that we have transcended the great law of health.

"Perhaps the children are some too strong to start with, and by-and-by, not having dwelt on the thought of nerves and nervousness, they come to actually suffer from the great American malady." Whereas, if those children had never heard the word "nerves" spoken, had never heard "high-strungness" and spiritiveness defined, they might have gradually grown away from any inherited tendency towards the nervous temperament. Now, please do not misunderstand me. I am not denying that many people actually are afflicted with nervous diseases and can't help it any more than people sick with organic troubles. I am not denying that much of the crookedness, unbalance, the ill-humors and discouragement in the world is due to diseased nerves, and can be cured only by building up a healthy body with healthy nerve centres.

But I do think that nervousness is sometimes used as a pleasant synonym for "squeamishness." As Dona Melgari says, "In my youth, nervousness was usually called plain bad temper." And furthermore, I believe that a great deal of unnecessary nervousness is stimulated and developed by allowing children to get the nerve thought, to hear nerves constantly talked about, and talked about not as a disease to be advanced of, as we really ought to be advanced of all disease, but as an interesting point to be paraded and exploited.

PRINCE WINS $100,000 AT MONTE CARLO. Prince Jaime de Bourbon, the Spanish pretender, is reported to have cleaned up $100,000 at Monte Carlo. The Prince went to the Casino on Christmas Day, according to the dispatches, and, with $12,000 to start with, he experienced a constant run of good luck, winning by $50,000. The next day his luck stayed with him, and he won $20,000 more.

CANADIAN DOCTORS IN LONDON

Took a Great Share in the Christmas Festivities in the Great Hospitals.

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Dec. 27.—On Christmas Day the great hospitals were among the merriest places in London. The wards were made cheerful and beautiful; the restricted diet, in permissible cases, was relaxed in favor of more plentiful fare; reasonable gifts were provided for the patients and the day was glorified with music and entertainments.

At the great London Hospital the Canadian doctors attached to that institution were to the front in helping to alleviate the ills under which the patients were suffering and Dr. Ivan Dickson, Dr. Howard Harrison, Doctor Haywood, Dr. E. M. Butterfield, and Dr. A. Payne, took a leading part in the gaiety provided for the doctors, nurses and students.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Six persons were killed and twenty injured in a railway collision on Saturday at Bondy, near Paris. John Richardson, a motorman in Lovell, Mass., on the electrical railway there, was accidentally killed on Christmas day in that city. He was formerly of Sackville, N. B., where Albert D. Richardson, his brother, survives.

THE PLAYGROUNDS

The report of the city engineer that it would cost $11,000 to drain the Gilbert Park to make it suitable for playgrounds, has been received with feelings of disappointment by those interested in the project, as it is felt that this amount might be considered prohibitive.

Clay Industry in Maritime Provinces

In the study of the clay and shale deposits special attention was given to those geological formations that appeared to be promising. The most important exposures were visited, and their extent and physical properties were examined with view to their commercial possibilities.

GODSON OF KING EDWARD

Wives of Canadian Members of British Commons Win Fame for Helping Husbands in Political Career—Wedding of Canadians in French Capital

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Dec. 29.—There have been great goings-on recently at Nant-clwyd, where Sir Albert Edward Herbert Naylor-Layland has been celebrating his coming of age.

This young man has been in town for some days in connection with the legal affairs attendant on his taking possession of the properties—Hyde Park House and Nant-clwyd Hall, Ruthin, Wales. He is a bright, good-looking young man, well-talented, amusing and possessing a great taste for mimicry and amateur acting.

We all like him, and as he is decidedly one of the greatest 'catches' in society, he is naturally a good deal feted and sung after. His home in town—at Albert Court—is one of three built by Rusden, an erstwhile railway contractor, and is also being occupied by the French ambassador, the Arthur Sazon.

Hyde Park House was formerly occupied by the wonderful 'Peacock' room, painted by James McNeil Whistler, and was quite a hot-bed for romance. Nothing very special dinner given to dine there, so the harmonious with the grounds with the house in the panelling was sold and is now in America.

There is a picturesque ballroom, too, with a splendid staircase and some fine tapestry on the walls. Altogether it is one of the most perfect 'private palaces' in the city.

When young Naylor-Layland and his brother were at Eton a few years ago an attempt was made to kidnap them and hold them for ransom. Nothing very dreadful happened, and the boys were not actually kidnaped, but, according to the police, there was a plot to do so, and they escaped only by the skin of their teeth.

GODSON OF KING EDWARD

Sir Albert Edward Naylor-Layland has the distinction of having had two royal godfathers. One was the late King Edward, who was then Prince of Wales, and the other was the late Duke of Cambridge, 'Old Billie,' he was called, and he has from them a couple of magnificent silver christening bowls, suitably inscribed.

Just lately his mother, whose portrait has been more often painted by celebrated artists than that of any other woman in London, has been entertaining quite a large country house shooting party at Nant-clwyd in Wales, among the guests were Princess Louise of Battenberg and her daughter, the Princess Louise, the Earl and Countess of Leinster, Viscountess Blandford, the celebrated Lady Sarah Wilson, and a lot more.

Some most successful shooting parties have been given this autumn by Sir George and Lady Cooper at their lovely place, Hurley in Hampshire. Lady Cooper, as you know, was Mary Smith, 'Miss Chicago' Smith, and sister of 'Silent' Smith, and it was when visiting Scotland with her uncle that she met her husband.

Plain George Cooper he was in those days, the handwriting of a solicitor in Eton, and started his business career as a clerk in his father's office. He fell in love with pretty Mary Smith and married her, and it was not until after the death of her uncle that they had any idea of the enormous fortune which he had settled on his niece.

