HUERTA RESIGN?

Rumors Say Yes and No-Customs Problem Worrying Vera Cruz Authorities.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, May 4 .- A general under standing after a state department conference today, was that the mediators had decided to limit their activities at this time to a settlement of the Tampico incident solely, and that the appointment of the Huerta delegates was made on that basis. This would constitute the mediators an international court of honor to decide whether the United States was entitled to reparation for the "insult to the flag" at Tampico, and what form that reparation should take. After that point had been settled they would be confronted by the question of indemnity which probably would be claimed by the United States for its Vera Cruz expedition, and the other expenses incident to the present difficulties. In considering indemnity, the question would again be raised as to whether the Huerta Government, not recognized by the United States, could properly be held responsible for indemnity.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Despite the refusal of Carranza, Constitutionalist chief, to declare an armistice with the Huerta Government, the South American envoys today resumed their sessions, still hopeful that events of the next three or four days will broaden the horizon of their freely and correctly. He is much internegotiations to include the entire Mexican problem. Carranza, declining the suggestion of a truce, asserted a suspension of hostilities "would only accrue to the benefit of Huerta in the civil war now going on in Mexico, between the usurper Huerta and the Constitutionalist army under my command.'

With the rebel chief's reply in hand, the envoys proceeded to their task of attempting to settle issues between Huerta and the Washington Government: Hope that Carranza's followers eventually might be brought into the proceedings, was based on a prospect for appointment of delegates of all parties in the dispute to meet with the mediators. First response to the envoy's request for the naming of delegates was seen here in most quarters in the ordering of Joaquin D. Casasus, former Mexican Ambassador to the United States, from Carlsbad to Washington. While the nature of his mission was not announced, yet it was believed he had been chosen to act for Huerta in the proposed conferences. Hanna's Plea for Secrecy Into Birth of Child to Patient Holds Good No Longer.

An investigation which was delayed by he Liberals in the Ontario Legislature because of the pleading of Hon. W. J. Hanna into conditions at the London Hosp tal for the Insane, will be continued when the next session is held.

About last Christmas a child was born to one of the lunatic inmates of the institution and the fact was brought to the attention of Liberal members of Parliament. While no blame was attached to anyone, the Liberal members of the Legislature thought that the matter should be thoroughly investigated and that the persons or persons responsible for so revolting a condition of affairs in an institution of such a character should be exposed.

When Mr. William Macdonald, M.P.P. for Centre Bruce, sought to bring the matter up in the Legislature, he was pleaded with to keep the matter quiet until Mr. Hanna should have investigated the matter. No report was ever given and so far as the Liberals were aware no action was taken.

Dr Robinson, superintendent of the hostital, showed no desire to cloak the matter when called by The Advertiser. He admitted that the child had been born to a patient, but stated that the authorities had never been able to fix the re sponsibility. Dr. Bruce Smith, the provincial inspector, paid the institution a visit in connection with the incident, but was unable to secure any information. Dr. Robinson stated that the child had died.

At that time the chief difference was over the county of Russell. The Liberals objected to wiping out this county, and the Conservative members favored its obliteration. There were also some grave differences over the terms insisted upon in the Province of Quebec where Hon. Since the meeting, there has come an intimation that both in regard to Russell and in respect to the Quebec ridings, the Government is inclined to be more considerate. There seems to be a possibility of compromise, and the passage of the redistribution bill this session.

The feeling among drummers who make London their headquarters has always been for elevated tracks through the city. Perhaps no other class of men is an aggressive and progressive as commercial travellers. Their constant life of change and contact with business methods in other cities gives them a wider prospective than is entertained by citizens generally. And for this reason their ideas carry an added weight.

Since the accident of Saturday night several prominent grip-men have voiced their condemnation of the death-traps that London is fostering through the neglect of her administrative body to provide some means whereby the danger to human life will be obliterated. What seems to be a prevailing sentiment was voiced by a traveller when he said:

"Saturday night a prominent clergyman was killed at our most conspicuous death trap. Within the short space since the first of the year, several lives have been lost at this crossing. The number of narrow escapes are impossible to estimate, for those things are hushed up. Just so long as there are level crossings in London there will be fatalities and until the council and civic authorities awake to the fact that it is within their power to prevent them there will be no cessation."

Another drummer, in remarking on the fatality, stated that one watchman of the roost a run for their money,' was not sufficient for the Wellington street crossing. With Meeting Held Here Saturday.

The Scout conference held in Cronyn Hall Saturday afternoon was a great success, according to those in charge, the large delegations leaving charge, the large delegations leaving the city inspired with new ideas and great hopes for the future of the Boy Scout movement in Ontario.

The conference was specially designed for Scoutmasters, instructors and all men interested in Scout work. The prospects for a good, strong movement in this city are excellent. Among other things designed for the coming summer is a union camp of all the troops in the city. Troops will be formed at the Children's Shelter and at the Protestant Orphans' Home, so as to give these kiddles a fine holi-day and the opportunity of meeting other boys and taking part in their games. It is proposed to make the influence of the Scout movement in this city as far-reaching as possible. Rev. Canon Tucker introduced the chairman, Sheriff Cameron, who addressed the meeting briefly along general lines of Boy Scout work and with the youth of the community.

