Princess of Wales Had a Very Narraw Escape

From Meeting a Terrible Fate at the Shire Horse Show.

Crimes Act To Be Vigorously Enforced in Ireland-Amendment to New German Tariff Bill.

London, Feb. 27 .- The Princess of Wales had a very narrow escape at the Shire Horse Show today. The winning stallion, Hixton Tom, was being led down the ring as the royal party was but simply would endeavor to ascertain leaving the inclosure. The cheering scared the animal, which got almost beyond control of the groom. He made a dash for an exit, through which the prince and princess, with the other members of the royal party, were just about to pass. They appeared totally unaware of the danger until the shouts of warning from all parts of the building attracted their attention. Then the princess, who was nearest the animal, realized her danger and stopped short. The stallion rushed by her royal highness, missing her by a foot or two only.

It was only by the skill of the groom, who managed to pull the animal to one side as it dashed past the royal party, that a very serious and deplorable accident was averted GERMAN TARIFF CHANGES. The tariff committee of the reichstag adopted the compromise amendment to the new tariff bill, regarding the corn duties, in spite of strenuous opposition by the government members. The vote on the amendment was 14 ayes to

THE CHURCHES

Col. Sam Hughes Wants All Denominations Considered.

Fremier Comments Upon Difficulties of the Scheme—It Is Under Investigation.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Feb. 26.-Col. Sam Hughes diverted his attention from military affairs yesterday for sufficient time to move that the government amend the table of precedence, which defines the order in which the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church and Church of Tyne, during which Brown shot a England will be marshaled on such momentous occasions as the recent visit of the Prince of Wales. colonel would have the clergy of all churches listed upon the table so that the dissenting denominations will not be ignored.

The premier made an interesting statement upon this subject, and as he assured the member for Victoria that the government had appointed a sub-committee to consider the question, Col. Hughes withdrew his mo-He said that the governor-general was not a free agent in this matter, as the King accorded the degree of honor which should be accorded to those invited to participate in state ceremonies. He said he believed that the dissenting churches were them-selves to blame, as in former times they did not seek any such recognition as Col. Hughes was now asking for; but if now they wished to be recognized, they ought to be recognized. Even at present Canada had the advantage over Great Britain, as here two churches were recognized-not only one, as over there. He said that the task of framing a table of precedence which would give proper recognition to all churches was very difficult and was surrounded with serious intricacies. He pointed out a few of these difficulties-the question of precedence among the churches themselves, and then among their dignitaries. Presbyterians and Methodists elected officers who held office for short periods; and again, the Baptist Church had none at all. The premier said that the matter was now under investigation, but that it presented difficulties which were almost insurmountable. He asked members of various denominations to assist the sub-committee by their advice in finding a way to give precedence to those entitled to it.

Dr. Sproule and D. C. Fraser, M.P. Guysboro, N. S., who replied to a toast at St. Andrew's banquet in London a year ago, were of the opinion that it would be a much better thing to do to abolish the table of precedence altogether. Mr. Fraser expressed his surprise at the dissenting churches pro testing as they are at present, and thought their clergy should be more like the fishers of Galilee. Character. and character alone, ought to give precedence. His only objection was that "twenty-six entities got in ahead of the members of parliament, who, being the people's representatives, should be higher up."

Demise of Mr. David J. Saunders After an Illness of Seven Months

Duration.

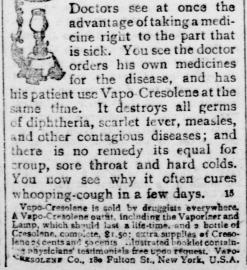

The death of Mr. David J. Saunders, which occurred at 4 a.m. today, after a long illness, will be a matter of sincere sorrow to the many friends who knew and esteemed him for his genfality and other good qualities. His illness, which proved fatal, dates from last July. Mr. Saunders was spending his holidays in Muskeka and Algoma, when, just seven months ago today, he fell ill with a complication of stomach and lung troubles. He was brought home to this city about five months ago, and at once there was a decided improvement in his condition, but he suffered a relapse, and gradually be-came weaker till the end came. During long iliness he displayed an admirable patience and cheerfulness under suffering, which enhanced the esteem in which he was held by his friends. David Saunders was born near Owen Sound 26 years ago. He came to London from Dutton about six years ago, and shortly afterwards was appointed secretary of the London Conservatory of Music, a position which he held till selzed last summer by the illness which proved fatal. Mr. Saunders was best known through his activity in musical He was at one time a mem-the 7th Regiment Band and was later a member of the Musical Society Band and of Pococke's orchestra. He was organist of the Bible class of the First Presbyterian Church, and at times officiated at the organs of various churches during the absence of the regular organists. Mr. Saunders was a member of the King Street Presbyterian Church. He was an en-thusiastic devotee of manly sports, and took great interest in baseball, hockey, lacrosse and other games.

THE PREMIER

To the Delegation of Prohibitionists

Who Asked Him to Make Radical Changes in His Bill.

The Date of Voting Will Be Changed, But the Bill Will Not Be Altered-London Delegates Wait on Mr. Whitney, Who Is Not Ready to Promise Anything.

Toronto, Feb. 27 .- The official deputation of prohibitionists who yesterday waited on Premier Ross to protest against the conditions of the referendum was composed as follows:

Rev. Dr. A. W. McKay, president; Rev. Dr. Carman; Dr. J. J. Maclaren, K.C.; Rev. Dr. Chown; Mrs. McKee, president of Provincial W. C. T. U.; Hitchcock, W. C. T. U.; N. W. Row-Ewan, Drayton; D. Graham, Inglewood; - O'Flynn, Belleville; Lawrence, Sarnia; E. E. Parrott, Chatham; J. W. Garvin, Peterboro; J. M. Walton, Kettleby; Rev. C. T. Scott, London; Rev. Dr. Goodspeed, Rev. Dr. Courtice, G. G. Mills, Rev. Dr. D. L. Brethour; Rev. Dr. Harriman, Lindsay; Ald. Deering, Ottawa; F. S. Spence and the presidents of the county organizations. [The remarks of Rev. Dr. McKay,

Mr. F. B. Spence, Mr. C. J. Miller, Mrs. Thornley and Rev. Dr. Carman, who spoke for the deputation, have already been given in these columns.]

The Premier's Reply.

Premier Ross referred to Dr. Mc-Kay's remark that the deputation could easily have been swelled to 2,000; that only some twenty were asked, but the other hundred had felt constrained to come, saying the deputation was not too large, and yet was large enough for all public and prac-

He had only time to glance over the report of the meeting of the convention, but he had no doubt that it was quite as enthusiastic as the deputation. When the government was approached on the question of prohibition they found themselves confronted by certain, conditions. The province had a good license law, while the country had declared itself upon the prohibition question, it had never raised its electorate voice regarding a partial prohibition. The government could not give a prohibitory bill, and the precedents in favor of a partial procould not be ignored.

