HOME RULE QUESTION UP IN BRITISH HOUSE

Irish Motion Carried by Large Majority in Modified Form

Resolution Adopted That Dublin Parliament Deal With Purely Local Affairs Subject to Imperial Approval--Change Doesn't Suit Nationalists--Mandate of People Necessary First.

London, March 30--The House of Commons today, after a lengthy debate on the question of home rule for Ireland, adopted by a vote of 213 to 157, a resolution moved by John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, that "in the opinion of this house, a solution of this problem can only be attained by giving the Irish people legislative and executive control of all purely Irish affairs," after it had been amended by adding the words, "all subject to the supreme authority of the Imperial parliament."

It was known beforehand that the debate could have but an academic interest, because the government already had pledged that there would be no deal in the matter of home rule until it had been given a mandate at the general election. But the debate was made notable through the strong declaration of Chancellor Asquith, which was all the weightier because made at the moment Mr. Asquith was actually assuming the premiership.

Mr. Balfour, in a brief speech, had accused his opponents of speaking with two meanings, a Radical meaning and a Nationalist meaning. He asked how it was conceivable possible to carry out great Irish reforms with British money, except by a British parliament and ironically challenged Mr. Asquith to clear up this ambiguity.

Amid ironical Unionist laughter, Mr. Asquith rose and said that never in his life had he felt less embarrassed. For more than twenty years he himself and his colleagues had steadily and consistently advocated self-government for Ireland's purely local affairs. He held that opinion now as strongly as ever. He could not, however, support Mr. Redmond's motion in its present form, because he found it to be an explicit recognition of Imperial supremacy and, further, because no such measure would be justified if the matter first had been submitted to the electorate. It would be gross and inexcusable violation of their promises to do so in the lifetime of the present parliament. As far as the present parliament was concerned, he said, they had exhausted their powers in regard to the problem of Irish government in the Irish council's bill last year.

Timothy Healy closed the debate, declaring that Mr. Asquith was mistaken in his supposed belief that he would commend himself to the Irish nation by his speech. Earl Percy, on behalf of the Unionists, moved an amendment declaring the House to be unalterably opposed to the creation of an Irish parliament with a responsible executive, but the amendment was rejected.

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, put the home rule issue in uncompromising fashion. He declared that an overwhelming majority of this present house of commons always had professed their belief that the concession of home rule was the only solution of the Irish problem and that every member of the present government at one time or another, had given public pledges to this same effect. He now proposed to put them on record and free the hands of the Liberal party and the government at the next elections so as to make sure that there would be no repetition of the gratuitous pledges made by so many of the members at the last election not to introduce home rule during the life of the present parliament.

The only argument remaining against home rule, Mr. Raymond continued, was an argument of fear. It is said, he declared, that Ireland is disloyal, so was Canada in 1837 and so was General Botha until the Transvaal was given self-government.

Mr. Redmond, in conclusion, asked the house to give Ireland that which had been given the Frenchmen of Quebec and the Dutchmen of the Transvaal and thus close the blackest chapter in the history of the empire.

Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell came out squarely in support of home rule and declared there was not a man in the house of commons but knew that sooner or later there would be very substantial modification in the relations between Great Britain and Ireland. The imperial parliament, he said, had not time to attend to the needs of Ireland; there were scores of vital measures requiring immediate and constant attention unless they were going to allow "something like hell" to prevail in Ireland. If the Nationalists should bring their proposals clearly before the people at the next general elections, Mr. Birrell said he believed the English electorate would rally to their help in solving the problem.

DIPLOMATIC SCANDAL LIKELY TO COST AMBASSADOR TOWER HIS HEAD

MRS. DAVID J. HILL and MRS. CHARLEMAGNE TOWER

Washington, March 29--No settlement of the puzzle about Germany's attitude toward Dr. David Jayne Hill is believed possible for several days. The White House today specifically denied a Berlin story to the effect that Emperor William wrote the President a personal letter explaining his objections to Dr. Hill, and later, after publicity had been given the affair, called the President the contents of the letter. The White House statement said: "We know nothing here of the Emperor having written the president a letter and we believe that such a letter has been written by the emperor for the reason that if he had done so nobody would know it except himself. No statement would have been given out about such a letter in advance of its receipt by the president, and then it would be for the president to take the next step."

