Rich Developments in the Langevin-McGreevy Case.

Barefaced Filching from the Public Purse.

The Minister of Public Works Connected with the Job.

Sir Hector Secures Another Ten Thousand Dollars.

Owen Murphy's Straight Story Substantiated by Documentary Evidence—An Interesting Catechism for Taxpayers to Study.

OTTAWA, June 27.—The developments in the McGreevy-Langevin scandal, of which I briefly telegraphed you yesterday, grow more sensational as the investigation directly proceeds. Yesterday's evidence directly implicated Sir Hector Langevin, his son and son-in-law—a regular family compact, according to the chief witness, to profit by the money filched from the public purse through the connivance of those in authority.

Owen Murphy, the financial partner of Larkin, Connolly & Co., swears that Nicholas Connolly paid $5,000 to Mr. Laforce Langevin, Sir Hector's son, who was employed as a boss at the Quebec harbor works, and $5,000 more to Sir Hector himself. The money paid to the son was intended for the father, who had apparently asked by letter for $10,000.

In the course of the examination, Mr. Geoffrion asked the witness: "Now, will you explain the nature of the charge which appears in exhibit L 5, under the heading "Graving dock, November, 1887, $10,000?" A.—That is a $10,000 I gave to Sir Hector Langevin myself.

Q.—Was the entry made in the books by your order? A.—It was. I gave this money to Sir Hector in two sums of $5,000.

Mr. Coatsworth—Where did you pay the $10,000? A.—At Quebec.

Q.—What was the date? A.—I cannot fix it.

Q.—Where was the payment made? A.—At Sir Hector's house.

Q.—Was it before the books were audited? A.—Just before.

Mr. Curran—Were the two payments of $5,000 both made at Sir Hector's house? A.—Yes.

Mr. Coatsworth—In what month were the payments made? A.—I do not recollect.

Q.—Do you know what time of the year? A.—No. Witness went on to say: I did not want to make entries, because I wanted to keep it dark, to keep it secret.

Mr. Curran—What do you mean by keeping it secret? A.—Keeping it from the McGreevys.

Mr. Langelier—Did you get the money on the day you drew the checks? A.—Yes.

Q.—And paid it on the same day? A.—Yes.

Q.—So that the date of the checks would be the date of the payment? A.—Yes.

Mr. Daly—Did you tell Nicholas Connolly of it after you paid the money? A.—Yes.

Mr. Coatsworth—Was it in gold or bills? A.—In bills.

Q.—On what bank? A.—Bank of British North America.

Q.—Large denomination? A.—One hundred dollar bills, I think.

Q.—What was the money paid to Mr. McGreevy for? A.—When Mr. Thomas Greevy came to me it was always for Sir Hector.

Q.—For what purpose? A.—Some of it first was given to Sir Hector's newspaper, which was not paying.

Q.—What paper? A.—Le Monde of Montreal.

Q.—Were there any other papers? A.—There is a $3,000 item here. Thomas McGreevy came and asked for money to pay off a debt of Sir Hector's son-in-law's paper in Quebec.

Q.—What was his name? A.—Mr. Caspais.

Q.—You did not make the payment of that $3,000? A.—It is initialed N. K. C., as having been paid by Nicholas Connolly.

Q.—Did you pay your share? A.—I was charged with it and paid it.

Q.—Did Mr. Thos. McGreevy ask for money for Sir Hector for other purposes than for papers? A.—$5,000 was charged for the graving dock at Levis, but I never paid it.

Witness was asked about an item for $8,000 in the statement. He said: "The date is Aug. 3, but that is not right. These dates are all wrong. I think the auditors will account for this. Mr. Thos. McGreevy asked me for $5,000. He said he wanted it before Sir Hector left Quebec. We were short and I went to the bank and drew $1,000 and gave it to him in his office on Dalhousie street. The item on Aug. 8 of $4,000 was paid by Nicholas Connolly to Thos. McGreevy and makes up the $5,000 asked for.

Various letters in corroboration of these extraordinary statements were sworn to by witness. Captain Larkin wrote to Murphy from St. Catharines warning him not to be too liberal with "our friends"—meaning, the witness explained, McGreevy and Langevin—and counseling him in these terms: "Bear in mind, my dear fellow, that there is a large amount due you. Connolly and myself, and that if we continue donating as we have been doing there will be nothing left to pay. Keep the eleventh commandment in view, that is, look out for yourself." Then Mr. Connolly wrote protesting in similar terms. In a "P. S.," written from the works at Esquimalt, Connolly says:

"I don't see why our friends should ask for another $5,000. I know and heard a distinct understanding and agreement in presence of Capt. Larkin that after the division of the $50,000 there should be no further calls until all the debts were paid. I think our friends should have a little patience with us and wait a little. We haven't acted badly by them, for by the statement you sent out they have received out of this work alone $14,000, all before we even cleared one dollar on it. I would advise you to be careful."

These letters closed the day's evidence taking. The sub-committee reported that the notes, checks, stubs and bill books which were supposed to be in the boxes Michael Connolly had brought down were missing. At the meeting previous to one held yesterday the boxes were found locked and no keys procurable. Orders were given for the production of the keys and yesterday when the committee met the boxes were found to be unlocked and all the vouchers referred to were missing. The bookkeeper, Martin P. Connolly, said he last saw them in Quebec.

BOTH DOOMED.

OTTAWA, June 28.—One who moves among the followers of the Government here can easily ascertain that they are weakening on Sir Hector Langevin. Many admit that it will be impossible to refute the testimony given by Murphy on Friday when it is supported by documentary proofs. Sir Hector's statement in Parliament that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received the money spoken of by Murphy as subscriptions for election purposes or to support Tory newspapers, and thus place the blame upon the shoulders of the whole Conservative party and force the party to stand by him. As to McGreevy, all the Tories admit that he must go, but so far the case looks almost as bad against Langevin as against McGreevy. There appears to be some ground for the report that Sir John Thompson is so angry and disgusted over the political situation and over the refusal of the Ontario Tories to accept his leadership that he proposes retiring from public life in a short time to accept the solicitorship of a great railway corporation.

Capital Notes.

The Privileges and Elections Committee adjourned until Tuesday next.

The sub-committee reported that Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s checks and bill books ordered to be produced were missing, and a subpœna was ordered to be issued to Patrick Kelly, in charge of the Quebec office, to attend with them.

UNDER THE SEMAPHORE.

Negotiations Between the Two Great Canadian Railway Companies.

MONTREAL, June 29.—A special cable to the Star from London says: "It will be remembered that some time ago the desirability of effecting a friendly running arrangement between the Grand Trunk and the C. P. R. was discussed by some of the directors of the two companies, but the discussion on the subject which then took place resulted in no arrangement being made. The negotiations for such a friendly working arrangement between the two companies have been renewed, and that there is some hope of a successful issue is shown by the fact that the stocks of the two great companies interested showed a marked revival as soon as it was known that the negotiations were in progress. Lord Mount-Stephen presided at a preliminary meeting of representatives of the boards of directors of both companies held Saturday afternoon. The general situation was discussed and the desirability of a friendly agreement, with a view to meeting the rivalry of the United States lines, admitted by the directors of both companies. Proposals which were discussed some time before the retirement of Sir Joseph Hickson from the position of general manager of the Grand Trunk were reviewed, and will be further discussed by both boards."