WHAT WOULD THE END BE? The deputation had said that the referendum was unconstitutional, but he had consulted the highest authorities on that point and he was quite satisfied that it was absolutely constitutional. The whole question, then, to be settled was whether his course was the proper one. He thought it septics necessary to destroy and drive was. He proposed to trust the people. The next point was, what would the end be? They knew what it had been rhal disease. in the case of local option and the Scott act, and he reminded them that out of the sixteen states which had adopted prohibition eleven had afterwards repealed it. Would you, he asked, have prohibition carried on a basis on which it had invariably failed in the past? He did not think so. It would be

THE MADDEST MOVE, he continued, to abandon the license system for a law which would have to be repealed, if they were to udge from every instance in which prohibition had been carried on a bare majority. Turmoil and confusion would be the onsequence. The administration of the law, he assured them, was not so easy as it looked to those who were far removed from the duty. Human nature was very bad, and it was a most difficult thing to enforce the law. He and his colleagues, with full knowledge of this had cast about to find some basis which would give reasonable assurance of the enforcement of the law. He reminded them that some of the most influential religious journals, some of the foremost clergymen had taken his view of the matter, and were of the opinion that the act could not be enforced unless there was a substantial majority behind it. He put great faith, too, in the opinion of Sir Leonard Tilly, who, with an experience of prohibition in New Brunswick, had stated that such a law could not be enforced on less than a three-fifths majority. It seemed to him also that the vote which elected the government was a proper vote for this measure. He believed, indeed, that it would be fair to ask them to secure a majority of the names on the voters' lists, but on consideration they had decided that in view of the deaths, etc., it would be better to take a provincial vote.

THREE OUT OF EIGHT. He asked the deputation to follow him while he worked the problem out mathematically, and he showed them that on the basis decided on they were simply required to get three votes out of every eight on the lists to carry the measure. In other words, three men could force the other five to adopt prohibition. That was as far as they had gone, and that was as far as they would go. There was no use holding out the hope that he would agree to a bare majority. They must get the majority of the votes polled at the pro-vincial elections, and he did not think that they had a right to the measure on any other terms.

CORRUPT PRACTICES. He was asked what safeguards would be provided to prevent corrupt practices, and in answer he would say that they would be exactly the same as at the provincial elections. Regarding and the provincial elections. Regarding and digestive processes, thereby the statement that employes would be strengthening and invigorating the intimidated, he declared that he did not believe that the employers of the country were opposed to prohibition, but at any rate, under the law, there were two hours allowed in the middle of the day when workingmen could vote. Of course, the liquor men might watch the polls. That could not be prevented, but he seemed to think the fear exaggerated.

THE VOTING DAY. With regard to the day which had been fixed on for the vote, he said that

CAUSE OF READACHE

One Very Common Cause, Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indica-tion of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate, because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom; derangement of the stom-ach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain or illfitting glasses, all produce headaches, and if we could always locate the organ which is at fault the cure of cbstinate headaches would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes, and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate, catarrh is the most common cause of such headaches, and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the head-

There is at present no treatment for catarrh so convenient and effective as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new in-ternal remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like eucalyptol, gual-acol and blood root, which act upon the blood and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural causes.

Miss Cora Ainsley, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headaches and eulogizes Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered daily from severe frontal headache and pain in the back of the eyes, at times so intense." ly as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh, more or less, for years, but rever thought it was the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the case, because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure, and after using a few 50-cent boxes which I procured from my druggists, I was surprised ong that they and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for ice aforethought, since learning that it would interfere with the Methodist convention in Manitoba, he had concluded that it would be better to alter the date. Some suggested the municipal elections as a good day, others Thanksgiving Day. For himself he could not say what day would be chosen, but he could tell them that the day of the provincial elections would not be fixed on. He did not want, however, to handicap any class

Continuing, he said: "We will hold ourselves free to look over the question and the date, take into consideration the views you have presented to us, and see if after due consideration it would be wise to have it on municipal election day. I do not say that we have agreed to that day."

The premier, in closing, said he would like to see temperance men assert themselves a little more courageously than was often the case. The great failing of the Scott act was that temperance men who had asked for it had eft the task of enforcement largely to the officers. The enforcement of the Scott act in the counties which had adopted it had cost $78,000 in one year; the enforcement of this act now before them would cost probably $150,000 a year, and he urged that if it was to be enforced the temperance people must give all the aid in their power. Rev. Dr. McKay thanked the pre-

Other Business at Last Night's Meeting of Finance Committee-Firemen's Uniforms.

The most important business of last night's meeting of No. 3 committee was connected with the fire department, the most interesting item being the consideration of a petition from the city firemen, in which they contend that for the hours they work, and for the dangerous and arduous nature of their employment, they should receive an increase in wages. They asked for a raise of 15 cents per day. Mr. P. H. Bartlett appeared on behalt of the firemen, and pointed out that the men really deserved the increase. In Hamilton, he said, to cover a smaller acreage, they employed over double the number of men; and that the salary limit there, after a certain number of years, was never less than $700 per year, while here it was only $575. Every fireman had to live within reasonable distance of the hall, thereby increasing house rents.

critical last night. Mrs. Laechle is the wife of William Laechle, superintendent of tombstones at Rosehill Cemetery, and lives at 1,024 Farwell avenue. Mrs. Whittaker is the wife of James Whittaker, 1,028 Farwell avenue, who is a court stenographer. The homes of the two families are located in the center of the most fashionable part of Rogers Park, and their occasional differences were SLEEPLESSNESS.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is hed with gloom and dismal forebodings, are result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. The outbreak yesterday occurred when the children were at home for the noon recess. Clarence Laechle and Helen Whittaker both attend the Eugene Field school. They met on the sidewalk in front of their home. As Helen started up the walk to the house the Laechle boy, she says, hit her in the back with an icy snowball, inflicting a bad bruise. The girl ran into the house and told her mother. Mrs. Whittaker went out into the yard and spoke to the boy. After talking for some time the lad is said to have thrown a can at the house in which

LIVE STOCK SALE AT GUELPH. ther favored the annual provincial auction sale of pure-bred stock held at Guelph yesterday. The attendance was very large, 2,000 being present. The quality of the stock was all that could be desired. Some exceedingly fine specimens were sold, and bidding was very brisk. In 7½ hours 114 animals passed under the hammer. Values were well maintained. The highest price paid was $345 for a yearling bull. Among those present were many leading American and Canadian breeders, as well as a large number of members of the Local Legislature and others. Seventy-seven Shorthorn bulls sold for $7,405 and 32 females brought $3,335.

was shot and probably fatally wounded by her neighbor, Mrs. James Whittaker, of Rogers Park, early yesterday afternoon. The shooting was the culmination of a long-standing feud between the two families, and was precipitated by a quarrel between 15-yearold Clarence Laechle and 8-year-old Helen Whittaker. Further bloodshed was prevented by the police, who overpowered Wm. Laechle, husband of the wounded woman. He had armed himself with a rifle and was battering down the door of the Whittaker home when stopped by the police and disarmed. Clarence Laechle was flourishing a revolver and threatening to mother. The Montreal Gazette (Conservative) concedes that the victory achieved for the Liberals in Lisgar, Man. (with Mr. Sifton as the leading figure), is "very real." Yes, the majority is over 1,000, and there will be no protest.

