LAWYER TELLS WHEREABOUTS OF MISSING GIRL

M. J. O'Reilly, K. C., Toronto, Asserts Grace Link Was Never Lost.

IS IN HAMILTON

Declares Relatives Have Not Authorized Inquiries To Be Made.

BULLETIN.

Toronto, March 11.—"This is a case where the attorney-general should step in and take action," said H. C. Hocken, M. P., Orange grand master, according to an interview published here today.

"It amounts to this," charged Mr. Hocken, "the Link girl has been abducted."

Mr. Hocken said he did not know that it was a case in which the Orange Order could act.

Hon. W. E. Raney, the attorney-general, said that the case had not been brought to the attention of his department. When it was it would receive consideration.

Hamilton, March 11.—Grace Link, who, according to certain of her London and Toronto relatives, was lost, has been found. In fact, M. J. O'Reilly, K.C., who represents St. Joseph's Convent, where the girl was placed in 1910, today says she was never lost.

He says that no one connected with the family or anyone else in any way authorized to make inquiries has done so. As soon as relatives or those with authority to do so make inquiries they will be placed in communication with Miss Link, who is now eighteen years of age. She is not in the convent, but she is a ward of the Sisters of St. Joseph, and they know where she is.

"No one seems willing to pay the costs," remarked Mr. O'Reilly, who pointed out that receipts produced showed that only a small amount had been paid for the girl's board by her relatives.

While the convent authorities decline to talk, it is understood that they doubt the report that the girl is an heiress, and after supporting her for many years cannot figure why they should deliver her up until relatives claim her.

Await Her Decision.

Up to the present no effort has been made by the relatives of Grace Link, the missing London girl, who it is claimed, is heiress to property left her by an aunt, Miss Isabella Thompson, to locate the girl or inform her of her parentage.

Mrs. Ashton of Toronto, a niece of Miss Thompson, when questioned this morning, replied that she had done what she conceived to be her duty in making public the information left her by Miss Thompson, and had nothing further to say on the matter.

Mr. Link, when asked if he intended going to Hamilton to recover his daughter, stated that he merely wished her to know that her father's home was open to her if she wished to leave the convent and return to it. He added further that Grace Link was now of age to determine for herself which course she would pursue.

According to Miss Isabella Thompson's will Miss Link benefits to the extent of sharing some property on Victoria street, with another nephew, Richard Thompson, and after several other bequests were filled, Miss Link was bequeathed the residue of the estate on condition that she never again lived with her father.

Lively Discussion Precipitated At Session of O. A. C. Alumni Association.

RESOLUTION WITHDRAWN

H. S. Fry Elected President of Provincial Organization For 1922.

W. H. Porter precipitated some lively discussion at Saturday morning's session of the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association, being held in Hyman Hall, when he introduced a resolution which viewed "with deep regret the apparent indifference of the O. A. C. to the efforts and activities of this association, and in view of the fact that the work of the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association has popularized and is a direct benefit to our alma mater, we feel that we are deserving of more sympathetic consideration on the part of the faculty of the O. A. C."

After the resolution had been fully discussed, it was withdrawn by Mr. Porter, who explained that it had been introduced principally for the purpose of discussion.

Expected Large Representation.

It was expected that there would be a large representation from the O. A. C., when, as a matter of fact, J. P. Sackville, B.S.A., was the only member of the faculty present at Friday afternoon's meeting. The college quartet assisted at the banquet Friday night.

Professor Archie Leitch, of the O. A. C., who was present Saturday morning, explained that the college professors were extremely busy at the present time, and that there was a big college function Friday night and another Saturday night.

Justus Miller, W. H. Tisdale and Col. W. J. Brown were not in favor of the resolution.

"You have the sympathy and support of every member of the college staff," declared Mr. Sackville. "I know President Reynolds regretted very much being unable to attend."

J. B. Fairbairn of Beamsville, stated that it was a personal disappointment that there were not more present from the college.

"They knew in advance when this meeting was going to be held, and it seems to me that they might have side-tracked any function scheduled for Friday night," he stated.

Resolution of Sympathy.

A resolution of sympathy was passed to the relatives of the late Professor Cecil Klinck, of the O. A. C., who recently died in Guelph. Professor Klinck had made a study of plant breeding and was an authority on the subject.

Col. Brown gave an address on educational extension work, and short talks were given by C. A. Galbraith of the Central Alumni Association, and W. H. Staples of the U. F. O. educational department.

H. S. Fry was elected president of the provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association at the afternoon session Friday in Hyman Hall. Mr. Fry's name was the only one considered by the meeting and the choice was popular.

J. B. Fairbairn, of Beamsville, was elected vice-president, while the following directors were elected:

Northern Ontario—T. Jarvis, Copper Cliff; R. M. Davies, Porth Arthur; C. M. Laidlaw, Monteith.

Eastern Ontario—W. J. Bell, Kemptville; J. W. Kennedy, Apple Hill; A. P. McVannel, Picton.

Western Ontario—W. H. Porter, London; W. R. Reek, Ridgetown; Justus Miller, Essex.

Central Ontario—J. P. Sackville, O. A. C., Guelph; C. A. Galbraith, Hornby; I. B. Martin, Toronto.

C. F. Bailey, of Toronto, elected president at the organization meeting in Toronto last year, was unable to be present at the meeting owing to the fact that as secretary of the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, he had to attend an important meeting of the board of directors Friday afternoon.

Owing to illness in the families of Vice-president W. P. Gamble, Guelph and Secretary S. E. Todd, of Toronto, these two officers were unable to attend, but sent reports.

President's Address Read.

H. S. Fry, who acted as chairman, read the address prepared by President Bailey.

The year just past had measured up well to expectations, over 600 being present at the last meeting in Guelph in June, read the address.

Toronto was the natural location for meetings, as there were numerous ex-students living in or in the vicinity of that city, but in all fairness it was deemed best to hold an annual meeting in London and Ottawa for every two in Toronto.

ASK VETERANS TO MEET IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, March 11. — (Canadian Press).—The Dominion executive of the Great War Veterans, at the conclusion of its meeting yesterday, forwarded an invitation to Field Marshal Earl Haig, grand president of the British Empire Service League, to designate Ottawa as the meeting place of the league in 1923. The G. W. V. A. is the Canadian unit of the league.

It is expected that if Earl Haig accepts the invitation that the delegates from the mother country and the other dominions will tour Canada after the formal sessions of the league.

The first session of the league was held in Capetown, South Africa, last year.

The delegates toured South Africa on that occasion.

REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN TRIPOLI.

ACLAND SURE MURDOCK WILL CONCEDE PLEA

Time Must Be Allowed Minister of Labor For Consideration.

UNION MEETS TONIGHT

Little Doubt, Says President, That Board Will Be Asked For:

At a special meeting of the executive of the local street railwaymen's union, Saturday evening, the members will give careful and final consideration relative to the action of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board in twice declining to interfere in the existing controversy between the company and its employees, holding that the problem does not come within their jurisdiction.

Unless the union's application to the federal minister of labor for a board of conciliation contains very unreasonable demands, The Advertiser was informed by Ottawa, Saturday morning, such a request will be granted, F. A. Acland, deputy minister of labor, explaining that certain time would be however allowed for thorough consideration of the subject by the minister of labor himself, Hon. James Murdock.

Discussing the question briefly Saturday, John Colbert, president of the union, said "the executive is meeting tonight, when we will consider the situation again. There is but little doubt, however, but that we will ask the minister of labor for a board before the end of the month."

"We contend, however, that it is not the union that should have had to make this request. It was up to the company, but it has in our opinion defied the act and now we desire to test the validity of that statute, the industrial disputes act. We want to know if the act is any good. If it is we should have redress."

As this is usual in such cases as are submitted to the federal department of labor, consideration is given the question by the minister, after which, if he sees fit, to grant the application for a board, the men may appoint their representatives.

When the case will be heard depends entirely upon circumstance. Several cases have been handled by Ottawa in a like manner and quite recently Hon. James Murdock decided against the Hamilton Street Railway Company in a like dispute.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO GURD'S STORE

Gurd's gun store was broken into during the night and three guns and jack-knives were stolen. A policeman found the back door of the store open at 2:30 in the morning. Entrance was gained through a rear second-story window by climbing onto a shed. Though the police locked the door an employee found it open again when the store was opened at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

DIDN'T LIKE FARM, DEPORTED.

Hamilton, March 11. — Carrying out its pledge to deport immigrants who are brought here to work on farms and who fail to do so, the government is deporting Israel Rich, brought to Caledonia. He worked three days and claims that the farmer wanted him to work fifteen hours a day. He refused and now the government is sending him, his wife and six children back to their old home in Somerset, England.

Walks Across Continent With Babe in Arms

HOBOKEN, N. J., March 11.—Trudging afoot across the continent from San Francisco with a 40-pound baby in his arms, Percy K. Hanton, a Canadian war veteran, arrived Friday with his wife.

Hanton, a swimming instructor and house painter, said he had sought in vain for a job that would enable him to settle down somewhere.

He had only 15 cents when he left San Francisco, he said, but managed to get enough odd jobs to keep the family in food on the trip and leave $1 in the family purse when they reached Hoboken. Automobilists gave the family a few lifts, he said, but most of the distance was covered on foot.

START AT WORK ON ESTIMATES FIRST

New City Commission Government May Meet Daily to Finish by Next Week-End.

AWAIT FINANCE BODY

Only Portion of Capital Expenditure Expended Each Year, Remainder Distributed by Debentures.

The new commission government will likely start its work on the estimates immediately after the meeting of the finance committee next week. Thereafter it will likely hold a session daily so as to get the estimates completed by the end of the next week.

It will be necessary that the rate be passed by a special meeting of the council by March 27, if the tax notices are to get out in time for the payment of the taxes on the same dates as last year.

Practically all the estimates have been passed now. The finance committee is the only big body to present its figures. It is held up on account of the fact that the fire department, police and several other big branches of the municipal government come under its jurisdiction.

Various amounts of capital expenditure are being spoken of as being included in the estimates for the year. While this sum is spent in the one year, it is usually covered by debentures and only a portion, sinking fund and interest, is collected yearly.

That the ratepayers may know just what each issue is costing them per year, the following charges on $1,000 are given for the different debenture periods:

A 30-year $1,000 debenture at 5½ per cent interest, will cost 6.88 per cent a year to carry, or $68.80 per year to be raised in taxes.

A 20-year $1,000 debenture, 5½ per cent, will cost 8.367 per cent, or $83.67 a year to be raised n the taxes.

A 10-year $1,000 debenture, 5½ per cent, calls for 13.266 per cent, or $132.66 a year in taxes.

SUGGEST USE FOR HOUSE SURPLUSES

A proposal asking that all money in excess of the actual investment made by the housing commission be turned over by the city council to the orphanages and charitable institutions of the city, was passed by the Real Estate Owners' Association Friday night.

The resolution is as follows:

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this association, all profits and money received by the city in excess of the actual cash and investments connected therewith, from the housing commission should be turned over to the different orphanages and charitable societies instead of being retained by the city council for the purpose of reducing taxes or for junketing trips by the aldermen."

THINKS STRIKE BEGINNING OF REVOLUTION

Capetown Correspondent Fears Heavy Fighting Will Be Precipitated Soon.

32 PERSONS ARE SLAIN

Situation in Johannesburg Area Reported To Be Extremely Grave.

London, March 11.—The general strike called by the miners' leaders at Johannesburg is in reality a revolutionary movement, according to the the Capetown correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The strike issue has been eclipsed by the threat against the state, he says.

There was some speculation over Premier Smuts' delay in proclaiming martial law, which was regarded as gravely overdue, but it is understood he was actuated by fear that such a step would precipitate a conflict in which the strikers, who are mainly Dutch, might be reinforced from the veldt.

The Johannesburg correspondent of the same newspaper reports that numbers of Dutch farmers in the Boksburg and Benoni districts have joined the strikers and formed mounted commandos, which attacked Benoni.

The Times Johannesburg correspondent on the other hand ascribes the trouble to a widespread Bolshevik plot, and says the Fordsburg commando regards itself as a red guard. He adds that fighting is in progress throughout the Rand, the most severe trouble being in the eastern section. He believes that the police will soon gain the upper hand in Johannesburg and Benoni, but admits that owing to the prevailing chaos it is very difficult to verify the various reports.

32 DEATHS REPORTED.

Johannesburg, March 11. — The casualties in the fighting between the striking miners and police had reached a total of 32 killed and 57 wounded by 9 o'clock tonight (Friday), when the firing was still continuing. Of the 32 killed, 19 were policemen.

By 11 o'clock, however, the streets had become absolutely deserted and the town was uncannily quiet. The public was forbidden the streets The workers' hall at Benoni is reported to have been hit by a bomb dropped from an airplane. The heaviest casualties in the district are believed to have been suffered in the extreme eastern section of the Rand. So far no news has been received from the western Rand.

Gen. Beeves, commanding at Witwuntersrand, has ordered the public to remain indoors from 7 p.m. until 6 a.m.

Jeppe, a suburb adjoining Johannesburg to the east, was seething with strikers this afternoon. Most of the men were armed and a number carried bombs. They are credited with planning to hold up the police in that area so as to prevent them from reinforcing other points, particularly Fordsburg, where intermittent firing was continuing today.

The position at Brakpan and Benoni was extremely grave. The strikers apparently had obtained the upper hand, at least temporarily, and numbers of dead and wounded were lying in the streets.

Wins High Honor

COMTESSE DE NOAILLES

PARIS, March 11.—Just now the most talked of woman in Paris is the beautiful Comtesse de Noailles.

The crowning event of her great career has just come in the way of a solemn sealing of the fame. The Belgian Royal Academy, devoted to arts and letters, has formally admitted her to membership. She is the first woman thus honored and she is likely to be the last for some time because she has no rival anywhere.

And the orator who welcomed her into the Belgian Academy recalled the curious fact that one of her ancestors was an ambassador of Turkey in London who whiled away his leisure hours by translating the poems of the immortal Dante from their original Italian into ancient Greek.

ADMITS BRITISH OFFICIALS GET HANDSOME SALARIES

Secretary Of Treasury Reveals Amounts Received By Government Employes.

London, March 11. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The recent change of the crown's principal law officers in this country has produced a piquant electoral situation both in the Exchange division of Liverpool and in East Leicester, where by-elections are pending, the by-election in Exchange being due to the appointment of Leslie F. Scott to the position of solicitor general, and in East Leicester due to the elevation of Sir Gordon Hewart, attorney general, to the Lord Chief Justiceship.

Incidentally, the popular impression that the solicitor general and attorney general made a handsome thing out of their offices, not merely by the salary attaching to each, but also by incidental fees, seems justified by the reply of the secretary of the treasury, E. Hilton Young, M. P., to a question on the matter.

MURRAY SEES OBLIVION IF FARMERS FOLLOW TORIES

Demand For Motor Vehicle Tax Turned Down By Government.

Halifax, N. S., March 11. — The address in reply to the speech from the throne in the House of Assembly was adopted yesterday after an amendment demanding that the government turn over a portion of the motor vehicle tax to towns and cities had been voted down. An amendment to the amendment, demanding that the provincial government guarantee ample food, clothing and shelter, and the fullest education to every child born in Nova Scotia was ruled out of order. Hon. G. H. Murray, the premier, closed the debate. He claimed the government would not depart from its position, that the wealthy of the cities and big towns must help to maintain the greatest or rural utilities, the highways, and that for this reason the province would keep control of the expenditure of the motor vehicle tax. He also advised the farmer and labor members that if they followed the Conservative party of three members in the house they would soon pass into oblivion.

NET TIGHTENS ON THOSE WHO DIRECT MENACE

Alarming Increase of Addicts, Confirmed by Doctors, Spurs Officers.

METHODS ARE KNOWN

Dope Peddler, Most Dangerous of His Kind, Must Go.

Who is directing the unlawful delivery into London of drugs that are subsequently sold in wholesale and retail lots to a quota of local addicts, whose numbers are increasing, competent physicians declare, in a most alarming manner?

This is a real problem which certain of the police authorities expect to solve to their complete satisfaction, they say, within a few days.

Recognizing as a deadly menace, striking at the very roots of a nation's vitality, this rapidly increasing sale of narcotics to younger Londoners mostly, both male and female, these officers have been spurred into immediate action.

Investigation of a quiet but methodical nature has been proceeding for several weeks past. The task has proved to be one of far greater proportions than perhaps the average person might reason at the first cursory glance and the actual members of the inner circle, the men with plenty of available cash, who arrange for the arrival and initial disposition of the drugs, have been difficult to determine.

Reward of Patience.

Patience apparently has had it's due reward. In spite of many obstacles and continued reverses considerable success has been noted to date, the Advertiser was informed Saturday, and as each day passes the inevitable police net tightens about the central figures of a "dope ring" whose activities in this city have grown with alarming scope, the nature of which once exposed to the glare of public sentiment will cause complete astonishment.

In an upstair room of a dingy two-story frame building, situated on one of London's principal thoroughfares and at no great distance from the main business center, resides one, the claim is made, who receives and pays for practically all the so-called "dope" that is illegally brought into the city.

As anticipated, however, he is not the one, officials say, who conducts the ordinary individual street sales to the many victims who crave for these drugs and assemble daily in various well-known public places.

Staff of Runners.

A staff of trusted "runners" it has been learned make the rounds of the accustomed rendezvous of those who have reached the unfortunate stage where they cannot long remain without the soothing tablet or powder.

Arrangements for a sale are quickly made when assurance of payment is given and the "runner" enacts a speedy journey to his "boss" and returns with sufficient of the coveted drug to appease the craving of the purchaser for a brief period at least when he is compelled to repeat the dose.

The same is true in every instance, and as the drug gains a firmer hold on it's victims and gains others to its side so the demand increases from day to day and the greater is the profit for the sinister figures who gather at the close of the day and divide the spoils, each according to his investment, whether time or money.

Their days of activities are numbered in this city, however. As the police have instituted with obvious results a war upon the bookmaker, the rumrunner, the bootlegger and other apparent "lilies of the field," so too must the most despised and dangerous of them all, the "dope peddler" bow to the inevitable, leave the confines of the city or else await the deserving consequences.

TRACES COURSES OF PLANETS

The regular monthly meeting of the London Branch of the Royal Astronomical Society was held in Western University Friday, when two new members were added to the roll.

Professor H. R. Kingston, president of the society, addressed the meeting, and with the aid of lantern slides showed the different paths taken by the various planets in their course around the sun.

The lecture showed by a diagram drawn on the blackboard, a comparison of the size of the planets in the solar system, of which the earth is one.

The lecturer explained the different appearance of the rings that surround the planet Saturn at certain times.

Nearly all the planets were taken up in turns, and just what had been discovered of them up to the present time, together with a description of their surface as far as was known to science, was given.

Poverty Forces Fatima and 3 Sons to Return to Afghanistan

New York, March 11.—Thoroughly disillusioned, her plans for the education in England of her three sons abandoned, the Princess Fatima, sultana of Kabul, is to be sent back to Afghanistan, where her brother is the present ruler, at the expense of the British government. She and her sons will sail from New York next Saturday. They are to return home by way of England; they traveled eastward in coming to the United States and landed at San Francisco.

The princess brought but little cash with her. She had with her the 44½ carat Darayai diamond, second in size only to the Kohinoor, formerly owned by the grandfather of the princess and now in the royal crown of England. She valued it at upwards of $100,000, and expected to sell it in the New York market, but $40,000 was the best price offered.

Came Down to Poverty.

From a $38-a-day suite at the Waldorf-Astoria, and an official reception at the White House, the princess, within a few months, came down to poverty. But for the interest taken in her case by Sybil Boland, daughter of Frank A. K Boland, attorney for the Hotel Men's Association of New York, the princess and her sons might have landed in jail as hotel beats.

The Afghans ran up hotel bills at the Waldorf and Ansonia and were sued for a loan of $2,000 by Magan S. Dave, Fifth avenue jeweler, who, in consequence of his suit, has the Darayai diamond safe in the keeping of the Metropolitan Trust Company and intends to keep if there until his $2,000 lien is settled.

Miss Boland, through her father, squared accounts with the hotels and aided the princess to establish herself in a small Lexington avenue apartment. For a short time the royal family accepted charity from the Salvation Army as well as Miss Boland, but after a time the British government was interested in the princess' case and for the last six weeks or more funds have been supplied the princess from the British consulate in New York.

"Counsellor" Arrested.

The arrest on Sunday of Stephen Weinberg, facing a federal indictment in Washington charging him with having posed as a United States naval officer, led to a renewed interest in the affairs of the princess, and developed the fact that she will sail on Saturday, leaving the Darayai gem behind, awaiting a buyer.

Weinberg, who as "Lieutenant-Commander Stanley Wyman," accompanied the princess for six or eight weeks, having attached himself to her and her sons as guide and counsellor, and played the role until the princess's funds gave out and the Darayai was in pawn, was blamed by the princess for her financial difficulties. eH will be taken to Washington later in the week, it was announced at the local offices of the department of justice today. He is held in $5,000 bail.

LEADING SOLOISTS WILL PARTICIPATE

34 Accomplished New York Musicians to Offer Numbers in Little Symphony Orchestra Concert.

SEATS SELLING RAPIDLY

Miss Helen Little, Pupil of Jean Batalla To Appear in Program on March 29.

Musically and socially London is being splendidly represented in the advance sale for the concert to be given by the Little Symphony Orchestra of New York, at the Patricia Theatre, Wednesday evening, March 29. This wonderful organization, acknowledged to be the finest small orchestra in the world, made its Canadian debut under the auspices of the Musical Art Society and a return engagement has not been possible till this time.

In fact the Little Symphony will make its first bow to a Toronto audience on its way here. George Barrere, the conductor, is the solo flautist in the New York Symphony Orchestra and is also in great demand as the director of the Barrere Ensemble, an organization made up of the woodwind orchestra instruments. Mr. Jordan has been training for several years to secure a date for this attraction, but its very limited time is solidly booked up until next season when Mr. Barrere has promised a concert.

Fourteen of the finest of New York's solo players will present the delightful program Mr. Barrere has submitted, providing food for the most fastidious musical palate.

Much interest is being taken in the announcement that Miss Helen Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Little, will appear as soloist for the first time since her return from Paris, where she had the distinct privilege of studying for a year under Jean Batalla, the eminent Spanish pianist. Miss Little will play the G Minor Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra by the late Camille Saint-Saens.

The plan is now open at the Institute of Musical Art and every day reserved seat tickets are being mailed to subscribers. In order to protect those buying seats so far in advance the institute guarantees to refund the admission fee at the box office any time up until noon the day of the concert, as it is very evident that standing room only will prevail for this unusual attraction.

BRITISH MAILS

The next mail for Great Britain and Europe will close at the local postoffice at 12 noon, Saturday, March 11, to be forwarded via SS Corsican, sailing from Halifax, N. S., on March 14.

This mail will consist of newspapers and parcel post only.

Another mail, which will consist of letters and registered matter only, per SS Old North State, sailing from New York, will close here at 10 p.m. Sunday.

"I was very ill of kidney disease," Mr. Thebeau continues. "In the mornings I was so weak I could not get up before midday. I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they did me a lot of good.

"Now I am well again and I advise any person suffering from Kidney disease to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are known in every corner of Canada as the old reliable Canadian kidney remedy. They are known by the work they have done.

WILL STAGE NEW MUSICAL COMEDY

CAST TO COMPRISE 175

T. H. Yull, J. B. Hay and Allen Gow Appointed Committee To Assist Elmo Drake in Direction.

At a meeting of the directors of the London Advertising Club, in the chamber of commerce rooms, on Friday, a contract was entered into with Elmo A. Drake, director and manager of the Zephra Operatic Spectacle Company, for the production of the new musical comedy, "The Prince of Mythland," in the week immediately following Easter.

The Majestic Theatre has been taken over for the entire week for this production and one of the most elaborate and largest undertakings in this line ever attempted here will be presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake (nee Eleanor A. Husbands of this city) have been perfecting this new production for the last year in Kitchener, Galt and other cities in Ontario and the newspaper reports and letters declare it to be one of the best and most elaborately staged musical comedies ever seen on the local stages.

A cast of 175 local people will be used in dramatic, solo, duet and chorus work and in ballet and beauty dancing, pageants and tableaux.

Special spectacular sceneries, gorgeous costumes and special effects will be used to stage the piece.

"Queen Zephra," staged here in October, 1919, under the patronage of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, on his visit to London, was directed by Mr. and Mrs. Drake and they promise in "The Prince of Mythland" something even more elaborate and finished in musical comedy.

The committee appointed to work with Mr. Drake includes: T. H. Yull, J. B. Hay and Allen Gow.

Rehearsals will start shortly and organization of the cast will commence next week.

Ottawa, March 11—(Canadian Press).—"We are delighted to add our mite to Canada's might," and Lord Byng, "especially where aid to those who suffer is concerned." FIND INCREASED ASSETS.

New York, N. Y., March 10.—Assets of the brokerage firm of Ed. Dier & Co., which failed in January, have been increased by $325,000 through contributions to the general creditors fund, it is announced today. Charles A. Stoneham, head of the brokerage firm of Stoneham & Co., and one of the owners of the New York National League Baseball Club, came forward with $200,000, while Col. Henry D. Hughes and B. Franklin Shrimpton, formerly partners in the collapsed house, have made up the remainder. At a meeting of creditors held last night it was reported that of the $4,000,000 for which the firm failed, about $1,000,000 was "in sight."

DRASTIC LIQUOR LAW FOR U. S.

Fredericton, N. B., March 11 — Hon. J. P. Byrne, attorney general, introduced a bill in the Legislature yesterday providing for a tax on liquor brought into the province by private parties and then sold outside the province. The bill, he added, contained drastic provisions intended to enable the government to prevent these private dealers selling liquor within the province. The proposed tax is twenty per cent. per gallon on malt liquors and $12.50 per gallon on spirits of over two per cent. alcoholic content.

CITY FINANCES RELIEF WORKS

Council Authorizes Advance of $15,000 to Association Aiding Unemployed.

GOVERNMENTS TO REPAY

Total of $21,000 Will Be Refunded in Federal and Provincial Grants.

BRANTFORD, March 10.—Harvey S. Watt and F. W. Thompson, of the Brantford Relief Association, presented the case of the association to the city council this evening, appealing for civic financing until the provincial and federal grants for relief are paid. This was given.

Mr. Watt, treasurer, read a letter to the city treasurer, showing the standing of the fund at the end of February. By that time, $32,000 had been spent and $8,000 was outstanding. There were $5,000 in pledges not collected, and it was expected that 75 per cent of this would be collected. The association needed $4,000 to be financed by the council with the federal and provincial grants, payments of which would be delayed until April.

The association expected to come out even. The total resources reached $26,000, with the government grants and the money raised by voluntary subscriptions. The city would not be asked to pay one cent out of taxes, though temporary financing was necessary at the present moment. He paid a tribute to the work of Messrs. Thompson, Glover and Hutcheon, the board in charge.

Asked by Acting Mayor Parker, Mr. Watt reported that the money expected from the two governments totaled $23,000.

Ald. Bragg asked if the demand for relief was dropped.

Demand Less Acute.

He was assured it was. F. W. Thompson presented a full report, covering 16 weeks. He showed that 845 families had been aided with 7,643 orders, totalling $34,165.31. In all 242 tons of coal were delivered. The average daily expenditure was $363.46.

The last two weeks in February were the weeks in which the demand was the greatest.

Ald. Reeves pointed out that orders for coal and wood were credited to the city's fuel department of some years ago.

Ald. Ballantyne thought the officials should be heartily commended for the splendid way in which they had administered the funds.

Ald. Bragg thought the report an excellent one. There was nothing that could be done except to carry on. It was gratifying to note that the demand was lessening and with the coming of spring more work would open up, and there would be fewer demands.

The city treasurer was authorized to finance the association to the extent of a further $15,000, as well as the $6,000 already authorized, to be repaid by the government grants.

Thanks Council.

Mr. Watt extended thanks for the action of the council, and invited the members to come up to the headquarters to see how the work was carried on. He stressed the fact that the work was being carried on without any direct draft on the city treasurer.

So far this year, Brantford township has expended just over six thousand dollars in relief work for its unemployed and needy, according to figures obtained today at the office of the township clerk. This sum has been distributed as follows, the figures being approximate. For repair operations on the river road dyke, Parkdale, $4,000; for the Echo Place drain, $1,000; and for immediate relief purposes authorized by the Brantford township relief association, $1,100. This makes a total of $6,100.

All of the immediate relief employment work was completed this morning with the finishing up of operations on the Echo Place drain. The work has been under the supervision of Roger M. Lee, township engineer.

May Find More Work.

Reeve R. H. Henry said today that the township council would endeavor to see if there is not something more in the way of necessary relief work yet to be undertaken before the spring comes. The need for relief, while not as acute as during the past two months, is still felt.

All of the money directly spent in the amelioration of want among needy residents has been disbursed through the care of the relief association which was created at the beginning of the year for just such a purpose. Its chairman is Rev. J. N. H. Mills, rector of St. James Church.

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF THIS HOME MADE COUGH REMEDY

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucus—Relieves the Irritation and Stops the Cough.

Costs Next to Nothing—For a Big Supply.

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and hawk and breathe heavy, it doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickling ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus, and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucous membrane, and that is one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.—Advt.

He is said to be contemplating taking a summer course at the Presbyterian Institute, and will therefore be unavailable for the local squad. Dave Howard, who made certain of a place for himself on the local line-up in the last game with St. Marys, will leave for the University of Toronto after the holidays, and will not be available when the semi-finals come around. THINKS STRIKE WILL START REVOLUTION town hall today, and the same time vowed to close every business by force. Commandoes are out in large bodies and mounted police are stationed at vantage points.

Mob law rules on the east and west Rand, and only ordinary activities are possible in Johannesburg. Several more natives have died as a result of the recent attack by commandoes. Twenty-seven are seriously wounded, chiefly from charges from shotguns. Two more were shot in cold blood outside the town compound, and five others died as the result from shootings at the new Primrose mine. The strikers seem to be at their wits end to find excuses for killing innocent natives. The authorities say the strikers endeavored to spread a report that the natives were rising on the Witwaersrand, but it is officially stated that the report is false.

The Star, in a leading article, says:

"Commandoes are permitted to roam the streets with blazing revolvers and carrying all kinds of weapons. The police permit them to enter workshops and cafes, intimidating the workers, also the government railway shops, with a large force of police looking on."

The Premier's Appeal.

A mail train was derailed near Germiston, but no person was injured thereby. Four cases of dynamiting are reported.

The legislative assembly of South Africa is closely engaged in the Rand struggle. Laborite members and ministerialists each accuse the other of responsibility for the outrages which have been occurring. Premier Smuts declared today that the people were face to face with one of the gravest situations that had yet arisen in South Africa. The behavior of the Rand natives had been irreproachable, he said, but the whites had nothing to be proud of. Despite the fact that the native territories had been practically denuded of police, who had been sent to the Rand, the lives of the sprinkling of whites there today were safe in the hands of the millions of natives.

Premier Smuts denounced the outrages, whether committed by whites or blacks, and declared that they would lead to serious consequences in the most distant parts of South Africa. He stated that in view of the emergence of hooligan elements the government had given instructions that very strong measures must be used to suppress lawlessness. The premier concluded by appealing to the influential citizens to keep the natives out of the last critical, dangerous phase of the struggle.

THINKS MINIMUM CHARGE UNFAIR

Citizen Says Small Cottagers Must Bear Brunt of New Arrangement.

FAVORS FLAT RATE

Manager Buchanan Explains Effect On Big House Owners —Use More Appliances.

Users of hydro in the city have just received their first bills calling for the payment of the minimum charge for electric service. Many February bills are about double the January total.

J. Grayson, a street railway conductor, states that it looks to him as if the price of the hydro power were stealthily slipping back to the old rate charged by the steam producers of energy before hydro came along and put them out of business.

"The average cottage burns about 7 kilowatts in a month. The charge for this, at 2 cents per k.w., would be 14 cents. The floor space in a small cottage will average 30 cents, or a total of 44 cents with 4 cents discount, the total would be 40 cents. Instead, the charge now is 68 cents.

His Two Bills.

Mr. Grayson presented his two bills, January and February, for comparison:

January.
K.W. hours, 6 at 2 cents	12
Floor space	30
Total	42
Discount	4
Net payment	38
February
5 at 2 cents	10
Floor space	30
Total	40
Minimum charge for February	75
Discount	7
Net February charge	68

Mr. Grayson says that on the same cottage with steam generated electricity, his average bills were around 60 cents, so that the charge hydro is now making is higher.

"As I see it," he said, "all the small house owners, who did not burn sufficient electricity are the people who must bear the brunt of this minimum charge. The big house owner, whose bills are high, will not be hit. My bills, as shown by a comparison, of January and February, will be practically double in the winter and more than double in the summer when I use less light.

Mr. Grayson suggests that if the charge is to be continued the hydro might take out the meters and make the charge a flat rate.

Manager Buchanan Explains.

General Manager Buchanan of the utilities commission, admits that Mr. Grayson's complaint about the increase in his bill may be correct. But he also points out that the owner of a house twice as large as Mr. Grayson paid 60 cents floor space without getting a kilowatt of power, and the man with a house of 3,000 feet floor space pays 90 cents. He also points out that the owner of the large house must also burn 90 k.w. in a month before striking the one cent per k.w. rate, while the owner of the small house strikes this at 30 k.w.

Mr. Buchanan also points out that no one objects to the $2 minimum for water which works out at 66 cents per month.

"I believe that Mr. Grayson and other cottage owners can well utilize some other electric appliances in their house which will use up an extra cent's worth of electricity each day and give them good value for the money spent," said Mr. Buchanan.

"Even were it correct, that we are near the old steam rate, he remarked in regard this phase of the question, it should be remembered that the dollar today is only worth about half what it was at the time the steam plant was operating."

LONDON MASONS CONTEST HONOR

An emergency meeting of St. John's Lodge, 209a, A., F. and A. M., was held on Friday night in the Masonic Temple for the purpose of conferring the second degree. At the conclusion all the pastmasters of the lodge conferred and reached a definite conclusion to place a candidate in the field for D. D. G. M. at the next meeting of the grand lodge.

The opinion was expressed that 209a should receive this honor, and one of the most popular past masters of the lodge was unanimously indorsed to contest this office. He was assured of the most hearty support and co-operation in the contest.

ETIMAR CLUB WINS INTER-CHURCH CUP

"That the modern novel is beneficial in its influence on mankind" was proved to the satisfaction of adequate judges Friday night in the fourth debate of the Inter-Church Debating League, when the Etimar Club of St. Paul's Cathedral won from the Excelsior Club of Knox Church.

The winners were represented by Messrs. Bob Shaw-Wood, Clarence Nugent and Frank McHardy-Smith, and the Knox team consisted of Messrs. Stewart Kennedy, Preston Minnice and John Argo.

The discussions were interesting, the affirmative taking the stand that the novel is a great means of educating the readers, and that it benefited society in general by improving it morally and broadening its intellectual life. The novel as a means of reform was emphasized by Mr. McHardy-Smith, who gave in illustration such authors as Dickens, Hugo, etc., these novelists having lived in "modern" times. The negative stressed mainly the harm done by the cheap and trashy novels. Mr. John Argo, being a particularly good orator, he and Mr. Nugent were commended by the judges, Messrs. V. K. Greer, H. W. Auden, and Wm. Hodder.

The Etimars, by winning this debate, take the cup presented by the league to the league leaders. This is the third straight win with no losses by the Etimars.

The next debate will be between Knox "Excelsiors" and Dundas Centre "Nikators" at Dundas Centre on Thursday, March 23.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For the which sake I suffer these things: nevertheless, I am not ashamed; for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day.—2 Timothy i., 12.

AT DUNDAS CENTER CHURCH Sunday evening the oratorio, "Elijah" will be sung by an augmented chorus and excellent soloists, under the direction of J. Parnell Morris, organist and conductor. The work has been carefully prepared and promises to be an inspiration to all who are fortunate to hear it.

FIRE CHIEF John Aitken has received a check for $50 from the Trafford Furniture Company to go to the firemen's benefit fund. In the letter to the chief the company said they were very grateful for the manner in which the chief and firemen prevented the fire in the Cowan hardware store from spreading to their building.

THE MONTHLY meeting of the G. W. V. A. will be held in the clubrooms next Tuesday evening, when plans for the commemoration of the second battle of Ypres will be made. It is proposed to hold a church parade on Sunday, April 23. The weekly euchre drive of the club will be held Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

AS A RESULT of the meeting of the Lone Scouts in the Y. M. C. A., Friday evening, it was discovered that there was a number of boys who were not attached to units. Another meeting will be held next Friday evening, when an endeavor will be made to have a central point for the boys. This will probably be the Y. M. C. A., as they have offered the use of a room for their meetings.

NICHOLAS KENNEDY of Woodstock appeared in police court Saturday, charged with a breach of section 51 of the Ontario temperance act. Chief Birrell asked that the prisoner be remanded for a week, to give the police an opportunity to obtain his finger prints, and send them to the officials at Ottawa. The remand was granted. Kennedy pleaded not guilty to the O. T. A. charge.

BESIDES HAVING a brand new commission at the city hall to help turn the municipal wheels, there is also another increase in the hall population. The city hall cat took the center of the stage on Saturday morning, when she climbed out of the coal bind with a kitten in its mouth. It was necessary for her to make five trips out before she had her new family accounted for.

TENDERS FOR supplies for the coming summer's work by the various city departments have not been called as yet. Engineer Brazier wanted to call for tenders some time ago, but the mayor suggested delay until after the new commissioner should get under way. He believed that different departments could buy together and thus effect a material saving. This will undoubtedly result in further delay in getting spring work under way, it is thought.

DRAMA LEAGUE TO PLAY THE VALIANT

The next meeting of the London Drama League promises something very fine for the members, the feature of the program arranged being a one-act play, "The Valiant," by Holworthy Hall, to be presented under the direction of Sydney Sims and the Drama League production committee. The scene of the play is laid in a warden's office, and the time is the hour before an execution. This play is the first highly dramatic production undertaken by the Drama League, and promises to afford a very fine evening's entertainment.

The cast includes Vincent Perry as the Valiant, Bert Perry as the Warden, Frank Emeny as Father Daly, and Miss Kitty Mundy as the Girl. The play will be presented in the new Collegiate auditorium near the end of March.

L. C. I. LOSES DEBATE TO WOODSTOCK C. I.

New Auditorium Opening Sees Students Noisily Re-assert Old Collegiate Spirit.

SUPERIOR STYLE WON

Merry Sing-Song and Splendid Program Follows Debate, First To Be Held.

The old L. C. I. spirit so long hampered by lack of means for a proper outlet reasserted itself in greater force than ever, Friday evening, when London Collegiate Institute girls contested the Woodstock Collegiate in a debate for the first time in their new auditorium, the Woodstock girls winning.

The L. C. I. yells which rent the air as the program commenced, quietened down as the subject of the debate was announced.

The London speakers, Barbara Daly and Madeline Roddick, took the affirmative side of the debate, "Resolved that a British American Alliance is in the best interest of a world peace," while expounding the negative arguments were the Woodstock speakers, Miss Barnes and Miss Thornton.

The judges were Dr. Tamblyn, Mrs. Large and J. McEachren. Dr. Tamblyn, who rose to announce the decision, kept his audience in breathless suspense while he spoke at length on the beauty and advantages of the new building, enlarging on the artistic nature of the decorations, and finally giving the information that Woodstock had been awarded the decision on account of their somewhat superior style. It took seconds before the outcome was realized. Here L. C. I. spirit again manifested itself and cries of "Woodstock, Woodstock," rose from the rooters.

Following the debate, Poppy Kitchen presided at the piano, and a sing-song of school yells and songs ensued.

The short musical program was of a most enjoyable nature. Emma Wolfe, a first year student, rendered a most pleasing solo, and Gertrude and Dorothy Cahill were heard in a number combining piano and violin which was most enjoyable.

By no means the least enjoyable feature of the program was a recitation by Isabel Mortimer, whose imitation of a tiny Jewish lad and his uncle Abraham, was most effective.

Miss Kelso, under whose able direction the literary society has attained such success was largely responsible for the excellent nature of the program.

As the audience left the building, expressions of delight were heard from students on all sides that the old school life and spirit was to be revived again.

LAUDS PRESS FOR STAND IN SCHOOL CONTROVERSY

Bishop Fallon Addresses Knights Of Columbus Regarding Campaign.

Bishop M. F. Fallon, addressing the London council of the Knights of Columbus at their regular meeting on Friday night, spoke at some length on his campaign in behalf of the separate schools.

Uppermost in the address of the prelate was his reference to the publicity which his addresses and letter have received at the hands of the press of the province.

The bishop had but one complaint to enter, which was against one paper only, which he contended had not treated his subject matter fairly in its editorial columns. He pointed out in fairness, however, that the paper in question had reported one of his addresses verbatim, and said the bishop amid laughter, the reporter was a man from Belfast.

All the papers the province over had treated him with the utmost fairness. The press had reported his speeches and published his letters at the same length as they had dealt with those of his opponents.

During his remarks the bishop touched on the progress of his seminary and expressed the hope that the time was not far distant when a start on construction would be made.

The knights decided to put on a first degree at the next regular meeting in two weeks. The major degrees will be put on here on Easter Monday.

HYDRO MANAGER SAYS HE CAN FURNISH LIGHTS

Points Out No. 2 Committee Have Not Asked Prices On Lights Desired.

While explaining that he does not desire to appear as a perpetual grouch, General Manager Buchanan of the public utilities commission declared Saturday that the local hydro department was quite willing and in a position to furnish such lights as he understands No. 2 committee of the board of education has selected for the Victoria Public School.

While Trustee Rev. A. A. Bice, chairman of the committee, contends stoutly that the lights have not as yet been purchased, Manager Buchanan points out that no prices were ever asked by the trustees.

He holds further that the school architect or some other person removed the lights from the hydro fixtures after the same were placed in the Victoria School, without notifying such change to the hydro department.

The hydro people claim that their fixtures do not show to advantage with lights other than those specially adapted for the same, and which were removed and others put in their place.

Sunny March Days Presage Early Return of Spring to City Bird-Lovers

Van Dyke must have had in thought a fine March morning in Ontario when he referred to his homeland as the place

Where the sky is full of sunshine
And the flag is full of stars.

To the person, if there be such, who does not quite grasp the meaning of that first line, Friday morning would have been a perfect object lesson.

With such a flood of sunshine illuminating the earth after the dreary drab of Thursday, one can well understand how the early inhabitants of earth were sun-worshippers.

Called out by the incomparable brightness, the expectant bird lover took his way in the early morning to the open spaces in Victoria Park or strolled along London's tree-lined avenues, with eyes wide and ears alert to catch the first cheering sight and song of those harbingers of the spring, the blue bird, robin and song sparrow.

Already reports have come of robins, but one may reasonably conclude that these are stray birds which have wintered in nearby sheltered spots where the rations have been adequate. The vanguard of the bird army is due. Though the watcher was not rewarded by a glimpse of the expected early comers, he was entertained by a flock of winter birds whistling and chattering in high glee, and a half dozen crows flew over, apparently set out for a day at the lakeside.

J. HIGGINS TELLS POLICY OF G.A.U.V.

Local Returned Soldiers Hold Meeting to Consider Amalgamation.

ASK STATE INSURANCE

Voices Dissatisfaction of Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

At a meeting of the local unit of the Grand Army of United Veterans held in the Labor Temple Friday night James Higgins vice-president of the Dominion command, addressed the veterans on the returned soldiers' convention held in Winnipeg to consider amalgamation. Mr. Higgins outlined the policy of the G. A. U. V. in regard to unemployment and their stand on the re-establishment of the returned soldiers and women. He said the G. A. U. V. was entirely unsatisfied with the manner under which the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment was conducted, and they were pledged to "wipe it out altogether." He cited several instances where the D. S. C. R. was at fault, one case being that of a returned soldier in St. Thomas.

He said his organization was endeavoring to have an act passed by Parliament to guarantee state insurance for sickness and unemployment for veterans.

He outlined the policy of the Dominion Veterans' Alliance chiefly with regard to amalgamation. He stated a conference would be held in Toronto on Nov. 8 of this year, when the amalgamation question will be the chief business. If the veterans do not decide to become one body at this convention another meeting will be called on or before Feb. 10 of next year, he said.

F. B. Lavender, secretary of the local command, informed the meeting that it was the intention to have a monster London veterans' meeting in a short time to make ready for the November convention. A meeting of this nature would meet with the approval of all soldiers in London, he said, as they felt the time had come when amalgamation would be a big help both to them and the country.

HORTICULTURISTS HEAR LECTURE ON IRIS FAMILY

President W. E. Saunders Says Must Be Left Uncovered or Rot May Set In.

An interesting illustrated address on "The Iris" was given to the London Horticultural Society, Friday night, in the Normal School auditorium, by the president, W. E. Saunders.

The slides shown were divided into two sections, representing those that originated in the United States and those imported from Europe.

According to the lecturer, very few American Iris were to be found in the city, chiefly because the European ones were thought to be much better in quality and also much cheaper in price.

The "Dominion" was considered the best iris in the world, and the nearest approach to it as an American production was that originated by Miss Grace Sturtevant and called "B. Y. Morrison."

The chief difference between the European iris and the American was that whereas those of America seldom had more than three blooms on a stalk at one time, the European varieties often had as many as seven.

An interesting fact was brought out by the lecturers, to the effect that in the culture of the iris it was better to leave them uncovered all the time, because there is a tendency for rot to set in if covered. It is natural for the roots of the iris to force themselves out of the ground, and they should be left that way.

Pictures of iris were shown that were worth up to one hundred dollars a root, while those worth five dollars a root were considered quite ordinary.

Ed Wyatt, secretary of the local association and W. E. Saunders, president, gave a report of the convention held in Toronto on Feb. 10, and to which they were delegates.

During the year 20 new societies were organized in the province, which brought the membership in Ontario up to 32,000.

SUMMON DESCHAMP TO COURT.

Hartford, Conn., March 11. — Alphonse J. Deschamps, head of the brokerage firm of Deschamps & Co., of New York, Montreal, and this city, today was served with papers ordering him to appear in the United States court in New Haven next Monday to show cause why he should not be adjudged a bankrupt.

Deschmaps & Co. recently went into the hands of receivers after having bought out the brokerage firm of Friedman, Markelson & Co., of New York. Counsel for Deschamps said that they were "going to fight the bankruptcy proceedings to the limit."

GAMBLING CASE TO COME UP AGAIN

Magistrate Bartlett Reserves Judgment After Saturday's Hearing.

MANY WITNESSES CALLED

Counsel for Defence Says Wrong Place Must Have Been Raided By Police.

"You must have raided the wrong place; it looks as if you had got into a Sunday school," remarked J. M. McEvoy, K.C., counsel for the defence in the Sam Fangrass and Geo. Pernokis gambling case, in police court Saturday.

After this morning's hearing of the case, Deputy Magistrate Bartlett announced that he would reserve judgment in the case for a week.

The apartment over 111 Dundas street was raided last Sunday afternoon, resulting in the arrests of Fangrass and Pernokis, who were charged with conducting a common gaming house, and the arrest of nine others, who were charged with being frequenters. When the case was up before Deputy Magistrate Bartlett last week, A. R. Douglas, acting for the crown, asked for an adjournment.

Witness after witness was called, and in each case the charge of being a frequenter of the place was withdrawn, but no witness would swear that there had been gambling, in fact one stated that he never played cards, and had only seen them in stores.

Constable Walter Pope gave evidence that he had seen one of the men who was arrested as a frequenter go into the place on a previous occasion. He had the data on a slip of paper, and was severely criticised by McEvoy for not having it in his regular book.

Thomas Tudman proved a hard witness for the crown. "When did you go in to the place?" queried the crown.

"About 3 o'clock," replied Tudman.

"When did you come out?" asked Douglass.

"When the police took me out," replied Tudman.

"Did you see them playing cards?" asked Douglass.

"Yes, they were playing rummy," stated Tudman.

"Rummy, why I never heard of it. I can't get that name through my head," stated Deputy Magistrate Bartlett.

When asked by the crown when they started playing rummy, Tudman stated that the game began about five minutes before the police came.

"When did it stop?" asked the crown.

"About two minutes before the police arrived," replied Tudman.

Tudman's replies were usually "I don't know," or "I don't think so," which resulted in A. R. Douglass asking Tudman if he ever had medical treatment for his memory. Tudman replied in the negative. "Well, I think you need it," declared the crown. It took some minutes to quiet the court at the final remark.

Harry Elliott, another witness, stated that he never gambled, but occasionally played euchre or solitaire.

"I object. My learned friend is only asking yes and no questions. He might just as well ask if the witness ever played tag or pussy-in-the-corner," said Mr. McEvoy.

LOCAL ARCHITECTS DINE ONTARIO PRESIDENT

London Branch of Association, Broken Up During War, Is Reorganized Again.

J. P. Hynes, president of the Ontario Association of Architects, was the guest of honor at a dinner, given by the local chapter of the association following a business meeting in the chamber of commerce, Friday afternoon. The local branch, which was broken up during the war, owing to the fact that many of its members were in service overseas, has recently been re-organized and intends holding a series of regular monthly meetings at which prominent men will be the speakers.

Mr. Hynes' address on architecture was of a general nature. He particularly stressed the need of study of designs for building as well as the more practical engineering side of the profession. He referred also to the progress which has been made by the Ontario Association of Architects in the attempt they are making to have legislation effected making architecture a licensed profession similiar to medicine or law.

Donald Hinnigar was appointed local representative of a monthly journal, which the Ontario Association plan to publish on the subject of architecture. He will have charge of all local contributions.

All members, both club and associate, were present at the dinner.

G. SULMAN TELLS OF TRIP IN INDIA

Addresses Father and Son Banquet At Askin Street Methodist Church.

HAVE LARGE HOTELS

Local Brotherhood Was Organized Twelve Years Ago.

"My Trip in India" was the subject of an address delivered by George Sulman, ex-M. L. A., of Chatham, to the Askin Street Methodist Brotherhood at its annual father and son banquet Friday evening. The speaker gave an excellent account of his trip in the British possession. Over 250 attended the banquet.

Mr. Sulman opened his address by giving an account of the first city in which he stopped at in India. This was Magarie. He stated it had a very large population of natives. They had a temple that covered 27 square acres, and a tank to wash them of their sins that covered another 27 square acres. He told of Calcutta, the old capital of India, and of Delhi, the new capital.

Magnificent City.

"Delhi is a magnificent city," he stated. "It is almost like any European center in every way. They have street cars and electric lights. The natives live in mud huts, and this is about the only medieval custom. The government is building an official residence there that will surpass any other building in the world.

"There are two hotels in India that would make any of the leading hotels in the United States and Europe look like cheap garages. But as a rule the hotel accommodation in the east is very poor. In most cases there are numerous insects and plenty of dirt to be found.

"There is something wrong in India but the worst thing that could happen would be for England to withdraw," he continued. "There is at present talk of Lord Reading resigning and returning to England, but I do hope he will continue in his post, as he is a fine man and well liked."

Fathers Pleased.

Wesley Baker, president of the Men's Brotherhood, presided at the banquet, and told the sons that the fathers were pleased to have them mix with them in the brotherhood services.

Rev. J. T. C. Morris, of Askin Street Church, stated that he enjoyed the privilege of being present and told that there was ample work in the church for the boys, men, girls and women.

Arnold Webb, representing the "Hawks," an organized class of boys, gave the fathers a few facts regarding the program carried out by the boys, and pointed out that their program included spiritual work as well as physical. Eric Chapman was spokesman for the Meteors and said the 20 boys of that class are striving to do their best to assist the church, Sunday school and community.

Organized 12 Years Ago.

R. R. Smith, president of the Federation of Brotherhoods of Western Ontario, told the men that the Askin Street Brotherhood was organized 12 years ago, and stood alone in the city for nine years. He told of the trip made to England by the pastor and himself for the purpose of attending the world convention of brotherhoods, and that after their return a federation was organized which now included 18 churches. He added that the brotherhoods are rapidly growing in St. Thomas, Chatham and Windsor.

Superintendent Walker, of Askin Street Sunday School, highly commended the boys of the Sunday school on the gentlemanly manner in which they conduct themselves, and added that they are a great credit to the community.

MILL OWNERS ASK COURTS TO PREVENT PICKETING

Rhode Island Textile Workers Strike Has Created Serious Stiuation.

Providence, R. I., March 11.—Recourse by mill owners to the courts to obtain an injunction agfinst mass picketing, adopted this week by striking operatives at Rhode Island textile plants affected by the strike, were forecast today. In a statement issued at noon, Governor Sansouci declared he had advised the manufacturers who have protested to him against what they termed "unlawful mass picketing" at mills to seek relief in the courts. Strike leaders in the Pawtucket and Blackstone valleys replied with statements that picketing would proceed, injunction or no injunction."

A statement made public yesterday by Labor Commissioner George H. Webb, stated that since the beginning of the textile strike strikers had lost nearly $2,000,000 in wages alone. This estimate was based on a total of 15,000 strikers, and an average weekly wage of $17.55, both conservative figures, according to the commissioner. Business all over Rhode Island, the statement continued, was feeling the effect of the strike in a local way.

MAY CALL SERIES OFF

St. Marys and Kitchener Game Postponed Last Night, Anyway.