A General Indictment of the Human Family

And an Open Door of Escape for All.

Dr. Talmage Discourses on the Subject "Astray but Recovered."

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 28.—Dr. Talmage to-day took as his subject, "Astray, but Recovered," and his text, Isaiah, liii., 6: "All we like sheep have gone astray: * * * and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Within 90 years at the longest, said the preacher, all who hear or read this sermon will be in eternity. The next ten years will cut a wide swath among the people. The year 1891 will to some be a finality. Such considerations make the occasion absorbing and momentous. The first half of my text is an indictment; "all we like sheep have gone astray." Some one says: "Can you not drop the flat word? that is too general; that sweeps a great circle." Some man sees in the audience and he looks over on the opposite side of the house and he says: "There is a blasphemer, and I understand how he has gone astray. And there in another part of the house is a defrauder, and he has gone astray. And there is an impure person and he has gone astray." Sit down, my brother, and look at home. My text takes in all in. It starts behind the pulpit, sweeps the circuit of the room and comes back to the point where it started when it says: "All we like sheep have gone astray." We keep get astray in two ways: either by trying to get into other pasture, or from being scared by dogs. In the former way some of us go astray. We thought the religion of Jesus Christ short commons. We thought there was better pasturage somewhere else, and we wandered on and we were lost. We wanted bread and we found garbage. The further we wandered, instead of finding rich pasturage, we found blasted heath and sharper rocks and more stinging nettles. No pasture. How was it in the worldly groups when you lost your child? Did they come round and console you very much? Did not the plain Christian man who came into your house and sat up with your darling child give you more comfort than all worldly associations? Did all the convivial songs you ever heard comfort you in that day of bereavement so much as the song they sang to you, perhaps the very song that was sung by your little child the last Sabbath afternoon of her life?

There is a happy land, far, far away,
Where saints immortal reign, bright, bright as day.

Did your business associates in that day of darkness and trouble give you any especial condolence? Business exasperated you. You got dollars, but you got no peace. God have mercy on the man who has nothing but business to comfort him. The world has cheated you, the world has belied you, the world has misinterpreted you, the world has persecuted you. It never comforted you. Oh, this world is a good rack from which a horse may pick his hay; it is a good trough from which the swine may crunch their mess; but it gives but little food to a soul blood-bought and immortal. What is a soul? It is a hope high as the throne of God. What is a man? You say: "It is only a man." It is only a man gone overboard in sin. It is only a man gone overboard in business life. What is a man? The battle ground of three worlds, with his hands taking hold of destinies of light or darkness. A man! No line can measure him. No limit can bound him. The archangel before the throne cannot outlive him. The stars shall die, but he will watch their extinguishment. The world will burn, but he will gaze on the conflagration. Endless ages will march on, he will watch the procession. A man! The masterpiece of God Almighty. Yet you say, "It is only a man." Can a nature like that be fed on husks of the wilderness?

But some go astray by being scared of the dogs. The hounds gets over into the pasture field. The poor things fly in every direction. In a few moments they are torn of the hedges and they are splashed of the ditch, and the lost sheep never gets home unless the farmer goes after it. There is nothing so thoroughly lost as a lost sheep. It may have been in 1857, during the financial panic or during the financial stress in the fall of 1873, when you got astray. You almost became an atheist. You said: "Where is God, that honest men go down and thieves prosper?" You were dogged of creditors, you were dogged of the banks, you were dogged of worldly disaster, and some of you went into misanthropy, and some of you took to strong drink, and others of you fled out of Christian association, and you got astray. O! man, that was the last time when you ought to have forsaken God. If you could really see the position you occupy before God this morning your soul would burst into an agony of tears and you would pelt the heavens with the cry "God have mercy! Sinai's batteries have been unlimbered above your soul and at times you have heard it thunder: "The wages of sin is death. All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. The soul that sinneth it shall die."

But the last part of my text opens a door wide enough to let us all out and to let all heaven in. Sound it on the organ with all the stops out. Thrum it on the harps with all the strings atune. With all the melody possible let the heavens sound it to the earth and let the earth tell it to the heavens. "The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." "O!" says some man, "that is not generous, that is not fair; let every man carry his own burden and pay his own debts." That sounds reasonable. If I have an obligation and I have the means to meet it, and I come to you and ask you to settle that obligation, you rightly say, "Pay your own debts." If you and I were walking down the street, both hale, hearty and well, I ask you to carry me, you say and say rightly, "Walk on your own feet!" But suppose you and I were in a regiment, and I was wounded in the battle and I fell unconscious at your feet with gunshot fractures and dislocations, what would you do? You would call to your comrades, saying, "Come, this man is helpless; let us take him to the hospital," and I would be a dead lift in your arms, and you would lift me from the ground where I had fallen, take me to the hospital and have all kindness shown to me. Would there be anything bemeaning in my accepting that kindness? If we could pay our debts then it would be better to go up and pay them, saying "Here, Lord, are the means with which I will settle that obligation; now give me a receipt; cross it all out." But the fact is we have fallen in the battle, we have gone down under the hot fire of our transgressions, we have been wounded by the sabres of sin, we are helpless, we are undone. Christ comes. The loud clang heard in the sky on that Christmas night was the resounding bell of the ambulance. Clear the way for the Son of God. He comes down to bind up the wounds, and to scatter the darkness, and to save the lost. Christ comes down to us, and he raises us to honor and glory and immortality. "The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." You cannot carry successfully the smallest sin you ever committed. You might as well put the Apennines on one shoulder and the Alps on the other—how much less can you carry all the sins of your lifetime? Christ comes and looks down in your face and says: "I have come to bear your burdens and to pardon your sins and to pay your debts. Put them on my shoulder; put them on my heart." "On him the Lord hath laid the iniquity of us all."

Some one comes here this morning. He comes up those steps. I must stand aside. Taking that place he spreads abroad his hands, and they were nailed. You see his feet, they were bruised. He pulls aside his robe and shows you his wounded heart. I say, "Art thou weary?" "Yes," he says, "weary with the world's woe." I say, "Whence comest thou?" He says, "I come from Calvary." I say, "Who comes with thee?" He says, "No one; I have trodden the winepress alone!" I say, "Why comest thou here?" He says, "I came here to carry all the sins and sorrows of the people." And he kneels and says: "Put on my shoulders all the sorrows and all the sins." And conscious of my own sins first, I take them and put them on the shoulders of the Son of God. I say: "Canst thou bear any more, O Christ?" He says: "Yea, more." And I gather up the sins of all those who serve at these altars, the officers of the church of Jesus Christ—I gather up all their sins and put them on Christ's shoulders, and I say: "Canst thou bear any more?" He says: "Yea, more." Then I gather up all the sins of a hundred people in this house and put them on the shoulders of Christ, and I say: "Canst thou bear more?" He says: "Yea, more." And I gather up all the sins of this assembly and I put them on the shoulders of the Son of God, and I say: Canst thou bear them?" "Yea," he says, "more."

But he is departing. Clear the way for him, the Son of God. Open the door and let him pass out. He is carrying our sins and bearing them out. We shall never see them again. He throws them down into the abysm, and you hear the long reverberating echo of their fall. "On him the Lord hath laid the iniquity of us all." Will you let him take away your sins to-day? or do you say, "I will take charge of them myself. I will fight my own battles, I will risk eternity on my own account?"