Scout Organization.

J. Garfield Gibson, of Ingersoll, spoke on "Scout Organization." stated that this was an age of organization and that the Boy Scouts was an organization of the lad in his world of outdoors.

"The boy in the home, school, Sunday school or church is artificial, but outdoors he is natural,' said Mr. Gibson. He suggested that a valuable means of getting a thorough organization was to get as many prominent citizens as possible together and for them to discuss the movement. "The Scout organization should have a local association to look after financial and other affairs," he concluded.

The next speaker, A. S. H. Cree, spoke on "First Aid" work for Boy Scouts. The foremost idea brought out by Mr. Cree was that a Scoutmaster should not necessarily do most of felt talk on the responsibilities of the the work himself, but should train a officer towards the boys under him. few boys, who in turn should train He dealt also with the Scoutmasters' others. This is necessary to give the boys practical training, and for this reason a connection with the St. Ambulance Association is of Canon Tucker spoke on "Ways and Methods of Interesting Boys." "We must train boys to think and act for themselves, and the Boy Scout organization aims at this," he said.

Demonstration of the 'New Nature-Figure' Nemo Corsets

Corsets that solve the problem of producing the "Natural Figure" with hygienic comfort and safety.

This week the new features of "Nemo" Corsets will be explained and demonstrated in our Corset Department. The new models are an entire transformation of former construction, and completely solve the Corset problem by producing the desired effect of present day styles and harmonizing the "nature figure" as a distinct fashion type with the invaluable hygienic features for which Nemo Corsets are famous throughout the world.

Kopservice Corsets perform the seemingly impossible by enabling all women, from the very slender to the extra stout, to attain a rational "nature figure" without sacrificing comfort or hygienic safety.

To accomplish this result, there must be no distortion of the natural lines, the figure must be straight and youthful, with all proportions well balanced, the hips small, bust low and unconfined, the back flat and the waist line normal. Suppleness and youthfulness are the special features of the new "nature figure" Nemo models, as well as the foundation of health, comfort and style.

From the following models we will demonstrate to you this week the one specially designed for your figure. Four new styles, No. 303, No. 322, No. 327 and No. 328,

One More License For South Huron!

Instead of Eleven Being Cut Off on May 1 Riding Now Has Twelve-Hanna's Perfidy Made Theme In the Churches and Without.

GODERICH, May 3.—Hon. W. J. Hanna's breach of faith with the temperance people was the one topic of conversation all through Huron today, and his action was everywhere roundly con-

Not a few references were made to the matter in the various churches, and before and after the services Mr. Hanna's failure to stand by his promise and close the bars on May 1 was discussed freely by small crowds.

Reports which are coming in from the district show up the worst Government fiasco Huron has ever known, and if the temperance workers were not so absolutely in earnest, the manner in which the law is being trifled with might appear as a joke.

Joke Will Be On Hanna. However, leading temperance men tonight declare that the o'clock tonight. He was 89 years of age. matters rest as long as every bar in Centre and South Huron is doing business, after Huron had piled up the greatest majority ever given in Ontario to close every saloon.

And One More License. One of the most remarkable features which has yet been discovered in connection with the many peculiar things done by the his side through the night, and watched license commissioners came to light today in South Huron. On by him until his death. April 30 there were eleven licenses in the riding. Today it was discovered that there are twelve, and this after every one was to about largely through the efforts of their have been cut off on May 1. The explanation of this lies in the fact that the commissioners, by their action in giving the hotelmen of South Huron three months to sell out, included a hotel at Bayfield which is usually only granted a summer license. The proprietor is, according to the commissioners' own ruling, able to do business for three months at a time, when it was never intended that the hotel in the battle of Gettysburg, where he had should be open.

Hotelkeeper a Magistrate.

Another peculiar act of the Government was the appointment some months ago of Joseph Brenner, the Grand Bend hotelkeeper, as magistrate. As a result of this appointment, all charges to be made by temperance people have to go through the hands of the man who holds the license for the hotel.

One of the conditions on which the license was granted to Columbia. Brenner last year was that his son Ezra should keep out of the hotel. At the recent meeting of the commissioners in Hensall the temperance people alleged, and alleged in no uncertain manner, that this agreement was being broken repeatedly.

At Wingham yesterday afternoon Arthur Bradley was fined $10 by Magistrate Morton for hurling a whisky bottle through the front window of License Inspector Mitchell's home on Thursday night, when the local hotels closed.

At Wingham yesterday Mr. Doyle, who is planning to open a hotel at either Arthur or Elora, offered the keys of his wine cellar. containing quite a large stock, to License Inspector Mitchell. The inspector refused to take them. The hotel is closed up and all the boarders have left.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

ITHIN two months the Province of Ontario will be the theatre for a political duel. The Conservative party, which holds an enormous advantage in seats at the present time, will be met at the polls by the Liberals, who have been in opposition for a long period of years. The dominant party is confident of victory, and will seek to wipe Liberalism completely from Ontario, and to establish what amounts to a form of government which partakes somewhat of the nature of a monarchy.