Some of the Opposition newspapers are quoting Dr. Goldwin Smith as against the referendum of the liquor question to the people. The Opposition have never any use for Dr. Smith's opinions unless they can make a little political capital by quoting them.

The anti-prohibitionists profess to be really the most earnest advocates of the passage of a prohibitory measureuntil the provincial elections are over. Their professions are only mouth deep, as it were, and no true friend of temperance ought to be taken in by them.

The editor of the Hamilton Times has been lecturing on "What a Young Man Ought to Know." We have not the heads of his course, but judging by recent Hamilton experience there is one thing he ought to know-that gambling is a sure road to disaster and disgrace.

Ireland has not been gaining in population-too many of her sons and daughters have gone abroad to seek their fortunes to permit that-but the aggregate wealth of the island has greatly increased. In twenty years the amount of money in the joint stock banks of the country has increased from 29 to 43 millions of pounds, and in the same comparatively brief period the deresits in the savings banks-the banks of the wage earner and the small farmer-have increased from 31/2 to 10 million pounds. The old island may yet have much prosperity.

An event of immense political importance took place the other day, namely, the locking of horns in the Senate between the forces of the Government and of the Opposition. The fight took place over the composition of the committees, with the result that for the first time since the dawn of Confederation, the Liberals have had a majority in the Dominion Senate The three great partisan agencies of Sir John Macdonald were the Franthe Gerrymander. The first was repealed; the Senate has practically become Liberal; and the Gerrymander will be repealed next session. The repeal of the Gerrymander could not have been achieved without difficulty so long as the Senate retained a majority opposed to the Government. Indeed, all legislation was at the sufferance of the Senate. Poor Alexander Mackenzie had a hard time with the Second Chamber; and many a good measure of his was sent ruthlessly into that limbo "where all things are for-

Earl Kimberley, who has recently been critically ill, is best known in Canada as Colonial Secretary in the Gladstone Cabinet, from 1870 to 1874, during the period of the Pacific scandal, when the Conservative Government in Canada was driven from power because its leaders sold the charter of a great railway for an enormous sum of money, which was used for political and private purposes. As a strong friend and political ally of the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, he had the pleasure of nominating him as Governor-General of Canada-a choice which was happy from the imperial as well as from the Dominion point of view. Earl Kimberley became a colleague of Mr. Gladstone as early as 1852, and he has been much in the public eye as a safe and enlightened statesman ever since. From 1864 to 1866, he was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and though the times were turbulent he performed his duty in such a manner as to win respect from the Irish people as well as commendation from his chief, who advised his promotion to an earldom at the close of his term. For some years he has been Liberal leader in the House of Lords He is now in his 76th year.

Characteristic Misrepresentation of Judge Mills.

The Associated Press dispatches. which are always written to specially suit the tastes of the United States market, says that Hon. Mr. (Justice) Mills has written an article which has appeared in the March number of the Empire Review, which "bitterly assails President Roosevelt's and Senator Lodge's interpretation of Monroeism." From what we know of Mr. Justice Mills, we will venture to say that while the views of both may be discussed and dissented from in the article referred to, the opinions of meither the one nor the other have been "bitterly assailed." It is not the habit of Mr Mills to bitterly assail the views of anyone. But the present misrepresentation of Hon. Mr. Mills is but a characteristic method of meeting every argument that does not coincide with the aspirations of our neighbors. We trust that no Canadian will be subject of violent abuse.

Agricultural Progress.

The report of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, just issued, deals in an interesting manner with almost every phase of farming, stock raising and horticulture, especially with the commercial aspect of each. It is regretted that from their relatively isolated situation, farmers are at a disadvantage, compared with those engaged in manufacturing industries arising out of agriculture. Although the farmer has advanced, his progress has not been so marked as that of the miller, the cheesemaker, or the manufacturer of agricultural machinery, who benefit largely by co-operating with one another and interchanging ideas. Agriculturists as a class are quite as intelligent and receptive of new ideas as those engaged in other callings. The problem, then, seems to be how best to disseminate information so as to reach all the people in a helpful way. It should be remembered that the Minister of Agriculture is speaking for the whole Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A report covering conditions in this Province would indicate the great progress that has been made in the dissemination of agricultural knowledge by means of literature sent out by the Department in Ontario, and perhaps in a larger measure by Farmers' Institutes. The export trade of Canadian farm products is rapidly increasing. In 1896 our exports of the products of the farm amounted to a little over 35 millions; last year they were in the neighborhood of 60 million dollars in value. There has been an increase in every product scheduled. The greatest relative increase has been in flour. The value of Canadian flour exported in 1896 was $718,433; in 1901, it had increased to $4,015,226, nearly a sixfold increase. Our pork and bacon output has more than doubled in value during the past five years. The butter trade has increased in value from a little over one to over three million dollars. This latter is one indication of the strides made in the dairying industry, which is receiving greater attention from the farmers of Middlesex and surrounding counties each year. The Dominion Department of Agriculture has acted in the capacity of agent for the purchase of agricultural supplies for South Africa. The folowing quantities are reported to have een forwarded up to the end of October: Hay, 96,320 tons; flour, 38,285 bags; oats, 50,200 bags; beef, 40,772 cases; jams, 11,743 cases. The total expenditure of the Imperial War Office for the first costs of these products, including all incidental expenses, was $4,000,000. There are a number of contracts with the British Government which are to be filled by the end of he present month which will entail in additional expenditure by the Imperial War Office of $3,000,000. A chapter of the Minister's report is aken up with the subject of cold storage. Cold storage is intended as means of preserving commodities gainst direct loss. It extends the time during which such commodities may be marketed, giving the producer his own time for selling. During last year there were 24 steamers sailing between Montreal and British ports. They possessed collectively a cold storage capacity of 340,851 cubic feet. According to the self-registering thermometers with which these ships were provided, butter was carried in cold storage at a temperature ranging from 26 to 30.4 degrees. Refrigerator cars fully iced are run from fifteen starting points on the C. P. R., from sixteen points on the G. T. R. Cold storage warehouses have been provided in Montreal on a private business basis, but of sufficient capacity for the trade To encourage the providing of creameries with cold storage accommodation, the Government have offered a bonus of $50 per creamery, in which the owner keeps a refrigerator, according to certain specified plans.