To-day the Saviour calls. All may come. God never pushes a man off. God never destroys anybody. The man jumps off. It is suicide—soul suicide—if the man perishes, for the invitation is, "Whosoever will, let him come." Whosoever, whosoever, whosoever! In this day of merciful visitation, while many are coming into the kingdom of God, join the procession heavenward.

ATHLETICS.

John D. McPherson, champion of America for putting the stone, has arrived in Glasgow from Canada, and has issued a challenge against George Davidson, McRae and Owen Duffy, and all other athletes in England and Scotland, to contest against him in putting the heavy and light stone for any amount from $200 to $500 and the championship of the world. McPherson's arrival has created quite a stir among Scotch athletes.

Honors to an Alderman.

Ald. F. J. Fitzgerald, elected grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias at the recent meeting of the Grand Lodge in this city, is walking around to-day with a nobby gold-headed cane. He paid an official visit to Mizpah Lodge last evening, and while there was surprised by the brethren from Prospect Lodge, on whose behalf P. G. C. Alex. Gardiner stepped forward, presenting the above-mentioned article with a neat congratulatory address. The grand chancellor replied happily. Refreshments, speeches and songs filled up a few pleasant hours.

Welcoming the New Pastor.

A reception was held in the lecture hall of London West Methodist Church Friday night to welcome the new minister, Rev. Wm. Godwin, who has just come from Blenheim. J. D. Saunby occupied the chair, and in a neat little speech greeted the new pastor with kind words of welcome and good wishes. Rev. E. B. Lanceley, Rev. Stephen Bond and James Wilkins also spoke in a like tone. A solo by Mr. Gibson and some choice music by the choir completed the evening's programme. The church was beautifully decorated, the platform being almost covered with flowers. Rev. Mr. Godwin replied to the addresses most happily and expressed his conviction of future cordial relations between himself and his new congregation.

South Londoners Have One.

No prettier spot for a garden party could have been chosen than the beautiful lawn at Mr. Hutchinson's residence, 203 Wortley road, used for that pleasant purpose Friday evening by the ladies of the Askin Street Methodist Church. Gay Chinese lantern decorations, entrancing music by J. Ward's orchestra, the presence of a merry crowd and the display of flowers, luscious strawberries, ice cream, cake and other palatable articles greatly enhanced its charms. Financially and socially the garden party was a success, thanks to the energy of the fair sex and the hospitality of Mr. Hutchinson. Among those taking charge were: Mesdames Gartley, Burns, Cosford, Learn, Fleming, Ostrander, Mulhern, (Dr.) Piper, Doggerell, Kelly, Baker, Wilkins; Misses Lewis, Cosford, Body, E. Cooper.

Robbery in South London.

The inmates of Mr. Robert Coates' residence, 28 Stanley street, South London, were away from home Friday between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., but that did not prevent some mischievous individual from entering and thoroughly familiarizing himself with the contents. When some of the family returned in the evening trunks, drawers and lockers were found to have been ransacked, the interior presenting such an appearance as a housecleaning would cause. Twenty-eight dollars in bills, belonging to Mr. Henry Coates, of the New York store, and also a revolver were noticed to be missing. Although it is impossible to ascertain at present how much had been taken. Entrance had been made through the cellar window. Mr. Coates' family have been away for two weeks. The police are investigating the affair.

A Pleasant Evening on Emery Street.

The Emery Street Mission building, South London, was hardly large enough for the crowd that sought admittance Friday evening. A strawberry festival and a literary and musical entertainment were the attractions, and the large number present, and the amount of represhments that were disposed of spoke well for the financial success of the affair. Ald. Winnett occupied the chair and introduced a choice programme, the talent being supplied from the Wellington Street Methodist Church, of which the mission is a branch. Misses Raymond, Law, Doty (with kindergarten class), Hodgins, Parr and Rev. G. W. Henderson, J. A. Jones and Chas. Frise were the contributors, the latter's whistling solo being heartily encored. Emery Street Mission is prospering, and it is probable a larger building will soon be erected. J. W. T. Park is the energetic Sunday school leader.

Hundreds and Hundreds of Anxious Customers Crowded into POWELL'S Great Bankrupt Sale

On Saturday and Saturday night. Up to the time that the last train left London the delighted people from the surrounding parts of Western Ontario were busy buying at Powell's Old Stand. Everybody is simply amazed at the prices, most of which are cut straight in two. No wonder the buyers get excited when they buy $1 worth of goods for 60c. at Powell's Old Stand.

Thousands of extraordinary bargains of a most special nature will be given every day this week. In fact it would be impossible to convey any idea in an advertisement like this what we are prepared to do for the thousands of customers that come to Powell's old stand. To say we can give them cheap goods would be nonsense, the word cheap does not convey an idea of what we can do in price of goods. In hundreds of cases the prices are cut right straight in two, and in a great many some elegant goods are sold at one-quarter regular prices. Our daily motto and aim is to give a dollar's worth of goods for 60 cents to everybody; this is the way we have been drawing the immense crowds at Powell's Old Stand. We have allowed nothing to stand in our way to give the citizens of London and those from the surrounding towns the biggest value in Canada. Remember we don't pay regular prices for what we buy, we buy at bankrupt prices, and sell at bankrupt prices. This is the way everybody gets $1 worth of goods for 60 cents at Powell's Old Stand. As the season advances cheaper goods may be expected. Our prices are talked about all over this western country, not only by the purchasing community, but wholesale and retail merchants wonder where we can get goods for the prices we sell them at. We expect thousands of customers to visit us on Saturday and Saturday night. We invite everybody and ask you to tell your friends and neighbors about the wonderful bargains at Powell's Old Stand. Please remember we keep no books for accounts. We pay cash for what we buy, and sell only for cash, which enables us to sell everything so cheap. Remember and come to the right store. You can't buy cheap goods unless you get into

Smoke Blossoms.

"Did you ever see a smoke blossom?" Well, the way to make them is this: Buy one of the latest new CAT CIGARS. Light it and blow a ring in a still atmosphere, and then watch it. The smoke making the ring revolves towards the center as you look towards it. While it is floating away a part of the ring shoots slowly away from the rest forming a loop. When the two sides of the loop come almost together the loop seems to burst at its apex and a lily-shaped blossom appears thereon. Try it. Manufactured by

STARTLING DEVELOPMENTS.

The evidence given in the McGreevy-Langevin scandal investigation at Ottawa Friday was of the most extraordinary character.

It has been claimed that evidence existed to prove that, with the connivance of a Conservative member of Parliament and of those in authority in the Public Works Department, the country has been robbed of from $600,000 to $800,000 through boodling in contracts for public works.

The defense formulated so far has been that there may have been irregularities, but that Mr. McGreevy, M. P., who acted as go-between, was alone responsible, and that Sir Hector Langevin and his department knew nothing of the peculations. Sir Hector, in his Parliamentary defense, was more guarded. He there said he had received nothing from the contractors for his own profit and advantage, leaving it to be inferred that what he received was accepted for some other purpose. He did not make an unequivocal denial. Why? Perhaps the evidence of Friday, given with so much circumstantial detail, and supported by correspondence written at the time, may afford some clue to the guarded denial of the Minister.

