THE TEXAS STORM.

Number of Dead at Galveston Estimated as High as Ten Thousand.

All Attempts at Burying the Dead Have Been Abandoned and the Bodies Are Being Disposed of in the Swiftest Man-

on have been utterly abandoned, and bodies are now being disposed of in the swiftest manner possible. Scores of them were buried today and hundreds were taken out to sea and thrown overboard. The safety of the living is now the paramount question, and nothing that will tend to prevent the outbreak of an awful pestilence is being neglected.

This morning it was found that African experiences. large numbers of the bodies which had been previously thrown into the bay were washed back upon the shore and the situation was then rendered worse than before they were first thrown into the water. It will now never be known how many have lost their lives in this awful catastrophe. Estimates run all the way from 1,000 to The former figure is given by Lieut. Perry, aide on Gen. McKibben's staff, who arrived in Houston this evening from Galveston.

The number of dead bodies along the shore, according to Lieut. Perry, has been somewhat over-estimated, and he says that 1,000 is a conservative estimate. His estimate is laughed at by numbers of men who have been in Galveston and returned early in the week, they claiming that at least 2,500 bodies were buried or carried out to sea in barges before Lieut. Perry

No list of the dead has been kept, and it will be utterly impossible to formulate one from now on. Mayor Jones of Galveston claims that the dead will amount to 5,000, and others, whose opportunities for judging are less than that of the mayor, place it as high as 10,000. Relief committees from the interior of the state have commenced to arrive and, as usual, they are much too large in numbers, and, to a certain extent, are in the way of the people of Galveston, and an impediment to the prompt relief which they themselves are so desirous of offering. Some of the relief expeditions have had committees large enough to consume ten per cent of the provisions which they The relief sent here from Beaumont, Texas, arrived this morning and was distributed as fast as It consisted of two cartoads of ice and provisions. The great trouble now seems to be that these people who are in greatest need, through no fault of those in charge of the distribution, are the last to receive aid. Many of them are so badly maimed and wounded that they are unable to apply to the relief committee, and the committees are so overwhelmed by direct applications that they have been unable to send out messengers. DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 12.—W. H. Mc-Grath, manager of the Dallas Electric com-pany, reached here today direct from Galveston last night. He said:

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 12.—It is true that regroes were shot by order of a court martial. Their pockets were found to be full of human fingers and jewelry of which the dead had been stripped.

A reporter has telegraphed from Laporte the story of the robbery of the dead in Galveston and the death of the offenders.

The chouls were holding an orgic over the story of the robbery of the dead in Galveston and the death of the offenders. The ghouls were holding an orgic over the dead. The majority of these men were negroes, but there were also white men who took part in the desecration. Some of them were natives who had been allowed to go over from the mainland under the guise of "relief" workers. Not only did they rob the dead, but they mutilatel bodies in order to secure their ghoulish booty. A party of ten negroes were returning from a looting expedition. They had stipped corpses of all valuables and the pockets of some of the looters were fairly bulging out with fingers of the dead, which had been cut off because they were so swollen the rings could not be removed. Incensed at this desecration and mutilation of the dead, the looters were shot down, and it has been determined that all found in the act of robbing dead shall be summarily shot. During the robbing of the dead, not only were fingers cut off, but ears were stripped from the head in order to secure jewels of value. A few government troops who survived have been assisting in patrolling the city. Private citizens have also endeavored to prevent the robbing of the dead, and on several occasions have killed the offenders. Singly and in twos or threes the offenders were thus shot down until the total of those thus executed exceeds fully fifty.

ANOTHER BIG MEETING.

Sir Charles Tupper, Hugh John Macdonald and Hon. Mr. Foster Greeted by Three Thousand People.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 .- Three thousand persons greeted Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Hugh John Macdonald and Col. Whitney at the political picnic held at the Napanee Driving Park this afternoon. An address was read to the visiting orators by Reginald Foultier, Amherst Island, who was a schoolboy with Hugh John. Sir Charles explained what he had meant when he declared that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy was too English for him. Sir Wilfrid's policy concerning imperialism was to have Canada represented in the British house of commons. This would involve the sacrifice of Canada's right to self-government, and none but a traitor would tolerate it.

Hugh John was in a happy mood and made a most favorable impression. He urged his hearers to insist upon a government keeping its promises and to apply the laws of honesty as firmly to public men as to private individuals. On their record the liberal government was condemned, and he especially condemned the Hon. Israel Tarte for his anti-Canadian speeches in France, and declared his belief that such deplorable utterances were not voiced even by French-Canadians. He said he had been asked why he did not run in Winnipeg again. His answer was: "I was asked to fight Mr. Sifton, and I have ency."

tonight before the Tarte Club, Hon. Mr. Tarte said: "I have to tell you that the date of the general elections has not yet been fixed, but I am not divulging any ministerial secrets in informing you that an appeal to the country will be made very soon. In fact, the elections will be held much sooner than the conservatives would ask for." Hon. Mr. Tarte also declared that if the Connors syndicate did not carry out its contract the government would build the elevators at Montreal. Mr. Tarte offered to wager his head against a straw hat that Ontario will send a majority of at least ten to twelve to support Laurier. He expects ten majority in the lower provinces. Quebec will be solid, and Laurier will get half the seats west of the great lakes.

"At a meeting of the generals, the Russian commander announces that Russia would maintain 15,000 troops during the winter. The German commander said that Germany would keep the same number, and the Japanese commander announced that Japan would have 22,000. The British general was not in a position to make an announcement.

"There is every indication, however, that Lord Salisbury has decided that Pekin must become still humbler. In the best informed quarters the opinion is expressed that Russia and Germany are acting in accord, Russia seeking the definite alienation of all territory north of the Great Wall, and Germany the annexation of Shan Tung, Kiang-Su and the Yang-Tse provinces. Russia seeks also to restore the power of the Empress Dowager and the Emperor, in order to be enabled to wield her influence through them over the remaining provinces The dismemberment of China seem almost inevitable. WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.-The crisis MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—Speaking that was near at hand yesterday over the evacuation proposal of the Russian government has been averted for a time at least, and the diplomatic side of the matter has become again the object of attention. The order to General Chaffee to leave at once, which was expected in some quarters, did not issue today. Instead,, er rnest efforts are making to arrange the preliminaries for the negotiations which are expected finally to settle the Chinese troubles. Li Hung Chang's message today removed perhaps the last obstacle to the speedy beginning of these negotiations, and the only doubt that now exists is as to his ability to redeem his pledge to protect American interests and stop the outrages upon the missionaries and native conmanifest the existence of a de facto doubt that negotiations will be immediately in order. OTTAWA, Sept. 12.-The militia department received a somewhat belated report from General Hutton reative to the gallant action of Lieut. Young and twelve other Canadians at Klip Kop last June. Young and his men, with three of Remington's scouts, were sent to reconnoitre a Boer laager. They got in behind the laager, disarmed 50 or 60 Boers, found two guns and brought them out with a span of oxen. The whole incident. says Gen. Hutton, forms a singular instance of what cool daring and steady courage can do. After leaving Dawson he and his sister lost no time in speeding St. Johnwards. Side-tracking into Uncle Sam's territory was the last thing thought about, all they wanted was home, sweet home, and even yet they have not reached the old homestead up river, but will do so tomorrow. Both brother and sister bear facial evidences of having experienced somewhat different climatic influences than which we encounter in New Brunswick. Their faces are considerably bronzed, and rugged health is

THE ADDRESS. Chairman Neill after a few remarks read the following address: To the Honorable Sir Charles Tupper, Baronet, G. C. M. G., C. B., etc.,

Honored Sir-The liberal conservatives of the county of York desire to assure you that your visit to Fredericton is hailed with very great pleasure and satisfaction.