The belief in the highest circles here is that although probably the event will prove that there is no objection on the part of Germany to receiving Dr. Hill, the usefulness of the latter is likely to be so much impaired that it will become impossible to send him there. The people who will decide the course of the United States in the matter are convinced that some social cabal is responsible for the trouble. There is, indeed, possibility of this assuming a most embarrassing phase. It is pointed out that Berlin is a city of nouveau riches, of persons climbing socially, and willing to pay the price.

Philadelphia people familiar with the Tower affairs have declared that the Ambassador has spent between $600,000 and $1,000,000 a single year since he has been in Germany. He is very strong with Berlin society, and Berlin society is a marvelous hodge-podge of ancient aristocracy and new rich democracy, struggling up the social ladder. Tower's continuance in the embassy seems to have been desired by these elements, and that some of them should have replaced by Dr. Hill.

LAURIER OPPOSED TO PROPOSED REFORMS

Declares Against Purchasing Board for Government Supplies

Admits a Change is Necessary, But Says When a Minister is Responsible for Expenditures He Must Have Control--Foster Shows How It Costs Four Times More for Keep of Men on Cruisers Than Soldiers.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Ottawa, March 30--This was private members day in the House.

Mr. Taylor was told that 8,716 Ross rifles were now in the hands of the Canadian militia.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, answering a question, said that twelve warships passed through the St. Lawrence during the past ten years. There were four passed out and eight in. These ships were used for training the navy militia.

Mr. Fisher said that fifty-three claims, amounting to $238,000, were made against the department for alleged damages or losses in connection with shipments of hay to South Africa during the war.

Replying to Mr. Hughes, Mr. Brodeur said that tenders were received for the construction of an ice-breaking steamer and they were now under consideration of the government.

To Dr. Daniel, Sir Wilfrid said that only one tender had been received for leasing the car and workshops at Moncton. No action had been taken yet.

Foster Wants Purchasing Commission. Mr. Foster moved that all supplies purchased for departments should be on the basis of public tender and contract, under direction of a competent purchasing commission and with regard to quality and price.

Mr. Foster, in discussing the question from a non-political point of view, said that the service lagged behind and not up-to-date. What was a successful system and method twenty-five years ago was not sufficient to cope with the extended business of the present time. He realized that as soon as modern business methods were to be applied all the old time objections were raised. Those high in authority talked of keeping up their position in a dignified way. He had no sympathy with those who thought that a lavish expenditure of money was necessary to keep up their positions.

In his opinion men high in authority should set an example by plain Canadian living for the great Canadian people.

Modern methods should be adopted for buying supplies. The old system of tender and contract does exist to a certain extent but as far as supplies go it was almost a dead letter. The militia camp supplies, the penitentiary supplies and the mounted police supplies were to a certain extent given out by tender. In some cases there was the spurious system of sending out notices to friends for tenders which was better than none. Then there were middlemen and the patronage list. Again there was the personal buying. Prices fell and just became a meaningless phrase when attached to a certificate for these purchases.

Mr. Foster pointed out that it cost fifty cents per man a day for the food supplies of the military college and only twenty-one and a half cents a day for the

JAPAN WILL STOP STEALING OF FOREIGN TRADE MARKS

Tokio, March 30--The Japanese government is now fully alive to the urgent necessity of remedying the abuses which at present flourish in connection with the piracy and purely speculative registration of patents and trademarks and conventions between Japan and the United States, and Japan and Great Britain covering patents and trademarks are to be signed shortly. These, it is hoped will do much to remedy a situation that has resulted in undoubted injustice to foreign manufacturers, whose labels have been imitated in this country for the purpose of finding a market for an inferior quality of goods.