Soon after Mrs. Cooper inherited her uncle's millions, she and her husband came to London, took a house in Grosvenor Square, and soon became noted for their excellent concerts they gave. In 1903 Mr. Cooper became a baronet, and in the same year he purchased Hurley from Lord Blandford, paying $1,000,000 for it. It is a wonderful old place, standing in a park of 500 acres, and is one of the finest in the country.

Richard Cromwell, son of the Pretender, is said to have lived here for some years. The Rev. John Keble, the hymn writer, was vicar of Hurley for many years. Sir George Cooper had the house almost entirely rebuilt when he bought it and added two large wings, so that it is now one of the finest mansions in the kingdom. Lady Cooper has a passion for tapestries, and some magnificent specimens of this sort work are to be seen at Hurley. She is an adept with the needle, she is patroness of the foremost English needlework association, and last year lent her beautiful house in Grosvenor Square for its annual exhibition.

Her eldest son, George Cooper, came of age this year, and Lady Cooper gave a magnificent ball to celebrate this and the debut of her only daughter, Madeleine Cooper. This house has one of the finest ball-rooms in London and in the drawing-room is a magnificent collection of miniatures.

Sir George's hobby. Each artist's work is set out on a different table, Conway's on one, Cooper's on another and so on. In this room also is a set of French furniture of well high price value.

Wives of Canadians in British Commons

Preceded as it was by the social activities consequent on the coronation, the long parliamentary session just closed has made the official season an arduous one both to Canadians who sit at Westminster and to their wives. It has been remarked here that the Canadian M. P.'s are particularly fortunate in having such helpful partners to carry out the important work which falls to the lot of a busy M. P.'s wife.

During the last election the Canadian ladies were extremely active. Some of them took a considerable part in the election itself as well as dispensing that graceful hospitality which means so much to a public man in England.

Another wife of a Canadian M. P. who closely associates herself with her husband's political work is Mrs. Donald MacMaster.

Wallace Nesbit, K. C., of Toronto, and Mrs. Nesbit, gave a delightful dinner party the other evening in the Louis Quatorze room at the Piccadilly Hotel. Among the guests were Sir William and Lady Perritt, Lady Lettsworth, Lady Kirkpatrick and Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Mr. Ferguson, joint London manager of the National Bank of Scotland, who returned recently after a tour of the dominion, gave a dinner party at the Savoy Hotel, at which F. Williams Taylor of the Bank of Montreal, H. B. F. Jones of the Bank of Commerce, Mr. Botsford of the Royal Bank, Eric Hamber of the Dominion Bank and F. W. Aulse of the Union Bank of Canada were present.

Other guests were Mrs. Neil, assistant general manager of the Bank of Canada in Montreal, J. G. Colmer, C. M. G., and Scott, Griffin, Mr. Neil is in London in connection with the completion of the arrangements for the amalgamation of the Royal Bank with the Colonial Bank.

THE SMALL BOY AGAIN.

A small boy went into a village shop and asked for a box of matches for his mother. Presently he returned, saying: "Please, mother says these matches won't strike." "Won't strike!" cried the shopman, irritably "Why, look here," and he struck one upon his trousers to prove their quality. The boy took the matches back, but presently returned with them once more. "Please, sir, mother says she hasn't time to strike all her matches on your trousers."

John Howard Truesdell, four-year-old son of E. L. Truesdell, editor of the Queneo News, is declared to be the youngest printer in Kansas. Two weeks ago he set up six lines of type for his father's paper, and last week he was successful in setting up seventeen lines. The child reads his own copy and does his own spacing.

STRIKING SCENES AT DURBAR

Scenes re-enacted at Delhi when the king was made emperor of India. The pictures show the Indian Army on parade on the occasion of the grand review of the Indian Army in India was made. The picturesque uniforms and sparkling jewels made a wonderful sight.

WEDDING AT PARIS

The wedding of Miss Marjory Clouston, only surviving daughter of Sir Edward Clouston, Bart., of Montreal and Lady Clouston, to Dr. John Todd of the McGill University, Montreal, was celebrated in Paris on Wednesday last. The ceremony was performed at the consulate-general, and the religious ceremony took place immediately afterwards, in the Embassy Chapel, in the Rue d'Aguesseau, close to the British Embassy in the Faubourg St. Honoré. Bishop Ormsby, the chaplain of the embassy conducted the service. Both bride and bridegroom were unattended, and only one or two close Canadian friends were present in addition to the bride's father and mother, Doctor and Mrs. Todd left for a motor trip through the south of France. They will reside in Montreal.

RECENT DEATHS

The death of Mrs. Ellen Stephenson occurred on Saturday at Golden Grove. She was one of the oldest residents of the Parish of Simonds. She was born in 1833 and had resided during the whole of her life in that parish. Her children survive her. They are John, of Store (Sask.); Frederick and Albert, of Golden Grove; Mrs. W. McPate, of Golden Grove; Archibald Ferguson, of St. John, and Mrs. Oliver Madill, of Village road. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

Victor W. Barnes, formerly of Hampton, and well known in this city, died suddenly in Boston on Saturday. He was a son of the late George Barnes, of Hampton, who was registrar of deeds for Kings county, N. S. He had been a resident of Boston for about twenty years, and was for a time superintendent of the United Fruit Company. He was a well known and popular man in the city. He was married to Mrs. M. E. Barnes, formerly of Hampton, and two small children. He also leaves three daughters, Mrs. M. E. Barnes, of Hampton, and two sisters—Mrs. G. M. Wilson, of Hampton, and Mrs. J. Street, Whitaker, of Newcastle (N. S.).