Long before the federation of the provinces of British North America into one great dominion, under the central authority of the British crown, you had attained a high and honorable position as a public man in the reighboring province of Nova Scotia. Your public career has been a long and consistent one, and we are not unmindful that in bringing about the consolidation of the separate provinces of Canada you took a conspicuous part, and you can proudly clam to be one of the preminent fathers of confederation.

As a representative in parliament as a minister of the crown, and in the important position of Canadian high commissioner at London, the country has ever recognized in you a man of broad views and wise foresight, and Canada has reason to be grateful for your distinguished public services.

It was largely your statesmanship, energy and indomitable courage that initiated and pushed to a speedy completion the Canadian Pacific railway, a public work not only of great advantage to Canada, but of the utmost importance from an imperial point of view. The political wishom of Sir John A Macdonald, Sir Leonard Tilley and yourself, with the other distinguished men acting with you in the government of that day, grasped the importance of that great public work, and we venture to think that a grateful country will not forget the services rendered by you in connection there-

But our gratitude and appreciation go out to you at this time particularly, because of your statesmanlike and patriotic conduct in voicing the Blair, when called upon to give reloyal sentiments of the Canadian people and by your action, backed up by every true and loyal son of Canada forcing Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government to send the Canadian contingents to South Africa to fight beside the British troops to repel the the sort. STORM IN NEW ENGLAND. The Gale More Distructive on Land Than on Sea.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The West India nurricane which started ten days ago far to the eastward of Porto Rico, entered New England this morning and tonight the inhabitants of this corner of the country have nearly a million dollars to add to the lengthening list of losses which this remarkable storm destroyed in its 10,000 mile career. Strangely enough the gale in this section was more destructive on land than at sea. It found a greater part of New England dried and parched from three months' drought, so that within an hour after the storm began a score of forest fires which by great effort had been almost subdued, were burning fiercely and again sweeping over vast expanses of country. Nearly all these fires are still burning, and this is especially true of the districts to the south and west of this city, so that the air is permeated with smoke The storm entered New England early this morning, the wind shifting to the south and west, and increasing so rapidly that by 10 o'clock the velo city was nearly fifty miles an hour. In the northern portion of New England some rain fell during the night which almost subdued a number of the forest fires which have been raging for nearly a week. Farther to the south, however, the earth was very dry and the woods are like so much excelsior. Today the high gale swept the flames over ten times as much territory and by noon today a dozen of these forest fires were burning flercely among the pines of Plymouth county and Cape Cod.

In Plymouth county a score of summer residents had their property destroyed. The losses are placed at over

At 8 o'clock tonight the fire had reached the lower end of Long Pond in Sandwich, but as the wind went down, the fire wardens believe that the progress of the flames may be checked. Up to a late hour tonight no fatalties had been reported. Fires have also been doing much damage in Weymouth, Rockland, South Framingham and in Westminster, Mass. Reports were also received from various parts of New England tonight of damage to telegraph and telephone wires, houses unroofed, orchards denuded of their fruit and great damage to standing corn and other crops. Up to a late hour tonight nothing in the way of an ocean disaster had come to hand. The gale, to be sure, has been severe off the coast, but it blew off shore, so that most of the shipping found little difficulty in getting a lee. BIG SCHOONER LAUNCHED.

Met With an Enthusiastic Reception as They Drove Through the Streets of London.

TORONTO, Sept. 11-The Telegram's special cable from London says: A quartette of Canadians who had been invalided to England from South Africa, recovered sufficiently to receive permission from the war office to return to the front and join their regiments, at present in pursuit of the fleeing Boers in the high hills of the Transvaal. The four soldiers are Pte. P. Delmer, 86th Middlesex Light Infantry, B Co.; Sergt. S. H. Eagleson, 43rd Carleton and Ottawa Rifles. D Co.: Corporal W. H. Grant, 48th High-

On arrival of the visitors at Holly Lodge, Mr. Burdett-Coutts showed them through his mammoth stables, and much interest was displayed in the fine stud that was to be seen. The men immensely enjoyed the treat, and cannot speak too highly of the hospitality of Mr. Burdett-Coutts. Baroness Burdett-Coutts greeted the colonials and they were photographed in front of the carriage containing the baroness.

Lieut, P. Layborn of the British Columbia and Manitoba Company of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, who has been invalided from South Africa to England, sailed from Cape Town on the third of this month.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.-The Star's special cable from London says: Fifty invalided Canadians will sail for home by the steamship Dominion next Thursday. Nothing is known in Canadian official circles here of the outcome of the suggestion made that the Duke of York visit Canada, though it is said the Queen herself and the Duke and Duchess are anxious to make some such recognition of the valor of the Canadian troops in South Africa.

chronicle the wedding of Herbert T. Irvine, brother of Joseph Irvine of the north end, and Miss Catherine McLeod. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Akehurst in Saint Savior's church. The bride wore a handsome gown of duchesse satin, trimmed with real lace and chiffon, the bodice being hand embroidered. Her veil was of white tulle, and was fastened with a broach of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. She was preceded up the aisle by two flower girls, Miss Bessie Forir and Miss Edith Williamson, of Sandon, both dressed in white; and her bridesmaid, Miss Jennie Mc-Leod, who was gowned in white liberty silk, and wore a picture hat, trimmed with white ostrich tips. The groom was attended by Harry Wright, of Nelson. After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Irvine left for Portland, Oregon, on an extended tour. The happy couple received many beautiful presents. The groom's to the bridesmaids was gold bracelets, to the ushers, gold nugget pins.

sees are the windows behind which are the turtles and frogs. The snapping turtle occupies first place, and when he is disturbed he does not hesitate to snap. This monster turtle, weighing thirty-five or forty pounds, was caught on the Nerepis river and kept in captivity until wanted for the show. Turtles also have the next space, but though not nearly so large they are more brightly colored. Then they have a model frog

ALFRED MARKHAM,

ST. JOHN, N. B. SEPTEMBER 15, 1900

THE SEMI-WEEKLY SUN

BRIDGES AND SCHOOL BOOKS J. D. Hazen, M. P. P., dealt with these topics in his speech at Albert the other day. The leader of the provincial opposition gave the history of the two price bridge scandal, showing that the Emmerson goversment paid seven cents and upward per pound for bridges which could be furnished in the open market for half that price. He proved that the New Brunswick government nad regularly paid for bridges double the price paid for the same kind of structures by the Nova Scotia government, and by the Ontario municipalities.