Sir Hector Langevin has yet to be heard, but there can be no doubt that he feels the force of the damaging evidence given under oath. It was at his instance that Mr. Osler, Q.C., the eminent criminal counsel, was brought in as special agent of the Public Works Department. Whether either the Minister or his counsel will attempt to combat the remarkable evidence of witness Murphy, the financial partner of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., remains to be seen. The evidence is most damaging. The Witness swore that he gave Langevin $10,000 of the money obtained by favor of the department over which he presides, and that he paid $5,000 to Langevin's son, who was an inspector of the works for which the firm contracted, and $5,000 to Langevin's son-in-law, to aid him in making his Conservative paper pay. Letters were submitted strongly corroborating the payment of these sums, and it is said that check stubs and other papers would have been produced in evidence had they not mysteriously disappeared.

Langevin has asked his party to stand by him in all his doings because he has stood by them, and the disposition is to sacrifice McGreevy and whitewash the Minister. But surely there is a limit to which even strongly prejudiced Conservatives can go in condoning wrong-doing in high places.

THE POSTMASTER PATRIOT.

Many of our Western Ontario readers will remember Thomas Cowan, of Galt, who was one of the high tax patriots that went up and down the Province posing as an assistant savior of the country at the last Dominion general election. Then Mr. Cowan asserted that the reduction of taxes incident to the carrying out of complete reciprocity with the United States would completely floor the Dominion. He was so impressed with this, he invariably pointed out, that he had resigned his office as postmaster of Galt in order that he might fly to the rescue of his beloved land. To high heaven he waved his arms, windmill fashion, while he descanted on the necessity for making such sacrifices as his patriotism had compelled. The election is over; the speech-making season is passed; the traducers of their betters have crawled into their holes, and Mr. Cowan has returned to his postoffice at Galt. His self-decorated, self-lauded patriotism has been tested; it is Brummagem!

Now let us hear from Larke, of Oshawa.

BY CLAIMING credit for reducing the protective duty on salt, and then securing a reduction in price, the high tax advocates admit, perhaps unintentionally, that they have been taxing one industry for the benefit of another. That is really what the policy of "protection" does always. It enriches the one and impoverishes the other. How could it do otherwise?

IF SUGAR AND SALT ARE CHEAPENED, WHY NOT MANY OTHER NECESSITIES?

What with the revelation of scandals, of wholesale pilferings of public money, and the laying bare of the means by which the high tax manipulators won the last election, the friends of trade freedom, both in and out of Parliament, are apt to lose sight of or to devote too little attention to the great question of the day.

There is and will continue to be until it is settled in a way that shall benefit the entire people the immensely important fiscal question. How to dispose of it in a satisfactory manner is the problem of the hour to which the full and complete energies of the Liberals in the House and out of it must be directed.

By a small majority, by agencies far from creditable to them and by the cunning misrepresentations of their negotiations at Washington, the high-tax leaders were temporarily successful in March last. When they came back from the country, their chief subsidized organ announced that they had a sure majority of 45. Since then however, the majority has dropped down to from 15 to 25, and the leaders have no assurance that it may not be wiped out at any moment.

Even now the high tax leaders are on the run. They have for years been protesting that, at all hazards, Canada must be kept from having close commercial relations with the United States. On hundreds of platforms in February and March last they asserted their determination to in no degree be dependent on the tariff legislation of our neighbors. Now we find that chiefly because of the action of the United States in abolishing the duty on sugar, the high tax Finance Minister of Canada is forced to eat the leek and confess that the reduction in the United States compels the reduction in Canada. The trouble is that the reduction does not go far enough. The duties on refined sugar coming into Canada are still placed at a rate that will put in the pockets of the millionaire refiners hundreds of thousands of dollars every year that by right belongs to the consumers. Still, the partial reduction is a proof of the rightfulness of the position taken by the Liberals for years past. The same may be said of the reduction in the duty on salt. The explanation of this change is that it is meant as a blow at a salt combination. But throughout the election contests of recent years the high tax advocates have been telling us that "protective" tariffs do not cause combines—that internal competition invariably prevents combines—and that anyway the foreigner pays the duty.

The reductions in these taxes are most significant. Even the men who in the past have taken their election funds from the monopolists are compelled by stress of external circumstances and a slim majority in the House to confess the instability of their past professions. The hosts of monopoly are breaking up. They are on the run. Let them be kept on the run. The confessions that their parliamentary exponents have been making show how untenable is the position of the trade restrictonists. It is proved that a reduction in the tax on sugar makes that commodity cheap and plentiful. A reduction of the tax on salt is made with a similarly avowed object. What more natural than for the farmers, the merchants, the artisans, the laborers of Canada to reason that as partial tax reduction is so beneficial, so complete tax reduction, complete opportunity to buy and sell in the nearests markets at once, and as speedily as possible with markets further off, would be of immense benefit to them?

Not the most glib-tongued professional agent of the Red Parlor monopolist aggregation will in future be able to convince an intelligent Canadian that if it benefits him to have the taxes reduced on sugar and on salt, it would be detrimental to him and disloyal to the Dominion if he supports a policy that would secure a reduction in the taxes on clothing, hats and caps, rubber goods, coal oil, binding twine, barbed wire, and hundreds of other articles that now have to be purchased subject to heavy taxes.

Nothing can prevent the progress of freedom of trade. But let there be thorough unity and determination on the part of its friends. We do not say that much of the general talking of the Parliamentary exponents of the grand old policy that has made England what she is has thus far been unnecessary; but it is just possible that some of our brethren in Parliament attach too much importance to the minor shortcomings of the men now holding on to power by the skin of their teeth. If monopoly is fought in detail, and on every vulnerable point, in the House and out of it complete victory must soon be achieved.

THE CAMP.

The London ADVERTISER remarks:

Mr. Carling and his friends promised that the military camp for the western district would be held in perpetuity in London.

Neither Mr. Carling nor his friends made any promise of the kind. It is one of the pet falsehoods of the ADVERTISER to say so. —[London Free Press.

The Free Press is a friend to Mr. Carling. On Jan. 6, 1886—the day after the last camp bargain was ratified by the Council—the Free Press said:

"The last important act of the outgoing Council has been to ratify, as far as possible, the unfortunate vote of last September, by which the establishment of a military school here and the continuance of the annual camp were sorely jeopardized."

What does that statement mean if it is not an assurance that the camp would be annual? The Council so understood the bargain, and its members publicly assured their constituents that the arrangement arrived at with Mr. Carling and the Government insured the holding of the annual camp. On January 6, 1886, our city contemporary told its readers that the bargain then arranged had resulted in the "securing here, in this excellent center, two important aids to progress and public utility." What were these aids—the military school was one, the annual camp another.

On those and other assurances, made publicly and privately, the bargain was ratified. Mr. Carling was a party to this understanding, for he came to the city and aided in lobbying through the scheme. He permitted his organ to make the explicit declarations regarding the annual camp above quoted without once demurring, and he took no steps to counteract the interpretation of the bargain expressed by the aldermen. He must have concurred in those views, for he surely would not have desired to have disposed of his property on false pretenses.

By the way, it is a trifle significant that London was always regarded as the best point at which to hold the camp till after the purchase of Mr. Carling's property for military purposes. Not till then was it deemed necessary to lug the camp round to aid the candidature of weakling Conservative candidates.