The Scholar and Business. A Review in the Times Literary Supplement points out that in many cases the scholar could make money if he wished to do so, but he has a different ideal of life. The story told by Aristotle about Thales is quoted as an illustration. Thales, the philosopher, was reproached for his poverty, which was supposed to show that philosophy was no use, but having, by a skillful forecast, anticipated an abundant crop of olives, he used the little money he had to make "a corner," in olive presses, and "when the harvest time ame and many wanted them all at once of a sudden he let them out at any ate which he pleased, and made a quantity of money. Thus he showed he world that philosophers can easily be rich if they like, but their ambition is of another sort." This illustration from ancient times is quoted a propos of the life of the late Richard Copley Christie, a gentleman who was a favorite pupil of Mark Patti-Oxford, a professor at College, and a fine specimen of the "pure scholar"; a man, that is, who gave his real life to literature. This man who collected a fine library and gave it to the college, gave also of his own funds more than $100,000 to build a library for Owens College. Something of his business record may be gained from the statement that "He was chancellor of the diocese of Manchester in very critical times; his voice and counsel were among the most potent in the development of Owens College, and the foundation of Victoria University; he deterred from standing up for what was for many years chairman of the he believes to be the international great Whitworth Company, now amalrights of Canada, simply because he gamated with that of Armstrong, and may be misrepresented and made the Sir Joseph Whitworth in his sagacity and integrity that he left him one of baby. They have brought me a bundle the residuary legatees of his property, well knowing that it would be conscientiously and judiciously applied to the public purposes he had at heart." We can hardly suppose that such men are plentiful even in England, as this is a rare combination of the highest scholarship with the keenest business ability, but it is well to note such types, so that the tendency on the part of the mere man of business to despise the scholar as an idle, useless dreamer may be modified.

People Talked About.

Mr. D. A. Stewart, the man who scored so great a victory for the Liberals in Lisgar, Man., the other day, is but 50 years of age, though he has had wide experience as a Canadian educationist and pioneer Northwest farmer. He spent his early days in Lanark County, Ont., having come there from Scotland with his parents when he was a boy, and he taught the school at Balderson's Corners, having for a pupil, when a very young man, Mr. R. L. Richardson, his defeated opponent in the present campaign. Twenty years ago Mr. Stewart went to Manitoba, and took up a farm of virgin soil at Pilot Mound. He has farmed continuously since, but for some years he turned his special training to account as school inspector for Southern Manitoba, and he was also for a time a lecturer on agricultural subjects for the Provincial Government. Mr. Stewart is an extremely well-informed, practical farmer, and will no doubt do good service for the

Hon. William Templeman, who joins the Dominion Cabinet as Minister without portfolio, on the understanding that when opportunity offers, at no distant date, he shall become a full-fledged Minister, is a successful newspaper man. He began his career as a journalist in the town of Almonte, Ont., but in the early '80's was preailed upon to go to the Pacific Coast and enter the field as the publisher of Liberal journal—a faith in which he and been reared, and of which he has always been a striking exemplar. It was under no very promising auspices that Mr. Templeman began his career in the capital city of Victoria. At that time, and for years afterwards, the Conservatives had it all their own way n the political contests, not only in Victoria, but throughout the entire Province. His was a voice crying in set for Friday. the wilderness of political one-sidedness, but he cried not in vain, for he conducted a good newspaper. He was fair in argument and enterprising in newsgetting, and he built up a journa in which the public had confidence. He is yet not far beyond the half-century mark, and he has the satisfaction of eeing the provincial representation in the popular chamber, with one solitary exception, giving a general support to Liberal principles. What must have given him the greatest satisfaction vas to see, the other day, the city of his choice electing his friend, Mr. Riley, as its parliamentary representative-the first Liberal that ever that old-time Conservative constituency has ent to the Dominion House. Senator Templeman is one of the handsomest men in the Senate. He is a shrewd, kindly-hearted, able journalist, and he has well earned the distinction that has come to him. Very useful to the Province in the past, and unselfishly vorking to achieve her best interests with the aid of Liberal principles, he will now be able to give even more effective aid to the development of her great resources and the advancement of the interests of her people as a whole. There are islanders and their are mainlanders in British Columbia, and they sometimes pull at cross purooses, but from what we know Hon. William Templeman has not a sectional bone in his body, and he can be relied on to do his best for his adopted Province as well as for the whole of the

FROM MISS STONE

First Letter Since She Secured Her Release From Captivity.

Boston, Feb. 27.-The first message from Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary, to her family and friends has been received by her brother, Chas. A. Stone, of Chelsea. The cablegram told of her release by the brigands and welcome by Bulgarian friends in the village of Strumitza. It reads as follows: "Ristovatz, Feb. 25, 1902.—Chas. A. Provisions of the Distribution Bill Introduced by the Attorney-General-Mr. Hill's School Bill Killed.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Feb. 26 .- Almost the first tem of business at this afternoon's sitting of the legislature was the longexpected redistribution bill, which was introduced by Hon. Mr. Gibson. It provides for the addition of four members to the representations of Algoma and Nipissing. West Algoma gets two representatives, one for the northern portion of the district, and one for the south, this division giving complete railway communication. southern district includes Port Arthur, Rainy River District, and certain townships in the neighborhood of Port Arthur and Fort William. This is to go under the title of the Port Arthur and Rainy River District, and has a population of 12.649. The northern district has a population of 13,156. Algoma is to be divided into three divisions, to be called Sault Ste. Marie, Manitoulin and Algoma. Sault Ste. Marie takes in Michipicoten and several townships, and has a population of 14,448. Manitoulin comprises the islands of the district and some townships on the railroad, the population being 14,136. Algoma has a population of 18,096. Nipissing is divided into east and west by a line running from Lake Nipissing to Sturgeon Lake. Mr. Gibson briefly described the boundaries of the new districts, and in closing said that he did not think the opposition would find anything in it to complain of. The second reading was

MR. HILL'S SCHOOL BILL. Hon. Mr. Harcourt delivered a long and convincing speech against an amendment proposed by Mr. Hill to the public schools act, whereby proviuntary schools by the public schools inspectors. The minister of education regarded it as the thin edge of the wedge, preceding a request for a government grant, and as such it was of course opposed to the interests of

Mr. Matheson claimed to have more faith in the public schools of Ontario than Mr. Harcourt had. He was not afraid of doing harm to the public schools, and as the bill provided that the inspections should be made at the expense of the public schools, he could not see how the minister of education could suspect that it was the preliminary to a request for a public grant.