We Will Pay $50.00 in Cash for the Best Answer to Three Questions

You can help us determine just which part of our plan is the part on which we should concentrate. You can do it and at the same time earn one of our cash prizes. Which point of superiority do the purchasing public seek above all others when they buy the goods we are offering? To the person who most clearly expresses the leading reason why everybody in St. John should make their purchases at the Asepto Store we will pay $15.00 in CASH. For the next best reply $10.00, for the next best reply $5.00, and for the next twenty, each a bright new dollar bill. Meantime an examination of our store, a small purchase, a talk with our clerks, a look over our lines and a general sizing up of our whole business will be of service to you in earning one of the prizes.

THE FACTS IN BRIEF

Every article in our selection for your coupons. Every article in our store is for sale and the price is marked in plain figures. For the past few years we have given the premium plan our special attention; the outcome of which is the Asepto Store, Currier Mill and Union Street. It has been our constant aim to give you a real premium that offered by any other concern. You do not have to take in articles.

These Are the Three Questions That You Are Requested to Answer

FIRST—What in your judgment is the feature in the Asepto plan that will enable our store to do a volume of business in less than six months that other stores have not been able to get in years. SECOND—What was the most important feature that first induced you to buy at the Asepto store? THIRD—Which of these four vital points—Asepto Quality, Asepto Service, Asepto Store Location or Asepto Premiums—would you advertise with the conviction that when people know that fact they would go to our store and buy at our store? By Jan. 15 the contest will close at eight o'clock. Any replies received after that date and hour will not be entered for competition. Cash will be sent to the winners just as soon as possible after that date. Cash will be sent to the winners just as soon as possible after that date. RICHESON CONFESSES

Gave Poison to Avis Linnell and Destroyed Her Life and That of Unborn Babe

Boston, Jan. 8.—Invoking the aid of the God whose cloth he had worn and desecrated, Rev. Dr. Clarence V. T. Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, has confessed that he murdered pretty little Avis Linnell and her unborn babe.

Richeson, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, has confessed that he murdered pretty little Avis Linnell and her unborn babe. He admitted that he had given her a glass of tea containing potassium cyanide.

REV. CLARENCE V. T. RICHESON

admitting the guilt through the long hours of the night his lawyers pleaded with District Attorney Pelletier for leniency for the minister of God who had broken the commandment: "Thou shalt not kill."

Richeson's Statement

Without the slightest hope of the confession saving his life, Richeson's lawyers made public today the expert's story of murder and lust. It reads as follows:

"To John Lee, Esq., Wm. A. Morse, Esq., and Philip H. Dunbar, Esq.,

Gentlemen.—Deeply penitent for my sin and earnestly desiring as far as in my power lies, to make satisfaction, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offence of which I stand indicted.

"I was instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court."

On Verge of Collapse

Since he mutilated himself with a piece of jagged tin in the Charles street jail a few days before Christmas, Richeson has been on the verge of a nervous and mental collapse.

Yesterday he sent for Attorney John L. Lee and Wm. A. Morse, his counsel. They spent several hours in the cell of the wounded minister.

Richeson spared himself nothing; he equaled himself upon the cross of his conscience. The lawyers sat and listened, looking the minister before them; yet realizing that their duties as lawyers made it imperative that they should try and save his pitiful life.

From the cell of the delirious of the cloth they went hurriedly to the office of District Attorney Pelletier. From noon yesterday until 9 o'clock last night they pleaded with him for leniency for the double murderer. Pelletier was so adamant as the granite in the way around them and insisted on justice being done.

Women in the Case

BRITISH NAVY CHANGES

London, Jan. 7.—The chief lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, has made further important changes to those initiated in November last, when Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman, vice-admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, and Captain William C. Pakenham, became first, second and fourth sea lords respectively.

An admiralty memorandum issued today completes the naval reorganization by the creation of a naval war staff, of which Admiral Ernest Drowley, heretofore private secretary to the first lord of the admiralty, becomes chief. Sir Francis J. S. Hopwood, formerly under secretary of state for the colonies, who was on the staff of King George, then Prince of Wales, during his visit to Canada in 1909, is appointed an additional civil lord of the admiralty, board. Rear-Admiral David Benty, who in 1904 married Helen Field, daughter of the late Marshall Field, of Chicago, succeeds Admiral Drowley in the secretaryship.

His responsibilities will end with the rendering of advice to the first sea lord. A complete list of the officers forming the staff, which will comprise most of the grades, will be promulgated soon.

Mr. Churchill further explains that the new staff will be the buyer and business manager of the navy, while there will be close co-operation between the naval staff and the war staff of the army.

Captain George A. Ballard, of the battleship Britannia, and Captain Thomas Jackson, assistant director of naval intelligence, have been appointed directors of the operations division and the intelligence division respectively.

Mr. Churchill, in a long explanatory statement, says that the war staff is to be the brain, applied continuously to scientific and speculative study of naval strategy and preparation, and will be organized thus: holding the helm of an active exploratory division, intelligence, operations and mobilization. The divisions will be combined under a flag officer as chief of staff. The war staff will have no executive authority.

TUNGSTEN ORE FOUND IN THIS PROVINCE

Mines Department Issues Bulletin on This Valuable Mineral

(Issued by Department of Mines, Ottawa.) E. R. Fairbank of Ottawa, while engaged in field work for the geological survey in Nova Scotia, made last October a discovery of the valuable tungsten-bearing mineral scheelite in a quartz vein prospect for gold by a Mr. Ellis at Fifteen-mile brook, near Middlefield, Queens county. This new discovery may prove important, for a short distance to the southwest numerous low pieces of the same mineral were discovered last year in the drift by W. H. Prest of Bedford, N. S., indicating a widespread distribution.