WHAT THE "ADVERTISER" THINKS ABOUT IT.

THE London Free Press assures its readers that the United States Government pays $90,000,000 bonuses yearly for "the production of raw sugar." This is the whopper of the week.

Closing Session of the Good Templars' Grand Lodge.

PETERBORO, June 27.—At the closing session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars delegates from the W. C. T. U. and the Royal Templars of Temperance were received and heartily welcomed. A second report was presented by the Finance Committee, increasing the capita tax to 12 cents per quarter. This was adopted. The Committee on Legistation submitted the following report, which was carried unanimously:

1. That this grand lodge instruct the Executive Committee to memorialize the Ontario Government, praying that at the approaching session of the Local Legislature there be introduced and persistently urged a bill amending our liquor laws as (1) to substitute for the present law against selling liquors to minors the provisions of the Illinois State Law as to sale or gift of liquor to minors, both as to age limit and as to penalties. (2) To give the electors of any polling subdivision the power to prevent the issue of any license within the limits of such subdivision, by means of a majority petition; or else that every licensee be obliged to get every year a majority petition of the electors residing in the polling subdivision in which the license is to take effect. (3) To prohibit the treating business by the adoption of the system in such successful operation in Nova Scotia. (4) To license all houses of public entertainment. (5) To close all taverns and liquor shops on all statutory holidays and on any days set apart for voting on the Local Option By-law, the same as during Provincial and Municipal elections. (6) To prohibit the sale of liquor in all railway stations and the neighborhood thereof. (7) To provide that any person may apply to a county judge to have a license quashed when the same is illegally granted. (8) To provide more adequate penalties for illegal liquor selling by persons who are licensed to sell liquor. (9) To provide that the clerk of municipality be given power to issue summonses compelling the attendance of witnesses relative to a petition for a new license, or a transfer, when such petition is referred to him, in accordance with the License Act.

2. That the Dominion Government be memorialized to prohibit the sale of strong drink in military and mounted police canteens.

3. That it is our duty to use every means at our disposal for the curtailing of our country's curse, while never losing sight of our ultimate object, the complete overthrow of that curse, and with this object we urge our members to do all in their power to secure the submission and adoption of prohibitory bylaws in their respective localities, if our local option legislation is sustained by the Court of Appeal, by which it is now being considered.

The Grand Lodge will meet in the city of Guelph on the fourth Tuesday of June, 1892.

TO WEAK MEN Suffering from the effects of youthful errors early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

A MAN'S LIFE SAVED

I WOULD not be doing justice to the afflicted if I withheld a statement of my experience with Jaundice, and how I was completely cured by using Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. No one can tell what I suffered for nine weeks, one-third of which I was confined to my bed, with the best medical skill I could obtain in the city trying to remove my affliction, but without even giving me temporary relief. My body was so sore that it was painful for me to walk. I could not bear my clothes tight around me, my bowels only operated when taking purgative medicines, my appetite was gone, nothing would remain on my stomach, and my eyes and body were as yellow as a guinea. When I ventured on the street I was stared at or turned from with a repulsive feeling by the passer-by. The doctors said there was no cure for me. I made up my mind to die, AS LIFE HAD LOST ALL ITS CHARMS. One day a friend called to see me and advised me to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I thought if the doctors could not cure me, what is the use of trying the Discovery, but after deliberating for a time I concluded to give it a trial, so I procured a bottle and commenced taking it three times a day. JUDAS OF MY SURPRISE at the expiration of the third day to find my appetite returning. Despair gave place to Hope, and I persevered in following the directions and taking Hot Baths two or three times a week until I had used the fifth bottle. I then had no further need for the medicine—it had SAVED MY LIFE—that had restored me to health—as I was radically cured. The natural color replaced the dingy yellow, I could eat three meals a day, in fact the trouble was to get enough to eat. When I commenced taking the Discovery my weight was only 132½ lbs, when I finished the fifth bottle it was 172½ lbs., or an increase of about half a pound per day, and I never felt better in my life. No one can tell how thankful I am for what this wonderful medicine has done for me. It has rooted out of my system every vestige of the worst type of Jaundice, and I don't believe there is a case of Jaundice, Liver Complaint or Dyspepsia that it will not cure.

(Signed) W. LENZ, Toronto.

WHAT IS IT?

This celebrated medicine is a compound extracted from the richest medicinal barks, roots and herbs. It is the production of many years' study, research and investigation. It possesses properties purely vegetable, chemically and scientifically combined. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless and free from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening; it acts directly upon the blood, and every part throughout the entire body. It quiets the nervous system; it gives you good, sweet sleep at night. It is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep, as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the Great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It relieves and cures all diseases of the blood. Give it a fair trial for your complaint, and then you will say to your friends, neighbors and acquaintances: "Try it; it has cured me."

The Coming School of Medicine.

The Histogenetic System.

THIS SYSTEM IS COMPLETE, having different medicines for all the different diseases, the theory is entirely different from that of those schools. The medicines are perfectly pure, containing nothing of a poisonous nature; however, and are quite tasteless. For three years these medicines have been given away and thoroughly tested in the most hopeless cases before being placed on the market. The result has exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Hundreds of cases supposed to be incurable have been cured, and abundance of proof can be produced to convince the most skeptical that Histogenetic Medicines have secured and are curing to-day DISEASES that are later than any other system of medicine in the world. In ACUTE cases the medicines are magic. Chronic troubles require longer time, generally from one to three months according to the nature of the complaint. In FEMALE IRREGULARITIES, WOMB TROUBLES, etc., the medicines have been especially successful. Private EXAMINATIONS in these troubles are almost, if not quite, absolutely unnecessary. Call or send for one of our free books explaining the system. They should be in every house in the land.

RHEUMATISM and SCIATICA

LONDON, April 26, 1891.

I am happy to acknowledge, and now testify, to the efficacy of your medicines in curing Rheumatism. I have suffered with this painful disease in my shoulders, knees and hips for twenty-five years, also with sciatica for some time. I decided to try Histogenetic Medicines as a last resource, nothing ever seemed to give me any permanent relief. The first week's medicine gave me relief, and in two weeks the sciatica disappeared and has not returned. I took the medicines for six weeks, and am cured of the rheumatism. I feel better in every way. I am sixty years of age, and feel quite smart again. I can cheerfully recommend these medicines to the public, and will be glad to tell any sufferer about my case. It is now nearly two months since I ceased taking the medicines and the effect is permanent.

Peculiar

To itself in many important particulars, Hood's Sarsaparilla is different from and superior to any other medicine.

Peculiar in combination, proportion and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its medicinal merit, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

Peculiar in strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Peculiar in its "good name at home"—there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time. Do not be induced to take any other preparation. Be sure to get

A fine crowd of over 400 people attended the baseball game on Friday at Tilsonburg, and gave ample encouragement to both teams alike. The batting of Hugh McDonald and Johnston were special features of the game, the former having a home run and three singles, the latter two bagger and three singles, also the vim and dash put into the game by the Medicos. The Medicos have special reason to feel proud of the result, as the Tilsonburg team, buoyed up by their former victories were crowing loudly that no team from London could defeat them. "Look at them now," said one of the Tilsonburg sheets, "they have come and gone. Score:

THE BREWERY TRAGEDY

Investigation Before the Coroner's Jury.