Mr. Hazen disposed of Mr. Emmerson's excuse for these extraordinary transactions. The government justifled itself for giving away some twenty or thirty thousand dollars a year by claiming that it was encouraging a home industry. Yet after all this lavish expenditure the bridge building industry in this province had not reached the stage that it had attained in Nova Scotia under competition, and with prices one half as high as ours. The New Brunswick bridge works contained only a few thousand dollars' worth of plant, and employed only a few men a part of the year. After some years of the double price system the Moncton works had not been able to tender at competitive rates for bridges in Nova Scotia nor for railway bridges. All the bridge building made private bargains and received two prices. This was all the people of New Brunswick had got out of the policy of paying double for highway bridges to a favored company.

Mr. Hazen compared the provincial government's bridge policy with the school book policy. When school books were to be made the government shut out New Brunswickers from a chance to do the work at home. The school book contract was given to a firm whose imprint as publishers is given on the title page. This tirm has no printing office and does not get the work done in this province. There are more good compositors and bookbinders in New Brunswick than there are bridge builders. Yet the whole of the printing and bookbinding of the New Brunswick school books is Jone in Ontario by a firm with which the New Brunswick contractor deals. The people are not even allowed to buy from the outside publishers at the original price, but pay a profit to the New Brunswick contractor or publisher.

Mr. Hazen went on to say that when this arrangement was made the government had an offer from a New Brunswick printer and publisher to furnish the school geography. He offered to revise the old book in any way required by the educational authorities, and to print and bind the whole edition in the province. This offer was refused and the geography books, printed in Ontario, must be bought from the New Brunswick contractor for every child in the classes. Mr. Hazen explained that the authorized volume had been condemned by the Educational Review.

The opposition leader contrasted these two policies. In one case, he said, the government made the people pay double prices in order to get the work done at home. In the other they were made to pay excessive prices in order to get the work done away from large profit to a favorite contractor. The school book case showed the hypocrisy of the government's excuse about the bridges, and the bridge argument of Mr. Emmerson condemned his own course concerning the bridges.

TIME IT WAS STOPPED.

When Mr. Blair became minister of railways he boasted that though the representation of New Brunswick was then nine to five against the government, he and his colleagues would have a majority from New Brunswick within a year. This meant that Mr. Blair would be able in twelve months to purchase for the premier the support of three nembers elected to oppose him. Mr. Blair's almost brutal reflection on the nonor of the New Brunswick members has not been justified. He has been four years in Costigan. The latest atonement which the minister and his friends have made for the gratuitous insult offered to the public men of this province is the revival of the boast in another form, We read in the press of other provinces, especially in La Patrie and Le Soleil, organs of the government in Montreal and Quebec, that Mr. Hale of Carleton and Mr. Robinson of Northumberland have agreed to give an independent support to Mr. Blair after the election. It seems to be rather low politics for Mr. Blair's henchmen to be circulating such slanders as these on members who during their four years in the house have voted against the government in every party division taken when they were present. The two members have enjoyed and still enjoy the confidence of the liberal conservatives in their constituencies. Even the exigencies of party strife furnish no excuse for the charge that they are ready to betray that trust.

HON. GEORGE E. FOSTER.

The speech of Hon. George E. Foster last evening was wonderfully effective. He carried the vast audience with him. His clear, far-reaching voice stirred every hearer. Every word was to the point. All his arguments were convincing. His arraignment of the inconsistency, faithlessness and corruption of the liberal leaders was thoroughly appreciated by the audience, who knew that every word he said was true.

As an orator Hon. George E. Foster 1st. stands unequalled among politicians in this country, if not on this continent.

He is not only a great speaker, but. he has a great grasp of affairs. He thoroughly understands the financial, industrial and business interests of Canada. Business men who interview him feel that he knows what they are talking about and that he really takes an interest in mastering all the details of any matter with which he has to

The conservative party have reason to be proud of his record as minister of finance during a period of worldwide depression and business disaster. Eloquent, honest, economical, he is a great source of strength to the conservative party.-Montreal Star.

Sir Charles' Tupper is developing they could do was that for which they good qualities as an organizer. In Bliss M. Fawcett, Sackville, 3rd. procuring strong candidates. In Prince Edward Island he has induced Mr. Lefurgey to reconsider his determination not to contest East Prince. In Montreal. Dr. Roddick. the popular member for the St. Antoine district, who had decided to retire from public life, has agreed to be a candidate in the approaching contest. Mr. Perley of Ottawa has been pursuaded by Sir Charles to accept a nomination in Argenteuil, which seems to ensure the capture of that Quebec constituency from the government. The success of Sir Charles in pursuading Hon. Hugh John Macdonald to return to eral politics has made the other part of the work more easy. The example set by the premier of Manitoba is a splendid incitement to effort and duty, while at the same time it is a source of confidence.

It is thus that Editor McNutt of the Fredericton Herald criticizes Sir Charles Tupper's speech:

An abusive, decrepit old man * * Sir Charles, with advancing age, increases in vituperation and recklessness. His address on Saturday was merely the venemous uttering of a. disappointed, rapidly decaying old man. As he stood before the audience, the very picture of physical and mental ruin, men observed what a pity that the poor old man was not tenderly taken home by his friends and cared for as senility demands.

This clears the political atmosphere.

The Telegraph says that though Hugh John Macdonald is fifty years old he has not greatly distinguished himself or given indication of superior ability. The organ does not think it was much of a feat to smash the power of Mr. Sifton and Mr. Greenway in Manitoba.

The Telegraph still says that Sir Charles Tupper is St. John's greatest enemy. It is sad to think that Dr. home. In both the people paid a Hannay should have lavished such splendid eulogies and so many of them on such a foe.

J. J. RITCHIE NOMINATED.

LIVERPOOL, N. S., Sept. 13.-At a largely attended conservative convention, held in Sable River today, Jas. J. Ritchie, a leading barrister of Annapolis, received a hearty and unanimous nomination by a standing vote for Queens and Shelburne. The following resolution was enthusiastically carried: "That this convention desires to express the warmest regard for and confidence in their venerable leader. Sir Charles Tupper, and trusts he may be long spared to lead the conservative party, and that the forthcoming election will place him once more at the helm of state, to effect which object the conservatives of Shelburne and office, and the only convert is Mr. Queens will use their best endeavors."