Mr. Whitney presented no arguments, but simply laughed at the idea that the voluntary schools would petition for state aid later on. Hon. Mr. Harcourt saw the gravest danger in them. Anyone who knew anything about education in the old country knew what an incubus they were there and how hard they were trying to get rid of them. He believed in the work of large schools, such as Upper Canada College, but not in the small establishments. tion for a second reading was declared lost on division. Malt Breakfast Food Bestows a Fresh. Rosy and Healthy Complexion.

This is a fact that has been frequently demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of a multitude of people. The fact that Malt Breakfast Food is a predigested food, a blood enricher, an aid to digestion, easily assimilated, and rich in concentrated nutriment, combine to make it a health food that assuredly bestows a fresh, rosy and healthy complexion to those who use it. Foods that tax the powers of the organs of digestion have a tendency to produce eruptions, skin troubles and disfigurements of the face. If you would be always well and hearty and have a clear and clean complexion, use Malt Breakfast Food regularly every morning. No other breakfast food is so delicious, palatable and satisfying. Ask your grocer for it.

TERRIBLE BACK PAINS

Mrs. Maggie Woodford Suffered Terribly Until Cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

The kidneys are about the most important organs of the body. All the waste products caused by muscular action and of digested food, which are found in the blood, have to be thrown off from the body-most of them pass through the kidneys. If there is any interruption in this process, instead of being thrown off, this poisonous matter is reabsorbed by the blood and spread to the remotest parts of the system to work harm and injury. Powley's Liquified Ozone stimulates the action of the kidneys, causes them to throw off all poisonous matter, restores health conditions to all the tissues of the body.

The Ozone Co., Limited-Gentlemen: About July last I was attacked with a sinking sensation; I would have frightful dreams; food would not digest, and my nerves seemed to be unstrung. I had a terrible pain across my back; sometimes I felt that it would break, so great would be the pain. I also had rheumatism in all my joints. I tried a laxative and thought I might get some ease, but I only got worse. My husband advised me to try Ozone, as it was doing so much for other people. We purchased a bottle and I am so thankful we did, as I soon got relief and now am well and gaining rapidly in flesh. The Ozone seems to do my blood so much good. My belief now is that I had a bad attack of kidney disease. We keep Ozone continually in our house and no matter what the trouble is, we find it a ready friend to relieve pain, sores cuts, stomach trouble or any case where we have need of a (Signed) MRS. MAGGIE WOODFORD, good remedy. 350 Gerrard St., East Toronto

The attendance at the market here tolay was on a par with the attendance f the past few weeks. The state of the pads at present prevents many of the farmers from marketing their produce, to which to a certain extent may be attributed the light offerings.

Hay and Straw-The offerings of the past few days do not approach those of a single day last week; only about five loads on sale, at $9 to $10 25 per ton. Butter and Eggs-Butter is becoming more plentiful; sales are slow, with prices easier, at 17c to 18c per lb for crocks, and 18c to 20c for choice pound rolls in basket lots. Eggs were in fair supply; several large lots of 50 to 100 dozen were offered by country storekeepers, and were disposed of at 22c per dozen; 23c per dozen was paid for smaller lots.

Apples and Vegetables-The offerings were light, with no change in prices. Poultry-Quite a lot on sale, with a good demand, especially for turkeys, which sold at 11c to 12c per lb wholesale; other lines of poultry are firm, at prices quoted.

Dressed Hogs-Nearly 100 on sale; the demand was good, selling at $7 75 to $8 per cwt; the latter price was paid for choice lean hogs of about 120 lbs weight. Live Hogs-A shipment will be made from here on Monday, at $5 75 per cwt for singers.

RENOUNCED HIS VOWS. Dubuque, Iowa, Feb. 27.—An event unprecedented in the history of the Trappist Monastery in this country is made public. Brother Eugene, for 23 years an inmate, has deliberately renounced his vows, which he took nearly a quarter of a century ago. He has the monastery, and is now looking for some means to earn a living. His name is Joseph Graham, and he came from Illinois when 23 years old. Trappist rules are the most rigid of any monastic order, and Brother Eugene got tired of them. He wants to see the world. It is stated that his permission to leave the monastery came from Rome.

Diers Petroleum Email 310 FOR BRONCHITIS

Many persons think that they have merely a stubborn cough, when they really have Bronchitis, which, if neglected, always results in Chronic Bronchitis. The most effective remedy known to medical science for Throat and Lung Troubles is Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. It stops the cough, makes breathing easy, relieves congestion and irritation, soothes and heals the bronchial tubes, changes the character of expectoration and effects a general and rapid improvement in all the symptoms. It is pleasant to take and agrees with the weakest stomach. It is not a patent medicine, but has been prescribed by physicians everywhere since 1880. I have been treating a very severe bronchial cough of long standing with Angier's Petroleum Emulsion, and have been so benefited by it that I gladly recommend it to anyone suffering as I did. Last year I took several bottles of emulsion of cod liver oil, but it failed to have the desired effect. I consider Angier's Petroleum Emulsion far superior to any other. Miss M. For inment when he made out the list of Canadians to be honored during the visit of the Prince of Wales, or did he act upon the advice of Downing street, or did he take it upon himself to do so?" What Mr. Bourassa desired particularly to know was the exact powers of the governor-general. Should it not distinctly be understood, he asked, that the governor-general was the irresponsible representative of Downing street, and capable of touching upon the immediate wants of the people only when advised by the Canadian Government? He declared that the governor-general's dual personality as the agent of England and chief of the Canadian executive was a dan-of responsible government. The premier told Mr. Bourassa that he should remember that in certain cases it would be injudicious to place upon the table all the correspondence relative to certain matters. But Sir Wilfrid laid it down as a principle that in matters which were finally concluded, any member was entitled to and would receive any correspondence that might be asked for. He said to Mr. Bourassa that when the correspondence he had spoken of was given out, he would see that his remarks were uncalled for and would need to apologize to the house. Mr. Bourassa said that he would be very glad to do this, if he were shown to be in the wrong. S.

ST. THOMAS MUNICIPAL TROU-

BLE. Toronto, Feb. 27.—The master gave judgment yesterday in the first stage of the action by John Roberts to set aside the St. Thomas municipal election. On the argument it was objected by cousel for the aldermen that the notice of motion for which the flat had been issued had lapsed, inasmuch as it was returnable on Tuesday, Feb. 24. 1902, and that before its return a notice had been served changing the date to Tuesday, Feb. 25, 1902, and costs were asked against the relator as of an abandoned motion. For reasons given in the judgment, an oder to issue for examination of witnesses is pending application to set aside election before an examiner to be agreed upon unless counsel for respondent still desires to argue that the motion was abandoned, and that the recognizance is not good. In the latter event further argument will be heard.

An Open Letter Telling How Backache and Headache Were Permanently Cured.

Val Racine, Que., Feb. 14.-Emelien Clouatre is well again and has given for publication a letter which gives to Dodd's Kidney Pills the credit for the cure. In part, it reads as follows: "For a long time I suffered with Kidney Trouble and a terrible pain in my back. I had a dreadful headache nearly all the time, so bad as to prevent me from getting more than a lit-tle sleep or rest, and I would get up in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed.

"Since I completed a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills I have not had any pain whatever. My head never aches, and I sleep soundly and awake strong and refreshed. "I feel it my duty to make this public statement.'

THE PREMIER'S EXPLANATIONS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Refers to Cabinet Changes.

He Gives Reasons for Supreme Court Appointments and the Ministerial Changes.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Feb. 26.-Sir Wilfrid Laurier was asked a few days ago by Hon. R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, for a statement regarding the changes which recently have been made in his cabinet. He at that time characterized Mr. Borden's inquiry as an expression of mischievous animosity, but he promised to satisfy it, and did so this afternoon. The mischievous curiosity phrase was apparently not to the liking of the opposition leader, who came prepared today to support his request for information with bulky volumes of Todd and other British authorities. Mr. Borden may not be an aggressive leader, but he wishes no complaint to be made of his adherence to the rules of etiquette. Sir Wilfrid's explanations were, as he said, only what is the knowledge of everyone. During the period be-tween sessions, two vacancies had occurred upon the bench of the supreme court, and the administration had filled them very worthil, by the appointment of Sir Louis Davies and Hon. David Mills, both of whom had been valued, trusted members of the cabinet. He spoke of Hon. David Mills as torium tonight by Ellen Miriam Kurhaving probably had as long a parlia-mentary experience as any member in for one week—Thursday, March 6, on the house, having sat in it with the ex- account of the Paardeberg ception of one session since confederation. Of his legal ability and great talents the house had had many examples. The premier spoke in similar terms of Hon. Sir Louis Davies, who, after a long term spent in the legislature of his own province, had occupied a commanding position in the federal government. The administration knew when the positions on the bence were offered to these gentlemen, that their acceptance would mean a great loss to the cabinet, but these considerations were set aside when they remembered that the duties of a cabinet minister were very onerous, and that by transferring Hon. Sir Louis Davies and Hon, Mr. Mills to the supreme court. their services to the country would be retained for a longer time than if they remained in the government. What was parliament's loss was the bench's Sir Wilfrid then referred to the new members of the cabinet. He said that the administration had felt that the most fit and proper person for the portfolio of marine and fisheries was Hon. James Sutherland, of Oxford. whose value they had come to recognize during long service in the house, and especially in the two years in which he had been without portfolio in the cabinet. Contrary to the usual rule, the new minister of marine and fisheries was not a representative of the Maritime Provinces, but Ontario had large fishing interests, and, besides, the department would be safe in Hon. James Sutherland's care. The department of justice, he said, had always been in the control of men of marked and conspicuous ability, and having given it to Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, a lawyer of great prominence. prove himself in every way their equal. The premier remarked also upon the distinguished ability of the new solici-tor-general, Hon. H. G. Carroll, and referred to the elevation to the cabine of Hon. Senator Templeman, of British Columbia, which he considered was only due to the growing importance of far western Canada. He concluded by saying that the changes which been made would, he hoped, win the support of his friends, and the charitable criticism of his opponents. Hon. E. R. Borden was courteously kind in his comments upon the premier's explanations, but Dr. Sproule was not. He asked how the government's action compared with the statements made when it was in opposi-tion, when it declared that appointments should not be given to members of the house until they had been at least two years out of it. "Ah," said the premier, "that is easily explained. That is one of those falsehoods that are made first by one member of the opposition, and repeated and repeated until even honest men say it." He explained that this had grown out of a motion proposed by Mr. Mulock, but never supported by any member of the Liberal party. It had never been heard of again until the opposition resurrected it to make capital

The taking of evidence in the municipal election inquiry was continued before Judge Edward Elliott this morning. The witnesses called, as on the previous afternoon, were employes of A. Talbot & Co. Their evidence was unimportant, throwing little or no light on the question of the surplus

H. E. Osmond, a compositor at A. Talbot & Co.'s printing office, was the first witness of the morning. He had, with another printer, set the type for the mayoralty ballots on Thursday afternoon and locked up the form on Friday morning about 8:30. This ended the witness' connection with the printing of the ballots. He did not have anything to do with the distribution of the type, and did not know when it was done. The other workmen employed at the time were Wm. Ruse, Chas. Doe, Harry Winslade, Wm. O. Smith, Wm. Fleming, John W. Duncan, and Donan.

George Garfat, the boy who printed the ballots, was next called. He had been ordered by Harry Talbot to be careful with them, and burn all spoiled ones, which he did. He had spoiled 25 to 50 sheets, perhaps more. He did not know how many sheets he printed He printed all the sheets that had been given. The form was the first upon the press on Friday morning, and the

His home and coal. It takes a lot of the first to buy the third, and it, too, often takes a lot of the third to heat a small portion of the second. But if the third be "Walla-Walla" coal, the rule is reversed. It then takes little of the third to keep warm a whole lot of the second.

Why? Well, for a woman's reason, because it does. It's hard, long-lived, quickly-lighted, red-hot, clean, clinkerless coal. It is "picked" from the "picked" coal region of the world-the Mammoth coal-vein region. 'Tis the best coal a London furnace, baseburner or range can come in contract with.

And so, after much talk with Warden, who certainly was honestly anxious to do all he could for her from his own point of view, it was decided that she also should pass through the trance of Hermotimus and become another drop of water in the great city, in order to attract to herself as many smaller drops in the shape of pupils as possible. Let not her husband, however, be blamed overmuch. The sacrifice of his whole career by a man for a woman's sake is one which no one in the world has a right to expect from another, even if he himself is one who is capable of making it; nor is it by any means certain that such a sacrifice-romance apart-is one that a man is even justified in making under almost any given circumstances. Whatever is best in the brain and in the arm of a man is not his own to put under the feet of a woman; it belongs to the world; and sacrifice is quite as often the consequence of cowardice and of weakness as of strength or of courage. The whole world was open to War-den now. Great things were expected or den now. Great things were expected of him by others, and he felt himself capable of doing great things; and he had just gained the influence of Earl's Dene to help him to do them. All this, all the purposes of his whole heart and life he would have to forfeit by a premature acknowledgment of his marriage, or even by privately treating Marie as his wife; and he would have to commit worse than sulcide by settling down into the life of an obscure country parson for the remainder of his days. It does not even follow that he would gain with his parish and his wife the consciousness of having and his wife the consciousness of having done his duty, or that if he did, such consciousness would afford him the least satisfaction, for conscience is always much more ready to sting than to con-sole. The leopard can change his spots sooner than one like Mark Warden can change his nature; and a life of repose spent in the fulfillment of uncongenial duty, would, with him, simply mean a life of vain longing and lasting regret.

