APPEAL AGAINST RAILWAY BOARD'S DECISION OPENS IN OTTAWA

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN DELEGATION WAITS ON RANEY

UPRISING OF SINN FEINERS IS THREATENED IF UNIONISTS ARE ARMED BY BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Funerals of Three of the Victims of Belfast Rioting Are Held—Troops On Hand To Prevent Any Further Disorders—Coffins Were Draped With Irish "Republican" Flags—Saloons Were Closed by Sinn Feiners During Services—Rumors of Plots Believed To Be Unfounded.

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 29.—Three victims of the week-end rioting—John Gaynor, Edward Troddens and John McFadden—were buried today, and in spite of the recent order prohibiting the marching of members of proclaimed political organizations, there was a large turnout of vounteers. Five hundred volunteers followed the coffins of Gaynor and Troddens, but none was in the procession which escorted the body of McFadden to the cemetery. Relatives of McFadden deny he was a Sinn Feiner. The funerals started from the houses of the slain men in different parts of the Falls Road district, and later merged, forming one cortege, which slowly moved between crowds of silent and uncovered spectators.

Tension continues at high pitch in this city, and the military authorities took every precaution to prevent a fresh outbreak during the funerals. Squads of soldiers were stationed at strategic points along the route, and an armored car passed up and down the line of march. There was keen excitement when a motor lorry filled with fully-armed police encountered the procession. The lorry stopped, and many women, fearing a clash, rushed to places of safety, but the police made no attempt to interfere.

Falls Road traverses a Sinn Fein community, and lies only a hundred yards from Shank Hill Road, a strong Unionist thoroughfare, which, roughly, parallels it. North Adams street, connecting the two roads, is the site of a foundry employing a large number of Unionists. This street was kept clear by troops, which faced Falls Road, which was congested with people at that point, Troddens' home being near by. Every post along the street sheltered a soldier, who was lying flat on the sidewalk, rifle in hand. At the other end of the street could be seen a crowd of Unionists watching the throngs on Falls Road.

Saloons Were Closed.

The coffins of Gaynor and Troddens were draped with "Republican" flags, which the troops allowed to remain until the procession reached the cemetery, where the cortege was stopped, and the removal of the flags was ordered. Care also was taken by the military to prevent volunteers from firing a salute at the grave.

Saloons were closed during the funerals, upon orders from the Irish Republican army. Leaders of both sides said they did not expect any more rioting, but Sinn Feiners asserted, however, that if the Government carried out proposals for the arming of Unionists, its action would be taken as a declaration of war and a Sinn Fein rising would immediately folow.

ANOTHER RIOT VICTIM.

Belfast, Sept. 29.—Fred Blair, who was wounded during the rioting here last night, died today. The lord mayor had informed the promoters of the Irish atrocities commission that conditions in Belfast preclude his acceptance of the commission's invitation to go to Dublin and give testimony regarding the situation.

ARE ONLY FALSE ALARMS.

London, Sept. 29.—Rumors of widespread plots which have ranged from conspiracy to assassinate King George to blowing up public buildings, have been current in London during the past few days. These reports have been caused by fear that the lives of public men in Great Britain might be jeopardized should any of the Irish hunger-strikers die, particularly now that the "black and tan" police have made reprisals in several Irish towns.

Police authorities have investigated some of the more plausible stories, and newspapers have run down many more, and always with the same negative result. Some of the more timid profess to see the frustration of a plot in the arrest of a man giving an Irish name who had in his room four service rifles and a quantity of Irish Self-Determination League literature. He is awaiting trial on a charge of unlawful possession of firearms.

TOWN OF MALLOW STILL IN FLAMES

Cork, Sept. 29.—The sacking of the town of Mallow, County Cork, during last night followed promptly on the Sinn Feiff coup of yesterday, in which the military barracks were raided and a sergeant was killed. Not the black and tans," but the 17th Lancers, are said to have exacted the reprisals. They burned the town hall and some forty buildings, including the creamery and the principal shops.

There was much promiscuous shooting by the soldiers, but no casualties have been reported. The fire was still burning this forenoon.

A Mallow dispatch Tuesday afternoon reported the raiding of the military barracks. Last night an agency dispatch from Dublin announced that Mallow was afire in several places. Many buildings are reported burned and damage amounting to several thousands of pounds already done. The town has about 2,500 population.

RATES APPEAL BEING HEARD BY CABINET

Counsel for Wholesalers' Association Opens Argument.

SAYS RULING IS ONE-SIDED

Claims Burden Will Fall On Ultimate Consumer.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—By the Canadian Press.—"If this judgment is correct, it is a judgment that entitles them to take 10 per cent dividends, and, in addition, from ten to fifteen millions by way of annual surplus. To the yoke of such a judgment, Mr. Premier, the people will never submit. There will be a continuous fight against it." In the foregoing sentence Mr. M. J. Symington, counsel for the Government of Manitoba, expressed his general objection to the recent judgment of the railway board increasing railway freight and passenger rates, when the appeal from the judgment to the Privy Council was being argued today before Prime Minister Meighen and several of his colleagues.

Mr. Hugh Blain, who had previously spoken on behalf of the Wholesale Grocers' Association, vigorously supported the appeal, declaring that there was no valid reason for an increase in freight rates at the present time, which would give the C. P. R. an additional revenue of one hundred millions and impose a heavy burden on the consumers.

Mr. Blain declared that the wholesale grocers are more deeply interested in the rate so far than any other branch of business, because of the amount of heavy goods on which they must pay freight. The new rates, he said, were proving to be a most disturbing factor. They impose a heavy burden upon the poorer classes of consumers. It was the duty of the wholesalers, he argued, to look after the interests of the consumers, and the motto of the association represented by him had been "honest service to the public." It was proposed to live up to that motto. The wholesale grocers during the war had done their best to prevent hoarding, and had been instrumental in having the board of commerce appointed. There had been much criticism of that board, but it had saved the consumers of Canada many millions of dollars. "We are here today," asserted Mr. Blain, "to save the consumers many more millions if we can."

Hits Consumer Hard.

It would be better Mr. Blain thought, for the Government to pay any deficit that might be incurred by the C. P. R. than to allow an increase in rates, which will increase the revenue of that company by $100,000,000. The C. P. R. for years past has enjoyed a most prosperous business, and has been able to roll up a surplus of about $500,000,000. It would not be unreasonable, therefore, to ask this company to use a portion of its surplus to carry it over an unprofitable business period.

Mr. Blain estimated that the increased rates would produce from $110,000,000 to $120,000,000 per year. The cost to the consumer would be double this amount, or $30 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

"The Government should certainly hesitate before imposing such a burden on the community to bolster up the C. P. R."

In regard to passenger rates, Mr. Blain stated that the increases provided by the railway board may be justi-

VETERANS PLAN MEMORIAL HALL

Secretary Says Campaign For Funds Will Be Launched Shortly.

Secretary J. W. Cunliffe of the local War Veterans, stated today that a campaign will be launched shortly by the three soldier organizations to raise sufficient funds to build a Memorial Hall. A campaign syndicate in Toronto wrote to Mr. Cunliffe asking him if his association would consider their proposition for managing the campaign. Whether this firm will receive the contract will not be known till the committee appointed meets next week to discuss plans both for campaign and building.

The city may help the soldiers out in raising funds or by leasing property for the building. The committee has in mind as a suitable location the Federal Square. This, they claim, is a most desirable spot, and once the property is obtained all that is needed is the funds. They claim they will not have a hard time in getting the money, as they have not asked the citizens for support for some time.

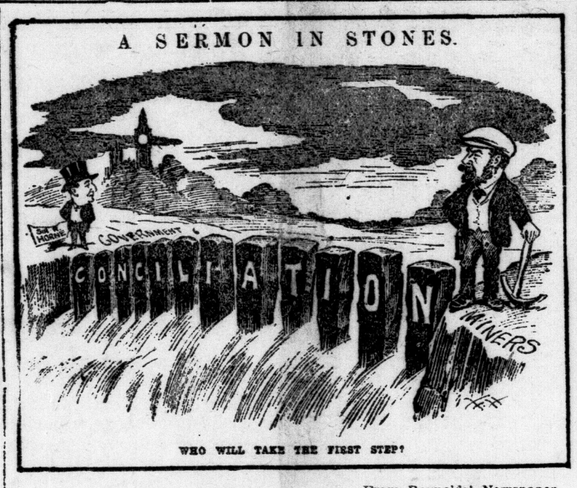

The G. W. V. A. is probably the foremost of the three associations in starting this campaign. Already they have quite a sum of money raised, and all of it will be turned over to the committee. The proceeds of the band concert, which will be given by their band in Victoria Park next Sunday evening, will go in aid of the hall.

The Central Veterans Council has strongly urged the need of a community hall, and claim that until this is obtained the soldiers will not be able to get together as they should. It is also thought that when a hall is built the amalgamation of the soldier organizations will follow. However, only two of the associations will be able to join as the Army and Navy Veterans is an older organization and cannot amalgamate with any other body.

TWO MEN INJURED WHEN TANK EXPLODES

Brockville, Sept. 29.—When an oil tank exploded at the municipal gas plant last night, two employees, Robert Belmont and Walter Slack, were burned and bruised. The property damage was slight.

The Cahill Supply Company's store in Smith's Falls was wiped out by fire at 1 o'clock this morning.

VISCOUNT GREY'S PROPOSALS TO SOLVE IRELAND'S PROBLEMS

London, Sept. 29.—Viscount Grey, former ambassador to the United States, in a letter to the Westminster Gazette, today puts forward new proposals for the solution of the Irish problem. He declares the present home rule bill is not accepted by anyone, and says: "The only practicable policy that offers any prospects of success seems to me to have three cardinal points:

"First—A definite announcement that for these two islands of Great Britain and Ireland there can be only one foreign policy, one army and one navy, and that we cannot stand separation in these matters any more than the north could stand the separation of the south in the United States.

"Second—With this exception, Irishmen must be as free as the peoples of the great self-governing dominions to settle for themselves how their country is to be governed.

"Third—To give time for them to come to agreement with each other and draw up their own scheme, the British Government will continue to perform as best it can the function of government in Ireland for a period not to exceed two years, but at the end of that period, or sooner, if Ireland is ready, it will withdraw, arranging itself, if need be, fair terms for retiring the constabulary and others who have served in it, and responsibility for Irish government will be on the Irishmen themselves."

"In no other way," continues Viscount Grey, "can we bring home to Irishmen that sense of responsibility of which we have for centuries deprived or relieved them, and the lack of which is, I believe, the deepest underlying cause of Irish troubles, of Irish disunion, and of the failure of every attempt hitherto to find a solution to the Irish problem."

Lord Grey begins his letter with the assertion: "The government of Ireland has never been such a reproach and discredit to British statesmenship as it is today."

DEATH SENTENCE LIKELY TO BE POSTPONED SO THAT WOMAN MAY CONTINUE CARE OF TWIN BABIES

Mrs. Marie Gagnon in All Probability Will Be Granted a Reprieve by Governor-in-Council — Cabinet Members Unable To Reach Decision At Yesterday's Conference, Will Take Up Case Again Today—Woman Murderer Is Sentenced To Be Hanged On Friday.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—There is a strong probability that the governor-general-in-council will grant a reprieve in the case of Marie Gagnon, sentenced to hang at Quebec on Friday next for the murder of her step-daughter by process of slow torture. The court, in whose jurisdiction it undoubtedly is to grant the reprieve asked for, having declined to do so, it is now for the Government to decide whether this mercy shall be granted. A cabinet council considered the matter yesterday, but failed to arrive at a decision. A further council will be held this afternoon or evening. In view of the plea that the nourishment of her twin children calls for the continual life of the mother for a period of four months, it is quite likely that a reprieve will be granted.

The question of clemency does not enter in. This was already considered by the cabinet council, which decided against commutation, and in favor of the law taking its course. If a reprieve is granted, however, there is always the probability of clemency being obtained later.

Collision Fatal To Aged Farmer

Richard Logan of London Township Died This Afternoon.

Richard Logan, aged 94, died this afternoon at the home of his nephew, Frank Logan, 4th concession of London Township and Adelaide street. Death was due to injuries which he received in London last Saturday, when the buggy in which he was driving was struck by an automobile driven by T. A. Powell of Exeter near Richmond and Hyman streets.

The funeral will be held from the residence of his nephew to Brown's Cemetery on Friday or Saturday.

Injuries May Result Fatally

Postmaster Quinn of Thamesford Is in a Critical Condition.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Thamesford, Sept. 29.—Postmaster Daniel Quinn lies at his home on con. 10 in a very precarious condition as a result of injuries received when a barn door fell from its rollers. During the heavy wind of the morning Mr. Quinn went to close the doors. One was blown from its roller and fell on his back. Since that time he has become partially paralyzed and there are grave fears for his recovery.

Mr. Quinn is one of the most prominent men in the community. He has been postmaster of Thamesford since the death of N. C. McCarthy, and both in Kintore and Thamesford holds many responsible positions.

CAMPAIGN TO STOP FIRES AND ACCIDENTS

London To Participate in the Provincial Safety Week Activities.

R. B. Morley, of the Ontario Safety League, will address a public meeting called by Mayor Little in the city hall tonight. Plans will be made for London participating in the provincial safety week from October 10 to 16, during which a campaign for the prevention of fires and accidents will be carried on.

Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, as well as some smaller cities, already have formed organizations for promoting the cause of accident prevention, and Mayor Little feels that London, too, should be represented in such a campaign. C. B. King, manager of the London street railway, is a member of the provincial executive. He will be present tonight to aid in the formation of a local branch, and in drawing up detailed plans for the campaign here during safety week.

CHICAGO HOTELMEN ARE CUTTING PRICES

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Twenty-two hotel owners today agreed to cut their restaurant prices from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent. Vegetables, fruits and cereals will be cut the most.

WILL CLOSE BOOKS FOR MONTH.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—(By the Canadian Press).—Notice is given by the department of finance that on account of the interest payments due November 1 the transfer books of the 1918 and 1919 Victory loans will be closed from September 30 to October 31, inclusive. Bonds which are received at the department for transfer after September 30 will not be transferred until after the opening of the transfer books on November 1.

REFORMS ARE URGED IN ONT. INSTITUTIONS

Delegation From the National Council of Women Waits On Raney.

CONSIDERATION PROMISED

Women Magistrates and More Compulsory School Subjects Recommended.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Many reforms in the legislation and regulations dealing with the treatment of women inmates of asylums and prisons in the province of Ontario were urged by the provincial committee of the National Council of Women, which, under the leadership of Dr. Stowe Gullen, waited on the Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of the province, at the Legislative Buildings today. In addition to Dr. Stowe Gullen, the delegation included Mrs. Horace Parsons, Dr. Margaret Johnson, Mrs. McIver and Miss Hart of Toronto, Mrs. Howell of Welland, Mrs. (Ald.) Twidale of Niagara Falls, Mrs. Harston of Peterboro, Mrs. Graham of London, and Mrs. Carpenter of Hamilton. Various members of the delegation spoke to the several resolutions presented. The attorney-general gave a sympathetic hearing and promised due consideration.

Investigation Urged.

Dr. Stowe Gullen spoke strongly on the matter of proper sanitary conditions of insane asylums of the province. Attention was called to the allegations that cruel measures are employed in the treatment of women patients in the hospitals and asylums of the province. The Government was asked to make an investigation of these conditions.

A request for laws to be formulated which will place an illegitimate child in life with the minimum handicaps, having in view the rights of the wife and the legitimate child, was presented by Mrs. R. Graham of London. Mrs. Howell of Welland had a plea for wage-earning labor for incarcerated men, with a portion of the wage to go to the wife of the prisoner.

Legislation for the appointment of women magistrates was urged. A continuance of Government shipping of fish was asked. Several of the resolutions were for the special attention of the minister of education, one of them being that "both French and English shall be taught to all children attending public and separate schools, such instruction to commence in the junior third room or its equivalent."

The compulsory teaching of domestic science, sewing, sanitation, playgrounds supervision, care of the home, values and expenditures, and plain cooking in the schools was strongly advocated.

AMBASSADOR NOT TO BE APPOINTED FOR A LONG TIME TO COME

Impression Prevails That Objections Emanated From British Embassy.

OTTAWA'S EXPLANATION

Officials Declare No Capable Statesman Has Agreed To Accept Office.

New York, Sept. 29—(By the Canadian Press).—Canadians here are interested in a cable report printed by the Sun and Herald this morning, which states that in "high diplomatic circles" in London it is declared there is no likelihood of a Canadian ambassador to Washington "for a long time to come." The reasons for the reported abandonment, or at the best, postponement, of the plan is the subject of much speculation. The Sun and Herald dispatch states that, while there is no objection in Downing street to Canada having her own ambassador in Washington, it was found that "neither a special Canadian ambassador nor a special Canadian representative subordinate to Sir Auckland Geddes could have escaped difficulties which would have crippled the mission." There appears to be an impression here that opposition to the plan came from the British embassy in Washington, though nothing has been stated openly by any official connected with the embassy which would serve to corroborate that view.

REASONS FOR DELAY.

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—Cabled reports that the appointment of a Canadian ambassador to Washington is likely to be delayed for a while are in agreement with a general impression that has prevailed here for some time past.

While no official announcement is forthcoming it is understood that the plan will not be abandoned. It is believed that no Canadian statesman with the necessary qualifications for the post has yet indicated any strong desire to become Canada's representative at the United States capital.

RECORD MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—A sensation was caused in Mr. Justice Coderre's court yesterday, when at hearing of the contestation of the election of the Hon. Napoleon Seguin, as M. L. A. for St. Mary's division, Montreal, it was announced that the record in the case had mysteriously disappeared since last Saturday.

Mr. Justice Coderre immediately granted a petition to have the missing record reconstituted from the documents of counsel in the litigation. Trial was fixed for Thursday.

CONFESSIONS OF EDDIE CICOTTE AND JOE JACKSON TO LEAD OTHER PLAYERS TO MAKE DISCLOSURES

Attorney For Chicago Baseball Club Intimates That Additional Admissions Will Be Forthcoming From Other Team Members Who Stand Indicted in Connection With Alleged "Throwing of Games"—Gamblers Likely To Be Called Before Grand Jury — Cicotte and Jackson Tell How They Were Approached and How They Helped To "Throw" Games.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Further confession by some of the seven White Sox players, who, with one former player, were indicted yesterday in connection with the alleged throwing of the 1919 world's series, will be made within a day or two, Alfred S. Austrian, attorney for the ball club, announced today.

It has been rumored that at least two of the seven were anxious to supplement the confessions of Eddie Cicotte and Joe Jackson with their statements.

True bills, naming three ball players not members of the White Sox and three gamblers, were expected to be voted today by the grand jury. Members of the jury said this morning they had sufficient evidence on which to base indictments.

It was reported that true bills against two National League players were being considered.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Charges that some of the same players who are accused of throwing the world's series have used their efforts to prevent the White Sox from becoming pennant winners this season were made today by several members of the Chicago White Sox, who have not been mentioned in the grand jury testimony.

Chicago, Sept. 29. — Indictments against five or six gamblers were considered today by the Cook County grand jury investigating "throwing" of baseball games, according to Hartley Replogle, assistant state's attorney, in charge of the inquiry. Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, and Arnold Rothstein of New York were said by Replogle to have been involved in testimony presented to the grand jury. Attell, it was said, handled the money paid White Sox players for "throwing" the 1919 world series.

More ballplayers may be indicted, it was also indicated by Replogle, after the grand jury has heard the testimony of President Johnson and President Heydler of the American and National Leagues, who are to testify today.

Copies of telegrams sent prior and during the 1919 series by Hal Chase and Bill Burns, former major league players, have been obtained by Heydler for presentation to the grand jury.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, also has been asked by the grand jury to appear today to tell about the release of Hal Chase. Lee Magee and Heinie Zimmerman by the Giants last year. Statements by several ballplayers in connection with the 1919 series have involved Chase in the deal by which gamblers are said to have paid eight White Sox players to "lay down" to the Cincinnati Reds. According to Eddie Cicotte's confession before the grand jury, $80,000 was paid to the Sox players, divided as follows:

Cicotte's Confession.

