Port Stanley has not witnessed a more successful picnic year than that of the Elgin Liberals yesterday. There have been several large crowds on the heights this season, and these persons who attended all the large society picnics unanimously conceded that yesterday's Liberal gathering surpassed them all in point of attendance. The Port itself was parched and dusty, and a general smoky haze hung over the water and the surrounding hills, confining the range of vision to something less than half a mile in any direction. At times a cool breeze blew off the lake and rendered bearable a very sultry atmosphere. It would be safe to say that fully half of the 5,000 or more people who were present had driven in. The village contained an army of vehicles of endless description, and all available space to the west of the Fraser House on the hill was also crowded with buggies and improvised buses. The remainder of the crowd came from the distant portions of the county by M. C. R. and Air Line trains. A large contingent went down from St. Thomas, and London did almost equally well.

WHO WERE THERE.
The speeches were delivered from a flag-embellished stand on the heights. The platform was erected on a shady spot near the east fence, and the seating accommodation was not adequate to meet the wants of the throng of listeners. As the grass was far from damp, however, it was not at all necessary to stand. The different addresses were received with rapt attention and frequent applause.

PROMINENT PERSONS PRESENT.
Mr. James Beattie (president, East Elgin Reform Association), occupied the chair, and seated near him were Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. G. W. Ross, Hon. David Mills, George E. Casey, M. P., D. Mac-nish, M. P., P. P., Geo. C. Gibbons, Q. C.; L. W. Burke (president, London Young Liberals), Andrew Grant (president, St. Thomas Liberal Association), Colin McDougall, Q. C., ex-M. P.; J. C. Dance, ex-M. P., East Elgin; Dr. Wilson, ex-M. P., and J. S. Brierley, St. Thomas. In attendance were many stalwart Liberals of the county and adjoining places, among whom might be mentioned: John Waterworth, ex-M. P., West Middlesex; J. D. Blue, Editor "Dutton," Advance, Ewan Cameron, Southwold; A. O. Jeffrey, Thomas Johnston, David Andrews, Wm. Lind, J. A. Nelles, George Reid and J. D. Clarke, London; James Rogers, George Stratcliffe and Peter Topham, Dorchester; Samuel Wheaton, London township; H. Timewell, D. McPherson and Mr. McCallum, Fingert; Peter Sutherland, Peter McNeill, Dugald Ferguson, Alex. Cattanach, Mr. McDiarmid, Peter Stevenson, R. Lethbridge, Levi Sutton, D. McAlpine, Thos. Coleman and A. McLarty, Southwold; W. Morrison, Sheddin; John Galbraith, D. Thompson, Arch Galbraith, H. Garbutt, W. A. Galbraith, John Cawwell, Dunwich; J. Mistle, Rodney; D. Lang, J. Thompson, Eggle, T. Montague, J. Enston, Jabez Spencer, West Lorne; Peter Stalker, Criban; R. Geige and Dr. Davey, Dunt; H. T. Johnston (president of West Elgin Reform Association), Dr. Walker, John Reycraft, E. H. Ridley, E. Mitton, E. Porter and Arch. McDiarmid, Ridgeway, and many others.

Three excellent brass bands were in attendance—the independent band, St. Thomas (H. E. Crooks leader), the Dutton band (B. Campbell leader), and the Elmira band (Daniel Gray leader).

Early in the afternoon the executive met and decided to make the picnic an annual affair. An adjournment was then made to the stand, and after a selection by the Dutton band and a few words from Chairman Beattie, the speaking commenced.

Geo. E. Casey, M. P.
Mr. Casey was well received. He referred to the occasion as a sort of harvest home rejoicing. They could afford to rejoice over the harvest they had reaped at the past Provincial election and the return to power of the honest Liberal Administration which had governed Ontario so well for the past 22 years. But with a harvest over he was always time to prepare for the next harvest; therefore, while they rejoiced over their local success, they should arrange and prepare for similar success at the Dominion election. They had much to contend against in the coming campaign—commercial combines, manufacturing combines, and combines of religious bigotry. It was to the advantage of Liberals to unite the different nationalities, the different religions, the different interests of this country into one great and harmonious party of progress. They had the spirits of the dead with them that day, the recollections of the great statesmen of the past who had done all in their power to promote that spirit of unity, and they should hand down their noble traditions unimpaired and unweakened to their successors. By the traditions of that party alone could Canada become great and prosperous. (Cheers and applause.)

George C. Gibbons, Q. C.
Mr. Gibbons was so warmly received and after greeting the assembly he proceeded to wire into the N. P. with his characteristic force and eloquence. He referred to it as a policy of helping trade by restricting it, a policy to enable them to compete by tying them hand and foot, and a policy that was passing away. The Conservatives always stole the national flag and used it for election purposes, but it was the Liberal flag as well as the Conservative. He respected Great Britain and loved England, but they had to make their own history, and could not go on forever talking about what their ancestors and the past had done for them. He was a Canadian and his future and that of his children was to be made here. What was to be the interest of this country was to his own interest. Whatever was in the interest of Canada, whatever would make it more prosperous, whatever would benefit it, it was the work of true patriotism to secure. (Hear, hear and applause.) A free trader himself for a great many years, the spirit of free trade was becoming stronger through this country. During the past few years some of their friends—the farmers—had formed themselves into a party. One of their platform planks he was glad to see was "Tariff for Revenue Only." He had been fighting for twenty years against monopoly, against trade restriction. Yet some of the men who lately came into the Patronage organization discovered that it was something new, and then all of a sudden endeavored to out those who had been fighting for the past twenty years for that policy. Was that fair? Let all the forces who were willing to fight and contribute to that policy join hand in hand. All that he feared in the future election was that the people who were opposed to combines would diffuse their strength and have Patron candidates and Liberals running on separate tickets and allow the other people to win.

Mr. Gibbons went on to say that the Government at Ottawa, as well as at Washington, was run by trusts. The sugar industry and the cotton industry had a higher protection at Ottawa, and at least 45 per cent of the manufactured goods brought into Canada last year were made in the United States, and these goods (amounting to $25,000,000 or $27,000,000) came over a wall of 35 per cent duty. The goods could not be kept out. They could not build up manufacturing industries in 1894 in a 5,000,000 country to compete with the United States manufacturing without a market. The manufacturing business never would amount to a row of shacks in Canada until they were given a market. He had unlimited confidence in Canada, and was not trying to run it down as some Tories would say. He had ten times more confidence in the country than the Tories in that he was willing to allow it to compete on even terms with its neighbors.

If they had the best country in the world and did not take advantage of their position they had a right to complain. What better country could they find in America than they would find within ten miles of Port Stanley? (Cheers.) And yet outside of St. Thomas the country in the past ten years had practically stood still. The condition of the shipping on both sides of the lake was compared by the speaker. They had a shipping list second only to Great Britain itself. He had a dream once that Christopher Columbus, after discovering the Lake Erie, had taken a stroll around Lake Erie. He noticed the great shipping industry at Toledo, Cleveland and Buffalo with the magnificent fleet of lake boats. Then he wandered around to the north side of Lake Erie, past Port Rowan, Port Burwell, Port Stanley and the Eau.

"Why what kind of people live on the north side of the lake?" Christopher C. asked in surprise, as he noted the different appearance of the ports.

"Oh, they are Canucks," his companion told him.

"What are they?"
"Well, they are poor relations of Great Britain. They spend most of their time talking about their rich relatives." "Well, have they no shipping?"
After spending $70,000,000 on canals they have 100,000 tons less shipping than twenty years ago, and on those lakes hardly anything.

"You ought to be the kings of the earth," continued Mr. Gibbons. "The farms in Canada ought to be worth about three times what they are, and they would be if you took away the barrier. (Applause.) What difference does it make if the lake is here if we don't make use of it? It is wrong. If you had free trade with people on the other side of the line you would have large vessels running here every day, and you know it. And every single dollar's worth of goods raised on the farm would be increased in value." (Hear, hear and applause.)