By every possible means, by taking every unfair advantage that was possible. by refusing to face the gravest charges and by allying themselves with the liquor interests, the Conservatives have at tempted to ignore Liberalism and its representation in the House, and to set themselves in an impregnable position by every means, fair or foul.

They have brought that discreditable instrument of the days of political savagery to the front again-the gerrymander. They have robbed the Liberals of seats, and have betrayed confidences and promises. They had promised William MacDonald, of Centre Bruce, that his riding would not be eliminated. On the last day they cast him out. They gave him fair words and foul deeds. They have loaded the dice for the next elec-

They will use hydro-electric as a battle cry. But they will keep dark the dissension that exists over hydro-electric at the present time among the members of the commission. They will not acknowledge the aid in the promotion of that policy that was given by Liberals. They will not remember their promises to keep hydro-electric out of politics, and they will not admit htat in so far as hydro-electric has succeeded it was by the co-operation of Liberals.

The Liberals inaugurated the policy of necessary engineers to carry out the bination of Thomas Edison's genius and Niagara Falls' productivity. However, it is quite well known that the Conservatives neither invented the means of handling electricity, nor did they discover Niagara Falls. Long before they took the hydro policy as a legacy from the late Hon. George Ross, power was being taken at the Falls and distributed for greater distances than it is now distributed in Ontario. Engineering skill. the desire of the public for cheap power, endless financial resources, non-payment of taxes and the co-operation of the Liberals with Hon. Adam Beck have been responsible for the development of the policy that gives light to most of the municipalities of Western Ontario.

The only difference between the Liberal policy on hydro-electric and the Conservative policy was that Sir George Ross proposed to have the commission controlling the affairs of hydro-electric elected by the municipalities from among the representatives of the municipalities. The veteran statesman believed that politics should not enter into the control of this public utility. He deemed is a thing above politics. He would have had the policy a policy of the country and not of a political party.

The desperate fight in the Toronto cabinet against hydro-electric has not been forgotten. Had not Hon. Adam Beck been given the support of the Liberal party and the Liberal press he never could have carried the policy through. While Mr. Beck's methods have been frequently criticized by Liberal papers, the policy of public-owned power facilities has been championed from time to time in every Liberal paper in the province. The bitterest opposition to the policy has come from Conservative papers, some of of the Scott act campaign for the purpose

While there is constant fear of surrender to that wing of the Government which is openly opposed to the Beck tion in having knowledge of a large grant policy and which never makes reference to it, and which appears to be able to interests in order to assist in electing keep it out of its section of the prov- Government candidates. But those who advance the argument that the abolition of the bars would not liminish drinking have little thought for the growing young manhood of Ontario. or the next generation. With the bars removed practically all drinking would be eliminated among those who frequent them at present. There are few men with so little respect that they will beome patrons of the "blind pig." The average bar-room frequenter of today will not drink under conditions of sottishness, and there are not a great many esidents of Ontario who will break the law in order to get liquor. As for the boys in school, they will never become drunkards without bar-rooms. There will be no bars for them to enter, and they will not give liquor a thought. How many youths start on a fatal career of drink without being attracted by the highlyflavored potions that the fancy-drink mixer concocts? The Liberal policy in Ontario would utterly wipe out the degradation of the province and for the unborn sons and daughters would leave an unsullied heritage.

THE DEATH CROSSING.

TOW cheap is human life? If a manufacturing concern of sufficient importance threatened to leave the city because the Grand Trunk crossing at Wellington street-notoriously known as "the death crossing"-was an inconvenience, the city would take some steps to eliminate the trouble.

But month in and month out citizens neet their deaths at this or other trackcrossed streets, and no one does much nore than to repeat that shallow platitude about how terrible it is.

It is not the fault of the railway that ts trains crush lives out. Safeguards rescribed by law are provided. Gates are set to keep the public from passing while trains are in movement. But the public will not observe the doctrine of 'safety first" that is preached for its

Admitted that the very victims are the nes usually to blame, the responsibility rests upon the city to prevent further accidents-to make these crossings fool roof, putting it bluntly.

Why is the city so callous to the sacrifice of human life? The thing has almost become a part of the day-to-day humdrum. Is it because the city is altogether concerned with its materia things, its dollars-and-cents things, that it allows a needless sacrifice to continue? Take a list of the crossing victims in the last ten years to Ottawa, Messrs. Powers-That-Be, and the railway commission, if it is made up of human beings, will show you the way to abolish these death crossings.

ing put through the British Parliament, the organized physicians of England declared that it spelled "blue ruin" to them, that the compensations to which they adequate return for what was required of thein. The feeling amongst the physicians for a time was so keen that a boycott of all cases was threatened. Now Mr. Lloyd George comes out with figures to show how groundless were these lears. A year ago, when the act went into opertion, 15,000 doctors joined the panels, ender the medical benefit provision of the act. Today, out of 23,500 general practitioners throughout the United Kingdom, 20,000 are now enrolled, and The trail of beauty and the call last year they divided almost $23,000,000 in Government fees. This makes the average for each physician to be a little With kindling eye—and well I knew better than $1,000, while the London doctor got $1,650, and the Liverpool practitioner $1,850. To this should be added the receipts from prescriptions and drugs. Furthermore, it is pointed out by the author of the legislation that as but one-third of the population is at present enrolled under the conditions of the insurance act, and the other two-thirds pay as least as high for medical attendance, the income for the average physician in London would be $5,000, and in Liverpool $5,500. Instead of lowering the level of the remuneration for the doctors of the United Kingdom, as loudly prophesied, Lloyd George's "destructive" legislation has raised it.