The first discovery of tungsten ore of economic value in Nova Scotia was made in 1907 near Moose River Gold Mines, Halifax county, at a place now called Scheelite. The development work done during the last two years has opened up several veins of high grade ore and has proved the deposit to be of considerable economic importance. The property was lately acquired by the Scheelite Mines Company, who have erected a mining plant and a concentrating mill and have just started producing.

Interest in and knowledge of the tungsten mineral scheelite have become so widespread in Nova Scotia that proposals generally are on the lookout for it, and during the last three years over half dozen new discoveries have been made in the gold-bearing areas and quartzite of the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia. It may lead to an important tungsten, and also help indirectly the steel industry of the province.

Wolframite, another valuable ore tungsten, was found last year by Dr. J. Walker, of the Mines Branch of the Department of Mines, on the southern Miramichi river, N. B., where topes an iron ore, possibly of economic value, was also discovered this past summer by the Geological Survey.

Tungsten is one of the rare metals, which have become generally useful during the last few years. Its market value depends upon the quantity, quality, and the immediate need of the buyers and varies from $400 to $500 a ton for 60 per cent. concentrates. The demand principally in Germany, France and England, is far in excess of the supply. The world's production of tungsten, 60 per cent. concentrates, in 1909, was only 5,200 tons, of which 1,610 tons were produced by the United States.

The chief demand for tungsten is in the production of tungsten steel, which has properties desirable for the manufacture of high speed tools. It is also used for filaments in incandescent electric lamps, as mordant in dyeing, in giving weight to silk material, and in rendering cotton fabrics fireproof.

TAMMAM WILLING

A Scotchman in London stood by the bedside of his dying wife, who had been born in the Highlands, and had retained a strong affection for her native country. "Promise me, Tammas," said she, "that you will bury me in the Heilans, for I want to rest quiet down here." Tammas shrank from the expense of the business; so, after pondering for a moment, he replied—"Well, I'll just see. If I find that ye canna rest quiet here I'll have ye removed to the Heilans."

PUT AN EXTRA STOMACH TO WORK

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Do the Work of Two or Three Stomachs. Affords Instant Relief.

FREE TRIAL PACKAGE When your food does not digest, when gases form, when you experience that uncomfortable feeling of fullness, when the breath is foul, the tongue coated, and sour taste is in the mouth—take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and watch how quickly every one of those symptoms disappears. All that was needed was to digest that lump of food in your stomach—and the glands, whose duty it is to supply the gastric juices, had simply given out from over-work. So when you took that little tablet you were supplying exactly what was necessary to complete the process of digestion that the stomach had begun but was unable to finish.

If you would continue to take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for awhile, your stomach would have a chance to rest up and get well and strong again. Try just one box and you will never want to be without this wonderful little remedy for stomach troubles. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain an ingredient, one grain of which will digest 3,000 grains of food. They are so entirely harmless because they have absolutely no effect on the system one way or another except to do just the one thing—digest food.

40,000 physicians use and recommend this National Remedy. Every drug store everywhere sells and recommends Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The price is 50 cents per box. A sample will be sent free if you will write to: A. Stuart Co., 139 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

AGED MAN AND WOMAN IN NEW YORK MURDERED

New York, Jan. 7.—A case of double murder found in an east side house today is one of the most shocking in details of any since the Goldenrod-Jensen murder, and the "Jack the Ripper" series of crimes. Isaac Futterman, 80 years old, and his wife, Rachael, 72 years old, were found dead in their rooms at No. 101 Norfolk street, their bodies terribly mutilated.

The police believe that the aged couple was practically tortured to death and in the absence of any well established motive for such a crime, the police think the Futtermans were victims of some religious fanatic.

There were deep gashes across both faces and bodies and the eyes of both were terribly mutilated, one of the man's having been torn from his socket. The man's abdomen was terribly slashed and there were cuts running lengthwise from head to foot. The nature of the mutilations led the police to believe that it had been begun while the Futtermans were alive, and that death had actually been caused by blows over the head which fractured both skulls. The bodies bore finger prints which police experts took photographs of.

CANADA'S AUSTRALIAN VISITOR

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Dec. 27.—Sir George Reid, the popular Australian High Commissioner in London, will be a guest of the directors of the Toronto exhibition next year. He is greatly interested in the visit of the Australian cabinet team which will go to Toronto for the inter-domain competition.

Reid is one of the finest orators in the metropolis and is much in demand as an after dinner speaker. While in Canada he proposes to make a tour of the Dominion from coast to coast.

MONTGOMRY BOY VICTIM OF SHOOTING ACCIDENT

Montreal, Jan. 7.—Joseph Emery LeBlanc, aged thirteen, was the victim of a fatal shooting accident at his home on Main street between 6 and 7 o'clock this evening. Young LeBlanc had support with the family and a few minutes later was walking about the house when a pistol shot started the household. He was in the kitchen at the time and ran into the hall, where he collapsed.

Members of the family gathered around the young man, but he was in a state of unconsciousness and was unable to explain how the accident happened.

In the night hand surgeon's report, however, was found a self-loading 22-calibre revolver, which told the police story. Medical aid was summoned and the life of the boy could not be saved. He died within half an hour. The doctors found that the bullet had entered the abdomen and struck a vital spot.

It is supposed young LeBlanc, while carrying the revolver in his pocket, loaded, touched the hammer and accidentally discharged it. Some two weeks ago the fortunate youth loaned a young man $3 and took the revolver for security. The father of the lad, when he learned of his carrying the weapon, had instructed him to return it and he supposed he had done so until the accident occurred.