The baleful influence of the N. P. on the development of the minerals of the country was next dwelt on. "We have the best coal, the best lumber and the best of everything," said Mr. Gibbons, "and we let the other fellows have the population and the wealth." We have not market money by the present policy to make money by mining outside of the lake. Mr. Gibbons warned the party against outside influences such as the P. P. A., told how the government of Sir John Thompson was controlled by the different trusts and combines, and urged unity among Liberals and all who indorsed the Liberal platform.

After Mr. Gibbons had concluded, the chairman read telegrams of regret on account of inability to attend from James Lister, M. P., and W. Patterson, M. P.

Mr. J. C. Dance.
Mr. J. C. Dance made a short address, and like Mr. Casey he said that they felt thankful, and truly thankful, that the Government who had governed Ontario so well for twenty years had been returned to power. (Applause.) He went on to speak of the Dominion issue of tariff reform or free trade. He believed that the great majority of the people of the country were in favor of free trade. Well, it might be said, why don't they get it then? The reason why they did not get it was the gerrymander and the way the lists were revised.

Hon. David Mills.
"I am not here to express any lamentation for the fallen fortunes of the Liberal party," said Hon. David Mills after a few preliminary remarks. "I believe the prospects of that party were never brighter than they are at the present time. (Hear, hear.) And in my own opinion when the day comes for the contest between ourselves and our political opponents there can be scarcely any doubt what the decision will be." After stating that he would speak for a short time on some of the questions which encumbered the ground upon which a political contest would take place, Mr. Mills expressed doubt as to whether there would be another session of the present Dominion Parliament. It depended on the result of the Cardwell election. If that went in favor of the Government then it was extremely improbable that the House would meet again, but if the election in Cardwell went against the Government it would no doubt live out the time allowed it by law. The Government had promised in its last plan of campaign to seriously consider during recess the question of tariff reform. They did so in public meetings of farmers, and private meetings of manufacturers. They sought to ascertain how little the one party would be content with and how much the other party would be willing to concede without going into opposition to the Administration. They called Parliament together and submitted results of their investigations. They made many changes, but very little reduction, and the manufacturers were aroused to oppose them. They sent deputations to Ottawa and took the Ministers by the ears, and before the session was over, with a year's consideration and ten weeks discussion, they were led back to their camping ground where they have since remained content. Except a reduction on a few agricultural implements the tariff is practically as high, in spite of all the changes that have taken place, as it was before, and the tax upon you is as great at this hour as twelve months ago.

Continuing, Mr. Mills argued that the object of Mr. Bowell's Australian trip was to lead the people of this country to believe that he (Bowell) and those associated with him were the only parties in Canada anxious to maintain a united empire, to uphold British authority and to preserve in this country the government in control of the colonial conference, and believed that one should be held every decade and presided over by a British statesman. Some advantage might accrue. He had very great sympathy with and a desire to preserve imperial relations. The Liberal views on the tariff—unrestricted trade—were derived from great statesmen of the colonial conference, and he believed that a strong blow against British connection it is those who inaugurated in this country a policy of protection. (Hear, hear.) What, sir, are we doing? Why, we are legislating against the mother country. While permitting our goods, our products, to go freely into their market, we are legislating against her in every tax which we have imposed. That being so, I deny altogether that these gentlemen (the Conservative party) have any right to assume to be the special guardians and the special promoters of British connection in North America. (Applause.)

Let me say to you this. That you have a third party—a party of considerable influence which has been in existence for a very short time. I refer to the Patrons of Industry. So far as Dominion politics are concerned the Patrons of Industry in a large degree have copied our platform. I don't object to that. I commend their wisdom and good judgment, and only ask that they shall make right use of the knowledge which they have in their possession. Now I am going to criticize on two planks which belong to them, not in any unfriendly spirit, but with a view of pointing out to these gentlemen who may be here belonging to that party what the probable tendencies of the doctrines enunciated in those planks. There is the question of the Government House, which will apply to the Province, and the question of electing county officers for the purposes of administration. Now in regard to Government House—if there has been extravagance it ought to be checked; if there has been misuse of public money it ought to be investigated and the expenditure confined within a reasonable limit; but if the proposition is to do away with it altogether, that is a very different matter. Let me ask you attention for a few moments to some things which may be said in defense of that condition of things which have existed for so many years. This assembly here today is proof that man has a social instinct and is a social being, and you cannot ignore that social instinct in public life any more than you can in any other sphere. Let me suppose that you have for one moment at the head of the party a man of great ability but cold and distant, not easily approached and who comes in contact with the community very little. Don't men complain—not because he is unkind, because he is not genial, and you insist upon his being genial, and you deny to that gentility its legitimate expression. That is what is proposed to do. As a meeting place for men of opposite parties the house was of value. Their feeling could be dropped and the men brought into harmonious contact with each other. A story was told in which Lord Palmerston stated that he had saved the country from war by means of his dinner table. At the representative of royalty's house there are also opportunities to meet distinguished men of other countries. I tell you then," said Mr. Mills, "there is no public money that brings as much value to the people of this country, by enabling them to run smoothly, by securing a better understanding between the public men of Canada and the public men from abroad who may meet here. It is important to look from whence this discussion came. It came from leading men of the Opposition, and when I read it I thought: 'Why, these gentlemen expect to be deposed from Government House, they intend that the Reformer House, there must maintain the social side of the institution at his own expense.' You would not close Government House, but you would shut it against any man who is not a man of fortune. That would be the effect of the policy that you propose. Therefore, you cannot reduce the Queen's representative to a mere cipher. His duties are important; he must have power in his position at the head of the executive. It is said that you might abolish the office altogether. Well, those who made that suggestion are not men who have been made mad by their learning upon the subject." (Applause.)

Sir Richard Cartwright:
Port Stanley was, Sir Richard said, one of the very few places in her Majesty's Province of Ontario where he had not at one time or another had occasion to speak. He agreed with Mr. Mills that these meetings were of a very great advantage to them all—more especially at the present time, when in all probability they would be called upon to gird up their loins for a great struggle indeed. Continuing Mr. Cartwright said that he would give a brief review of what was done for their benefit during the four and a half months during which the Parliament of Canada was assembled at Ottawa at no inconsiderable expense to the country. He was sorry to be obliged to tell them that he believed a great deal was to be learned from the example of what transpired there and what transpired almost simultaneously in the Congress of the United States—that so far as actual results are concerned that session was almost a barren one. But if barren of actual results it was not barren of unprofitable for their instruction if they would make themselves acquainted with what transpired there. It was pre-eminently a session of magnificent promises. Long before they met it was announced in trumpet tones by every Conservative speaker and paper that they were about to see how admirably they would be able to reform the abuses which they admitted had crept into the tariff, and would be able to reform their party from the evil-minded men whose doings had, they said, brought discredit to that band of innocents. There were moldering branches to be cut off, evil-doers to be punished, and the political millennium was to be brought in if those pestilent Grits would not interfere with Sir John Thompson and his followers. Such was the programme.

So many promises were made that he could not help thinking of a saying with reference to a certain place being paved with good resolutions. (Laughter.) But the promises were fulfilled in exactly the reverse of what was really done. First of all they released the red innkeepers—Messrs. McGreevy and Connolly—from duress vile. (Hear, hear.) Next they accomplished satisfactorily the total and absolute and unanimous surrender of Canada's regards the Bering Sea fishery dispute, and did it most generously without receiving one farthing of compensation, besides paying our own costs. He found when he came to sum up the net results of their career that after having promised about 150 changes of a very important description they took back 135 of them before the tariff discussion was over. Nor was that all; they concluded, or rather he should more correctly say, "swallowed" the French treaty much against their will. Then they constructed the Tay Canal, they completed the bridge over the Lachine Canal and granted railway subsidies by the million.

Mr. Cartwright proceeded to state that the release of McGreevy and Connolly was not due to their ill-health, but to the fact that certain very interesting and very important resolutions were about to be given to the public—their resolutions in respect to which Sir Adolphe Caron's case was a mere sample brick. There was absolutely no occasion for all the weakness and vacillation with respect to the tariff changes. When the Government allowed themselves to be made not the trustees of the whole people as they ought to be, but the servants of the agents of a small and favored class the question arose as to who had got to pay for this extravagant folly. Were Mr. Haggart, Mr. Quimet or Mr. Foster one penny the poorer for all these expenses?