The general public hospital is to have a new laundry plant. The commissioners recently engaged Geo. W. Boyd, the superintendent of the American laundry, to examine the present equipment with a view to its improvement. Mr. Boyd made certain recommendations to the commissioners, and they sent him to Boston to purchase the plant required. Mr. Boyd is home, and the machinery purchased by him from the Crawford concern of Boston and the Troy, N. Y., manufacturers is expected to be here before the end of the month. The machinery will be placed in position by Mr. Boyd, who says it will be able to handle all the work the hospital people will have for years to come.

MILK DEALERS

Lay Their Grievances Before the Members of the Board

Only Two Members of the Board Present-Milk Bealers Will Select a Committee to Wait on the Local

A committee of the St, John milk lealers waited upon the Board of Health yesterday afternoon to lay before it their grievances against the aw concerning the tuberculin test. The committee consisted of E. H. Turnbull, James Moreland, Robert McLean, J. Donovan, A. L. Macaulay and James Carr. C. W. Stewart, Campbell, S. Creighton and H. Mc-Knight were also present. Owing to indisposition, Chairman Reynolds of the board was unable to be present, and in the absence of a quorum, John Kelly, acting as chairman, recommended the committee to state their complaints and he and Jas. Ready, the only members present, would lay them before the board. Mr. Donovan stated that the milk dealers had intended petitioning the government concerning the law before this, but they had been informed that the board intended taking no further action in the matter. This information, Mr. Kelly told them, was utterly un founded. Mr. Turnbull, the chairman of the milk dealers' committee. stated that the committee consisted of members from those dealers who imported milk by train as well as from those local men who kept their own herds and brought the milk into town in their own teams. He read to the board the resolutions passed by the Sussex milkmen a few days ago, protesting against the tuberculin test for several reasons: 1. On account of the very small number of cows that have been discovered to be infected; 2. Because some herds have been nearly ruined by carelessness in administering the test, thereby producing abortion, and (3) Because it has been discarded in other counties after a fair trial. In view of this the Sussex men rather than conform to the law, have resolved to test the legality of the regulation. Mr. Kelly here read the law in the matter, ordering the boards of health to take every precautionary measure against the spread of tuberculosis, and urged that the strictness of the board concerning the tuberculin test was only their plain duty under the law. If the dealers thought the law not desirable, they should petition the local government to have it abolished. Mr. Turnbull asked that legal measures be postponed until this was harmful to the stock. He read the resolutions passed by the St. John milk dealers objecting to the present law on the grounds that it made cattle higher priced; that it interfered with breeding; that the test was not reliable, as cattle which had been condemned by it have been found to be healthy on a second test: that cows often die after the test, and that the repeated test is very expensive to the dealers. Mr. Turnbull suggested that a perfect measure would be to isolate New Brunswick cattle by admitting none into the province without Another member of the committee suggested that instead of the tuberculin test, it would be better to appoint a practical expert to go around to the different farms and examine the cattle. The committee did not object to the other restrictions imposed upon them, and insisted that the rule in regard to cleanliness in milk delivery should be more stringently enforced.

Mr. Kelly advised the appointment of a committee from the complaining dealers to wait upon Messrs. Pugsley and McKeown of the local government, and meanwhile assured them that the board would suspend action in the matter. He thought that all those in town who kept cows and sold milk, even on a very small scale should be compelled to pay a license fee, and said that the regular dealers should assist the board in discovering delinquencies. He advised them to take out their licenses then and said that the matter of the tuberculin test would be held in abeyance until they had heard from the government.

Working plans of the proposed new pulp mill at Clarke's Cove, to which the town voted a bonus of $15,000, are not yet completed, but the organization of the new company is progressing favorably. Already lands in the vicinity of the site are being bought up by those of a speculative turn of mind, and the erection of the proposed work will very materially assist the growth and prosperity of Chatham. Although there is apparently good prospects of an early dominion election, the liberals are showing no signs of life. The party is dead. Mr. Blair and his advisers have killed it. The conservatives on the other hand are alive and more active than ever, and everything at the present time points to the return of their candidate. The party will probably be called together to reaffirm the resolutions of the Moncton convention and those recently passed in St. John declaring for party lines in local politics, and to tender the nomination to Mr. Robinson, the sitting member. PROVINCIAL NEWS

GRAND MANAN, Sept. 8.-Members of the Church of England on the island and friends of Rev. W. S. Covert and family in general deplore the death of Arthur, their son, who was born and brought up on the island and had many friends among us. Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter is out again after a protracted siege of diphtheria. Mr. Naves' child, who is still sick with the same disease, is improving.

The whole interior of Grand Manan is swept with forest fires from North Head to South Head. On the 7th inst. Grand Harbor was threatened with fire, it burning all the growth of trees and underbrush to the north and east and sparks in three or four instances caught in the roofs of barns and houses. The fire is still burning, but no houses are burned yet. Fishery Overseer W. A. Fraser made a seizure of twenty-two or three nets on the spawning grounds at South Head on the 5th inst. The lobster fishermen on the coast of the state of Maine are circulating a petition to regulate the size of lobsters to be taken. The petition asks that no lobsters be taken over 121-2 inches in length and none under 9 inches.

NEWCASTLE, Queens Co., Sept. 5.— The crops are being burned for want of rain. Forest fires are raging, and unless rain comes soon much damage will result.

The advance in the price of coal has caused renewed activity in the work of digging and hauling; but the schooners of Messrs. Chapman, McMann and McThurrott keep the way clear about the wharf.

The new schooner being built is progressing under Llewelyn McLean. The work of planking has been going on for several days.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the residence of Miss Pearl Robinson on Monday, Aug. 3rd. Miss Robinson has been organist in the Baptist church for some time past. The choir and congregation, wishing to show their appreciation, met, and after a time spent in conversation and singing, presented her with a purse. Miss Robinson replied in a few words. Refreshments were served.

Rev. Mr. Coombs of Cumberland Bay paid this place a visit on Wednesday. UPHAM, Sept. 11.-Miss Gertrude Titus entertained a number of her friends at a lawn party on Tuesday evening, Sept. 4th, at her father's re sidence, Rock Hill, Upham. Music and games, were indulged in until a late hour, when ice cream, cake and fruit were served.

Death has visited the home of Jas. Lackey and taken from their midst a bright little boy of seven years. Interment took place at the Episcopal cemetery on Monday, the 10th.

for his future success. A barn belonging to Edward Robertson, near the Moncton driving park, containing twenty-five tons of hay, farming implements,- etc., was de stroyed by fire this afternoon. Loss, one thousand dollars; no insurance. The latest report in political circles is that ex-Premier Emmerson will run in Albert against Dr. Weldon. Nothing would please the conservatives in Albert better than to meet Emmerson, who, it is believed, would be defeated.