Eddie Cicotte, pitcher, $10,000; Claude Williams, pitcher, $10,000; Charlie Risberg, shortstop, $10,000; Buck Weaver, third baseman, $5,000; Joe Jackson, left fielder, $5,000; "Happy" Felsch, centre fielder, $5,000; "Chick" Gandil, first

GAMBLERS ARE TRYING TO BRIBE BROOKLYN TO LOSE, IS REPORT

New York, Sept. 28.—District Attorney Lewis of King's County, announced today he would start an immediate investigation of a report that a clique of gamblers' plans to bribe members of the Brooklyn Nationals purposely to lose games to their American League opponents in the coming world's series.

In a telegram to State Attorney MacLay Hoyne of Chicago, where a grand jury is investigating charges that the 1919 series was fixed, has indicted eight White Sox players, Mr. Lewis said he was acting on the following statement appearing in a New York evening paper yesterday:

"Information which has been gathered by officials tended to indicate that the same clique of gamblers which is alleged to have fixed the 1919 series have made plans to have Brooklyn throw the coming series to the Cleveland Indians."

Mr. Lewis asked Mr. Hoyne if he would supply him with any information at his depot tending to substantiate this statement.

After sending his telegram to Chicago, Mr. Lewis telephoned Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, to have all members of the team call at his office in order that he might question each personally.

Mr. Ebbets said he would welcome any investigation Mr. Lewis might wish to make, and that he would arrange for his players to appear before the district attorney.

While it was stated that club officials had no direct evidence of any attempt to bribe Brooklyn players, Mr. Ebbets told the district attorney that if any were concerned he would suspend them.

Baby Buffalo Is Born At Zoo

Utilities Board May Have To Provide Larger Quarters for Family.

Great excitement prevailed throughout the Springbank Zoo today, when the announcement was made that Mr. and Mrs. Buffalo were the proud parents of a lusty baby. The inmates flocked from far and near to see the new arrival and congratulations poured in upon the happy father and mother.

There are now four members of the Buffalo family. This is the youngest one to take up his residence in London, in recent times at any rate. There is another young Buffalo there, but he was purchased when several months old. It is just possible that the newcomer will make it necessary for one of the others to take up his abode elsewhere, as a herd of three is considered quite large enough for any zoo.

COAL COMING SLOW BUT SURE

Local Dealers Expect To Take Care of the Needs of Everyone.

It is the opinion of local coal dealers that the same method of handling coal that was in vogue two years ago will have to be adopted this year, owing to the scarcity. Two years ago it was sent out in amounts of one ton at a time, instead of giving customers a winter supply.

One wholesale dealer stated that there is no need for panic, as those who have not got their coal in will get it, though it will come a little at a time. The miners taking a "vacation," the dealer said, was responsible for the shortage everywhere, but practically all of the miners are back at work.

Coal is being retailed at anywhere from $20 to $22.50, and local dealers say that this amount barely pays any profit, it being their aim to keep the price within reach of everybody. Nearly every dealer reports that he has coal on the road, but none on hand. All are indefinite as to when it will arrive. The miners have been back at work almost a week, and it is expected that the scarcity will be relieved somewhat in the course of a few weeks.

HARDING'S CAR DERAILED.

Millwood, W. Va., Sept. 29.—Senator Warren G. Harding's special train narrowly escaped a serious wreck near here today when the trucks of the Harding car broke down. The car was derailed, but no one was injured. The senator and Mrs. Harding were shaken up. The train was running at 35 miles an hour.

SAYS NO INJUNCTION HAS BEEN ISSUED

Belmont Gas Case May Result in Interesting Developments.

Contrary to rumors circulated throughout the district, J. M. McEvoy of this city stated to The Advertiser today that he has not issued an injunction in connection with the gas case at Belmont. He has been retained by gas consumers of the district with instructions to issue a writ of this nature should the gas be turned off in future, a large delegation having waited upon him here recently.

At present following orders issued by the provincial authorities at Toronto the gas is on, and will likely stay on with slightly increased charges to the consumers who refuse to pay them. Should the gas be turned off an injunction will be in order, and the problem will be fought out in the courts by the parties interested.

HAS ONLY $2,800 INSURANCE.

Centralia, Sept. 29.—The insurance carried by James Mitchell on the three barns, granary and contents destroyed by fire yesterday during an electric storm, was in the Hay and Stephen Fire Insurance and the amount is only $2,800 altogether. The total loss is between $15,000 and $20,000.

SOVIET TROOPS ARE RETREATING BEFORE POLISH REGIMENTS

Number of Towns Captured by Advancing Army.

Warsaw, Sept. 29.—The official statement on fighting operations, issued just before last midnight, says that in the north the Polish troops have reached the Shohara River.

"In the region of Grodno the enemy is retreating," the statement adds. "Our detachments advancing in the direction of Pinsk have occupied Chomsk, Drohiczyn and Ivanovo, where they captured the staffs of two soviet divisions of infantry, six machine guns, a locomotive, and 150 cars."

LITHUANIA ASKED TO SEND HER DELEGATES

Paris, Sept. 29.—Request that Lithuania be asked to send delegates immediately to Suwalki for the purpose of discussing the frontier question with Poland is made in a telegram sent to the league of nations by the Polish Government. This telegram was in reply to a message sent to Warsaw by the league, and was handed to Leon Bougeois, president of the council of the league, by Ignace Jan Paderewski, former Polish premier.

ENGINEER KILLED IN WRECK.

Watertown, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Eugene N. Kenyon, engineer, of this city, was killed and others injured early this morning, when a passenger train bound from Utica to this city was wrecked at Alderbrook.

COMMITTEE IS CONSIDERING STREET RAILWAY PROBLEMS

Lively Discussion Is Expected At Meeting of No. 1 Committee This Afternoon—Fire Chief's Report On Collegiate Fire Also Presented.

Street railway problems likely will be the principal ones for No. 1 committee of the city council to solve when it meets this afternoon. The recommendation of the special street railway committee that a plebiscite be taken at an early date on five proposals will be considered.

The five plans suggested were: Cancellation of the franchise and purchase of the road by the city; purchase by the hydro-electric commission, with bonds guaranteed by the city; operation by the Ontario railway and municipal board on a service-at-cost plan until the expiration of the franchise; operation by the company on the same plan; and cancellation of the franchise, with provision for a new system of transportation.

Ald. Cameron Wilson opposed the suggestion of submitting these to the people, as he said that the first four all mean an increase in the fares. He favored the last plan. Ald. W. A. Wilson was not entirely in favor of the scheme, either. For that reason the report of the committee may not be adopted by No. 1 this afternoon, or at least some alterations may be made in it.

The report of Fire Chief Aitken on the fighting of the Collegiate fire will be received and discussed. The council at its last meeting decided to take this step rather than hold an investigation, as one had already been conducted by the fire marshal of the province.

Kippen Man Sustains Heavy Loss When Animals Break Into Orchard.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kippen, Sept. 29.—W. Jarrott sustained a heavy loss today. When he went out to his orchard this morning he found six of his finest cattle lying dead. During the night the animals had broken through a fence and gorged themselves with apples. The dead animals were valued at $150 each. Several other cattle are ill as a result of overeating apples but are under the care of a veterinary surgeon and it is hoped to save them.

CREAM
SEPARATOR

It is the cheapest as well as the best, when time, labor, wear and quality of product are considered.

Look well to service when you buy a cream separator. That means more than anything else. That should include not only a good working and reliable machine, but the right sort of attention and interest on the part of the seller, not only at the time the machine is set up, but as long as you continue to use it. De Laval service is well known. You can depend upon it.

Value depends upon the amount and quality of service the separator gives you—what you get out of it. You get more value for your money when you buy a De Laval, because it will give you more and better service than any other separator.

CENTRAL VETERANS INDORSE JUVENILE COURT PROPOSITION

Want Joint Meeting of Representative Organizations, Officials, On Matter.

SEEK COAL SUPPLY

To Communicate With Western Dealers—Free University Education Plans Outlined.

Members of the Central Veterans' Council at a meeting held in the armories last night went on record as favoring a juvenile court for this city, and decided to co-operate with local organizations in sympathy with this movement. The secretary was accordingly instructed to communicate with the local Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Labor Representation committee and Mayor E. S. Little to arrange if possible a joint meeting to formulate plans for the establishment of the court immediately.

The members expressed the opinion that returned men are now fully established in the community and should be willing to co-operate in the establishment of a juvenile court. A written promise of any assistance possible was received from Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A., and the interest of the attorney-general will be solicited in this scheme by the council.

In an effort to solve the fuel problem for the coming winter the meeting decided to get in touch with coal dealers in the Canadian West on information supplied to the effect that there is a supply available there. It is understood that several municipal coalyards in Western Canada have obtained fuel, via Calgary dealers, and these will be communicated with, while the council will interview local coal merchants with the object of working in harmony with them this winter and obtaining supplies for returned soldiers of the city with the least possible difficulty.

Free Education.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown addressed the meeting and outlined plans backed by the Y. M. C. A., whereby free university education to returned soldiers will be made possible. Under this scheme returned men availing themselves of the opportunity shall be required to pay 25 per cent of the fees, and upon attendence for 75 per cent of the term the fee shall be remitted. An appropriation to make this plan practical has been made for the local Y. M. C. A. and if enough candidates make it feasible the work will be undertaken here. Similar action is contemplated by the "Y" throughout the Dominion.

The council indorsed this generous offer, and steps will be taken to acquaint veterans of the district with the plans, in an effort to awaken sufficient interest to make them practical. Lieut.-Col. J. P. French, president of the council, acted as chairman at the meeting.

CITY COUNCIL WILL CONSIDER BUILDING NEW PAVING PLANT

Committee Recommends It—Members May Vote Nay At Council, However.

DOUBLE OUTPUT PLAN

C. P. R. Reducing Smoke Nusiance, Reports Official—Objection To Street Extension.

The erection of a new paving plant, costing $45,000 or $60,000, was recommended to the consideration of the city council by No. 2 committee of the city council last night. Only Ald. W. A. Wilson and John Ashton were actively in favor of it. Ald. Moorhead and Watkinson thought it was too late in the year to call for tenders on such a proposition, and thought it would be better to recommend it to next year's council. They agreed to send it on with the understanding that they could vote against it in the council if they wished.

The plant would replace the one which was purchased from the Standard Paving Company in 1917 at a cost of approximately $17,000. About $8,000 was spent on additions and improvements since that time, making the total cost about $25,000, against which stands a credit account of practically the same amount. The plant was built in 1896, twenty-four years ago, and according to City Engineer H. A. Brazier, is now totally inefficient, because of the small capacity and the excessive cost of repairs.

Reduce Cost.

A new plant would reduce the cost of repairs 75 per cent and the output would be doubled, the city engineer said. The money woud be raised by the sale of five-year debentures, which would be paid out of the local improvement charges for paving done with material from the plant. Its output would be 2,000 square yards of one and one-half inch surface a day.

No further action was taken in regard to complaints regarding smoke from the C. P. R. roundhouse. R. McKillop, superintendent of the C. P. R., stated that the company was doing everything in its power to reduce the nuisance, but that it could not be eliminated entirely. He did not think that the statutes regarding smoke nuisances applied to roundhouses. Ald. Watkinson thought that a petition should be presented to the Legislature to change the statutes so that they would apply.

He said that if something was not done the city would be sued for damages by people living in the vicinity of the roundhouse.

The committee will inspect the situation in regard to the extension of Nelson street from Wellington to Clarence. Elizabeth George protested against the street being put through. The committee will see if some arrangement to open the street can be made.

W. C. T. U. SERVES OVER 7,000 MEALS AT WESTERN FAIR

Will Ask Provincial Convention To Come To London Next Year.

Mrs. Hubert Ashplant is again president of the local W. C. T. U., having been elected as yesterday's meeting held at the rooms on Clarence street. Mrs. Ida Harrison is first vice-president, Mrs. John Cottam is corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. R. White is recording secretary, Mrs. Amy Patterson is treasurer, and Mrs. W. P. Young is fee superintendent.

Delegates were also elected to attend the provincial W. C. T. U. convention at Smith's Falls on October 5 and 6, the choice being Mrs. Hubert Ashplant, Mrs. Amy Patterson and Mrs. Lyon. Mrs. John Jones will also go to represent the county W. C. T. U. Mrs. Patterson was made the official delegate to the Dominion W. C. T. U. meeting, to be held in Windsor, N. B., from October 9 to 14. Mrs. W. Weekes, Mrs. John Jones and Mrs. Gordon Wright will also attend this convention.

It was decided at this meeting that the local branch of the W. C. T. U. invite the provincial convention to London next year.

$954 Balance.

Another feature of the meeting was the reading of the financial report in connection with the W. C. T. U. lunch room at the Western Fair. The report showed the total receipts to be $3,141.60; and total disbursements $2,186.77, leaving a balance for the union of $954.83. This is smaller than the balance last year, which was $1,398, but measures up well, considering the much larger rent and higher prices of some commodities. During the fair this year the union served over 7,000 meals.

IMPERIAL NIGHT IS ONE OF CELEBRATION FOR ORANGE LODGES

Big Banquet Held in Masonic Temple—Hundreds of Visitors Present.

When 300 members of the Star of Bethlehem, L. O. L., 2769, celebrated Imperial Night last night in honor of their guests, members of the Imperial L. O. L., 2767, of Toronto, the greatest night in the history of Orangeism in London was created. After a long session of degree work held in Ulster hall, at Clarence and Dundas streets, had ended the whole assembly, which included many out-of-town visitors besides the Imperials, made merry around the banquet table in the Masonic Hall.

Over 60 members of the Toronto lodge arrived in this city at 8:10 by special cars. They were met by a reception committee and Hackett L. O. L., 805, fife and drum band, which led the way to Ulster Hall. After the degree work concluded the band, headed by a fluttering Union Jack and followed by a procession two blocks long, marched down Dundas street to Richmond, then back Queen's avenue to the Masonic Temple.

In the great dining-hall, which was richly and artistically decorated with flowers, Union Jack shields, flags and bubbling fountains and bowls of goldfish capping pedestals, tables were bountifully prepared. Overhead a miniature aeroplane circled.

A long list of toasts, following a hearty sing-song, and interspersed with musical numbers, gave birth to many splendid speeches delivered by officials of the society. The following toasts were proposed.

Health of Imperials.

One to the health of the Imperial L. O. L., 2767, of Toronto, was responded to by Wor. Bro. James George, worshipful master of the Toronto lodge. "Our Visitors" was proposed by Geo. Copeland with Wor. Bro. V. W. Hartnell of Ingersoll responding.

Quartets, readings and solos comprised the musical entertainment, while the singing of the assembly was led by L. M. Houlding.

A toast to the Orange Association was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. J. A. Robinson, and it was responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. E. T. Essery, K. C., LL.D., P. G. M. of Ontario West.

Most Wor. Bro. H. C. Hockin, M. P., supreme grand master of British North America, responding to a toast to the grand lodge, made an address, stirring to all hearts of Orangemen and Empire Loyalists. He called for the maintenance of that spirit which has written the traditions of the great order in blood to fight the subtle attempts made by the enemies of the British Empire to undo her. These traitors, many of whom, he said, while protected by the name of British citizenship, were endeavoring to sever the strands which link the Empire together. They were seeking to wean away the friends of Great Britain and to sow sedition in the minds of her subjects.

Selfish Propaganda.

He told of the attempts which were being made in India, United States, Egypt and Ireland to disintegrate the Empire.

"If it is going on in all these countries it is most certain that the propaganda work is being carried on in Canada and Australia," he added. The promoters of this propaganda would embroil the whole world in another war to gain their ends.

"Free speech is but a weapon in their hands. The Irish want liberty. For what? So that they may continue murders from behind hedges. We fought for liberty against the German hordes. Are we to surrender them to the Sinn Feiners?"

"The man who preaches that Canada wishes to be a republic is nothing but an unvarnished liar. Do you want it, brethren?" Shouts of "No, no!" answered him. Although the British Empire was being forced to fight against cowards who were afraid to fight in the open, he declared the danger she was facing was as great as any of her history.

Grand Lodge Work.

He spoke some time on the accomplishments of the grand lodge, and called for loyalty from the members of the lodges. He said the lodge was entering into a new era.

Toast of "The British Empire" was proposed by Bro. Lieut. Harold Lawson, and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. M. Fitzgerald, provincial grand secretary of Ontario West. Bro. W. C. Clark gave the "Imperial Lodge of Toronto" toast in a speech of cordial fraternity, and this was responded to by the worshipful master of Imperial Lodge, James George. He called for return toast to "The Junior London Lodge of the Orange Order."

Visitors generally were toasted by Bro. George F. Copeland and responded to by Wor. Bro. V. W. Hartnett, of Ingersoll. Toast to "The Candidates" was given by Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred Dane, and responded to by Bros. Jared Vining and Clair Jarvis.

The toastmaster was Wor. Bro. W. C. Clark, worshipful master of the Star of Bethlehem Lodge.

SPEEDING PAST COP BRINGS FINE OF $5

Youth Denies Using Objectionable Language To Police Officer.

P. C. Sidney Seagell of the local police force did not relish being consigned to any place alleged to be warmer than London has been during the past few days, so he haled two local youths into police court Tuesday morning, one, Calvin Smith, on a charge of using abusive language, and the other, Ernest Blackwell, on a charge of breaking the motor and vehicle act on the night of September 23. Calvin Smith was let go with a warning, while Blackwell, the driver of the car, was assessed the usual $5 and costs.

The police officer said that he attempted to stop the car at King and Richmond streets because the rear lights were not burning. Instead of stopping the car was driven past him, and while it was passing closely he heard Smith make the objectionable remark.

Smith denied saying it and said that he had not been in police court since spring. Blackwell explained to the magistrate that the car was an old model, with rear lights, which would not stay lit.

The following also paid five dollars each into the coffers of the court for breaches of the motor and vehicle act: L. J. Quick, Hiriam Vanlow, C. Doxtater, W. T. Taylor, C. H. Schott, J. Werner, E. J. Hill, A. M. Masuret, C. McDonald and Charles Ellis.

E. Harris was charged with speeding, but was let go because the court could not establish the fact that it was his car which had been exceeding the speed limit on Dundas street on September 22, between Egerton and Eva streets. Mr. Harris claimed that he had been at the Ontario Hospital sports at the time and had his car with him.

Harold McIntosh and Louis Conroe were charged with playing ball on York street on September 23. Because of their good character they were allowed to go with a warning.

The charge against Frank Cahill of this city for the theft of a diamond ring was postponed for one week on the application of the solicitor of the accused. Bail was fixed at $3,000.

A charge of assault attended with bodily harm was laid against Frank Lewis of 801 Princess avenue by Ida W. Hoskins of 1295 Dundas street. It is alleged that Lewis assaulted the husband of the plaintiff, C. W. Hoskins, on the night of September 19, inflicting injuries. As the injured man was too ill to appear in court, the case was adjourned for one week. Bail was set at $2,000.

INSTRUCT STUDENTS IN USE OF LIBRARY

Western University Plans To Save Pupils Time and Trouble.

The general library of the Western University placed over 1,850 books, fully catalogued, on its shelves during the summer months, according to the report of the librarian to the general committee Tuesday afternoon. Included in these were nearly 900 volumes from the Barnett collection dealing with Shakespeare, and there remain several hundred volumes of Shakespearians still to be dealt with. The figures give some idea of the university library's resources on the works of England's great dramatist.

Dr. H. W. Hill, director of the Institute of Public Health, has been added to the committee, and took his seat yesterday for the first time. The library of the Institute of Public Health was fully catalogued some time ago by the university staff, and it is the intention of Dr. Hill to have his library resources available for the university generally.

It was decided that purchases of certain books should be made at once for the new course in public health nursing which has been inaugurated, especially in the field of sociology. The decision was also reached to make some extra purchases this year for the department of biology.

Beginning with the fall term every student entering Western University will receive two hours a week instruction and practice in the use of a library. It is believed that with this instruction at the beginning of their university course students will save their time and get more out of their use of the library than if merely left to their own devices and methods of study. The instructional work will be in charge of Miss Marjorie Rose, B.A., the university librarian, with help from her assistants as may be needed.

SMOLDERING RUINS CLOSELY WATCHED

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Belmont, Sept. 29.—The ruins of Saturday's big fire here are still smoldering, and are being constantly watched, so that if it breaks out again sparks will not endanger adjoining property. H. W. Copeland does not intend to rebuild the icehouse, and where the fire originated. The barn belonging to the Belmont Co-Operative Telephone Association will not be rebuilt. The barn belonging to the Presbyterian manse, which was totally destroyed, will be rebuilt as soon as possible.