It is the custom of Japanese merchants to place on the market, let us say, a bottle of home-made Scotch whisky in bottles bearing a label almost exactly similar to those used by a well known distilling firm with an established reputation. The Japanese label will differ from the label on the Scotch firm in some inconspicuous particulars, discernible only through close comparison. So far as the ignorant Japanese, ignorant of English is concerned, this difference would not excite suspicion and the native consumer purchases the Japanese imitation in the belief that he is getting the imported article.

The matter has been taken to the Japanese courts, but with little or no satisfaction or justice to the aggrieved foreigners. Other commodities which seem to be the natural prey of the trademark pirate are table sauces, toilet articles, stationery, cigarettes, etc.

One point which cannot be too strongly impressed upon American commercial men is that under Japanese law, priority of registration of a trademark is everything. In other words, any Japanese can imitate any foreign or Japanese trademark in the world, and the patent office will not refuse him registration so long as the forged trademark is not already registered in Japan. The natural result of this provision is that many Japanese find it profitable to register foreign trademarks on their own account on the chance of being able to sometime or other secure money for the surrender of this prior right. Nor can it be doubted that the Chinese markets more particularly, are flooded with Japanese imitations of foreign products, these imitations bearing other frankly pirated trademarks or others legally registered under the conditions above described, and therefore immune from attack.

The Japanese authorities, however, are beginning to realize that the present trademark law is defective and that not only foreign but also many Japanese merchants are sufferers from the lax morality which prevails in certain quarters. With reference, for example, to the grand exhibition of 1912, preparations for which are now under way, it was early felt that any suspicion of danger to the patent and trademark rights of foreign exhibitors would prove fatal to the prospects of the undertaking. A bill providing for the efficient protection of all foreign exhibits has already passed the Diet, and the good faith of the government in promoting this measure cannot be doubted. It is also expected that an early effort would be made to amend the existing patent and trademark law with a view to bringing it into line with English and American

HOT ROAST FOR MR. ROOSEVELT BY A HUMORIST FROM TEXAS

Washington, March 30--More shafts of sarcasm and invective were aimed at President Roosevelt in the House of Representatives today. In one of the most scathing arraignments of a public officer ever heard in that chamber, Mr. Jack Beall of Texas, charged the President with having been guilty of "a disgusting usurpation of power" not only from the national legislature, but the judiciary as well. Congress, he said, abdicated for him and the judiciary of the country felt the effect of his influence. God and the future alone knew, he declared, just what niche he was to occupy in the temple of his country. Mr. Beall wound up his references to President Roosevelt in this fashion: "He is the wielder of the 'Big Stick.' When he gets into action, his enemies are in danger and his friends in peril. He is ambidextrous. He wields the sword and the pen, creating equal havoc with both. He is facile in his affections. In the White House code book of 1904 his name was: 'Donation;' in 1908 it was 'Damnation.' He is both a hygienic buster and a trust-buster, the difference being that when he breaks a bronco he blindsfolds the horse, and when he starts to bust a trust he blindsfolds himself. He is a nature student. He has counted the stripes upon the mountain lion, but he has never seen the stripes upon one of the trust magnates. He is a great hunter. He can draw the finest bead upon a 'scobcat,' but can't get a good sight on the Constitution. He is progressive. For years he chased the bears alone; now he chases both 'bills' and 'bears.' He is cunning. He took 'In God We Trust' off the coins and then confided $200,000,000 of them to the bankers of New York. He is a contradiction. He declaims against race suicide, but insists on keeping the duty on salety pins and baby bugles. He cultivates the artistic. He 'white-

FREDERICTON BOARD OF TRADE WANTS ST. JOHN RIVER DREDGED

Fredericton, N. B., March 30--The council of the board of trade held a meeting this evening and discussed several matters of importance. Attention was called to the fact that the arbitrary freight rate against Fredericton is still in force and Secretary Winslow was requested to correspond with the Railway Commission and ask that the matter be investigated. There was also a discussion in regard to having the river dredged so as to provide a fourteen foot channel between St. John and Fredericton, and the secretary was instructed to correspond with the minister of public works on the subject. In regard to lighting the highway bridge over which there has been a strong agitation on foot, it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the city council.