A .- 1. Your hair must be in an un healthy condition, or it would not con-tinue to split. It is probably too dry. You should seek to overcome the dryness by means of massage, which will bring out the natural olls, and it would also be good to use a hair tonic for a while.

2. Exercise and excessive perspiration are the best methods for reducing this superfluous fat. I think these dumbbell exercises would help:

Take a dumbbell in each hand and swing the arms in a complete circle some half a dozen times: then, for another half a dozen times swing the arms again, but this time bending the knees at the same time, so that each time the arms complete the circle they touch the floor. Now bring the hands together in front of body, then swing them around so that they touch in back, throwing the shoulders back at the same time.

WINDSOR, May 2.—Ben Beebe was a side puzzle to the Windsor Border Leaguers | The Canadian hurlers, Steiger, who today, and in only one inning did he fail to turn them back in order. In this inning, the eighth, the locals, aided by Whitcraft's bad throw to Bierbauer after a great stop of Neal's liner, got a man on second, and Wilson, pinch hitting for Desmarais, drove him home with a double to deep centre. In every other session the big London twirler had the Windsor players under complete control and not one of them reached third base.

On the other hand, London found Star winning run until the ninth inning, Mason an easy proposition when hits meant runs and, aided by Windsor's errors, the Canadian leaguers ran up a to tie. It was the result of Frye's error total of seven runs. They tucked the which gave Whitcraft a life. Reidy's game away in the first three innings and infield out and Mullin's bounder which after that seemed to score whenever they felt like it.

Many London Fans Present.

The game was witnessed by about 500 fans, many of whom were Londoners or former Londoners. Some excitement oc- to bang the ball on the nose during the curred in the second innings when Cy first eight sessions the S. & S. switched Reidy, the local boy, came to bat for Lon- its attack with result, trying the buntdon. The second ball pitched hit him on the shoulder, but Umpire Lee would not give him his base. This did not bother Cy. But when Umpire Lee called him out when he only had two strikes he became somewhat angry and trotted out to the pitcher's box and had an argument field it although "Scottu" would be second by working Hammond for a pass. Cameron then slid down a perfect bunt along the third base line, Hammond failing in attempting to pitcher's box and had an argument field it, although "Scotty" would have the pitcher's box and had an argument with the local official, closing by throwing Lee's cap on the grass. In the meantime Manager Bertrand of the Windsor club was over at the London bench arguing with Manager Reisling about the play, and when Cy trotted to the bench Bertrand started to call him for his treatment of the umpire. This was too much for Reidy, and when the Windsor manager would not let up he landed a couple of blows on the latter's face. A mixup occurred, but it was interrupted by Manager Reisling and some of the players, and although the crowd rushed on the field order was soon restored and the field order was soon restored and the game continued. London Scores In First.

London started scoring in the first in-ning, when Long doubled to left, went to London started scoring in the first independent on a passed ball, and scored when Lamy laid down a nice bunt on the squeeze play. In the third, with two gone, Linneborn walked and stole second, scoring on Mason's wild throw to first to get Long. Long went to second on the error, and scored when Lamy cracked a shingle to left. In the fourth, with two gone, Linneborn's double and Long's infield hit, followed by Payne's boot of Lamy's liner, resulted in one more tally. In the next inning. Bierbauer led off with a double over Neal's head, and Whitcraft was safe when Campeau dropped his fly. Reldy advanced both runners on a sacrifice, and Muliin's infield hit scored Bierbauer. Danford's single to ceutre scored Whitcraft and McGonagle, who ran for Mullin. After that the London was strong and for the strong was strong and mullin was safe when campeau dropped his fly. Schaub fouled out to start the twelfth, but McCallum hit safely to right center, Lamy making a nice play in holding him to one base. Stringer hit to Hammond, who tossed high in attempting to get Fruiting at second and both runners were safe. Frye sacrificed, Mullin to Bierbauer, aind Gibson hit a hot grounder to Linneborn which he fumbled for a second and his throw was too-late to get Gibson, Fruitig scoring the winning run.

The fielding features were furnished by Frye, Cameron and Fruitig for the work of the strong was single to several to several to several to single to several to who ran for Mullin. After that the London team went out in order, no hits being registered off Mason in the last three out the side, and he also did the same thing in the eighth.

Sharp Fight in Progress Over M. and M. Aid Bill-Kickers Being Watched.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, May 3.—The fight over he Mackenzie & Mann aid bill is not likely to break for a week or more. That there will be a fight is certain. The first stage of such a measure is the resolution stage, and that is not the best place under the new rules to put up determined opposition.

It is expected that the preliminary stages will see the Liberals seeking information in regard to the uttermost consequences of the forty-five million lollar aid proposals. It is felt that there has been little information given thus far and that there is much to be earned before the measure can be alowed to leave the Commons chamber.

Government Followers Watched. The followers of the Government are being closely watched and at leas. sign of wavering is checked. Pressure upon R. B. The Government will delay as as possible attempting to forward this legislation in the hope that these genlemen may be induced to return to the fold or leave the capital for a few days. So far all efforts to shake them have

Col. Hughes' Estimates.

The House is wondering what has happened to an "Estimate party" to which they were invited by Colonel Hughes ten days ago. There had been a good deal of talk about crticizing the militia estimates and it came to the ears of Colonel Hughes. He issued nicely engraved invitations to the Liberal members, requesting them to be in their places when his estimates came down, which would be within a few days. Something apparently has happened to the Minister of Militia's entertainment, for the estimates of his department have not been brought forward and there is no announcement that they would be brought forward

Pretty Wedding at Bride's Home in London Township. [Special to The Advertiser.]

BIRR, May 3 .- A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. F. Elliott recently when her youngest daughter, Gertrude, became the bride of Mr. Henry Roberts, of Concession 13, of London Township. Rev. Mr. Creary, Ilderton, performed the ceremony. After a short honeymoon the young

"He may like the country," said Algernon vaguely, feeling an instinctive desire to stand up for himself.

"It's nothing against him that he doesn't," said Molly. "Cows like the country."

"Yes," agreed Algernon, slightly cheered, "that's so. I don't suppose he will turn up here, but he may return to the city or some Jarge place where his presence will be known and get into the papers. Then how can you explain his mother's being up here when he will probably say she is still abroad?"

"I know there is a risk, there is bound to be one," admitted Molly. "But the chance is very small. I have run it for the last month or so, and nothing has happened."

Algernon laughed. "Let's not worry."

Molly nodded. "The terrible monotony of a job you hate is certainly awful," she agreed.

"It is," declared Algernon.

For a while both were silent. Molly was busy with the bills before her, and Algernon gazed moodily at the floor, lost in thought. Finally the girl looked up and spoke in her old gay indifference, and algernon knew she had given up the attempt to get him to go before trouble came

"Day after tomorrow," said she, "I am going to have a lawn party." She waved her hand loftly with the air of a proprietor toward the stretch of lawn beyond the windows. "My soul pines to be a shining social light, so I am going to have a fetc."

Algernon laughed. "Let's not worry,"
said he. "I never, do. I found that it a fete."

"Who are coming?"

"Everybody—all the aristocracy."

"Hancock, too?"

"Everybody! Why don't you come, if you want to? There is no social distinction in this annex to the North Pole. Everybody's servants eat with them and go to parties and socials with them. Equality, poverty, piety, are the three watchwords up here."

"Poverty is the only thing I can honestly claim," sighed Algernon. "I guess I had better not come. Your guests will think they are getting a glimpse of the Algernon laughed. "Let's not worry, said he. "I never do. I found that it didn't pay."

With Molly's consent he lighted his pipe and leaned back in the deep chair to enjoy himself. The whole situation tickled his errant fancy with the very irony of it. The few bills Molly was running up would not amount to much, and Algernon did not care enough for money to object to the spectacle of seeing himself swindled. It was more amusing than otherwise and was one of the most effective cures to his ennul he had ever known. He had gone peddling because he was bored, and he had left James Mortlmer Worth for the same reason. He felt happily, however, that while the present arrangement lasted he would be anything but bored. Besides, why not let the girl, young and pretty with the wealth that so cloyed him at times? This was one of those rare occasions that only come once in a lifetime, so why not make the most of it, especially as his mother was where she need never know?"

For Molly O'Toole, like Algernon Van Rensellear Todd, did everything on impulse. Where a moment before she had planned to hold him to her by every means in her power, she was now urging him to go. He was so young and she liked him so. That was enough. The rapidity with which she changed was always as disconcerting to herself as to others.

"Go?" Algernon took the pipe from his mouth and his face fell. "Go? Go where? Why go?"

"Why should you risk being considered as an accomplice, if I am tried for—what will they try me for?"

Algernon laughed gaily. She wanted him to go for his own good, not because she wanted to get rid of him, as he had at first thought she meant. "On any old charge," said he playfully. "Swind-lers, thieves—" sat on it, hands in his pockets, one foot swinging. Molly was nervously arranging and rearranging the bills, and did not look up.

"This is the first position as chauffeur I have ever had," declared Algernon with forced gaiety. "Please don't discharge me. I have no place to go."

A sudden idea came to the girl and she looked up quickly. "I do discharge you," said she. "I am Mrs. Todd's housekeeper. I have full right to engage or discharge anyone I see fit. I engaged you. You—I am not satisfied. I discharge you. I shall give you your week's pay—"I refuse absolutely to be discharged," said Algernon firmly. "I belong to the Amalgamated Association of Chauffeurs, No. 4972, and you can't discharge me. My unlon won't stand for it."

"Oh, please, be serious," begged the girl. "You are younger," returned Algernon, trying to see into her eyes. "I can't be serious. I was born a fool and shall probably die one."

"But you needn't die anything else," protested the girl, half laughing, half annoyed.

"I dyed a coat once," said Algernon, realizing his break. "I have an income of fifty million."

The girl laughed at his nonsense. "If you stay you will get into trouble—"

"If I go, I shall get into worse."

"I had been out of a job so long," said the girl, half to him, half to herself, trying to excuse her conduct in the eyes of the flippant youth who would not be serious, "and was so sick of poverty, I wanted to se how it felt to be rich once before I died. I wanted to be able to boast that once in my life I knew the blessings of wealth. Poverty is hell, as you probably know, Joe."

"Oh, yes," said Algernon, "I know."

"A mixture of heaven and hell," mused the girl. "Now you have a job and now you haven't."

"Or else you never lose your job, and then it's plain hell," said Algernon, feeling called upon to add his little to the conversation.

"All of us snobs," sneered the girl.

"All but me," agreed Algernon.

"The man who flatters himself that he is no snob is the worst snob of all," declared Molly.

"How do you make that out?"

"Why, don't you see, in his estimation the more exclusive they will feel the worst snob one ought to be a snob," agreed Algernon.

We got up to Rectory street, and by that time Lane had begun walking through the car, picking up little children and chuckling them under the chin. "The 613 DUNDAS ST. mothers didn't like it at all, and this is Militant Suffragism Successor to Women's Previous Struggles, Says John Cottam. "Militant suffragism is the fourth great woman's movement within the last century," declared John Cottam before the Culturist Society in St. George's Hall last evening. "The first was the struggle a century ago to retain the right to work for their family, which right was taken from them by the innovation of machinery to replace the spinning-wheel and loom.

struggle for education, and this battle was won by the women. Then followed the movement in the seventies for the right to enter the business world, and this was also crowned with success. Now comes the greatest movement, a movement which will have its highest aim the purifying of social conditions, and the revision of present marriage conditions. The woman will become the aroiter of her children."

Dealing with the biological side of feminism, Mr. Cottam, in plain words depicted conditions at present, and stat ed his belief that in woman herself la the power to eradicate social evil. Following the paper, a general discus sion ensued, in the course of which Mrs. J. Thompson, an English suffragist, exlained the evolution of militancy, an declared that one evil ught to be removed is the law which takes from nother all legal right to her child after it has become seven years of age.

DIVISIONAL CADETS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Juvenile Soldiers From Galt and St. Thomas Take High Standing at Toronto.

That the cadets of the First Militia Division can hold their own against any was amply proven by the showing made by the Galt Collegiate and St. Thomas Collegiate cadet teams in the Cadet Tourney, held Friday and Saturday of last week, in the Arena Gardens at Toronto. Galt Collegiate won the trophy for first aid competition with ease, defeating strong senior teams from all the Toronto Collegiates, Upper Canada College, De La Salle Institute and the Queen's Own Rifles Cadets. As remarked by one of the judges, their decisive victory was proof positive that they deserved the five rifies awarded them in the competition held last fall by the St. John's Ambulance Association. At the time considerdissatisfaction was evidenced abla against the award. In the competition for drill and appearance, St. Thomas Collegiate was placed second only to the strong team from Parkdale Collegiate Institute, scoring only one and a half points less than the win ers of the action.

The boys of both teams are to be complimented on the excellent showing made " declared Major W. A. Mc-Crimmon, special cadet officer in the division, who was in Toronto to attend the tourney. "At no time were they outclassed. They had teams in every competition, and although they did not win them all, they were never placed very

MAY DEMAND BETTER CROSSING LIGHTING

As Result of Saturday Fatality G. T. R. Authorities Will Ask For More Lights.

Following the death of William Garside at the Wellington street crossing Saturday night, and having in mind similar fatalities that carried off four other Londoners at the same place, the Grand Trunk authorities may ask the city to provide better electric light service at this point. While the crossing is protected by gates and a tower man, the constant movements of yard engines at this crossing, make it one of the most dangerous in the city. The city lights are on the east side of the street and some distance from the tracks, These lights, the railway people declare, are almost useless, as the east side of Wellington street is but little used owing to the lack of a sidewalk. W. R. Davidson, G. T. R. divisional superintendent, said this morning that it had not yet been decided what action would be taken, but that the company would probably ask for a better lighting arrangement.

NO LOCAL CELEBRATION

Langen Poles Held No Special Services to Mark Anniversary of Polish Freedom.

Because the Poles living in London have no associations, or distinct society, there were no celebrations here in honor of the men, who, 123 years ago Sunday broke the former tyranny and established the modern constitution for Poland. They were just as loyal to Poland, however, even if they did not march down the streets and hold church services, as vey did in other cities. In Detroit, twenty thousand of them formed two monster processions, and after the celebration of high mass in a Polish church, paraded the streets for hours, waving flags and pennants. After the procession, speeches and patriotic addresses were given in a large hall, where thousands congregated.

GORDON JAMES TEMPLETON.

An impressive tribute to the memory one of their most beloved members was paid this afternoon, when the members of. the Manhattan Club attended in a body the funeral of Gordon James (Scotty) Templeton, son of A. P. Templeton, engineer at the Normal School, and previously one of the veteran engineers of the Grand Trunk,

The late Mr. Templeton was born in this city, and was in his 30th year. After receiving his education at Simcoe street school and the Collegiate Institute, he entered the office of the Western Wire and Nail Works, and had been continuously employed there for almost thirteen years. No young man in the city was more generally admired and respected. His social life was spent as a member of the Manhattan Club, and he was endeared to every member of the organization. Although he was not an active player, he was known as an authorty on baseball, and took a keen general interest in athletics. His untimely death was generally mourned.

Besides his parents, he is survived, by two sisters, Mrs. James L. Walton, C Marquette, Mich., and Mrs. Rowland Munro, of this city, and two brothers, William, of this city, and Andrew, of Detroit Margaret, his daughter Pearl Sindelar This splendid drama of modern American industry is a faithful representation country with the new. It shows how the change is gradual yet steady until the younger generation is thoroughly Americanized. The story is also a caustic comment upon certain darker phases of modern business. It is thoroughly interesting rom start to finish. Old Romanoff, a sturdy and interesting figure, at the time of the beginning of the story has found Ruscia too hot for a person of his political beliefs and activities and has come to America with his two sons. The boys obtain jobs in a factory where are employed many of their own race and Alex soon becomes acquainted with Irma whose charms make a deep impression upon him. Of glib tongue and good looks he easily wins the unsophisticated girl and they plan marriage in the not far distant future. Margaret occasionally calls upon he ather at his office and seeing her Ivan builds castles in the air and hopes to one day so advance himself that he may aspire to her hand.

A few months later Irma's dream of appiness is shattered. Alex is killed in a factory explosion and too late the girl realizes that relying too much on the coming marriage she has become indiscreet and that the man is dead who can save her good name. She tells her father of her misfortune and the angry old man determines with his son to see that the injury is avenged or righted. Ivan is told and he begs that his feeble old father be not informed of the wrong. To save the day he consents to marry the girl himself though he realizes that by so doing he is destroying his castles in the air. marry and when Margaret again revisits the factory she learns the news and realizes that the ambitious and worthy young Russian-American has become dear her and is now lost. Some years later Ivan has branched out for himself and come into keen competition with his former employer. Both men are ardently desirous of getting a certain very large contract and realize that it has narrowed down to a question as to which one of them shall get it. Ivan has figured out his bid and risks his entire fortune on getting the contract. Irma's brother Roalf because of extraagant habits finds himself in need of immediate financial aid. To secure it he allies himself with Ivan's competitor who bribes him to secure a copy of Ivan's bid. With the assistance of Margaret and the ungrateful brother-in-law the conspiraors plans to encompass Ivan's ruin. A comprising letter is written and Roalf brings it to his sister's attention. vinced of her husband's infidelity Irma gives her brother the coveted copy of the bid which he turns over to the conspirafors. Armed with the figures Margaret's coy, is in a fair way to win back the affections of her old lover when he accidentally reads a letter to her from the conspirators asking her to keep Ivan engaged so as to have him out of the way He discovers the plot and has now the only recourse of reaching the state capital before the rivals can get there. He employs a special train while his rivals use an automobile. The wagon road runs beside the railway tracks and there is an exciting race between train and motor car which ends only when the automobile attempts to cross the tracks in front of the train, is struck and the occupants killed. In the meantime Irma has learned the truth and when her victorious husband returns confesses all. To the surprise of each a mutual love is disclosed and they see before them a happier life and a better understanding.

Rev. H. H. Bingham Quotes From Volume Which Riley Possessed During Trial.

At the service in Talbot Street Baptist Church last evening the pastor, Rev. H. H. Bingham, read the scripture lessons and preached from Tom Riley's Bible. The book, which was a close companion of Riley's during his confinement before his trial, gives evidence of having been read extensively, several passages from almost every page having been underlined by Riley as appealing to him.

Having in the order of Divine Providence been caused to pass through the greatest trial of my life in the removing from this life to His Divine Presence my dear wife, and having received so many letters and expressions of sympathy from friends, I feel I cannot answer those letters and expressions personally. I ask the kind friends please to accept this as my acknowledgment and thankfulnes for their kindness.

by our vote a traffic that has slain more men in one year in Canada than was has in 50 years." POLITICAL MENACE cursed traffic lies in voting power of pro-fessing Christian people, when all the churches arise in full strength of man-hood's deep conviction of the terrible evil

Rev. H. H. Bingham Denounces Traffic in Sunday Evening Sermon.

HIGHWAY ROBBERS BETTER

Would Rather Have Them Than - the Saloons, Says Pastor.

"I do not contend that the liquor traffic is responsible for all crime, nor that all men who drink are criminals. Every man who drinks is not a criminal, but it is true that most criminals are drinkers," declared Rev. H. H. Bingham, preaching on "Canada's Curse" in Talbot Street Baptist Church last evening.