How To Make Your Hair Beautiful

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders.

Better than all the so-called "hair tics" in the world is a simple, old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and ½ drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8-oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you should not find a single loose or straggling hair. Dandruff should quickly disappear. You should find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair growing with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is inexpensive, and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its results.—Advt.

THIS WOMAN'S RECOVERY

Shows Remarkable Curative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chesley, Ont.—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest half way up the steps. I tried two doctors but they did me no good. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and thought I would give it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children, and do all my housework, milk eight cows, and do a hired man's work and enjoy the best of health. I also found Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends who are in need of medicine, and you may print this letter if you wish."—Mrs. Henry Janke, R. R. No. 4, Chesley, Ontario.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction what a grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

CITIZENS CLAIM HOUSES IMPERILLED

City Engineer Has Problem To Solve On Thompson Avenue.

Thompson avenue figured quite prominently in the business of No. 2 committee of the city council last night. At the request of some of the residents it was decided to improve the lighting, and on request of two other residents to do something to bring the level of their property somewhere near that of the sidewalk. These two citizens, who are returned soldiers, purchased the property some time ago. There were no improvements then. Since that time the city engineering department has laid a sidewalk. In order to maintain the same level throughout the street it was placed several feet above the property at this point.

This left the houses in a hollow and necessitated raising the foundations. The citizens claimed that their houses were imperilled because water would collect there in the spring. The city engineer stated that unless it was proposed to follow every hollow in the street it was necessary to have the sidewalk at that level. A little further down the street it is two feet below the surrounding ground, he said.

The matter was left with Ald. W. A. Wilson and the engineer to see if the city could fill up some of the hollow.

Permission was granted to Building Inspector A. M. Piper to attend the convention of the Royal Architectural Society of Canada at Ottawa next week.

The London Motor Club was granted permission to put road signs on telephone poles at Dundas and Richmond streets.

It was decided not to pave Ardaven Place this year, but to include it in the oiling district instead.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—Although she fell from a second-story window at her home on Monday, Betsy Ingram, two-year-old daughter of Major Gordon Ingram, is apparently none the worse for the accident, having received only a few bruises. Apparently she was leaning out of the window and lost her balance.

NEW "Y." PAPER.—At a meeting of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, permission was secured to publish a paper in the "Y." It will be printed monthly, and will be edited by the secretaries of the different departments. It will carry the name of the "Red Triangle News." The first number is expected to be out before Christmas.

TALL CORN.—Harry Reason of Duke street brought to the market today a stalk of corn exactly 13 feet 11½ inches high. Four ears of corn grew on it, but in order to pick them a person would have to reach nine feet. Fire Chief Aitken, along with Weigh Scales Clerk James Dean, say it is the largest stalk of corn they ever saw, and both congratulated Mr. Reason on growing such a fine specimen.

STILL ORGANIZING.—The mothers' allowance board of the city of London has not yet been fully organized, that it may commence dealing with the many cases of which they have already been notified. The central commission of Toronto will complete the organization in the course of a few weeks. The members who have been appointed to the allowance board are Mrs. John Gemmill, Miss Stella Macklin, Rev. T. D. McCullough, Mrs. George Cuniffe and Mr. Hussey. The chairman has not yet been appointed.

CLOSING OFFICE.—W. Shaver, inspector for the Soldiers' Aid Commission in this district for several months, will close his office tomorrow. He will go to Toronto to take up the commission's work in connection with hostels for the children of soldiers. Centralization of the work has resulted in the closing up of a number of the smaller branches and the need for general supervision has therefore passed.

OLD ALE CHEAPER.—The very latest price reduction announced is in quotations on old ale. Discussing the situation with The Advertiser today, Manager Burke of John Labatt, Limited, stated that effective on Friday, October 1 prices for old ale will be reduced 50 cents. To be exact the quotations will be reduced from $9 per dozen to $8.50. Mr. Burke stated that the old ale is the only line affected.

SOCIAL SURVEY.—Under the direction of Professor Robinson of Toronto University plans are well under way for the social survey of London. No reports of the survey will be available for some time, Mr. McCullough stated, because it will be one that will consider every detail and consequently will take a great amount of time that will probably run into months. When all statistics and reports have been completed a report will be made to the public, Mr. McCullough said.

A GENEROUS GIFT.—Orangemen of this city have presented a gramophone to the soldier patients at Victoria Hospital, funds for same having been raised by general subscription. As a result of the generous response a sum of money has been obtained to be used as a nucleus in purchasing two more machines for the amusement of military patients at Byron Sanatorium and Westminster Psychopathic Hospital. These will be purchased in the near future, when sufficient money has been subscribed.

LIGHT DOCKET.—One lone drunk, hailing from Northern Ontario, was the only excuse for a police court today. As the words $10 and costs fell upon his ears and he subsided wearily behind the dock, the day's business ended. C. Bowman, R. S. McKay, William Howe and M. Smith paid $5 each for breaches of the motor vehicle act, while the following paid fines of $2 for minor breaches of bylaws: C. Roberts, George Gray, M. A. Williams, Jos. Lotentoff, H. Nugent, A. Sherritt, George Wenige, Alex. Mann and Gordon Finchcombe.

WILL START SOON.—Every indication points to an early start on the work of replanking the Ridout street bridge. The planks for the purposes were shipped three weeks ago. The city has received the shipping notices. Furthermore it has received the bill. All these things are signs that the lumber is hovering about somewhere in the vicinity, according to City Engineer Brazier. Not more than a month should elapse between the shipping date and the arrival of the lumber here, he states, and in that case the planks should be here early in October.

PEASANT PARTIES GAIN.

Stockholm, Sept. 28.—Returns from the recent general election show gains for the Conservative and peasant parties, and losses for the Liberals and social democrats. The social democrats elected 76 representatives, the Conservatives 68, the Liberals 45, the peasant party 28, and the Bolsheviks 4.

TRIP TO BELMONT WAS TOO MUCH FOR CITY FIRE ENGINE

Jostling At High Speed Over Country Roads Disarranged Valves.

As a result of the fire at Belmont Saturday morning and an appeal for assistance answered by the London fire department, the steam fire engine which was included in the apparatus taken to the threatened village, is out of commission. The journey to and from Belmont did not agree with the engine, and this was demonstrated on Tuesday afternoon when the machine was tested out at a pond near Carling's Brewery. The sturdy old engine refused to pump water at this point, and repairs are necessary before it will be available for auxiliary pumping in case a big fire breaks out here.

However the engine worked all right when connected with a city hydrant, and increased the pressure satisfactorily. Whether it would stand the strain of continued pumping at a city fire is an unknown hazard.

It was known by those in charge, following the return from Belmont, that the engine was out of commission. In fact the city firemen did not play any water on the flames there, not because they were under control, but because of the fact that the engine refused to work, which fact was not made public.

On the return to London the mechanics at the central station busied themselves repairing the damage wrought by a thirteen-mile trip over country roads, and the test of Tuesday proved that more repairs are necessary. The engine was purchased in 1903, and has been in use here for 17 years, although recently the water pressure has only necessitated calling out this piece of apparatus once in a year, and that occasion was the London Collegiate Institute fire.

When interviewed by The Advertiser today Chief John Aitken stated that the engine would be in use again immediately.

"The trip to Belmont did not do it any good," he said, "and loosened some valves so that when we got there it refused to lift the water. We are changing over the valves now, and the repairs have not cost the city a cent. The engine will be in good order today."

While the pumps were being tested Tuesday afternoon the engine in the London East service truck broke down and was towed back to the east end station. Repairs have been made and the truck is in commission again today.

fiable. If so they should be made permanent. He suggested that in view of the other rate increases the Government should pay a larger amount to the railways for mail and parcel post services.

The judgment of the railway commission, Said Mr. Blain, was totally one-sided, unnecessary and uneconomic inasmuch as it imposed a penalty on the shipper. Why should the C. P. R. be placed in a position to dominate forever the railway situation in Canada? The tendency to decrease in the cost of living was being arrested by the rate increases. If the object of the judgment was to guarantee to C. P. R. shareholders a dividend for all time it would be better achieved by buying the road outright.

Mr. Blain was followed by H. J. Symington, counsel for the Provincial Government of Manitoba, who declared in opening that there was no desire in the west to starve the railways or drive them to the wall. The judgment of the railway commission followed an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States granting large increases in rates to the railroads of that country. Therefore, he thought it well at the outset to emphasize his belief that the railway problems in Canada and the United States were two distinct and separate things. During the war, the Government of the United States had lost money in running the railways. Before returning them to their owners, it devolved on Congress to put these roads in such shape that they would pay their way.

Accumulated Big Reserves.

The situation in Canada was very different. The C. P. R. had made money in the war years, and two increases in rates, one of 15 per cent in 1917 and one of 25 per cent in 1918, had been granted in the rates on Canadian railways. Results proved that we were traveling a vicious circle. First rates went up and immediately wages and the cost of materials advanced, then came a demand for a further advance in rates.

"The end must come by somebody refusing to make orders which will force rates, wages and costs to still higher levels," said Mr. Symington.

If the appeal was disallowed, said Mr. Symington, the discontent which had been moving in men's minds for some time past would be continued. The disallowances of the order could make no difference to the Canadian Government railways because they must be supported in any event. Therefore, the crux of the whole situation was with the C. P. R. This railway had, in the last ten years, accumulated $116,000,000 reserves, apart altogether from dividends.

During the war years, 1914-19, the C. P. R. had added $55,000,000 to its reserve, and for the first six months of 1920 its operating revenue was $11,000,000.

Based Upon Conjecture.

The application for increased rates, said Mr. Symington, was based not upon demonstrated facts, but upon conjecture. That was not a good ground for making such an application. "The possible consequences of this increase far more than offset any hardships this railway would have to face," said Mr. Symington. "Surely a railway's reserves were gathered together to provide for the bad years."

Mr. Symington suggested that the application for increased rates be deferred until January 1, 1922, when it would have been demonstrated whether it was or was not necessary. If any increase was anticipated it should be a minimum increase and it must be based upon the requirements of the C. P. R. If it was based upon the requirements of the Government railways, and be granted to the C. P. R. on this basis the C. P. R. would soon own the country instead of having a very healthy mortgage on it.

MAURICE DRUKER, son of J. Druker, of Ottaway avenue, has been signally honored by being chosen from a class of 107 in McGill University to continue his studies in medicine at the Middlesex Hospital in London, England. With five other McGill students he will sail from Quebec in one week. After graduating Mr. Druker will probably take up a medical practice in England. The choice of students was based on general scholastic merits.

CITY MAY LOSE CIGAR FACTORY

Vallens, Ltd., Likely To Be Moved To Montreal Shortly.

The three million dollar merger of cigar factories just completed in Montreal by Sir Mortimore Davis, will, it was stated to The Advertiser this afternoon, mean the removal from London of the factory of Vallens, Limited.

Manager Whitehead stated to The Advertiser today that the plans are still under consideration by the officials at Montreal, and that an announcement regarding the London plant will be made in a couple of days.

From other sources it was learned that it is the company's plan to close the local factory. Mr. Otto Brener, who was formerly connected with the plant is already in Montreal, and will take an executive position with the new company.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST YOUTH

Criminal Case Is Being Heard Before Mr. Justice Logie.

The trial of Irvine Albert, a Muncey youth, charged with having committed rape on a 16-year-old crippled Indian girl, was begun this afternoon at the fall assizes here, Mr. Justice Logie presiding. Selection of the jury was made at 1:30 o'clock, and accused, through A. G. Chisholm, his counsel, entered a plea of not guilty. He has been out on bail since August 16, when he was committed for trial.

The offence is alleged to have been committed on the afternoon of Sunday, June 20, while the girl was picking strawberries in an isolated spot near Caradoc. This is the first criminal offence to be heard at the assizes, and there are two more cases on the docket, one of which, a charge against Harry Anderson of this city, is of a similar nature. E. T. Essery, K. C., is representing the alleged victim's family at the trial, and Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop is prosecuting.

MAY EXHIBIT AT INDUSTRIAL FAIR

London firms may be represented at the British Industries Fair, to be held from February 21 to March 4. Preliminary announcements were received by the Chamber of Commerce today, and it is possible that local businessmen may be interested. Such firms as McClary's, Beatty Bros., the London Concrete Machinery Company, Richards-Wilcox Canadian Company, and others, have exhibited at other British exhibitions.

The British Industries Fair is held at London, Glasgow and Manchester. The London and Manchester sections run concurrently from February 21 to March 4, while that in Glasgow does not commence until February 28. Each one represents a specified group of manufacturers, so that there is no overlapping. Emphasis is laid on the fact that it is not an exhibition, but a trade fair.

BRITISH VISITORS INSPECT FACTORY OF FORD COMPANY

Windsor, Sept. 29.—Following an automobile tour through the border cities this morning, the delegates to the New York ninth congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, which arrived in Windsor last night were entertained at dinner at the plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

They were shown over the factory by officials of the company and were much interested in the process by which Ford automobiles are manufactured.

Gordon M. McGregor, general manager of the Canadian plant told the visitors before they started upon their inspection of the plant that he wished to correct the impression which had been widespread in Great Britain and in certain parts of Canada that the Canadian factory was only an assembling plant. He assured them that they would find that the automobiles were really manufactured here in the true sense of the term.

BRING PARENTS IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH SCHOOLS

Teachers and Mothers' Clubs Co-operating in This Work.

Ryerson School.

At the Ryerson School tonight a big reception is to be held by the teachers and the Mothers' Club of the school for the parents and children attending there. This has been arranged so as to bring the parents into closer touch with the school life, so that they will come to know the teachers and act in co-operation with them. An excellent program has been arranged, and it is expected that Inspectors C. B. Edwards and V. K. Greer will speak, as well as Principal Alexander MacQueen. Mrs. H. A. Tanner, president of the Mothers' Club, will also make an address during the evening, and Mrs. Paddell, secretary of the club, will give an account of the club's work last year. Besides the names of Miss Gwendolyn Anthistle, reader; Mrs. Fred Galpin, soloist; Ed. Webster, soloist, and Miss Powell and Miss Irene Foster, pianist, appear on the program. Refreshments will be served during the evening and an informal social time spent.

Chesley Avenue.

The Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club held its first fall meeting last night at the school, Mrs. A. T. Edwards being the speaker of the evening. Her subject was her recent trip to Europe, the whole journey being brought most vividly before the club members.

This club is arranging a masquerade at the school on the Friday night preceding Halloween. This idea of celebrating Halloween in the school was inaugurated by the Chesley Avenue Club last year, the mothers feeling that it was one way of keeping the children off the streets and out of harm's way. Next week the club is undertaking a paper collection in aid of the Sick Children's Hospital, the papers to be collected in a building near the school, since the fire insurance men have objected to storing the paper in the schools.

Last night, vocal solos were given by Miss Jones and Andrew Bull, the accompanists being Miss Dobbin and A. N. Stein. Mrs. Pellow presided over the meeting, which was largely attended, the club enrolling ten new members.

Empress Avenue.

To the first meeting of the Empress Avenue Mothers' Club, held last night at the school, the teachers were invited to meet the mothers of the district, as has been the custom for the last few years. The club members feel that the mothers may greatly help the teachers in undertaking their new classes by letting them into the secrets of Johnny's" or Mary's" personality.

This year the club intends to collect old newspapers through the school children for the purpose of raising money to buy such necessities as new records and equipment for indoor baseball and basketball, which the school board does not supply.

Two very fine talks on "Education" were given at this meeting by G. A. Wheable, the principal of the school, and Miss Lawrence, another of the teachers, the latter pointing out the great responsibility of the parent and teacher in dealing with children.

"The child should always be told the truth," said Miss Lawrence, "and nothing should be said in his presence which would hurt his sensitiveness or shock his innocence." Mr. Wheable declared that often a teacher could be greatly helped if a mother would point out to her certain peculiarities of a child, which she could not possibly come to understood without long association with it. An instrumental by Miss Hamilton completed the evening's program.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Considerable activity and development of a firmer tendency in steel merger stocks imparted strength to the general list on the stock exchange this morning. Only one or two issues showed declines at the noon close. The activity in Dominion Steel Corporation and Canada Steamships reflected early strength in Montreal this morning, following the upward movement which commenced yesterday.

Opening strongly at 55½, Steel Corporation sold throughout the morning between that figure and 56, closing at the high point, and registering a gain of 1¾ over-night. Steamships common jumped several points between sessions and finished this morning at an advance of 4 points at 63½.

Further weakness developed in Provincial Paper, and the noon close was with the stock at 110. Maple Leaf lost 5 points at 145, and Abitibi 1⅝.

PLAINTIFF AWARDED $2,825 DAMAGES IN M'GILLIVRAY CASE

Jury Brought In a Verdict At Opening Session This Afternoon.

When the fall assizes opened this afternoon the jury in the case of Dauncey vs. Hodgins, et al, brought in a verdict of $2,825 damages for plaintiff. The jury found that defendants had an incompetent engineer and had showed negligence in using a bunt pole instead of a cable.

"I wish you gentlemen would have the kindness not to fight, in deference to me," said Mr. Justice Logie, presiding at the fall assizes here Tuesday afternoon, to J. M. McEvoy and T. G. Meredith, solicitors in a civil action being heard by the jury. The above caution resulted from continued haranguing and objections from both counsels during the hearing of the case, which began Monday afternoon.

The action is that of Tassel Dauncey, a McGillivray farmer, for $3,000 damages against Ward Hodgins, John Park, Caleb Ryan, Walter Hodgins, Percy Dauncey, Wellington Sadler and Alfred Hodgins. Plaintiff claims that defendants, as owners of a threshing outfit, brought the same on his lands and negligently and carelessly handled the outfit so that fire escaped therefrom, destroying buildings on his property to the value of $2,000. Defendants, through J. M. McEvoy, deny the allegations and dispute the claim.

The hearing of evidence in the suit was concluded Tuesday afternoon, and the counsels addressed the jurors this morning when court resumed. Justice Logie in his charge to the jurors outlined to them the types of negligence as defined by law and warned them to be careful if they decided to assess damages. J. M. McEvoy, for the defence, took exception to a portion of the judge's address, and his objections went on record in case of an appeal being registered.

M. Drummond, general superintendent of the Sawyer-Massey farm implement manufacturing plant, was called by the defence Tuesday afternoon. He swore that 75 per cent of the output of his firm's threshing machines since 1914 was equipped with the model stack used on the machine in the case, and that it was a modern type, and very effective in preventing sparks from escaping.

Contradicts Dauncey.

Harold Coursey, engineer on the threshing outfit the day of the fire, swore in contradiction to Percy Dauncey that the cap of the stack blew off but once, and then he was ordered to back the engine away from the barn preparatory to hauling the separator to the barn by cable. He was engaged in doing this when someone shouted "Fire," and the buildings were destroyed. Cross-examined by plaintiff's counsel, he admitted that he had worked but eight days on the engine and was inexperienced.

He declared that the spark arrester was in good condition, having been repaired a short time previously, because the old one had been blown off coming down the road. While the order for the new parts required was not filled at once, he informed the jury that his employers threshed at several farms without a screen to arrest the sparks fixed in the stack.

He admitted that all the owners of the outfit, excepting Percy Dauncey, were aware of this state of affairs, and that as a result of the absence of the screen the separator was set alight one day. Fred Mitchell and Wellington Sadler, the latter being one of the defendants, gave technical evidence regarding the engine and air currents.

McMillan, chief secretary, is expected to arrive Thursday morning. Several officers from the district will attend the service besides civic officials.

MacSWINEY'S CONDITION IS UNCHANGED.

London, Sept. 29.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, had a very bad night at Brixton prison, and was looking very drawn this morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination League. He was very weak, the bulletin declared, but otherwise there was little change in his condition.

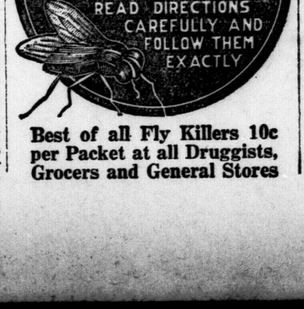

In his report to the home office, the physician at Brixton prison stated MacSwiney had a restful night, and was in bright spirits this morning.