LIBERALS REVOLT
AGAINST BRODEUR

HON. L. P. BRODEUR, MINISTER OF MARINE AND FISHERIES

Ottawa, March 27.—The Ottawa Free Press, the local Liberal organ, says: "There is a rumor in well informed political circles this afternoon which receives added strength from the gossip current concerning this morning's Liberal caucus to the effect that Hon. L. P. Brodeur will be long tender his resignation as minister of marine and fisheries."

"The government will probably appoint a royal commission to investigate the charges made against the department by the civil service commission and such commission will commence its enquiries as soon as possible."

"Rumor says that if Mr. Brodeur resigns he will go to the supreme court bench to replace Justice Girouard, who is now absent on leave of absence. Should Mr. Brodeur go out he will probably be succeeded as minister of marine and fisheries by Hon. Gervais, M. P. for St. James division of Montreal. It is also said there are strong probabilities of Mr. Beauce entering the ministry without portfolio."

"The following in the Liberal government organ here tonight is very significant: 'A Liberal caucus was held this morning with P. H. MacKenzie of Bruce in the chair. There was a long discussion over the political situation and the outlook. It is stated that several members expressed themselves freely as to the folly of federal ministers interfering in provincial politics and that some pointed remarks were made to the recent campaign in New Brunswick and to the share therein of Dr. Pugsley.'"

"There were, it is said, one or two allusions to the report of the civil service commission and those who spoke urged upon the government the necessity of once taking action to investigate the marine and militia departments, in order that the truth may be made known. If the conditions are anything like those described by the commissioners the Liberal party as a whole will insist that there shall be a thorough cleansing of the office responsible, no matter how high placed they may be."

"The French treaty was read a third time in the senate and passed today. Dr. Daniel will ask on Monday, if tenders have been called for leasing the car and workshops at Moncton, and if so he wishes to get all the particulars in connection therewith."

"The doctor will also ask as to how many claims against the Intercolonial railway for damages to property or personal injury were settled on January 1, 1908, and how many since; and how many claims have been taken into employment of the I. C. R. during February."

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—From the designs of Henry J. Gieslow, of New York, the Lawleys, of South Boston, have laid down the lines and are beginning the construction of a steel power yacht for a well known Eastern yachtsman and member of the New York Yacht Club. This vessel will be an important addition to the motor boat fleet, inasmuch as she is the largest of her type and has been designed not only for use on Long Island Sound and Eastern waters, but is intended for cruising in the West Indies during the winter. The principal dimensions of this craft are as follows:—Length over all, 110 feet; length on load water line, 103 feet, 5 inches; beam, moulded, 17 feet, six inches, and draught 6 feet. Her lines are fair and easy, running in an unbroken sweep from stem to stern. There are no hollows anywhere. In fact, the model shows power and seagoing qualities throughout. Her sheer is graceful and artistic.

DEADLY MACHINE GUN
Nine Shots a Second from Max-Im Device--Cost of Raising the Maine.

Washington, March 28.—Maxim's latest invention is a machine gun so powerful that from its small muzzle bursts a hail-storm of 800 bullets every fifteen minutes, and so small and delicate that it can be easily carried on the backs of three soldiers. The power of 300 men armed with 100 of these machines can hardly be estimated. The machine is described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics for April. It is of wonderful design and lightness. The three soldiers to whom it is appertained are provided with a special harness of leather straps and pads for the joints. The first soldier carries the barrel and chamber, the second the tripod or stand, and the third the ammunition case, containing bands of cartridges. A few moments suffice to put the parts together. By the pressure of a lever the firing commences and either gas or steam bullets are discharged at a speed of between 500 and 600 shots a minute.