Marriage, once more, is not the life of Marriage, once more, is not the life of a man as it is of a woman; and, when a man sacrifices himself and his true life for its sake, it seldom happens that either his life or himself is worth very

At the same time, to prevent any misconception, it ought to be added that a sense of duty consecrates all things; and that the higher form of love, or rather of sympathy, which so few can even understand, comprehending as it does all things, is more than worth the sacrifice of them all, and does more than consecrate any act that is committed in its name. But with these remarks Mark Warden has nothing to do; and it is only made to fix a limit to the scape of those which do refer to him. His was not the nature of a martyr to duty, far less was he capable of the higher love. In this respect he resembled so many that it is impossible to blame him without blaming the world at large. He had talent and energy, but not genius, and it is only genius that can afford to sacrifice itself and yet live.

And yet live.

And yet it may be that in spite of all this the reader may insist in setting down this man, who was determined to make the most of his talents, as a selfish and cold-blooded creature, altogether beyond the sympathy of all brave and honest men, and his apologist as at best but a devil's advocate. So be it. His defense has been made; and if it has failed, so much the worse for him. Marie, at all events, never thought of blaming or doubting him. Whatever might become of her, he must be my lord chief justice before he died. She, too, was a little ambitious—for him. Of herself she had never thought since she was born.

There are some things upon which it is almost, if not quite, too painful to dwell; and one is the parting of a woman from the home in which she was born, when she leaves it both for the first time and for ever. It is equal in intensity to grief for the dead, and draws forth as many tears. And it is about the most unselfish and the purest of all sorrows. When tears. And it is about the most unselfish and the purest of all sorrows. When Marie had to leave Denethorp—where,

Marie had to leave Denethorp—where, since she knew no other, her life had not on the whole been the less happy because it had been dull and poor and solitary—this natural grief was rendered the more poignant by the fact of her having to bid farewell to her native place with a stained reputation—for in places like Denethorp, when a good name is once breathed upon it is gone for ever—and of her father having died without learning the secret of her life. This thought was the bitterest of all. How often will it be necessary to speak of the bitterness that lies in the words "Too late"? It is, indeed, impossible without it to speak of the daily life of any man or woman under the sun.

it to speak of the daily life of any man or woman under the sun.

Far less is it necessary to speak of the visit of the coroner to that house in Market street to which we must now at last bid farewell, or of the judicial inquiry into the riot and the murder at Redchester, where Marle had to appear as a witness. Warden's heart was filled with pity, and with a return of the old passion, when he saw how this girl, so dependent upon others as she was by dependent upon others as she was by nature, strove to bear all things, and how, for his sake and for the sake of the children, now wholly dependent upon her, she did somehow contrive to bear it all. Had it been a time to speak free.

her, she did somehow contrive to bear it all. Had it been a time to speak freely of anything but of trouble and sorrow, even he must have been impelled to declare himself her protector. But he did not do so; and at last the final wrench was made, and Marie woke from the nightmare in which she had been living since the election, to find herself in London lodgings with Ernest and Fleurette. Ill, indeed, in body, but supported by the feeling that she must not dare to give way. And after all, to know that her husband was within three miles of her was something.

Of course, for present needs, she was not absolutely penniless, for Warden, with all his claims, was not unable to prevent that. Miss Raymond, too, was generosity itself. It might be thought, too, that Miss Clare, under the circumstances would have done something to help the orphans; but, as has been said, if she loved her friends, it was with an almost perfect hate that she hated her enemies, and it was among the latter that she included the Leforts. Nor did her mistake about Marie in the least affect her prejudices. And yet she was a good woman, too; and the worst of it is that it is precisely good women who are most subject to the tyranny of prejudices of this nature.

Still, in spite of the help that she re-to luxury, and would have to devote herself rather to study than to earning money, which must for the present be the duty of the former. Nevertheless, it seemed the least unpromising plan that could be adopted.

Monsiur Prosper was quite willing to receive back his old pupil, and to undertake to do what he could for her. But he was not so pleased for the sake of Felix, who had heard nothing of her now for a long time; and so he took care neither to mention her to him nor to let them come across each other at his let them come across each other at his lodgings. But one day Dick Barton, who was reading the Trumpet, said:

"So I see they've hanged that man at Redehester for the Denethorp riot. Poor devil! I daresay it was only his fun, after all—and he only mistook his man. If they had only potted my friend Warden, now, he might have had his joke, and been knighted on the spot into the bargain, if it was the fashion to treat men according to their deserts."

MUNYON'S INHALEB CUBES CATABBH. TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

Six Members of One Family Murdered-Robbery the Supposed Motive.

Welsh, La., Feb. 27. - Business has been entirely suspended in this little town. The murder of the six members of the Earl family has cast an influence over the whole community which makes the ordinary affairs of life impossible.

The body of L. S. Earl, father of the murdered victims, was found in a ditch near his home, with the throat cut and the body far gone in putrefaction. There is every evidence that the murders were committed as part of a prearranged plot. The home of Beware of All Imitations and Shun Ward Earl, three miles from here, was some distance from that of his father. The evidence goes to show that Ward Earl was first murdered and that his father was then summoned from his home and murdered. Mrs. Earl left a piece of sewing on the machine in her home when she left the house, and the three children had scattered the cards with which they were playing about the floor. When the bodies were found they had been piled in a heap, with the exception of L. S. Earl, which had not been carried to the home of his son. The bodies of the boys had been thrown into one room, Ward's at the bottom, and on the heap the body of

Mrs. Earl was cast. The only possible motive which can conceived was robbery. Miss Maud Earl is in a critical condition. Her mind seems to be affected by the shock to an extent that she cannot realize the extent of the tragedy. The reported arrest of the suspected man in Missouri has not been confirmed as yet. MURDERER TO BE EXTRADITED. St. Johns, Nfld., Feb. 27.-The demand of the Canadian authorities for the extradition of Arthur Prideaux, the self-confessed accomplice in the murder of Miriam Cossman at North Sydney, C. B., Jan. 25, had been granted. Judge Conroy, a city magistrate, authorized the surrender of Prideaux. It is understood the prisoner will plead guilty and offer himself as a crown witness to assist in the conviction of Dr Bayley, the alleged principal in the erime, and that Prideaux will throw himself on the leniency of the court.

A BIG ICICLE.

Canton, Ohio, Feb. 27. - A two-ton icicle accumulated during the cold snap on the high smokestack of the Carnahan tin mill here. When thaw set in, it fell, crashed through the roof, and disabled the mill so that it had to close for a week for repairs.