WOODSTOCK, March 10. — The Rounds Trophy game scheduled for tonight between St. Marys and Kitchener Juniors has been declared off, the ice was in fairly good condition, but the Kitchener crew this morning advised the local management that they did not think ice conditions would warrant them coming down. It is possible the rest of the games will be called off, and that the trophy will be played for under the same conditions as the S. P. A. games in Toronto, before the regular O. H. A. games next season.

A DIFFERENT STORY.

ST. MARYS, March 10. — A Rounds trophy elimination game between Kitchener and St. Marys juniors was to have been held at Woodstock tonight. Kitchener, however, defaulted to the stone town lads, and Port Colborne and St. Marys will now play off for the trophy.

H. S. FRY of London, who was elected president of the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association at the first annual meeting of this body in this city in Hyman Hall on Friday afternoon.

REV. WESTGATE TO SPEAK IN LONDON

In connection with the 1922 session of the Synod of the Diocese of Huron announcement is made by the Bishop of Huron that the preacher of the synod sermon on Monday evening, April 24, in St. Paul's Cathedral, will be Rev. T. B. R. Westgate, D.D., for several years a distinguished missionary of the M. S. C. C.

In addition, Dr. Westgate has special claim upon the interest of the citizens of London and district. Spending his boyhood near Watford, he graduated from Huron College, going as a missionary to South America. He was later transferred to British East Africa, where he was imprisoned during the war. As a result of his harrowing experiences his health was impaired to such an extent he was unable to carry on the work there after his release, and returned to Canada. He holds at the present time the important post of field secretary of missions in the Canadian Northwest with headquarters at Winnipeg.

TEACHES LESSON ON CONSIDERATION

London Street Car Conductor Gives "Seat Hogs" A Little Advice.

PRAISED BY PASSENGERS

Trio Occupy Space To Disadvantage Of Other Travelers.

"What are you sitting on—eggs? How many are you trying to cover?"

The above two queries were fired a few days ago in rapid fire order by one of the oldest street car conductors of the city at a trio of passengers traveling down town in his car.

The queries were pertinent ones, and will be considered more so when it is pointed out that they were addressed to a young Beau Brummel and a couple of well-dressed young women.

Favor Conductor.

But sympathy should not be wasted on them, for some eight or ten persons on the car who heard the conductor's caustic interrogation favored patting the conductor on the back.

These queries of Mr. King's servant were addressed to what is known in street car parlance as the "seat hog."

The swain sat in the center of the trio. He had his legs well spread out. Each of his companions—and neither of them had to stand twice to make a shadow—were sitting half turned toward him with their elbows on the widow.

A rough estimate of the space occupied by the three passengers as they gossiped and laughed, was that they were occupying room sufficient to seat five persons.

Women Strap-Hangers.

This would have removed two of the four or five women strap-hangers numbered among those who were "admiring" the "seat hogs." In fact, it was the rather cutting looks that were directed at the trio by various persons on the car which directed the attention of the busy conductor to them.

The conductor's queries produced some blushes. But it also produced a seat for two more women passengers. No—the young man did not give up his seat; but it is safe to say that the copious dose of cure administered by the conductor had removed three "seat hogs" from the city, and left a trio that will let others sit as well as themselves in future.

DECIDE ON SUNDAY CLOSING.

...VICTORIA, B. C., March 10.—Despite the strongest opposition from druggists, newsvendors, candy and ice cream store proprietors and others, the board of police commissioners last night passed a resolution favoring Sunday closing as required by the Lord's Day act, the closing order going into effect April 1. The commissioners made it clear that their decision was not imbued by religious considerations, but solely for the benefit of the "citizenship of the city."

INSPECTION OF PUPILS IS ISSUE

Board To Decide Next Meeting On Compulsory Medical Examination.

MUST SALUTE FLAG

Trustee Casselman Introduces Recommendation for Ceremony Each Morning Before Classes.

Whether a medical examination of all pupils entering the schools shall be made compulsory next September must now be decided by the board of education at its next meeting. No. 1 committee of the latter body in regular session Friday afternoon recommended that such action should be taken at that time.

Considerable discussion resulted, however, as to the expediency of including the expense for such examination in the estimates, Trustee J. B. Wright viewing with some uncertainty any move to institute the inspection this year. He held that economy should be practiced to the limit. Trustee Casselman vouchsafed the opinion that the inspection would actually mean economy, when all things were considered.

Inspector Greer explained that it was the hope of the local department that eventually a medical officer of health would be appointed for the schools, who would be in charge of all the nurses.

Trustee Casselman recommended that the pupils be compelled to salute the flag each morning before commencing their duties. Trustee Edwin Smith and the other members concurred, while Inspector Greer pointed out that there are not sufficient flags to supply all the schools.

The superannuation scheme proposed by Inspector Greer was also recommended by the committee. If approved by the board, teachers of 40 or more years of city teaching duty will be given an allowance for the first year equal to the difference between his salary and that of the teacher engaged to fill his place.

The question of an increase for the secretary's stenographer was shelved after certain discussion, until the next meeting of the board.

ASKS BRAZIER TO DECIDE ON WATKINSON CHARGES

General Manager Requests City Engineer To Arbitrate In Bowling Green Matter.

The controversy between Ald. Fred Watkinson and the Public Utilities Commission relative to certain work accomplished by employees of the latter department at the St. Matthews bowling green is rapidly approaching a crisis.

E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the commission, announced on Saturday morning that he had decided to leave the question at the disposal of City Engineer H. A. Brazier for a decision. The latter will consider the situation from every angle, and give an unprejudiced opinion.

Ald. Watkinson contends that the waterworks department laid a section of two-inch pipe into the St. Matthews bowling green, employing for that purpose three men for a period of eight hours. A bill for 68 hours labor was presented, however, he claims.

Manager Buchanan emphatically refutes this charge, holding that he has time slips to show that six men were engaged for a period of eight hours, and four other men for a period of five hours.

"I habe selected Engineer Brazier as arbiter," explained Mr. Buchanan. "He will give a final decision as to whether our prices have been exorbitant."

WILL ERECT MEMORIAL

Kitchener Plans Monument to Soldiers Who Fell in War.

KITCHENER, March 10. — Local organizations have combined behind the two veterans' associations in this city for the purpose of providing a fitting memorial monument to be erected in Mount Hope Cemetery in honor of the Kitchener boys who fell during the great war.

Up to the present nothing but a signboard has been provided in the cemetery bearing the names of Kitchener's heroes.

The combined organizations have started a fund, and will raise $2,000 for the purpose of placing a beautiful stone on the spot. The design has already been secured.

THE FATHER AND SON banquet of the First Methodist Church held Friday evening was a huge success in every respect. Both fathers and sons enjoyed the program, though the original one was not carried out. Following the supper toasts were given.

An Impotant Point.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS has scarcely been organized for the work of the year, yet opportunity has arisen to draw quite a sharp line between the conception of the status of the Dominion of Canada, as it exists in the mind of HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN and the prime minister.

Last year MR. MEIGHEN, then the premier of the Dominion, attended a conference of premiers of the British Empire, held in London. He had no instructions from the Parliament of Canada, and on that ground alone it would be right to assume that the Dominion, should it decide to take that attitude, could not be bound by anything to which he committed himself or the country.

Reports of this meeting have already been tabled in the British House. When the matter of having them placed at the disposal of members of the Canadian Commons came up, MR. MEIGHEN claimed that the permission of the premier of Britain should be asked before the representatives of the people of Canada had any right to look inside those envelopes and see what had taken place at the meeting in London.

Premier King takes the view that Canada stands on a footing of equality with the other component parts of the Empire, and that it is no more necessary to ask the sanction of the premier of Great Britain for permission to place these records before the Canadian parliament than it would be to ask such permission from the premiers of South Africa or of Australia.

There is nothing of disrespect in the attitude of HON. MACKENZIE KING on this question. It is simply working out in a concrete way a position that has time and again been stated in an academic manner and always assented to, viz., that Canada has ceased to be a colony of the British crown—that it is a nation today, and stands on equality with all other parts of the empire. The position is right and thoroughly defensible. If indeed there should be any occasion or need to defend the stand at all.

The claim of ex-premier MEIGHEN that the sanction of Lloyd George should be asked and secured before letting the accredited representatives of the people of Canada see the report of the conference of premiers attended and participated in by the premier of Canada himself, constitutes a position that will require a great deal of sophistry and bolstering up to make a case out of it at all.

The question of loyalty to British ideals and British connection cannot be brought into the case. It is simply the difference between the idea of Canada as a nation and Canada as a colony. The position taken by PREMIER KING is sound, sane and typical of the Canadianism that his followers have a right to expect him to champion and maintain.

The Message of Amos.

OLD TESTAMENT history runs true to form and true to people as we know them today. Those who are following the Sunday school lessons read of Amos this week. Like Elijah, he was a man used to a life in the open, accustomed to simple habits, and when his commission came to him it meant action.

The time is probably about the eighth century before the coming of Christ. Following the prophetic period of Elijah and Elisha, and under the strong administrations of Joath and Jeroboam II., the people of Israel became prosperous.

Standing adversity may be unpleasant, but standing prosperity is a more dangerous occupation. Many a man can turn and date his downfall from the twist in the tide of fortune that caused plenty to be his lot.

Israel flourished; agriculture was in good shape; civilization advanced, and it seemed as though the time had come for them to advance to the high plane of righteousness that God had intended for them. But with the return of prosperity, comparable only to the time of Solomon, came city life, spiritual apathy, idolatry and licentiousness.

It was under these conditions that God called Amos, a shepherd of Tekoa. His message was simply a trumpet-like blast, setting forth the coming fall of Israel.

Today the world sees the same thing many times over. When a man is down and out, or near it, or even when in ordinary circumstances, it seems an easy matter for him to remember his Creator.

Material prosperity has been the magnet that has pulled many a man away from his life habits.

These possessions, if not rightly appreciated, and if there be no corresponding sense of responsibility or of stewardship, give a man a sense of personal security and temporal power that blinds his eyes to things that are eternal and enduring.

Better To Give.

A WORD of caution regarding the appeal that is now being made for help for Russian children is contained in a letter sent to this office.

The plea is based on the fact that "Russia is still an unrepentant nation, and supplies sent over will simply go to feed the Red army."

There may have been a time when this objection could have been raised with a certain amount of justification, but that time is not the present.

There are agencies that can make Canadian gifts do actual work in the saving of the lives of Russian children.

Moreover, it is much better to give with willingness and cheer and run the risks than to close tight the purse strings in the face of positive starvation.

The Tortoise.

THAT SQUAT and leisurely quadruped, the tortoise, has never seriously engaged man's attention. Most other animals, domesticated and wild, have challenged his interest in one way or another.

From the vast and lumbering elephant down to the tiniest insect they have inspired him to exercise his prowess or his patience, or have made him marvel at their intelligence and cunning.

But the tortoise has always been different; it has neither provoked reflection nor inspired admiration. Man has always held it as uninteresting as a dray or a flat car.

Once, a long time ago, it served the literary purpose of pointing a moral, but the tortoise has done very little since that day. And even so, most people believe that the tortoise in the fable was only a literary tortoise; they seldom give it credit for winning the race in spite of its laborious method of locomotion; their sympathy goes to the hare who lost the race by over-confidence.

It is somewhat surprising, therefore, to find that the English novelist and poet, D. H. LAWRENCE, should today don his poetic armor in defence of this underslung creature, and find in its low-brow antics and sluggard manoeuverings a good deal that is very funny, and not a little that is very serious and thought-provoking.

This poor, flattened-out thing, which never grows high enough to look over a fence, and can never move fast enough to run away from a fire, inspires Mr. LAWRENCE to many a quaint comment on life and nature.

And why not? Perhaps the age-old neglect in which this shell-encased amphibian has grovelled around in the mud of things has been altogether undeserved.

Perhaps man, with his nose in the air and eyes to the heavens, might have profited greatly if he could have got the tortoise point of view on life and social progress. It may be that the very proximity to the ground in which he has his ear has given the tortoise an advantage over other animals, so that man might very well consider the tortoise and learn something of life.

In a world in which submarine vies with hydroplane, the stolid and slow-going tortoise, securely balanced and serene, may give us wholesome food for reflection.

There is something in limiting one's desire for speed to one's ability.

At least the tortoise does not let his works run away with him.

Big Problems.

THIS IS the day and age of big matters and big problems. It may be that the burden of the times in which we live is so great that people's thoughts are turned to the more serious things of life.

Here, for instance, we read in one of the largest papers in United States the following letter from a correspondent:

"I am a young man of about 21 and I am in love with a young lady three years younger. I have to compete with a rival who loves her as dearly as I do. After a long consideration I've proved that he can make her happier than I can. Should I give her up to my rival in order to make her happy?"

And the editor of the column to which the letter was written, moved by the touch of spring in the air, penned the following:

"If I loved a girl I wouldn't give her up without a good struggle. Seems so faint-hearted. I would not admit any one else could make her happier unless she had said it herself. I'd prove no one else could do that."

Fine, we call it. The pessimist who was telling us that humanity today wouldn't grade over No. 3 soft is going to get a marked copy of this paper. Calf-love of 20 still lives, so what else matters?

LITTLE 'TISERS

It costs the town of Exeter $65 per year to have the town bell rung. Still you couldn't buy many alarm clocks for that amount.

An oil well in California is spouting up small fish from some subterranean body of water. Boy, get some tin cans and we'll start a sardine factory.

Some men are never lonesome. Even when alone their conceit is such that they can look in the mirror and imagine they are in a crowd of the world's leading men.

The Chicago Tribune has a letter of complaint from a man in front of whose house the pavement was torn up and not well repaired. Hope this man does not think Chicago has any monopoly on this sort of highway butchery.

Down Essex way the men of the town had a rat-killing contest, and disposed of 2,170 of them. The winning team in the contest had a score of 1,225, and the affair ended with a supper. A rattling good time was had by all.

And now they are having a law passed making it necessary to have lightning rods offered for sale inspected and approved. Some of the old wires they used to string on buildings offered about as much protection as a shoe lace.

The STEFANSSEN expedition, which circled up around the Arctic Circle, is to be further continued if threatened legal action goes through. The complaint hinges on the fact that STEFANSSEN, after making the trip at the expense of the people of Canada, proceeded to write a book for his own financial advantage, in which he makes reference to members of his party to which exception is now taken. So this Arctic trip, on its return voyage, may pay a visit to the courts.

The Progressives, especially those from the grain-growing centres of the West, bring with them to Ottawa a sense of serious times through which their constituents have passed, and for that reason are going to be keen for legislation that has a bearing on their problem. The restoration of the buying power of Western Canada means the restoration of good business in Eastern Canada.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

Thin Women Must Avoid "Nerves" To Grow Fat

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

THIN women are usually of a nervous temperament and in this characteristic we find the cause for their thinness, as a rule.

Nervous women expend a great deal of energy in heightened muscular tension, and nervous disturbances quickly react on the alimentary tract, making it difficult to take or digest sufficient food.

It requires an intelligent persistence in eating regularly more food than the immediate needs demand to make any noticeable gain in weight in such women.

An avoidance of all nervous excitement, irritation and great muscular exertion is necessary to adjust the balance between intake and outgo.

Food must be taken regardless of appetite and often regardless of minor digestive ailments.

It is wise to select foods not repugnant to the palate and easily digested. Fluids are easy to take when appetite fails. Milk is acceptable in many forms, hot, cold, with added cream or milk, sugar, or both; in cocoa or chocolate, in sherbets and ice creams; as buttermilk, zoolak or kumiss.

Fruit juices from sweet fruits or with their fuel value increased by adding milk, sugar, make agreeable and nutritious drinks.

Raw eggs are good for the thin woman whether taken plain or beaten up with milk, cream or fruit juice.

It is not difficult to add to the regular diet several hundreds of calories a day if the addition is needed, as it is in the case of overly thin women.

Three glasses of milk added to the regular diet means 500 calories or more. An extra pat of butter each meal about 300 calories a day.

From one to three tablespoons of olive oil after each meal increases the fuel intake from 300 to 900 calories.

Very often women complain that they are too tired to eat. It is most difficult to fatten an overworked person, but even though it is but a slight surplus over the immediate fuel needs, the thin woman should eat.

In time such methods will have favorable effects on the general health and especially on the nervous system.

TO THE EDITOR

A FARMER ON THE EGG QUESTION.

Editor Advertiser:

Sir:—Being a reader of your valuable paper for a good many years, I thought I would write you concerning Mr. Silverwood's trip to Ottawa about shipping American eggs into this country. It seems funny to me that we have to have American eggs shipped here, and eggs from China, and butter from New Zealand, when Mr. Fielding has just been over there to establish trade relations with the Americans and they turned him down. What are they trying to do? Put us farmers out of business? You don't see them shipping anything in here to hurt the manufacturer, but they want to see the farmer's heart cut right out if Mr. Silverwood wants American eggs so bad.

Why doesn't he go to the States and start his plant over there with our markets cut right in two at the present time for anything we have? I think the produce men have little to do to stop an act that is good for the Canadian farmer. We read of the immigrants they are going to send over here to help the farmer raise more stuff when we have no paying market for anything that we have now. What do we want to raise more for when we are selling at a loss what we do raise? If the produce men would get the government to take off the $1.30 duty on sugar from the States so we could get our sugar at the same price they do over there they might be doing something worth while. We see every week how the government is trying to keep the men on the farm and doing everything they can to drive him off, and there will be a lot more go off the farm if they don't do something.

Just as soon as there is an act passed to benefit the farmer the retailers or wholesalers or manufacturers go away to Ottawa to have it repealed, but when the farmers went down there the Tory government slammed the doors in their face and would not let them in the house at all. Yours Truly,

W. R. ROBERTSON,
Lambeth, March 10, 1922.

NO. 158—THE DIPPING "D."

You have often noticed perhaps, that many writers customarily bring the downstroke or stem of the letters "d" and "t" below the line.

You have noticed it—but has it meant anything to you?

You have often been drawn into discussions with argumentative persons who are very obstinate in their opinions, and with whom in large measure it is hopeless to argue. It's an experience that nearly always makes you wish you hadn't.

You can know enough in the future to avoid such experiences if only you know the person well enough to have exchanged notes with him or her, or to have had a chance to look at some of his or her handwriting. For the dipping "d" and "t" are the marks of the argumentative and opinionated ones.

They may not always be seeking an argument. Perhaps they realize that they have a tendency this way, and consciously curb it. But when you see the downstrokes of the "d" and "t" dipping below the line, you know that the tendency is here, and, like the tendency to fight, you only have to go far enough to bring it to the surface.

At its worst, this tendency is described as "prejudice," "narrow-mindedness" and "bigotry." At its best people are likely to call it "unswerving loyalty," "firm faith," "knowing his own mind."

Tomorrow—The Hand of Ideals.

Companion word—subsidize.

It's used like this—"Premier King has asked the House to provide a subsidy for our merchant marine."

Our Own Country.

Question—What woman Canadian writer is also a member of a legislature?

Answer—Mrs. Nellie McClung of Edmonton, the author of "Sewing Seeds in Danny," "Purple Springs," etc., is also a member of the Alberta Legislature.

Question—What is Canada's public revenue?

Dear Sirs:-

REGARDING OUR ADVERTISING POLICY.

It has always been our custom, in planning our advertising programme, to give first consideration to Newspaper requirements, believing that this is the basis on which all progressive advertising should start from.

We feel that this policy is as sound and logical to-day as it was twenty-five years ago and we believe it is essential for the progressive merchant or manufacturer to keep his name before the public through newspaper publicity.

Yours very truly,

HENRY BIRKS & SONS, LIMITED.

JEB/HB.

That the Daily Newspaper is the basis of all successful advertising is concisely stated by Mr. Birks. The strength of this comment must be impressive to all those who contemplate advertising for any purpose whatever.

IF LLOYD GEORGE SHOULD RESIGN PREMIERSHIP OF BRITAIN

THE WEEK IN THE WORLD

BY CABR.

Exclusive Advertiser Review.

Despite the glowing eulogy of Sir Arthur Balfour to Premier David Lloyd George in his speech at the Carlton Club in London Tuesday and the apparent determination of the Unionist leader to remain in the ranks of the present coalition government, party politics have revived so rapidly during the past week that it cannot be long before the coalition which has guided the Empire's destinies since 1916 comes to an obtrusive or resounding end.

Indeed it was authoritatively declared Friday that Lloyd George has virtually resigned the premiership in favor of Rt. Hon. Austin Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, who has the premier's resignation in his pocket with power to use it when a suitable opportunity presents itself. The premier has expressed the desire, it is further said, that the Irish bill should become law before the country is made acquainted with his decision. He will then advise his majesty to send for Mr. Chamberlain. Sir Arthur Balfour having expressed his unwillingness to form an administration.

How will this affect Canada?

Quite probably the succeeding ministry, whatever its political complexion may be, will draw the bonds linking Britain to the Dominion yet more closely.

In England today, Mr. Lloyd George, despite the praise which his negotiation of the Irish Free State treaty elicited deservedly from many quarters, is unfortunately not the favorite he was when immediately after the armistice he very sensibly held a general election.

He has been assailed by the "die hard" Conservatives headed by Sir George Younger, as "the man who won the war and lost the peace."

Lloyd George's economic plans are also seriously impaired by the refusal of the United States Wednesday to participate in the Genoa conference.

It is known in London that the premier had built great hopes on the results of the conference being a political asset when the inevitable appeal to the country arrives.

And it is not only with the country and Commons that he has dwindled in popularity; some of his own cabinet subordinates are restive. Lord Birkenhead and Austen Chamberlain in particular are dissatisfied.

The Unionists want the House of Lords "reformed."

By "reformed" they mean re-established, for years ago the House of Lords had its power of veto removed by its own hand in order that the then revolutionary chancellor of the exchequer, a certain David Lloyd George, might have a budget made law.

It cannot throw out financial measures today, and it wants to do so again.

It was largely on this account that a few weeks ago Mr. Lloyd George was dissuaded from holding a general election at once.

The Unionists want this business settled first.

It is generally understood that the premier will let Parliament deal with its other affairs, and when it gets up against this reformation of the Lords he will choose between resignation and a dissolution of Parliament. And in the meantime the delay will benefit tremendously the provisional government in Ireland and help hugely the whole Irish settlement toward becoming a settlement indeed, despite the acrid opposition of De Valera and the continuance of bloodshed. Of course, the general election may not take place before Parliament is dissolved in the autumn.

Mr. Lloyd George never passes a day without putting his ear to the ground, and he has not failed to note that in three recent by-elections, in industrial Manchester, in populous South London and in rural Cornwall, Labor and Independent Liberals have wrested Unionist seats with smashing majorities. Nor will he overlook the fact that in the Wolverhampton election Wednesday, Sir Robert Bird, a coalition Unionist, withstood a strong Labor attack, capturing the seat by a majority of 3,000 votes.

But assuming dissolution does take place—for Lloyd George's resignation would only defer the event a little time, during which some stop-gap premier, Austen Chamberlain, for instance, struggled along—what would be the result?

To begin with, Unionists and Liberals would abandon the coalition, the unison that has only diametrically opposed views now as its basis.

Recently H. H. Asquith, not only the husband of "Margot," who is at present on a lecture tour in Canada, and assailed the coalition in Toronto last week, but also the leader of the British Liberal party, and Lord Grey of Fallodon, addressed a meeting of Independent Liberals—who do not support the coalition—and were cheered to the echo when they declared that their party must now return to its former attitude of opposition.

Lord Birkenhead, whose wig of Lord Chancellor of the House of Lords does not conceal the sharp features of the F. E. Smith who flipped such sharp epithets in the old days at the present premier, Lloyd George, when the latter's name was more often connected with "radicalism" than with the Exchequer, immediately retorted, notwithstanding his official position, with the clarion call of Conservatism, striking the same ringing note of yore.

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, leader in the House of Commons, who is mentioned as a probable successor to Lloyd George.

Britain echoes again to the note of party slogans.

But the Liberals, perhaps, are the least boisterous of the three parties who would woo the enlightened voter's ballot paper.

Mr. J. L. Garvin of the Sunday Observer, predicts that the Unionists would carry between 260 and 280 seats.

Under such prospects no compromise with the coalition Liberals is of course possible.

SIR ARTHUR J. BALFOUR, who pledged himself to support the coalition.

Other prophets see the Labor Party vying with the Conservatives in getting between 200 and 250 seats each and the various shades of Liberals taking the remainder.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, an able Labor leader, is already shaking hands with himself on many a platform on the number of additional members of parliament his party will get. Altogether, most forecasts agree that in the next House of Commons there may not be a preponderant majority for any one party.

Even if Mr. Henderson's confidence turned out to be more than justified, and the Labor Party came to be dominant, it is unlikely that at this stage any of its leaders would accept to form a cabinet.

On the other hand, the Unionists, even if Mr. Lloyd George himself were to rally to them, could scarcely carry on with formidable Liberal and Labor ranks ranged against them.

That the Liberals would be able to govern alone is even more unimaginable.

So there arises within the realm of probabilities a new coalition, one of Liberals and Labor; a coalition which the chief Liberal organ of the country, the Manchester Guardian, has been advocating now for a good many months.

But the striking feature of British politics since the war is the absence of new men. The Labor party lacks men who would or could assume the hold the majority of portfolios.

Now, the Liberal chief, Mr. Asquith, will be seventy this year, and in the event of the Liberals being intrusted with the formation of a government, it is quite possible—indeed, it is being openly discussed in London political circles—that he would let the king send for Lord Grey.

Grey is one of the few men in British politics that take to heart Plato's advice about hesitating before undertaking the heavy burden of administration. At sixty he presents a real distaste for office, and it is significant that his only publication is a treatise on fly-fishing.

If he became premier he would remain something of a figurehead.

It is true that in the Lords he would lead. In fact, he is already taking steps to do that—and the Lords appear to be ready for him. They do not accept Lord Curzon and they would not have Lord Birkenhead. But the minister who leads in the Commons is the real power.

Now, supposing Mr. Asquith elected not to take a seat under Lord Grey—the idea is not fantastic—who would lead the Commons?

Lord Robert, who is now fifty-eight, sits as a coalition Unionist for Hitchin, a small town in Hertfordshire. He has held the seat since 1912. But always a statesman more than a politician, he has been developed by the war. Not without reason, he has been regarded by British political writers for the last two years as one of the coming men, and he is credited with considerable sympathy for the Labor party.

With Lord Grey as premier it is not inconceivable that he might discard the Unionist label altogether and join a cabinet depending on a Liberal-Labor majority in the house. That a Cecil, a son of the third Lord Salisbury, should more than flirt with Labor is not really surprising.

It was Sir Arthur Balfour of the same family who said last week, "We are all Socialists nowadays."

General Debility Follows Influenza

The After Effects Often More Serious Than the Disease Itself.

No reasonable precaution to avert an attack of influenza should be spared. The disease itself often proves fatal and its after effects among those who are spared, make the life of the victim one of almost constant misery. Ask almost any of those who have been attacked by this trouble what their present condition of health is and most of them will answer: "Since I had the influenza I have never been fully well." This trouble leaves behind it a persistent weakness of the limbs, shortness of breath, bad digestion, palpitation of the heart and a tired feeling after even slight exertion. This is due to the thin-blooded condition in which the patient is left after the fever and influenza have subsided. This condition will continue until the blood is built up again, and for building up the blood and strengthening the nerves nothing can equal a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The value of this medicine in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mr. Edward J. McGuire, Pembroke, Ont., who says: "In the fall of 1918 I was attacked with the influenza—and not in a mild form either. I was confined to my room for three weeks, and although the influenza subsided I did not regain my health. As a matter of fact I seemed to be growing weaker. I had no appetite, was subject to fainting spells and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. The doctor told me that my condition had developed into a serious case of anaemia, and although I was under his care for over two months I was not improving in any way. At this stage one of my friends advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was loth to do so, as I began to think my case hopeless. However, I was finally persuaded to try them, and by the time I had used two boxes there was no doubt they were helping me. I continued taking the pills until I had used a dozen boxes, when I found that every symptom of the trouble had left me and I was again enjoying the best of health. I returned to my work and have ever since been in good health and feel that I owe it entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I think that anyone who is suffering from the after effects of influenza, or any form of anaemia, should give this medicine a fair trial."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

Prof. Mulveney's Announcement

LADIES and gentlemen: In making this announcement, it is my earnest desire to spread glad tidings of joy, for the remedies I am going to talk about have brought joy to thousands who have used them, and their smile of satisfaction and relief has brought joy to myself. I would be pleased to have you call at my office at 211 Ossington Ave., and see the evidence of what these remedies have done, and am sure you will be more than surprised. An eminent lawyer of this city called one day to purchase some of my Worm Remedy for his boy. After looking around a few minutes, this was his remark: Well, said he, you have the evidence here, I have read about your remedies, but had no idea you were doing such wonderful work for suffering humanity, a person must see before they can realize, you are certainly a public benefactor. An eminent physician called to purchase my Tape Worm Remedy, after looking around, he said: You certainly have us all beaten on this job. He purchased my remedy, which proved satisfactory, and this physician sends all his patients suffering from Tape Worm to purchase my Remedy. A lady from Newmarket called, she was wonderfully impressed with the sight of the exhibit of parasites, she purchased my remedy and her last words before leaving were: Prof. Mulveney! You are an angel of mercy, may God spare you, you are doing a wonderful work. A gentleman called the other day, he had two children with him. Said he, pointing to the youngest of the two, you see that little one, well she took fits and we had her treated by many doctors without relief. We were recommended to try your Mother's Friend, the first few doses relieved her, she has not had a fit since; you can see how healthy she looks, I am buying this bottle for the boy, he has not been well lately, and I am sure Mother's Friend will do as much for him as it did for her, she has not had a fit for over two years. I receive many letters from people who have been relieved of tapeworm, who are highly delighted, and finish their letter with a prayer that God will spare me a long time to continue the good work. This brings me great joy; also to know my remedies are such a blessing to humanity. My remedies are sought for all over the world, as an exhibit of envelopes of letters from anxious enquirers can be seen at my office, 211 Ossington Ave., from England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Japan, China, India Klondike, Florida, California, Vancouver, and thousands from other places too numerous to mention, and the letters in my possession received from satisfied customers are sufficient to convince the most skeptical person on earth. I will publish a few as evidence of the wonderful work my remedies are doing, so if you are a sufferer you will know where to get certain relief. You are invited to call and see for yourself.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tapeworm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels, where it is located, and some times a whole colony of them are found enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy the parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm and remaining there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe that the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite, as well as expelling the worm, with one dose of medicine, without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince us of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are—Ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headache, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are fat and from three-quarters of an inch to one inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take too long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitutions have very little distress.

EXPELS STOMACH AND PINWORMS, BUT IS NOT FOR TAPEWORMS.

This valuable medicine expels Stomach or Pinworms. It is not only valuable as a Worm Medicine, but it is an excellent Tonic, Physic and Appetizer, strengthens the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys and has stopped some of the worst cases of Wetting the Bed. Many children that were wasted away to a shadow have been built up and made healthy and well from its use, and their mothers made happy. Good for Coughs and Colds; also checks Fever. It is a real Mother's Friend, and gains its name from restoring sick children to health and quietness.

This valuable medicine is working wonders in all cases of sickness among children. I have one case in mind just now of a little girl eleven years old who had been treated for over four years without any marked improvement. In fact, she got worse all the time. Her case seemed to puzzle the physicians in attendance, and they finally agreed that an operation on the stomach would be necessary to find out what was the matter. Her father being opposed to an operation, called and got a bottle of Mother's Friend. He told me his little girl was in almost a hopeless condition; that she measured 38 inches around the stomach, and her body was wasted away to skin and bones; her arms no larger than a broomstick; she was a beautiful, patient child, with a lovely disposition; to make a long story short, Mother's Friend took away the enlarged condition of the stomach, built her up, so she was able to go to school, which was, of course, a surprise to everyone in the neighborhood, and her mother and father made happy.

Another case comes to my memory of a baby about two years old. The mother brought her to me in her arms. She was wasted away to a living skeleton, and it was a pitiable sight. The case was beyond all reasonable hope of recovery. I thought, well, your faith is great if you ever expect this child to get well. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and took it home, used it, and the little one was relieved of scores of worms of various kinds. It was about three months later when this lady brought the little one to my office. She was after another bottle of Mother's Friend for her own children, and another for one of her neighbors she had recommended it to. I did not recognize either the lady or the child until she had told me of the circumstances. She said:—"Do you not remember me bringing a baby in my arms, all skin and bones? This is her. Isn't she a fine, healthy child now? No one would have believed it. Worms were the trouble. She got rid of scores of worms. Now you can see for yourself what a fine, healthy child she is. Just look at the rosy cheeks."

About 9 o'clock one night a lady called for a bottle of Mother's Friend. She said her little boy had been taking fits for 24 hours and the doctor had given him up with brain fever. She had asked a lady friend to call in and look at him, and she pronounced him to have worm fever, recommended her to try Mother's Friend, and a few minutes after taking the first dose he went to sleep, and next morning was relieved of a lot of stomach worms. The little fellow has had no fits since and is healthy and well. Just send $1.00.

Sept. 24, 1914.

Dear Sir,—Your wonderful remedy received, and I took it according to directions, and am pleased to say the tapeworm was expelled, the head and all, in one hour and a half—first motion of the bowels. Your medicine is certainly a wonderful discovery, and no words can express my thankfulness to you. During the last nine years I have taken five other doses of medicine and starved from 36 hours to 48 hours and 60 hours before I took their medicine, and it would only fetch part of it away. I shall tell my doctor at ——— of your great remedy, that he may direct others to you. I know of another lady who has been troubled longer than I have, and I will send your address to her. I feel it a duty to let all who need help, as I did, know of your worthiness, for what you can do for me I know you can do for others. I hope you may be spared a long life to continue your noble work, but sincerely hope you will in some way leave your discovery so that it won't die with you, for it is so easy to take and acts so quickly.

Gratefully yours,

Mrs. ———

Hamilton, June 23, 1913.

This is to certify that my son was in poor health for some time. We did not know what was wrong with him. He doctored with several doctors without success. I went to the druggist and got medicine for him several times without any benefit to him whatever. I was beginning to think there was no cure for him. I went into a grocery store one day and I noticed part of a Toronto paper on the counter. I picked it up and looked at it. The first thing I saw was Prof. Mulveney's Tapeworm Remedy. I told my son about it. That is how I found out about the Tapeworm Remedy, so we decided to try the remedy. I sent for the medicine, he took it according to directions, and one hour and thirty minutes after taking the tapeworm was expelled from the system. Words would fail to express our gratitude. It is my earnest prayer that Professor Mulveney may long be spared for the sake of suffering humanity.

Mrs. May McKenzie, 123 Robert Street, Hamilton.

B'WELL?

It Makes People Feel Well

B'Well is a medicine that assists nature, made from roots, barks, herbs, leaves, etc. The concentrated extracts of these herbs tone up the stomach, regulate the liver, act on the kidneys, and it contains a harmless worm destroyer that is sure death to worms, and can be used with perfect safety.

B'Well is restoring thousands of people to health. I am not going to enumerate the different diseases and complaints that people have been relieved of from the use of B'Well, as it would take up too much space. I can simply say that restlessness and disease cannot remain if you take this medicine for a time, and it will surely make you feel fine.

It does not contain poison in any form, or narcotics that only relieve pain, but the different roots and herbs that regulate the system. It stimulates the stomach, liver and kidneys into healthy action, helps digestion and keeps the bowels regular, expels all gases from the system and takes away the bad feeling around the heart, and fearful feeling from the head, depressed spirits and melancholy simply vanish and a cheerful spirit takes their place. B'Well is a blessing to those that feel life is a burden to them, that are downhearted and unhappy from disease. B'Well carries the poison out of the system through the natural channels of health, and, as the poison is carried out of the system, nature restores herself, and a cheerful spirit follows, as there is nothing like good health to make a person cheerful and happy. People treated for Epileptic Fits have been restored by its use. Don't ask me if it cures this, that and the other disease. It is different from most medicines advertised as cure alls, and I am not advertising this remedy as such, but simply advertising it as a medicine that has and will regulate the system, carry the poison out of the blood, and common sense must surely tell you the result. Men and women who have been nervous wrecks, with hollow cheeks and sunken brow, have become plump, healthy and cheerful from its use, and I can only say what it has done for others it will surely do for you. Young men and women whose faces were covered with pimples and a sickening sight to look at are now free from them after its use. Men, women and children who had eating ulcers and running sores have been healed, and what it has done for them it is likely to do for you.

Prof. Mulveney's World Famous Tapeworm Remedy is saving thousands of valuable lives, and B'Well is doing just as much for those requiring this kind of medicine.

B'Well is put up in powder form for convenience to send to foreign places by mail, which does away with all breakages. The package of powder makes twice as much medicine for the same amount of money. Full directions for making. Price $1.25, six packages $6.00. For Coughs and Colds; also checks Fever. It is a real Mother's Friend, and gains its name from restoring sick children to health and quietness.

NORTHERNERS GIVE GRANITES GREAT BATTLE BUT LOSE 3 TO 1

GRANITE CREW OUTLASTS HARDY MEN FROM NORTH

Were Without Harry Watson for Close, Hard-Checking Game — Falls Dangerous For Second Game Monday.

TORONTO, March 10.—Granites outlasted Iroquois Falls and won tonight's Allan Cup elimination game, 2 to 1, giving the O. H. A. champions a two-goal lead for the return game on Monday. The winner of the series will play the eastern champions, either Montagnards of Ottawa, or Sons of Ireland of Quebec, on Thursday and Saturday of next week. Granites were without Harry Watson, who is down with la grippe, but expect to have him back in harness on Monday. The Curlers had at least a two-goal advantage on the play and deserved to win. The game was fast, and the checking close and hard.

There was little let-up in the speed by either team until the last fifteen minutes, when the N. O. H. A. title-winners tired, allowing the Granites to sweep down the ice in two and three-man combination rushes. Granites showed a slight edge in the first period and scored the only goal, Romeril waltzing around the back of the net and poking the puck in from the corner.

Favored Falls.

The second 20 minutes favored Iroquois Falls, and they evened the score through Yankoski.

Granites went into the lead four minutes after the start of the third period, Frank Sullivan bagging the goal with Fluker and Chircoski in the penalty box for hooking and slashing high. Sullivan attacked with McCaffery, but instead of passing the puck he popped it high into the net, just as he reached the defence. Munro was responsible in a large measure for the last goal. He drew the Falls defence to the side, passing to Jeffrey, who rifled the rubber past Corbould.

Both teams set a hot pace at the start, but later in the game rough tactics interfered to some extent. A firm hand was kept on the players by the referee, however.

Please explain why the infield fly rule does not apply with only first base occupied?

THE infield fly rule was made to protect the base runner. It was discovered before the rule was made that with first and second, or first, second and third occupied and less than two out, it was always possible to make a double play on a fly ball to the infield.

Under such conditions the base runner, to prevent being doubled up if the ball was caught, was compelled to stick close to his base. Such being the case, by purposely dropping the ball or trapping it, the infielder always had a couple of easy force plays in front of him.

However, with only first base occupied, there is never a chance to make a double play on a fly ball hit to the infield if the runner holds his base and the batter runs out his hit. At such a time there is no demand for protection for the runner, hence the rule does not apply with a runner on first only and less than two out.

EXPECT TO BEAT ST. THOMAS TEAM

St. Thomas Orioles are five points ahead of 12th Field Battery in their series, but tonight the Artillerymen, who are entertaining the Railway City five at the local armories, have every confidence in their ability to overcome this slender lead. St. Thomas beat them 21 to 16 last Saturday.

Both teams lost by two points in their Junior O. B. A. play-offs with Stratford, and this is about the best indication of how evenly they stack up.

Normal girls of St. Thomas meet the local Normalites, and Smallman & Ingram Imps meet Collegiate girls in the other games of the night.

PLAY W. O. S. S. A. FINALS IN LONDON

Woodstock College and Clinton High School teams will be notified some time today whether the W. O. S. S. A. finals will be played Monday or Tuesday. Tuesday looks like the probable day.

Woodstock, by defeating Tillsonburg on the round last night, entered the finals with the Clinton team. The game will be staged in the early afternoon in time to let the Clinton boys get home on the evening Huron and Bruce.

The game will be played at Westminster rink if ice is available.

RUSH TWO JUNIOR PLAY-OFFS TODAY

TORONTO, March 10.—A meeting of the executive of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association to decide a protest against Iroquois Falls and North Bay Junior players was held today. The meeting found that the goalkeepers of the two teams, McCann of Iroquois Falls, and Bingham of North Bay were both ineligible. McCann is over age, and Bingham did not qualify under the residence rule.

The game in North Bay last night between North Bay and Haileybury, was played subject to the approval of the N. O. H. A. executive by both clubs agreeing that whichever team was eliminated would waive all further claims to compete for the championship. The game was won by North Bay in overtime, and was approved by the N. O. H. A. executive this morning. This action left both North Bay and Iroquois Falls clubs in the running.

In order to declare a winner in time for the O. H. A. Memorial Cup play-off with Aura Lee, junior O. H. A. champions, at the arena tomorrow afternoon, the North Bay Club has been ordered to play Iroquois Falls a sudden-death game at the arena tomorrow morning.

TEAMS AT 1—1 FOR TWO HOURS

FREDERICTON, N.B., March 10.—A record-breaking performance for continued play by amateurs was staged at the Arctic Rink here this morning when the Hartt Boot and Shoe and John Palmer teams battled in vain during 65 minutes' overtime play to break a 1—1 tie which existed at the conclusion of the regular three 15-minute periods in a game to decide the championship of series A of the Fredericton Commercial Hockey League. The game commenced at 10 a.m., and when given up as a hopeless attempt for either team to break the tie, the actual playing time consumed was 110 minutes and in the vicinity of 1 p.m.

DOBBINGTON KIDS WIN FROM TARA

CARGILL, March 10.—In an exhibition game of hockey played at Tara last night Dobbington Juniors defeated Tara by a score of 4 to 1. Both teams played good hockey with few penalties, but the Dobbington kids proved themselves superior to Tara from the start. Tara Seniors will play the return game with Chesley probably Tuesday night.

Tara may arrange a game with Paisely before the end of the season. These teams played an exhibition game four years ago, resulting in a tie, but owing to the lateness of the season no other game was played.

ARRANGE CUP FINALS

Meds '23 and Arts '24 Meet In Home and Home Games.

The home and home finals with points to count for the basketball title of Western University have been arranged. Arts '24 meet Meds '23 at the Oxford street gym in the first game on March 24. The return game will be played on March 24 at the new medical school gym.

This will bring to a close the best year Western University has ever experienced in basketball. Eight more teams were in action this year than ever before in the "U" history, and much has been developed as a result.

Though Western did not come through in the intercollegiate, there is a great foundation for a team next year that should make things hum.

The Meds now hold the Gibbons Cup, emblematic of the school championship.

Jack Lightfoot will handle the final games.

MNFRS.' FINAL PLAY-OFF IS BILLED FOR MONDAY

Since the Manufacturers' play-off last night was postponed more or less by mutual consent between the Grand Trunks and McClarys owing to the casualty list of the latter team, the race in the league has developed more into a contest between Whit Lancaster's ice and the weather than the teams concerned.

It will be played Monday night, according to latest reports, if Whit's sheet doesn't resemble a potato patch too much by that time. The ice at the Westminster has held up remarkably well, but it's only natural ice, after all, and can't be expected to stand many more Russian baths.

Should Have Played.

In order to make sure of a winner last night's game should have been played, but McClarys claimed they couldn't put a team on the ice, and Grand Trunks until late yesterday afternoon had decided to make the trip to Montreal to play the Apprentices in the shops there, so the postponement was mutually welcome.

Whether a winner is declared or not, the Manufacturers' League will have served its purpose well this season. A big batch of players was developed that should make gathering a real intermediate team next year an easy matter. Some good junior material was trotted out, too, and the players of both Alert and Manhattan Juniors added to their experience by playing in the Manufacturers', as well as with the two O. H. A. clubs.

Just how fast the brand dished-up over there this winter was is shown by the fact that the O. H. A. players distributed over the various teams failed to startle the fans any. It may be accounted for to some extent by the slightly smaller ice surface, but not altogether.

In the forthcoming play-offs, McClarys have two chances. On the season's play they should beat Grand Trunk in the first game, thus winning both series and avoiding a final play-off. However, the Trunks are a pesky crew, liable to turn something up in the way of the unexpected.

SAINTS' PILOT DUE NORTH BY APRIL 1

Billy Kelly Feels Spring's Urge in Far-Off St. Louis.

HAS 25 SIGNED UP

Very Few of Erstwhile Huron Braves Are on Roster—Schwab Signs.

SARNIA, March 10.—The first breath of spring is being wafted over Sarnia, and Bill Kelly in far-away St. Louis evidently by some new variation of the radio has felt it.

Anyway, Bill has announced his intention to come to Sarnia April 1, and line things up for the spring training season, which will start April 10.

Kelly will have a hard job ahead of him this summer, for he has very few of last year's veterans back to mould his team with. But notwithstanding this the recruits that have been signed have all passed the scrutinizing eye of President Watkins of the Saints, and he has labelled them all worthy of a tryout. Many have been considered, but few won a chance to report to Kelly for a chance to win a berth with the local Mint Leaguers.

Has 25 Men.

Kelly will have about 25 men to pick his squad from, and according to letters received by President Watkins from the once-famous member of the O'Toole-Kelly combination, he states that he is satisfied with the prospects for the 1922 season.

Bobbie Schwab, star guard of the "Y" five, and last summer a member of the Saints' pitching corps, was closeted with President Watkins Wednesday, and as a result both parties were all smiles. Bobbie signed his contract, and he will be on deck when Kelly sounds the call.

Last year Schwab started with Kitchener, and then was sent to Port Huron, where he pitched in 25 games, having a record of 6 won and 16 lost. Many of the games that Schwab worked in, however, were of the bad-break kind, and at one time during the season he lost a double-header, while he was allowing only seven hits to his opponents.

LITTLE DRIBBLES

BY C. S. G.

Affiliation of the Sarnia Bearcats with the O. J. F. A. is almost certain to develop a Lambton County Junior Association, even though no action has been taken yet.

Wanderers, champions of Lambton County last year, are all organized and ready for this year's campaign, but have not announced what kind of organization they intend to play in.

• • •

In this connection it may be recalled Wanderers wanted to meet St. Thomas Rovers, champions of the London and District Junior League last year. Expense was an item considered but back of it all, Rovers weren't sure that they wouldn't be allowed if they attempted to play the game. As it turns out now, the London and District juniors were playing outlaw football even if they didn't know it, and Rovers needn't have been so particular.

If affiliation with the O. J. F. A. is decided upon by the L. and D. juniors, there are likely to be some clubs at present playing senior football or with intentions, wishing they could get junior classification before the season is out.

Soccer is going good at the border. Tiny Fleming, manager of the new Tunnel Club, collected $92 in one day for a club fund.

GAINS SECOND PLACE.

HEPWORTH, March 10.—Hepworth defeated Allenford by a score og 8 to 7 in the final game for second place in the North Bruce League. Allenford, however, wins the round by 4 goals, having defeated the locals there by 9 to 4. Matheson of Hepworth refereed.

L. R. C. TRUNDLERS ARE ORGANIZED

Emerson Nichols Is President For 1922—Fees Have Also Been Lowered.

The annual meeting of the London Bowling and Rowing Club was held at the Tecumseh House last night, with 50 members in attendance.

The club enjoyed one of their most successful seasons in trundling last year, annexing no less than ten trophies at the various competitions in the city and surrounding tournaments. The list includes:

Barnard Torphy (Elmwood Doubles), McDougall and Turnbull; Hyman Trophy (Elmwood Rinks), Wm. Hynd, skip; Tecumseh Trophy, W.O.B.A., Wm. Hynd, skip; Elliott Trophy (Aylmer), H. Hindmarsh, skip; Robinson Trophy (Ontario Hospital), H. Hindmarsh, skip; Trebilcock Trophy (London), H. Hindmarsh, skip; Dunlop Trophy (Labor Day), Capt. McDonald, skip; Free Press Trophy (St. Marks), Parnell Morris, skip; South Huron Trophy (Exeter Doubles), Rev. Fr. Forster, skip; Free Press Shield (City Championships), W. Hynd and J. S. McDougall, skips.

The club will stage a big two-day elimination tournament, but the date will not be set until the annual meeting of the W. O. B. A. executive is held.

This practically means the passing of the annual Western Ontario tournament into discard.

The membership fee to the club has been lowered to $10.

Death having removed late members C. B. Edwards, Hubert Ashplant, Tom Jones and W. J. Snelgrove, caused the drafting of resolutions of condolence.

The officers elected were:

Honorary president, J. M. Hunt; president, Emerson Nichols; vice-president, H. V. Nichols; second vice-president, A. D. Heffernan; treasurer, W. J. Curran; secretary, J. M. Farrow; chaplain, Rev. Fr. Forster; auditors, John Lochead and J. Griffith; representatives to W. O. B. A., J. S. McDougall; O. B. A., W. J. Ashplant; D. B. A., Edmund Weld; grounds committee, W. J. Ashplant, F. St. Lawrence, T. P. Elliott, E. Weld; bowling committee, H. V. Nichols, G. Chantler, J. Banks, J. Vivian, A. Heffernan; membership committee, A. M. Smith, G. Chantler, W. J. Brandie, W. Hynd, Capt. McDonald; rowing committee, T. Loveless, T. Shaw, H. Hindmarsh, Dr. Jeff Wood and J. S. McDougall.

On Wilson's Trail

TOMMY LOUGHRAN.

FISTIC fans want to keep an eye on Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia.

Loughran is a middleweight on the way up, and it looks now as if he were headed for Champion Johnny Wilson's scalp.

For two years this Philadelphia boy has been something of a sensation in his own city. Now his reputation is commencing to reach out over the country.

His latest triumph came in his recent bout with Bryan Downey of Columbus. The fight went the limit of eight rounds. The Philadelphia sport writers were unanimous in declaring that Loughran had all the best of it for six of the eight rounds.

Loughran has come through two other tough bouts with flying colors. The first of these was with Jimmy Darcy of California. Although Darcy dropped Loughran for the count of eight in the third round, the Philadelphia boy "came back" strong and, in the words of a noted fistic authority, "fought Darcy off his feet."

Loughran also had all the best of his match with Fay Kaiser, who, it will be remembered, after losing the A. E. F. championship to Bob Martin later scored a referee's decision over Martin in this country.

Tommy Loughran is 19 years old, is fighting now at 165 pounds, and may even beat out Lew Tendler in bringing a boxing championship to Philadelphia.

FORTS DEFEAT BRANDON AGAIN

WINNIPEG, March 10.—The Fort William hockey sextet qualified to meet the Regina Victorians in the Western Allan Cup finals next week by defeating Brandon, champions of the Manitoba League, by an aggregate score for the two-game series of 9 to 7. Tonight's game here resulted in a win for Brandon, 2 to 1, but the Fort Williams had a three-goal advantage by virtue of their 8 to 5 victory at Fort William Wednesday night.

LONDON MAY FORM GROUP IN N. WELLINGTON LEAGUE

BY C. S. G.

POSSIBILITIES of London forming a group in the North Wellington Amateur Baseball Association this season are looming up as the hockey season begins to fade, and amateur ball butts into the stove league conversation.

There is a strong movement on foot to have two leagues going at Queen's Park this season. One would be the Manufacturers' League, a purely industrial affair, and the other, the old Manufacturers' League under a new name or blossoming out as a City League.

Those in favor of a purely manufacturers' league argue that baseball won't make much progress in the factories, as the league has been constituted in the past with outside teams, for the brand of ball played is much too fast. The idea would be to have a lot of teams thus producing a little slower baseball, but getting every factory interested.

Couldn't Support Them.

The argument is advanced by some that two leagues couldn't be supported out at Queen's Park. It might mean that each league would have less money, but both ought to be able to operate. What would happen would be that the new manufacturers' league would depend largely on each team's factory following, while the city leaguers would attract the big portion of the fans which followed that when they played under the name of Manufacturers'

The introduction of the city league idea has brought rumors of entry into the North Wellington or even the O. B. A. itself, with the local league forming a group itself. This would have the effect of giving the teams something to strive after, instead of playing through a purely local series withnothing at the end of the season.

Makes Big Strides.

The North Wellington has made big strides the past few years, and will be covering the whole of Western Ontario before long. Last year some of the games drew crowds that would have made many of the club owners in the Mint League forsake all pursuits for baseball alone.

Entry into the ranks of organized amateur baseball is going to mean that many players in the city will have to put up an awfully good argument to get amateur standing. Quite a number wouldn't get permission to play as simon pures at all, having either played semi-pro or out-and-out professional too long.

This would reduce the talent somewhat, but while it would be unfortunate these cases can hardly weigh in the balance with the incalculable advantage organized baseball would bring to London amateurs all down the line.

The heavy ice considerably slowed up the play. Woodstock ran in four goals in the first stanza, the locals only gaining one. In the second period each team got one counter. Tillsonburg came back strong in the last 20 minutes and poked in three while the visitors failed to get any.

CLUBS TO HANDLE LEAGUE AFFAIRS

Special Meeting Last Night Decided This Issue For 1922 Campaign.

FAVOR INTER-CITY

Speakers All Desirous of Seeing Idea at Work Again, But Expense Is Big Problem.

The question of whether there would be an inter-city soccer league this year was not settled at last night's special meeting of the London City League in the Y, but opinions expressed by prominent and enthusiastic soccerites would point to representative games being played.

The meeting decided one big issue, and that was that league affairs would be run by the clubs interested, thus conforming to the D. F. A. constitution.

There was a disappointing turnout of London clubs, but those there all favored inter-city arrangements.