GEORGE W. COOKE DIES SUDDENLY IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Jan. 7.—Geo. W. Cooke, president of Dunlop, Cooke & Co., died suddenly here this morning at his residence. He was in good health and spirits last night and spent the evening with Hon. D. Richard, of Dorchester. He rose this morning as usual, but was seized with paralysis of the left side. He was put to bed but apparently failed and death ensued. Mr. Cooke was about fifty-five years of age. He leaves his wife and six children. His summer residence was on the St. John river near St. John and he only moved to Montreal a few months ago. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

He was a charter member of St. John Council, Knights of Columbus, and well-known throughout the maritime provinces. Mr. Cooke was a native of Cumberland county, N. S.

Miss M. Hazel, manager of the St. John store of the Dunlop-Cooke Co. of Canada Ltd., received a telegram from Montreal yesterday announcing the death of George W. Cooke, president of the company, which took place there suddenly yesterday morning and passed away suddenly.

The news of his death will be received with general regret throughout the maritime provinces, which up to a few months ago were the scene of his business activities. He formerly had his home in Amherst and came to this city and Halifax frequently where the company has branch offices. He was a very energetic business man and the success which the company has attained was in a great measure due to his personal efforts.

A few months ago he moved with his family from Amherst to Montreal, where the company carries on a large fur business. He is survived by his wife and six children.

"Oh, what a shame! I am inexpressibly shocked to hear it. And how soon after your marriage did he begin to die the cloven hoof?" "Why, at about the same time he began to cultivate the cloven hoof."

IN THE CHURCHES

Following a controversy aroused by views which he expressed at the annual prayer meeting of the W. C. T. U. on Tuesday last, Rev. Wilfred Gatz, pastor of Queen Square Methodist church, last evening denounced the "No screen" question and made his position in the matter quite clear.

In the report of the W. C. T. U. meeting, Rev. Mr. Gatz was quoted as speaking against the removal of the screens from saloon windows, and objection was taken to his stand by some temperance workers.

In his letter to the press and in his sermon, Rev. Mr. Gatz said he wished to make it plain that he had taken no stand against the removal of the screens, but had simply said that when he saw boys and young men standing outside brilliantly lighted saloons and looking in after night, he had thought they would no longer regard the place with horror, and that this led him to think there were arguments for, as well as against, having a screen in the window.

Bishop Richardson was in the city yesterday and presided at three services. In the morning he spoke in St. John's (Stone) church to a very large congregation, and made a strong appeal, his theme being Making All Things New. In the afternoon he accompanied Rev. E. D. Hooper in the service at St. Barnabas church in the Sandy Point road, and in the evening preached in St. Paul's (Valley) church. While in the city Bishop Richardson is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Dwyane, Coburg street.

Rev. H. S. Malwood, the new pastor of the Congregational church, preached his first sermons in the church yesterday, and was heard by large congregations at both services. He made an excellent impression and the congregation is delighted at having secured Mr. Malwood as their minister.

Three young women who live near Lanesboro, Man., claim the woman champion ship corn husking honors of the United States. The young women are the Misses Lizzie, Annie and Roxie Kelso, who in a recent contest husked in 5.12 days 1700 bushels husking each kind of corn a half bushel. The average for each day for each girl was a little more than 108 bushels.

NOTES FROM THE WORLD OF LETTERS

French Feminine Jury Caught By Pierre Loti's Well Laid Plot

WRITING A 'COMIC FAUST'

Alleged Plot to Ruin Russian Premier Behind Opposition to Purchase of Tolstoy Estates—Duel Threatens to Thin Out Line of Authors

(Times Special Correspondence) Paris, Dec. 29.—Pierre Loti, the celebrated author-post-accident, laid a clever plot the other day in Paris which ended just as he hoped it would do. The "Civis" newspaper, a Russian weekly, has just published an account of the plot, which was to award an annual prize of $10,000 for a new book the prize which was won last year by Louis de Robert's "Marie Claire". This jury is a feminine one, and the object of Loti's plot was to capture them by writing to each of them a charmingly worded appeal on his well-known yellow notebook praying the recipient to vote in favor of "Roman d'un Malade" by Louis de Robert. Each jury-woman stated that she alone out of the whole lot had been singled out by him for his appeal.

Could any French feminine heart resist a request from one of France's idols? Obviously not, for the result of the poll was that every woman voted for one book, "Roman d'un Malade" by Louis de Robert. Neither was it to be expected that the charming creature—jury-woman through they could keep the secret to themselves. When they were refreshing their "inner vision" with tea and cakes, they were allowed the corner of a yellow envelope to stick out of her muff, an act which instantly produced a shower of similar yellow envelopes all round the table.

The secret was out; every one had been warned, and all had fallen a victim to the widespread plot. To their credit, however, it must be said, that their choice was a good one and thoroughly deserving the prize it won.

The jury possesses a most striking characteristic in its president, Mme. Deshayes, who is permitted by the French police and French society to adopt masculine attire. She is a great traveler and first adopted this form of dress when riding over the plains of Mesopotamia and exploring the ruins of Nineveh.

Mme. Deshayes presided over the meeting with gentlemanly grace in an absolute manner.

It is a great triumph in what he writes is shown by the extraordinary quarrels in which M. Kuprin and M. Leonid Andreyev have been mixed up. Since the decline in Maxim Gorky's talents, these two are unquestionably the ablest of living Russian writers.

Kuprin's "dual" at once made him famous; and Andreyev's wonderful short story, "The new movement in our literature," which he evoked the admiration of Tolstoy, who was then the greatest of living Russian writers.