Anthony Mansell Charged with the Crime of Manslaughter.

Evidence of the Witnesses—What Three Electric Light Company Employes Say—Some Additional Light Thrown on the Matter.

The investigation before the coroner's jury with regard to the death of the late Harry D. Platt, killed at Labatt's brewery on Wednesday afternoon, was held Friday evening at the police station and lasted four hours. A large crowd remained throughout the proceedings. Anthony Mansell, held on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the lamentable affair, occupied a seat at the table, and naturally evinced the greatest interest in the testimony. On one or two occasions he was silenced by his counsel for some impatient outbreaks, but on the whole listened quietly enough and maintained a composed countenance. His wife was also present. The prisoner's interests were looked after by Messrs. Meredith, Cameron & Judd, while Mr. McKillop represented the Crown.

THE EVIDENCE.

Dennis Mason, the head brewer, was the first witness. He said deceased had been employed at the brewery for about four years and was assistant brewer. Witness gave Mansell notice of dismissal about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the engine room. Mansell said he would go, and nothing further transpired just then. The discharge was given on account of a previous conversation relating to some beer in the boiler which should have been pumped out. This he considered was Mansell's fault. The latter told him that Harry Platt had left the beer there, but deceased looked astonished when told this and said it had been up long ago. Witness asked Mansell if he had not told Platt the beer was all up and in the ensuing words Mansell called witness a liar. He slapped the prisoner in the face for this and Mansell apologized for his language. It was because of these words and the neglect of duty that he gave Mansell notice of dismissal. Witness went into the engine room and the prisoner proceeded upstairs. He heard voices and started to go upstairs when he heard some scrambling, and turning round saw Platt fall, hitting the stairway and alighting on his head on an iron pipe on the brick floor. There was no railing across the front part of the opening. Everything possible was done for Platt until medical aid arrived.

James Crawford, an employe of Tambling & Jones, was working at the brewery on Wednesday afternoon on a floor alongside the mashtub. He came down from the mashtub to the floor above the engine room and there saw Mansell. He had heard some loud words below him, but did not know anything had happened at the time. He fancied it was Mansell's voice he heard. The prisoner had a bootjack (which was here produced and identified) in his hand, and was still talking angrily—something about his "job." Witness asked him to keep quiet twice. Mr. Mason called the witness down stairs, where he found Platt lying.

To Mr. Cameron—Mansell's was the only voice I heard when coming down from the mashtub. I think he was holding the bootjack by the horn when I saw him. Anyone working in the mashtub would have occasion to use the bootjack. I consider the railing a sufficient safeguard. The mashtub is about five and a half feet from the floor, and prisoner was underneath the middle of it.

W. Plewes, an employe at the brewery, had seen Mansell talking angrily—he thought—to Mr. Mason that afternoon. Next he saw Mansell pass down from the mashtub. He was talking at the time and witness distinguished the word "liar." He heard Mansell's voice again in loud tones underneath the mashtub. Witness was with Crawford in a room above Mansell's floor, and in stepping out after Crawford heard the latter and Mansell talking, the prisoner saying something about wanting "fair play." Mansell held a bootjack in his hand, holding it by one of the horns with the other end slightly down. He was called upon to carry Harry Platt, and on passing through the room did not see Mansell.

To Mr. Judd—When I saw Mansell he was about eight feet distant from the spot where Platt was said to have fallen over.

Dr. J. W. Fraser had been summoned to the spot and found Platt with blood issuing from the right side of the head and from the left ear, the latter indicating fracture of the skull. He stayed with deceased three quarters of an hour and on returning about half an hour later he found him living, but he died a few moments later. Witness and Dr. Waugh made a post-mortem examination and concluded that death resulted from injuries on the left side of the head. The wounds were more likely to have been caused through falling on an edge than on a flat surface.

To Mr. Judd—The cut on the right side and the fracture on the left could have been caused by the head striking on different sides on the edge of a step and then on an iron pipe.

To the coroner—The cut on the right side was evidently caused by a much heavier blow or fall than the fracture on the left.

Dr. Waugh testified that the injury on the left side was an unusually severe one, and would require a heavy blow or fall to inflict it. It looked as if it were caused more by a fall than a blow, as the amount of wounded surface indicated. The blow must have been inflicted from the side.

Charles Young worked at the Ball Electric Light Company's station, corner Clarence and Hill streets. On Wednesday evening, about 5:30 p.m., outside the station he saw Mansell, who was talking to Samuel Jenkins. The latter asked Mansell if he was quitting. Mansell replied, "That's what it amounts to." The prisoner seemed excited and angry. He remarked among other things that if Mr. Jenkins knew what had happened he wouldn't blame him for what he had done. He said there had been some beer left in the boiler and they had stopped the pumps before it was all out. He did not want it wasted, as water would be turned on it in the morning. When he spoke to Mr. Mason about it he gave him a slap in the jaw. Prisoner said he followed Mr. Mason down to the engine room, intending "to give it to him" (Mason.) He thought better of it, however, and returned upstairs. He was pulling off his boots with the bootjack when Platt came up, and prisoner said to him: "You are the one who is the cause of all this." Prisoner remarked that he made at him (Platt) and either dragged or knocked him downstairs — witness couldn't say which. Mansell then said he went to the office for his money; he didn't get it and didn't care whether he did or not. Mr. Jenkins asked him if he had done Platt up in good shape and Mansell replied that he had done him up enough to send him to the hospital and he had been carried out. That was all witness remembered. He could not say whether Mansell said he had dragged or knocked Platt down the stairs.

Samuel Jenkins, foreman for the Ball Electric Light Company, confirmed the statements of the previous witness about meeting Mansell. The prisoner told witness of some beer being left in the pipes and boiler and of Platt telling of the fact. Witness corroborated Young's evidence in regard to the prisoner's story of the meeting with Mason and subsequently with Platt.

To Mr. Judd—I left Labatt's three years ago last August. Mansell worked there with me. I had a few words with him then on two occasions that I remember.

Mr. Judd—How is it that neither Young nor you can tell me whether Mansell said he had dragged or shoved Platt over?

Witness—He was so excited that it was impossible to get his exact words.

Mr. Judd—How many conversations have you had on this matter since it occurred?

Witness—One or two—Thursday afternoon and this morning, I think.

Mr. Judd—Did you talk as to whether Mansell said he had dragged or pushed Platt over.

Witness—Yes.

Mr. Judd—And you agreed what should be said to-night?

Witness—No; nothing of the sort was made up. To Mr. McKillop—Anthony Mansell and I were on good terms.

Henry Donohue, another employe of the Ball Company, was present at the conversation in question, and repeated some of it to the same effect as Messrs. Young and Jenkins. Witness was looking at a game of ball across the river and missed a good deal of the dialogue.

Sergeant Jenkins had, with Detective Phair, visited the prisoner at his house about 11:30 p.m. Witness asked Mansell what he knew about the affair.

Mr. Judd objected to the admission of evidence at this point. The prisoner had been given no warning.

Mr. McKillop pointed out that evidence could only be excluded on two conditions—when a threat or a promise had been made by the officers.

Witness continuing—Prisoner said he and Platt had had a few words. He had dealt Platt a blow and the latter fell down stairs. That was all. After Mansell had been put under arrest, witness warned the prisoner against saying anything. Mansell did not say how he had struck deceased or what he had struck him with.