Those at the meeting were: Ernest Duckworth and Sammy Birchell of M. C. R., St. Thomas; E. G. Crook and Captain Latham of St. Johns Rovers; Corp. Carr, R. C. R.; Henry Watkins, W. O. R., and William Bissett, Public Utilities.

President Matt Morgan presided, and President Charlie Hollins and John Cunliffe of the L. and D., with Jack Lewis, past president of the L. and D., were among those who spoke at the meeting.

E. G. Crook predicted that the newly-sanctioned St. Thomas City League would later become a southern league, and he was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the inter-city idea.

Expense was a matter commented upon by several, but it brought the response from President Morgan that boosting and harmony would look after the expense side all right eventually, even though it meant digging down once in a while into pockets.

The St. Thomas delegates were invited to return for the annual meeting of the local City League the first week in April, when the matter will be thoroughly threshed out before a full attendance of club delegates.

GUELPH GOES TO STRATFORD FIRST

STRATFORD, March 10.—The Guelph junior basketball team will play the first of the second round semi-final games at the Y. M. C. A. here on Saturday night. Commencing at 8 o'clock there will be a preliminary game, and the big fixture will start at 9 o'clock. Points count on the round.

MARKS NEW ERA

Western Athletes Have Real Home For First Time Since University Was Started.

Tonight will see the opening of the gymnasium at the new medical school on Waterloo street. Assumption College of Sandwich quintet will meet the Western "U" intermediates in the main event of the opening bill which includes three cage games.

The new gym is one of the most up-to-date in Canada, and especial attention has been paid to the lighting, usually the bane of indoor sport. The floor is in excellent shape for the games.

No Ceremony.

There'll be no ceremonial attached to the opening of the gym, but it marks a big point forward in the athletics of Western University, which have been for so long finding haphazard shelter, and despite it all, steadily progressing.

Assumption College boasts a basketball five that is feared on the Detroit courts where the game has attained a high degree of efficiency, and those who see tonight's game are sure to see something different in the way style than they have witnessed during the past season.

Co-eds of Western meet C. A. C. girls in the curtain-raiser, and Varsity Seconds will clash with C. A. C. juniors in the other game. These will be handled by J. B. M. Ferguson. A. T. Taylor wil hande the big game of the night.

Two Noted Fight Managers

LEO FLYNN is one of the best-known figures in fight circles. During Tex Rickard's regime at Madison Square Garden Flynn acted as matchmaker.

Flynn has 23 fighters in his stable, including such good boys as Bill Brennan, Kid Norfolk, the Shade brothers (Dave, Billy and George), Bobby Michaels and Roy Moore.

JIMMY JOHNSTON, like Leo Flynn, has a big stable of boxers and manages to keep them busy. He looks after the affairs of Kid Lewis, who at one time held the welterweight title. Lewis is now matched to meet Carpentier in London.

The one object in Johnston's life is to develop a heavyweight to dethrone Jack Dempsey. Any big fellow who looks as if he has a chance always gets favorable consideration.

Spring Training Gossip
By Billy Evans

On the trail of the lonesome southpaw.

A lot of major league managers are singing that ditty in the southland.

No major league club considers its pitching staff quite complete unless it boasts a crack southpaw.

It is a rather unusual fact that a number of big league ball teams lacked such an individual last year.

As a matter of fact the two leading clubs in the American last year, New York and Cleveland, were minus a consistent left-hander.

The presence of a crack southpaw on a ball club means much. It enables the manager to offer a diversified assortment of pitching. A crack left-hander is a threat that can be used to advantage in many directions.

Often in every circuit there are a couple of clubs very weak against southpaws. A crack left-hander has no trouble taming such a club into submission in a couple of games in every series.

Then again a southpay is often invaluable in a pinch, when a team is taking liberties with some right-hander. Such a change often abruptly stops a rally that is being staged at the expense of a right-hander.

In the National League the two leaders last year, New York and Pittsburg, are much more fortunately situated. The Giants have Nehf, and the Pirates Cooper. They are two of the best southpaws in the game.

It looks as if Tris Speaker of Cleveland would be forced to place his dependence in Walter Mails as far as southpaw pitching is concerned. Walter Mails has the stuff. No southpaw in the game has more on the ball. However, last year Mails was unable to win with consistency.

Several things tended to work against Mails last season. In 1920 he finished the season by winning seven straight for Cleveland. In the world's series with Brooklyn his work was flawless. No pitcher ever went better in the big event.

Undoubtedly Mails at the start of last season felt that he had a very large reputation to live up to. In the spring a sore arm retarded him. In his early games he lacked control, and was unable to win. Unquestionably that affected his confidence. There is no doubt in my mond that all things tended to work against his success. Mails certainly should be a far better pitcher in 1921.

With every manager a southpaw is the thing. Managers of clubs fortunate enough to have a good one are hoping to land another from the recruits. Those minus a southpaw have hopes of developing one.

STRESSES NEED OF HONESTY IN USED CAR SALES

Authority on Automobiles Declares Golden Rule Good Business Maxim.

DEVISE NEW SYSTEM

London Dealers Strive to Earn Goodwill of Customers.

BY J. L. MIDDLETON.

THE world is fully aware of the fact that it pays to be honest.

The golden rule is no longer regarded as a simple Sunday school lesson—a good thing in theory, but lacking practicality—it is accepted as the foundation of the world's business system, no less in the sale of used cars—it is the one safe and sane measure that the thinking men of all nations are setting up for the standard—it has not cheated anyone yet.

Have Ideals.

Yes, London automobile dealers have their ideals—higher standards are the aim of every automobile distributor in the city. A healthy spirit has gained ascendancy. Right has its hand on the throttle, and is driving hard.

Like any other big dealer, Frank McLachlin has long recognized the fact that merchandise must be sold "clean" and that the used car is no exception to the rule. Other prominent London dealers also realize that "clean selling" is essential. Firms like Beemer & Co., Ltd., Ontario Garage and Motor Sales Co., Ltd., W. R. Simpson, McLaughlin Motor Co., A. H. Burrows, W. C. Morrison, W. J. Chisholm, Universal Motor Sales, Gray-Dort Motors and Dominion Used Car Sales have all indorsed this plan.

Prospects Suspicious.

While a house's policy may call for clean sales, and the salesmen be impressed with that fact, there is always the danger that an over-zealous salesman may allow his ambition to close a sale to overrule his good judgment and make some misrepresentation. There is also the fact that the prospect is generally inclined to be very suspicious about a used car and to feel that he is not fully qualified to determine just what its mechanical condition is Frank McLachlin's unique selling plan eliminates suspicion. The envelope "This Envelope Tells the Truth" attached to the car and containing a letter from the former owner telling all about the car, together with reports of any and all work done upon the car by the dealer, inspires confidence in the prospect. It is in effect a challenge to him, just as much as if the dealer said: "Here is an evidence of my good faith; here is where and how you can check up that evidence of my good faith. Go out and satisfy yourself that everything in this car is just as it is represented here. Get in touch with the former owner. He has no interest in my selling it. If he does not tell you what I have told you you will know that I have been lying to put it over on you; if he does, you will know that I am worthy of your business."

While talking of the used or rebuilt car it may be well to sound a note of warning as to the desirability of improving the external appearance of the vehicle.

It is interesting to note the variation in cars of the rebuilt variety. The meaning of the word is applied very flexibly. Some dealers have apparently overlooked the fact that there are a few prospective buyers who judge the real condition of a car only after they have had a look under the hood, and a glance at the visible details of the chassis.

Marred hubcaps will be noticed even by the less critical but the careful buyer will look further than the hubcaps. He will utilize the wheels to determine the condition of the wheel bearings and mountings. Getting down to the more intimate details of the chassis, the critical prospect has his eye on the alert for such items as will show the character of those who have operated or repaired the car.

Will Neutralize Effects.

Valve port plugs that have been badly treated by a cold chisel and hammer will neutralize the effects of the best engine enamel. An interrupter adjusting screw that once boasted of a hexagon head which has been rounded off by the use of the wrong tool will not increase the prospect's respect for the condition of the car. The sight of any visible nut that has been maltreated is revolting to this class of buyer and imparts that sales resistance that bad paint and a shoddy top imparts to the casual buyer. The replacement of battered port plugs, of worn off nuts and screws, and of unsightly rotten radiator hose are as efficacious and give as good an impression as a new pair of rubber heels. The things outlined are comparatively inexpensive to replace.

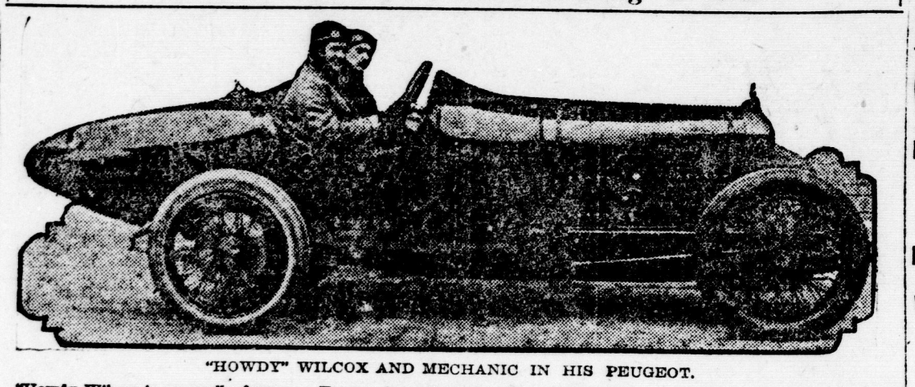
A car listed as rebuilt should present such an appearance that the salesman need not be ashamed to raise the hood. The marks of inferior character visible under the hood should be in keeping with the efforts made to secure the impression of external refinement. A few gallons of paint and some top dressing will cover a multitude of sins, but a little attention to the details of the mechanism will prevent the impression of hypocrisy.

More than 12,500,000 automobiles are in use throughout the world.

Monrovia, capital of Liberia, has three automobiles.

It is estimated the cost to operate an automobile is one-third less than that of a year ago.

"Howdy" Wilcox Trains During Winter



"HOWDY" WILCOX AND MECHANIC IN HIS PEUGEOT.

"Howdy Wilcox is generally favored to win the 500-mile race to be held over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30.

Wilcox will drive a Peugeot. It is a descendant of the car with which he annexed the international classic in 1919.

This was very gratifying to the home folks, as Wilcox is an Indianapolis product.

If Wilcox fails to win it will not be due to lack of effort. He is training himself and his car for the race in a most thorough manner.

Every day through the winter Wilcox has given his Peugeot a stiff workout. Dressed in winter raiment that would make an Eskimo warm with envy, he defies the elements.

Certainly no driver knows the track better than Wilcox. He drives his car at a record-breaking speed over an ice-covered track that would put fear in the heart of the most courageous civilian driver.

Wilcox explains his winter's work thusly:

"These Peugeots have been blowing up on me in the last two races. This year I'm going to have this baby so fast and solid that she will stand up the entire race without a stop for repairs. If it fails me I'll never enter it again."

Wilcox has been doing a lot of work on his car at the Allison Experimental Laboratory. After every change he gives the car a number of stiff workouts to see what are the results.

Wilcox looks fit. Says he never felt better in his life. "I am trying to get the car in as good shape as I am," says Howdy, "and if I do the old first prize is mine."

SPRING MEANS NEW CREATIONS

Motor World In Speculative Mood Over Prospects of New Developments.

UTILITY ANGLE GROWS

Public Demands Efficiency and This Indicates Probable Trend In Future Design.

Along about this season of the year there springs up the old but ever-interesting query, "What changes, if any, will the future bring forth in design and construction?"

Revolutionary air-cooled motors, turbines, alloy steels, new fuels, body lines and innumerable items of varying importance all join hands at this time to crack the whip of engineering opinion over the heads of the motor-owning public.

And, naturally enough, the public enjoys the procedure sufficiently to become a partner to the discussion whenever and wherever the opportunity exists. Apparently, in the make-up of every human, there is just enough curiosity to impel such action. Every motor car owner, at some time or other, has wondered what the creations of five or ten years hence will look like. Glancing back over the startling changes that have been made in the last ten years, he has wondered whether or not it would be possible for the coming decade to show similar progress.

Utility Product.

The motor car each year is becoming a greater instrument of utility—a better and more generally recognized servant to public needs—and by reason of this fact, its ability to do its work with a minimum of expense is continually becoming more and more important. There was a time when every owner expected a certain amount of difficulty in operating his car. He discounted this difficulty when he made his purchase, and he displayed no surprise when it materialized. That time, however, has gone.

Today the average motor car owner objects strenuously if called upon to humor or fuss with his car, and is the subject of much disappointment if for any reason his car is not at his call whenever he needs it. This change in the public's point of view and its unwillingness to tolerate anything but thoroughly justifiable repairs and adjustments will probably be the greatest single influence upon motor car design of the coming years.

Undoubtedly the most hasardous undertaking in prophesying the trend of motor car design is that which involves the motor proper. If the subject had been up for discussion last summer, when the shortage of gasoline was so acute, the necessity for stringent economy would probably have strongly influenced the discussion. Now that crisis has passed again (and the word "again" is used advisedly), the cry for revolutionary fuel economy has subsided. Whether or not the present type of internal combustion engine will eventually be rendered obsolete by a scarcity of fuel is a question that no one can answer with any material assurance at this time.

It May Dvelop.

Eventually this demand for greater fuel economy may develop, as it has in England and other continental countries, cars of less weight and horsepower. Already there is a movement in this direction, but until our public highways have been materially improved, it is doubtful if it will be a dominant factor.

There is one factor in motor car design which, to the best of present day opinion, is fairly well established—that is the factor of general appearance. In the early days of the industry body designing was a secondary consideration. Engineering was the big job. The car first of all had to be made a mechanical success; consequently the matter of body designing, like the machining of the crank shaft, was governed by cold, unfeeling mechanical considerations and very little art.

Rapid Improvement.

With the coming of the streamline design, motor car exteriors have improved rapidly. Unbroken lines and pleasing proportions are today factors of vital importance. The indulgence of art, as the observer can well see for himself, is one of the foremost elements in motor car design, and unless the sense of the artistic is wholly inadequate, it has already performed its duty so well that there is little more for it to do. In fact, the prevailing tendency among manufacturers to institute only minor changes from year to year, seems to indicate that the physical appearance of the motor car is quite well established.

Number of automobiles in France has increased by 100 per cent since the beginning of the war.

Agricultural states contain the largest number of automobiles in proportion to population.

URGES DRIVERS TO BE EASY ON ENGINE

Careful Owner Tells How to Get Best Service From Motor.

LOOK AFTER WHEELS

Claims Best Results Obtained by Use of Accelerator.

FIRST of all, make the work of the engine as easy as possible. It is not fair, for instance, to travel with the handbrake on, either left on carelessly or with its shoes rubbing because of bad adjustment. Nor should the footbrake shoes rub in their drums, or the front hubs be left without sufficient grease. When you approach a hill, speed up before you reach it, so that the momentum of the car will lessen the work of the engine, instead of "opening up" when some distance up the hill. At all times use the accelerator gently, so that no jerks are given either to engine or transmission. One of the greatest temptations is to "hang on" to high gear too long on a hill. It is true that the modern car will climb every ordinary hill, and many extraordinary ones, on top gear, but it is only thoughtless bravado to continue on top when a lower gear would lighten the task of the engine and also give more speed. When the engine begins to run slower on a hill, do not forget to retard the spark, but advance it again when you have changed gear.

The good driver uses clutch and brakes as little as possible, working almost entirely on accelerator pedal. The very fact that he does so tends to make his control easy and gradual and to cut out any jerkiness. Do not keep your foot on clutch or brake pedals. The weight of the foot on the clutch pedal may cause a slip which is not noticeable, but will nevertheless, cause serious wear of the friction surfaces. Driving on the throttle as far as possible insures that a motorist keeps his car well under control, with very little use of the brakes, which should be used as sparingly as possible, being reserved, broadly speaking, for hills and when coming to a standstill.

Care of the front wheels is worth attention, and wheels include tires. If the front tires wear rapidly it betokens the need of adjustment to make them parallel. Front wheels may be relieved of strain by driving on the crown of the road, but, of course, that does not mean crowding other people off. If you have any thought for your steering gear never try to turn the handwheel when the car is stationary. If you must then move a front wheel, do it directly with the hand on the road wheel.

The foregoing advice will strike many old hands as superfluous, but it is of moment to new motorists who value their property, and may also refresh the memories of the older ones.

PROTECTING BOOTS.

Leather boots for joints of drag links, shackles, tie rod arms and the like are good protection against mud and water. They are simple enough to be made by the motorist himself, although they can be bought at the accessory store. Before fitting them to the joint, a liberal quantity of grease should be smeared on.

ITALY'S ROAD SIGNS.

The Italian Touring Club has devised a system of simple signs to guide the motorist touring the Italian highways. The signs are drawn so as to show dangerous points, directions of roads and churches and school houses along the way.

The tire mileage is unusually high

BRAKE RELINING IS EXPLAINED TO OWNERS OF CARS

Expert Declares Bands Must Make Good Contact With Drum.

BEST MATERIAL NEEDED

Wear and Compression Necessitates Adjustment From Time To Time.

A good many owners seem to feel doubtful about their ability to care for the braking systems of their vehicles, especially as regards relining them after the bands have given evidence of needed replacement. There is no reason why any car owner cannot reline his brakes if he attacks the job in the proper manner.

It is scarcely necessary to explain to the average car owner why brake linings wear out. When it is considered that on the composition used to line the brakes practically the whole pressure of a vehicle weighing perhaps a ton and a half is suddenly impounded while that great mass is traveling at considerable speed, the owner will not wonder at the compound's tendency to wear out.

Induces Little Wear.

In actual service every time the brakes are applied the great pressure exerted induces a little wear on the surface of the lining, which is also compressed a certain amount; it is because o fthis wear and compression that the brakes must be adjusted from time to time. The adjustments merely compensate for the change in thickness caused by wear and compression. A time comes when the band is so thin that no adjustment remains to compensate for the condition, and then the brakes must be relined. Sometimes the metal band stretches a little, and this adds to the difficulty of making adjustments.

So long as the metal band wears evenly and no metal spots show, the brake lining may be considered serviceable. Sometimes, however, the wear may be even, but the rivets that hold the bands show signs of wear. The lining may be otherwise perfectly good, but after the rivets begin to wear down the operation of relining should not be long delayed.

In relining the brakes the operator should know that the band must fit perfectly and must make a good contact with the drum. If only one side of the lining bears on the drum it is obvious that the braking efficiency is considerably reduced, in addition to which excessive wear on parts of the lining will be induced.

Now we come to the catual job of relining. Before you begin, have the new lining cut to the actual size needed. Most accessory shops keep brake lining measured off in feet. By giving the make and model of the car the owner can have the lining cut off in proper lengths. The most expensive brake lining is none too good. The action of this unit is so important to the safety of the driver and his passengers that every precaution should be taken in replacement, particularly as to buying the most reliable lining that can be obtained.

Must be Disconnected.

To remove the old lining the wheels must be taken off and the brake bands be disconnected from their bands. In the case of a propeller shaft brake, the floor boards will have to be removed. The brake rods will have to be removed, usually by taking out a cotter pin and clevis. After the bands have been taken off, the parts at the end of the axle should be cleaned with kerosene. Worn spots should be watched for. The brake bands and all small parts removed should be cleaned and put in a box so that they will not get out of the way.

The old lining is next removed by first cutting off the rivets that hold it in place. A sharp chisel must be employed to avoid injuring the band or the rivet holes. After the lining is removed, the brake bands should be carefully cleaned, any burrs filed off, and it should be ascertained that the rivet holes are not out of place. In case this latter condition exists, a drift pin may be inserted to make them round again.

In fitting the new lining, the length of it should be laid out on the band surface in such a way that it fits snugly, leaving slightly over an inch at the end. But the lining with a hacksaw. To avoid measuring over again, use this piece as a pattern by which to cut off the others. Next mark the lining so that the holes may be drilled at proper places to accommodate the rivets. With the lining snugly in place on the band, force an awl through each rivet hole and into the lining.

This is very important, because if the holes are not accurately drilled the band will not fit closely, as it must if it is to do its work properly.

After the holes are drilled in the lining, they must be countersunk a little so that the rivet heads will be beneath the lining surface. If the car owner cannot do the countersinking, any repair shop will do it at a small cost.

Backstop is Needed.

The lining, countersunk, is now ready for riveting to the band. Some backstop is necessary, or the rivet support may be placed in a vise. A rivet is inserted in one of the holes and the head of the rivet is placed against the vise. The head of the rivet is now pounded with a riveter and hammer. The first few blows may be struck with the hammer, and the final ones with the riveter interposed.

Before the rivet is pounded down, be sure that the lining rests snugly against the band. If it is found that through some error the lining does not lie smooth and close to the bands, it is better to cut off one or two rivets and begin again rather than risk having a lining that does not operate properly.

In remounting the lined bands, it may be necessary to use a hammer or mallet to get a good fit of the band around the drum. The band must be concentric with the drum, but in handling and riveting the band may be spread out of shape a little, so that a delicate application of force may be needed to get it to fit properly again.

WHY GEARS SLIP OUT.

The slipping of transmisison gears out of mesh is something that nearly every owner has to experience sooner or later. There are several causes. The locking mechanism which holds the sliding gear in mesh with its mate on the countershaft may be worn or broken or out of adjustment. Usually the locking mechanism consists of notching the shifter rod at just the right place, and forcing a ball into it by means of a spring. Thus in a three-speed gear box both shifter rods would have three notches. One rod would have them for high, neutral and second, and the other for low, reverse and neutral. Sometimes the springs pressing the balls become weak or break, or the plug nut retaining the spring becomes lost, or the edges of the notch becomes rounded off. Any of these defects interferes with perfect alignment of the gears and thus produces the tendency to throw them out of mesh. In fact, any trouble of this sort may usually be traced to improper meshing. Shifting forks out of adjustment, play in the shifting mechanism, worn gear teeth or worn or sprung shafts may cause this trouble. Worn teeth is the most frequent cause of slipping out of high.

BETTER CARS AT LOWER PRICES MARK 1922 AUTO OFFERINGS

Cars Are Much Improved Despite Lower Prices

Buyer Dominance Reflected by Revisions Seen in 1922 Models, Which Reveal a Solicitude For Owner's Purse and Comfort—Car Shortage Now Predicted.

PRICE cuts to date have not had any effect on the quality of automobiles. In general, the price cuts have come before the new product has been ready for the market. In many instances these new cars are better cars for the same money.

It is only necessary to go back a few years to reach a point in the history of automobile merchandising and manufacture which is exactly parallel to what prevails today. This was during the period of the World War. This was a period of soaring material prices.

Canadian manufacturers of automobiles were loath to raise their prices. It is no longer a secret that many substituted cheaper materials in order to make their products commercially profitable. Today a price war would probably mean that the same sort of situation would prevail. Even if it did not, the general public would suspect that it did, and the moral effect would be just as bad.

It is hardly to be expected that anything that approaches a price war will come to pass. The automobile industry generally comprehends the danger and objections to such a situation. Happily, the interests in the automotive field which are sufficiently strong to bring about such a condition have taken just the opposite stand. Since a price was is about the only thing which could bring about a lowering of the quality of Canadian-made cars, there is no doubt but the automobiles of the near future are going to be better than ever.

Big Competition Looms.

While there is little chance that we will enter a stage of actual throat-cutting tactics in the price field, there can be no denial of the fact that we are now entering an era of what will probably be the most intense competition that the automotive industry has ever faced. There is very indication that buying will be heavy during the spring months, but with the production capacity now possessed by the automotive industry, there will only be a shortage of cars whose makers are too pessimistic about their production schedules at the present time.

There will be no such buying rush as was experienced just before the great slump. This is a condition which may possibly never prevail again, but the opinion is gradually beginning to prevail that the steady march of business from 1908 to 1914 will again be resumed and carried on for a period of years.

An automobile manufacturer is putting at the bottom of every one of his letters the following line: "Forecast—A Shortage of Good Motor Cars Before April 15, 1922." This is being done at the direction of the president of the company, who is noted for his foresight and his remarkable success in gauging future automotive conditions.

It is not necessary to look far to see upon what basis this prediction is founded. It is a sad fact that some concerns are dissatisfied today because they are only decently prosperous. When we all realize that business is returning to a sane basis without the quick profits and equally quick hazards of a game of chance, we will have accomplished the first step of a return toward normal confidence and normal buying.

It is not to be wondered that public and business confidences have been shaken. It is only necessary to regard the slowly setting muddle of the foreign situation, the turbulent history of the past year in the money market, and the quick puncture of the artificial financial bubble, which we have named the deflation period.

Have Common Bearing.

All of these things have a definite bearing on the attitude of the manufacturer and on the quality and quantity of his product. The design of the automobile, as well as the production schedule, is based upon these considerations. A product which does not jibe with the tendency of the times is not going to be successful, and anyone who is intimately connected with the business has at his tongue's end the names of a half-dozen or more concerns whose products fit this description exactly, and who are today in the position which could be readily foreseen were one to balance the unspoken demand of the times against the product, which has been designed, or rather, has not been designed, to meet it.

Times have changed materially in this industry, and in the public's attitude toward it during the past ten years. Ten years ago it would have been possible, with a radically new product properly backed by a good company, to have made a quick, though possibly not permanent success. A concern which had an entirely new type of motor, for instance, and was sufficiently blatant in merchandising it, would have quickly claimed a large following among the many whose sole ambition in the automobile business was to make a quick turnover, rather than to establish a steady business.

Today conditions are radically different. The speculative stage has passed. We do not find radical changes among manufacturers, and where something radically new is considered, it is made the subject of experiment for a year and sometimes two or three years before it is ever brought to light. Changes which are made from year to year and which are considered of major interest at the present time would, ten years ago, have been considered as minor. This hesitation about risking the reputation of a product upon some new and untried device is one of the greatest safeguards the industry has. If we scan the new cars which have been announced during the past few weeks we can readily perceive the efforts which have been made to produce better automobiles at no greater cost of manufacture and consequently at no greater expense give greater convenience to the public.

Greater convenience, greater comfort, better appearance and better performance secured from units which are in no way radically different from those to which we have been used, are what the engineers are striving at.

Realizing that perhaps 90 percent of the automobiles are driven by their owners and consequently judged largely from the driver's seat, manufacturers have concentrated upon making this at least as comfortable as any other part of the car. Realizign also that probably 25 per cent of the automobiles in the country are driven either altogether or a part of the time by women, another point which is being concentrated upon and which has been shown by past announcements, and which will be shown by announcements in the future, is ease of control and better steering wheel, lighter pedals for clutch and brake, more accessible position of the gear shifter lever, easier operated and more certain emergency grake lever, a better looking dash board, more foot space, more knee room, more comfortable seats, with backs which fit the human form in a restful manner, are all among the changes to be noted in the cars.

All of these results are secured by attention to details, and it is upon these details that cars are being sold. One manufacturer who is just announcing a car which is new from stem to stern tells that he has succeeded in thoroughly rust-proofing his product. We all know the tendency among automobiles to show spots of rust at the windshield screws, at the body fastenings, at practically all of the points where the hardware is fitted. This concern has made every one of these parts of brass, covered with nickle plating except where structural strength has demanded that steel be used, and in this case he has had every bit of the steel put through a rust-proofing process.

Another detail which sounds to the average layman like a minor problem and yet which involves engineering, chemistry and a knowledge of the laws of physics as applied to gases, liquids and vapor to as complicated a degree as any problem engineers have ever had to consider, is that of carburetion with present day fuel. Concentration upon this point has brought about some remarkable results in performance with fuels which could hardly have been burned five years ago.

Are Generally Lower.

Cars are lower largely through the use of some of the new sized wheels incorporating, for instance, the 31 and 33-inch tires. This low appearance has been further enhanced by the more successful use of the straight line hood and cowl. It is true that the individual appearance of a car is largely a matter of personal preference, but taken generally, the cars which have been produced so far for the 1922 selling season show a successful combination of the straight line body with the small size wheels, giving an appearance of stability and strength.

In speaking of bodies, the public demand for the enclosed car should not be overlooked. The higher the price class of the car, the greater percentage of enclosed cars demanded. Each year finds this percentage growing.

It would be possible to go along these lines for considerable time, indicating the detailed points in which improvements are taking place. The thought which it is intended to bring home here is that because of these improvements, automobiles are generally better. They are going to be sold in this highly competitive market which we are about to enter because of the improvements. Those which have the best solution of the particular problems involved are going to have the greatest success, particularly if the manufacturer has so designed his product that he can produce it at a low cost, and this opens a phase of the subject which is one of the biggest problems the automotive engineer has to face today. In obtaining all of the good qualities we have outlined, he must, in addition, so design his product that it can be economically and cheaply manufactured. The success of an automobile today is measured exactly by the success of the company in producing a product obtaining the maximum number of advantages in appearance, performance and life, and yet which can be produced economically.

Presents Unsolved Problem.

The entire situation presents an entrancing problem in economics. There is a trend of thought which binds together the work of all the branches of the industry, whether it concerns with the executive officer of a large manufacturing company, the sales manager, the engineer, purchasing agent or draftsman. There is not one of these who is not governed in his action by the conditions which are prevailing today, and when we come to the dealer who finally markets the product, he is governed and influenced equally as much. A knowledge of what the manufacturer of the particular vehicle a dealer is selling has set out to accomplish, is invaluable to him. With this knowledge he can link up the sales points on his car with the general situation in such a way as to present a compelling solicitation.

KEEP HANDS CLEAN.

Another instrument to help the motorist keep his hands clean while working on the car is this form of wrench. It can be used for turning grease cups, primer, drain and petcocks.

WIRING IMPROVEMENTS URGED TO AID MOTORISTS

Accessibility and Coloring of Wires Suggested.

ANOTHER step to make things easier for the motorist will be taken if recommendations made recently before the Society of Automotive Engineers are followed.

That concerns improvements in the automobile wiring system.

First among the plans to improve the wiring system is that of making the instruments on the dash more accessible.

That can be done, it is suggested, by lengthening the wires leading to these instruments, so that the instrument board might be hinged and turned down to allow easy access to the wires.

Slightly longer wires on the switch, ammeter, fuse block and other electric attachments on the dash would mean a large saving of time and effort for the mechanic. As it is now the mechanic has trouble getting behind the instrument board.

Another improvement is that of coloring the various wire insulations a specific color for each circuit, so that on every make of car the same circuit could be identified readily. This could be standardized by rule of the S. A. E., so that all automobile manufacturers would follow the same system of coloring.

As a result, there would be little necessity for wiring diagrams. If a mechanic knew that all black wires, for instance, meant the starting motor circuit; red wires, the ignition; green wires, the lamp circuit, and so on, he would have little difficulty in going ahead with his job.

Some makers are using colored insulation on the wires for the various circuits, but no attempt has yet been made to standardize the colors for all cars.

HOW TO TEST OIL.

A simple method to test the purity of oil is to place a drop of the fluid on a clean white blotter.

If the drop disappears over-night and leaves no dark stain, the oil is quite free of carbon. A stain shows there is a certain amount of free carbon in the oil which would later be left in the engine.

Fluidity of oil in cold weather may be ascertained by placing a small bottle of the oil outdoors on a cold day. After a short time turn the bottle upside down quickly and note the rise of air bubbles.

If the bubbles rise quickly, the oil will flow at the existing temperature. If the bubbles do not rise, the oil is too thick for use.

YELLOW TAIL LIGHTS.

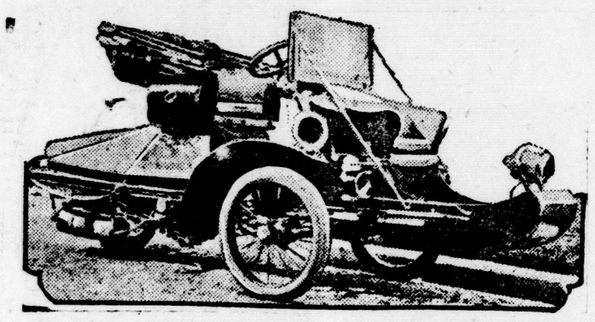
Yellow tail lights is suggested by a writer in Railway Age.

The use of red, it is argued, is confusing to a driver at night, and the writer cites a case in which a chauffeur had been following the red lights of cars ahead for some time. Approaching a railroad crossing, he took it for granted that the red light on the gate was that of a car ahead, and he turned out to shoot ahead. The car ran through the gates and was struck by a train.

Use of yellow lights for the rear of automobiles is the remedy to avoid such accidents, says the writer.

Red should be restricted for use at dangerous locations, such as railway and hazardous street crossings and places where material is piled up in the street.

Comfort for Driver in China



The novelty about this three-wheeled taxicab, invented by an inhabitant of Peking, China, is not so much its freakish appearance as the comfort it furnishes the driver. The front seat is for the passenger, while the chauffeur behind is shielded from wind, dust and rain by the appliances intended in other countries for the comfort of the "fare."

BRAKE ROD SILENCER.

A simple way to stop the brake rod from rattling is to slip a fairly stiff coil spring over the clevis, as shown. One end of the spring presses against the lever arm, while the other is held back by the lock nut on the brake rod. This takes up the lost motion on the brake rod.

WIRE CONTROLS.

Owners of many medium and low price cars have endless trouble with the wire controls for the ignition unit and carburetor, the trouble being due chiefly to the inability of the control to move the part because the tube housing the wire moves with the wire. To operate properly the tube must remain fixed, otherwise there will be little if any movement, and any operation of the spark advance lever will produce no results. Of course the best thing to do is to get a good wire control, but some owners have overcome the trouble in the existing controls by holding the tube in place by means of wood blocks. A wooden block is cut in two and two grooves cut in each, so opposite grooves coincide. The tube is then soldered at points the same distance apart as the grooves, so that the solder rests in the grooves. The blocks of wood are bolted together, and the whole bolted to the engine frame, which usually is the most accessible part.

Canadian Motorists' License Trouble Vanishes As European Drivers Begin

CANADIAN motorists sometimes rave and fume at the red tape and seeming troubles they have to obtain drivers' licenses, but in reality their troubles are few and far between, and relatively simple when contrasted with the rigamarole which some drivers abroad must indulge in before they can sit behind the steering wheel and listen to the rhythmatic tick of a well tuned motor.

Take France, for instance. The applicant begins by paying a 20 franc tax, makes a formal application on stamped paper, and has to submit to a practical examination. This may consist of an hour's drive through dense Paris traffic or a ten-minute run over a deserted national highway, in accordance with the whim of the inspector.

Once obtained, the license is good forever, unless withdrawn for some serious fault. But the inspector has the right to limit the power and type of vehicles which the applicant is qualified to drive, and may even limit him to a single make, if he feels that the applicant is not adept enough to drive any and every machine that is likely to be met with.

In Japan, the first license the applicant gets permits him to drive forward, but not to reverse; it is not until he has demonstrated fully his prowess that his final license is obtained which permits him to use his reverse gear. In the meantime, every time he wants to make a turn he has to run around the block.

In Spain it is a serious matter to drive a motor car, for in addition to a minimum age limit of 18, and a maximum of 60, the applicant must furnish a good conduct certificate, delivered by the mayor if he is a native, by the consul if he is a foreigner; a doctor must certify that his eyesight, hearing and general health are good; he must be acquainted with Spanish road regulations and must know how to drive.

In addition to this, minors must have the consent of their parents and married women the consent of their husbands. After complying with all this the applicant must undergo a practical test much after the French method—but once obtained the license is permanent unless withdrawn for some serious infraction.

In Great Britain it is simply necessary to register, while in Belgium there is absolutely no restriction—anyone—man, woman, or child—can drive a motor vehicle.

Satisfactory Service

One driver gets 20,000 miles out of the tires on his Ford without trouble. Another gets 6,000.

It is the same with cars as with tires. One driver will get three to four times as much out of his Ford as another does—in terms of continuous satisfactory service and mileage. Roads they travel have much to do with the difference—the service required of them. But not as much as you might think.

The greatest factor in determining that wide variance in length of service is the care given.

We want you to get the maximum service from YOUR Ford—continuous, uninterrupted, satisfactory service.

PROMPT SERVICE GOAL OF BUSINESS TREND IN AUTO WORLD

BEARINGS IN CAR ARE IMPORTANT

Three Types Used On Automobiles—Plain, Ball and Roller.

NEED CLOSE ATTENTION

Loose Parts Apt To Break With Serious Damage Resulting.

There are three types of bearings sed on an automobile—plain, ball nd roller—although these have many ub-divisions. The plain bearings are sually confined to the engine and are aken care of by the oiling system of he car.

In case of trouble (lack of oil, seizing, burned out, knocking, etc.) an experienced repair man should be employed. Such bearings are difficult to reach, and the ordinary amateur is not skilled enough to take the engine apart and put it together again. Besides this a plain bearing is difficult to adjust. If it is set up too tight it will bind or burn out; if too loose it will knock; if not properly scraped it will wear rapidly. Hence, teh need of a skilled man in all such work.

Ball and roller bearings are used at different points about the car, such as the wheels ,etc., and these may be taken apart, cleaned and adjusted by the owner. But here we must distinguish two general types of bearings; some of them may be taken apart and others may not, without special apparatus; the latter type is not adjustable. Cone-shaped bearings, whether roller or ball, are adjustable.

May Learn From Book.

The careful driver will find out from his instruction book just where these are and try them occasionally, jack up the front wheels and try the wheel for side-play. If there is any looseness, make sure that it is not in the king bolt passing through the steering knuckle; do not condemn the wheel bearing if the knuckle bearing is at fault. If the wheel bearing is loose, do not be content to tighten it without inspection, as it may have been a broken part.

A bearing that runs any time loose is apt to break one or more of the balls or rollers and the broken pieces will wind around and do severe damage. So take the bearing apart and look it over. It may be cleaned with kerosene and a paint brush. If anything is broken it will sometimes necessitate changing the entire bearing. When tightening up the wheel do not set it up so tight that the wheel cannot move. The bearing should be so delicately adjusted that the weight of the valve stem will bring it to the bottom.

There is a type of ball bearing which cannot be taken apart without an arbor press. To test this for wear, clean it thoroughly by soaking in kerosene or gasoline, and then place the fingers of one hand inside the bearing and revolve the outside upon it, feeling for grit of wear.

Saves Bearing Costs.

Wash the grit out and then feel the bearing as just described for holes and low spots inside. Also tilt the inner part sideways to see if the balls are badly worn. With the proper apparatus the balls may be removed and new ones substituted, thus saving the cost of a new bearing.

The tapered roller bearing is adjustable, but the straight roller is not These are very hard and wear but little. They are usually found in the rear axles. They may be tested by jacking up the axle and trying the wheel. If it may be shaken up and down the rollers and axle are badly worn. This may be remedied by putting a thickened case around the bearing, which is cheaper than installing a new one.

All ball and roller bearings should be filled with graphite grease before replacing, and this should be renewed from time to time, depending on the use of the car. Do not use a grease that will flow out on a hot day, nor one so thick that it cannot flow. Some greases stick in the spaces between the rollers and soh do no good. Experiment till you find one that gives you satisfaction.

TIRE GAUGE STAYS ON.

This new form of the gauge is always attached to tell the driver just what pressure there is in the tire. It takes the place of the valve cap and need not be removed when air is pumped into the tire. In this way, the pressure can be seen at all times.

NEON TESTS SPARK

A glass tube filled with neon gas, an atmospheric element, is a means of testing the spark plug while inclosed in the cylinder. The tube is fitted into a hard rubber holder, the tip of which is set against the spark plug terminal. Mere proximity to the high tension current, piled up by the spark gap to cause the spark, produces a glow in the tube. If the tip is filled with carbon or oil, the tube will not glow.

TELLS GRADE OF HILL.

One of the latest automobile accessories is a meter which registers the grade of a hill up or down which the car is moving. It is a form of spirit level and shows the number of feet the car is going up or down in each 100-foot run.

LIKEN AUTO TIRE TO HUMAN BODY TO HELP DRIVER GET "LAST MILE."

THE likening of a pneumatic tire to a human body is one of the favorite topics found in manuals circulated by the manufacturers for the purpose of helping the motorist secure all the mileage that has been built into the tire.

The carcass of the tire corresponds to the bones and muscles of our bodies. The outer rubber covering (tread and side cushions) protect the tire as the skin protects our bodies. Cuts in this rubber must be repaired to prevent disintegration of the tire just as cuts in our skin must be treated to prevent infection. Inflated pressure to a tire is what food is to our bodies.

There is another similarity, however, that has not been described—the tire's need of exercise.

It is a fact that a spare tire resists natural ageing much better if it is put into service every month. The reason for this is obscure but is probably due to what physicists call "molecular rearrangement" in the rubber portions of the tire caused by flexing. Whatever the cause of the deterioration it is a fact that a spare carried month after month without being "exercised" occasionally does not retain its wearing qualities as well as one that gets an occasional day's use.

KEEPING THE CAR CLEAN

Some Scientific Hints That the Careful Motorist Will Follow; Dividends Guaranteed.

The last two or three years have brought a very remarkable development in body building. The mechanism of the modern motor car has reached an approximate degree of perfection, leaving the manufacturers free to devote more time to increasing the attractiveness of the vehicle. The present-day car as it leaves the factory is really a thing of beauty, with the highly polished surfaces and shiny metal. Naturally this has induced the owner to take more pride in keeping up the appearance of the gasoline steed. The result is that cleaning methods and equipment have greatly advanced over those of a few years back.

Keep It New.

The present-day owner using modern methods may keep his car looking new all the time, nor will he have to spend more than a few moments a day to accomplish this end. For instance, there are now on the market a number of liquid and wax polishes which will give admirable results if they are used as directed.

In the use of wax polishes the first step is to clean the body of the car thoroughly. The polish is applied to the surface with a piece of cheese-cloth and then another clean cloth is used to distribute the wax evenly all over the surface.

Car owners commonly make the mistake of thinking that the more wax applied the better. As a matter of fact a very thin film is all that is needed. The polish will last for from four days to a week, and after it has been applied at the beginning of the week a little rubbing with a clean cloth will bring out the lustre again. The wax polish may be used for body, fenders, hood and other lustrous surfaces, and it will also be found that if the under side of the fenders is cleaned and given a good coating of wax, less mud will be deposited, and what is there may be easily removed.

Spray Polish.

The most recent type of body polish is that which is sprayed on the surface with a large sprayer. In using this polish the body must first be thoroughly cleaned with water. If the body surfoces are merely dusty the polish may be sprayed on and then be wiped off with a clean cloth.

After spraying the polish over the surface a piece of cheese-cloth is used to wipe off the excess. There is no necessity for vigorous rubbing.

The present-day owner must not assume that these new and really useful aids to beautifying the motor car have superseded plain water. The contrary is true; the car must be washed just as formerly, after which the new polishes will bring out the lustre of the original finish.

Not So Easy.

Washing the car is not the casual job some owners seem to imagine. To begin with, the car should be washed immediately after it has been dirty. If mud is allowed to remain on the varnished surface more than a day it is difficult to eradicate it. For the washing plain water should be used, neither too hot nor too cold, about 50 degrees Fahrenheit being the proper temperature. A large sponge soaked in clear water and then sopped against the surface so that the water trickles down is best. Never turn a stream of water at high pressure on the body. This will grind thick particles of sand and other grit into the varnish, to the detriment of the finish. The idea is to float the mud or dirt off the surface.

Soap should never be used on the body except for removing grease or oil spot. A small piece of soft cloth, well covered with castile soap suds, serves very well to remove grease from the panels. The hood should never be washed while it is hot, as this will result in discoloration. In cleaning the radiator, send a stream of water from the rear instead of the front, to keep moisture out of the mechanism.

Use a Chamois.

In drying the body a clean chamois skin should be used, rubbing being done in straight lines. If spots of tar or road oil are found on the body, it is best to treat them with salt, butter or kerosene. The butter softens the deposit so that it may be wiped off easily. Kerosene should be applied locally and wiped off within a minute.

A final plea: Be sure that all paraphernalia, cloths, sponges, chamois skins, etc., used in cleaning the polished surfaces are clean themselves before you employ them. Sponges are peculiarly liable to have sand in them, even new ones. They should be washed out in warm water before use.

ROLAND ROHLFS TRIES FRANKLIN

Noted American Aviator Drives Sedan Through Wild Regions.

REPAIRS WERE FEW

Airman Fords Streams and Penetrates Forests.

Roland Rohlfs, noted aviator who represented America in the International Gordon-Bennett Races in France, and who gained world-wide fame at one time as the breaker of world's altitude record, recently drove a Franklin sedan many thousand miles through the wildest and most unexplorable parts of Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

At the conclusion of his trip, while at the factory for a new touring limousine, one of Franklin's latest body designs, Mr. Rohlfs told a few incidents of what was probably one of the severest trips any automibile was ever called upon to undertake.

It was not due to the persistent effort of any salesman that Mr. Rohlfs became a Franklin owner. Possessed of a wide knowledge of automotive mechanics by reason of his experience as an aviator, Mr. Rohlfs inspected every high-grade car on the market and found Franklin construction in accordance with his ideas of what a real motor car should be. The experiences which he went through on his western trip provided a most strenuous and unusual test of the car's capabilities.

With the idea of taking up a rancher's life, he proceeded to explore some of the wildest and least developed parts of the United States. He forded mountain torrents, to attempt to cross which even the natives dubbed as foolhardy. He penetrated forests where he was forced at times to construct his own log roads in order to get through. He traversed deserts where there was oftentimes a day's journey intervening between signs of human habitation, and freuently aided other motorists broken down in the midst of these cactus-dotted wastes, some of whom had been stranded for days, while waiting to get a message through to the nearest repair or blacksmith shop.

A broken spring was the only occasion for repair that Mr. Rolfs reports.

Without ever carrying more than the regular tank full of gasoline, he was forced but once to stop at a desert station, where the price was 50 cents per gallon, to fill up, and his average for the entire trip was 17 miles to the gallon.

After driving a Franklin 50,000 miles under practically every kind of road condition, Mr. Rohlfs expresses the opinion that the average speed of an automobile is regulated by the comfort of the passengers and not by the horsepower.

OFTEN HARD TO IDENTIFY CARS

Average Owner Depends On Marks Which Can Be Changed.

HOLES PUNCHED IN UNITS

Can Be Bored in Parts of Mechanism, Not Easily Discernible.

If the average car owner were asked whether he could identify his own car under any set of circumstances, his impulse would be to return an unqualified and indignant affirmative. The police of one of our larger cities would disagree with him just as unqualifiedly.

As a matter of fact most car owners depend for identification on some scratch on the body, some broken screw in the chassis or some other equally uncertain factor. They do not stop to consider that our big manufacturers are turning out models in ten thousand lots that differ from each other in not the slightest discernible degree. By the time a successful thief has run a stolen car through his "service station" it would puzzle the most careful owner on earth to identify his vehicle.

An instance in point is found in the recent experience of a car owner in Winnipeg who lost his car, a touring model of a popular make, and after some weeks of anxious waiting was summoned to police headquartes to see whether he could identify a vehicle answering to his description of his lost car.

Was Same Car.

Arrived at the police station, he found a small group of other owners who had assembled to try to identify the same car to see which he had been summoned to police headquarters to see number of marks by which he felt confident he could prove his ownership of the restored vehicle. There was a bent screw in one part of the chassis, a dent in one fender, a scratch of peculiar shape on the dash.

The car with which he was confronted was undoubtedly of the same vintage as his lost boat, but unhappily it was painted a rich ultra-marine blue, instead of the dark green that had graced his vehicle. The most earnest scrutiny failed to disclose any of the distinguishing marks on which he had relied.

A slight chipping of the new coat of enamel revealed the fact that it had been put on over a previous coat of the dark green that our friend had described, but two of the other assembled owners had put in bids for dark green cars and eventually one of them managed to identify the car by a chip in the gearset housing. The identification was not particularly convincing, but in the absence of anything better it served to give the car to the owner who had been able to describe the imperfection.

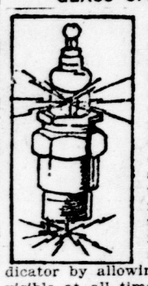
Casual Means Inadequate.

As a matter of fact no car owner ought to depend on such casual means of identification as slight imperfections that may have accrued during the operation of the vehicle. When the professional automobile thief steals a car he takes it to what amounts practically to a rebuilding factory. In many cases the entire mechanism is taken down and the different parts redistributed with those from other cars of the same make and models to turn out what amount to new vehicles.

The only safe method of placing identification marks on a car is to place them on all major parts of the mechanism. Perhaps the most satisfactory method of doing so is to place punch marks on the various units. All such marks should be put in places where they will not be readily discernible; for instance, on the inside of the axles, on the flywheel, on the upper side of the gearset housing. After the marks have been made they should be rubbed over with grease until they are as nearly indistinguishable as possible. The car owner can have a prick punch made with his initials on it in very fine type and with this it is possible to place identification marks on the various parts that will generally escape notice and yet remain permanently.

Another clever idea is to bore a few small holes a mere fraction of an inch into the framework at a given place carefully measured from permanently located landmarks. Then fill these holes with lead and smear the spot well with grease. If there comes a time when it is necessary to identify the car, it is a simple matter to measure off the proper distance, scrape a little lead off and prove ownership of the car.

GLASS SPARK PLUG.



An intensifying spark plug to insure firing under adverse conditions is being manufactured by a Cleveland firm. It is composed in part of a solid glass core of heat resisting composition. The intensifying chamber at the top of the plug is airtight and services as an indicator by allowing the spark to be visible at all times.

RUNNING WITHOUT BATTERY.

In many makes og cars using battery ignition it is possible to keep the car running without the use of the battery. The systems referred to are those in which the generator feeds the load above a certain engine speed, the battery being used merely for car speeds under about fifteen miles per hour. If the battery should fail the engine cannot be started in the regular way, but once started by means of a tow or by running down hill, it can be kept running. Of course this means that the starter cannot be used, and that the engine will have to be operated at a fairly good rate of speed, but then this is better than not running at all.

Apply kerosene to the brake lining if brakes squeak.

Too much grease is as bad as too little in the transmission.

Keep bolts of demountable rims tight.

Ottawa has a free camping ground for tourists on the Illinois River.

Casings sometimes expand after long use.

Grease battery connections slightly to prevent corrosion.

New car has a light under the hood for night motor trouble.

Keep contact points clean and protect coils and distributor from moisture.

Unnecessary strains are put on the clutch and transmission by starting in high gear.

Smaller wheels are the latest, to hold the road and give more rakish lines.

Largest number of motor car plants yet recorded was in 1911, when there were 275.

Carefully follow manufacturer's instructions to enjoy smooth running engine.

Smoke is caused by too much oil or too much gas.

FIND NO TRACE OF GRACE LINK

Hamilton Authorities Promise To Conduct Thorough Investigation.

BAPTIZED INTO CHURCH

Girl Not in St. Joseph's Convent at Present, Sisters Declare.

HAMILTON, March 10.—No further trace has been found here of Grace Link, the missing London heiress, who. relatives say, was placed in St. Mary's Orphanage and in St. Joseph's Convent. M. J. O'Reilly, K. C., solicitor for the convent, stated today that the mother superior and secretary of the convent at the time Miss Link was supposed to have been placed there were dead, and the present superior and secretary were not acquainted with matters so far back.

"Any information that we might possibly be able to supply in regard to the case will be gladly given to any person entitled to such information. Any inquiries, if made in the proper way, to me, as solicitor for the convent, will be answered," said Mr. O'Reilly.

Arrives From London.

Mother Superior Mathilde of London arrived in Hamilton early tonight, and went to St. Joseph's Convent to discuss the Link case with the authorities there. Grace Link, who is being sought by her father, William Link, and who was handed over to the local convent by the London branch, is not in this city, it was declared. Relatives are in possession of records proving that she was brought to this city, and a thorough investigation is to take place. It was for the purpose of making full inquiries that the mother superior from London came here, but no information in connection with her visit was given the press tonight.

At the convent the officials would give out no information, and referred reporters to M. J. O'Reilly, K.C., who is handling the case for the convent.

Baptized Into Church.

The following entry is in the books of the convent. It was shown to a newspaperman by Father McNeil: Margaret Mary Smith, date of birth, not given; baptized into the Roman Catholic Church, October 12, 1911; father's name, William Link; mother, Elizabeth Thompson; sponsor, Mabel Butler; priest, P. J. Maloney (who is now living in Walkerton). A further entry is made that the girl was at St. Joseph's Orphanage, and that both parents are Protestants.

When told that the mother superior of the orphanage at London had made a statement that Grace Link was alive and well in the orphanage or convent at Hamilton, under the name of Margaret Smith, a sister at the convent said that "she is not here" at present.

Asked if she was at any other institution in the town, the sister replied that she could not speak about the matter, and referred the reporter to Mr. J. O'Reilly, their legal adviser.

"The mother superior is ill," she concluded, "and can see no one."

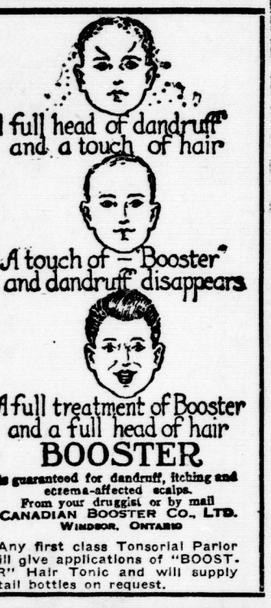
Father McNeil, after showing the entry in the register, arranged to see the sisters, and will try to get an interview with the girl, if she is in the city this evening.

Needed Last Penny So Regent Gave It.

THE Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., has reached its objective of $2,500 for the War Memorial Children's Hospital, and turned over a check for that amount to the honorary treasurer, Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell. And thereby hangs a tale.

The most indefatigable of chapters, 30 members included, everyone a busy-bee, had worked and planned and devised ways and means of raising money until the grand total was all but reached. One little tilt, and it would be across the line. Just one small obstacle stood in the way, the "last red cent."

In other words, the accumulated mickles which make a muckle, totalled up $2,499.99. It was at this critical moment that the resourceful regent came to the rescue, as she has a way of doing. She dipped down into her own handbag, drew out "that last cent," and, behold, the contribution of the Campbell Becher Chapter was an accomplished fact.



Any first class Tonsorial Parlor will give applications of "BOOSTER" Hair Tonic and will supply retail bottles on request.

Let Us Show You the New Mitchell Five Passenger Touring Car

THE motorist seeking a car that offers besides exceptional motor performance a marked degree of safety and comfort, will be pleased with the good judgment shown in the combination of these two features in the Mitchell F-50 FIVE-PASSENGER TOURING CAR.

Mental as well as physical comfort is necessary to fully enjoy the pleasures of a motor car. By placing the entire motor control system so conveniently that the driver and passengers are confident their car can be handled rapidly and efficiently to meet an emergency, mental comfort is assured.

Rich, full leather upholstering with a generour use of quality cushion springs and genuine curled hair, the carefully studied tilt of front and rear seats, as well as the all-round roominess of this car, are features which compel relaxation and insure maximum riding ease and physical comfort.

Large side pockets with weighted flaps that stay closed without the usual fussing are in both rear and right front doors, while the left front door contains a convenient tool compartment.

Body refinements of this popular model have been developed to a degree usually found only in cars selling at a much higher price.

Prohibitive costs of building materials have forced many to remain unwillingly in rented houses. Building costs have dropped. How many realize that it is now possible for them to own their own home, and that their opportunity is no longer dependent on prices.

The cost of building lots is still normal, but now that building costs are down, the demand for land will increase. We have lots for sale, ranging from $6.00 per foot, payable on the very easy terms of $50.00 down and $10.00 monthly.

Here is a partial list of the Streets up which we have lots for sale:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof on behalf of the London Street Railway Company for a special act for the following purposes:

1. To vary the agreement made between the Corporation of the City of London and the London Street Railway Company, so as to enable the London Street Railway Company to obtain sufficient revenue to keep the railway in a reasonably safe condition and state of repair, and to meet the working expenditures and such return on the capital actually invested as shall be deemed reasonable. And for the said purpose to authorize the said company for the unexpired term of its franchise to charge and collect from every person on entering any of its cars for a continuous journey of any distance on its railway from any point therein to any other point on a main or branch line within the limits of the City of London as now existing or hereafter extended a sum not exceeding 5 cents, except for children under five years of age, accompanied by a parent or other person having them in charge, such children to travel free, and excepting children between the ages of five and twelve years, such children to be entitled to ride as aforesaid for a sum not exceeding 3 cents, and the said railway shall carry free of charge all police constables in uniform and all city firemen in uniform or wearing badges when going to or returning from a fire, and all health and water inspectors and city detectives wearing badges

2. For the purpose aforesaid to vary any term of Bylaw No. 916 of the Corporation of the City of London, or any other bylaw relating to the matter.

The reason for requiring the legislation is that the revenues derived from the present rate of fare are not sufficient to provide for the increased cost of operation, and that the company is in need of immediate relief if the railway system is to be kept in a reasonably safe condition, and the citizens of the Corporation of the City of London supplied with a street railway service.

Dated at London, this 31st day of January, A.D., 1922.

By its Solicitors,

WEAK HEART

NERVES BADLY SHATTERED

Many a woman who should be strong and healthy, full of life and energy, is bound by the shackles of ill-health.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of a weak heart, shattered nerves, impoverished blood and an exhausted condition of the whole system.

In

MILBURN'S

they will find a remedy that will supply food for the exhausted nerves, one that will strengthen and regulate the weak heart and invigorate the whole system.

Mrs. W. W. Pearse, 14 Seaton street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I was left with a weak heart and in a run-down condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pains around my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. My husband got me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I took one box I got relief, and after taking six boxes I have been well and not bothered since."

Price, 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Advt.

Second Charge of Conversion of $200 Laid By George Cline Is Heard.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—Harold Bruce Sales, former garage owner, of this city, was committed for trial Friday morning when he was arraigned before Magistrate Maxwell in the local police court on a charge of obtaining credit from B. F. Honsinger of this city for $1,900, and converting to his own use $206, alleged to have been paid him by George Cline on a promissory note made payable to Sales & Hodder, of this city.

Sales was arrested in Jackson, Mich., last week, after a hunt lasting many months. He was taken into custody on a charge laid by Mr. Honsinger, but on Thursday of this week the second charge was laid by Mr. Cline.

Mr. Honsinger was the only witness to testify in the first charge. He deposed that he had gone to the accused some time before the assignment, which took place in June, 1921, and had made inquiries about some $1,500 in rent owing to him.

The accused, Mr Honsinger swore, had told him that he owned a 50-acre farm in Caradoc Township, near Strathroy, and another 50 acres near Merlin, and had also spoken about expecting big commissions from the sale of Jackson cars in Ontario. Because of these representations, Mr. Honsinger had allowed the rent credit to continue until it had totaled $1,900. The assignment had taken place then and he had recovered $450 from the assignees, and an investigation had shown that the accused had owned no property in Caradoc or Merlin at the time the representation was made, having disposed of the last of a 100-acre farm near Strathroy in 1919, before coming to St. Thomas, according to documentary evidence produced.

Mr. Cline testified that he had paid the money in question to the accused on September 18, 1921, about three months after the accused had made an assignment, and later had been sued for the amount of the note in division court and judgment given against him in favor of the firm of Sales & Hodder. F. B. Holtby, manager of the St. Thomas branch of the Bank of Montreal, gave evidence for the prosecution.

FREES BERRY OF CHARGE

St. Marys Magistrate Gives Decision in Assault Case.

ST. MARYS, March 10.—Magistrate Makins of Stratford this afternoon dismissed the charge against Robt. Berry, Jr., of assaulting S. G. Kirkby of Blaanshard. The case was one of the most interesting ever held in the local court, and lasted for nearly an hour. The large courtroom was filled to its capacity, and many were unable to gain entrance.

Mr. Kirkby claimed that he answered a knock at his door on the evening of March 3, and was knocked unconscious by someone standing outside, claiming the accused was the man who had knocked him down with a large club. Mr. Berry pleaded not guilty, and gave a full and accurate account of his whereabouts on the night in question with the result that he was freed.

Mr. J. W. Graham appeared for the complainant, and Messrs. A. E. Parkinson and N. J. Riordon for the accused.

MAY SEEK MAYOR'S CHAIR.

BRANTFORD, March 10. — The name of Mr. W. P. Turnbull, head of the firm of W. H. Turnbull & Sons, hardware merchants, Colborne street, has been mentioned as a possible mayoralty candidate. As Mr. Turnbull is at present in attendance at the Dominion Alliance convention at Toronto, further developments were looked for on his return. This would make three candidates in the contest.

SCHOOL CONTRACT LET.

Kitchener, March 10.—The contract for the Sunday school addition has been let by the school board to Casper Braun on condition that certain figures in the tender are slightly revised. Casper Braun is a local contractor, and was bidding in competition with many outside firms. Work on the addition will be started this spring.

Winter Weather Hard On Little Ones

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little ones out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little ones healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colds. The tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

ST. THOMAS MEN BEING PLACED ON ELGIN FARMS

Receive From $25 Monthly Up to $500 Per Year With Free Houses.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—Six and seven men a week, married as well as single, are being placed on farms by the local government employment office, according to J. Peacock, who is in charge.

Mr. Peacock stated that there is a big demand for farm labor at the present time. At the present time he has eleven farmers listed who are in urgent need of help. On an average single men receive $25 a month and board while married men are paid $500 a year with free house and garden.

The employment situation in this city showed little improvement during the past week or so, as the city at the present time is doing no construction work, and the M. C. R. car shops are operating with a very small staff.

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS. WILBUR COMES TO BY ALLMAN.

Come · To · Church · Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of cold fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss.

"You will take part in singing some good hymns.

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

BARES CUSTOMS OF ARCTIC FOLK

Report of Canadian Expedition Gives Graphic Pictures of Superstitious Coppermines.

BELIEVE WORLD IS FLAT

Eskimos Gradually Acquire Civilization's Evils, But Regard Moon as Semi-Human.

OTTAWA, March 10.—(By Canadian Press)—Curious stories of strange peoples dwelling in the Canadian northland abound in Vol. XII of official reports on the Canadian Arctic Expedition, 1913-18. The volume, which will shortly be issued, is the work of D. Jenness, ethnologist with the southern party of the expedition. It deals with the little known Copper Eskimos of Coronation Gulf. It tells of their life, their language and their religious beliefs; of their dwellings, their dance halls (built of snow blocks), their food; how they marry and are given in marriage; of their amusements, their psychology and morality, of the mysterious influence of the Shaman—"the mediator and intercessor between the living Eskimos and the supernatural world of shades and spirits."

There have been various explorations of the Copper Eskimo's country since Samuel Hearne traveled overland with a party of Chipewyan Indians to the mouth of the Coppermine River in 1771. Sir John Franklin visited them 30 years later. But it was not till 1916 that the Copper Eskimo first came into conflict with civilized law. Then a Northwest Mounted Police patrol visited the Eskimos and arrested the murderers of two Catholic missionaries.

And what first are the religious beliefs of the Copper Eskimo? Here are Mr. Jenness's words: "A flat and unbroken expanse of land and sea—the earth—covered over during the greater part of the year with snow and ice; of undefined limits, but stretching farther than any man knows; at each of its corners a pillar of wood holding up another unbroken expanse, the sky; above that, on its surface, another land, abounding in caribou and other animals like our own earth; wandering across this upper expanse semi-spiritual beings, the sun, the moon and the stars—such is the conception that the Copper Eskimo possesses of our universe."

To him the sun and the moon are semi-human, or at least the abodes of semi-human beings, the sun being a woman and the moon a man. The mountains of the moon are the man's dog's, according to one account, according to another, they are a woman with her dogs behind her, for once she came down to earth and the shamans tied a rope round her and hoisted her to the sky again. The weather, spoken of as a man, but conceived apparently as some mighty power, moves along the sky, and as he walks the sun goes down; hence the disappearance of the sun each evening.

The stars were human beings or animals before they ascended into the sky. The three bright stars of Orion's belt were three sealers who never returned to camp. Long ago, in the quaint imagery of the Copper Eskimo, a polar bear was being hunted by a man and his dogs. It fled into the sky and its pursuers followed it. So today it may still be seen among the stars. The hunter and his dogs always pursue but never overtake it.

Even the solid earth is full of mystery. Many a strange and only semi-human race surrounds the Eskimos, and is known through the spirit flights of their shamans or through ancient tales of adventurous wanderers of other days. The Indians perhaps are human, but beyond them are white men, a people whose manners and customs are altogether strange. "After we had been in their country over a year," says Mr. Jenness, "Higilak announced as a great discovery one day, that the white men were no different from the Eskimo." Then there are numerous dwarfs, so short that their bows trail behind them on the ground. Somewhere, far away, perhaps, there are giants still, for they existed in olden times in the Eskimo land itself. Then there are "tornin," a race that once lived above the ground in the days when Eskimos were few, though afetrwards they were driven below by the Shamans.

Can Offend Animals.

Birds and animals, too, in the simple faith of the Copper Eskimo, have extraordinary faculties and powers. They can be offended by scornful words. The hunter who mocks the caribou or seal will suddenly find himself stricken down by sickness or afflicted with constant ill-luck. The Eskimo must be careful in all his actions. Not only must he propitiate the shades of the Eskimo dead, but he must never forget to propitiate also the animals he kills.

"The religious doctrines of the Copper Eskimos," Mr. Jenness comments, "bring them little or no comfort. Life would be hard enough if they had none but natural forces to contend with, forces which they could see and estimate. But mysterious and hostile powers, invisible and incalculable, and, therefore, potentially all the more dangerous, hem them in, as they believe, on every side, so that they never know from day to day whether a fatal sickness will not strike them or a sudden misfortune overwhelm them and their families—from no apparent cause, it may be, and for no conceivable reason, save the illwill of those unseen foes. Death rolls back the gate, not of a happy hunting ground or of a heaven of peace and happiness where friends and lovers may unite once more, but of some vague and gloomy realm, where, even if want and misery are not found (and of this they are not certain), joy and gladness at least must surely be unknown."

But there is a more human side of the Copper Eskimo's life. Mr. Jenness tells of the singing and dancing which are their main distractions, for all the songs of these Eskimos, except incantations and a few children's rhymes, are dancing songs. "There is a good deal of back-biting and scandal-mongering," he remarks, "especially among the women, who will sit and talk scandal for hours." And there are fashions in clothing "as imperative as any fashions among us, and here as everywhere you cannot have fine birds without fine feathers. A man (or woman) of fashion and influence should possess, besides two suits of everyday working clothes, one for summer and one for winter, a thick set of heavy winter clothing for traveling and visiting, and a lighter set of short-haired summer skins ornamented with colored bands and insertions, fringes and appendages of various kinds, to wear in the dance house on ceremonial occasions."

Will Lose Primitiveness.

The report, which is exhaustive, closes with words of warning. It observes that rapid changes are taking place in the culture of the natives. Implements of iron and steel, rifles, fishnets, open boats, European textiles and sewing machines, European foods, cheap musical instruments and the development of trapping at the expense of hunting and sealing will effect a complete transformation in the course of a few years. "Already," says Mr. Jenness, "the new culture elements and the new culture teaching that are filtering from the west have profoundly modified their social and religious ideas, and before the present generation passes away the primitiveness of the Copper Eskimo will have ceased to exist. How many will remain by that time, and whether they will be able to take part in the development of the region depends largely on the manner in which we fulfill our trust. For in throwing open their country to outside invasion we have incurred a heavy responsibility towards the natives. We may increase the security of life among them by checking infanticide and murder, we may protect them from unscrupulous exploitation and from the ravages of intoxicating liquors, but all this will be of little avail unless we immediately take measures to secure them against the introduction of our diseases. The epidemic of influenza in 1918 exacted a terrible toll among the Eskimos of Northern Alaska, several settlements being practically wiped out. The Copper Eskimo have no diseases of their own, or at least none were known up to 1915; but white men and Western Eskimos are flocking into their country, and in a few more years perhaps they will fall victims to some of the scourges of our civilization. It may be impossible to prevent this calamity entirely, but at least we could do something by checking a kind of quarantine such as the Danes have done for Greenland. At the present time the only practicable route into the Copper Eskimo country is by way of the Mackenzie River, and if no one were allowed to go eatward without a certificate from a medical officer it might be possible to save these natives from the worst of our diseases and a more or less speedy extinction."

The Harp of God

By R. H. PECK

"I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my dark sayings upon the harp." Psalm 49, 4.

With the nation of Israel, the harp was an instrument consecrated to joy and exaltation. David, who for forty years was king of Israel, was an expert player on the harp, and it will be noted that in the Psalms the harp is often used to symbolize or teach some great truth.

The Book of Revelation is written largely in symbols. In Revelation 14: 2, 3, and 15:2, 3, we find a brief description of a class of glorious beings who are playing upon their harps, and these are described as the "harps of God." The harp here is used as a symbol of some great truth, or feature of the divine program; in fact, a great deal of the Bible is written in symbolic phrase. The Lord uses objects which we know to illustrate great unseen things which we do not know; and the harp is so used.

David used the harp of ten strings and was an expert performer upon it. The ten strings of the harp, therefore, very fitly represent the ten great fundamental truths or doctrines of the divine plan. These ten fundamental doctrines appear in the order named, as follows: (1) Creation, (2) Justice manifested, (3) Abrahamic promise, (4) Birth of Jesus, (5) Ransom, (6) Resurrection, (7) Mystery revealed, (8) The Lord's presence, (9) Glorification, (10) Restoration.

Without doubt, the great plan of God pictured by the harp was all made and arranged at one time, but we will here consider the first of these fundamental truths

CREATION.

The subject of creation relates particularly to the earth and the creatures of the earth, the chief one of which is man.

Since the Bible was written for man's benefit, the Genesis account of creation has to do with man and his place of habitation. There we read: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." He created the sun, for light by day; and the moon, for light by night, upon the earth. God then created the birds and fowls that fly through the air, and the fish of the sea. He created the cattle and the creeping things, and all the beasts of the earth. All this was before the creation of man. He had formed the earth many centuries before man's creation, and he created it that man might have a place to live.

He caused his prophet to write: "I have made the earth and created man upon it. For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens: God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited."—Isaiah 45:12-18.

God created the first man and woman out of the elements and gave them power to produce and bring forth children. God was the father and the earth the mother of Adam. The first man was named Adam, the first woman Eve.

We are all interested in knowing how Jehovah created the first man, Adam. "And the Lord God formed man out of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul."—Genesis 2:7. God did not give man a soul separate and distinct from the man. The word soul means being; living, breathing creature. Every man is a soul. No man has a soul. Every living creature is a soul. God called all moving creatures that have life souls. (See Genesis 1:20, margin.)

Jehovah then made a beautiful home for man, which is designated in the Bible as Eden—a garden, a beautiful park. Everything in Eden was perfect, because all the works of Jehovah are perfect. (Deuteronomy 32:4). "And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it."—Genesis 2:8, 9, 15.

God next gave to man a law to govern him. He told what he might do and what he might not do; and formed him that a violation of this law would bring death upon him. "And the Lord God commanded the man, saying: Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die."—Genesis 2:16, 17.

God then created Eve to be a helpmate or companion to Adam. (Genesis 2:21-25). If Adam and Eve had been obedient to Jehovah at all times, there would have been no sickness, sorrow, nor death amongst the human race.

Many times you have heard the question asked, "Who made the devil; Satan, the evil one?"

The correct answer is, he was not always the devil, or satan. He was created a perfect and beautiful creature. He was also designated a star of heaven. His original name was Lucifer. The prophet Ezekiel says of him that he was "the anointed cherub that covereth," which seems to indicate that he had authority over some others. Continuing, the prophet records: "Thou wast upon the holy mountain of God: thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire. Thou wast perfect in thy ways from the day thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee."—Ezekiel 28:14, 15. He is described as a beautiful creature. Thus the prophet speaks of him, "Thou hast been in Eden, the garden of God; every precious stone was thy covering, the sardius, topaz, and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx, and the jasper, the sapphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle and gold; the workmanship of thy tabrets and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou was created."—Ezekiel 28:13.

In the unfolding of the divine plan, therefore, we see that creation is the first part and is properly designated as the first string upon the harp of God. "God is light and in him no darkness at all.—John 1:5. "All the works of Jehovah are perfect." — Deuteronomy 32:4. Hence we must conclude that all the creatures of Jehovah were in the light, were creatures of light, all happy, all joyful. And when the perfect man and perfect woman were placed in the beautiful garden of Eden, everything there was joyful.

KERENSKY SON OF LENINE'S TEACHER

Simbirsk Principal Praised Boy Who Grew Up To Depose Son of Pedagogue.

SCHOOL RECORDS FOUND

Russian Premier As Boy Was Noticeable For "Solitary Disposition and Shyness."

REVAL, Esthonia, March 10.—An interesting coincidence in the lives of Nikoli Lenine, premier of Russia, and Alexander Kerensky, whose government Lenine overthrew to set up the soviet regime, has just been brought to light.

It appears from records just published that Lenine was a pupil in a high school at Simbirsk, Russia, of which Kerensky's father was principal, and that the elder Kerensky reported him to be one of his best pupils and a gold medal winner for good conduct.

Simbirsk was the birthplace and scene of the early life of Lenine, whose real name was Vladimir Oulianov, and who was the son of Illia Nicolaievich Oulianov, a citizen of Astrakhan, the port near the mouth of the Volga River. What purports to be the records of the high school have recently been published by the Revaler Bode. They show, the paper says, that the elder Kerensky described Lenine (Oulianov) as:

"Very gifted as well as industrious and punctual. He was the leading pupil in all classes and, on completing his courses, received a gold medal as the best graduate of the school in progress, maturity and good conduct.

"When his father died in 1886, his mother brought up her children in religion and uprightness. The good fruits of such upbringing showed themselves in Oulianov's excellent conduct.

"I noticed his extreme solitary disposition and shyness in intercourse even with friends and with his schoolmates."

The Revaler Bode says the records show that Lenine belonged neither to the peasant nor nobility classes, but sprang from middle class people. It adds that the "striking Kalmuk (Tartar) lines in Lenine's face and head are attributed to his father's origin in Astrakhan."

POLICE IN DETROIT ARREST ROY KING

Return to Canadian Authorities Youth Who Escaped From Guelph Reformatory.

DECLINES TO TELL STORY

Prisoner Is Blamed by Police For String of Recent Robberies in Sarnia.

SARNIA, March 10.—Roy King, 21, who escaped from the Guelph Reformatory two months ago, was arrested by American police late Thursday and handed over to Canadian authorities Friday, when he was remanded for a week in order that the local police can make further investigations.

In January, 1921, a warrant was issued against King in Sarnia, charging him with robbery with violence, when he attacked Peter Elkin of Sarnia and relieved him of a gold watch valued at $30.

King left the city before he could be arrested, and was later apprehended in Hamilton on another charge and sent to the reformatory.

Sarnia police traced him to Port Huron a few days ago and obtained the necessary warrant for his arrest.

King, who is said to have been around here for some time, refuses to talk to the police, who believe that he may be able to throw light on the extraordinary string of burglaries that have occurred here in the last two months.

Mrs. Veersmeersch was also acquitted of a charge of attempting to bribe an officer of the law at the recently-concluded sessions of the Lambton supreme court. This appeal will be heard before Judge A. E. Taylor.

ALUMNI OF O.A.C. HOLD ELECTIONS

The annual meeting of the Western Ontario O. A. C. Alumni Association was held Friday, when the secretary's report for the year was accepted and the election of officers for the ensuing year took place.

Those elected were: Honorary president, H. S. Fry; president, G. F. Kingsmill; first vice-president, W. R. Reek; second vice-president, B. Fancher, M. P.; secretary, W. H. Porter; treasurer, B. E. Foyston; publicist, Purdom Love.

Some discussion took place regarding organizing the ex-students of the Ontario Agricultural College in the different counties with view to holding summer meetings and picnics, at which the members of the Western Ontario Association could attend and discuss any problems that may arise.

A motion was passed, coming from H. S. Fry, that an effort be put forth to make the annual picnic held at the college during the summer a great success, and well represented by the Western Association.

No discussion took place on the secretary's report, this matter being left over until after the meeting of the provincial association held in Hyman Hall Friday afternoon.

The meeting adjourned to attend the conference of the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association.

CLAIMS DAIRYMEN GET BEST RESULTS

Professor Leach Tells Oxford Producers Profits Made When Losses Reported.

GIVES DELEGATES ADVICE

Declares Elimination of Middleman Is the Road To Higher Prices.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—At the annual meeting of the Milk Producers' Association held here today, Prof. Leach of the O. A. C., Guelph, addressed the members on "Co-operative Marketing and Cost of Milk." He claimed that the dairy farmers were in a better position than those engaged in other branches of farming. He stated that from time to time it was stated that the farmer was producing milk at a loss, while in reality he was making a big profit. He then went on to explain that the farmer, in figuring his cost, charged the feed used at market prices which prices were surely a profit to the farmer. The same was true of machinery, etc. All were used and charged at profit-making prices. The elimination of the middleman was the road to higher prices to the farmer without increasing the price to the producers.

N. P. Griffin, secretary of the Provincial Milk Producers Association, also addressed the gathering. His remarks dealt chiefly with what the provincial association had accomplished to help maintain the price of milk. The election of officers resulted in W. E. Thomson being returned to the presidency by acclamation. George Montmorency, vice-president, and Harry Gould, secretary, were re-elected.

ITALY TO GUARD HONEYMOONERS

FLORENCE, Italy, March 10.—The Italian authorities are taking extraordinary precautions to see that Princess Mary and her husband, Viscount Lascelles, are not unduly annoyed by the curious when they reach Italy. The couple is expected to arrive at Fiesole, three miles northeast of Florence, by train tomorrow afternoon, but their desire for secrecy is so great that it is possible they may motor there from Pisa, in order to escape possible demonstration. It is their desire to remain incognito during their stay in Italy.

The Villa Medici, which the newly-married couple will occupy, will have a squad of carabineers at each of its six gateways. The school in Fiesole has been commandeered to billet the carabineers when they are off duty. The military measures will be taken not through any fear of an attack on the princess and her husband, but to shield them from the curious tourists who have filled the hotels here weeks earlier than is usual in order not to miss a chance of seeing the visitors.

METHODISTS GIVE BYNG BIG OVATION

OTTAWA, March 10.—(Canadian Press.)—An address of welcome was presented to his excellency the governor-general this morning on behalf of the Methodist Church in Canada.

The address was read by Rev. S. B. Chown, general superintendent, who was accompanied by Rev. C. E. Manning, Rev. T. Albert Moore, Dr. James Mills and others.

The delegation was received in the governor-general's office in the east block by Lord Byng, who briefly expressed his thanks for the welcome tendered him on behalf of the Methodist Church

SUGGESTS CANADA RULE WEST INDIES

Lord Beaverbrook, in London Speech, Urges Dominion Aid in Colonial Development.

SEES BETTER RELATION

Asserts Monroe Doctrine Would Not Operate So Heavily Against This Country.

LONDON, March 10.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Lord Beaverbrook, speaking in London today, advanced the interesting suggestion that the dominions should be intrusted, in certain cases, with the responsibility of helping the development of the colonial possessions in Great Britain, thus permitting the imperial government to conserve its energies for new and undeveloped fields.

The dominions, he said, would thus be enabled to appreciate the problems and difficulties which Great Britain had handled during long years of administration for the colored races.

Lord Beaverbrook suggested that Canada might administer the West Indies. He said he believed the experiment would have a wonderful influence on the relations between the West Indies and Great Britain. He pointed out that the West Indies were in the area subject to the Monroe Doctrine, but asserted that the Monroe Doctrine would not operate so heavily against Canada as it might against Great Britain.

Emphasizing the argument that imperial solidarity depended upon immediate prosperity, Lord Beaverbrook contended that too high a value was being placed on the restoration of trade with Central Europe. He considered emigration to the dominions out of the question, as commodity prices were below the cost of production, and it would be useless, for instance, to send Englishmen to Western Canada, while wheat was only a dollar a bushel.

B. C. LIQUOR ACT UPHELD

Province Has Power To Collect Tax on Importations.

VANCOUVER, March 10. — The British Columbia liquor act is intra vires, and the province of British Columbia has power to collect a tax on liquors imported. These two important decisions were handed down by the court of appeal this morning.

In the first case an appeal against a conviction for selling liquor on the ground that the act has not been proclaimed by the lieutenant-governor personally and was therefore not in effect, was disallowed.

In the second case an appeal against the province assessing a purchaser of liquor bought from others than the government vendors was also dismissed. This decision means that the province can tax liquor purchased outside the province.

FAILS TO SOLVE SPOOK MYSTERY

HALIFAX, March 10.—Dr. Franklline Prince, the "spook-seeker" from New York, had not found the secret of the mysterious fires at the homestead of Alex. MacDonald, Caledonia Mills, N. S., up to a late hour this evening, according to a telephone message received here.

Mrs. MacDonald returned to the alleged haunted house today, and the household was furnished and arranged as at the time the family was frightened away by the mysterious fires.

The professor beamed blandly through his hornbow spectacles when the stage was all properly set; apparently he hoped that everything would seem so home-like that the spooks would revisit the scene.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home
Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

London Stores Abound With Dainty Apparel for Spring

Latest Edicts of "Dame Fashion" Will Have Big Appeal for Milady in Conjunction With Price Reductions Noted.

BY HELEN MACMILLAN.

DRESSES, frocks, gowns! What's in a name—when such exquisite beauty masks under them all! Not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed like one of these.

I have just seen the new spring dresses shown in London shops, and many of which will appear on attractive models at The London Advertiser style show to be held at the Grand Theatre, March 13, 14 and 15.

And how to find words adequate to describe them, I know not. They are the loveliest I have ever seen. There are so many radiant colors, so many exquisite fabrics, so many unusual touches that give an air of distinction, such a variety of styles.

It seems that silks may come and silks may go, but crepes stay on for ever. In other seasons Dame Fashion flirted outrageously with crepe, but this spring she has thrown wide open her doors to the whole crepe family and bade them make themselves at home. And taking her at her word, they have come trooping in, and brought with them all the cousins and aunts and in-laws. Such fabrics! We never had their like before the war.

Fascinating Array of "Yard Goods."

The "yard goods" section of the big stores look like veritable rainbows with their fascinating array of colors with many new shades, including periwinkle blue and dandelion yellow, canna, mohawk and henna. Then there are buttercup, jade, lilac, Belgian blue, silver grey, rose, red, brown, navy and black. There are many shades of tan and of these beaver is the best.

In materials crepe de chines, georgettes and satins are dignified with their new-old Paisley patterns and wool crepe is very good.

Nothing seems to exceed Canton crepe however in popularity, and it comes not only in all the vivid colors but in novelty effects.

Rough Effects.

But when it comes to the wools, fashion seems to believe in "treating them rough" this season, for the best materials for sport purposes are nearly all in the picked up, bath towel, rough effects. Tweed is a big number while homespuns, ratines and eponge are very good. There are all sorts of good looking skirtings in stripes and block checks and almost every one has at least a stripe of roughness to proclaim its up-to-dateness.

Wool canton crepe, soft and drapy looking, is found in a splendid variety of shades.

The feminine portion of London will surely have no difficulty in finding materials and colors to suit the most exacting taste for there is a wealth of both from which to choose.

And as for dresses—crepe, crepe, crepe. I saw such an alluring array of crepe gowns that it seemed they deserved a whole chapter for themselves. Besides, after so bewildering a display of charms, my poor brain was in such a whirl, I did not feel equal to looking at anything else. Words seem drab alongside of their gayness.

You know how it is with people, each has his prominent feature. So it is with dresses. One year it's the style of the skirt that counts. Another year, a certain type of trimming. But this year it is the sleeve that dominates. And such sleeves, graceful and with unexpected tricks. There are many long sleeves. Some of these wide and full at the bottom are caught into the merest bit of a narrow waistband. Others are seamed straight across the bottom, with a slit at the side where the hand slips through Japanese kimono fashion. Any number of them just hand loose. Some have an old-fashioned puff of contracting material reaching from elbow to wrist.

The Last the Best.

But I have saved the best till the last. The feature of features is the slit that runs from shoulder to wrist, revealing, yet half concealing the wearer's arm. In some, the edges of this slit are beaded. Sometimes the slit is only a few inches instead of running the full sleeve length. Dame Fashion has never had anything up her stylish sleeve more charming than this coquettish slash. You must have at least one dress with this sleeve!

Necks, I mean of dresses, are very unassuming this spring. Simple little round affairs, or bateau shaped, meaning like a boat. They seem to have loaned their former decorations to sister sleeve.

Skirts may be longer elsewhere, but they tell me the lengthening process has so far meant nothing in London's young life. If you see a skirt that looks longer and fuller, look again and be sure that this appearance is not merely a matter of deceiving panels. Such seems to be their mission this spring. The skirts chief glory just now is its panel, accordion pleated, or of contrasting material, wonderfully embroidered or beaded.

We thought we were beaded ladies' heretofore, but that was a mere nothing compared to what is in store for us this season. Many dresses are beaded all over. It certainly is a gorgeous year in dresses. Beads are being dyed to match the material on which they are to be used.

Suits have come to their own again in the fashion world. After at least a year of comparative unpopularity, the suit now bids fair to rival cloak and gown for street wear. It appears in the London shops in a number of ravishing styles.

It is no longer a strictly tailored model but is fashioned after the order of an intensely becoming costume, often with the coat hanging in soft folds from the shoulders, of an underblouse peeping below the sleeve or from between the lapels. Cape costumes, by the way, are one of the newest things and are seen in a variety of fascinating styles in the London shops.

Practically the only approach to a tailored suit is that which is fashioned of tweed or homespun for sports wear.

Hats too have absorbed their share of the brilliant colors, which characterize this season. They are to be found in the city shops in as many shapes and combinations of colors as may be devised. It is not a season of one or two predominating styles, as far as millinery goes. Everything that is becoming is good, and "milady" should find no difficulty in finding something to her liking.

I feel as though in the discussing of the new gowns, I could easily emulate Tennyson's brook and run on and on forever. But it is not permitted. I have left until the last an angle of the dress topic that always interests, viz., the prices. At the price of two years ago, in the things of moderate cost, one can now get a frock that is of better material, better workmanship, and more individual style. But gowns can be bought as just as high prices as ever before. If you have, say, $30, to spend for a dress, go into a reliable store where you may find a good range of prices, and look at the group of dresses around that price. Stay away from even so much as looking at the higher priced things. It only bewilders you. There are enormously high priced things, exquisite, exotic in their loveliness. But there also are adorable, medium priced dresses. There is no reason why any woman cannot be becomingly frocked in the most fetching of the new spring styles without draining her finances.

Just take yourself out on a sight-seeing tour the next sunny day and you will realize exactly what I mean.

ORIGINALITY IN NEW FOOTWEAR

Latest Trend Ranges From Sandal Effect to Satin Pump.

OXFORDS AGAIN POPULAR

New Shoes Will Be Shown On Lasts of New Character.

The cardinal features of the trend of styles in Milady's footwear can be classified into four pathways—first, fancy foot coverings on the sandal order to express youth; second, satins and patents, at the crest of their popularity; third, the perpetual popular Oxford, and fourth, the growing demand for vigorous types of sport footwear.

At the Chicago shoe style show in January, a decidedly well-received shoe was the smart patent leather one-strap slipper; the trim strap comes right over the waistline of the foot and grips the sides, preventing gaping and slipping. It was a style which started in the highest custom shoemaking, and has been growing and growing in popularity. It is just that major fraction of an inch below the regular ankle strap that pleases the eye and the fitting of the foot. Strap opera pumps in the junior Louis and Spanish heel show a smart simplicity. Fastenings are mostly buckles, although the button will always be popular.

Oxfords can be given style features by combinations of grain and smooth finished leathers, in apron or quarter effects. Black or lighter shades of brown, with the military or else the decided flat cut, are the most popular. There has been a tendency along the line of substituting a buckle strap effect in a welt sole in place of the oxfords. These have been featured quite favorably. Patent leather oxfords with fancy stitchings have been well received.

Sport Shoes Popular.

Milady must have sport shoes, not necessarily for golf, or such other vigorous sports, but for street wear, on the beach; they can practically be worn any time during the day. Summer costumes permit the wearing of sport shoes so we find very beautiful snappy, black and white combinations in buck or canvas, with apron or quarter effects, fancy stitchings, and of course, the extreme low heel.

Dress-up is the keynote of men's styles. Oxfords are in for keeps, and will be stronger than ever in young men's footwear. Smooth leathers and patterns less ornate in design seem to be the style note in the dressier types of men's footwear. Not all the ornamentation has disappeared, nor is it likely to become obsolete; ball straps and similar decorations have had their day, even the Fleur-de-lis and similar designs on the tips are in less favor.

The plain toe sport oxford with apron or saddle of contrasting shade is being played for a winner. Among young men for a later spring style. Soles are either rubber or leather. Thus has golf played its part in influencing foot dress for street wear. Likewise has it made tweeds and similar wears of cloth popular for street wear.

New lasts will be shown on the French order from a medium narrow to a wide, square toe. A new last is a French last made on a semi-soft square toe. For the high-class city trade, a medium round toe, swing last, and the walking toe effect is very good. The last coming back is the original English last of years ago with a rather shorter foreart (than heretofore shown) with a barrel shaped toe. Heels are standard in heights.

Artistry Enters Into Designs for Tots' Wardrobe Same as Grown-Ups

In this day and age clothes for tiny tots are as carefully designed, are as much the inspiration of artists as are their grownup sisters' and brothers'. Every type of youngster has been considered this spring and infinite tenderness and understanding has been put into the designing of their new clothes.

Little folks of discerning tastes often find the styles of their cunning frocks and suits somewhat limited by what grownups call "suitable for children," but this season their fastidious desires may be freely expressed and given free rein in the realm of colors. All colors of the rainbow are being used, and also those older shades, which have hitherto been confined to grownups' apparel. Even black is now very often used for the most serviceable play frocks.

Today, mothers have more pleasure in selecting little brother's and sister's clothes than in the planning of their own, for they realize fully their importance in the development of the child, and that the precious imagination which makes childhood's days the happiest must be understood and sympathized with. The designer realizes this, too, and creates rompers of bright yellow with tiny downy ducks chasing each other in applique over the surface of these cunning garments.

As much ingenuity is expended on babies' clothes as on the clothes of children ready for school. Almost every shop now has a department devoted to babies' wants, and here everything for the youngest member of the family may be found, from a rattle to a high chair. Of course, the tot's clothes are given most attention, and this spring the modeis are unusually lovely, coming in many new and exquisite materials.

Little hand-made garments are as ever the choice of many mothers, and these are fashioned of a much finer batiste than was ever used before.

Their daintiness leaves a lasting impression, for the embroideries are exquisite, lace and drawn work are very effectively used, and also tiny pin tucks and French knots are much in evidence.

The cunningest little capes for babies are fashioned of organdie and show as their trimmings, real lace edgings, pin tucks and feather stitching. Organdie has proved more successful than batiste for bonnets too, as this material with its crisp daintiness retains its shape.

When baby goes to a party she is dressed in pastel shades or white and though her choice in colors is limited, she does insist that her little frock be fashioned of either dotted swiss, organdie, crepe de chine or French voile. She is not limited to one trimming either, but may have it embroidered, hemstitched, or smocked this season, or if she prefers, lace edging, self ruffles, or applique.

Littlest sister, who is past the crawling stage, may find her party frock as elaborate as her big sister's, if she does not favor the simpler styles especially designed for her. It will probably be sleeveless, and if it follows the mode of so many, will have openwork at the shoulder seams. Her play dress, however, is most often made of pongee, English print or gingham, and to these little dresses there are almost always attached bloomers of the same fabric.

One of the shops shows an unusual little frock of dark blue linen. Its bonnet of self material has a childish strip fastening under the chin. The clusters of field buttercups caught at the waist and on the hat might have been gathered by little hands and applied to suit the youthful fancy.

The simplicity of the two types of frocks requiring bloused guimps is very smart indeed. There are those made with bretelle suspenders from the waistline up and those that originated from the women's sleeveless frock of last year. Although most of the cunning little bloused guimpes worn with them are white of poplin or soisette, checked gingham makes adorable little tailored blouses. And these are finished with tiny plaited trimming just like mother's.

A cape is very essential to every little girl's happiness this spring. Many of them are the little Red Riding Hood type and some even resemble hers in color also. In others the hood is omitted, and instead a jaunty little hat of some soft fabric is worn.

Whatever the frock or the age of the child wearing it, its simplicity of design stands out as nothing else does. In that respect, clothes of tiny folk resemble grownups more than ever before. Moreover the younger generation today seem, even before they reach the sub-deb stage, to have acquired a discriminating taste that is hardly excelled by their parents in the selection of their grownup wardrobes.

LIMIT TIME.

Dough should not be allowed to remain long after it has come up, else the bread which results is liable to be sour.

WASHING GLASS.

A towel put in the bottom of the pan in which you wash cut glass eliminates some of the danger of breakage. A little ammonia or baking soda added to the water gives it lustre.

KEEP CIDER SWEET.

When barreling cider put into each keg or barrel, eight large tablespoonfuls of white mustard seed. This will retard the process of becoming hard or sour.

NON-INFLAMMABLE.

Flannel can be made non-inflammable if it is dipped into water in which an ounce of sal-ammoniac or alum has been dissolved. This must be done after washing and rinsing the garment.

STRAW is usually combined with fabric in the hats of borrowed from the Chinese, is continued. Taffeta i the new season, and the present method of using lacquer, s not beneath consideration of the highest. Silver cloth and silver paint make their appearance to match frocks.

STORES FEATURE WEALTH OF QUALITY FABRICS OF BEAUTY

New Lingerie Reflects Spring's Loveliness

In the well known words of Alice's friend, the walrus, "the time has come" but now it is to think of spring fashions rather than "cabbages and kings."

Weather prognosticators and others may prate to their heart's content of winter winds and snow yet to come, but Dame Fashion goes unconcernedly about her affairs and prepares milady's wardrobe for the coming season. And London shops are already blossoming forth with the dainty garments she has selected for the season.

The stores seem fairly overflowing with fresh spring supplies of suits, dresses, wraps, blouses—in fact everything one may need. The materials are no less engaging. The shimmering silks and satins that trail their lengths over counters send forth an almost irresistible invitation to the woman who fashions her own garments.

Then, too, there are the crisp little ginghams that make such attractive house dresses and even for warm weather shopping tours and trips down town. The summer and spring materials always lend themselves so much more readily to the attempts of an amateur seamstress than do the heavier, more burdensome winter fabrics. And any woman interested in sewing will certainly get an unlimited supply of ideas from a trip through the departments of Dundas and Richmond street stores.

But however delightful the materials themselves may be the department where they are shown already made up is ever so much more satisfying. Visions of future glories are all very well, but present realities are always to be preferred to visions which sometimes fail to materialize.

Demand for Spring Dresses.

The biggest demand at present seems to be for spring dresses, and many a winter coat hides the glories of a new spring frock while unfavorable weather conditions prevail. Taffeta, georgette, crepe de chine and canton seem to be most favored materials and they come in a bewildering variety of colors. Jade, rust, bisque and gold vie with the more somber navies and blacks. Favorite trimmings are chenille and metal combined, and beads. From present indications fancy girdles will repeat a great deal of the popularity they enjoyed during the fall season. Bead necklaces and earrings are enjoying quite a demand as dress accessories. The importations being shown this season are moderately priced.

Silver Beads Popular.

One attractive little dress is fashioned from canton in a rust shade. The lines are straight and long box pleats add to the general slender effect. Silver beads are used in the greatest possible profusion. In every conceivable place these beads have been placed and the effect is quite striking. Another attractive frock was of black crepe de chine, long waisted and with narrow panels lined with red. These models of dark colors relieved by unexpected dashes of brilliant reds, greens and yellows are especially popular this season and are quite effective. Many models display the new tabs on skirt and even a few on sleeves. These tabs are usually lined with some contrasting material in a vivid hue which combines nicely with the shade being featured in the dress.

Coat Suits Attractive.

The line of suits displayed this season is really lovely. Poiret twills and tricotines in navy blue seem to predominate for early spring wear but there are indications that the pastel shades will be much used later in the season. One shop displays a particularly tempting little sport suit which is modeled from trelaine, a new fabric rather akin to jersey but more durable and fitting more snugly. The coat is made in tuxedo style with large pockets and a narrow belt. The skirt is quite plain with set-in pockets which, by the way, seem the newest thing and are found in nearly all suits. The color of this suit is one that seems to be nameless. It is between a tan and a brown and almost seems to be either.

Other suits are trimmed with braids of various kinds and some are plentifully besprinkled with buttons. The lines are long, the coat's either worn with a narrow belt or flowing, and skirts are longer by several inches. They are still not wide but are this season several inches nearer the floor than they were during the past few years.

As the finishing touch for the new suits are shown wonderful little blouses of georgette, crepe de chine, canton and Jap silk. The overblouse seems constantly gaining in popularity and most of those displayed are of this pattern. One of the newest tendencies in sleeves is exemplified by many of the blouse models. The sleeve becomes quite full at the wrist and then is drawn in by a narrow ribbon. Pleatings of various kinds are much in evidence on the blouses and lend themselves to many uses. One navy blue georgette model has a front panel made entirely of plaiting of the same material. Another unusual model was of white canton crepe with stitching in red, yellow and blue. Tan and gold, tan and lavender, and brown and lavender are favorite combinations in blouses. There seems to be but little elaborate embroidery this season and the plainer models are meeting with vast success. They appeal to the majority of women and are really in very much better taste.

Prices Are Lower.

Through all the departments of local shops there is a visibly lower trend in prices. This comes as joyous news to the average woman who never has any too much money to expend upon her wardrobe. And it it equally true that the workmanship and materials have improved recently. In fact many of the materials and garments displayed remind one of times "befoah de wa'" to such an extent have the prices been reduced. A trip through local stores convinces one that Canada's return to its commercial equilibrium is not discouragingly far in the future.

Expert Outlines Entry of Art and Beauty Into Canadian Furniture

BY JAMES C. RAIT.

There is no greater romance than the story of the development of the Canadian furniture industry.

In the years previous to the world war, the furniture sold in most of our furniture stores lacked beauty in design, reflecting the years of immigration when many came to this country with purses none too heavy and were compelled by financial circumstances to buy plain, cheap inferior goods that cost little.

Our factories turned out only furniture of the mediocre variety. No doubt there were a few specializing in the medium grades, but any furniture that could boast of anything more than its cheapness in price, was usually imported from across the border. The workmen in our Canadian plants were poorly paid, one factory proprietor with whom I am well acquainted told me quite recently that in pre-war days he could get a fairly good mechanic at $1.50 per day, and in some cases less. Under these conditions is it any wonder that furniture in this country lacked real Canadian personality.

Change Noted.

About a year before the war a marked change was noted for the first time.

Previous to this Colonial and Mission were the only two designs that were at all distinctive. Now a new design was added, the twisted leg, an adaptation from the Jacobean motif, and this was really the beginning of what is known as Period furniture in this country. Not that it was true to period, far from it, but it was the first milestone in the manufacture of better class furniture.

In the second year of the war, although immigration had practically ceased, everybody seemed to want some of the things they had only dreamed of before; money was free, spending still freer.

Furniture became more distinctive as to design. Manufacturers vied with each other in turning out something new and something different in design; as one design caught the public fancy every factory started in to build it; the period it most closely resembled was stuck onto it.

As time went on, and during the last two or three years especially, manufacturers began to copy more closely the old masters, and many of our old fads, fittings particularly, began to slowly disappear. For instance, the beveling on mirrors, curved backs on buffets, and mirrored china cabinets, are things of the past.

Woods and Finishes.

The new designs came new finishes. Where oak, birch, and maple had held full sway, and later walnut popular fancy. Bright, which gave way to dull, little time high lights, mirage, and very natural hardware took the place of bright, polished handles which were in evidence.

What most of the foregoing remarks principally to case goods, the same is true of the novelties. Their use has increased, old forgotten ideas were again put on the market, such as the Martha Washington sewing table, and a host of others, the real value of which was ornamental rather than useful.

At this time greater attention is being paid to comfort, and we see the parlor, and reception room fade away and the living-room take its place, with its deep-seated Chesterfields and big, roomy, easy chairs.

During this period of evolution it is natural to suppose that our factories progressed, and developed. The manufacturing of furniture was put on a level, which no one with the interest of Canadian industry at heart would like to see lowered. Labor was paid at a rate commensurate with their knowledge and ability, and art and beauty resulted.

COLORS BLAZE THIS SPRING

Is Predominating Characteristic of Miss Fashion of 1922, Head to Heels.

PARIS TABOOS BLUE

Taffetas Lead Materials, But Nothing Sombre—Always Color If Only In Splashes.

COLOR is the most noticeable thing about the fashions for spring. For several seasons women have gone about dressed in black from the top of their hats to the soles of their shoes. All that is now passed and we see color from the tip top of the hat to the colored heels of her shoes.

Nor is Color modest about announcing herself one of the chief characteristics of the spring garments. There is nothing modest about it. It arrives in a blaze and a blare, in all the brightest shades and in the most intense hues. It is the first thing one sees when looking over the spring clothes.

Navy is perhaps the most popular color for gowns and suits, though Paris has been quoted as saying that navy is not to be on her color card this year. Yet Canadian women love their tailored navy suits, and every Canadian wardrobe must have at least one smart navy dress hung away for at least a filler for the unusual occasion. That time that comes occasionally into every woman's life when her first thought is: "I have not one thing to wear." Then comes the second thought: "Why there is that navy dress!" and then that grand and glorious feeling that she is all fixed with just the most appropriate gown she could possibly desire.

Canadian designers know all about this. Some of them have had the experience themselves. Others have had the experience of several years of business, and still others have studied the Canadian women and their national taste and the answer is the navy blue dress.

Show Navy.

The result is that every display room shows navy dresses. There are taffetas and all the long list of crepy materials, from the heavy crepeonge to the thinnest of georgettes. However, none of them are all navy. Every dress has its dash of color, in some they might almost be called splashes. It may be a piping, it may be a facing, it may be a little corsage at the belt of a bunch of flat appliqued felt flowers that blossom on the front of the taffeta skirt just above each pocket. One little taffeta followed a fantastic idea and the skirt and part of the blouse were recklessly covered with tiny round disks of color in many colors which give the impression of its having passed through a confetti shower.

Of course, there are taffetas by the dozens everywhere. Not all of them are navy, but many are developed in brown or black, but all have their bright spots where they blaze forth in flamingo, tomato, jade, orange, fuchsia, or some other brilliant color spot. There is a certain crispness about taffeta that makes it a perennial that appears just as regularly as Easter comes around. This year they are made in snug fitting basque effects that have round or square neck lines, short puffy sleeves and short puffy skirts that are made more puffy by rows and festoons of narrow flutings, ruches or ruffles which are often edged with a picot of colored silk.

More color is introduced in medallions of embroidery, in colors and in the metallic threads. Many of these embroidered designs are imported fabrics that are specially made in dress lengths, others are worked in by the designer according to her own ideas and the cut of the garment.

Soft crepy dresses continue to hang straight from the shoulder, and are self-girdled by subtle draping of the material and attain an uneven hem line by means of side panels. Frequently these panels are faced with contrasting color, as are the sleeves.

One charming dinner dress made of the new shade, Madelon blue, is made over an orchid satin slip which shimmers through, giving a delightful color effect. The dress is unadorned save for straight double panels at the sides and a self colored ribbon covered cord that places itself as it ties about the waist.

Coat dresses of cloth and silk are both good and promise to be quite a feature in every wardrobe for spring. Of the former one of the most striking is a chemise like slip of dark blue Poiret twill on which has been embroidered an allover design with black ribbonzeen. The sleeves are set in, but are the depth of the waist, and are patterned after those of a Chinese mandarin and are faced with fuchsia crepe.

One of the new silks known as Ripple Wave is used for another interesting coat dress. The long straight lines of the dress are girdled with a soft taffeta sash and the reveres fall back disclosing a vest of real lace, on one side of which is a tiny boutonniere of tiny French flowers. The sleeves are three quarter length and full.

Foulards and pussy willow printed in foulard patterns are fascinating this year in color and design and will no doubt be very popular for spring. The soft silk lends itself to gracefully draped skirts, unique sleeve effects, and combines nicely with plain colored materials in either silk or wool.

For so many seasons the severe neckline, boat shaped and unadorned has been found a very trying fashion for many. Those will rejoice in the fact that many of the new dresses are shown with colors and vestees of real lace, embroidered batiste or organdy. Some of the dresses retain the boat shape neck line but in the majority this is modified, cut deeper at the front, while others break entirely from it and are square in shape.

Sports clothes seem to be outdoing themselves this spring, in color, fabrics and design. Perhaps the color combination that stands out is red and white. It appears in suits, hats and shoes. Dresses, made with white blouses that stretch down into red skirts, and red skirts that reach up on white blouses are worn with capes of red. To go with such a costume are white stockings clocked in red and white oxfords that have red heels and red kid appliqued in perforated designs.

Yellow and white is another popular combination and probably stands second in the season's scale of color schemes for sports wear, orchid being third.

Dress and Cape.

The dress and cape combination is the smartest version of the sports costume. The dresses made on simple lines trimmed with embroidery with white on color and color on white. The cape is of the color used and often carries out the same trimming design in bands of embroidery.

Sports hats are simple. They may be large or small, but for trimming they have a cabachon of beads or a band of ribbon. A few are trimmed with short quills.

Another outfit appropriate for summer sports wears is the slip-over sweater and the checked or striped skirt. In some costumes the order is reversed and the supper part of the garment has all the color and pattern and the skirt is the plain color that predominates in the slip-on. In color and design many of these have gotten inspiration from the Orient as well as from some of the primitive Indian designs and are rich in color.

Knitted dresses which have been trying for seasons to make a place for themselves in Canadian wardrobes seem to have at last forced themselves in and are to be worn a lot this year. They are more attractive in color and design than ever before and are much better suited to the chic lines of the figure.

Many of them are shown with a knitted cape and in the silks are dressy and striking. Suits for street wear are varied in design. Some of those made in dark blues are very close fitting to the waist, from which they flare and fall in ripples and points, many of them trimmed with braid tassels and even silk fringes.

Of course, there are more simple models which hang in straight tailored simple lines, some of them box shaped, others held close to the figure with a narrow belt of leather or material stitched. Following this style are many suits of covert cloth. The skirts of all the suits are short, straight and for the most part untrimmed.

Another version of the suit for spring is fashioned on more informal lines and looks like a sports suit. The skirt is made of flannel in a check or plaid design and the coat of jersey or flannel is plain color belted and pocketed with trimmings and collar of the material to match the skirt.

Tweeds and homespuns are also combined in plain and checked material and are seen in sports costumes. Some of them are in the skirt and coat suits and others are the dresses and capes. The dresses are made to wear with blouses, or without, and the capes are made so that they can be fastened to the back of the dress and worn wrapped about the figure or falling loose.

LONDON STORES OFFER PRACTICAL MODES OF REAL CHARM

BATEAU NECKS AND LOW LINES WINNING FAVOR

Latest Blouses Feature Many Attractive Novelties of Chic Dress.

KIMONO SLEEVE IN FAVOR

Deep Arm Hole and Huge Sleeve Also Emphasized In Models.

THE smart costume blouse, for wear with the new spring suit, is an indispensable article of dress this season, and this being so, it is interesting to note that the many attractive novelties that have been introduced in its general lines and its various modes of trimming.

Whether one intends to purchase one or more of the many attractive versions of the costume blouses or to make it at home (if one be happily gifted in that direction), previous careful consideration of the newest and most important style features will be found to be a wonderful help in the matter.

Various kinds of crepe fabrics, such as crepe marocain, canton crepe, Roshanara crepe, as well as the ever-popular georgette and crepe de chine are used extensively to fashion the new blouses.

In accordance with the present vogue, the bateau neck-line is much featured and the low waist-line is a distinguishing characteristic of these latest models. Whilst the kimono sleeve again ranks high in favor, set-in sleeves are also much used. The very deep arm hole and the popular huge sleeve, either flaring or drawn in at the wrist into a cuff, are emphasized in many instances. Blouses with reglan sleeves are also very smart and up-to-date.

May Be Long.

With regard to length, the blouse sleeve may be quite long, three-quarter length, or above the elbow.

The blouse without sleeves has also gained much favor as the smart and convenient accompaniment of the spring or summer suit.

The much approved, one-sided effect is shown, in some instances the blouse frequently closing at the left side with a row or rows of buttons, or, perhaps the long sash-ends of the blouse may be tied at the side, thus achieving the one-sided effect.

The lines of the surplice waist are very becoming to the average woman and in one charming and clever model, a costume blouse made in surplice fashion, glides gracefully into a belt of the fabric, so that the finish of the skirt and the blouse are one and the same thing, being so skilfully united. This particular model is developed in apricot chiffon. It has short kimono sleeves and is trimmed with bands of beaded embroidery, in pastel shades, which combine with the apricot tone to produce a lovely, subtle color scheme.

Of very simple construction, another graceful model exemplifies the charm of a belt, that is a distinct part of the blouse itself and yet serves to finish it in such a way that it makes a soft waist-line and blends almost imperceptibly with the skirt which accompenies it. Embroidery in Bulgarian colors, on the front, the belt and the short sleeves, glorifies this smartly simple blouse, which is made of one of the new satin crepes that are finished without a gloss.

Amongst the many novelties in the way of trimming, introduced this season in Canada, may fittingly be mentioned a Parisian idea, which, although used on a frock of white georgette, might be used equally effectively to adorn a smart over-blouse. This charming trimming consists of an embroidered floral design, in which lots of taffeta, in pale colors are used to make the flower petals. These are held in place by outlines of rat-tail braid and are suggestive of scattered rose leaves.

Drawn-work, in wide bands, is another new trimming being used for frocks of crepe de chine and this idea again, might equally well apply to the over-blouse, developed in this material and will furnish a timely suggestion to the woman who is seeking a novel adornment for the blouse she is planning to make for spring wear. Lattice-work trimming is also extremely decorative.

For strictly tailored wear, the blouse of batiste or silk is smartness itself. An edging of Irish crochet gives a dainty finish to many waists of handkerchief linen or white batiste, which are frequently, further ornamented with drawn-work, tucks or frills. Trimming bands, embroidered in bright colors, also add charm to many otherwise simple waists.

RENEWING CURTAINS.

If the cretonne curtains are faded after being washed iron them and while they are still warm go over the designs with wax crayons, lightly where the color was delicate and using more color where it was deeper. Then using a paper over them, iron them once more. The effect is quite like new.

FRUITS.

Fruits, in bunches, are being used on hats shown for spring. Occasionally one sees grapes, vivid tangerines and small peaches, all trimming the same hat.

Notes Vary in New Spring Hats

SPRING HATS—some are new and some are not. That is to say, some are of such a general type that they have been seen for any number of springs past, showing no particular new note; and some are distinctly of this season, showing new notes that belong only to the spring of nineteen-twenty-two.

Above are four "new" hats, each with one or more distinct features that stamp it strictly up-to-the-minute.

The first, sketched in the upper left-hand corner, is a tri-corne. Its new point are first, that it is a small tri-corne; its brim is turned back smack up against the brim; it is Chinese lacquer red; and it has two long matching quills passing over the snug crown and hanging down the back to the waist. A hat new in size, shape, color, and brim — and very smart to top a blue serge spring suit.

The large hat directly below it has a milan crown and a gros de londres brim on which rest shining black patent leather lilies, as new as anything, and a round dozen of 'em.

Sing a song of blackbirds—the third sketch shows a chorus of them perched on a milan turban. Not four-and-twenty, but a few that are just as effective. And for their new note, they are lacquered. Birds are going in for this lacquer finish extensively!

The hat in the photo is a picturesque model is visca braid, the millinery star of the season. It is trimmed in three lovely delicately-tinted roses, two on the brim and one under it, and some "old blue" velvet ribbon that matches the straw. The shape is a generous, broad poke, brim slightly turned up at the back. The ribbons are long and can tie under the chin or over the shoulders. Any way at all—and any way it presents a charming ingenue type of hat that ought to be in the wardrobe of any jeune fille.

HABERDASHERY PRICES REACH PRE-WAR LEVEL

Pencil Stripes and Small Checks To Be Style in Silk Shirts.

SOFT COLLARS TO REIGN

Silk Grenadines in Narrow Neat Lines Will Dominate in Ties.

BACK on the road to normalcy—that in a nutshell tells the story of spring haberdashery. Merchandise has been restored to a sane basis; prices, too, have struck the toboggan until today they are down to pre-war levels.

The silk shirt that cost $18 two years ago is a relic of the past and unless the unforeseen happens prices never will reach these heights again. And with the fabulously priced shirt goes the once prohibitively priced neckwear—the kind that once sold for $8 to $10.

Today a man wishing the choicest quality of silk shirt need not pay any more than $10 to $12. With reduced prices prevailing the return to the silk shirt comes easier than ever and if the early business of spring is any criterion for the next few weeks white silk shirts will be quite popular.

White Silk Shirts Favored.

Of course the colored and striped silk shirts will have quite a call, but do not promise to swamp the field. In white silks the better grades will meet with favor—particularly the baby broadcloths and jersey knits. Such silks have been found to be unusually durable, stand the gaff of rough laundry work and give almost as much service as a good madras shirt.

The broader striped silk shirts will not be worn as much as heretofore, although there will be a certain class of dressers who will demand them. The tendency is toward the pin stripes, pencil stripes and small checks. And an air of refinement is shown in the patterns. There also is a better grade of workmanship.

With reduced demand in the last year the shirt tailors have been able to give more time to the finer things in their merchandise, such as neater machine work and better fit. At no time in the shirt business has the ready-to-wear product approached the custom-tailored variety so closely as today—that is, in the better grades.

Collar-Attached Shirts.

Fiber silks will cotninue popular, but it is not believed the demand will be as great as in the past. This is due to the fact that excellent grades of madras shirts—both domestic and foreign—have replaced them.

The shirt that promises to be worn more than ever is the collar-attached shirt. This season there will be shown a greater variety than ever, with more styles of collars than in the past. The workmanship in these shirts also will be a much better grade than heretofore. And the two-button band cuff will be seen more frequently. Flannel shirts also will be worn by good dressers, particularly the kind of flannel that comes from France and England.

Neckwear prices are as low as they have been in several years—and the best news is the fact that makers have put more style and more service into them. There will be more cravats cut along the straight lines than ever before. That means the silk ties will give the wearer longer service—in fact will live almost as long as the silk knitted variety.

Silk Grenadines Liked.

Among the most popular brands will be the silk grenadines cut along narrow, neat lines to fit the smaller collars which have become the vogue in the last two years.

Few changes will mark hosiery this season. Good silks, with clocks and other novel designs, will be worn extensively, while in the early spring cassimeres, camel hair and imported worsted will get a big play. There will be a good selection of silk accordions and embroidered effects, but it is not believed the showing will be as extensive as in other years. The colors will be very much like last spring, but there will be more of the cordovan shades to match the oxfords of those tones.

Glove styles and colors will remain very much as they have in the past few seasons. Cape, Arabian mocha, suede, buck and chamois in standard colors or off shades will furnish the bulk of variety for 1922. Spear or embroidered backs are about the only ornamentations that will appear. Pearl buttons are slightly favored over old-time clasps.

In pyjamas there really is nothing new. Plain and pattern effects of madras, percales, crepes, chambrays, soisette, fiber silk and pure silk with the French neck will again be in popular demand.

Soft collars will win over a lot of starched collared gentry. But the "stiff" collar, because of lowered prices, will have quite a call, particularly the two and three ply variety, measuring about an inch and a half in height.

As for underwear, belts, jewelry, handkerchiefs and walking sticks, there are few changes to be noted.

BLUEBERRY STAIN.

To remove a blueberry stain, put the cloth over a bowl, pour boiling water over the stain and let remain until dry. The stain will disappear.

SMART TIES.

Quite the newest and smartest tie for the college or high school girl to wear with her tailored blouse is a man's four-in-hand.

Mason & Risch Grand Piano.

The Choice for the Spring Style Show

Just as the Mendelssohn Choir and all large musical organizations insist on Canada's Premier Piano, the Mason & Risch, at their recitals, to give full scope to their artistic ability, so did the Fashion Show, which is at the Grand Opera House, the week of March 13, when an instrument was needed, not only for its wonderful tonal qualities, but for its artistic design and appearance, unhesitatingly choose the Mason & Risch Grand Piano, as the instrument which would answer these demands, as no other could.

The cumulative experience of fifty patient years has gone into the building of the Mason & Risch Piano of today.

SPORT TOGS ULTRA SMART FOR LONDON SEASON

LONDON, England, March 10.—We used to say that she was a "sports type" or not that particular type. Now sport clothes are made for so many types and in so many varying styles and fashions that almost anyone can fit into a sport outfit. And the happy part about these durable, wearable clothes is this: They can be worn in town, in the country, for traveling—in fact for almost any conceivable occasion.

That is because they are the vogue, and many women there are who hope that they will always remain so much in public favor.

Women can afford to feel free when they are dressed in sporting togs. They are then in some position to begin to forget about their clothes and to be natural as far as their own personalities are concerned. And as for knickerbockers—well, they are the acme of comfort and ease—something which hardly entered the dreaming states of the freest women before this miraculous season set in upon us.

Now, if knickerbockers are your expression, why, wear them, says Dame Fashion, and if she starts out on a tack of this sort, who knows but that fashion will sink away altogether. There is no immediate prospect of that contingency, but there is the possibility of such an event none the less.

There are three types of tweeds and homespuns that are exceptionally good for modern wear. They are the suit, the two-piece costume consisting of cape and dress or coat and dress, and the knickerbocker suit.

You can see how readily these three can be combined into one costume, if you happen to so desire the combination. You can have a coat, a pair of knickers, a cape and a skirt made all of the same material, and then you can ring the changes of them in combination indefinitely.

You can have a blue and grey plaid suit, i.e., coat and skirt. Then you can have a pair of grey knickers and a cape that is made with one side of blue and the other of grey. What could be lovelier? And yet every time you do a different combination you will have an arrangement that is quite distinct from the one you wore last.

Suits.

The smartest coats of the new season are those that are noticeably short. They have not too many extraneous decorations of pockets, tabs, flaps, etc. They are quite plain in fact. The girls who make a point of wearing this sort of costume are looking their smartest in the strictly tailored suits and suits which, at that, are not stitched and pressed to any marked degree. They have the happy faculty of remaining in the place they are put with the utmost ease, but there is no strained attempt at keeping them there.

The pockets are either set on the outside of the coats or they are inset, as is the case with the more strictly tailored variety of coat. The reverses of the regulation coat are short and very mannish in appearance and there are either one or two buttons depending upon the length of the coat and upon its cut.

Many women are preferring, when their tweeds are made to order, to have a box pleat or a pleat of this sort that is inverted set into the middle of the back so that they shall unmistakably avoid any appearance of the skirt bending in at the line of the knees.

There are other suits with Norfolk jackets and these, though a trifle more youthful in their expression, are none the less interesting. They have rather more of an informal look about them which is particularly adapted to the woman whose shape is long and straight, or short and straight, as so many of the figures of English women are.

There are suits made of interesting combinations of two sorts of tweeds or homespuns, one of which is plaided or striped and the other of which is plain. They are perhaps the newest of all, for they carry with them that freshness that marks them as a product of the new season.

The coats of these are usually made to end somewhere between a distance that is long and one that is short, because the difference in the materials requires a certain length to make it effective.

Often the coats are made of one color of tweed and the skirts of another color and then, as in the illustration on this page, other suits of one color are bound with another color of tweed. In fact things are being done with this thick fabric which never before were considered possible. The designers are, evidently, finding that it is as pliable as silk when it is handled in the right way. And certainly it is as effective as any binding of silk could ever be, for its softness takes its place with the utmost ease and pliability.

Knickerbockers.

Some of the knickerbockers are made like riding trousers—very trim and fitted at the knees, while others of them are puffed out in the manner of bloomers with cuffs below the knees that button around the legs quite snugly. The latter are the ones which are most universally becoming and most easily constructed for that matter. The riding sort are harder to tailor and must be manufactured by a tailor who is expert at his business.

Then the coats for knickers are made with a nice variety of design, to suit all sorts and conditions of figures. There are those which are full and long looking like veritable riding coats and there are those which are simply short Norfolk jackets made to end where a coat of that sort would normally accomplish its finish.

It is interesting to see how many women are actually wearing knickers and in the city, too. For rainy days they are quite the thing and any girl who craves to dress in this fashion in order to express her particular disposition can do so with every assurance that she is doing the right and proper thing.

Stockings are an important asset to the knicker suit. They are thick and woolly and, more often than not, they are rolled at the knees over the cuff of the trousers. They carry out the color or form a contrast to it in the nicest sort of manner, and they help very much with the design of the costume as a whole. Then when the shoes are made of either thick leather or suede, they swing in with the general harmony of the suit in a way that completes it admirably.

For knicker suits all of the accessories must be just right and in total harmony with the whole, for there is no telling what havoc may be wrought if there is any slip-up in the way that the character of shoes, stockings, etc., has been disregarded.

Capes.

For knickers and for suits and, last, but not by any means least, for the one-piece and the sleeveless dress, there is the cape to make the costume complete. Capes for sporting clothes seem to be almost a necessity of the present season. They are straight and quite inconspicuous in their general nature, and they are made to be, frankly, an extra covering of warmth as well as an extremely good-looking adjunct to the sport suit as it has always existed.

Capes are made circular of the very heaviest materials. Then, for the lighter materials, there are those capes that are gathered or pleated into a straight collar and allowed to hang from that point quite uninterruptedly to the end of their lengths. Usually these capes are not lined, for they are heavy and thick enough of themselves to make a sufficient covering. Then, too, the wrong sides of the fabrics are quite as lovely as the right sides of them are, and it would seem a bitter shame to cover them up with anything, even so delicate as the softest of silk linings. Besides, for outdoor wear, silk seems a little out of place, and a cape that can be hauled around and knocked around regardless of any possible spotting to its lining is much more to the point.

Some of the capes match the suits quite faithfully, being made of the same materials, and then there are others which are made of contrasting materials but composed in such a way with the suits that they look unmistakably like parts of the same costume. Then, of course, the beauty of these extra wraps is that they can be worn with other costumes if the occasion demands.

There are wraps made with some semblance of sleeves which are rather taking the place of capes made a'ong the strictest lines. These show every tendency to take the place of capes, but as yet they have not succeeded in wiping the cape from the leadership of fashion in this particular.

Some of the sport suits have capes that are quite short, reaching only to the waistline or a little below that. They are not so warm as the longer ones, of course, but they are surely warm enough for any spring or summer weather, and perhaps they might be a great deal more grateful during those seasons because they were not possessed of so great a quantity of warmth.

Materials.

At Cannes homespuns are the order of the day, and that little hint means that, for summer in this clime, they will be just about as popular. Well, anyone who has ever worn the two materials know well that while a homespun is bearable in summer a tweed simply cannot be contemplated. Then, too, the homespun suits are far more graceful looking, while not being quite so stiff and tailored. They are better suited really to the informalities of the warmer season's wear.

There is a material called trelaine which is softer and finer looking than all the rest. It is suitable for any of the sports clothes, but especially for the capes and one-piece dresses that are made to be worn together. Some of this fabric is woven in stripes and plaids and some of it is plain. On the plain dresses and capes there are embroidered lines and bands arranged so that they look like a part of the material, but which are really so much better looking than any weaving could be. Anyone who is the proud possessor of a suit made of this material is bound to be satisfied, indeed, for it has so many of the qualities that go to make sports clothes appear at their best at all times and places.

The heavier silks are being used in many directions for the summer sports clothes and, of course, they have much in their favor for those who expect to spend their time where the weather is at all hot.

Then there are any amount of silk separate skirts made for wear with both the light and the heavy sweaters. The silks are being perfected every day so that they wash and clean with the utmost ease and perfection. The regulation combination is a silk skirt with a silk shirtwaist and a sweater that matches or harmonizes with the darker tone of the silk in question.

There is also the skirt of white flannel which is among the most popular of them all. It can be worn with a sweater of any color and it always holds its own as one of the smartest to be seen anywhere.

Hats.

The one great difficulty about making sport suits look their best is in choosing the right hat. Do you know that very many women do this thing wrong? While one hat may be quite perfect for the country, the same one will not do at all for the city streets. Then when they come to selecting a sport hat for city wear, that is where the whole difficulty arises. They are either too fancy or too plain about it.

And, if you have any delusions about this sort of hat being of the inexpensive variety, why, there is where you are doomed to disappointment. They are among the most expensive of hats. And because of their tailored outlines their shapes have to be most artistically adjusted before they can be considered to be exactly suitable.

The little round, turned-back brimmed hats are perhaps the most universally becoming. But even those must be adjusted well and suited to the face. You see, there is the most awful chance with a hat of this character of making the face sink into insignificance, or, on the other hand, of making it stand out as much too large a unit for any kind of proportion with the rest of the figure. It is a delicate little trick and a point that any woman will do well to consider at length before making up her mind to a final selection.

There are many hats made of duvetyne and tweed, and these are draped most artistically to suit the faces that wear them. But the news from Paris and the general tendency right here is for blocked straws or felts to be worn now with sport suits and all the way through the summer.

A Bundle of Faggots

You remember how the father in the old fable illustrated the strength of mutual co-operation to his quarrelsome sons. He took a bundle of faggots and showed that, though it was easily possible to break the sticks separately, it was impossible to do so while they were all banded firmly together.

"Unity is Strength"

The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada is the bond which holds nearly 100,000 individuals together in an unbreakable corporate body. Neither the great war nor the influenza plague impaired its stability in the slightest degree. Each individual policyholder gives fair and exact proportion of financial support, and receives in return the full benefit of the social co-operation of his associates, for the financial protection of those dependent upon him, or for himself in advanced years. Fragile Frills in Springtime Lure

The more fastidious a woman is the more carefully she studies her type and dresses according to it. Whether she be an exotic or a typically Canadian type, whether she has the dignity of a queen or is a fairylike, naive little person, she will always delight in the selection of new lingerie, and be most concerned in the quality of the materials and character of the workmanship. Then, of course, design is to be considered, and becomingness.

These considerations not only have become of vital interest to the woman of discerning taste, but how she revels in designing, in planning these exquisite bits of sheer loveliness, where her imagination and love of the beautiful can be given free rein.

Because laundering soon wears out the most practical lingerie, replenishing supplies is necessary almost as often as new designs are introduced. This fact gives the woman who is always searching for the novel in everything a sensible excuse for visiting London shops in the springtime and selecting what is newest and most appealing. However, the more staid and conservative person having determined her type in lingerie as well as gowns prefers to conform to certain materials and trimmings and cares for few innovations in style.

After all is said, what one wears is reflected in mood and temperament, and most of all what one wears underneath. The black negligee still persists and is reflected in the long waisted, bloused robes, that fasten with a single flower of crepe, and show linings of bright color. In the more unusual negligees the Spanish shawl is not forgotten, in colors or black, embroidered and fringed and draped into wrap form. Two shades of chiffon, hemstitched together, succeed, in a naively simple but unforgettable garment for one's intimate hours. Chiffon or ribbon bands cross in front and tie at the sides under a long transparent coat, which hangs gracefully over an accordion plaited skirt of the chiffon. Not to be forgotten is the chiffon negligee of a pastel shade with picoted ruffles at neck and sleeves and the skirt fashioned of multitudinous small ruffles of the chiffon. This is especially becoming to an ingenue type and every debutante or young bride should have such a distinctly feminine negligee in her wardrobe.

When selecting a negligee, one is so entranced with the fascinating array of colors and the sheer loveliness of materials that one comes near to forgetting that fresh supplies of underthings are needed. Not for long, however, can the dainty piles of silken and fine cotton garments be ignored, for the shops are riotous with the color in these bewildering arrays. Never has there been such a season for color in undergarments.

This spring sheer lingerie of fine batiste or nainsook is lovelier than ever. Its sweet simplicity is most appealing. Fine hand hemstitching or embroidery, with edgings of real Valenciennes lace, make this type of lingerie so very desirable.

More entrancing than ever are the silken things. If they are tailored their only trimming is a bit of handwork or hemstitching. If lace is used, one of discriminating taste will naturally select those garments with Venise, filet, Irish or Valenciennes trimming. However, some of the finer imitation laces are very effective, when used in sets of crepe de chine.

The simplest gowns imaginable are often fashioned of crepe black satin in sleeveless style, with deep armholes and V-necks. Picoting is practically the only trimming, except perhaps for a very charming cluster of hand-made silk flowers. The vogue for striking colors is often demonstrated in gowns of this type.

ECZEMA ON FACE AND HEAD FOR FIVE YEARS

Eczema or salt rheum, as it is so often called, manifests itself in little round pimples which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed and the intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to a strong heat, is almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.

There is only one way to get relief and no remedy like

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Take it internally and it gets at the seat of the disease in the blood and drives it out of the system.

Apply it externally and it takes out the itching, stinging and burning, and promotes healthy healing.

Mr. J. Sage, 215 Princess avenue, Vancouver, B. C., writes: "Having suffered with eczema on the face and head, for the last five years, I consulted several doctors, and tried various kinds of salves and lotions, but I derived no benefit from any of them. I did not know what to do until a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used two bottles I began to get better and now after taking eight bottles I have not even a blotch on me. I feel that I cannot praise B. B. B. too highly. I hope you will make full use of this recommendation for the benefit of those who are suffering from this terrible complaint, eczema."

B. B. B. put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Advt.

SUMMER COAT FROCKS

VERY marked is the tendency of summer frocks of silk to partake slightly of the lines of an outdoor wrap, to have a hint of coat or cape about them. Smart little jackets guiltless of sleeves and qute useless save as an ornament and snappy little capes are a part of some of the summer's very smartest garments.

In this Claire gown the straight-lined jacket is made of genuine Paisley—a new use for the handsome old Paisley shawls which are being brought out of old trunks and boxes.

A touch of Paisley bands the sleeves, a girdle of the same material fits loosely around the waist and finishes in a large circular ornament with long fringes.

The skirt and bodice of the frock shown are of periwinkle crepe—a color which brings out the beauty of the Paisley. The skirt is accordian pleated—as are many of the new skirts for which a soft material is used in the fashioning.

TORONTO MERCHANTS NOW EXPECT MORE BUSINESS

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say that business as yet is in the waiting stage: merchants hoping for a revival which it is felt must come, but which as yet has not definitely appeared. Wholesale trade continues to show an irregular trend, reports from merchants varying considerably. Cotton goods are said by some to be moving freely; in fact, in certain quarters it is said that the movement of these is better than it has been for months. Reports on woolens are variable. February generally showed an increase over last year's business, but overhead costs are so high that profits are held down to a narrow margin.

Groceries are moving along in a steady volume, buying being on a hand-to-mouth basis.

Hardware is in good demand, especially builders' supplies. Retail trade is showing some revival with the approach of spring, and may be classed as better.

In men's clothing, new spring clothes were more active, while women's hats, gloves and shoes were more active. Spring openings have done much to stimulate buying. Purchasers, however, continue to show caution, and are looking for full value on their dollar before taking goods.

Industry is picking up in several lines, among which may be mentioned the automobile business, while implements are also a little more active. Automobile men look for increased sales to result from this week's motor show. Textile mills are fairly busy, and the flour mills, while not operating at capacity, are working steadily filling orders booked when the advance in wheat was in progress. A better demand for hardwood exists, coming from motor car manufacturers and piano and furniture makers.

The lumber trade is more buoyant, although higher prices are not expected. High freight rates are blamed by many of the lumbermen for restricting business in this commodity. The building outlook is good, with construction of dwelling houses promising best. Inquiries for structural steel have been heavier. Collections are slow, and this is the drawback at present. In fact, as one man put it, "business would be good if only collections were better."

There is some anxiety in certain parts of Western Ontario, such as Middlesex County, regarding the fall wheat crop, where lack of snow is an unfavorable circumstance. Ice covers the crop in some fields, and there is danger of damage from heaving and freezing.

OPENED MISSION TEN YEARS AGO

TORONTO, March 10.—Activity of sixteen Mormon missionaries in Toronto at the present time does not indicate any sudden or intensified determination on the part of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints to proselytize this city, according to elder Nephi Jensen, president of the Canadian Mission of the Mormon Church.

"The notion seems to be general that our work in Toronto was commenced but recently," Mr. Jensen observed today. "The fact is that we have been doing missionary work here for over ten years. We have had a regularly organized branch of the church here for six years. We have had about 16 missionaries in Toronto during the years 1920 and 1921; our activities here are not any more extensive now than they were during the last two years."

MONTAGU WILL DEFEND ACTION TO LAST DITCH

Former Secretary for India Shows No Sign of Abandoning Position.

PREMIER GIVES HIS VIEW

Says British Have Always Considered Moslems in Framing Policies.

BOMBAY, March 10.—India's non-co-operationist leader, Mohandas K. Ghandi, has been arrested at Ahmedabad, 310 miles north of Bombay. He is charged with sedition.

LONDON, March 10.—There were no further developments in the Indian crisis tonight. It was stated authoritatively that an announcement of the name of the successor of Edwin S. Montagu as secretary for India had been postponed until Monday or Tuesday. It was added that it was virtually certain the new secretary would not be Bonar Law. The eventual resignation of the Earl of Reading as viceroy of India is still regarded as inevitable.

The India incident has intensified the strong feeling between the Liberal and Conservative wings of the Coalition ministry. The Liberal newspapers, without exception, lament that Mr. Montagu allowed himself to be drawn into a "false step"; but some of them think the result would have been the same in any case, because, had he consulted the cabinet and the cabinet had refused to permit publication of the India statement, the secretary would still have resigned as a protest.

The Moslem Viewpoint.

While awaiting reports from India as to the effect of Mr. Montagu's resignation, the position of Viceroy Reading is the chief subject of discussion in the press. Official circles which deal with Indian affairs do not concur in the prevailing opinion that the viceroy necessarily will follow the secretary of state for India in quitting the government. It is stated that Earl Reading certainly was within his right, as far as technicalities were concerned, with regard to the publication of the Indian statement. His action is declared to have been taken evidently in the belief that publication of the Moslem viewpoint concerning the settlement of near eastern affairs was necessary, and he sought and received sanction from the secretary of state for India, the only official of the home government to whom he was responsible.

Resorting To Publicity.

The opinion was expressed tonight that Earl Reading would stand his ground as a champion of Indian rights, but it was considered likely that he might attempt to defend Mr. Montagu's action and thus involve himself in the same kind of disfavor which caused the fall of his chief.

That Mr. Montagu has not altered his opinion concerning the publicity given the Indian situation was evidenced tonight by the activities of his personal secretaries, who got in touch with all sections of the press this afternoon, arranging for the newspapers to give the fullest publicity to Mr. Montagu's speech to his constituents at Cambridge tomorrow.

THE LLOYD GEORGE VIEW.

LONDON, March 10.—Prime Minister Lloyd George with his family left this morning for Criccieth, Wales, for the vacation visit he has been planning. Asked just before he left for an opinion in regard to the publication of the recent message from the Indian government, which led to the resignation of Edwin S. Montagu, the secretary of state for India, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"We have been keeping the balance quite fairly between the Turks and Greeks, and we want real peace in that part of the world. The publication of a document of this sort makes it difficult to negotiate a satisfactory peace.

"As for Moslem opinion in India, we have always paid every regard to it. It had a great influence in the determination of our policy throughout, and we paid great deference to the part the Moslems took in the great war. They are fully entitled to express their opinion, and have the right to expect that we will consider it as an element in the determination of our policy."

INSURANCE FIRMS SUFFER BY HAIL

CALGARY, March 10.—The enormous extent to which hail insurance companies were hit last season will be one of the outstanding features contained in the report of the Hail Insurance Board of Alberta, to be presented at the annual meeting of that organization here on Wednesday next. The total losses sustained by the board amounted to more than two million dollars, or more than twice as much as the average for the last nine years.

The board last year carried a little more than $20,000,000 insurance.

DENIES APPROVAL OF DEPOT PLANS

GUELPH, March 10.—The judgment of the Dominion Railway Board, denying the application of the Grand Trunk Railway for approval of its plans to construct a siding and downtown freight depot in this city was received this afternoon.

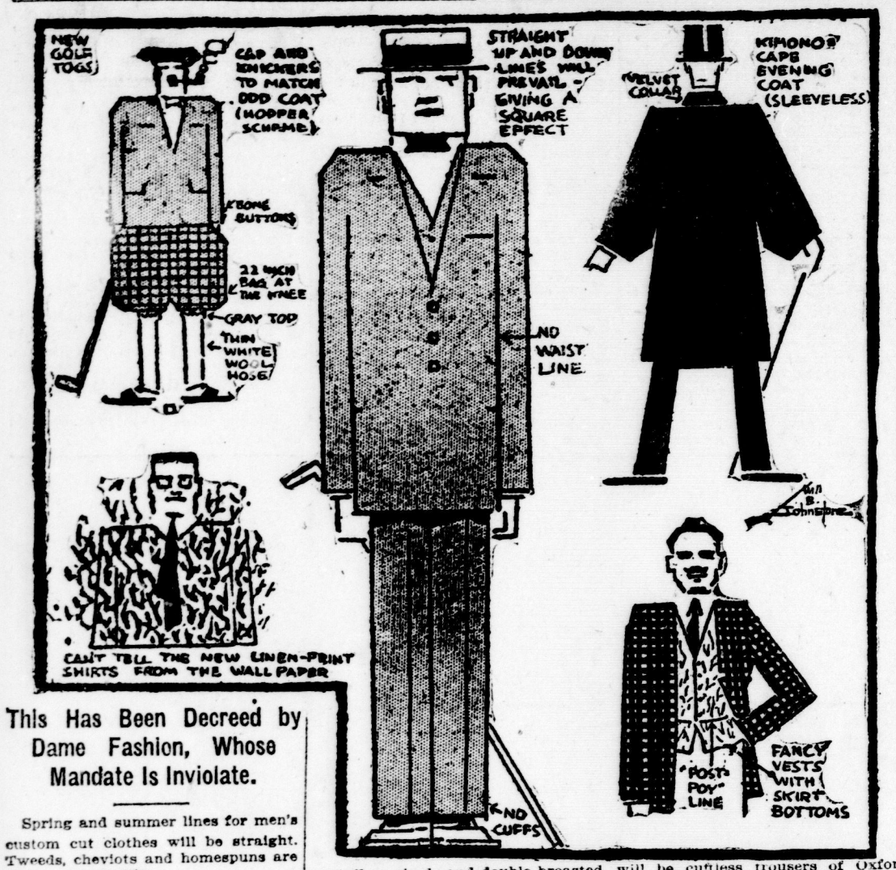
Squared Lines Will Rule This Year In Men's Clothes



This Has Been Decreed by Dame Fashion, Whose Mandate Is Inviolate.

Spring and summer lines for men's custom cut clothes will be straight. Tweeds, cheviots and homespuns are to be correct attire.

According to the arbiters of male fashion whose creations are the models throughout the country, men today, in spite of the worries of making both ends meet, are becoming more particular about their dress. Trick clothes will not be tolerated. Short coats, pinch-back effects and high vents are on the toboggan. Form-fitting drapings are a thing of the past. The fat gentleman can compete with the collar ad models. Clothes will present a soft appearance, sans padding in the shoulders.

Trousers will not have cuffs. "Cake eaters" will be out of luck. Coats should have lapels notched and cut low enough to show two buttons of the vest. Waistcoats, by the way, will be fancy. Three buttons will prevail on single and double breasted coats—both at the sleeves and to encompass the embonpoint.

Many sport coaots will be seen. Fancy bone buttons with pleats in back, so a man can crook his elbow without fear of dropping a stitch in his back. Hip pockets in all styles of trousers will be cut ample both at port and starboard sides. Golf knickers will be full, twenty-four inches around and straight from the hip. Front pockets, slashed on the biss; adequate for a duffer's hand while watching an expert tee-off.

Waistcoats may be as fancy as desired and yet not outstep the bounds of good taste. They have a skirt effect called the post-boy line.

A startling innovation this spring will be cuffless trousers of Oxford background with white stripe, to wear with an old coat—that is, a black or oxford coat. This model is snappy for executives who affect small, flat top desks in the middle of big rooms.

The green or grey business cutaway with two buttons commands respect, the cutters pointed out.

Full dress evening coats will have satin lapels, cut open in front to show waistcoat. The coat will have a natural waist line with straight hanging skirt tails There will be three buttons on the sleeves and two rows of satin braid on trousers. The Tuxedo, to be smart, will have shadow stripe satin on the coat lapels. Theatre capes will have velvet collars with silk facings.

Advance Fashion Notes on Men's Headwear Presage Modest Styles

SOME folks say the first swallow is the earliest sign of spring, and some say when the groundhog stays out of his hole. There are many and diverse opinions, but we don't believe in any other sign than that when the young fellows first appear with their spring headwear.

And that introduces a very interesting subject—what kind of hats the manufacturers have prepared for us, whether they'll be the kinds that make us snicker when we look in the family picture album, or whether we'll be permitted to continue looking as human as possible.

Cause of Thanks.

Let's burst forth in song and thanksgiving, brethren; the arbiters of our destines (the manufacturers, be it said) have really been most considerate. The best models are easy-fitting blocks with medium crowns and conservative brims.

The fedora or Alpine shapes are most shown, but for the younger men dented top and three-cornered creases are quite smart. Light greys and fawn with contrasting bands are the most notable spring shades, though, of course, oxford and shades of green and brown are always in good taste.

Straw Hats Ready.

Straw hats are ready, too. The rough white sailors are more popular than ever. The majority come with conservative black bands with bows either at the back or at the left side, as preferred; but, contrary to the vogue of last year, colored bands are quite permissible. Some very good-looking striped and dotted ones are observed.

Bangkoks, panamas and leghorns are always in good taste, and lots of men prefer them for the undeniable comfort and coolness. These, of course, follow the general conservative styling of the season's vogue.

Fabric Hats Favored.

A very smart and distinctly English fashion that has rightly invaded Canada for the past few years is the fabric hat. One remembers how dubiously one viewed the first of this ilk that made their appearance, and how many more and more have been observed year after year. From the quantities and varieties manufacturers are displaying, we assume that the vogue will be definitely established this year.

Now, let's not neglect the derby, dear to every man's heart, and the family is complete. Debies are all right—better than that, they're first-rate when fashion does not decree that they be flat as a pancake or inflated like a balloon. For spring, for instance, they are satisfied to be just good-looking headwear, and consequently are very successfully natural looking and smart.

Prices have come down considerably—this is actually a fact, and we should be able to buy any kind of a hat, even the ones from the most exclusive makers, at much less than has been possible since before the war days.

Powder Dropper Is Novelty

CLEVER brains are forever and forever fashioning something new for milady's vanity case! Something newer and smaller and daintier and lovelier!

Time was (remember the days) when we went to our dances and our parties with the wherewithal of our loveliness stowed away in a silken bag so large that we must leave it in the dressing-room while we tripped the light fantastic. But now! Such an exquisite and such a little kit of beauty it is!

Quite the newest and most interesting appointment for the vanity case is this Scherk powder dropper. No box which may spill as it opens—but a neat pencil-like affair, usually of gold or silver, with an adjustable top from which one may shake the powder to one's puff. It takes up no more space than a lipstick or pencil.

Quite as new is the little metal scent case which matches the powder dropper and has the most fascinating metal stopper, designed to put the perfume just exactly where it should be on milady's eyebrows, her lips or the back of her pretty hand.

BREAD HINT.

Use as little flour on the board as possible while kneading bread. Such a course eliminates the possibility of spoiling the dough by getting too much flour into it.

PUMPKIN CHIPS.

Pumpkin chips can be made just as orange peel is candied. They are good served with tea and cakes.

Lumbago, Neuritis, Sciatica

Rheumatism and similar troubles invariably yield to this T.R.C.'s (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules) treatment. Many doctors and many hundreds of druggists from coast to coast will confirm this truth. The hundreds of testimonial letters in our files show that T.R.C.'s have successfully treated Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, Sciatica and acute Neuralgia of all kinds. New Spring Hats, Caps, Gloves, Shirts, Neckwear

GRAFTON & CO., LTD.

LONDON JOS. F. HICKEY, Manager ONTARIO

BY DINOSAUR.

O HUM—Spring's almost here again and I 'gotta' make the ounds of the manufacturers just to e that they haven't slipped anyhing over in the way of new styles." Honest folks—that's just how I lt when I started out, but the very rst line that I went through affected e like a wasp sting to a hibernatng bear!

Fabrics—Fashions—Colors—everything combined to produce such a hrill of "newness" and "freshness" hat my lethargy vanished like mist efore the sun.

Every line I inspected struck me he same way—Women's, Children's nd Men's—but I am only going to ell you about the Boys' here.

Juvenile Fashions.

For juveniles they're showing the cunningest little middy suits in sizes to 8. These were beautifully trimmed and tailored and made of wash fabrics in a variety of attractive, fast colors. Lots of perseys in iridescent shades are also observed.

What particularly impressed me was the really smart little play suits made in serviceable greys, dark blues and browns—and I mustn't forget some came with short sleeves. Isn't that a clever and practical idea for warm weather?

Summer party suits favor the Oliver Twist, our Tommy Tucker, models and one-piece styles with washable satin waists and black and dark colored straight pants.

Stolen From the Youths.

I think "Daddy" must have taken his styles from the boys this year—you know what I mean, the kinds they call sport suits. And say, just between you and me, he does look a bit youngish and juvenile in the kiddies' styles!

Tweed knickers and Norfolk jackets easily win the palm for popularity. These are carefully tailored of the finest domestic and imported fabrics. "Never had such suits when I was a kid." I've heard a dozen comment, and it is actually a fact. And the best thing about it all is, boys' clothing will retail for much, much less this spring.

I must say a word here about the variety of styles. There are any number equally attractive, although most have one feature in common—belts. Yoke backs, panels, box and knife pleats as well as novelty pockets are used with excellent effect.

Shoulders are a trifle padded—but just enough to accentuate the snug waistline and give the youths a stalwart and well setup appearance.

Headwear Preferences.

Caps and hats for juveniles are much the same as last year, although middy hats to match their wash suits are worthy of mention.

Caps for the older boys are developed in light woolen fabrics in the spring shades. The one-piece kind is preferred, with a generous tip and voluminous crown which is worn slightly pulled to one side. Giving a rakish appearance that is quite the thing, I'm told.

Needn't say anything about furnishings, although I do think the open-at-the-throat sport shirts are good looking and cool for warm weather if you can persuade your boy that they're really and truly manly.

Boys' Footwear.

But I want to say a word about shoes, or rather oxfords. Cordovan leather is out, although the cordovan shades are quite popular—wing tips are also eliminated. An oxford that seemed to embody all the features of spring style was developed in a heavy walking model. The leather was calfskin of a medium tan shade—heavy extension soles and perforated designs, and yes, brass eyelets that show from the outside are considered smart.

Very Latest in Summer Hats Is Sweet Affair

A Montreal man has sprung the very latest in summer hats.

The one in the picture is a sample of his work. 'Tis a sweet affair. It is a take-off on straw material and is deep purple with a lighter shade of ribbon and lilac blue flowers.

The maker explains that it is not necessary to take this hat off on hot sunshiny summer days. Give it time and it will melt off!

For the maker is a confectioner.

And the hat is all made out of sugar candy.

THREATENS SUSPENSION OF BRIDGEPORT SERVICE

Waterloo-Wellington Railway Declines To Obey Township Council's Order.

KITCHENER, March 10.—As a result of the peremptory notice received by the Waterloo-Wellington Railway Company of this city from the Waterloo Township Council, calling on the company to remove its tracks from the 250-foot stretch of street in Bridgeport, over which the company operates from the village line to the Lancaster Hotel, the railway company will suspend service between Kitchener and Bridgeport, according to a statement made today by W. H. Breithaupt, president of the road. It would be useless, Mr. Breithaupt maintains, for the company to operate if progress through the village is denied.

The franchise on this 250-foot stretch runs out next month, and the council refuses to extend it, inviting Mr. Breithaupt to purchase a private right-of-way. Mr. Breithaupt declared today that to purchase a private right-of-way to reach the tracks beyond would be too expensive a proposition at present.

If the company gets a franchise to run a line between Kitchener and Guelph the question of purchase of private right-of-way through Bridgeport would then be considered, but not otherwise. As things look now Bridgeport will be shut off from Kitchener after April 1 unless the township council relents.

Collie Rescues Kent Hired Man From Attack By Infuriated Sow

CHATHAM, March 10.—Roy Beamish, a hired man on the farm of Charles Stewart, 5th concession, Harwich township, was badly mauled by an infuriated sow. But for a plucky fight put up by a collie dog, Beamish would probably have been killed by the sow.

Three of her litter, a few days old, were taken away to be artificially fed and had just been returned to the pen when the sow attacked Beamish. Mr. Stewart, owner of the sow, attempted to beat off the sow by blows on the back with a stick, but the blows only seemed to infuriate the animal. It was at this stage of the fight that the collie dog attacked and drove the sow off its intended victim.

Beamish was immediately given medical attention by Dr. T. L. McRitchie, who was summoned from this city.

GIVE AID TO CAMP FUND.

CHATHAM, March 10.—The chatham Players' Club, which gave an entertainment the first three days of this week in the Griffin Theatre has turned over to the boys' summer camp fund the sum of $149.16, being 50 per cent of the net proceeds. The local Rotary and Lions Clubs assisted the show by selling tickets and paying for extra advertising.

FEAR STORM MAY HAVE REDUCED SYRUP SUPPLY

Oxford Farmers Claim Many Trees "Tapped" When Branches Were Broken.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—Farmers say this will be a great year for sap, due to the great depth of frost in the ground However, the supply of maple syrup may not be large on account of the fact that the trees are badly mutilated as a result of the ice storm of two weeks ago, hardly a tree in the sugar bushes in this vicinity having escaped mutilation. These trees are already "tapped" as many of the branches are broken off. Sap is already running but not into the farmer's buckets. In the city the maple trees are also "tapped" from reason of the broken branches and today the sap is dripping onto the sidewalks and occasionally down the necks of pedestrians.

Time to recharge the battery is when it lacks power to turn over the engine.

DENIES SPENCE'S CHARGE

Windsor Official Declares Alliance Secretary Exaggerates Facts.

WINDSOR, March 10.—"He doesn't know what he is talking about," a prominent liquor law official of the Essex border stated today, in reference to the statement made at Toronto by Rev. H. B. Spence, general secretary of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, that 1,000 cases of liquor is exported daily from Windsor to the United States.

"It is quite natural for him to make statements like that. He is getting paid for doing so," the liquor law official said.

"If the truth were known by him he would find that the export business here is surprisingly small," the official said.

ROSS' LIMITED.

Spring Styles Will Be Redolent With Rich Color, Blossoming Into Beauty As Seen In Nature

Ross', Limited, Introducing An Entirely New Feature, a Quarterly Review of Fashions, Which Will Reflect Styles Prevalent In Paris, London and New York —Fashions In Vogue This Season Are Varied In Character.

For the special benefit of lovers of fashion among the ladies, the enterprising firm of Ross', Limited, is introducing an entirely new feature in connection with its business, a feature which should prove to the fair sex of more than passing interest. Commencing with March, this progressive firm will publish, in advance of each and every season, a Review of Fashion, to serve as a mirror in which the feminine mind may see reflected the styles that prevail with the well-dressed lady in such style centers as Paris, London and New York.

The fashions to be in vogue this season are varied in character and denote the freshness of the vernal spring. New and attractive colors will play an important part. Two-toned effects, in black and pumpkin, blue and canna, blue and verdigris-green, and black and white, are sure to dominate the different styles in dresses; while the duller shades for suits will be relieved with artistic touches of color to suit the individual fancy and complexion. Color schemes and combinations may, likewise, be secured from among such shades as henna, ocher, pillar-box (red), pumpkin and fuschia. The paisley pattern will be found much in evidence where the ornate dress-sleeve is concerned.

MATERIALS FOR SUITS.

The materials in favor for suits will be picodines, tricotines, serges, tweeds, wool-knit, krepe-knit and homespuns. Extremes will be followed from afar.

The knee-length skirt is bound to disappear and give place to skirts of greater length. It will be found true that six inches from the ground for evening, eight inches for street and 12 inches for sport, approximates a good standard to follow. The hem line on spirts will continue to be uneven. This can be artfully arranged by overhanging draperies or by means of flying panels at sides. Spring suit-coats will be simple in style but becoming to the figure. Straight lines from shoulder to hip will give the tailor-made silhouette; then coat and skirt will combine to flare in fulness to the hem. Suit-coats are to vary in length from 24 to 27 and occasionally to 30 inches, with openings at sides approaching to the waist line. Tailored collars, roll shawl and flat effects, with braid trimming or touches of embroidery, will add a distinctive note.

SPRING DRESSES.

The outlook for spring dresses is decidedly promising. The verdict will be in favor of simplicity, ease of adjustment and comfort where these considerations can lend grace and charm to both wearer and apparel. The effect of a light, airy softness that will eliminate the heavy corset will be much sought after, because these desirable qualities belong to maiden modesty and throw a veil of harmony over all.

Long skirts compel long waist lines if proportion is not to be sacrificed. Ornate and ornamental girdles, also sashes, if worn sufficiently low, will impart the silhouette effect. Overdraperies will be employed to secure uneven lengths; but square endings will be preferable to points, although the bouffant frock, with scalloped lines, showing the petal skirt, will be worn again.

Sleeves will be short but ample, simple but voluminous, with deep armholes, flaring below the elbow.

The materials to be used in dresses will allow a safe margin where latitude is required by the individual to gratify taste in the matter of tone and texture. The spring offering in this respect will include brocaded taffetas, crepe meteor, satin-back crepe, canton and embroidered taffetas.

THE THREE-PIECED SUIT.

The three-piece suit, stamped by the smart set with the seal of approval, is sure to find favor with the fashionable lady everywhere. The three-piece suit is simply an elaborately designed skirt with waist of contrasting color attached, together with a cape or coat with cape effect, hung gracefully from the shoulders. The materials which enter into their making are various. The waist, which is beautifully bloused to the skirt, is usually made of some vivid color, such as canna or verdigris-green, in wool or silk, to enliven the quieter shades that characterize the cape and skirt, both of which are elaborately trimmed with dashes of harmonious colors and set off with a girdle gemmed and jeweled with opalescent studs of celluloid or iridescent beads, imbedded in tasselated lengths of leather.

THE UTILITY COAT.

The utility coat is an English outing coat, without which no wardrobe is complete. This separate coat is a garment indispensable, because its purpose supplies many needs. The utility coat has many pre-requisites to recommend it to general use. It is at once strictly tailor-made, stylish in design, light in weight and warm as the wool which enters into the fabric of which it is made. The utility coat is an outing overgarment, ideal for golfing, sporting and motoring. It is designed with roomy patch pockets, covered with flaps, made with a mannish tailored collar and lapels, trimmed with self-toned military leather buttons, belted at the waist and buckled in the front.

The Scottish Woolen Association, Limited, manufactures a fabric extremely suitable to make the utility coat a perfect garment.

TRIMMINGS.

Highly finished embossed braids and beautifully embroidered bandings will be found much in favor during the coming season. Embroidery, designed in original motifs, will be effectively used, but not lavishly employed. Borders patterned with applique and inlaid work wrought in wool and silk will also be shown.

Richly brocaded silks, woven in pale yellow, shades of blue, blush of dawn and old rose, will place a pleasing and popular tax upon the sense of sight whenever they can be secured for the purpose of linings in capes and coats. Altogether the spring will be a season redolent with rich color, blossoming into the beauty seen in nature and impelling the votaries of good style to worship at the Shrine of Fashion.

"In the spring a fuller crimson comes upon the robin's breast;
In the spring the wanton lapwing gets himself another crest;
In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnish'd dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns on thoughts of love."

Smart Hints for Amateur Dressmakers!

HERE is some good advice about keeping suits in order which the dressmaker may pass on to her patron—especially to those who have to practice certain little economies in order to be a patron of the aforesaid dressmaker! So, in helping the lady to save, she is really helping herself. It is conceded generally that every Canadian woman knows how to wear the tailored suit; but not everyone knows how to keep it in spotless and wrinkleless condition.

To be sure, the fastidious woman is more than particular in these respects, perhaps because she frequently belongs to that enviable class who can afford weekly tailor bills; so the credit is less in her case than in that of the woman who must look after such things herself.

Watch That Spot!

Small spots that somehow seem to come of their own accord, even on the best regulated suits and dresses, may very often be removed at home. Gasoline or chloroform are good cleansing agents, though there is always the possibility that they may leave a mark of their own. On the mannish suit of blue serge, twillcord, tricotine and similar weave, it is suggested, by one authority, that it is best to use just plain soap and water to sponge off any ordinary spot—a bland, white soap, of course, and not the strong laundry soap.

However, if the garments are really "spotty" it is the safer plan to send them to a professional cleaner and he will put them in spotless condition for a reasonable amount. The next thing is to use extraordinary care not to get the suit or the dress in a spotty condition soon again.

Cultivate the Iron.

Then, too, the suit should be pressed frequently—which means very often, according to the wear and tear in all sorts of weather and under all sorts of conditions. This is particularly true of the suit worn by the business woman. In many instances the suit can be satisfactorily pressed at home, at least the skirt section; and if one has not the time to devote to iron, board and skirt, the task may be turned over to an intelligent maid (if one is so fortunate as to possess such a jewel!) who can soon master the technique of the job. The pressing-cloth must not be too wet, the iron not too hot and there should always be a hanger for the skirt.

As for the jacket—that is the tailor's department. It requires expert knowledge to know where, how and when to press out the acquired wrinkles in the coat without introducing new and undesirable ones. If one has the tailor regularly, a reasonable price can very often be arranged with him for weekly work.

For Soft Dresses.

Cloth dresses are more easily manipulated by women, more especially as it is not necessary to use very heavy irons and as the generally loose character of the dresses of the day lends itself easily to ironing-board placement. Velvet and velveteen must be steamed for cleansing and for wrinkle elimination. Chiffons are frequently restored to their pristine beauty by merely hanging them in a damp atmosphere; but they must not remain there too long, otherwise the bad effects will outbalance the good.

Silk garments should never be dampened; and only moderately hot irons should be used. Certain materials look better if only the tops of the skirt hems are pressed, the bottom edge left more like a fold in effect. Of course, so many of the dresses are now finished with a picot edge that hems do not have to be seriously considered.

Ordinary spots may be removed with soap and warm water; for milk spots use cold water and soap, and for grease spots benzine, taking care not to use this in a room where there is a fire or light, as it is very inflammable.

All woolen garments should be thoroughly brushed, the collars, pockets and cuffs being turned inside out. Be careful to remove all dust that may have collected under tucks, seams or top of hem, as the dust and lint that collect in the crevices of clothing make a fine lodging place for moths.

Sun and Air.

Hang the garment out in the sun to air, then, if it is likely to be worn occasionally, put on a padded hanger, slip a protector over it and hang in a closet. Worn pillow-cases, by the way, make excellent bags to use for dress protectors. The heavier garments which will not be used until next winter should be sewed up in brown wrapping paper or newspapers, or put in the heavy paper bags which are sold for the purpose, and stored away on shelves or in drawers or chests.

Putting a few moth or camphor balls, or cedar shavings in the drawer or chest will aid in keeping moths away; but you will find that the greater protection against moths is to have the clothing cleaned and aired.

CHANGES PLEA ONLY TO FACE TWO NEW CHARGES

Ewart G. Grey of Rockwood Also Wanted by Hamilton Police.

GALT, March 10.—Ewart G. Grey, 22 years old, of Rockwood, who a week ago pleaded guilty to obtaining $25 under false pretenses from a local bank, and also of forgery, appeared today for sentence, and surprised the court by stating he wanted to withdraw his former plea, as he was desirous of making restitution.

His request was granted, but he is now in deeper trouble than ever, two additional charges, one of forgery and the other of issuing a forged check, having been laid against him, on the instructions of the crown attorney. He was remanded for another week.

The Hamilton police hold a warrant for his arrest.

SARNIA MEN REMANDED

Held on Charges of Having Liquor Contrary to Law.