Mr. Cartwright then referred to the Tay Canal, the original cost of which was $50,000,000, and for the annual revenue of $130 in connection with it $22,000 was expended.

He also referred in scathing terms to the Curran bridge scandal. He showed by the Government's own report that the work cost $480,000 when $200,000 was the proper price. He picked out several items of extravagance, notably that of stonecutting, of which the actual cost was $30,896, and proper cost only $8,000. The laying of the masonry on the Wellington bridge cost the people $122 per cubic yard; on the G. T. R. bridge it was $7 per cubic yard.

Sir Richard then scored the Government's railway policy most effectively. Some years ago, he said, a subsidy of $228,000 was granted for the Carleton Place railway, some 68 miles in length. The promoters secured $500,000 from English bankholders, and altogether $1,000,000, including other sources. The road had been in operation several years, and what were the sworn returns? There were ten stations on this railway. On each way there was a daily movement of ten passengers per day—(laughter)—so that each station actually supplied one passenger. (Laughter.) There was a movement of freight each way amounting to eighteen tons, almost sufficient to load a first-class freight car. (Laughter.) A single decent stage and half a dozen good horses would do the work. The annual earnings were $17,800 and the minimum expenses $20,000. (Laughter)—so that the English bondholders were as likely to recover their money as to find it in the desert of Sahara. (Laughter.) Yet here was this bankrupt institution coming to Parliament, recommended by the Government of Canada, for a further grant of many thousands of dollars, and that grant was put there in the face of our most determined opposition a few weeks ago. (Hear, hear.) Sir Richard was sarcastic upon the advantages (?) of the French treaty, telling his hearers that they would save by it 50 cents a bottle on their dry champagne. This was done in order to allow them to get even with the beer drinkers, for the only concessions in the tariff reform force were those made by Mr. Foster, true to his principles as a temperance apostle—(laughter)—in favor of the brewers and distillers to the extent of $200,000. But what were these things compared with the monstrous wrong done to the people by allowing the present protective tariff to remain in force? "I tell you today," declared Sir Richard, "that the very minimum amount of which the taxation of Canada can be placed is not less than $80,000,000 a year, which is wrong out of the wages of the people for the purpose of enabling a few hundred wealthy men to grow richer a little faster than they would otherwise be able to do." (Cheers.) For every dollar that went into the treasury $2, $5 or perhaps $10 were taken from the people's pockets and never

CANADIAN GRAIN DEALERS HAPPY

In Essex—Large Stores Ready for the American Market.

Windsor, Aug. 29.—The grain warehouses in Essex county have been full of grain for months past, as the decrease in eastern values has compelled dealers to hold their stock. The tariff bill which went into effect yesterday having materially lowered the duty on grain, the dealers are now made jubilant, and they will promptly begin to ship large quantities to the American market. Hiram Walker & Sons have three carloads of the product of their distillery which they will ship across the river at a reduction in duty of 70 cents per proof gallon.

convicted to serve a term of ten months for having delivered a speech inciting her followers to violence.

The Bridge to Paradise.
Al Sirat is the name of an imaginary bridge between the earth and the Mo-hammadan Paradise. It is not so wide as a spider's thread, and those laden with sin fall over into the abyss below. Just narrow is the bridge between health and illness, and many there are who fall into the abyss of chronic invalidism, solely from the fact that they do not know what to do to get well. For so many women suffering from diseases peculiar to their sex, Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved an invaluable boon. For prostrations, inflammation of the uterus, suppressions and all diseases arising therefrom, it is truly unequaled in its powers of cure.

THE DREADFUL DROUGHT.

Wells Running Dry and Forests Destroyed by Fire.WINDSOR, Aug. 28.—The present drought in Essex county surpasses the memory of even the "coldest inhabitant." Farmers are drawing water for miles, and this morning at McGregor, a little station at the junction of the M. C. R. and Lake Erie and Detroit River Railroad, twelve miles from here, women begged water from the locomotive tanks.For several days forest fires have been raging in the wood lands in Essex county, and in sections visited by fire the farmers have been burning the fire to the woods. On the Walker farm the bush has been burning nearly three weeks. The damage created by these fires is serious.GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., Aug. 28.—Vesper, a lumbering village in Wood county, was lipped out by forest fires this afternoon.
Loss, $75,000.

Sudden Death at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Aug. 28.—Death came with awful suddenness to the home of Mr.
Edward Gale, Robert street, this morning.
When Mr. Gale awoke at about 7 o'clock he found his wife lying beside him, evidently in great pain. She was unable to speak, and Mr. Gale was speedily on his way for a doctor. When he returned in a few minutes his wife was dead. Deceased had been troubled for some time with heart disease, but appeared well when she retired last night. She was 26 years of age, and leaves two children, the younger a babe in arms.

St. Clair and Erie Canal.

It is expected that Col. Tisdale, M.P., will be here next week to interview the municipal council as to the diverting of the concession roads in view of the canal being proceeded with. In addition to four railway bridges, the company would probably consent to erect, maintain and operate three road bridges—one possibly at "the jog," and one in each of the two municipalities as the council may designate—which would be sufficient for all traffic, as the company proposes to construct for the use of the public, a good gravel road along the entire length and on each side of the canal and leading to the bridges. This, instead of being a detriment, would be an improvement over the present roads during the greater portion of the year. The company says that it would be folly to proceed with the work unless such an arrangement is made, which, if done, will be immediately followed by the posting up of the $50,000 deposit. Otherwise the whole work falls to the ground. There is no doubt but that the council interested will deal liberally with Col. Tisdale, and the more promptly they do so the quicker will work be started.

A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia.

Neuralgia is one of the most common and distressing complaints incidental to this climate. It is not confined to any particular season, for whilst most general in the winter season, yet many suffer its excruciating agony in the heat of summer. In late years this form of disease has become better known, and consequently the means of relief have greatly increased in numbers, as well as in efficiency. Among the most powerful and penetrating combinations placed within the reach of the public for the relief of neuralgia we can mention no remedy equal to or more certain than Polson's Neu-ralgine. Its power over pain is something wonderful, and we advise a trial for neuralgia or any other painful complaints.It is very important to know where to find fine bedroom sets at low prices. When buying call at Trafford's and you will find them. 95 and 97 King street.