TWO STUDENTS WERE INJURED

In Yesterday's Railway Accident at Hamilton.

His Mother's Death.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 27 .- As a result of the pitch-in at the Stuart street station of the G. T. R. yesterday morning, Arthur Woodworth, a student from Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., whose home is in Sayer, Pa., had both feet badly crushed, and it was found necessary to amputate one of them above the ankle. His condition is serious, but he will probably recover.

S. F. Aikenbauch, a student of Nazareth, Pa., had his legs crushed and bruised, but will be able to leave the hospital in a couple of days. Both of these students were on their way to the students' volunteer movement convention in Toronto.

Dr. Noknoot, of New York, had his jawbone fractured, and other passengers sustained minor injuries, but were able to resume their journey. The heavy fog which prevailed at the time prevented the engineer of the Lehigh express from seeing the semaphore, which was up against him, and is said to have been the cause of the accident. MANGLED.

St. Marys, Ont., Feb. 26.-The remains of an unknown man were found this morning on the railway track a little west of the junction station. The body was literally cut to pieces, portions being found strewn along the track for over half a mile. The face was so mangled that the features are not possible to see. It is uncertain at what hour or by what train the accident occurred. There is no clue to identification. The coroner has been notified and an inquest likely will be held.

POLICEMAN SHOT. Albany, Feb. 26.-Police Officer Wm.

PHYSICAL STRENGTH Means Mental Power

Does not increased physical force, improved digestive power, make the blood more pure? And does not the better blood make the brain clearer and better in every way? It is exercise alone that supports the spirits and keeps the mind in vigor.

The Whitely or McFadden Exercisers, used a short time each day, will give physical strength and mental power. Pleased to explain it.

Machine Type= Setters. Said to be Hard on Operators.

The work of a typesetter in a modern printing office is very exacting, par-ticularly if he runs a linotype or typesetting machine. It requires the closest attention and rapid and sympathe tic action of both brain and hand. This setting machine. machine works much like a typewriter. Such workers fed on ordinary food give up because of nervous prostration, some in short time, and some are

One of these workers says: "I have been at the linotype three years. It has made a great change in my once robust health. About three months ago, after long expecting it, I completely collapsed, from indigestion and extreme nervousness. The daily physic I had not dared to omit for years, now and then, refused relief and a physician was consulted.

"'Change of occupation and diet,' read the prescription, 'advise eating Grape-Nuts food twice daily." I had often set up the advertisements of the Postum Cereal Company, but somehow printers are apt to think advertisements are not intended for them to make use of. I could not well change my occupation, but did change the diet.

Since then have used Grape-Nuts, both at breakfast and supper, daily. The results are truly remarkable. The first perceptible change was in the matter of digestion. It has been six weeks since I have had to swallow an aperient of any kind. At the beginning of my experiment with Grape-Nuts I weighed 124 pounds; last evening I tipped the beam at 157½.

"My nerves, which were completely shattered three months ago, are now strong and steady, and I do not tire easily, though I go to bed an hour later on an average than formerly, and have increased my capacity at the machine fully two columns of type a day. I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food is the food for persons of sedentary occupation, especially for those who work with brain in lieu of brawn." CHAS. H. ECKHARD, 177 N. BELVIDERES GAVE DANCE.

The Company Was Large and the Enjoyment Very Keen.

Twas the of the Most Successful Social Functions of the Season-Those Present.

One of the most enjoyable social functions of the year took place last night in the Duffield block, when the ability of the Belvidere Club to give a large number of guests a pleasant evening was amply demonstrated. A large amount of work was necessary to arrange and carry out such an extensive programme, and the way in which the members of the club managed matters was indeed praiseworthy. From the top of the first landing to the dancing hall on the next floor, the rooms, ante-rooms and stairways were a mass of tasteful decorations. About 150 couples were present and the variegated colors of the ladies' attire added additional livelines to the scene. Much praise is due the members of the committee for the way in which they handled the large company, and carried out the programme without a hitch. The music was furnished by Tony Cortese's orchestra. The dancing began shortly after 9 with over a hundred couples on the floor, while many others were engaged in cards and various other forms of amusement in adjoining rooms. J. Aitchison. GRATEFUL WORDS

A Quebec Gentleman Who Found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a Perfect Qure for His Dyspepsia.

One who has never had to endure the dreadful pain and depression of Dyspepsia cannot understand the wonderful gratitude of the slave who has found freedom from the bonds of this torturing monster. This feeling of gratitude is so overwhelming that its expression is often hard for these inexperienced ones to understand. It lends a color to the letters received in praise of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets which makes them seem almost overdone. "I thank Providence for having

There are many today enjoying the glad blessing of good health who but for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets would still be the melancholy and miserable victims of Stomach Troubles of one kind or another.

"PEG WOFFINGTON."

"PEG WOFFINGTON."

Eugenie Blair and her capable company will return to the New Grand next Saturday (matinee and evening), presenting the comedy "Peg Woffington," a dramatization of Charles Reade's famous story. In "Peg Woffington" Eugenie Blair has a role which may be said to be the most notworthy in her stage career. The production is complete in every detail. The scenery was especially designed and executed by Rehn, and the handsome costumes furnished by Van Horne and Dazian. The jeweled boots and slippers were made by the renowned Azzimonti. The antique furniture was especially imported for the occasion. The sale of seats opened this morning.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT TONIGHT. CHAUNCEY OLCOTT TONIGHT.

The attraction at the New Grand tonight will be Chauncey Olcott, "the sweetest singer on the stage," in his new comedy, "Garrett O'Magh." Last Tuesday's Toronto Globe said concerning the performance: "Garret O'Magh," a new Irish comedy, with Chauncey Olcott in the title role, began a short engagement at the Princess Theater last evening. Mr. Olcott was accorded an enthusiastic reception, and his new songs were most Mr. Olcott was accorded an enthusiastic reception, and his new songs were most successful. The scene of the play is laid in Dublin in 1812, and gives a fairly good representation of the mannerisms of the Irish people of a century ago. Humor abounds in the dialogue, and the suspicion of a plot centers around the love affairs of half a dozen leading characters. Mr. Olcott sang with his old-time sweetness, eliciting encores after every sweetness, eliciting encores after every number. In depicting the adventures of the gay but earnest Garret, he was no less acceptable. Miss Edith Barker was his romantic sweetheart, and she shared the honors with Mr. Olcott. The scenic effects, particularly in the first act, were handsome and well arranged."

"THE TIDE OF LIFE." Thrilling situations, new mechanical effects, electricity and a lot of funny comedy, with plenty of singing and dancing, are all to be found in "The Tide of Life," which will be presented at the New Grand next Monday evening.