The deplorable manner and customs in which Kuprin and Andreyev are shown by another pending quarrel in which Kuprin is engaged. In this case the artist Ralysay, editor of the magazine "Proletarskiy," is Kuprin's opponent. Ralysay reported in his magazine that when he went to Kuprin's house to ask for a promised short story, the door was opened by a well-known actress, who said she also was pending. But Russian authors seldom get further than challenging to duels.

ly fashions frock coats; but top hat would have served as an excellent mirror for her feminine coaquetry, and her tie and gloves were perfection. Her trousers also showed that well defined crease down the middle which denotes great ease in letting them under the mattress every night directly they are taken off.

Tolstoy's Estate

From Manly's comes the news that Ludwig Ganghofer, Germany's famous romance writer and playwright, is elaborating the project to write a "Comic Faust," which will give a lively characterization to South German society. Ganghofer has just produced at Stuttgart two plays called, "The Last Will" and "Death and Life," both have had great success. They are genre plays which handle the German peasant existence touched on by Ganghofer in many novels.

"The Last Will" revolves around the malicious joy which an old peasant feels in reflecting on the disappointment and disillusionment which the distribution of his property will cause to his expectant heirs.

The incident of "Death and Life" is the chance meeting in a restaurant of two parties, one of whom is celebrating the christening of a baby, while the other is "waiting" a dead woman. The parties end by combining their resentment. The revealed widower shows signs of budding copulation in a pretty waitress, while the christening party in the exuberance of their joviality go off and forget the baby altogether. Ganghofer's humor is of the healthy, sunny type and his plays have great success with German audiences.

The long awaited letters from Count Tolstoy are at last to be published, and moreover, they are to be copyrighted in England and America, contrary to the usual procedure with the proceeds of Tolstoy's pen. Most of the correspondents are with an aunt of the count's, who was wealthy and had a high position at court, which enabled her to extricate the Tolstoy's more than once from the troubles in which the great novelist's turbulent political views were always involving the family.

The letters are said to contain some of the most intimate and striking revelations of Tolstoy's inner self, and to make extraordinary interesting reading. Although they are to be published at once in Russia, they will not appear for some months in the English language, as great pains are to be taken with the translations.

A Comic Faust. The intervention of M. Sabler, procurator of the Holy Synod, in the negotiations between the Russian government and the Tolstoy family for the purchase of the Yasnaya Polyana, has aroused great indignation. Sabler was chief assistant to the late Russian minister, to whom he succeeded in the Social Ministry for life.

Sabler's objection to the purchase of the house and the estate is that Tolstoy was an avowed Christian, and that the step contemplated will be the compromise of the Russian church, and that the step contemplated will be the compromise of the Russian church, and that the step contemplated will be the compromise of the Russian church.

The procurator's aim is known to be to brand his colleague Kokotoff as a promoter, when he bought it, practically rebuilt the place, she went to the winter stores of the world, in Italy, in Greece, in France, and captured marbles and bronzes, picture plates and painted ceilings, costly tapestries and carpets and hangings, and all things that the treasure houses of Europe yield up at the touch of a magic wand.

At the time the buyers and the decorators and the furnishers had finished, Mrs. Drummond had spent a large sum of money, and she continued to spend money by opening the modern palace for entertainment. Dinner parties, at luncheon, balls, receptions—everything was magnificent, and costly yet in perfect taste. Mrs. Drummond was a charming hostess, and she had a great number of society, and after a time she started to read and study political literature.

Mrs. Drummond wished to get rid of her home, and decided first of all to be patriotic. Whichever of the two she had in mind, she was not to be a party to the sale of the house, and she was not to be a party to the sale of the house, and she was not to be a party to the sale of the house.

She had a great number of society, and after a time she started to read and study political literature. She had a great number of society, and after a time she started to read and study political literature.

CARLTON HOUSE AS EMBASSY

Uncle Sam Has Chance to Buy Permanent London Home

MARSHALL FIELD'S WIDOW OWNS IT

Giving up City Life for Country—Half Million Will Buy House Which is Gorgeously Furnished and is Rich in Historic Association

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Dec. 28.—Carlton House Terrace, in the days of George IV., the centre of the political and court life of England, will, perhaps, in those days of George V., be the centre of American life in London, for the embassy of the United States will be housed in the building at No. 2 Carlton House Terrace.

Mrs. Malvina Drummond, once Mrs. Marshall Field, is the owner of the house. She has just offered it at a great financial sacrifice, to the United States government as the residence of the American ambassador at the Court of St. James.

A half million of Uncle Sam's money will buy it just as it stands, but if the government wants to do its own furnishing, a mere $300,000 will satisfy the former Chicago woman.

Oak Hall's Big Mid-Winter Reduction Sale

Starts Friday Morning, Jan. 12. All Kinds of Clothes Are Reduced

Hundreds of suits; hundreds of overcoats; separate trousers; fancy vests; evening dress clothes; fur and fur-lined overcoats; all at a marked reduction from prices that were formerly 25 to 30 per cent. lower than elsewhere.

We have had a remarkable year and a particularly remarkable season. There have been sales to the right of us, sales to the left of us, sales all around us, and yet our business tramped steadily on because the values at full regular prices were greater than any of the much heralded sale values. This is because as manufacturers we sell to you direct at same prices others have to pay at wholesale and to which prices they must add a profit which you pay when buying from them.

But—now our season ends: we reduce prices to jump our whole stock out quickly, which means bargain time for you.

Table listing various clothing items and their reduced prices. Includes Men's Suits, Men's Overcoats, Boys' Two-Piece Suits, and Boys' Three-Piece Suits.