Sowing the Seed

reached the treasury. Sir Richard named rice as an illustration. They were paying 1 1/2 cents a pound on cleaned rice and allowing uncleaned rice to enter at a nominal duty. Naturally the people who cleaned the rice put up the price to the highest point. The result was this: That while the public paid only $50,000 a year in taxes to the treasury, they were entitled to the extent of about $300,000. Mr.
Foster saw this, and proposed to raise the duty on uncleaned rice, which, he said, would yield considerable revenue. He meant to do it. But the rice manufacturers took him by the throat and compelled him to go back to the old exorbitant rates which enable them to tax consumers some $274,000 a year. (Hear, hear.) For every dollar on rice the buyers paid $5 to the maker.
On the great staple of sugar the people were taxed $2,000,000 a year, not a copper of which found its way to the treasury.
Under this so-called tariff reform measure there were articles which were taxed 40, 50, 60, or even 100 per cent. This applied to the whole iron list and chiefly articles employed by the farmers. Take wall paper. On the cheaper grades used by the poor man the duty was 100 per cent, while on the expensive article it was hardly 30 per cent. The richer the man, the less revenue he paid. This was an essential ingredient of specific taxation and remained a part of our tariff today.As high as nineteen twentieths of the Canadian manufacturers, Sir Richard affirmed, could derive no advantage whatever from a protective tariff, and all this monstrous burden was practically imposed upon the people for the benefit of an exceedingly small number of men who were allowed by the Government to tax the whole community for their own benefit and who resented the favor by contributing to the party exchequer. (Cheers.)"I have always been opposed to a protective tariff," said the speaker, "chiefly because of its moral mischief. I have studied the workings in Canada and the States, and have read much of them in other countries, and I tell you the protective tariff is opposed to all ideas of a free spirit. (Cheers.) Protection is death to representative government, which is always open to the evil of corruption.
You will do well to take a lesson from the United States at this moment. There you have a great people determined to do away with the protective system. Yet so strongly is the evil entrenched that you have 65,000,000 people baffled by three or four senators who are known to be the paid agents of a trust. Sir Richard warned his hearers that though such impediment would be in the way here, there would be a harder battle to fight than that of Cobden and Bright in overthrowing only agricultural protection. Of all countries on this continent at least, Canada was the worst suited to protection and the least warranted in hampering its great natural resources to construct a small number of industries.
The Liberal party held the highest conception of Canada's possibilities. They were not afraid to match Canadian labor, skill and intelligence against those qualities in any other people of the world.
(Cheers.) The present conditions of Canada, he said, had the essence of slavery.
Protection also compared to the truck system, under which a man was not allowed to use his wages as he pleased. In conclusion Sir Richard appealed to the Elgins to join with them and all men who desired pure government to put a stop to the iniquities under which they had so long suffered. (Loud cheers.)Hon. G. W. Ross, introduced as a man against whom the fiercest fight was waged in the late battle. The honorable gentleman was in a happy vein and carried the audience with him. He announced that he would not make a speech, but would only thank the electors of Elgin for the manly fight they made in the last Ontario election. "We are greatly indebted to the electors of West Elgin for their successful fight. I am told the choice would have been an admirable one." (Cries of "You're right.") I understand he is a Highland Scotchman. That sometimes helps a man a little. I have had to depend upon it for some of my character in days gone by.
(Laughter.) In East Elgin you were not so successful, but you cast your bread upon the waters and I hope at the next election "you will get it back." (Laughter.)Mr. Ross remarked that in East Middlesex, where they pulled for the Shore, they had a Tory no longer, and he hoped the Patron elected would be true to the principles of his order. The speaker thanked the sensible Conservatives for their support, for many of them had seen virtues in a Liberal at last."The last election was a very peculiar one," said Mr. Ross. "There were 209 candidates in the field. We contested 79 seats and carried 46 of them. Mr. Meredith had the courage to contest 50, and only carried 29 of them. The independent party, including the Patrons, the P. P. A. and others whose politics were not clearly defined, contested 69 and carried 19.
Some say the present Government cannot carry on the affairs of the Province.
If we cannot, who can? (Cheers.) Mr.
Meredith with only 29 at his back? The Patrons with 19? The P. P. A. with two certainly could not! (Laughter.) Well, why cannot we? (Cheers.) The election, continued Mr. Ross, was a very peculiar one from the number of candidates on the field, and those who remained on the field after the battle was over. It was no common slaughter. He never knew of a campaign in which the Conservatives seemed to be so opposed to fighting. There were only 34 constituencies in the Province in which the Liberals could get face to face with them. Of this 34 the Liberals carried 20 and the Conservatives 14. "If we had a straight fight in all the ridings we would have, on this ratio, 60 out of 94 seats." (Cheers.) Their opponents never met them upon their financial position squarely or the enemy would have been routed horse, foot and artillery. "Fancy $70,000,000 spent in 22 years, and not one dollar which they can point at as being corruptly spent," declared Mr. Ross amid cheers. "and then compare that with the record of corruption Sir Richard Cartwright has revealed.
Then look at the surplus of $6,000,000 piled up for Ontario while in the Dominion Government there is a debt of $240,000, 000." (Cheers.)Mr. Ross said they had to contend with a sectarian cry, the most malicious and foundationless ever launched in Ontario. It was said they had managed the public and high schools to suit the Roman Catholics, but every change in religious text books had been suggested by Protestant ministers. It had also been shown that all amendments to the Separate School Act, which, it was charged, were due to Roman Catholic interference, had been approved by the Opposition. They had been accused of appointing Catholics to public offices out of all pro-portion and returns also proved the charge to be false. He would like Mr. Meredith to show where he got his credentials as a Protestant champion. From the past history of his party or facts for I Electors? (Laughter.) He hoped this base cry would be stamped out by every elector.
Protestantism, which had made the empire great, did not need such protection.
(Cheers.) The Government did not fear the closest investigation, but when attention was diverted by these sectarian cries, it was no wonder that some constituencies changed their political representation. The Liberal party had nothing to fear from any progressive element along truly Liberal lines. In concluding, Mr. Ross was glad to express sympathy with the spirit of the other speeches. The sooner they returned to the broad principles which had made England great, the sooner they recognized that they were entitled to trade with the whole world if need be, and the sooner they brought together all the colonies, the British empire, he said, and the important relations, the more fully would they bring prosperity in time to come. (Cheers.)Donald Macnisch, M. P. P.
The newly elected and popular member for West Elgin was given an ovation. He congratulated the promoters of the grand demonstration. He took this opportunity of thanking the Liberals of West Elgin for the honor conferred upon him and the great victory on June 28. (Cheers.) To the young Liberals belonged much of the honor, and it was a hopeful sign of the victory that awaited them in the next contest. He hoped that both candidates in the Elgins would receive the same generous support as he was accorded. Mr. Macnisch said he would do his best to deserve the confidence reposed in him.Dr. Wilson, ex-M. P. of East Elgin was the last speaker. He paid a high and complimentary to Sir Richard Cartwright, than whom there was no more able man upon the finances of the country. Were they to adopt principles laid down by the mother country or those established by the United States? It was their bounden duty, said Dr. Wilson, to prepare for the Dominion struggle, that they might be as successful as Mr. Macnisch was. (Cheers.)VOTES OF THANKS.
The chairman's announcement that the executive had decided to hold an Elgin Liberal picnic every year was approved by the big audience. Then votes of thanks were passed to the chairman and speakers in recognition of George Casey, M. P., and cheers were given for the Queen and Mr.
Laurier.The immense gathering on the heights, after the speaking, did not disperse until dark, and made the evening merry. Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Ross and others

POLITICAL RUMOR

rumor here is that Parliament will meet early in December, and that the general election will come off in March next.

Many People Thought That Mrs. Reany's Recovery Was Only Temporary—A Pleasant Disappointment—
She Is Better Than Ever.SHELBURNE, Aug. 27.—When Mrs.
Reany's letter appeared in a local paper some time ago, giving a history of her long illness and the cure of kidney disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills, many readers thought her improvement was only temporary. All such have been most successfully contradicted, as a letter lately received from Mrs.
Reany states that she has all along been gaining in general health, since her kidney was restored to a sound state, and that for many years she has not enjoyed such good health and spirits. Mrs. Reany, therefore, still pins her faith to Dodd's Kidney Pills and recommends them as

Cattle.OTTAWA, Aug. 28.—Prof. Saunders has returned from the Maritime Provinces.
He visited the Experimental Farm for the Maritime Provinces at Nappan, N. S., and made a careful and thorough test of the cattle on the farm with tuberculosis to decide whether tuberculosis existed in the herd. Thirty-nine animals were tested, and ten of these showed the reaction, indicating the presence of the disease. The disease was found in each, but in most instances it was in the earlier stages. The animals destroyed consisted of five thoroughbreds and five grades. One of the thoroughbreds was sent from Western Ontario, the other animals were raised in different parts of Nova Scotia.Three Paramount Societies.
KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 28.—The Rev. Dr.
Carman preached twice in Brock street Methodist Church Sunday. Two things he said caused much talk. He pointed out that God had placed man in three great societies, the Church, the Family, and the State. Said the speaker: "Show me a man and I will show you that these three societies, and I will show you that these societies do not need to join an Orange lodge or the P. P. A., or any kind of A. B. C. society organized by men." Again, he remarked, if he ran an election he would rather have the true and faithful people of the Church of God on his side than the rummies and rowdies of the community, but it would be wrong for him to join a church solely for the motive of being elected.Do you have headache, dizziness, drow-

TRADE WITH THE MOTHER AND WITH THE SON.