SARNIA, March 10.—Frank and John Matthews of 226 Shamrock street were remanded in police court Friday on charges of keeping liquor in other than a private dwelling. Frank has two previous convictions under the Ontario temperance act against him, this rendering any residence that he occupies for one year after the conviction other than a private dwelling.

Several cases of Scotch whiskey were found at the house owned by John Matthews, who also claims ownership of the liquor, and that it was obtained in a legal manner. Henry and McNally, defending, seek to prove that Frank was not a resident at his brother's house.

REPORTS OPTIMISTIC

Delegates Announce Revival of Liberalism Throughout Western Provinces.

OTTAWA, March 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Optimistic reports as to the beginning of a revival of Liberalism in the Western Provinces were brought to Ottawa by delegates to the meeting of the National Liberal committee held in the Liberal headquarters here tonight, it was stated in a summary of the proceedings issued at the close of the meeting.

The committee accepted with regret the resignation of Andrew Haydon, general secretary, who is resuming his legal practice, and appointed a committee, headed by Hon. T. A. Low, minister without portfolio, to consider the question of choosing a successor to Mr. Haydon, and also to deal with other matters of organization.

Appreciation of the work which had been accomplished in organization was voiced, and the committee, it was stated, was enthusiastic in its decision to continue the organization office here, and the work it has been carrying on.

With the prime minister, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in the chair, the committee dealt with a number of other matters, including an application from the Ontario Women's Liberal Club to have women represented on the committee. This was unanimously approved, and it was decided that in the case of the vacancies now existing they must be filled by either men or women appointees.

Ontario was represented by the prime minister, Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Hon. G. P. Graham and Sidney Little of London.

Jean Moore Instructed Belongings Be Given to Sisters.

KITCHENER, March 10.—Inquiry of relatives of Miss Jean Moore, who disappeared mysteriously from her home Wednesday evening, March 1, elicited the information that nothing has been seen or heard of her.

Whether she intended self-destruction is not known, but she left a brief note under the mirror in her room bidding her relatives "goodbye" and giving instructions that her belongings be divided among her sisters.

It is believed that if she committed suicide she has selected a secluded spot and a prolonged search will be required before the body is found.

There can be no reason however, why Miss Moore should end her life as she is quite well to do and has been steadily employed. Every effort is being made to secure clues as to her whereabouts.

REPORT SAP PLENTIFUL.

CARGILL, March 10.—J. A. Garland & Sons, known throughout Western Ontario as the largest maple syrup makers of the district, are busy these days. Mr. Garland stated last night that they had 2,100 maples tapped and they were having an exceptionally fine run of sap. They have an evaporator of the largest capacity obtainable, and their output of maple syrup this season, under favorable conditions, will run into thousands of gallons. Their bush is situated about a mile southeast of here.

ALBERTA HOUSE MEETS IN AUTUMN

EDMONTON, March 10. — The Alberta Legislature will probably meet again this fall, according to an announcement made today by Attorney-General Brownlee at a meeting of the municipal law committee. Important legislation which it has been impossible to prepare for the present session will be discussed at the autumn session, including a provincial income tax which is to be retroactive to July, 1922. The city of Edmonton was today refused permission to impose an income tax or to place an additional levy of ten dollars on every automobile in the city.

WE are mighty proud of the long list of permanent customers who find this their favorite furniture store. There must be some specific reason for their coming here year in and year out, and we honestly believe that reason to be our policy of higher grade furnishings at prices that are a little lower than you might expect to pay.

Announcing Our Spring Opening and Display of New Furniture

WE cordially invite everyone interested in new home furnishings to come in and see this magnificent assemblage. It's as if all the beauty and splendor of Spring had inspired the master designers of each chair or rocker or complete suite, so truly handsome and charming is this furniture. But mere words fail to adequately describe this Spring Display. You have to come in and make a personal investigation to really appreciate what efforts have been expended to offer to the public something new and different in home needs. Accept this as a formal invitation and make it a point to come in, tomorrow if possible, and see this display.

See Our Display at the Spring and Summer Fashion Show

ON Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, March 13, 14, 15, the furniture for the special elaborate stage setting used for the Spring and Summer Fashion Show, at the Grand Opera House, is supplied from the stock of this store. Our stock was never more complete or comprised as many wonderful creations for the comfort and decoration of the home. See the style show and then see the balance of our excellent stock in our newly decorated show rooms.

We feel that a word or two should be said about the new prices quoted on this new furniture. They are going to be a source of much surprise. So very reasonable are they that we cannot write further without stating that these prices are without a doubt the lowest offered in years on this type of furniture, which is better in quality and decidedly more beautiful in design than anything heretofore shown.

ngland Sets World Fashion For All True Sportswomen

NGLAND sets the fashion for the true sportswoman, France for the ateur; and that difference is the tinguishing note all the way ough—materials, cut and finish proming on which side of the Channel garment originated. Fortunately re is a sufficiently large number of men who are interested in sports the sake of sports' clothes to warnt the showing of widely different hions that prevail this season.

By Way of England.

The British idea is one of practicility. Rarely is there a departure m the tweeds, homespuns and chevs that are used season in and season out. And there is little effort to roduce innovations in the cut of the rments. Plaited skirts for sports ar are little known, the simply-gored e remaining the favored style; the rfolk jacket, the earliest coat form the modern sportswoman, is rened with variations. Almost with- exception the belt is featured, and ckets are outward and visible signs the utilitarian mission of the garnt.

t must be stated, however, that even conservative tastes of women who e outdoor athletics seriously has rdly been proof against the brighter nes of the foreign cloths introduced o mannish-looking togs. England s indorsed dull red and purple tones riously shown as petunia and fuchsia o the erstwhile grey and tans of hand-loom fabrics from the west of gland, from Scotland and from Ireand.

Color Nubs.

Besides the little nubs of color in e sports wear weaves, there is reted from London a liking for a ickly-woven stockinette—or, as we uld say here, jersey cloth. This in lor for the jacket and in harmonious ipes for the skirt. From this same urce hails the chenille dress, a onece affair intended not so much for tual sports service as for the adornent of the onlooker, particularly if the tter be young.

Likewise from the British capital me suits and topcoats trimmed with ather. Not exactly a new idea, ept as it applies to the new season's odels. There is a coat, for example, ade with a deep cape of leather, the tter trimmed with small wooden buns. The coat material is tan tweed, the leather is black. Rather a fad garment, perhaps, but frequently the fads of one season are the staples of the next. Sometimes the coats are worn with little waistcoats of embossed leather with a hat to match.

Knicker Suits.

One cannot help but attribute the agitation about the knicker suit for general wear to the smart appearance of English sports clothes; and to the growing interest in outdoor activities in this country. Whether the fashion of wearing breeches or knickerbockers in place of skirts, topped by a mannish coat, will ever become general in town, is a matter on which even the wisest of fashion-forecasters would hesitate to be too positive or too negative.

One thing is certain; the breeches suit is already an accomplished fact wherever outdoor athletics are practiced. The equestrienne has long since adopted breeches in preference to the skirt; the woman who goes to woods or camp, fishing, shooting or boating, disdains the skirt; and for winter sports, whether in Switzerland, Canada or the Adirondacks, the bifurcated garment has proved absolutely the correct thing.

White In Favor.

While the English have rather insisted on the neutral shades with an occasional departure in favor of color, the French have given the stamp of their approval to white. White was dominant at Deauville during last summer when everybody in the world of fashion assembled at that smart watering-place to see and be seen. Later Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen brought the message of white personally to these shores. And she gave just the right touch of color individuality in her headdress—of red, green or whatever she happened to fancy.

Since then Lanvin has sent some exceedingly good-looking white clothes to Canada. They may be called sports clothes in the sense that they may be worn as such, or merely as everyday costumes at fashionable resorts. One of these is of white cloth, the jacket and skirt edges are unhemmed and there is a trimming of wide black braid and black monkey. And this means—contradictory though it sounds—that brilliant color will be the foil of white, principally in such accessories as sweaters, topcoats, headdresses, girdles and footwear.

COURTS MUST FIRST DECIDE JURISDICTION

Reciprocal Insurance Measure Given Second Reading in Legislature.

WILL PROBE WATER BILL

Proposed Law Introduced by W. A. Crockett Too Contentious to Pass.

TORONTO, March 10.—The second reading of the reciprocal bill, which makes provision for co-operative fire insurance, and the second reading of a number of less contentious bills made up most of this afternoon's session of the Ontario Legislature. The reciprocal insurance bill will not come into effect until the courts have decided provincial jurisdiction in the matter.

Hon. Beniah Bowman, minister of lands and forests, in answer to a question based on a resolution passed some time ago by members of the Ontario Daily Newspapers Association, stated that timber leases granted to the Backus interests subsequent to that resolution have contained clauses providing for the newsprint supplies of the newspapers of the province.

The bill of M. M. MacBride, to provide that widows who are householders should be given the same tax exemptions as married men, was given a second reading.

J. A. Curry's bill appointing a board of alienists to give expert evidence in cases where anyone's sanity is in question, was held up by Hon. Howard Ferguson, who claimed that this bill must be introduced by government instead of by a private member. The Speaker reserved decision.

Investigation Is Demanded.

The bill introduced by W. A. Crockett (Hamilton) to force larger municipalities to supply water or other services to smaller municipalities at their borders was considered too contentious to pass a second reading without further investigation. Hon. Walter Rollo, minister of labor and health, said it was along the lines of a bill introduced by the government last session, but dropped later on. He was in favor of the principle of the bill, but had not investigated its wording. Mr. Crockett pointed to the danger of epidemics where wells of closely settled sections at the border of large cities became contaminated. He claimed the bill safeguarded the rights of both municipalities.

Wellington Hay thought there was a feeling among the municipalities of the province against giving any wider powers to the provincial board of health or the railway and municipal board than they had at present, except in very extreme circumstances. Hon. Howard Ferguson also thought such a "sweeping" bill should be closely scrutinized.

Council Must Sanction.

The bill provides that when a compliance with a recommendation of the provincial board of health, "will involve a connection with, or an extension of, works in another municipality or an outlet for such municipality for the supply of water or the rendering of any service by one municipality to another the council of each municipality affected shall forthwith pass the necessary bylaw to give effect to such recommendation, and each of the corporations required to construct any work for the purpose of carrying out such recommendation shall immediately commence the same and carry the work to completion without unnecessary delay."

The bill provides that in case of dispute between the two municipalities as to costs the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board shall adjudicate. The bill to authorize the formation of reciprocal fire insurance exchanges raised the objection that mutual companies of the past had often not been a success. Attorney-General Raney, in introducing the bill and other speakers supporting it, subsequently argued that reciprocal insurance took the middlemen out of insurance.

By it, a number of men or firms, 75 being the minimum, may form an exchange and carry their own fire insurance. One man is selected to manage it, and the members of the exchange decide on the rate of premium they must pay.

Questions Province's Rights.

The bill provides that the exchange must have an aggregate risk of $1,500,000 before it can start business. As a security the manager or attorney must hold in the treasury as reserve half the annual premium of the exchange. In addition, the members of the exchange guarantee to pay additional premiums for each fire that occurs in property insured by the exchange. It was argued in this way the entire assets of every member of the exchange were security that insurance losses would be paid.

It was pointed out that already there is a lumbermen's reciprocal company doing business in this province, and several United State reciprocal exchanges are carrying risks of members living in Canada, although not officially recognized by the laws of Ontario.

The attorney-general pointed out that there was a question of the province having the right to pass this bill on the ground that it conflicted with Dominion acts, which in some circumstances make such exchanges illegal. This would be referred to the courts, and the act would come into force by proclamation, which would not be promulgated until this point had been settled.

NEW TURKISH ATTACK ON GREEKS LAUNCHED

unitive Expedition in Pontus Region Led by Fethey Bey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 10.—punitive expedition against the reeks in the Pontus region, bordering on the Black Sea, was started esterday under the personal leadership of Fethey Bey, Turkish Nationlist minister of the interior. A urkish division surrounded the afra and Sameun district, where he Greeks offered the most stubborn esistance. The battle was extremely fierce, both sides suffering eavy losses.

The Kemalists claim to have repulsed successfully a sharp Greek attack on the Meander front.

The intensified action along the Graeco-Turkish fronts is being watched with anxiety by the Porte. Protests have been made to the Allies against a renewal of operations on the part of the Greeks, declaring the Greeks will be responsible if the allied conference is wrecked.

PERTH COUNTY FARM LABORER NOW FINDS HIMSELF HEIR TO AN EARLDOM

CHICAGO, March 10.—Cyril Woodward Chubley Armstrong, one-time Canadian farmhand, and at present a lawyer in this city, today was informed that he is heir to a British earldom.

Armstrong was sent to Canada from England when 16 years of age, and secured his first job as a laborer for William and James Johnston on a farm near Norwich, Ont. Later he worked on a farm near Stratford, Ont., and was for a time subscription solicitor for the Stratford Beacon.

He is now a citizen of the United States, and hinted in an interview today that he might "prefer that title to any that he has fallen heir to."

Mr. Armstrong received a communication which had been sent to friends of his by the consular department in Washington in response to queries from relatives in India asking that he be located. He produced many letters and documents to prove that he was the man sought, but said he knew nothing of the title he is supposed to have inherited, for he became separated from his family when a child, and had worked his way up to membership in the Bar through night schools.

CLERGY PRESENTS PLEA TO PREMIER

Deputation Comprising Five Denominations Draft Memorial on Subject of Immigration.

URGE PERMANENT BOARD

Clause Would Provide For Reception, Care, Distribution and Instruction of All Newcomers.

OTTAWA, March 10.—A deputation representing the official boards of the Anglican, Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian communions in Canada, presented a memorial to the prime minister this morning on the subject of immigration. The recommendations of the deputation were as follows:

(1) The formulation, preferably by a special commission, of a well-considered, constructive immigration policy, on a scientific and patriotic basis.

(2) The appointment of a permanent board of immigration of representative men with a measure of freedom.

(a) To co-ordinate the activities of federal, provincial and municipal voluntary agencies.

(b) To have limited powers of decision as to the amount of permissable immigration.

(c) To have general concern for the reception, distribution, instruction and care of all new-comers.

(3) That the government do not relinquish control of and responsibility for immigration and colonization. We would strongly disapprove a policy that would in any degree delegate this responsibility to other agencies.

(4) That in the distribution of immigrants, segregation of large numbers of any one foreign-speaking nationality be avoided.

(5) That the government give special consideration to the education and training of immigrants now in Canada, still foreign in language and viewpoint.

(6) That the government encourage and assist a movement of populations away from our congested cities, that would tend to the betterment of living conditions for all.

JAIL LAJPAT RAI FOR TWO YEARS

LAHORE, India, March 10.—Lajpat Rai, a prominent Indian Nationalist, today was sentenced to two years imprisonment. One year at hard labor was imposed for violation of the seditious meetings act and the other year for violation of the criminal law amendment act.

The sentences are to run consecutively. He was sentenced last December to six months' detention and a fine of 500 rupees, but about a month later he was released and immediately re-arrested on the charge of violating the criminal law amendment act.

UNSTAMPED MAIL TO BE DELIVERED

TORONTO, March 11.—Through changes in regulations adopted by the federal postoffice authorities, letters in Canada will now be delivered to any part of the Dominion, even though the sender has failed to affix sufficient postage stamps and even if he has forgotten to put on any stamps at all, the Mail and Empire says this morning.

Up to just recently, the method followed was to hold letters not carrying sufficient postage and not forward them until the sender made good the deficiency.

By the new regulations Canada is brought into line with the laws in effect regarding the delivery of a letter, when once posted, followed by practically all the countries in the international postal union.

Painful Sores On Her Ankle

Healed by Hood Preparations.

For two years I suffered greatly from blue veins on my leg. They started with a little sore that grew worse, larger, more painful till it extended around my whole ankle.

I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify my blood, with Hood's Medicated Soap to wash the sore, and Hood's Olive Ointment to help heal it. It was soon apparent I was on the right course, for as the result of faithfully taking the Sarsaparilla, the sore diminished and finally disappeared. I heartily recommend these remedies to all suffering from similar troubles. Mrs. John Peterson, Detroit Harbor, Wis.—Advt.

EDITORIAL.

The Fourteenth Parliament of the Dominion of Canada opened on Thursday. With all the "ancient pomp and ceremony" the governor-general met the members of Commons and Senate and read His Majesties' speech from the throne. The opening day was set for Wednesday, March 8, 1922, but owing to the new government coming into power there was no Mr. Speaker. His Excellency's secretary read a letter from the governor-general praying that the Commons meet and elect a Speaker. In the "election" which followed the Hon. Mr. Lemieux, member for Gaspe, was elected. The new Speaker will have his work cut out for him as at least seventy members of the house are new members and will not be on speaking terms with "Parliamentary Procedure." We wish him luck.

The new house is a novelty. For the first time in the history of the Dominion of Canada two parties of nearly equal members are in opposition, so the Liberal Government will have their hands full if the Conservative opposition, under the Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen, and the Progressive opposition of Hon. Mr. Crerar unite against the Hon. Mr. King's party.

Much has been said in pre-election speeches and through some newspapers about tariff and railroad matters which will take up a lot of time. We think, however, that these traditional "Red Herrings" will be left in the ice box until next election. The only time in our knowledge that these have attained much prominence is before election time, and we feel assured that the new government will live up to the traditions of their elders, and leave these till next time a member has to work for his seat, to be harnessed to the lips of some eloquent and patriotic statesman.

In the meantime, we believe that the pre-eminent question in the country today is our commercial expansion schemes. The Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canada's grand old finance minister, got rather an "Arctic reception" in "the land of the free and the home of the brave" regarding his pet "hobby," Reciprocity. So it looks very much like Canada will have to work out her own financial salvation without the aid of Messrs. Harding, Fordney & Co.

The age-old fight between "he that hath" and "he that hath not" will as usual occupy a great portion of the time which our venerable law makers can spare. Sir Wilfrid Laurier once said "that the twentieth century belonged to Canada," and in order to receive our heritage we must all pull together. There has been a lot of labor troubles, naturally, owing to inflated prices and shortage of labor in our land during the four years we had of the war.

So it is a natural result that things must right themselves. We have been blessed more than most lands in this re-establishment period. Three-quarters of the entire population of our Dominion are absolutely out of reach of our friend "The Wolf." A great deal of this prosperity can be traced to the retiring minister of labor, Hon. Gideon Robertson. Mr. Robertson, though a capitalist himself, never for one moment forgot the ancient and righteous law laid down by the father of nations, "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye likewise unto them."

We wish this Parliament every success in leading the way through the gates of national prosperity in this year of grace, 1922, so Canada will be the first to break the tape in the great race of nations, but may we never forget our ideals of God and Truth in our plunge for gold and power.

BOY SCOUTS MEETING

Eighth London Troop Are Progressing.

At a meeting of the Eighth London Troop on Tuesday evening, March 7, a very successful night's work was carried out. Classes in signalling, under the leadership of P. L. Burrows and classes in first aid, with Troop Leader Rodda in charge, occupied about three-quarters of an hour.

Sports were then held, boxing being the principal one. The boys left for home about half past nine..

Although many of the Scouts were unable to attend through sickness, the meeting was a very successful one.

GAME SUITABLE FOR GROUPS

Conducted By R. P. LIDDLE, Y. M. C. A. Staff.

Mr. Leader, Try These Games at Your Next Meeting.

Relay Run Around.—The boys of each aisle constitute a team. The boy in the last seat in each row, upon the signal to go, steps out in the right hand aisle, runs forward around the front of his row of seats, back on the left hand side, circling the rear seat, and sits down, touching off the next boy in front of him, who repeats the performance. The aisle first accomplishing the run wins.

Store.—The boys of each aisle constitute a team. The one in the front seat in each aisle is No. 1, the one behind him No. 2, etc.

The leader has a number of cards upon each of which appears a letter of the alphabet. The leader holds up one of these letters so that it can be distinctly seen by the pupils. No. 1 of each aisle must name some article sold in a grocery store, beginning with the letter held up by the leader. (For example—the leader holds up the letter "F." No. 1 of the second aisle calls "flour."). The pupil first naming an article of that letter is given the card containing the letter. The next card held up, the No. 2's of each team, are to name the article, and likewise the winner to be awarded the card. The aisle having the most cards at the end of the game wins.

The letters can be written on the blackboard if the cards are not available for the game and points awarded to each winner. The game can also be used with birds, animals and other subjects in place of articles sold in a store. This is a good game to stimulate quick thinking.

Laugh.—This is a good relaxing game, and one in which the practice of self control is a factor. An open handkerchief is tossed into the air. While it is in the air the pupils are to laugh as heartily as they can, but the instant the handkerchief touches the floor all laughing is to stop.

KI-Y SWIMMERS MEET, HOLD AQUATIC SPORTS

The weekly athletic and aquatic events, held by the five Trail Rangers groups of the Ki Y Club, are providing a good deal of excitement for the seniors.

Harold Neil, of the Redskins, won the under water race last Thursday, putting him in the lead with a total of eight points, while Bob Forth and Alf Calhoun are tied second with five points each. For the juniors John Reeves and George Whitworth are tied for top place with seven points each.

KI-Y BIBLE CLASS

Wingfoot Trail Rangers Take Charge.

The Wingfoot Trail Ranger camp of Knox Church took charge of the Bible class of the Ki Y Club last Sunday morning at the Y. M. C. A. and their services were much appreciated by the Ki Y boys.

Jack Ferguson, chief ranger of the Wingfoot's, presided, and was supported by a full turn out of the group. The address was given by Willard Gray, who took as his subject "The Boy and the Church." Williard, though only fourteen, treated his subject in a masterly way, making his points clearly and driving them home by the use of well chosen stories. There were nearly fifty present at the class and the session was most successful.

INITIATION.

How about a new stunt for initiation night? Any group leader or teacher requiring some real good stunts for initiation night will be furnished with same upon receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. Address "Game Editor," Boys' Own Tiser.

WINGFOOTS GET CUP

Are Successful Third Time.

The Knox Wingfoots were successful in winning the monthly efficiency cup for the third time.

This cup is given to the group having the highest average in health habits, church, Sunday school, and mid-week attendance during the month. It was a very close contest, the Wingfoots only winning by a small margin. The competition has been going on for four months, and will continue during March and April. The group with the highest average for the six months will keep it.

AHMEEKS' SUPPER AT 'Y'

Discuss Coming "Hop" After the Feed.

The regular Tuesday supper class of Tuxis boys at the Y. M. C. A. was treated to a pleasant and unanticipated surprise, when they beheld the Ahmeeks "en masse" at the table once more. At first it was presumed that they had returned as permanent diners at the "Y" as they were ardent supporters of the weekly "Y" feeds at one time. One inquisitive youth took it upon himself to inquire if this were the case. On being informed to the contrary, he returned with deep chagrin and unhidden sorrow overspreading his usually beaming countenance because the Ahmeeks have the reputation of being good singers and usually provide some form of entertainment to the diners.

The club reports very favorably on the new committee system which they have inaugurated in their meetings. That is the scheme in which each club member is an active participant on some working committee. Committee meetings are held and reports made when the members are congregated together in a weekly club meeting. Each committee has complete charge over any question arising in their phase of organized boys' work, and it is only deemed advisable to put the matter before the club when it is of a vital nature. In this manner it is possible to eliminate a vast amount of unnecessary argument and to save considerable time. The committees are reorganized periodically and the members placed on the committees to which they are best adapted. It has also been the custom since the new year to have a short address delivered by a club member at each meeting.

Marvin Russel entertained as well as somewhat enlightened his fellow-members at the last meeting with a very vividly-arranged and well-delivered lecture on the extremely complex subject of photogravure. This system benefits both the speakers and his audience to a very great extent and prepares the boys for greater things in life.

It's a sight better to make friends fast than to make fast friends.

Son—What's common sense, father?

Father—What most people haven't go.

Son—Then, why don't they call it uncommon sense?

PROCLAMATION

RETURNED.

"Your narrative is too highly colored," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript.

"In what way?" inquired the disappointed author.

"Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain turn green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with blushes and the coachman turn blue with cold."

SCOUTS PREPARE, ST. GEORGES GET BUSY

St. George's Scouts are getting busy at physical "jerks" and are accumulating equipment. So, look out, you other fellows, for the summer months. There ain't no flies on us.

OPEN LETTER.

To the Editor:

I am replying to an article printed in your last edition of "The Boy's Own Tiser." It was an article sent in by the First Methodist Group, concerning among other events their so-called victories in basketball. Among the list of defeated teams we found the name of New St. James. We, the Pirates of New St. James, have not been defeated so far this year. After seeing this article in your paper, we attempted to arrange a game with their group, but we were unsuccessful, We were very disappointed when the game could not be arranged.

The Pirates are waiting to see this error corrected in the near future.

Thanking you for this small space, I am, on behalf of the Pirates,

C. A. BARBOUR.

To the Editor and Staff of the Boys' Own Tiser:

Many thanks for this opportunity of expressing the good-will of the London boys' work board towards you and your paper.

As a group of men we have given of our best to legislate wisely for you. We welcome the Boys' Own Tiser as a wonderful asset in giving you such a splendid channel of expression, and through which you can emphasize the fundamentals in character building for Christian citizenship.

Our hope is that you will raise the standard of boys' work and activities to a higher level of clean thinking, clean speaking and clean living.

Set for yourself some task; resolve to be the best in your line; work to make yourself worthy of the trust and confidence which others will place in you; equip yourself to assume the responsibilities of life; in doing all this, you will insure success for yourself, bring happiness to your parents, your teachers, your friends. (Signed)

TECUMSEH BOYS' CLUB

Mentor Springs a Surprise On Them.

Monday night of Feb. 27, the question among the members of the club was when were they going to have their monthly supper. This question was the most important of any other question or questions, because the end of the month was at hand, and they were getting prepared for a feast.

This question had not only worried the members of the club alone, but it had also worried the treasurer, who is Albert Gedge, and the mentors and supervisors of the club. The supervisors worry was about the funds for the month. This was, we hardly had enough funds to provide a supper with, and the next was the members who owed from two to four weeks dues would not pay up, and this made it impossible for us to provide a supper before the end of the month.

The mentor, assistant mentor and chief of the club tried to suggest to the members to have a supper the following Monday night, which was March 6. But this suggestion was met by an answer of disapproval. But it was dropped at this and no more was said for the balance of the night.

This, however, did not end the question with the mentor and chief of the club, because they took it upon their own shoulders through the balance of the week.

On Monday night of March 6 the boys met in the basement of the church at 7:30 o'clock. They started their meeting about 7:45. After holding prayer the mentor told the members that he had made arrangements for a supper for them tonight. This took most of them by great surprise.

The boys agreed to play games while the supper was being prepared, which only took a short time, or which only seemed a short time to them.

They all sat down to supper at 8:30 o'clock, and they all seemed to enjoy it, especially the ones which had had no supper before leaving home. After supper the boys played more games while the assistant mentor and chief of the club washed the dishes and put things back in order as if nothing had happened.

The boys left the church about 10:15 o'clock, and it seemed that all you could hear them discussing was how good the supper was and what a surprise it was to them.

The supervisors of the club are Mentors Mr. C. Milligan and Mr. Cheswick; assistant mentor, Eugene Taylor; chief, George Cheswick; sub-chief, Fred Skeggs; treasurer, Albert Gedge; tally, Frank Wolliston.

Members of the club—W. Ryal, B. Sutton, M. Taylor, E. Taylor, L. Robins, J. Saunders, C. Chappell, J. Smith, A. Gillette, W. Oldridge, Sam Harris.

PIRATES ARE BANQUETED

New St. James Boys Guests of H. B. Muir of Tiser.

On Monday the Pirates of New St. James were banqueted by H. B. Muir of The Advertiser, who is honorary president of the club. The boys met in Mr. Muir's office and at 6:30 trooped over to the De Luxe Cafe. Justice was done to the food which was spread before them, and many of the boys were sorry that they had not the foresight to fast for a few days previous to the banquet. After the supper the club was the guest of Mr. Muir, at the Grand Theatre. All the boys had a fine time and Mr. Muir said he enjoyed the fun better than anyone.

LIBRARY IS A SUCCESS

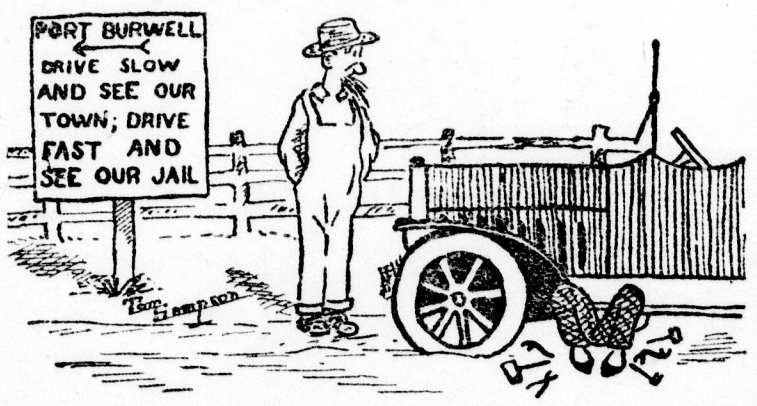
De la Salle Library Booms.

The new library, which was opened about a week ago at De la Salle, is proving a great success. All the boys take a great interest in it and get books every week. These books are very interesting, and provide useful reading for boys. The library contains about three hundred volumes, and as it is developed more books will be added.

THE CAMEL IS COMING

First Edition in Near Future.

The first issue of the Camel, the authorized publication of the London Technical High School, will appear on Friday, March 17. The staff hopes to make this paper a success, and assures everyone that it will live up to its slogan, "It's never dry." A company has been formed to handle all publications connected with the student body of the school. Almost four hundred shares of stock were sold, and the money is to be used only as an emergency fund.



Native—"Hey, mister, don't you know it's wrong to use a car for pleasure on Sunday?"

TUXIS GROUPS MEET

Boys Enjoy Supper at Y. M. C. A.

The following Tuxis groups met at the "Y" on Tuesday night and enjoyed a fine supper: Talbot Street (Weiners), First Methodist (Swastikas), Askin Street (Meteors), Colborne Street (Comex), Knox (Ahmeeks) and Askin Street (Hawks).

After supper a short sing-song was held at which the Weiners and Ahmeeks displayed their musical (?) ability.

The opening ceremony was conducted by the Grand Pretor, Lawrence Spence, and was followed by an election for deputy grand pretor. Cuyler Henderson of Colborne Street Comex was elected.

When called upon for a speech the deputy grand pretor-elect responded with a few well chosen words, thanking the electors for the honor they had bestowed upon him.

The Askin Street Hawks were again awarded the pennant for the best attendance record for the month of February. This is the third month in succession that the honors have gone to their group. Will Spearman made the announcements, and the groups then adjourned to their respective group rooms, later meeting on the gymnasium floor at 7:30 to compete against each other athletically.

LITERARY CLUB MEETS

De la Salle Boys Elect Officers.

The regular De la Salle Literary meeting was held on Wednesday, March 8, 1922. The meeting was opened by Vice-president Louis Darnell as the president; Edwin Walters was absent. The minutes were read by Secretary Stanley Nolan and were adopted on the motion of Austin Roney and seconded by Shannon Nolan.

The elections took place and the following were elected: President, John Donohue; vice-president, Fred Myles; secretary, Eugene O'Donnell; recording secretary, Fergus Ryan; treasurer, Wm. O'Brien; editor of school paper, John Cook; assistant editor, John Tighe; sporting editor, Denis Regan; joke editor, Wilfred O'Rourke. The meeting was adjourned on the motion of Mr. Donohue and seconded by Mr. Fox.

NEWSIES ENTERTAINED

Boys Have Great Fun At Y. M. C. A.

On Monday, March 6, 1922, the newsboys of The London Advertiser were the honored guests at the Y. M. C. A. The boys were shown several reels of motion pictures on the Chippawa development. While the pictures were being shown the boys sang a number of popular melodies.

Mr. Blay of The Advertiser gave the boys an interesting speech in which he reminded the boys of the necessity of the papers being placed where they would not blow away. Mr. Smith then gave the boys a short address, telling them that The Advertiser staff was their friend because it was through them that the news from all over the world was placed in the homes of the citizens of London.

Boys, if you are in trouble, all you have to do is hunt up "Bill" Blay, and he will straighten it out. Mr. Houlding of the Y. M. C. A. told the boys that they would endeavor to hold a similar meeting every month.

The boys then went out to the "gym," where they played until lunch was ready. Lunch was served in the boys' department and the newsboys certainly made the tables look sick. The boys went home after having their fill of good things.

ATTEND LENT SERVICES

Boy Scouts Attend Week-Night Services.

The second London troop, Boy Scouts, have postponed their regular meetings till after Lent. The boys are turning out to the week night services being held in the church at this time.

COMEX REPORT ACTIVITIES

Boast of Basketball Team.

The Comex Tuxis group of Colborne Street Methodist Church is in the second year of its existence. Although we have been forced to carry on under serious handicaps, we have already achieved many results. Last year we won the C. S. E. T. junior championship, and last fall in the games at the opening Tuxis conclave, we obtained the most points, and therefore the first prize pennant. The boys have also taken part in debates, and at a Sunday school banquet our "Sympathy Orchestra" conducted by Cuyler Henderson, was a big success.

Our group is meeting this year at the Y every Tuesday night along with five other Tuxis groups. All these groups have supper together at 6:15, a sing-song following. Then the groups hold their meeting, after which games are conducted on the gym floor. Cuyler Henderson, our president, is the deputy praetor of these groups.

Our hockey team, of which Walter Logan was the captain, ran up against the Pirates in the scheduled games, and the result was defeat. However, in an exhibition game the Knox Wingfoots were whitewashed 3—0.

The basketball team, which has been playing exhibition games and having weekly practices during the winter, is entered in the C. S. E. T. intermediate series. We have already had many victories and few defeats, and are confident that in this league all other groups will have to step lively if they have the notion that our team can be beaten.

Until lately Fred James, a student of Western niversity, was our energetic mentor, but owing to his studies and duties he has been forced to give up the group. W. A. Thompson has been appointed to succeed him, and we are sure that he will make a capable metor.

The officers of the group are: President, Cuyler Henderson; vice-president, Cam. Brown; secretary, Roy Allen; treasurer, Ken. Murray. We also have an advisory board consisting of J. S. Lovell, Mr. Logan and W. A. Thompson.

TUXIS HAVE SUPPER

Election At Y. M. C. A., Tuesday Night.

At the weekly supper of the Y. M. C. A. Tuxis Grand Camp on Tuesday there was an election. It seems that for some time now the camp officers have not been complete owing to their grand deputy preator having left town.

In the nominations brought in by the nominating committee, headed by Grand Preator Spence, the names of Ben Foulkes and Tyler Henderson were brought up. The conclave decided on an open ballot, so the nominees were asked to leave the chamber.

After the election Grand Preator Spence called Tyler Henderson, as the new grand deputy, to address the conclave.

In a few well-chosen words Tyler showed the fellows his appreciation of their confidence, and sat down amidst tumultuous applause.

PATROL LEADERS CONFER

Meet At Home of George Metcalfe.

On Friday evening, March 3, the officers of the Eighth Troop, Boy Scouts, held their weekly meeting at the residence of the scoutmaster, Mr. George Metcalfe. The regular business was dealt with.

Following this, discussion on the new club room was brought up. A lively argument ensued, in which it was decided to officially open the club room on Wednesday March 8.

Patrol Leader McCallum passed his First Aid test for second class. The meeting was then brought to a close.

The scouts present included District Scoutmaster Cristall, Scoutmaster Metcalfe, Troop Leader Rodda, Patrol Leaders Burrows, McCallum and F. L. Phipps.

YOUNG JUDEANS SPEAK

Hold Oratory Contest At Last Meeting.

The last meeting of the Young Judean Club of London, was marked by the beginning of an oratory contest. The subjects which according to the rules of the contest were to be concerning the Jewish nation, were well chosen and much credit is due to the speakers for the splendid way in which they delivered them. The two contending speakers for the first stage of the contest were Hymie Ginsberg and Archie Cherrin.

Remarking that his subject was one which was perhaps not so commonly known, and which would do no harm to refresh in our minds, Archie Cherrin, the first speaker, introduced his subject, "The Biography of Abraham." He traced Abraham's life from his infancy to his death, laying stress upon the principal events. The language used was excellent and he made his speech very interesting.

Hymie Ginsberg, the second speaker, chose as his topic, "The Scattered Nation." He began by telling how the Jewish nation was once situated in its own land, ruled by its own kings. He showed how Palestine broke up into two states, Israel and Judah, and finally fell into the captivity of Babylon. Thus he traced the history of the Jewish nation, showing how it finally became scattered over the whole world. He brought his speech to a close by describing the present condition of the "Scattered Nation," and with a wish "that in a short time we may again be settled in our own land."

A special feature of the meeting was an interesting talk, given by Mr. Le-ner, a prominent local man. His speech was greatly appreciated by the members, as was signified by the hearty applause. It is to be hoped that in a short time he will again address the club.

At the next meeting of the club, which is to be held on March 18, the contest will be continued. The speakers will be Fred Hoffman and Hyman Wilensky.

NAVAL BRIGADE DRILLS

Mr. Pentecost Gives Boys Instruction.

The boys of the B. N. B. spent nearly all Tuesday evening at rifle drill and learning the art of stacking rifles. The boys show progress in their rifle work and should soon prove a credit to the city of London.

The local B. N. B. boys are very fortunate in having such men as Mr. Pentecost and Mr. Akins to instruct them in their rifle drill. Mr. Pentecost was a chief gunner's mate, and Mr. Akins was a member of the "Famous Coldstream Guards." Mr. Akins has been on duty at Buckingham Palace, St. James Palace, and the Mint (where the money is made in England), in London, England, and interested the boys very much with talk about these places.

The boys are looking forward to the time when Mr. Akins will tell them something about the "White Tower."

SIGNALLERS ATTEND CLASSES AT ARMORIES

De la Salle Boys Take Signalling.

On Mondays and Thursdays of each week signaling classes are held at the armories, the Morse code is used. Last year the semaphore signaling was taken up and each boy who passed the examination at the end of the six weeks term is allowed to take up the Morse this year for seven weeks. All who were successful in the examination received a bonus of five dollars, as well as a certificate showing that he had passed and is capable to teach signaling.

The De la Salle school has the largest attendance. The following are the boys who attend from De la Salle: Joe Raffaele, Jerome Loughlin, Percy Lethbridge, John Uijen, Wm. O'Brien, Fred Myles and John Cook.

ANOTHER SCOUT TROOP

St. Mary's Parish Organize.

The boys' of St. Mary's Parish formed a scout movement on Thursday, March 2. It is dvided into six patrols with N. Flood, J. Ryan, J. Flanagan, J. Howard, W. Moralee and G. O'Meara as patrol leaders. A patrol consists of eight boys.

Meetings will be held every Tuesday night. This summer they intend to have a camp and to go on hikes. Father Weber was appointed chaplain of the troop, Mr. Payne is director.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE DO-IT-NOT CLUB

Members Discuss Many Things of No Interest to the Community.

The annual, semi-annual meeting of "Do It Not Club" was held in Mr. Doolittle's rooms on Tuesday night at 12 o'clock in the morning. A resolution was passed by the members not present expressing their pity for the poor fish that bit.

Among the many motions not made was passed one whereby any member who paid their fees on time would be unceremoniously dropped from the club's roll.

Sir Money occupied the chair, the other members sitting around the fireless cooker.

A resolution of sympathy was passed expressing disapproval that the members of Parliament should have to sign their own checks. The members who were not there thought it was too undignified, so it was undecidedly decided to take some money out of their overdraft and provide check signers for the M. P.'s.

As there was no food on hand, the members banqueted at the expense of Sir Loyn Stake.

The meeting was then adjourned, after which the club went on record as being in favor of making a drive for no more new members.

Willingly submitted under protest.

I AMA STORIETELLER,
Unconfidential Secretary.

SCOUTMASTERS MEET

Hold Monthly Meeting At Dundas Center.

Friday evening, March 3, the scoutmasters of London held their monthly meeting at Dundas Centre Church, with Scoutmaster Cree in the chair. The meeting was opened with prayer.

A discussion of how to bring the delinquent members to time was engaged in. Secretary Rodda promised to write letters to the absent members. The meeting was then adjourned at 10:15 p.m.

:: In The Social World ::

The second annual Ahmeek dance, which was held last night at the Masonic Temple, proved a success.

At 8:30 p.m. the vicinity of the temple was thronged with pleasure-seekers who had long been looking forward to the promised good time at the "Ahmeeks." They were received at the door by the committee in charge.

The hall was brilliantly decorated in the Ahmeek colors, maroon and white; streamers, balloons and bunting added to the gaiety of the affair.

The ever popular Versatile Orchestra provided the dancers with the latest New York dances, and the many encores proved its success.

The very best punch procurable was served continuously throughout the evening.

As the happy evening progressed, novelty dances were introduced. The "Ahmeek Indian War Dance" took the place of last year's "Rose Dance." The members of the club presented the costumed "Indian Dance," accompanied by the "tum-tum." The encore, "The Ahmeek Indian Prayer,' which was sung about the camp fire during the mystical appearance of the Ahmeek (beaver), was very unique. Other dances which were also enjoyed by all were the "Serpentine' and "balloon" dances.

The club was fortunate in procuring as their patrons His Worship the Mayor and Mrs. Cameron Wilson, Col. and Mrs. Wm. Gartshore, Dr. and Mrs. J. I. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. V. K. Greer.

The guests included:

Tishburn.

Friday evening, March 3, saw the realization, by the Collegiate Institute students of the long-awaited and much-discussed social evening. The social was held under the auspices of the Students' Union. The party was probably the happiest schoolgirl and schoolboy affair ever held in the city, for were not these young people enjoying, for the first time, the many advantages for social activities which their new school affords them?

After the guests had arrived, and had been received by the reception committee, which was composed of Harold Newell, student president of the Students' Union; Dorothy Silverwood, vice-president; Eleanor Grant, secretary; Ernestine Partridge, Barbara Daly, Louise Wyatt, Albert Lawrence, and George McCracken, the guests were invited into the beautiful auditorium, where George McCracken, as president of the newly-formed Literary Society, presided, in a very able manner, over the meeting. The program, which lasted almost an hour, consisted of a solo by Miss Viola Stevens, a recitation by Miss Viola Leff, an interesting address from Mr. E. A. Miller, president of the Students' Union, and selections by the superb Collegiate Orchestra. The meeting was concluded by a lively sing-song, led by Jack Wilkins. The sing-song was ended with Dorothy and Cameron Wilson singing the verses of the "L. C. I. Rag," while the audience joined lustily in the chorus.

The guests then dispersed to the different sections of the school, where various entertainments, which were so numerous and of such different character that there was something which appealed to each and every one.

The rendezvous for those who wished to chat and rest awhile was in the library, where music was furnished.

In the spacious clubroom, games were in charge of Miss Edna Holland and Mr. "Bob" Liddle of the Y. M. C. A., assisted by teachers of the staff.

An orchestra, in the auditorium, played for corridor promenading, which was very popular.

In the gym, which was profusely decorated with balloons, school pennants and streamers of school colors, the dear old purple and gold. Among those enjoying the "light fantastic" were school trustees, and also some of the members of the staff.

Enticing refreshments were served in the cafeteria under the convenership of Miss Mary Macpherson. The cafeteria was gaily decorated, as was also the auditorium, the corridors and the gym. The decoration committee was convened by Miss B. McCamus, to whom much credit is due.

The efforts of the principal, W. H. T. Mooney, Mr. E. A. Miller, and J. A. Dolan, chairman of the social committee, had a great deal to do with making the affair the great success it was.

The evening's activities closed at 11:30, when the students returned to their homes.

The patrons and patronesses were: The principal, W. H. T. Mooney, and Mrs. Mooney, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Silverwood, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dolan, Mrs. E. T. Cleghorn.

THANKS, CAMELS.

The staff of the Camel, the Technical School publication, wishes to congratulate the staff of the Boys' Own Tiser on their excellent publication and wish them success in time to come.

MEN PUT ON BANQUET

Fathers and Sons Have Feed.

The fathers and sons of Askin Street Methodist Church met last evening in the basement of the Sunday school and held their annual Father and Son banquet. The feed was in charge of the Men's Brotherhood of the church, and they carried the affair through with their usual good management.

Two hundred or more sat down to the fine supper, and all did justice to the good things placed before them by the men waiters. One of the unique features of this banquet was that it was put on altogether by the men, without the help of the ladies of the church, and they did it equally as good as the ladies, at that.

The appetites satisfied, a short sing-song was indulged in to help digest the supper before listening to the program for the evening. Mr. Ballantyne then sang a solo which was greatly appreciated by all. A few of the men spoke for a few minutes, but the bulk of the time was left to the speaker of the evening, Mr. Sulman of Chatham.

Mr. Sulman has been a globe-trotter, and has traveled extensively in Egypt and India. His address was very interesting, in the fact that the conditions in India and Egypt are today attracting a great deal of attention throughout the world.

This is the third Father and Son banquet given by the Askin Brotherhood, and was perhaps the best yet. It certainly did not fall below the high standard set by the other two banquets, and was a decided success in every way.

PUBLIC SPEAKERS MAKE IMPROVEMENT

The public speaking classes held every Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building, under the guidance of Mr. Houlding, is making good progress. The regular meeting last Tuesday saw much improvement over previous meetings. Mr. Houlding expressed much pleasure at this.

A very interesting program is promised for next week, as each boy is preparing a ten-minute speech on any subject he chooses to talk upon.

This Boy's—

got the news—you should have heard him shout when he got it. Have you heard yet—it's at Dowlers' Boys' Store, of course. Here's what they said in Thursday's paper:

To make more boys our friends and salesmen—boosting for Dowler boys' clothes—we'll give every boy buying a suit of clothes here (at $8.00 or over) a handsome time-keeping watch, absolutely free.

It's Great---

That's what boys say—and the clothes are great values, too—just what boys would choose anyway—all the new style features and everything—and at the lowest prices for real clothes.

Further---

For boys who've already bought their spring suits here ($8.00 or more), even back to March 1st, they'll get a watch, too, if they bring another boy in to buy a suit now.

Come on, boys! Now's the time to get your Spring Suit and a good watch, too.

FORM BASEBALL LEAGUE

De la Salle Boys to Organize.

The forming of a baseball league at De la Salle is being considered. During the winter months a hockey league was organized of which the first year high school team was the winner. A baseball league, with each room being represented by a team, will likely be formed. The boys all took a great interest in the hockey league and the same is expected when the baseball league is organized.

SCOUTS REORGANIZE

Latter Day Saints Now Have Troop.

Boy Scout troop 29, with headquarters at the Latter Day Saints Church, Maitland street, has reorganized with a full staff of officers. The troop consists of two patrols and they are very active and energetic.

A few weeks ago a benefit concert was held in the basement of the church. The Harmonic Quartet was engaged and put on the entire program. Mr. Frank Gray, our treasurer, acted as chairman. The tickets were sold by the scouts, who proved to be excellent salesmen, resulting in a net balance of nearly thirty dollars. The money will be used to purchase equipment for the troop. The officers and members of the troop are as follows:

Scoutmaster, Mr. A. Blanchard; assistant scoutmaster, Mr. L. Rankin; instructor, Mr. Wm. Alford; physical instructor, Mr. C. Bean; Chaplain, Mr. F. Gray; secretary, A. Hodgson; patrol leaders, A. Ebsworthy and N. Fishleigh; seconds, A. Richardson and N. Ridley; G. Robinson, F. Lott, E. Burnard, F. Cake, E. Lott, F. Timbrell, L. Marshall, C. Robinson, B. Cake, C. Faulkner, V. Warren.

The troop meets on Monday nights. Watch us grow!

BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Anglicans Have Prosperous Season.

The basketball league, formed by the Anglican churches of the city last fall, has had a most prosperous season. The great success of the games as played by the English churches is largely due to the fact that the highest brand of clean sportmanship has been displayed by every team in the league.

The main object of the league when formed was to promote clean athletics. In this the league has been more than a success. Foul playing and disputed decisions are unknown. The next object was to get the fellows of the Church of England in the city to know each other better. This has also been a success. Those formerly unknown are now "Bill," "Jack," or "Curly."

There are a few more games to be played to finish the first schedule and then, in all probability, another schedule will be drawn up.

It is also planned to have, at the close of the season, a monster banquet, at which trophies will be presented. This will also tend to form a closer companionship among the different players.

Too much cannot be said of the untiring efforts of the popular secretary, Ted Wainwright. Ted's smiling face has been a familiar thing at the majority of games, many of which he has very capably acted as referee in a manner most satisfactory to all teams concerned. It has been said "all the world admires a true sport" and the league certainly admires Ted.

NAVAL BRIGADE SHOOT

The boys of the B. N. B. held their weekly shoot on Wednesday night and had good success. Some good shots where made with R. Barnes coming first with 46 and N. Adams second with 45.

The boys are being much inspired by the citizens of London, as they have a cup and two medals to shoot for now. They were presented with another medal on Wednesday night from Mr. Murtagh. It is a fine medal and is ten carrat gold, and each boy has made up his mind to try and win it.

ETIMARS WIN DEBATE.

In the fourth debate of the Intering League, the Etimars defeated the Excelsiors (Knox) in a closely contested debate on the subject, "Resolved that the modern novel is beneficial to mankind."

The Etimars were represented by Mr. Bob Shaw-Wood, Mr. Frank McCarthy-Smith, and Mr. Clarence Nugent, while the Excelsiors were represented by Mr. Stewart Kennedy, Mr. Argo and Mr. Minnice.

Many strong arguments were presented by both sides, but the judges were unanimous in the decision.

The judges were Mr. Greer, Dr. Auden and Mr. W. Hodden.

Before the debate the clubs were treated to a refreshing supper, after which a hearty sing-song was participated in.

This makes the third straight win for the Etimars, which by so doing wins the coveted cup, which has been the desire of this club. Standing:

W. O. S. S. A. REPORTS ORATORS SUCCEED

Hockey has proven a great success despite the fact that the series was commenced very late. Tillsonburg and Woodstock College battle in the semi-finals on March 9 and March 10. The final game with the winner of the Clinton-Listowel series will be in London on Monday or Tuesday of next week. If Clinton and Listowel do not declare a winner, the championship will be awarded to the winner of the Tillsonburg-Woodstock College series. The hockey should have been completed now, but some schools apparently have not realized the importance of completing games according to schedule. Next year the series will commence earlier and will be terminated by the first of March.

Basketball has been a great success. District winners will be declared by March 18, and an elimination series has been scheduled. It is proposed to have two tournaments in London this year. The girls' tournament will be on April 17 or 18, and the boys' on April 21. The contests will be for one day, and the competitors will be reduced to four. In the afternoon the four teams will play off. In the evening the championship will be decided. The losing teams of the afternoon will play exhibition games with London Collegiate Institute and London Technical School. In this way an excellent program will be provided. A school trophy for girls' basketball is being arranged. The winning team will be presented with silver medals in each tournament.

The suggested schedule for the elimination series is:

Group A, Boys.

March 25—Kitchener at winner district No. 2.

April 1—Winner district No. 2 at Kitchener.

Girls.

A bye.

Group B, Boys and Girls.

March 25—Aylmer at winner district No. 1.

April 1—Winner district No. 1 at Aylmer.

Group C.

March 11—Stratford (boys) at Goderich; St. Marys (girls) at Goderich.

March 18—Goderich (boys) at Stratford; Goderich (girls) at St. Marys.

Group D.

Strathroy (boys) a bye.
Sarnia (girls) a bye.

Group E.

Windsor Collegiate (boys and girls) a bye.

In order to complete the elimination series it will be necessary to have Group C and Group D play off as follows:

March 25—Winner Group C (boys) at Strathroy; winner Group C (girls) at Sarnia.

April 1—Strathroy (boys) at winner Group C; Sarnia (girls) at winner Group C.

In arranging this elimination series care has been taken to have the teams for the tournament representative of the whole area covered by the association. It will be noted that the teams will be from the eastern, central, southwestern and northwestern sections of Western Ontario.

SCOUTS GET CLUBROOM

Eighth London Troop Is Lucky.

Wednesday evening, March 8, the new clubroom of the 8th Troop, Boy Scouts, was officially opened. The Owl Patrol, the Whip-poor-Will Patrol and the Cub Patrol were present. Troop Leader Rodda was in charge.

A library has been started and 44 books have been obtained by these Scouts. Games were indulged in by many of the Scouts. However, there was one Scout who was noticed in a quiet corner reading "Tom Sawyer." Later the Scouts drilled for a short time.

At 9 o'clock the boys left for home. Scoutmaster Metcalfe was unable to be present.

Thursday evening the Scouts of the Hawk and Crow Patrols held their weekly meeting in these new club rooms.

W. O. S. S. A. REPORTS

Hockey and Basketball Is Popular.

The literary activities of the W. O. S. S. A. have proven a great success. The oratorical contests at Windsor and Brantford far surpassed the expectations of the executive, and have set a high mark for the competitors of next year. Debating is proceeding only in District No. 1, and on Friday evening the girls' championship will be decided at the London Collegiate Institute, when the local girls meet Woodstock Collegiate Institute on the subject, "Resolved, that a British-American alliance is in the best interests of world peace."

ASKIN HAWKS WIN AGAIN

The Askin Street Hawks Tuxis Group again won the Tuxis championship at the "Y" for the month of February. This championship is much sought after and the Hawks are to be congratulated on their wonderful averageof 99.6.

BOYS' PARLIAMENT HOLD MEETING

Origination of House Traced Back Through Centuries.