PREDERICTON, Sept. 11.-The school board yesterday decided to accept the resignation of Mr. O'Blene as principal of the Charlotte street school, who has been offered the principalship of the model school, provided he remain until a successor is appointed. John Rogers was offered the position vacated by Mr. O'Blene but declined.

The will of the late Julius L. Inches was admitted to probate today and letters testamentary thereof were granted to Mrs. Inches, sole executrix. The will was executed by Mr. Inches in March, 1878, and gives all his property to his wife. On Thursday last, Miss Charlotte Moore, aged 52 years, was found dead upon the floor of her dining room. A neighbor happened in and found Miss Moore dead, showing all indications of having choked to death. Miss Moore was a sister of Fred Moore of Woodtock. The funeral was held on Saturday morning, services being held in the Free Baptist church. The interment took place in the Dow cemetery. Rev. G. B. MacDonald officiated, as-

HAVELOCK, Sept. 10 .- Yesterday was one of the saddest days in the history of the village. Three funerals took place, all young people. In the morning the funeral of a young son of Mrs. Elijah Ryder took place, making five deaths in the family in three years, all from consumption. Rev. Mr. Brown conducted the funeral services. At two o'clock the funeral of Mrs. Scott Moffat took place. Mrs. Moffat was formerly Miss Dora Wright, daughter of David Wright of this village. She had been married scarcely two years, and was brought here last spring with her infant son from her home in Campbellton. Her baby died in May, the mother living on until now. She died with consumption, but her death was sudden. The deceased, who was only 21 years old, leaves a sorrowing husband and father, also two brothers and one sister to mourn, Ira Wright of Campbellton, Oscar of this village, and Mrs. Wm. Sproule of Campbellton. Her funeral took place from the Methodist church, where she was a member of the choir for several years. The service was impressive. The interment took place at the Methodist cemetery. At four o'clock the funeral of Geo. P. S. Keith, son of Charles B. Keith of this village, took place. The deceased, who was a very promising young man, was 24 years old. He had been ill several months of Bright's disease. UNIVERSITY OF ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, Sept. 7.-A new scholastic year is begun. After a well spent vacation, students of last year have returned to do battle with the 'writers of old Rome and Greece, to analyze the blossom of eloquence cultivated by the Roman Cicero and the Greek Demosthenes. Boys, as yet inexperienced in college life, have come to start a course in the classics or to fit themselves for the accountant's desk. There is every prospect of a prosperous year. A good class of young men, an addition of twenty-five feet to the wooden ell, which is now encased in stone, rooms for the seniors, an enlarged dining hall, study halls with greater seating capacity, and a highly efficient teaching staff, all tend to render the coming year one of the most successful in the annals of St. Joseph's.

Working up a Murder Case - The Fabulous Crowell Fortune - The Lumber and Fish Markets.

(From our own correspondent.) BOSTON, Sept. 8 .- A report emanating from Worcester states that Detective John Ring of St. John and others are investigating a clue which may lead to the arrest of Paul Mueller, a farm hand wanted in Brookfield, Mass., for the murder of three persons there several years ago According to the report James E. Burden, a Worcester machinist, while in Fredericton recently saw a man whom he believed to be Mueller. The suspect left Fredericton Aug. 23, and is said to have been seen in St. John later. When the man appeared first in Fredericton he went to work for Isaac C. Burden, a merchant tailor. He told Burden he had been in the Seamen's Mission, St. John. After disappearing, Aug. 23, it is supposed the suspect joined a vessel at St. John. The authorities of this state have little faith in the clue leading to any tangible result. It will be remembered that soon after the Brookfield murders Constable Dysart and other Kent county officers arrested a suspect near Cocaigne, but the prisoner proved that he was not the much wanted murderer. Charles H. Watts, a blind inmate of the Cambridge city home, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor. Watts, who was weak mentally, was 40 years old and was a son of Benjamin S. Watts of St. John, later of Cambridge. The so-called heirs of the fabulous

Crowell fortune alleged to exist in England are still working to see what there is in it. They are holding frequent meetings in Somerville, and at the last one $260 was subscribed towards paying the expenses of an agent in the old country.

Ex-Senator Edmunds of Vermont, B. F. Dutton, F. S. Hodges, John Fottler and other Boston men have returned from eastern Quebec, where they had good luck fishing salmon. It is said the salmon season in Canada this year has been one of the most successful known.

Many mills depending on water power have been badly handicapped, and not a few of them are idle. Farmers have felt the absence of rain seriously. Some crops are small in consequence, and butter makers particularly have had cause for complaint. No rain has fallen here for several weeks, and in some parts of Rhode Island and Connecticut there has been little rain all summer. The spruce lumber market

Building operations are being carried on more extensively, notwithstanding the lateness of the sea-It is understood that the car mills have a good many orders on hand and that some of them are delayed owing to a limited supply of logs on hand. Little cutting of prices from those fixed by manufacturers is reported here, and it is said the outlook is at least as satisfactory as at any time this season. Spruce frames, 10 and 12 in., are still quoted at $17; 9 in. and under, $15; 10 and 12 in. random, lengths, 10 ft. and up, $16.50; merchantable boards, $14, and out boards at Hemlock is well maintained and $11. firm, $13 to 15 for Canadian. BRITISH HEIRLOOMS.

Not a few noble families in England cherish as heirlooms some object upon which their fate or fortune is supposed to depend. The crystal goblet known as "The Luck of Longfellow's well-known translation of the German poet Uhland's ballad, has for many gonerations been jealously guarded as one of the most valued possessions of the Musgaves of Eden Hall, now represented by Sir Richard and Lady Musgrave. ness. His evidence was as follows: Have been engaged in bridge building | Have made an examination of the for the last 20 years. I am now engaged in putting in side tracks and of the side braces off. They were not freight shed in St. John at the I. C. R. terminus. I have built quite a them to come off. In the best of my number of bridges all over New Bruns- opinion the bridge was not properly wick and repaired quite a number. Have given that work my sole attention for nearly 20 years. I know the Sargeson bridge on the Central railway. Was over it about three weeks ago and made a careful examination. It is a good plan of a bridge. Before rotten. This would not be enough to the work of repairs commenced, I cause the bridge to collapse. Would think it was of ample strength to carry the trains. The worst feature I saw was that they had cut off the stringers and let them fall carelessly and broke the side braces in a great many places. The track stringers they had but in were not sufficiently bolted to the caps nor together. They were not side bolted. I found very few bolts in the ties. I judge what is down where the train went down by what I see in the part standing. All the piles that I saw broken were broken off above the ground, and were only sap rotten, but not sufficient to cause any break. If the break had occurred by reason of rotten structure the train would have gone right down and the bents would not have gone ahead with it. With the side braces off the bents the train would naturally throw them forward in the direction the train was going. If the side braces had been kept in proper shape there would have beer no break. In my opinion the accident was caused by lack of bolting and the braces being knocked off. I made a very careful examination. In my opinion the accident was caused by the way the repairs were being made. I know Thomas Gilliland, and have known him for years as a practical bridge builder. That is his reputation that he is a good practical bridge builder, and he has a good deal of work to do. I have seen other trestle bridges as high as this and higher. Have seen them eighty feet. strengthening was necessary at that I think I have not done any work on time I would have said so. There are this bridge. I am satisfied that the bridge before the repairs commenced It is not an uncommon thing to have was of sufficient strength to carry the trains. Sap ret would not materially affect the strength of the wood. The principal part of the piling was Princess pine and hacmatack, and was very little sap rotten. There were a few red pine which were quite rotten, but not sufficient to cause the accident. There were six piles in a bent, and if one were very rotten it would not materially weaken the bent. The stringers are generally the first to give out in a bridge. I made my examination since the accident. If the accident had been occasioned by rottenness in the work I would expect to find all the cars in a heap, and you would have found it in the structure too. The fact that the bents swayed for-