The Liberal leader's clear and unequivocal statements with regard to the intentions of his party when, as a result of the next general election, they attain office, will no doubt be warmly approved by every independent elector in the Dominion. As we understand the Liberal platform, it demands the lowering of duties on goods sent to us from Great Britain in return for Canadian products shipped to the mother land. That is only fair, seeing that Great Britain places no restriction on imports from this country. But the programme of reform goes further. It provides for a fair and equitable reciprocity treaty with the United States, or at least an honest attempt to negotiate such a treaty, not a following of the fashion set by the trade restrictionists. That is to say, the Liberals desire as much trade as possible with the son as well as with the mother. They know that this country and the United States did no less than $275,000,000 worth of business with each other during the last five years, and that, too, with high restrictive tariffs prevailing. They know that there is general rejoicing among our farmers and produce merchants at the present time over even the partial abandonment of the tax restriction policy by the United States. With what popular approval would a widely-extended reciprocity treaty be received! It can be got, we believe, by the pursuance of honest and fair methods of negotiation and it can be obtained without injury to our trade with the motherland. Would we not be foolish if we failed to adopt every reasonable means to bring about so desirable a consummation. Let us get for Canada all the profitable trade possible, and without the payment of subsidies.

—The evening hours at which city lawns must be watered, in order to comply with the regulations, has given rise to numerous complaints on the part of citizens. It is represented that when the plots of grass are soaked with water families cannot take that outdoor enjoyment that should be theirs. The children cannot play on wet grass, and it is risky for grown people to walk on it with thin shoes or slippers. Medical men, too, assert that the practice does not conduce to good health, as in some localities it promotes malarial affections.

SEVENTH BATTALION COMMAND.

The ADVERTISER often disagrees with Ald. Coe, but it decidedly indorses his sentiments, expressed in a letter in today's ADVERTISER, regarding the impropriety of bringing a man from St. Thomas—an insurance agent—to command the Seventh Battalion.

What offense have the experienced military men of this city been guilty of that it should be advertised that among them all there is not one capable of commanding this one-time crack battalion?

It is not true. There are, we are informed, young and vigorous Londoners ready and willing to assume command of the force and to work for its advancement to a front rank in the volunteer service of Canada. Why are they passed over?

Does this kind of treatment afford much encouragement to our young men to remain with and work up to the front rank of the volunteer service?

—Sir Thomas Galt, who has just retired from the position of chief justice of the Court of Common Pleas in this Province, is now in the 78th year of his age. It is 50 years since he was apprenticed to the law business. He gets a pension of $4,000 a year now; but would draw $6,000 a year of public money were the measure recently brought forward by Sir John Thompson in operation. Pensions are a fine thing—for those who draw them.

CONFESSIONS OF PULLMAN.

George M. Pullman, the head of the great concern around which so much interest clustered while the strike of employees was on a few weeks since, made some most significant admissions before the Government strike commissioners this week. Put on oath Mr. Pullman admitted that the company's original capital stock of $1,000,000 in 1867 had increased to $36,000,000; that the company had paid dividends of 12 per cent during the first two years of its organization, 9½ per cent during the next two years and 8 per cent annually since, and at the same time had accumulated a surplus amounting to $25,000,000. He also made the statement that the stock of the Pullman Land Association was entirely in the possession of the Pullman Palace Car Company, having been acquired gradually by the investment of the car company's surplus earnings in the certificates of the land association. The original 500 acres on which the town stands was acquired by the car company on legal advice and by the authority of its charter, which gave it right to acquire land to the amount needed in the business operations of the company. Taking last year through, Mr. Pullman admitted that the Pullman Company made money, and paid 8 per cent, or $2,800,000, to its stockholders. The reason why the company resolved to reduce the wages of the men at the car works last year was because car building had to be undertaken at a loss. The profits were made by the Pullman Sleeping Car Company. Mr. Pullman admitted that it was not altogether philanthropy that dictated the course of the company in resolving to keep the car works running, even at the loss which he claimed. He did not want to stop the plant, because it would be a loss to the stockholders and it would be a difficult thing to get a proper force together again that would perform equally economical work. But he objected to arbitration on the ground that a man has a right to manage his own business.

This evidence confirms the view that Pullman is not the philanthropist he has always claimed to be. He worked his cars and his town to make every cent possible out of them, and when he found that there was a risk of not earning a fat dividend on his money he began to squeeze the workmen, taking good care, as he himself confessed, to leave his own enormous salary, as chief manager, as well as the salaries of his superintendents, untouched. Mr. Pullman says he refused to submit the righteousness of his course to arbitration because he wanted to manage his own business. It is proper to concede to a man who is entirely independent of his fellows the right to run his own business as he pleases, but surely not to the extent of injury to the people at large.

There is another reason why a man like Mr. Pullman should have submitted his case to arbitration. He is the holder of valuable franchises from patents, which are conferred upon him by the whole people, represented by their law-makers. The people have a right to expect that men thus given privileges by them shall not abuse them, and that they shall be prepared to show this before a fairly constituted tribunal. How would Pullman have made his money if he had been refused government patents for his inventions? He says he stands alone, and wishes no interference. He does not stand alone; he has constituted authority at his back in the shape of well protected patents. But for this fact he would not be a millionaire many times over today. Does he owe nothing to the people in return?

—Mr. John Watterworth, ex-M.P.P., informs us that not in over 50 years does he recollect so great a drought as has recently prevailed. Almost every inch of grass throughout Western Ontario has been withered up. Even sheep find it difficult to extract a living from the soil. While this is the case in the west, in Eastern Ontario they have been more fortunate. Mr. McNish, M. P. P. for West Elgin, who has just returned from a visit to Glengarry, says they have had plenty of rain during the summer down there. Can two days last week it rained hard. Can any of our meteorologists explain why the experience of the two sections of the Province should be so different?

—In New South Wales Parliament, the Government has announced that in accordance with the wishes of the electors the "protective" features of the tariff will immediately be wiped out. The trend is towards trade freedom at the antipodes as well as here.

VERITIES.

...At last accounts, 6,000 men were catching salmon at the mouth of the Fraser River, Manitoba.

...The Selkirk (Man.) Record says that a fine specimen of copper ore was brought from the unexplored regions of Lake Winnipeg.

...The Khan writes a poetical effusion in the Toronto World, the aim of which appears to be to encourage osculatory exercises on the part of married men. He fixes upon the number of kisses to be imparted at 40 for every lawful day in the year. How the Beverly versifier comes to fix on that number and not on 50 or 100 does not appear in evidence. By the way, what is the Khan doing himself in this direction? Has he a wife, and if he has what is the standard average number of kisses he daily imparts? Or does he merely take a poet's license?

THE SEVENTH BATTALION.

A Direct Insult to the Military Men of This City.

That is What Ald. Coe Calls the Bringing of a Commander from St. Thomas.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

The writer was much astonished to see by this morning's paper that it is contemplated to transfer Col. Lindsay, of St. Thomas, to the command of the Seventh Battalion, London. Unquestionably the Government has power to make the transfer, but is it not a direct insult to the military men of this city?

If the Militia Department want to do justice to the city of London, they will increase the Seventh to ten companies, making two of the new companies Highlanders and two of them bicyclists, and with a lively man for commander, the battalion would not be a credit to the city and of service to the Government in case of need.

It is a much more difficult task to keep up a battalion of six companies than one of ten. It costs just the same to maintain a band for six companies as for ten. Toronto has four battalions, and London ought to be entitled to one; and if we cannot produce a commander from one of our own citizens let the Government disband the battalion, and there are men in the city who can organize a volunteer battalion as good as the best in Canada. I do not wish to be understood as making any personal reference to Col. Lindsay, who I have no doubt is an excellent gentleman. Yours truly,

London, Aug. 29, 1894. Wm. C. Coe.

A NEW LOCAL ENTERPRISE.

The London Electric Company—Application for Incorporation—Its Aims.