The boy's parliament of the London Technical High School held their regular meeting on Tuesday, March 7, in the musical art building. Mr. Anderson, speaker of the house, opened the meeting, after which he called on Mr. Oates, deputy speaker of the house, to give a short address.

Mr. Oates had for his topic the history of parliament and the way it is conducted. During his speech he traced back the parliament to the barbarous tribes which in the early centuries covered Southern Asia. The parliament at this time was the chief and his advisers or wise men. He traced the history up through the centuries, during which the power was gradually taken from the chief and given to the parliament or wise men until now the king is just kept as a custom, having hardly any power at all, the power being in the House of Commons and House of Lords.

He also gave the boys an outline of the means of conducting parliment in our own country. He told of the sergeant-at-arms and his duties. Why the members of parliment could wear their hats when they were seated. The custom originated when old log buildings were used and it would have been injurious to the member's health to sit bareheaded; and of the mace, the symbol of authority. He also discussed the pages' duties.

Mr. Scott of the London Technical Publishing Company, said a few words in reference to the coming edition of the school paper, "The Camel," which will endeavor to live up to its slogan, "It's never dry." Mr. Anderson closed the meeting and the house retired.

ALLIANCE NOT TO PROBE PARTY

Ontario's Branch Organization Declines to Take Part in Controversy.

RANEY'S STAND LAUDED

Delegates to Toronto Convention Urge Efforts for Total Prohibition.

TORONTO, March 10.—The Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance today declined to take sides in the controversy over the propriety of investigating the "party" held in the parliament buildings a year ago. The resolution moved early in the day by A. R. Hassard, calling for investigation and punishment "to the full limit of the law," was sent to the resolutions committee after ten minutes of warm debate. When it returned from the care of the resolutions committee later it had been modified to such an extent that Mr. Hassard sought by means of an amendment to give it back some of its original force, but in this he was unsuccessful. He could not get a seconder.

Flays Lack of Sympathy.

He reminded the convention that there had been no stint of applause for reports referring to the arrest and conviction of poor law-breakers —a woman with a baby at her breast perhaps—but there seemed to be no applause for the proposal to bring law-breakers in Queen's Park to book. As finally passed, the resolution read:

"That in the matter remitted to your committee relative to the alleged violation of the Ontario temperance act by some persons in the Ontario parliament buildings, this convention expresses its appreciation of the statement made by Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, to the effect that every facility will be afforded the Legislature for the investigation of these charges."

The report of the organization committee, which was adopted, recommended that one or two student bands should tour Western and Northern Ontario in the temperance cause. It impressed on local organizations the importance of having clean and correct voters' lists, and on Dominion issues to assist and act with the Dominion council.

Try For Total Prohibition.

The convention went on record that there should be every effort made to secure a complete prohibition in the Dominion by strengthening the hands of the deputation which would wait on the King government at Ottawa later on this month under the auspices of the Dominion Alliance.

Officers were elected as follows: Past presidents, Rev. Canon R. W. E. Greene, Islington; Theron Gibson, Toronto; Charles E. Steele, Port Colborne; president, D. V. Sinclair, Belleville; treasurer, Henry Sutherland, Toronto; secretary, Ben H. Spence, Toronto.

The convention concluded tonight, sitting under the auspices of the Dominion executive of the Alliance. Resolutions were passed calling for a national law prohibiting the manufacture, importation and inter-provincial transportation of liquor and expressing agreement with the objectives of the world league against alcoholism for the total suppression of alcoholism.

The resolution regarding national prohibition follows:

"In the opinion of this meeting a national evil requires a national remedy. Provincial prohibition cannot be made safe or effective in any province in Canada while liquor is manufactured within or imported into other provinces of Canada. We believe that national solidarity and inter-provincial comity would be added by the enactment of a Dominion law prohibiting the manufacture, importation, exportation, and inter-provincial transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and we would urge that there be no cessation of activity, no relaxation of effort, till from ocean to ocean, wherever our flag flies, our land shall be free from the stain and stigma of the legalized liquor traffic in ay and every shape and form."

When England's Princess Wed Viscount Lascelles in Westminster Abbey

THIS official picture of the marriage of Princess Mary, daughter of the king and queen of England, to Viscount Lascelles, was taken toward the end of the ceremony in Westminster Abbey, London, February 28. It shows the Archbishop of Canterbury reading the service. The bride and groom stand before him, the bride at the left of the groom, whose uniform distinguishes him. Just back of the couple stand two bridesmaids, while six other bridesmaids stand on the altar steps. Members of the royal family sit within the railing.

The king is plainly to be seen between the heads of the first pair of the group of six bridesmaids. At his right is the queen, then Prince Henry and next to him Queen Alexandra.

GERMANS TO ABIDE BY GENOA PARLEY PROGRAM

Berlin Government Declares It Will Aid in Any Reconstruction Task.

BERLIN, March 10.—At the foreign office today it was announced that the German government would loyally abide by the program for the Genoa economic conference agreed upon by Premiers Lloyd George and Poincare, and make no attempt to have it altered.

"The American attitude obviously is logical, and seems to presage an unproductive outcome for the Genoa parleys," the foreign office official continued. "Any conference pretending to tackle the task of European economic reconstruction cannot avoid including reparations in the scope of its deliberations, as the depreciation of the mark, which is one of the mainsprings in the prevailing disorganizations, is directly traceable to that source, and other factors emanating from the Versailles treaty."

PRESENTED WITH ROCKER.

HARRISTON, March 10.—A number of friends met at the home of Alderman C. L. Eedy last evening and presented one of the most popular citizens, Mr. Duncan Fletcher, who is removing from here to Listowel, with a remembrance. Mayor Fawcett was elected to the chair, and in a few words ponited out the town's loss in the removal of Mr. Fletcher. The presentation of a rocker was then made Mr. Fletcher.

DRAG EIGHT HOURS FOR MISSING TRIO

Police on Canadian Side Fail To Find Rae Besse and Two Sons.

WILL SCOUR RIVER DENS

Mother and Wife Rallies From Collapse When Search Does Not Reveal Bodies.

WINDSOR, March 10.—Search of the Canadian shore of the Detroit River was resumed Friday in an effort to locate Rae Besse, who disappeared more than a week ago with his two small sons.

Mrs. Besse, the boys' mother, was in a more cheerful mood when eight hours' dragging by the harbormaster's crew at the foot of Orleans street failed to locate the bodies of Besse or his sons.

With this verification of their belief that Besse did not carry out his threat to drown the boys, police declare they will redouble their efforts to find the missing trio in the river dens of the two sides of the river.

Search of a neighborhood in Pontiac Thursday, where Besse and the boys are reported to have been seen proved fruitless, and police have given up the theory that Besse might be hiding there.

Since a week ago Thursday night, when Besse failed to return from a visit to nearby street car shops, Mrs. Besse has been living in the fear that her two boys might be dead.

For several days she was near collapse, but since dragging of the river failed to find the bodies she has begun to believe the police theory that her husband and sons are among the huts and houseboats of the river.

REFUSE APPLICATION OF G. T. R. TO LAY TRACKS

Railway Board Members Opposed To Level Crossings at Guelph.

GUELPH, March 10.—The application of the Grand Trunk Railway to the Dominion Railway Board for permission to run their tracks down Waterloo street, and across Huskisson street and between Farquhar and Waterloo streets, has been refused. Word to this effect reached the office of the city solicitor today, and a complete copy of the decision of the railway commissioners was received. It was a week ago yesterday that the board had their sitting here and listened to the reason advanced by the city for opposing the application.

The decision of the board is based on the opposition to the running of the tracks down Waterloo street, more than on the fact that there would be two level crossings they say nothing in the award regarding teh plan which the city submitted at the time of the hearing, which provides for the purchasing of what is known now as the Walker Block. If the Grand Trunk desires to secure this property they will have to make a fresh application to the board.

THREE SLAIN BY ARMED BAND IN BELFAST CITY

Unusual Military Activity Follows Shooting of Seaforth Highlander.

DAWSON DENIES REPORT

Home Secretary Declares Orangemen Not Planning Onslaught on Catholics.

BELFAST, March 10.—Constables O'Connor and Cullen were attacked by an armed band in the Falls road tonight. O'Connor was shot dead, and Cullen was mortally wounded.

Lieutenant Bruce, of the Seaforth Highlanders, was murdered in Albert street, in the Falls road district, by a party of men, supposed to be Sinn Feiners.

The lieutenant was shot with revolvers. The greatest military activity followed the killing. Lieutenant Bruce was wearing civilian clothes, and the motive for the murder is not known.

Constable Dies of Wounds.

Constable Cullen, who was shot in an attack in the Falls road section earlier in the evening, died from his wounds.

An official statement issued tonight says that since February 11, 22 Catholics and 17 Protestants have been killed in Belfast. The total number of fatalities since July, 1920, is given as 125 Catholics and 42 Protestants.

While two policemen were patrolling York street this afternoon, six armed men surrounded them, took away their revolvers and rifles and ran off.

This noon William Kerr was found in a vacant lot near York road suffering from a bullet wound.

Bates Denies Report.

Sir Dawson Bates, home secretary of the North Ireland cabinet, today emphatically denied the report from Dublin yesterday that Orangemen were planning a wholesale onslaught on Catholics in Belfast. The Provisional Government was reported as claiming to possess knowledge of such intentions.

Sir Dawson characterized the report as part of a general conspiracy against the peace of the city, with the ulterior motive of making law and order impossible and compelling Ulster to abandon its right to a separate government from the rest of Ireland.

ST. THOMAS MAN FINDS EXPERIMENTING COSTLY

Thomas Holland Fined $200 When Officers Seize Still in Home.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—For having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling in violation of the O. T. A., Thomas Holland, in whose home a complete still was discovered by the police, last week, was fined $200 and costs when he was arraigned before Magistrate Maxwell Friday morning.

Holland still maintained that he did not know that the liquor which he is alleged to have concocted was intoxicating, as he claimed that he was merely experimenting. He reiterated the statement that the raisin and bran mash, which was also discovered, was a new kind of chicken feed he was trying out. When two samples of the liquor was analyzed it was found that one was 13.59 per cent proof spirits, while the other was 65.43 per cent.

The prisoner was given until Tuesday to raise the money. A charge has also been laid against Holland under the inland revenue act, it is reported.

It was also arranged to have an expert come to lay out the Riverside Park.

SEEKS GREATER RECOGNITION

Yeoman's Club in Toronto, which would be made the rendezvous of agriculturists and their friends while in Toronto was also advocated by Mr. Bailey, who stated that such an institution was badly needed to bring the buyer and producer of agricultural products together.

W. R. Reek and J. B. Fairbairn both spoke in favor of such a club, Mr. Reek stating that there would be no difficulty in securing a large membership in Toronto of men who had business with agriculturists. It would fill a badly-felt want in that city.

Yeoman's Club Favored.

Any action in the establishment of the Yeoman's Club, which has been under discussion for some time, was left to the executive to be dealt with at their discretion.

The secretary's report showed that receipts totalled $926.14, and disbursements of $828.29.

A. G. Farrow of Toronto, chairman of the agricultural development board gave an interesting talk on the rural credit system introduced by the Ontario government.

Mr. Farrow told of the needs leading up to the establishment of the system and the satisfaction with which it was working out.

Mr. Farrow stated that loan companies had undergone a change in the past few years. At the present time they were turning their attention more to mortgages on city than country property, according to a loan company manager that he had been talking to.

Outlines Rural Credit Plan.

Victory bonds were supplementing farm mortgages with the individual who had money at his disposal. All he had to do was clip the coupons. There was no difficulty in collecting his interest. There were numerous reasons why farmers were faced with great handicaps in getting money for long-term loans, and these proved the necessity to establish credits for the agricultural needs of the country.

Agriculture should be properly taken care of, and business men were waking up to this fact. The government realized that something should be done, and after careful study had passed bills making it possible for credits to be established.

Mr. Farrow stated that the board had received applications for loans totaling over $1,000,000, and had passed on loans for $275,000. Some $400,000 in loans were pending, and would probably go through. All this had been done in the past three and a half months.

Amendments to the act were in process of formation at the present time, and would probably take care of men who were anxious to increase production.

Mr. Farrow declared that the banks were not meeting the needs of the farmer in short-term credits. The farmer, as a rule, did not care to borrow from the bank unless it was an absolute necessity.

Three farm loan associations were in operation at present, and 12 more would be doing business shortly.

In answer to a question, Mr. Farrow said that local valuators were employed in the various counties and that farms were being valued at prewar prices.

In the United States, in the past five years, $400,000,000 had been loaned to farmers with a loss of but $200.

Hold First Annual Banquet.

The first annual banquet held by the Provincial O. A. C. Alumni Association in the Tecumseh House Friday night, is one that will long be remembered by the 100 or more graduates present.

The addresses by Hon. Nelson Montieth, a former minister of agriculture; Dr. C. C. Creelman, former president of the O. A. C.; Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture in the Ontario government, and last but not least, the talk of A. Sapiro, the apostle of co-operative marketing, from California, were cheered to the echo by the ex-students.

The main thought brought to the gathering by Mr. Sapiro was that those present must supply the leadership necessary in putting co-operative marketing on a sound basis.

"The average farmer has to spend all his time in production; he doesn't pretend to know anything about economics," declared the speaker, "and you are the men that will have to help, and exercise leadership in farming.

"You have a leadership in Mr. Doherty such as we never dreamed of in California. You have young men on the farms who will follow your lead. I am not worried on the status of marketing here. In three years you will have your dairying, fruit, livestock and surplus grain industries organized from the bottom.

"I have had my eyes opened here. Your president, Mr. Fry, gave me an analysis on dairying the other day as brilliant as anything I ever noticed in the United States. Your whole college is a perfect inspiration, not from the standpoint of farmers, but as leaders.

Leadership Needed.

"You don't want any more knowledge in co-operative marketing; what you want is leadership on the farm and put it into practice. All the minister of agriculture can do is to lay down the plans, you must do the rest, and I believe your association is the one where the organization must and should start.

"The movement is no good, unless you have real leadership from the farmers. You have to supply the next step and do in three years what it took us twelve years to do in California. You have a situation commercially better than ours, and you have a college that makes us green with envy.

"If you men as graduates of the O. A. C. realize your duties, you will help solve the marketing problems of Ontario. No outsider can supply that leadership.

"Education is a responsibility, and the man on the farm has the right to look to you to take all the blows of leadership, all the scorn and abuse that goes with it. It is the one type of movement that you men and you only can lead. You have the problem, I hope you will supply the leadership."

Hon. Nelson Monteith proposed the toast "Our Alma Mater," and told of the work done at the college some years ago. He declared that the O. A. C. had a firm hold on the agricultural thought of the province.

Tells of O. A. C. Influence.

Dr. Creelman was in happy vein and told of O. A. C. men he had met everywhere in his trip around the world in 1914, and the influence they wielded in practically every country. He mentioned O. A. C. men that he had met in New Zealand, Japan, Australia, India, South Africa, England, Spain, Switzerland, France, South America and the United States.

Dr. Creelman paid a tribute to the 55 per cent of O. A. C. students who had returned to the farm and to the district representatives who were doing so much good work in Ontario.

Hon. Manning Doherty spoke in glowing terms of the work done and being done at the O. A. C. He looked to the graduates to help develop the marketing system and would at all times be glad of suggestions from the alumni associations and the co-operation of all graduates.

A. E. Silverwood welcomed the members of the association to the city and hoped that they would hold their meetings here again.

Several selections from the O.A.C. quartet were heartily encored.

President Fry acted as chairman.

PROVIDES FOR TABLET TO LATE ST. THOMAS PASTOR

Former Knox Church Member Sets Aside Money in Will For This Purpose.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—In Knox Church a memorial tablet in memory of Rev. George Cuthbertson, who was minister of Knox Church from 1862 to 1877, and who died in Toronto in 1903, will be unveiled Sunday morning.

The erection of the tablet has been made possible through the will of the late William R. McKenzie, a former member of the church, who died at his home in Oregon, one month ago.

Mr. Cuthbertson, who is still remembered by several of the older members of Knox Church, was pastor when the church was located on the present site of the postoffice. The church in this city was the second of the three charges which he filled during his lifetime. Mr. Cuthbertson was clerk of the London Presbytery for 25 years. He was buried at Ingersoll.

The services which will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning, will be conducted by Rev. D. C. MacGregor, moderator of the London Presbytery, and pastor of St. Andrew's Church of London.

McGREGOR SERIOUSLY ILL.

MONTREAL, March 10.—Gordon McGregor, manager of the Canadian Ford Company at Ford, Ont., who entered the Royal Victoria Hospital here March 3, and was operated on March 6 for internal trouble, is reported as in a serious condition tonight.

RISE ON MARKET CHICKEN PRICES

Creamery Butter Quotations Also Increase On Local Square.

Contrary to expectations there was a small attendance at the local market on Saturday, on account of the bad condition of the country roads. As a result prices were inclined to have an upward tendency, quotations on chickens being the most notable. Dairy products were scarce and in active demand, and this helped to increase prices.

Previous wholesale quotations of creamery butter advanced 2c, making the prices 36c and 38c per lb.

Chickens, retail, went at $1.25@2.25 each, and 32@35c per lb, and wholesale at 32@35c per lb. Alive they sold for 22@25c per lb, while old fowl went for 22@28c.

There was little demand for dressed hogs, which caused prices to sag to $16 and $16.50 per cwt.

WALL STREET REVIEW

New York, March 11.—The advance in prices of fabricated materials announced by a number of independent steel producers was regarded as the most encouraging and significant development of the week in the stock market.

Sugars and several other important commodities also hardened on the better outlook in various lines of industry and commerce, but the course of the grain markets again suggested an undigested condition.

Trading in stocks and bonds, especially the latter, fell off in comparison with the active operations of the previous fortnight, and both were more susceptible to profit-taking and professional pressure. The money market evinced greater ease than at any similar period of the year, funds on call being freely offered under 4 per cent. Merchants' paper and bank acceptances also found ready sale at concessions from long-prevailing rates.

International exchanges were adversely affected by latest shifts in the European situation. Sterling suffered a sharp decline from its high level of February, a circumstance attributed to political developments in some of Great Britain's dependencies.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, March 11—Wall Street, 10.30 a.m.—Local tractions weakened at the opening of today's stock market on the proposition of the Subway Company to divorce its leased holdings. Manhattan Elevated, which is under guaranteed lease to Interborough, made a precipitate decline of 6½ points, and affiliated issues were irregularly lower. Foreign oils and the chemical specialties also eased, but rails, equapments and motors strengthened. Great Northern, Canadian Pacific, Lima Locomotive, Baldwin Locomotive and Studebaker were higher by fractions to 1 point.

CLAIM COUNTY BETRAYED CITY

Windsor Good Roads Delegates Angered by Essex Clerk's Telegram.

TO HAVE DOUGALL ROAD

Biggs Intimates Recommendation of Rural Municipalities Will Not Be Followed.

WINDSOR, March 10.—Claiming that they had been double-crossed by the county council, members of a deputation from Windsor City Council, who waited upon Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of highways, in Toronto, in connection with the construction of roads in the suburban area, returned to the city greatly provoked.

But the city deputation was practically granted what it asked for by the minister, who declared that he could not pay attention to a telegram received from the county clerk, Percy Coyle, recommending that the city's request to have four miles paved on the McDougall road be not entertained.

The county council, in its telegram, declared itself to be in favor of paving the Talbot road from Oldcastle to Maidstone. The Windsor deputation felt the city would derive much more benefit if a two-mile link on Dougall road between the end of the pavement on that thoroughfare and the beginning of the cement on the provincial highway were concreted.

Mayor Wilson, in presenting the request of the city council, said he understood the county council would favor the project. He was greatly surprised when the minister handed him a telegram from the county clerk in which the proposal of the city was opposed.

"Windsor is compelled to pay a large proportion of the cost of paving these roads outside the city, and surely the city council should be consulted as to what roads are to be constructed," said the mayor today in commenting upon the attitude of the county council.

WANT FARMERS TO JOIN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Sarnia Officers Outline Objects To the Organization to Best Growers.

SARNIA, March 10.—A further step in the effort to weld a closer relationship between the Sarnia Chamber of Commerce and the various rural clubs and associations in West Lambton was taken this afternoon, when Roland H. Cardy, president, and George P. France, manager of the local chamber, addressed a meeting of the beet growers at the Blackwell School.

The speakers outlined the objects of the chamber, and asked the club to affiliate by having one or more members of the executive become members.

The proposed construction of a provincial highway from Windsor to Goderich via Sarnia was also referred to, and the project created a great deal of interest among the 60 beet growers who were present. The members of the London Road Beet Growers' Club have requested a similar meeting in the near future.

CAMPAIGN TO REPLACE GRADE BULLS SUCCEEDS

Government and Breeders of Pure-Bred Stock Assist Oxford County Farmers.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—The Oxford Livestock Improvement Association's campaign to clear the grade bulls from Oxford County is again an assured success for 1922. Already breeders of pure-bred stock have offered about 60 bulls, and this number is expected to be increased to 100 before another week.

This year the offers are made on the basis of a cash value of $75 for the thoroughbred bull, with the government paying $15, the pure-bred owner reducing the price $10, and the remaining $50 being made up by the proceeds of the sale of the grade bull, and a cash contribution by the owner of the grade animal.

Chicago Bell Boy Quits $14 Job To Win Riches on Lecture Platform

Chicago, March 10.—When Margot Asquith came to Chicago, she inspired Mark Nyland to greater things. Mark has spent 33 of his 48 years working as a bell boy at a downtown club. He read how Margot got $2,000 a night for her lectures and couldn't see the joke of his $14 a week job at the club. So Mark hired Orchestra Hall for March 14, paying in advance emost of the wealth he had accumulated during his years of bell hopping.

Then he engaged a printer to turn several thousand tickets and advertising matter out which announced that he would give a lecture on "The Life and Works of Rube Goldberg." He then began his sale of tickets. He had a wide acquaintance among club members, and soon disposed of $500 worth. Fired with ambition he began a drive to dispose of the remaining $10,000 worth of tickets. He discarded his job, donned a dress suit and opera hat. Last night he invaded the banquet hall at the club and announced:

"What you birds need is a good literary lecture. You're fat both sides of the neck. I don't like your city. The laundry wagons aren't colored properly. Chicago women have funny faces. These tickets are $5 each, and you'll have to hurry."

Then the manager had him captured and taken to the psychopathic laboratory. Dr. W. J. Hickson diagnosed his case as "delusions of grandeur." He did not attempt to diagnose the cases of those who had bought the tickets.

UNTIDY MINDS

Unmindful of Untidiness.

ONE of the most objectionable features about untidiness is that, like bad temper, it brings suffering upon every one but the offender.

Persons of neat, mild temperament are almost driven to envy the blustering dispositions and disorderly habits of those who stamp and pound ruthlessly through life, leaving devastation behind them. Virtue feels that no premium is put upon it when all the world benefits by its well-doing, while it, itself, patiently endures the discomforts induced by other people's faults.

And yet, so it is. Perhaps in good old-fashioned times, when parents were disciplinarians, Mary did suffer for it when she bit little William. But nowadays, while, no doubt, Mary's mental state might occasion grave uneasiness to Mary's father and mother, the incident would be physically painful to no one but William; who, if he were a child of any spirit, would register a vow to be in future the bitee rather than the bit. According to Christian teachings, this would be wrong of William, but, according to his experiences in the world he was born to inhabit, it would be simple self-protection.

THE amount of pleasure derived by the young from tossing their possessions aside, to fall, like the proverbial chips, where they may, is out of all proportion to the discomfort endured by the other inhabitants of a becluttered apartment, and one would sometimes be glad if every youthful male were brought up in the Navy where neatness to the square inch reigns and orders have to be obeyed with at least an appearance of briskness. Even one well-trained midshipmite would conceivably be of great advantage to the home circle. As for girls, when they are slatternly at all, nothing equals them, and it would be safe to say, that, if any loverly eye could pierce the ceiling of their unspeakable bowers, that eye—should there be an ounce of commonsense in the brain behind it—would, from that moment, cease to be loverly. Of course, this is supposing the brain to be one that can learn, mark, and inwardly digest the lesson of the facts spread out before it, which is a good deal to expect of any brain in the condition alluded to.

NEVERTHELESS, let all take warning, for, as an indication of character, some sorts of untidiness are dreadfully suggestive. Not just the stepping out of a lacy circle of garments and forgetting, or omitting, to pick them up; not the careless flinging of a pretty dressing-gown on a chairback, or the kicking of high-heeled bedroom slippers to right and left. A still-life picture of such not unappropriate confusion might be rather charming. But the state of things described by the expression "hurrah's nest"; hairpins dropped about the floor, combs and brushes trailing human hair, (than which, out of the human head, nothing is more revolting!) powder-dust over the pincushion, or little, terrible wads of powder-paper scattered on the dressing table, a bit of used absorbent cotton in one corner, the torn scraps of a letter cast in the general direction of the wastepaper-basket; withered flowers, a crumpled towel on the bed among the mussed coverings;—what symptoms all this shows of a slipshod, selfish, tasteless, stupid habit of mind.

MEANNESS, also, may be imputed to the habit of untidiness, for if each person made as little dirt and disorder as possible, a good many people would be saved from the disagreeable necessity of clearing up after them. If we have any self-respect we owe it to ourselves to do our share of whatever is to be done as well as we can do it, not as carelessly as it can be slouched through, and in the vernacular, "got away with." There ought to be some satisfaction in performing every motion as smartly as possible, in finishing every action to the end. No one denies that some confusion must be incident to emergency; to sudden, hurried actions; to daily tasks, even, where efficiency would be hampered, or genius chilled, by constant pernickety attention to neatness. But, in the ordinary affairs of ordinary people, a little thought concentrated upon how they might spare their fellow mortals a great deal of trouble by taking a small amount themselves, would tend to make the world go round more smoothly.

LONDON LONDON EAST

The PLAYHOUSE and the MOVIE THEATRE

EDITED BY CABR.

Magnificent Style Show Will Be Staged at Grand Theatre

London Merchants and Advertiser To Co-operate — Clara Butt, Famous Contralto, Sings at Allen Theatre— Majestic Theatre Has Fine Offering.

THE magnificent "Style Show" to be presented at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week, will be one of the finest attractions of the theatrical season. This beautiful revue of fashions will be staged under the joint auspices of the Grand Theatre, a large number of the local merchants and The London Advertiser.

So pretentious is the effort that it will almost take the form of a miniature "Passing Show." Twelve beautiful mannequins, chosen from this city, long since famed afar for its beautiful girls, will take part in the revue.

The stage setting will be very elaborate, the furnishings used coming from London shops. The fact that hundreds of dollars worth of jewelry will sparkle from throats and fingers of some of the models gives a fair idea of the splendor which will characterize this fashion show.

In conjunction with the "Show" will be presented the finest type of vaudeville acts and special feature pictures, including "A Poor Relation," starring Will Rogers and "A Dog's Life," in which the popular comedian, Charlie Chaplin, will be seen once more. For the latter half of the week Mary Miles Minter will appear in a delightfully pretty picture, "Eyes of The Heart," while Buster Keaton will supply the comedy in "The Goat."

Will Sing Here

Fiske O'Hara, the favorite actor-singer, at the Grand for the last time this afternoon and evening, in his new romantic comedy, "The Happy Cavalier."

The musical world is looking forward with delight to the big attraction at the Allen Theatre on Thursday night of next week, when Dame Clara Butt, the celebrated contralto prima donna, will sing there, assisted by her husband, the well-known English baritone, and a Polish violin virtuoso, Melsa, who, although new to this continent, is getting a wonderful reception by his audiences.

The Majestic Theatre, too, has something very fine to offer in "Not Tonight, Dearie," which will be the last presentation of the Popular Players this season. "Not Tonight, Dearie," the Broadway success of 1920-21, is a very funny farce, and bound to please.

FASHION SHOW AT GRAND.

Something new and altogether delightful will be presented at the Grand Theatre next week for the first three days, when, in co-operation with leading London merchants and The London Advertiser, the theatre will stage the 1922 Spring and Fashion Show. In this exhibition, which will be a delightful blending of high class vaudeville and an up-to-the-minute style show, the entertainment will approach a miniature Passing Show or Revue, with beautiful stage pictures, entrancing music and the best films that can be obtained.

The modes that will prevail in the summer and spring of 1922 will be demonstrated by twelve stunningly beautiful models, all chosen from London's plethora of beauty, and the beautiful gowns and costumes shown will not be specially imported for the occasion, but will be taken from stock so that those who attend may be sure that they can find the duplicates of the dresses seen on the stage in the assortment carried by the business houses participating in the exhibition.

The showing will include the newest modes in gowns and dresses for all occasions from the dazzlingly-beautiful creations for evening wear, down the whole gamut to the simple sport or outing costumes. The latest in millinery, summer furs, hosiery, gloves, footwear, lingerie, jewels, bric-a-brac, ornaments, furnishings and flowers will be shown.

The stage will be set to represent a drawing and music room, and afternoon tea will be served while the models are introduced. Although ladies' wear will naturally attract the greater part of the attention, yet it will not monopolize it to the exclusion of the attire of the sterner sex. For the very latest in men's spring styles will be worn by the gentlemen models attending the function.

VAUDEVILLE AT GRAND.

In keeping with the standard of the Fashion Show, the Grand Theatre is offering particularly high-class vaudeville. Applegate and Mack, musical artists, will be heard in vocal and instrumental selections, while another stellar turn will be presented by Ray and Al Thornburg, who come direct from New York, and who present a versatile musical act, in which the artists play saxophones, a huge harp, said to be the largest and most costly carried by any act of the kind, and other instruments.

There will also be a picture program of special excellence. The feature will present that sterling screen star, Will Rogers, in "A Poor Relation," one of his latest and best releases, while the comedy film will be Charles Chaplin, in his famous comedy, "A Dog's Life."

For the latter half of the week the feature film will present dainty Mary Miles Minter in a delightfully pretty picture, "Eyes of the Heart," while the comedy film will show funny Buster Keaton in "The Goat." There will be the usual high-class vaudeville. Altogether, next week is likely to prove a gala occasion at the Grand Theatre.

CLARA BUTT AT ALLEN.

The famous English contralto, Dame Clara Butt, will be one of the leading attractions in the theatre world this week. She will be heard at the Allen Theatre on the night of Thursday, March 16, in conjunction with Kennerly Rumford, the well-known baritone, and Melsa, a distinguished Polish violinist.

Clara Butt, who is one of the world's greatest singers, recently received the title of Dame Clara Butt from King George V., an honor which is bestowed upon very few singers. She is now on her farewell tour, and is everywhere received by the most enthusiastic of audiences. Her program for Thursday will be one which will appeal to a popular audience as well as to the lovers of classical music.

Kennerly Rumford, who married Clara Butt in 1902, is one of England's greatest baritone singers. He is an artist of remarkable vocal endowments, of fine schooling and blessed with a personality that wins all audiences. His solo numbers are exceptionally fine, while his duets with Dame Butt are always received with the greatest delight.

Melsa, a violinist new to American and Canadian audiences, is making a fine impression on this side of the water. Melsa is a Polish virtuoso who has played with Dame Butt not only in Europe, but in Australia, where he created a following of his own.

Frequently the assisting artist with world celebrities is a mere stop-gap, but Melsa is a splendid violinist in his own right, and he wins recalls and encores at every performance. His repertoire for the present tour is made up of popular selections for the violin by Wieniawski, Kreisler, Paganini and other favorite composers of music for the violin.

Excellent reports are coming in of Miss Grace Torrens, accompanist for the concert party. Reviewers have high praise for the fine support which this gifted pianiste is giving to Dame Butt, Mr. Rumford and Melsa.

"NOT TONIGHT, DEARIE" AT MAJESTIC.

Next week the Popular Players will present "Not Tonight, Dearie," a screamingly funny farce by Charles E. Blaney, the author of "The Unkissed Bride," which made such a hit at the Majestic early in the season. Next week will be the first time any stock company has produced this laughing hit.

"Not Tonight, Dearie" has just closed its sensational run of forty-two weeks at the Shubert Theatre, New York, and managers Secrest and Penwarden are the first stock producers to buy the rights.

"Not Tonight, Dearie" set all New York talking, and was the biggest Broadway success of 1920-1921.

Misses Gustin, Fox, Bromette and Macdonald, and Messers Secrest, Penwarden, Malone, Pegali and Lockhart will all have prominent parts.

The management of the Majestic announces that next week will be the closing week of the stock season in London.

Managers Secrest and Penwarden are quoted as saying:

"We have tried our best to succeed, where others have failed. It has been our aim to give London theatregoers the best of plays, but at the present time there is a great financial depression all over the country. As a result of this depression all theatres have suffered and we are not in a position to stand further losses. The only course open to us is to close for the season. It is with deep regret that we shall bid farewell to our many friends in London, but we hope that when conditions are better we shall be able to return to London.

There will be receptions after the performances on Wednesday and Saturday matinees next week, and the company will say "Good-bye" to their many friends. On Friday night, March 17, after the regular performance, one hour will be devoted to amateurs, and the management is asking that applications be at the box office early.

This week, according to the critics, the "Popular Players" are presenting the best comedy drama of the season, "Dawn of the Mountains." If you like comedy, if you like drama, if you like a love story, you will like "Dawn of the Mountain," for it is a combination of all three.

NEW O'HARA PLAY SCORES AT GRAND

Favorite Irish Actor-Singer Delights Old Friends With "The Happy Cavalier."

HAS CLEVER COMPANY

Snappy, Witty Lines, Capable Acting, and Artistic Costuming Make Up Production.

Fiske O'Hara is at the Grand. He opened there Friday night, and will tarry for two performances today. This everwelcome Irish actor-singer received much the same spontaneous welcome last night that he has received year in and year out for way, way back.

London has always meant success to Fiske O'Hara, and he has always been a success here. Good-sized and appreciative audiences always fall to his lot, and Friday night was no exception.

"The Happy Cavalier" was his vehicle to ride into the hearts of Londoners, and it travels along very nicely. It's one of those light little Irish tales, taking the audience back to the days of the 17th century.

Of course, the story was written for Mr. O'Hara. It gives him an opportunity to act a little, sing a little, and talk a lot. He does all well. The lines are good, snappy and witty. The piece is well staged, and the costuming excellent.

Mr. O'Hara is well assisted. The woman members of the company typify Irish colleens well, while the male assistants were capable and pleasant.

As for the star of the cast, Fiske O'Hara always did know how to sing, and he always had the voice to do it with. The fact that he has been coming here so many years would lead to the general belief that like his many fellow artists of the past, he must break sooner or later. Friday night's audience couldn't detect it. His singing was just as finished, his fine tenor voice had the same old ring, especially in that touching love song, "Let Me Remember," which he sang during the second act. This was not his stellar number, but in it he showed more of his old fire and vim than in his first effort. "I'm Always in Love With Someone," was his opening song, and it proved a delightfully catchy light number, having a good swing to it.

The rest of the songs, especially "Laddy Buck," were well sung, and of a nature to capture the audience.

"CLEANLINESS" MARKS SHOP OF HOME DAIRY

Popular Business Built Up In City Within Ten Months.

The first word or thought that comes to you when you enter the Home Dairy Store at 172 Dundas street, just around the corner from Richmond, is "Cleanliness." Basing his motto on "Cleanliness and Service to the Public," R. R. Allen, manager of the company, has built up in ten months the most popular home cooking and dairy business in London. The interior of the store is painted snow white and this, along with the white marble floor and the wearing apparel of the staff, tends to bear out the company's slogan of cleanliness.

The cooking has met with the popular approval of London housekeepers in several different ways. Fried cakes, salads, beans and macaroni, potato chips, cottage cheese, marmalade and jams, are put on sale fresh every morning, and can be obtained at comparatively low prices. Then the best brand of butter is received fresh every morning, and along with this comes eggs that are classed as the best.

Fresh buttermilk is also for sale. Pay five cents and you can have all the buttermilk you can drink. During the warm days last summer this store got a splendid name for their fresh buttermilk, and this summer even greater success is assured.

The staff employed in the store is most courteous and obliging, and carries out to the very last "Service to the Public."

WEIR SAYS SPRING RUSH FOR HOUSES HAS BEGUN

Real Estate Agent Claims He Sells More Property Each Year.

According to Bert Weir the spring rush for houses has already begun, so much that it has been necessary for him to engage two extra salesmen in order to handle the situation.

"Each year," said Mr. Weir, "we are selling more houses than in the year previous, and it seems as though the rush has started somewhat earlier than usual this year.

"We have now four salesmen with cars and two more are coming on right away, so we are prepared to give good service to any client requiring our services.

"We have a reputation for making very quick sales of almost any kind of property, but we specialize in the sale of city houses.

"We thought that with the number of houses built in 1921 that there would be no shortage this year, but for some reason or other we find the situation more acute and that people are ready to buy as soon as a piece of preperty is put on the market.

"The person who starts early in the spring nearly always makes the best bargain, because the situation in regard to the shortage of houses becomes more prominent as the season advances.

"Besides selling property for clients we are constantly buying and selling for ourselves and up to date have built about 40 houses as our share towards relieving the shortage.

Succeed In London

START now to succeed with London. Brighter prospects are evident in every line of business. The great wave of depression which came as the result of war-time conditions has receded and London has never been in better condition to go ahead in every way.

Even the most casual looker-on must observe the alertness and quickened interest of Londoners which has increased with the approach of spring. They feel that business is looking up, and times of prosperity and progress are at hand.

Optimism is at its height, and the old confidence in the splendid future which awaits London as one of the Dominion's foremost commercial centers has been restored.

The winter is practically at an end, and there is no doubt that with the new season there will be an end of the present drastic unemployment situation.

A determined effort toward business expansion means a job for every man who wants to work. London businessmen are making the effort. All indications point to a boom in the building trade which would go a long way toward providing work.

An era of prosperity awaits London, but in order that it may be realized, there must be co-operation on the part of every Londoner. All must make the effort to "succeed with London."

REGAL CLOTHES HAVE BIG SALE IN CITY THIS YEAR

Speaking of business conditions for the coming spring, M. Coleman, manager of the Regal Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of work clothing for men and boys, says that the sales so far for the year have been very satisfactory and quite up to their expectations.

"Now that spring is almost here," says Mr. Coleman, "there should be a considerable revival in trade in general.

"While price reductions were general in 1921, there is a feeling that now the prices will not recede any further for some time," says the manager. "This together with the fact that merchants throughout the country have their stocks very low, and the selling season very close at hand, should make for very good business in the near future.

"There may be a shortage in some lines of merchandise because manufacturers in general have not stocked up heavily for immediate delivery.

"We are looking for a very successful year, and are prepared to ship goods as soon as the season opens up.

"At the beginning of the year we had enough stock that would have made it excusable for us to cease operations for at least two months, but on account of the prevailing unemployment in the city kept open at full time in order to provide work."

The Regal Manufacturing Company makes overalls, coats, combinations, shirts and cotton gloves suitable for any occupation where working clothes are required.

"Wherever it is necessary we can arrange for the loan of the money towards a mortgage for a client.

"We have handled some of the biggest deals that have taken place in the last year, both in the city and in the country.

"If you wish a quick sale of any property no matter how large or small we will undertake to find you a buyer.

"If you are looking for a house we have something on our lists to meet every requirement, both large and small, and in all parts of the city.

"The London real estate board, of which this firm is a member, guarantees to the client a square deal because only realtors who are absolutely honest and conduct business along strictly business lines are allowed membership."

During the year 1920 Mr. Weir was president of the real estate board, becoming vice-president in 1921 and secretary-treasurer in 1922.

SCARFE'S PAINTS NOW AVAILABLE

You may not know Scarfe's finishes, but they've been used since 1877.

Now—for the first time since 1877 you can buy Scarfe's products for home use. Hitherto Canada's largest industrial concerns have consumed their entire output.

Now Scarfe's have expanded. They have equipped their plant to turn out sufficient paint to meet the insistent demands of the consumer, and the Thomas Furniture Company, this city, have opened a new paint department and are handling Scarfe's line exclusively.

The Scarfe paints you buy today in a can are the same quality as the Scarfe finishes, stains, varnishes, etc., that have put the "brand new" touch on 80 per cent of the finished products turned out by Canadian industries.

The Thomas Furniture Company will carry a full line of house paints, flat wall colors, varnish, stains, etc., With this 44-year tested line offered to the public for the first time—they are aiming for the big paint trade this quality product warrants.

ROOSTERS GET BETTER FOOD THAN CHILDREN?

Algers Victory Bread Contains All Natural Elements Denied Babies.

The prize rooster crowing his lungs out at the poultry show is never fed on polished rice, degerminated cornmeal, denatured cream of wheat, or devitalized white bread.

The mineral salts are taken out of these refined goods. That's why they kill pigeons, white rats, guinea pigs, monkeys and chickens in from seven to nine weeks.

Yet children are expected to thrive on such dead foods. Nature put into the wheat berry most of the vital substances that we must have to sustain bodily health and strength.

Alger's Victory Bread is a great natural food, made with 100 per cent whole wheat flour. In such bread prospective mothers will find a blessing, and nursing mothers will discover why, without such bread, motherhood so often becomes a tragedy, and why, with it, motherhood becomes the greatest thing in the world.

When will the fathers and mothers see the light? Even dogs have to obey Nature's laws. If they are valuable dogs their owners will tolerate no nonsense when it comes to feed. That's why the best dog biscuits are made of whole wheat. If every child in London could have Alger's Whole Wheat Bread in a single year there would be no anemia, malnutrition or broken down resistance among the school children.

Alger's Victory Bread builds health and strength, bone and muscle, and keeps the digestive organs in perfect working order. Wheat is the most wonderful health food known. Fifty per cent of human ills would be eliminated if the people would eat whole wheat bread, such as Alger's Victory Bread.

Constipation is a crime. Many a person has paid the extreme penalty of allowing his system to be clogged or poisoned by harmful drugs. Alger's Victory Bread will prevent all this trouble.

WHOLESALERS REPORTED BUSY

Hamilton reports to Bradstreet's say that wholesale trade here is fairly active, although in the majority of cases it could not be called brisk. Drygoods are in fair demand, with a moderate volume of forward buying. Groceries are still moving in small volume, but trade is steady. Hardware is moderately active. Retail trade is becoming more active with signs of approaching spring. Industry is improving slowly and there is a better inquiry for steel, especially those lines used in construction of buildings. The outlook in industry generally is felt to be bright, and a good year is looked forward to. Collections are as yet slow.

WINDSOR BUSINESS NOW IMPROVING

Windsor reports to Bradstreet's say that business locally is improving with the coming of spring. The automobile industry is picking up nicely, and this and puts more money into circulation. and puts more money into circulation Wholesale and retail trade are better, although inclined to be variable. Building is coming along well, and the program for this summer is a heavy one. Collections are fair.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

KNOLLWOOD PARK MOTHERS' CLUB.

"Forming of Habit in the Home" was the subject of an interesting address given by Rev. William Smith at the meeting of the Knollwood Park Mothers' Club Thursday evening, when the club entertained the members of the Rectory School Club. Several solos were given by Mr. Short and Mr. Simon which were great enjoyed. The meeting was closed by prayer led by Rev. Mr. Smith, after which dainty refreshments were served.

CHAPTER PRESENTS CONCERT.

A delightful concert, arranged by the Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. D. E., under the convenership of Mrs. J. Smith, was presented Thursday evening at Westminster Hospital, and was greatly enjoyed by the patients and staff. Tiny Helen Wilkie proved to be a clever little dancer, her exhibition of the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance evoking enthusiastic applause. Other artists taking part were: Mr. Holland, Miss Jones, Miss Louise Everingham, Miss Storges, Miss Peebles, with Mr. J. Lee and Mrs. G. Stark as accompanists. During the evening Dr. Towers acted as chairman, and his announcement regarding the Royal Scots Guards band coming to London was met with great enthusiasm. Following the concert a dainty supper was served to those taking part in the entertainment.

HEARS ADDRESS ON IDEALS.

Mrs. C. Turner addressed the members of the Aberdeen Mothers' Club at their meeting Thursday evening on the subject of "Ideals." She impressed upon the mothers that they must not realize ideals, but should let the ideals realize themselves. Principal Claude Brown spoke briefly, thanking Mrs. Turner for her splendid address, also the mothers for their hearty co-operation in assisting the teachers, and the splendid way they have responded to calls for relief work in the district. A program was given, including solos by Miss Vera Wood, instrumentals by Miss Ruby Brown, and solo dances by little Miss Dorothy Tagg. Following the program refreshments were served in the domestic science room.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The following committees were appointed at a meeting held Friday afternoon to take charge of the bringing to London of the Scotch Guards Band, in aid of the War Memorial Hospital: Ticket committee, Mrs. McCallum and Mrs. Greenaway; entertainment committee, Mrs. R. W. Tagg and Mrs. E. B. Smith; floor committee, Great War Veterans; chair committee, Lions' Club, under the convenership of Mr. Keene; armories, Dr. George Fraser. A central committee was formed, with Mrs. E. B. Smith as the chief convener, to be assisted by Col. Coles, Mrs. Bowker, Mr. George Clare, Mr. Lawrason, Mr. James Garrow of the city hall branch of the Bank of Montreal has offered his services as assistant treasurer.

CONCERTS AID HOSPITAL.

The net proceeds of the organ recital given in St. Paul's Cathedral on the evening of Princess Mary's wedding day by Mr. H. T. Dickinson, assisted by Mrs. E. Wyatt, soprano, and the R. C. R. Band, netted $100 for the War Memorial Children's Hospital. Another contribution for the hospital much appreciated is the sum of $23.75, the proceeds of a concert given by pupils of Miss Gwendolyn Anthistle recently.

TOWNSHIPS SEND $45.

Recently an appeal was sent out to each of the township councils of the twenty townships of Middlesex on behalf of the War Memorial Children's Hospital. Three of these have already responded, Caradoc sending $25; McGillivray, $10, and Biddulph, $10, making a total of $45, and "seventeen constituencies not yet heard from."

GIVING SECOND EUCHRE-DANCE.

Proceeds from the euchre and dance held by the Trinity Chapter, O. E. S., recently at the De Luxe in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital amounted to $46. So delighted was the chapter with the success of the event that it was decided to hold another for the same object at the De Luxe on March 27.

LADIES' AID VOTES $50.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Empress Avenue Church Thursday a vote was passed unanimously that $50 be given to be used in relief work under the convenership of Mrs. Goodman.

WHY BE MISSIONARIES?

"Four Reasons Why Women Should Become Missionaries" was the subject of an interesting address given by Mrs. G. B. Sage at the meeting of the W. M. S. of Empress Avenue Church Thursday. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Lipsett, Wharncliffe road, with Mrs. Berry presiding. A pleasing solo was given by Mrs. Wildgust, and a social hour followed.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

THE TWO LOVES.

Young Love laughed and sang with me
All the summer day;
Tossed me flowers in perfumed showers,
And sped the time away,
Till, weary of the game,
Tired I grew, and wan.
On my face pain set its trace;
Love saw it and was gone.

True Love, questioning through the night,
Found me faint and cold.
Gently spoke and doffed his cloak,
And wrapped me in its fold,
Wined my blood with sweet caress,
Kissed my silvered hair,
Looked to see the soul of me,
And deemed it young and fair.
—Annie Gray Butcher, in Verse and Reverse.

If any of the Boxites care to send parcels to Thirty-Seven they may have her address from the Mail-Box and send them direct. This is more satisfactory than sending articles to the Mail-Box to be forwarded, as Thirty-Seven does not live in the city.

SHOULD SHE GO TO ALL MEETINGS?

Should ministers' wives attend all meetings? The viewpoint of the woman most concerned, the minister's wife herself, in the plural, was freely expressed at the March meeting of the London District Methodist Ministers' Wives' Association, held in Dundas Centre Methodist Church. The question was discovered in the question drawer, presided over by Mrs. Godwin Colling, and provoked lively discussion. The concensus of opinion was that ministers' wives should not accept office in Ladies' Aids and such organizations.

Readings were given by Mrs. Henderson, and solos by Mrs. Vance.

Two parts linseed oil and one part vinegar make a very fine polish for leather. It should be applied with a soft cloth. This softens the leather, while it cleans, and thus prevents cracking.

Coats Straight

BY MARIAN HALE

LONDON, March 10.—Sport coats, the sort that may be seen along Bond street, and even venture into the afternoon, have taken to straight lines, exceedingly straight!

And, like this clever Claire model, they often boast a single button at the very throat, which loops into a cord buttonhole, and lets it go at that! They are designed for warmth, merely something swagger and easy to look at.

Broadcloth is the material most often used for these garments. The lining is a soft silk which dares be very colorful.

Blue, a peculiar bright blue, which just escapes a tinge of green, is the tone used for the model shown. Its smartly tailored pockets are piped with white to match its edge. The large buttons which hold it at the throat are also white.

How My Wife and I Turn Spare Hours at Home Into Dollars

The remarkable way in which Mr. & Mrs. P. J. Monaghan solved their extra money problem. Every wife, self-supporting girl, and father of a family can now use spare time to make money at home—in the same way they did.

By P. J. MONAGHAN

THE years 1916 and '17 were lean years for the working man in our part of the country, especially if he happened to be the sole support of a large family.

I kept hoping for some way to increase my income, and finally I had an idea. At this time the Red Cross and the St. John's Ambulance Society were appealing for aid in knitting socks for our Canadian Forces Overseas.

I had seen a hand-knitting machine advertised, and I thought that if I could get one I could help the Red Cross by knitting socks, and at the same time use the machine to increase my small salary and keep the wolf from the door.

With this idea in mind, I found the address of the Auto Knitter Hosiery Company in our local paper and finally sent for an Auto Knitter.

When the machine arrived my wife and I turned to the instruction book, and therein found the answer to all our questions. I was soon able to make splendid socks. I became more and more delighted with myself and the machine.

How I Started Making Money

I now volunteered to knit socks for the soldiers. The St. John's Ambulance Society furnished me with yarn. I knit several pairs of plain socks and was complimented on my work. I felt very gratified, for I was requested to knit more and was to receive 20 cents a pair for the work.

I began to make and sell socks to private customers as well as knitting for the Ambulance Society. In a comparatively short time I had my machine paid for. I was now making $15.00 a week in my spare time. My wife was able to buy clothing and shoes for herself and the children.

This story would be incomplete and convey a very wrong idea if I did not make it plain that I could not have accomplished all I have without the valuable help of my better half, Mrs. Monaghan.

$125 Earned in Spare Time

In about eighteen months from the time I started knitting I had a surplus bank account of $125.00.

Our house at this time consisted of a two roomed shack on a rented lot. I decided now to buy a lot on which to move my shack. I selected a beautiful locality and arranged easy terms of payment, the price being $475.00—$100 cash and the balance $10.00 a month. I kept on using the Auto Knitter steadily in my spare time to add to my income, and in less than a year my property was paid for.

When the overseas demand for socks declined, I noticed that the quality of wool socks sold in the local stores was very inferior. I saw that there would be a good demand for a better article, and I knew I could supply it with my Auto Knitter.

So I bought some of the best wool in the city, manufactured it into socks and exhibited my goods to James Ramsey, Ltd. (one of the largest departmental stores in our city). They gave me a trial order for three dozen pairs. Within a few hours after delivery I had a telephone call from the hosiery department of Ramsey's store, asking me to bring them fifty dozen pairs more! It wasn't possible for me to do this, but the James Ramsey Company took all I could supply them up to the year 1919.

Turned Poverty Into Independence

1920 was my banner year. I now of course had a little capital. Also I knew the demand for a good article. I purchased the best yarn obtainable, getting a substantial discount on a quantity purchase. I worked all summer, knitting this on the Auto Knitter in my spare time, but sold none until October, 1920.

This is the Monaghans' New Home, Which the Auto Knitter Helped to Make Possible

Mr. P. J. Monaghan

Then I advertised my goods, also stating that I would make socks to order. Many people brought their own wool. I had to work hard to fill all the orders, even with the supply I had on hand. People from all over the city, including the Mayor and the Attorney General of the Province, came to purchase my socks. My advertising brought in orders from Calgary, Red Deer, Wetaskinwin, and Fort Saskatchewan.

I made, one evening after work that winter, $7.50 on the Auto Knitter, but you may infer that I did not retire very early.

After all the thousands of pairs of socks we have made, our Auto Knitter is as good as the day we received it, and it has never cost one cent for repairs.

Made New Home Possible

Last February we purchased a beautiful nine room house, as shown in the photograph, and had it moved to our lot. In our new house we arranged a work room where we can use the Auto Knitter. This house and lot, which is a real home, is now worth about five thousand dollars. What part the Auto Knitter has played in this splendid evolution it is difficult to figure precisely, as separate accounts were not kept.

This much I can vouch for, however. During the months of October, November and December, 1920, my bank account increased $700.00, and many days my wife took in $45.00 for socks sold. Of course this was covering the previous summer's work.

The Auto Knitter was kept going every spare moment I had. I verily believe that if we had not had it, we would have had to appeal to the Sunshine Society or other charitable organization for help when times were the hardest with us. I am also sure that, but for the Auto Knitter, we should be tenants of a two roomed shack on a rented lot.

I wish that I might be able to place an Auto Knitter in every home, especially where there is a large family. I believe that the gap between poverty and independence would be bridged in every case where there is industry and good management.

The man or woman who is ambitious, and wishes to improve his or her circumstances, can in no way employ their spare time better than in knitting socks on an Auto Knitter, either under the company's Work Contract or for their own local trade. It will bring comfort and even luxury to the home and be the means of bringing joy and happiness to the family.

P. J. Monaghan, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Monaghan, whose experience with the Auto Knitter you have just read, have been very enterprising and energetic in using their machine to advance themselves and improve their circumstances. Mr. Monaghan was fortunate in being able to find a good local market for all the socks he could turn out, so he preferred not to take advantage of the Work Contract we sign with every purchaser of an Auto Knitter.

A Market for Every Salable Sock Guaranteed

This contract obligates us to accept and pay for every pair of socks sent us by an Auto Knitter owner—when made according to our standard directions. Hundreds and hundreds of Auto Knitter workers take advantage of this guaranteed market, and send us their entire output without trying to sell socks to local customers—although they are in no way bound to do so.

They simply send us the socks they knit and we send them back checks in payment for their work, at a guaranteed, fixed rate per pair. We also replace each time the amount of yarn used in the socks received.

You can work for us as much or as little as you please—but for every shipment of socks, small or large, you receive your pay check promptly.

The Auto Knitter comes to you with a sock already started in it, a supply of yarn, and a complete instruction book that makes everything plain, as Mr. Monaghan has stated in his letter above.

"IF WINTER COMES"

The Greatest Novel of the Present Decade

BY A. S. M. HUTCHINSON

(Copyright, 1922, Little, Brown & Co.)

The insistent shrieking of a motor siren in the street below began to penetrate their silence. When it came to Sabre's consciousness he had somehow the feeling that it had been going on a very long time. He jumped to his feet. The siren had the obscene and terrific note of a gigantic hen in delirium. "What the devil's that?"

She received his question with the blank look of one whose mind had no idea of the question's reason. The strangled gurgle and shriek from without informed her in paroxysms of hideous sound. With a motion of her body, as of one shaking off dreams, she threw away the amusement in which she had sat. She screwed up her face in torture. "Oh, how! Isn't it too awful! That's Tony. In the car. I told him I'd look in here." She glanced at the clock. "Marko; it's one o'clock. I've been here two mortal hours!"

The gigantic hen screamed in derious death agony.

"Oh, good heavens, that noise!" She stepped to the window and opened the casement. "Tony! That noise! Tony, for goodness' sake!"

An extravagantly long motor car was drawn against the curb. Lord Tybar, in a dust coat and a sleek bowler hat of silver grey, sat in the driver's seat. He was industriously and without cessation winding the handle of the siren. An uncommonly pretty woman sat beside him. She was massed in furs. In her ears she held the index finger of each hand, her elbows sticking out on each side of her head. Thus severally occupied, she and Lord Tybar made an unusual picture, and a not inconsiderable proportion of the youth and citizens of Tidborough stood round the front of the car and enjoyed the unusual picture that they made.

The spectators looked up at Nona's call; Lord Tybar ceased the handle and looked up with his engaging smiles; the uncommonly pretty woman removed her fingers from her ears and also turned upwards her uncommonly pretty face.

"Hullo!" called Lord Tybar. "Did you happen to hear my sighs?"

"That appalling noise!" said Nona. "You ought to be prosecuted!"

"If you'd had it next to you!" piped the uncommonly pretty lady in an uncommonly pretty voice. "It's like a whole ship being seasick together."

"It's nothing of the kind," protested Lord Tybar. "It's the plaintive lament of a husband entreating his wife." He directed his eyes further backward. "Good morning, Mr. Fortune. Did you recognize my voice calling my wife? There were bars in it. Perhaps you didn't."

"Good lord," said Sabre, "there's Id Fortune at his window. I'll come down with you, Nona."

As they went down he asked her, 'Who's that with him in the car?'

"One of his friends. Staying with h."

Something in her voice made it—fterwards—occur to him as odd that he spoke of one of "his," not one of our" friends, and did not mention er name.

"Well, the whole of Tidborough nows where you've been, Nona," ord Tybar greeted them. "And a ood place too." He addressed the dy by his side. "Puggo, look at hose pulpits and things in the winow. You never go to church. It'll o you good. That's a pulpit, that ll thing. They preach from that." The lady remarked, "Thanks. I can remember it. At least I was married in a church, you know."

"And, of course," said Nona, "you always remember you're married, don't you?"

Sabre glanced quickly at her. Her tone cut across the frivolous exchanges with an acid note. So utterly unlike Nona!

And the thing was real, not imagined; and went further. The uncommonly pretty woman addressed as Puggo replied, "Oh, always. And so do you, don't you, dear?" and her uncommonly pretty eyes went in a quick glance from Nona's face to Sabre's, where they hovered the fraction of a moment, and thence to Lord Tybar's where also they hovered, and smiled.

And Lord Tybar, his small, handsome head slightly on one side, looked from one to another with precisely that mock in his glance that Sabre had noticed, and transiently wondered at, on the day he had met them riding.

Funny!

"But, Puggo, you don't know Sabre, do you?" Lord Tybar said. "Sabre, this is Mrs. Winfred. A woman of mystery. One mystery is how she ever won Fred and the other why she is called Puggo. There must be something pretty dark in her past to have got her a name like Puggo."

The woman of mystery shrugged her shoulders. "Of course Tony's simply a fool," she observed. "You know that, don't you, Mr. Sabre?"

"It's not her face," Lord Tybar continued. "You might think it's her figure the way she hides it up under all those furs on a day like this. But a pug's figure—"

Nona broke in. "I suppose we're going to start some time?"

"Will you come and sit here?" Puggo inquired, but without making any movement.

"No, I'll sit behind."

She got in. "Good-bye, Marko." Her voice sounded tired. She gave Sabre her hand. "Jolly, the books," she said. "And our talk."

"Now throw yourself in front, any boy who wants to be killed," Lord Tybar called to the idlers. "No corpses today?" He let in the clutch. "Good-bye, Sabre. Good-bye, good-bye." He waved his hand airily. The big car slid importantly up the street.

Sabre watched them pass out of sight. As the car turned out of The Precincts into High Street—a nasty corner—Lord Tybar, alone of the three, one hand on the steering wheel, half turned in his seat and twirled the silver-grey bowler in gay farewell.

Or mockery?

X

Through the day Sabre's thoughts, as a man sorting through many documents and coming upon and retaining one, fined down towards a picture of himslef alone with Nona—alone with her, watching her beautiful face—and saying to her: "Look here, there were three things you said, three expressions you used. Explain them, Nona."

Fined down towards this picture sifting the documents.

He thought, "Tybar — Tybar. — They're just alike in their way of saying things, Nona and Tybar. That bantering way they talk when they're together — when they're together. Tybar does, whoever he's with. Not Nona. Not with me. But with Tybar. She plays up to him when they're together. And he plays up to her. Everybody says how amusing they are. They're perfectly suited. They look so dashed handsome, the pair of them. And always that bantering talk. Nona chose deliberately between Tybar and me. I know she did. She loved me, till he came along. It's old. Ten years old. I can look at it. She chose deliberately. I can see her choosing: 'Tybar or Marko? — oh, dash it, Tybar.' And she chose right. She's just his mate. He's just her mate. They're a pair. That bantering, airy way of theirs together. That's just characteristic of the oneness of their characters. I couldn't put up that bantering sort of stuff. I never could. I'm a jolly sight too serious. And Nona knew it. She used to laugh at me about it. She still does. 'You puzzle, don't you, Marko?' she said this very morning."

He thought, "No, that wasn't laughing at me. Not that. No, it wasn't. Not that—nor any of it. What did she mean when she said 'There!' like that when she gave me her hand when she first came in? And took off her glove first. What did she mean when she said she had to come? 'Well, I had to come,' she said.—What did she mean when she said she was flotsam?—Flotsam! Why? Made me angry in my voice when I asked her. I said, 'How can you be flotsam?' And how the devil can she?—Nona, with Tybar, flotsam? But she said it. I said, 'How can you be flotsam, the life you've taken?' I didn't mean to say 'taken' like that. I meant to have said 'the life you've got, you live.' But I meant taken, chosen. She did take it, deliberately. She chose between us. I might almost have heard her choose 'Marko or Tybar? Oh, dash it—Tybar.' I never reproached her, not by a look. I saw her point of view. My infernal failing, even then. Not by a look I ever reproached her. I thought I'd forgotten it, absolutely. But I haven't. It came out in that moment that I haven't. 'The life you've—taken!' I meant it to sting. Damn me, it did sting. That look she gave! As if I had struck her.—What rot! How could it sting her? How could she mind? Only if she regretted.—Is it likely?"

He thought, "But is she happy? Is it all what it appears between them? That remark she made to that woman and the extraordinary way she said it. 'You never forget you're married, do you?' Amazing thing to say, the way she said it. What did she mean? And that woman. She said something like, 'Nor you, do you?' and looked at me and then at Tybar. And Tybar looked—at Nona, at me, as if he'd got some joke, some mock. . . ."

He thought, "What rot! She chose. She knew he was her sort. She knew I wasn't. She chose deliberately. . . ."

Clearly, as it were yesterday, he remembered the day she had declared to him her choice. In the Cathedral cloisters. Walking together. And suddenly, in the midst of indifferent things, she told him, "I say, Marko, I'm going to marry Lord Tybar."

And his reply, the model of indifference. "Are you, Nona?"

Nothing else said of it between them. There would certainly have been more discussion if she had said she was going to buy a packet of hairpins. And his thought had immediately been, not this nor that nor the other of a hundred thoughts proper to a blow so stunning, but merely and immediately and precisely that he would tell his father. Yes to what that very morning he had told him No,—that he would go into the Fortune, East and Sabre business. Extraordinary effect from such a cause! Grotesque. Paradoxical. Going into Fortune, East and Sabre meant "settling down"; marriage conventionally involved settling down; yet, while he had visioned marriage with Nona, settling down had been the last thing in the world to think of,—because he projected marriage with Nona, he had that very morning rejected settling down. He was not to marry her; therefore, yes, he would settle down. Amazing. He had not realized how amazing till now.

And catastrophic. Not till now had he realized to what catastrophe he then had plunged. He thought, "The fact was Nona touched things in me that helped me. Without her I just shut down—I just go about—longing, longing, and all shut up, day after day, year after year—all shut up. And now there's this—she's come back like this—"

He came upon the picture of himself alone with Nona—alone with her watching her beautiful face—and saying to her, "Look here, there were three things you said, three expressions you used. Explain them, Nona. Explain 'There!' with your glove off. Explain 'Flotsam.' Explain 'Well, I had to come.' Explain them, Nona—"

Hamilton Slated For Niche in Comic Hall of Fame

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, March 10. — Lloyd Hamilton is hereby nominated for a place in the hall of comic immortals. Chaplin, Lloyd and Keaton must crowd up a bit to give him room.

Hamilton has made 300 screen comics, yet he has claimed little recognition as an artist.

He has remained in obscurity because he has been content to appear in poor stories, poorly directed. He lacked the aggressiveness to demand better story material and better direction.

In a recent conversation Harold Lloyd told me that he had almost run his course when he demanded that he be allowed to discard a quasi-Chaplin make-up and appear in the dark-rimmed spectacles that are now his badge of distinction. He would either make that change, or quit making comedies. Having once started to do the kind of comedy he thought he could do best, he soon established himself as a leader in the profession.

Until recently there has been nothing distinctive about Hamilton's comedies. They were all alike, like so many grains of corn.

Then he made "Robinson Crusoe, Limited." In that he made a direct appeal to the sympathy of the audience.

I have just had a preview of his latest, "The Rainmaker." This comedy is not the equal of "The Kid," but I believe it is better than some of Chaplin's earlier comedies and the equal of Lloyd's and Keaton's latest.

There is something whimsical, grotesque, in Hamilton's physique. He has natural little mannerisms that stir the risibilities. These are emphasized to good effect in "The Rainmaker."

The big laugh in "The Rainmaker" comes in a ride in a Pullman berth. The woman in the upper berth is using an electric curling iron.

Ham stood on two cakes of ice to deliver a farewell speech at the old home town. A pretty girl smiles from a passing train. Red tints show the blush in his face. The ice melts beneath his feet.

Ham lives in a small town. The village quartet still sings "Goodbye Dolly Gray."

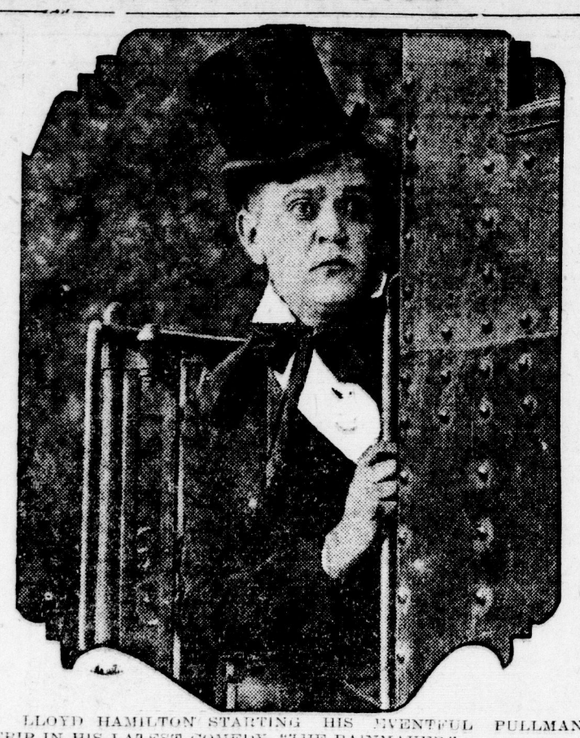
The last bulletin on the station board is "Lee Surrenders." Vines that covered it had to be torn away for the new bulletin, "No. 9 On Time. WILL STOP."

A spavined horse, weary at the hitching rack, crosses his front legs to rest.

The slow pace of another small town Ham visits is indicated by slow-motion photography. The excitement caused by the arrival of a notable is indicated by fast motion.

Ham is the notable. He is to cause rain to fall. He sends up a rocket. It hits a snow cloud. A blizzard ensues. It snows under a man who had dusted out the bath tub in anticipation of rain.

The weakness of the picture is in its ending. It fails, like most comics, to end with some laugh-provoking incident.



LLOYD HAMILTON STARTING HIS EVENTFUL PULLMAN TRIP IN HIS LATEST COMEDY, "THE RAINMAKER."

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

Chapter XLIII.—Fun Crescendo—Diminuendo.

By Zoe Beckley.

BY ZOE BECKLEY.

UNDER the bubbling fun of the whole thing. Polly's shyness vanished. As "Queen," her part required only grace and prettiness and the favor of her smile, and she soon found herself entering into the merry spirit with the best of them.

Suddenly the "King" rose in all the majesty of his tablecloth robe, his brass kettle helmet, and waved his scepter which had started life as a breadstick.

"Ho, my subjects!" he boomed. "I desire minstrels from all corners of the earth to sing before my Queen. I command bards, and those who dance with skillful feet! Come, Ladislas, of the new-hatched Republic of Georgia, give us your famous tzevkpstzzz!" Barray sneezed the name of the dance, and mid the shouts of the company a little slim man with blue-black hair and eyebrows that made a straight line across his face, sprang forward and spun round and round like a top.

Checking himself suddenly, he began his strange steps, first slowly, then gradually speeding into dazzling leaps and rushes, punctuated with cries of "Huss! H-s-ss!" that stirred the crowd to wild applause. Ending with a wonderful leap in the air, feet twinkling, hair-a-wave, he brought up before the royal couple, bowing till his forehead touched the floor.

He was followed by a tall, slender fellow with great eyes and longish dark hair—a Persian sculptor, born in poverty, who as a lad had tended herds on the barren mountain sides. He took from his pocket a thin reed pipe and played a quaint melody that made the heart weep—all minor notes and quaverings. A nightingale turned human and telling of its love. . . . .

So the hours sped by, with songs and dances, jests, buffooneries and laughs. Half the languages of the world were represented. Men and women from nearly every country in Europe contributed their art. It was wondrous to Polly. And Polly, with her sweet, responsive graciousness, was wonderful to them. . . .

The candles guttered, one by one. Then someone discovered that the moonlight was streaming in. . . .

"Enough of prison walls!" cried Barray. "Let us wander like Haroun el Rashid, into the kingdom of the moon!"

The party broke up with much laughter and jest, and after the goodnights were made Polly found herself, on the arm of the "king," at the head of the departing crowd.

"Go on, go on," nudged Norma, who had not relaxed her role of engineer-in-chief of Polly's evening. "I'll see to Violet! She's got cavaliers enough anyhow—she never lacks."

"Where are we going?" Polly asked.

"Isn't that truly Canadian?" put in Barry. "She must have a program! Let's let our mood guide us—come, forward march!"

They walked on, unheeding. Then they somehow realized that no footsteps were coming in their wake. They turned. No one. . . . They halloed. In vain. . . . Only the echoes of their own voices answered them, resounding through the silent street.

EDITED BY CARR.

SCOTLAND'S MARK ON AMERICA. By George Fraser Black. Foreword by John Foord. New York; Scottish Section of "America's Making."

APPARENTLY a sort of crystallization from the work that went into one section of the producing last fall of the pageant of "America's Making," this interesting little book is an earnest of what might be done by other sections to put into permanent historical form the results of the investigations upon which the structure of the pageant was based.

After chapters dealing in a general way with Scottish emigration to the colonies and with those Scots who took an important part in the life of the early days and their descendant families who also have been prominent, the author takes up in detail the various phases of his subject, showing how Scots have impressed themselves and their characteristics upon the life and history of the country by their public services during colonial times and subsequently in political and other phases of national development.

His method is mainly personal specifying the individuals concerned, stating briefly the service and achievements of each and briefly mentioning in the same way such of his descendants as have won distinction.

In this way he calls the roll of the Scots in the presidency, the vice-presidency, the cabinet, the senate and so on through the line of political prominence to the army and the navy. Then he takes up their contributions to science, education, literature, law, art, industry and so on through all phases of activity.

Mr. Foord in his foreword makes an interesting analysis of the characteristics that have enabled Scotsmen to exercise so great an influence upon the lands to which they have migrated and to merge themselves so completely in the life of the land of their adoption.

"It is a fact," he says, "that goes to the core of the secular struggle for human freedom that whole-hearted patriotism finds no jarring note in the sentiment of the Scot for his homeland, be that sentiment ever so intense. In the sedulous cultivation of the Scottish spirit there is nothing alien, and, still more emphatically, nothing harmful to the institutions under which we live. * * * In the Scottish conception of liberty, duties have always been rated as highly as rights; it has been a constructive, not destructive, formula; it has been an inspiration to raise men out of themselves, not to prompt them to indulge in antics of promiscuous leveling."

The survey of great services and distinguished achievements and the roster of shining names which Mr. Black presents are indeed impressive, from the nine presidents of Scottish ancestry on through all manner of activity. His book is not only a tribute to a virile race that has played an important part in the making of the country, but is also a worth-while contribution to the annals of literature.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

LENTEN DISHES

LUNCHEON dishes without meat are sometimes hard to find. Aside from the fact that many persons use little or no meat during Lent, elderly people and persons with certain sorts of "ailments" are often obliged to omit meat from their diet.

These dishes are nourishing, economical and easy to prepare.

Luncheon Dish With Cheese and Toast.

One egg, 2 cups milk, ½ pound American cheese, left-over toast.

Butter a shallow baking dish. Break toast in coarse crumbs and put a layer in baking dish. Cover thickly with grated cheese, sprinkle with salt and pepper and a tiny bit of mustard. Continue layer for layer until the cheese is used.

The layers of toast should be rather thin. Beat egg well and add milk. Pour slowly over cheese and toast. Cover and bake 20 minutes. Remove cover and brown top.

Luncheon Potatoes.

Two cups hot riced potatoes, 3 tablespoons butter, 2-3 cup grated cheese, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, fine dried bread crumbs, whites of eggs, frying fat.

Add butter to hot potatoes. Beat well and add cheese, egg yolks, salt and pepper. Beat well and let cool slightly. Shape in balls, roll in crumbs, dip in egg whites slightly beaten, roll again in crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. The fat should be hot enough to brown in a cube of bread from the soft part of a loaf in 40 seconds. Drain on heavy brown paper and serve with stewed tomatoes.

Eggs With Tomato Sauce.

Three tablespoons butter, 2 slices onion, 1 sprig parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 4 eggs.

Melt butter and in it cook the onion and parsley. Brown slightly. Add flour and stir and cook until frothy. Then add tomatoes and stir and cook until the boiling point is reached. Strain. Put two tablespoons of the sauce in buttered ramikins or custard cups, bread an egg in each cup, being careful not to break the yolk, sprinkle the white lightly with salt and pepper and bake in a moderate oven about 10 minutes, until the white is set. Cover with some of the sauce kept hot for purpose, and serve at once.

Egg Timbales.

Six eggs, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Beat eggs until very light. Beat in milk, salt and pepper. Pour into buttered cups and bake half an hour in a pan set in hot water.

Scalloped Onions and Celery.

One dozen onions, 1 head celery, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Dice and stew celery. Boil onions. Drain both celery and onions. Put a layer of each in a buttered baking dish. Make a sauce with the butter, flour and milk. Season with salt and pepper. Pour the sauce over the celery and onions, cover with coarse bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

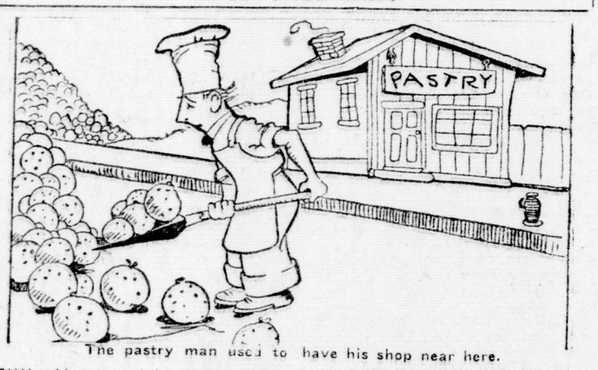
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE MOUNTAIN'S ADVICE

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]



The pastry man used to have his shop near here.

THE rubber mountain went on with his story:

"Yes, I ought to be called plum pudding mountain because that's what I'm made of. The pastry man used to have his shop near here, and when he made plum puddings that weren't good he dumped 'em on this spot. After a while they grew together and then I became me. I really am rubber now, but don't talk to me of indigestion. I've got all the indigestion I saved other people who didn't eat me."

"Well," said Nick, "Nancy and I have our Green Shoes, so we'll just wish ourselves down on the other side. We'll not walk on you any more."

"Oh, no, you can't," replied the mountain quickly. "Not here. Whoever would get to the Kingdom of the Diddevvers must say he has walked over the Seven Mountains, and whoever would get to the Kingdom of the Korsknotts must tell the gate keeper that he has walked through the Seven Valleys. I tell you what I'll do. I'll hold my breath until you get down on the other side. But before you go I'll give you a word of warning about the next mountain. It is made of glass, and for every step up you will slide two steps down. The only way you can get over is to go backwards.

"First jump up backwards as far as you can, after that every step you take will carry you two steps in the other direction. The mountain won't know the difference."

"Thank you," said Nancy. "Then we'd better be going."

The mountain held his breath and the Twins scrambled up to his top and down the other side as fast as they could go. But even after they had put a long distance between them and the ticklish old mountain they could hear him ha, haing, and ho, hoing, and heeing, and shaking so hard the whole earth trambled.

SKELTON'S "SIR WILFRID LAURIER" TRULY DEPICTS GREAT LEADER

FORESHADOWED PRESENT RISE OF LIBERALISM TO HEIGHTS OF POWER AGAIN

New Review of Autobiography of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Published by S. B. Gundy, Toronto, Presents Array of Cameo-Like Impressions of Great Political Genius and Events Shaped While Canada's Astounding Growth Formed an Indelible Background.

BY CABR.

Reproduction of extracts made by express permission of the publisher, S. B. Gundy, Toronto.

IT IS SINGULARLY pertinent, at the close of the week which has seen the opening of the fourteenth Canadian Parliament, with the star of Liberalism again in the ascendancy at the helm of the Dominion, to review the biography of perhaps the greatest statesman Canada has yet produced and one of the most brilliant and alluring personalities the North American continent has known.

"The Life and Letters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier," by Oscar Douglas Skelton, is singularly good reading—it is illuminating, not only as regards the recent history of Canada, but also in its important relation to the world development of Liberalism—and if any criticism can be made of Professor Skelton's extremely valuable work, it would be solely because of the fact that it has been badly baptized, for in its pages one senses a progressive lack of intimacy with Laurier, the person, immediately the author has him safely transported to Ottawa.

Professor Skelton might more appropriately have marked his magnificent monument, "Canada and Laurier" for he has carefully painted a portrait of Laurier which will endure for all time, and has produced, at the same time, the only adequate history of Canadian principles and policies of recent years that the writer has seen.

He has ably sketched early colonial life completely and quickly, and during the period of the Laurier ministry he has labored painstakingly and with a fine gift for fitting together minute detail in interesting fashion.

Work Especially Timely.

The work is especially timely at this time when Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, Sir Lomer Gouin, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Hon. Charles Murphy, Senator Dandurand, and Speaker Rodolphe Lemieux, all of whom are assigned important roles in the biography, are again directing the destiny of the cause and nation Sir Wilfrid cherished.

The work of the great Liberal leader is recounted in a superior sort of "running story style," written in the intimate manner a well-grounded member of the press gallery in the House of Commons at Ottawa might have reviewed the accomplishments of the noblest and most unselfish man it had ever been his good fortune to know.

In the Laurier regime Canada assumed the place she now occupies in the Empire, gained the full measure of freedom she possesses, and to Sir Wilfrid more than to any other man is due credit for the form of imperial conference of Dominion chiefs, which Premier Lloyd Gebrge has now happily adopted.

Canada appeared on the world stage for the first time under Laurier, industry developed and integrated to a height of prosperity never before known, and knotty problems concerning our southern neighbor were satisfactorily solved for posterity.

Skelton's Laurier is the pacifist with backbone enough to fight at "the drop of the hat," the administrator who knew when to bend, the opportunist in matters benefiting the Dominion, who could never be induced to abandon principle—not the animated orator, the appealing diplomat or the magnetic personal Laurier.

Others Occupy Stage.

There are interludes in the work when Sir Wilfrid waits in the wings while his associates, many of them present members of the Liberal cabinet, occupy the stage.

It would have been interesting to know what he thought and did while his able lieutenants monopolized the calcium, but that does not remove Professor Skelton's book from the supreme niche in Canadian histories—indeed it places it there, because it is complete, it is a plain tale of substantiated fact, written in graphic English, regarding one of the most courageous party leaders and faithful servants the Dominion has ever known.

It is quite evident that only a biographer who was in love with his subject could have created such a truly great record of one human life.

Professor Shelton introduced the subject of his biography in a simple paragraph:

Wilfred Laurier was born at St. Lin, a little villigae on the Laurentian plain, north of Montreal, on November 20, 1841. Exactly two hundred years earlier his first Canadian ancestor had fared forth from Normandy, a member of the little band of pioneers, who had undertaken to plant an outpost of France and the faith on the Iroquois-harried island of Montreal. For eight generations his forefathers took their part in the unending task of subduing the Laurentian wilderness. Striking deep roots in Canadian soil, shaping and shaped by the new ways and new interests of the colony, they worked, like thousands of their compatriots for the most part in obscurity and silence. Then at last the sound and study stock found expression. We cannot understand Wilfred Laurier, his character, temperament, viewpoint, his problems, limitations, achievements, unless we bear in mind those two centuries of life and work in the Canada which had become his kinsmen's only home.

Faced All Obstacles.

In dealing with the two seemingly insuperable obstacles—the system of government and the colonial status—that confronted Sir Wilfrid when he entered the arena in which he later was to become such a constellation, the biographer relates:

When Wilfrid Laurier entered politics, the issue of nationalism had again been brought to the front by the discussion of Confederation. His Rouge friends were opposing Confederation on the ground that it would mean the overwhelming of the French-Canadians in an English-speaking mass—and on the other grounds, of which not the least important was that their political rivals were supporting it.

Durham had failed to obliterate French-Canadian nationality by uniting another province with Lower Canada; now Brown and Macdonald and Cartier and Galt were proposing the experiment of uniting five English-speaking provinces with the one French-speaking section.

Cartier and his friends, on the other hand, insisted that by restoring a separate legislature to Lower Canada, a legislature which would have control over all the matters of intimate concern, they were immensely strengthening the French-Canadian position.

Laurier did not at first disassociate himself from these sectional views.

In "Le Defricheur" he echoed the criticism as a means of lessening French-Canadian power, and that the Conservatives facing defeat in 1864, had conceded his demand as the price of retaining office. Lower Canada had no more interest in Nova Scotia than in Australia; the only tie that bound them was subjection to the common colonial yoke. Confederation would prove the tomb of the French race.

It was not long before his views had widened. The influence of his early associations in New Glasgow, the intercourse with the Scotch and English settlers in the townships, his constant browsing in the classics of English Liberalism, kindled his sympathies with his English-speaking compatriots. His sympathy with his own people never lessened, but he came to see that their future lay not in isolation, nor, for that matter, in assimilation, but in full and frank partnership with their fellow Canadians.

Accepted Confederation.

Unlike Howe, Dorion and Laurier accepted confederation, once accomplished, as an established fact. Very early Wilfrid Laurier came to see the possibilities it involved of solving the racial problem.

From the outset of his parliamentary career, two principles guided his conduct in the endeavor which was always nearest his heart, to achieve union and harmony for all Canada. The first was to adhere faithfully to the guarantees of the federation compact, to refrain from federal interference with provincial affairs, to respect the safeguards thrown around the rights and privileges of the minorities within each province. The other was to develop a common unhyphenated Canadian nationality in which the older loyalties would be fused and blended, not compelling any man to forget the land of his fathers, but bringing all to put first the land of their sons.

To quote one last word from his survey of the Union period:

"The sentiment of nationality was thus made secure. The ideal of each race was henceforth the progress of the common country, and the supreme pride of both, to proclaim themselves above all Canadian."

In the early years of Wilfrid Laurier's career, a third issue divided interest with the reorganization of parties and the conflict of nationalities. The question of the relations of church and state had its roots both in local conditions and in the European struggle between Liberalism and ultramontanism. In nineteen-century Europe no country escaped violent controversy of this issue.

In Canada, the close connection between church and state which had existed from the beginning of the French regime, and the complications introduced by the sudden change of control at the conquest, made the issue one of vital importance during both the Union and the Confederation period.

There was no question with which Wilfrid Laurier was more intimately concerned from his first to his last day in public life, and none on which he impressed more enduringly the stamp alike of his courage and of his moderation.

At Rome Pius IX was still pontiff, but his years were evidently numbered, and it was an open secret that pressure was being brought to bear to insure that his successor should be more in harmony with democratic tendencies. It was decided to send Mgr. Conroy, bishop of Ardagh, in Ireland, as ablegate to investigate the situation in Canada. He spent several months in diligent and unobtrusive inquiry, heard all sides, and came to the conclusion that a halt must be called.

The bishops met in consistory in October, 1877, and issued a new pastoral, declaring that while the joint letter contained the true doctrine on the constitution and rights of the church, and Liberal Catholics were still anathema, yet it was not to be assumed that any political party was condemned. The forces of moderation and tolerance had won.

Gave Great Service.

White the attitude of the church was still undetermined, Wilfred Laurier came forward to perform one of the greatest services of his career. His speech on political Liberalism, delivered before an immense audience on the invitation of the Club Canadien of Quebec on June 26, 1877, was essentially a manifesto of the Liberal party on the question of the relation of religion and politics.

Mr. Laurier was about to assume the leadership of the Liberal party in Quebec; three months later he entered the Mackenzie cabinet. In his address at Quebec he stated his policy and his terms. At once the issue was clarified, the path of moderation and of progress marked out, and a great step taken toward the just and permanent settlement of an issue which had threatened to divide a whole people into warring and irreconcilable factions.

Without preface, Mr. Laurier at once set forth the purpose of his address. It was to define the ideas and principles of Liberalism, in order to remove the prejudices and the opposition of those who believed that Liberalism meant heresy in faith and revolution in politics. All the charges made against the Liberal party could be crystallized in two propositions that Liberalism was a heresy condemned by the head of the church, and that a Catholic could not be a Liberal.

It was true that Catholic Liberalism had been condemned, but what had that to do with political Liberalism?

What would be the consequence of accepting the contention that no French-Canadian Catholic could be a Liberal? Either Catholics must abstain from any share in political life or must bind themselves hand and foot to the Conservative party, must endure "the ignominy of being regarded by the other members of the Canadian family composing the Conservative party as tools and slaves."

Explained Liberalism.

What was the meaning of Liberalism and Conservatism?

At bottom the distinction was a matter of temperament; some men, in Macaulay's phrase, were drawn by the charm of habit and others by the charm of novelty. There was no moral superiority in either tendency. The Conservative might do good in defending old and tried institutions, or much evil in maintaining intolerable abuses; the Liberal might be a benefactor in overthrowing these abuses or a scourge in laying rash hands on hallowed institutions. Then Mr. Laurier continued:

"For my part, as I have already said, I am a Liberal. I am one of those who think that everywhere, in human things, there are abuses to be reformed, new horizons to be opened up, and new forces to be developed. Moreover, Liberalism seems to me in all respects, superior to the other principle.

"The principle of Liberalism is inherent in the very essence of our nature, in that desire for happiness with which we are all born into the world, which pursues us throughout life, and which is never completely gratified on this side of the grave. Our souls are immortal, but our means are limited. We constantly strive toward an ideal which we never attain. We dream of good, but we never realize the best. We only reach the goal we have set for ourselves, to discover new horizons opening up, which we had not before even suspected. We rush on toward them and those horizons, explored in their turn, reveal to us others which lead us on ever further and further. And thus it will be as long as man is what he is, as long as the immortal soul inhabits a mortal body; his desires will be always vaster than his means and his actions will never rise to the heights of his conceptions. He is the real Sisyphus of the fable; his work, always finished, must always be begun again.

"This condition of our nature is precisely that which makes the greatness of man, for it condemns him irrevocably to movement, to progress; our means are limited, but our nature is perfectible and we have the infinite for our arena. Thus there is always room for the perfecting of our nature, and for the attainment by a larger number of an easier way of life. This, in my eyes, is what constitutes the superiority of Liberalism.'

Abuses, Mr. Laurier continued, were bound to creep into every body politic, and institutions which at the beginning were useful become intolerable, because everything around them had changed, as in the instance of seigneurial tenure. Men were always found to defend these abuses to the bitter end, until they had provoked revolutions.

"More revolutions have been caused by Conservative obstinacy than by Liberal exaggeration—; wherever there is compression, there will be explosion, violence and ruin; . . . . I hate revolution and detest all attempts to win the triumph of opinions by violence, but I am less inclined to throw the responsibility on those who make them than on those who provoke them by their blind obstinacy."

"The Liberal party of England had known how to reform abuse before discontent fermented into revolution; the Liberals of the continent had not been so wise."

Lauded Party History.

"What is grander than the history of the great English Liberal party during the last century? On its threshold looms up the figure of Fox, the wise, the generous Fox, defending the cause of the oppressed, wherever there were oppressed to be defended. A little later came O'Connell, claiming and securing for his co-religionists the rights and privileges of British subjects. He is helped in this work by all the Liberals of the three kingdoms, Grey, Brougham, Russell, Jeffrey, and a host of others. Then came, one after the other, the abolition of the rule of the landed oligarchy, the repeal of the corn laws, the extension of the suffrage to the working classes, and lastly to crown the whole, the disestablishment of the Church of England as the state religion in Ireland. . . . Members of the Club Canadien, Liberals of the province of Quebec, there are our models, there are our principles, there is our party!"

It is true that there is in Europe, in France, in Italy, and in Germany a class of men who give themselves the title of Liberals, but who have nothing of the Liberal about them but the name, and who are the most dangerous of men. They are not Liberals; they are revolutionaries; in their principles they are so extravagant that they aim at nothing less than the destruction of modern society. With these men we have nothing in common, but it is the tactics of our adversaries always to identify us with them.

Recalls Anecdote.

One interesting incident in the campaign of 1877 which it always gave Mr. Laurier pleasure to relate is recalled by the autobiographer.

A good supporter of his listened attentively one Sunday to a sermon in which his cure denounced Liberal Catholics. On the Monday he sought out the cure and asked whether it would be possible for a good Catholic to vote for a Liberal "No; impossible," was the reply. Next Sunday, the cure, more discreet, exhorted his flock to vote according to their conscience. "But," the query followed, "my conscience tells me to vote for Mr. Laurier; and yet you say if I vote for a Liberal it will be a sin. I think I must not vote at all." The third Sunday brought a sermon denouncing political indifference, and insisting that it was the duty of good citizens to vote and not leave the suffrage to the uninformed and evil-minded. "My cure," responded the puzzled voter next morning, "I cannot vote for Mr. Laurier, for you tell me that if I vote for a Liberal I shall be damned; I cannot vote for Mr. Bourbeau, for you tell me that if I do not follow my conscience I shall be damned; I cannot vote for either, for you tell me that if I do not vote at all I shall be damned. Since I must be damned anyway, I'll be damned for doing what I like. I am going to vote for Mr. Laurier."

Sir Wilfrid's views on the South African war, in the direction of which the Canadian government had no part, are recalled by his reply to Sir Charles Tupper:

"I have no hesitation in admitting that I was not enthusiastic for that war or for any war. I have no sympathy for that mad, noisy, dull-witted and short-sighted throng who clamor for war, who shout, "On to Pretoria," who complacently prophesy that General Buller will eat his Christmas dinner in the capital of the Transvaal. War is the greatest calamity that can befall a nation."

Was Ready to War.

He was not prepared to go to war automatically. Canada was ready to aid Britain in any life-and-death struggle, but not in every secondary war:

"Whilst I cannot admit that Canada should take part in all the wars of Great Britain, neither am I prepared to say that she should not take part in any war at all. . . . I claim for Canada this, that in future she shall be at liberty to act or not to act, to interfere or not interfere, to do just as she pleases."

While the war might perhaps have postponed or made impossible the one solution which he believed would solve South Africa's problems—confederation—he still hoped that after the war confederation of all the English and Dutch communities would come.

The Liberal chieftain's unexpected defence of religious teaching in schools in 1905 firmly championed the spirit of tolerance through which confederation had been achieved.

"In everything that I have said I have refrained from saying a single word upon the abstract principle of separate schools. I approach the question upon another and broader ground, I approach the question not from the standpoint of separate schools, I approach it upon the higher ground of Canadian duty and Canadian patriotism.

"Having obtained the consent of minority to this form of government, having obtained their consent to the giving up of their valued privileges, and their position of strength, are we to tell them, now that Confederation is established, that the principle upon which they consented to this arrangement is to be laid aside, and that we are to ride roughshod over them? I do not think that is a proposition which will be maintained in this house, nor do I believe it is the intention of the house. I offer at this moment no opinion at all upon separate schools, I would say that I never could understand what objection there could be to a system of schools wherein, after secular matters have been attended to, the tenets of the religion of Christ, even with the divisions which exist among his followers, are allowed to be taught.

Denies U. S. Lead.

"We live in a country where in the seven provinces that constitute our nation, either by the will or by the tolerance of the people, in every school, Christian morals and Christian dogmas are taught to the youth of the country. We live side by side of a nation, a great nation, a nation for which I have the greatest admiration, but whose example I would not take in everything, in whose schools, for fear that Christian dogmas in which all do not believe might be taught. Christian morals are not taught.

"When I compare these two countries, when I compare Canada with the United States when I compare the status of the two nations, when I think upon their future, when I observe the social condition of civil society in each of them, and when I observe in this country of ours, a total absence of lynchings, and an almost total absence of divorces and murders, for my part, I thank heaven that we are living in a country where the young children of the land are taught Christian morals and Christian dogmas. Either the American system is right or the Canadian system is right. For my part, I say this, and I say it without hesitation: Time will show that we are in the right, and in this instance, as in many others, I have an abiding faith in the institutions of my own country."

To an Ontario friend, who attacked any naval expenditures by the Dominion, Sir Wilfrid replied in 1909:

"I am aware that there is among the farmers no enthusiasm for the organization of naval defence. Your general ground is derived from the fact that you do not believe in armaments, but in this you are ahead of the times. Your policy in that respect may perhaps be appreciated in the twenty-first century, but certainly not at this date. This consideration, therefore, cannot weigh at all with me; but you put the case more accurately, when you say that in your opinion the severance of the political tie which binds us to Britain would do more to assure our safety than the building of warships by the score.

Cites Advantages.

"In this I perfectly agree with you. If we were disconnected with Britain we would have less occasion of conflict with Europe than we have at the present time; but if British connection has some disadvantages, in my judgment, it has advantages which far more than outbalance the objections. No one at this moment thinks or would wish for a severance from Britain; I certainly do not. We are happy, free, content and prosperous as we are, and so long as the nation has those blessings, no one will ever think of changing the political conditions. We are all the same a nation, though under the suzerainty of Great Britain, and we have to assume the duties and responsibilities of a nation. Part of these duties is the keeping of some armed force, both on land and at sea.

"I ask you to consider this: no nation has yet existed without some such protection, but I want to assure you that I never will be found to go into what is known as militarism. . . .

"I would ask you further to consider this point; our existence as a nation is the most anomalous that has yet existed. We are British subjects, but we are an autonomus nation; we are divided into provinces, we are divided into races, and out of these confused elements the man at the head of affairs has to sail the ship onwards, and to do this safely it is not always the ideal policy from the point of view of pure idealism which ought to prevail, but the policy which can appeal on the whole to all sections of the community. This has been my inspiration ever since I assumed the leadership of the party, and up to the present time this policy has, if it has done nothing else, given to the people these blessings which I have just mentioned: peace, harmony and prosperity.

Would Yield Plea.

"If you were in the position in which I am, you would have to think night and day of these different problems. I do not think that you would differ much from the solution which I have endeavored to find in the present instance. It has been my lot to face such problems again and again, throughout my political career and on every occasion I have had to disappoint scores of my friends on some point or other. In the Manitoba school question I imposed upon my friends from Quebec what was to them at that time a difficult problem to face. On the autonomy bills of Saskatchewan and Alberta I imposed upon my friends from Ontario what was to them undoubtedly a similar problem to face. I do not expect that the task will be as heavy in the present instance as it was on the two last; still it will be of such a character as to give me many troubled hours. It is some consolation to think, however, that it will probably be the last one."

In 1911, when the reciprocity wave was at its height, it is interesting to recall Sir Wilfrid's stand on the tariff issue, especially in view of Hon. W. S. Fielding's trip to Washington last week:

"Your summarizing of the situation, that all the provinces except Alberta and Saskatchewan were against reciprocity is not accurate, for, in point of fact, we carried Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The anti-reciprocity men carried British Columbia, Manitoba and Ontario, the latter by a sweeping majority, and Manitoba by a bare majority of the actual electoral vote, though a large majority of seats.

"In my judgment, the manufacturers made a great mistake in refusing to give way to the very legitimate demand of the farmers, especially the Western farmers who, being balked in their efforts to get the American market for their products, will now work for the free entrance into Canada of American manufactured products and especially agricultural implements

"At present there is nothing to do but to await events. If the Democrats carry out their policy and open their markets to our Canadian natural products, we shall never hear any more of reciprocity, but if the present American tariff is continued as it is now, we must be prepared for a serious agitation from the Western farmers. The danger of the situation is the possibility of a feeling of distrust between the West and the East, as outlined in the "Weyburn Herald." This fact has been completely overlooked by the Ontario electors, but it is one which must cause a good deal of concern to any one who has at heart the future of the country."

Made Supreme Appeal.

One of the greatest efforts of Laurier's life was his lucid appeal to Quebec to stifle the resentment of that province against Ontario's limitation of the teaching of French in elementary schools.

"I appeal, not to passion or prejudice, but to the sober reasoning and judgment of my fellow-countrymen of all origins. I discard at once all reference to constitutional arguments. I do not here and now bring within the purview of this discussion the British North America act. I do not here and now invoke the cold letter of any positive law. Still less do I question the paramount power of the Legislature of Ontario to finally pass judgment upon this question and record the final verdict of its people. I rise, Sir, not for the purpose of giving advice or admonition to the Province of Ontario. I rise to plead before the people of Ontario, in behalf of his majesty's subjects of French origin in that province, who complain that by reason of a statute passed by the province they have been deprived of rights in the matter of education which they have enjoyed themselves and their forefathers before them, ever since Canada became a possession of the British crown.

"I am of the old school of Mowat and Blake, the Province of Ontario, and the Province of Ontario alone, will and shall determine for herself the decision. Yet it is forbidden by the code of the new converts to the doctrine of provincial rights that I stand at the bar before my fellow-countrymen of Ontario and make my plea? Is it forbidden that I respectfully present the petition of a humble servant of French origin?

And still again did the Liberal chieftain reassert the invincible magnanimity of his spirit when he made the following eloquent plea to the men of Quebec to answer the call of duty in the world war.

"I know there is in the province of Ontario a sense of irritation at the position taken by some of my fellow-countrymen of French blood in the province of Quebec, who have from the first deprecated the participation of Canada in the present war, and who have exerted their influence to attempt at least to prevent enlistment. Alas, it is true; it is only too true. It is deplorable, and, to me, as unintelligible as it is deplorable. It is true, alas, that there are in my province men of French origin who, when France is fighting the fight of heroism which stirs the blood of mankind, remain with their blood cold, who tell us: 'No, we will not lift a finger to assist Britain in defending the integrity of France, but we want our wrongs to be righted in Ontario.'

Hears Call of Duty.

"Wrongs or no wrongs, there is a field of honor; there is a call of duty.

"I am not prepared to say that my fellow-countrymen of French origin have no rights in Ontario; but I am prepared to say this, and I want my words to be heard throughout the length and breadth of this land. Whether my countrymen have rights or no rights in Ontario, whether those rights are granted or denied, these considerations are no bar to the duty which the French-Canadian owe to themselves and to the honor of their race to come forward in their fullest numbers and take part in the great struggle that is going on today in the land of their ancestors for the cause of freedom and of the civilization of mankind.

"A journal published in the city of Toronto, edited by a man of great ability, an eminent writer who has given himself the mission of being the foremost advocate of a closer bond of union for the British Empire (Mr. J. S. Willison of the Toronto "News"), has within the last ten days, inaugurated a new program, the first article of which is, "One language and one language only." Under the present circumstances, this means that only one language shall be taught in the schools of Ontario.

"If there is one thing which today stands to the glory of England—a feat unparalleled in the history of the world—it is that today on the battlefield in Flanders there are men who do not speak a word of English, but who for England have come forward to fight and die. If the Britisher, when he went to India, to Malta, to South Africa, had implanted that new doctrine of "one language and one language only," and had suppressed the language of the peoples who had just passed under his dominion, do you believe, sir, you would have seen that great and noble spectacle which has astonished and is still astonishing the world? No, sir. It is because British institutions everywhere have carried freedom and respect for minorities that England is as strong as she is today.

Asks For Justice.

"I want to appeal to the sense of justice and fair play of the people of Ontario, and to their appreciation of British institutions—no more. Even if I am wrong—and I hope I am not—I am sure that a frank understanding between the majority and the minority in the Province of Ontario, between the two great elements which compose the Canadian people, may force a solution of this troublesome question. Every man in the Province of Ontario, every man in this room, who comes from the Province of Ontario, whether he sits on that side or on this side, is determined that every child in the Province of Ontario shall receive an English education. To that I give my fullest assent.

"I want every child in the Province of Ontario to receive the benefit of an English education. Wherever he may go on this continent I want him to be able to speak the language of the great majority of the people on this continent. I want it, I say, not only because it is the law of the province, but because of merely utilitarian considerations. No man on this continent is equipped for the battle unless he has an English education. I want every child to have an English education.

Writing to Sir Alan Aylesworth the day after Sir Robert Borden's return to Canada, Sir Wilfrid in 1917, after quoting the prime minister's emphatic repudiation of conscription a year earlier, stated his case succinctly:

Cites Agrarian Need.

"He may change, I will not. Quite apart from this personal view, and simply from the point of view of winning the war, has a case been made out for conscription? There is a shortage of labor in agriculture and industry; in fact, in every field where brawn and muscles are needed, and in the face of this condition people there are still yelling for more men being taken away from occupations in which they are so much needed.

"If we had been in office a survey would have been made at once as to how many men could be spared from their usual occupations, and, having obtained a reliable statistical record, we would have endeavored, and I think would have succeeded, in having in the field by voluntary enlistment the number of men which we could afford to give, and to that policy we would have adhered, instead of changing and again changing, with confusion worse confounded as a consequence."

"Every man in a certain section is striving to make himself more popular than the other by shouting for a large number of soldiers. I say all this in the full consciousness that public opinion seems to have been swayed in Ontario to a feverish heat without any serious appreciation of the real situation.

"As to the Tories, I am not surprised; they are in their element, true to the instincts of their nature, to the traditions of their ancestors, but for the Grits, oh 'for the old spirit of sturdy Liberalism which still prevailed in my youth.' Truly, I have lived too long.

Feared Prejudice.

"I would have long ago opened battle upon this new organization of Toryism, which like the serpent sheds its skin, but ever remains the same reptile, but for my origin. The only answer would have been my origin; and this alone would have substituted prejudice for argument.

"The situation is very different from what it was in 1896. Then when the government attempted to force upon a province the domination of the Canadian Parliament, we stood strongly on the Liberal doctrine of provincial rights. I appealed to the Liberals of Quebec to stand firm by the traditions of their party, and they did.

"And now to answer the last thought of your letter. There is need of more men at the front. How many men will conscription bring in? Just a few slackers, exactly the same as in England. How many men has conscription brought to the ranks in England?

Simon Was Right.

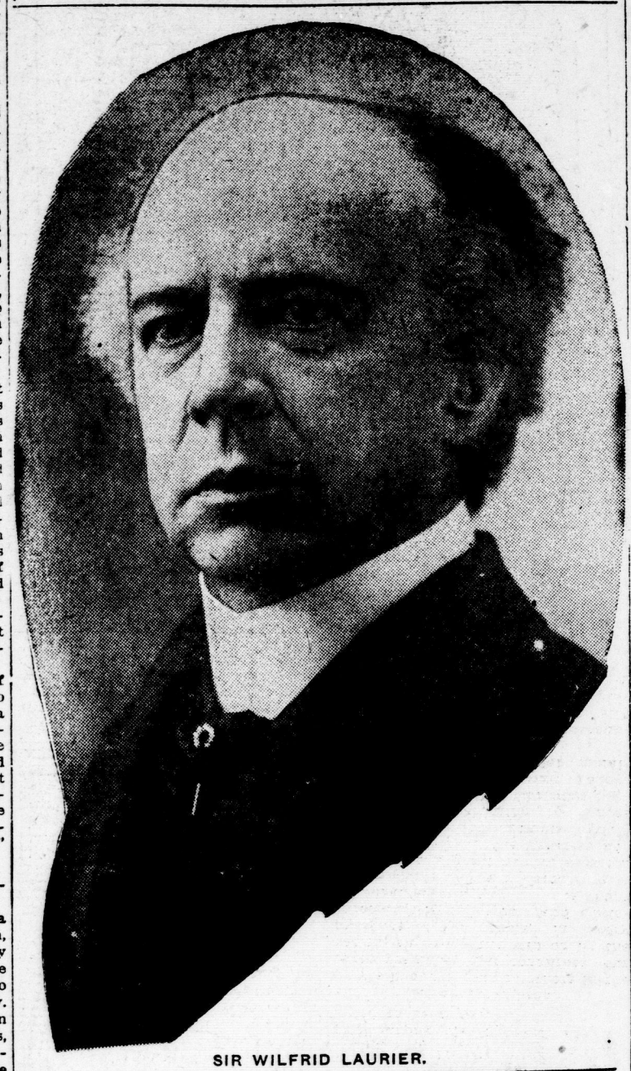
"An infinitesimal number, so small that the actual figures have never been given to the public. Sir John Simon was supremely right, but Northcliffe and Carson and Toryism insisted and won their point, and won nothing else. It will be the same here; the number of men who can be spared from agriculture and industry is infinitesimally small. Conscription will take in a few farmers and school-boys; this will be the supreme triumph of Toryism, but Toryism will once have asserted its undying spirit of domination.

"These are the views with which I regard the situation. In 1896 we stood by the true principles of Liberalism, with the chance of losing, and won because the Liberals of Quebec remained true. In 1917, I, for one, will again remain true to Liberalism, again with the chance of losing, but I will win if the Liberals of Ontario remain true."

Nothing could more aptly conclude this review than just the simple tribute of a follower:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the best man I have ever known. His instinctive honor, his kindliness and forgetfulness of self, that shining out of nobility and distinction of character which men called magnetism, made every man who entered his presence a better man for it."

Canada's Great Liberal Chieftain



SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

"You Are Looking 'All In'"

"YES, and that is just how I feel."

"What seems to be the matter?"

"Why, I had tonsilitis, and my whole system seemed to be poisoned and run down. So much so that I do not seem to gain strength."

"Will you let me be your doctor and do as I tell you?"

"I will do anything to get strong and well. I have been sitting here too long already."

"Well, you send to the drug store for six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and take one pill after each meal and at bedtime. Believe me, it will not be long until you feel the benefit of this treatment and find yourself gaining in health and vigor."

"How do you know?"

"I know from personal experience. After I had the 'flu' I was left just like you are now—all run down; could not sleep; the little food I ate did not seem to do me any good, and I was getting pretty blue."

"Yes."

"Well, my wife had bee using Dr. Chase's Nerv Food, and insisting on giving it a trial. You k the rest, for I was soon a again, as hale and he ever. I have told lots ple about this Ner and never knew i yet."

"You are to be the in this case, so I will fo your advice."