Detective Phair told substantially the same story as Sergeant Jenkins.

The prisoner, in reply to Coroner Smith, said he had no statement to make.

THE VERDICT.

At 11:20 p.m. the court room was cleared of all excepting the jury, the prisoner and the counsel. Coroner Smith briefly charged the jurymen, who in a very few minutes returned a verdict of manslaughter. Mansell was taken back to jail to await his trial in a higher court. Mrs. Mansell's grief was manifested in a shower of tears, although her husband tried to console her.

A STEADY GROWTH.

Annual Meeting of the King's Daughters—The President's Address—Facts About the Order—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the King's Daughters, held in the [illegible] rooms Friday night, was devoted chiefly to transacting business left over from the last quarterly meeting, and to the election of new officers. After the opening Bible reading, prayer and singing, the president, Mrs. Tilley, made an address in which she explained the aim of the society to be to develop spiritual life and to stimulate Christian activity. Bearing one another's burdens, which is the law of Christ, refers not only to spiritual burdens, but to physical and material ones. It means stretching out the strong hand to the weak, the full hand to the empty, the helpful hand to the helpless. No one should hesitate to join the order from the fear that too much would be demanded of her. The society lays down no line of work; each member is perfectly free to choose for herself. Even those who are powerless to help outside the limit of their own home can carry on life the spirit of the society. The King's Daughters have been the objects of various attacks and misrepresentations. On one side it is said that they expect to be saved by good works, on the other that they "do nothing but meet together, read the Bible and pray." Anyone acquainted with the idea and aim of the society will smile at the absurdity of such charges. There is no order on the face of the earth so representative of church union. The pastors of different denominations have great difficulty in finding a platform on which all can unite. The King's Daughters offer practical solution of this problem. Among them doctinal distinctions are of no account.

The several circles of King's Daughters in this city were first incorporated April 1890, when it was decided that all meetings should be held every quarter. Beginning with a small number they have steadily grown. The increase during year was 200; total membership being 353. Five new members were received night. The ceremony of receiving them brief and peculiarly impressive. The dominion convention will probably take early in October. To this, the first convention of the order in Canada, it is expected that a leader of each circle in the Dominion will be sent.

As the nominating committee refrained name any one but Mrs. Tilley for president she was elected by acclamation. The other officers elected were: Vice-presidents Mrs. Nelles and Mrs. Arnott; recording secretary, Miss [illegible]; corresponding secretary, Miss [illegible]; treasurer, Mrs. [illegible] Whinney.

Election Petitions.

The court to hear the trial of the West Algoma provincial election petitions will be composed of Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Justice Ferguson.

The motion to invalidate the Leeds Dominion election on protest, on the ground that the petitioner's name was signed without his consent he being dead when he signed it, was dismissed.

In the case of the East Hastings Dominion election protest, an order was made for striking out the preliminary [illegible].

What's the use of feeling bad,
Mopy, dull and blue?
Cleanse the blood and give good cheer;
Make the old man new.

How? I'll tell you. To the store
Go this very day.—
Buy a medicine to banish
All your ills away—

And that medicine is Dr. [illegible]'s Golden Medical Discovery, the very best blood purifier on earth. It builds up and strengthens the system because it cleanses the blood, and that's what your system must have to be strong and healthy. There's nothing that equals it. After you've sold on trial! Your money back if it doesn't benefit or cure you.

The following medalists were presented to the chancellor at Trinity convocation on Friday at Toronto: G. H. Muirhead, gold medalist in law, 1890. W. Rhys-Herbert, silver medalist in final examination in music. Miss. A. M. M. Graham, gold medalist in second examination in music. J. A. LIFE'S INFLUENCE.

We meet in the world's bread field;
A moment we mingle together;
We part, but the influence we wield
Goes on and on for ever.

Even though our friendship cease,
Even though we each forget,
Our lives cannot be as they would have been
If we had never met.

Can it be? Do all whom we meet
Help to make us what we are?
And do we help them to shape their lives,
Whether to make or mar?

It is so. Each as we touch
Give and receive, unfelt and unseen.
What? We know not; but never to be
As before we have been.

Football and Politics.

At the committee meeting of the Western Football Association held Saturday evening for the purpose of considering the proposal of sending a Canadian team to England one of the members suggested delay.

"Better not decide as to who shall go till after the Government has been formed," he said. "Government! What's that got to do with football, I'd like to know?" asked another.

"Well, just this—that we want the best kickers we can get, don't we?"

"Why, cert."

"Well, then, just you wait till its known who's going to be Minister of Railways, and if you don't see some of the darndest kicking ever experienced in this country I'm mightily mistaken."

"Order! order!" said the chairman, "no more of these political allusions, if you please."—[Grip.

"German Syrup"

Croup. We have selected two or three lines from letters freshly received from parents who have given German Syrup to their children in the emergencies of Croup. You will credit these, because they come from good, substantial people, happy in finding what so many families lack—a medicine containing no evil drug, which mother can administer with confidence to the little ones in their most critical hours, safe and sure that it will carry them through.

ED. L. WILLITS, of Alma, Neb. I give it to my children when troubled with Croup and never saw any preparation act like it. It is simply miraculous.

Mrs. JAS. W. KIRK, Daughters' College, Harrodsburg, Ky. I have depended upon it in attacks of Croup with my little daughter, and find it an invaluable remedy.

Fully one-half of our customers are mothers who use Boschee's German Syrup among their children. A medicine to be successful with the little folks must be a treatment for the sudden and terrible foes of childhood, whooping cough, croup, diphtheria and the dangerous inflammations of delicate throats and lungs.

Worth Makes It The Best.

"I can testify," writes Mr. R. Burnand, 124 Tecumseth street, Toronto, Ont., Feb. 17, 1888, "to the worth of your preparation, St. Jacobs Oil. My mother received a severe sprain and bruise by falling down stairs, but your preparation reduced the swelling at once, and in a couple of days performed a cure."

"Give Me a Cigar."

"Give Me an El Padre"

QUERY: Who do you think obtains the best value for his money, the man who asks for a cigar, or the one who asks for an "El Padre" or any other of our brands?

It Is Difficult to Obtain a Good Cigar,

This expression, heard so frequently, is used only by those consumers who at cigar stores, hotels and restaurants, simply say: "Give me a Cigar."

Those smokers who ask for an "El Padre" "Madre e Hijo," "La Cadena," "La Flora" "Cable or "Mungo," and insist upon having the brand they ask for, do not have occasion to use the expression: "It is difficult to obtain a good Cigar."

The consumer who permits dealers and others to hand him any brand they choose has himself to blame if he is dissatisfied with his purchase.

It is Human Nature for business men to push the sale of goods that pay the largest profit.

It is Policy for the consumer to insist upon having Reliable Brands.

There are some dealers who decry our brands, more especially the "La Cadena" and "La Flora" (the cream of the Havana crop), solely on account of their desire to push the sale of Inferior Goods and Private Brands that pay a larger profit.

If the same attention is given to the purchase of cigars as to wearing apparel, the complaints that are frequently heard would soon cease to exist.

We manufacture only the Highest Grade of Cigars. We are not cheap cigar manufacturers. We aim to give the best of quality consistent with prices charged, and do not pretend to offer the public Gold Dolars for Ninety Cents.