"For some days," said an official, "the change from day to day in Lord Mayor MacSwiney's condition has been so slight that it has been almost imperceptible, but his emaciated face and weakening voice tell the tale of gradual deterioration."

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get one ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it a quarter pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advt.

TILBURY HOPES TO WIN ON THURSDAY

Tilbury, Sept. 29.—It is safe to say that no sporting event ever held in Tilbury created the interest that is being manifested in the second game of the Inter-League semi-pro baseball series, between Ford and Tilbury, that is staged for Memorial Park on Thursday afternoon. Tilbury lost the first game of the series to Ford in Windsor on Saturday last by a score of 7 to 3, but the local fans are confident that they will not only win the second game, but the series. Should Tilbury win the second game, the third one will be played in either Essex or Leamington.

Did You Ever See a Sewing Machine Like This?

A touch of the knee controls the speed of the machine—and one doesn't have to "acquire the knack" of doing this. It is all so surprisingly natural that one is complete master of all degrees of speed at the first operation, and with entire absence of fatigue and nerve strain.

The knee control is a permanent part of the machine and always in place.

THE CLIMAX OF IMPUDENCE.

Mr. Meighen and Sir George Foster evidently have enormous faith in their power to fool the Canadian people. They are virtually describing themselves as the only bulwark of British responsible government against Bolshevism. Anyway, the enemies of responsible government, according to their views, are the Liberals, who take their inspiration from Baldwin and Lafontaine, the authors of responsible goverment in Canada; from Sir Oliver Mowat and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose love of British institutions was ardent and sincere; from George Brown and Edward Blake and Alexander Mackenzie. Their leader is Mackenzie King, the dominant theme of whose speeches is responsible government, and who believes in the application of that principle to industry.

The farmers' party is described by Sir George Foster as almost as bad as Bolshevik, and Mr. Meighen says the farmers have aligned themselves with sedition-mongers.

To cap the climax of impudence, the Halifax Herald says that the people of Canada must be "saved from themselves," that the country is full of unrest, and that the Government must remain in power, "that time may be gained for the return of calm reason and revolutionary instincts allowed to subside."

In other words, Canada is described as a lunatic asylum, of which Meighen and his colleagues are the keepers, and the inmates must be locked in until they show their sanity by a willingness to support a Tory Government.

But while the people of Canada are not to be allowed to change their government, the ruling clique at Ottawa may make any change they please without consulting the people. They made Mr. Meighen prime minister, instead of Sir Robert Borden. The whole complexiou of Union Government has changed. White, Crerar, Carvell, McLean, Burrell and Mewburn have all gone. The most radical changes may be made at the instance of the Ottawa cabal, but the people must not be allowed to vote for a change. They are classed as dangerous lunatics, unfit to manage their own affairs.

The assertion that the people of Canada are protected from Bolshevism by the present misrepresentative government is a lie, concocted by knaves for the consumption of fools. In due time those who are classed as fools will have the opportunity to resent the insult.

SMILLIE AND THE BROTHERHOOD SPIRIT.

Ben Spoor's eloquent and inspiring plea for the development of the spirit of brotherhood as a remedy for world unrest will, we are sure, not be wasted on those who hear him in this country. The appeal is a timely one, in view of the industrial and social crisis which at the moment all the nations are facing, and it seems the only certain way of combating the antagonisms and hostilities that have been aroused between capital and labor. But as Mr. Spoor speaks especially for the miners of the United Kingdom, it is pertinent to ask why does Robert Smillie, as he heads the miners' fight for better conditions, take an attitude that is opposed to the brotherhood spirit. Mr. Spoor says the trades unionists of England are strong for the brotherhood. If that is the case, then such leaders as Smillie are misrepresenting. Smillie is openly, boldly, for direct action; that is, dictation of the national policies by Labor He would, if he could, have one section of the populace guide national affairs, without regard to the views for opinions of all others. That is Russian sovietism, pure and simple; the rule of one class. There is nothing of the brotherhood spirit in a system that ignores all but a single class of the community. That is gross selfishness—the antithesis of the brotherhood spirit—and until the Smillies, Snowdens and Ramsay MacDonalds drop it, the outlook for industrial and social harmony is not bright.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There has been too much terrorizing of certain parts of the West by bandits of foreign extraction, mostly Russian. A closer check on the sifting activities of the immigration department seems in order, especially as the next year is sure to see a great influx from the old world.

Like Germany, Rumania, Poland and Hungary, Italy has refused to accept Leninism. Slowly, but surely, the devilish doctrine of the Russian wreckers is dying for lack of sustenance. Unless it spreads beyond the confines of Russia Bolshevism cannot last. Soon now decent, sane Russia will destroy Sovietism at its roots.

PUBLIC INTEREST WINS.

(By Mrs. Geo. Hambleton, M.A.)

The collapse of the anthracite coal strike in the United States marks the first definite victory of public interests in the great peace battle now in progress. During that strike, which involved at its highest point upwards of 125,000 men, which cut off practically the whole daily anthracite production of the United States—a daily production of about 300,000 tons—which deprived the miners themselves of $625,000 daily in wages, there was less violence than in almost any small local strike. The men feared operation of the Lever act, which prohibits the "interfering with interstate shipments of coal, food, and other necessities." Under its provisions, forty outlaw strike leaders of the railroad switchmen are now awaiting trial in Chicago.

A Peaceful Strike.

The lesson was direct. So peaceful was the anthracite strike that not until the men had shown the first tendency to give in (the strike had been in full swing for a week) was there any attempt at picketting. The attempt was made at Wilkesbarre, Penn. State troops rode into a small mob surrounding a handful of pickets posted outside the mines. Next morning the local judge prohibited picketting.

Designed to protect the public, the Lever act is constructed not only to restrain insurgent mine workers, but also the owners and operators of coal mines. Three hundred appeals are due to come before the Supreme Court of the United States in October. Many of them have been taken by coal operators indicted for profiteering under the terms of the act.

The miners are now back at work. The operators amply protected themselves last spring against any wage increase by raising the price of coal one dollar a ton at the mine. They made the increase, they claimed, in anticipation of higher costs. Thus, while the miners were at least technically restrained from striking, the mine owners were free to increase prices and dividends.

The onus of the decision, as between the interests of mine owners, mine workers and the public, will now be thrown indirectly on the public. For, should the Department of Labor of the United States fail to effect a settlement, the president will again intervene.

The Issues.

The issues to be decided now, as between the miners and the operators, are:

1. The right to a living wage.

2. The right to collective action, or to collective bargaining with employers through the leaders of their organizations, or through representatives of their own choosing.

3. The right to an eight-hour work day.

But the ordinary man can hardly judge these practical issues, except in so far as they affect coal production and coal prices. The judgment of a government agency must also be strongly influenced by prospects in regard to coal supply and prices. And the favorable production record of 1920, as compared with 1919, has been prejudiced by the action of the dissatisfied mine workers in taking a vacation while their surplus savings held out.

The Hard Coal Production.

Production of hard coal in the United States from January 1, 1920, to the first day of the strike was fifty-seven and a half million tons, as compared with about fifty-four and a half million tons mined during the same period last year. Close to 99 per cent of the hard coal production of the United States is mined in Pennsylvania. It is estimated that about 3,000,000 tons were left unmined during the "vacation." But Canada had benefitted by the increased production of Pennsylvania mines. This year, from January 1 to September 1, she received 3,330,000 tons, as compared with 3,145,000 tons for the same period last year.

Under the circumstances, will a demand for shorter hours be received with sympathy?

The records of the big coal companies of the United States must be the deciding factor. These show that the average number of hours worked per day throughout the entire year is considerable less than eight. Mr. Wilson, United States secretary for labor, is responsible for the statement that on an average throughout the year the miners worked only about 30 hours per week. He had erred somewhat. Company records since reviewed show that the average number of hours worked per week approximate 40. The secret is simple. The miners are normally in operation only part of the time. This year, closing down was due to car shortage.

Hampered By Car Shortage.

Official figures show how car shortage has hampered production in the northern section of the Central coal field. In January this year, owing to car shortage, the mines produced 64 per cent of their capacity; in March, 47 per cent; in April, 48 per cent; in May, 48 per cent; in June, 65 per cent; in July, 65 per cent; and in August, 75 per cent. One of the managers of the Pittsburg Coal Company informs me that the soft coal mines of the company were able to produce last spring only 30 per cent of full capacity, 44 per cent in August and production this month would be only 60 per cent of capacity—because of shortage of cars. The situation in the hard coal field was somewhat better.

More than any other single factor, car supply affects the cost of coal, for operators state that they cannot operate mines at a profit when the car supply is below 40 per cent; not, at any rate, unless they add a very high margin to the actual cost of labor and supplies incidental to mining a ton of coal.

Waive Six-Hour Demand.

Miners' officials have waived completely their demand for a six-hour day. The award as fixed by the president's commissioners, however, does not specifically fix an eight-hour day, but it fixes the minimum wage at $4.20 for eight hours' work, without giving an increased rate for overtime.

Now, there is unquestionably a prejudice in the public mind against increasing miners' wages. It is generally assumed that they are already extremely well paid. Yet the maximum number of possible working days (according to the members of the commission), is 273 per year. The mine workers claim that the yearly wage thus obtainable, $1,147, is far too small to keep a family in decency and comfort. They are asking a minimum of at least $6 a day. They claim, too, that if an extra rate were paid for overtime production would be stabilized.

But each week sees about 25,000 emigrants enter the United States by way of Ellis Island. As the gold rush drew men 70 years ago to California, so high wages in the automobile and other thriving industries has drawn men to American cities by the shores of Lake Erie. The tide flowed, passed high water, and is now on the ebb. The mechanic from the tire factory in Akron is looking for a job. Two thousand expert Spanish miners have come to Canton, O., with their families. The long strike at the Rio Tinto mines in Spain broke their energy and wasted their resources. The men are looking for work in the mines of the United States.

The Open Shop.

The demand of the miners for a fuller measure of collective bargaining brings them into the full sweep of the struggle that is now disturbing industrial life in the United States with a violence that is hardly conceivable to the outsider. The cause is the open shop. Twenty-four men are on trial for their lives at Matawan, West Virginia. They are accused of killing five detectives, the mayor and two citizens in a strike riot. It arose over an attempt to enforce the closed shop. A short time ago in Denver one man was killed and several were wounded when strike-breakers barricaded themselves in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. They had sought refuge from enraged strikers. Later, three were killed and thirteen wounded, when the state guard used machine guns. Again it was the open shop. A nomination for the governor of Texas hinged on the open shop. Judge Backes of Newark has declared all strikes to prevent the open shop and the employment of non-union men to be illegal. The United States Chambers of Commerce and the American Federation of Labor have declared war each against the other over the open shop, which is backed by a determined group.

The path of the Department of Labor of the United States will be no easy one.

From Here and There

SAFETY FIRST.

[Charleston News and Courier.]

It looks as if Russia is going to re-enter the family of nations. She needn't be surprise if, for a while, at any rate, the other members of the family lock their doors on the inside every night before retiring.

A CINCH.

[Kingston Whig.]

The ladies will get by if they take as much interest in a party issue as they do in a party line.

LUCKY DOG.

It will be a lucky man this winter who finds himself between two fires.

CAN'T BLAME FRANCE.

[Vancouver Sun.]

Is France much to be blamed for threatening to withdraw from the League of Nations if Germany is admitted. What evidence has Germany given of repentance for her attack on humanity? She still thinks the war was not a crime, but merely a miscalculation.

KEEPING WAR IN ITS PLACE.

[Chicago News.]

With the Oriental equanimity the Chinese put in their proper place war and kindred excitements. "On account of the rain and the celebration of the semi-annual decoration day, fighting was temporarily suspended today," cables Junius B. Wood to the Daily News regarding the Kwang-tung revolt and the attendant effort of the revolutionaries to capture Canton. Wars, it seems, are thought necessary now and then even in China. But the Chinese adheres in his own way to the ancient Greek aphorism, "Nothing too much." Even war may not jostle partriarchal tradition. War in China is kept in its place.

CANADA'S MERCHANT MARINE.

[Detroit News.]

In striking contrast to the feverish activity of our government in auctioning off the ships built during the emergency of war, is the zeal and enthusiasm displayed by Canada in pushing forward its merchant marine program. Recently the completion of the Canadian Victor, a splendid ship equipped with refrigerating facilities, was made the occasion of quite a social event in Montreal. The speakers made much of the fact that this latest acquisition was but one of a fleet of vessels which, when completed, will number 66 "Canadian ships, owned by the people of Canada and built in Canadian yards." It is significant, too, that more than 80 per cent of the officers and engineers manning this fleet are Canadians. With pardonable pride this assertion was made that these ships were bearing Canadian commerce where Canadian ships had never been before. From small beginnings and under adverse circumstances Canada has proceeded step by step to produce this governmental enterprise, and, if official figures are accepted, has succeeded in operating a merchant marine at a satisfactory profit.

LABOR AND DEMOCRACY.

[London Daily Mail.]

Labor should nurse no grudge against democracy. Mere numbers give it a flying start in the political race. It has only to persuade the country, and Labor's will, whatever it is, takes effect constitutionally. If a section of Labor is "out" against democray it can only be because democracy—being what it is, the will of the majority—has imposed tests and made decisions that a particular section of Labor does not like. The choice lies between the rule of a majority in a popular responsible parliament and the rule of a particular minority over the mass of the population which is not represented in Trade Union Congress. By no stretch of imagination could such an inverted system be called democracy.

HOW INTEREST WORKS.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

How the dollar invested works for the individual himself has been best illustrated by that first great American teacher of thrift, Benjamin Franklin. In 1791 he bequeathed £1,000 to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and to the city of Boston, as a mark of his appreciation for having appointed him as agent in England at the "handsome" salary of £2,000. And in order to make his bequest really valuable, Franklin provided in his will that this £1,000 should be put out at 5 per cent interest for 100 years; that at the end of that time 31-131 of the fund accumulated should again be put out at interest for another hundred years, and then the fund should be divided, one-fourth to Boston and three-fourths to the state.

Let us see how well that £1,000 of Franklin's has worked. At the end of the first hundred years it had grown to $431,383.62. It was then divided in accordance with the will; $329,300.48 was set aside for "public work," and $102,085.15 was started on its course of earning interest for another hundred years. That was in 1891. On January 1, 1918, this sum had grown to $267,805.15, and Lee, Higginson & Co., who have recalled this remarkable bequest to public attention in "A Little Book of Great Import," point out that at this rate of interest the fund should amount to at least six million dollars when the second period is completed, and may be considerably more.

This example exaggerates what invested money may do for an individual during an average lifetime, but it is a graphic demonstration of the results that may be obtained by applying the principles of Franklin, and it shows the wisdom of belonging to the investing class.

HONORABLE WORK.

[Brockville Recorder.]

One of the most profitable and pleasant avenues of employment open to girls is in housework, yet the demand is far greater than the supply. There are over 1,500,000 girls and women in excess of males in England, it is said, and many of these could find profitable employment in household work in Canada. The prejudice against accepting employment in the homes keeps many girls from taking up this line of work, and the fault is largely that of the employer. Household workers have been labeled domestic servants and placed low down on the social scale, while girls working in a store or office for a few dollars a week are regarded as being in "genteel employment." In some households the assistants with the housework are treated as members of the family, and from these householders come no complaints of the difficulty of securing and retaining competent help, nor are the girls easily enticed from such positions by offers of higher salaries. Money is not everything in life, and the household help problem will never be solved satisfactorily until conditions are remedied. Household work is just as honorable as any other avenue of making a living, and should be recognized as such. The trouble is we are all a little uppity and prone to regard ourselves as a little higher in the social scale than somebody else, and that is what causes much of the heartburnings and jealousies in this little world. The social scale is a delusion and a snare any way it is viewed, and under a post-mortem falls to pieces because it has no solid foundation of fact to rest upon—it is all airy-fairy supposition, wheels within wheels, and circles circulating nowhere.

Poetry and Jest

I AM WEARY OF BEING BITTER.

[Arthur Davison Fickle.]

I am weary of being bitter and weary of being wise,
And the armor and the mask of these fall from me, after long.
I would go where the islands sleep, or where the sea-dawns rise,
And lose my bitter wisdom in the wisdom of a song.

There are magics in melodies, unknown of the sages;
The powers of purest wonder on secret wings go by.
Doubtless out of the silence of dumb
preceding ages
Song woke the chaos-world — and light swept the sky.

All that we know is idle, idle is all we cherish;
Idle the will that takes loads that proclaim it strong.
For the knowledge, the strength, the burden—all shall perish:
One thing only endures, one thing only—song.

NEAR TO NATURE.

[W. T. Truesdale.]

I've reared my cot in a pleasant spot,
In mountain regions roomy,
Where the snows lie white on the rocky height
By valleys green and bloomy.

Where milky gleams from the limpid streams
The canyon rocks are churning;
And where wild flowers nod, o'er the virin sod
From June till June's returning;

Where frozen fast in an age long past,
Lie many a mighty billow;
And where cool winds rise when the daylight dies
And lightly fan my pillow.

The cedars tall, o'er my cabin wall,
Their shadows cool, are shaking,
And the mocking-bird, overhead, is heard,
The golden silence breaking.

A life as free as the rolling sea
I live with love to cheer me,
With a quiet nook for my treasured book,
And kindly neighbors near me.

Each day I toil, from the willing soil,
My simple needs procuring;
But there's more content in a life
thus spent,
While evil's less alluring.

I try to live so as not to give
A cause for sigh or sorrow;
Nor to be afraid of the lurking shade
That eves the Great Tomorrow.

IN THE GLOAMING.

[C. S. Caverly, in Punch.]

In the gloaming to be roaming, where the crested waves are foaming,
And the shy mermaids combing locks
that ripple to their feet;
When the gloaming is, I never made the ghost of an endeavor
To discover—but whatever were the hour, it would be sweet.

"To their feet," I say, for Leech's sketch indisputably teaches
That the mermaids of our beaches do not end in ugly tails,
Nor have homes among the corals; but are shod with neat balmorals.
An arrangement no one quarrels with, as many might with scales.

Sweet to roam beneath a shady cliff, of course with some young lady,
Lalage, Neaera, Haidee, or Elaine, or Mary Ann;
Love, you dear delusive dream you!
Very sweet your victims deem you, you,
When, heard only by the seamew, they talk all the stuff one can.

Sweet to haste, a licensed lover, to Miss Pinkerton the glover,
Having managed to discover what is dear Neaera's "size,"
P'raps to touch that wrist so slender, as your tiny gift you tender,
And to reach you're no offender, in those laughing hazel eyes.

Then to hear her call you "Harry" when she makes you fetch and carry—
O youpng man about to marry, what a blessed thing it is!
To be photograph'd — together—cased in pretty Russia leather—
Hear her gravely doubting whether they have spoilt your honest phiz!

Then you bring your plighted fair one first a ring—a rich and rare one—
Next a bracelet, if she'll wear one, and a heap of things beside;
And serenely bending o'er her, to inquire if it would bore her
To say when her own adorer may aspire to call her bride!

Then, the days of courtship over, with your wife to start for Dover
Or Dieppe—and live in clover evermore, whate'er befalls;
For I've read in many a novel that, unless they've souls that grovel,
Folks prefer in fact a hovel to your dreary marble halls:

To sit, happy married lovers;
Phyllis trifling with a plover's
Egg, while Corydon uncovers with a grace the Sally Lunn,
Or dissects the lucky pheasant—that, I think, were passing pleasant;
As I sit alone at present, dreaming darkly of a Dun.

THE OPEN ROAD.

[Walt Whitman.]

Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.

Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune.
Henceforth I whisper no more, postpone no more, need nothing.
Done with indoor complaint, libraries querulous criticisms,
Strong and content I travel the open road.

PESSIMISTIC.

[Exchange.]

We have read somewhere of an old Scotchman whose wit was edged with pessimism. One morning he met at her gate a neighbor whose husband was seriously ill.

"And hoo's yer husband this morning, Mrs. Tamson?" he asked, solicitously.

"O, he's awful bad! The doctor said his temperature has gone to one hundred and fifty."

"Nae, nae, you've made a mistake! Sandy's temperature could never be as muckle as one hundred and fifty—at least, no' in this world," he added, as an afterthought.

AT EVENING.

[Allen H. Gleason, in the Boston Transcript.]