BRIDGE PARTIES, MUSICALES AND DANCES

Arrangements are nearly completed for the Seamen's Mission fair, to be held in the Keith's assembly rooms on Wednesday and Thursday next week. More than 100 ladies have been engaged all winter preparing for this great event which promises to be the most successful of its kind ever held in the city. Lady Tilley as its organizer has worked incessantly to accomplish this end.

Besides the numerous booths where beautiful hand made work will be for sale, tables set apart for candy and paper confections will occupy the centre of the hall. An ice cream room with numerous waitresses in attendance will be a strong feature. Demonstrations in domestic science will be given under the supervision of six Guelph graduates, who will have charge of a little kitchen and who will serve tea, coffee, and waffles during the afternoon. An object of great interest will be the seamen's table furnished by the contributions of sailors from many ports.

Another charming feature of the bazaar will be the fancy work table, presided over by young girls, aged from twelve to sixteen years, dressed in white and blue sailor suits. The art table will no doubt come in for a large share of attention. Between 600 and 700 tickets have been disposed of for the banquet, during which from 6 to 7 o'clock an orchestra will dispense sweet music. It is expected that the captains and officers of the large steamers in port, will be present. At together Keith's assembly rooms will present a brilliant panorama on the first and second days of April.

A very delightful affair was the tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. R. Kellie Jones at Caverhill Hall, when the prizes won in the curling matches in St. Andrew's rink were presented. RESHIPPING MEAT
TO AMERICA

London Dealers Sending Bacon Canned Goods Owing to Scarcity in United States.

London, March 28.—Two million pounds of American tinned meat have been shipped from London to New York during the last few weeks on account of the scarcity of fresh meat in America. Speaking of this curious commercial transaction, the London representative of a Chicago packing house said: "This re-shipment of American canned meats is an outgrowth of the financial disturbances in the United States last fall. Farmers, being unable to borrow money, rushed their cattle to market instead of stall-feeding them, and the result was an extraordinarily large consumption of supply available for the spring and summer months. In this way a situation has arisen that is for the financial benefit of the people in London holding large stores of American canned meats. Even with freight charges to meet both ways across the Atlantic we have been able to sell and reship our goods to America at prices six per cent higher than we could obtain here. London today is the cheapest meat market in the world."

C. P. R. Station Destroyed by Lightning.

Toronto, March 28.—(Spe 111)—The C. P. R. station at Weston was struck by lightning and burned to the ground Saturday.

The ice in the Kennebecasis and in the vicinity of Be's Head has broken up and several gasperaux fishermen may lose their nets in consequence.

IMPORTANT FOR MEN

If you suffer from any secret weakness, you can be easily and quickly cured, if you will write in confidence to Dr. G. H. Roberts, 664 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich.

You will receive by return of mail, in plain sealed envelope, important information that will with certainty lead to a positive cure.

This will Keep the Boy on the Farm

It Will Give Him a Real Start in Life
You Needn't Hurry in Paying For It

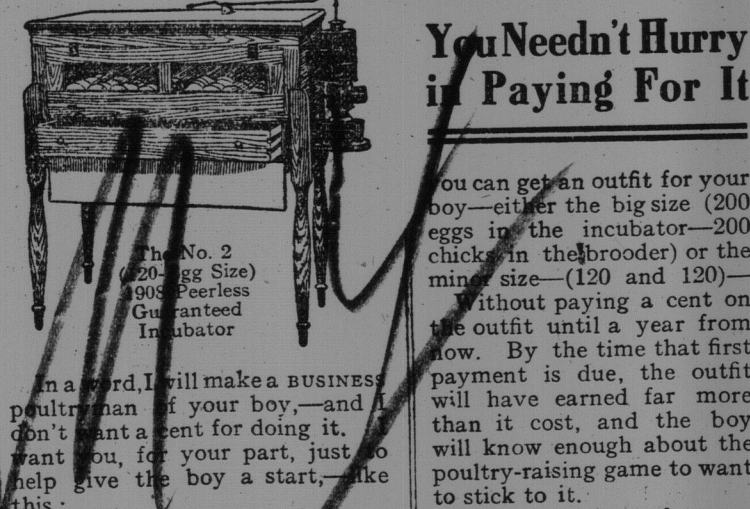

QUIT worrying about how you're going to give the boy a better chance in life than his father had. Let us wonder how you're going to manage to give him a start. Fix it so he can make his own start—and have fun doing it. He'll stay on the farm if you go at it right away.

Any normal, healthy boy likes to "fool round" with live things—chickens for instance. Make him work at it, and he'll tire of it quick. But give him a little business of his own—set him to raising chickens on his own hook—and he won't let up till he makes a success of it.

I can arrange the whole thing for you—teach your boy how to succeed at poultry-raising for profit—show him where to save work and worry doing it—stand right back of him and coach him along—and find him a good, quick-cash buyer who will pay the highest prices for all the poultry he raises or the eggs he can sell.

Then I will tell you just how to do it.

The Responsibility
Very often after some public calamity, some terrible and wholly unexpected tragedy, people are heard saying: "Well, at least it teaches a lesson which will be taken to heart."

Japan in Real Trouble
The Japanese are facing problems greater in their way than the talking of Port Arthur. An illuminating review of the situation is the following from the well-informed New York Evening Post:

The Anarchist
The people of the United States learned long since that freedom has responsibilities and penalties. When the doors of that country were opened to the poor and the oppressed of all nations they were also open to the criminals of those nations.

The Wolves of Society
All over this continent there is heard today denunciation of the madmen who preach the creed of hatred and murder we call anarchy. From time to time some monstrous utterance or crime leads to talk about the necessity for protecting society from these insane criminals.

Note and Comment
Before Mr. Sifton made his speech on patronage and civil service reform he probably had an intimation that the civil service report would be a "scorching" one.

Responsibility for Bribery
Speaking of one unusual feature of the recent elections in this province a Toronto journal says: It has been said again and again that the responsibility for electoral corruption rests heavily upon the careless or indifferent citizen.

The Hazen Government
Speaking of Premier Hazen and the change of government in this province, the Montreal Gazette says editorially: "Effect has been given to the decision of the people of New Brunswick in the recent election. Mr. Hazen and his colleagues have been sworn in and have taken over the administration of the province's affairs."

business. The natural result was that, so far as Westmorland was concerned, the Provincial election was clean. There were two offenders summoned to court, but their alleged misdeeds were committed early in the campaign before the earnestness of the League had been made manifest.

The long and scathing report of the civil service commission is thus summarized by an Ottawa correspondent: Influence brought to bear upon every government department by influential politicians.

Wisdom is Killing Slowly, But Surely—A Glance Back Over Very Recent Years Shows Our Advance Against Him—What Has Been Accomplished Against Phthisis—The New Science of Prevention—The New Function of the Physician and the Whole Change in the Art of Medicine.

caption the conditions of human life, as well-nigh dictate the death-rate.
At present only one man in a hundred it is said, reaches the age of sixty-five. The man or woman who dies because, in general, "man is mortal," is scarcely to be observed. The lower animals die of starvation, or old age; we die of disease. But disease is capable of yielding to the human intelligence; it is yielding; and will yield more rapidly and signally as the years proceed to offer us the fruit of the tree of life which Pasteur planted. The value of a fine piece of work like that of Colonel Bruce and his helpers is only partly to be estimated by saying that, for instance, it saved at least a score of some 75,000 days of sickness among our forces in Malta alone last year. The real value—potential only, it is true and dependent upon us for realization of such work is or should be its educative value.