To A. P. Barnhill-The braces would have been sufficient had they not been

> I have been in the position of chief engineer for three years, and in the employment twenty-eight years. In the position which I have occupied during these years I would have the bridges to examine as well as other duties, and as a matter of fact I have been examining bridges for a number of years on the I. The bridge was a fairly substantial structure of ordinary design for wooden trestles. In my opinion it was then sufficient for the purposes for which it was intended. At that time it was safe enough as to structure and material. I made a careful examination of it at that time. I examined all the trestles on the road at the same time. At that time it was sufficient for the purposes for which it was used. I did not recommend any additional supports at that time. trestles. To Mr. McKeown-The ordinary life of these trestles depends upon the wood of which they are made. I do not remember the kind of wood. The ordinary life of a trestle of Princess pine and hacmatack should last from eight to twelve years. I think the trestle was about six or seven years old when I examined it. I think it was built between '88 and '90. I examined it for the purpose of making a report. I do not know if anything was done on it since that time. I have not been at the scene of the accident. One would suppose from the description of the accident that the bents all fell forward. From the description it would seem as if the break commenced at the near end and continued to the further end. From the description of the accident I think the most likely To the jury-I think the braces were cause of the accident would be the lack of horizontal bracing.

Te Mr. Barnhill-In speaking of the life of a bridge I am giving an outside limit. In my opinion the cause of the accident might be from insufficient bolting of the stringers and ties, and the horizontal bracing being off. The swaying forward of the bents would lead me to believe that it was some such cause as that described that would cause the accident.

It is three or four times as strong as the load we could put on the bridge. The train and weights are as follows: One passenger car about 30,000 lbs., freight car about 24,000 lbs., car of coal about 24,000 lbs., engine and tender about 100,000 lbs., and a flat car about 23,000 lbs. I have a statement of loads carried previously. The greatest concentrated load that could be on any one span would be the weight of the engine on the drivers, which would be distributed over twelve and a half feet. We have carried much greater loads over this trestle than on the day of the accident. The weight of the train would run up to about 345,000 With the engine and passenger and box cars, would run up to 500,000 lbs. but the greatest concentrated load on any span would be 60,000 lbs. The length of the train would not matter. I arranged with Thomas Gilliland to make the repairs. He is a bridge contractor. I have known him as a bridge contractor and carpenter for years. I did not know Beatty at all until after the accident occurred. I did not order the repairs because I considered the bridge unsafe at the time. I made this test on the 12th of May, 1900. I numerated everything that I thought necessary to replace. Those are the numerations in the letter addressed to Mr. Gilliland. The parts of the structure that I ordered replaced I considered would have to be renewed within a year. I could see no distortion of fibre in any stick that I tested. render that part of the trestle weaker

James Barnes was the next witness. He testified as follows: My occupation is contractor. I have been a bridge builder for 15 years. I know the Sargeson bridge. I repaired this bridge in 1896. I did all that I thought necessary to do about it. These were my instructions to put on whatever repairs were necessary. This was the time when the duplicate track stringers were put in. We allowed the old stringers to remain. I think this bridge was sufficient for the purposes for which it was intended. It was sufficiently strong in build and material. All the parts having any appearance of decay at that time were renewed and new material put in. Hard pine and white pine and very little spruce was used. I have had considerable experience with bridges and timber. I have no doubt in my mind that the bridge was sufficient for the work at that time. It is not unusual to have trestle bridges 50 feet

To Mr. McKeown-I have not seen the trestle for the last two years. Have passed over it frequently since I made the repairs.

To Mr. Barnhill-My opinion is that the bridge should be good for at least 12 years. I say this is a safe limit. Mr. Evans to Mr. Barnhill-The statement that I have for May shows a total weight of loads, not including the engine and tender and passenger and freight car, and run from 151,000 lbs. to 342,0000 lbs. These loads passed over in May, 1900, and are taken from cur books. The gross weight with load and tare would be about 492,000 lbs. I thought the bridge sufficiently strong. In my opinion from the evidence, the cause of the accident was the way the repairs were made. After emarks by A. P. Barnhill, who appeared for the railway, and Hon. H. A. McKeown, who represented the crown, the jury returned the following verdict:

(1) That the deceased, John A. Duncan, was killed on the 10th day of August, in the year aforesaid, at the parish of Springfield, in the county of Kings, while acting as engineer on the Central railway.

(2) That the death of deceased was due to the collapse of the Sargeson trestle (so called) while the regular train on the Central railway was passing over the said trestle.

We further say that the col-(3) lapse of said trestle was due to the trestle being allowed to pass into a bad state of decay, thereby rendering it of insufficient strength for the purposes for which it was used. TORY PROSPECTS The Liberal Montreal Witness Interviews Its Leaders.

(Montreal Witness, Monday.) There was a look of resolution in the eye of Mr. McCaskill, the president of the Sir John Macdonald Club. Henry Dalby, the conservative organizer, was unwontedly buoyant and merry. The throw off that saturnine air which has ex-finance minister, after being closeted with the Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, skipped about like a young man. Mr. Quinn is a little ponderous, but Mr. Quinn was elastic, and young, and joyous. Indeed, the faithful were in a state of much elation to-day.

The leaders were in their midst, confident of victory. Sir Charles, looking well and strong, brought back from the east the most glowing reports. The Hon. 'Hugh John' was perfectly certain that not a seat west of Lake Superior could be secured by the lib erals.

The Windsor Hotel was the Mecca of conservative desire to-day. The hireling was there, and he who wanted to make a little 'on the side;' the conscientious conservative, who desired the triumph of his principles, paid his respects to Sir Charles; the stream of visitors was constant.

Hugh Graham was closeted early with the conservative leader. Mr. Dalby, no doubt, discussed the plan of campaign.

Sir Adolphe Caron dropped in without ceremony; Mr. McCaskill is the bosom friend of Sir Charles, and is. taken into the secret councils of the a name to conjure with. This was felt by Sir Charles Tupper, who pressed the Premier of Manitoba to come to his side in the great fight which is now about to commence all over the country. The son of the great conservative chieftain does not possess the love for politics which marked Sir John Macdonald, but he has many of his father's qualities. He is tactful, considerate and persuasive to a degree. He has all the geniality of his father, and not a little of his magnetism.

'Hugh John will be a tower of strength,' said Mr. Dalby to-day, 'in the coming fight. He has not merely a great name, but he has the lineaments of his great father. These will have their effect all over the country. and especially in this province, where Sir John is remembered with so much love and respect.' As to the prospects Mr. Dalby spoke in the most confident manner of the result. When he first took hold of the work of organizing it was pretty generally felt that little could be expected at this election, and that the only thing to do would be to take a beating like a gentleman. All this was changed, and the tone was one of settled conviction that the country well be carried by the conservations splendid majority. This was his own conviction after a careful study of the whole field, including Quebec, which would give a surprise to the iberal party. Mr. Macdonald was closeted for a long time this forenoon with the Hon George E. Foster. Many were the callers, but all were denied while the palaver lasted.

'HUGH JOHN'S' OPINION.

In conversation with a Witness representative, Mr. Macdonald rapidly glanced at the situation. "You thought the whole thing out, Mr. Macdonald, before you took the step of relinquishing the premiership of Manitoba? "Yes: I certainly went over the ground pretty well." "Did you size up the situation to your satisfaction?"

"Of course I cannot speak for the east, but I know the west pretty well, and I am confident that the liberals cannot carry a single seat west of Lake Superior."

RISK OF PLOUGHING IN SHELLS.

The story of a young farmer in a disaffected district of South Africa, who recently ploughed up a parcel of Mauser rifles, ammunition and provisions, is very well, but it is to be hoped that his ploughshare does not happen one day to strike the percussion end of a "live" shell. A great surprise once fell upon a settler of the Waikato, the scene of our fiercest Maori war, in the sixties. He was leisurely ploughing his field one day, thinkng of nothing in particular, when suddenly there came an unearthly bang that "knocked him silly," according to his own account at the time. When he came to, he saw pieces of the plough scattered about with here and there a horse's leg or head, and he was only thankful that he had escaped with a whole skin himself. He sold the farm cheap to the first "new chum" who passed that way on the look out for land.-London Daily Chronicle.

JAMES ROSS

An Old Resident of St. Martins is Hale and Hearty at 110 Years of Age.

The Sun presents to its readers today a picture of James Ross, of St. Martins, who in June celebrated his 110th birthday, and is still in good health. Mr. Ross lives at St. Martins, about a mile and a half east of the harbor. The photo from which this picture was reproduced was taken by J. R. McLean, at Hampton, Kings Co.,

James Ross was born on June 18th, 1790, at Port Maholmack, parish of Farbeach, Ross-shire, Scotland. When younger he was a blue-jacket in Her Majesty's navy, and was in the service at the time of the battle of Waterloo. After leaving the navy he came to St. John and drifted up-shore to Quaco, where he has since lived. He family. coming to the exhibition this fail, but could not persuade himsen to risk his life on a railway train. He has never yet taken a ride in the cars. Mr. Ross has always used tobacco, and enjoys a drop of whiskey, though he never was what is styled "a drinking man." He is a man of medium size, and was always of exceptionally tution, never having suffered any severe illness.

Four years ago the writer of this notice called on Mr. Ross at his residence, east of McComber's hill. The cottage where he was then living with his daughter was a long, low structure, built by the old man himself eighty years ago, when he had not reached middle age. The old Highlander was sitting at the window overlooking the bay. "I shall be one hundred and six years old on my next birthday," said the old man. He had no documentary proof of his age, but one thing strongly fixed in his mind was the fact that he was twenty-five years old when the battle of Waterloo was fought.

Mr. Ross was slightly hard of hearing, and his memory of events in recent history wavered. Speaking of his early days he said he used to walk from his home to the town of Tain and back in a day. Inverness town was twenty-five miles farther, and he sometimes walked thither. He described the appearance of the Bay of Cromarty, and told how the water shone, and of an old, old lighthouse not far away. He remembered deep fissures among the hills where the snow remained far into the summer, because the sun could not get at it.

Mr. Ross told a story that belonged to a town near his home. A man there was convicted and hanged for a murder. He denied his guilt, and said his innocence would be proved when he was dead by the coming of a flock of pigeons which would circle round his body. Sure enough the pigeons to-day for these books. They are the came. Then immediately there rose a great storm, with thunder and lightning, and all the people were terrified, and the judge said that never again would a man be hanged by his orders in that place. Mr. Ross voted in 1891. He was not well on election day in 1896, but when seen that autumn he said he hoped to be able to go to the polls at the next election. Mr. Ross spoke chiefly Gaelic when he came to this country. Now he speaks English from choice, but he has not forgotten his native tongue. On the visit mentioned, the writer induced him to talk a little Gaelic, and to sing a little melody in that charming language. The weird strain was apparently a devout hymn Mr. Ross translated, a reference to the devil in it. There is no total abstinence lesson in Mr. Ross's long life. He likes a drop of whiskey still, but he has always been moderate in his draughts. He has not found that tobacco interferes with his comfort, or cuts short his days, except that he finds the days long when he does not have his smoke. Some attempt to verify Mr. Ross's dates was made after this visit. Letters were written to the pastor of the church and to the postmaster of his native place. The answers were not conclusive. The clergyman said there was no parish register, and no official record of the birth or baptism of Mr. Ross. He had no doubt that the man

SUNDAY STREET CARS, Magistrate Ritchie Decides They Ard Not Breaking the Law.

Magistrate Ritchie decided yesterday norning that Sunday street cars are allowable under the law. Robert Godfrey, a motorman, was reported for operating a street car on the Sabbath, conveying passengers therein. He appeared in court and was defended by H. H. McLean, Q. C.

Mr. McLean took the point that under Section 1 of the Sunday Observance act to prevent conveying travellers or Her Majesty's mails on Sunday was excepted. He heid that persons riding in the electric cars were travellers and not excursionists, as provided by Sec. was a farmer and lumberman, and 5 of the act. The point was made that made a snug home for himself and travellers were persons going long distances A "Sabbath day's journey" was a short distance.

The magistrate was amused at this argument, and asked how far it really was. Clerk Henderson and Dr. Quigley were referred to, but neither one seemed to know. So Clerk Henderson ooked the matter up and found "a Sabbath day's journey" to be 2,000 paces or about three cuarters of a mile. In giving judgment His Honor dismissed the case, holding that street car passengers were travellers within the meaning of the act, and therefore conveyance of them exempt. His Honor devoted some censuring remarks as to the manner in which the Sunday, observance law is being enforced.