"Disfigured For Life"

Is the despairing cry of thousands afflicted with Unsightly skin diseases.

Do you realize what this disfigurement means to sensitive souls? It means isolation, seclusion. It is a barrier to social and business success. Do you wonder that despair seizes upon these sufferers when Doctors fail, standard remedies fail, And nostrums prove worse than useless?

Skin diseases are most obstinate to cure or even relieve.

It is an easy matter to claim to cure them, but quite another thing to do so.

CUTICURA REMEDIES Have earned the right to be called Skin Specifics.

Because for years they have met with most remarkable success.

There are cases that they cannot cure, but they are few indeed.

It is no long-drawn-out, expensive experiment.

disappeared after committing a heavy forgery on the corporation. He sailed for France, and reached Paris safely. Then he started by train to where his family lives, but it is given out that he was killed and mutilated beyond recognition in an accident. His life was insured for nearly $100,000, and the companies believe the whole thing is a scheme to defraud them.

CLEVELAND'S COURSE

Fully Indorsed by the Author of the Tariff Bill.

The Measure Put in Operation and Working Smoothly.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28.—Representative Wilson, of West Virginia, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, today authorized a denial of the statement that he was one of the several Democratic leaders who urged President Cleveland to sign the Tariff Bill.
"I never believed from the day the bill passed," said Mr. Wilson, "that the President would sign it. I felt certain that he would not veto it, but that he would allow it to become a law without his signature.
If I had occupied his position I should have done precisely as he did."

WORKS SMOOTHLY.
The change from the McKinley tariff to the new tariff law, involving great reductions in rates of duties and numerous alterations in matters of detail because of the well-oiled wheels of government machinery, was accomplished this morning—as far as the Treasury Department is advised—all over the United States, without a hitch or break. All instructions necessary to carry the new law into effect were sent out yesterday and collectors of customs and internal revenue are working today under the changed conditions with new schedules and altered rates, with smoothness and dispatch.

CONGRESS APPROVES.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—At 2 p. m. the Senate and House adjourned sine die. The President approved the act to provide for the collection of international revenue and for other purposes, including an application of $3,000 to force the income tax clause of the Tariff Bill.

CANADA A GAINER.
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Customers officers at this port have been busy today with the new tariff bill. Between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 feet of dressed lumber was received at Tonawanda from Canada. Canadian gardeners rejoiced at the free entry of stuff at the bridge this morning.

"The new tariff opens the way for the importation of eggs, potatoes and other stuff from Canada," said Mr. C. L. Potter, of the firm of Potter & Williams, of Buffalo, N. Y. "As it is now very little produce is brought over from Canada. We expect to see the market glutted with Canadian produce. Eggs, apples and potatoes will be cheaper, but the American farmers will be sufferers. They can't compete with the Canadian farmers."

Mr. J. W. Powell, of Res & Powell, said he did not think that the new tariff would have any perceptible effect on the prices of provisions. He agreed with Mr.
Potter, however, that the new tariff would allow eggs, apples and potatoes to be delivered cheaper from Canada, and that the prices would be reduced.

The tariff reduces the duty on butter from 6 to 4 cents a pound; cheese, ditto; eggs from 5 cents to 3 cents a dozen, and like commodities proportionately.

LIVE STOCK TRADE.
BUFFALO, Aug. 28.—The changes in the stock schedule are calculated to increase the volume of handlings in Buffalo. In the fall heavy entries are made here for sheep from Canada. Under the McKinley Bill the duty was $1.50 per head for sheep and 75 cents a head for lambs. The new tariff makes it 20 per cent ad valorem on all stock and cattle, which is quite a reduction. The duty on horses was $30 a head when the valuation was less than $150, and 30 per cent ad valorem when the valuation was higher. Now it is 20 per cent ad valorem on all. Sheep and horses are the principal stock importations received here from Canada.

Stole a Statue.
MUNICH, Aug. 28.—Prince Regent Luitpold's statue at Garmitz has been removed by unknown persons on the eve of the unveiling of the monument of the late King Ludwig at Munich. It is generally believed that the prince regent's unpopularity throughout Bavaria furnished the motive for the removal of the statue.

the waters rushed through the valley at the rate of 22 miles an hour, carrying away animals, trees, etc. In some of the gorges it was 60 feet deep. Two suspension bridges were carried away.

Sale of Slave Girls in Cairo.
CAIRO, Aug. 28.—An official investigation is being made into recent sales in this city of six slave girls who were brought from Dahour and Wadai. The girls were sold to Egyptian pashas. Ali Cherif, president of the legislative council, and Hassan Wazir, a retired general of the Egyptian army, have been arrested for purchasing four of the girls, and Sharawi Pasha, who bought the other two, has fled.

Royalty Routed by a Fire.
GENEVA, Aug. 28.—Fire started in a building near the Hotel Victoria at St.
Moritz this morning and spread so rapidly as to create a panic among the guests at the hotel which include the Duchess of York, the Duchess of Teck and the Duke of Aosta. All of the guests either left the hotel or got ready to leave in the event of the building taking fire. Several buildings have been destroyed and the flames are still spreading.

Planned Years Ago.
LONDON, Aug. 28.—A correspondent in Seoul declares that Japan planned an invasion of Korea three years ago. The plan of operations was secretly matured to the minutest details. Topographical and military maps of the whole of Korea were prepared, showing every road, river and ford, with the depth and width of the water. Pontoon trains were constructed and every military preparation was made to complete the conquest last year.

The Japanese fleet once begun was to have been executed with phenomenal rapidity. After detailing the genesis of the war, the correspondent declares that the Korean administration is a cesspool of corruption; from the king to the meanest official extortion is the law. The reform of such a Government would command the sympathy of every civilized world, but Japan desires not its reform but its subjugation. Neither Japan nor China ever really attempted any reforms in Korea, but broadly speaking China is Korea's hereditary foe while Japan is her hereditary foe.

On to Peking!
LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Morning Post prints this dispatch from Shanghai: "The Japanese are reported to be landing in front northwards of Taku preparatory to marching on Peking. Another report is that the Japanese have disembarked 20,000 troops on the Ya-Lu-Kiang, which runs along the boundary between China and Korea. They are said to have 23 warships and to plan an attack on the Chinese from the rear."

The Times correspondent in Shanghai says: "The Chinese troops who have been joined by 5,000 Koreans have rolled back the Japanese with heavy loss to Kai-Song, 40 miles north of Seoul. The advance of the Chinese continues. They are helped everywhere by the Koreans." The Times correspondent cites no trustworthy authority for this report.

$1,500. Partially insured.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed a large barn in the east end owned by Mrs. Fischer. A number of vehicles were also burned. The fire was started by some children playing with matches.

KNOWLEDGE Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation.
It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs,

TANGLED THREADS

The facts of the case were these. By the six o'clock post that same evening, Mr. North received an anonymous letter, replete with on his Edmund. His first wife, dead now just eight-and-twenty years, had left him three children, Edmund, Richard, and Bessy. When the letter arrived, the family had just gone to bed, and Mr. North did not open it till afterwards. He showed it to his son Edmund, as soon as they were left alone. The charges it contained were true, and Edmund North jumped to the conclusion that only one man in the whole world could have written it, and that was Alexander, the surgeon. He went into a frightful passion; he was given to doing so on occasions; and he had, besides, taken rather more wine at dinner than was good for him—which also he was somewhat addicted to. As a rule, he had it, Mr. Alexander called just at the moment, and Mr. North, a timid man in nervous health, grew frightened at the sound of angry words, and left them together in the dining room. There was a short, sharp storm. Mr. Alexander came out almost immediately, saying, "You are mad; you are mad. I will talk to you when you are calmer." "I would rather be mad than be a fool," said Edmund North, coming after him. But the surgeon had already left himself out at the hall door; and Edmund North went back to the dining room, and shut himself in. Two of the servants, attracted by the sounds of dispute, had been lingering in the hall, and they saw and heard this. In a few minutes Mr. North went in, and found his son lying on the ground, senseless. He was carried to his chamber, and medical men were sent for. Dr. Rane (as being the nearest), and two physicians from the more distant market town, Whitborough.