A Special Lot of Chesterfield Overcoats at Half-Prices—Only a Few. A Special Lot of Men's Ulsters Were $6.00 Now $3.95. Now is the Opportunity for a Man Wanting a Coon Coat.

Raccoon Coats Were $60.00 Reduced to $47.90. Raccoon Coats Were $75.00 Reduced to $59.85. Raccoon Coats Were $90.00 Reduced to $72.30. All Fur-Lined Coats Greatly Reduced in Price.

Sheep-Lined Coats and Lumbermen's Jackets. Sheep-Lined Coats Were $5.00 Reduced to $4.20. Sheep-Lined Coats Were $8.00 Reduced to $6.85. Sheep-Lined Coats Were $12.00 Reduced to $9.85.

These prices tell only part of the story. So many superb styles, so many rich overcoating fabrics are represented that only inspection can make plain the full meaning of these reductions. There's only one thing cut down our scale—our profit—everything else 100 per cent.

WILL SEND OUT SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES. Distribution to Canadian Farmers From the Dominion Experimental Farms.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—By instructions of the minister of agriculture, a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers.

Each application must be separate and must be signed by the applicant. Only one sample can be sent to each farm. Applications on any kind of printed or written form cannot be accepted.

Many people fail to understand the significance of a lame, weak, sore or aching back. You overtax the kidneys—give them more work than they can possibly do—then they cry out in protest through the pain in the back.

Backache is simply kidneyache and the best remedy in the world for backache and all kidney troubles is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. P. R. Glavin, Weyliffe, B.C., writes: "When living in the 'Old Country' three years ago, I suffered severely from pains in the back, and had to give up work. The pain was so bad that when I swooped down to pick anything up, I felt my back must break. I tried all sorts of remedies and several doctors, but all to no purpose. One day I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, and thought I might as well try them, and to my surprise, before I was half through one box the backache had entirely disappeared, and it has not caused me any trouble since. I always keep 'Doan's' in the house and shall always recommend them to all sufferers."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

He began by pointing out that there is now greater efficiency, greater prosperity, and more of luxury than in former times, but added that there are perils of success as well as of misfortune.

White Lost $85,000 By Mistakes Made in Promoting Jeffries-Wells Fight—Some Funny Bits of Inside History

(Copyright, 1911, by Curtis Brown) London, Dec. 24—Recent events have raised a serious doubt as to the future of boxing in this country. The unexpected strength of public opinion which rallied to the support of the original opponents of the Johnson-Wells match, and which ultimately prevailed upon the home office to stop the proposed fight, is giving trouble to the National Sporting Club, and all others interested in the game of this side of the Atlantic.

pleased for pictures of the fighters. He entered into contracts with Wells and Johnson, which prevented them talking to any newspaper man for publication, and tried to sell to English and American papers the exclusive right to articles from the training camps of both men.

The Crowning Folly The crowning act of indiscretion came a few weeks before the fight, was killed

How McIntosh Succeeded Undoubtedly James White, an Englishman, who tried to promote the ill-fated Johnson-Wells contest, was himself to blame for the ultimate action of the home office. Hugh McIntosh and Jimmy Britt promoted a series of heavyweight contests in London that were much more widely advertised than the Johnson-Wells match. The English newspapers and magazines were full of the Lang-Langford fight for weeks and weeks before the meeting of the two men. The fight was between a black man and a white man, both of whom were contenders for the heavyweight championship of the world, and the press advertised was far in excess of anything that had ever before been hung up in England.

THE REV. F. B. MEYER, London Clergyman who Railed the Fight.

It was simply that the Australian had learned the lesson of when to keep his mouth shut. Ministers and others protested against his fight, but McIntosh ignored them, and the protests petered out. On the other hand, White, who was an absolute amateur in the fight promoting game, lost his head when the Rev. F. B. Meyer attacked the Johnson-Wells match from his pulpit, and began talking. He immediately became involved in a long controversy with the reverend protestor, who straightaway looked for the support of the rest of the ministry in his fight. Ultimately the protest became an widespread and powerful. Winston Church-as a financial agent of some of the biggest promoters in the Midlands and in London. Use to enormous losses as well as to enormous winnings, he takes his bad fortune in connection with the Johnson-Wells fight philosophically and is determined to see a little more of the fighting game before saying adieu in the hopes of restoring some of his losses.

One of the immediate effects of the stopping of the Johnson-Wells match will be the practical exclusion of outside promoters from London. One thing is certain: Hugh McIntosh will think a long time before he comes back to London next April, as he told me he intended.

White, soon will tire of the game and that will leave the field absolutely at the mercy of the National Sporting Club, no more big purses for American fighters, no more repetition of the fighters' invasions of England such as we saw last spring. Instead, if the American boys want to visit England, they must be content with the "tuppence" purse being hung up by Lord Londale and "Peggy" Bettison in the old club-houses in King's Cross, Covent Garden.

In other words the home office has built a ring fence about the National Sporting Club and said, "Things which are perfectly legal here are illegal elsewhere." It is hard to realize the well-nigh insurmountable opposition to an independent effort to run fights in England. When McIntosh was holding contests at Olympia the one hope of his enemies was that a public disturbance would be committed and compel the police to interfere. Gangs of professional thugs were actually hired to attend and break up the gatherings, but McIntosh, Britt and Lewis were too much for them. I have known evenings when everybody connected with the management carried knuckle-dusters, and McIntosh actually went about armed with a revolver. Alford as secured the claim of the authorities in their successful effort to stop the proposed Johnson-Wells fight, that they apprehended a breach of the peace, it is now known that the famous "Brumie" gang of London, corresponding to the Paul Kelly Gang in New York, had been commissioned by some one to create a disturbance on the night of the fight.