They pierce me through and through. They tell me I must die forever. They will push me out into the darkness unless thou wilt help me, I confess it all ghastly thing it is to reject Christ. Hear the cry of the dying thief. 'Lord, Behold in that awful face, in that piti- remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.' I ask no great things. I seek for no throne in heaven, no chariot to take me to the skies, but just think of me when this day's horrors have passed. Think of me a little-of me, the one now hanging at thy side, when the shout of heavenly welcome takes thee back into thy glory. Thou wilt not forget me, wilt thou? 'Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.' Only just remember

> Likewise must we repeat. You say, "I have stolen nothing." I reply, "We have all been guilty of the manifest felony of the universe, for we have robbed God-robbed him of our time, robbed him of our talent, robbed him of our services." Suppose you send a man out as an agent of your firm, and every month you pay him his salary, and at the end of ten years you find out that he has been serving another firm, but taking your salary, would you not at once condemn him as dishonest? God sent us into this world to serve him. He has given us wages all the time. Yet how many of us have been serving another master! When a man is convicted of treason, he is brought out; a regiment surrounds him, and the command is given: "Attention. company! Take aim! Fire!" And the man falls with a hundred bullets through his heart. There comes a time in a man's history when the Lord calls up the troops of his iniquities, and at concentrated volley of torture. CONDITION OF UNPARDONED.

God's command they your into him a

You say, "I don't feel myself to be a sinner." That may be. Walk along by the cliffs, and you see sunlight and take a torch and go in, and before you but as they struck him our race serpent. So the heart seems in the souls may live. I showed you the o'clock. Rev. F. D. Davidson officiatfor the bristling horrors and the rat- hand cross that you raight see what tling fangs! Have you ever noticed the it is to repent. Now I show you the climax of this passage of scripture: middle cross that you may see what "The heart is deceitful." That seems enough. But the passage goes on and

Will you not say that is enough? But the passage goes on fur-ther and says, "The heart is deceifful above all things and desperately wick-ed." If we could see the true condition of the unpardoned before God what wringing of hands there would What a thousand voiced shriek of suplication and despair! But you are sinner, a sinner. All the transgres sions of a lifetime have been gathered un into an avalanche. At any moment it may slip from the cliffs and crush you forever. May the Lord Almighty by his grace help us to repent of our sins while repentance is possible. This left hand cross was a believing cross. There was no guesswork in that prayer, no "if" in that supplication. The left hand cross flung itself at the foot of the middle cross, expecting mercy. Faith is only just opening the hand to take what Christ offers us. The work is all done; the bridge is built strong enough for us all to walk over. Tap not at the door of God's mercy with the tip of your fingers, but as a warrior with gauntleted fists beats at the castle gate. So with all the aroused energies of our souls let us pound at the gate of heaven. That gate is locked. You go to it with a bunch of keys. You try philosophy. That will not open it. A large door generally has a ponderous key. I take the cross and place the foot of it in the lock, and by the two arms of the cross I turn the lock, and the door

This left hand cross was a pardoned cross. The crosses were only two or three yards apart. It did not take long for Christ to hear. Christ might have turned away and said: darest thou speak to me? I am the Lord of heaven and earth. I have seen your violence. When you struck down that man in the darkness, I saw you. You are getting a just reward. Die in the darkness-die forever." But Jesus said not so, but rather, "This day thou shalt be with me in paradise," as much as to say: "I see you there. Do not worry. I will not only bear my cross, but help you with yours.

Forthwith, the left hand cross becomes the abode of contentment. The pillow of the malefactor, soaked in blood, becomes like the crimson upholstery of a king's couch. When the body became still and the surgeons feeling the pulse said one to another, "He is dead," the last mark of pain had gone from his face. Peace had smothered his forenead. Peace closed his eyes. Peace closed his lips. Now you see where there were two transverse pieces on the cross, for it has become a ladder into the skies. That dying head is easy which has under it the promise, "This day thou shalt be with me in paradise." Ye whose lips have been filled with blasphemy, ye whose hands for many years have wrought unrighteousness, ye who have companioned with the unclean, ye who have scaled every height of transgression and fathomed every depth and passed every extreme of iniquity -mercy, mercy!

The dying thief rejoiced to see That fountain in his day, And there may I, though vile as he Wash all my sins away.

THE FACE OF THE SAVIOUR. I have shown you the right hand cross and the left hand cross; now come to the middle cross. We stood at the one and found it yielded poison; we stood at the other and found it vielded hitter aloes. Come now to the middle cross and shake down apples of love. Uncover your head. You never saw so tender a scene as this. You may have seen father or mother or companion or child die, but never so affecting a scene as this. The railonly the right side of Christ's face, the But today, in the full blaze of gospel the "balm of Gilead." We are dead; ty portions, of the body, the torture went through the hands and feet and temples, the most sensitive portions. It was not only the spear that went into his side, but the sins of all the race—a thousand spears—plunge after plunge, deeper and deeper, until the silence and composure that before characterized him gave way to a groan through which rumbled the sorrows of time and the woes of eternity. Human hate had done its worst, and hell had buried its sharpest javelin, and devils had vented their hottest rage when, with every nerve of the body in round the heavens cry, "Glory! Glory! torture and every fibre of his heart in my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" It was a vicarious cross. The right hand cross suffered for itself, the left hand cross for itself, but the middle cross for you. When a king was dying, a young man cried, "Pour my blood into his veins, that he die not." The veins of the youg man were tapped and the blood transferred, so that the king lived, but the young man died. Christ saw the race perishing. He cried, "Pour my blood into their veins, that they die not." My hand crushed; my brow is painless now be-I gain heaven because Christ for me endured the horrors of hell. When the Swiss were many years ago saw these enemies arrayed in solid Arnold von Winkelried, rushed out in front of his regiment and shouted. "Make way for liberty:" The weapons of the enemy were plunged into his heart, but while they were slaying him of course their ranks were broken, and through that gap in the ranks the Swiss dashed to victory. Christ saw men. He cried out, "Make way for the redemption of the world!" All the flowers at the mouth of the cave, but weapons of infernal wrath struck him.

> To this middle cross look, that your might see what an awful thing it is to Christ has done to save your soul. Poets have sung its praise, sculptors

REMARKABLE ABILITY OF AUS-TRIA'S EMPEROR.

The foreign and home policy of Austria depends solely upon Emperor Francis Joseph, and not, as some think. on his advisers. The Emperor has left on everybody he came in contact with the impression that he is fully able to cope with all affairs of state. His learning is amazing, and must be, because he has to grapple with more divergent questions than any other living monarch. His memory is as remarkable as his endurance of work. He is always going to the very root of things, and his ministers are frequently surprised by the astounding knowledge he displays. What a task he has before him! His empire is not only exposed to all the troubles of constantly menacing international complications, but he is also ruler of nations and countries that are only too frequently at loggerheads with each other.-Dr. Friedjung, in Fackel, Vi-