Edmund North was not dead. Dr. Rane, bending over him, saw that. He had not been well of late, and was under the care of Mr. Alexander. Only a week ago (as was to transpire later) he had gone to consult a physician in Whitborough, one of those now summoned to him. This gentleman suspected he had heart disease, and warned him against excitement. But the family knew nothing as yet of this; neither did Oliver Rane. Another circumstance Edmund North had not disclosed. When returning in London the previous winter, he had been attacked by a sort of fit. It had looked like apoplexy more than heart; and the doctors gave him sundry injunctions to be careful. This one, Dr. Rane thought, knowing nothing of the former, looking like apoplexy. Edmund North was a very handsome man, but a great deal too stout.

"Is he dead, Oliver?" asked the grieving father; who, when alone with the doctor, and untroubled by the presence of his wife, often called him by his christian name.

"No, he is not dead." And, indeed, a spasm at that moment passed over the prostrate face. All the means that Oliver Rane could think of, and he tried with the best heart and efforts—hoping to recall the fit, and saving life.

But when the two doctors arrived from Whitborough, Oliver Rane found he was not wanted. They were professionals of long standing, men of note in their local arena; and showed themselves condescendingly patronizing to the young practitioner. Dr. Rane had rather a strong objection to be patronized; he withdrew, and went to Mr. North's parlor. It was a dingy room; the shaded lamp on the table not sufficing to light it up. Red morning curtains were drawn before the French window that opened to the flower garden at the side.

Mr. North was standing before the fire. He was a little shrewd man with stooping shoulders, his twenty hair falling over a low, broad forehead, his lips thin and querulous; his eyes, worn and weary now, had once been mild and loving as his daughter Bessy's. Time and care and (as some people thought) a sort of fit, had changed him. Oliver Rane thought he had never seen him look so shrunken, nervous, and timid as tonight.

"What a pity it was that you should have mentioned the letter to him, Mr. North!" began the doctor, speaking at once of what lay uppermost in his thoughts.

"Mention the letter to him—why, it concerned him," was the surprised answer. "But I never gave a thought to its having this effect upon his health."

"What was in the letter, sir?" was the doctor's next question, put with considerable gloom, and after a long silence.

"You can read it, Oliver." Opening the document, he handed it to Dr. Rane. It looked like any ordinary letter. The doctor took it to the lamp.

"MR. NORTH, " "Edmund a friend who ventures to give you a caution. For eldest son is in some sort of embarrassment, and is drawing bills in conjunction with Alexander, the surgeon. Perhaps a word from you would arrest this; it is too frequently the first step of a man's downward career—and the writer would not like to see Edmund North enter on such."

Thus, abruptly and without signature, ended the fatal letter. Dr. Rane slowly folded it, and left it on the table.

"Who could have written it?" he murmured.

"Ah, there it is!" rejoined Mr. North. "Edmund said no one could have done it but Alexander."

Stunned over the fire, to which he had turned, Dr. Rane warmed his hands. The intensely hot day had given place to a cold night. His red brown eyes took a dreamy gaze, as he mentally reviewed facts and suppositions. In his private opinion, judging on the contents of the letter, Mr. Alexander was the last man who would have been likely to write it.

"Is it not like Alexander's writing," observed Mr. North.

"Not in the least." "But of course this is a thoroughly disguised hand."

"Most anonymous letters are so, I expect. It is true that he and your son have been drawing bills together."

"I gather that they have drawn one; perhaps two. Edmund's passion was so fierce that I could not question him. What I don't like is, Alexander's going off in the manner he did, without seeing me; it makes me think that perhaps he did write the letter. An innocent man would have remained to defend himself. It might have been written from a good motive, after all, Oliver. My poor son—if it he had only taken it quietly!"

Mr. North wrung his hands. His tones were feeble, meekly complaining; his manner and bearing were altogether those of a man who had been constantly put off and no longer attempts to struggle against the cares and crosses of the world, or the will of those about him.

"I must be going," said Oliver Rane, arousing himself from a reverie. "I have to see a poor man at Dalry." "Is it Ketter?"

"Yes, sir. Good night. I trust you will have reason to be in better spirits in the morning."

"Good night, Oliver." But the doctor could not get off at once. He was waylaid by a servant, who said madam wished to see him. Crossing the hall, the man threw open the doors of the drawing room, a magnificent apartment. Gilded and gleaming mirrors; light blue satin curtains and furniture; a carpet softer and thicker than moss; and all kinds bright and resplendent things were there.

"Dr. Rane, madam." Mrs. North sat on a couch by the fire. In the house she was called Madam—out of the house, too, for that matter. A severely handsome woman, with a cold, pale, imperious face, the glittering jewels in her black hair looking as hard as she did. A cruel face, as some might have deemed it. When Mr. North married her, she was the widow of Major Bohun, and had one son. Underneath the chandelier, reading by its light, sat her daughter, a young lady whose face bore a strong resemblance to hers. This daughter and son had been born since her second marriage.

"You wished to see me, Mrs. North?" Dr. Rane so spoke because they took no manner of notice of him. Mrs. North turned then, with her dark, inscrutable eyes, eyes that Oliver Rane hated, as he hated the cruelty glittering in their depths. He believed her to be a woman unscrupulously selfish. She did not rise; merely motioned him to seat with a haughty wave of her white arm; and the bracelets gleamed on it, and her ruby velvet dress shone with amazing richness. He sat down with perfect self-possession, every whit as independent as herself.

"You have seen this infamous letter, I presume, Dr. Rane?" "I have."

A Man Made Happy.—GENTLEMEN,—For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria. "Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. Osmond, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria. "Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves." Dr. J. F. KINCHESLOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria. "Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it." The twenty payment life policy of this company affords one of the most attractive and advantageous forms of insurance offered to the insuring public. The policy guarantees that it is fully paid-up at the end of twenty years, that the assured then receives a cash dividend which may be applied in his choice of ways, that the policy receives thereafter, and also increases in cash value. Or the assured has the choice of surrendering the policy at the end of the twenty years for its guaranteed cash value and dividend, thus making it equal to a twenty year endowment. These policies have excellent returns as investments, in carrying the risk. They also guaranteed therein a cash value, and each subsequent year and a paid-up value after the second year.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 28.—Last night Dr. Anderson O'Malley, New York physician, who has been here for three weeks, shot his 3-year-old child accidentally and then killed it to end its misery. He is under arrest, and if almost if not guilty insane.

A Country Schoolmaster's Luck.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 28.—Emilore Gilmore, a country school teacher of Eckert, Ind., has received a lawyer's letter from Newry, Ireland, informing him that he had fallen heir to $3,000,000, the estate of an uncle in county Kerry. He will leave the last of the week to claim his property, having established satisfactory proofs of his heirship.Worms cause feverishness, moaning and

LONDON AND ENVIRONS

—The alterations to Dundas street entrance to the Fair grounds have been begun.—The Bishop of Huron will conduct a special thanksgiving service in St. James Church, Wardsville, this evening.—Mr. George England, gardener at the asylum, has been suffering from an abscess for a year, and it is probable that he will lose his left arm.—Mr. J. W. Jones yesterday afternoon sold the household effects of the late Wm.
Gordon, Talbot street. The prices realized were fairly good.—Mrs. Foreman, of Askin street, fell down the cellar steps at her home Monday night, but suffered nothing further than some severe bruises.—County Constable J. W. Ward was attacked by a cow the other day. The animal ran its horn against Ward's right hand and broke a finger.—The supplemental examination of the Law School will be held as follows: First year, Sept. 3; second year, Sept. 3 and 4; third year, Sept. 3, 4 and 5.—The funeral of John Hyslop, the victim of Monday's runaway accident, will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from Stephenson's undertaking warerooms to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.—The death occurred at the City Hospital yesterday morning of Mrs. Spence, wife of Mr. David Spence, of Euclid avenue. Death followed an operation to remove a tumor. The deceased leaves no family.—Thomas and Godfrey James and Wm.
and James Patton were before Squire J. B.
Smythe yesterday afternoon, charged by Obadiah Cannon, of the Gore of London, with being drunk and disorderly. The charge was not sustained and the case was dismissed.—The late train last night brought in a number of the crack wheelmen for today's races. Among them were McKellar, of Toronto; Percy Patterson, of Detroit, and McLeod, of Sarnia. Patterson rode in Lexington yesterday, and won four firsts and one second.—L. H. Ireland, a blacksmith, formerly belonging to Wingham, was arrested in hunting yesterday afternoon on a charge of having stolen a gold watch, a pocketbook and a small amount of money—from whom the papers do not state. Ireland was committed by Squire McCosh.—A sneak thief broke into the residence of Mrs. Donald Ross, on the Cove road, between 10 and 12 o'clock on Monday night and carried off a purse containing about $15. A gold watch lying under a newspaper on a table was overlooked. Mrs.
Ross raised a loud wail, hearing the intruder and the thief escaped.—The Independent Oddfellows of this city intend holding a grand picnic at Port Stanley in the near future. At a recent meeting of Eureka, Dominion, Chorazin, and Forest City lodges, a committee of twelve was appointed to wait on Mr.
Young, the local agent of the L. E. and D.
R. R. to fix a date and complete arrangements. Dr. Cl. T. Campbell, sovereign grand sire, was among the first to bring up the idea.—Ninety per cent of the business community were willing to sign the petition circulated by the Meteor Bicycle Club, praying for the suspension of business from 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, thus enabling their clerks to attend the big meet in Queen's Park. The Meteor management and members wish to thank those who so willingly signed the petition and hope that they will further assist toward the success of the meet by allowing as many of their clerks as possible to attend.—Creighton Freeland, of Hamilton, the little 4-year-old grandson of Mr. Edward Parnell, sen., Bruce street, came here last week on a visit to his grandparents. Shortly after arriving here the boy showed symptoms of illness. Dr. Ferguson pronounced it a possible case of diphtheria, and had the patient sent to the city hospital. Mrs. Freeland, the boy's mother, was telegraphed to and arrived here from Hamilton in time to see the little boy expire. This was the first case of diphtheria in this city for two months. Burial took place the same day.—Wartburg.—A farmer's son is of age and he is working for his father on their farm and makes a patent fence without a right, and thus leaves his father out of clear of pay for patent. A widow is working a farm and has her sons hired to work it. Have they a right to make, construct or put in practice such a fence without a right, and who is the proper person to collect pay for right? ANS.—The sons are liable for making the fence, and the father and mother are liable for procuring it from their sons and using it in an action by the patentee or his legal representatives for damages or compensation for infringement of the patent of invention.

Fell Down a Well.

What may prove a fatal accident occurred in the yard of Mr. Joseph Greenfield, 755 York street east, yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Comber are neighbors of the Greenfields—living next door. About 11 o'clock Mrs. Comber went into Greenfield's to get a pail of water, followed by her 2-year-old daughter.
While the women were engaged in conversation the child played around the yard. There is an old well on the property, which for some time has been boarded over and unused. The youngster, in its gambols, started to run around the pump, when the plank gave way and the child fell to the bottom, a distance of 25 feet. A few minutes elapsed before Mrs. Comber noticed the absence of her child, but as soon as she did she thought of the old well. A workman nearly was summoned, and soon had the little one raised to the top by means of a rope. The baby was badly bruised and unconscious, being injured by the fall and having swallowed a quantity of dirty water.
Dr. English gave very little hope of recovery.

No. 3 Committee.

The communication of John Law re a free bath led to considerable discussion at the meeting of No. 3 committee last evening. It was referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Ald. O'Meara, John Heaman, Chairman Parnell, the city engineer and Mayor Essery to get further information.
Mr. McCormick, who occupies stall No. 11 in the market basement, complained of damage done to his stock by the fall of plaster from the ceiling. Referred to the mayor and Ald. Parnell. A petition was made from S. Harris and others complaining.We are quoting very low prices for Lily

Repetition of Job's Great Affliction.

Mr. George Henry Drew, of this city, has been in very poor health for some time. His system was completely run down, and his blood so impoverished that "boils came out all over his body." In short, it seemed but a repetition of Job's great affliction, for no sooner did they disappear in one part of the body than they returned elsewhere with more severity, and this condition of affairs seemed to increase, although Mr. Drew had tried no end of curatives. On the 5th day of August he got one bottle of the Royal Crown Remedy and a box of Royal Crown Pills at Barkwell's drug store, of which he has taken half, and last evening he called at the above store to return thanks, and in the presence of eight witnesses stated that it did him more than $1,000 worth of good, as he had not felt as well for years, and the benefit derived from it could not be overrated, and it ought to be made known to other sufferers. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The skin, after a few days' use of the Crown Remedy, becomes clear and beautiful—pimples, blotches, black spots and skin eruptions are removed, sores and ulcers soon cured. Persons suffering from Scrofula, Eruptive Diseases of the Eyes, Mouth, Ears, Legs, Throat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncurable diseases or mercury, or from use of corrosive sublimate, may rely on a cure if the Royal Crown Remedy is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system.

ing of the manner in which the fruit sellers hurt their business last Saturday by shooting.

Market Clerk Wilson will put an end to it, having instructions to enforce the city bylaw covering this matter. In the market clerk's report clause 1, respecting the complaints of the fruit vendors, was filed for future reference, and in regard to clause 2 a more conspicuous sign will be placed on the women's closet in the market. S. Thompson's application for space on market for hide inspector's office was filed. G. Park's request for extension to his stall was left in the hands of the chairman and engineer.
Petitions for new electric lights were laid over till this evening, when the committee will make a tour of the city and see where lights are required. Fire Chief Roe was requested to send in a written report on the matter of having a man short, with the request that a blacksmith be appointed. The members present were Aldermen John Heaman, Wm. Heaman, O'Meara, Scarrow, Nuttins, Engineer Graydon, Mayor Essery, Secretary Bell and Chairman Parnell.Tisdale's Toronto Iron Stable Fit-ment Hall. Send for our new catalogue.

Physical Culture.

"For of the soul the body form doth take,
For soul is form and doth the body make."With each succeeding year comes added interest in this important branch of study.
There is a growing desire on the part of both parents and educators for a broader culture, a more uniform development of all the powers and faculties. Health of body is essential to health and activity of mind.
The interdependence of body and mind makes the education of both equally imperative. Only as we succeed in preparing the body to perform its highest function, that of serving the soul, can we attain to cultured, well-developed, self-governed manhood and womanhood. Everywhere are the effects of the disregard of nature's laws, in the slovenly gait, round shoulders, contracted chests, squeezed waists, protruding shoulder blades, curved spines, uneven hips and flabby muscles.
Fifteen minutes of uniform exercise daily will overcome these weaknesses as well as unpleasant mannerisms, strengthening at the same time the nervous centers, stimulating the vital organs and equalizing the circulation. The Emerson system is simple yet comprehensive. Each exercise has its hygienic and aesthetic value. No apparatus is used, no old-time jerky movements are allowed, but only those calculated to develop the four physical attributes, poise or equilibrium, flexibility or freedom, strength or control, grace or harmony of movement.
The Emerson system of Physical Culture is taught (by Miss Jessica Francis Ter-Williger, late of Boston) at the Conservatory of Music, 340 Dundas street, where Miss Ter-Williger has her private rooms for such students. Any ladies wishing to converse with her on the subject will be heartily welcome at any time. Tuition fees moderate.Farmers and others having horses to dispose of are referred to the advertisement of Mr. Phillips in another column, who will be at the Western Hotel stables, London, on Saturday, Sept. 1, and two weeks following for the purpose of purchasing good sound farm horses. Bring along your horses and turn them into cash.Mr. Fred Spittal, of the firm of Milne, Spittal & Co., has just returned from the British markets. They will open shortly with some of the noblest lines of hats and furs ever shown in this city.