As day draws to its close and Phoebus drives
His chariot o'er the hills in scarlet splendor,
The shadows begin their march with stealthy feet.
They lengthen inch by inch, and soon the fields
Are half-enveloped in haze. We view the scene
As if with tear-dimmed eyes. The faintest pink
Now tops the hill to show where the sun has gone
To rest. Then up above the first, one star
Struggles to send its signal of infinity,
Its comrades soon appear. The golden street-lamps
Of the town flare up as if to mock the stars,
Or answer to their call. A chill pervades the air,
And now the mist hangs thick, a velvet grey,
The twilight hour is past. Farewell bright day!

REBUKING THE PRIVATE.

[New York Evening Post.]

Private Sparks, on guard, probably wasn't looking when the general passed nearby; anyway, he failed to salute. Something terrible was due to happen to Private Sparks.

"Colonel," the general said, "the man on post failed to salute the general this morning. See that he is severely reprimanded."

"Lieutenant," the captain said, some time later, "Private Sparks failed to salute the general today. See that he is severely reprimanded!"

"Yes, sir!" responded the lieutenant and when he encountered the first sergeant that evening, told him:

"Private Sparks failed to salute the general this morning. You will severely reprimand him!"

"Yes, sir!" responded the sergeant, and when he came across Private Sparks he said:

"Look here, you pie-faced mutt, you let Old Ironback go by this morning without throwing him a kiss, and it near broke his little heart. Let me catch you doing anything like that again and I'll make you wash back of your ears and take away your chewing gum."

A Woman Likes To Be Admired, No Matter How Old She May Be

Nature undoubtedly made woman to be admired, and man to admire her. No woman ever gets so old that she doesn't want admiration, and no man ever gets beyond admiring her. Good looks in woman do not depend upon age, but upon health. A woman's health depends more upon the distinctly feminine organism than upon anything else. Between that organism and her beauty there is the closest connection. You never see a good-looking woman who is weak, run-down, irritable, out of sorts, fidgety and nervous. Headaches, backaches, dragging-down and troubles of that sort are all destroyers of beauty. Men do not admire sickness.

It is within the reach of every woman to be well, healthy and strong if she will take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the safest woman's tonic because it is made entirely of roots and herbs, without alcohol. (Ingredients on label.) It is fifty years old, and its age testifies to its goodness. A medicine that has made sick women well for half a century is surely good to take. Women from every part of Canada testify to its merits.

Send ten cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package and confidential medical advice.

Receiving with the president of the Grenfel Mission, will be the presidents of the Red Cross Association, the Women's Canadian Club and the Daughters of the Empire. To this reception are to be invited the women of the various organizations in the city. While in the city Dr. and Mrs. Grenfel will be the guests of Mrs. Becher, Thornwood.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Scott, McGillivray, was the scene of a most interesting event on Thursday, September 23, the occasion of the 47th anniversary of their wedding day. The old homestead was filled with children and grandchildren, who presented Mr. and Mrs. Scott with handsome gifts. Among those present were Mr. James Scott of Thedford, Mr. William Scott of St. Thomas, Mr. Alfred Scott of Niagara Falls, Mr. Noble Scott of Exeter and Mr. Eriven Scott and Mr. Aaron Scott of McGillivray, all sons; Mrs. Greenlee of Brinsley, Mrs. Hodgins of Granton, and Miss Clarissa Scott at home, all daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller of Westminster were the host and hostess of a delightful little gathering held at their home last Saturday evening, when they entertained at dinner in honor of their son, Mr. J. S. Miller, and his bride, formerly Miss Marjorie C. Prosser of Southbank, Yorkshire, England. A number of guests were present to offer congratulations to the young couple, who have just returned from their honeymoon. Throughout the house white and pink asters combined formed a pretty decoration, while Miss Alice Miller, Mrs. W. Perkins and Mrs. L. W. Cousins assisted in looking after the guests, and Miss Annie Winslow furnished delightful music. Many handsome presents were showered on the young couple, who will reside in Windsor.

Mrs. Coffey was made the recipient of a life membership in the Daughters of the Empire by the members of the Senator Coffey Chapter meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of the regent, Mrs. Frank Forristal, Wellington street. The pretty pin was presented by the regent, who spoke of Mrs. Coffey's valuable work in the chapter since its organization. Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. F. J. Greenaway were present, and showed the plans of the proposed children's hospital, with the result that the chapter strongly supported the scheme for raising more funds, and pledged themselves to raise $1,000 to endow a cot. At the close of the meeting tea was served from a prettily appointed table, autumn flowers gleaming above a handsome Cluny cloth. The regent was assisted in the tea room by Mrs. Fallon, Mrs. Cortese, Miss Dorothy McCann and Miss Dromgole.

The private dining-room at the Country Club was the scene of a most interesting luncheon party yesterday noon, when the guests of honor were the women visitors in the city with the Empire Chambers of Commerce. The guests were received on their arrival at the "Kennels" by Mrs. George Reid, Mrs. Arthur Little, Mrs. Donald McLean, Miss Grace Blackburn, Mrs. Ronald Harris and Mrs. Cleghorn. Luncheon, which was served from three tables prettily decorated with clusters of gladioli, was a most informal affair, having been hurriedly arranged to suit the convenience of the visiting ladies. Informal speeches welcoming the party to London were made by Miss Grace Blackburn and Mrs. Donald McLean. Mrs. Barlow of Edenfield, near Manchester, England, and Mrs. Albion Williams of London, England, replied in a delightful manner, stating how greatly impressed they were with the kindness of the people of Canada. Mrs. Williams emphatically declared that she was especially glad to see prohibition in Canada, and remarked on the many pretty little homes here in London, in contract to the tenements of the old land city.

The Empire Chamber of Commerce women present included Mrs. Barlow of Edenfield, near Manchester; Mrs. Crapper, "Mills Mill House," Chalderton, Oldham; Miss Calder and Miss Chambers of Toronto; Mrs. D. Daniel, Swansea; Mrs. E. Victor Dodds, Coventry; Miss Hill, Hull; Mrs. J. W. Downs, Bradford; Mrs. K. Pritchard Farr, "The Chalet," Glamorgan; Mrs. Foster, Toronto; Mrs. W. Holmes, Swansea; Mrs. G. E. Leeming, Mrs. Leeming, Manchester; Miss Lillen, Toronto; Mrs. Harold Mallalieu, "Grove House," North Oldham; Mrs. G. C. Martyn, "Woodlands," Newport; Mrs. F. E. Moring, Reading; Mrs. F. W. Plummer Rockwood, Luton; Mrs. Bernard Sugden, Birkenshaw; Mrs. Leisching, Pretoria; Mrs. Albion Williams, London, England.

DEACONESS—NEAVES.

On Saturday, September 25, at 11 a.m., an interesting wedding was solemnized in the Thamesville Anglican Church, when Miss Lizzie Neaves became the bride of Mr. Fred Deaconess of Kent Bridge, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Murray Hunt.

The bride, who is from Cambridge, England, having landed in Canada for the first time during the latter part of August, was becomingly attired in tan silk and wore a large white hat. Mr. Edward Kempton of Kent Bridge acted as best man, and the bride's niece, Miss Peggy Neaves, as bridesmaid.

After the ceremony the wedding party went to the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Harry Neaves, where an enjoyable supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Deaconess will reside on a farm near Kent Bridge.

HALL—MARTIN.

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in St. George's Anglican Church, London Township, at 12 o'clock noon, on Wednesday, September 22, when Enid D. J., eldest daughter of Mr. Thos. H. Martin, J.P., and Mrs. Martin, Lobo, became the bride of Clair R., younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hall of Ilderton. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Arthur Shore of Ilderton, assisted by Rev. Austin Duplan of Walkerville. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pretty suit of navy gabardine with hat to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds.

The "Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, was played by the bride's cousin, Miss Anne Henderson of Niagara Falls, and during the signing of the register Mrs. John Hall sang 'Love's Coronation."

A dainty luncheon at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, only the immediate relatives being present, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hall left for Detroit.

BROWNLEE—KIDNER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 386 Burwell street on Monday, September 27, when Emma H., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kidner, was united in marriage to Mr. Cecil R. Brownlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brownlee of Shetland, Rev. G. A. Leichliter officiating.

Promptly at 4:30 the bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father. She was prettily attired in white silk crepe with the customary veil, and carried a shower bouquet of Sunset roses. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Gertrude Kidner, who was becomingly gowned in shell pink crepe with black picture hat, and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Ed. Webster. During the signing of the register Miss Anna Finnie of Windsor sang very sweetly "O Perfect Day." Mr. A. D. Jordan played the Wedding March as the bridal party entered the drawing-room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with palms and asters.

Following the ceremony, a dainty buffet lunch was served to some fifty guest, after which Mr. and Mrs. Brownlee left for a wedding trip to eastern points. The bride wore a traveling suit of navy tricotine with hat to match. After their return, the happy couple will reside in their new home in Barrie.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome leather traveling case, to the bridesmaid a silver purse, to the groomsman a gold watch fob, and to Miss Finnie, a gold bar pin set with emeralds.

RAYNER—ATHERTON.

One of the prettiest weddings ever witnessed was performed in St. John's Church, Toronto, Friday evening, September 24, when Lillian Ruth, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atherton, St. Thomas, became the bride of Charles Henry Rayner, second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rayner, also of St. Thomas, the Rev. W. L. Baynes Reed officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked beautiful in a gown of ivory satin charmeuse with pearls and tulle veil crowned with her mother's bridal wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Dorothy Rayner, sister of the groom, looked lovely in mauve organdie and picture hat, and carried Ophelia roses. Little Dorothy Atherton, sister of the bride, who was dressed in pink tulle, made a charming little flower girl. The ushers were E. Boye, F. Sargent, E. Sargent and J. H. Atherton, all of Toronto. The service was fully choral, the wedding march being played by W. H. Mould of Toronto. During the signing of the register Mrs. Jack Raynor of St. Thomas sang "O Perfect Love."

The church was beautifully decorated with mums and ferns. After the ceremony a reception was held at the rectory, home of the Rev. W. L. Baynes-Reed. Many out-of-town guests were present. The happy couple left later in the evening for Detroit, Toledo and points west amidst showers of confetti and good wishes. They will reside in St. Thomas on their return.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XVIII.—In the Mirror.

I was not totally unprepared for Fred's attack.

And yet the manner of it for a moment disconcerted me.

It was so like Fred to put me in the wrong—I—the innocent party!

"Bluff! Sheer bluff!" I told myself, hardening my heart against my fiance.

The ungentlemanliness of his remarks, too, irritated me. No amount of anger or righteous indignation could excuse his attitude, here in this public place, with the eyes of strangers on us.

I determined that it was up to me to carry the matter off, as airily and easily as possible.

Therefore I smiled—a tolerant little smile. There was superiority in it, too, and patronage. I felt superior.

"I'm quite as surprised to see you here as you are to see me!" I nodded coolly. "We do seem fated to take each other unawares!"

Fred was at a disadvantage. He was annoyed that I was so little impressed by his sudden appearance and accusations. Amazed, also. I noticed that.

"But Julie said—"

"This is hardly the time and place for bothersome explanations." I actually managed a tinkly little laugh that I was far from feeling. Then, lowering my tones

"Since you and Julie amuse each other so successfully, why worry about me and my affairs?"

Dismissing him with another curt little nod, I turned to Saunders.

"Let's go into the dance-room and have a turn. That lovely Hawaiian music makes it impossible for me to sit still another moment. Come."

I rose, a hand on Saunder's arm. I definitely turned my back on Fred. My heart was throbbing painfully, but I wasn't going to let anyone note my embarrassment. The laurels of the occasion must be mine!

They were. As Saunders and I swept through the lounge, I had a glimpse of Julie's eyes on us, and I knew that Fred—considerably crestfallen—was returning to her in anything but the best of tempers.

Oh, I must at once terminate this miserable engagement. Its moments of happiness had been so few. They weren't worth the other times.

Neil Saunders slipped a large, protective arm lightly about me, and we glided together on the ballroom's polished floor.

The queer South Sea island melody rose and fell about us in a heavenly rhythm. To may astonishment, my partner danced with perfect ease. I had never thought of him as a dancing man.

"You're surprised at my having any parlor accomplishments, aren't you?" He was looking down into my eyes with an odd, cheery twinkle in his own. He had completely ignored the little fracas with my angry lover, Fred Delaunay. And I decided not to make any reference to it, either.

"Yes—oh, wild man of the woods!" I answered, laughing. (I would throw this hateful feeling of depression off. I would be debonnair and gay, I told myself.)

Love was a cruel, treacherous thing. I would be done with love. To let one's feelings get the better of one's independence and one's common sense —that was sheer folly. Fred and his kind—the woman who sought peace of mind should bar such men from her life.

Then, as I danced, my thoughts irresistibly drifted towards Julie—my false friend.

Julie, in her little plots and plans, was not as clever as I'd thought her.

For instance, today's mishap. A child could have informed her that she would be found out!

She had telephoned to Fred, and told him that I wasn't coming.

But she must have known that Fred and I were bound to meet, and explanations happen. . . .

Her plot had been so stupid and so futile. It didn't seem a scrap like Julie.

Had Fred lied to me? I wondered.

If so, it had been an equally stupid, blundering thing to do. The truth would inevitably come to light. There was no sort of method in his madness.

A feeling of resentment grew on me. I felt I hated Fred and Julie—equally. It was difficult to smile and appear debonnair and gay when feelings such as those were gnawing at my heart.

"Tired?" Neil Saunders spoke with a kind solicitude. Perhaps my feet were dragging just a little as mechanically I went through the steps of the very newest fox-trot.

"It's rather hot for dancing, isn't it?" I tried to smile brightly up at him, but the effort wasn't very successful. "If you don't mind, I'll run along to the ladies' cloak-room and just tidy up a bit. And then we might go home."

I slipped away from him. Just for the moment I was glad to be alone.

The ladies' cloak-room was a gorgeous, much be-mirrored place. All sorts of scented powder, rouge, face-creams and unguents adorned the dressing-tables.

And before these dressing-tables, pretty ladies were busily engaged in the absorbing occupation of making themselves more pretty and more artificially attractive.

They were doing it for men. Somehow, that thought had power to anger me.

Just because Fred had failed me, I hated the whole race of man, I told myself.

And then I caught a glimpse of myself in a big pier-glass—a full-length picture of a charmingly clad and radiantly pretty young woman. The beauty of the apparition for the moment took my breath away.

Beauty meant power. And power was sweet. Power was heady and intoxicating.

I would use that power, for my own personal amusement, heedless of whom I hurt. I would—

"Hello, Anne! Looking very festive, aren't you?" Over my shoulder in the mirror was reflected Julie's face—complacent Julie, pretty, pert and mocking!

Monday—A Trial Ride.

DR. GRENFEL AND HIS PARTY IS TO VISIT LONDON NEXT WEEK

Local Grenfel Mission Plans For Their Reception and Public Meetings.

At a meeting of the local Grenfel Mission, held at the home of Mrs. George Reid, Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, plans were made for the reception of Dr. W. T. Grenfel and those accompanying him to the city next week. Their visit to the city will be the inauguration of a big campaign to raise funds to endow the Labrador mission in perpetuity. Accompanying Dr. Grenfel will be Mrs. Grenfel, Dr. Parron of the Indian Harbor Hospital, who is coming out of Labrador for the first time after toiling there many years ago, and who is an excellent speaker; Dr. Keene and C. P. Burgess, secretary for the International Movement to Perpetuate the work of Dr. Grenfel.

Arriving Sunday.

The party will arrive in the city on Sunday, October 3, and remain here until Wednesday. On Monday there will be a luncheon for men at the Tecumseh House, at which Dr. Grenfel and Dr. Patton will speak. On Tuesday afternoon a reception will be held at the Kennels by the women of the city, under the auspices of the local Grenfel Mission. Delegates from Western Ontario branches of the Grenfel Mission or from towns interested in the work will be welcomed at this reception if they send their names to Mrs. Arthur Little, 83 Central avenue. In other cities it has sometimes been the custom for nearby towns to spend in a delegation to present personally a contribution from that place. On either Tuesday or Wednesday night there will be a public mass meeting, at which both Dr. Grenfel and Dr. Patton will speak.

Big Campaign.

The visit of Dr. Grenfel is to be the impetus for a great campaign in Western Ontario.

"The aim is to raise $1,500,000 in Canada and the United States," declared H. L. Elias of New York, who was in the city yesterday, representing Dr. Grenfel, and was present at the meeting. "Of this amount $250,000 is Canada's share to be left in Canadian securities. Dr. Grenfel has now carried on the Labrador mission for 28 years simply by coming out every winter and personally raising the money. He feels that this having to leave the country every winter is hindering his work. He also realized that if anything should happen to him there would not be a cent to carry on. It is his endeavor therefore to raise enough money to endow the work perpetually by one big campaign. This effort of his is his first big effort, and it will be the last. Last year $90.000 was raised and spent." From $1,500,000 it is expected to get an annuity of $80,000. The rest will be made up each year by the work of the various Grenfel misson societies throughout the country.

Dr. Grenfel's visit to London is for the purpose of interesting outlying district as well as the city, and Dr. Patton will be available during his stay in the city to visit some of the nearby towns. The chamber of commerce is strongly backing this effort of the intrepid missionary.

MISS LETHBRIDGE, A POWER FOR GOOD AMONG THE CHINESE

Missionary Who Witnessed Dr. Menzie's Murder by Bandits.

Miss S. J. Lethbridge, the only Canadian witness of Dr. Menzie's murder by bandits in Honan, China, who died as a result of nervous shock shortly after the tragedy, is made the inspiration of an editorial in the September number of the Honan Messenger. Miss Lethbridge was a former Glencoe girl and sister of Mr. George Lethbridge of this city.

Of her the Messenger says:

"She possessed a keen sense of duty. A duty recognized was forthwith performed. Her sincerity and frankness were very attractive. She was always her own self, so true, genuine and winsome. Marked by shrewdness of judgment, her opinions carried great weight with us. She showed a generous spirit of toleration towards those differing from her in opinion.

"There was nothing ascetic about her. She loved the beauty of nature and rejoiced in the glory of the mountains, sky and plain at Hwaiking, her home in the land of her adoption. Her musical talent, cultivated in the homeland, was not neglected in China, but by it many a time did she give pleasure to all.

Many Friends.

"With her rich capacity for friendship, she won many friends among the Chinese. Her graciousness, sympathy and humor all attracted them to her. Thus was she able to lead them on to the Great Friend. With joy and diligence did she 'buy up the opportunity' of telling the old old story to those who had never heard, or of helping believers to 'increase in the knowledge of God.' Her constant prayer for the latter was that they might not remain 'babies in Christ,' but might attain 'unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ.'

"Though her field of service was in China, she believed she owed a duty to friends in the homeland and had a large circle of correspondents with whom she shared her experiences, her hopes and her plans. We cannot estimate the wide influence of her letters, nor can we predict what fruit they may not yield.

Life for Service.

"When told by the doctor that she could not live, she said she had given herself for life to the service of Christ in Honan. Her one regret was that the service was to prove so short. Short though it may have been, it was characterized by great devotion and kindliness of heart both in the educational and the evangelistic departments of the work. Notwithstanding the disturbed state of the country, we succeeded in reaching by wire practically all the mission; and at the funeral there were representatives from every station at which workers were still left, some arriving by troop trains. Heartfelt tributes of affection and appreciation were paid at both the English and Chinese services."

Dear Miss Grey.—Another newcomer but do not say that I am too familiar, as my wife is dictating this letter. We will send our mite, hoping it will be convenient for you to send us the stocking-foot pattern. My wife has been saving the recipes and in looking them over and trying them she would like to ask Mother of Six if the beans and vegetables should be cooked. She would also like to know if you have a recipe for preserving tomatoes.

Hoping to be of some use to the C. G. column next time we write. We will sign as SUNFLOWER.