'PEGGY' BETTISON, Manager of the Famous National Sporting Club.

It showed politician that he is, could do nothing else but move in the matter. If the whole thing has done nothing else, it has provided an object lesson for future promoters on "How not to conduct a fight." White's efforts from start to finish were worthy of a Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera. His experiences demonstrate a fact, of which he was evidently ignorant, that promoting a prize fight is a business like any other and requires special qualifications and knowledge.

assured him he had the right to sell such a privilege, and he could sell all tickets with a binding understanding that the users were not to write anything about what they saw for any publication issued in Great Britain. Few people know how much White lost

A Censor One of the most laughable effects of recent controversy has been the institution of a boxing match censor.

Each fighter agreed not to fight without the other fighter and Curly Johnson's fight with Al Kaiser is tented to be placed in a "Tin for"

Johnson Signs Chicago, Jan. 6—After eighteen months of illness Jack Johnson, champion heavy-weight pugilist of the world, today signed articles here to fight a finished battle with Jim Flynn, the Pueblo Fireman, generally regarded as one of the best of the "white hopes."

The fight will take place somewhere in Nevada next July. As a tentative date, July 22 was selected, but this may be changed as any time. The fight will be staged either at Windward or Metropolitan. For his services Johnson is to receive $1,100 and one-half of the receipts of the sale of moving picture rights. F share of the purse was not set.

He will be paid by his name Curley, who represented the other fighter and Curly Johnson's fight with Al Kaiser is tented to be placed in a "Tin for" fighters and Curley began the discussion of the article, Johnson made a thirty-minute speech, criticizing a newspaper man who had intimated the match would be a fake.

The newspapers are going to continue to say such untrue things I'll refuse to show," said Johnson. At the conclusion of the speech the crowd cheered and Johnson smiled his "golden smile."

AMUSEMENTS IN ST. JOHN; WHAT THE PLAYHOUSES OFFER OPERA HOUSE. No musical comedy of recent years has won the praise of the New York critics in such unqualified measure as has "Madame Sherry," which Woods, Franz and Lederer are now presenting in New York, at the New Amsterdam, and which will be seen here in all its beauty and completeness at the Opera House for three nights, starting tonight.

Adapted from a French original, which has charmed Paris, Berlin, Vienna and London for the last three years, "Madame Sherry" has been revised for the American stage by Otto Haerbach, and given a most enchanting musical setting by Karl Moschinsky.

"Madame Sherry" sparkles like champagne and its twenty-two musical numbers are positively infectious in their ingratiating quality. It is a distinct novelty in theme, idea and manner of construction, its cast numbers musical comedy celebrities, and the wonderful chorus which has been the talk of Manhattan ever since the opening night. A special orchestra and massive scenic production further add to the attractiveness of "Madame Sherry."

STAR'S POLYTHEATRE. Three years old this week the "Star" theatre in the north end enters upon its fourth year as a motion picture theatre. Their programme of pictures for Monday and Tuesday as advertised in tonight's issue, contains two of the strongest dramas of recent release and two funny comedies. In a week or ten days the Star expects to have placed in position one of the latest improved 1912 model picture machines. This new improvement is another step in the direction to please its patrons and be up to date in every particular. They promise big features for their anniversary week.

THAWING THE PIPES CAUSE OF TWO FIRES

Brigade Out to Union and Brussels Streets in Response to Morning Alarms

The present cold snap is practically responsible for a fire which occurred this morning in the house of Mrs. Marion G. Martin, of 209 Union street where damage to the extent of about $800 was done. The fire started in the rear of the lower flat, occupied by Mrs. J. E. McLaughlin. The water pipes had been frozen and in an attempt to thaw them out, the walls were set on fire. The flames spread rapidly and soon reached the roof of the house. An alarm was rung in from box 39 but the fire became mixed in some way and it sounded, taking the firemen to Centenary church. This caused considerable delay and the fire had a good start when the firemen arrived on the scene. After about an hour's work, however, the flames were subdued and the all out alarm sounded. The house was badly gutted, and much damage done.

Mrs. Martin carried $800 insurance on the lease with the Commercial Union and $200 with the Atlas Company. She also carried $300 with the latter company on the furniture. Mrs. McLaughlin carried $200 on her furniture, with the Anglo-American Company.

Previous to this fire the department responded to an alarm from Box 15 for a fire in a house owned by J. Marcus in Brussels street. The house is a two story one and is occupied by Edward Brown and John Allan. The fire started in the basement and originated from the same cause as the Martin fire. The damage done to the house was very slight and is fully covered by insurance.

NINE BELOW EARLY THIS MORNING, BUT MERCURY TOOK RISE

Fourteen Below in Chatham Today—Likely Cold Tomorrow With Snow on Wednesday

The lowest official temperature recorded in St. John this morning was four and a half degrees below zero. This was about nine o'clock. Around the city six and seven was reached. The lowest temperature yesterday morning was ten degrees below and the highest four above. At nine o'clock last night it was three below zero, and at two o'clock this morning the mercury dropped to nine below. At noon it was about five above. The absence of the wind, however, made the cold less biting and the weather both yesterday and today was rather pleasant.

St. John seems to be suffering less from the cold than other towns in the near vicinity, with the exception of Halifax. In the latter city snow weather is the lowest they have had. In Quebec city this morning it was twenty below, in Montreal, twelve below and in Chatham, fourteen below.

The probabilities are for continued cold weather tonight and tomorrow with chances of a snow storm by Wednesday. There was excellent sleighing in and around the city yesterday but the weather was just a trifle too cold to enjoy driving.