Inthia was of a different opinion, and for this three months past had accustomed herself to think nobly of commerce. As for her lover's turn for verses, she compared it to Winthrop Mackworth Praed's, which was more than the general public did, and even thought it if anything a little superior. He was, altogether a hero in her eyes, and that he should scorn delight and live laborious days made him of course more noble than ever. She glowed over the editor who had accepted the young gentleman's first magazine article, and thought him the most discerning of men.

The dinner and the evening passed as dinners and evenings usually pass. The next day was lovely. There had been a fall of snow during the night. The wind blew keen and bracing from the north, and the sun shone brightly with a reddish tinge, as if his face were blown into light and color by that exhilarating air. The young lovers walked to church together, leaving her ladyship to drive thither with the late bishop's sister, Mrs. Brotherick, and that lady's daughters, the Misses Arabella and Julia.

Perhaps the whole of their contemplations were not directed towards the service, and perhaps even the periods of the rosy-cheeked curate, delightfully intoned as they were, failed to enlist their complete attention. Pleasanter than the rosy-cheeked curate's periods to the ears of the whole congregation Inthia's voice sounded in the musical service of the morning. And if the whole congregation found those fresh, clear, and natural notes pleasant to listen to, it may be taken for granted that her lover found them at least as agreeable as any other listener. The girl had no more thought of singing for show than the robin-redbreast who, excited by the music within the building, perched himself on a tombstone outside and carolled in the intervals of the service; but simply and quietly as she sang, the notes were so pure and true that they made their way through the general clamor of choir and congregation with as little effort as a beam of light shows when it throws a shaft across the darkness. Harry looked at her and thought of Saint Cecilia and of Reynolds's lovely picture of Miss Linley, to which indeed she bore some resemblance. If it is heathen in a young gentleman of two or three and twenty to kneel in spirit at love's shrine in a Christian church, it is to be feared that there are many cultured young heathens in the world, and perhaps after all a young man may be worse occupied even in church than in making honest and manly vows to himself in behalf of the tender and delicate creature whom he means, if he can, to marry. This was certainly Harry's chief spiritual employment for the time being, and by the time the service was over he was in as proper a state of self-abasement and good resolve as if every one of the rosy curate's moral shafts had found a target in his bosom.

Lady McCorquodale sailed majestically down the aisle when the service was over, followed in a meeker reflected glory by Mrs. Brotherick and the Misses Arabella and Julia. Harry and his sweetheart lingered behind a little, to give them time to drive away. The slide of the box in which the pew library was kept was opportunely obstinate, and would not close until they had stooped over it for quite a long time, with heads and hands in near neighborhood. The beneficent obstacle yielded ... it had served its turn, and the young ...le were free to walk home together ... and undisturbed. The curate, who ...e bottom of his heart had no love for ...practice of oratory, had been merciful ...himself, and had preached as short a ser- ...as he dared, so that the lovers had a ...r three quarters of an hour to luncheon, ...could walk by a circuitous and count- ...d route that fine morning. ...hey had not much to say to each other, and the few sentences they spoke were uttered by fits and starts. The pretty little girl in her furs and the tall lad in his ulster looked peculiarly demure, and to the unintelligent eye gave no sign of their inward condition. In their hearts they were perfectly certain of each other, and yet they were full of those tender, plaguing, and delightful doubts with which love is familiar. They were sorely in want of a neutral theme to talk about, and by and by they found one. A remarkably Christmassy old gentleman, with trimmed mutton-chop whiskers of a snowy whiteness, a face of florid red with good living, stout health, and winter weather, and a figure and attire strongly reminiscent of the John Bull of Mr. Tenniel, was in the act of bowing to an old lady who paused at the door of her house to respond to his courtesy. The old gentleman's bow was perfectly polite, but had yet a tinge of friendly respectful waggery and burlesque in it, as if in the amiable exuberance of his heart he rather overdid it. He had just recovered his shining old head with his broad-brimmed old-fashioned hat, when he turned, and catching sight of Inthia, bowed again.

"Good morning, my dear," said the old gentleman, with a chuckle in his voice. "You sang charmingly in church this morning. It is a great treat to hear a fine voice in devotional music. I had a voice myself once on a time, but that was long ago."

Harry supposed naturally that this hearty old personage was known to his companion, and stood smilingly to listen to his compliments. The old gentleman, quite sans gene, took from Inthia's hands the book she carried, and fluttering over the pages of Hymns Ancient and Modern until he found a certain page, when, with a stout, gloved fore-finger following the notes, he began to hum the tune they indicated in a quaint, quavering old tenor, which had yet a husky mellowness in it.

"Fine tune, Old Boston," said the old gentleman. "Many fine tunes here, and I am sure, my dear, that you sing them all delightfully. I wish it were my privilege to hear you. Good morning, my dear, and forgive an old gentleman for complimenting you."

With that the old gentleman gave another sweeping bow with the old-fashioned hat, and walked away radiant, having returned the book to Inthia's hand still open at the page to which he had referred.

"Who is he?" Harry asked, when he had gone out of hearing.

"I don't know him," Inthia responded, her dark eyes dancing with fun, "but he is a very delightful old gentleman."

They laughed happily together, and walked on with their late uneasiness banished from their minds.

"He's an excellent critic," said Harry. "We must allow him that much, at least. What does he call the tune he was humming?"

He bent his head to look at the page, and Inthia held it open before him in her two little gloved hands. They were quite alone upon the road, for they had naturally chosen the least frequented way and Harry essayed, in imitation of the vanished eccentric, to hum the tune before him. He sang like a raven, and horribly out of time.

PERFUMES.
Crystallized History—That's what someone says words are. But a good Perfume is the essence of sweet words. Petals by the thousand are used to make a single drop of Otto of Roses, but that will stir up more memories in a second than could be read in the ADVERTISER in a week. Josephine loved musk. History says so, and we remember it as well as we do that her husband became Emperor of France. One cannot smell the odor without being reminded of it. But all do not limit their choice to one odor. We hear of a lady who puts her letter paper between sachets of different essences, and it is the perfume that she employs that speaks for her. When she uses Tuberose or Chypre she says: "I am true." If the letter smells of White Rose it is "Adieu." but if it is the tenacious and persistent musk, it is "Eternal love." If the adorer is too stupid to understand, so much the worse for him. The Perfume should be always of the best quality; everything else depends upon your Perfumes. Good or bad perfume, good or bad anything else. If you can't see that, there must be something wrong in your eyes—better have them examined for spectacles. We say you can always get the best at Bark well's, and we think we know.

Kaught in Komoka.

The Methodist Church young people gave a garden party Wednesday evening on the grounds of Mr. Higgs, 3rd con. None of the billed attractions made their appearance, but that counted for little when ice cream and strawberries were on the list. The attendance was not large, but in making strawberries and ice cream disappear, the record was said to have been broken by several. The chair was occupied by the retiring pastor, Rev. P. Meyers, and speeches were delivered by Revs. Thompson, of Delaware, and Hambly. Others taking part were Mrs. Geo. Edwards, Miss Tuckey, of London township, Miss Barty, and Miss Howard. Miss Robinson superintended the ice cream, and the selections by the High Flyers, Komoka's own and only glee club, were much appreciated. The receipts, in aid of the salary fund, amounted to $31 clear.

Carter's little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority