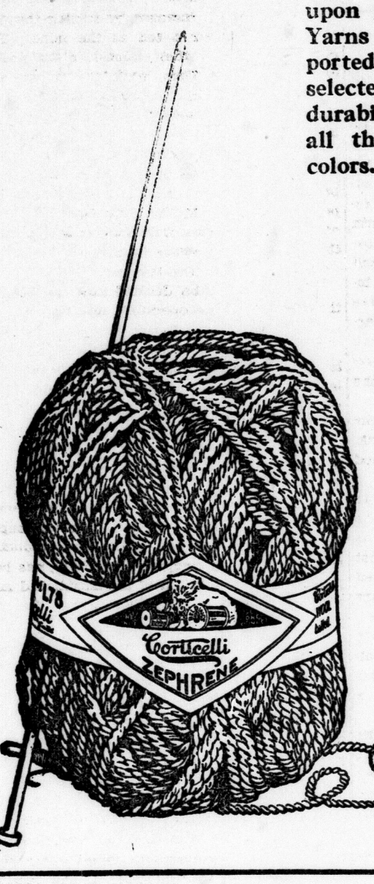

Ans.—Glad your wife persuaded you to write to the Mail-Box. Thank you for the hospital gift. Your query re pickles referred to Mother of Six.

Here is a recipe for tomato marmalade: Remove the skin from eight tomatoes and cut in small pieces. Weigh the fruit and allow half the amount of granulated sugar. Place in a preserving kettle and add the juice of two oranges and two lemons, half a teaspoonful of ground cinnamon and a quarter of a teaspoonful of ground mace. Let simmer until thick and when almost cooked stir in four ounces each of candied lemon peel and preserved ginger, cut in tiny strips and three-quarters of cupful of seeded raisins.

THE CIRCUS DOG.

(Part Nine.)

How Monty Paid for His Meal.

Monty was the first to get tired, but Billie, the goat, was ready for a rest too. They had travelled all day along the railway tracks, and although they had passed through one town they had not found the circus.

What a hungry little dog Monty was when he went to sleep that night. Billie had found lots of grass and weeds to eat along the way but such a diet was not to the little dog's liking, indeed it would not have been digestible.

"I think it would be much nicer to go by the roads," Billie suggested next morning.

"The grass along the tracks tastes so smoky and I don't like swallowing cinders."

Poor Monty was so hungry and miserable he did not care what happened, so he agreed.

"I don't think I can stand it if I don't eat soon," he told Billie, after they had visited the back doors of several farm houses and had not found a bite for him to eat.

"Why don't you steal a chicken," Billie told him. "There are so many hereabouts one would not be missed."

"But I was taught it was wrong to steal," Monty said, though he was so hungry he could hardly resist the temptation.

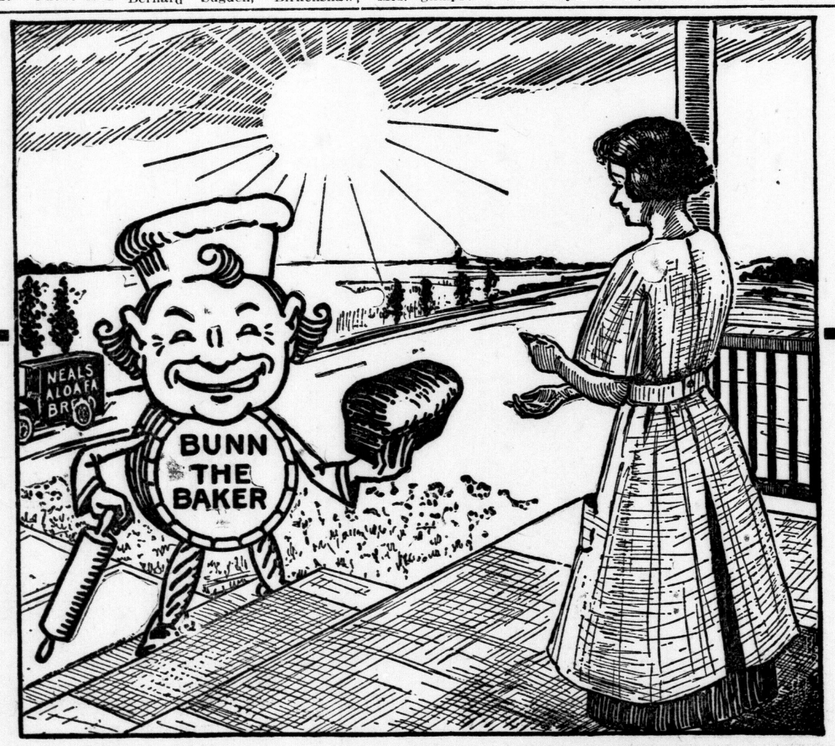

Billie laughed at him being so afraid to do wrong, but Monty kept up his good reputation and would not steal a chicken. As they were going along the road he noticed something move in the cornfield. Monty stopped and then bounded forward. The field was overrun with little field mice and they were eating the corn stalks and damaging the crop. What scatteration there was when Monty got there, but the little dog worked fast and soon he had killed more than a dozen of the little pests.

"There," Billie cried in delight, for he was pleased at the cleverness of his little friend. "You have helped save the farmer's crop. You have well paid for a chicken, so just help yourself." Monty was so hungry, we can not blame him for agreeing, and he waited his opportunity and caught a fat young chicken for his meal.

He ate so much he was ready for an after-dinner sleep, so the dog and the goat threw themselves down by the roadside to rest. How much better it would have been for Monty had he buried the chicken's feathers before he rested, for trouble was to come to him through his chicken dinner.

FIRST DAY OF SARNIA FAIR TROTS MARKED BY CLOSE FINISHES

Velma G., Local Horse, Takes 2:18 and Dr. E. the Slower Event.

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—Thrilling finishes marked every heat on the first day of the West Lambton County Fair today, with the exception of the second heat of the 2:30 trot, when Dr. E. ran away from the field and finished lengths in the lead and taking it easy. Dr. E. drew away from the field at the start and after the first turn was never in danger of being overtaken. Dillard Heart was nosed out by J. L. B. for second place. Time in the 2:30 trot was exceptionally good, the fast track speeding the horses up. Velma G., after being nosed out for first place in the first heat of the 2:18 trot, came back strong and took the next two in handy fashion. Birdie Hal was consistent, finishing third in every heat. Western U Squad Increased To 20 For Yesterday's Stiff Drill

Good Condition of Candidates Was Feature of Second Gruelling Under Coach Brock.

Western U.'s grid squad was increased to twenty yesterday afternoon, and the candidates didn't confine themselves to any front porch stuff. They were given an hour's gruelling—a full sixty minutes to the hour—which was both stiff and varied. Coach Mel Brock was distinctly pleased with the work, and while all departments have to be still filled up, there are still a number of last year's team to report yet, and some new material to be worked over. One thing is assured, and that is that there will be two teams this year and a second team will be entered in the intercollegiate junior series, which will be looked after by W. Mace.

A striking feature of yesterday's drill was the condition shown by the candidates, and this feature sort of brightens up the fact of the two weeks' start held by the other entries in the group.

By the end of the week the drilling should be assuming interesting shape, and it is expected that nearly all the prospects will have been brought out by Saturday. As soon as possible after Eric Reid has had a little time with the linesmen and Brock with the back division, games will be on tap two or three times a week.

Some of the last year crew have shown a big advance in weight, which should help this year. Some of those out yesterday were: Cline, Herd, Jarrett, Macpherson, McGinnis, Dockstader, Wainwright, Williams, Douglas, Annett, Mace and Screaton.

BROOKLYN "CHAMPS" RECEIVE PRESENTS

New York, Sept. 29.—Brooklyn baseball fans honored the Brooklyn National League champions last night at a reception in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. A silver loving cup was presented to Manager Wilbert Robinson for his second success in capturing first place, and each of the players received a gold watch fob. The gifts were bought with donations from the spectators at the Brooklyn-New York contest last Saturday.

TURNBULL SHIELD GOES BACK TO PETROLEA

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—The Turnbull Shield, which has changed homes three times within the past two weeks, went back to Petrolea last night for the second time, when H. D. Sherrin's rink defeated Dr. Logie's Sarnia quartet six shots in a sixteen-end game. In a friendly game Jackson, Petrolea, nosed out Pressley of Sarnia, in a thrilling sixteen-end game, which was not won until the last end. The scores:

INDICTMENT OF EIGHT WHITE SOX PLAYERS FOR GAMBLING IN 1919 WORLD'S SERIES BARES BASEBALL'S MOST SORDID SCANDAL

Cicotte, Ace of Pitching Staff, When He Appears, Starts Rapid Demolishment of Once Great Baseball Machine With Startling Confessions of Players Who Deliberately Threw Games—$10,000 Bundles of Money Found Under Players' Pillows, Was Their Pay From Gamblers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Charles Comiskey, president of the White Sox, today suspended every member of the team indicted today in connection with the alleged fixing of baseball games. Seven of the eight indicted are affected. Chick Gandil, the eighth, is not playing this year. The suspension practically kills all hope of the White Sox winning the American League pennant this year.

Assistant State Attorney Replogle announced that Cicotte was taken into custody after leaving the grand jury room, and is now in charge of William Sullivan, a detective of the state attorney's office. He declined to say where the pitcher was being taken.

Eddie Cicotte confessed that he entered the deal by which the White Sox lost last year's world's series, an official of the court announced this afternoon.

The details of Cicotte's confession follow closely the story told in Philadelphia last night by Billy Maharg, former prize-fighter, it was stated.

Cicotte told the grand jury, it was announced, that he received $10,000 for his part in losing the series. He never saw the man who paid the money, he said. He was told he would find the $10,000 under his pillow in his hotel room on the night before the first game at Cincinnati, and when he returned to his room the money was there.

Joe Jackson received $5,000. Like Cicotte, he found the money in his bed when he returned to his room on the night before the first game.

Jackson said that throughout the series he either struck out or else hit easy balls when hits would have meant runs.

Gandil, while still the property of the Chicago Club, has not been with the team this year. It is understood that he could not reach an agreement with them over salary.

Voting on the indictments was officially announced by H. H. Brigham, foreman of the grand jury, following a conference with Chief Justice McDonald and Alfred S. Austin, attorney for the White Sox club.

"My God—Think of My Children," Cries Cicotte

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A court official who was present when Cicotte went on the stand described the scene when the star pitcher broke down and cried as he told the jury of his part in the series "fixing"

"My God, think of my children," he cried. Cicotte has two small children.

"I've lived a thousand years in the last year," the court official quoted him as saying.

"I never did anything I regretted so much in my life," the witness added, according to the state official. "I would give anything in the world if I could undo my acts in the last world's series. I've played a crooked game and have lost, and I am here to tell the whole truth."

"In the fourth game played at Chicago, which I lost, I deliberately intercepted a throw from the outfield to the plate which might have cut off a run. I muffed the ball on purpose. At another time in the same game I purposely made a wild throw. All the runs scored against me were due to my own deliberate errors. I did not try to win."

COMISKEY, "OLD ROMAN," BREAKS UP HIS FAMILY WITH TREMBLING VOICE, WHEN INDICTMENTS MADE

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The exact nature of the information Mr. Comiskey put before the grand jury was not disclosed. The men whom the jury involved as a result of testimony uncovered by their owner were:

Eddie Cicotte, star pitcher, who waived immunity and confessed, according to court attaches, that he took a $10,000 bribe.

Arnold Gandil, former first baseman.

"Shoeless Joe" Jackson, heavy-hitting leftfielder.

Oscar ("Hap" Felsch, centrefielder.

Charles "Swede" Risberg, shortstop.

Claude Williams, pitcher.

George "Buck" Weaver, third baseman.

Fred McMullin, utility player.

While the grand jurors delivered their true bills, the Old Roman, seated in the midst of his crumbling empire out at White Sox Park, issued the telegram suspending those involved, paid off Weaver, Cicotte and Jackson on the spot, and announced that checks for pay due the others would be sent them at once. With his voice trembling, Mr. Comiskey, who has owned the White Sox since the inception of the American League, said this was the first time scandal had ever touched his "family" and that it distressed him too much to talk about it.

The rush of players to bare their part in the affair started today, when Cicotte appeared at the criminal court building and asked permission to testify. Cicotte wept, court attaches said, and exclaimed in anguish his sorrow for his two small children as he told how he did his utmost to lose rather than win the 1919 world's series after he had "found" $10,000 beneath his pillow, where it had been placed by professional gamblers.

He said he lobbed the ball to the plate so slowly "you could read the trademark on it" in the first game at Cincinnati, when he was taken out of the box after three and two-thirds innings had been played.

How Cicotte Did It.

Last year's world series records show that in the first inning of the first game Cicotte started by hitting Rath, the first Cincinnati batter, in the back. Daubert followed with a single over second base that sent Rath to third, and he scored when Groh filed to Jackson, Rath beating Jackson's throw to the plate.

Chicago tied this run in the next inning, Kopf putting Jackson on second with a wild throw. Felsch sacrificed him to third and Gandil dropped a little fly safely in centre field' scoring Jackson.

The end of Cicotte's pitching came, and the runs that ultimately won the game were scored by Cincinnati in the fourth inning. All the damage was done with two out. With Kopf on first, Neale and Wingo singled, and Ruether, the hard-hitting Cincinnati pitcher, drove a three-base hit to the centre field bleachers. Rath doubled and Daubert singled, the combination resulting in five runs. Wilkinson took Cicotte's place after Daubert's single and Groh filed to Felsch.

The final score of this game was 9 to 1.

The fourth game, played at Chicago, was also deliberately thrown away, according to court officials, who heard Cicotte's statement to the grand jury. The Reds won this game by a score of 2 to 0, Ring pitching for Cincinnati, holding the American League champions to three hits. Both Cincinnati runs were made in the fifth inning, when two of Cincinnati's hits were bunched with a wild throw to first by Cicotte and a bad throw to the plate by Jackson, which the pitcher intercepted and muffed.

The play in this inning was sent over the Canadian Press as follows:

"Roush was out, Schalk to Gandil, the ball rolling half way to the pitcher's box. Duncan was safe when Cicotte threw his drive wide to first, the ball going to the stands and Duncan reaching second. Kopf singled to left, and Duncan stopped at third, but scored when Jackson threw wild to the plate. Kopf reached second. Correction: The official scorer gives Cicotte the error for muffing Jackson's throw. Neale sent one over Jackson's head and Kopf scored. Neale reached second. It was a two-base hit. Wingo out, Eddie Collins to Gandil, Neale going to third. Ring drove a vicious grounder that E. Collins got and threw him out at first. Two runs; two hits; two errors."

The rest of the game was played sharply, and so far as the records show, cleanly. Cicotte pitched through the nine innings.

"We will play out the schedule if we have to get Chinamen to replace the suspended players," Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, announced this afternoon.

Purge Baseball, Is Aim.

Cicotte's next appearance in the series was in the sixth game, when Cincinnati had four victories to its credit against one loss. The veteran pitcher went through nine innings and held his opponents to seven hits, and Chicago won the game 4 to 1.

The investigation by the grand jury will continue till all phases of baseball gambling have been bared, it was said by officials. The investigation started two weeks ago, following reports that a game played here August 31 by the Cubs and the Phillies was "fixed," and the inquiry into last year's world series came up only as an incident to the other inquiry.

Assistant State Attorney Hartley Replogle said tonight that indictments to be drawn up tomorrow may contain several counts. The true bills themselves specified but one alleged offence, "conspiracy to commit an illegal act." The penalty provided upon conviction on this count would be one to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of not more than $10,000.

"This is just the beginning," he said tonight. "There will be indictments within a few days, and before we get through we will have purged organized baseball of everything that is crooked and dishonest.

"We are going after the gamblers now. There will be indictments within a few days against men in Philadelphia, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Des Moines, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and other cities. More baseball players also will be indicted. We've got the goods on these men, and we are going the limit."

Followers of the White Sox figured at once on the probable line-up of the team in the three remaining games of the season, starting in St. Louis on Friday. Information from the club management indicated that the following would possibly be the line-up: Fabre, Kerr, Wilkinson and Hodge, pitchers; Schalk and Lynn, catchers; Jourdan, first base; Eddie Collins, second base; McClellan, shortstop; John Collins, third base; Leibold, right field; Strunk, centre field; Falk, left field.

The Old Roman Speakers.

Mr. Comiskey made the following statement to the Canadian Press, Limited:

"The consideration which the grand jury gave to this case should be greatly appreciated by the general public.

"I would rather close my ball park than send nine men on the field with one of them holding a dishonest thought toward clean baseball. We are far from through yet. We have the nucleus of another championship team with the remainder of the old world's championship team."

He named the veterans, Eddie and John Collins, Ray Schalk, Urban Faber, Dick Kerr, Eddie Murphy, Nemo Liebold and Amos Strunk, and declared that with the addition of Hodge, Falk, Jourdan and McClellan. "I guess we can go along and win the championship."

CONFESSIONS OF

baseman, $20,000; Fred Mullin, utility player, $15,000.

When Joe Jackson left the grand jury room after his confession, a crowd of small boys gathered around the heavy-hitting idol and asked: "It isn't true, is it, Joe?"

"Yes, boys, I'm afraid it is," replied Jackson.

Cicotte and Jackson were not promised immunity in return for their confessions, Replogle said, but are liable to prosecution the same as the other players named in the eight indictments returned.

"Risberg, Gandil and McMullin were at me for a week before the series started," Eddie Cicotte told the grand jury in his confession. "They wanted me to go crooked. I needed the money. I had the wife and kids. They don't know this, and I don't know what they will think. I had bought a farm. There was a $4,000 mortgage. I paid off that with crooked money.

"The eight of us—the eight under indictment—got together in my room three or four days before the series started. Gandil was master of ceremonies. We talked about throwing the series and decided we could get away with it. We agreed to do it.

"I was thinking of the wife and kids and how I needed the money. I told them I had to have the cash in advance. I didn't want any checks. I didn't want any promises. I wanted the money in bills before I pitched a ball.

"We all talked quite a while about it. Yes, all of us decided to do our best to throw the games to Cincinnati. Then Gandil and McMullin took us all, one by one, away from the others, and we talked turkey. They asked me my price. I told them $10,000 paid in advance.

"It was Gandil I was talking to. He wanted to give me some money at the time, and the rest after the games were played and lost.

"Cash in advance, not c. o. d., I reminded him. 'If you can't trust me, I can't trust you. Pay or play ball.'

Received the Money.

"Well the argument went on for some days, but I stood pat. I wanted that $10,000, and I got it.

"How I wish that I had not!

"The day before I went to Cincinnati I put it up to them squarely for the last time there would be nothing doing unless I had the money.

"That night I found the money under my pillow. I had sold out 'Commy' and the other boys to pay off a mortgage on a farm, and for the wife and kids.

"The first ball I pitched I wondered what the wife and kids would say if they ever found out I was a crook. I pitched the best ball I knew how after that first ball. But I lost because I was hit, not because I was throwing the game."

Jackson's Confession.

Joe Jackson described his confession to the grand jury as follows:

"I heard I had been indicted. I decided these men could not put anything over on me. I called up Judge McDonald (Chief Justice Charles A. McDonald of the superior court, who directed the grand jury inquiry), and told him I was an honest man. He said: 'I know you are not,' and hung up the receiver.

"I figured somebody had squealed and that the place for me was the ground floor. I went over to tell him what I knew.

"I got in there and said: 'I got $5,000, and they promised me $20,000. Lefty Williams handed it to me in a dirty envelope.' I told that to Judge McDonald.

"He said he didn't care what I got, that if I got what I ought to get for crabbing the game of the kids, I wouldn't be telling him my story. I don't think the judge likes me.

"Before we broke up I climbed Gandil and McMullin and Risberg about it. They said: 'You poor simp, go ahead and squeak. We'll all say you're a liar. Some of the boys were promised more than you and didn't get as much.'

And I'm giving you a tip. A lot of these sporting writers have been saying the third game of the series was on the square. The eight of us did our best to kick it, and little Dick Kerr won the game by his pitching. Because he won it, these gamblers double-crossed us for double-crossing them.

Afraid of Risberg.

"They've hung it on me. They ruined me when I went to the shipyards, but I don't care what happens now. I guess I'm through with baseball. I wasn't wise enough like Chick Gandil to beat them to it.

Now Risberg threatens to bump me off. That's why I had all the bailiffs with me when I left the grand jury room. I'm not under arrest yet, but I'm not going to get far from my protectors until this blows over."

Both Weaver and Felsch denied having taken any part in a "frame up" to lose the series to the Reds. Williams said he would tell his story to the grand jury if called, and would not discuss it further.

"Nobody's got anything on me," said Williams. My word is as good as Jackson's. They are not stampeding me. I'm not talking for publication."

Weaver declared his batting average of .333 and 4 errors in 30 chances, during the series, were his alibi, and vigorously denied he received any money for helping to "throw" games or knew anything of the scheme.

"It's all hunk as far as I'm concerned," said "Happy" Felsch. I've always been on the square. All I want is a chance to face the music."

PLAYERS' RECORDS.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Following are the playing records of the eight players indicted by the grand jury:

Edward V. Cicotte, pitcher, born in Detroit in 1884. Played his first professional baseball game when 20 years old with Sault Ste. Marie. Sent to the Southern League, bought by Detroit and sent back to the minors. Bought by Boston Americans and sold to Chicago in 1912. Married. Lives in Detroit.

After starring there for several years he was obtained by Chicago in 1915 for Pitcher Klepfer, Outfielder Roth and cash bonus. Married and lives in Savannah, Ga.

Oscar Felsch, outfielder, born in Milwaukee in 1891. Began playing professional ball at Fond Du Lac, Wis., in 1913. Then went to Milwaukee in the American Association and was bought by Chicago in 1914. Married. Home in Milwaukee.

Arnold Gandil, first baseman. Born in St. Paul in 1889. Broke into professional ball in Shreveport, La., in 1908. Played with Sicramento, Coast League, until bought in 1912 by Chicago. Released to Montreal in 1913. Bought by Washington in 1914 and sold to Chicago in 1917. Did not report this season. Married. Lives in Los Angeles.

AND SO DID EDDIE

EDDIE COLLINS.

Collins, too, escapes the muck in which the largest part of the Sox team are now submerged. The fact that a few like Collins withstood the tempting offers held out will probably save a part of the baseball face.

HALEY C. WINNER OF SAGINAW 2:12 PACE

Little Rena, Another Favorite, Takes 2:24 Trot Laurels At Opener.

SAGINAW, Mich., Sept. 28.—Haley C. and Little Rena, strong favorites, took the 2:12 pace and the 2:24 trot, the two events on the opening card of the short ship races today, but not before each had given her backers cause for worry by breaking badly and dropping back for a heat. When they behaved they were the class of the field.

Dropwood was Haley C.'s main contender, but Dropwood didn't appear quite up to herself. Baron Will Tell and Conroy Blake furnished most of the opposition to "Little Rena," but it was "Nelie the Great" that slipped in to take the heat that "Little Rena" slipped on. The crowd was a record-breaker for opening day, fully 25,000 people thronging the grandstand and paddock.

Jack Newton's Sarnia C.I. Crew Look Good Enough This Year

Beaten One Point Last Year, Borderers' Chances For Sweep Seem Bright.

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—Jack Newton's S. C. I. interscholastic juniors this year are, on the strength of their showing against the intermediates last Saturday, conceded to have a wonderful chance of sweeping the series this year. Last year they missed out by one point to Hamilton in the finals, but the 1920 aggregation is a smoother working, harder hitting and cleaner tackling outfit than their immediate predecessors.

They have four linemen of the intermediate calibre in Newton, Gabler, Pugh and Richardson, and some of the finest tacklers in the western O. R. F. U. series, intermediate or junior, in Garvey and Simpson. Johnston, the junior track athlete, who showed up so well in the Western Ontario track meet at London, will likely do the punting for the blue and white this season. The back division will likely consist of Hayes, McGibbons, Lebel, Simpson and Johnston, with Garvey and Correy, a recruit, on end wings.

An attempt is being made to bring Galt to Sarnia for the opening game within the next two weeks.

Hoblitzel Does Sarnia Course In 65; Is W. O. Golf Record

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—In a friendly match at the local golf course, Fred Hoblitzel broke all existing records for Western Ontario, and one that will bear shooting at, all over the continent, when he made eighteen holes of the Sarnia Golf course in 65, turning in a card of 32 for the first nine, and 33 for the second round of the course. Par for the Sarnia course, and the previous record, which had stood for a long time, is 72.

Naps Keep on Winning While Sox Arraigned

Are Now One Full Game Ahead of Gloom-Surrounded Sox—Sisler Hits 249th Hit of Year, Passing Cobb's 1911 Record.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—Cleveland defeated St. Louis 9 to 5 today for the third successive time and lengthened its lead in the American League pennant race to a full game. The Indians drove Bayne from the box in the seventh inning. Bagby was hit freely, but kept the hits scattered. It was his thirtieth victory of the year.

Sisler established a new American League record when he hit a home run in the sixth inning, it being his 249th hit of the year. The former record of 248 was made by Ty Cobb in 1911. In the eighth inning Sisler made it 250 with a triple.

WILL OPEN WORLD'S SERIES AT BROOKLYN WITH THREE GAMES

Monday's Decision Reversed by National Commission At Yesterday's Sitting.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The National Commission today reversed its decision taken yesterday and decided to open the world's series at Brooklyn on October 5, playing three games there. The change was made at the request of Jim Dunn, president of the Cleveland Club, who asked more time to prepare the Cleveland grounds, in the event his team should win the American League pennant.

The National Commission declared the regular Brooklyn and Cleveland squads eligible to compete in the world's series, 26 men in the former and 22 in the latter. Official representatives to arrange for the series were chosen, as well as official scorers. The commission granted the plea of the umpires for higher pay for the series.

President Ebbets of Brooklyn telegraphed President Dunn, Cleveland, permission for the latter to use Shortstop Sewell in the world's series, in the event of Cleveland winning the American League pennant. Sewell joined Cleveland after August 30, and was therefore ineligible without this consent.

YANKEES OFFER CLUB.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The owners of the New York Yankees tonight telegraphed Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, offering to place their entire club at his disposal. The senders of the telegram expressed their confidence that the National Commission could carry out the arrangement, that the Cleveland Club would welcome it rather than win by default.

Reds Come Back At Pirates by Taking Both Ends of Twin Bill

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28.—The Reds won both games of a double-header from Pittsburg today by scores of 2 to 0 and 5 to 3. The scores:

"CON" JONES MAKES BIG OFFER FOR LACROSSE SERIES IN VANCOUVER

Montreal, Sept. 29.—"Con" Jones, the well-known Pacific coast hockey and lacrosse magnate, announces that he has offered the Shamrock lacrosse team $5,000 and 50 per cent of any gate money taken in excess of $10,000 to play a series of three games on May 21, 24 and 28, in Vancouver, for the Minto cup.

Mr. Jones left for Toronto last night to make arrangements with a number of Ontario players on behalf of certain United States interests with whom Mr. Jones has formed an international lacrosse league.

FOUGHT TO A DRAW.

New York, Sept. 28.—Before a crowd of 12,000 in Madison Square Garden last night, Joe Lynch and Jack Shawkey, bantam weights, fought 15 furious rounds to a draw. It was said to be the fastest fight seen in this city since the old Horton law days.

In the third round Lynch was felled twice, taking counts of four and nine respectively. His wonderful come-back in the later rounds earned him the draw.

Man o' War's Season's Earnings Near $200,000

Judging from the amounts now being offered for the appearance of Man o' War there is little doubt that this great racehorse will eclipse the winnings of any American horse in all history.

Man o' War has already gathered $169,265 for his owner, Mr. Riddle, which is not far behind the $193,550 won by Domino, who tops the financial achievements of America's thoroughbreds. And when Man o' War meets Sir Barton in the special race arranged for Kenilworth track at Windsor on Oct. 12, it is quite probable that the famous superhorse will cross the long-desired $200,000 mark—a mark untouched by American horseflesh.

In all turf history Isinglass, an English horse, stands credited with winning the most money. Isinglass started only 12 times, yet won $250,675. However, three of his victories netted him $50,000 each. Donovan, another British product, won $275,812 in 21 starts. He recorded 18 wins and 2 seconds. Rock Sand started the same number of times and won $250,848, finishing first 17 times, second once, and third three times.

Man o' War to date has won 19 of his 20 starts—equaling the winning record of America's greatest money winner, Domino. Domino started 25 times, finishing first 19 times, second twice, and third once.

If the stakes of today were worth the money they were worth in the days of Domino Riddle's marvelous thoroughbred would have topped them all long ago. For instance, the Futurity was worth $48,855 when Domino won in 1893, and ony $26,650 to Man o' War last year.

The only horses to win more money than Man o' War are:

	Starts.	1st	2nd	3rd	Amt.
Domino	25	19	2	1	$193,550
Sysonby	15	14	0	1	184,433

POPULAR LITTLE GIRL WELL AGAIN

Alice Bouchard Is Wonderfully Benefited by Tanlac, States Mother.

A statement which will be read with interest throughout the Province of Quebec was made recently by Mrs. Joseph Bouchard of 1131 Ethel, Verdun, a suburb of Montreal, concerning the benefit her daughter Alice had derived from the use of Tanlac.

Alice Bouchard was the young lady, who at the big pageant on June 24 impersonated Marguerite Bourgeois in the tableaux representing the founder of the Ladies of the Congregation of Montreal, teaching Indian girls and the children of the early settlers.

"Alice had been in poor health for a long time, and had indigestion so bad there was little that she could eat without suffering great distress," said Mrs. Bouchard. "After eating she complained as though she had swallowed a stone, and so much gas would form on her stomach she could hardly breathe. She often lay awake for hours at night, feeling like she was going to choke. She was constipated and had frightful headaches. She had little or no appetite, became very thin, and her complexion was bad. She complained of feeling weak all the time, and we thought she would have to take to her bed altogether.

"A neighbor told us about Tanlac and we got some for Alice. She now has an excellent appetite and can eat anything without having indigestion afterwards. She sleeps well at night, has gained in weight and feels better in every way."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

Hydro Commission Wants Six Weeks To Prepare Its Answers

Royal Commission Was Informed At Opening of Hydro-Radial Investigation At Toronto — Engineer Gaby Testifying When Commission Adjourned At Noon Yesterday.

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—Not less than x weeks will be required by the Onrio Hydro-Electric Power Commission to prepare answers to the seveneen questions submitted by the royal commission investigating the hydroradial railway scheme, it was announced at the opening session here today f the formal inquiry. The announcement was made by Colonel C. S. Macness, K.C., counsel for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Only a morning session was held today, as the Government and hydro commission's experts were engaged this afternoon with the Backus interests on the question of the English River pulp and waterpower concession, which has been asked for by a syndicate headed by F. W. Backus of Minneapolis, Minn. The radial railway injury will be resumed tomorrow morning.

Gaby on Stand.

Shortly before the inquiry was adjourned at noon today, F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, was called to the witness stand. He told of the origin and history of the hydro-electric radial railway movement and the reasons for a difference in figures supplied to the municipalities of estimated costs and those supplied to the Government. In effect, Mr. Gaby said that the variations were caused entirely through price fluctuations, and alterations or substitutions in the plans to meet the changing conditions as the plans developed.

I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., who represented the Ontario Government, said it would be reasonable to see in what respect the present proposals differed from those submitted to the Government. If the propositions were different, he said, it might alter the attitude of the Government.

Mr. Justice Sutherland, chairman of the commission of inquiry, said: "We shall probably have to ascertain what the municipalities voted on, and on what their proposed liabilities were fixed."

Mayor Winter of Windsor Appeals To Government in Matter.

SUFFERING ANTICIPATED

Dominion Chamber of Commerce Has Done Nothing To Curb Landlords.

WINDSOR, Sept. 28.—Finding that only the Government has power to interfere in cases of rent profiteering and evictions of unfortunate tenants unable to meet exorbitant rentals, Mayor Winter of Windsor today appealed to Premier Drury to amend the landlords and tenants act in order to relieve conditions prevailing on the border and in other cities in the province. Under existing legislation there is no loophole whereby a municipality can take action. The only body in the Dominion having authority, the Dominion Board of Commerce, has to date made no tangible progress. Mayor Winter informed Premier Drury that immediate action was imperative to alleviate real suffering and distress here, because of excessive rentals being charged.

Balloonists Return Home.

After spending more than 40 hours in a balloon driven by varying winds and buffetted by storm depression, which since early Saturday morning has been sweeping northward from the Gulf of Mexico, H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis, and Dr. Jerome Kingsburg, New York, after successfully landing at Thamesville, returned to their homes from Windsor tonight.

The balloonists were participants in the National Elimination Balloon Race for selection of American representatives in the International Competition. They passed over five states and one province in their dangerous journey during their effort to secure the honor of representing the United States in the big international race next month.

Border police are tonight scouring the district for William Holloway, sixteen-year-old boy of Wardsville, missing for several days from his home, and thought to have come to the border cities or Detroit.

FIRED TO DEFEND HIMSELF, PRISONER CLAIMS IN COURT

Hearing of Evidence Concluded in Apert Murder Case At Cayuga.

CAYUGA, Sept. 28.—In the Apert murder case, resumed Tuesday morning, sixteen witnesses for the crown gave evidence practically similar to that on May 26. The prisoner went to the ticket wagon where Thilman was selling tickets, it is alleged, and said: "Give me my money." This was followed by three shots; one witness said five shots, two said four. The prisoner then walked to the tent where he sold refreshments, saying: "That is the way I serve people who keep my money." Dr. Hewitt and Dr. McAwley swore Thilman died of shock from gunshot wounds, three of which were found on his body. They removed one bullet. F. C. Asall and James Bennett, colored circus men, assisted in the arrest and swore the prisoner appeared as the train with the departing circus left the station and fired two shots at the train. Seven defence witnesses swore the prisoner went to a ticket wagon, asked for money, and Thilman drew a gun and fired. The prisoner put in the witness box, swore he joined by contract in April to run a lunch tent on the circus ground, paying $75 per week for privileges and $150 guarantee for keeping contract. Not being satisfied he decided to leave at Dunnville after being at Welland and St. Catharines. He had given Thilman $150 to keep for him, as the crowd was rough. He went to him on the 26th and asked for his money.

Thilman raised his gun and threatened to shoot. Apert carried a gun for self-protection and fired three times. Apert would not swear Thilman fired, but said he fired to save his life. He went to his tent, got receipts, went to a field and remained until about 2 a.m., then tried to get into a hotel, intending to give himself up in the morning. He swore he never fired at the train.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, Sept. 29—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—A broad inquiry for railroad shares imparted a strong tone to the stock market t the active opening of today's session. Oils, shippings, coppers and leathers also made noteworthy contributions to the general advance. Initial gains of a point were registered by Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, and Wisconsin Cnetral, while Northern Pacific, Great Northern, St. Paul and the coalers gained large fractions. United States Steel was among the few leaders to hold back.

1:30 p.m.—The reaction was checked at midday, when buying of the better known railway shares was resumed at gains of 1 to 2 points. This affected rallies of like extent in oils, steels and railway equipments, especially Mexican Petroleum and Baldwin.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—The trading on the local stock exchange during the first half hour this morning was dull almost to the point of non-existence. Stocks for the most part remained at their yesterday's closing levels. The merger stocks, which have been attracting some attention lately on account of their threatened decline, were much stronger this morning, Dominion Steel opening at 55¾ after closing at 5⅞, while Canada Steamships opened 1½ points higher than last night's close at 60½. With the exception of Atlantic Sugar, which made a gain of half a point to 133, no other declines or advances were registered.

TEXTILE WORKERS' STRIKE ATTRACTING WIDER ATTENTION

Dominion Trades Congress Has Stratford Trouble Under Consideration.

STRATFORD, Sep.t 28.—Interest in the local textile workers has spread beyond the city and is now receiving the attention of the officers of the Dominion Trades and Labor Council. This morning ten of the strikers were committed for trial before Judge Barron on a charge of wrongfully and without legal authority persistently following Florence Rodwell from place to place to compel her to abstain from work at the Avon Hosiery Company, Limited. Those who were committed for trial were Hattie Bender, Mrs. Nash, Mrs. McIntosh, E. Ridge, Emily Smith, Mrs. Campken, Nettie Eveleigh, Kathleen Mantle, Nora Zimmer and Mrs. Tuff. G. G. O'Donohue, official attorney for the trades and labor council, and Thomas Brown represented the strikers, and Crown Attorney McPherson prosecuted.

The sum of $800 in Victory bonds was provided by the council for the defence as bail. Gladys Rawn, Minnie Toms and Minnie Zlipe were acquitted. A second charge against Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Campkin, Mrs. Tuff, Minnie Toms, Emily Smith, Nettie Eveleigh and Nora Zimmer of following Florence Rodwell in a disorderly manner was dropped. Miss Rodwell, her sister and Miss Canning gave evidence.

$2,550 Morning Fire.

Damage estimated at $2,550 was done by an early morning fire at the stables at Duggan & Gray's coal yard. The large barn was badly burned and four autos were damaged. How the fire started is not known. The flames were noticed about 2:30 a.m. They had then gained good headway. In the basement were fourteen horses, all of which were removed safely. On the main floor two motor trucks and two autos were stored. They were all somewhat damaged. The damage on the building is estimated at $1,000 and on the contents $1,550.

Local motorists will hold a hike to Goderich Friday.

COUNTY PUPILS TO PAY LARGELY INCREASED FEES

WINDSOR, Sept. 28.—Owing to crowded condition of Windsor's public schools, caused largely by the influx of children from outside the city limits, fees of non-resident pupils will be increased from $2.50 to $7 per month after the first of the year, following the decision of the board of education at its meeting tonight. There is a total enrollment of 3,708 pupils, an increase of 600 over the enrollment of last June. The cost to the board of each township pupil is estimated at $7.10 monthly, but owing to the large number of families attracted to the city during recent months who were compelled to move outside the limits for residences and would be affected by increased fees, delay in the adoption of the new scale was decided upon.

SICK MAN SENTENCED IN BEDSIDE COURT TO PRISON TERM

WIARTON, Sept. 28.—Charged with an infraction of the O. T. A., William Moore, suffering from a badly injured knee-cap, was sentenced to six months in prison, as he lay in bed in his home. Part of the case was conducted by the sick man's bedside, the court adjourning from the police court for the purpose. Moore failed to account fo rthe disappearance of some of his private liquor stocks during fair week, and the prison sentence resulted from a previous conviction. He has not yet been removed from his home to the cells.

Thomas Brown was fined $200 and T. Anderson, with a similar charge against him, cannot be located. The convictions were based upon failure of the accused to explain why they used up so much whiskey during fair week.

C. McGuire; executive, Billy Powell, Arthur Wilkinson, J. P. Jaffray, H. J. Bassett, Jack Head, A. B. Willard and Jack Fraser.

In further explanation of his offer of financial assistance towards the work of improving the north end of Jackson Park, Dr. A. Soper, in a letter today, offers to contribute $1,000 towards the work.

ASSAULT VICTIM UNABLE TO TESTIFY; CASE ADJOURNED

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—Collapse of Profero Peter Bayduk, brought down from the general hospital to testify, being feared, in view of a statement by Dr. Sadlier, attending physician, that he was not in condition to undergo further examination, the preliminary hearing in the case of Ivan Turkovich, charged with wounding Bayduk with intent to murder, and John Stanson charged with being an accomplice, was halted today, when A. Weir, counsel for the defendants, was in the midst of a cross-examination of Bayduk. It will be resumed when the wounded man is in condition to submit to further questioning.

Many Sarnia ratepayers are greatly perturbed over the publication of the city's financial statement, several pages of which are devoted to the names of citizens with outstanding taxes charged to their account, some of whom declare they have paid their taxes and do not owe a dollar, and threaten action against the city.

CITY SELLS OWN DEBENTURES AND NETS NICE PROFIT

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 28.—Owen Sound's experiment in locally selling its debentures has proven a decided success. The city issued $88,000 in 6½ per cent debentures without any publicity campaign, and last night the mayor reported the whole issue had been taken up. As the best offer from outside was 98.83, and the local sale was made without any cost for brokerage, the city nets a nice profit on the deal.

The Sun-Times announced today that commencing next week it will issue three times a week instead of twice, as it had been doing for the last 20 years.

For the third time in seven years there will be no assizes in Owen Sound after they have been advertised. The trial of Hugh McClean of Collingwood on a charge of arson was set for the fall assizes advertised to start today, but this case will be traversed till the December session of the county court.

BIGGS AND SMITH WILL ADDRESS AUTO HIKERS AT GODERICH

GODERICH, Sept. 28.—Big preparations are being made for the arrival of the auto hikers who will arrive here Friday noon from Stratford, Listowel and other points.

The board of trade is making plans by which to entertain the large party, which, it is expected, will be about 400 strong.

Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, and Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treauserer, will speak at a gathering, to be held in the Masonic Temple.

SARNIA FAIR DRAWS BIGGEST CROWDS IN EXHIBITION'S HISTORY

SARNIA, Sept. 28.—Record-breaking crowds attended Lambton County Fair today, and as a result of this being international day hundreds of visitors from the other side of the St. Clair River attended.

This year the fair entered the three-day class, and has been so successful that the 1921 fair may be a four-day exhibition. The Brown and Dyer midway will try the idea out this year, and stay here until Saturday.

Wednesday is the closing day of the judging, and so heavy are the entries that it will take the judges until late in the afternoon to complete their work.

Dear Sir,—The Ontario Safety League has inaugurated, with the approval of the Provincial Government, a Safety Week, October 10 to 16 next, when special efforts are to be made throughout the province during that week for the prevention of fires and accidents. Other cities of the province, such as Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, etc., have formed local organizations for the more effective carrying out of the program of safety, and as London should, without doubt, be "on the map" in such a worthy cause, I am calling a public meeting of all those interested, to be held in the Council Chamber Wednesday evening, September 29, at 8:30 p.m., for the purpose of forming such an organization for London and the determining of lines of action. As the success of such a movement depends upon the co-operation of those interested, you are urged to be present. Mr. R. B. Morley of the Ontario Safety League will be present to fully explain the matter. Yours truly, (Signed) E. S. LITTLE, Mayor, September 27, 1920. b

FALSE STATEMENT CHARGE AGAINST BRANTFORD MAN

H. B. Kennedy in Court On Information Laid by Bonding Company.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 28.—Harry B. Kennedy, charged with making false statement in order to obtain credit from the American Fidelity and Guarantee Company, was remanded in the police court today. Kennedy was a member of the Kennedy Belt Construction Company in this city, and the bonding company alleges defalcation of $6,000.

Preparations are under way here for the annual meeting here of the Baptist Church delegates of Ontario and Quebec next month. Some 500 delegates are expected.

All cases were adjourned in the police court this morning, owing to the absence of a crown attorney. The new appointee, W. M. Charlton, had not received official notice of his appointment and the acting crown attorney failed to appear.

The Paris Review, formerly conducted by C. W. Lawton, has been disposed of by the estate of Mr. Lawton to Charles Nixon, editor of "Rural Canada."

A Brant County poultry farm has received an order from Ottawa for 6,500 day-old chicks for spring delivery.

Brantford Township residents are strongly objecting to the advance in the natural gas rates from 60 cents per 1,000 feet to 85 cents, and have secured A. H. Roddy to present their case to the attorney-general.

TRUSTEES OF FUND DISCRIMINATING AGAINST G. A. U. V.

KITCHENER, Sept. 28.—Constable Farrell left today for Sault Ste. Marie to recover the motor car belonging to Ald. Schreiter, and stolen from this city a week ago. He will incidentally bring back Charles Cole, Harry Schultz, Harry McConnell, Arthur Oliver, Cisse King and Dorothy Gerard, held in connection with the theft of the car.

Rev. W. A. Benninger, president of St. Jerome College, arrived here today after spending the summer in Italy. He declares the outlook in Italy is a most gloomy one.

The Kitchener branch of the G. A. U. V. is up in arms over the refusal of the board of trustees of the soldiers' fund to allow this organization to share in the money publicly subscribed. Indications are there will be a showdown on the issue locally before the soldiers drop the matter.

The Hair-Destroying Curling Iron Passes

The heated iron makes the hair dry and parched looking, burns off the ends, giving a most untidy appearance. You who have learned this from experience will be glad to hear of a very simple method which is open to none of the objections referred to and which gives better results than the curling iron.

Just get a few ounces of plain liquid silmerine at your druggist's and apply a little with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair, drawing the brush down one strand at a time from root to tip. In three hours your hair will be as beautifully wavy and curly as though Mother Nature did it, and it will be quite manageable, no matter what style of coiffure you adopt. The effect will be much prettier than if you used a waving iron, will last much longer, and the health of your hair will not suffer. Silmerine is not sticky or greasy, but is quite pleasant to use. —Advt.

At The Theaters

CAPT. M. W. PLUNKETT AND HIS FAMOUS "DUMBELLS" WILL BE SEEN TWICE TODAY AT THE GRAND.

The famous "Dumbells" who met with such successful receptions in every city in which they appeared last season, are again scoring big with London patrons in their second edition of the musical extravaganza "Biff! Bing!! Bang!!!" Monday evening saw the Grand taxed to capacity when the famous Princess Pats held a military night to greet their former comrades in the soldier cast of this tuneful and rollicking musical show. Tuesday evening saw a repeat, while the matinee today bids promise of the S. R. O. sign being hung up again and the "Dumbells" should play to a record audience during their week's engagement in London. The production is all new, and those who were so fortunate as to see the "Dumbells" last season will do well to take in the present vehicle and afford another evening's entertainment at the hands of these talented soldiers. Ross Hamilton as Marjorie is worth one's admission price alone. Her personality and wealthy display of gowns is one of the bright features of the production not mentioning the talent and ability possessed. There will be a special bargain matinee today at 2:15 and every seat in the popular playhouse should be filled. To those who are desirous of seeing "Biff! Bing!! Bang!!" early reservations are in order as the seat sale for the remaining performances is very big and Manager Minhinnick is in the hopes of hanging up a record for the week in attendance figures. There will be performances every evening for the balance of the week with a special popular Saturday matinee.

"SAN TOY" COMES TO THE GRAND MONDAY NEXT.

A theatrical offering of more than usual interest is the F. Stuart-Whyte importation of the famous London Gaiety success, "San Toy," which comes to the Grand Oct. 4, for three days, with special popular Wednesday matinee.

This is undoubtedly the biggest musical attraction ever brought to this country from England and its presentation here has been made possible only through the linking up of Canada into one great circuit, under the direction of the Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, whose policy it is to give Canadians a generous supply of the principal successes of the English stage.

Mr. Whyte's revival of "San Toy" has been made upon an elaborate scale and no expense has been spared to make it the outstanding feature of an unusually promising theatrical season. Seats go on sale tomorrow at 9 a.m.

AT THE ALLEN.

That famous American beauty, Katherine MacDonald, is even more beautiful than ever in her newest picture, "The Notorious Miss Lisle," which is showing at the Allen for the last time today. Miss MacDonald's beauty is a type that looks just as alluring and appealing with any background, and the unique settings provided for her in this story, set her charms off like a well-chosen frame enhances a beautiful picture. The scenes of quaint old Brittany, with its ancient hostelries, and rockbound coasts, the fashionable hotels of Paris, the lovely old homes of England's country aristocracy, all these provide the perfect tapestry of backgrounds that make the jewel of Miss MacDonald's loveliness shine forth in "The Notorious Miss Lisle."

THE BIG EVENT, "TREASURE ISLAND."

The big event of the season, one which you will count the days by, that is the way you will think of the special film picturization of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," which is to be shown at the Allen tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. There's the throb of the sea, the hair-raising excitement of adventures on the Spanish main, mutinies on the good ship Hispaniola, and desperate encounters in the treasure stockade. There is hardly a person literary or otherwise who has not read this greatest of all adventure books, and there is hardly a person who when they see "Treasure Island" will not thrill again and twice over as they follow the adventures of Jim Hawkins, Long Tom Silver and Black Dog, in their quest for Spanish gold. "Treasure Island," although it appeals especially to children, is as much for adults as the child, a story for all those from 9 to 90, who still have the spark of adventure and romance burning brightly in them.

PEARL WHITE PICTURE ENDS ITS RUN TONIGHT.

Pearl White, who has thrilled crowded houses the past two days at Loew's Theatre in her big special, "The White Moll," presented by William Fox, will bring her engagement to a close tonight. Written by Frank L. Packard, author of "The Miracle Man," the story of "The White Moll" carries an even stronger appeal than that noted production.

The plot centres around Rhoda, a reformed crook, who turns settlement worker. She becomes interested in a released convict who is being forced back to his old life by the gang of which he was a member. Her experiences in saving him and laboring to reform other gangsters constitute a truly remarkable story. Richard C. Travers is the capable leading man. A Sunshine comedy, Loew's Screen Pictorial and Loew's supreme vaudeville complete the bill.

MARY THURMAN WITH WILLIAM S. HART AT LOEW'S TOMORROW.

Mary Thurman! The name spells pulchritude. In the Mack Sennett comedy days of this charming actress she received innumerable tributes for her beauty and ability, but until now she had really never had the opportunity to display her prowess as a dramatic actress. But she achieves wonderful results in her simple "gingham gown" as a maiden of the desert country, sweet and demure, loving and faithful.

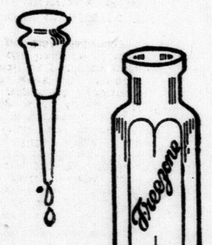

This is William S. Hart's latest starring vehicle, "Sand!" a Paramount Artcraft picture, directed by Lambert Hillyer, which will be seen at Loew's tomorrow. Mr. Hart has the role of Dan Kurrie, railroading cow-puncher. He breaks up a gang of bandits and wins his lady love despite dire handicaps. And the thrills are plentiful, even as love tempers the tragic moments and holds the interest of the audience—since all the world loves a lover.

PATRICIA.

"Blue Streak McCoy," a splendid production starring the Western favorite, Harry Carey, made a distinct hit for the first two days and will be shown at the Patricia for the last time today. Not only is the character which Carey portrays more likeable than many of his former roles, but the thrilling story of H. H. Van Loan has an appealing interest that makes "Human Harry" appear at his best.

PEPPERBOX, WEAPON CARRIED BY YOUTH, SENT TO BURWASH

Ivan Bradley Admitted Thefts —Also Threw Sand Into Woman's Eyes.

INGERSOLL, Sept. 28.—Ivan Bradley, 19 years of age, who was apprehended at London, was this afternoon sentenced by Magistrate Patterson to two years at Burwash. There were four charges against Bradley, to all of which he pleaded guilty. He was charged with having twice broken into the C. P. R. depot and with stealing on one occasion $8 or $10. He was also charged with having twice entered the home of Thomas Sherlock, cabman, Carroll street, and with having stolen on one occasion about $10. He admitted having thrown sand into the eyes of an elderly aunt of Mr. Sherlock. When taken into custody Bradley had in his possession a pepper box. Some months ago Ingersoll had a sensational pepper-throwing case. The victim claimed that his eyes were suddenly filled with pepper and money stolen from his pockets. The police are now wondering if Bradley had anything to do with this outrage. While at the Sherlock home on one occasion Bradley was disturbed and departed leaving behind a box containing about $1,700.

DECLARES O. T. A. IS MAKING HYPOCRITES, THIEVES AND LIARS

Sam Clarke of West Northumberland Gives Opinion of Temperance Measure.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—After having a rambling discussion on the working of the Ontario temperance act and heard from Chairman J. D. Flavelle of the Ontario Board of License Commissioners on the effect of the act, the special committee of the Ontario Legislature, which was appointed some time ago to inquire into the matter, temporarily relegated the inquiry today to a sub-committee. This sub-committee consists of Hon. H. C. Nixon, provincial secretary; Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general; J. W. Curry, K. C., member for Southeast Toronto; Dr. Forbes Godfrey, member for West York, and Rev. Edgar Watson, member for North Victoria. The sub-committee will circularize the police magistrates of the province, requesting them to send in suggestions for improvements on the Ontario temperance act, and when a sufficient number of replies have been received by the sub-committee another meeting of the general committee will be called and the suggestions considered thereat.

Decidedly Less Drinking.

Chairman Flavelle of the board of license commissioners was asked for his opinion as to whether there was less drinking under the Ontario temperance act than formerly. He said he was satisfied that there had been a decided decrease in the amount of drinking since the act came into force. He said it was "absurd" to suggest, as some people did, that there was more drinking now than under the old system. However, he admitted that this was merely his opinion, formed by observation.

On the question of loosening up the O. T. A. to permit citizens to procure a reasonable quantity of liquor upon permits from government dispensaries, Chairman Flavelle expressed the opinion that such easing up would mean the widening of the use of liquor.

Favors Local Option.

Sam Clarke of West Northumberland declared the Ontario temperance act had been too big a step toward prohibition. He favored local option, which, he said, would eventually have led to prohibition. He said the O. T. A. was making the people liars, hypocrites and thieves, and the moral injury caused to society on this score more than balanced the improvement that there had been in sobriety.

Major J. C. Tolmie, Windsor, took the ground that a more moderate measure than the O. T. A., by which a man might obtain a reasonable quantity of liquor would have been preferable to the O. T. A. Many persons, he said, liked to have a little liquor in their homes.

The majority of the members of the committee were opposed to extending the operations of the dispensaries for the sale of liquor for beverage purposes. The U. F. O. members particularly opposed the suggestion.

WINNER OF BALLOON RACE NOT DECIDED

Honeywell and Thompson Are Only Separated by Few Miles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Unofficial reports received late today by the Aero Club of America indicated that H. E. Honeywell, St. Louis, was leading in the national balloon elimination race, which started from Birmingham, Alabama, last Saturday.

It was said the winner of the contest probably would be announced after a meeting of the club's executive committee tomorrow.

Honeywell landed at Thamesville, Ont., and covered an approximate distance of 700 miles, according to reports received by the club. His closest competitors were R. F. Thompson, pilot of Army Balloon, No. 1, who reached Ridgetown, Ont., his distance being 690 miles, and Ralph Upson, driver of Goodyear No. 2, who landed at Amherst, O., about 620 miles from the starting point.

HAS 290 MAJORITY.

THE PAS, Man., Sept. 28.—Brown (Government) will probably have about 290 majority over Norgrove (Labor) in the provincial elections today.

FINE EXHIBITS AT THORNDALE FAIR ATTRACTS CROWDS

Splendid Showing Made in All Departments—Race Contests Keen.

[By Staff Reporter.]

THORNDALE, Sept. 28.—The annual fall fair of the Thorndale Agricultural Society held here today was a huge success in every respect. About eight hundred from the district and London attended. The weather conditions, combined with the splendid support of the citizens, made it one of the largest-attended fairs the society has had in some years. The palace was overcrowded with the exhibits of farmers' wives' handiwork, while the school children played an important part with their drawings to help decorate it.

A Mammoth Squash.

Samples of all products of the farmers were on exhibit, and the judges had a hard time in choosing the winners. One of the outstanding features of the vegetable exhibit was a squash. It was five feet in circumferance, weighing about seventy-five pounds. Attention was also given to the fancy-work of the ladies. Prominent among these were the embroidered cushions and crocheted centrepieces, Miss Stella Wren and Miss Shaw respectively taking the prizes in this competition. Tatting and work on quilts and comforters showed exceptionally fine art in fancywork.

Home-made cooking also drew the attention of everybody, the only thing keeping the hungry spectators from devouring them was a wire screen.

Fine exhibits of all varieties of vegetables were shown, and the result was that in the minds of every spectator "the best farming land in Western Ontario is located around Thorndale."

Livestock Fine Exhibit.

Livestock, including fine specimens of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs, drew the attention of all lovers of animals.

The biggest poultry show ever known in the village also helped to make the fair the success it was. All birds entered in the show were exceptionally well bred, and it is thought that next year a poultry show that will stand second to none will be exhibited.

After the judging of the best lady drivers was run, horse racing then held sway. In the opinion of the directors, the races this year were the best on record.

With the fair over, the crowd then proceeded to their homes for supper, and then attended the show given by W. J. White, the Jules Brazil and the Birr brass band. The house was overcrowded and only standing room available half an hour before the show commenced.

RACES FEATURE OF BELMONT FAIR; FINE STOCK SHOWN

Greatest Excellence Apparent in Poultry and Ladies' Work Departments.

By Staff Reporter.

BELMONT, Sept. 28.—More than 2,000 people attended the Yarmouth and Belmont Agricultural Show held here today. The fair, although large, was not as big as in previous years. The horse races were the biggest drawing card. The exhibits of poultry and ladies' work were the only departments which excelled.

Mrs. Ed. Legg captured first prize for the best dozen biscuits and layer cake. Mrs. W. Legg was awarded second prize. Mrs. Ed. Legg also captured two prizes for the best roast chickens.

Mrs. A. A. Taylor was awarded first prize for her exhibit of home-made bread.

H. McKenney of Aylmer was the biggest prize winner in the poultry class. He exhibited 106 birds. H. Taylor of this village was also a heavy winner in the Black Minorca class. T. Wilcox of Gladstone was winner of a special prize in the Hamburg class.

Bert Taylor captured first prizes for the largest field squash, Hubbard squash and sweet turnips. Mrs. H. G. Taylor was the principal winner in the canned fruit exhibit, and also captured prizes in the tomato and sweet corn exhibits.

In the live stock class W. H. Shore of Glanworth captured first prize for his long wool sheep. W. Wright of Glanworth was the winner of first prize in the Chester class. Mr. Wright also was the winner of first prize for the best bacon hog. D. Taylor of Mapleton was the winner in the York class of sheep and also took first prize for the best brood sow and litter.

William Bartley was the winner of the Merchants Bank special prize for the best herd of four dairy cows.

For the 3-year-old bulls class Ernest Jenkins of Belmont won first prize and J. M. Cline & Sons second prize.

Races Best in Years.

CHINAWARE IN PIE WAS NOT PALATABLE

Chinese Cafe Proprietor Must Pay Customer $300, Says Court.

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—James H. Konkle of Grimsby, Ont., while eating a portion of chocolate pie in the Grange Cafe, Hamilton, Ont., some time ago, bit a piece of chinaware. He sued the proprietor of the cafe, Garnet Wong, and was awarded $300 damages. His evidence at the trial of the case was to the effect that he had suffered great pain and was under a physician's care after his experience in the restaurant in question.

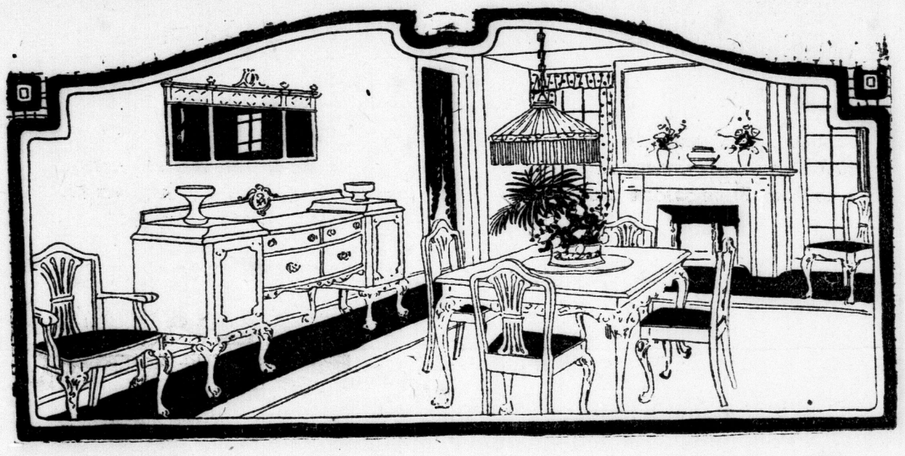

Wong carried the case to the appellate division on the ground that Konkle had not exercised sufficient care in masticating his food. His appeal was dismissed today.

Extra Strength in Boys' Shoes

A boy's shoe built on very dressy lines, but built for service. For dress or school wear
$5.50
Kicking a football around isn't exactly the best thing for Boys' Shoes, but it's healthful for the boy. Besides if he didn't do that, he'd be doing something else.
Make sure that the boy is fitted properly. It's an important thing. Bring him in. We'll make sure.
Here are Shoes that won't mind it much, though. They are extra strong; will stand a lot of "kicks." They are good-looking, too.

Who Will Save $450 on This Elaborate Dining Suite?
Not so elaborate as to be overdone, but possessing that richness of line and superb finish that in truth it impresses to the fullest extent with distinctive character. Substantial hand carvings and rich two-tone inlays mark it as the premier suite. Indeed, there were but nine such suites made for the whole of Canada. Walnut—yes, three thicknesses of it. The suite is made up of oblong table with extending leg base, a china cabinet that is extremely commodious, and six beautifully upholstered dining chairs. Few people there are who realize fully what 30 per cent discount means. A striking example is given in connection with this suite when this discount means a reduction of $450. Regular war-time price $1,500. Now it will be placed in a real nice home that can accommodate a large suite for only $1,050