Denounces Traffic. In denouncing the traffle, Rev. Mr. Bingnam did not censure personality, nor hotels, which, he stated, were essential and legitimate, but he denounced the bar as a barnacle attached to the hotel. "Today," he stated, "the saloon is legalized business, and those who vote for its legalizing are responsible with the saloonkeeper.'

Continuing, Rev. Mr. Bingham deand all that is dear in modern civilization.
"There was a time," averred the preach-"when the only force against the traffic was religion, and that was apathetic, has been reinforced by all social and moral and by men of medical science.

"The barroom is a barrier to all true progress of modern civilization, A 'boozer s of little or no value in business, railroads, banks and great factories, having little use for men who drink. Labor organizations have denounced it at all great which results weakness of spirit and shattered nerves 70 Per Cent Prisoners Through Drink. "Liquor traffic produces poverty, which is the greatest curse of our national life. The Provincial Government is spending a Sunday-school, which meets in the church farm in Ontario to accommodate 500 prismillion and a quarter to establish a prison oners, 70 per cent of whom, directly or indirectly, die there because drink is the cause of their crime.

"This is a political menace," asserted class is under the special supervision of Rev. Mr. Bingham. "to legalize a traffic, the rector, and the church takes a good and then spend millions to care for its protection, in prisons, orphans' homes and the land of the enemy. The peace of insane asylums. The traffic wrecks manhood, debauches politics, steals the virtue of women, reduces homes to poverty, n thief in all criminality having a record ike the liquor evil." "I would rather have so many highway obbers in a community than saloons, was the speaker's startling statement. The robber steals only money, but the liquor vil takes the money and robs the man of his character, home, social prestige, neaven and God. "The license system is insufficient," said the speaker, "it breeds vice and bad government-high licenses does not lessen he evil. It is not reformation that is needed, and you cannot reform a thing nherently wrong. The time has come not nly to banish bars, but the breweries, too, must go. "Liquor, the curse of industrial and social life, is responsible for 70 per cent of the poverty of the country. Wherever you find shattered lives, wretchedness and poverty, liquor is the foundation. "Professing Christian people are moral owards, who allow forces, or combination of forces from cutting completely this cancer from Canadian life. Curse to Physical Life.

"The traffic was denounced as a curse to moral and spiritual life, being unable to separate itself from the crimes of today, robbing a man of his will power, his spiritual aspirations and his soul.

NEED PERSONAL TOUCH IN CHURCH WORK

In concluding, Rev. Mr. Bingham asserted: "It is not necessary to spend time

Must Have It to Bring in the "Stay-Aways," Says Rev J. H. Boyd.

Preaching the postponed anniversary sermon, in Adelaide Street Baptist Church yesterday morning, Rev. J. H. Boyd took as his subject, "The Pilgrims' Joy in the Lord's House," choosing the text, "I was glad when they said unto me: Let us go into the house of the Lord," as the basis

Rev. Mr. Boyd reminded his hearers that this was the third of the fifteen songs of degrees or steps, in the Pilgrim songs, said to have been sung by the thousands of pilgrims as they wended their way through the country up to the city, and house of the Lord. "God is guardian of nounced the liquor traffic as the enemy of his people, and as he guarded the pilgrims pusiness, education, purity of home life, on their journey from their enemies, until they reached Jerusalem, so he will guide us throughout life."

Continuing, the preacher spoke of the psalmist's appreciation of the invitation but that day is gone by. Today religion to God's house, and said: "The human heart is hungering for God, wants to know forces, by industrial and economic forces | God, and in 99 cases out of 100, appre ciates an invitation to the house of the Lord.

'We make a great mistake when w think people do not appreciate an invitation to church." There is a large class who stay away, averred the speaker, be cause they have false notions of the onventions regarding evils formed, out of church. They think they are not wanted, or if wanted, it is only for what they car All such notions are wrong. Paul said: "We want not yours, but you."

"The personal touch and the persona invitation is one of the greatest needs of the church and humanity at large," asserted Rev. Mr. Boyd. In concluding he said: "Our feet are standing within the gates of Jerusalem there the redeemed of the Lord meet and enjoy sweet fellowship; the church is a type of the new Jerusalem. It is chosen its foundation is the Rock of Ages: it has like Jerusalem of old, been taken out of ST. THOMAS, May 3.-The news from Toronto of Miss Kathleen Robb's arrest for the alleged passing of worthless checks in that city was a great shock to the young lady's many Miss Robb, an exfriends here. tremely winsome girl, lived here with her parents until about six months ago, when she left for the Queen City to take an office position.

She was a genuine favorite host of young people, and was considered one of the city's prettiest and most accomplished girls. Her parents, who reside on Wellington street, are highly respected, Mr. Robb being connected with the immigration service of the Dominion Government.

They are at a loss to understand how Kathleen could possibly become entangled in an affair of this kind, unless she did not understand the enormity of such doings. It is hoped by her St. Thomas friends that the matter will be cleared up and that further investigation will show that no wrong was intentionally committed, GRAPE JUICI
